New Chiefs' Policy Line

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)— Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko today called for world summit conference on disarmament.

The Soviet proposal was made before the U.N. General Assembly in the first major policy declaration of the new Soviet leadership.

Gromyko also submitted a detailed memorandum on disarmament, outlining measures to be considered at the proposed conference.

The Soviet foreign minister declared that the present international situation was ripe for progress on such measures as a complete ban on nuclear weapons, the liquidation of foreign bases and the reduction of military budgets.

U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson listened intently as Gromyko spoke in quiet, conciliatory words.

The Soviet delegate specifically endorsed Red China's proposal for a meeting of the heads of state of all countries to consider a ban on all nuclear weapons. He also backed the recommendation of the nonaligned nations at Cairo for a world disarmament conference. He said:

"The Soviet government is prepared to participate in further discussions in any forum and at any level, including the highest one, of the problem of general and complete disarmament, of banning and destroying nuclear weapons, and of measures for the curtailment of the arms drive."

Gromyko pledged the Soviet government's complete support to the United Nations and promised to use it "for easing international tensions, for international cooperation and for the development of relations among states with different social systems on the basis of the principles of peaceful coexistence."

Gromyko referred to what he called the "great verbal swordplay" on the issue of U.N. peacekeeping. He made no specific mention of the formulas being advanced to resolve the crisis over failure of the Russians to pay peacekeeping assessments, but stressed that all solutions must be in accordance with the U.N. Charter.

In the Soviet view, the assessments violated the charter because they were approved by the General Assembly instead of the Security Council.

In a separate disarmament memorandum, Gromyko repeated the main proposals previously advanced by the Soviet delegation at the Geneva arms conferences.

The memorandum stated that the Soviet Union favors the establishment of denuclearized zones in northern Europe, the Balkans, Africa, the Indian Ocean, the Middle East and in other areas. It also said the Soviet Union is prepared to discuss the sequence of the elimination of all bomber aircraft.

Another standard Soviet proposal reiterated in the document was the appeal for a nonaggression pact between the Warsaw Treaty countries and the members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Talks Expected To Broaden Viet War

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and South Vietnamese Premier Tran Van Huong today opened planning talks expected to lead to bombing of Viet Cong supply lines in Laos.

Taylor returned to Saigon Sunday from Washington amid increasing speculation that the war against the Communists would be broadened. It was believed that President Johnson had ruled out attacks against North Viet Nam, but the Red supply routes through southern Laos were considered likely targets.

Officials said no announcements were expected from the U.S.-Vietnamese planning sessions.

"I think as time goes on the results of the decisions will become apparent," one official said.

Taylor on his return said new measures by both the United States and the South Vietnamese would be discussed. He refused to say what they were.

"As an outcome of my visit," Taylor said, "the President has instructed me to consult urgently with the government of Premier Tran Van Huong as to the measures to be taken to improve the situation here in all its aspects."

The ambassador said Johnson had "reaffirmed the basic U.S. policy of providing all possible useful assistance to the South Viet Nam people and the Huong government in their struggle to defeat the externally supported insurgency and aggression being conducted against them."

Thousands of police were strung out along Taylor's route from the airport into town. There had been rumors that Buddhists planned a demonstration against the Huong government. None materialized.

The South Vietnamese forces scored a major victory against the Viet Cong in a fierce nine-hour battle Saturday on the Ca Mau Peninsula, at the southern tip of South Viet Nam. The government said 115 Communists were killed in the encounter at Tan Lac village, about 150 miles southwest of Saigon.

South Vietnamese officials said their side suffered 86 casualties, but the battle was regarded as a psychological boost for the government's war effort, which had been sagging badly.

Six U.S. airmen were wounded in the attack as U.S. helicopters raked the Communist battalion with rockets and light bombers dropped 500-pound bombs. Communist fire damaged 14 helicopters.

In another weekend battle at Binh Ghia, 40 miles southeast of Saigon, government forces ambushed a Communist hamlet, killing 23 Viet Cong and seizing 16 civilian hostages. The government lost seven men and five were missing. Fourteen were wounded.

Connally's Inauguration Is Delayed

AUSTIN (AP)—The secretary of the State Democratic Executive Committee said today Gov. John Connally's inauguration will be held on Jan. 26, a week later than originally scheduled.

Will Davis said the committee is making plans for the inauguration and a Jan. 25 victory dinner after a poll of the legislature showed a majority in favor of moving the date from Jan. 19.

The postponement avoids a conflict with the inauguration of President Johnson in Washington on Jan. 20.

The governor's inauguration date will be officially set by a resolution of the legislature after it convenes Jan. 12.

Davis said Speaker Byron Tunnell and Lt. Gov. Preston Smith checked the House and Senate by mail to determine whether a majority favored the postponement.

"We have almost unanimous consent from the legislature that it will be held on Tuesday the 26th of January," said Davis.

Mariner 4 Holds Course To Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A scientist at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory says of Mariner 4's smooth cruise toward Mars:

"If everything goes well, this is the way it will be for a long time to come — hopefully, until July."

That's the month when the spacecraft is scheduled to pass within 4,400 miles of Mars, its television cameras ready to take the closest pictures yet of the reddish planet.

Arabs, Negroes Battle In Sudan

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

KHARTOUM, Sudan, (AP) — Arabs and Negroes battled through the night in Khartoum, and fighting continued today. An estimated 10 persons were reported killed and scores were injured, including an American couple.

The racial warfare broke out when thousands of Negroes from South Sudan massed at the Khartoum Airport to protest domination by the East African nation's Arab majority. Then they invaded the city, smashing automobiles and attacking Europeans and Americans as well as Arabs.

Apparently the Europeans and Americans were mistaken in the dark for Arabs. "This is not against you," a leader of the mob told an English family and two Americans at the airport.

The rioters smashed windows at Communist China's embassy. Iron shutters were lowered over the windows of the U.S. Embassy and a Marine guard was on the alert.

Helmeted police and troops with bayonets dispersed the Negro mob. An hour later thousands of Arabs armed with sticks invaded the Negro quarter adjoining the airport. Bloody clashes were reported through the night.

The demonstration started at Khartoum Airport when a crowd of about 5,000 Negroes assembled to greet Interior Minister Clement Mboro. Mboro, a Negro, had been touring South Sudan, where Negro tribes are rebelling against the Arabs of the northern Sudan who dominate the government and the army.

At first held in check by the organizers, the crowd chanted slogans calling for the separation of the southern provinces from the rest of the country. Then the mob broke through the thin cordon of organizers and stormed the airport building, smashing doors and glass.

The crowd had grown to about 10,000 as it spilled into an adjacent residential section.

Blaze Destroys Store In Houston

HOUSTON (AP)—Fire in a new furniture store in southwest Houston Sunday night caused $300,000 damages.

Hyman Finger, owner of Finger Furniture Company, estimated the loss at $200,000 in furniture and $100,000 to the galvanized steel building.

Commissioners To View Proposed Site For New Coliseum

The Scurry County commissioners court this morning received and discussed a proposed site plan for the new coliseum which will be built on the old Starlite Theatre location on the East Highway.

The proposed plan would place the building near the western end of the property, parallel to the East Highway.

The commissioners will inspect the site with the proposed location in mind. If they approve, test holes will be dug to determine the soil texture under the proposed site.

The tentative plan was submitted by J. D. Hinton, local representative of the architectural firm which is to design the building. Representatives of the firm from Austin are expected to meet with the court next Monday with more detailed plans of the structure itself.

Soviets Plan To Assist Congo Rebels

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

CAIRO (AP) — The Soviet Union reportedly has agreed to help finance the growing arms airlift to the Congolese rebels.

An East European Communist diplomat said the Soviets agreed last weekend to replenish stocks of the Soviet-made weapons which Algeria and the United Arab Republic are shipping to Christophe Gbenye's forces. The Russians also reportedly will pay part of the airlift costs.

Communist China has supported the rebels through its embassy in Burundi, east of the Congo, but when the rebels were driven north toward the Sudanese border, the supply lines became difficult to maintain. The Chinese are reported trying to improve their supply, and the Soviets apparently are trying to counter this.

Witnesses have seen Soviet-built Antonov transports of Egyptian and Algerian registry ferrying weapons to the Congo through Khartoum and Juba, in Sudan.

