Local officials hope to learn later this month whether the Deep Creek Flood Control Project will be approved for planning funds, via the State Board of Soil and Water Conservation. The state board held a hearing here two months ago, and it is scheduled to meet a couple of weeks from now.

Meanwhile, the potential cost of the proposed project continues to grow, just as the cost of everything else. Back in the spring of 1973, someone mentioned that it might cost $40,000 to $75,000 for the planning stage of the project. Now, estimates range from $125,000 to $175,000.

So, it appears that the quicker the cheaper.

We have never held much sympathy for those who delight in debunking adages, or historical stories, but there's one just out that we would not quarrel with.

The National Wildlife Federation claims that bats actually have good eyesight, which seems to nullify the expression, "blind as a bat." They say the bat—which is the only flying mammal known on this Earth—also is the victim of other false claims, or "old wives' tales," including the notion that it enjoys swooping into people's hair.

Moreover, they say that the bat provides a service. He eats billions of destructive insect pests and aids in flower pollination just as bees do. But, like the bee, caution is recommended when people are around bats. They do serve as carriers for rabies on occasion, and it is better to "look, but don't touch."

But the bat is an unusual creature for another reason. He not only hibernates during the winter, but virtually stops breathing while in hibernation. For example, a bat usually takes around 200 breaths per minute while he is awake, but in hibernation the rate may drop to 10 breaths per hour. He does this while hanging by his toes, and he lives off extra body fat he has built up during the summer.

Perhaps more study should be devoted to the bat in these days of energy shortages. He seems to be able to save plenty of it, and there apparently are plenty of people who, like the bat, build up excess body fat in late summer—and in fall—and in winter—and in spring—and even in early summer.—WACIL McNAIR.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, November 5, the 309th day of 1975. There are 56 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1940, U.S. election returns showed that President Franklin Roosevelt had been elected to an unprecedented third term.

On this date:

In 1605, a conspirator, Guy Fawkes, was seized as he was about to blow up the British House of Lords.

In 1872, the suffragist, Susan B. Anthony, voted for Ulysses Grant for President. Women did not have the vote, and she was fined $100 for illegal voting.

In 1912, Woodrow Wilson was elected President.

In 1930, American novelist Sinclair Lewis was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature.

In 1940, election returns were televised for the first time.

In 1946, a new career in politics began as John Kennedy was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives at the age of 29.

Ten years ago: Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the U.S. military effort to prevent a Communist victory in South Vietnam was progressing well but cautioned that some severe fighting lay ahead.

Five years ago: The Vatican issued a detailed reform of the Roman Catholic Mass, giving women a greater role in the litany.

One year ago: Hugh Carey was elected governor of New York.

CLAIMS COP-OUT

Beame Critical Of Ford Offer

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Mayor Abraham Beame accused President Ford today of offering "a cop-out, not a cure" for New York City's fiscal ills. He said the President's attacks on New York have "triggered hatred, disunity and confusion."

The mayor said Ford, in criticizing New York, ignored the city's budget-cutting record. He listed payroll deductions, halts in city construction and closings of municipal facilities. He promised further money-saving measures, including a change in the free university system's financing and more hospital closings.

The mayor made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery before the National Press Club, one day after the disclosure that state officials had come up with enough money to avert default next week.

Beame said that he sought federal guarantees of future loans, but no tax dollars, from the government.

"New York is not asking the federal government or the public for one cent," he said. "On the other hand, default will cost America billions."

Beame's appearance at the club was designed to answer a speech Ford gave there one week ago when he outlined his plan for changing bankruptcy laws to enable the city to continue basic services in the case of a default.

Referring to that speech and other Ford attacks on New York City, Beame said, "The President's response to New York City reflects a kind of bumper sticker philosophy.

"He has used the city of New York as a foil for political slogans from Belgrade to San Francisco and back."

Beame added that this has set urban residents against rural Americans and Easterners against Midwesterners.

"The President's prescription for an economic and spiritual purge is a 17th Century remedy," the mayor said. "In 20th Century parlance, it's a cop-out, not a cure.

United Way At Brink Of Goal

The Scurry County United Way as fast closing in on its goal of $45,000 with the announcement this morning that $43,944.31, or 97.6 per cent of the goal, has been collected.

United Way workers met this morning at Snyder Savings and Loan Association building to discuss the annual drive, and they voted to extend it another two weeks so collections can go over the top

Final reports will be given at a meeting to be held Nov. 19. All workers were urged to turn in their cards by that date.

The meeting this morning was presided over by Ed Mlcak, vice president of the United Way. A division report was given by Mrs. Don Dillard, co-chairman of the drive along with Bill Gilliland. Publicity committeemen Ed Barkowsky and Bob Clifton also made a few

'Squeaky' Will Argue Own Case

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Lynette Fromme, denied permission to change her plea from innocent to no contest, will argue her own case against the charge that she tried to kill President Ford.

Miss Fromme fired her court-appointed cocounsel Tuesday on the first day of her trial after he, the prosecutor and U.S. District Court Judge Thomas MacBride refused to accept the plea switch.

MacBride then told the 27-year-old Manson devotee that she would have to question witnesses herself and make her own opening and closing arguments with a "stand-by attorney" to advise her.

"I think she's foolish to try to represent herself," MacBride told Miss Fromme's cocounsel, John Virga. "But if she wants to do this it is certainly within her rights."

Miss Fromme is accused of attempting to assassinate Ford as he walked to the state Capitol Sept. 5. Officers say they took a loaded .45-caliber pistol away from her after she pointed it at the President from about two feet away.

She is the first person to be charged and tried under a 1965 federal law against attempted murder of a president. The law was passed after the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy. If convicted, she could be sentenced to life in prison.

MacBride ruled at a pretrial hearing that Miss Fromme could act as her own attorney, but he named Virga as her cocounsel. Virga had handled most of the case since then.

But shortly after jury selection began Tuesday morning, Miss Fromme rose from the defense table and approached MacBride's bench.

"Your honor, these people cannot judge me," she said of the potential jurors. "They can only judge themselves.

"My family judges me," she said, referring to her association with the Charles Manson clan.

Notices To All Voters Delayed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A planned mailing today of notices to all voters that they must get new voting certificates has been delayed on orders of Judge Thomas Gee of the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.

Gee first granted a stay of a temporary restraining order handed down Monday night by U.S. District Court Judge William Wayne Justice in Tyler to keep the state from putting the new voting registration law into effect.

The stay has been asked by the Texas Attorney General's office along with a request that a panel of 5th Circuit judges hear the case on an emergency basis.

Gee later modified his stay order Tuesday by giving instructions to Secretary of State Mark White to notify all 254 county tax assessor-collectors not to mail out the re-registration notices until further court action.

The original plaintiffs in the case, including the American Civil Liberties Union and the Mexican-American Legal Defense Fund, contended to Justice that the law passed by the 1975 legislature was illegal because it had not been inspected for compliance with the federal Voting Rights Act. Congress extended the act in August to include Texas elections.

Under the new state law, now temporarily blocked, voters were to be notified by mail that their current voters registration cards would expire March 1, 1976, and that an application for a new registration must be returned by Jan. 31, 1976, in order to remain on the voter rolls and get a new voting certificate.

Sadat Asks US To Establish Palestinian Ties

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat called today on the United States to support the Palestinians' drive for their own nation and warned that "the aggrieved cannot be expected to wait long."

In a speech to a joint meeting of Congress, before ending a 10-day state visit, Sadat said that the United States is practically the sole dissenter in the long overdue trend of establishing contacts with the Palestinians.

Sadat said a continued neglect of the Palestinians' "despair and frustration" amounts to "an open invitation to violence, negativism and extremism." A sympathetic stand by the United States would contribute greatly to peace in the Middle East, Sadat said.

"I trust that what I have been reiterating for years has become crystal clear today," the Egyptian leader said from the rostrum of the House, "namely that the Palestinian question is the heart and core of the entire dispute."

In his talk, Sadat steered clear of Egypt's support for a United Nations resolution to equate Zionism with racism and did not mention Israel or Jews directly. But he affirmed Islam's respect for "all peoples" and said he was not asking the United States to "abandon anyone or turn friends into enemies."

Sadat added: "We simply expected the United States not to condone expansion or tolerate aggression."

In winding up his visit, Sadat was expected to make a last pitch to President Ford at the White House in late afternoon for long-range U.S. arms commitments. Meanwhile, in mid-afternoon, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy were to initial a nuclear deal in which two U.S. reactors are being sold to Cairo on easy credit for desalting water and other peaceful uses.

Sadat stressed that while he wants to strengthen ties with Washington, his country intends to adhere "to the principles of nonalignment." He also emphasized Egyptian national independence.

"Our relations with a given nation are not conducted to the detriment of those we maintain with other countries," he said.

"We should always bear in mind that Egypt is the oldest nation-state that has enjoyed an uninterrupted existence within the same boundaries for over 7,000 years."

These remarks served as an additional reminder that while Egypt wants U.S. weapons, it has not given up on eventually obtaining Russian arms, as well, to replace those used up in the 1973 war with Israel.

Sadat said he did not visit the United States "seeking aid or soliciting promises and commitments." Rather, he said, "I came to extend to you and all Americans a hand of friendship and understanding."

Rockefeller Calls News Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, said by Republican sources to have withdrawn as President Ford's possible running mate because of widening disagreements on policy, today called a news conference for Thursday.

Rockefeller's spokesman, John Mulliken, gave no details about any statement the vice president might make. Mulliken said Rockefeller would answer questions in the Executive Office Buiding conference room that the President frequently uses for his news conferences.

Mulliken said Rockefeller's news conference would begin at 10 a.m. EST.

Texas Voters Down New Charter 3-1

By JIM BRIGANCE
Associated Press Writer

Armies of Texans defended their century-old constitution Tuesday, beating back with cannonades of votes costly and heated efforts to revise the aged document.

Unquestionably, voters smashed the proposed constitutional revision with broadsides ranging from 5-1 opposition in rural areas to 2-1 in metropolitan districts.

