U.S., Soviets reach missiles agreement

GENEVA (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz announced today that he and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze have "completed agreement on all the outstanding issues" of a treaty to ban intermediate-range nuclear missiles.

Shaking hands with the Soviet foreign minister outside the U.S. mission, Shultz said all that remained was completing treaty language that lower-level officials would be able to do.

Shevardnadze said "we have no doubt the summit meeting will be successful." He referred to the talks President Reagan and Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Mikhail S. Gorbachev would have in Washington Dec. 8-10.

"The next step should be the abolition of all nuclear weapons," the smiling Soviet minister said.

The announcement came this afternoon after two days of talks between Shultz and Shevardnadze, aimed at clearing all obstacles to the arms agreement.

The treaty would ban about 1,000 U.S. and Soviet missiles with a range between 300 and 3,000 miles.

During this afternoon's session, Shultz and Shevardnadze met with a team of Soviet and U.S. arms experts appointed Monday to clear obstacles to the treaty. The team was headed by Paul Nitze, a veteran arms control negotiator and White House adviser, and Marshal Sergei Akhromeyev, chief of staff of the Soviet armed forces.

A morning meeting between Shultz and Shevardnadze lasted more than three hours.

Ask Us

Q. — Why were the people of Snyder mislead into thinking that the land for the prison had been donated, then after we got the prison, told that we had to raise a million dollars to buy it?

A. — No one was mislead. As early as last Feb. 18, it was reported that the state of Texas would purchase no land and that land would have to be donated.

Sunday dumping to end...

Landfill hours to be changed

To comply with new federal standards, operating times for the city's landfill will soon change to include the elimination of Sunday hours.

The city council approved the changes Monday following a report from City Engineer Don Osborn, who recently completed some 120 hours in training related to the new federal standards.

Council members briefly discussed requesting a waiver to allow Sunday hours to continue, but were informed this would also require adding one more staffer at the facility to meet the new rules.

These include strict enforcement of requirements that no debris dumped at the facility be left uncovered overnight. In the past, items dumped on Sunday were not covered until Monday morning.

A change in this policy would add the second worker at the landfill on Sunday, Osborn told the council.

Currently, the landfill is opened on Sundays from 1 until 5 p.m.

The new schedule--which will be implemented pending the completion and return of paperwork through the department of health--will be

—8 a.m. until 6 p.m. Monday through Friday
—8 a.m. until 3 p.m. Saturday

Atlanta, Ga. prison...

Cubans still hold hostages

ATLANTA (AP) — Cuban inmates who seized a federal prison refused to release any of their 75 hostages today despite an offer to delay deportations, while other Cuban prisoners in Louisiana paraded two of their 28 hostages to show they were unharmed.

There were reports of as many as six dead after Monday's uprising at the federal penitentiary in Atlanta, but only one death could be confirmed.

Helicopters circled the Atlanta complex after a new blaze broke out shortly after 6 a.m. today. Spanish-speaking inmates could be heard over walkie-talkies shouting, "What's going on in the factory? What's going on in the factory?"

The riot by Cuban inmates fearing deportation left at least 12 people injured. Eight Cuban prisoners were hospitalized in satisfactory condition today, five with gunshot wounds, authorities said.

The rioting began Monday morning, two days after an uprising by Cuban inmates at the Oakdale, La., federal detention center, left 31 injured.

Grant application sees city ok 'max' in matching funds

The Snyder city council Monday opted to pledge all of the matching funds allowable as its incentive for selection for state grant monies to replace 10 water lines here.

These lines have been identified in part because they serve areas of the city primarily comprised of low to moderate income families.

The competition for funding is based on a point system and a 15 percent pledge of matching funds will mean Snyder will receive the maximum number of points in this particular area.

The pledge amount calculated for the city is $31,500. The total cost of the project is then estimated at $226,040.

City staffers have indicated there is no guarantee funding will be approved.

The grant is handled through the West Central Texas Council of Governments, of which Mayor Troy Williamson serves as an officer.

This marks the first time Snyder has applied for such funds, and Williamson noted Monday to his knowledge less than 40 percent of cities making application for the first time last year received any grant

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Some presidential candidates are wanting to throw their hats back in the ring, but they can't recall where they left 'em."

Recently, four Scurry County residents were guests of an interesting program underway by our neighbors in Fisher County.

The Snyder citizens attended a dinner at which Sen. Ray Farabee was the featured speaker. Rep. Steve Carriker of Roby served as emcee.

The event kicked off a week-long economic development study. The purpose of the event was to make long-range economic recovery plans for the county.

Fisher officials are working in conjuction with state economic leaders in hopes that a successful program in Fisher County can serve as a model for other rural areas of the state.

It's an ambitious undertaking, but one worthy of praise and support from Scurry County neighbors. Good luck!

Rep. Carriker likes to send out questionnaires to his constituents. He related a story of a woman from Lynn County who did not respond to his questions, but rather made a remark in the margin.

She said, "Sonny, I'm 89 years old and don't keep up with things like I used to. We elected you to represent us. If you vote, I'm sure you'll get some of them right."