The Soviet support of the airlift was negotiated in Cairo by rebel "defense minister" Gaston Soumialot and the Soviet ambassador to Egypt, Vladimir Erofeev.

In the former rebel capital of Stanleyville about 20 white mercenaries and a company of Congolese government soldiers crossed the Congo River in barges Sunday to clean out rebel snipers in the native quarter on the south bank.

Biting Cold Continues In Stricken NY

By HERB STRENTZ

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — Cold and hardship continued today for thousands of families in an ice-crippled eastern portion of New York. Power crews sought to restore heat and light for nearly 40,000 customers.

The sun glistened this morning on a winter wonderland created by ice-laden trees and power lines. Temperatures ranged down to 10 below zero in the wake of one of the state's worst storms.

The bitter cold added the threat of frozen water pipes for stricken residents, most of whom were in an area bounded generally by Albany on the south, Glens Falls on the north and Amsterdam-Gloversville on the west.

Three deaths were attributed to the weekend onslaught of snow, sleet and freezing rain.

Many schools closed Friday remained closed today. Others served as emergency centers for those driven from their homes. Churches, fire houses and other public places also were opened for emergency use, and cooking facilities were provided.

The Weather Bureau said tonight and Tuesday would be a bit warmer, amid scattered snow.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, touring evacuation centers in the Schenectady area Sunday night, declared, "We've had ice storms before, but none has ever been as bad as this."

He was talking about a combination of freezing rain, snow and ice accumulation that began Friday and that, by late Sunday night, froze community activities — from high school basketball games to worship services—to a stop.

Families began entering the emergency centers Friday night. Others followed as the storm damage left thousands of homes without electricity or heat.

At its peak, the storm had darkened the homes and businesses of more than 75,000 of the 338,800 customers of the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. in eastern-central New York.

A power company spokesman said Sunday night that the number of homes and businesses without electricity and heat was down to about 40,000.

FOR BILLIE SOL

Supreme Court To Hear Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court decided today to rule on whether live television coverage of the trial of Billie Sol Estes on a charge of swindling violated his rights under the U.S. Constitution.

Estes, the Texan whose financial bubble burst with heavy losses by lending companies, appealed to the high tribunal from his conviction by a state court jury in Tyler, Tex. He was sentenced to eight years imprisonment.

The Supreme Court, in announcing it had granted Estes a hearing, said it would be restricted to the Texan's complaint against requiring him to [illegible] trial."

The announcement said the hearing will be limited to this question:

"Whether the action of the trial court, over petitioner's (Estes's) continued objection, denied him due process of law and equal protection of the laws under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, in requiring petitioner to submit to live television of his trial, and in refusing to adopt in this all-out publicity case, as a rule of trial procedure, Canon 35 of the Canons of Judicial Ethics of the American Bar Association, and instead adopting and following, over defendant's (Estes's) objection, Canon 28 of the Canons of Judicial Ethics, since adopted by the integrated state bar of Texas."

FBI Readies Evidence For Hearing In Mississippi

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) — The case of the three slain civil rights workers is heading toward its next climax Thursday when the government unveils evidence at a preliminary hearing.

Mississippi authorities await a look at the FBI evidence. They must decide if they will press murder charges—a state offense—against some of the 21 men arrested last Friday.

"The first thing I'm going to do," said Dist. Atty. W. H. Johnson Jr., "is review the evidence very, very carefully, and then make the decision on whether the state will take action."

Johnson said the FBI has given assurances it will turn over [illegible] state.

The FBI has charged 19 men with violating the civil rights of the slain workers. Two other men were charged with being accessories. These are all federal charges. The preliminary hearing could be a delicate legal crossroad. It is scheduled in nearby Meridian before U.S. Commissioner Esther Carter.

Justice Department attorneys will try to put on enough testimony to convince the commissioner they have a strong enough case to warrant holding the 21 men for grand jury action.

On the other hand, it is expected that the government will be trying to hold back the bulk of its case — so as not to tip its hand.

While the government readies its case, a statewide defense fund is being organized for the defendants, five of whom, according to the FBI, are Ku Klux Klan members.

Laurel G. Wier, one of eight attorneys who represented 18 of the men at their arraignment Friday, said calls offering funds have come from as far as Wisconsin. He said a corporation may be formed to administer the fund.

In Philadelphia, Sheriff Lawrence Rainey said Saturday he was offered money by FBI agents for information about the slayings. Rainey, one of those arrested, said agents told him they had witnesses.

The FBI declined comment on the witnesses but said the money claim was "ridiculous."

The civil rights workers, Michael Schwerner, Andrew Goodman and James Chaney, a Negro, disappeared near Philadelphia last June. Their bullet-riddled bodies were found in an earth-filled dam Aug. 4.

Mrs. McClanahan's sickness was noncontagious, the hospital said.

Miss Rebecca Thompson, 18, of Houston, died Nov. 29 of the disease.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: While a senior at the university last year, I fell in love with another senior. We were married in July and I agreed to take a job on campus to help put my husband through graduate school. I became suspicious when I never saw him studying and he appeared so nonchalant about finals that I checked up on him. I found out that while I was working like a horse all day he was playing bridge. Then I discovered that he wasn't even registered in the university! He says he loves me and if I give him another chance he'll enroll next term and make it up to me, and give up bridge entirely until he's finished with school. What do you make of this and what should I do?

STUNNED

DEAR STUNNED: Let's just say your husband finessed your jack! Give him another chance. But save your heart and lead with a club if he cheats again.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been very happily married for many years. I am his second wife. His first wife died and left him with three small children. She had been gone a year when I met him. All the children are married now.

A few days ago his daughter's husband showed me a picture of a little girl and said she had been fathered by my husband while he was in the service in another country about 20 years ago. He spent four years there. I was shocked. This son-in-law is planning to confront my husband with this in the presence of the entire family when we get together for the holidays. My husband had a heart attack last year and I'm afraid he might suffer a setback. He is now 62 years old. What should I do?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: First, tell your husband of the sadistic son-in-law's threat and assure him that, true or false, it means nothing to you. Second, both of you tell the son-in-law that until and unless he surrenders the picture and drops the blackmail, there will be NO father at family gatherings where the son-in-law is present.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I don't agree with your advice that a nursing mother should get out of sight and nurse her baby in private. Ninety per cent of the people don't even notice a mother nursing her baby, and those who do are only admiring the mother for the wonderful thing she is doing. So I say that when a baby is hungry, feed him, no matter where you are.

I am the mother of two and I nursed both my children wherever I happened to be, and thought nothing of it. That is what God gave women breasts for — not to hold their dresses out.

MRS. M. G. G.
BRECKENRIDGE, TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: What is a girl supposed to do when a boy's friends are so loyal to him they won't ask the girl he is going out with for a date? Here in Morrero, La., when a girl goes out with a boy twice in a row everybody considers them going steady. I have tried to spread it around that we are not going steady and I am eligible, but it doesn't do any good. What is a girl supposed to do? Sit home every weekend? Please put this in your column. I know many girls at school with the same problem.

ELIGIBLE BUT NOT ASKED

DEAR ELIGIBLE: Traditionally, the man does the asking, so unless you want to be known as a predatory female, sit home and wait to be asked. It's a man's world, honey.

Water Use Dips Again

Water consumption along the Colorado Water District system dipped again in November, according to production figures.

Member cities used 412,500,000 gallons, a decline of 7.03 from November of 1963, and the oil companies took 281,832,878 gallons, a decline of 4.73 per cent. Net decline for the district for the month was 6.11 per cent on a total of 695,332,878.

This brought to 10,843,117,468 the amount of water delivered so far this year, a gain of 9.95 for the 11-month period. Prospects are that the year's total will be close to 11½ billion gallons, according to O. H. Ivie, assistant general manager.

During November Odessa required 212,810,000 gallons, a decline of 5.36 per cent from November a year ago, while Big Spring took 162,555,000, a drop of 5.22, Snyder, with 37,135,000, was down 21.54 per cent.

Court Voids Race Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court struck down today a Florida law making it a crime for a Negro man and white woman, or a white man and Negro woman, habitually to occupy the same room at night.

Justice Byron R. White, for a unanimous court, said the Florida law represented "an exercise of the state police power which trenches upon the constitutionally protected freedom from invidious official discrimination based on race."

