several drilling tests now in progress the Chalk section is beginnig to look like a regular oil field.

Owen & Sloan Chalk No. 2, about 600 feet south of No. 1 is now drilling below the 600-foot mark. On south the Chalk No. 2 of the Marland Oil Company is making a test and their well is several hundred feet deep.

Carey and Lockhart spudded in their first test on section 88, last week and are preparing to drill one more well on this section. They spudded in a well on section 114, on Monday of this week and are getting ready to make a test on section 97, west of the Chalk No. 1.

Reeves and Apperman's test on section 126, was spudded in the first of this week.

The Magnolia Petroleum Co. is rigging up on section 114 and this test will be spudded in soon. Eight or more locations have been made in that locality and if the next well or two shows up as good, or better than the Chalk No. 1, things will pick up in that section.

At Sparkman No. 1

The contract depth of 3200 feet was reached in the test well on the Sparkman ranch in the northeastern portion of Glasscock county last week. Odward and Hoover, owners of this test were so favorably impressed with the formation at 3200 feet that they have decided to drill on down to the 3500 foot depth if oil is not found before they drill that deep.

Work is to be started as soon as a drilling crew completes a little work on their other well.

Spud New Well on Clay Ranch

The Reeves and Apperman test well on the H. R. Clay ranch, eighteen miles southeast of Big Spring was spudded in Monday. This location is on section 126, block 29, W. & N. W. survey, and is about one and a quarter miles northeast of the Fred Hyer Clay No. 1 which has been producing oil since last November and about two miles southwest of the Owen and Sloan Chalk No. 1, which is considered the best well yet secured in this territory.

RE-ICING A BIG BUSINESS HERE

The Texas & Pacific railway company officials are endeavoring to make a fine record on handling thru shipments of California fruit in the hope of securing more of this business in the future.

The speeding up the work of re-icing cars is one of the most important aids. In order to show you what this means we quote figures for May.

The Southern Ice & Utilities Co. here has re-iced from 50 to 60 cars of fruit and vegetables per day. About 57 tons of ice per day are required for re-icing these fruit and vegetable shipments, whereas only 33 tons are required to supply the city of Big Spring. On one day 90 tons of ice were required for re-icing

The local ice plant is producing 90 tons of ice daily to meet the demand.

If more business of this kind is secured it means employment for more men at the ice plant as well as on the railroad.

CROP CONDITIONS FINE

Except in localities where floods or hail storms have forced replanting, crop prospects thruout, Howard county may be rated as above the average.

From an inch and one half to three inches of rain fell in our county last Saturday night and a large section east and south of Big Spring came in for more moisture Tuesday afternoon. All parts of the county report plenty of moisture at this time, and the big need is for warm weather to keep the crops, cotton especially, coming along.

Ranges are also in fine condition due to the generous rains and stockman are looking forward to the best year they have enjoyed in a blue moon.

Old Howard county certainly has her Sunday clothes on and it has been many years since prospects for a prosperous year were any brighter at this season.

POSTOFFICE FOR VEALMOOR

According to advices from Washington, D. C., a postoffice is to be established at Vealmoor, in this county, twenty miles north of Big Spring. Mrs. Mae Zant is to be postmistress of the newly established office.

E. W. Douthit of Abilene was a visitor here this week.

New Railway; Paved Highway

Here's the Biggest Proposition Ever and Can Be Put Over Provided Everyone Will Work Hard

The following item from the daily papers of Tuesday will be of absorbing interest to all West Texas and especially to all towns and cities between Amarillo and San Antonio. There is every reason to have a direct north and south line thru West Texas and several of the big railroad systems should be interested in this field.

San Antonio, June 1.—Amarillo has joined hands with San Antonio in an attempt to put over two major projects, projects that are vital to the growth and development of the two cities—the building of a railroad to connect San Antonio with the vast empire of West Texas and the paving of highway No. 9 out of San Antonio north to Amarillo.

Holding a West Texas-San Antonio good will luncheon today, members of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce heard O. C. Goodwin, manager of the Amarillo chamber, tell what these two projects will mean to the two cities and the large territory involved.

"Railroads are built by supply and demand. The tonnage is increasing ton by ton each day and this meeting today is probably the initial step to bring about a strong demand for a railroad connecting San Antonio with Amarillo. One railroad, the most logical one to bridge the gap between the rails, has already made a tonnage survey. It may take a little time to get this connecting link of rails, but it is bound to come"

Speaking of the plan to pave highway No. 9, Goodwin declared "this highway is the most direct one between Amarillo and San Antonio and it is 120 miles shorter between the two towns over this route than it is around the other way.

"Amarillo is working on the paving of a highway to Regina, Canada, and with this highway connected with highway No. 9, the Winter tourists to San Antonio will increase in leaps and bounds."

Coming to the building of a railroad between the two cities, he said:

"Such a railroad will afford the shortest route to the Gulf ports. San Antonio is the gateway to Corpus Christi and Corpus Christi is our natural outlet to the sea. Twenty million bushels of wheat will be harvested in West Texas this year. If this railroad were a reality it would mean that a majority of the wheat would move over it down to Corpus Christi and out to the ports of the world.

"Wheat is only one of the many products of West Texas—there is oil. Think of the refined oil products that would be shipped over the road. Here is a concrete example of the tonnage West Texas affords—Panhandle, a little town near Amarillo, in the month of April had the second largest tonnage in the United States on the Santa Fe Railroad system."

BIG SPRING GOLFERS WIN

In a tournament at Midland last Sunday Big Spring golfers defeated Midland and Lamesa players. About thirty Big Spring folks went to Midland for this event and were the guests of the Midland club at a fine barbecue dinner.

Among those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Biles, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. N. W. CcCleskey, Mr. and Mrs. Homer McNew, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Yarnell, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Piner, Mr. and Mrs. Lib Coffee, Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Woodford, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. B. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stephens, Arch True.

A tournament is being planned to be held in Big Spring in the near future.

Below is the score for the eight holes by the three teams.

BIG SPRING—True 85, McCleskey 87, Stephens 87, Coffee 94, Yarnell 101, McNew 94, Weaver 93, Woodford 100; total 741.

MIDLAND—E. Cowden 84, Moran 89, Wells 75, Glass 93, Holt 104, Johnson 95, Carter 103, B. Cowden 109; total 752.

LAMESA—Murphy 91, Sears 91, King 104, Morris 102, Matthews 104, McCollum 111, Harrison 102, Gaines 113; total 818.

Shorty Wells of Midland finished in 75 low score.

CHAUTAUQUA STARTED HERE THURSDAY, JUNE 3

The big Chautauqua program started Thursday and will continue until Wednesday night, June 9. There will be no programs on Sunday.

The attractions this year are away above the average and those who miss any of the numbers are going to miss something good.

Here's an opportunity to enjoy good, clean attractions, numbers you cannot equal outside of the larger cities, at a price you can afford to pay. A season ticket will admit one adult to the twelve entertainments. As the season ticket costs only three dollars this makes the average admission only twenty five cents. A child's season ticket costs $1.00. Single admissions range from 50 cents to $1.00. You may be able to buy a season ticket by calling on the local committee at once. As the local committee must guarantee the sale of a certain number of tickets to bring chautauqua to our city it is up to folks who want these wholesome and educational features brought to Big Spring to encourage same by purchasing tickets from the local committee.

The full program for the six day engagement is as follows:

Thursday, June 3 — Afternoon, 2:45—Concert, Alamo Serenaders; Evening, 7:45—Concert, Alamo Serenaders; Entertainment, Everett Kemp.

Friday, June 4—Afternoon: Entertainment, Opal Flood; Address, Rev. Roy Rutherford; Evening, American Comedy, "Applesauce."

Saturday, June 5 — Afternoon, Garay Sisters and Leith Stevens; Evening, concert, Garay Sisters; Address, Dr. Elmer L. Williams.

Monday, June 7—Afternoon, Concert, Orchestra and Men's Singing Chorus, "Oh Percy;" Address, All American Tackle, Ed Weir; Evening Big Musical revue, "Oh Percy," featuring Jay Tobias with an interlude introducing Ed Weir.

Tuesday, June 8 — Afternoon, Concert, Katherine Costin, Address Major John J. Hill; evening, All star cast in the great play, "Smilin' Through."

Wednesday, June 9 — Afternoon, Concert Twentieth Century Artists, Address E. J. Powell; Evening, Concert Twentieth Century Artists, assisted by Wilbur Pfeiffer.

Everyone wants to attend this splendid program both afternoon and night.

GOODWILL TRIP TO COAHOMA

About 100 of Big Spring citizens accompanied by the Big Spring Band visited Coahoma Tuesday evening and gave a band concert on the streets of Coahoma. Aside from the program rendered by the band there were several citizens who made short talks.

The welcome address was made by B. F. Logan of Coahoma, the response was delivered by Mayor Clyde E. Thomas. B. Reagan of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce presided at the meeting, short talks were made by Rev. R. L. Owen, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Wm. Fisher, and C. T. Watson, Secretary of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

A high tribute was paid the Coahoma people for their hospitality. The speakers referred to the Coahoma country as one of the best agricultural sections in Howard county. It was stressed by President and C. T. Watson, that the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce were anxious to render Coahoma and its citizens any services possible in solving their local problems and in the promotion of local enterprises. The program was well attended and the Big Spring people are hopeful that they will soon have a similar excuse to visit their Coahoma friends.

B. B. FOX SELLS GROCERY

One of the quickest trades ever recorded in Big Spring took place Wednesday evening when B. B. Fox sold his grocery business in this city to Joe Davis. Davis asked B. B. how much he wanted for his store, and when he stated the price Mr. Davis wrote out a check and took charge. Mr. Fox who has been in the grocery business the past thirty one years thinks he is about due a change, and may decide to stock his ranch, located southeast of Big Spring.

Mr. Davis is well known to the citizens of Big Spring, an A1 business man, and the patrons of the Fox grocery will find him a mighty fine fellow to do business with.

Feeders Day Is to Be Held June 8

Results of Steer Feeding Experiments at Big Spring to be Given On Next Tuesday at Station

The third test of a three year steer feeding experiment which has been conducted by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at the A. & M. College in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture and the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce at Big Spring Texas, will be brought to a close June 8. A comparison of sorghum silage, sorghum fodder and cottonseed hulls in the ration of fattening baby beeves is being made. An ordinary ration of ground milo heads and cottonseed meal was supplemented by three different roughages. Cottonseed hulls as the roughage has not given in any of the three tests as good results as has sorghum fodder or orghum silage both of which have given about equal results each time. Isasmuch as sorghum fodder is more readily provided by them all stockmen it may be relied on as a good roughage in the ration.

The complete results found by the present test will be announced at the Feeders' Field Day Meeting which will be held at the U. S. Experiment Station on June 8. Among those who will be in attendance from the A. & M. College are G. W. Barnes, Beef Cattle Specialist, D. W. Williams, head of the Department of Animal Husbandry and J. M. Jones, Chief of the Division Range Animal Husbandry who is the Station's representative in charge of this work, Fred Keating, superintendent of the Government Experiment Station at Big Spring, V. V. Parr of Washington, D. C., will represent the Bureau of Animal industry at this meeting.