Delbert Downing, Scurry County's Silver Haired Legislator, is having a running battle with O'Neal Bloom, second-in-command over at Clark Lumber Two.

Downing and Bloom arrive at the Post Office about the same time each morning, and they both have a favorite parking spot--close to the door.

One recent morning Bloom had beaten Downing to the preferred parking spot. Knowing that Bloom would be inside gloating, Downing decided on another plan of action.

Figuring that the keys would likey be in Bloom's pickup, Downing got in and drove it a couple of blocks away and walked back to the post office.

Downing watched with delight while O'Neal searched for his missing truck.

Classes to dismiss

All three Scurry County public schools and Western Texas College will dismiss early Wednesday for the Thanksgiving holidays.

Classes will not resume here until next Monday, Nov. 30.

Snyder classes will dismiss Wednesday at 2:45 p.m.; Hermleigh classes at 2:30 p.m.; and Ira classes at 1:45 p.m.

The WTC dormitories will close at 2 p.m. Classes at WTC will dismiss at 1 p.m.

For Snyder public schools, report cards for elementary students were to be sent home Tuesday. These are due back Wednesday.

Report cards for junior high and high school students will be distributed Wednesday and are due back with the resumption of classes Monday.

In Brief

Choice made

BEIJING (AP) — China today named Li Peng, a 59-year-old technocrat, as acting premier to replace Zhao Ziyang, who left the post to become head of the Communist Party.

The standing committee of the National Peoples' Congress, China's legislature, followed Zhao's suggestion in appointing Li to the nation's most powerful government job, the official Xinhua News Agency said.

Second quake

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A strong earthquake rattled through the Southern California desert early today, causing at least one injury, authorities said. There were no immediate reports of damage.

The quake, which registered 6.3 on the Richter scale of ground motion, was reported around 5:20 a.m. PST and was felt in Palm Springs, Palm Desert, San Bernardino, Hemet, San Diego and downtown Los Angeles.

Faulty light

HOUSTON (AP) — A faulty oil pressure warning light forced a Southwest Airlines jet en route to Dallas to turn back shortly after takeoff from Hobby Airport, airline officials said.

Shortly after Southwest Flight 4 departed before 7:30 a.m. Monday, an oil pressure warning light indicated there was trouble in the engine.

Farmers' outlook is brighter

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — U.S. agriculture probably has "passed the bottom," and the next decade is likely to be brighter for farmers, an Iowa State University economist says.

William Meyers of the Center For Agricultural and Rural Development says U.S. farm exports should rise over the next 10 years and farmers' incomes should stabilize.

Meyers spoke to farmers attending the 10th Illinois Soy-Corn Conference, a two-day briefing for farmers and other agribusiness people that began Monday.

"I think in terms of crop prices, the markets have turned around," said Meyers. "Export markets have responded to lower prices ... and domestic demand for animal feeds have increased."

Meyers attributed the turnaround in part to a domestic farm policy that has reduced grain prices, more prosperity among customers around the world and a weaker dollar that makes U.S. products relatively cheaper abroad.

"Those things are now working in our favor," said Meyers.

One problem, however, is that cheap grain has stimulated livestock production, especially among hog farmers, which will mean more meat and depressed prices in the pork industry.

In doing a long-range analysis, Meyers said economists from ISU and the University of Missouri examined a number of factors, including world economic forecasts and farm-policy options.

He said it seemed likely that farmers in the United States would continue to idle about 20 percent of their corn acres each year, but the additional 15 percent paid diversion probably would be phased out soon.

Meyers said corn production in this country probably would decline to 6.7 billion bushels next year, then rise slowly to about 8 billion bushels in 1996. He estimated soybean production would rise from about 1.9 billion bushels next year to 2.3 billion in 1996.

The value of major farm export commodities, including corn and soybeans, probably will increase from last year's $12 billion to $22 billion in 1996, still well below the $28 billion level of 1980, he said.

"There will be a growth in demand in the world and we will take a large share of it," said Meyers. "We always lose share in a declining market and gain share in an expanding market."

Meyers said net farm income probably would level off at about $30 billion a year through 1996, but the cost of major price-support programs likely would decrease from about $23 billion this year to $12 billion by 1996.

Water, sewer service worse in El Paso Co.

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The lack of safe drinking water and sewer service in rural El Paso County apparently is far worse than health officials thought.

El Paso's rates for hepatitis and dysentery are four times the national rates, mainly because of poor water and sanitary conditions, officials said.

A report written by two national engineering firms for the El Paso City-County Health District indicates that 350 colonias, or poor neighborhoods, lack clean drinking water and sewer service. Health officials previously had estimated such neighborhoods to number only 100.

The report also found that 28,000 of the 68,000 people who live outside El Paso's city limits have no reliable source of clean drinking water and 53,000 people have no sewer service.

Most of those without sewer service live on land that is unsuitable for septic tanks, the report said. Officials had hoped that septic tanks could ease the problem of sewage tainting the wells from which some people drink.

The report, the first in a series of 11 due from a study of regional water and waste water needs, is the first step toward devising a 20-year plan for the county, officials said.

