VOL. IX. SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, MONDAY, JANUARY 18, 1875. NO. 14.

The Attorney General's Criminal Procedure.

Editors San Antonio Express:

In the Attorney General's Report occurs the following:

"1. Our law should authorize any sheriff, in whose hands a capias may be placed, to execute the same in any county of the State, where the offender may be found. Much of embarrassment and obstruction have obtained in the execution of our criminal laws, by reason of necessary delays in transmitting such process to the proper officers, and the facility of escape afforded criminals in passing rapidly from one county to another. A mistaken supposition has obtained that such law was already upon our statute book, but after very careful investigation, I have been unable to find it.

"In this age of steam and electricity, the question is, not whether the prosecuting officer has drawn his indictment against John Smith, charging him specifically with "not having the fear of God before his eyes, but moved and seduced by the instigations of the devil, with a certain Brass-barrel pistol, then and there of the value of twenty-five cents, between the thumb and three last fingers of his right hand, then and there had and held, the same being then and there loaded with a villainous compound of an explosive and inflammable character, called gunpowder, and a leaden bullet, did shoot, &c., &c.," but "did John Smith murder the man?"

As to the statement about the power of Sheriffs, we have been living in the belief that our Sheriffs have all the authority necessary to execute a warrant, and a little more than they usually choose to avail themselves of, as witnesseth the laws of 1856, p. 200, namely " " " "and any Sheriff, or Constable, having a writ or process for the arrest of a person charged with a criminal offence, may execute the same in any county in the State where the person to be arrested may be found, and for this purpose may call to his aid as many of the citizens of the county as he may see fit."

Rather is the Attorney General any more fortunate in his strictures on our criminal pleading, if the example he gives to sustain his position is a test of the matter, for in modern days, and under our code, it is not necessary for the pleader to state that the prisoner "did not have the fear of God before his eyes"; nor that he was "moved and seduced by the instigations of the devil"; nor to state that the pistol was of brass, (or any other metal,) nor to state that it had any value; nor to state that the defendant held it in his hands; nor to state in which hand he held it, (only that he held it,) nor to state that it was loaded with "villainous compound of inflammable character"; and this comprises the sum total of what is selected as an example to illustrate the technicality of our pleading.

Under our code all mere technical terms of art are abolished, and in charging the crime, it is only necessary to state the acts which constitute it, in plain and intelligible words. It is not necessary to state anything which is not necessary to prove. It is of the very soul of justice that a citizen who is arrested shall have a specification of the very acts he is charged with, otherwise he would have small chance in defending himself if innocent.

Any lawyer of moderate capacity can in a single day, learn how to draw an indictment for murder by shooting, stabbing &c., which would be good in the court. The fault is almost any of our indictments lies, not in our system of pleading, but in a lazy or careless lawyer. A very few offences may constitute exceptions. If the Legislature gives us a new set of forms, so that any Squire can draw an indictment, there will have to be a host of decisions by the Supreme Court, to tell us just what the forms mean; whereas the meaning of those now in use is well settled.

The Legislature will do better service in using more care to state with exactness and certainty just what a crime is, whenever they attempt to define one.

MONDAY, JAN. 18, 1875.

Gov. Davis prefers Turkey to Louisiana. So do we, if the White Leaguers rule. They can beat the Turks in everything bad and wicked.

The Houston Telegraph criticizing the Dallas Herald, for threatening a division of the State, defies any section to attempt that division. Our opinion is that it will be attempted, and that the attempt will be successful. We shall try it anyhow, and take the consequences.

Coke has now a State debt of five millions. Had Davis continued Governor the State debt would not have been three millions. The taxpayers have to pay the difference. How do they like it? We should like to hear from them.

The State Gazette intimates that the Austin Statesman is not as loyal to "Cokery" as might be desired. It is plain to us that there are many Democratic papers and public men in the State who are ready to break with Coke on the first good opportunity. The feeling that "Coke is a failure" is widespread, and has often found utterance among the best Democrats in the State.

Now comes the Houston Telegraph and enrolls itself in the ranks of the White Leaguers. Its criticism of the President's Louisiana Message is pitiably partizan and mendacious, not to say outrageously scandalous. It ranges itself alongside the murderers of thousands of men in Louisiana for opinion's sake, dabbles its hands in the innocent blood, and then calls upon the clergy of Houston to unite with it and sanctify its shameful attitude and course.

The venerable Father Boehm is the oldest Methodist minister in America. He resides in Jersey City, and will be 100 years old the coming May. He was one of twenty-five clergymen who attended the first General Conference of American Methodists, many of whom were younger and stronger than himself, but who long ago left him behind. He is in excellent health and spirits, and read the entire Book of Revelations on Christmas Day.

Coke's Message fills thirteen of the long columns of the Houston Telegraph, and only part is published. What in the world the so-called Governor meant by writing such an unconscionably long document we cannot imagine, unless it was to insure its not being read, and to thereby avoid criticism of the weakness of his position and policy. If so, he has acted wisely, for his position and policy are exceedingly weak, but it is entirely hid in this ponderous message; for not a hundred men in the State will read it through. Life is too short to be wasted in traversing such a "wilderness" of words, where there is no "promised land" ahead.

A Writer in the Woman's Journal, published in London, says: "There is growing up in England a large class of women who do not marry, who apparently wish not to marry. They deliberately devote themselves to literature, to teaching, to some trade, generally an artistic one, at any rate to some occupation that gives a livelihood and tends to culture, and this they choose for life. The marrying instinct seems dead, or rather never to have been born in them. They do not seem to be thought of as out of place, but, on the contrary, they move into fit places in the great societal organism easily and naturally, and are accepted without remark."

