Social Security Changes

Recent Social Security amendments change both the requirements for payment of benefits and the rate of social security taxes according to Floyd B. Ellington, district manager of the San Angelo Social Security office. The new changes include the following:

1. Men may now get reduced payments as early as age 62.
 2. Some workers already drawing the minimum monthly payment of $33 had their checks increased to $40.
 3. People can now earn more and still draw some Social Security payments.
 4. Workers may now qualify for benefits if they have credit for at least one quarter of work under Social Security for each year since 1950 up to the year they reach 65 (62 for women).
 5. Payments to aged widows and widowers have been raised about ten percent. When only one parent is receiving payments, that parent also got an increase.
- In making these changes, Ellington continued, Congress has shown its usual concern for the financial soundness of the Social Security Trust Fund. To maintain the fund with enough income and reserve to make these increases in payments, Congress has adjusted the tax rates upward.

On The Screen . . . 'Francis Of Assisi' Is On Sunday And Monday

Few figures in history have so profoundly inspired the mind and moved the conscience of man as has St. Francis of Assisi whose life—he was only 44 when he died in 1226—spanned the late 12th and early 13th Centuries.

The story of his life, set against the strife and turbulence of a world just emerging from the dark ages and encompassing the vast and colorful tapestry of the Crusades, is told in the 20th Century-Fox production, "Francis of Assisi," showing Sunday and Monday nights at the Eagle Drive-In Theatre here in Eldorado.

Fox and producer Plato Skouras have taken a bold and courageous step in bringing the life of Francis to film. This is the story of a man who founded a religious order which is still an important facet of the Roman Catholic Church and who is revered as a saint by that church.

However, no criticism should be made of Fox and Skouras for this film by those not of the Roman Church, for Francis lived a life which should be an inspiration for all men, whether Christian or non-Christian.

In this $3,000,000 dramatization of the saint's life, Skouras has produced on a huge scale, but nevertheless he keeps a firm focus on Francis the man whose message of peace, love and understanding swept through the world and gave a new dimension to the thoughts and actions of ensuing generations. "Francis of Assisi" is based on a novel, "The Joyful Beggar," by Louis de Wohl.

With Bradford Dillman in the title role, the movie tells the story of Francis Beninadone, a handsome, pleasure-loving young man of Assisi who turns to a life of humility and poverty to find joy in the love of God and his fellow man.

This is one medieval tale that needed no departure from history to fill it with color and adventure, for the 13th Century saint's life was crowded with both.

It was filmed in Umbria, where Francis spent most of his life, and the historic settings lend themselves well to the pageantry of an age of chivalry and the Crusades.

Beginning with Francis' high-hearted adventure of starting out with an army to liberate Sicily, the story moves swiftly to the young man's dedication of his life to God's work. The depth of his faith touches Clare, a beautiful young daughter of a noble family, played by Dolores Hart, but it fails to move Paolo, Francis' former comrade in arms, who falls in love with Clare. Stuart Whitman plays Paolo, making the third starring member of the cast.

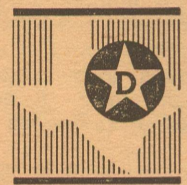

The movie follows fairly accurately the story of the founding of the Order of Friars Minor ("little brothers").

Francis soon is joined by others who are inspired by his example of a life of poverty and brotherly love. A ragged band of the 12 first Franciscans goes to Rome to obtain approval of their way of life from Pope Innocent III. They succeed in this unlikely task in an age when luxury and power went hand in hand with ecclesiastical position.

CinemaScope and DeLuxe Color make the most of the scenes of the Moslem warriors and the sultan's camp, the Crusaders' excesses in a conquered city and the recurring Umbrian countryside where Francis rebuilds churches, comforts lepers and blesses the children's animals.

Dillman is the young actor cast as the son of a rich Assisi merchant, and he reads with tasteful restraint. He wears well in a demanding role that requires him in almost every scene. And Dolores

Hart foregoes lipstick and other touches of glamour after she becomes a nun.

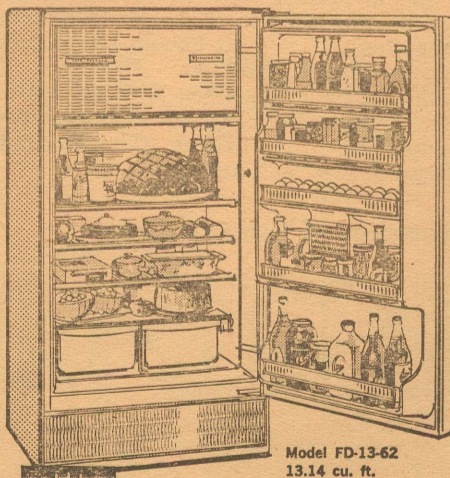

In filming the St. Francis story, Producer Skouras and director Michael Curtiz, for the sake of realism and historical accuracy, show the Crusaders as something less than admirable men fighting for an ideal. Francis was disheartened when, on arriving with the army in Egypt, he discovered a rowdy camp filled with greedy men. Yet he had the incredible courage to cross to the Saracen lines in an effort to convert these warriors of the sultan.