It was a balloon launched in part by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who conceded early in evening vote counting that the issue was going down in flames. "The voters of Texas have rejected five years of effort directed toward constitutional revision by as decisive a margin as anyone could imagine," Hobby said. "It was a good fight but we lost."

With 1,111,712 of the expected 1.2 million statewide votes counted, the measure was down by a 3-1 margin. Although rural area voters voted against the constitution proposal in greater numbers, the opposition was evident in metropolitan and rural areas alike from the Gulf Coast to the northern blackland prairies, from the desert west to forested eastern sections of the state.

These are the final returns today from the Texas Election Bureau with 254 of 254 counties reporting, 250 complete:

Prop. 1 (legislative-executive) — for 300,466, against 863,090.

Prop. 2 (judiciary) — for 327,713, against 830,342.

Prop. 3 (voting) — for 322,878, against 836,179.

Prop. 4 (education) — for 319,425, against 840,442.

Prop. 5 (finance) — for 251,705, against 865,346.

Prop. 6 (local government) — for 305,991, against 851,962.

Prop. 7 (general) — for 305,380, against 853,252.

Prop. 8 (amending provisions) — for 305,380, against 853,252.

The TEB said the four counties not reported complete involved about five boxes with a total of about 800 votes.

Dallas County soundly defeated all eight measures by greater than a 2-1 margin. The proposals ran behind 3-1 in Harris (Houston) County.

Jefferson County (Beaumont) defeated all eight propositions by a 2-1 vote. Lubbock turned thumbs down at a rate of 4-1.

State Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, was one of the more vocal opponents of constitutional revision. McKnight spoke often and spoke loudly. On learning of its defeat, he said, "If there is any lesson we should have learned from this election it is that the people have a right to impose restraints upon their government and they still want to do so."

The issue of a new state constitution in many ways boiled down to simple conservative and liberal politics. Conservatives fearful of more governmental authority and more state spending tended to shy away from the idea of revising the constitution.

Liberals who expect and demand more governmental activity tended to favor revision. But there were clear cut ironies: Frances "Sissy" Farenthold, one of the state's best known liberal apostles, opposed the constitutional change. Yet, law and order defender Atty. Gen. John Hill favored it.

Perhaps the most controversial aspect of the revision was the proposal to recreate state agencies every 10 years, giving the governor and the legislature more control over some 200 state agencies. McKnight argued forcefully that each agency would be in a position of lobbying to keep his agency in existence rather than devoting energy to performing the agency's primary tasks.

The present constitution was approved in 1876 and represented the will of a people climbing from the abyss of reconstruction following the Civil War. Texans, victimized and frustrated under carpetbagger rule, took the first opportunity to create a government with as little authority over their lives as possible.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe said in Dallas last week that 25 years ago — as a much younger man — he had favored revision of the constitution.

Two-Way Tie In Contest

Entrants in The Snyder Daily News Football Contest found the going tough last week and a "six" was good enough to break into the winners' circle. Even so, only two managed to make it.

Finishing in a tie for top honors were Greg Pavlik, 2901 Thirty-eighth Street, and Veronica Jean Melgar, 2906 Forty-second Street.

They will share the first and second place prize money for the week, or $8.75 each.

Several others missed seven selections, and from there the scores soared as "upsets" dotted the football scene.

Scurry's Voters Reject Charter

Scurry County voters Tuesday joined their fellow Texans in turning thumbs down to a proposed new constitution.

In fact, the margin of defeat here for all eight "propositions" was considerably greater than the state-wide count. The closest any of the eight proposals came in Scurry County was a 1,356 to 291 defeat for proposition No. 3.

The voter turnout here was 1,877, a little over 20 per cent of the estimated total number of qualified voters in the county. However, the clear-cut trend established by those who bothered to vote indicated that it would [illegible]

From there, disapproval became even more emphatic, ranging all the way to the Bison box, where 25 votes were cast resulting in a 24-1 defeat for Propositions No. 1, No. 3 and No. 6, and a 25-0 shut-out for the remaining five propositions.

The Scurry County vote by propositions follows:

Soviets Test Sub-Fired Missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russians have tested what could be their first submarine-launched missile equipped with multiple warheads that can be aimed at separate targets.

If the Russians have achieved such warheads for their submarine-fired missiles, they will have caught up with the United States in one of the few facets of the missile race in which they have trailed until now.

U.S. intelligence sources report that a new Soviet missile for submarines was test-fired for the first time on Oct. 25 from Nenoksa Test Center in the remote White Sea area.

The missile traveled nearly 3,500 miles to the Kamchatka Peninsula in the Pacific, the sources said.

According to U.S. observations, the new missile carried multiple warheads.

But American technical specialists are not certain whether these warheads were the less sophisticated MRVS (multiple re-entry vehicles) or the much more advanced MIRVS (multiple independently targetable vehicles).

The difference is important. MRVS are fired in shotgun fashion, usually against a single target. MIRVS can be aimed with precision against widely separated targets.

U.S. intelligence expects to get more definite information by monitoring future Soviet tests of the new missile.

Burleigh Resigns As TWDB Director

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Harry Burleigh, a Nebraskan who came to Texas during the "Dust Bowl" years and tried years later to devise a statewide water plan to prevent such conditions from recurring, has resigned as executive director of the Texas Water Development Board.

Friends said Burleigh, 69, executive director since 1971, wanted more time to travel after his resignation becomes effective Dec. 31.

He returned Oct. 3 from a 2½ week trip to Russia, where he and two federal officials advised the Russians how to build huge irrigation canals to increase their food production.

Board Chairman John McCoy appointed a three-member committee Tuesday to search for Burleigh's successor.

Burleigh was reared in Lincoln, Neb., and was graduated in engineering from the University of Nebraska in 1931.

His first job was with the federal government, surveying the quantity of water in the underground Ogallala formation, from Lamesa, Tex., to Fort Scott, Kan. The Ogallala is the lifeblood of Texas' High Plains production of food and fiber, and Burleigh has rebutted claims in recent years that the water supply was almost gone.

"We think that the High Plains as an irrigated area ... is good for another 60 years ... we don't share in any manner or form the gloom peddlers' views about the future of the High Plains," he said in an interview last year.

He said, however, "If the human race continues to breed with the sang-froid normally ascribed to the more robust rabbit warrens, the issue of resource husbanding becomes more paramount daily."

After serving with the Army Corps of Engineers in World War II, Burleigh was discharged as a major and appointed as the Bureau of Reclamation's chief engineer for Texas, with headquarters in Austin. He kept that job until joining the water board.

Burleigh is credited with arousing Sen. Lyndon Johnson's interest in 1949 in developing Texas' water resources, which led to a three-year study that set the 1968 Texas water plan in motion.

The plan includes transporting water through canals from the Mississippi River and Texas areas with surplus rainfall to areas such as the semi-arid High Plains, an idea Burleigh conceived in 1953.

Voters rejected a $3.5-billion bond issue to finance the plan in 1969, but McCoy said Burleigh has been updating the plan, and this will have high priority. "It is our desire to have this work done and present to the people a 'new' water plan by early next summer," McCoy said.

Democrat Finch Elected Governor In Mississippi

Democrat Cliff Finch was elected governor of Mississippi by overcoming the state's strongest Republican challenge this century and Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll survived an anti-busing backlash threat in off-year elections. Women were elected lieutenant governors in both states.

With 1,900 of 2,133 Mississipi precincts counted in unofficial returns, Finch had 51.3 per cent of the votes, leading Republican Gil Carmichael 318,211 to 284,553. Black independent Henry Kirksey of Jackson trailed with 16,951.

The voters in both Kentucky and Mississippi picked women as lieutenant governors Tuesday. But the women's rights cause suffered a stunning setback when voters in New Jersey and New York rejected state versions of the federal Equal Rights Amendment.

With New York's fiscal problems on the minds of voters, a number of large bond issues lost, including a record $4.5 billion package in Ohio, $922 million in New Jersey and $250 million in New York.

The Democrats kept legislative control in four states: Kentucky, Mississippi, New Jersey and Virginia.

As is usual the year before a presidential election, Tuesday's widely scattered contests produced mixed results. There were no national trends and few surprises.

The Republicans had placed their major emphasis on Mississippi. Carmichael, a 48-year-old Meridian businessman, ran a strong race there against Sen. James O. Eastland in 1972. Finch, a Batesville attorney, had been the surprise winner of two rounds of Democratic primaries.

The state's lieutenant governor contest was more one-sided as Democrat Evelyn Gandy, 55, now insurance commissioner, whipped Republican Mayor Bill Patrick of Laurel.

In Kentucky, Democrat Carroll easily won a full four-year term in the post he inherited when his predecessor, Wendell Ford, went to the U.S. Senate. The 44-year-old Carroll, a Paducah attorney and racial moderate, piled up big margins in predominantly Democratic rural areas and held down Republican Robert Gable's expected big margins in the suburbs surrounding Louisville.

Both candidates had deplored the court-ordered busing that rocked that city this fall. But the anti-incumbent backlash feared by Carroll supporters never materialized.

In the lieutenant governor's race, Thelma Stovall, 56, now secretary of state, defeated her male Republican opponent, businessman Shirley Palmer-Ball.

In the day's major municipal contests, winners included Mayors Kevin H. White of Boston, Ralph Perk of Cleveland, Frank Rizzo of Philadelphia, William Donald Schaefer of Baltimore and Maurice Ferre of Miami.

In the only major surprise, Democratic Mayor Albert Hofstede of Minneapolis was unseated by the man he had beaten two years earlier, policeman and former Mayor Charles Stenvig.

Diplomats Around World On Guard

By The Associated Press

In an age of terrorism, assassinations and political kidnapings, diplomats around the world conduct their business behind steel doors and under heavy guard — extremely cautious as to whom they let into their offices.

—The U.S. Embassy in New Delhi, India, is guarded 24 hours a day by Indian police who live in a tent outside the gate.

—The American ambassador in Malaysia runs several miles every morning for exercise, but with a Marine guard jogging alongside.

—In New York, an Israeli diplomat carries a gun, and when he goes to a restaurant he asks for a table with a view of the door and the entire room.

—An ambassador in Buenos Aires, Argentina, goes around with a pistol in his belt.

