Under the caption of "A Few Words of Advice" will be found a very interesting letter from a long resident citizen of Terry county, and we are sure his advice is worth following to the letter. This is the first of a series of letters from his pen that will be printed in the Herald from time to time.

A Word of Advise.

Editor Herald:—I wish to say a few words on farming and planting trees. The time is about on for planting trees and every tree on one's place adds five dollars to it. Lets all get ready and see how may we can plant this winter and next spring. We can plant on until the last of March. Suppose we ask our school officers to fence our school grounds so that we can plant them in beautiful shade trees.

Now a word or so about planting alfalfa. I believe the way to plant alfalfa in our very sandest lands is first to prepare the lands well; plough deep and plant the land to corn. Cultivate well, and before the last ploughing, sow the alfalfa seed. Plough them in then after the corn is gathered, drag the stalks down and leave them. Keep all stock off and plant to corn again in the spring with a double row planter, and leave what comes up without any cultivation, and drag the staks down again in the fall. You see all these stalks protect the tender plant from the hot sun and winds and from the cold in winter, and once you get the land set with this great forage plant, your land is worth one hundred dollars per acre. I wish some of our farmers had nerve to plant 100 acres of his very sandest land just as I describe to alfalfa. Farmers lets not be discouraged, we have the best crops of any county on the plains. We have plenty to do us and some to spare, and this is the dryest year that we have had in ten.

Plant trees, alfalfa, corn, oats, and wheat in June or July. Plant pumpkins, peas, beans, cucumbers, cabbage, tomatoes, lettuce, radishes. Plant everything when the time comes and you will be going some.

Respt.
Terry Co. Citizen.

The Texas Game Law.

The license feature of the game law is causing bother to a good many sportsmen. Here is the law on these points:

Any person may hunt or kill any game during the open season, when it is lawful to kill game in the county of his residence, or on land owned or controlled by him without producing a hunter's license; but they must not hunt beyond the boundaries of their adjoining counties without a license.

If a hunter lives in Harris county he can hunt in the following counties without a license:

Harris, Fort Bend, Liberty, Walker, Montgomery, Chambers, Brazoria and Galveston.

A hunter is allowed to shoot over his own land, no matter in what part of the state it is located without a license.

There are two kinds of hunter's licenses, the non-county residence license, which costs $1 75, and the nonresidence license for those who reside outside of the state, which costs $15. These licenses can be procured from a deputy game commissioner. The licenses will be dated when issued and remain in force till September 1 following thereafter.

Following are some of the provisions of the game law now in effect:

You may kill twenty-five quail or doves in any one day from November 1 to February 1 of each yaar.

You may kill three buck deer only from November 1 to January 1 of each year.

You may kill three wild turkeys only from December 1 to April 1 of each year.

You may kill in all seasons of the year ducks, geese, robins, wild pigeons, snipe, jacksnipe, curlew, Mexican pheasants or chacalaca and plover; bag limit twenty-five in one day.

You may kill rabbits, squirrel, fox (except in Montgomery county) opossum, coons, bear in ony unmber in all seasons.

You may ship or transport to your hame such game as you have lawfully killed by making proper affidavit. Of all birds save ducks and geese, only twenty-five may be carried or shipped by one person. Of ducks and geese seventy-five may be carried or shipped, provided that not more than twenty-five were killed on any one day.

You may not hunt for any game or birds at night with a lantern, hunting lamp or any other light.

Texas Mules In Demand

The question, where are you folks getting so many mules from in Fort Worth was ask by several of the large mule firms in St. Louis of a representative of this paper while in that city recently.

And the reply was, From Texas—the greatest mule producing section in the world. Well, they said, we believe it, as we are recieving more mules this season from Texas than from any other two sections of the country This, coming from the greatest mule market in the world, was rather surprising.

Knowing that Texas is one of the greatest mule producers of any section of the union, yet it was hard to realize in spite of our development of farm lands, sugar and rice plantations of the coast, of contract and railroad work, all calling for mules, which are largely drawn from this state, it was hard to realize that such numbers found their way to St. Louis.