Some of the most interesting sidelights of the Civil War are found in little-known details such as the footnote to last week's story about the Val Verde cannon and the Union officer from whom they were captured.

Captain Alexander McRae, a graduate of West Point and member of a prominent North Carolina family, was the commander of the battery of artillery taken at the Battle of Val Verde by the Confederates and later organized into the "Val Verde Battery." The following is a newspaper account of the capture of the artillery and the death of McRae:

"With his artillerymen cut down his support either killed, wounded or flying from the field, Captain McRae sat down, calmly and quietly, on one of his guns, and with revolver in hand, refusing to fly or desert his post, he fought to the last, and gloriously died the death of a hero, the last man by his gun."

Captain McRae was buried at Fort Craig, but in 1867 was reinterred at West Point. His family was said to have disowned and disinherited him when he remained loyal to the Union at the outbreak of the War. Upon his reinterment at West Point, the Santa Fe Gazette commented:

"For five years no relative visited his grave at Fort Craig. The bodies of his fellow officers sleeping beside him had all been removed by the loved ones of the dead... It seems fitting that the nation for which he died should enshrine his grave within the grounds of his alma mater, as a living monument for the admiration and imitation of the cadets whose lives should be like his. Over his grave no parent, no brother or sister, no relative brings the chaplet of laurel, and without a mourner bearing his name, the memory of the gallant McRae belongs to his countrymen, one and all. The most heroic death in the national army was his. Let his grateful countrymen and countrywomen hallow his memory, who has none of his blood to mourn his death and adore his fame."

General E. R. S. Canby, the Union commander in New Mexico, wrote of Captain McRae in a report from the field that he was "a man whose memory deserves notice from a higher authority than mine; pure in character, upright in conduct, devoted to his profession, and of a loyalty that was deaf to the seductions of family and friends, a man who died, as he had lived, an example of the best and highest qualities that man can possess."

TO GIVE FINE ARTS SHOW

Jane Reeder and Duwain Hughes will give a fine arts and photo show at the Kendall Art Gallery at 119 W. 1st street in San Angelo from Jan. 21 through Feb. 4.

Jane Reeder showed slides at a meeting of the Eldorado Garden club in November.

MISS HORTON BRIDE OF HERMAN PHILLIPS IN HOME RITES AT ANDREWS SATURDAY

In a home ceremony in Andrews at 4:30 p.m. on Saturday, January 13, Miss Carla Sue Horton became the bride of Herman Roy Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Phillips of Eldorado.

The double ring ceremony was held in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Horton, with Dr. Paul Southern of the Woodlawn Church of Christ in Abilene and head of the Department of Bible in Abilene Christian College, officiating. A background of candelabra and greenery was used for the repeating of the vows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz length gown of white de-lustered satin. Princess lines accented the front panel of applied alencon lace, studded with seed pearls. The skirt had a bouffant back and the sleeves were three-quarter length. Her matching white satin pillbox carried an elbow length veil of illusion and her bridal bouquet was of white roses and stephanotis with satin love knot streamers.

For the traditional "something old, new, borrowed, and blue," the bride wore an heirloom ring belonging to her paternal grandmother and she borrowed a family heirloom necklace belonging to her sister. A blue garter and a penny in her shoe were also worn.

Mrs. C. M. Smith of San Angelo served her sister as matron of honor and she wore a waltz length gown of red de-lustered satin, featuring a sweetheart neckline, three quarter sleeves and a full skirt with a front panel effect. Her pill box was of matching red satin and she wore matching shoes. She carried a bouquet of white french carnations with white satin love knot streamers. The red and white theme carried out the bride's chosen colors.

The groom's attendants were his brothers, John Phillips of Midland, who was best man and Joe Phillips of Eldorado, who served as candlelighter.

A reception in the home of the bride followed the ceremony.

The bride was a 1958 graduate of Andrews High school and is a January graduate of Abilene Christian College, where she was vice president of GATA social club and member of Kappa Delta Pi and the W. club. She is now employed by the Dallas public schools.

The groom was a 1957 graduate of Eldorado high school and graduated last May from Abilene Christian college, where he was an officer of Sub-T-16 social club and captain of the football team. He is employed with Geophysical Lab of Mobil Oil Company in Dallas.