—Passageways to high-echelon offices in some embassies and consulates are blocked by iron gates, and two-way mirrors and television scanners are used to check on who enters diplomatic missions.

—Diplomats in some countries are advised to mix up daily routines and take different routes to and from their offices each day.

The question of diplomatic security came to the fore earlier this month when the Turkish ambassadors in Paris and Vienna, Austria, were assassinated — one in his office, the other in an ambush of his car.

Few diplomats around the world say the security precautions under which they now operate interfere with their work. Others say having bodyguards from host countries and special security arrangements sometimes is a nuisance they have to put up with.

"The point is that it is up to us, up to the ambassador, to decide if we want to take these guards everywhere," said Egyptian Ambassador Abdel Monem Shinnawi in Manila, The Philippines. "They are not imposed upon us. They do not interfere with our work and they do not see what we do 24 hours a day."

An American diplomat in Tokyo said, "I don't think all these security measures cramp your lifestyle. If you were in Beirut, I'd assume things would be more uptight. Actually, I feel safer here than in Washington. But all we need is one South American-style kidnaping and the atmosphere would change overnight."

Diplomatic officials say they do not want to discuss specific security arrangements because that would defeat their purpose.

But increased precautions and the stepped-up guard details are clearly visible to anyone who visits an embassy or consulate.

In London, for example, some diplomats work in buildings fortified by barbed-wire entanglements. Their offices are sealed by electronically controlled sets of steel dors. Their missions are floodlit at night and guarded around the clock by police.

An Associated Press survey showed that the Israelis, who have had three diplomats killed in four years, have the heaviest security of all.

For example, the Israeli Consulate in Montreal is in the sub-sub basement of a large office building. It is not listed on the directory board at the building's main entrance.

Gas Ordinance Is Clarified

An account of city council action concerning Lone Star Gas Co. rates, which appeared in a story in Tuesday's issue of The Snyder Daily News, referred to the wrong section of the rate ordinance concerning an amendment.

The council agreed, upon request by the gas company, to amend Section 3 of the original ordinance passed on first reading at an October meeting of the council, which would have required a minimum BTU content of natural gas distributed here. The Section 3 referred to in the Tuesday article was in the amended version, and consequently was not changed. There were no changes in the rates provided in the ordinance, or in the manner in which rates are set. The gas company had accepted the rate schedule adopted by the city, subject to amending the section referring to BTU content, which was achieved in the final version approved on second reading Monday night.

Wise May Seek Senate Seat

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Mayor Wes Wise may resign after the first of the year to run as a Democratic candidate for the 5th Congressional District.

Sources said Wise's decision depends on whether the incumbent, Republican Rep. Alan Steelman, will leave his House seat to run for the U.S. Senate.

The Dallas Times Herald said today that Steelman is expected to announce his candidancy for the Senate later this month.

Minor Damage In Tuesday Mishap

The Highway Patrol investigated a two-vehicle mishap yesterday at 3:55 p.m. 17.8 miles northwest of Snyder on an unpaved county road.

Involved was a 1968 Chevrolet driven by Loy L. Summers of Fluvanna, and a 1975 Ford Pickup operated by Neal A. Briley of Snyder.

Only minor damage resulted to both vehicles.

suggestions about future publicity.

Appreciation was expressed to Lyle Deffebach, president of the United Way, for the well-organized campaign this year.

"We're looking forward to going over the goal," said Micak. Just a little over a thousand dollars is needed to put the drive over the 100 per cent goal.

Late reports indicate there still are a number of cards in several divisions that need to be worked. The request to extend the drive another two weeks was made by Mrs. Dillard and Gilliland, who feel several local citizens still would like an opportunity to participate in putting the drive over the top.

Division reports follow:

Advance, $17,078.07 collected on $16,000 goal for 107 per cent.

Branch House, $1,825 collected on $1,400 goal for 130 per cent.

Commercial, $6,252.50 collected on $7,600 for 82 per cent.

Educational, $4,462.60 collected on $3,700 for 121 per cent.

Oil and Industry, $4,662 collected on $8,000 for 58 per cent.

Professionals, $1,571 collected on $1,500 for 101 per cent.

Public Employes, $1,588.64 collected on $1,400 for 113 per cent.

Rural, $1,800 collected on $1,500 goal for 120 per cent.

Utilities, $4,294.50 collected on $3,900 goal for 110 per cent.

Advance Royalty, $410.

Theft Reported

The Snyder Police Department is investigating the theft of a Citizens Band radio.

Terry Butler reported to police that a CB radio was taken from his car last night between 6:30 and 9 p.m. while his car was parked at Western Texas College.

Two Vehicles Are In Mishap

City Police investigated one minor traffic mishap here yesterday.

It occurred at 5:13 p.m. at the intersection of Twenty-fifth Street and College Avenue. Involved was a 1970 Plymouth driven by Delia Vera of 2005 Avenue T, Snyder, and a 1972 Mack Truck operated by John Zalman of Hermleigh.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

If Patrick Henry had been a bridge player, he might well have said: "Give me the spade suit or give me death."

Then if Patrick Henry had held today's East hand from the spring charity game, he would have passed in second seat; passed a second time after North responded one notrump to South's one-heart opening bid, but backed into action after South's two-heart rebid was passed by North.

A two-spade call would be dangerous. However, if you aren't willing to take chances you shouldn't play bridge.

If East does back in with two spades he will get a shock. West will take him right to four spades. The shock will be only temporary. One look at dummy and East will smile happily and go about the business of making his game with one or two overtricks.

We don't show East bidding the two spades. Our East in the box was one of the many players who let South play at two hearts. South would have no trouble at that contract. He would be sure of eight tricks and probably come home with nine, because at most tables West would win the first two tricks with the king and queen of clubs. East would go to bed with his ace and South make an overtrick.

Ask the Jacobys

A Missouri reader wants to know why most American experts like to use two-clubs as their only forcing bid.

The answer to that one is that you don't get a hand of game or near game strength very often and therefore, it is a great waste to use four opening bids (five if you add three notrump) to cover such hands. Use two clubs as your only force and you can put the other two bids to work.

L'Ensemble Starts Fifth Season

The candlelit concert will open with soprano Ida Faiella singing Purcell's "Music for a While." She will be joined by Ransom Wilson, flutist, and Edward Brewer, harpsichordist, for the Handel cantata "Rensieri Notturni di Filli." Brewer will play Bach's "French Suite No. 4 in E flat Major."

New York Philharmonic violinist Barry Finclair and pianist Toma Hrynkiv will play Mozart's "Sonata for Violin and Piano in A Major" and the program will close with the Scottish songs of Beethoven.

Highlights of the season also include "A Movable Feast" on Dec. 7 and 8, "Return of the Romantic" on Feb. 1 and 2 and "An American Sampler," with music by Scott Joplin, Stephen Foster and Charles Ives, March 7 and 8. Early Returns Evidence Of New Charter Defeat

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

There wasn't any doubt from the first. The proposed new Texas constitution was doomed for defeat as the early returns came in, and the margin grew greater as each county, both urban and rural, reported.

Political observers said many voters feared the new constitution could lead to a state income tax and put too much power in the hands of the legislators and this is what turned them off.

The eight propositions were beaten by about a 3-1 margin in a far heavier turnout than predicted.

The rural vote was 5-1 against; the city vote 3-1 and the metropolitan vote, including the population centers of Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Austin, was 2-1.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, one of the few top state officials who actively opposed the changes, said Tuesday night, "The people of Texas have shown their faith in the constitution that has served them well in the past and will serve them well in the future.

"I am pleased with the outcome of today's election. But I think all Texans should understand one thing: This election was not a test of personalities or individuals. There were no winners nor losers; no heroes nor failures. Men and women of intelligence and good will differed over each proposition of the proposed constitution; but there were honest differences of opinion."

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, a strong backer of the new constitution, said, "The voters of Texas have rejected five years of effort directed toward constitutional revision by as decisive a margin as anyone could imagine. It was a good fight, but we lost."

A voter in Central Texas said, "I was just scared of what might happen if we let the legislature do what they wanted. I voted against all eight of those changes and I told everybody I knew to do the same."

That feeling apparently embraced all of Texas, where voters decided to stay with a constitution written 99 years ago rather than take a chance on something new.

In the past there has been a vast difference in how West Texans and East Texans voted and how the big cities and the country voters stood on an issue. That wasn't the case this time around.

It was east and west and north and south and metropolitan and rural and most were voting "no."

House Speaker Bill Clayton said, "I doubt that this will be a serious issue in the next legislature unless there is a groundswell from the citizenry. Sooner or later it will come up again, but it will be a movement by the people when it comes....I would have hoped we would have had a new constitution by Wednesday morning, but I abide by their decision. The voter turnout was disappointing, but the margins reflect the feeling of Texas."

Only two of Texas' 254 counties supported the constitutional changes — El Paso by a narrow margin and Duval, where political trouble is a way of life, by about a 2-1 margin.

Sen. Tom Creighton, D-Mineral Wells, a prominent campaigner against the new document, said, "If there is a lesson we should have learned from this election it is that the people have a right to impose restraints upon their government and they still want to do so. The people of Texas do not want a full time legislature or a little Congress."

Sen. Peyton McKnight of Tyler, chairman of the Citizens to Preserve the Texas Constitution, said, "It is indeed gratifying that the voters of Texas share my belief that our present constitution is far superior to the one produced by the legislature."

The election turnout on a sunny and cool fall day was boosted by a Houston city election that brought out some 45 per cent of the registered voters. While the residents of Texas' largest city were picking their favorite candidate for mayor, they also were turning thumbs down on the constitutional changes.

It was the same out in little Loving County in far West Texas, where the vote was 44 against and 2 in favor.

In Polk County in the piney woods of East Texas the vote was 11-1 against. In Sterling County on the plains of West Texas the vote was 9-1 against.

Most legislative leaders agreed it probably will be a long, long time before a constitutional revision will again be presented to Texas voters.

High Drilling Pace Continues

HOUSTON (AP) — Domestic oil and gas drilling activity Monday reached a new 13-year high for the third consecutive week.