Investigation among toe dealers at the Fort Worth yards yesterday revals the fact that the following ship ments of mules have been made out of this market during the present season: 250 cars to St. Louis, 8 of which were shipped out this week; 50 cars to Oklahoma points; 150 cars to New Orleans; 50 cars to the rice belt; 50 cars to California; 25 cars to Cuba and Panama, and 25 cars to Arizona. A great number of these were sent to the government works on canals, levees, ect. This showing is that Fort Worth is the most extensive shipping point of mules of any market in the United States in respect to wide spread distribution. While local or retail dealing is slow or small, the production of mules in this state is many times beyond its needs, and it has become the headquarters market not only for individual buyers, but for syndicatee, corporations and the goverment, when wanting supplies in this line.

It has become an established fact in the markets of the world that when the best mule is wanted for any and all climatic conditions or work, the Texas muel is the choice, and is referred to as the best most suitable and best worth the money. This does not apply to class. It makes no difference whether it is the cotton mule, or the heavy mule, they are the same, expecting size and price—Fort Worth Reporter.

S-O-C-I-E-T-Y.

It is wrong for a woman to compromise her virtue, then it ought to be equally wrong for a man to do the same thing; and if the sign of woman is of such nature that society cannot forgive it, then why not put the man in the same cotegory. If one is to be damned, then why not damn both? But society decreeds it otherwise. The man can indulge his passion, lead girlhood astray, debauch his nature, and make himself a disgrace to humanity, and yet the moment he pretends to reform, society opens it doors to him—yes, it often occurs that he does not pretend to reform, and the doors of society are not closed against him. But let the poor woman suffer a lapse and the result of her shame become known and she had just as well be banished to some social Siberia so far as the homes of the good prople are concerned. She is corned from the social walks of high social life. But the lecherous scoundrel who was instrumental in her downfall is a gentleman! Society smiles upon him and sometimes gives a pure daughter in marriage to him.

Such discrimination is a sin in the sight of God and man. Yes, it is criminal in the sight of God and the law of righteousness. Such a standard does not find encouragement in the word of God. It is one of the artificia standards of the world. A man has more right to degrade himself and then expect good people to countenance him than has the unfortunate woman.

If one is to be accepted as having merely sowed his wild oats then both ought be accepted on the same condition And if one is to be banished, then banish both of them alike. If the virtue of womankind is such that it needs the harsh treatment of the unfortunate woman to protect it in the same way. And, strange to say, good woman are responsible for this double standard. They have recognized the right of the impure man to the claims of society so long and they have scorned and ostracized the unfortunate woman so continuously that they look with every allowance upon the lapses of the former and condemn those of the later until they hove established the habit as a social law. As a result we are forced to build "mission homes." "houses of rescue" and the like for our unfortunate girls in order that they may have a place to hide their shame, but throw open the parlors to the lustful wretch who is responsible for these social disasters. The fact is we nee to build reform establishments for such men as for such women. True reform will never be accomplished until the standard of morality has been blotted out. Our mothers and wives and our daughters ought to learn to treat the lustful men just as the fallen woman. Then prosterity will be the beneficiary of this sort of reform. There will be less of scrofulous affiction and deformities of boby and mind. Tainted blood will cease to flow into the veins of innocent children, and married women will have less of treatment for many troubles now supposed to be peculiar to their sex.

This is plain language but we are living in the midst of lax times and plain language alone will express the condition of things.—Ex.

Let us begin planning now for blue ribbons at the Dallas fair next year.

Let some good citizen take particular pains to produce some good garden truck next year, We must have a few yards of blue ribbon at Dallas next year.

Break your truck patch deep this fall so that it will catch all the snows and rains that fall this winter, and you will reap dollars to dimes invested in the difference at harvest time.

We fully agree with "A Citizens Advice" on page one of this issue about getting our school officers to take this matter of putting out nice shade trees out on the campus. How a bout a mass meeting.

The Democrats of New York won in their Mayralty election, electing William J. Gaynor of Brooklyn mayor of Greater New York but they lose Hon. Tom Johnson of Cleveland O.