The couple are at home in the Meadowbrooks Heights apartments in Irving.

MRS. HERMAN ROY PHILLIPS

Named Chairman Of Laymen's District Work

Carroll Ratliff of Eldorado has been named Layman Chairman for District 16 in the churches phase of the Texas Baptist Crusade for Christian Education.

Together these district and associational chairmen are responsible for the carrying out of the crusade program.

The purpose of the crusade is to strengthen the denomination's schools by encouraging more Baptist students to attend Baptist colleges, to participate in the Baptist Student Union at whatever college they might attend, and to consider prayerfully church related vocations as careers and by raising $28-million for buildings and equipment on Baptist campuses.

Health Careers Offer Much To Young People

Light from a single window breaks the dark expanse of a five-story building. Inside the room is a research scientist poring over a pile of notes, trying to piece together bits of evidence which could possibly lead to a significant breakthrough in the battle against cancer.

Miles away in a small town, a secretary unlocks the door of the local health department and starts filling out requisitions for needed supplies. She is no scientist and the researcher hates the trivialities of order forms.

Yet both of these people have much in common. They are both engaged in a health career.

In the growing competition among industry, the professions, education, government service, welfare and the health services for skilled, competent personnel, a career dedicated to serving fellow man through the health services can be rewarding both career-wise and personally.

Health careers include callings that care for the ill and the injured; and they include callings that help to prevent illness—prevention.

Training varies from about a high school education for some workers in a hospital to more than eight of college for a physician.

The entire spectrum of working talents are offered in health fields including biologists, food service workers, housekeepers, statistical clerks, machinists, administrators, engineers, writers, artists, chemists and photographers. The list goes on and on.

A health careerist can be his own boss as a private physician or consultant or he can work as a skilled member of a highly organized team in a local or state health department, hospital or health agency.

High school students should consider a health career seriously.

Girls' Basketball

Girls Lose District Opener
The Eldorado girls put on a strong last-minute surge as Ozona took a district opener last Friday night 41-39. The game was nip and tuck all the way with the lead changing hands numerous times during the game. Jan Davis led the offensive attack with 13 points and Kathy Sauer had 12. However the girls were far short at the free throw line, missing 16 of 25 attempts. Tissie Enochs and Linda Nixon (were outstanding at guard with valuable help from Joan Griffin, Frankie Blaylock and Phyllis Parker.

Christy Moore and Susie Scott added strength at forward. Eldorado needs to beat Junction in Eldorado on January 30 to put the district in a three way. Junction defeated Ozona 42-26.

Rankin Defeats Girls 36-34
Again the two point margin provided defeat as the Eldorado girls were beaten 36-34 by Rankin. The game was characterized by numerous mistakes, bad passes, and fouls. Jan Davis had 9 points, Kathy Sauer and Susie Scott had 8, Christy Moore and Joan Griffin had 4 and Verna Lux 1. Christy Moore received a knee injury in the game and will be out of action as the girls travel to Menard Friday night for a Junior High and high school game beginning at 6:30.

Juniors Win In Overtime
The Eldorado Juniors High girls started the season with a bang as they defeated the Rankin freshmen and sophomores in an overtime 23-21. Marsha Mund led the offensive effort with 15 points. Martha Love contributed 4 points as did Jane Cain. The entire last quarter was tied on several occasions only to see the small seventh and eighth graders come storming back in the lead.

Pam Love showed fine ball handling as did Jan Wagley, Beth McCalla and Karen Corbell. Others who contributed to the victory were Kaye Harkey, Cecelia Dockal, Jacque Davis, Karen Griffin, and Norma Kay Mund.

The girls will go to Menard Friday night to play the Menard Junior High at 6:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kellogg and daughter are moving to McCamey soon. He is employed with Halliburton.

Mrs. A. G. Turner of Chickasha, Oklahoma, is visiting here with her daughter, Mrs. Jimmy Doyle and family.

Editorial Comments From Our Neighbors

Inflation Is A Dirty Word
If a dollar had an average worth of 100 cents during the base period of 1935-59, it is now worth 46.6 cents. In 1953, however, the Government decided this span of reference on which the Consumer Price Index is based should be moved forward to 1947-49. Calculated thus, the dollar is now worth 84.2 cents. But the Budget Bureau has done it again. By nudging the base period ahead another decade, with 1957-1959 period as par, the Government cost-of-living experts can demonstrate that as of last November we only paid $1.046 for a dollar's worth of hamburger or haberdashery.

This will no doubt prove a splendid tranquilizer—and one that, as heretofore, was administered just as we were about to wake up.
