Littlefield Man Dies In Area Mishap

A 44-year-old Littlefield man, Cloise Doyle Foust died about 6:40 p.m. Saturday when he apparently lost control of his car on U.S. Highway 84 about three miles north of town. The vehicle traveled about 300 yards along the shoulder of the highway, then rolled over two times and came to rest on its top. The car, a 1965 Model Oldsmobile, was demolished.

Foust was pronounced dead on arrival at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. The body was transferred to Littlefield by Bell-Seale ambulance. Funeral was to be held at 2 p.m. Monday in the Crescent Park Church of Christ there with burial slated in Memorial Park of Littlefield. Surviving are the wife, two sons and his father.

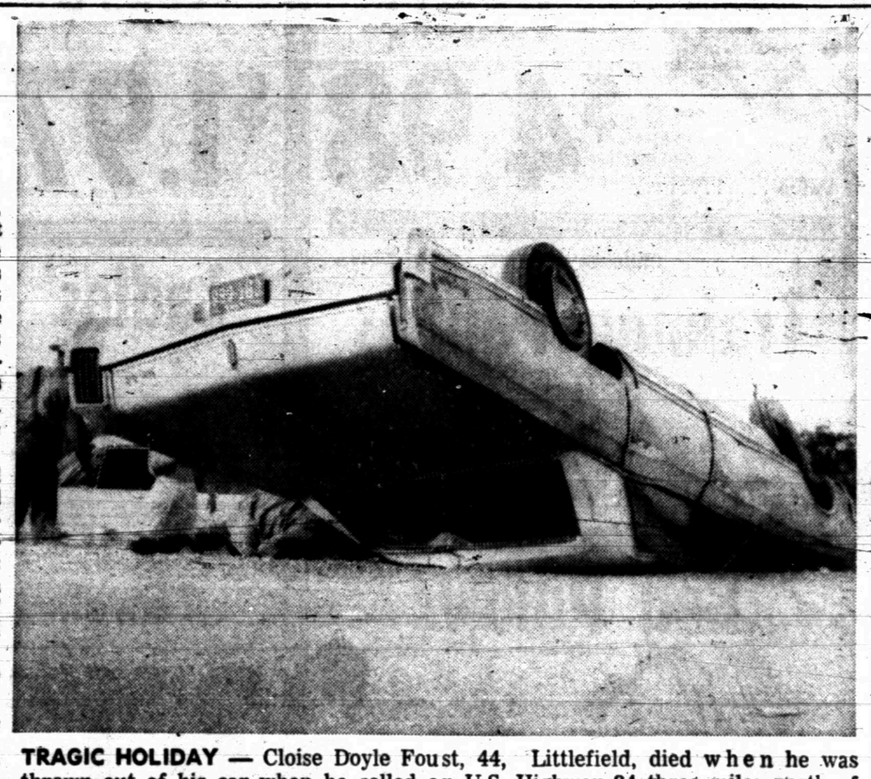
Bill Estep, manager of the Snyder employment office on the second floor of the County Courthouse, sustained a fractured leg in an accident 12 miles east of town on U.S. Highway 180 about 4 a.m. Sunday. He was a passenger in a car operated by a Lubbock man.

Estep was transferred to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock by Bell-Seale ambulance after receiving emergency treatment at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. Highway Patrolmen said the car in which he was riding was in collision with a truck.

Myrtle R. Browning, 3011 Avenue Y, received minor injuries in a two-car mishap in the 2200 block of Twenty-sixth Street at 6:38 p.m. Saturday. She was released after receiving treatment at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

She was a passenger in the 1964 Model Rambler stationwagon of her husband, Noel M. Browning. Damage to the vehicle was set at $750. Driver of the other car, a 1958 Model Plymouth, was identified as Cherry Hembree, 2806 Avenue X. Damage to her car was estimated at $200.

Officers investigated a one-car accident about 400 feet west of El Paso on Thirty-seventh Street at 12:43 p.m. Sunday. Involved was the 1965 Model Ford of Elmer H. Muhenbach, Jr. Damage to his car was set at $20.



TRAGIC HOLIDAY — Cloise Doyle Foust, 44, Littlefield, died when he was thrown out of his car when he rolled on U.S. Highway 84 three miles north of Snyder about 6:40 p.m. Saturday. Another motorist is shown reaching under the car for some of Foust's personal effects.

US Planes Continue Pounding Of Depots

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U. S. fighter-bombers kept up the intensive air war against North Viet Nam, striking another blow at a strategic oil depot near the port of Haiphong and wrecking a surface-to-air missile site 15 miles west of Hanoi.

Three Soviet-designed missiles were fired at the Air Force pilots who let loose their five-inch rockets against the launcher. One exploded close enough to the four F105 Thunderchiefs to send vibrations through the supersonic planes but did no damage, a spokesman said.

The pilots saw an orange fireball rise from the revetments that house the missiles and reported heavy damage to the control radar van.

While the Air Force jets edged close to the North Vietnamese capital Sunday, Navy fliers from the 7th Fleet carrier Constellation sent up clouds of smoke and dust as they pounded the Do Son fuel depot 12 miles southeast of Haiphong for the second time in five days. Last Wednesday U. S. planes hit the tank farm while also hitting a fuel complex three miles from Hanoi and unloading and storage facilities two miles from Haiphong.

In all, U. S. pilots flew a near record 89 missions against the Communist North, although an American spokesman emphasized that the number of planes involved was not a record.

He said Air Force F4C Phantoms and B57 Canberras damaged or destroyed all 20 trucks in a convoy southeast of Dong Hoi in the Panhandle and hit nine vehicles in another 20-truck convoy south of the city.

The U. S. jets returned to North Viet Nam's industrial belt while Red China warned it considered itself freed from "any bounds or restrictions" on aiding the North Vitnamese as a result of the American raids near Hanoi and Haiphong last week. The Peking statement said the attacks had brought the war to 'a new and still graver stage" but did not specify what if any new aid the Chinese would provide.

Guam-based B52s gave the Communists a July Fourth salute in South Viet Nam by saturating for the second successive day a Viet Cong concentration near Da Nang and another along the Cambodian Border northwest of Saigon.

Ground fighting in South Viet Nam dwindled to small patrol actions today after several flareups over the weekend.