A weekly survey compiled by the Hughes Tool Co. placed the number of active rotary rigs at 1,752, the highest weekly average since more than 1,800 rigs were in use through much of the first half of 1962.

The new total compares with 1,740 and 1,726 the two previous weeks, 1,696 a month ago and 1,590 a year ago. It compares with a 1,672 average reported in mid-March at the time Congress practically eliminated oil's depletion tax allowance.

Texas operations declined a bit last week but Louisiana and Oklahoma reported increases.

Texas had 683 active rigs, compared with 687 a week earlier and 563 a year earlier.

The Louisiana average of 244 compared with 238 a week ago and last year's 199. Oklahoma had 183 active rigs, compared with last week's 178 and last year's 158.

Kissinger Denies Discussing Leaving

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today he has had no discussion with President Ford or anyone in the administration about giving up his job as secretary of state.

Asked to respond to reports that Ambassador Elliot Richardson is being groomed to succeed him, Kissinger said with a chuckle: "Certainly, nobody has told me."

Growing serious, Kissinger added: "I have had no discussion of any kind about leaving, with the President or with anyone in the administration. I can't answer for anyone else, but at least I can assure you that certainly nobody has told me that.

"I have had no discussions of any kind with the President or anyone."

At the White House, Deputy Press Secretary William Greener denied the reports that Richardson was being brought back to the United States in a move that eventually would put him in the State Department job.

"There isn't any opening and there isn't any anticipated," Greener declared.

Ford, in reshuffling his cabinet this week, announced he was bringing Richardson home from London, where he has been the ambassador to Britain, to head the Commerce Department. Richardson is a former under secretary of state.

Kissinger, meanwhile, relinquished his job as head of the National Security Council, which he has held since 1969. He remains secretary of state, which he has been since September, 1973.

Kissinger has given no apparent indication to intimates that he will not continue in the post at least through the 1976 presidential elections. However, at one point last year, when he became embroiled in a wiretapping controversy, he publicly threatened to quit unless his name was cleared. The controversy eventually subsided.

While emphasizing today in a telephone interview that he has not discussed quitting with Ford or with anyone else in the administration, Kissinger did leave himself a slight out.

"I don't want to nail myself to a position that I might want to change six months or two years from now," Kissinger said.

When he finally leaves office, Kissinger is known to be planning to move to New York to possibly teach and write.

Paycheck Truce Is Utilized

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — War-weary Lebanese emerged from their homes despite some sniper fire today to take advantage of a "paycheck truce" in Beirut's Moslem-Christian street war.

Traffic built up downtown. Security forces joined gunmen of both sides in tearing down roadblocks and supervising the withdrawal of mortars and recoilless rifles. But few expected the cease-fire — now in its third day — to last.

The Lebanese central bank opened for the first time in a month. Within two hours it paid out $15 million in government payrolls and transfers to other banks.

Other banks were scheduled to open Thursday.

Government ministries resumed work with skeleton staffs, but many workers stayed home to see if the cease-fire lasted. Many shops also remained closed, and there was no word of schools reopening.

The street fighters on both sides were still being paid by their civilian employes even though they have missed months of work in the once-thriving banks, tourist hotels and other commercial establishments. It was widely believed that the fighting would resume once the gunmen collected their pay, bought food for their families and replenished their ammunition.

Palestinian guerrillas called it a "paycheck truce."

Premier Rashid Karami appealed for all workers, merchants and bankers to return to work early today.

"What I fear most is that some of you have become used to a life of laziness," he said in broadcast Tuesday.

Palmer Is Cy Young Winner

BALTIMORE (AP) — A warm, sunny day in the off season usually finds Jim Palmer on the golf course.

But while the skies were bright and temperatures reached the mid 70s Tuesday, the Baltimore Orioles' right-hander stayed in his backyard garden, waiting for the telephone to ring.

The choice paid off. Late in the day, Palmer received a call telling him he had been named winner of the Cy Young Award as the American League's top pitcher.

"I was out in the garden spreading mulch when I found out," said Palmer, a Cy Young winner for the second time in three years. "Normally on a day like this I would have been playing golf, but I knew the award was supposed to be announced so I decided to stick close to home."

Palmer, who came back from an injury-plagued 1974 season to post a 23-11 record this year, outdistanced Catfish Hunter of the New York Yankees in voting by a special 24-member panel of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The only pitcher named on all 24 ballots cast, Palmer finished with a total of 98 points including 15 first-place votes. Hunter — who won last year's Cy Young Award with the Oakland A's — finished with 75 points including seven first-place ballots. Hunter was named by 22 voters.

Rollie Fingers of Oakland was third with 25 points, including two first-place votes. California's Frank Tanana and Chicago's Jim Kaat had seven points apiece, followed by Oakland's Vida Blue and Chicago's Rich Gossage, each with two points. Boston's Rick Wise received one point.

First place was worth five points, second place three points and third place one point. The balloting, with eight pitchers receiving votes, was the most diversified since the award was first presented in 1956.

Hunter, who also won 23 games after getting off to a slow start with the Yankees, had been considered Palmer's stiffest competition for the prize. But the Orioles' ace said he was confident he'd come out on top with the voters.

Asked if he thought he was the best pitcher in the league, Palmer replied: "I think I'm one of the best. The statistics show I had a better year than Catfish, but I don't think I'm any better than him."

Besides his 23 victories, which tied him with Hunter for the most in the major leagues, Palmer topped the majors with a 2.09 earned run average and 10 shutouts.

Palmer's 23 victories in 1975 give him a career won-lost record of 152-80 for a .655 winning percentage, the best among active pitchers.

Only four other pitchers have won two Cy Young Awards, including Tom Seaver of the New York Mets, Bob Gibson of St. Louis, Denny McLain of Detroit and Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles. Koufax is the only three-time winner.

A&M, Longhorns Are Choice Again

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — All eyes in the Big Eight are beginning to look ahead to Nov. 22 when Nebraska invades Norman, Okla., for its annual showdown with Oklahoma. This one likely will determine the conference champion and contender for the national championship.

The only folks not looking ahead to Nov. 22 are Coaches Barry Switzer of Oklahoma and Tom Osborne of Nebraska. They're more concerned with Nov. 8 when Oklahoma entertains Kansas and Nebraska visits Kansas State.

"I hope our football team won't be looking past Kansas ... and Missouri ... to the Nebraska game," says Switzer. "I think the Kansas game will be a tough one. They played Kansas State better than we did. Quarterback Nolan Cromwell presents a problem and Mike Butler is the most talented defensive lineman in the league other than our Dewey and LeRoy Selmon."

Osborne says he's "concerned that our players stay sharp and don't look ahead. I think Kansas State has a better team than Indiana, and Indiana came awfully close to beating supposedly the No. 1 team in the country, Ohio State."

Looking ahead to Saturday ... Oklahoma 38-14, Nebraska 42-7.

Last week's score was 53 right, 16 wrong for a .768 percentage. For the year, 387-135-10—.714.

Ohio State at Illinois: Can the Illini do what Indiana almost did? Uh-Uh ... Ohio State 34-14.

Southern Methodist at Texas A&M: Out of the Texas frying pan into the A&M fire for the Mustangs. And it will be hot because of last year's upset ... Texas A&M 28-10.

Alabama at Louisiana State: Bear Bryant hardly ever loses to ex-pupils and Cholly Mac has had trouble beating anyone this year ... Alabama 31-7.

Purdue at Michigan: Boilermakers are boiling over last year's 51-0 rout. Wolverines are boiling over last week's officiating in the Minnesota game. Temper, temper ... Michigan 28-7.

Baylor at Texas: Darrell Royal says Baylor's "got to be encouraged by the liberties SMU took running straight at us." But Baylor's got to be discouraged when Earl Campbell runs straight at them. Revenge for last year's 34-24 second-half comeback ... Texas 34-14.

North Carolina State at Penn State: More revenge. State, N.C. version, won last year. State wins this year, too ... Penn State 30-13.

Stanford at Southern California: Cards would like nothing better than to knock off USC, their last shot at John McKay in this bitter feud. Sorry ... Southern Cal 28-10.

Georgia vs. Florida at Jacksonville: Galloping Gators not likely to forget last year's 17-16 upset ... Florida 28-14.

Georgia Tech at Notre Dame: Irish defenders will be hard-pressed to stop Tech ramblers. Tech ramblers will be pressed hard after Irish defenders hit them ... Notre Dame 21-17.

Oklahoma State at Colorado: A lot of bowls would like to have close two Big Eight also rans ... Colorado 28-17.

Maryland at Cincinnati: Cincy gets a taste of the Terrapins' Big Red Machine ... Maryland 24-10.

Washington at California: One of these clubs cures its rose fever ... California 35-14.

Cosell Rallies Cowboy Fans

DALLAS (AP) — There's every indication the Dallas Cowboys will be trying to impress more than just the Kansas City Chiefs when the teams tangle Monday night in a National Football League game.

Sensitive Dallas fans have bombarded the Cowboy office, NFL headquarters and ABC-TV headquarters with telephone calls and letters since broadcaster Howard Cosell questioned the running talents of Dallas fullback Robert Newhouse.

Cosell said Newhouse was a "bad runner" and couldn't understand why Detroit couldn't stop him last month in a Monday night game Dallas won 36-10.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry said Tuesday, "I told house to get ready for his duel with Cosell."

Landry laughingly added, "I doubt Cosell will come down out of the booth."

Cosell called Landry perhaps the "most innovative coach" in professional football during Monday night's Los Angeles-Philadelphia game and Landry laughed again.

He said, "Cosell's not dumb. He'll probably have Newhouse running like Jimmy Brown when he comes to town."

Landry went out of his way Tuesday to praise the toy Cowboy fullback who is averaging almost four yards per carry and has caught 16 passes for an average of eight yards per catch.

"The house is running well and blocking well," said Landry.

T. Bynum Hatley, the mayor of Newhouse's hometown in Hallsville, has called for a public apology from Cosell this Monday night. A resident has written a song asking for Cosell to backdown, calling the tune, "We Want to Hear It, Howie, Honey."

Newhouse himself has kept mostly silent on the matter, saying "I'm not that much interested in what people say."