The work is being done by two nationwide engineering firms — CH2M Hill and Parkhill, Smith and Cooper Inc.

The report also found that ground water supplies are declining rapidly in a high-growth area east of the El Paso city limits, where wells provide drinking water.

"That area is going to be out of water in 10 years," Forrest Sprester, environmental engineer for the health district, told the El Paso Times.

A list of possible solutions, including temporary remedial plans and cost estimates, is expected in early May, officials said.

Snyder grad helps make TV movie

Phyllis Detrich of Irving, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Sealy of Snyder, served as the Property Master for a television movie, "Breaking Home Ties," which will air on Thursday, Thanksgiving night, on ABC following the football games.

As a Property Master, Detrich is in charge of all props used for the various sets throughout the movie. She has been employed as a Property Master for the past five years and her other film credits include "The Fig Tree," a movie made for PBS, and a theatrical release entitled "The Dirt Bike Kid."

"Breaking Home Ties" stars Jason Robards, Eve Marie Saint, Erin Gray, Claire Trevor and Doug McKeon. It is based on a Norman Rockwell painting which graced the cover of a 1953 issue of "The Saturday Evening Post."

The movies Detrich has been associated with have all been filmed in the Dallas area. She is also involved in the production of commercials for television.

Detrich, a native of Snyder, is a graduate of Snyder High School and North Texas State University.

Disease isn't always inherited

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — We know a family whose son has neurofibromatosis. The mother says her doctor told her it was inherited. She says there was nothing like this in her family, so guess who is to blame! How can it be blamed on one side or another when only one in 10,000 have it? Isn't something like this a combination of many genes?

DEAR READER — Neurofibromatosis occurs in one out of 3,000 births. It is characterized by skin spots that are well-demarcated and are the color of coffee with milk, hence the term "cafe au lait" spots. In addition, the disease is associated with nerve tumors, bone abnormalities, precocious puberty, learning disorders and seizures.

The condition is inherited as an autosomal (non-sex-linked) dominant pattern, meaning that 50 percent of affected individuals will produce children who have the disease. The specific gene has not been identified. Males and females are equally affected.

Because only 50 percent of patients have a parent with the condition, the remaining 50 percent are presumed to reflect new mutations — that is, half the patients have a new genetic abnormality that is not acquired from a parent.

This observation is an important one, because it removes the burden of responsibility from parents who do not have the disease. If the parents of the child you mention do not have neurofibromatosis, then the boy must have developed his genetic defect apart from them.

The treatment of neurofibromatosis has been the surgical removal of nerve tumors. Investigators have become very excited by a recent report that described how doctors are using ketotifen, a mast-cell stabilizer, to treat the disease. Mast cells, where histamine is produced in the body, can often be found in the nerve tumors of neurofibromatosis. Ketotifen shows promise in managing the disease and may well improve the outlooks of people with the disorder.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Don't laugh, because this is true. Our 14-month-old son has ears that ring so loudly that we and the doctors can hear it. He's not in any pain and no one can figure out the cause. We are afraid he may go deaf.

DEAR READER — Tinnitus (ringing in the ears) is a common consequence of nerve damage from excessive noise. It can also occur in normal people for no apparent cause. I have never heard someone else's tinnitus. I'd always been under the impression that only one person can hear tinnitus: his own. Therefore, your son's problem must be a very unusual one indeed.

I do not know whether his hearing will be affected, but I would certainly encourage you to have him examined and tested by capable ear specialists in the hope that the doctors could discover a cause for the ear-ringing — which must be, at best, an annoyance for him.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report on weight loss tells you how to lose weight wisely — and keep it off. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to ask for WINNING THE BATTLE OF THE BULGE.

Dear Abby

Father Suggests Bridesmaids Wear Something Old, Not New

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: The other day, my wife and daughter and I were talking about our daughter's upcoming wedding. Since our daughter has a closetful of expensive dresses she's worn only once, I made what I thought was a very good suggestion: "Why not let all the girls you want in your wedding party just pick out the prettiest dress they have hanging in their closets and wear it? For those who don't have one or can't afford to buy one, let them borrow one of yours, or another friend's. Guys rent tuxedos for weddings; why should girls have to buy an expensive dress to wear only once? A lot of girls are left out of weddings because they can't afford to buy a dress."

Well, Abby, my suggestion went over like a lead balloon. What do you and your readers say?

PRACTICAL ALABAMA DADDY

DEAR DADDY: You are indeed practical, but if each bridesmaid were to wear the prettiest dress she found hanging in her closet, the bridal procession would look more like a garage-sale fashion show than a wedding.

Nice try, Dad, but I'm afraid your idea would never play in Birmingham, Montgomery or Tuscaloosa.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who used to be a good friend, but now he won't talk to me. This is why: My husband was diagnosed as having Alzheimer's disease about six months ago. His memory is very faulty and he has to be watched all the time, but there are times when he is quite all right, so I am keeping him home as long as I can.

Well, I do not drive, and my husband is not able to drive any more, so I sold his car. This neighbor asked me several times to sell it to him, but I refused. Instead, I sold it to a man who does not live in our neighborhood because I was afraid that if my husband saw that car in our neighborhood he might insist it was his car and want it back.