A Florida law prohibiting marriages between Negroes and whites was attacked in the same case, but White said the court was not expressing any views about that law in today's opinion. The court dealt solely with the statute dealing with persons of different races using the same room at night.

Explaining the court's ruling, White said that, because the section as to persons using the same room applies only to a white person and a negro who commit the specified acts — living together — and because no couple other than the one made up of a white and a Negro is subject to conviction upon proof of the elements comprising the offense it proscribes, "we hold (the section) invalid as a denial of the equal protection of the laws guaranteed by the 14th Amendment."

Rites For Mrs. Head Scheduled Today

Funeral services were to be held at 2 p.m. today at the Bell - Seale Funeral Home chapel for Mrs. Pearl Head, 81, of 2606 Avenue V.

What kind of a tiger do you want under your hood? (Have you priced a tiger lately?)

If you're handy with a whip and chair, go for the 360-hp GTO. It bites. But then, even the 335-hp GTO bites. If you want a slightly more civilized package (but with lots of the GTO muscle), try the Le Mans. You can get it with a six or either of two V-8s. They all have bucket seats. Carpeting. And cost less than some tame cats. So go price a tiger.

House Has Ton Of Steel

By JACK QUIGG
Associated Press Writer

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif (AP) — They've finally built a house for the guy who hates maintenance work.

A gleaming structure of pure white concrete and stainless steel, it rests on a hill south of here overlooking the sea.

The concrete, used both for walls and roof, will never need paint, the makers say. The stainless steel, used for exterior trim, interior hardware and for columns that support the roof, likewise requires almost no maintenance.

The bath — walls, floors and ceilings — are one-piece plastic, cleaned easily with a cloth.

Kitchen surfaces are stainless steel or gloss - finished wood for easy care.

Called "Olympia Pacifica — The House of Excellence," it is the project of a group of materials producers who wanted to show how long range ownership costs could be minimized in a house that was both permanent and flexible.

The permanence arises from solid construction and long - lasting materials. The flexibility arises from the construction: with the roof supported by columns, the nonload bearing walls can be located without regard to roof support.

Bedrooms, for instance, can be added or removed. . . any living areas changed.

The house has 3,500 square feet and is luxury construction throughout. Costs are not disclosed but, because much of the work was of a pioneering nature, the tab must be well over $100,000.

There is a large kitchen, oversize living room, big master bedroom and four smaller bedrooms, a large children's playroom, two baths, huge swimming pool and three - car garage.

The concrete walls are in the form of stacked pure white blocks laid in pure white mortar. The 150-ton roof is white lightweight aggregate and silica sand.

The conventional house uses about 15 pounds of stainless steel. This one uses more than a ton — in framing windows and sliding glass doors, roof facia, deck and pool railings, counter tops, sinks and lavatories, locks, hardware, even table settings and cookware.

The location is Laguna Niguel, 55 miles south of Los Angeles, 7,000 acres that bills itself as the nation's largest planned community.

So what does such a house save over the years, besides elbow grease?

A minimum of $18,000 in maintenance costs in just the first 30 years of its life, says architect - designer John Galbraith of Pasadena.

And it's built to last for centuries.

Steamed Date Pudding

1 cup fresh dates
1 egg
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
3 tablespoons butter, melted
1½ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon each baking powder and baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1-3 cup coffee beverage

Pit and slice dates. Beat egg slightly; gradually beat in the brown sugar; beat in butter to combine. Sift together the flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg; stir into egg mixture alternately with coffee. Fold in dates. Turn into a 1-quart mold that has been buttered and sprinkled with sugar. Cover lightly; place on rack in deep kettle of boiling water; have water come half-way up sides of mold. Cover and steam 1 hour. Let stand 5 minutes; turn out. Serve warm with Butter Cream Sauce. To make sauce, put ¼ cut butter, ¼ cup light cream and ½ cup sugar in a saucepan; stirring until sugar is dissolved, heat just to a boil. Stir in 1 teaspoon vanilla. Pudding and sauce make about 8 servings.

Veal Stew

2 pounds boneless veal stew meat
2 tablespoons flour
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon each salt and paprika
¼ teaspoon dried rosemary
¼ cup oil
¾ cup dry white wine
1 can (10½ ounces) consomme
¼ cup finely chopped onion
3 large carrots, pared
3 large celery ribs
1 can (4 ounces) mushrooms

Trim any excess fat from meat; cut into generous chunks. Roll meat until well coated in a mixture of the flour, garlic powder, salt, paprika and rosemary. Brown slowly in heated oil until a rich brown on all sides. Sprinkle with any remaining flour mixture; add wine, undiluted consomme and onion. Cover and simmer until almost tender — about 1¼ hours. Cut carrots diagonally into ½-inch thick slices; cut celery the same way. Add to meat with [illegible] cover and continue cooking until vegetables are tender 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

City Council P-TA Hears Discussion

The Snyder City Council of Parents and Teachers met Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in the school administration building, with Faye Sims, president, presiding.

The devotional "Giving of One's Self," was given by Don Browning, minister of the Eastside Church of Christ. Mrs. Sims, representative of the council, gave a report on the state convention. Mrs. June Bellamy, program chairman, introduced the speaker, Dr. Robert Clinton, superintendent of Snyder Schools.

Believing that informed parents make better schools, Dr. Clinton discussed the following as some of the things that might be done to improve the parent - school relationship.

1. Information — A letter to parents concerning things that are happening in our schools and our P-TA's could be published and sent to parents along with report cards.

2. The possibility of a citizens conference in education, being formed in the Spring. This would consist of about 400 people from every walk of life, and cover broad questions about issues in the school system.

3. To encourage participation by parents in observing Texas Education Week. The local paper will carry a special section concerning every phase of work in the Snyder school system, but parents should visit the schools and see this work put into practice. There is also the possibility of publishing a "Back to School" edition in the Fall before school begins.

4. A physical education program will be held on the night of March 1, 1965 in each school. Parents are urged to attend and see what phases the new P.E. program is to contain. This is a planned program where each child is competing against himself and not as a group. It is planned so that each child will develop to his highest physical ability.

5. A textbook committee will be selected and will give the public much information as they may want before final selection of a text book is made. Final selection will be determined by what book is best for our children.

Following Dr. Clinton's discussion, the motion was made by Mrs. Elmo Crowder that "the Snyder City Council P-TA cooperate in publishing the parent letter" and that the P-TA pay their share of this publication. Motion was carried.

A medium-sized onion should yield at least one-half cup after it is peeled and finely chopped.

GOPs New Policy Chart Closely Resembles Demos'

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON AP) — Republican governors are the most self-confident branch of their party at the moment, as they showed in a statement issued after their weekend meeting in Denver.

They got some reason for their confidence from the 1964 elections which were a disaster for the rest of the party.

While Republicans lost out on the presidency in the elections and in Congress dropped 38 House seats and two in the Senate, the party registered a net gain of one in governorships.

But in the very statement which they intended as a chart for the Republicans' future, the governors revealed the party's dilemma in national politics. They wound up sounding like a lot of Democrats.

Although they didn't say so there was another good reason for their willingness to tell the party what it ought to do.

In the 1968 presidential race the Republican candidate will probably come from the ranks of the governors. No Republican in Congress at this time looks like a presidential prospect.

The statement left little doubt that it was critical of Dean Burch, handpicked by Sen. Barry Goldwater to be chairman of the Republican National Committee.

But it named no names. Therefore, it was so ambiguous that some of the governors, who supported Goldwater, could say it wasn't aimed at Burch while others could say it was.

The governors covered a lot of ground in the statement:

1. They sketched an outline of principles they think the party should follow after the 1964 disasters.

2. They suggested the National Committee take steps to include from now on Republican governors and members of Congress — who they said should be included in a GOP leadership conference next year.

3. They didn't mention Goldwater but so worded what they said that he'd have to be obtuse not to take it as a rebuke.

4. They suggested the National Committee "adopt leadership" that represents a "broad view of Republicanism and practices a policy of inclusion rather than exclusion."

Govs. George Romney of Michigan, William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said No. 4 was a clear call for throwing Burch out of the committee chairmanship.