Farmers and livestock raisers from all sections of West Texas are expected and all interested in diversification or a safe agricultural program are cordially invited to attend.

In connection with the above program, a Club Boys stock judging contest will be held. Club boys of Dawson, Midland and other counties have been invited to participate.

Lunch will be served for visitors at the noon hour.

CITY FEDERATION CARNIVAL

The plans for the Carnival of Nations under the auspices of the City Federation, are now complete. Thee the "big ad" in this issue, showing arrangements of the grounds, the ones in charge, and the good eats to be found at each booth. Mrs. J. M. Morgan, the highly efficient chairman and manager, has arranged for the most spectacular pageant our town has ever known.

You will notice her "Midway" even bears a Pollyanna cognomen: it is the "Gladway," and all Big Spring, assembled there together, are to be glad and joyous, over this annual feature of good fellowship given each summer for the benefit of our community.

Saturday, June 12, is the date—from six oclock until the night closeth; the courthouse lawn is the place for our citizenship to discover the "end of a perfect day." "The Big Show" is the great event of the Carnival. The three in charge assures its success.

ARRANGING FOR AN APARTMENT HOUSE

Converting a ten-room residence into an apartment building is now in progress. The former home of B. C. Rix on Main street recently purchased by H. L. Rix is being so changed. E. H. Josey who was awarded the contract to remodel the building started work Wednesday and expects to complete the job in about ten days. Four fine apartments of from two to three rooms each, and each apartment with separate bath room, will be available when the improvements are completed.

The property being close in will be in demand, and there is need for more apartments in our city and this need will continue to increase while prosperity reigns in our section.

THIEF ENTERS STORE

A thief entered the store of B. W. Boyd on the highway in the western part of the city Sunday night. Entrance was gained by forcing open the front door. About one hundred pennies were taken from the cash register.

BIG SPRING LOSES TWO GAMES

The Big Spring T. & P. team lost two games this week—and should have had both of them. Sunday's game was witnessed by the biggest crowd of the season. The Dallas T. & P. Sunshine Special team walked away with this game to the tune of 5 to 1. Aided by errors Dallas secured her five scores on 5 hits, one of these being a home run. Big Spring piled up six hits and her lone tally was due to a home run by Harris. Passed balls enabled Dallas to score two runs on one hit in the first inning. The breaks were all in favor of Dallas. Line drives and near Texas Leaguers which in most any man's game would have meant runs were ruined by the Dallas fielders.

Even a safe hit to right field fence couldn't be made a two bagger for Big Spring. Only four men of each team fanned.

Weatherred started pitching for Big Spring but only went four innings when Curtis Choate was sent in. Weatherred was only touched up for three hits during the four innings, but lack of control prevented him from holding the Dallas bunch scoreless.

Weatherred made a good impression on the fans and they are certain he is going to make good here. The cured one hit off ChoateETAETA Dallas players although they only secured one hit off Choate managed to make one score due to an error or two.

Johnson, pitching for Dallas, did not look like a world beater but he seemed to be able to outguess the Big Spring boys as they had a bunch on bases several times but were unable to put the ball where it was out of reach of the Dallas players.

If Sunday's game was hard to lose, it was a measely shame to lose Monday's game. The Fort Worth T. & P. team took this game by a score of 5 to 4. It looked as though Big Spring was going to win in the ninth inning but luck was against us. Baber pitched a mighty fine game for the home team but it seemed an off day for most of the team. The ten errors made by the home team tells the story. One Fort Worth player was enabled to circle the bases on a single because of some wild overthrows on the part of Big Spring players.

Well those two games are lost, and its no use crying over spilled milk; let's boost for the team to win the games against the Miles Giants next Saturday and Sunday.

Study the box score and you'll see why we lost the last two games.

HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

The home of Uncle Joe Clifton, about twenty seven miles southeast of Big Spring, was destroyed by fire about noon Friday, May 29, together with all the household goods. Mr. Clifton was away from home and Dee had built a fire to prepare dinner and returned to the field to work. When he again returned to the house the fire was under good headway and he was unable to extinguish same.

PRO AGENT HAS HARD FIGHT ON THE HOME BREWERS

Stymied! That's the prohibition officer when it comes to nabbing the home brew maker—so long as Mr. Jones or Mr. Brown doesn't sell his beverage.

Major Herbert H. White, progeneralissimo of Texas and Oklahoma, with offices in Fort Worth, admits it's a fact.

"We can't prove a man's making beer unless we can enter his home and gather evidence," says the major.

"We can't put a foot inside his house if we haven't a search warrent.

"We can't get a search warrant under existing laws unless we can prove a sale.

"How many home brew makers ever think of selling a pint?

"And there you are."

But the major warns folks not to gather from anything they've read in the papers of late that it's not illegal to have a little brewery in the home.

It's just as serious a fracture of the law to bottle up a batch of beer as to run off more potent "corn," says the major.

Tho the pro sleuth can't get the necessary search warrants to make war on the bungalow Pabsts he can play "General Butler" if he wants to, says White.

That is to say, a pro sniffer is in-ql

That is to say, if a pro sniffer is invited to a party and sees any of the wallopful tipple around, he can prosecute on his own testimony.

His invitation would have dispensed of the need for search papers

And it would be accepted by the court on the same footing with a warrant, says the major.

So maybe you'd better check over that next party list CAREFULLY!—Fort Worth Press.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend heartfelt thanks to the many good friends and neighbors for their kindness and faithfulness during the illness and death of our beloved mother and wife. Especially do we thank the people of the Ackerly community for your deeds of kindness, your words of comfort and the floral offerings. You have our thanks and appreciation and we shall never forget your kindness in our time of sorrow.

MRS. WALTER WILLIAM DIES

Monday afternoon, May 17, at the family home, on the Long S. ranch, near Ackerly, Texas, the immortal spirit of Mrs. Walter Williams took its flight from its tenement of clay and went back to God from whence it came. Death came after long, long months of bed-ridden suffering.

The body and the family were met at Roscoe by relatives here and the undertaker, Frank Keeney. The body was brought to the home of R. E. Hickman, brother of deceased, where it lay in state until the funeral hour Wednesday afternoon, at 2 oclock. After the religious services by Elder West, a primitive Baptist preacher from Loraine, the body was taken by the loved ones and a host of friends out to the resting place of the dead, and beside her parents who several years ago went on to their reward, the body was placed to rest and await the resurrection of the dead.

Deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hickman and was born in Llano county in 1882, which made her forty-three years of age when the summons came and took her hence.

In 1897 deceased came with her parents to Bronte, where she made her home until a few years ago when she went with her husband and children to Ackerly, where the family has since resided.

Deceased was united in marriage in 1900 to Walter Williams. To them two children were born. They are Mrs. H. H. Meeks of Midland and Mrs. Bernice Cosby of Ackerly. Only Mrs. Cosby came with her father to put away mother's body, it being impossible for Mrs. Meeks to come.

In early life deceased professed hope in Christ and hers was a beautiful, sweet-spirited, happy Christian character, always living to bless her husband and children and to make the world better until disease fastened its deadly fangs upon her, from which she could never recover. All was done that could be done. She became bedridden last August and was a patient sufferer until the end came the bright lovely May afternoon and gave her rest. When she became aware that all had been done that love and skill could do, and nothing remained but for her to go, she told those who watched about her, all she wanted them to do was simply to be quiet and let her die—and that she did, she closed her eyes and awakened in the Paradise of God.

It was her request that a Primitive Baptist minister speak the last words at her bier—this request she made, it is said, because the Primitive Baptist people old fashioned singing was always so sweet and spiritual to her.

Deceased is survived by her husband and two daughters, three brothers and three sisters, other loved ones, and a host of friends who sorrow at her going—yet they do not sorrow without hope, for she left the evidence in her sweet, pure gentle life that she walked with God here on earth, and hence is now with Him in "the peace" prepared by His hands for His own.

Personally the writer is grieved, for in her going we have lost a friend, a real, kind, tender, sympathetic faithful, friend. When she was here last on a visit, she visited our home, and spoke so beautifully the words of confidence and good wishes, which have lingered with us and will now abide with us, like the refrain of some sweet song. God bless her memory and may she rest and sleep undisturbed in the holy spot where her body was put away until Jesus shall come again in the clouds with great glory, to make up his jewels. And may the bereft husband and daughters and others who sorrow have the deep and abiding consciousness of the presence of Him who said, "let not your heart be troubled."—Bronte Enterprise.

PAROLE FOR S. E. J. COX

The Federal Parole Board has recommended a parole for S. E. J. Cox who is now serving an eight year sentence in the Federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., on conviction of a charge of using the U. S. Mails to defraud.

Mr. Cox, while president of the General Oil Company with headquarters at Houston, had seven deep tests for oil drilled in Howard county. Oil was found in the McDowell No. 1, the first test to be put down by this company and was a small producer until recently when the well was junked.

Cox was associated with Dr. Frederick A. Cook in the oil promotion game when sentenced to Leavenworth.

Most everyone in this section will be pleased to learn that Mr. Cox is to be liberated.

The Texas & Pacific railway company is improving the depot grounds at Colorado, paving and filling in with rock, according to the Colorado paper. Maybe Big Spring will be next in line. Some filling in, so folks can reach the depot following a rainy season, certainly would be appreciated by the patrons of the line.

If we could sponsor a sure enough paint-up campaign the city of Big Spring would profit thereby. Especially along the highways should the homes be neat and attractive as the tourists judge a town by the view they get while traveling thru. They peddle the news, be it good or bad—as they see it.

There is a task for everyone who desires to aid in the progress and development of the home community. If you are not able to give money or effort to this work, you can at least say a good word for those who are endeavoring to upbuild the home town.

The State Highway Commission at the expiration of present maintenance contracts will carry out its own maintenance of state highways. The patrol system used in railroad maintenance will be one of the methods tried by the commission.

FIGHTING THE FIRE PERIL

One of the biggest forces in the country in the cause of fire prevention is the Boy Scouts of America The help of this great movement, with a membership of over 700,000 is of two-fold value. In the first place, it means that these boys, when they grow up, are going to make a generation more conscientious about fire hazards than their fathers, better trained, more vigilant. In the second place, in their individual communities Boy Scouts are even now conducting an efficient campaign in fire safety work. It is a fact that these young boys, still in their teens, save our country literally thousands of dollars every year.

Boyhood is the period when human activity is, perhaps, at its topmost point. Ideals are high and the sense of responsibility strong. The Boy Scout Movement has utilized these qualities in its program of training, and transformed more than half a million boys from hangers-on around the hose cart into active allies against the fire peril. Half a million human dynamos working In smaller localities, where fire- to make this country a better and safer place to live in!

Before he reaches second class rank every Boy Scout has proved his ability to make a fire—and put it out. In the ordinary routine of his Scouting, he learns necessary safety precautions and his training enables him to act with resourcefulness and intelligence when occasion requires. And in addition to this, nearly 10,000 boys specialize annually in Firemanship.

The Boy Scout Fireman has been especially trained in principles of Firemanship and Safety First. His primary duty is to guard against fire before it happens. Every Boy Scout council in the United States may have a Firemanship Unit, and the number of these units is constantly increasing. Boy Scout Firemen are the official aides of the fire departments in many of our larger cities, fighting facilities are limited, the value of their services can hardly be estimated.