Gov. Chamberlain, the Republican Executive of South Carolina, is leading that unhappy State into unexpected prosperity. In his Message he says: — "No appropriations in excess of income; pay as you go" but in view of present debts opposes the present liquidation; wants competent teachers for public schools, and that justices of the peace be elected by the people. He concludes: "I feel warranted in congratulating the General Assembly and our fellow citizens generally on the evidences already presented of a purpose on the part of all good citizens to aid the present administration in its efforts to restore and enforce good government in our State."

The Defeat of the Democratic nominees for the city offices in San Antonio, at the recent election, is attributed in Austin to the opposition to West to Coke's administration. A well informed gentleman tells us that the result of the election here caused utter dismay among the Cokeites in Austin. What makes the thing still harder on the defeated gentlemen is, that most of them are also bitterly opposed to Coke, but they had to bear the odium of "Cokery" at the election, and it was a mill-stone that sunk them out of sight.

"Cokery" will sink every man in Western Texas who stands by it. It has defrauded us of the International railroad, it has delayed the Pierce railroad; it has defrauded us of the Morgan railroad; it promises to continue all these iniquities against Western Texas; it has taken our lands, and deprived us of railroads and public schools; "and there is no heath in it."

A Brute Hung by a Mob.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 17.—G. N. Ullery, who was charged with committing rape on a little girl nine years hanged this morning by a mob of about 40 masked men who went to the jail, captured and bound the guards, battered down the door, took the prisoner and giving him a few minutes to pray, hanged him to a tree in front of the court house.

A large crowd gathered on the scene, but the lynchers had posted a strong guard and the feeble efforts made to interfere with them were unsuccessful. After all signs of life had ceased in the suspended man, the lynchers quietly dispersed, but the body hung an hour before it was removed by the Coroner.

Public opinion is decidedly in favor of the lynchers. The little girl is in a shocking condition, and it is thought she cannot recover.

Great Democratic Consultation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—The time is not yet fixed for the proposed consultation of leading Democrats scattering in all between three and four hundred. Ex-Gov. McCoslin, Reverdy Johnson, Jeremiah S. The object is to consider the present condition of political affairs and what will be done by the Democrats in the event of a called session of Congress. Owing to the shortness of the session, and the pressure of other business, it is not supposed that Congress will act definitely on the bill of the select Committee, providing a government for the District of Columbia, but continue the present temporary arrangement with such necessary legislation as its financial affairs may require.

Germany recognizes the stern necessity. What she won by arms, she can only hold by arms, and while arms are in her hands."

The Times confesses that Germany cannot raise a third army. Her hopes are in her navy.

War Excitement at Shreveport.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The following is received here:

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 16.

To Hon. W. W. Belknap, Secretary of War, Washington:

A report has just been received from Major Merrill, at Shreveport, which is too long for telegraphic transmission. It will be sent by mail. The following is the epitome almost in Merrill's own words:

"The threats made before the election to drive from the community those who voted the radical ticket are being carried out. Combinations among the whites are forming, and recruiting by every form of pressure, by which all negroes who voted the radical ticket can be induced work or leave. All whites not joining this combination are to be ostracised. Already more than 500 families including at least 2000 people, of all ages and sexes, are wanderers, without means to go elsewhere to find other homes, or to live where they are; and are on the verge of starvation, in mid winter. Theft and other crimes may be the result, and it is feared that this bitter feeling naturally resulting from the sense of injustice received, may run in the of revenge. These homeless people will gradually drift together, and the white people are not slow, as the past has shown to set afoot inflammatory rumors of intentions of organized violence on the part of the negroes, and when the revolver and mob law are the common results in such cases, as they usually have been here. Disorders more or less extensive are sure to result, if some preventative is not found for such a state of things."

Yesterday was another one of that long series of miserable Sundays which have demoralized the whole West during the present winter. Preaching and churchgoing are about at end now. When the weather breaks up, and the charming spring season of Western Texas bursts upon us in all its beauty and glory, the churches will have to resort to protracted meetings and special services in order to make up for lost time. We are wild and wicked enough in the West anyhow, without the terribly demoralizing weather we have had this season. But we suppose it is to try our faith and virtue, such as we have.

This morning everything was enveloped in a worse than London fog, a wet fog at that.

PANCOAST & SON keep up with all the latest styles for their CUSTOM TRADE. Keep first class goods and do first class work. Give them a call.

Senator Dwyer of this city, now in the Legislature at Austin, the Gazette informs us was robbed at the shaving saloon under the following circumstances: He had laid his coat on the table while being shaved, and on recovering it found that his pocket book had been changed to a pocket different from what he been in the habit of carrying. On examination of the pocket book he found that he had been robbed of sixty dollars. Suspicion rested on a negro boy working in the saloon, and he was arrested and searched, and the money found on his person. The negro was lodged in the lock-up, and Senator Dwyer taught the lesson to be more careful in the future in making deposits or this character.

The American Sardine Co.'s Boneless Sardines are much better, and less than half the cost of imported Sardines.

State Finances.

Editor Express:

While the statements are going the rounds that State credit is at par; that there is soon (?) to be a surplus of money in the treasury, &c., &c., it may be worth while to notice a few facts near at home, to see if this glorification is well founded.

Facts though unwelcome are better than deceptive declamation. As a fact I know of a State officer who is entitled to a monthly salary, who has devoted his time to his duties, who has been unable to collect any more than one month's salary accruing since the present authorities assumed the power, that is for an entire year. Probably there are many other employees of the State in pretty much the same fix. What becomes of the thousands paid into the State Treasury? Is it paid out to suit the wishes of some "ring?" It looks as if there is "something rotten in Denmark."