I know I did the right thing, but the neighbor who wanted to buy it first is still not talking to me. Do you think I did the right thing or not?

HURT FEELINGS

DEAR HURT: I think you did exactly the right thing by selling the car to someone who did not live in your neighborhood. If you explained this to your neighbor and he still refuses to talk to you, shame on him.

DEAR ABBY: "Mrs. Whipple's" problem with her mother stealing toilet paper from motels brings to mind an incident that happened to my wife during a trip last year.

We stopped at a motel for the night and on leaving in the morning, my wife asked the manager for the address of the manufacturer of the excellent little coffee maker that was attached to the wall of our room.

"I can give you the address," he said, "but this would be much easier — and cheaper." Then he reached under his desk and brought out a screwdriver and handed it to my wife.

"Pry it off the wall and take it home," he said. "The one in your room is the only one that hasn't been stolen."

Maybe he was just kidding, but he certainly didn't act like it. What do you think?

VIRGIL IN BANDON, ORE.

DEAR VIRGIL: I think he was just kidding. Since you didn't take him up on it, we'll never know.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't make impromptu commitments with friends without first consulting your mate. Your ideas might not fit into his/her plans.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) For the sake of your own productivity today, pace yourself sensibly workwise. The more you rush, the more careless you're apt to get.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There may be a contest today between your prudent judgment and your extravagant impulses to see which rules your purse. Don't tilt the odds in favor of the latter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A material issue could be the reason for a nasty family dispute today, especially if in-laws are involved. Try not to be the one who provokes it.

Will a trump lead be effective?

By James Jacoby

The futility of trump leads on certain auctions is highlighted by this hand from a team match held last March in Holland. At one table West led a trump, and declarer lost only to the A-K of spades and the king of diamonds. At the other table the king of clubs was led. Declarer won and played a spade to the queen. East took the king and returned a club. When East won the second spade lead, he continued with still another club. Later, when he won the king of diamonds, he was able to cash the club jack to set the contract. Although this defense was best, declarer should still have prevailed.

Since he will need to play diamonds eventually, he may as well play a diamond to dummy's queen at trick two. East will win the king and return a diamond. The play will then proceed: club ruff, A-K of hearts (declarer discarding a diamond), a heart ruff and another club ruff. Now a diamond is played from dummy and declarer ruffs with his jack or 10 of spades. West cannot overruff, so declarer can now play a fourth club to ruff in dummy, and another diamond will allow him to make a 10th trick with his remaining trump honor. Although declarer is fortunate that West cannot overruff the third diamond and that East cannot overruff the fourth club, he has no choice but to play for this lie of the cards when the diamond finesse fails. How much easier it would have been with a trump lead!

Penwomen study rhyme

The program, Wrapped up in Rhyme, was led by Cox. She said that rhyming is an ancient device that oriental poets used in poetry. French and English poets were the next to use rhymes in poetry. She also pointed out that true rhymes and internal rhymes are used in poems while imperfect, identical, false rhymes, trite phrases and archaic words are taboo.

During the business session Garnet Quiett asked if members had recently been published and for a report from Janelle Burk on her trip to the annual contests banquet of the Poetry Society of Texas in Dallas.

Members congratulated Burk on winning first place in two annual contests and several honorable mentions. Her poem, "Reflections," won the Bare Bones contest which gave a prize of $100. Her poem, "Mother and Child," won $25 in the Emma Jean Pounds Terry Award contest.

Cox, Sherry Bryant and Quiett won honorable mention on poems entered in the annual contests.

Bryant's poem, "Where The Rubber Meets the Road," is published in a national anthology, "The Anthology of American Poets." Cox's article, "Wagon Tracks Across Texas," was accepted for publication by "Good Old Days" and will be in the February issue. Quiett's article, "The Path To School," was published in "Mature Living."

During the poetry reading session, members read their own poems. Bryant read "God's Child," "The Heart of Thanksgiving," and "Heaven in My Heart." Cox read "For Only a Moment," and "A Woman's Prayer." Burk read "Reflections," "Mother and Child," and "Kitten at Play." Ti-In program presented to Delta Kappa Gamma Zeta Lambda Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society met at Martha Ann Woman's Club Nov. 16 with hostesses Judy Barkowsky, Rita Carter, Carolyn Limmer, Geneva Alvis and Durelle Gorman. Marge Mathis gave the meditation with President Jean Sealy presiding.

"The Evolving Pattern of Educators' Roles in Facilitating Effective Communication" was the program focus brought by Jane Ramey, Carol Miller, Carolyn Hamby and LaNell Rambin. They presented Mary Jean Quimby, Ti-In facilitator for the Texas Interactional Instruction Network for the Hermleigh school district.

Quimby pointed out that the purpose of the network is to present programming at all levels of the public education system to improve the products of public schools. It is especially helpful to small schools in presenting a variety of courses that could not otherwise be provided.

Lessons are presented live on the network by a qualified teacher. There is interaction during the lesson by use of phones installed in the classroom. Programming is available in the following areas:

—Twenty fully accredited high school courses in science, math, history, foreign language and other areas.