It does seem to us that we used to have more fun at school than do the children of today and all because we had a grove of large old oaks on the campus.

Now let's get to work and make our school childrens play ground something more attractive than a bald prairie.

Some people get the idea into their head that when they came to Terry county, that they will have to just kindly lay around and wait for their land to make them money by increasing in valutation. Such is not the case, however, as our land will make as much stuff acre for acre year for year as any land in America.

About Our Exhibits.

Colonel J. T.Gainer, of Gomez, who was in charge of the Terry county exhibits at the Dallas fair called on the Herald Tuesday afternoon, and below we give in substance the interview that followed:

"To my notion the fair was as good again as it was two years ago, and the attendance was extra good considering the conditions of crops all over Texas this year. Even the races, which was predicted would be slow owing to the anti-gambling legislation were up to, if not above the usual standard, and the fire works at night was the most beautiful sight I ever beheld. The battle of the clouds with airships was not only lovely, but is a foretaste of the future warfare.

The exhibits were good from all the counties, and especially from the Plains country. The Terry exhibits attracted the attention of thousands of people from every part of the country, and received the compliments of all alike, because of their honest appearance as most all other county displays had an artificial appearance Many asked about the location of Terry county, and when it was pointed out on the map, they were the more supprised, as it is generally believed in the east that nothing grows here but long horn cows and bad men. Especially was the corn, maize and kaffir and garden truck. I saw corn on display that I am sure grew last year, and probably in some other country, and all but two exhibitors signed an agreement that no one display next year without first making affidavit that the produce grew in his county.

Quite a number of people hunting homes will visit Terry in the near future on the strength of our display at the fair. I stayed with the exhibits until the 30th except two days that I was visiting my brother at Midlothian, and then I hired a man in my place. I gave out all the information I could about our location, what we produce, and how best to get to this county. The reason I did not enter for prizes was becaus our display was too small, and I think right now is the time to begin preparing a big display for next year.

Uncle Dick Bonnor was on hand with a fine exhibit from Smith county and he was profuse in his praise of Terry county's showing. Let us all unite as one to have the best display from any one county next year."

What Some of Them Say.

Below we give a sample of a few of the many letter swe receive each week. All the comment we wish to offer is that Mr. Bush is now Mr. B-u-s-h instead of B-u-s-t, and credited with nearly one years subscription in advance.

Mr. Johnson is a well known and highly respected merchant of Blanket, Texas, and like Mr. Bush has ben a subscriber a long time. Mr. Bush's letter is as follow's: "I herewith enclose one dollar for the Herald another year, and would respectfully ask that you write my name Bush instead of Bust. While I acknowledge to the fact of being busted, I do not wish to advertise it."

Yours Very Truly.
Caridan, Tex. D. T. Bust

Here is Mr. Johnson's letter:

Dear Sir:—

Enclosed find $1.00. for which keep the Herald coming. I would feel lost without it. May it live long and prosper. May the Editor enjoy the best of the many, good things, of which your county is so abundantly blest.

Yours truly,
W. W. Johnson.

Jno. S. Powell and his excellent lady tooks the pains to stop at the Herald office Tuesday afternoon and tell us the Herald was just getting fine, and especially last weeks issue, which was chuck full and running over. They also asked us to come out to the ranch before long and help them eat a fatted lanb, which we heartily accepted. While we do not like flattery at all we, like criticism pro and con. It helps one to find the remedies and apply them.

MILLINERY!

I wish to call your attention to the line of up-to date hats exhibited daily in my department.
They are going fast notwithstanding the fact it is yet early in the season. Come before the stock is low and while you can get your choice.

The Chats' Corner.

Don't you never get it into your head Prof. that the Herald will ever crowd your locals or any other chats locals out, court or no court. Your locals make very much better reading matter than dry court matter.

MEADOW SCHOOL NOTES.

We failed to appear in last week's issue; not because the interest is waning in the least, but because we were sure the columns of the Herald would be filled with the doings of the court.

