Angry Over Reaction. . .

Begin Scraps U. S. Pact

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin, furious over the U.S. reaction to Israel's annexation of the Golan Heights, scrapped the new strategic pact with the United States and said the Jewish state can live without it.

"You have no right to punish Israel," Begin told U.S. Ambassador Samuel Lewis on Sunday. "What kind of talk is this, punishing Israel? Are we your vassal state? Are we a banana republic? Are we 14-year-old boys who get their fingers slapped when they don't behave?"

Lewis was summoned to Begin's residence two days after President Reagan suspended talks on implementing the strategic agreement spelled out in a memorandum of understanding signed Nov. 30.

"The people of Israel have lived 3,700 years without a memorandum of understanding with America, and will continue another 3,700 years to live without it," Begin said. "In our view, this is the cancellation of the memorandum."

It was Begin's most emotional and bitter attack on the United States and the latest feud in steadily worsening relations between the two nations.

Begin's statement was later endorsed by the entire Cabinet.

The United States had also shown its displeasure at last Monday's annexation of the occupied Syrian plateau by delaying purchase of $200 million in Israeli weapons and voting with the entire U.N. Security Council to declare Israel's action null and void.

Begin hinted the U.S. policy toward Israel was tinged with anti-Semitism. He said withholding U.S. purchases of Israeli weapons was an attempt to "hit us in our pocket," a familiar theme of anti-Semitic propaganda.

In Washington, Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. said Begin's action did not affect the close relationship between the two countries, calling it a "a difference among good friends."

"Nothing is changed," said Haig, interviewed on CBS television's "Face the Nation." "I'm very optimistic that today's storm clouds will pass."

But Haig said Reagan suspended the strategic agreement to show Israel it does not have "a blank check from the United States for its conduct."

The agreement called for joint air and naval wargames in the eastern Mediterranean.

IRS Awaits Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service is awaiting word from the Supreme Court on whether it overstepped the Constitution by banning tax exemptions for private schools that discriminate against black students on religious grounds.

The IRS has cited racial discrimination as the basis for revoking more than 100 exemptions and denying tax-exempt status to an unspecified number of other private schools over the past 11 years.

But of those seeking tax-exempt status — at least five other cases are pending in U.S. Tax Court — the only two which specifically have cited religious beliefs as the basis for their racial policies are Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C., and the Goldsboro Christian Schools in Goldsboro, N.C., the IRS says.

Man Unearth After 140 Days

KILLEEN, Texas (AP) — A man who claims a record for spending 140 days buried in a plywood coffin quipped, "Just let me live long enough to get a drink," as he climbed out of the box that had been home since July.

"Next time I hope I'm dead," commented "Country Bill" White, when asked whether he would repeat his stunt.

White, 47, a country-western singer from Arlington, was buried July 31 in a box measuring 3 feet by 3 feet by 6 feet that was set beneath the National Hall, a country-western nightclub.

He emerged at 7 p.m. CST Saturday, blinking in the light of television cameras.

White says he has spent about two years underground during his 60 burials in 17 years. In June 1978, he set a record by living underground for 134 days, two hours and 53 minutes in the backyard of a radio station in New Bedford, Mass.

Infant Death Rate High

WASHINGTON (AP) — The infant mortality rate in the District of Columbia, already the nation's highest because of the large proportion of poor people here, may go even higher because of federal budget cuts, health specialists say.

American babies will continue to die in other poor urban and rural areas as well until the nation provides their parents, particularly pregnant women, with better living conditions, experts say.

"The problem is not totally medical," said Dr. Arthur H. Hoyte, assistant chancellor of community affairs at Georgetown University Medical Center. "It's a social problem as well as a health one. Houses and good nutrition do more (to help babies live) than all the doctors in the world."

Lisa Alexeyeva Joins Husband

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Liza Alexeyeva is celebrating a reunion with her husband and worrying about the fate of the couple whose hunger strike made it possible, Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov and his wife, Yelena Bonner.

"There are hundreds of prisoners of conscience serving their terms in the prison camps, and Sakharov is still in his illegal exile, and we still do not know what awaits him," Miss Alexeyeva said Sunday after the joyful reunion with her husband, Alexei Semyonov, the son of Mrs. Bonner by a previous marriage.

"I came to the United States of America to stay here," the 26-year-old woman said after flying from Moscow to Paris and Boston. She and her 25-year-old husband are staying in Newton at the home of Semyonov's sister.

The young couple last saw each other nearly four years ago as sweethearts when Semyonov was forced out of the Soviet Union and came to the United States. Last June they were married by proxy in Montana, which has a law allowing such marriages.

The Soviet Union repeatedly denied Miss Alexeyeva an exit visa to join her husband, but relented after Sakharov and his wife staged a 17-day hunger strike from Sakharov's place of exile, the Soviet city of Gorky.

Won't Be Part Of The Conflict....

Poland's Ambassador Defects To America

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying he won't be part of a government waging war against its people, Poland's U.S. ambassador has defected to the United States and is being protected at an undisclosed location.

