Troops Defied By Polish Strikers

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The blare of factory whistles shattered Poland's labor peace today as the 10 million-member Solidarity independent labor union staged a four-hour warning strike, defying Warsaw Pact troops and tanks maneuvering on the nation's borders.

"We don't want to overthrow the (Communist) party," national Solidarity leader Lech Walesa told striking workers at a steel mill near here. "We only want to get rid of the people putting the brakes on renewal."

Renewal is the word Poles have given to the economic and political reforms sought by Solidarity, the Communist bloc's first non-governmental trade union.

The strike began at 8 a.m. — 2 a.m. EST — and ended on schedule four hours later. But union officials have threatened a general — and open-ended — strike for next Tuesday if their demands are not met.

A Solidarity strike bulletin published today quoted Polish radio and television chief Stanislaw Balicki as saying the government was prepared for "30 days of strikes." It also quoted him as saying the government was ready to proclaim "a state of emergency," and that government leaders had told him the current Warsaw Pact maneuvers had been prolonged. It did not elaborate.

A Solidarity spokesman said workers walked off their jobs in the Silesia coal mines, at factories in Wroclaw, Jelenia Gora, Katowice and Lublin, and in the shipyards of Gdansk, flashpoint of last summer's labor protests. The spokesman could not say immediately what portion of the Solidarity membership participated.

The warning strike was the first since Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski became Poland's premier Feb. 10 and called for a 90-day respite from strikes. It was believed to be the largest coordinated labor protest in Communist Poland's 38-year history.

Poland's official news media reported the work stoppages without comment.

In Washington, officials were watching developments with new concern.

Solidarity leaders met at a Warsaw hotel to prepare for the expected resumption later today of negotiations postponed by the government Thursday. The talks are expected to focus on union grievances stemming from last week's beatings of farmers and unionists in Bydgoszcz.

Haig Limping After Run-In With Staffers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., described by one career diplomat as "limping pretty badly" after a run-in with powerful White House staffers, is avoiding questions about whether he will resign.

Haig joked about the episode Thursday and said he was "anxious to get on with the conduct of foreign policy."

But under questioning by reporters, he passed up an opportunity to declare that he has no intention of resigning.

Haig was meeting a few reporters for breakfast today and was sure to be quizzed further on the series of events before and after President Reagan designated Vice President George Bush as the government's crisis manager, a job Haig wanted.

"Somebody said I looked 'Bushed' this morning but I'm not sure what he meant," Haig told reporters Thursday as he showed up to testify at a Senate subcommittee.

Nine Foreign Students Attend Jamboree Here

Nine foreign exchange students are in Snyder for the weekend to get a taste of West Texas hospitality and culture during the Snyder American Field Service Jamboree. They are being hosted by students from Snyder High School while here.

The exchange students, all living in the Dallas Metropolitan area this year, arrived Thursday and were officially welcomed at a reception at the high school student center. After the reception they watched a one-act play and then went for pizza.

Today's plans were for the exchange students to attend school with the host students, to go bowling at 2 p.m. and to attend the SHS baseball game at 4 p.m.

After the game, the students will meet at Towle Park, weather permitting, for spring activities. Later tonight there will be a dance at the high school in honor of the visiting students.

Saturday morning, the local AFS chapter will host a brunch at The Shack at 10 a.m., after which the visitors will take a bus tour of the area.

Horseback riding is planned for Saturday afternoon. Eddie Williams, student council advisor, says that none of the visitors have ever been on a horse before and that they're looking forward to it.

Saturday night there will be a western barbecue and talent night at the Sellers ranch. Each of the exchange students will put on skits from their native countries.

The students will return to their host cities on Sunday.

Although there is no foreign exchange student in Snyder this year, Williams said that word passed through former students who had attended jamborees here before about what great fun they had, so this year's students asked to come here also. Snyder also had requests from other chapters.

Williams said that the foreign students come to Texas expecting a West Texas atmosphere and instead they go to a major metropolitan area. He added that the annual jamboree has developed into a highlight of the foreign exchange program here.

One of the purposes of the jamboree is to give Snyder students a chance to be exposed to people from different countries. It also gives the foreign students a chance to get together and compare experiences.

Visiting students and the SHS students hosting them this week-end are: Tore Kvam, Norway, hosted by Dow Mathis; Maja Pavlica, Yugoslavia, hosted by Dalinda Roberts; Paola Reduzzi, Italy, hosted by Carmen Trice; and Frederic Bonnin, France, hosted by Q.—What were the drugs Karen Ann Quinlan was taking along with alcohol that left her in a coma?

A.—Reports on tests at the time she was admitted to a hospital are said to have revealed aspirin and Valium, but only in what was described as "normal therapeutic" levels. There also was some reference to quinine, but this was attributed to gin and tonic which she reportedly had been drinking the night before. Otherwise, the cause of her condition remains a mystery. This information is contained in the book titled "Karen Ann," by her parents, Joseph and Julia Quinlan.

Hospital Rate Hikes Get Board Approval

Plans for opening the new wing at Cogdell Memorial Hosptial were discussed and new room rates were adopted last night by the hospital's board of managers.

A private room in the new wing will cost $98 per day, and a suite will cost $175 per day.

At the same time, rates for rooms in the older hospital building were increased. The rate for a semi-private room was hiked from $76 to $85 per day and the rate for a private room was increased from $80 to $90 per day.

The board had delayed action on the rates at their annual meeting in January in hopes of being able to determine how the new wing would affect operating costs. However, Cy Miller, hospital administrator, said several months of experience would be required before any firm figures could be obtained.

Carters To Visit Texas

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Former President Jimmy Carter and his wife will visit Austin next week at the invitation of Lady Bird Johnson, widow of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Betty Tilson, an aide to Mrs. Johnson, said the former president "wants to see what U.S. Park Service has done" with the ranch.

The Carters are scheduled to arrive in Austin Wednesday afternoon and go immediately to LBJ Ranch, 65 miles west of Austin, where they will spend the night.

Coal Mines Silent Today

By The Associated Press

Coal mines across Appalachia and the Midwest were silent today as 160,000 union miners went on strike, bowing to a long tradition of no contract, no work, even though their leaders have negotiated a tentative agreement with the industry.

United Mine Workers President Sam Church pinned his hopes for a short walkout on next week's ratification vote on the contract proposal. He predicted the settlement reached earlier this week would be approved in Tuesday's balloting by the rank and file, who mine about half the nation's coal, but acknowledged his work was cut out for him.

Boston Schools Need Money

BOSTON (AP) — A lot of the reading, writing and arithmetic in the nation's oldest school system is being done by officials trying to avoid a shutdown that could send 64,000 students home as early as next week.

In a hearing scheduled for today, state education officials were asking for a ruling from Suffolk Superior Court that would prevent the city from closing its schools when the $210 million budget runs out — which could be as soon as Monday.

State law says schoolchildren must have 180 school days, and state officials say the school year will be more than 50 short if schools close Monday. But City Auditor Newell Cook is refusing to allow the school system to overspend its $210 million budget. He says the school system is spending at a rate that would cost the city a total of $240 million to $250 million.

Keeping tab on our neighbors:

Among those in Carol Burnett's cheering section as she challenges the Enquirer in court is Tom E. Roy of the Ballinger Ledger.

"For years now, I have wondered why no one ever came forth to challenge the gossip rags which adorn checkout counters at grocery stores throughout the country," says Roy.

"Just reading the front page of these 'magazines' is enough to question the contents, and it seems incredible that a single weekly issue would be bought by five million people."

We also have wondered how they escaped challenge, but there may be an answer to Roy's last question. Those five million customers likely are people who complain that the more conventional media "print too much bad news."

For those who may be discouraged by blowing sand, Walter Buckel of the Lamesa Press-Reporter remembers when it was much worse.

"1952 was an unusual year," he recalls. "We had only 9.65 inches of rain during the year and it came following a sparse 9.80 in 1951. 1953 found only 8.01 inches of rainfall recorded. Only 67,000 bales of cotton were produced in '51 (a good crop in Dawson County is more than 200,000 bales), 50,000 in 1952 and 12,000 in 1953. In 1953, only 45,000 acres could be planted, it was so dry.

Bandit Strikes Armored Car

MONTREAL (AP) — The front door of the armored truck was unlocked, the keys were in the ignition and $2.4 million in cash and securities was stacked neatly in the back when the lone bandit struck. He hopped in, scared off a guard and drove off.

The guard and two others flagged a taxi and tried to give chase but couldn't keep up, police said. The dark blue armored truck was found in an east Montreal alley Thursday afternoon about an hour after it was taken — but the bandit and the loot were gone.