On last Friday night the larger pupils of the Meadow school in response to an invitation paid the newly organized Lakeview Literary society a visit. We enjoyed it to the uttermost. They most ably rendered a program that was simply superb. The stage was skillfully decorated to suit the spirit of the program. The flags of the "Blue and the Gray" were crossed in the background, and some fine old civil war dialogues and recitations were rendered. Altogether the whole arrangement betrayed the fact that there must have been "a power behind the throne." It would do credit to a community of much greater advantages. Lakeview is our neighboring school over in Lynn county.

Rev. Mr. Lovelady, of near Gomez, came up with his family in his car last Sunday and preached to a small congregation in the Methodist church, notwithstanding the severe wind.

Rev. Geo. C. Ulmer, the lecturer against the "Liquor Trafic" paid our school a brief visit last Monday evening for the purpose of announcing his lecture at the church Monday night. The news was soon spread over the wires and quite a little crowd gathered at the church. Mr. Ulmer lectured for two hours to a tireless audience. He is master of his theme, and puts his whole soul into it. J. W. TAYLOR.

We have been wandering why Arthur Moore had quit coming to the lodge until this week, when we asked one of his neighbors the reason, and he promptly informed us that he was learning his boy the land business.

In the case of Belcher vs. Groves Bros, at Seminole last week, a verdict was rendered in favor of the defendents. We stated last week that W. R. Spencer was plantiff's Atty., but we were mistaken as he was Messrs Groves' Atty.

Charlie Benton came up from his home in Brownfield, Terry county, the first of the week. He bought 100 head of cattle from his father, D. H. Benton, and this morning he and his father left for Brownfield with his cattle,—200 head in the drove.—Emma News.

R. M. Bourland of Chickasha Oka, who has a section of land 12 miles west of Gomez had us send the Herald to his address one year. Mr. Bourland is very optomistic about the future prespects of our county, and says he is tempted to move out here in the near future.

Wednesday evening of this week three young ladies Misses Duke, Hughes and Price paid the Herald a pleasant call. Of course the printers knocked of work while they were here. LATER: The girls seemed to have found some very interesting devils at the herald office, as they have called once since.

Dr. Griffin carried Mrs. Sam Funderburg to Dallas last Thursday where she underwent an operation for tumor which weighed 14 pounds. Drs. Watson and Jones of Dallas, and Griffin, of Gomez, performing the operation. She was doing fine when last heard from.

There is not two more popular district officers in the state than are Judges Kender and Penery, our district Judge and Attorney. On the streets they know everybody, and are ever ready for a friendly chat or to crack jokes. In the court room they are as dignified as a supreme judge Fact is, everybody looks alike to them.

Court Doings.

District court convened again this week on Tuesday at 2 p. m. and the case of W. T. McPherson vs. Geo. McWhirter occupied court Tuesday and Wednesday, resulting in a hung jury.

A criminal case was tried on Thursday and a verdict of guilty of an aggrevated assault with a fine of $125.00 was the result.

The arbitrators in the case of Mrs. Lou E. Key vs. S. H. Key referred to them by agreement and order of the District Court returned an award of $550 and costs against the defendant.

Friday the court passed on the usual motion for new trials, etc, and adjourned Friday afternoon.

County court was also in session this week, but everything was continued.

Mothers and Husbands

Once I was young, now I am old and I have never seen a girl that was unfaithful to her mother that ever came to be worth a one eyed button to her husband. It is law of God. It isn't exactly in the Bible, but it is written large in the miserable lives of many umfortunate homes. I am speaking for the boys this time. If ever any of you come ocross a girl that, with a face full of roses, says to you as you come to the door. "I can't go for thirty minutes yet, for the dishes are not washed," you wait for that girl. You sit right down on the doorstep and wait for her, because some other fellow may come along and carry her off, and right there you lose an angel.—Bill Arp.

Prosperity Club Exhibit.

Fort Worth, Texas, Oct. 18.—The exhibit arranged by the Texas Commercial Secretaries' Association makes a unique and impressive expression of industrial progress of Texas with just enough novetly to make it interesting and entertaining, while the solid facts and figures shown by charts and unique devices are firmly impressing the visitors with the magnitude of the possibilities of the great state of Texas.