Cosell also called Dallas a "lucky team" on that Detroit Monday night.

After Sunday's overtime loss to Washington, Landry said the team hardly has clover leaves painted to their helmets.

"We proved in the first half of the season that we can play with anybody," said Landry. "We beat Los Angeles and St. Louis and gave Washington a great game. This is as much as I could have asked of this team."

Landry added, "We're just happy to be where we are. Our young players have been a plus instead of a minus."

Burley Is Named Top Defender

Ecomet Burley couldn't help but notice "If you don't watch it, life can get away from you."

To Burley, the Texas Tech noseguard, it only seems like yesterday when he was the most valuable defensive player in the Sun Bowl as a freshman.

"Boy, my career has really passed rapidly," says the senior from Lufkin, who had his greatest day of the year last Saturday in Texas Tech's 28-24 victory over Rice.

Burley made 10 unassisted tackles—two behind the line of scrimmage—assisted on two more tackles and recovered a fumble. His performance earned him The Associated Press Defensive Player of the Week award.

Texas Tech assistant coach Romeo Crennell said "It was Ecomet's best day of the year. We tried to utilize his quickness more than we had earlier. We got him in the Rice backfield a lot. We had been using his strength to physically defeat the center.

"Against Rice we decided to let him pick a side and shoot through the gap. It is somewhat of a gamble but we study the opponent and pick up tendencies."

Crennell said it's a shame but the 5-foot-10, 240-pound Burley doesn't attract much notice from the professional scouts.

"The pro scouts don't show much interest ... in fact some don't even ask ... his height hurts him ... some scouts say they know where there are players 6-foot-6, and 6-foot-7 who are just as quick," Crennell added.

Burley said "I chose Tech to get a good degree. And I will. I'm majoring in political science and if I don't play pro ball I'll go onto law school or work on my masters."

Burley said he isn't bitter that he hasn't received much publicity this year because "That's what the game is about ... new faces ... new stars ... the level of competition gets better every year."

Asked if he would have liked to play four years under new Coach Steve Sloan at noseguard, Burley answered "Sure, I would have liked to have started out under coach Sloan. But I feel fortunate the way my career has turned out. I couldn't ask anymore."

For Burley, it was the second time in his career he had been named the AP's SWC Defensive Player of the Week.

"I consider it a great honor because the best football players in the nation play in Texas," he added. "I have a lot of respect for this conference."

Mustangs Will Be Fired Up

Anyone who thinks Sweetwater will be a pushover here Friday night when they invade Tiger Stadium to take on the resident Bengals could be in for a surprise.

Coach Maurice (Mo) Hodges of the Tigers pointed out Sweetwater is a traditional rival and always plays its best against Snyder. The games at Brownfield and Lubbock last week ought to be proof enough that anything can happen when two teams line up against each other.

"They'll be fired up—there's no doubt about that," Hodges declared. He said while the Tigers don't fear any team, they don't want to underestimate their opponents.

"Sweetwater only trailed Estacado 12-0 in the middle of the fourth quarter," the Tiger mentor pointed out. He spoke last night at the regular weekly meeting of the Tiger Booster Club, held in the high school cafeteria.

Hodges also pointed out Dunbar had to score twice in the last five minutes of the game to beat Sweetwater.

The scouting report was given by Coach Winfred Shipp. He said the Mustangs use a split 6 defense with a monster. Offensively, they employ the Veer offense and pass a lot.

The meeting was presided over by Bill Sikes, president of the club. Coach Jim Bartlett monitored films of the Dunbar game.

Lamesa Beats V'ball Girls

LAMESA—The Snyder High School Varsity volleyball squad fell to Lamesa last night, 6-15, 4-15 in a District 3-AAA contest here.

Scoring for the Varsity girls were Susan Walker with 4 points, Rhonda Nunley 3, and Julia Glass, Paula Falls, and Della Braziel, all with 1.

The Junior Varsity also lost, falling 11-15, 8-15. Scoring for the JVs were Connie Pollard 8 points, Shelly Nutt 4, Charlotte Pierce 3, Sylvia Garcia 3, and Andra Crenshaw 1.

The Lamesa Varsity is now 5-0 in district competition while Snyder slipped to 3-2.

Both the varsity and JV squads will close out the year tomorrow in Tiger Gym when they play host to Brownfield. The JV tilt will get underway at 6:30 followed by the Varsity at 7:30.

Astros Hire Three Coaches

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros' Manager Bill Virdon and General Manager Tal Smith Tuesday announced the appointment of three new coaches, Grover "Deacon" Jones, Tony Pacheco and Mel Wright.

All three new coaches come to the Astros from American League organizations.

Bob Lillis is the only remaining coach from the Astros' 1975 staff. Lillis will act as chief aide in the coordination of coaches for Virdon.

Jones, 41, a minor league hitting instructor for the Chicago White Sox last season, will become hitting instructor and general coach for the Astros.

Pacheco, 48, a special assignment scout with Cleveland last season, also managed Cleveland's Gulf Coast League team at Sarasota, Fla.

Wright, a coach with the New York Yankees last season, will replace pitching coach Roger Craig.

Ohio State's Craig Cassady intercepted three passes in the opening game against Michigan State. His father is Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, a Heisman Award winner who starred for the Buckeyes in 1955.

Surprising Oilers Are Tied For 1st

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — According to tradition, by mid-season the Houston Oilers have found a comfortable seat for themselves in the cellar of the American Football Conference's Central Division.

Instead, they seem quite comfortable right at the top of the division with a 6-1 record and tied with defending Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh and Cincinnati for first place.

There are several explanations for Houston's sudden, undeniable status as a contender:

—Noseguard Curley Culp, whose acquisition from Kansas City signaled the start of Houston's defense-oriented rise to NFL respectability.

—Kick returner Billy Johnson, a 15th round draft choice whose mercurial returns have played key roles in virtually every Oiler victory this season.

—A dynamite touchdown bomb crew of quarterback Dan Pastorini and wide receiver Kenny Burrough who have highlighted a still improving Oiler offense.

—O. A. "Bum" Phillips, the tobacco-chewing, country-talking head coach who helped start the turnaround last year with his befuddling three-man front defense.

The Oiler defense has been the backbone of Houston's rise. The Oilers have lost only three times in 15 games since Culp joined the team during last season.

Following last week's 17-13 victory over Kansas City, in which Culp recovered a fumble deep in Oiler territory in the final minutes, Houston ranked second in the AFC against the rush.

The Oilers are tied with Los Angeles for the NFL lead in defense against the rush. Each team has allowed 79 points.

"Curley's been the catalyst," Oiler defensive coordinator Ed Biles said. "Curley added stability and great experience and he's been to the Super Bowl before and our players immediately looked at him with great respect."

Each week, Johnson provides new exploits to confound the opposition. He failed to break a return for a touchdown against Kansas City but his fourth quarter return set up a field goal for the final score, forcing the Chiefs to go for a touchdown.

Oiler scout Walt Schlinkman convinced former head coach Sid Gillman to draft Johnson and now he says with pride "If you'll notice at the Astrodome, when Billy returns a kick, everybody stands up. When another Oiler returns a kick, the fans stay seated."

Houston's offense still lacks consistency but Pastorini, with one of the strongest throwing arms in the NFL, has learned patience. His patience paid off against Kansas City with a 77-yard TD bomb to Burrough, who has 24 receptions for 485 yards, best of his career.

"The timing between Dan and myself has been better the last couple of weeks than it has all year." Burrough said. "I don't want to say that I'm the best wide receiver in the league and I don't want oo say that I'm not the best either."

Coordinating all these changes is Phillips, whose calm, quiet approach often is disarming. Although he's fast becoming known around the league, he still goes unrecognized in some quarters.

Following last Sunday's victory over the Chiefs, Oiler publicist Jim McLemore led Kansas City newsmen into a corner where Phillips was sitting on a stool.

After a moment of silence, Phillips asked "Well, you fellas like to talk to the players?!"

"We were really looking for the coach," one writer said.

Phillips just grinned and said "The coach? Hell, you've got him."

Title Bout Set

SHIZUOKA, Japan (AP) — Champion Yuh Jae Do of South Korea and Masahiro Misako of Japan signed contracts today for their World Boxing Associaiton junior middleweight championship fight here Nov. 11.

Dusters Scrimmage Texas Tech

The Western Texas College Dusters scrimmaged Texas Tech's varsity in women's volleyball action here yesterday, and the Snyder team held the upperhand.

The scrimmage was divided into three parts. The Dusters won the first part, 33-14. With third stringers starting, the local gals won the second part, 31-25. WTC also held the upperhand, 25-15, in the third part with all of the girls getting in on the action. The overall "score" was 64-39 on favor of the Dusters.

Coach Sid Simpson said Tootie Stevenson and Temie Baker did an outstanding job of hitting long shots over Tech's zone defense. Theresa Beal, Marilyn Payton, Annie Tillman and Barbara Deman all did a good job on defense and rebounding. Dale Mitchel and Rosemary Scott handled the ball well and scored with ability from outside.

"The only weakness was our post play," said Coach Simpson, "—We've got to improve in post play."

Thomas Wants Another Chance

DALLAS (AP) — Duane Thomas wishes to forgive and forget. He wants a job carrying a football for a professional football team.

"I'm 28 but I feel 15 ... I'm quicker ... I'm faster ... I'm smarter," says the controversial former West Texas State star who was once the premier running back in the National Football League.

Thomas works out daily at Ownby Stadium on the Southern Methodist campus. He runs up and down the stairs. He skips rope. He stands on his head.

"I'm about 215 pounds and in the best condition of my life," says Thomas, whose last football adventure was a brief stay with Hawaii of the now defunct World Football League.

Thomas has appeared at the offices of the Dallas Cowboys where he had a chat with Coach Tom Landry, a person he once called "The Plastic Man." Landry put his arm around Thomas.

Asked if Dallas wanted him to come back, Thomas said "They didn't say they didn't want me back."

Thomas says, "I have reached a new maturity level. I didn't anticipate the press coming at me that strong. I had prepared myself for football ... I'm ready for you (the press) now."