The largest of these was an engagement between about 200 men of the U. S. 25th Infantry Division and an entrenched Communist force estimated at two companies, about 350 men.

The action took place seven miles south of the Duc Co Special Forces camp in the central highlands and five miles from the Cambodian frontier.

The Viet Cong fired mortars and small arms and broke off the engagement after the Americans unlimbered a heavy artillery barrage.

A U. S. spokesman said the Communists pulled westward toward Cambodia. Pursing U. S. troops again made contact late in the day and called in air strikes. Contact was broken after two and a half hours. The spokesman said that search operations today failed to find the Communist force. The spokesman said U. S. troops suffered moderate casualties, many apparently in the first mortar attack.

W. Germans Back Goals

By FRANK CORMIER

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson was described as pleased today by a July 4th statement expressing official West German support for American goals in Viet Nam.

The message came from West Germany's president, Heinrich Lubke. Sources said it indicated that not all U.S. allies in Western Europe share British Prime Minister Harold Wilson's public disassociation from Johnson's decision to bomb North Viet Nam oil storage facilities near Hanoi and Haiphong.

Lubke did not mention the bombings, however. He simply said: "May the struggle in which your country as the champion of freedom against the forces of oppression in Southeast Asia is presently engaged also be crowned by success, and may you soon be able to devote your efforts exclusively toward your great work for peace for the benefit of all nations of the world."

Johnson is spending the holiday with his wife and younger daughter, Luci, at their ranch some 60 miles north of here.

Aides said the chief executive would devote part of the day to studying a report from the American Embassy in Saigon on progress toward election of a constitution-drafting committee in South Viet Nam.

The President and Mrs. Johnson attended religious services Sunday at the tiny St. Michael and All Angels Episcopal Church in Blanco, 23 miles southeast of the ranch. Johnson drove his own car to and from the church.

The lay vicar, Edwin A. Thayer, asked the congregation to pray for Luci Johnson, who observed her 19th birthday Saturday.

Luci and her fiance, Pat Nugent, attended services at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Fredericksburg, 15 miles east of the ranch. They will be married Aug. 6 in Washington.

The Johnsons' older daughter, Lynda, is vacationing in Europe.

In addition to holiday greetings from Lubke and other world leaders, Johnson got a report on international reaction to the Hanoi-Haiphong area bombings and some telegrams of support for his decision to order the raids.

Toll Mounts On Highways

By The Associated Press

A two-car crash in Arizona snuffed out 10 lives and two Arkansas accidents killed 11 other persons as the grim July 4th holiday weekend auto death toll mounted today.

The auto toll stood at 394 on the last day of the 78-hour holiday.

Boating accidents killed 25 others and 105 persons drowned.

The National Safety Council estimated that by the time the count ends at midnight (local time) today, between 510 and 610 persons will die in traffic. The count began 6 p.m. (local time) Friday.

Two cars collided head on 30 miles west of Tucson Sunday and all the occupants were killed. Police said all of the dead were Indians from Arizona.

That was the worst single accident. But Arkansas police reported two separate crashes within five hours Sunday which killed 11 others. The first, a three-car pileup near Blytheville, killed six. Five hours later, a head-on crash near Benton killed five.

The Safety Council predicted Sunday that "if traffic deaths continue at their present rate, it will exceed not only last year's Fourth of July, but possibly the Labor Day weekend of 1965."

The Labor Day weekend set a record for any summer holiday — 575 persons killed in traffic.

The July 4, 1965, weekend saw 551 die. A four-day July 4 observance in 1963 resulted in 557 deaths.

Record heat forced millions of Americans to take to their cars in search of relief along cool beaches and in shady forests.

New York City recorded a record 103 Sunday; Harrisburg, Pa., had 107 and Allentown 105; Atlantic City, N.J., posted 104 and Windsor Locks, Conn., 102 as radiators — and tempers — boiled.

The Safety Council said motorists would drive 9.5 billion miles during the holiday weekend.

To compare the holiday weekend toll with that of a similar 78-hour period, The Associated Press tallied motor vehicle deaths from 6 p.m. June 17 to midnight June 20. The nonholiday toll was 383.

The three-day New Year holiday this year set a record of 564 traffic deaths. And 542 died in the three days of Memorial Day traffic, also a record.

The lowest toll for a three-day Fourth of July since World War II was in 1947, when 255 died.

The worst holiday toll on record came over the three-day Christmas 1965 weekend, when 720 persons died.

There were no fireworks deaths reported.

Mob Greets Dean Rusk

KYOTO, Japan (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk traveled to this ancient Japanese city tonight, shielded by thousands of police against thousands of screaming leftist demonstrators protesting American policy in Viet Nam.

Shouts of "Rusk go home!" greeted his U.S. Air Force plane as it landed at Itami airport, on the outskirts of Osaka, south of Kyoto.

But is doubtful Rusk heard or saw the demonstrors. Police kept them 500 yards from the airport gate and then drove Rusk and his party toward Kyoto over a back road while thousands of leftists waited in vain on the main highway. A decoy police escort foiled them.

Rusk came here from Taipei, Formosa, to attend a U.S.-Japanese economic conference that amounts to a joint cabinet meeting, with five members of President Johnson's official family on hand.

His arrival, following the U.S. air raids on the Hanoi and Haiphong areas, brought Socialist, Communist and labor calls for demonstrations. The leftists vowed to prevent his arrival and to block the opening of the meeting Tuesday.

Young JFK Nurses Campfire Burns

HONOLULU (AP) — Young John F. Kennedy Jr. has received "mild burns" from a campfire on a Hawaii beach.

The 5-year-old son of the late President suffered what his mother described as "minor burns to his right hand and buttocks." He was reportedly tugging at a sleeping bag when he stumbled and fell into the still-hot coals of a beach campfire Thursday.

The Kennedys — John, his mother, sister Caroline, 9, and cousin Sidney Lawford — were visiting Parker Ranch on Hawaii Island, 200 miles southeast of Honolulu, when the accident happened. They are to leave the islands next Tuesday.

Bolivians Elect Moderate Chief

By JOSEPH BENHAM

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Bolivians have swept former armed forces chief Rene Barrientos in as president, replacing the military junta which has ruled the nation for 19 months.