—Basic skills booster classes.

—Enrichment classes, cultural and educational.

—Test reviews for ACT, SAT and PSAT.

—State and national educational meetings.

—Staff development.

—Parent programs.

—College classes.

Patsy S. Tinsley, an education consultant to San Antonio's Education Service Center, founded the Ti-In network in 1984 and currently broadcasts all over Texas and 22 other states. Hermleigh has been affiliated with the system for two years.

Quimby also showed a video demonstrating the system.

Sealy reminded members that 22 international scholarships of $3,000 each are available to society members. The deadline for application is Feb. 1. Contributions for the world fellowship will be taken at the Dec. 6 induction meeting.

WTC chalks big victory...

Dusters 'D' conquers SPC

O'DONNELL -- Western's Lady Dusters put together one of their best overall games of the season here Monday night, beating South Plains 74-57.

The contest between the two WJCAC rivals was not a conference ballgame.

"I think we played better defense, as the score indicates," said Coach Kelly Chadwick. "It was one of our better ballgames, no doubt about that. We probably didn't shoot a high percentage but I thought we made up for it. We didn't have a lot of turnovers or a lot of fouls.

"We didn't press a lot, but we got some mileage out of it when we did. We used it to our advantage. But basically, we just backed up and played good, halfcourt defense," Chadwick noted.

Western got an unusual scoring performance from Kayla Thompson. The sophomore from Hobbs, N.M. bagged 25 points for the night and Coach Chadwick was glad to see it.

"It was probably her best offensive game. She ran the team well, shot the ball well, and took some shots she's been needing to take which opened up some other things," said the coach. "She had a very good offensive ballgame."

Freshmen Staci Smith, Julie Roewe and Carolyn Colbert scored 14 points each.

"Nickey Allen wasn't making many points (4) but she played real good defense and was strong on the boards. Carolyn had a tremendous defensive game and a real good offensive game, too," said Chadwick. "I thought Julie Roewe played much better defensively than she has been, and Staci had a good defensive game as well as a good offensive game."

The Dusters were without Jackie Reed, who was attending the funeral of a relative.

South Plains got 18 points from Vernon freshman Janet Keese and 11 each from Kelly Schilling and Stacy Bessire.

Next action for the Dusters will be Friday as they entertain Fort Hood at 8 p.m. in the Holiday Classic at Scurry County Coliseum.

Rams take frustrations out on Washington 'Skins, 30-26

WASHINGTON (AP) - It didn't quite erase the agony of what has been a frustrating season, but the Los Angeles Rams are feeling a lot better about themselves after their 30-26 upset of the Washington Redskins.

Ron Brown returned a kickoff 95 yards for a touchdown and caught a scoring pass from Jim Everett on Monday night to lead the Rams to their second victory in a row after a miserable 1-7 start.

"The last two weeks we have gotten our stuff back, and we're very proud of our performance," Rams Coach John Robinson said.

"We're winners," Brown said. "We had been losing to teams we shouldn't be losing to, but now we're getting the job done."

While Los Angeles has bounced back in the past two games,

Brown, moments after he dropped a sure touchdown pass from Everett, caught a 26-yard toss to give the Rams a 30-19 lead with 3:38 left in the third quarter.

Doug Williams' second touchdown pass to Art Monk cut the gap to 30-26 four seconds into the fourth quarter, and the Redskins drove to the Los Angeles 14-yard line in the closing seconds before LeRoy Irvin intercepted a pass that went through Monk's hands in the end zone.

Monk caught five passes for 93 yards, including touchdowns of 17 and five yards.

Williams, who earned the starting spot after replacing an ineffective Jay Schroeder last week, completed 24 of 46 passes for 308 yards and ran for a touchdown. But his first-quarter fumble was returned 35 yards for a touchdown by Rams linebacker Mike Wilcher and he was sacked four times.

After the game, Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs said Williams performed well enough to maintain the starting job until at least next week, when the Redskins face the New York Giants.

Washington, which gained only 66 rushing yards, fell to 7-3 and missed a chance to move three games ahead of Dallas in the NFC East.

In addition to being stung by Brown's fourth career kickoff return for a touchdown, Washington allowed a blocked punt that set up a 1-yard scoring run by Charles White that enabled the Rams to take a 23-9 second-quarter lead.

Brown's kickoff return, longest in the NFC this season, came seconds after Washington took a 9-7 lead and put the Rams on top for good.

Los Angeles could muster only four first downs in the first half, but used Wilcher's fumble return and help from its special teams to take a 23-16 halftime lead.

White, the NFL's leading rusher, gained 112 yards after being limited to only 29 in the first half.

Waco booted from playoffs; teacher turns self in to UIL

WACO, Texas (AP) - A teacher's confession to the University Interscholastic League that she changed a football player's grade so he would remain eligible has resulted in the abrupt ouster of Waco High School from the Texas high school playoffs.

After investigating the teacher's claims Monday, UIL officials ordered Waco replaced in the playoffs by Houston Langham Creek, which Waco had beaten 23-8 last weekend in College Station.