"The cruel night of darkness and silence has spread over my country," Ambassador Romuald Spasowski, 61, said in a dramatic and emotional appearance before reporters at the State Department Sunday.

"I cannot be silent," he said. "I cannot have any association...with the authorities responsible for this brutality and inhumanity."

Spasowski said his action was an "expression of solidarity" with Lech Walesa, the leader of the Solidarity free trade movement in Poland.

He vowed the Polish people "will never give up" and declared arrests won't succeed in suppressing the drive for freedom. "Nobody can put in prison 36 million people and make them slaves in the very center of Europe."

The Polish government, meanwhile, said in a Warsaw Radio broadcast that Spasowski "has been suffering for some time from periodic states of depression, and in this connection has been recalled and asked to return to Poland."

The late evening news broadcast, monitored in Vienna, Austria, did not report any of Spasowski's statement in Washington. While saying that the ambassador "has turned to the American government for political asylum," Warsaw Radio added that "not all circumstances" of the defection had been explained, but were being investigated.

President Reagan granted political asylum to Spasowski, his wife, Wanda, and their daughter and son-in-law. Spasowski described himself as Poland's most senior diplomat; he served as ambassador to the United States twice, from 1955 to 1961 and from April 1978 until his defection.

After Spasowski read his statement to reporters and a nationwide television audience, security agents took him to an undisclosed location where he will be protected against possible reprisals.

State Department officials could not cite a previous instance in which an ambassador to the United States has defected, although Afghanistan's ambassador to the United Nations defected in 1979 after Soviet troops moved into that country.

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., who first disclosed Spasowski's defection on CBS' "Face the Nation" on Sunday, said there were reports other Polish diplomats also might seek asylum.

If It Leads Opposition...

Communists Threaten Move Against Church

By The Associated Press

Roman Catholic priests reportedly have been beaten and arrested in Poland, and Communist Party sources say the government has threatened to move against the church if it leads opposition to military rule, according to uncensored dispatches from Poland.

Church sources said Sunday that priests were attacked in the cities of Wroclaw and Gdansk, where the church has been heavily involved with the now-banned independent labor federation Solidarity. There were no details of the incidents.

In other developments:

—Solidarity leader Lech Walesa, who has refused to cooperate with authorities since he was detained, has reportedly been moved from a government guesthouse near Warsaw, probably to general staff headquarters in the capital, after his whereabouts became known.

—Poland's ambassador to the United States, 61-year-old Romuald Spasowski, was granted political asylum in Washington after defecting Sunday to protest the detainment "by force" of Walesa.

—The Soviet news agency Tass today abruptly dropped a report, repeatedly carried by Radio Moscow's foreign broadcast Sunday, that 1,300 people were trapped in the Katowice region's Ziemovit mine after unionists blew up an exit. Tass reported today that Solidarity extremists were trying to cause "disorders" but all mining industries were working normally. A Soviet source in Moscow said Polish farmers were defying the martial law regime, withholding tons of food from market.

—East Germany's ADN news agency said rail and truck convoys of milk and other relief supplies were rolling into Poland today, while a Warsaw Radio broadcast monitored in London said close to 20,000 civilians joined troops to clear tracks of a heavy snowfall.

—Swedish radio quoted "reliable sources" as saying a list was compiled of 200 people killed since martial law was declared eight days ago. Roman Catholic Church sources said they verified the names of 1,100 people detained but estimated as many as 40,000 may actually be held. Solidarity sources said the government has claimed 2,600 people are under arrest and say they assume the number is of those who face longterm jailings.

—The official Polish radio reported acts of sabotage by factory workers and authorities today said the sprawling Gdansk shipyards and port installations in Gdynia and Sopot will be closed until after the holidays. A Foreign Ministry official in Warsaw reported a stand-off between workers occupying an acetylene bottling works and troops in Gdansk.

Independent reports from Poland reaching the West could not be confirmed because normal communications links with the country were severed by martial law authorities. Western reporters' dispatches from Poland are restricted and subject to censorship.

Egypt Complains In Words Only

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Hosni Mubarak has loudly condemned Israel's annexation of the Syrian Golan Heights, but he has limited his reaction to words because he doesn't want that to jeopardize the planned Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai.

Western diplomats predict Mubarak's verbal criticism of the Jewish state won't be harsh enough to cause a major rift in Egyptian-Israeli relations.

The Israelis captured the Golan Heights from Syria in the 1967 war. They also occupied the Gaza Strip, the Sinai peninsula, the West Bank of the Jordan River and Arab East Jerusalem. The strategic Golan plateau overlooks numerous Israeli towns and farming cooperatives in the northern Galilee, frequent targets of Syrian shelling before the 1967 conflict.

Every day since Israel's Dec. 14 decision to annex the Golan, the semi-official Egyptian press has given prominent display to articles on the subject quoting Murbarak, officials in his government and spokesmen for other political institutions.

But Western diplomatic sources say Egypt doesn't want to provoke Israel into delaying its scheduled withdrawal from the last third of the Sinai, completing return of the entire peninsula to Egypt.

Budgetary...