Barrientos was piling up a margin of more than two to one over his combined opposition. Midnight returns from the National Electoral Court gave Barrientos 51,000 votes to 22,000 for his four opponents.

Barrientos claimed victory as soon as returns showed him leading the opposition by 2-1 in the cities and by even larger margins in the rural areas.

The 47-year-old moderate leftist, who quit as copresident of the junta and armed forces chief to run for president, promised to provide a government which would work more for development of Bolivia than for political ends.

During the campaign he had the blessings of the junta which took over in November 1964 after throwing out leftist President Victor Paz Estenssoro.

The election surprised Bolivian and foreign observers alike with its comparative peace and quiet.

The armed forces had been deployed in key areas and observers from the Organization of American States took up posts in potential trouble spots, but no major incidents were reported.

Cooler Air Brings Threat Of Storms

By The Associated Press

Cooler air moved into northern sections of the Midwest today causing thunderstorms and funnel clouds.

A home was damaged north of Fort Wayne, Ind., as a thunderstorm passed over the area. A funnel cloud was sighted near LaCrosse, Wis., during a storm there.

Pleasant weather was the rule in northeast and northern Midwest and Pacific Northwest.

Singapore Monk Dies During Rites

SINGAPORE (AP) — The resident monk of Singapore's Buddhist Union, Venerable Dhamasukha, collapsed and died Sunday during a ceremony inaugurating a renovated temple.

Shriners Stage Gigantic Parade

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — About 10,000 men parade up Market Street this Independence Day in the vanguard of the Shriners' 86th Imperial Council convention.

Nearly 100,000 members of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine and their families are expected here for the convention which opens officially Tuesday. They're staying in accommodations as far as 90 miles away.

4th Marred By Riots, Vandalism

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Disorder and vandalism continued on Omaha's heavily Negro Near North Side early today.

A teen-ager was shot by an off-duty policeman, and more than 50 persons, most of them teenagers, were arrested.

Quiet had been restored by daybreak but in Lincoln, Lt. Gov. Philip C. Sorensen said all steps were being taken to insure that state manpower would be available in Omaha if there is more trouble.

Sorensen, acting in the absence of Gov. Frank Morrison, said state troopers and National Guardsmen were available if Omaha Mayor A. V. Sorensen asked for them.

A fireworks disturbance triggered a riot in the same area early Sunday where the bulk of Omaha's Negro population lives. Police Chief C. Harold Ostler blamed the trouble on a "small group of rowdies" and said it had "no racial significance."

But Ostler cancelled all leaves for the holiday weekend and put his full force to work on 12-hour shifts.

A band of Negro youths moved along 24th street, the Near North Side's main business artery, early today after a dance. They broke windows in several business establishments defying the beefed up police details.

Officers said a 15-year-old was shot by an off-duty policeman during a break in. The youth was treated for a leg wound and released.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Neither my husband nor I wears a wedding ring. He insists that I wear mine all the time, altho he hasn't worn his for two years. At the same time he is holding my diamond engagement ring for "security" reasons, as he claims it is HIS property in case we separate. Is that true? Legally, I mean? I haven't seen that ring in nearly three months now. I would appreciate your opinion.

SICK MARRIAGE

DEAR SIC: If you want to know whose property the diamond ring is, ring up a lawyer. The important issue here is not whose is whose, but what is what.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: We four girls work in an office with five men. One of them (the boss) insists on shaving every morning with an electric shaver as he sits at his desk which faces all of us.

We find this disgusting and crude. He says there is nothing wrong with it. What is your opinion of this practice?

DECORUM FORUM

DEAR FORUM: I think it's crude, too. But he's the boss, so it would be rather difficult to short circuit his connections.

DEAR ABBY: The lady I babysit for owes me for 44 times at 35 cents an hour. I usually sit for seven hours at a time. I keep sitting for her because the lady in the apartment below her has me watch her kids, too. (They are older, and all I have to do is look in on them every hour.)

The downstairs lady pays me everytime, but the upstairs lady keeps putting me off. Whenever I mention to her how much she owes me she says she is in a big hurry, and then she runs out the door. I am getting the idea that she isn't ever going to pay me. Can you tell me how to get my money, Abby? I need it for Christmas gifts.

GYPPED

DEAR GYPPED: The next time the lady asks you to babysit, tell her how much she owes you and ask her for a little down on a big bill. Then tell her that unless she pays you something, you will not sit for her again. (And stand firm!")

DEAR ABBY: Last April I entertained a group of women in my home for lunch and bridge. I am from out of state and knew none of these women. The group was set up by a woman who arranges such "clubs" so newcomers can get acquainted. I liked these women, but immediately after that luncheon I missed a small glass container which held toothpicks.

No great value moneywise, but it belonged to my dear mother, who is now deceased. It meant so much to me, Abby. I've never had anything like this happen before and am praying that the person who took it will mail it back to me. It would take away the hurt and disappointment. Thank you.

Kruse In Record Swim At Sheeler-Winton

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A 16-year-old Pompano Beach High School junior, Pam Kruse, broke the world record for women's 440-yard freestyle swim Sunday, her coach said.

The record must be approved by the Amateur Athletic Union before it can become official.

Miss Kruse's coach, Bob Ousley, said she covered the distance in 4:44.3 at the Sheeler-Winton Pool in Miami while swimming against the clock.

The record now is held by Australian Elsa Konrads, who swam the distance in 4:45.4 in January 1960.

The American record of 4:46.4 was set by Martha Randel, Aug. 21, 1965, in Wales.

The victory came on opening day of the Galveston races.

Mason O'Keiff of Houston was second while George Fullmer of Pasadena, Calif., who set a lap record of 117.1 for 2.8 miles, was forced into the pit with oil pressure trouble.

Springtime In Strawberry - Rhubarb Pie

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

IT'S A LOVELY time of year when both fresh strawberries and stalks of pink or red rhubarb are here. You can taste sunny days in the combination.

The strawberries and rhubarb will make a delicious pie. Usually we put the fruit in a rich pastry shell and cover the top with lattice - design strips of the pastry. But this year we tried something different, and the recipe follows. The pastry shell is there, but the topping is a sweet crumbly mixture of butter, brown sugar and cinnamon. All to the good, our tasters said, as they gobbled up wedges of the pie with scoops of vanilla ice cream.