Constable Mario D'Arcy, a police spokesman, said investigators believe the thief must have had help emptying the truck, "because it was done so quickly." But authorities were unable to say whether the robbery was premeditated — and equally unable to report progress in tracking down the culprits.

Palette Club Opens 10th Annual Show

Snyder Palette Club's tenth annual art show starts tomorrow at 2 p.m. with 285 works of art on exhibit at the Coliseum. Viewing hours are from 2-9 p.m. Saturday and 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

Cash prizes will be awarded to the top three entries in each category: oils, pastels & graphics, watercolors and sculptures. A $300 prize will be awarded for sweepstakes — best in show.

Dr. Clarence E. Kincaid, professor of art at Texas Tech University, will judge the show. Dr. Kincaid is himself a watercolorist and several of his paintings are in various museums and private collections.

Republicans Cornered Into Unpopular Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats are forcing the Republican majority into the politically uncomfortable position of having to go on record time after time as favoring budget cuts in such popular programs as veterans' benefits.

Republicans would find it less painful to vote on President Reagan's proposed budget cuts — $36.4 billion for 1982 — as a single package.

But faced with a list of Democratic amendments to restore money to various programs, the majority Republicans are having to vote them down one by one to keep intact a three-year package of $87 billion in cuts the Senate Budget Committee is recommending.

The first in the series was a particularly sensitive one to beat back a Democratic attempt to restore $295 million of the $400 million Reagan wants to cut from veterans programs for 1982.

Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee called the 56-44 vote Thursday "the toughest vote we've had this year, and I expect the toughest vote we will have in the budget battle."

New Lions Club To Get Charter

A charter banquet for Sparkle City Lions club, Snyder's newest service organization, has been set for 7 p. m. Saturday at the Latin-American Center.

Principal speaker will be Marshall W. Cooper of White Face, District Governor of Lions District 2-T2. Cooper, who is the executive director of Girlstown U. S. A., also will preside at the signing of the charter for the new club and will present the charter to the club officers.

Several other Lions district officers are due to be here to participate in the charter night activities, and Howard Harrington of Snyder, past district governor, will give the welcoming address. Jack Cypert, president of the Snyder Lions club, will present gifts to the new club.

Leonides (Tiny) Vargas is president of the new Sparkle City Lions club. Other officers are Ruben Felan, first vice president; Humberto Molina, second vice president; Joe Hernandez, third vice president; Adam Rios, secretary-treasurer; Albert Zamora, tailtwister, and C. P. Alvarado, Lion tamer.

Directors include Gilbert Garcia, Tony Peralez, Luis Molina and Manurel Barrera.

logical priorities

The word is that the Reagan administration has asked Sen. Strom Thurmond (R-S.C.), new chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, to sidetrack certain hot social issues like abortion, school prayer and busing—in order to concentrate on economic issues like regulartory reform and a balanced budget.

We're not sure just how true this is, and we're sure that if an agreement exists it's of an informal nature. Some one-issue conservatives are apparently up in arms about Thurmond's apparent willingness to go along with this program. To us it seems like a prudent course.

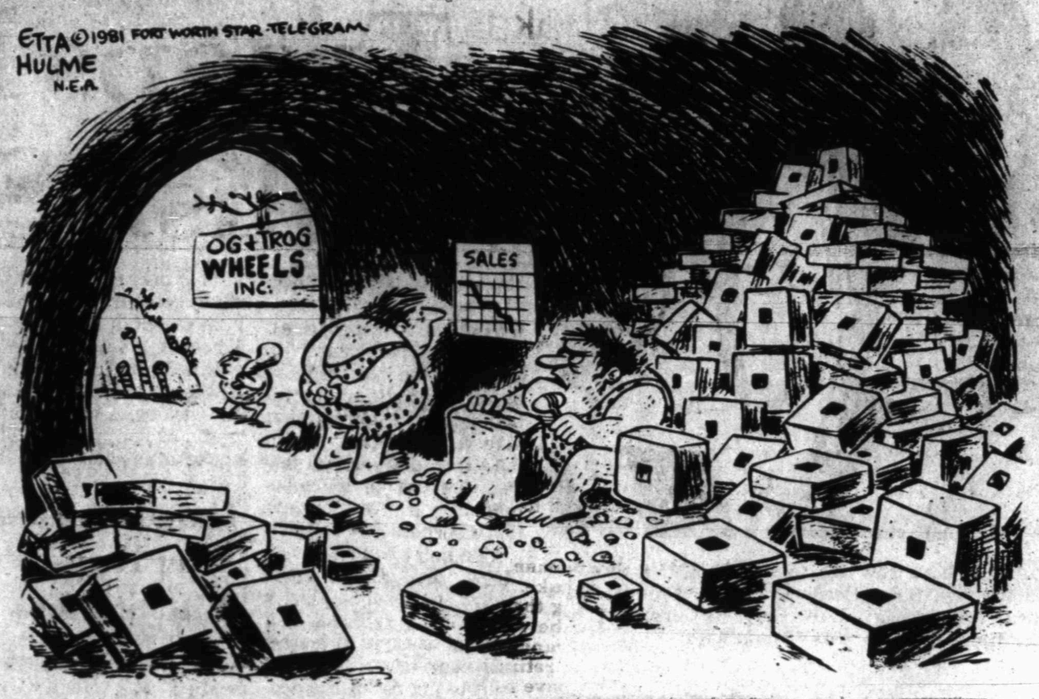
Insofar as Reagan received a mandate last November, it seems to us, it was to cut back the size, scope and intrusiveness of government—to try a different course than the social welfarism the United States has pursued, with various zigs and zags, for the last 50 years. While those concerned with social issues formed an important and passionate part of Reagan's coalition, they did not constitute a majority. Many of those who voted for Reagan were indifferent to or hostile to the positions held by those who want to pursue conservative social issues.

The overreaching face of American life at this juncture is that the economic system has reached a condition of stagnation, with the real standard of living on the decline for many people. Many either agreed with Reagan's contention that big government was a large contributing factor to this situation, or were willing to give him the chance to try his theories out. The unusual popular response to his budget-cutting proposals bears out this thesis.

On some of the social issues we're in agreement with the conservatives, on some we disagree, and on some we'd like to have more discussion. Busing, for example, seems clearly to be an experiment that has failed miserably. We're uneasy about prayers in government schools. Some items on the conservative agenda carry a disquieting connotation of using government to impose the morals of one group on another group.

At this time, however, it seems to us that the issue of restoring hope for prosperity by freeing the economic system from some of the arbitrary regulatory shackles and confiscatory tax burdens that afflict us, is paramount. If that problem can be addressed, there will be plenty of time to seek consensus or accomodation on other issues. If it isn't addressed, the other problems may become moot points as we slide into near-poverty.

If this is indeed Reagan's set of priorities, and he is acting as if it is, then it seems a prudent course.



"Of course our problem is productivity. What else could it be?"

woman's world

by rusty brown

Who would think that the computer would find its way into the bedroom?

But that's what may happen with a new electronic birth control device that can accomplish three great things for women:

—Tell us when we can get pregnant.

—Spare us unwanted pregnancies.

—Solve, once and for all, the hopeless rift between women about abortion.

The bedside solution is a computerized electronic sensor that records a woman's body temperature and flashes a green light when it's safe for sex.

A team of Florida and British scientists developed the sensor and named it (what else?) a sexometer. The name sounds like a joke, but its inventors seriously claim that it takes the guesswork out of birth control — for less than $40.

I'm counting on it for an additional bonanza. It could put an end to the irreconcilable differences, both political and religious, between two groups of women: those who call themselves pro-life and vigorously oppose abortion and those who call themselves pro-choice and defend abortion as an option.

In the eight years since the Supreme Court's right-to-abortion decision, it has pained me to see women pitted against women. Sadder still is that despite all the persuasive arguments for and against, all the protest marches and mass demonstrations, minds remain unchanged and feet are still firmly planted in ideological concrete.

As a reporter through the '70s, I often interviewed leaders on both sides of the abortion battle. Each time, I felt I wrote fairly. But each time, the opposing team cried "foul" and wrote letters of complaint to the editor.

The deeply-entrenched, smoldering feelings were certainly apparent in last fall's presidential campaign, when candidate Ronald Reagan was characterized as anti-abortion. And now, sensing a popular mandate, the pro-lifers are not wasting any time making gains and friends in high places. The Human Life Amendment, which would ban all abortions, was introduced in Congress within days of the inauguration.

A few weeks later, the Chicago United Way came under fire from the anti-abortion guard for giving financial support to Planned Parenthood.

Such attacks are heating up the battle anew.

In such an impasse, the only way to solve the unsolvable is with something that nullifies the issue. Could the sexometer be it?

It is a petite electronic thermometer (called a sensor) that a woman pops in her mouth each morning. The sensor transmits her body temperature to a miniature micro-chip computer that digests and stores the daily information.