Constraints Shaped New Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of the farm bill that President Reagan demanded and Congress grudgingly approved agree with opponents that it was dictated not so much by the concerns of agriculture as by budgetary constraints.

Little more than a continuation of the farm program that has evolved over the last 50 years, it is legislation that some suggest amounts to nothing more than old solutions for problems that need a fresh approach.

"I profoundly hope that the provisions before us are not the last statements on the future of American farmers and ranchers," said Rep. Thomas Foley, D-Wash., a former House Agriculture Committee chairman whose reluctant support of the farm bill was pivotal to its two-vote winning House margin.

Over the years the government has tried to increase lagging farm income by bolstering market prices. But now some economists believe farmers are more threatened by instability in the marketplace then by lagging income.

Considering the plight of the overall economy and the severe effect it has had on farmers, Agriculture Secretary John Block said the new $11 billion commodity price support package serves Reagan's plan for a leaner federal budget that will drive inflation and interest rates down.

At the same time Block said it provides the income safety net needed for financially troubled farmers to keep adequate supplies of low-cost food flowing to consumers.

But the bill's critics are calling it "The Family Farm Liquidation Act," saying it provides neither the financial backing farmers need to stay afloat nor the incentives required to garner their participation in government efforts to stabilize the supply of food with the demand.

Those on both sides, however, seem to agree that the cost of the four-year farm bill, not the philosophy behind it, was the issue dominating the nine-month debate.

"Circumstances in 1981 did not permit the Congress to address the problems facing agriculture in a meaningful way," said Rep. Ed Jones, D-Tenn., a House Agriculture subcommittee chairman and veteran of previous price support battles.

The administration's budget pressure on Congress effectively sent commodity interests scurrying to salvage what they could of the program approved in 1977. They generally wound up with modest increases in those price support levels.

Two Children Killed In Shotgun Blast

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Police say two young boys were shot to death as they stood in a doorway watching a woman and her boyfriend struggle with a shotgun during a quarrel.

A 33-year-old laborer was arrested and held on $20,000 bond in connection with the Saturday night shootings.

Police said the boys, Brandon Irving, 2, and Lemans Green, 5, were hit by a single blast of a 12-gauge shotgun as they stood in a bedroom doorway watching Lemans' mother and her boyfried struggle with a gun.

Police said the man came to the apartment he shared with Dorothy Green, threatening to kill her. Witnesses said the argument concerned money.

Mrs. Green had been baby-sitting her sister's child, Brandon, the night of the shooting, officials said.

Police said the youngsters, who were dressed for bed, apparently heard the fighting and walked to the adults' bedroom.

"A shot was released and killed them both as they stood in the doorway," said Fort Worth police spokesman Bill Hess.

He said the shotgun blast hit Lemans in the side and Brandon in the groin.

Witnesses said Mrs. Green and the man ran out of the apartment, each carrying a dying child. They placed the children on the sidewalk and waited for ambulances to arrive.

paul harvey

One gunshot makes more noise than a thousand prayers; it is not more important.

Though news media compete for attention with horror stories and other-party politicians run scared from the next election, I do not recall any Christmastime in our nation's history when we have been bleeding less.

If skyjackers in bunches have been cluttering foreign skies, American skies have never ever been safer.

The sickness which most threatens the economies of the world is worth-less money. Our shrinkage last month was the least in 15 months. Inflation in the United States this year will be the lowest in three years. The fever has broken!

Americans are taking home more income than any year ever and paying less taxes on it than any year in many.

If money is tight, interest rates are coming down.

If houses are hard to buy, they are nonetheless selling for less than even one month ago.

If gasoline is expensive, Americans are driving more miles on less of it; 1½ billion miles this year on 11 percent less fuel.

If there is still some waste, mismanagement and fraud in government, this administration has just corrected $3.5 billion worth of it.

Auto Workers union leaders, recognizing that foreign workers are producing more car for the money, are negotiating for less—so that Detroit can compete again.

Ford workers at four plants have already accepted less than their contract calls for.

Not all that we call progress is; this is:

The average American can now expect to live 73.8 years; longer than ever before.

And all he or she has to do is to get past the vulnerable first year of life and behave himself—to live to enjoy a healthy, active hundred years.

Any misuse of drugs notwithstanding, the proper use of drugs saves more lives every day.

If milk subsidies remain a burden, what other country in the history of the world ever had such a delightful problem as "too much food!"

Battling creeping obesity

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I wish you would help me with my problem in maintaining my weight. I weigh about 159 and I'm 5 feet 10. About two months ago I weighed about 153. Slowly but surely I am gaining weight. I would like to stay at about 150 to 155. I really don't eat anything that would be fattening, but I don't seem to be able to lose any weight.

DEAR READER — It sounds like you are on your way to developing creeping obesity, the gradual increase that eventually leaves one considerably overweight.

You have not told me much about yourself but you need to know that many people have decreased amounts of muscle as they get older. That is not because muscles change size with age so much as it is that people quit doing the things that maintain muscle size and strength. They exercise less vigorously. When that happens a person uses fewer calories even at rest and creeping obesity begins.