Don't expect a firmer - than-firm filling for this pie, even if you allow it to stand until cold before cutting and serving — as we suggest. The filling may be a little runny. But who cares? Old - fashioned eaters, who knew a good fresh fruit pie when they tasted one, believed this runniness made the pie delectable. We hope you agree with them that a library - paste type of filling should never be used in something as delicate and springlike as a fresh strawberry and rhubarb pie.

Strawberry Rhubarb Pie

Pastry
2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup unsifted regular flour
1 quart strawberries, hulled
2 cups pink or red rhubarb, cut crosswise into ½-inch pieces
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, soft
2 tablespoons light brown sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Roll out pastry to make a shell with a high fluted edge to fit a 10-inch oven - glass pie plate; refrigerate.

In a mixing bowl, thoroughly stir together the granulated sugar and ½ cup of the flour; add strawberries and rhubarb and toss together; let stand at room temperature for 30 minutes.

Meanwhile blend the butter, brown sugar and cinnamon; work in the remaining ½ cup flour to make a crumbly mixture.

Turn the strawberry and rhubarb mixture into the pastry - lined pie plate. Sprinkle the fruit with the lemon juice, then with the crumbly flour mixture.

Bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven for 1 hour. Place pie on wire rack; allow to stand at room temperature until cold so filling can "set."

Note: We baked this pie in the top of the pie with foil and finished the baking on the rack just below the middle rack for the last 20 minutes. This method produced a well browned crust.

SPRINGTIME TREAT — Fresh strawberries and pink or red rhubarb make a delicious one-crust pie — especially when the pastry is rich and flaky.

Seasoned Roast Lamb

Oven-ready leg of lamb (about 5½ pounds with fell and surface fat removed)
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon each ground cumin and ground allspice
1 large clove garlic, crushed

Make 4 small deep slits on bottom and top surface of lamb. Thoroughly mix together the remaining ingredients; with the point of a paring knife, insert some of the seasoning mixture into each slit; spread remaining seasoning mixture over surface of lamb. Roast on a rack in a roasting pan in a moderate (350 degrees) oven to desired doneness; use a meat thermometer as a guide.

To save sewing time, use cotton iron-on tape to hem trousers for growing boys. Turn under pants legs to the desired length and iron strips of tape over raw edges. When you need to let out the hem, just press the cotton tape with a warm iron and pull it off.

Boot-Strap Success Neglected

OLD POWDER MAN. By Joan Williams.

The whole rounded life story of a man who fights up from nowhere to success, and pays too high a price for it, is told in this novel.

He is Frank Wynn, known to his intimates as "Son" and to his plunging, high - living business associated as "Dynamite."

He comes from a hardscrabble Arkansas family, his father a chronic failure, his mother a restless hypochrondriac with a driving zeal to make something of her husband. Son begins earning his way at 14, and soon is running his own agency for the sale of explosives.

This is back in the days of the Great Depression, but Son is a climber. To increase his sales, he begins firing dynamite on the levees himself, and soon his services are in demand all up and down the big river.

He is a tough guy among tough guys. In his business, liquor, women and crap games are on accompaniment to big deals. He becomes a high-pressure salesman no one can beat.

But at home — when he manages to get there — there is trouble. Son is on a binge somewhere when his second wife, Kate, gives birth to their daughter Laurel; that alienates Kate for life. By the time Laurel has grown up, Son is in the money. But he is a stranger to his wife and daughter.

Then comes illness, a decline in his powers, premature old age. Kate's alienation has turned her into an alcoholic. Too late, Son realizes he has missed all the fruits of human contact, though there is a final flicker of communication with his daughter. Son has hammered all his life at the door of success, and once it has opened, there is only an empty room. So his last days are pathetic in their emotional emptiness.

Miss Williams is a real writer; her characters breathe with life. Her novel is a wrenching portrayal of a prototype, the crude American from the hinterlands, whose bitterly and bravely won gold turns to dross.

When you are cooking foods "en brochette," leave about ¼-inch between each piece you insert on the skewers.

Cheese Souffle Ring

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 tablespoons regular flour
1 cup milk
1½ cups grated sharp cheddar cheese
3 large eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon salt

Make a white sauce of the butter, flour and milk. Add the cheese and over very low heat stir until melted. Cool slightly. Beat in the egg yolks one at a time, then salt. With clean beater, beat egg whites until stiff; fold in cheese mixture. Turn into a well - greased 5½ cup ring mold (8 by 2½ inches with a 4-inch wide opening in the center). Bake in a shallow pan of hot water in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 50 minutes. Loosen all edges with a spatula and turn out. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

No reason why you shouldn't heat canned pork and beans on the outdoor grill! But you may want to "doctor" them up with mustard, molasses and onion.

After washing items trimmed with cotton ball fringe, machine-dry them to restore the fluffiness of fringe. If you don't have the automatic dryer, you can soften line - dried fringe by holding it over a steaming kettle.

Liberty Bell Has Become Most Treasured Symbol

By JIM LAMB

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Surviving despite threatened bombing, burial and years of neglect, the Liberty Bell has become one of the most treasured symbols of American independence — even though the city of Philadelphia once tried to get rid of it as a piece of junk.

Today, the anniversary of American independence, hundreds will visit Independence Hall, touch the bell, poke a finger into its giant crack and read the Biblical quotation on it, "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land into all the inhabitants thereof."

Prophetic though it is, the quotation has nothing at all to do with the Declaration of Independence and American liberty.

The 2,000-pound bell was cast in the 1750s for the tower of the red brick Pennsylvania capitol in Philadelphia. It was made in Whitechapel, England.

Around the top, to celebrate the 50th anniversary of William Penn's Charter of Privileges, was the quotation, from Leviticus, about liberty.

But when the colonists first tried to ring it in March 1753, it cracked.

Two local men, John Pass and Charles Stow Jr., recast it with extra copper.

They swung the bell.

Clank.

"Upon Trial," wrote House Speaker Isaac Norris, "it seems they added too much copper . . . and were so teased with the witticisms of the town, they had a new mold."

Finally, in May 1753, the new bell was hoisted again into the steeple of the capitol.

The bell rang on many occasions as it called legislators to work, tolled funerals or signaled major events.