I don't really undestand any of that, but I do know what a green light means, and that's what comes on during the "safe" period in a woman's cycle — the days she can't conceive.

The device has been proved 100 percent accurate on initial tests with 500 women. The first massive testing will begin in family-planning clinics in Britain this year as well as at research centers around the world.

While a sexometer costs $240 to manufacture now, it is expected to cost under $40 if mass produced. It is so small, by the way, that it can be built into a necklace or incorporated into a bedside alarm clock.

Dr. Heinz Wolff, one of the British scientists and a member of the contraception team for the World Health Organization, says the device was initially developed for Third World countries trying to thwart runaway population problems.

The sexometer could have equal significance for Roman Catholics and others strongly opposed to artificial birth control and abortion.

I suspect that it will take a while before women become enthusiastic about a computer in the bedroom. We are understandably skeptical of scientific birth-control breakthroughs. We remember when the pill came on as the bestest and the greatest.

Effective it was. But the worry over side effects eventually scared women off. Use of the pill, I'm told, has dropped 40 percent since 1975.

Some women have hoped that the solution to the abortion controversy will come with a resurgence of old values — a return to the days, if you will, when society smiled on virginity and abstinence and frowned on sex for fun and frolic.

It's not likely the clock can be turned back that far. I think I'll put my money on the sexometer instead. Its use eliminates all those risky side effects — unless, of course, the couple is color blind or can't wait for the green light.

my turn

by john dunnam

When I was a kid, we were always constructing tree houses, digging little underground "caves", or devising some kind of hideout Most of our projects were too elaborate to carry out, and now that I look back on them, totally impractical for anyone other than kids. Besides, none of us could speak a word of Chinese anyway.

I hadn't given these grand schemes much thought in my more mature years (ahem), but a book off the Bantam Press caught my eye the other day.

Called The Book Of Lists No. 2, it contains a host of trivia, including to mv fascination, "The 10 Most Exotic Properties For Sale".

Depending on what you consider paradise to be, the choices include a volcano, a lighthouse, a whole town (actually a former air force base), a rain forest, a houseboat and a nudist camp. Enough here for kids of all ages.

My second choice was the lighthouse. The price is a bit off my budget at $350,000, but it would be a heck of a place to get away from it all - and I do mean ALL.

Located a mile west of Oregon in the Pacific Ocean, it stands 138 feet high and was built in 1880. A fine year for lighthouses.

The thing has four bedrooms, a bathroom, fireplace, kitchen, storage and engine rooms and the walls are three-feet thick — an obvious plus if you have kids. You get around by hoofing up and down a 77-step spiral staircase (whew!).

The problem is getting to (or off of) this forgotten chunk of rock. According to the book, it's "practically inaccessible because of the high walls and treacherous seas...". Going out for a midnight snack would be a problem, but then again, you're not likely to be bothered by salesmen, bill collectors or thieves.

Not for the pessimistic is a volcano in Lanzarote, in the Canary Islands. At $195,000, this hopefully inactive and obviously uninsurable mammoth Zippo comes equipped with the remains of a two-room home and a some fruit trees - inside the cone, of course. The interior, which is reachable only by way of a long and winding little trail, is about the size of a football field.

Such a place has advantages. By banging on a piece of tin or switching on a recording of a jet taking off, you can easily solve the problem of relatives who overstay their visit.

If those don't suit you, don't lose faith, there are more. For example, you can pick up...

- a 1951 U.S. Air Force base located in north central Oregon which has "27 (so-called) modern homes, paved streets, sidewalks...a sewage system...two hobby shops, bowling lanes, movie theater, post office...library, bomb shelter, grocery store, restaurant, and kitchen" for $1.2 million. A great little place to start your own dictatorship.

- a houseboat on the Seine River near Paris, for $90,000. It includes a "small yard and a private walkway".

- a rain forest along the Caribbean coast of Costa Rica; 200 acres of "thick tropical hardwood jungle...". It gets about 300 inches of rain a year and is considerably less dusty than West Texas. Cost is $275,000.

- an abandoned missle base 100 miles north of San Francisco that is located UNDERNEATH 60 acres of land. Originally constructed for $125 million, they've taken out all the missle equipment and is a steal for $350,000.

- and of course the nudist camp, which was my first choice but which I am not at liberty to describe in a family newspaper. It's located in Jamacia and can be had for a trifling $560,000.

I wonder if they take Master-Charge?

letter to editor

To The Daily News:

Speaker Billy Clayton has introduced in the state legislature a constitutional amendment that would reimpose the state property tax at a rate of up to three cents per $100 valuation. This tax revenue would be dedicated to state college construction. With our present values (1980) this would cost the taxpayers of Scurry County approximately $71,000 in additionl taxes. We are facing increases in values causing even a greater amount of state tax if the amendment were approved.

Western Texas College would not be eligible for any of the funds. I strongly feel that the schools should get money from the general treasury thereby allowing the legislature to keep check on the construction and remodeling plans of the various institutions. Money from the state ad valorem tax has been in the past almost a "slush fund" for many projects. University of Texas at Arlington built a five million dollar football stadium out of the previou state tax money.

Let me urge you to contact our state Senator Ray Farabee and Representative Larry Don Shaw and oppose this constitutional amendment.

"It's time for us to rethink our ideas and ambitions — like the Democrats."

in washington

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The end justifies the means — even when the means include threats to life and property, intimidation, coercion, sabotage and other forms of violence.

That extraordinary philosophy has been embraced by the U.S. Supreme Court in a ruling that, in effect, exempts labor unions from prosecution under a federal statute that is supposed to prohibit any form of extortion in interstate commerce.

The 1946 law, known as the Hobbs Act, established a maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine and 20 years imprisonment for anyone who "in any way or degree obstructs, delays or affects commerce.... by robbery or extortion, or attempts to conspire to do so, or commits or threatens physical violence to any person or property...."

Although the intent of the law appears to be unmistakable, the Supreme Court carved a huge loophole in the statute when it handed down a 1973 decision in a case involving violence during a strike against a utility company.

The defendants, prosecuted under the Hobbs Act, were indicted on charges of firing high-powered rifles at electrical transformers, blowing up a transformer substation and draining oil from a transformer.

In a strained interpretation of the law's legislative history, the high court ruled a 5-4 that the prosecution was improper because "the act does not apply to the use of force to achieve legitimate labor ends."

At another point in its extraordnary decision, the Supreme Court emphasized that it could find no precedent to "uphold the theory that the act proscribes the use of force to achieve legitimate collective bargaining demands."

In other words, any action or conduct (notably "the use of force") is legal if it is undertaken in the name of officially sanctioned labor-union organizing efforts.

Only the labor movement's most zealous apologists would deny that violence, coercion and extortion are a serious problem within a number of unions.

"Organized crime in organized labor is probably the most serious problem in the criminal field today," one senior Justice Department official said several years ago. "I can name four national unions now in the hands of hoodlums."

One suggestion of the scope of the violence involved comes from the Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, which issues an annual report that classifies by motive all bombings and other incidents involving explosives.

In the "labor-related category (which includes employer as well as employee violence) the estimated value of property damage in 1978 and 1979, the most recent years for which information is available, totaled almost $4 million.

Efforts to close the unwarranted exemption granted by the Supreme Court through rewriting the law have been thwarted in Congress for years because the House and Senate have been controlled by Democrats unwilling to antagonize the unions that provide most of the financial support for their campaigns.

In 1979-80, for example, labor-affiliated organizations gave an estimated $10 million to $15 million in direct contributions to congressional candidates, most of them Democrats, and provided services valued at an additional $10 million to $15 million.

With the Senate and presidency now controlled by the Republicans, however, the time is right for such an initiative — and the appropriate legislation already has been introduced by Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and Rep. J. Kenneth Robinson, R-Va.

The most compelling rationale for passage of a new law comes from the man who was the principal sponsor of the original legislation, Rep. Samuel F. Hobbs, D-Ala., who explained its intent during earlier debate on the issue:

"This bill is grounded on the bedrock principle that crime is crime, no matter who commits it, and that robbery is robbery and extortion (is) extortion, whether or not the perpetrator has a union card."