He has had contact with former employers such as Washington and Houston.

Thomas' office is also trying to reach Southern California Coach John McKay, who takes over as the head man for the new Tampa NFL franchise.

"I want to play for the people of Dallas and I would like to stay in this area but I really am ready to play the game for a team that needs a good running back," said Thomas. "I'm out of the baby stage ..."

Asked if he thought he could get along with teammates, the sometimes aloof Thomas said, "I just want to do a job. I've never had any ill feelings with another player. There haven't been any confrontations."

Thomas said he'd like to see the Cowboys draft Wayne Morris, the leading ground gainer in SMU's history.

"That would be the greatest if Wayne and I could play in the same backfield ... if they (Dallas) did something like that then I would really know they had their heads on straight."

Thomas was the catalyst on Dallas' Super Bowl VI championship team which whipped Miami 24-3 at New Orleans.

He once said the Super Bowl wasn't the ultimate game "because they play another one next year don't they?"

Now, with the age of 30 fast approaching Thomas, a gifted, gliding runner with powerful legs, just wants a chance to run again.

"I know where I want to go now," he says. "I'd like another chance."

GOP Sources Claim Rockefeller 'Got Fed Up'

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An increasingly frustrated Nelson A. Rockefeller, his advice on programs ignored and his political future in doubt, decided to withdraw as President Ford's possible 1976 running mate because of widening disagreements on policy, Republican sources say.

"He just got fed up," one source said. "He finally got to the point where he couldn't take it any more."

Meanwhile, there were these other developments following the personnel shuffle in the Ford administration:

—Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., says Rockefeller's withdrawal should lead Ronald Reagan to "reassess" his plans to challenge Ford. Goldwater said the withdrawal makes a dent in Reagan's prospects of mounting a successful campaign against Ford.

—Some past and present intelligence officials expressed disappointment with Ford's choice of George Bush to succeed William E. Colby as head of the CIA.

Their objections centered on Bush's political background as a former Republican national chairman and the speculation that Bush might be in the running for the Republican vice presidential nomination.

Others, including former CIA director John A. McCone, praised the Bush appointment. McCone, who headed the agency in the early 1960s, predicted Bush would "do a good job and get the full support of the organization."

—Lt. Gen. Daniel O. Graham said he is retiring as head of the Defense Intelligence Agency because Ford fired Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger. "I'm a Schlesinger man," Graham said.

There were unconfirmed reports of other high-level Pentagon resignations.

—House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona said the GOP could be further divided, rather than unified, by Rockefeller's decision to withdraw. He said it isn't apparent that Ford made any friends on the conservative side of the party and he may have lost some on the moderate and liberal side.

—A source close to the White House said Schlesinger's firing was prompted by his outspoken criticism of a House panel that slashed his defense budget. The source also confirmed that Ford's advisers told the President there was a personality conflict between Schlesinger and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and that concern was expressed that the administration was not speaking with one voice.

Explanations of the Vice President's unexpected move began to surface Tuesday though Rockefeller and his top aides maintained a stony silence, saying they were standing behind the letter he delivered Monday to Ford at the White House.

Some sources noted that Rockefeller's letter was far more restrained than the Vice President's often effusive statements about Ford. They noted that the President, when asked if he had tried to talk Rockefeller out of withdrawing, merely said he "accepted" the decision.

Others pointed out that Rockefeller, already out of the mainstream of foreign policy decisions in the Ford administration, also was being ignored on domestic policy, particularly in the case of New York's financial difficulties.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a tendency today to blurt things out thoughtlessly. Guard against this, for someone could be badly hurt.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Usually you have your wits about you in the commercial arena. Today you could be hoodwinked because you seek something for nothing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's not a good day to make important decisions on family or financial matters. Your judgment is too clouded by emotion.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Frustrating opposition will cause you to look for a scapegoat today. It will be far better in the long run for you to take the lumps.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're all too willing to pay for something you want done today, rather than do it yourself. You'll regret this. You could have done it better — and cheaper.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you want to stay on good terms with your budget today, watch two items closely — what you spend for the home and for entertainment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Normally you are tactful. Today you'll have to be careful to avoid dissension through what you say or how you act in a crowd.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Avoid serious-type discussions with friends today. Keep it light. If you get that chip on your shoulder somebody will surely knock it off.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be careful today. That small surplus you've accumulated may burn a hole in your pocket. You could blow the whole bundle quickly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Treat your mate with kid gloves today. Something you did recently triggered an unpleasant reaction. It won't take much to bring it to the surface.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't be too coy today. Little nuances you regard as frivolous gestures could be taken seriously, much to your dismay.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Avoid large gatherings today. You're in a mood where you want attention and if you're relegated to a lesser role you may be considerably upset.

Rule May Effect East Texas

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP) — A court ruling in West Virginia, if applied to the sprawling woods of East Texas, threatens the livelihood of the state's forest industry, Texas timber growers say.

The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals recently banned all sales of timber cut in Monongahela National Forest in West Virginia and several adjoining states.

J.B. Wadsworth, president of the Texas Forestry Association, said Monday that his organization fears the ruling will be expanded to cover other national forests, including the four in Texas.

"Independent loggers and many small sawmill owners in East Texas depend heavily on timber from the Texas' national forests," Wadsworth added in a formal statement.

"A lot of small businesses would have to cease operations because of a lack of timber" if the national forests were put off limits, he added.

"Sooner or later a long period of no timber sales in the national forests of Texas would catch up with the entire economy."

If applied to Texas, he said, the law would "not only bring chaos and disaster to the forest products industry, which is important to the economy, but would destroy many sound and practical forest practices."

The West Virginia ruling came after environmentalists found a 78-year-old law governing the cutting of timber on federal land. The law permits cutting only dead or mature trees, individually marked for cutting.

Environmentalists opposed cutting trees in blocks — "clear cutting" — rather than selective cutting.

Dear Abby

Virgin Takes Pill as Preventive Medicine

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 30-year-old bachelor. For the last year I've been going with a very pretty, 28-year-old school teacher. I have asked her to marry me, but she says she is not in any hurry to get married.

She told me that she has been taking birth control pills for the last four years "in case she gets raped."

We have never been intimate. Don't get me wrong. I'm no angel. I've tried, but she won't let me. She claims she is still a virgin. As far as I know, she doesn't date anyone else.

How do you figure this pill business?

LEARY IN SANTE FE

DEAR LEARY: It's possible, of course. But I find it a little hard to swallow.

DEAR ABBY: With Christmas approaching, my in-laws have already started to buy presents for our son (their only grandchild), which presents a problem.

Even though they know that we bought him a small tricycle for his third birthday last month, they have already bought him a racing car and a fire truck to drive. In addition to that, they've bought him a sled, a desk and chair set, an elaborate aquarium and a cowboy outfit, complete with a wooden "horsey" to ride. And they are still buying!

We know they enjoy shopping for their only grandson, but showering him with presents creates problems. Our gifts and the gifts of the other grandparents who can't afford much will look like nothing. Also, our son will not be able to appreciate anything.

Abby, do we have the right to limit the amount of gifts my husband's parents give our child?

My husband says we shouldn't deprive them of this pleasure. I disagree.

AWAITING YOUR WORD

DEAR AWAITING: I vote with you. If your parents want to indulge the child, suggest that they buy him one gift and start a savings account for him. The boy may not appreciate it now, but he will when it's time to go to college.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are senior citizens. We live in the suburbs and do not drive.

When we are invited out, is it proper to ask the hostess if she has invited someone who lives near us and drives and if he wouldn't mind meeting us at a convenient bus stop or picking us up? And if it's proper to ask, who should call these people to make the arrangements? The hostess or us?

If we could get there by a simple bus ride there would be no problem. But the places we're usually invited to require two or three bus transfers or are places that can't be reached by bus at all.

We realize that taxis are available, but they're too expensive for us.

TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: It is not improper to inquire. However, the thoughtful hostess who is aware of your circumstances will make appropriate suggestions when possible. (P.S. Chronic ride-alongs should remember to reward the driver with a modest gift.)

Limey Sailors Eye Record

SYDNEY (AP) — British yacht Great Britain II is expected to easily break the 105-year-old sailing record from London to Sydney with an arrival in Sydney on Thursday, according to organizers of the 13,900-mile race.

Great Britain II was 200 miles from Sydney along the southeast coast of Australia at 3 p.m. local time Wednesday. French entry Kriter II was believed to be 160 miles east of the British yacht and was likely to arrive in Sydney 10 or 11 hours later.

Race organizer Anthony Churchill said the other entrants, Italian schooner C.S. and R.B. Busnelli II and Dutch yacht Great Escape, were two to three weeks behind the frontrunners.

Runoff Set To Decide Houston Mayor's Race

HOUSTON (AP) — Mayor Fred Hofheinz, seeking a second two-year term, will face former Dist. Atty. Frank Briscoe in a Dec. 2 runoff election.

Hofheinz, son of a former mayor, led from the start Tuesday and gradually increased his margin but failed to gather the 50 per cent plus majority needed to avoid a runoff in the election that attracted 44 per cent of the city's nearly 600,000 eligible voters.

Dick Gottlieb, 51, a former city councilman who narrowly lost to Hofheinz in a runoff two years ago, ran third. Two other minor candidates trailed far behind.

With returns virtually complete late Tuesday night, Hofheinz, 37, had 112,736 votes, or 47 per cent of the total, and Briscoe, 49, had 75,269, or 32 per cent. Gottlieb had 47,089, or 20 per cent.

Pedro Vasquez of the Socialist Workers Party received 1,484 votes and Scott Nelson, Imperial Wizard of the Texas Fiery Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, was last with 901.

Houston voters joined others in Harris County to defeat the proposed new state constitution by a nearly 3-1 margin.

Seven of eight city councilmen were re-elected and the eighth place will be decided by a runoff. Three incumbents had no opposition.

Voters also balloted on three school board positions, with two of them to be settled by runoffs.

Hofheinz, who campaigned on his efforts to modernize and improve the efficiency of city government, said he is looking forward to the runoff with Briscoe.