The slogan of the Boy Scout Firemen is "Fight the Fire Fiend." Their purpose, as outlined in their constitution, is "to promote the safety of life and property by the prevention of fires and accidents." No less a hero than the chief of the City Fire Department is the Chief of the Boy Scout Fireman Unit. Many a grizzled veteran of the Fire Department leaves his duties for an hour to give instruction in the principles of firemanship and fire-prevention to an all absorbed class of Boy Scouts.

The course of instruction covers several weeks in practical as well as theoretical work. The Fire Chief himself gives the examinations. The proud boy who successfully completes the work is entitled to wear a metal badge, a five-pointed star bearing the inscription, "Scout Fireman." Could greater distinction be given to any lad? Membership in any one unit is limited to two hundred.

One of the most important things the scout fireman learns is that Safety Begins at Home. Mother is urged to use an electric torch instead of a candle when rummaging in the clothes closet, and to refrain from the use of kerosene in kindling the kitchen fire. Dad receives a pamphlet giving statistic s on the cause of fires, and discovers that putting hot ashes in a wooden barrel stands high up on the list. Little sister is cautioned against throwing waste paper in the grate, and the scout himself conducts an inspection of the gas and electric fixtures.

Then he considers his community. Are the buildings constructed in accordance with the fire laws? Are the fire-escapes clear of obstacles? Are the hallways free from rubbish? Are greasy cans of inflammable material properly sequestered? The slim khaki lad who tactfully approaches the landlord about his shortcomings is a Scout Fireman. Many a fire never happened because a Scout Fireman saw the danger in time. A survey of his home and community is a regular part of his training.

The Scout Fireman understands fire extinguishers. How many average citizens can discriminate between sado acid extinguishers and those using carbon tetrachloride? How many are aware of the things which may obstruct an automatic sprinkler system and how may they be corrected? Yet this information was not too technical for some eight thousand boys to master last year. They studied the water system of their communities—the capacity, the pressure, the source of supply; safety rules, fire laws, and the varieties of fire-escapes.

All this by the way of fire prevention. The Scout Fireman is not expected to work behind the fire lines. His task is to keep the crowd in order, give first aid if necessary, perform police duty, and assist the firemen in any way he can. But emergencies do arise. And the motto of the Boy Scouts is "Be Prepared." Here are the requirements of the Firemanship Merit Badge Pamphlet which every scout who wins his Merit Badge in Firemanship has accomplished:

To obtain a merit badge for Firemanship, a scout must:

1. Know how to turn in an alarm for fire;
2. Know how to enter burning buildings;
3. Know how to prevent panics and the spread of fires;
4. Understand the use of hose, unrolling, hoisting up, connecting to hydrant, use of nozzle, etc.;
5. Understand the use of escapes, ladders and chutes, and know the location of exits in buildings which he frequents;
6. Know how to improvise ropes and nets;
7. Explain what to do in case of panic, understand the fireman's lift and drag, and how to work in fumes;
8. Understand the use of fire-extinguishers; how to rescue animals; how to save property; how to organize a bucket brigade; how to aid the police in keeping back crowds.

Since 1917 over 40,000 Boy Scouts in every state in the union have learned how to prevent a fire from starting, how to keep it from spreading, and what to do in an emergency, as outlined in the above requirements.

Safeguarding one's community is the job of every Scout. Close cooperation with police and fire departments is one way in which these boys are rendering outstanding service. In return, full need of interest and help is given by municipal officials and employes, from the mayor down.

There is another aspect of this Boy Scout training that will occur to the thoughtful observer. The boys of today are the men of tomorrow. The Boy Scouts will come into their responsibilities with a practical knowledge of municipal and national affairs. Every scout trained now will not only be a living advertisement for the principles of fire prevention and safety first, but he will feel it very distinctly his duty to see that the fire department functions adequately. The man who as a boy superintended the fire-escapes and hallways of his neighborhood will not allow the fire department to be handicapped by either politics or insufficient funds.

He will do more than require the latest and most scientific equipment. He will know personally why it is best adapted for his particular community.

Training of this sort is a practical asset to the nation now, and will bear even greater fruit in the next generation, when these boys assume their responsibilities as citizens. Because of them we can look forward to a greater era of safety than this country has ever before known.

THE T. E. L. CLASS ENTERTAINS

The T. E. L. class met in a business and social session at the lovely home of Mrs. W. R. King on Tuesday afternoon, May 18.

Roses in profusion adorned the spacious sitting room and dining room. The business meeting was opened by the devotional leader Mrs. Joe Lewis. After the usual business was dispensed with the hostesses of the social took charge.

While refreshments of delicious ice cream and angel food cake were being served by Mesdames W. R. King, Joe Lewis and Lester King, the subject of how to spend a profitable summer at home was discussed by all present. And many helpful points were given. We were also favored with some delightful music from Mrs. King's Edison.

At this meeting the T. E. L. class had their picture made to be placed on their standard of excellence.

The members present keenly appreciated the warm hospitality extended the guests by Mrs. King.

THE DAIRY INDUSTRY IN THE SOUTHWEST

The dairy industry in the Southwest made progress slowly during the years of high-priced cotton. It takes less physical labor and a maller amount of mental effort to grow cotton than it does to make a success with cows. Cows, however, come to the rescue when the cotton crop does not pay the cost of production, and the industry makes greater progress during periods for other farm products. It is during hard times that many men find themselves adapted to dairying; when they revive a love for good animals and stick to the business from that time on.

The dairy industry in the Southwest is handicapped by a large number of unproductive cows on farms and in dairy herds. Many of those who have gone into the dairy business, or who have attempted to keep a few cows on the farm, have found that losses were suffered more often than profits were made, and thus the report has gone out that dairying does not pay. It has not paid in their cases because their production per animal was small and the quality of the product low. Good cows properly fed seldom lose money for their owners, and what Texas needs as well as all other Southwestern States, is more cows of 4,000 pounds or better milk production, and fewer scrubs. A few poor producers in a herd of good cows will eat up the profit of the entire herd. Two real producers will make a profit where any number of scrubs will record a loss. The more scrubs the greater the loss. The dairying interests of the Southwest would be greatly benefitted if 75 per cent of the cows now being fed and milked were shipped to the canning factories of the packing companies.

Fortunately for the Southwest there are some of the best herds of purebred dairy cattle in the country right at home, and some of the best-known breeders of the United States are making an effort to establish the dairying industry on a paying basis in this section. Bull calves of the best breeding can be had at small cost, and thus is the opportunity afforded to build up a herd within a period of a few years. Those who do not want to wait the process of building a herd from grade stock can purchase purebreds of record as foundation stock. The Southwest is now in a position to build the dairy industry on a paying and permanent basis.—Farm and Ranch.

THREE IMPORTANT DAIRY SUBJECTS

Prof. J. P. LaMaster, chief of the dairy division of Clemson College, emphasizes the fact that more profit could be made in dairying if Southern farmers would give the subject a reasonable amount of thought and study. He calls attention to three important matters that must be given greaer attention as follosw:

1. Many farmers selling cream do not think they are making money, and this if true is entirely because they are neglecting a few essentials for economic production. The skimmilk is of vital importance in determining the profit possible in milking a few cows. What should be done with the skimmilk? First, it should be fed to the best heifer calves and any balance used in poultry and hog production. Unless skimmilk is used in this manner, the most profit cannot be realized from a herd of dairy cows. The by-product is as important as the cream. Unless the by-product is used to raise good heifer calves, hogs and chickens, the skimmilk is lost.

2. Keeping records is another important factor on any dairy farm. By all means a record of the breeding of every cow in the herd should be kept. Otherwise how can we know when our cows are due to freshen? If we know this then we can give the cows a good rest by drying them up a month to six weeks previous to the next lactation period.

3. By far the most important consideration in the production of cream is the time of year that the cows freshen. The fall is always the best time for freshening: First, because the price of butterfat is always higher in the fall and winter; second, because fall and winter are the slack seasons on the farm; third, because the cows will do better at this time of the year, not having flies to fight, and climatic conditions being most favorable. Therefore, there can be no doubt that the cows in our average farm herds should begin to freshen along about October.—Tait Butler, in The Progressive Farmer.

This young woman ascends a giddy ladder every day to put finishing touches to the "Rainbow City"—the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition, opening in Philadelphia June 1 and continuing until December 1, to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the Declaration of American Independence. She is one of an army of young artists who are making the Sesqui a colorful success.

REAL HEROINE

Ray Adams of Barrington, N. H., American School girl to be put as a candidate for the Youth Award. The American Girl and Teacher Award was made by the Board of Directors of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition in Philadelphia as a tribute to girls and teachers of the nation. Miss Adams is a candidate for the Bronze Bar, the highest gift in the hands of the Girl Scouts. She was injured recently for exceptional bravery in remaining inside a blazing building helping physicians to give aid and treatment to injured firemen.

PRONUNCIATION AID

June Webster, descendant of the famous lexicographer, Noah Webster, presents a copy of her ancestor's work to the Publicity Department of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition Association to help them in pronouncing properly the name of the big events which opens June 1 to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. There are many types of pronunciations heard but there is just one proper way Noah says. It is "Ses-Kwuh-cen-ten'-nial" with the accent on the first syllable of the "Sesqui" and on the second syllable of the "centennial."

Federal Commissioner

Rear Admiral H. O. Stickney, retired, who has been appointed by Secretaries Hoover and Kellogg as Federal Commissioner to the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition commemorating the 150th anniversary of American Independence and which will be held in Philadelphia from June 1 to December 1. Admiral Stickney will be in full charge of the United States Government exhibit, which will be the largest of its type ever made.

AID TO BEAUTY

The young woman's skillful hand of the Administration of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition Association lends a delightful aspect to the gardeners where to place the trees and shrubs about the Liberty Bell building. She is doing her part to make the big celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

SAVE THE FEEDSTUFF

There is reason to believe that Texas and other Southwestern States will produce an abundance of feedstuff this season. A large oat crop has already been harvested. Hay and other forms of forage are making a better showing than for several years, and there is yet time for fall crops and fall pastures.

The Southwest has always been more prosperous when farmers have not had to spend their cotton money for feed, and this seems to be one of those years. Next year may not prove so favorable, and therefore every pound of feed should be saved and that part not needed for immediate consumption should be stored for against the time of need. If a farmer is without barn and shed room for his hay and other forage, select a well-drained place and stack. Be sure your stack is well constructed and will shed water. If properly stacked after being properly cured, it will keep through the winter and for an almost indefinite time thereafter.

There is very little money in producing feed and selling it. One never receives for it as much as he would have to pay, if he were in need. An abundant supply of feed is more valuable on the farm than it is in the market.—Farm and Ranch.

Old Mr. Carter Helped by Simple Mixture

"After taking Adlerika I feel better than for years. At my age (60) it is ideal—so different from other medicines." (signed) W. W. Carter. Adlerika is a simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., which removes GAS in ten minutes and often brings surprising relief to the stomach. Stops that full, bloated feeling. Brings out old waste-matter you never thought was in your system. Excellent for chronic constipation. J. D. Biles, Druggist. 6

DO YOU KNOW HIM?