That means defending Class 5A state champion Plano, 12-0, will play against Langham Creek instead of Waco at 2 p.m. Saturday at Baylor Stadium in Waco.

Waco school board president Linda Ethridge said Monday night that a teacher, whom she did not identify, complained in a telephone call to the UIL on Saturday that she was pressured into giving a passing grade to a member of the team during the grading period that covered the first six weeks of school.

Dr. Jim Hensley, Waco schools superintendent, convened an emergency school board meeting Monday night after the UIL informed him Monday morning of a potential violation of rules, he said.

The Waco Tribune-Herald reported that Waco head coach Johnny Tusa said senior defensive tackle Trell Payne failed a sociology class the first six weeks, but that the teacher had "agreed to let him pass and see if he could do better the next six weeks."

Tusa declined comment Monday night after leaving the administration building following a one-hour meeting with Hensley. Tusa, who has taken the consolidated school to the playoffs each of its first two years, said he would have a statement today.

Representatives of Langham Creek and Plano were scheduled to meet in Waco today to exchange game films and to select referees for Saturday's game.

Plano head football coach Tom Kimbrough said he and his staff spent the weekend reviewing Waco films and preparing for the wrong team.

"Obviously, I'm disappointed we're not playing Waco after we spent so much time preparing for them," Kimbrough said. "At the same time, I'm not as disappointed as Waco."

Waco was 10-1-1, but was told it must forfeit all its games since the sixth week, dropping its record to 5-7. Langham Creek, a second-year school, is in the playoffs for the first time. Its record improves to 8-2-2 with the forfeit from Waco.

Says Coach McWilliams...

UT's best may not be enough

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas Coach David McWilliams says the Longhorns' best may not be good enough to beat Thankgiving foe Texas A&M, which is seeking its third consecutive Southwest Conference football championship.

McWilliams said A&M has a great offensive line, an excellent defense, a tough running back in freshman Darren Lewis, a good leader in quarterback Craig Stump - and a noisy crowd that can throw an opponent off stride.

A&M, 8-2, and Texas, 6-4, will play for the SWC football title at College Station, where A&M has won 12 consecutive conference games.

ESPN will televise the game nationally, with kickoff at 7:15 p.m. CST. The stadium seats 72,387, and A&M officials predict a crowd of more than 75,000. The single-game record is 77,607 against Texas in 1985.

The winner will play Notre Dame, 8-2, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas on Jan. 1. The loser will play Pittsburgh, 8-3, in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston on Dec. 31.

McWilliams told his weekly news conference Monday he thought his team believed it could beat A&M.

"I think they feel confident going into this football game, and know at the same time that it's going to take a great effort," he said. "This is one of those that you've got to play your very best and still you may not win it. But at the same time, if we do play our very best, certainly we have an opportunity to win the football game."

A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill told the Austin American-Statesman he would give Texas the edge in the game "because they're a little older in games like this," although Sherrill has nine players who started against Texas last year.

"I don't know how he figured that. How did he figure that?" McWilliams asked.

"Senior leadership," McWilliams was told.

"We've got eight seniors, in that game. But they haven't ever won it," McWilliams said.

Asked if the expected A&M crowd noise concerned him, McWilliams said, "Sure. No question. I think it would be ridiculous to say, 'No, it's not a problem,' and our squad knows that. That crowd does do a great job of making a lot of noise and kind of, I guess, gets your offense upset a little bit.

"It's going to be there, and we're going to have to face it."

The greatest number of Belmont Stakes winners were bred in Kentucky. But one, Cavan in 1958, was bred in Ireland.

Judge rejects attempt to block Bruce firing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An attempt by an Ohio State alumnus to block the firing of football coach Earle Bruce isn't getting instant support in court.

A judge rejected that move Monday following the filing of a lawsuit in Franklin County Common Pleas Court by Columbus attorney Phillip D. Cameron, a former Buckeye baseball player. It was the latest legal action since Bruce was fired last week after nine seasons.

In a separate legal maneuver, Bruce's attorney, John Zonak, filed a $7.44-million suit Friday in Common Pleas Court against the university and President Edward Jennings, alleging slander and breach of contract.

Judge William T. Gillie on Monday denied Cameron's request for a temporary restraining order. But he set a hearing on Cameron's request for a preliminary injunction against Ohio State for Dec. 7 before Judge Frederick T. Williams.

Cameron asked for a temporary restraining order prohibiting Jennings from firing Bruce "and from continually obligating the taxpayers' funds for the retention of substitute and replacement coaches' services."

Cameron did not return telphone calls and did not comment after the hearing.

Bruce was fired in the second year of a three-year contract, and Ohio State officials have said they will meet the terms of the contract.

Danny could regain reins for contest with Minnesota

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Veteran Danny White may come to the rescue of young Steve Pelluer on Thanksgiving Day against the Minnesota Vikings.

White could be the starting quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys instead of Pelluer, whose performance in a 20-14 loss to Miami Sunday night drew mixed reviews.