The Texas Prosperity Club has prepared special literature attractively printed which will be distributed free from handsomely decorated booths by Prosperity Girls. The demonstration park holding up to the visitors of the Fair the civic beauty of the state will be interesting to ladies interested in the cultivation of the esthetic tastes. Good roads will also form an important feature of the exhibit. A government expert on public highways will throw stereopticon scenes of the roads of the world on canvas during the evenings that he who runs may read of the advantage of improving our public highways. An immense five-pointed star revolving will exhibit sixty staple articles of Texas. The offices of the association are located in the agricultrial building and will be headquaters of all commercial clubs during the Fair. Wednesday, October 27th, is set aside by the Fair Association as "Prosperity Day," and the day will be observed all over Texas as one of rejoicing over the bountiful gift of nature and the spirit of development that is manifest all over the state.

A large five-point star seven feet in diameter, covered with glass panels exhibiting the seed of sixty staple articles of Texas arranged in unique order, is located in the central aisle of the Agricultural building. The design is artistic and the workmanship superb and the exhibition is arranged in a most attractive manner. The star will be suspended in a decorated arch and will revolve slowly. It is a novel method of conveying information of the resources of the state. The base of the arch rests upon a large soil map of Texas divided into counties. The exhibit is calculated primarily to attract homeseekers, but is equally interesting and instructive to Texas citizens.

The demonstration park located in front of the Fine Arts building has one of the most prominent locations on the ground and occupies a space 180 by 150 feet. The purpose of this exhibit is to encourage park building in Texas, and literature on the organization of civic beauty clubs will be distriuted free on the park grounds. Broad cement walks cross section the park and border plants and flowers decorated the walks. An immense star, made of vari-colored plants, adorns the center of the park in the space reserved for the fountain. The park exhibit affords a refreshing entertainment and is a diversion from the business and commercial exhibit throughout the grounds.

The federal departmet of public highway at Washington has assigned Mr. M. O. Eldrige of Washington, D. C., to assist the Commercial Secretaries in their good roads exhibit. During the evening he will give stereopticon views of the public highways of other countries and give an open air lecture on good roads. Mr. Eldridge will be found at the headquartes of the Agricultural building during the daytime, and will be glad to give expert advice to any one interested in road building. The building of public highways in Texas has been declared by the Commercial Secretaries to be the paramount work of the orginization and as we have 120,000 miles of public highways, with less than 2,000 miles that would class as permanent roads, the need for the work is apparent.

The headquarters of the association are located in the Agricultrial building and the literature charts and devices shown in this room will be a liberal education to the visitors of the Fair. All persons interested in the development of Texas are invited to make this office their headquarters during their stay at the Fair.

The Prosperity Day program which has been published, shows a roster of Texas builders, every one of whom has brick and mortar to his credit and their address will be plain, pratical talks of interest to every citizen in Texas.

Taken as a whole the Commercial Secretaries' exhibits will be the most instructive of the Fair, combining as they do the agricultural, commercial and civic advancement of the state.

Unwritable English.

"Did you know that there is at least one sentence in English that can be spoken, but that it is impossible to write?" asked a University of Pennsylvania senior. "Yes it's correct English I suppose, and then again it isn't. Here is the sentence, although I swear I don't know how you are going to write it: "There are three twos in the English language." You see, if you spell it t-w-o the sentence is incorrect, as it is if you spell it either t-o-o or t-o. Catch the point. Really it is incorrect to say it, although it certainly should be possible to express the thought. This thing has got me going, and it simply is a word 'two' a word 'too' and another 'to,' and they are all pronounced alike—two, to, or too—which makes it correct to say there are 'three twos' or 'three toos' or 'threee tos' in the English language. But what's the use?—Philadelphia Record.

Maids & Matron Club.

On Saturday Oct. 30th the Maids and Matrons Club met with Miss Georgie Cooper. An interesting program, consisting of the lesson, with Mrs Bell as teacher, and too entertaining papers red by Misses Daugherty and Cooper, was carried out. The next meeting will be held with Mrs A. M. Brownfield on Saturday November 13th.