The man who cuts a corner in his car in front of you without holding out his hand—the man who backs out from the curb without looking to see if you're coming—the man who crowds you at the intersection and on the country road—and the man who in a multitude of other ways does not grant the courtesy to his fellow motorist that he would to his dog—just "forgets."—Lubbock Journal.

There must be some sort of disease, which might be called "motoritis," that takes hold of some fellows when they get behind a steering wheel. Many drivers, who are otherwise perfect gentlemen, drop all that is akin to courtesy the minute they get their hands on the wheel and their foot on the accelarator. A man who wouldn't think of pulling a chair out from behind his great grandmother as she was about to sit down; who wouldn't for the world put pepper sauce in his baby's milk bottle; who wouldn't spit tobacco juice on a lady's white shoes nor even consider kicking a small boy off the sidewalk for the fun of it, will nevertheless turn right around and hog the highway, cut the corner or speed down a busy street and let the pedestrians get out of the way the best they can. Courtesy drops out of his vocabulary when the motor begins to hum. This kind of driver is as fine as they make 'em as long as he is himself, but when he essays the role of a Barney Oldfield and gets intoxicateed with gasoline fumes, a rushing breeze and a good highway, he has become a recruit in that army of road hogs that daily reap a toll of life and property in automobile accidents throughout the nation. He truly forgets courtesy in his effort to prove he can cut a corner if he wants to to other drivers that he will take just as much of the road as he wants, that and that it's just your hard luck if you do not get out of his way.—Sweetwater Reporter.

An investment in courtesy or kindness always pays good interest.

A SMALL EGG

One extreme always calls for the other it seems. It has only been a few weeks since the hens in Howard county were trying to outdo each other in laying the largest eggs, as was attested by the number of monster eggs brought to the Herald office. Now the contest is on to see which hen can lay the smallest egg. At least this seemed the case when a hen egg about one half inch in diameter was brought to this office last week.

J. I. Davis who lives on the F. B. Buchanan place, eleven miles northwest of Big Spring, brought in this hen fruit.

CANDIDATES MUST FILE APPLICATIONS

All candidates for county and precinct offices who desire their names on the election ticket for the Democratic primary which will be held in Howard county on July 24, must file their application with the County Chairman, P. F. Cantrell by Saturday, June 19.

Better attend to this matter immediately for you may overlook it if you put it off.

IMPROVEMENTS AT Y. M. C. A.

While needed improvements for the Y. M. C. A. building have been discussed and planned the past five years or more it was not until last Friday that it was possible to make a start on this improvement.

The porch has been repaired and the interior is going to be painted and brightened up considerably.

Mrs. J. O. Tamsitt and Mrs. A. L. Kent and son left Friday morning for a visit with relatives at Tayoh. Mrs. Kent is the daughter of Mrs. Tamsitt. From Toyah Mrs. Kent will go to Los Angeles to make her home.

Miss Olive Ruth Bird left Sunday for Fort Worth where she will attend summer school.

Even the north wind can't blow it out

THERE'S an old joke about blowing out lights, but you never heard of anyone blowing out an electric light. Even the north wind doesn't make much of a success of that.

And the power of the wind is surpassed by the power of electricity. In scores of factories and machine shops, on farms and in homes, electric motors and labor saving tools are busily turning power into wealth with the help of the generators of this company.

Make electricity your ready servant. No job is too much for its strength and there's almost no limit to the ways in which it can save you time, energy and your money. We will be glad to show you how—specifically.

DAVIDSON RAPS MA-MOODY 'BET' DISGRACEFUL, SAYS CANDIDATE

Jim Ferguson, proxy Governor, offers to bet the office of Governor against the office of Attorney General. Dan Moody accepts the bet. The two highest offices within the gift of the people of Texas are thus placed upon the plane of a "negro crap game." The honor and dignity of these two great offices is insulted and disgraced by their incumbents to a degree that brings a blush of shame to every decent and right thinking citizen in this state. The legal and moral codes of Texas condemn gambling, even when it involves property owned by the gamblers. The offices held by the Governor and the Attorney General are solemn trusts granted by the people of Texas. The holders of those offices have no more right to gamble them away than they would have to gamble away the estate of widows and orphans entrusted to them by a dead friend or relative. Ferguson's failure to respect a public trust is not a matter of astonishment. Moreover, if he wins he wins double—keeps the office of Governor and the right to name an Attorney General who would serve six months, which is long enough to dismiss some troublesome road suits. Shades of our great lawyers now gone who have filled this high office! How their outraged spirits must revolt as they see their successor wagering his sacred trust in a game of chance in an effort to herd votes into his "political" barnyard. Mr. Moody obviously expects to force Texas voters to back him for Governor by holding up the threat of a Ferguson named Attorney General, should he lose his bet with the Fergusons. Mr. Moody proclaims that the issue in this campaign is "Fergusonism" against the right of the people. In the next breath he enters into a betting covenant with Jim Ferguson, by which he attempts to rob the people of their right to name the Attorney General and also to name the Governor of Texas in the coming election. The only honorable course left to Mr. Moody to right the wrong he has done the people and that they may freely express their own preference at the ballot box in the coming election, is for him to withdraw from the gubernatorial race. If this is not done, the highway suits now halted by his political activities might be dismissed by a Ferguson Attorney General or die of old age before the parties are ever brought to bar.

CIVIC PRIDE

Just what is the elusive thing known as "civic pride?" Do you have it? Is the germ of it alive within your neighborhood? I'll not define it, but if you will visit the streets briefly sketched below you'll see "what I mean."

Bell Street

With an added "e" this street could perhaps claim the feminine supremacy over all the rest, but it will need more than an E to bring Bell street "over the top." It is a short street, and well populated. The rent houses are mostly in good condition. But there is a dearth of shrubs and grass and flowers. Three or four care are rewarded by their efforts. A planting epidemic would improve Bell. Let us hope the children on the street will sow flowers during the vacation time.

Lancaster Street

Maybe you think this is a mistake, but those living on Jack street decided that a nice new name would be a start in the right direction. So, presto! Jack becomes Lancaster. Like Gregg street, this is another street showing the effect of the last few years of city grading. It has been widened and made navigable bit by bit. The upper end used to be nothing but ditches. Now the street stretches from the railroad clear thru to the Glacier to Gulf homes have pretty grassy lawns, showing those who give the needed Motorway. There are many nice trees on Lancaster, and the past year quite a bit of improvement has gone on. Grading has helped more than any other factor to bring about quick results.

One thing noticeable with the change of name was the planting of lilacs by nearly every home owner, and several renters. This was at the suggestion of one who thought it might be nice to have a "street flower" as well as state flower. Lilacs are easily grown and require little attention. Next March Lancaster street will be in lilac bloom. To the Dawse home falls the honor of having the most unique plant, a Century plant in full bud, and to the Fisher home that of having a regular flower garden of roses, honeysuckle, holly hocks and all manner of growing things.

THE PAIR OF JACKS NOW HERE

They're back!

"The Pair of Jacks" at the R. & R. Lyric theater in this city on the afternoon of Thursday for a three days return engagement.

They have added a lot of new numbers to their program since their last appearance in Big Spring and folks like our present program even better than they did the first one we gave them some months ago, declared Jack Bell, who is, incidentally, known as "Little Jack" to his friends, when he talked with Manager H. B. Robb at the R. and R. Offices in Dallas recently.

"You can whisper to the wide, wide world that it's a fur, fur piece around Texas," Jack continued, "and I think we just about covered it. We have traveled every way except on the rods and walking, and we've got too much baggage to get by that way or we might have tried that. Aunt Lucindy in the heydey of her fame never had a thing on us when it comes to totin' baggage, for we do no less than live in our trunks. We are out thirty and sixty days at a time without ever getting back home, except for the between train stops, and then most of our time is put in broadcasting again over WFAA just to keep in touch with our radio friends over the country. But at that, it's a lot of fun and we are more than glad that our schedule brings us back to Big Spring."

"The Jacks" have played thirty-one towns in Texas this spring, and without a single exception the same theaters are clamoring to have them back for a return engagement, and that is a mighty good reputation for any troup to set up in these days of stiff entertainment competition. The R. & R. Lyric theater is very lucky in being able to slip ahead of a bunch of the other theaters in securing "The Jacks" and we know their many friends are going to see and hear them during their present engagement, which closes Saturday night, June 5.

A BAD PRACTICE

We are going to suggest that the practice of taking up a collection for the player who raps out a home run be discouraged, as it hampers our team and does not make for team work. There's no use trying to make Babe Ruth out of our boys; and many times a safe single might be secured if the batter was not trying to knock the ball out of the park. Team work is essential if our team is to be a consistent winner and a fellow who is ambitious to be a home run hitter is looking out for himself rather than for the team.

Reward the fellow who makes a safe hit when it is most needed and give all the members of the team a chance to win a reward.

MISS LILLIAN SHIVE WINS HONOR

Miss Lillian Shive who attends Baylor College at Belton has been awarded the "Art Scholarship" for this year.

Tuition in the School of Art for the next year is the prize that goes to the one winning this scholarship. The prize is awarded to the art student who does the best work from cast or nature.

Miss Shive was also accorded another honor in that she was named as manager of the College Magazine for next year.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Rix and daughter, Miss Ruth, and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Rix left Tuesday for Lubbock where they will make their future home. In their going Big Spring loses two of our most estimable families and most progressive citizens. They have played a most important part in the upbuilding of our city, and Lubbock is indeed fortunate in winning them as citizens. While a host of friends regret their departure, all join in wishing them all the success and happiness possible.

In his Memorial Day address at the Arlington Amphitheater, dedicated to the veterans of all American wars, President Coolidge issued a ringing denunciation of militarism, intolerance and race hatred and appealed to the people of the nation to maintain peace by disarmament and arbitration.

Miss Bernice Waggoner left Wednesday for a few days visit with homefolks at San Angelo. From there she will go to San Antonio to spend the remainder of a two week's vacation.

Mrs. Lillian Harris who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. E. E. Scott and other relatives left Saturday night for her home in Temple.

Mrs. N. W. McCleskey and children left Wednesday for Long Beach California, where they will spend the summer.

HISTORY IN CAKE

This replica of historic Independence Hall in Philadelphia is a fine example of the baker's art. It was made by the chef of one of Philadelphia's leading hotels to advertise the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition, which will open in that city June 1 and run to December 1 to celebrate the 150th anniversary of American Independence. The "State House" stands on a table at the entrance to the main dining room of the hotel.

MESDAMES HOPKINS AND WOLFE ENTERTAIN

One of the most enjoyable social occasions of the season was enjoyed at the home of Mrs. F. C. Hopkins on Wednesday afternoon of last week, at which time Medames O. E. Wolfe and F. C. Hopkins entertained their friends at Bridge.

Sweet peas and other floral decorations lent a charm to the interior decorations on this occasion.

Twelve tables of players took part in the ever interesting games. When scores were compared it was ascertained that Mrs. Bernard Fisher had made high score while Mrs. L. L. Freeman was awarded the consolation prize.

Delicious refreshments in two courses were enjoyed at the close of play.