"I'll probably use them both, but Danny could start," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said Monday. "I think Steve handled himself pretty well. He'll get better as he plays more."

White missed the loss as the scrambling Pelluer came within 50 yards of running (84) for as many yards as he gained passing (134).

Pelluer's 1987 debut was less than spectacular, although he threw touchdown passes of 8 and 18 yards to Timmy Newsome. He also suffered two interceptions.

Dallas, 5-5 in the NFC East, has a quick turn-around game against the Vikings Thanksgiving Day.

"The rest helped Danny's wrist and he feels excellent today," Landry said. "I may start him against Minnesota.

"Steve had some excellent runs and hurts the defense with his running ability, but the mistakes cost us. He threw one pass that was intercepted he should have never thrown."

Asked if he approved of Pelluer running 10 times, Landry said "You can't tell a quarterback with his talent not to run. He made some big run plays."

Pelluer, who hadn't thrown a pass this season, never hit a wide receiver.

Roger Staubach, an NFL Hall of Famer who played for the Cowboys, criticized Pelluer for giving up too quick on his receivers.

Staubach, who was an analyst for ESPN's national telecast, said Pelluer "should have been willing to take the risk" of waiting for secondary receivers to come open.

"Miami played a tight zone and it was hard to throw to the wide receivers, but we should have moved the ball better on offense," Landry said.

Pelluer defended himself, saying, "Our wide receivers just weren't coming open. I made some positive yards by running."

Pelluer said he felt he deserved another chance.

"I'm confident I can build on this and turn our offense into a high-scoring one," Pelluer said. "I could have played better, but I was a little rusty. Anybody would be."

Two stables, the Belair Stud and James R. Keene, share the Belmont Stakes record of six winners.

Price war pushes turkey prices down

By The Associated Press

With less than three days before Americans gobble down their Thanksgiving feasts, turkey price wars have broken out around the country as aggressive grocery promotions and an increased supply drive prices down to practically nothing.

"It's totally insane," said Lary Lindbo of Certified Grocers Midwest in Chicago. "I just came back from McDonald's, and I spent $4 for lunch. You can buy a 20-pound turkey for that."

Or less.

Bridgeport Foods in the Windy City is giving turkeys away — if the purchaser buys $60 in other goods. Similar offers are being made by supermarket chains in Philadelphia and Phoenix, Ariz.

The average price of a complete Thanksgiving dinner for 10 is $25.41, 18 percent lower than last year's $29.75, the American Farm Bureau Federation said Monday.

In addition to a bird, $25.41 buys stuffing, sweet potatos, peas, rolls, cranberries, pumpkin pie with whipped cream and more, according to the federation's survey of markets in California, Colorado, Georgia, Illinois, Kentucky, Minnesota, New York, Texas and Washington, D.C.

For those who don't want to bother cooking all that food, dinner can be had — but it can cost a lot more. In Los Angeles, for example, a caterer called Renta Yenta will deliver turkey with all the trimmings for a party of 10 for $350.

Lila Greene, whose company takes its name from the Yiddish word for a woman who gossips, has 150 orders for her Thanksgiving meals for 10 for people who either don't have the time to prepare dinner or don't know how.

"And you can say you made it yourself," she said.

Turkey production is up 16 percent this year, and is expected to reach 240 million birds, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Weekend fires noted

Firemen took less than one hour to dispense with a grass fire at 11:02 a.m. Sunday in a pasture off the 100 Block of 37th St., and they answered a smoke alarm at 3:50 p.m. Sunday a mile east of the city off U.S. 84 that did not require any action.

On Saturday, firemen went to a fire in a cotton trailer owned by Jimmy Sorrells. They were at the scene for two hours at the fire three miles east of Dunn on FM 1606.

The call came in at 5:20 p.m. Saturday.

Clarification...

A driver involved in a Saturday accident here was listed in Monday's news story as Faye Harvey Erwin of 3004 Beaumont. While this was the name on the report, her name has recently changed to Faye Mullins.

The grant application is to the Texas Department of Community Affairs. Some $54 million is available through the grant program for the entire state.

At the end of Monday's meeting, the council went into executive session for approximately one hour to discuss pending litigation related to Johnny Lee Ward vs. the City of Snyder.

After coming into open session again at 8:52 p.m., no action was taken.

Also Monday, the council heard a report from City Engineer Don Osborn, who noted the city sanitation route schedule has been changed somewhat with the winter months.

The current schedule sees dumpsters emptied four times every three weeks. The change has allowed the city to free up one employee for other duties, Osborn said.

He noted the regular schedule to empty dumpsters twice weekly will likely be returned to with the summer.

Council members attending Monday's meeting included Williamson, who presided, Joe Fowler, Mike Post, Ralph Williamson, Fred Castillo and Paul Zeck.

In other action, the council voted to:

—Accept a bid of $1,500 from the City of Westbrook to purchase a 1956 Ford firetruck owned by the city.

—Approve a request for $1,572 in motel tax funds from the chamber's Cultural Affairs Committee. This amount will be applied toward expenses related to the recent appearance of The Acting Company and its presentation of "Much Ado About Nothing."