One of the best ways to avoid creeping obesity is to increase your activity level. I like a well-rounded program that includes some strength exercises to maintain your muscle size. Also, I recommend that you use daily walking, jogging or running to use a small amount of calories every day. Almost everyone can walk a short distance. Start slowly if you are not a walker and build up to walking at least two miles a day. I prefer for people to walk four miles a day if time permits.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 18-4, Walking To Health, which discusses the advantages and calories used by walking. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to that shows 100 hands from actual play over the last 50 years. It is a great book for anyone who wants to learn play and defense.

Alan: "The first hand in the book is from a match between a Culbertson team and a British team back in 1933. Both declarers played dummy's king of clubs at trick one and ruffed the second club. Each declarer cashed the heart ace; entered dummy with the king of diamonds; discarded two diamonds on the ace-king of spades, led a diamond to the ace and tried to ruff the jack of diamonds. Unfortunately, both Wests produced the eight of trumps. It was remarked that the diamond finesse was on, but no one seemed to notice the proper play."

Oswald: "There was no reason to waste the king of clubs. Then when the second club was ruffed, East would be forced to hold the club ace. Now declarer would run all his trumps to come down to a five card ending. West would have to hold three spades, East the ace of clubs. A diamond to the king and the play of the ace-king of spades would force East to come down to one diamond and South would make the last two tricks with the ace-jack of diamonds."

Slaves far outnumbered the free population in ancient Roman society, according to the Academic American Encylopedia. Plutarch notes in his diaries that on a single day in 167 B.C., 150,000 slaves were sold in one Roman market.

Oswald: "Derek Rimington, who is a computer expert first and a bridge expert second, has long been one of the very nicest bridge players. He has finally written a book called 'Learn bridge from the experts' me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

A 150-pound person walking a mile at a rate of between two and four miles an hour will use about 60 calories more than if he were sitting still that same period of time. Since there are 3,500 calories in a pound of body fat, if you walk four miles a day you will use the number of calories in about a half pound of fat each week. Unless you begin to eat more, that should do a lot to help prevent creeping obesity.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I had a tubal ligation two years ago. Since then I have remarried. My husband knew when he married me that I had had the operation. We have heard there is a 50-50 chance of the operation being reversed successfully. We've talked about it and have decided that if this is true I would have it reversed and try to get pregnant. Can the operation be reversed and, if so, who should we talk to about it?

DEAR READER — In some cases the tubal ligation operation can be reversed. Figures and techniques vary but in some series one out of four women who have had the reversal operation have gotten pregnant afterward.

It makes a lot of difference what kind of tubal ligation operation you have had. The old-fashioned operation is the easiest to reverse as the tube is not destroyed; the ends just are cut and tied. Newer methods that electrically coagulate the tube sometimes destroy a large section of it. Your gynecologist will be able to advise you what your individual chances are, and will either be able to do the surgery himself or refer you to a colleague who does such operations.

Dear Abby

Charity Shouldn't Begin In Gift-Giver's Home

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: If I get another one of those "Christmas cards" stating that instead of a Christmas gift, a gift in my name has been sent to such-and-such a charity, I will blow my top!

What is so generous about taking a gift from one person in order to give to another? I give to charities myself and do not need anyone contributing to the charity of his choice in my name. People who inform their friends that they are giving to charity instead of sending Christmas gifts are either too cheap or too lazy to do both.

DISGUSTED WITH SELFISHNESS

DEAR DISGUSTED: Now let's hear it from another reader who also resents the "gift-in-your-name" type of giving:

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing to complain about the presumptuousness of people who make a donation to their favorite charity and call it a Christmas present to me!

In the first place, maybe I'm not all that excited about saving the whales or the poor of Pakistan or Bangladesh — I'd prefer helping the poor American Indians, or the NAACP, or my local rape crisis center.

If my friends really want to give me a gift, let them send me a check to forward to my favorite charity!

FED UP IN FULLERTON

DEAR ABBY: My boss gave a "6:30 to 8:30" Christmas cocktail party for about 60 people at his home. He had invited 14 of those guests to stay for dinner. (I had been invited to both.)

When it was time for dinner, the host wanted to get rid of the cocktail crowd, so he flashed the lights off and on several times as a signal that the cocktail party was over!

I thought that was in poor taste. Isn't there a more subtle way to break up a party?

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: There is no subtle way to break up a party. The gracious host patiently allows a party to die a natural death.

DEAR ABBY: As a physician, deputy coroner and licensed medical examiner, I applaud your suggestion that the members of the parole board should get the same penalty as the paroled murderer should he commit murder again.

Abby, I examined the body of a 5-year-old-girl who had been raped repeatedly by an adult male, then stabbed to death. I've seen the battered body of an elderly woman who had been robbed, raped and beaten while she was praying in church. Recently, a young police officer was shot to death by a convicted murderer who was free on parole. The officer left a wife, pregnant with their first child. I think the widow should sue the members of the parole board for the support of herself and her child. In my opinion, they were as responsible for her husband's death as the man who pulled the trigger.