MESDAMES CHARLES DUBLIN AND ED MARTIN ENTERTAIN

The home of Mrs. Charles Dublin was the scene of a brilliant social session, Wednesday afternoon, at which time Mrs. Edgar Martin and Mrs. Dublin entertained their friends at Bridge. The home was tastily decorated with flowers, and a delightful time was in order for everyone attending.

Fourteen tables of players took part in the series of interesting games and keen rivalry was apparent in the race to make top score. To Miss Terry of Midland went the honor of making high score, and Mrs. H. E. Hatch was awarded the consolation.

The refreshments were indeed delicious and added much to the pleasure of this delightful occasion.

GRANDCHILD OF FRANK WYNN WAS INJURED LAST FRIDAY

Frank Wynn returned Sunday from Fort Worth where he had been called by an injury to his grandchild Frances Ross, aged seven. Frances, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ross, sustained a broken leg when struck by an automobile. The accident took place in front of their home at Fort Worth. The injury is a most serious one and the broken bones have not been set; the physicians delaying this operation until danger of infection has passed. The broken bones protruded thru the flesh.

COAHOMA CHURCH NOTES
(Baptist)

Enthusiasm is still running high in the Sunday school, and if the progress now being made continues it will only be a short time until we will have an A-1 Sunday school. The Intermediate classes recently rearranged and divided are showing especial interest and pep in their work. Each is striving hard to attain the nearest perfect record, and at the end of each month the winning class is to be given a social by the other.

Rev. W. D. Green and wife, our Associational Missionaries, met with the Senior B. Y. P. U. last Sunday evening, each of them giving us a fine talk. We are always glad to have these two with us, for during Bro. Green's pastorate here they endeared themselves in our hearts. Those who did not hear Bro. Green's talk missed something that does not often come our way.

The Intermediate B. Y. P. U. did not take their program to Salem Sunday evening, on account of the smallpox epidemic prevailing in and around that community. They hope to be able to go there though in the near future.

Those on program at the Senior B. Y. P. U. next Sunday, are:

Hardness of Heathen Hearts — Walter Woodson.

How Heathenism Wastes Life — Willie Eggleston.

Specific Value of Medical Missions—Mattie Armstrong.

How Peter Parker Won Favor — June McNew.

Modern Medical Missions — Calvin Porch.

Medical Missions Maintained by American Christians—Valma Pugh.

Southern Baptist Medical Missions—Alvin Pugh.

CANDIDATE FOR STATE SUPT. PUBLIC INSTRUCTION HERE

J. A. Humphries, Hockley county, candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction called at the Herald office Wednesday morning. In making this race he said regarding his candidacy that he was impelled by no selfish motive other than serve the children of Texas.

The present incumbent, Mr. Marrs has held the office for two terms and is now seeking election for a third term without offering any program or showing in his record of four years any reasons to justify his claim for re-election.

Mr. Humphries alleges that he will, if elected, avoid so much text book litigation by accepting court decision if in fact it becomes necessary to involve the Department of Education in law suits.

Candidate Humphries is a former Bell county man in which place he served the public in the courts for six years in addition to his regular profession as teacher in public and high schools. He has been living on the Plains for the past five years and is now superintendent of schools in Hockley county, from which county his announcemen tis made.

A mother red bird and three young birds are making their home in a rosebush at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Tucker and the Tucker family are mighty proud of these visitors. The baby of Mr. and Mrs. Tucker has been taking crumbs to the mother bird and is able to approach to within a few feet of her while she eats or while she is teaching the young birds to fly.

As a result of the heavy rainstorm here Saturday night, the basement of the First National Bank building was flooded and it was necessary to rig up a pump to get rid of the water which was several feet deep in the basement. The flood of water coming down West Second street entered the basement thru the manholes on the sidewalk.

ON TO AMARILLO

Amarillo, June 3.—One of the most important of the auxiliary meetings to be held during the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce here during June 21-22-23, will be that of the oil mens banquet, of which R. G. Barnum, local oil man, is chairman. 500 oil men from all over the nation are expected to be present.

W. S. Farish of Houston, president of the American Petroleum Institute and president of the Humble Oil Company, will be the honor guest. Among others to be invited are W. C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company, one of the big men of the oil industry; Edgar Pew, of Fort Worth, former president of the A. P. I. and president of the Sun Oil Company; and J. D. Collett of Fort Worth, president of the Mid-Continent Oil Company.

CITY FEDERATION NOTES

The regular meeting was held at the Rest Room last Tuesday with a faithful few present. The Librarian reported some new books purchased and a new case built to make room for the increasing number.

The special committee reported the hearty cooperation of Mayor and Council, and that sanitary conditions had been promptly and fully remedied.

The carnival committee had an enthusiastic report of wonderful plans for the big Carnival on the 12. All the women are responding beautifully and plans are rapidly maturing as may be seen from the big ad on another page. Membership in the City Federation will be taken on the Carnival grounds and it is hoped that a large number will avail themselves of the opportunity of joining at this time.

The Federation meetings will be at four oclock during the summer months, on the first Tuesday of every month.

Run-Down

gave out easily

"MY health wasn't any account at all," says Mrs. H. L. Cayton, of Washington, N. C. "I would start to do my housework and I would give out before I had done anything at all. I did not have any strength, and if I did the least thing it seemed to tax me so I could not finish. I was run-down sure enough.

"Several of my friends had taken Cardui and they said to me, 'Why don't you try it?' I knew I needed something to build up my general health and to increase my strength.

"Finally one day when I was recovering from a spell of sickness, I decided to try Cardui. I got a bottle and began to take it. I could notice that I was improving as my appetite got better and I did not give out nearly so quick. I took several bottles and I felt lots better.

"Two years ago I decided to take it again. It built me up and made me feel like a different person. It is the grandest medicine for women that I know anything about."

In Town and the Country

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright.)

JOHN COPPERFIELD hated country life and had not much use for the country in general. But Celia Bucklin lived in the country—was a country girl born and bred—and that made a difference, even to John. He had often wished that it were otherwise, but he had to admit to himself with a sigh that she would not be happy except amid the woods and fields and that the roar of the elevated line would never make up to her for the calling of the whippoorwills, nor the rattle of the dumbwaiter for the babbling of the brook.

He went down to Brookville—where Celia lived—as often as he possibly could get away from business and attended there garden parties, picnics and other sylvan diversions with an assiduity only equaled by that of the mosquitoes in stinging him and the ants in getting into the ice cream. And he pretended to like it because "it would please Celia." The nights in the country were especially awful to him. The strange, weird, subdued noises got on his nerves; he longed to fly back to roaring Manhattan and get a good night's sleep.

He had met Celia when she was on a visit to some cousins of hers in the city, and had taken great pleasure in showing her about and expatiating upon the beauties of Manhattan; but all the time she had babbled of green fields and sylvan joys.

He proposed and was accepted—and he and Celia sat on the piazza of the lonely old house of her fathers and discussed the future. "We will build a little house over there on that hill," said he, "so that you will be near your people and your friends. It is quite a ride to and from the city daily; but I shall not mind it when I know that you are waiting to meet me when I come home."

"But John," said Celia doubtfully, "are you quite sure you would be content to live always in the country?"

"Oh, certainly," he replied; "anywhere would be paradise to me if you were there, dear."

"But do you like the country?" insisted Celia.

"Of course—immensely," he prevaricated.

Then he went on to picture their happy life to come in their quiet, country home—growing quite eloquent on the subject. Celia did not enthuse as he had expected her to over the prospect; she seemed, on the contrary, rather sad and pensive. He returned to the city the next morning, and the day following he received a letter from Celia. It was a curious letter; John could not make it out; something had happened; what was it? She hinted several times that, perhaps, their engagement had been a mistake—that they were not going to be as happy as they had thought they would. But in the next line would be a pledge of love and a willingness to be resigned to fate.

John pondered. Then he saw it all! It was that handsome young fruitgrower whose great orchards were contiguous to the estate of Celia's father. He had been hanging around Celia for years. Once, at a picnic, a country busybody had joked him upon his "cutting out Pete Pryor." Peter and Celia had been to school together as children; he was of the country, a scorner of cities; just as Celia was. She had been captivated by his, John's, city manners and city clothes; but after the fatal "Yes" had been spoken had realized that it was Peter Pryor she loved, after all.

John slept quite as badly that night, in spite of the soothing sound of the neighboring elevated, as he had been accustomed to in the country with the ghostly calling of those infernal whippoorwills driving away slumber. Next morning he hung onto his accustomed strap, alighted at his accustomed elevated station and walked officeward sadly. Should he write Celia a letter telling her that she was free; or should he go down to Brookville and personally give back to her her troth and resign her to the bucolic fruitgrower?

At the entrance of the office building where John did business he encountered two ladies—the cousins of Celia whom she had been visiting when he first met her. "Why, how do you do, Mr. Copperfield," cried the elder of the two. "Aren't we early birds? You see, we are leaving for Bar Harbor today and had to see our lawyer before we started. How are you and Celia coming on? When are you going to be married? Oh, it will just be delightful for Celia to come to live in the city. She has always wanted to. She just hates country life; but has never been able to get away from it for more than a week or two at a time. Good-by. That lawyer must be in by this time."

That evening John arrived at Brookville. "It's all right, Celia, old girl," he cried, as he took her in his arms. "We'll forget that bungalow on the hill. The five-room-and-bath flat handy to the elevated is all engaged. Come in town with me tomorrow and we'll pick out the furniture."

"Oh, John, you dear," she replied, "how did you know what I wanted? Won't we be happy?" And they were.

WHAT'S DOING IN WEST TEXAS

By West Texas C. of C.

Big Spring — At a meeting of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, C. T. Watson was authorized to purchase at least ten registered Jersey bulls to be distributed in various communities of the county. Poultry raising, also hog production are expected to follow along with the dairy industry.

Hereford — At a luncheon recently held by the local Chamber of Commerce, Mayor D. S. Ireland urged Hereford to send a large delegation to the West Texas Chamber of June 21-22-23. Committees were immediately appointed to look after the transportation, the decorations and stunts for the parade.

Tahoka — The latest scholastic census in Lynn county show that there are approximately 3500 school children between the ages of seven and eighteen. There are 24 districts, twelve independent and twelve being common school districts.

Childress — A very extensive building program has been planned and bond carried for the erection of a City Hall, $40,000; sewer bonds, $100,000; water improvements, $35,000; and school $110,000. The sale of the city bonds will provide funds for the erection of a new $50,000 municipal building.

Vernon — The City Commission of Vernon plans to install another 360 horsepower engine at the municipal electric light and water plant.

Quanah — Quanah has just received a car load of hogs, which was ordered by the local Chamber of Commerce. Secretary Willie had no trouble at all placing the hogs, which were seventy one in number.

Mineral Wells — Work is now under way for the re-building of the Crazy Well Hotel here, which was destroyed by fire. The Crazy Well Hotel Company has completed its organization and all the financing for the rebuilding of the Hotel and Pavilion has been arranged.

Sweetwater — Contract for the sale of the $160,000 issue for a municipal city hall auditorium and fire station bonds has been entered into by the City Commission.

San Angelo — Walter E. Yaggy has recently resigned as Secretary of the Board of City Development, which position he has held since April, 1922. Mr. Yaggy will serve until June 1, unless a successor is appointed before that time.