The thrust at Goldwater was contained in this paragraph calling for Republican party support of civil rights:

"We feel it pertinent to remind our fellow citizens that most Republicans in Congress this year supported the federal Civil Rights Act." Goldwater voted against it.

The principles, which the governors unanimously said the party should follow, turned out to be very moderate, indeed, and are hardly distinguishable from those Republicans and Democrats had followed in the past.

Example: Support for old-age security, hospital and medical care, decent living standards, public education, mental health, and the needs of youth.

It's just because the Democrats talk the same way that the two parties for years have looked like twins, and sounded like them.

Goldwater and his followers were less enthusiastic about welfare programs. For this reason, among others, his candidacy symbolized a break with pre-1964 Republicanism.

The governors' statement, therefore, can be interpreted as an attempt to get away from Goldwater's views and resume the party's previous positions. The governors ruled out "radicalism" of left or right.

But for the greater part of the past 32 years those previous Republican positions had failed to win the presidency or control of Congress. But these are the positions the governors say are necessary.

So the party's dilemma is how to win with them in the future if it fared so poorly in the past. And Goldwater's views can hardly be considered the answer, after what happened to him.

Columnist Peeks Into Mail Bag

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The automobile explosion in America is outdistancing the population explosion.

About 77 per cent of U.S. men and 46.5 per cent of the women have a driver's license.

Board chairmen of banks with assets of under $300 million earn an average of $39,000 a year, those with more than $300 million in assets earn $72,000.

Speaking of money, did you know that a nickel is 75 per cent copper, and that a dollar is 10 per cent copper and only 90 per cent silver?

If you have a normal appetite, you consume a million calories a year. This includes some 200 soft drinks, which account for roughly 17,000 calories.

Quotable notables: "This is daddy's bedtime secret for today: Man is born broken. He lives by mending. The grace of God is glue." —Eugene O'Neill.

No wonder your eyes sometimes get tired. In a year they move up, down or sideways more than 36 million times.

Do you consider yourself overweight? About 43 per cent of U.S. women do, but only 26 per cent of the men. Most are in the 35-50 age bracket.

The odds are against having a white Christmas in over three-fourths of the nation. In the 17th century Massachusetts had a law imposing a five-shilling fine on anyone making merry on Christmas Day. In Connecticut the people were forbidden to make mince pies or play cards or any musical instruments except drums and trumpets.

Why wars are getting more expensive: In the time of Julius Caesar, to slay an enemy cost 75 cents. In the Civil War, the mortality expense was about $5,000 a man; in World War I $50,000, and in World War II more than $125,000.

Some scientists figure that in the future mankind can be fed only if we learn how to farm the oceans, but at present the world's seas supply only 1 per cent of our food.

Thomas Jefferson was the first gourmet among U.S. presidents. He popularied the tomato, and also is believed to be the first host to serve spaghetti and ice cream in America.

It was Maurice Chevalier, now 74, who observed, "Old age isn't so bad when you consider the alternative."

Dean Burch Loses Ground In Battle For Chairmanship

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican governors have started a fire within their party that could make it difficult for National Chairman Dean Burch to command the broad-base support he needs to hold his job.

Although they stopped short in a declaration at Denver, Colo., Saturday of calling collectively for Burch's resignation, there appeared to be majority belief among the 18 who attended that after Burch canvasses the situation thoroughly he may decide to step out.

This was based in part on reports given the governors in closed session that as many as 70 of the 138-member Republican National Committee may favor replacement of Burch.

Burch's own canvass of his strength within the committee was said to have been somewhat disappointing to him.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, former head of the committee, made the point on a television broadcast Sunday — ABC "Issues and Answers" — that the chairman has to have broad support within the committee. He added he didn't know anybody "who would want to stay in that position that didn't have support of his own committee."

Morton, who had announced his backing of Burch, said it is up to the members of the National Committee and no one else to determine whether Burch should be replaced.

He added: "He must have broad support in the National Committee itself, he must have broad support among the Republican governors, the Republican mayors, Republican leaders, state chairmen, vice chairmen, Young Republicans and all."

Although the governors avoided naming Burch in a declaration setting out their ideas about revising the party leadership, it seemed clear a majority was not offering the chairman the kind of "broad support" Morton said was necessary.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan said in a national telecast — CBS "Face the Nation" — he is convinced a majority of the National Committee members want Burch to go. Romney was joined by Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, Robert E. Smylie of Idaho and some others in saying Burch must go.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, the defeated GOP presidential nominee, has said he is standing firmly behind Burch. But even some of Goldwater's firmest supporters among the governors qualified their endorsement of the national chairman.

Gov. Tim Babcock of Montana said Burch should have the opportunity to end "the factionalism which is disrupting us." If the chairman can't do that, Babcock said, he would expect Burch "to step down for the good of the party and I would be among those asking him to do so."

Junior Editors Quiz on ATOM

QUESTION: How is it possible to split the atom?

ANSWER: Certainly not by the method shown at upper left—which our artist put in just to show how impossible splitting a tiny thing like the atom seems to be. To realize how minute an atom is, think of a toy balloon containing hydrogen. The number of hydrogen atoms in it would be around 100 million million billion. Yet scientists do succeed in splitting such infinitesimal particles.

By 1913, it was known that the atom had a definite structure, an inner nucleus containing protons and neutrons, with minute electrons circling around this. It was found possible, by using magnetic and electric fields—or spaces in which these forces have influence—to accelerate a stream of charged particles such as protons and electrons to an enormous speed. They would then smash into the atoms of a bit of target material and split these atoms so as to release various particles. The long tube in (1) is opened to show smaller tubes which speed the particles along. The synchrotron (2) speeds particles in a circle until they, too, smash into a target. In (3) a neutron from a highly radioactive material splits an atom to start the famous chain reaction and release enormous amounts of atomic energy.

Tigers Meet Ponies In Home Opener

The Snyder Tigers, just back from Seminole where they copped second place in a tournament, launch their home basketball season tonight with Andrews in Tiger Gym.

The activity will get underway at 6:15 p.m. when the B teams of the two schools face each other. The varsity game will follow at around 8 o'clock.

The Tigers carry a 3-1 won-lost record into the home opener. The locals whacked Colorado City and Hamlin in successive games last week before going to the Seminole Tournament. They raised a few eyebrows at Seminole on Friday night when they edged out highly favored Lubbock Monterey, 67-61, in the tournament opener.

The Bengals then fell before the host Seminole team, 81-67, in the championship finals Saturday night, while Monterey decisioned Hereford, first round victim of Seminole, 101-48, for third place.

Thus, the only loss of the Tigers so far is to Seminole, and the Indians are scheduled to pull into Tiger Gym on Tuesday night for another game with the locals.

Meanwhile, the Andrews Mustangs, tonight's foe, hold the center of the stage. The Mustangs reportedly have a tough outfit representing them on the hardwoods this season.

In Saturday night's loss to Seminole, the Tigers found themselves out - rebounded and outshot from the field. Seminole grabbed 37 rebounds, while the Tigers got only 25 off the boards. Steve Crowell had 6 and Jerry Vestal and Phillip Floyd 5 each for the locals. In the first half, the Tigers hit 14 of 30 shots from the field for 48 per cent, and in the second half 9 of 27 for only 33 per cent. Seminole hit 17 of 39 for 44 per cent in the first half and 17 of 27 for 63 per cent in the second half. It was the first time the Tigers had a shooting percentage under 50 this year.

Leslie Anderson roped 25 points to pace the Tigers, while Leslie Brown had 12 and Drew Bullard 11. Jimmy Nelms paced Seminole with 28 points.

Bears, Longhorns Accept Challenge

By The Associated Press

Basketball has reached that point where a team has to score more than 90 points per game to be a winner, especially along the intersectional trail.

So Baylor and Texas met the challenge and as a result they have won three of the five intersectional victories by the Southwest Conference in its first week of the season.

Southern Methodist and Texas A&M won the other two but did not need 90-plus scores to do it. Southern Methodist came close, beating Oklahoma City 89-76. The Aggies downed Mississippi Southern 83-70.

Baylor, which wasn't supposed to be among the top teams, has been the sensation. The young Bears have won three straight games, two of them of the intersectional variety, and averaged 96.5 while so doing.