I have suggested to lawyers and judges that if the members of the parole board were held responsible for the actions of those whom they parole, they wouldn't be so quick to return murderers to society. Some agree, but others insist that no one would be willing to serve on a parole board under such circumstances. This is not true. I would be willing!

I urge you, Dear Abby, to use your influence to establish the legislation to make this possible. I would be happy to assist you. Please withhold my name.

Young's Book Is Oddball Adventure

HALFWAY AROUND THE WORLD: An Improbable Journey. By Gavin Young. Random House. 473 Pages. $16.50.

Those who enjoy oddball adventure by armchair should be captivated by "Halfway Around the World."

Author Gavin Young, a veteran British newsman, decided to try to make his way around the world by sea the hard way — that is, by port-hopping on any kind of craft that would take him aboard.

He finally managed the first half of his journey, from Piraeus, Greece, to Canton, China, but it was a real struggle. The trip took seven months and required 23 wildly assorted ships, from dinky Arab dhows to ferries, tramp steamers, oil tankers and ancient sailing boats.

Some nearly sank in storms, one caught fire, one was infested with gangs of cutthroats, and pirates boarded another in the Sulu Sea. Young was in peril of his life on several occasions, and endured some of the worst food ever ingested by man.

At times the book gets overly wordy and somewhat boring as Young veers into reminiscences not particularly germane to the story at hand. Occasionally, too, the narrative is slowed to a near-halt by inconsequential details. However, these probably are minor quibbles.

Young evidently plans a sequel to recount a similar trip for his return home.

Diet facts & fallacies
These nutritional tips brought to you by DIET CENTER

Have you ever noticed how it just seems impossible to stop with just one Christmas cookie? Have you ever wondered why? The secret lies in what those desserts are made of—refined sugar.

Diet Center believes that refined sugars play a direct role in making those cookies so irresistible. Have you ever noticed that foods high in refined sugar give you a quick pick-me-up? What few people realize, however, is that refined sugar plays havoc with your blood sugar level by first skyrocketing it up and then plunging it down. A vicious cycle results with your body eventually craving more sugar each time you eat something with refined sugar in it.

Diet Center emphasizes the importance of keeping your blood sugar level constant. Avoid those foods high in refined sugar. Diet Center recommends that you keep a basket of fresh fruit on your table this holiday season. Every time you feel the urge for something "sweet," take an apple or orange instead.

Giants And Jets In Super Bowl?

by The Associated Press

New York Jets quarterback Richard Todd was envisioning the perfect matchup, at least from his point of view, in Super Bowl XVI at the Silverdome in Pontiac, Mich.

"It would be nice to meet the Giants," Todd said, "but I don't know if this town could take it."

The Jets went a long way toward clearing up the National Football League's playoff picture Sunday by beating the Green Bay Packers 28-3. They earned themselves an AFC wild card berth and handed the Giants an NFC wild card.

The Giants, who defeated Dallas 13-10 in overtime Saturday, finished the season 9-7, one game ahead of Green Bay, the only other team in contention for the NFC's final wild card berth.

Tampa Bay also earned itself a spot in the playoffs, winning 20-17 at Detroit to claim its second NFC Central Division title in three years with a 9-7 record. Detroit, like Green Bay, finished at 8-8.

In fact, the only playoff spot left open after Sunday's games was the one which goes to the AFC Western Division winner. Denver could have clinched that, but the Broncos lost at Chicago, 35-24, dropping their record to 10-6.

San Diego, 9-6, plays host to Oakland tonight and could win the division by beating the Raiders. Although Denver and San Diego would both wind up 10-6, the Chargers would prevail with a better division record.

The Jets will be participating in their first playoff since 1969, and it will be the Giants' first since 1963. Oddly enough, this is the first time both teams have finished better than .500 in the same season.

Miami won the AFC Eastern Division with an 11-4-1 record, while both AFC wild card teams — the Jets, 10-5-1, and Buffalo, 10-6 — also came from the East. Cincinnati won the Central Division with a 12-4 mark, claiming the home-field advantage throughout the AFC playoffs with the best conference record.

In the NFC, the division winners were Dallas, 12-4, in the East; Tampa Bay, 9-7, in the Central, and San Francisco 13-3, in the West. The wild cards were the Giants, 9-7, and Philadelphia, 10-6, both from the East. The 49ers earned the NFC's home field advantage.

The rest of Sunday's scores: Cincinnati 30, Atlanta 28; San Francisco 21, New Orleans 17; Philadelphia 38, St. Louis 0; Houston 21, Pittsburgh 20; Washington 30, Los Angeles 7; Seattle 42, Cleveland 21; Kansas City 19, Minnesota 6, and Baltimore 23, New England 21. In Saturday's other game, Miami defeated Buffalo 16-6.

By virtue of their better records, Philadelphia hosts the Giants and the Jets host Buffalo in the wild-card playoffs next Sunday. The Jets start at noon EST, the Eagles at 3:30 p.m.

The first round of the conference playoffs were scheduled for the weekend of Jan. 2-3. Tampa Bay travels to Dallas and San Francisco hosts the wild-card winner in the NFC. Either Denver or San Diego travels to Miami, and Cincinnati entertains the wild-card winner in the AFC. Specific times and dates for the matchups were not expected to be announced by the NFL until after Monday night's Oakland-San Diego game.