In 1776 the second Continental Congress met in the old state house. On July 4, 1776, the giant bell in the steeple remained silent — the Declaration of Independence was adopted in executive session.

But on July 8, presumably like other bells in the city, the bell rang out the American colonies' defiance, as the Declaration was publicly announced.

When the British took over Philadelphia during the war the Liberty Bell, like others, was put on a cart and hustled north. It was buried beneath the floor of the Zion Reformed Church in Allentown, Pa., for almost a year.

Brought back to Philadelphia after the war, it was rung many times, until, says legend, it cracked tolling the death of Supreme Court Justice John Marshall in 1835.

Pennsylvania eventually moved its capital to Harrisburg and the city of Philadelphia, which still owns the bell, decided to scrap it. But the foundry man, who had the contract to cast a new bell, refused to cart it away.

It fell into disuse and was almost forgotten, hanging in the old steeple.

In 1846 some workers drilled out the crack, hoping to restore its tone. But the bell by now, was so brittle, it could not be rung.

Because of the quotation, by the mid-19th century the bell had become a symbol of liberty.

It was lowered from the steeple and exhibited in the hall. It then was taken to New Orleans in 1885, Chicago in 1893, Atlanta in 1895, Charleston in 1902, Boston in 1903 and San Francisco in 1915 for exhibits and fairs. The last time the bell left Independence Hall was in 1917 when it was paraded through city streets in a Liberty Bond drive.

From time to time, there have been efforts to persuade the city to repair it. At least twice in this century, 1933 and 1944, the original foundry offered to recast the bell, but the city turned down the idea. Twice in the last 50 years the yoke supporting it has been strengthened.

Economy Colored With Fury, Sound

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) —Sound, fury and confusion swirled through the nation's economy in the first half of 1966. Almost everything got bigger, although as the first half ends there's some doubt if everything got better.

The long economic upswing suddenly became a boom in the first three months of the year. Then just as suddenly the emphasis changed from the danger of overheating to the threat of a chilling slowdown, even the possibility of an incipient turndown.

An inflation debate raged, changed direction, and now is bogged in confusion: Is inflation already here? A continuing threat? A receding bugaboo?

The tax debate still swirls: Is a federal tax increase needed to cool down a still bubbling economy? To pay for a more expensive war in Viet Nam than so far officially admitted?

And gaining in intensity and confusion as the first half moves into history is the battle of tight money. Interest rates are rising, both those that borrowers must pay and those that savers can command. Is the economy, or a part of it, being hurt? Or is the prosperous economic expansion being saved?

The year started with a clash between the administration and the steel industry over a price hike. This ended in a compromise, with the increases cut in half. And as the first six months unfolded, compromises seemed to be taking most of the zip out of the administration's attempt to guide wage and price policies.

The stock market bounced all over the place, to the confusion of the investing public.

Car sales and output boomed in the first three months, then went into a decline that chilled both the stock traders and the general public.

But in dollars and cents the economy looked far from sick. The Gross National Product was running at an annual rate of $697 billion in the final three months of 1965. This measure of the nation's output of goods and services jumped to $714 billion in the first quarter of 1966, and despite all the talk about slowdowns is running at an estimated $725 billion annual rate at midyear.

Most people are doing all right. Personal income rose from an annual rate of $552 billion in January to $565 billion in May. Personal consumption outlays went from an annual rate of $441 billion in the fourth quarter of 1965 to $453 billion in the first quarter of 1966. Part of this was due to a drop in the rate of savings. But part was due to the rise in the cost of living. The index stood at 111 per cent of the 1957-59 average in January, but by May had risen to 112.6 per cent.

Junior Editors Quiz on BOWLING

QUESTION: What is the best way to bowl?

• • •

ANSWER: In the grave of an Egyptian child who died in 5200 B. C., a British Egyptologist, Sir Flinders Petrie, found implements for playing a game very much like bowling. Various forms of bowling became popular in European countries during the Middle Ages. The English bowled in the 1100's and the game became popular in Germany about 1300. Martin Luther set the number of pins in the game at nine. The Dutch brought the game (skittles to them) to New Amsterdam (N. Y. City) in the 1600's. It spread to New England and there was much gambling on the game. The Connecticut legislature banned "bowling at nine pins." To get around this law, a 10th pin was added.

Our illustration shows the approved position of the ball during the four steps most bowlers take before they start the ball across the "foul line" on its way toward the pins. A right-handed bowler aims for the "pocket" or space between the first and third pins on the right side while a left hander goes for the space between the first and second pins on the left. Marge has knocked down all the pins in the bottom picture, making a "strike."

FOR YOU TO DO: We forgot to explain what a "turkey" is, so you can tell your friends. A turkey is a strike repeated three consecutive times. 7-4

Cloninger Hits Two Grand Slams As SF Falls 17-3

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Do you remember touching the bases," Joe Torre asked pitcher Tony Cloninger as they shook hands at home plate.

"I don't remember a single one," Cloninger replied.

But then Cloninger was really flying high as he rounded the bases after becoming the first player in National League history to hit two grand slam homers in one game while leading the Atlanta Braves to a 17-3 annihilation of the San Francisco Giants.

"It was a thrill to hit the first grand slam," said Cloninger. "But the second one was unbelievable."

Cloninger, a 24-game winner last season who started slowly but now has won six of his last seven starts, hit grand slam No. 1 in the first inning on a 3-2 pitch by Bob Priddy and connected for No. 2 on an 0-1 pitch by Ray Sadecki in the fourth inning.

The 6-foot, 200-pound right-hander also singled in another run and, besides becoming the first National Leaguer to hit two grand slams, he added the following records for pitchers to his collection:

—Became the first pitcher in either league ever to hit two. Four American League players connected for two grand slams before Cloninger, but none was a pitcher.

—Set a major league record for most runs batted in by driving in nine, breaking the record of seven set by Vic Raschi of the New York Yankees in 1953.

—Tied the major league record by hitting two home runs in one game for the second time in a season. Cloninger hit two against the New York Mets earlier in the year and joined Don Newcombe as the only National League pitchers ever to accomplish that feat.

While Cloninger was tearing up the record book, St. Louis blanked Los Angeles 2-0, Houston defeated Cincinnati 3-1, Philadelphia whipped the Chicago Cubs 6-2 and Pittsburgh outlasted New York 8-7 before the Mets outslugged the Pirates in the nightcap 9-8.