Your Birthday

March 28, 1981

This coming year, you are likely to be far more ambitious than you have been in the past. This could be because of enterprises that you originate or conditions over which you have little control.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your behavior will be closely scrutinized today by your peers and associates, so be sure to put your best foot forward. Bad impressions will be hard to erase. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Even though you may feel your ideas or ways of doing things are superior, it's best you keep your thoughts to yourself today. Criticism creates problems.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be extremely careful in business and investment situations today. Don't buy anything or obligate yourself if you feel there is more you should know.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Relationships, both family and career, could cause you frustrations today if they are not handled diplomatically. Try to be cooperative.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may need help today to lessen some of your responsibilities. But if you are too demanding, others will put roadblocks in your path instead of offering assistance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Normally you're pretty good at managing your own resources as well as those of others, but today your talents may not be up to par. Meddling could prove costly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today and tomorrow, it would be wise to skirt issues on which you and your mate hold strong opposing views. It wouldn't take much to start a serious brouhaha.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If your attitude is negative today, it will reflect on everything you do. Even usually easy tasks could become distasteful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're entitled to enjoy yourself today, but be careful not to overindulge or spend too lavishly. Both areas carry penalties.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Putting too much emphasis on your self-interests will turn off people you may have to deal with today and greatly lessen your chances of getting what you want.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Beware of a tendency today to make snap judgments before you have all the facts. Your quick conclusions are apt to be anything but right.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is not a good day to either make loans or borrow. Be helpful to friends without having to dig into your purse.

Cancer Special To Air April First On Cable

A live cable television special on cancer, "Cancer Can Be Beat," is set to air April 1 for 7-8:30 p.m. on WTBS.

The 90 minute program will feature prominent cancer specialists in a talk-show format. Topics will cover the various aspects of cancer — from breast cancer to cancer in children and from advances in treatment to current directions in research.

The telecast will provide viewers with practical, up-to-date information on the disease.

"We hope that this cable television special will not only increase awareness about cancer, but help the people of Texas understand their personal role in detecting cancer early," said Donald C. Spencer, M.D., president of the Texas division of the American Cancer Society. The ACS and the National Cable Television Association are co-sponsors of the program.

Cancer specialists to be featured on the show include Dr. Edward F. Scanlon, president of the National ACS; Dr. Arthur I. Holleb, senior vice-president for medical affairs, ACS; Dr. Frank Rauscher, senior vice-president for research, ACS; Dr. Vincent DeVita, director of the National Cancer Institute; Dr. Shirley Lansky, pediatric psychologist with the University of Kansas Medical School; and Dr. William Cahan of Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York City.

Cancer patients, including those who have been cured and those still undergoing treatment, will also be featured. Former football Hall of Famer Otto Graham, 1980 recipient of the American Cancer Society's National Courage Award, will discuss his experiences with colorectal cancer.

Richard Loftus, a member of the National Cable Television Association Board of Directors and originator of the idea for the cancer awareness program, said that, "When the American Cancer Society first began in 1913, cancer was rarely spoken about. Only one cancer patient in five could hope to live. Today, one out of every three people who get cancer will live. The April 1 'Cancer Can Be Beat' program will contribute greatly to that awareness."

The program will originate from the Turner Broadcasting Studios in Atlanta and is expected to reach a national audience of approximately 15 million cable viewers via satellite.

Home Box Office will rerun the special to their subscribers on April 2, from 2:30 to 4 p.m.

Brownstone Advises On Cooking

DEAR CECILY: Does freezing affect the quality of meat? If I were to buy a prime or choice cut of meat and freeze it before cooking, would it taste as good as if it had been cooked immediately? — DOUBTING THOMAS.

DEAR DOUBTING THOM-AS: I favor food cooked in its fresh form. But I must admit I have been fooled. A friend who has fine taste buds and is an excellent cook regularly freezes and roasts prime ribs of beef (without previous thawing). When I first ate her roast beef with no prior knowledge of the freezing, I thought it as delicious as any of its kind I had ever tasted. I suspect some cooks are artful enough to accomplish this; you may want to try your luck. It is important to freeze meat while it's fresh and in top condition and to use moisture-and vapor-proof wrapping that will seal out air. It is also important to know recommendations for maximum freezer storage time. At zero degrees or lower, fresh beef will keep at least 6 months; fresh veal, 6 months; fresh pork, 3 months; fresh lamb, 6 months; ground beef, veal and lamb, 3 months; ground pork, 1 month; fresh pork sausage, 60 days. — C.B.

DEAR CECILY: Occasionally you and other food writers call for a small amount (say from 1 tablespoon to ¼ cup) of tomato paste in a recipe. As you know, tomato paste comes in 6-ounce cans and I am always puzzled about what to do with the leftover paste. I certainly don't want to throw it away, but I may not need to use it for weeks or even months. How do you suggest preserving it? — WASTE NOT, WANT NOT.

DEAR WASTE NOT, WANT NOT: I save baby-food jars and the smaller jars fancy preserves come in and use these for putting leftover tomato paste in my freezer in varying small amounts. This is both convenient and economical. — C.B.

DEAR CECILY: I used a recipe of yours for a cake that called for cake flour. The cake rose very high in the oven, then flopped after it was baked. I am wondering whether the baking powder you called for was responsible for this. I don't see why it was needed when cake flour has leavening in it. — PUZZLED.

DEAR PUZZLED: Apparently you are not aware that there are two kinds of cake flour: plain and self-rising. When a recipe calls for cake flour, the plain kind should be used along with whatever leavening is called for in the recipe. The leavening might be eggs alone, baking powder, baking soda, cream of tartar or combinations of these — it all depends on the type of cake being made. When self-rising cake flour is used in a recipe developed for plain cake flour and leavening is added, disasters such as yours usually occur. When one of these flours is substituted for the other, proper adjustments have to be made. — C.B.

B&PW Club Hears ProgramOn Travel

Business and Professional Women club members were shown an exhibit of European souvenirs and a travelogue at the Martha Ann Woman's Club recently.

Mrs. (Jimmy Merritt) Clarence Cummings narrated the itinerary of two tours to Greece, Turkey, Germany, Yugoslavia, Switzerland, Austria, England and Scotland.

Mr. and Mrs. Cummings visited their son who is in the Air Force, in 1972 and 1977. Mr. Cummings showed slides.

Besides the traditional tourist sites, the guest speakers were guests of friends in Athens and in Scotland.

Fay McCollum presided for the business meeting and heard a report from the book and bake sale held at the barn.

Mrs. Lee Weaver was hostess for the meeting.

Gilbreth Speaks At Kappa Club

Terry Gilbreth, Snyder Sculptor and former curator of the Diamond M Museum, presented a program at a recent meeting of Zeta Lambda Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society International.

The theme for the meeting was "Lamp of Beauty: Aesthetic Beauty in an Electronic World. Georgene Galloway gave the meditation — "Faith."

The meeting was at the home of Monette O'Day and hostesses were Vestal Manor, Delia McPherson, Carol Miller and Ms. O'Day.

Dear Abby

Doctor Chokes on His Own Medicine

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My husband just celebrated his 50th birthday. He's a physician who tells all his male patients who reach 50 to "slow down." If they smoke, he orders them to quit or cut down, but he's a two-pack-a-day man.

He puts all his overweight patients on diets, but he is considerably overweight himself and can't stay on a diet for two days. He insists that daily exercise is a must, but he doesn't exercise at all.

He says that an annual vacation away from one's daily work is essential to good health, but he hasn't had a vacation in six years. And this will floor you: He wants all his patients to have a thorough checkup every year, but the last one he had was 12 years ago. What's wrong with him, and how can I get through to him?

DOCTOR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: He's human. He finds advice much easier to give than to take. You can get through to him (maybe) by insisting that he consult a colleague for a checkup. And if he refuses, ask him to keep paying those life insurance premiums, so you and your next husband can retire in luxury. Cruel? Not really. Sometimes we have to be cruel to be kind.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine is marrying a minister. He plans to perform the marriage ceremony himself. He insists that since he is authorized to perform marriage ceremonies, there is no reason why he should not perform his own.

Somehow this doesn't seem right to me. Can you please find out if such a marriage would be legal in South Carolina? Thank you.

BRIDE'S FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: According to Robert N. DuRant, executive director of the South Carolina Bar:

"Only ministers of the gospel or accepted Jewish rabbis and officers authorized to administer oaths in this state are authorized to administer a marriage ceremony in this State.

"Complications could arise when one attempts his own wedding ceremony. To be strictly legal, one could avoid the question by having a third party perform the marriage ceremony."

DEAR ABBY: Why would a person laugh at his own jokes?

JOEY

DEAR JOEY: Maybe he just wants to make sure somebody laughs.

DEAR ABBY: You recently quoted G.K. Chesterton, who said, "The truly great person is the one who makes every person feel great."

May I share an anecdote that illustrates that point beautifully: In Queen Victoria's time, a young woman had the good fortune of being escorted to dinner by William E. Gladstone, who was considered one of the most brilliant statesmen of the 19th century. On the following evening, the same young lady was escorted by Benjamin Disraeli, novelist, statesman and twice prime minister of Great Britain.