In fact, Baylor has two 100-plus showings, beating Arlington State 103-85 and Tulane 102-87, then simmering down for an 84-72 triumph over Louisiana State.

Texas rolled up 94 in blasting Mississippi 94-67.

Texas Tech, which started out like a house afire with a 114-70 victory over McMurry, stumbled in its very first intersectional game and was licked handily by New Mexico 72-57.

It was an early deflation for the heavily-favored Red Raiders, who are supposed to win the conference championship.

While the league managed five intersectional victories its first week, there were nine losses to make it a typical conference opening.

Ten intersectional games are on the schedule this week and the conference has a chance to catch up but from the caliber of the opposition it doesn't appear it will.

Texas Tech winds up a western trip tonight against Arizona at Tucson while Texas ends its southern tour against Louisiana State at New Orleans. Texas Christian gets Arlington State at Fort Worth.

Tuesday night Texas A&M plays Sam Houston at Huntsville while Southern Methodists hosts Tulsa.

Wednesday night Arkansas, which has lost its first two games—to Kansas and Missouri—tries Oklahoma State at Stillwater.

Thursday night Texas Christian plays Houston at Fort Worth and Texas A&M gets the only team that's beat it thus far—Memphis State—at College Station. The Aggies lost to Memphis 82-73 before lashing Mississippi Southern 83-70 and Arlington State 97-80.

There are no games Friday night but seven of the teams are in action Saturday night as Texas Tech returns home to battle Wyoming, Texas engages Oklahoma at Austin, Texas Christian takes on Loyola of New Orleans at Fort Worth, Southern Methodist plays Louisiana State at Dallas, Rice meets Centenary at Shreveport, Arkansas tangles with Hardin-Simmons at Fayetteville and Baylor plays Trinity at Waco.

John Beasley, who threatens to step into the shoes of the departed Benny Lenox at Texas A&M, took a quick lead in scoring with 83 points—an average of 27.6.

Roger Craig, twice fanned three Yankees in one inning during the World Series. Bob Gibson and Mel Stottlemyre fanned three batters in one inning on one occasion.

Lincoln Girls Take Title In Tourney

The Lincoln High School girls took first place, while the Trojan boys team finished third in the Sweetwater Basketball tournament over the weekend.

Lincoln girls ousted host Sweetwater, 54-26, in the finals. Mary Goosby scored 24 points, Pearlie Scott 16, Johnnie Goosby 13 and Yvonne Sanders 1 in the finals. Hazel Bluford paced Sweetwater with 21 points. Evelyn Braziel got 10 rebounds, and with Roan Cobbs and Emma Garrett led a tough Lincoln defense.

Lincoln girls started off by beating Colorado City, 60-31, as Johnnie Goosby scored 22, Mary Goosby 15, Pearlie Scott 11, Evelyn Braziel 5, Roann Cobbs 4, Emma Garrett 2 and Yvonne L. Garrett had 8 rebounds. Joan Lewey was top scorer for C-City with 19 points.

In the second round, Lincoln trimmed Hamlin, 44-22 with Pearlie Scott scoring 20 points, Mary Goosby 15, Johnnie Goosby 8. Evelyn Braziel pulled in 10 rebounds. Willie Faye Kirby was high scorer for Hamlin with 13 points.

Lincoln boys lost their frist round game to Colorado City, 60-29. Paul Barnes scored 9 points, Brady cobbs 6, Billy Cobbs and Curtis Clay 4 each, M. C. Powell, Vernon James and L. J. Brooks 2 each. Emerson Benders got 20 for C-City.

In the game for third place Lincoln decisioned Hamlin, 55-50. Brady Cobbs scored 20 points, M. C. Powell 10, Paul Barnes 15, Billy Cobbs 6 and Curtis Clay 4. Curtis Clay and Vernon James were leading rebounders with 8 each. Willie Hunter scored 17 points for Hamlin.

Eight-Way Confusion Seen In Texas Schoolboy Races

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports riter

The wheel of fortune spins on the Texas schoolboy football semifinals this week and where it will stop is eight-way confusion.

As the drive hits its penultimate round there are eight of 16 teams boasting unbeaten records which, based on the way the race is going, does not necessarily mean they will be the favorites.

Defending champion Garland of Class AAAA has a loss on its record but will be given a strong chance of dumping Amarillo Tascosa, a team with a perfect status, when the two clash in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas Saturday in the feature game.

This one is due to draw the biggest crowd for a schoolboy game since the record-setting Highland Park-Waco battle in the Cotton Bowl 20 years ago. Then more than 45,000 jammed into the big saucer.

Garland and Tascosa decide a finalist to meet the winner of the Galena Park-San Antonio Highlands game at Houston Saturday.

Galena Park, undefeated and untied and looming quite large down the last lap, will be favored to beat Highlands, which dropped two games in the district drive.

The Class AAA semifinals match Wichita Falls Hirschi, a thrice-beaten team, with Palestine, a one-time loser, and undefeated, untied Vidor with a San Marcos outfit that hasn't lost but has a tie on its record.

Hirschi, surprise victor over Andrews and its perfect record last week, seems destined to reach the end of the trail against defensive-minded Palestine but then they have been forecasting this for Hirschi for weeks now.

Vidor, with its talented passer Larry Tilton, will be picked over San Marcos.

Hirschi and Palestine play at Arlington and Vidor and San Marcos joust at Houston, both Saturday afternoon games.

In Class AA unbeaten, untied Denver City takes on once-defeated, once-tied Marlin at San Angelo while Taylor and Palacios, both boasting perfect records, get together at Austin. They are Friday night games, with Denver City and Taylor due to be the favorites—which would mean two unbeaten, untied teams in the finals.

Taylor and Palacios won the most impressive victories in moving into the semifinals, Taylor blasting Port Acres 31-6 and Palacios swamping Los Fresnos 32-6.

Rosebud, the last unbeaten team in Class A, has become the favorite of this division but must take out Ingleside, conqueror of mighty Hull-Daisetta, in what could be the tightest battle of the week.

Big Lake and Archer City clash in the other Class A semifinal, getting together at Snyder Saturday. Rosebud and Ingleside will meet at Seguin Friday night.

Here's the schedule, with team records, for the four-way semifinals:

Class AAAA—Amarillo Tascosa (12-0-0) vs. Garland (11-1-0) at Dallas Saturday (2 p.m.); Galena Park (12-0-0) vs. San Antonio Highlands (9-2-1) at Houston Saturday (2:30 p.m.)

Class AAA — Wichita Falls Hirschi (9-3-0) vs. Palestine (11-1-0) at Arlington Saturday (2:30 p.m.); Vidor (12-0-0) vs. San Marcos (11-0-1) at Houston Saturday (2 p.m.)

Class AA — Denver City (13-0-0) vs. Marlin (11-1-1) at San Angelo Friday (2 p.m.); Taylor (13-0-0) vs. Palacios (12-0-0) at Austin Friday (8 p.m.)

Class A—Big Lake (12-1-0) vs. Archer City (11-2-0) at Snyder Saturday (2 p.m.); Rosebud (11-0-2) vs. Ingleside (12-1-0) at Seguin Friday (8 p.m.)

NFL East Title Still Undecided

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

It wasn't so very long ago that the St. Louis Cardinals were vitally concerned with what went on in Yankee Stadium in New York and it will be that way again next Saturday.

This time it's the National Football League's Eastern Division title going up for grabs and the Cardinals will be the football variety instead of baseball.

The Cleveland Browns had a chance to wrap up the Eastern title Sunday but lost to St. Louis 28-19 allowing the Cards to creep within a half-game of the lead. Cleveland visits New York Saturday and the Giants, struggling through a dismal season after three straight Eastern crowns, once again are a vital factor in the Eastern race.

Should the Browns win Saturday, Sunday's game between the Philadelphia Eagles and St. Louis won't mean a thing. But a Giant victory could give the Cards the crown if St. Louis gets by the Eagles the following day.

The Giants lost their ninth in 13 games Sunday; bowing to Minnesota 30-21. In other games, Detroit ended Baltimore's 11-game winning streak 31-14, Pittsburgh topped Washington 14-7, Philadelphia downed Dallas 24-14, and San Francisco defeated Los Angeles 28-7. Saturday it was Green Bay 17, Chicago 3.