In the American League, Baltimore downed Minnesota 4-2, the New York Yankees edged Washington 6-5 in 11 innings, California swept Cleveland 10-2 and 4-3, Kansas City took two from Detroit 3-0 and 10-4 and Boston beat Chicago 5-2 before the White Sox won the nightcap 3-2.

Cloninger, bringing his record to 9-7, also got home run support from teammates Rico Carty and Hank Aaron, who upped his major league-leading total to 25. And he surrendered homers to Sadecki and Tom Haller while allowing the Giants seven hits.

Larry Jaster pitched a three-hitter for the Cardinals, outdueling Don Drysdale, who gave up six hits and took his 11th loss against five victories. Mike Shannon's triple and a single by Dal Maxvill produced the first St. Louis run in the fifth inning and Lou Brock homered in the ninth.

Chuck Harrison provided all of the Astros' runs with a homer in the fourth inning following singles by Jim Wynn and Felix Mantilla. Larry Dierker, tagged for Don Pavletich's homer in the second inning, checked the Reds on five hits. Hank Fisher lost it, his third without a victory since being acquired from Atlanta.

Bill White smacked a double and a two-run homer, scored two runs and stole base for the Phillies while Richie Allen chipped in with a run-scoring double and a bases-empty homer. Bob Buhl got the victory against his former Cub teammates, winning his fourth in a row with relief help from Darold Knowles in the ninth.

Ed Bressoud hit a grand slam homer and Ed Kranepool hit a solo shot for the Mets in the opener but the Pirates won it with a 16-hit attack that included homers by Jim Pagliaroni, Gene Alley and Donn Clendenon.

Willie Stargell hit two homers and Bill Mazeroski one for Pittsburgh in the nightcap but the Mets won with a six-run fifth inning built on run-producing singles by Kranepool, John Stephenson and Bressoud, a two-run double by Jerry Grote and Chuck Hiller's run-scoring double.

Alabama's first three football games will be played at night next season.

Travelers Remain On Top

By The Associated Press

The last place clubs are spurting the most in the Texas League race right now and things are tightening up all the way around.

Cellar-dwelling Dallas-Fort Worth beat El Paso 5-1 Sunday night for the Spurs' third straight.

Fifth place Austin whipped Amarillo 10-7 and it also was three in a row for the Braves.

Meanwhile, Arkansas retained a 1½-game lead over Amarillo although the Travelers lost their first game in eight as Albuquerque edged through 8-7.

The Travelers went into undisputed first place Saturday night when they beat Albuquerque in a double-header.

Sunday Arkansas took a tumble but Amarillo did the same, falling 2-1 to Austin. It was the fourth straight loss for the erstwhile leaders, who have hit an alarming slump.

Willie Crawford hit a home run and Cleo James a sacrifice fly for two runs in the ninth that gave Albuquerque its victory over Arkansas.

Arkansas tried hard in its part of the ninth but, after scoring twice and putting the tying run on third, Danny Breeden popped out to end the threat.

Austin, which has scored 54 runs in its last six games, was led by Danny Breeden in its crushing victory over Amarillo. Breeden drove in four runs, two with a homer.

Sterling Slaughter worked a six-hitter, struck out 10 and didn't walk a man in Dallas-Fort Worth's decision over El Paso. Carl Warwick's three-run homer was all the support Slaughter needed.

The clubs change stands today but there's only one doubleheader on the holiday menu. Austin is at El Paso for two games tonight. Dallas - Fort Worth is at Arkansas for an afternoon contest while Amarillo is at Albuquerque tonight.

Ralph Nader Criticizes Legal System

By PAUL RECER

SAN ANTONIO (AP)— The legal system of prosecuting drivers whose car causes accidents because of faulty engineering came under heavy fire Friday from Ralph Nader, a Washington attorney and arch critic of American car design.

Nader, speaking at the convention here of the state Bar of Texas, said it is the driver who is fined or jailed when his car collides with another because of a failure in design or engineering in the vehicle.

"Drivers should take the responsibility due them" he said, "but not that of the manufacturers too. And, yet, under our system, the driver takes all the responsibility."

Nader, who received wide publicity when he testified before a congressional committee on auto safety, said that the toll of traffic deaths can best be cut by building safer cars, not by trying to educate the millions of drivers in the country.

Accident victims, he said, are usually just average people who make a mistake and pay for it with their lives or who are caught in an accident situation beyond their control.

Nader said if he were innocently caught in a traffic accident, "I'm not going to be saved by defensive driving, but by a collision-proof car. It's the vehicle that will save you or kill you once you're in an accident."

The Washington attorney and author said the American auto manufacturers have erected a "chrome curtain of secrecy" about the safety of their cars and said there are few industries "with more arrogance and more secrecy."

Nader said a customer may learn by asking about color and styling of a car, but is not able to get facts, such as braking distance or collision characteristics, which are needed for a safety evaluation of a vehicle.

Station Plans Only Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has voted to let a Los Angeles radio station broadcast almost 16 solid hours of advertising seven days a week.

McLendon Pacific Corp. received FCC permission Friday to buy FM Station KGLA for $400,000 and broadcast the want ads from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m.

The FCC issued the permit for one year and told McLendon it would have to apply for a regular three-year license if it wanted to continue the unprecedented experiment.

It said it approved the plan for a year because of "the novelty of the proposal and the commission's desire to permit experimental operation on as broad a scale as possible."

Gordon McLendon, president of the firm that already operates an all-news station in Chicago and all-popular music stations in Houston and Dallas, told the commission the only deviation from straight want ad fare will be promotional and public service announcements.

Hawaii this year will have a state baseball tournament sanctioned by the National Baseball Congress for the first time in about 15 years.

Renewal Funds Change Face Of Dusty W. Texas Town

By COPE ROUTH
Midland Reporter-Telegram Writer

WINK, Tex. (AP)—A five-year love affair with federal urban renewal has brought remarkable changes to this former rip-roaring, hard-drinking West Texas oil boom town.

Before urban renewal came along with millions of dollars jingling in its fancy jeans, Wink didn't have much lust for life.

Her main street was lined with crumbling, false-fronted buildings, her residential area was dotted with empty and rotting houses and her dusty streets rambled off in haphazard directions.