When asked for her impression of these two great rivals, she replied, "After an evening with Gladstone, I thought he was the most brilliant man I'd ever met. After an evening with Disraeli, I thought myself to be the most fascinating woman in the world!"

Dr. Rhode Retires After 45 Years

COLORADO CITY—Dr. and Mrs. W.S. Rhode will be honored Sunday with a reception at the Charles C. Thompson Room of the City National Bank annex between the hours of 2 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Sunday has been proclaimed Dr. Bill Rhode Day here by Mayor Elmer Martin. The public is invited to attend the reception.

Dr. Rhode started his practice in Colorado City in 1936 and has said that at one point he delivered from 100 to 200 babies a year. He prefers the designation of "Dr. Bill," possibly because his brother, also a physician, practiced in Colorado City too until his retirement in 1965. He was known as Dr. Oscar.

During Dr. Bill's 45 years of residence and practice in Colorado City he has also been active in many community concerns.

He has served as a director of the City National Bank since 1937, is a past president of the Chamber of Commerce and was a member of the industrial team, to name a few activities.

The Rhode's are also being honored with a special day of recognition at their home church, First United Methodist, where the family has been very active in years past.

One of the first things an aspiring bridge player learns is to return his partner's suit. It is mighty good general practice, but there is no need to overdo it. Once in a while you will do better to strike on your own.

Take today's hand as an example. You sit East and your partner opens the deuce of spades. You take your ace and South follows with the three. If you lead back a spade, declarer will attack diamonds. He will lose a finesse of his jack to your queen, but will proceed to romp off with nine tricks.

There is no need for this to happen to you. You can proceed on your own and lead a low heart. All your partner needs for you to establish your heart suit is to hold three to the king or the queen. You lead your heart, West produces the king and leads a small heart back. You must take your ace right away. Don't make a mistake and duck. If you do, South might cash his black suit winners and throw you in with your ace to make you lead away from your queen of diamonds.

You are sure to get in with that card. Just make sure you can't be made to lead from it.

Quinn Gets "Annie" Role

NEW YORK (AP) — Move over, Shirley Temple. Here comes Aileen Quinn, a talented 9-year-old who beat out 8,000 other girls for the title role of "Annie" in the movie version of the Broadway play.

Currently living in Yardley, Pa., Aileen caught the acting bug about two years ago when she accompanied her mother to a tryout for "Annie Get Your Gun" at a local community theater.

"When I was 7 my mom used to go for auditions," said Aileen. "One day I asked her if I could try out, too. She said 'You can't sing. You've never had any lessons.' But I said 'Yes, I can. I picked it up from you when you'd sing around the house.'

"Well," said Aileen, pausing for emphasis, "when we went to the audition, I got the part and she didn't."

D.M. COGDELL MEMORIAL HOSPITAL
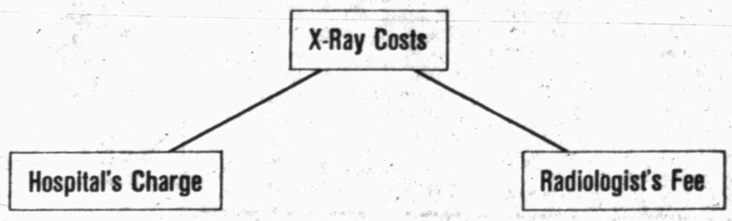
SNYDER RADIOLOGIST INCORPORATION
ARE ANNOUNCING SEPARATE BILLING
EFFECTIVE FROM APRIL 1st, 1981
WHY THE RADIOLOGIST'S BILL IS SEPARATE FROM THE HOSPITAL BILL



The radiologist is a private physician specializing in the use of x-rays and radioactive substances used in medial diagnosis and therapy. Your physician requested the services of the radiologist in interpreting the results of your recent examination in the X-ray Department.

With some examinations, the radiologist was personally involved in the examination. If you had only films made, your personal contact may have been solely with the technologist. Once the films were made and checked, they were presented to the radiologist for his interpretation, as well as his written and oral consultation with your physician.

The hospital bill will include a charge for x-ray to cover the use of its equipment, the films, supplies, and technical personnel. The bill from the radiologist is for his professional consultative services.

Ad Campaign Staged By Moral Majority

NEW YORK (AP) — The Moral Majority, depicted as a threat to the Bill of Rights in some liberal circles, has mounted an advertising campaign to defend itself against what it says are "fear tactics" by pornographers, secular humanists and abortionists.

The ads, which appeared earlier this week in The Wall Street Journal, The New York Times, the Washington Post and a number of Virginia newspapers, take aim at television producer Norman Lear, former Sen. George McGovern, the American Civil Liberties Union, Playboy and Penthouse magazines and "others who "continually attack the philosophies and programs" of similar movements.

"There are misunderstandings in the public mind as to what our objectives were," said Ronald S. Godwin, vice president and operations chief of the conservative group, based in Lynchburg, Va. "This ad becomes something of a position statement."

The ad begins with the headline: "They have labeled Moral Majority the Extreme Right because we speak out against Extreme Wrong!"

The Moral Majority is not, the ad says, a censorship organization, anti-Semitic or a religious group trying to control the government.

"While we do not agree that the Equal Rights Amendment would ultimately benefit the cause of women in America, we do agree with their right to boycott those states that have not ratified the amendment," the ad says.

"Likewise, we feel that all Americans have the right to refuse to purchase products from manufacturers whose advertising dollars support publications and television programming which violate their own moralist code."

The Moral Majority is a member of the Coalition for Better Television, which announced plans this month to monitor TV programming and seek boycotts of sponsors whose shows contain what the group considers to be too much sex, violence or profanity.

Godwin describes the organization as "a special interest group" that claims the allegiance of about 2½ million people. The ad says the group includes "72,000 ministers, priests and rabbis, who are deeply concerned about the moral decline of our nation and who are sick and tired of the way many amoral and secular humanists and other liberals are destroying the traditional family and moral values on which our nation was built."

To the ACLU, the Moral Majority is "dangerously deceptive."

Earlier this year, that civil rights organization mounted its own ad campaign against right-wing groups beneath the headline: "If the Moral Majority has its way, you'd better start praying."

"We went to the heart of their public relations hoax with our ad," said Ira Glasser, executive director of the ACLU. "I think that burned them. They don't command a majority of people. People aren't willing to have the government tell them where and when to pray and how to conduct their private sexual life and what they can read.

"They've felt rather defensive about some of their more bizarre positions, as well they might," he said. "But what exactly do they stand for? What they seem to be doing is disavowing everything they're doing while they're still doing it.

"They are opposing a whole set of American values and the Bill of Rights, and they're embarrassed by it now," he said. "Whether you agree with the Moral Majority or not, they do not represent a return to traditionalism but an overthrow because the American tradition is the Bill of Rights.".

In its ads, the Moral Majority stresses it believes in the freedoms of speech, religion and press.

Revival Set At Fluvanna

FLUVANNA—A revival meeting is scheduled to begin Sunday and continue through April 5 at the Fluvanna Baptist Church.

The visiting evangelist will be the Rev. Bill Coffman, pastor of First Baptist Church in Crestview, Fla.

Prior to accepting the pastorate there, Rev. Coffman was a missionary to Costa Rica and The Dominican Republic.

Directing music for the revival will be Mike Holmes of Ira.

Services will be held at 7:30 p. m. each night throughout the week.

The public is invited to attend all services. The Rev. Ray Cunningham is pastor of the Fluvanna church.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Substitute kitchen power

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Some time ago you had a column on weight control. You said that you could do a lot to decrease your calories and still have plenty to eat if you just ate the right foods.

Well, what are the right foods? I have never been very successful with a diet because I cut down for the diet and then when I am off the diet I gain all the weight back again. I'm a real yo-yo.

This time I thought I would try to prepare foods I really like but use only those that were not high in calories. If I do that and exercise regularly, perhaps I can stand to diet and stay slim forever.

DEAR READER — You can certainly avoid regaining your excess pounds of fat if you stay with a sensible diet and exercise program.

Yes, you can have a fine balanced diet and have enough food to be satisfied if you follow some basic principles in food preparation.

The underlying principle is to eliminate all the fat you can in food preparation. Fat is the major source of calories. If that isn't enough, eliminate all the concentrated sweets you can.

Finally, learn that many foods are low in calories because they contain lots of water. That includes lean meat, fresh vegetables and most raw fruits.

The methods to use are outlined in The Health Letter number 9-12, Kitchen Power for Weight Control, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

For the meat group, use only very lean meat. For poultry, use white meat and take the skin off. Use the low-fat fish such as sole but avoid salmon and sardines. Never fry. Bake, boil or broil. Cut away all visible fat.

When cooking a roast, take it out about two-thirds along and remove the fat from the drippings by cooling. Then return and complete the roasting process. The relatively fat-free juices make good meat sauces.