The conference championships were scheduled for Sunday, Jan. 10, and the Super Bowl was set for Sunday, Jan. 24.

Crucial Game Tonight. . .

Chargers Get A Chance

SAN DIEGO (AP) - The San Diego Chargers, beneficiaries of an early Christmas gift from the Chicago Bears, can clinch their third straight AFC Western Division title tonight against the Oakland Raiders, a team with Monday night magic.

Suddenly in control of their own destiny after a near-fatal midseason slump, the Chargers know the score.

"We've got our chance," said Coach Don Coryell. "Now we've got to do something with it."

Playoff hopes were slim for San Diego until Chicago upended division leader Denver, 35-24 on Sunday. That put the division title on the line tonight in a nationally televised National Football League game.

Coryell says the Chargers, 9-6, are taking nothing for granted against the Raiders, the now-dethroned Super Bowl champions.

"You know what fine competitors they are," he said. "They'll come after us, we know that."

The Raiders, 7-8 and doomed to their first non-winning season since 1964, have history - and Monday night mastery - on their side.

The Raiders are 18-1-1 on Monday nights. Since their only loss, a 21-20 setback at Buffalo on Sept. 16, 1974, the Raiders have won 14 in a row on Monday night.

San Diego, seeking its fourth victory in five games, is a seven-point favorite in the NFL's regular-season finale.

Quarterback Dan Fouts, threatened with suspension throughout the week, needs 420 yards to become the NFL's first quarterback to pass for more than 5,000 yards in a season. A 300-yard passing effort would give him 25 for his career, tying the all-time NFL mark held by Johnny Unitas.

Oilers Defeat Steelers, 21 - 20

HOUSTON (AP) - After closing out dismal seasons in the Astrodome, the Houston Oilers and the Pittsburgh Steelers have gone their separate ways to plot next season.

Perhaps Houston Coach Eddie Biles will even improve his poetry.

"The Blue will be back in '82," Biles said Sunday, following the Oilers' late surge to a 21-20 victory in a game that for the first time in several years meant nothing to the National Football League playoffs.

For that reason, Biles and Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll had little to look back on with pleasure. So they chose to look ahead.

"This was a good way to start our preseason. I'm just sorry we didn't win it," Noll said.

"I thought we played well but (Gifford) Nielsen played well, too, and that was the difference. But I haven't given any real thought to next season. Our problem right now is getting home."

Nielsen, who will battle veteran Ken Stabler for the starting job next season, threw three touchdown passes to Dave Casper, the last with only 1:51 left in the game.

The comeback allowed the Oilers to finish with a 7-9 record and kept the Steelers, 8-8, from becoming the fourth team since 1945 to post winning seasons for 10 consecutive years.

Houston took a 14-6 halftime lead on Casper's first two touchdown catches, a 15-yarder in the first quarter and a 23-yard catch in the second period.

Mark Malone, Pittsburgh's backup quarterback paced the Steelers to two field goals of 40 and 37 yards by rookie David Trout in the first half.

The Steelers struck twice in the third quarter with touchdown runs of 17 yards by Sidney Thornton and 2 yards by Malone. Then, with time running out, Nielsen put together a 71-yard running drive in only four plays.

Rookie wide receiver Mike Holston, who caught five passes for 128 yards, helped set up the winning touchdown with a 44-yard catch.

Cougars Stun 6-Rated Iowa

by The Associated Press

The University of Houston scored one of the most prestigious basketball victories for the Southwest Conference in years Saturday night by knocking off previously unbeaten and sixth-ranked Iowa 62-52 in the championship finals of the Kettle Classic.

Rob Williams, named the tournament's most valuable player, led the Cougars in scoring with 15 points, including two key free throws, to boost the team's record to 8-1.

"Houston just beat our brains out on the boards," said Iowa Coach Lute Olson, whose team got just 36 rebounds.

The host Cougars beat Mississippi State 96-49 Friday to advance to the championship round.

Houston experienced its only loss so far this season on Tuesday when it fell to Cal-Santa Barbara, 78-74.

Texas A&M didn't fare so well Saturday, however, as it lost to Texas-El Paso in the championship game of the Sun Carnival, 60-40. The Aggies were held to 40 points less than their season average as UTEP's Fred Reyno scored 17 points on the team's home turf.

A&M's Tyren Naulls led the team with 11 points and cut the margin to seven late in the game, but the Aggies could draw no closer. The Miners also outrebounded A&M 42-29.

The Aggies beat Oklahoma State 80-72 Friday to advance to the tournament finals. They now hold a 5-2 record.

Texas and Arkansas won one game apiece during the week to remain tied atop the SWC heap with 6-0 records. Texas beat Harvard 72-71 in overtime, while Arkansas knocked down Biscayne 91-61.

Texas Tech upped its record to 6-1 with a 71-65 win over Utah, and Baylor rose to a tie with A&M with two almost identical scores - an 85-65 victory over McMurry and an 88-65 win over Southwest Oklahoma State.