Then along came urban renewal, handsome with a promised initial federal loan of more than $1 million and the enticing lure of more money later.

It was love at first sight, an look at Wink today, blushing with a new interest in life and optimism for the future.

Her main street is lined with vacant lots and empty off-street parking facilities, her residential area is dotted with empty but cleared vacant lots and her streets come together with tidy precision.

Banker Melvin Dow, who as publisher of the Wink Bulletin once had been an acid-penned critic of all these fancy goings-on, seems to have mellowed during the romance. He said recently: "The property they bought up hasn't moved very fast, but still, Wink hasn't been hurt by urban renewal."

As you would expect of any girl whose romance had been exposed to the world, Wink is skittish about visiting newspaper and magazine reporters. Wink has been leery of strangers from the start.

It wasn't so bad when she had an election to pass a minimum housing standards ordinance—a prerequisite to entering the federal program under state law.

And nobody paid much attention when an application was filed with the federal government for a loan and a grant to help pay back the loan—some people even thought it was a joke.

But then came the announcement: An application had been approved in the amount of $1,034,758 for a sun-baked little town in Texas called Wink.

Across the nation, editors checked their almanacs to see what Wink was—and then they checked again. Wink was a town of 1,863, the way the census people figured it in their 1960 count.

Reporters descended on bewildered little Wink. They came from metropolitan newspapers and national magazines.

They wrote unkind things—even bent a few facts now and then—and the nation laughed and kidded about this government program which wanted to help Wink.

The people didn't like the jokes, and probably neither did the urban renewal people, but they were not deterred. They proceeded under a master plan drawn up by Midland, Tex. architects.

Some properties were acquired by negotiation and some by condemnation.

Seventy-six families were moved out, some into a quickly-built low-rent housing project, a part of the program.

Some of the merchants moved to locations on the outskirts of town.

Some just took their money and left town for good.

Old buildings and residences which didn't meet the new minimum housing standards — and few did—were torn down.

Bulldozers carved out new system of paved streets, and water, gas and sewer lines were rerouted to conform to the new master plan.

Along Hendricks Boulevard, Wink's main street, the crumbling old buildings were replaced with broad off-street parking areas.

Sites for new buildings were given all-weather surfacing.

"The paving on those building sites," commented one merchant, "keeps the weeds from growing and the dust from blowing."

Theoretically, the newly-developed areas were supposed to have been snatched up by investors and the money was to be used by the Urban Renewal Agency to pay off the government loan.

Business hasn't been exactly brisk.

No exact figures have been made available, but one informed source said only about $17,000 worth of property had been sold by the Wink Urban Renewal Agency.

"I don't know just what the figures are," explained Forrest Smith last month, two weeks after taking over as urban renewal director.

There are signs that the romance between urban renewal and Wink is beginning to fade and that the renovated old place is getting ready to jilt her benefactor in favor of another possible suitor.

Smith says Wink has applied to another federal agency—the Small Business Administration—for an $80,000 loan.

Actually, says Smith, it's not Wink's application but that of the Winkler County Development Corp., an organization of Wink and Kermit businessmen who have put together a $20,000 kitty.

If the application is approved, plans call for the construction of a plant to make fibre-glass evaporative coolers.

"It's not a new design," said Smith, "But it will be made of fibre-glass instead of metal. It'll be 20 per cent cooler than metal air conditions under the same conditions."

It may even be that the beauty treatments financed by urban renewal will help little Wink's flirtation with this new prosperous Washington beau, the SBA.

Former Sen. Byrd Is Seriously Ill

BERRYVILLE, Va. (AP) — Former U.S. Sen. Harry F. Byrd Sr., founder and head of Virginia's conservative Democratic organization, is seriously ill at his home here.

Richard E. Byrd, the ex-senator's son, confirmed Friday night that his father's condition is serious.

Byrd, 79, was admitted to the University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville for a short time in March for what a family spokesman described as a "complete physical checkup."

Details of his illness were not disclosed.

Byrd, a former Virginia governor, served in the U.S. Senate for 32 years before retiring last November.

Robber Attacks The Wrong Fellow

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — Buehl Allred was in the parking lot, police said, when a man approached and asked: "Have you got any money?"

Allred answered "No." The man hit him in the head, knocking him to the ground, officers said.

As the assailant was trying to remove money from Allred's wallet, police said, Allred struck the man with his fist, knocking his attacker to the ground.

Hoffa Says Smear Tactic A Threat

By NEIL GILBRIDE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Teamsters' Union President James R. Hoffa charged today that antilabor forces in the government and "smear" tactics by news media threaten organized labor in general and the Teamsters in particular.

Hoffa, opening the Teamsters convention with a barrage of verbal fireworks against opponents, is certain to win re-election to a new five-year term and a $25,000-a-year pay raise.

"Powerful forces have banded together to destroy this organization and its leaders," Hoffa said in a state of the union report to some 2,200 delegates representing 1.7 million members of the world's biggest union.

"Enemies of labor work around the clock in their efforts to pass crippling antistrike legislation, to apply antitrust provisions to free labor and to curtail our effectiveness at the bargaining table," Hoffa said.

He made no specific reference to his own legal troubles including jury tampering and mail fraud convictions, except to say:

"My only regret concerning the personal harassment and political vendetta of the past several years is that my family has suffered embarrassment and personal anguish."

But, Hoffa added, "I can truthfully say nothing has happened to me personally which I wouldn't go through again if I knew it would protect this great international union or reap a benefit for rank-and-file members and their officers."

Hoffa could be in prison before his new term is far under way if the Supreme Court rejects his appeal of an eight-year sentence for jury tampering.

His five-year mail fraud sentence is pending before the U.S. Court of Appeals and probably also will be finally decided before Hoffa is up for re-election in 1971.

Probes Returning Rich Dividends

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Around the earth, above and around the moon, in the lonely stillness of space, unmanned satellites are probing the secrets of the universe.

They don't get the headlines that manned space flights do, but the automatic robots are yielding rich dividends in weather, communications, navigation and reconnaissance data. They are revolutionizing science's view of the universe and helping to make man's life on earth a better one.

Only six years ago, the United States and the Soviet Union were happy if they could throw a tiny satellite into any kind of an orbit with a simple Geiger counter aboard.