Charley Johnson keyed the Cardinal triumph, pitching two touchdown passes and running short yardage for two more scores as St. Louis stalled Cleveland's title drive. Johnson completed 15 of 22 for 167 yards.

Lou Groza kept the Browns in the game, booting four field goals.

The Giants, who handed St. Louis one of its losses and held the Cards to a tie in their other game, showed signs of life against Minnesota. Clarance Childs raced 100 yards returning a kickoff for a TD and Gary Wood handled the New York offense adequately.

But scrambling Fran Tarkenton tossed two TD passes and Fred Cox kicked three field goals as the Vikings came from behind to win it.

Matt Plum threw three TD passes as the Lions ended Baltimore's win streak that started the second week of the season.

Pittsburgh scored the winning touchdown midway in the final period and then halted a last-minute Washington drive for its victory. Ed Brown's 47 - yard pass to Gary Ballman produced the deciding points.

Raiders Put Pats Back In Title Fight

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was only fitting and proper. Back in October the Oakland Raiders, with some last-minute heroics, delivered what appeared to be a knockout blow to Boston's hopes of an Eastern Division title in the American Football League.

And now, with some last-minute heroics, the Raiders have knocked the Patriots right back into the drivers' seat.

The Raiders' Tom Flores did the job this time, hitting Art Powell with a three-yard touchdown pass with only four seconds left and boosting Oakland to a 16-13 victory over Buffalo Sunday.

Boston had been struggling desperately to catch up ever since Mike Mercer kicked a 38-yard field goal with five seconds left in the October clash when Oakland tied the Patriots 43-43 and appeared to knock them out of title contention.

Hundreds Drawn To Annual Event At House Of Flowers

Christmas is a time of traditions. . .those good things that over the years have made the Christmas season the happy time that it is.

Here in Snyder, there is an event that is fast becoming a tradition. . .one of those things that helps one to get the Christmas spirit.

In fact, many Snyderites say that they don't feel that the Christmas season is really here until they have visited the Open House at Hinshaw's House of Flowers.

This year, for the sixth straight year, Hinshaw's are holding "Open House." And for the sixth straight year, the floral displays are more beautiful—more artistic — more fanciful than any year before.

The three - day Open House started yesterday and hundreds of people were delighted with the festive atmosphere of the House of Flowers. Tomorrow is the last official day of the open house — the last day that one may sign up for the free gifts — but that doesn't mean that the beauty to be found at the House of Flowers will end then.

For not only at Christmastime, but all the year around, the House of Flowers is "the" beauty spot of Snyder.

But at Christmas, when beauty is perhaps a little more in people's mind, The House of Flowers stands out. And not only at the store, either. For example, a number of Snyder merchants have called on Hinshaw's House of Flowers to decorate their stores.

Not only do Snyder folks visit Hinshaw's this time of year. As the Open House event becomes more widely known, and its popularity increases, many visitors from neighboring towns are counted among the guests.

Sunday afternoon several guests from out - of - town were counted among the visitors to the Open House.

They, like the Snyderites, were delighted with what they found at The House of Flowers. Perhaps the one single item which caused the most comment was the gold Christmas tree just inside the door. Glittering and sparkling there it caught every.

This fabulous tree is admittedly high - priced, and there's only one. But there are many, many Christmas arrangements on the special Christmas tables that will fit anyone's pocketbook.

If a person wants something special in the way of a centerpiece, door or wall decoration, Hinshaw's is glad to prepare a custom arrangement — one that will fit the home where it will be displayed, and the personality and interest of the people who live there.

Hinshaw's hope that everyone will come by the store. They're proud of the store, and they're proud of what they offer to the beauty - lovers of Snyder.

The House of Flowers is located just south of the Snyder square on Avenue S.

'Wait And See' Attitude Is Held By Banks, Businessmen

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A holding action is in force along much of the business front.

Talk of a steel price increase has been stilled by President Johnson's voiced disapproval.

The same method has called a halt at least for a time to any general and formal rise in the cost of bank loans to business.

An expensive truce in an international monetary crisis has been achieved by a $3 billion fund to bolster the British pound sterling.

None of the problems involved has been erased. The moments of decision have been postponed. And the stock market and corporate board rooms are watching what may develop during the waiting periods.

Holding actions of various sorts also are characterizing other business problems just now: the wage pattern that steel workers may establish on the heels of auto workers' gains; the U.S. payments deficit in international finance that still can cloud the dollar's outlook; the future of American trade after the Common Market decides what to do about tariffs; how big a bite Britain's new 15 per cent import tax will take out of the volume of products Americans ship there.

President Johnson's talks with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, starting in Washington today, may give some clues.

But businessmen won't be surprised if most of the problems, foreign and domestic, aren't still kept in the deep freeze to be hemed up later for definite decisions after letting time work what miracles it can.

Few feel that the holding action on either steel wages or steel prices can be effective for long. Still ahead lies what is a sure subject between government guidelines of what is best for the public interest and what the union will demand and what the companies will do about the squeeze they foresee on profit margins.

The matter of interest rates also is postponed rather than solved. The delaying action was based both on the President's plea to hold down borrowing costs lest the current business expansion be chilled and on the Federal Reserve's action as well as assurance that plenty of lendable funds would be made available.

The banks must pay more for money they borrow from the Federal Reserve, and some are paying more for money deposited in savings accounts. But with plenty of lendable funds, competition tends to hold down lending charges. And the President's urging to avoid the risk of upsetting the current and projected economic growth has wide popular appeal the banks can't ignore.

When, and if, the jitters over Britain's financial troubles subside and the course of the American economy becomes clearer with the presentation to the congress of the new federal budget, businessmen and bankers can decide better what to do about the problems they are shelving at the moment. And they can guess better, too, what courses will be accepted and what will succeed.

Gen. LeMay Receives Japanese Decoration

IRUMA, Japan (AP) — Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, U.S. Air Force chief of staff, received a Japanese decoration today, despite protests by leftists who said he was responsible for the World War II atom-bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

LeMay was given the First Order of Merit of the Grand Cordon of the Rising Sun for his contribution to the development of Japan's postwar air defense system.

Sec. Wirtz Supports Medical Care Bill

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz says "life doesn't make sense unless the older years are a time of full opportunity, resourcefulness and productivity."

Speaking Sunday night at a fund-raising dinner for Brookdale hospital center, Wirtz called for quick enactment of medical care for the aged as one of the nation's most important demands.

Scholars Say Venus May Have Oxygen

BALTIMORE (AP) — The clouds surrounding the planet Venus are composed of water in the form of ice particles, a team of Johns Hopkins University astrophysicists said today.

The scientists said the finding of water vapor on Venus raises the possibility of oxygen in its atmosphere. They based their reasoning on calculations that all of Earth's oxygen could be accounted for by the releasing of oxygen from water vapor in the upper atmosphere.

The oxygen is freed by the action of sunlight.

The latest findings on Venus, earth's twin sister in size, density and general composition, were obtained from an unmanned balloon flight last Oct. 27.

The possibility of a source of oxygen and a previous discovery that its atmosphere contains carbon dioxide raises the possibility that life in some form might exist on the planet.

The Johns Hopkins team, headed by Dr. John Strong, concluded the latest data confirmed earlier measurements by Dr. Strong showing the surface temperature to be close to minus 40 degrees Fahrenheit, with only a few degrees difference between the light and dark sides of Venus.

Radio-telescopes on Earth and on the Mariner 2 space probe, which passed within 21,000 miles of Venus in December 1962, indicated the surface temperature was 800 degrees Fahrenheit.

"Interpretation of radio-telescope waves as an indication of temperature has neither been proven or universally accepted," said Dr. Strong, director of the Johns Hopkins Astrophysics Laboratory.

The Johns Hopkins scientists suggest that the previous findings may only indicate a large amount of lightning-like electrical activity in the turbulent atmosphere of Venus.

Soviet, American Children Make Cold War Melt Away

By ROBERT HOLTON

MERRICK, N.Y. (AP) — Two Russian and three American youngsters clasped hands across the threshold of an American home the other day and the cold war, for the moment, melted.

The pair of Moscow teenagers and my three eldest children conducted in our home last Tuesday what probably was the first small-fry East-West summit conference in history.

The experiment was a smashing success.