Use nonfat dry milk powder for milk in cooking. Use non fat milk for beverages. About half the calories in whole milk are from fat. If you follow a good routine, you can substitute kitchen power for willpower.

DEAR DR. LAMB — When the body lactic acid is too high, resulting in muscular aches, how can it be lowered? The person involved is allergic to milk products so doesn't eat or drink them.

DEAR READER — I wonder if you have lactose, the double sugar in milk, confused with lactic acid. Lactose is a combination of glucose and galactose found only in milk from lactation.

Lactic acid is an intermediate compound in the process of breaking down glucose. If your working muscle does not have enough oxygen, it will still metabolize glucose to a point by forming lactic acid. This enables your muscles to get energy from glucose without using oxygen.

This usually occurs during vigorous exercise when the work exceeds the circulation to the working muscle. When the lactic-acid level gets too high, the person has muscular fatigue.

With rest, the circulation catches up with the oxygen needs, and the lactic acid is further metabolized, lowering its level. Rest is usually all that is needed. Physical training decreases the tendency to build up lactic acid with exercise.

In Krugerrand Scheme...

Couple Released From Testifying

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — An Amarillo man and his wife, suspected in a Krugerrand counterfeiting scheme, were excused from testifying before a federal grand jury after they promised to plead the Fifth Amendment to every question.

Sidney James Heard, 38, and his wife, Suzanne, were released from a grand jury subpoena, an assistant U.S. attorney confirmed, but said prosecutors were able to get other evidence from the couple.

"There is no testimony involved, so the Fifth cannot be invoked in the matter of handwriting samples, fingerprints, and photographs," the prosecutor said.

Heard remains free on bond on five state criminal charges.

He faces two counts of theft in Harris County after being accused of manufacturing lead-centered gold plated fake Krugerrands. Authorities recovered 300 Krugerrands and several gold bars.

Heard also faces two counts of possession of controlled substances in Randall County and a charge of conspiracy to commit arson in Lubbock County.

Federal investigators are looking into as many as 29 fires throughout the state, including 15 in Amarillo. The alleged arson ring is also believed to have operated in Lubbock, Dallas and Tyler.

President, Laborer Indicted

BIG SPRING, Texas (AP) — An oil company president and a laborer accused of swindling a Dallas-based company out of $425,000 were indicted for theft by a county grand jury here.

The Howard County grand jury indicted D.C. "Butch" Wheeler, president of Jaco Oil Co. of Midland, and John Thedford Sims, a pumper for Jaco, on one count each of theft over $10,000.

They are charged with selling the same tank of oil to Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. several times without ever delivering it.

A Cosden official would be shown the tank full of crude oil adjacent to a Cosden pipeline and approve the sale, then pumps would be turned on to transfer the oil, but would be shut down as soon as the Cosden man left, investigators said.

The alleged thefts involved 12,500 barrels of crude oil and occurred over a period of months on the W.D. Currie lease south of Big Spring.

The two men were arrested Jan. 5 at the lease.

Wheeler and Sims have been free on $20,000 bonds since their arrests.

Senior Bowlers Receive Honors

Carl Foree, Emma Huffman, Cliff Ramsey and Lou Wiman took top honors in a bowling tournament sponsored by the Scurry County Senior Center Wednesday morning.

Sixteen bowlers competed in the tourney, coordinated by Jean Smith in conjunction with Snyder Lanes. Mrs. Smith, activity director, was presented a plaque in appreciation for her efforts by those participating in the tournament.

High bowlers were Foree and Mrs. Huffman. Ramsey and Mrs. Wiman were high handicap winners. Others participating in the tournament were Ray Summers, Jewel Summers, Pete Glass, Marvin Gary, Verdie Kimbro, Keith Martin, John Wiman, Emmitt Askins, Joe Glass, Jimmy Black, Val Benton and Bill Hart.

Ellen Edwards, Billie Pippen, Brenda Lee and Gloria Shaw served as scorekeepers.

The Senior Center sponsors bowling for individuals age 60 and over each Monday at 9:15 a.m. at Snyder Lanes. All interested individuals are invited to attend.

Helen Wagner Quits Soaper

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Helen Wagner, who has been on the CBS soap opera "As the World Turns" since it began in 1956, will leave the show when her contract expires at the end of this month, according to her husband-manager.

"She was offered a renewal, but they cut her part down to less than nothing and just wanted her to wait around in the wings," Robert Willey was quoted as saying in Thursday's Daily News.

Ms. Wagner, 62, has been playing the part of Nancy Hughes. Don MacLaughlin, the only other original cast member, plays her husband, Chris.

Willey said that the soap opera is now "emphasizing the younger generation."

House OKs Bill Setting Floating 24% Interest

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Interest rates on almost every kind of loan, except home mortgages, could "float" as high as 24 percent under a bill that passed the Texas House.

An 84-51 vote Thursday sent the bill to the Senate, where the sponsor thinks the House may have put the maximum interest rate too low for today's torrid money market.

The bill started out with a 30 percent limit but the House trimmed it to 24 percent Wednesday night.

"It seems ridiculous to me to pass a bill that would leave a ceiling that would preclude some people who need to borrow money from being able to do so," said Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, the Senate sponsor.

House sponsor Bill Messer, D-Belton, said the bill would go a long way toward providing lenders an incentive to make loans.

"You can go home and tell your constituents, 'We faced up to today's economic realities in the United States of America. We are going to allow money to be available to you,' " Messer told the House.

"There ain't no way I can borrow the kind of money you're talking about," replied Rep. Al Edwards, D-Houston.

The bill governs interest rates on department store installment sales and credit card unpaid balances as well as loans by banks, credit unions, savings and loan associations and consumer finance companies.

Except for consumer finance companies, the bill replaces a hodge-podge of rates that run as low as 7.5 percent with a single legal maximum on what lenders can charge.

The ceiling would be tied to the six-month U.S. Treasury bill rate. When the rate is as low as 9 percent, the ceiling would be 18 percent. But when the T-bill rate is higher — as it is now — the ceiling would be twice the T-bill rate, up to a limit of 24 percent.

Messer insists the ceiling would be 18 percent "in most economic times."

Consumer finance company rates would remain as they are, but brackets in which they can be charged would be adjusted for inflation.

That would mean a lender could charge $18 per $100 on loans up to $750 instead of on loans up to $300.

Rep. Paul Elizondo, D-San Antonio, came close to taking bank credit cards out of the bill.

Commissioner Quitting To Avoid Prosecution

DALLAS (AP) — A commissioner in a Northeast Texas county has agreed to resign to avoid prosecution in a U.S. Justice Department kickback investigation that may result in indictments for as many as 50 county politicians, The Associated Press has learned.

The investigation has involved close examination of county road and bridge fund records and could result in indictments for 50 current or former members of county commissions in 16 Northeast Texas counties, the AP was told.

Some of the kickbacks reportedly were paid as long as six years ago and involved sales representatives trying to sell their products and equipment to county governments.

One county judge, who demanded that his name not be used, said one of the four commissioners in his county has agreed to repay money received in a kickback scheme and step down rather than face prosecution.

"From what I understand, it (the resignation) is imminent," the judge said.

The Texas investigation grew out of a continuing federal operation that reportedly involves investigation of as many as 100 county officials in 40 Oklahoma counties and has resulted in 18 indictments against county officials in Arkansas, sources told the AP.

The investigation is shrouded in secrecy. Of several county officials who talked to The Associated Press, only one would let his name be used.

However, the Dallas Morning News said today in a copyright story that an Arlington vendor, who had reportedly been paying off officials in Bowie County, began cooperating with federal agents after some of his dealings were tape-recorded.

At that, the man agreed to turn government informant and admitted paying off more than a dozen East Texas commissioners, unidentified sources told the News.

One county official told the AP federal authorities are looking primarily for purchases from three materials companies — two in Texas and one in Oklahoma.

Commissioners all over East Texas have been notified of pending indictments, probably from a federal grand jury scheduled to convene April 7 in Tyler.

Several county officials said FBI agents hit the county auditor's office in Bowie County about a year ago and in Red River and Titus counties within the past few weeks.

"From what they were asking it seemed they were interested in seeing records of the road and bridge funds," a county judge said.

"They (FBI agents) came in to check our records," said Paul Boggs, Titus County auditor. "They indicated to us that they were assigned (to the investigation) by a U.S. attorney in Tyler."

However, U.S. Attorney John Hannah of Tyler said Thursday that he could "neither confirm nor deny" that the investigation was going on.

"We had no idea what they were looking for. I asked questions to see if I could speed up their work, but they just told me who the assignment came from," Boggs added.

The 1980 census included questions that were intended to provide additional information on race, energy use, housing, the disabled and commuting patterns.