TCU was a notch behind with a 5-3 record after pounding Iowa State 72-63.

Hapless Rice fell to 4-3 after losing both the first round and consolation game in the Golden Gate Classic at San Francisco. The first game was taken by No. 10 San Francisco, 85-69, and the second by LaSalle, 64-58.

But SMU was at the bottom of the SWC ladder with a 3-5 record after losing 81-71 to Kansas.

Upsets Sting Top Cagers

by The Associated Press

Tokyo was Upset City for the University of Louisville basketball team.

"We have good talent but have yet to mesh," said Louisville Coach Denny Crum after his third-ranked team was beaten Sunday 62-56 by No.20 Oregon State in the Suntory Ball tournament. "We had 29 turnovers and you can't beat any good team with that many errors."

The Cardinals virtually had the game in hand with a 14-point lead deep into the second half, but came apart at that point with some brittle ball-handling.

Oregon State, meanwhile, held together despite its youth and inexperience.

"For a basically young team, we played with a lot of poise," said Oregon State Coach Ralph Miller.

The Cardinals were one of six Top Twenty teams that lost over the weekend. Elsewhere, Houston shocked sixth-ranked Iowa 62-52; No.17 UCLA defeated No.7 DePaul 87-75; Memphis State scored an 82-70 victory over over 15th-ranked Southwestern Louisiana; Georgia trimmed No.16 Alabama-Birmingham 78-72 and Temple recorded a 52-48 triumph over 18th-ranked Villanova.

In other games, top-ranked North Carolina walloped Rutgers 59-36; No.2 Kentucky routed Seton Hall 98-74; No.4 Wichita State whipped Pan American University 118-65; No.5 Virginia beat Chaminade 75-59; No.8 Minnesota turned back Marquette 76-54; No.9 Arkansas held off Biscayne College 91-61; 10th-ranked San Francisco turned back Iona 88-81; 12th-rated Tulsa stopped Central Florida 69-58; No.13 Indiana beat Kansas State 58-49; No.14 Alabama defeated Penn State 88-74 and No.19 Georgetown crushed Nevada-Las Vegas 76-52.

SHSU'S Brown Steps Aside

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) - After four years as head football coach of Sam Houston State University, Melvin Brown announced Saturday he would step aside to seek the head mentor's job at another university.

Brown said he had not yet found another coaching job.

"I've been here for four years," Brown said. "Things didn't work out the way I had hoped. I've just decided it would be the best move for Sam Houston and me."

Brown led the Bearkats to a 6-5 record his first season and was named Lone Star Conference Coach of the Year. His resignation comes after Sam Houston won only two games in 1981.

Dr. Elliott T. Bowers, Sam Houston president, said Brown would be assigned other duties for the spring semester while the search is launched for a new coach.

Brown, 48, played football at the University of Oklahoma and was head football coach at Southeastern Oklahoma State University from 1956-62.

Before coming to Sam Houston, he was an assistant coach at the University of Houston.

Snyder Tests Ector

Snyder High School basketball teams look to get back in the hunt Tuesday as the Tigers and Felines clash with Ector both here and in Odessa.

Ector boys edged Lamesa in District 2-AAAA competition last weekend, leaving Andrews and Sweetwater as the only undefeated teams in the conference. Snyder, 1-1 in district play, has yet to meet the highly touted Mustangs this season but could tighten the race somewhat with a win over Ector in Scurry County Coliseum tomorrow.

Coach Ken Housden's Felines, 2-2 now after back-to-back district victories, will top .500 with a victory over the Eaglettes in Odessa. Lake View and Andrews lead the girls standings with undefeated records. With a pair of losses, Snyder's fate may be in other's hands to a degree, but the Felines could gain momentum for the second round, and are certainly not out of round one at this point.

Both varsity games will start at approximately 8 p.m. Junior varsity games will be held at 6:15.

In boys games Friday, Ector defeated Lamesa 59-58, Sweetwater edged Fort Stockton 48-47, Snyder topped Pecos 63-51 and Andrews drilled Lake View 89-54. Monahans lost to Seminole in a non-conference tilt.

Tomorrow's games pit Ector (5-10, 1-1) at Snyder (11-4, 1-1), Fort Stockton (8-8, 1-1) at Lake View (0-2, 5-6), Monahans (5-6, 0-1) at Lamesa (13-2, 1-1), and Pecos (7-5, 0-1) at Sweetwater (5-10, 2-0). Andrews (13-2, 2-0) hosts Midland Lee in a non-conference game.

A complete list of girls records was unavailable. Tuesday's district games will pit Snyder at Ector, Lake View at Fort Stockton, Lamesa at Monahans and Sweetwater at Pecos.

Christmas Stems From Region, Middle East, Now A Tinderbox

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first installment of a four- part Christmas series about a catalytic region of the world, the Middle East, cradle of civilization and also of Jesus and his people, the Jews. Their ad- vent had ramifications in vari- ous parts of that region, as does their continuing effect, an interconnected affair traced in this series, beginning with the roots and rumblings.