Timothy Holton, 7, and Yuri Popov, 14, agreed to exchange backyard fort-building plans.

Peg Holton, 6, and Irena Tolstikova, 13, pledged to keep each other abreast of youthful fads in their respective countries.

And Jane Holton, 3, fell in love with Yuri.

"Mommy," she said after the 10-hour visit ended. "I love Yuri. He's so handsome and he's so kind."

Irena and Peg hit it off beautifully from the moment they met until they kissed goodbye.

"I have enjoyed myself in your home Peggy, only I wish I had enough time to teach you to speak Russian," Irena said. "We must see each other again. I promise I will never forget you and our visit here."

The two Russian youngsters spent the day in our suburban home during a two-week stay in the United States as guests of the American Broadcasting Co. during which they were filmed in a taped television program for showing next month.

The junior good-will delegates wore slacks and skirts, carried their credentials in their hearts and conducted discussions on the living-room floor or across a toy-littered playroom table.

"It has been a wonderful experience to come into your home and see how you live," Yuri said. "I enjoyed it very much. I particularly liked the pretzels and the strawberry shortcake. Those I never had before."

Irena, who spent a good portion of her time flitting about the house in quest of pigtails to pull, said she found our home "warm, pretty and full of lots of fun and laughing."

Yuri and Irena began their visit with a one-hour commuter train trip from their Manhattan hotel to the suburbs. The day's activities included a tour of a junior high school where they stood in line to have their trays filled in the cafeteria; a quick trip to a supermarket, a peek into a pet shop with carpeting on the floor and a visit to a large toy store.

In the midst of all the fun there were a few tense moments brought about by highly undiplomatic utterances of the Holton children.

"Is Mr. Khrushchev really still alive or did they kill him?" Timothy asked at the dinner table.

"He is living in a nice apartment in Moscow," Yuri replied without a hint of annoyance. "He was just too old and too sick to rule. So he resigned."

There was another awkward moment at the dinner table when the children began to recite a prayer. The two Russian children and their chaperone, Miss Zena Evgrosvi, just looked on.

This puzzled Timothy, so he asked, "Why don't you pray? Don't you think there's a God?"

His mother quickly turned the conversation to another subject.

At the junior high school, Yuri seemed ill at ease with the children and gave the impression that he felt as though he were living in a fish bowl.

Once in our home, however, he became relaxed and laughed a lot and talked without prodding. Irena was outgoing from the start.

One of the articles in our early-American home that most attracted the two visitors was a large Boston rocker that tilted its occupant far back when it was rocked.

"We have these in the homes in the country but in the city where I live we never see them," Yuri said. "They are a lot of fun to rock in."

The electric refrigerator, automatic washer and drier and the home freezer appeared to hold little interest for Yuri and Irena.

Yuri was the more inquisitive of the two, asking such questions as how much American journalists earn, why they don't live in a city apartment, how much a compact car cost and why American children don't go to school six days a week as they do in Russia.

It was on a walking tour of the village that Jane probably began to take a deep liking for Yuri. She had tripped and stubbed her toe and began to cry.

Yuri lifted her into his arms and in Russian whispered soft words of comfort. Soon she stopped crying.

"Just like my little sister," Yuri explained. "You know children are children, no matter where they live."

After dinner, Irena insisted on helping to clear the table while Yuri joined the menfolk watching the day's news on television.

When a picture of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk came onto the screen, Yuri's eyes lighted up.

"Look how friendly they are," he said. "It was your dead President Kennedy who brought that friendliness. He is the most liked American among Russian children."

To close out the day, the two visitors were taken to a toy store to select a gift to take back with them. Yuri chose an Indian bow and arrow set. Irena selected a painting set.

"I like cowboy and Indian movies," Yuri said. "So—I take this back with me."

In return, each of the children was given a small medal commemorating a Soviet space venture.

As their two guests drove away in a car toward their Manhattan hotel, Jane turned to her mother and said with tears in her eyes:

"Tell them they come back again Mommy. I love Yuri."

Churches Grow Trees In Algeria

CONSTANTINE, Algeria (AP) — U.S. churchgoers are making trees grow in Algeria.

The project aims to repair some of the damage done by invasions of Phoenicians, Romans, Byzantines, Arabs, Turks, French — and goats.

And the worst of these are the goats.

In less than two years such progress has been made that thousands of acres of barren hills and mountains now are planted to trees, some the size of pencils, others already man high. And millions more of little trees are growing in newly created nurseries to help reforest the large tracts of barren land which in olden times were covered with some of the world's finest trees.

The effort is only a drop in a bucket when measured against the needs of the country. It is a long-term project which is intended to help save the land which for generations has been washing away, lowering its productive capacity while the people who depend on it increase in numbers every year.

This reporter took an extended tour of the area where the reforestration is going on. He was accompanied by Jan van Hoogstraten, an American who directs the African program of Church World Service. This branch of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. cooperates with British, American, Swiss, German and other church organizations in extending aid to Algeria and other countries.

The biggest projects center around this old city which itself has seen the steady deterioration of the land over 2,000 years.

Some of the timber went to build Roman ships, still more went up in smoke as firewood, but the most relentless were the goats. They ate the bark off the trees, so the trees died. The goats ate the young trees starting up in the black soil, and ate the brush and grass that held the land in place along the hillsides.

A solution of sorts has been worked out. When the churches began the reforestation project, Algerian authorities agreed to impose fines on herders who let their goats into the newly forested tracts. Moreover, many of the mountain families themselves see the advantage of reforested hills and mountains.

Little hard cash is involved. American surplus wheat and a limited amount of other products are used, for the church program has the double purpose of feeding a population left hungry and jobless after the revolution, and of planting trees.

Eight million trees have been planted, and 60 million more are growing in nurseries.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

MEXICO CITY — There is some pretty encouraging news in the journals this morning (local art section) and it appears culture is at least taking its rightful place, wherever that is.

One of the leading new, young artists here made some exceptionally outstanding statements to the press during an interview and set an example art lovers can only hope will be followed by all.

To begin with, he said, "I have nothing to say." Which comes more or less to the point. Following this word - shaker he explained, "I am outside any movement involving a brutal psychological impact on the viewer. I am outside any type of 'message' painting. In a few words, I have nothing to 'say' . . . art for art."

It is seldom that anyone can find an artist today who doesn't slip coded messages or hidden meanings into his paintings. I have spent up to five or six seconds on occasions trying to figure the message in some fascinating abstract.

And with the big drive toward art, which a good many unemployed painters are conducting here, one could easily lose an entire day trying (unsuccessfully) to decipher the meaning of a tiny pink dot in the upper left hand corner of a mural.

At any rate, the young gentleman who has been acclaimed by all on the proper side of the railroad tracks gives his formula for manufacturing a painting.

He says, "I begin by staining a surface at randon." (Randon is a small village on the other side of the mountains, apparently, where only artists are allowed).

After staining the surface, possibly with a mixture of fish oil and graphite, art is born.

"The form of these stains then give me the clue of what I will paint," he states. "This, of course, is the reason the titles come after I finish a work. The latter is evocative rather than pre - meditated; hence, the title is completely subjective."

Apparently what he is saying is that he isn't sure what he has done until the stains are covered and there is nothing more to do.

Possibly he then steps back and says, "Well, since I have nothing to say in this area of paint and canvas, I believe I will call it 'The God of Aardvaks Eating Onions at A Festival.'"

You may not see much point to all this but Mexico has become a rather controversial center of art and whether nor not it is. People study it here. Painters from from all parts of the world to settle down, spread several dollars worth of color on a canvas and discuss "schools" of art.

It gave me endless pleasure to learn that the younger artists here are finally separating themselves from the Revolutionary School of painting. This isn't a little Red Schoolhouse run by some ex - rebels or anything like that. It is a way of thinking. Now, after becoming separated from the old school, everyone has joined the "New Presence" group. They also have discarded the "mural complex" and passed it on to the architects, which seems a rather odd sort of gift.

At any rate, we have something for which to be grateful. Here is one painter who says, "I have nothing to say" and two or three of his works are reproduced in the newspaper to prove his statement.

At least we have found an honest man.

Opposes Re-Naming Of Thomas Bishop

DALLAS (AP) — State Sen. George Parkhouse said Sunday he will fight the re-appointment of Thomas Bishop as adjutant general of Texas.