Enquirer Verdict Evens The Score

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Carol Burnett says her $1.6 million victory in a libel suit against the National Enquirer "evens the score" and may teach the popular tabloid a lesson, but its editors say they don't plan to change editorial policy.

Miss Burnett, who sat in court throughout the trial, covered her face and began to cry when the jury announced its verdict Thursday.

"If they had given me a dollar plus carfare, I would have been happy," she said. "It was the principle. I feel like I've been pregnant for five years, and the baby is beautiful."

The verdict also cheered other celebrities who have suits pending against the weekly.

"Yippee!" said Jeff Wald, husband-manager of singer Helen Reddy, who is suing the Enquirer.

"I'm delighted for anyone who is attacked by publications like the Enquirer," said "Tonight Show" host Johnny Carson, whose televised attack against the Enquirer for an item about his marriage prompted the dismissal of two jurors. Carson said he would not file suit.

The suit, which began in 1976 after the Enquirer reported that Miss Burnett acted boisterously at a Washington restaurant, ended when a jury that deliberated for more than 13 hours awarded Miss Burnett $300,000 in damages and $1.3 million in punitive damages.

The suit originally sought $10 million, but in closing arguments her attorney urged the jury to award the popular entertainer $1.5 million — the Enquirer's estimated net profit for a year.

Federal Level Cuts To Affect State Spending

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas legislators need to cut $2.5 billion from state spending the next two years to cover the loss of federal funds under President Ronald Reagan's austerity program, Gov. Bill Clements says.

"We have to reorder our priorities and get off this 'letter to Santa Claus' basis and look at what we can reasonably expect from Washington," he told a news conference Thursday.

Clements said Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Bill Clayton were "in agreement."

Texas will lose about half its usual federal funds, or about $2.5 billion, the next two years, the governor said.

"Instead of increasing our biennial appropriations by 20 per cent, we may have to make-do with a 10 percent increase," Clements said. "We may have to hold our 1982-83 budget to $23.5 billion instead of the $26 billion we had anticipated would be available in revenue during the next two years.

"I repeat that we are not talking about cutting the present state budget, but rather reducing the amount of the anticipated increase ..."

He said Comptroller Bob Bullock considers federal funds when estimating the state's income for the next two years.

"I plan to talk with Comptroller Bullock the next few days about this new development, and I think there is a likelihood he may decrease the revenue estimates he has made," Clements said.

Bullock said later he saw no need to reduce the state's revenue estimate "just because the governor thinks it's a good idea."

Bullock said he would be glad to meet the governor "to hear him out on why I should reduce by estimate because I don't recall having met with him since January, but I'm not going to be panicked into a wholesale revision of the estimate on the basis of some rumor floating around Washington."

Clements said he had no suggestions where the cuts should be made.

"I am just saying it is the responsibility of the Legislature to look at these programs and I think the legislators are pefectly capable of making these cuts," Clements said.

Clements added he is "totally in favor of Mr. Reagan's program of budget economy, and it is obvious the U.S. House and Senate are also but just how it will come out we do not know."

Clements also said:

— "I am absolutely opposed to a special session for this purpose. I want the Legislature to address it now."

— "There will be no new taxes. We are not going to have a tax increase. We are going to reduce the budget."

— "I have thought about a one-year appropriation bill but have discarded the idea. History tells us it does not work very well. However, it is still an open option."

Says Soviets Fading

HOUSTON (AP) — As long as the United States threatens to play its "China card," the threat of a Soviet retaliation is weakened, says Pulitzer Prize winning journalist Harrison Salisbury.

The American preoccupation over increased Soviet military mobilization in the past decade has been misdirected, Salisbury told a Rice University audience Thursday.

"We think it is mobilized against us, but it's not," he said. "There is no Communist advance over the world. It's a dying duck. Today, the walls of Moscow are much more likely to come tumbling down than the walls of Washington, unless we beat them down ourselves."

Salisbury, a former New York Times editor and author of 22 books, said the United States should "use the threat of using alliance (with China) to get concessions from Russia we might not have gotten otherwise."

Former Daniel Maid Testifies In Hearing

MICHAEL A. LUTZ
Associated Press Writer

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — Bailiff Will Autrey, moving spryly for his 76 years, got his man — and woman — while a former maid for Price Daniel Jr. testified Vickie Daniel once told her she would be "like a wild animal" if Daniel ever cornered her.

Autrey served subpoenas on two Houston television reporters and Delorise Elliott testified Thursday, two elements in the bizarre child-custody suit filed by Daniel's sister, Jean Daniel Murph, who is trying to gain custody of Mrs. Daniel's two children from her marriage to the former Texas House Speaker.

Mrs. Daniel, charged with murder in the Jan. 19 fatal shooting of her husband, has pleaded innocent, claiming Daniel beat and threatened her.

Miss Elliott, 32, who did maid work for Daniel over a 10-year period that included his stormy, four-year marriage to Vickie Daniel, said Mrs. Daniel often discusssed her relationship with Daniel.

"She told me if Price ever backed her in a corner she would be like a wild animal ... " Miss Elliott testified.

Under questioning by Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, Mrs. Daniel's attorney, Miss Elliott said Mrs. Danniel was discourteous to her on several occasions, one when Daniel gave her a car radio.

"She told me I should take it because I was Price Daniel's most loyal and faithful servant," Miss Elliott said.

Haynes reminded Miss Elliott she was testifying in a lawsuit to wrest custody of Mrs. Daniel's children, "and you came here to help that woman (Mrs. Murph) to take away Vickie Daniel's children, didn't you?"

"Yes, sir," Miss Elliott replied.

The principals for both sides in the case walked icily into the courtroom Thursday morning, apparently still angered by television coverage Wednesday night when Mrs. Murph went to pick up Mrs. Daniel's children for a court-ordered visit.

Camera crews for KPRC-TV and KTRK-TV taped Franklin Baldwin Daniel, 3, crying and screaming, "I don't want to go! I don't want to go!" as Mrs. Murph tried to take the child from his mother's arms.

Elma Barerra of KTRK-TV and KPRC-TV's Bob Nicholas were subpoenaed to appear today, bringing edited and unedited videotape of the incident. Both reporters were granted continuances, however, until Monday.

Autrey emerged from the district clerk's office with two subpoenas in his hand about midafternoon. He caught Nicholas as the reporter descended a stairway.

"Hold it, Bob," Autrey said, handing Nicholas the papers.

Autrey said a Liberty County deputy, located Ms. Barerra in nearby Dayton and served her subpoena. "The harder they try to get away, the harder I try to get 'em," Autrey smiled.

The reporters said they had gone to the home of Mrs. Daniel's sister in Baytown to get tape of Mrs. Daniel and her two children, Franklin and Marion Price Daniel IV, 1.

Advocates Ending Air Board Sooner

NEW YORK (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board should be dismantled by the end of this year — four years ahead of schedule, Frank Borman, president of Eastern Airlines, said recently.

Borman told a Wings Club group here the regulatory body should be "sunsetted" earlier because of the changed domestic environment resulting from airline-industry deregulation.

bills will go up and that other expenses will increase, but we have no way of knowing how much," Miller said.

The board also granted pay increases to personnel at its January meeting, which will increase demands for revenue this year.

Opening of the new wing will be the first time for the local hospital to have suites available. These will include some extra facilities as well as sitting rooms adjoining the patient rooms and other amenities. It was noted that one hospital in an area city has a rate of $225 per day for similar facilities.

"Ours will be considerably nicer than theirs," Miller declared, as the board finally agreed on the $175 per day rate for the suites here.

April 19 is the tentative date set for "open house" in the new wing.

Plans are being made to begin moving patients into the new facility the following day. However, Miller said the schedule for the intervening period would have to be maintained without interruption to get everything ready for the April 19 open house date.

Charged With Felony Theft

Gina Sumruld was arrested Thursday by Snyder Police and charged with felony theft.

She has been charged with the theft of $320 from Skinny's convenience store at 37th St. and Ave. E. She was an employee of the store.

She was transferred from the city jail to the county jail where she remained this morning. Officers said she was on probation from a forgery conviction earlier and that no bond had been set.

Bowling Bag Reported Taken

Police are investigating a theft that took place Thursday at Snyder Lanes. Troy Hall of 3742 Ave. V reported that his bowling bag, containing ball, shoes and wrist band were taken. Total value of the items was given as $130. The report was received at 9:49 p.m.

North Commits With Hurricane

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Coach Nolan Richardson, who led the University of Tulsa to the National Invitation Tournament basketball championship this week, will get another player from Western Texas College.

Chuck North, 6-foot-5 forward at Western Texas, where Richardson coached previously, has committed to sign a national letter of intent with Tulsa, assistant coach Andy Stoglin said.