Briscoe, who with Gottlieb had claimed Hofheinz gouged citizens with exhorbitant water, sewer and tax bills, predicted he wold win in the runoff.

"I think it is significant that 60 per cent of the voters rejected Mr. Hofheinz," Briscoe said. "If the same pattern develops in the runoff, I think it's obvious he can be defeated."

Gottlieb, a public relations executive who lost by 2,500 votes to Hofheinz two years ago, said lack of funds for advertising was a key factor in his third place finish. He said his opponents "outstripped me with television spots about eight to one."

He also said the constitution question "brought a great many voters in conservative areas."

"They decided Briscoe should be the one," he said.

Castillo polled 112,718 or 56 per cent of the vote in his successful bid for re-election as controller. Steve Jones, an accountant, was second with 78,564. Betsy Farley, the Socialist Workers Party candidate, polled 10,790.

Incumbent councilmen Larry McKaskle, Judson Robinson Jr., Homer Ford and Frank Mancuso won landslide victories while three others—Jim Westmoreland, Frank E. Mann and Johnny Goyen—had no opposition.

Businessman Louis Macey and political activist Jeanne Elliott will face each other for the eighth council position. They were the top vote getters in an 11-candidate field for a post to be vacated by Councilman Jim McConn.

Macey received 39,085 or 22 per cent of the vote while Mrs. Elliott managed 34,703 or 20 per cent.

Ernest B. McGowen was the winner for school trustee Dist. 2 with 8,057 or 68 per cent of the vote in a three-candidate race.

There will be runoffs for the other two school board positions.

In Dist. 3, William Harwell, with 7,505 votes, will face Augustina Reyes, who polled 5,535 votes. There were four other candidates in the race.

Dr. Edith Irby Jones and William Holland will face each other in a runoff for trustee Dist. 4. Dr. Jones topped the five-candidate field with 7,580 votes and Holland had 7,048.

Gulf Accused Of Hiding Settlement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gulf Oil Corp. was accused Tuesday of hiding a financial arrangement by which its former chief lobbyist allegedly used Gulf funds to repay the company in settlement of a stockholder suit last year.

The settlement with a dissident stockholder group, the Project on Corporate Responsibility, called for the lobbyist, Claude Wild Jr., to pay $25,000 to Gulf to reimburse the corporation for legal and other expenses it incurred because of Wild's illegal political donations.

The project said on Tuesday, however, that the money Wild used to repay Gulf in 1974 came not from his own pocket, but from Gulf itself.

The group filed court papers seeking to reopen the case to take testimony from Wild and Gulf officials.

Wild, who was Gulf's chief lobbyist in Washington before being fired, controlled a multi-million-dollar corporate slush fund. He and Gulf pleaded guilty in 1973 to making illegal donations to 1972 presidential campaigns, including $100,000 to Richard Nixon, $15,000 to Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., and $10,000 to Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash.

A spokesman at Gulf headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pa., said "no corporate funds were used" by Wild to repay the company. But the spokesman added: "Only he could identify the source of the money he paid to Gulf."

Gloria Swanson Foe Of Sugar

By JURATE KAZICKAS
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "I've been in the public eye for so long I guess I'm a curiosity," said Gloria Swanson. "People wonder how I still look good after all these years."

That 76-year-old face does look good — smooth and fresh as a schoolgirl's, framed by side-parted brown hair. Solid white teeth flash through crimson lips. There's that distinctive mole, those delicately diabolical eyebrows arched over clear blue eyes and spiked, fluttering fake eyelashes.

"It's hereditary, all in the genes," Miss Swanson demurs, dashing the hopes of beauties who will be septuagenarians one day. "But no one can have skin like a baby's bottom if they're going to stuff that hole in their face with chocolate and banana splits."

The lengendary movie queen is a passionate advocate of pure food and good diet and a zealous foe of sugar. She says the countless evils of demon sugar have been exposed by her friend, William Dufty, in his book, "Sugar Blues" which Miss Swanson is helping to promote.

Dufty, a very thin, ascetic-looking man of 59, resembled a big bellied buddha until she alerted him to the dangers of sugar about 20 years ago during a brief encounter, Miss Swanson said.

He sat quietly nearby while Miss Swanson, wrapped in a white and black-embroidered caftan, snuggled into a large stuffed chair in her Fifth Avenue apartment and held forth, almost nonstop, on her favorite topic.

"If you have knowledge, you must share it with other people," she said. "My concern for good health has been a life belt for me. I feel a debt to the public and will spend my life trying to help them."

Don't eat unless hungry, she advised. Don't eat when tired or cross because food doesn't digest well those times. Don't eat what is not clean.

The conversation is gently edged away from diet to Miss Swanson's life these days. Her most famous role was in "Sunset Boulevard," made in 1949, and her last major stage role involved 666 performances of "Butterflies Are Free" on Broadway several years ago. She said she was juggling a number of projects that she didn't want to talk about. It is "Gloria Swanson from Silent to Sound."

She likes to travel around visiting her two daughters and her grandchildren. Around her neck she wore a hand-made gold and silver necklace representing a family tree.

"I like being called a grandmother. That's the normal, natural thing. Biologically, woman is meant to have children and care for them," said Miss Swanson, who clearly espouses the traditional male-female roles. "I want to feel that a man is stronger than me and knows more. I do think men and women are different. A woman should not live a man's life.

"I don't like females. I like women. I like women with men's minds. I have no time for trivial gossip."

Ruling On Patty Pledged Friday

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst, described by her attorney as mentally "crippled" and by a prosecutor as "fully competent," awaits a judge's ruling on her mental competence to stand trial.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter calls it "a most difficult and most complex question to decide," but he promises to make the decision by Friday.

In the interim, Carter said he will re-examine "in great detail" three voluminous reports by the psychiatric panel which examined Miss Hearst. He called the documents "complex and extremely verbose."

One report concludes that Miss Hearst was "literally a prisoner of war for 20 months" and is suffering from a "traumatic neurosis," her attorney said.

But U.S. Atty. James Browning Jr. insisted that none of the reports showed her to be incompetent to stand trial immediately on federal charges of taking part in a bank robbery while she was a fugitive with the Symbionese Liberation Army. Miss Hearst has not yet entered a plea on the charges.

Miss Hearst, in court for the first time in six weeks for her competence hearing Tuesday, was pale but alert. She wore a plain brown pants suit and her hair hung limply to her shoulders. Blank-faced at her previous court sessions, she was more animated Tuesday, whispering and chatting with her attorneys.

Miss Hearst's parents, Randolph and Catherine Hearst, sat in the front row of the courtroom with daughters Vicki and Ann. But Patricia, seated at the counsel table, showed no reaction to their presence.

"She is making progress, visible progress," attorney F. Lee Bailey said later.

Bailey, in his first court appearance for the newsaper heiress, read the "prisoner of war" description from the report by Dr. L.J. West, a specialist in brainwashing after-effects.

The psychiatric reports themselves remain secret but were open to court discussion.

Bailey disclosed that West recommended three to four months of psychiatric treatment for the 21-year-old defendant. Another panel member, Dr. Seymour Pollack of the University of Southern California, recommended 30 to 90 days of treatment, Bailey said.

Recommendations by the third panel member, Dr. Donald Lunde of Stanford University, were not disclosed. Clinical psychologist Margaret Thaler Singer also filed a lengthy report on clinical tests conducted on Miss Hearst.

Bailey urged the judge to commit Miss Hearst to a mental hospital for at least 30 days and then re-evaluate her condition before setting a trial date.

Bailey has predicted that Miss Hearst's trial on the bank robbery charges will not begin until 1976. She faces another eventual trial in Los Angeles on state charges of kidnaping, assault and robbery.

The SLA kidnaped her on Feb. 4, 1974, but she later professed allegiance to the SLA and allegedly took part in an SLA robbery of the Hibernia Bank branch here in April 1974 and other crimes.

FBI Needs Trust Of Americans

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley says his agency must have the trust of Americans if it is to function effectively especially in the area of domestic security.

Kelley told the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday that FBI intelligence-gathering tactics and investigations of militants have thwarted numerous bombings and terrorist activities in the United States.

But, he added, "We are concerned that the highly publicized scrutiny and criticism of our domestic operations in recent months will undermine the trust Americans traditionally have placed in the FBI."

He said much of the criticism was "well intentioned" and some "perhaps justified."

"Yet in the vast majority of instances such criticism stems from functions the FBI took many years ago in extraordinarily turbulent times," he said.

Kelley told his audience that critics of the FBI have ignored the success of intelligence-gathering operations.

"In the flow of news emanating from Washington, too often a miscue by an FBI agent is inflated to represent a massive assault on individual rights by the bureau," he said. "There have been assaults on the rights and tranquility of people, but not by the FBI."

He cited 18 bombings this year for which terrorist organizations have claimed responsibility.

He said FBI intelligence work stopped a plan to bomb the Internal Revenue Service building in Washington and two blocks in an unidentified city. Kelley said "a white-hate activist" had planned those bombings and that the person was arrested in New Jersey.

The FBI learned of the plan in June 1974, Kelley said.

The director also claimed that FBI intelligence work stopped another plan to burn a dwelling occupied by 18 persons and a separate plot to dynamite the home of the head of the Anti-Defamation League in New Orleans.

"I could list accomplishments such as these from now until midnight, with some left over," Kelley said. "But suffice it to say prevention of bloodshed and destruction, the maintenance of order and the stability of our government are the priority objectives of our domestic security work."

Declaring that the FBI "has no desire to oppose legitimate dissent," Kelley said, "it is the extremist who preaches a litany of violence against government, against private enterprise, against ethnic groups, against religious orders, who is the target of these investigations."

Kelley repeated that he welcomes "impartial evaluations of our operations and policies."

SAYS IBM CHAIRMAN

Individual Corporate Codes More Practical

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — "American business today is too diversified to operate under a universal code of business conduct," Frank T. Cary, chairman of International Business Machines Corp., said.

"More practical," he said, "would be a code of business conduct written by each company." Or perhaps, he conceded, an industry code might be possible. But an over-all standard, in his view, would be riddled with exceptions.