Alpine—Alpine is anticipating the opening of its new swimming pool which has just been completed. The pool is located in the heart of the town and measures 150 feet in length and 26 feet wide. The swimming pool and surrounding park will be lighted at night.

Wichita Falls — Final arrangements for the construction of a 16-inch gas main from the Shamrock field to Wichita Falls have been completed. This contract involves an expenditure of $4,000,000 and calls for the construction of 175 miles of line from the Wheeler county gas fields to Wichita, furnishing gas to cities enroute.

the Eastland County Better Farming Ranger — Plans for meetings of Association will soon be made according to Senator H. P. Brelsford. This organization expects to help the farmer realize that the old methods of farming must be scraped and diversification applied.

Roswell, N. M. — Work has been started making up the list of those going to Amarillo for the convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The delegation will leave Roswell June 20 and remain in Amarillo the 21 and 22 returning the night of the 22.

Knox City — Contract has been awarded for the construction of the Knox City sewerage system. All the main business section will be included in the first plot also a large portion of the residence section of town.

COMPLIMENTARY TO DEPARTING FRIENDS

Miss Nell Hatch entertained a few friends at bridge on last Friday evening, complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Rix and Miss Ruth Rix. This was in the nature of a farewell party for the honorees who were leaving for Lubbock to make their future home. After a number of interesting games in which Mrs. W. W. Rix made top score and Mr. Rix won the consolation, delicious refreshments were enjoyed. Favors were presented every one present, but extra favors in the way of remembrance gifts were presented the honorees. A delightful time was in order and this happy occasion will long be remembered with pleasure by the participants.

MANY ATTRACTIONS HERE NEXT WEEK

Busy times are in store for our folks all next week. The big Chautauqua will be holding forth until June 10. In addition there will be big Feeders Day program on June 8; also the semi-annual convention of the West Texas Sheriff's Association on Thursday and Friday of next week; the City Federation Carnival will be staged Saturday, June 12.

The big Rotary motor caravan enroute from San Antonio to Denver is due to pass thru Big Spring the latter part of next week. Then there are the "Two Jacks" for a three-day engagement at the R. and R. Lyric in addition to a good program of pictures.

R. I. Puckett left last week for a visit with relatives and friends at Childress and to enjoy a well deserved vacation. This is the first vacation he has taken since he has been sexton at Mt Olive cemetery and judging from the many improvements he has made since he has been on the job he has been kept mighty busy and certainly deserves a vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Coggeshall and daughters Mary and Louise of El Paso, were the guests of Miss Gertrude MacIntyre, Monday night.

One Chilly Day in January

By JANE OSBORN

(Copyright.)

"FUNNY thing, but Jane has always been my favorite name," said the man sitting in the shade cast by the very large green beach parasol.

"How very, very odd," said the girl who shared this shady retreat.

"Why—please tell me why?" asked the man, leaning closer toward the girl.

"Perhaps I oughtn't to," she said with a delicious giggle, "but Robert—Bob—has always been my favorite name."

"My favorite name is Jane," he explained fondling the hand in both of his, "and I love you. Your favorite name is Robert—therefore you love me. That's logic."

"So then are we—you know what I mean," asked the girl timidly when he had let her go.

"Sure thing, we're engaged, Jane dear. Engaged to be married forever and forever."

They sat for awhile watching the waves in silence and then before they strolled back to the hotel Jane Lind said: "And to think that with such a wonderful August moon you proposed in broad daylight. No one ever proposed to me in the daytime before, Robert."

Robert looked very much annoyed. "Of course you would have been proposed to a lot of times before, Jane," he said, "but I don't like having you compare this proposal to any of the others. This is very, very different."

"Of course, Robert dear," agreed Jane.

"And besides," went on Robert, "the wonderful moonlight nights won't be wasted. I've ten days more of my vacation."

So the ten days and the August moonlight passed or nearly passed.

"Wasn't it wonderful," said Jane one day to her old friend Ruth Stuart, as a sort of preamble to an announcement of the important fact. "Robert Maxwell said that his favorite girl's name had always been Jane."

Ruth gave an annoying little laugh. "Bob always says that," she said. "Last summer he told me his favorite name was Ruth, and the summer before that he told Lulu that he had always thought that the prettiest name in the world."

"Aren't men funny," said Jane with a valiant little giggle.

About the same time Robert Maxwell dallied in the bathhouse with his old college chum, Walter Green. He had half a mind to tell Walter that he was going to marry Jane.

"Funny thing," he said. "Jane said she had always thought Robert was the best name ever—"

"Old stuff," said Walter. "Last summer she told me she thought Walter was the noblest name a man ever bore. And the summer before she swore to my brother that she had always adored the name Clarence. It's the August moon, buddy—wait till a girl says things like that in January. Anything goes in August."

So that night when Robert Maxwell and Jane walked out by the pounding breakers they were both silent until they had reached a lonely end of the beach.

"You go tomorrow," said Jane with unsteady voice. "Well, we've had a good time together, Bob, but you must remember that it all happened in August—"

"Yes," said Robert sadly. "I was just thinking that myself. Perhaps we'll meet again some time, Jane. We have had a jolly time playing round together."

"I wonder what it's like down here in January," said Jane.

"Queer thing," said Robert, "I was just thinking that myself." And so they walked a little while and went back to the hotel and parted.

And next morning Jane said: "It's been great fun knowing you. Good-by." And Robert went home.

Then one very chilly day in January—the first Saturday—Jane, who had grown to be quite a serious little Jane who never giggled any more, found excuse to get away from home and took the train down to the deserted station near the fast closed hotel by the sea. It so happened that by an earlier train that day Robert Maxwell had done the same thing.

Jane with her head bent to keep the biting wind from her face almost collided with Robert before she knew that he was near.

"Robert," she cried with alarm. "What are you doing here?"

"Seeing what it's like in January. And you, Jane, is it really you—or am I so distracted that I'm getting a trifle dotty?"

Then they stood there, Robert holding Jane's arms to steady her against the freezing ocean gale.

"It's different in January," Jane said at last, "but I feel the same, Robert," she said, managing in spite of the cold to make her eyes round and blue, "what is your favorite girl's name?"

"To be perfectly honest," said Robert, "I have always thought Julia the best of the lot. But I never knew a girl named Julia—except a great-aunt of mine that had a face like a warhorse and the disposition of a wildcat. And what may your favorite man's name be?"

Jane managed to giggle. "I always have preferred Laurence," she said meekly, "but the only Laurence I ever knew was a half-witted fellow."

And the next day their engagement "to be married" was duly announced to all their friends.

AILEEN PRINGLE in "SOUL MATES"

Scenes in an aerial express of the type which flies between London and Paris were filmed for the first time by Director Jack Conway for Elinor Glyn's "Soul Mates," coming to the R. & R. Lyric theater Monday and Tuesday, June 7 and 8. Scenes showing the embarkation in London and the arrival in Paris of the huge flying machine are scenes of an actual embarkation and arrival filmed abroad, while the interior scenes were photographed in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios within a set accurately reproducing the inside of such a plane.

You see all the luxury of life in Paris and in an old ancestral castle in England, and the hero and heroine are simply divine. You already know it when I tell you they are Edmund Lowe and Aileen Pringle, but never have you seen them so such perfectly beautiful acting. Aileen is to other heroines as the moon is to the stars. You forget all others while she is on the screen.

And girls, you have never seen such love-making as those scenes between Eddie Lowe and Aileen. You will be thrilled to your finger tips when Aileen finally admits she loves him.

Jack Conway, who directed "Soul Mates," directed Mrs. Glyn's other story, "The Only Thing," and he has filled it with all the glamour and beauty of the first picture, though "Soul Mates" is really a comedy, and there is a laugh for every thrill.

Can you imagine a love scene in the air liner that runs between London and Paris? Of course you can't, neither could I, until I saw "Soul Mates." I don't know how they filmed those scenes, but they certainly look as if they had been taken in that very plane.

Phillips Smalley, Antonio D'Algy, Katherine Bennett, Edythe Chapman, Mary Hawes, Lucien Littlefield and Ned Sparks are in the cast, and they should all get a little notice that space does not permit. Carry Wilson adapted the novel to the screen.

SWAT THE FLY

"The fly is a serious health menace to every family that harbors it," stated Dr. H. O. Sappington, state health officer, who urges citizens of the State to use every means possible in exterminating this filthy, disease carrying insect.

"The finding of sanitary science have conclusively proven that the fly is an enemy of mankind. A creature of filth, he crawls from one loathesome object to another, covering his hairy legs with disease germs, which if given an opportunity, and the baby's face, hands and milk bottle.

"Some of the diseases, the germs of which he most commonly spreads, are typhoid fever, dysentery, enteritis, and infantile diarrhea. Being a prolific breeder, one fly can propagate millions of the species during a single season. Start your fly extermination campaign early in order to keep breeding at a minimum.

Methods of Fly Control

"The principal effort to control this dangerous insect must be made at the source of supply—its breeding place. Absolute cleanliness and the removal or destruction of anything in which flies may breed are essential. The favorite breeding place of flies is horse or other animal excreta, but if this is not available, they will lay their eggs on a great variety of decaying vegetable and animal materials. Barnyards, chicken yards, etc., should be cleaned and disinfected often. Garbage and waste that cannot be burned or buried, should be kept in tightly covered garbage cans until removed from premises. Open-back closets are a serious health menace and should be replaced with pit privies.

"Dwelling houses should be screened with 16-mesh wire, and all screens should fit tightly and be kept in a state of good repair. Swat every fly that makes his appearance on the inside of a screened home, and where necessary resort to the use of fly traps and fly paper. Literature on fly extermination will be sent on request to your state board of health, Austin."

Trade Where You Get the Most For Your Money

DETRIMENTAL PUBLICITY

T. H. Johnson of Route 1, McAllen, has just reeturned from an extended trip up the state, going to Big Spring and back through San Angelo, Brady, San Antonio and Corpus Christi. He says he was very much surprised to find Valley grapefruit being hauled by truck from the Valley by people as far off as San Angelo. And he states that the fruit that is being put on the market there is of a very inferior quality and is certainly hurting the Valley grapefruit trade. He was accosted many times, when he explained he was from the Rio Grande Valley, about the "wonderful" fruit that they were getting there. Then he took it upon himself to find the source and upon investigation found that trucks from over the central southern section of the state were coming into the Valley and hauling out the frost and freeze bitten grapefruit.

What should be done in the way of curbing this exodus of bad fruit is hard to say, but it certainly and emphatically should be done. It hurts our market when we want to put a real first class product out, and to say the least, it is a bad salesman of the Valley. Now it is up to the people and not to any individual as to what can be done. Chambers of Commercee should get behind this as well as citrus exchanges, and devise means of grading and controlling shipments in order that the grower will be protected.—McAllen Telegram.