North, named second team all-Region and first team all-conference, led Western Texas in points, rebounds and assists last season. Under Coach Larry Dunaway, North averaged 19 points, 7.1 rebounds and 5.8 assists. He was Most Valuable Player of the Crippled Children's Classic in Oklahoma and was an all-tourney selection in the ABC Tournament in Big Spring.

He carried a 4.0 grade point average at WTC.

A native of West Covina, Calif., North will fill one of four scholarships Tulsa is offering this year and probably will be the only junior college transfer.

When Richardson came to Tulsa this season he brought four Western Texas players who formed the hub of his team in winning the NIT Wednesday night in New York.

Hawks Fire Coach Brown

ATLANTA (AP) - It was like the end of a 30-year marriage, Atlanta Hawks President Mike Gearon said of the decision to fire Hubie Brown as coach of the National Basketball Association team.

"Hubie has been with us five years," Gearon said in making the announcement Thursday. "In terms of NBA coaching longevity, that's like a 30-year marriage."

Gearon's official statement on the firing went like this: "The board met today and reached a unanimous decision to replace Brown as head coach of the Hawks... I think it would be more accurate to say Hubie was relieved of his coaching duties."

Little more than two months earlier, Gearon had said, "Hubie Brown is our coach, period...He has three more years on his contract, plus an option year."

The meeting followed Brown's flirtation with the New Jersey Nets, a team that was ready to offer the New Jersey native a lavish five-year contract, published reports said then.

One source inside the Hawks organization said if the firing hadn't taken place, at least five players would have requested to be traded during the off season. Brown was sometimes a volatile coach, arguing at times with officials, players and even fans.

Brown's record was 199-208 with the Hawks. Included were three straight playoff appearances, and last season the Hawks won the Central Division title.

Assistant Coach Mike Fratello became acting coach with the Brown firing.

Baseball Today At 4

Snyder baseball squad was to open District 2-AAAA competition here at 4 today against Fort Stockton.

The Tigers, 8-5, then travel to meet non-district foe Levelland a 1 p.m. Saturday, and stay on the road for a 4 p.m. game with loop rival Monahans on March 31.

Tony Degrate was expected to start on the hill for Snyder today.

Golfers Back In Action

MONAHANS -- Snyder varsity golf team was to compete in the second boys District 2-AAAA golf tournament at 11 a.m. here this morning.

The Tigers went into the tourney in 10th place after last week's meet, held in Fort Stockton.

Andrews led the standings with a 313, 11 strokes in front of preseason favorite Lamesa, 324. Third was Fort Stockton with a 325, followed by Sweetwater, Monahans and Pecos.

Other scheduled meets are at Sweetwater on April 3 and at Andrews on April 10.

No Cinderellas Left In NCAA

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Only the strong survive in the NCAA Basketball Championships, and the teams that made it here for the Final Four festivities will be playing to their strengths in Saturday's semifinals.

"There are no more Cinderellas," said Louisiana State Coach Dale Brown. "This is the best Final Four that I can remember. Indiana, Virginia, North Carolina and us - all four are potential national champions."

But only one will wear the crown following Monday night's title game. The Final Four will be pared to two Saturday when fourth-ranked LSU, 31-3, takes on ninth-rated Indiana, 24-9, and fifth-ranked Virginia, 28-3, meets Atlantic Coast Conference rival North Carolina, 28-7 and ranked sixth.

The four clubs went through one-hour workouts at the Spectrum today in preparation for Saturday's doubleheader.

Although this has been a tournament of surprises, most notably the second-round massacre that saw top-ranked DePaul, No. 2 Oregon State and No. 3 Arizona State fall by the wayside, don't expect any surprise strategy in the semifinals.

"We're 31-3 and we've done certain things to get us here," said Jordy Hultberg, an aide to LSU Coach Brown. "We'd be foolish to change now. We're going to go out and do what we do best, and the other teams will try to do what they do best."

What LSU does best is score in an up-tempo game. The Tigers' 80.2 scoring average is the best among the Final Four teams. But Brown is confident that LSU can win even if the pace is deliberate, pointing out that the Tigers have won 29 of their last 35 games that were decided by seven points or less.

But when it comes to discipline, the coach that comes to mind is Indiana's Bobby Knight.

"The mental is to the physical as four is to one," said Knight, when asked about the balance of winning basketball. "That holds true in tournament play more than at any other time during the season."

Knight's teams have a history of getting stronger as the season wears on, reaping the benefit of his disciplined approach to the game. Knight holds a 14-4 record in NCAA tournament play and led the Hoosiers to the title in 1976. Knight's record in the last 10 games of the regular season, plus postseason competition, is a remarkable 81-19.

This year's Hoosiers were only 7-5 at one stage after losing to Clemson and Pan American on consecutive nights in the Rainbow Classic. But they have come on strong, posting a 17-4 mark since.

Since Virginia and North Carolina already have met twice during the regular season, it's doubtful they'd be able to surprise each other if they tried.

"There's not much scouting to do," agreed Virginia star Jeff Lamp. "They're very competitive and we've had two tough games with them."

Virginia rallied to beat North Carolina in both regular season meetings, fighting back from deficits of 13 and 16 points. But the Tar Heels have won 10 of their last 11 games - the lone defeat being a one-pointer at Duke - and figure to be even tougher on Saturday.

"Because Virginia won the two other games, I'm picking North Carolina this time. It's tough to beat a club three times," said Brigham Young Coach Frank Arnold, whose team was beaten by Virginia in the final of the East Regional.

The focus in this game is expected to be up front.

Cole Announces His Retirement

DALLAS (AP) — Veteran defensive tackle Larry Cole returned to Texas Stadium today, this time to put the wraps on his colorful 13-year career with the Dallas Cowboys.

The 6-4, 250-pound Cole, 35, called a news conference for 12:30 p.m. at the site of some of his fondest memories, including a game-winning touchdown against the Washington Redskins last season.

Cole had hinted at the end of the 1980 campaign that he'd retire to devote full attention to his home building company, but he had made that threat before.

"My wife has been referring to this as my fifth last season," he joked. Today, his retirement becomes official.

A native of Granite Falls, Minn., he came to the Cowboys in 1968 as a 16th-round draft choice from the University of Hawaii after helping the school to its first winning season in half a century.

In his 13 years with the Cowboys, Cole played in 26 playoff games, an NFL record, and played in five Super Bowls. He played every position in the Dallas defensive front four and was called upon to fill the shoes of Ed "Too Tall" Jones, who retired for a year to pursue a pro boxing career.

After Jones came back last year, Cole moved back to defensive tackle, where he started ahead of former Baltimore all-pro John Dutton.

Landry described Cole last season as "indispensable," and it was clear that Cole could have returned for another season if he wanted to.

Dutton said Cole's departure will mean more playing time for him, "but I'm going to really miss him. We got pretty close in the past couple of years, and he taught me a great deal."

Sampson Named Player Of Year

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Ralph Sampson, 7-foot-4 center who led Virginia to the NCAA Final Four this year, today was named recipient of the Adolph F. Rupp Trophy as The Associated Press' 1980-81 college basketball Player of the Year.

Sampson, a first-team All-American, was only the fourth sophomore to be voted the player of the year by the news service's panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

The others were Mark Aguirre of DePaul last season and two UCLA players, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, then Lew Alcindor, in 1967 and Bill Walton in 1972. Alcindor went on to win the award again in his senior year and Walton won for a second time in his junior year.

Sampson was unable to attend the presentation of the Rupp Trophy, sponsored by the Commonwealth Athletic Club of Kentucky, because of Virginia's travel plans for the NCAA tournament. He and his teammates were scheduled to meet Atlantic Coast Conference rival North Carolina in the semifinals of the tournament on Saturday.

The AP also announced today that Ralph Miller of Oregon State University had been named the college basketball Coach of the Year by the same panel.

Sampson received 26 votes from a nationwide panel of 62 sports writers and broadcasters. Aguirre, a junior forward who probably will turn professional next season, was second with 19½ votes. Brigham Young guard Danny Ainge, a senior, was third with six votes, and Oregon State center Steve Johnson received 4½ votes for fourth.

The Special Olympics Telethon will be held March 28th, 4:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. on Abilene's KTAB TV Channel 32. The goal for this year's telethon is $8,000.00. Snyder has 38 Special Olympians that will benefit from this year's telethon. They participate in track and field, bowling, swimming and basketball.

Pledges can be called in to 573-0961. Donations can be mailed to 302 32nd, Snyder, Texas 79549.

Athletes will participate in the Area 14 Track and Field Meet April 3rd at Abilene Christian University. May 24-26 they will attend the State Meet at the University of Texas in Austin.