In an interview over WFAA-TV in Dallas, Parkhouse said he expects to make this one of his goals in the impending session of the Texas Legislature.

The adjutant general recently relieved Maj. Gen. Harry Crutcher of his duties as commander of the Texas Air National Guard.

Parkhouse called the action "military politics" and said Bishop was "probably jealous" of Crutcher.

HEADED BY McNAMARA

Defense Team To Remain

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department team of top civilian leaders, headed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, is expected to remain intact at least until mid-1965.

McNamara reportedly has discussed with key members of his team his wish that they stay on and see the Pentagon's programs through the Congress next session. They were said to have agreed.

This is taken to mean that McNamara himself intends to remain in office at least that long.

Associates said they had been unable to detect any signs that McNamara is thinking of stepping out. He is nearing the end of his fourth year as secretary of defense, still well short of the record of 56 months set by Charles E. Wilson in the Eisenhower administration.

The only member of McNamara's top group to resign recently was Thomas D. Morris, assistant secretary of defense for installations and logistics. He will be succeeded by Paul Ignatius, who is being promoted from undersecretary of the Army.

A change in the military high command will come in early February when Gen. Curtis E. LeMay retires as Air Force chief of staff.

Gen. John P. McConnell, who has been the Air Force's second ranking officer since midsummer, is likely to succeed LeMay.

Adm. David L. McDonald will finish a two-year term as chief of naval operations in June. He probably will be given a second term.

Otherwise, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler is only a few months into his term as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The same goes for Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff. Gen. Wallace M. Greene, Marine Corps commandant, still has three more years to go in a four-year term.

Rift Brews Over President's Post

By GERALD MILLER

ROME (AP) — At least four candidates were mentioned today for the Italian presidency to succeed Antonio Segni, who has resigned because of ill health.

Segni's retirement Sunday night heightened squabbling among the members of Premier Aldo Moro's coalition government.

Segni, 73, said he was stepping down after two and a half years in office because he could no longer fulfill his duties. He suffered a cerebral stroke Aug. 7 and although he is slowly recovering, he has not regained the use of his right arm and his speech is impaired.

Parliament will meet Dec. 16 to elect a new chief of state for a seven-year term. He will be the fifth president of Italy, which became a republic in 1946.

The contest intensified the split in Moro's Christian Democratic party. Some Christian Democrats favor former Premier Amintore Fanfani to succeed Segni. Others want Interior Minister Paolo Emilio Taviani and still others support former Premier Giovanni Leone.

Fanfani pioneered the center-left concept under which Moro brought the Socialists into his government. Leone, a noted mediator, was president of the Chamber of Deputies for many years.

Conservatives contend that another Christian Democratic president was needed to help hold the line against the Communists, who made gains in nationwide local elections last month. Leftists argue that election of a Christian Democrat would increase anti-government feeling.

The other three parties in the government — Socialists, Democratic Socialists and Republicans — don't want another Christian Democrat. They are backing Foreign Minister Giuseppe Saragat, leader of the Democratic Socialists. If elected, he would be Italy's first left-wing president.

The Italian presidency is largely a ceremonial office but the president chooses the premier and thus plays a key role in times of political crisis.

Segni was elected president May 6, 1962, after serving in more than a dozen Cabinets and heading two of them as premier.

Yule Gifts For Real Top Dogs

By RALEIGH ALLSBROOK

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't tell Fido, but to keep up with the real top dogs this Christmas, he must have flannel pajamas, heated sleeping pad and a self-service biscuit dispenser.

That's the word from those in the know on the pooch fashion front.

For the dog of real distinction, these other items are being shown in the doggy departments of stores:

A striped Arabian tent, complete with mattress, where the dog tired-of-it-all can rest in privacy, $14.95 up.

A nylon ski jacket and cap, for the outdoor dog who likes to hear the whistle of the wind in his ears, a nifty outfit, $7.98.

Ear muffs with attached tinkle-bell topped beret, for the indoor dog who still must go outdoors occasionally, $2.98.

For the lady dog who runs with the cafe society set, a velvet cocktail collar, in lavender and other shades, trimmed with roses and semi-precious stones, $2.98.

The pub-crawling gentleman dog hasn't been overlooked. He is offered a velvet collar, with white, formal, bow tie, $4.98.

Naturally, the evening dogs want to bring out the true highlights of their hair. Color shampoo is useful here at $2 a bottle.

For the dogs who have to play Santa Claus on Christmas Eve, like their masters, a Santa Claus suit, with beard, very stylish, $4.98.

Some discriminating dogs may want something better than the clothes shown on the racks. A made-to-measure mink coat at $65 may satisfy their quality tastes.

The dog - biscuit dispenser, looking like a coin machine, is for the dog who likes to eat between meals. One paw push and a biscuit falls out, $6.95.

Does the dog really need pajamas at $2.49 to sleep in, one store official was asked.

"We sell quite a lot of pajamas," he replied. "When the heat dies down late at night a dog gets cold. He can't wrap up in a blanket like a human, you know."

On an average day the residents of Tokyo eat six million pounds of rice and 3½ million pounds of fish, read 21 different newspapers, increase the population by 460 persons, start building two major buildings, commit 641 major crimes and withstand 25 fires and three earthquakes.

Ringo May Be Evicted

LONDON (AP) — Ringo Starr, the Beatle drummer who lost his tonsils last week, may also lose his home.

His neighbors have petitioned his landlord to move him out of his $125-a-week apartment in Westminster. His teen-age fans are driving them crazy.

"Ringo's tonsil operation has given us our first peace for months," said Lathom Gedge, a neighbor.

"Teenage girls scream and shriek all day long," said his wife. "They get hysterical, fight and kick each other and chase every car that arrives in case Ringo is inside."

"It's a drag," said Ringo, due out of University College Hospital on Thursday.

"I wish I could do something about it — but I can't control the fans."

Ringo was reported coming along well despite a slight cold. His voice retains its Liverpudlian croak.

Pick-Pockets Resent Pocket Picking

CHICAGO (AP) — Police have arrested two men for shoving and swearing at each other on a subway train. Police said the men, both with records as pickpockets, apparently tried to pick each other's pockets in the incident Friday.

The Kremlin, meaning simply "citadel," is the oldest and most strategic part of Moscow. Within the walled fortifications are old royal palaces, governmental bureaus and churches where the czars were crowned and buried. Some government offices, including that of the Premier, are still located there.

Pretty Midland Embezzler Was 'Darn Good Secretary'

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — She was good-looking, a voluptuous redhead, and men usually took a second look when she walked down the streets of this bustling oil town in West Texas.

And besides, says her ex-boss, she was a darn good secretary.

Independent oilman H. C. Hood said the redhead, 32-year-old Germaine Spranger, was sent to him in October by an employment agency when he needed a secretary.

Germaine asked $500 monthly salary. But said Hood, "I didn't have enough work to justify that kind of pay. I told her I would start her at $350 and if things worked out after a couple of months I would give her a raise."

"That'll be fine," Hood quoted her as saying with a smile.

But Germaine was in a hurry. Sheriff's Deputy Gene Howell said. Two days after she went to work for Hood, Howell said she started writing checks and signing her employer's name.

She bought an automobile with a check for $2,498, a fur stole with another check for $1,000 and paid $1,700 for a watch, Howell said. She even paid off an old debt to an Illinois savings and loan firm with another check for $1,395, he added.

Then last week, Germaine suddenly skipped town. She noticed that an accountant had come in to make a routine check of Hood's books.

Howell and Texas Rangers arrested her on a Fort Worth street over the weekend. They recovered 18 $100 bills, the car and fur stole.

And Sunday night, Germaine was in a dismal jail cell after six weeks of extravagant living. She was charged with forgery.

"She did this after all if we had tried to befriend her," said Hood. "She was a darn good secretary."

A PRINCESS® PHONE is a truly personal extension phone for your own "princess" . . . or for yourself. It's a space-saving natural for any room in the home, but the light-up dial makes it an especially appropriate bedroom phone. A DESK PHONE makes the den as convenient as Dad's own office, for privacy in making and taking calls. Dad would probably like a beige, green or white one for his den, but for Mom's sewing room, maybe a pink or blue one would fit better. Desk phones are available in all five colors.