"COUNTY AGENT CAN'T TELL HIM NOTHING"

"There ain't no smart Aleck of a county agent ever coming onto my farm. He can't tell me nothing." A Fannin county farmer was heard to make this remark. Upon inquiry it was learned that he owns a farm by inheritance and he has managed to keep it only because of the protection given him by the homestead law. He manages to stave off the grocer and the banker from season to season, but with a diminishing credit each year. His farm is run down and his buildings are hardly habitable. But, according to his own estimation, he is a good farmer and knows all there is to know about it. The fact that some of his neighbors produce better crops, have better homes, and live on a higher plane makes no impression upon him. He knows all there is to know, and that is that. Of course, the county agent cannot tell him any thing. He hasn't the capacity to take on even one additional idea. He thinks his neighbors are lucky and that he always has been unlucky. They are fools for wasting time milking cows or feeding chickens and hogs. He does not understand why they get along better than he and have time to read farm papers and magazines. "Just lucky, that's all."

The man referred to was not created just for the subject of these remarks. He actually exists in Fannin county, Texas, but no doubt he has his counterpart in many other counties. It is not hard to find some person in most any community who knows it all, and strange as it may seem, these "all-wise" farmers who cannot be told anything by county agents, and who refuse to read a farm paper because the editor does not do his daily stunt behind the plow, are generally the poorest specimens of farmers in the community. As a rule, they are the least successful. Their children stay out of school to work in the fields, and the poor wife has none of the comforts to which she is entitled.—Farm and Ranch.

WHY THE PRINTER, ANY MORE THAN THE FARMER?

The printers and publishers of the country have been patient and long-suffering in their submission to government competition in the printing business.

If the Department of Agriculture should contract with an organization of poultry raisers, hog raisers, or wheat raisers to furnish it certain amounts of these products which it, in turn, would sell at prices impossible for small farmers to meet, the situation would be the same as that faced by the small printers of the country who cannot meet government competition, in printing return addresses on stamped envelopes.

Play safe and you need not be sorry. Grave yards are full of folks who thought they would take a chance.

L. F. Keisling and family have been visiting in Galveston and other points in South Texas the past week.

DAN'S BUS

"With straggling to work I am through,"
Said Daniel McDaniel McCoo.
"I would sooner by far Drive to work in a car—
And that's what I'm going to do.

Dan had the right idea. He bought a reconditioned used car from our stock of fine used cars and went to and from work as he pleased. And he liked his car, too. Used cars bought in our salesrooms have a habit of pleasing the buyer for they're priced right and sold right. They're reconditioned, put into attractive shape, represented exactly for what they're worth and sold only on that basis. That, plus the advantage of the GMAC Time Payment Plan is making our firm the headquarters for used car satisfaction. Drop into our salesroom and see for yourself.

STERLING COUNTY OIL NEWS

Rummell's Clark No. 2 on the N. E. 1-4 of section 8, G. C. & S. F. Ry. Co., 10 miles southeast of here, encountered a second oil sand last Tuesday, and oil rose in the hole to the depth of 200 feet. A showing of oil was had in this well around 1150 feet, but it was passed up and casing set on top of a gray lime at 1155 feet. The drill went down only five feet when a new sand was encountered. A scout for one of the big companies reports that the material in which the oil was discovered is a true oil sand, and the oil is of fine quality, testing 38 gravity. He is of the opinion that a good strike has been made. The well is now shut down at 1165 feet.

The Hyman well on section 88, block 29, W. & N. W. Ry. Co., 24 miles northwest of here, is reported to be throwing oil over the 6-inch casing from a depth of 2770 feet. This well was sho tabout three weeks ago, and about 20 barrels of oil per day was bailed from it after it was cleaned. Since then it has been idle. The oil has gradually filled the hole until it is now flowing. It is thought that this well can be made a good producer by swabbing and otherwise agitating it. This well is situated directly between the Chalk and Mary Foster wells, tho, much nearer the Chalk well.

The Owen-Sloan Chalk well No. 1 on section 113, block 29, W. & N. W. Ry. Co., 24 miles northwest of here, in the southeast part of Howard county at a point a little over two miles north of the northwest corner of Sterling county, still holds the center of attraction among the oil operators. It is a steady producer and is reported to be increasing its output. Two new wells began drilling near No. 1 this week, and several more are rigging up. We have named the town which is springing up near the well, Chalkville. They may call it Chalkburg, Chalktown, or just plain Chalk, but we insist that the town be named for Otis Chalk, the hospitable old timer who owns the land upon which the discovery well and the town is located. A grocery store, dry goods store, supply house, and a restaurant are among the first business enterprises to be established in Chalkville

Durham No. 1, 1-2 miles south of here, is being pumped twice each day, and is behaving nicely. The oil from this well is being stored and will be used for fuel oil in drilling more wells in this territory.

Collins No. 1, on section 3, block "W," T. & P. Ry Co., 6 miles east of here, was completed to the contract depth of 3000 feet, and has been plugged.

Deep Rock Clark No. 1, on section 17, block 15, H. & T. C. Ry. Co., 8 miles southeast of here, is underreaming.

Roxana Clark No. 1 on section 5, G. C. & S. F. Ry. Co., 13 miles southeas tof here, is shut down awaiting orders.

Sparkman well on section 34, block 30, W. & N. W. Ry. Co., 20 miles west of here, is drilling in lime past 3170 feet.

California Davis No. 1, on southeast 1-4 of section 288, block 2, H. & T. C. Ry. Co., 3-4 of a mile north of the town limits, set 12 1-2-inch casing yesterday below 1300 feet. It is expected that the Durham sand will be picked up below this depth.

Material and machinery is being hauled on the new location of the Exploration Oil Company's Broome No. 1, on the N. W. 1-4 of section 21, block 11, S. P. Ry. Co., 1 1-2 miles west of the Broome ranch and 9 miles southeast of here. A big Franklin gasoline engine will furnish the power.—Sterling City News-Record.

THE CITY OF MESQUITES

Thanks to abundant and frequent rains coupled with the natural love of its citizens for the beautiful Abilene's trees, lawns and flowers are gladdening to the eye and uplifting to the heart. Our citizens have taken pains to trim their trees and take care of their lawns and flower beds, and the result is a riot of color in which the feathery green of the mesquite predominates.

Beyond reach of human sympathy indeed is that person who is not gladdened by the sight of beautiful trees and flowers, or seduced by the velvet smoothness of a bermuda lawn.

Factories and paved streets and skyscrapers are all right in their way; they are the necessary concomitants of this age of progress; but Mother Nature can give each and all of them a long lead and then overtake them before they get fairly started. She heals the glaring scars left on her fair face by mole-like man, who is never content except while tearing down Nature's works to erect his own. Now a green tree is more beautiful and inspiring than all the works of man put together. The Great Architect can erect a ten-foot mesquite bush that has more real beauty in its lines and color than anything the mundane architects have been able to achieve.

Some of the cities of Texas have inaugurated campaigns to induce their citizens to plant roses and other plants. Dallas for instance, aspires to be known as "The City of Roses." A South Texas town has a desire to be heralded as the "City of Crepe Myrtles." All these are worthy movements, and should be emulated by other towns and cities.

Abilene should adopt the mesquite as her official tree and become known as "The City of Mesquites." —Abilene Reporter.

CAN WE RAISE HEAD LETTUCE?

A tourist from the Pacific Coast who was a recent visitor to our city stated that there was no reason why we should not raise head lettuce in the Big Spring country. For years the Japs were the only ones who were able to raise head lettuce on the Pacific Coast, but now all who care to raise it can do so. The tourist gave the following as the successful method to follow.

The Iceberg lettuce seed will prove the best seed to secure. Plant in hot beds and then set out in rows, with the plants twelve inches apart, in a damp shady place.

About four inches on each side of the row, sprinkle the ground with a three-quarter inch wide streak of Ammonium Sulphate; this is a standard fertilizer produced by the Ford Motor Co. Do not use too much of this fertilizer. This Ammonium Sulphate is allowed to remain on top of the soil until after a rain or until after you have sprinkled the plat. Then you rake the soil across the sulphate toward the plant but do not permit it to get too near the growing plant. This treatment will last about ten days. About three treatments will be required to mature your lettuce.

When the lettuce has reached a size where it should begin to head, a pinch of salt should be sprinkled in the heart of the plant. This will cause it to head more rapidly.

This ommonium sulphate must be used with caution, otherwise your plants will be injured.

It might be a good idea for some of our folks to try out this plan and see if we can raise fine head lettuce inu this section. The fertilizer can be secured in our city and is said to be fine for all garden products.

ANOTHER STATISTICAL WAIL

Another statician has figured himself into a black mood bordering on moans and tears. He says that we —meaning the American people, not the editors of Farm Life — spend $22,700,000,000 a year for luxuries. He accordingly regards us as horn-piping down the primrose path of peridition. Just why it should be so disastrous for people to eat a few chocolate drops occasionally, put on some gew-gaws, light up a smoke and hike out to a show, is something that this gentleman doesn't explain. Nor does he say what we would otherwise do with the money thus spent. Doubtless, however, his answer would be, "Bank it." But, for the banks to pay interest on those billions, they would have to lend them at interest —which means lending them for use in production. So, instead of luxuries we would have more plows and hip boots and trip-hammers, and other such articles of which we are now manufacturing all that can be sold. Just how it would help us to junk our cars, wash with home-made soft soap and hang any one who was caught chewing gum, in order to pile up more necessities than we could use—thereby throwing much of the labor that buys farm products out of work—is a mystery that we admire to have this dismal citizen make clear. When he has done that, maybe he can tell us where necessities leave off and luxuries begin. In which class do statistics belong? — Farm Life.

NOTICE IN PROBATE

THE STATE OF TEXAS
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Howard County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to cause to be published once each week for a period of ten days before the return day hereof, in a newspaper of general circulation, which has been continuously and regularly published for a period of not less than one year in said Howard county, a copy of the following notice:

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To all persons interested in the estate of J. M. McCauley, deceased.

J. T. McCauley has filed an application in the County Court of Howard County, on the 12 day of May, 1926, for order probating will and for letters testamentary, which said application will be heard by said Court on the 7 day of June 1926, at the Court House, in Big Spring, Texas, at which time all persons interested in said estate are required to appear and answer said application, should they desire to do so.

Herein fail not, but have you before said Court, on the first day of the next term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness my hand and official seal, at Big Spring, this 13th day of May 1926.

GLORIES OF THE SOUTHWEST

By Phebe K. Warner

Colorado is full of beauty as every one knows who has ever passed through that State. There is perhaps no other State in the Union that has so many boosters as Colorado. Why? Because she has made it possible for every one who comes her way to visit her marvelous gifts of Nature. More school children hear more about Colorado every year than any other State. In fact most school children hear more about Colorado than they do about their home State because as a rule their teachers know more about Colorado than they do about their home State.

It's great to produce more cattle and corn and cotton and wool and wheat than any other State. It looks good in print and makes us all proud of our particular products. But who cares for cotton and corn and cattle when they are tired and hot and off for a vacation? It is beauty they want then. Beauty and rest and grandeur and something to feed their starving, shriveled souls. Our eyes and our minds and our spirits need a change of diet once a year at least. And that's why the highways to Colorado are lined with pleasure seekers all the time. And every one who goes there this year will influence a dozen others to go next year. That's why we all know about Colorado.