IBM, perhaps more than any other company, has a reputation for spirited but highly disciplined efficiency, and for establishing behavioral rules for its 290,000 employes.

A variety of social activitists are calling for such a code, following accounts of illegal political contributions, payments to foreign agents to obtain preferential treatment and other scandals.

In an interview, Cary suggested that attempts to establish a common code would become bogged in details that might obscure the general intent, but he reaffirmed his belief in individual company codes.

In formulating written codes, sometimes to avoid legal pitfalls and consumer complications, some companies find they are articulating for the first time their underlying spirit and over-all goals.

IBM's code ranges from broad, idealistic statements to legalistically detailed commands.

Underlying all seems to be a statement in 1962 by Tom Watson Jr., son of the founder, in a McKinsey Foundation Lecture at Columbia University.

"The basic philosophy, spirit, and drive of an organization," he said, "have far more to do with its relative achievements than do technological or economic resources, organizational structure, innovation, and timing."

Atop that are three "basic beliefs": Respect for the individual, the best customer service possible, and "excellence" in the pursuit of goals.

Specifics are contained in an 84-page book entitled "Business Conduct Guidelines," the contents of which all managers and many others must, on a yearly basis, certify they understand.

The punch card accompanying the book requires the employe to put his signature below a phrase stating, "I recognize that any violation of these guidelines may be cause for dismissal from the company."

The fine, as Cary views it, must be stiff. And there should be no exceptions to its application, even if the individual is an officer or another essential employe.

"An ethical code must be the personal concern of the chief executive," he said. "It isn't worth much if it isn't developed at that level." The ideas might come from below, he said, but the responsibility must come from the top.

It must also be understood. "It's easy to make statements," he continued, "but then they must be communicated." If the chief executive is to have his code implemented, it must be understood that it isn't simply a pro forma document.

"You must make clear that these ethical standards apply even if they interfere with reaching business goals. It must be clear that ethical standards take precedence."

Discussed in the book are matters such as gifts and entertainment — no gifts to a customer if they could reasonably be viewed as resulting from the IBM relationship — disparagement of competitors, conflicts of interest.

There is a highly practical side to the code. "The fact that everyone in IBM knows the rules is a great discipline," Cary said. It makes managing more effective. It helps avoid legal difficulties.

The IBM code prohibits illegal political contributions, of course, but in doing so it further demonstrates the large components of practicality and self-interest.

By involving a company in such activities, Cary said, "you begin to put the future of a business on a very shaky foundation of political success or failure."

Politics, he suggested, is not what business does best. Its job is to provide goods and services and be a responsible member of the community, according to Cary. Politics, he said, is not its forte.

Dealers Serving NYC Anxious About Bills

By STANLEY JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Phones are ringing busily at City Hall with 14,000 suppliers from across the country calling to find out if financially hard-pressed New York will be able to pay for the $500 million worth of goods it has on order.

That doesn't count such capital items as $300 million worth of subway cars being built by the Pullman Co. in St. Louis.

"So far there's no panic, but there's an awful lot of anxiety," said a spokesman for the Municipal Services Administration.

Among the most anxious was Dave Koeppel of Airport Motors in the New York City borough of Queens. Koeppel has 25 Plymouth police cars on his lot waiting for delivery to the city and is unsure what to do since, he says, the city already owes him $1.5 million. The contract is worth $6 million a year.

"If we don't get paid, the car people in Michigan don't get paid and the glass people in Pittsburgh don't get paid and the tire people in Akron don't get paid and so forth," Koeppel said.

"But we got faith. We got faith the money will come from somewhere, because if it doesn't, an awful lot of people in an awful lot of towns are going to suffer."

Koeppel said this shipment at least will go through and added he's already used his own money to pay for them.

Thomas Cecil, president of Swift & Co. in Chicago, telephoned purchasing commissioner Robert I. Cohen the other day dunning him for a $605,000 unpaid food bill. Cohen said Cecil told him if the city doesn't pay the company would have to close a section employing 110 men, the largest single loss in the history of the meat packing firm.

"This thing is national in scope," Cohen said in an interview. "And it works two ways. If we can't pay the bills, they're not going to deliver. What are we going to do for water if we can't pay for the chemicals to purify it?"

The national scope of unpaid New York City bills was a major theme of a speech Mayor Abraham D. Beame prepared for the National Press Club in Washington today.

The city, meanwhile, is entering into no new contracts except short-term ones for such perishable items as fresh foods.

Truck farmers from as far away as Iowa and Florida were reported among the most insistent callers. Some of them grow produce almost exclusively for the city.

"Some of the smaller firms will go bankrupt if New York City goes bankrupt," Cohen said.

City officials said big firms would not be hurt over-all, but sections devoted mostly to supplying New York would be.

For instance, there is a $12.5 million a year contract with International Harvester for Sanitation Department equipment made in Springfield, Ohio, and Fort Wayne, Ind.

IBM supplies $1.5 million a year worth of goods from Boca Raton, Fla.; Rochester, Minn.; Boulder, Colo.; and Raleigh, N.C.

Xerox has another $1.5 million annual contract in which Rochester, N.Y., is interested.

Snyderites' Brother Dies

Word has been received here of the death of Henry Moreland Ellington, 66, of Stockton, Calif. He died at 4 a.m. today in a Stockton hospital. He was the brother of Bill Ellington, Bennie Ellington and Joe Ellington, all of Snyder.

Mr. Ellington was born Jan. 17, 1909, in Magnum, Okla. Funeral Services are pending in Stockton, Calif.

Other surivvors include a daughter of Redding, Calif., and two sisters, Mrs. Estelle Pitts of Marana, Ariz., and Mrs. Sally Yeager of Stockton, Calif.

Charismatics Plan Special Meeting

DALLAS (AP) — The president of the Southern Baptist Convention says he isn't surprised that charismatic churches plan a special meeting in Dallas next July.

Dr. Jaroy Weber, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Lubbock and head of the 12.2 million member congregation, said Monday it was too early to tell what effect the conference may have on his church.

The charismatic churches practice faith healing and speaking in tongues. They have been criticized recently by some Baptist leaders.

Weber said he opposes the movement because it is not "compatible with the teaching of the New Testament."

Bill Brooks Finds Success In Wood

Wood has a particular fascination for Bill Brooks. He began making carvings and sculptures from wood about three years ago, and the evidences of his success are currently being featured in an exhibit in the Scurry County Museum on the Western Texas College campus.

Brooks was reared in Scurry County and is a graduate of Ira High School, and it was like old home day in the museum Sunday afternoon when Brooks was there to greet museum visitors. Many were old friends or friends of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Algie Brooks. Accompanying the artist was his wife, the former Theda DeShan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theo DeShan. The couple and their two daughters now live in Big Spring.

Windmills are a popular subject with Brooks both in wood working and pen and ink sketches. One of the largest of the carvings depicts an Eclipse windmill. A signed print of a sketch of an Eclipse may be purchased for $5 (unsigned prints are $2), and a framed print is displayed to let prospective purchasers get an idea of how it might look on their wall. Brooks chose a frame of weathered wood for the print, but those who prefer a more finished frame can also see possibilities with other types.

Also for sale are some of the original sketches and some of the carvings and sculptures.

Brooks has been commissioned to do a carving for the Big Spring Heritage Museum. The museum furnished Brooks a copy of an 1881 photograph of the big spring for which the town was named. Brooks brought it to the museum Sunday along with the sketch he has made from it to show how he begins translating a subject from one medium to another. His carvings have a photographic quality because of the detail they show.

The Brooks exhibit is to remain in the museum through Nov. 14. Museum hours are 8-5 Mondays through Thursdays and 8-4 on Fridays. The public is also invited to see an exhibit of monoprints by Barry Phillips of Odessa in the WTC Fine Arts Building.

Dr. Lamb

Coffee may irritate colon

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Would like more information on the foods containing caffeine. I have colitus and suffer so, I think my diet must be faulty.

DEAR READER—Coffee is irritating to some people's colon, and many readers have written me that their symptoms have disappeared after stopping it entirely. In most cases I think this is from the action of caffeine in the coffee, but it is true that some sensitive people don't tolerate the flavor oils in coffee, either.

To give you some information on how much caffeine you might find in beverages, send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 1-1, Coffee, Tea, Colas, Cocoa. You can send your request to me in care of this newspaper, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Enclose a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for mailing.

You may be surprised to see cocoa on the list. Many a mother gives her child cocoa to avoid the caffeine in coffee not knowing that cocoa also contains caffeine, and enough to give a child a good dose. The same applies to all cocoa products or chocolate.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I would like to know if there are any side effects from taking Diuril for high blood pressure. I have been taking it for three years, 250 mg a day.

DEAR READER—There are always side effects to all medicines, including aspirin and even to most foods, for some people.

Diuril and most of the other medicines that people take to eliminate water from the body act by causing the kidney to eliminate sodium. As sodium is eliminated it takes the excess water with it to maintain the proper concentration of salt in water for your body.

In addition to eliminating sodium, other salts may be lost, including the loss of potassium and magnesium. Small doses of water pills over a long period of time will not cause any harm in people on normal diets who are not exposed to heat or conditions that impose excessive sweating. From that point you move into the broad spectrum of multiple problems caused by too much loss of sodium, potassium, magnesium or other minerals, that may occur with increased dosage and increased elimination of salt and water. I wouldn't think that the small dose you are taking would likely cause you any problem.

I have mentioned the problem of loss of potassium from these medicines in previous columns. You can help avoid this by including plenty of fruit and fruit juices in the diet. Long term use of these medicines can lead to low magnesium levels, too. You need magnesium in the process that controls body temperature, formation of body proteins, muscular contractions and many functions closely related to the actions of calcium. Incidentally, alcoholism, diabetes and disorders that cause poor absorption from the intestines may also cause low magnesium levels.

Where does magnesium come from in your diet? From many foods including beans, corn, whole wheat flour and oatmeal.

And, what should one do to be sure not to get into trouble with low mineral levels? Eat a proper diet in the first place. Physicians should check all the minerals (electrolytes) regularly in patients taking any of these medications. I am inclined to think that the problem of low magnesium may be ignored in too many instances, with all the attention being focused on potassium.