By George Cornell

AP Religion Writer

Beginnings came in the region. And some say, so will the end. The place is prepotent. Throughout human annals, it has built and destroyed. It cradled civilization and potentially could imperil it. Faith and aspirations bloomed here and also desecrations. It spawned Judaism, Christianity, Islam. And also, then and now, furies.

"Life and death, blessing and curse," says Jewish Scripture accepted by all three of the religions. "Therefore, choose life, that you and your descendants may live."

The alternatives loom starkly in this Christmas season of 1981 in the Middle East, that realm of origins where history began, where the first Christmas occurred, where Jesus and his ancestors were born and bestowed their unceasing impact through the world.

The celebrated events basically involve not just Galilee and Judea, the site of modern Israel, but also the lands of present-day Iran, where wise men of old interpreted the heavens; Iraq, from whence came Abraham, Father of Jesus' people; Egypt, where they once lived and an infant Jesus was sheltered; Syria, where his followers were first called Christians, and other parts of that ancient, writhing region.

The area churns these days with tension and turmoil — a president of Egypt assassinated while reviewing his troops, Israel menaced along its borders by Arab countries officially and sometimes violently at war with it for three decades, Iran and Iraq fighting each other for more than a year, internal upheavals and slaughter in Iran, Lebanon and elsewhere.

It seems a modern caldron, seething with rage, terrorism, retaliation, bombings, edged with vying big-power pressures. But it is also a global sourceland, the wellspring of civilized humanity, of the first cities, architecture, art, farming and engineering, of the first written languages, of that old book, the Bible, espoused oddly by the three great religions, and also, nowadays, of world-besought "black gold" — oil.

Organized communities had arisen there by about 4500 B.C. among intermingling groups in the Mesopotamian valley of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers. Tools and other traces found there of human skill go back 600,000 years. The first written language, the cuneiform system of wedge-shaped symbols etched by a stylus on wet clay, first appeared there about 3200 B.C. Tablets of it record the rise of the sophisticated kingdom of Sumer and later, Akkad, which dominated the region for nearly a millennium.

The Sumerian empire centered in present-day Iraq, but its influence spread across the areas of modern-day Syria to the Mediterranean Sea and southward across the lands of modern Jordan and Israel. There Jericho on the Jordan river had an urban culture before 7000 B.C., the world's oldest known city, subsequently fortified by a thick surrounding wall.

"And the wall fell down flat," Scripture relates, after besieging Israelites centuries later marched around it for seven days, shouting and blowing blasts on their "shofars," trumpets made of rams' horns.

Egypt's civilizing impulses began on the fertile banks of the Nile about 3000 B.C., soon after the emergence of Sumer, developing simultaneously with it, borrowing from it. The ancient Egyptian picture writing, hieroglyphics, was believed stimulated by the somewhat earlier cuneiform. Cuneiform survived as an international script until about the sixth century B.C., long after the Sumerian-Akkaddian kingdoms had faded, elements of it still reflected in Hebrew.

In the final phases of SumerAkkad, that earliest extraordinary surge of human creativity, crafts, trade and mutuality, the restive, city-dwelling family of Abraham, a forbear of Jesus, left the notable textile and shipping port of Ur on the Euphrates river about 2000 B.C., moving northwest to Haran.

A farther call still tugged him. "Go..to the land that I will show you," Scripture says God urged. "To your descendants I will give this land" and "make of you a great nation...You will be a blessing" to "all the families of the earth."

Abraham went, circling west and south into the land that became Israel, settling there after a brief, strained excursion into Egypt.

Thefts Keep Police Busy

Snyder police officers were busy investigating several reported thefts this past weekend.

Police arrested one male suspect on charges of felony theft around 3:30 p.m. Saturday. Officers responded to a call from an employee of the K-Mart store who told them he had found merchandise stashed in the dumpster behind the store.

Officers staked out the location and arrested the suspect when he returned to claim the loot.

Earlier, around 9 a.m., police answered a call from James Hill who reported the theft of a go-cart from his residence.

O Officers later recovered the partially stripped cart at the intersection 40th and Midland Ave.

Later, Art Roberts told police of a car burglary that had occurred some time during the last two days. A C. B. radio, valued at $25 was taken from the Roberts vehicle.

Police received the last theft report at 12:24 a.m. Monday morning. Richard VanSickle told officers that someone had stolen his 1973 Honda motorcycle. Value of the missing cycle was set at $300.

Officers are continuing investigation into these incidents.

Local police also investigated two minor traffic mishaps over the weekend.

The first accident occurred around 10:44 Saturday morning in the 3700 block of Ave U. Involved in the mishap were a parked 1964 Volkswagen owned by Pat Alexander and a parked 1979 Mercury owned by Sue Davis. Only minor damages were reported in the incident.

The 2300 block of Merrill Ave. was the scene of a minor accident at 7:44 p.m. Sunday evening. Involved were a 1972 Chevrolet driven by Candelario Martinez and a parked 1976 Pontiac owned by Zepherine Reed. Only minor damages were reported.

In other action, police also arrested four subjects on charges of public intoxication and one on charges of DWI.