The Pacific Coast has its glories, too. The sea coast, the mountains, the great trees, the Yosemite, and its valleys of golden fruit, and CLIMATE. Did you ever hear a Californian talk five minutes without mentioning their climate? Then there is the great Northwest with its marvelous mountains, its National parks of which the Yellowstone is one of Nature's greatest gifts to man

And across the continent, two thousand miles away, is the East and the Northeast. The East is a place up around Washington, Baltimore, New York and Philadelphia. In area it is about the size of Texas. You could put Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, Deleware and Pennsylvania all in Texas and still they would have 14,858 square miles of empty space to rattle round in. But there is a lot of beauty in these States and a lot of people. They have the Adirondack Mountains, the Niagra Falls, the Great Lakes, some of them, half the St. Lawrence River, the Hudson River, the Shenandoah Valley, the Atlantic Seacoast, the Potomac, and Mt. Vernon, and the Nation's capital as a few of their natural glories. The Creator was most liberal with His beauty when He made the East. And down in the Southeast lies Florida.

But there is another region in our Nation with untold beauty. And when I say untold it means "the half has never been told" of the glories of the great Southwest, which includes the States of Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico, and Arizona. God didn't forget these States when He was scattering His marvelous wonders round. Wonder why the Creator was so generous and so democratic with His beauty when He made that part of the world called the United States? Don't you imagine He knew that some day there would be millions and millions of human souls scattered all over this great country who would need just such places for rest and recreation and inspiration to help them bear the burdens of life and carry on? Do you think if the Creator had ever intended these beautiful places to be plowed up and planted in something to eat to feed our bodies that He would ever have dug the canyons so deep or built the mountains so high or made the rivers so swift? And can you imagine such a thing as all this grandeur being put in this world for the comfort of cows and calves and the protection of the wild animals alone? I can't, especially since He made every human soul in His image with a natural longing for the beautiful things in this world and made our bodies to grow weary and need a quiet resting place now and then somewhere this side of the grave?

I believe there was a purpose in God's plan when He made the Hot Springs of Arkansas and built a fire under them that has never gone out. And there must have been a purpose when He made the Ozark Mountains that bind Arkansas and Oklahoma together in a way that can never be broken. There must have been a great purpose when He stretched the Gulf Coast along the southern side of Louisiana and on around Texas for four hundred miles There must have been some human design in the Creator's mind when He made the Rio Grande River, the Davis Mountains, the Palo Duro Canyon and the forests of East Texas. There must have been some great human motive in the heart of the Creator when He carved out the Grand Canyon and painted it in those gorgeous colors over in Arizona. And do you think He would have spent a million years making the Carlsbad Cavern over in New Mexico just for the bats to sleep in during the day time? There is no place in the world richer in beauty and grandeur than the Purple Southwest. Nor has any territory any greater variety of glories than the Southwest. These are only a few of the outstanding attractions in our part of of theetaoinE'TAOINyetaoi part of the Nation.

But the reason the world and especially the people of the U. S. A. do not know more about the glories of the Southwest is because they are farther apart and the people have not yet seen them in mass. The territory covered by the six States of Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona is almost three times as great as that covered by the fourteen States before mentioned. And not only are the distances greater but the people are fewer in this region. And while thousands of more miles of roads are needed to reach the wonders of the Southwest, there are millions fewer people to build and pay for those roads. And this is the only reason why these gifts of Nature have not been made accessible to all the people as early as the beautiful places of the East. There is one exception to this statement. The Hot Springs of Arkansas was the first National Park, created in the U. S. A. in 1832. The people of the Southwest have united in inviting the 1926 National Conference on State Parks to meet at Hot Springs, Ark., June 14, 15, and 16. At that conference everything possible will be done to plan ways and means to develop the natural resources in the form of our State and National Parks for the whole Southwest. Let's make it possible for the Nation to see and know and enjoy more of our beauty. It is our contribution to tired and pleasure seeking humanity.

The zinnia has been so highly developed in recent years it is one of the very best of our cut flowers. When planted and cultivated the right way, it blooms from July until frost. It will stand adverse conditions but, of course, will do best when given ideal conditions.

Make a liberal planting of poppies and blackeyed susans and any other flowering plant which one especially likes. The list which we have discussed, if properly planted and cared for, will give an abundance of blooms from midsummer until frost. — The Progressive Farmer.

A THOUGHT FOR THE JAZZ AGE

In Milwaukee the other day a judge, after hearing the testimony in a divorce case, refused to break the marriage bonds that had become hateful to the pair, declaring that neither the husband nor the wife was fit to marry again. Therefore he deemed it his duty to keep the two legally linked to each other. And he gave the custody of the two children aged 4 and 2, respectively, to the mother.

"To permit those who have shown themselves to be total failures as husbands and wives to marry again, regardless of their fitness," said the judge, "would be a serious detriment to the State and to the welfare of society." This is a searing verdict deliberately pronounced.

Now that martial shipwreck is so common, the question arises whether the man who has proved unfit to be a husband or the woman who has proved unfit to be a wife is fit to be a parent. When both husband and wife have proved themselves unfit, what of their children? What chance have they to grow up into fit men or women?

When homes with children in them are broken up the children remain to be reared. This pleasure-loving time particularly needs to think upon the duties of parenthood. Such thinking should prove a sovereign antidote for that form of social sickness which makes men and women unfit to enter and, having entered, unfit to depart from the married state.—Chicago Daily News.

COOL OFF UNDER OUR FANS .....CUNNINGHAM & PHILIPS.

Six armed bandits, flourishing pistols and shotguns held up forty employes and patrons of the North St. Louis Trust Company, of St. Louis, and escaped with $30,000 in cash. It will not benefit one of these rascals a dollar in the end. The history of highwaymen from Dick Turpin to Sam Bass proves that out lawry does not pay. Every bandit imagines at the beginning of his outlawry, that he is too smart to be caught, but right there is where he deludes himself. They all get caught sooner or later. These men deserve hanging, because every one of them is a murderer at heart. When men go out armed to rob a bank or a train, they go prepared to commit murder if necessary to accomplish their purpose. That is why Texas enacted a law making robbery with fire-arms a capital offence, yet we have people with a maudlin sentiment, contending that the death penalty is wrong in all cases. If any one deserves death, for anything, it is the thug, who is too trifling to earn an honest living and goes out with a gun to rob his fellow man.—Baird Star.

Dr. W. A. Crawford of Pasadena, California, who is in Texas to investigate oil interests has high praise for Texas and the great future of our state.

He commented particularly on the oil production future of the State, declaring that Texas will soon be the leading State in the Nation in oil production and oil profits. He predicted that Texas soon will be one of the reasons for oil taking its place as the country's leading profit-making business and second only to the steel industry.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

JAMES E. FERGUSON IS COMING TO WEST TEXAS

Former Governor James E. Ferguson has announced forty three speaking dates in the interest of the candidacy of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. He will speak at Sweetwater at 3 oclock p. m. Wednesday, June 16; and at Midland, Thursday, June 17 at 9 p. m. While no date for Big Spring was given in the printed schedule we believe Jim's many friends in Howard county might be able to persuade him to make a short talk here.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Lloyd are looking forward to the coming of their children, and other relatives in the next day or so. Dr. and Mrs. Raleigh Davis and daughter, Angie Lee, Mrs. J. A. Davis of San Antonio and Jim Davis of A. & M. College, Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Lloyd and daughter, Joan, of Plainview, and Mrs. Wm. Menger of San Antonio, are expected here for a visit.

Miss Alberta Mayfield returned Wednesday from College Station, where she attended the graduating exercises at A. & M. College. Her brother was a member of the 1926 graduating class of A. & M.

Mrs. B. J. Lindner left Monday night for a two weeks visit with relatives at Waco.

W. J. Crawford is now taking a two months vacation.

RIDIN' BOB ROBERTS, ART MIX-MOVIE STAR IS COMING

Ridin' Bob Roberts, frequently called Art Mix by his hosts of movie friends, will appear in person at the Queen Theater on Monday and Tuesday, June 7-8.

Roberts is almost a double in personal appearance for Tom Mix, but he does not want any borrowed laurels. He stands on his own merits, while doing the dare-devil rides seen in his Western pictures, he has had several narrow escapes. A long red scar on his arm is a silent reminder of one of his recent harrowing experiences. During the filming of a spectacular stunt, leaping from his horse to a moving train, he was thrown under the train and narrowly escaped death. At this time he sustained, besides many bruises, a severed artery of the right arm, that had it not been for his indomitable courage, would have tied up production of the picture indefinitely.

Ridin' Bob was one of the three hundred and fifty cowboys participating in Tex Austin's international rodeo staged at Wembley, England, a few months ago.

While in Europe this genial, easy-going American cowboy, acquired a great deal of publicity. Immediately upon returning to the United States he was grabbed up by the Art Mix Productions and contracted as their star.

There is really no such person as "Art Mix, the president of the company is Arthur J. Mix. That fact, and Robert's uncanny likeness to Tom Mix, has resulted in him being referred to as Art Mix.

CHRISTIAN REVIVAL, JULY 18

Geo. B. Kellems and wife and a singer will begin an evangelistic campaign at the First Christian church Sunday, July 18. Many people will remember Bro. Kellems being here three years ago and will be glad to have the opportunity of hearing him again.

Geo. J. Ruth, minister of Christian church, and Mrs. Ruth are planning a trip to Denver, Colorado. They expect to leave Big Spring Monday, June 14, and be gone two weeks.

Mrs. Jno. Clarke left Thursday for a visit with relatives at Tyler.

Mrs. B. O. Jones has been very ill the past few weeks.

1ST AMERICAN YOUTH ENTRY

Edith May Adams, eighteen-year-old Barrington, N. J., girl, presenting her entry blank to Mayor Kendrick in his office at City Hall, Philadelphia. The American Youth and Teacher Award was established as a tribute to American youth and teachers by the Board of Directors of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition, through which the people of the United States and the world at large will celebrate the 150th anniversary of the Declaration of American Independence. The exposition will run from June 1 to December 1. Miss Adams' entry blank cited her for heroism displayed recently when she remained inside a burning building helping doctors render first aid to injured firemen. She is a candidate for the Golden Eaglette, the highest gift within the hands of the Girl Scouts. Each state will elect a girl and boy and one teacher to represent them and the successful candidates will be the guest of the Sesqui officials from June 28 to July 5 at the exposition. This will also include a trip to Washington where they will be received by President Coolidge and presented with medals.

Mrs. J. R. Craven and children left Wednesday for El Paso where they will join Mr. Craven and make their future home. Many friends regret their departure from this city.

Come early Saturday morning for fruits and vegetables for Sunday dinner. P. & F. COMPANY.

WEDNESDAY LUNCHEON CLUB

A good attendance marked this week's meeting of the Luncheon club at the Cole Hotel on Wednesday

Chautauqua and its importance to our community was the main topic of discussion. The need of the active cooperation in putting Chautauqua over in a big way was stressed by a number of speakers. The meeting developed into a round table discussion in which each one expressed his opinion as to the worth of the clean, wholesome and instructive entertainment it afforded. Getting behind this year's chautauqua and insuring its success was urged by the various speakers.

The following Howard county folks attended the big revival of the Church of Christ at Lamesa, Texas: Mr. and Mrs. John Dilliard and children and Mrs. Baker Merrick; J. D.