Now, both nations are launching satellites by the bundle and shifting them all over the skies to desired locations. Some have traveled with pinpoint accuracy to Mars, Venus and the moon — and have relayed pictures over millions of miles of space. Some have had over 400,000 parts, all of which operated flawlessly for months in the hostile new environment.

The Soviet Union launched the first two Sputniks in 1957, but during the next four years was able to place only 10 satellites in orbit.

The U.S. placed five satellites in orbit in 1958 and 10 in 1960 — but recorded more failures than successes.

The figures for 1965 are astounding, considering the relative youth of the space age. The United States last year sent 94 satellites into orbit around the earth and fired two to the moon and one into orbit about the sun. The Russians placed 66 in earth orbit and rocketed two to Venus, one of them striking the planet.

To date, the United States has sent more than 370 successful unmanned craft into space and the Soviet Union more than 170. In addition, the United States has launched 13 manned ships with a total of 20 astronauts, compared to eight ships and 11 Russian cosmonauts.

The majority of these unmanned satellites have been military ones — more than 200 by the United States and more than 90 by the Russians, according to U.S. experts.

America's military satellites are launched in secrecy from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif. Most are involved in photo reconnaissance of the Soviet Union, Red China and other areas of the globe. Others are used for navigation, mapping, policing the limited nuclear test-ban treaty and for experimenting with such things as satellite observation and inspection. Film and other gear usually is returned to earth for recovery after a week or so in space, accounting for the high launching rate.

Northern Woodlands Damaged By Moths

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — An estimated total of 100,000 or more acres of woodland in Northern New Jersey has been ravaged by moths this year, the State Agriculture Department reported.

An official said there was no explanation of the increased moth damage but added that they were known to build up in cycles.

Railroad's Tickets Counted Automatically

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Central Railroad has introduced an automatic ticket-collection system.

The system involves use of magnetically coded tickets which the line's 35,000 commuters insert into gate slots. It was designed by Litton Industries.

Scurry County Soil Tests Show Need For Fertilizer

For best results sidedress application of fertilizer should be made the first 4 to 6 weeks of growth of the crop. This is the opinion of most agronomists and soil chemists, according to Billy Roach, Scurry County Agent. Other considerations on sidedressing are (1) placing the fertilizer where young secondary roots will intercept nutrient band during early stages of growth, and (2) pay careful attention so that root pruning will be avoided.

The moisture that has been received over most of Scurry County and the good growing condition that exists, makes a sidedress application of fertilizer a factor that must be considered. Sidedress application of fertilizer has consistently resulted in increasing cotton yield of about a half a bale at the Lubbock Experiment Station. At the Lubbock Station researchers feel the fertilizer should be applied before July 15 for effective fertilizer use.

Side-dressing nitrogen should be timed with the development of the crop. If it is applied before squaring, it may affect maturity. In other years, sidedressing too late, that is after a number of young bolls have started growing, may be ineffective.

A soil test is by far the best method for determining fertilizer needs. In sandy type soils where organic matter is low and stalk growth is usually small, response to fertilizer application of around 20 pounds (dryland) have been good. Production of bale per acre cotton will use approximately 75 pounds of actual nitrogen. This figure should also be kept in mind when deciding amounts to be used.

Demonstrations on fertilization have been and are presently being conducted in Scurry County. Some results of past demonstrations are available and those being conducted now will be available soon after harvest this year.

Survives High Jump

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A girl plunged 230 feet off the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge Sunday night and was picked from the water 17 minutes later —alive and swimming.

"The water looked so warm, but it was so cold," the Coast Guard quoted Miss Loisa Adrianne Lewis, 18, of Oakland.

Dr. G. B. Kretchman at Highland Hospital in Oakland said there is no doubt she will live, adding that the girl had no visible injuries.

Only two other persons have survived a plunge from the bridge which was opened in 1936.

When she was rescued by seaman John Dennis of San Jose, Calif., who leaped from a Coast Guard cutter, the girl was swimming toward Oakland and was 300 yards south of the span in the choppy, cold water of San Francisco Bay.

Aircraft Engine Contract Increased

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The U.S. Army Aviation Materiel Command has increased by more than $16 million an aircraft - engine contract with AVCO of Stratford, Conn.

The modified contract, for UH1 helicopter engines, now provides for 459 engines at a cost of $22,107,483.

Baby Born To Widow Of Oswald

RICHARDSON, Tex. (AP)— Mrs. Marina Oswald Porter, widow of the man named by the Warren Commission as President Kennedy's assassin, gave birth to her third child Sunday, the Dallas Morning News said.

Mrs. Porter is the widow of Lee Harvey Oswald, the man the Warren Commission said assassinated President Kennedy in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

Mrs. Laura Reeder, administrator at Richardson General Hospital, told The Associated Press that "to the best of my knowledge" Mrs. Porter had never been a patient in the hospital.

The Dallas Morning News said today that Mrs. Porter, 24, gave birth to a six-pound, 12-ounce boy at 3:08 p.m. Sunday. The News said the baby was named Mark Wayne.

The accused assassin's widow and Kenneth J. Porter were married June 1, 1965, about 18 months after her husband was shot to death by Jack Ruby, operator of a Dallas night club.

It was her third child. She had two children by her first marriage, June, now 5, and Rachel, 3.

Porter recently quit his job with Texas Instruments, a Dallas area electronics firm. He has said he and his wife may move to Greenville, 60 miles northeast of Dallas, where he has relatives, after the baby was born.

Snyder Grad Reenlists

Jimmy Don Hardy, 27, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Hardy, who lives at 4616 52nd Street, Lubbock, with his wife Colette, and son Stephen, has reenlisted in the U.S. Air Force on June 29, 1966.

Enlisting under the prior service program, Jimmy chose to be assigned to the 1964th communications squadron, South Ruislip, Middlesex, England. After a short leave, he will report to Amarillo AFB, Texas for processing. Mrs. Hardy, a native of France, and their son Stephen, will join him in England at a later date.

Jimmy is a 1958 graudate of Snyder High School, and attended Arlington State College prior to entering the Air Force in 1961. He has been employed by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company of Lubbock.

Cleo Littleton, Wichita State University basketball player during 1950-54, set 11 individual school records that still stand.