Assault filed

A 15-year-old boy was arrested on an assault charge at 3:35 p.m. Monday at a 25th St. convenience store after reportedly having a fight with his girlfriend.

He was released to his father after being taken to the county jail.

Would Reagan pardon North?

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the most intriguing mysteries in Washington is whether President Reagan would grant pardons to former aides for their roles in the Iran-Contra affair.

Would he allow people he has praised as honorable men and heroes go to jail? Or would he risk a public uproar and a potential backlash against Republican candidates by granting pardons?

It's a premature question, since no one's even been indicted, but it's being asked frequently at the White House these days.

Gerald Ford, as one of his first acts as president, pardoned Richard Nixon for any wrongdoing in the Watergate scandal. It was a highly unpopular act that analysts believed contributed to Ford's defeat by Jimmy Carter.

Now the pardon issue looms for Reagan as independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh conducts a criminal investigation of former White House aides John M. Poindexter and Oliver L. North for their roles in the secret sale of U.S. weapons to Iran and the diversion of arms sale profits to the Nicaraguan Contras.

True, Reagan will never have to stand for election again, so he doesn't have to worry about the political impact. But his loyal vice president, George Bush, sure might be affected, along with other GOP candidates, as well.

AP analysis

So what would Reagan do?

There are scattered clues, a lot of guessing and rumors but no clear answers. And Reagan, himself, isn't talking.

"This is a subject I have not and will not discuss at this time," Reagan said Monday. Not that reporters didn't try to get an answer. Four times the question was put to Reagan. And four times he ducked.

It's entirely possible that Reagan, himself, is not sure what he would do.

Stephen Hess, a political analyst at the Brookings Institution, says he thinks the public believes Reagan would pardon North and Poindexter if necessary. However, he believes Reagan isn't saying anything now because it's wiser to wait and see what happens.

Reagan does seem sympathetic to North and Poindexter. He said last month he does not think they have broken any laws. And, after Congress completed its hearings into the episode, Reagan went on national television and said North and Poindexter "believed they were doing what I would've wanted done."

He said he was "mad as a hornet" about the damage to his administration but he didn't say he was angry with the former aides.

As the Iran-Contra report from Congress noted last week, Reagan has never condemned his aides for lying, shredding documents or participating in a cover-up.

However, Reagan offered a dim view of that report Monday, saying, "Maybe they labored and brought forth a mouse."

The New York Times reported Monday there was "a hot, widely discussed, wholly unconfirmed report" that Reagan would issue pardons on Thanksgiving, when he will be at his mountaintop ranch in California.

However, Newsweek magazine said Nancy Reagan was "adamantly opposed" to pardoning North and Poindexter.

Newsweek, quoting sources it did not name, said Reagan was ambivalent but that the first lady "is known to blame Poindexter and North for the scandal which she feels has crippled the last two years of the Reagan presidency."

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater dismissed the stories as a "media phenomenon" and said, "I don't want to lend any credence at all to these media rumors. It just lends credence to idle speculation and ill-founded rumors."

Federal agency supports pipeline route

WACO, Texas (AP) — The federal Bureau of Land Management says in a new report that a proposed All American Pipeline route that passes near Waco is the best of four choices it reviewed.

The proposed oil pipeline — sponsored by Celeron Oil & Gas Co. of Louisiana, a subsidiary of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. — would stretch 486 miles from McCamey in West Texas to the Gulf Coast near Webster.

A Final Supplemental Environmental Impact Statement from the bureau says the Waco-area route presents fewer problems than three other alternatives and is the preferred choice.

The bureau's final decision will be announced in early January by Edward Hastey, California state director of the Bureau of Land Management, bureau spokeswoman Candy Johnson told the Waco Tribune-Herald Monday.

Last August, bureau spokesman William Haigh said pipeline builders agreed to abide by the bureau's environmental impact statement.

The new pipeline would expand a pipeline from California and is designed to funnel oil production surpluses in California to the under-used refineries along the Texas coast.

The four alternatives include a northern route passing near Waco, a central route passing south of Austin, a southern route passing south of San Antonio and using existing pipelines or tankers.

During the past two years, the bureau conducted pipeline public hearings in Temple, Waco and other cities across Texas. Most testimony came from Cameron residents who opposed the pipeline because of pollution, negative effects on preserved prairie grass fields and destruction of property.

Crude oil spills are likely to occur about eight times over the life of the project and the average spill would be about 3,750 barrels, the environmental report said.

As early as last January the bureau stated a preference for the northern route, but this month it reinforced its position.

The northern route would pass just north of Star, Evant, Arnett, Gatesville, Oglesby and McGregor before turning southeast to pass near Moody, Eddy, Troy, Rogers, Buckholts, Cameron and Rockdale.

The pipeline could carry 300,000 barrels per day with two of the five proposed pipeline stations near Evant and Buckholts on the northern route.

The latest report says the northern route would cross fewer miles of steep slopes than the central or southern routes and would cross fewer miles of sensitive aquifers. The northern route would not cross streams that contain sensitive fish populations such as those in the central and the southern routes.

The report says the northern route crosses several streams above municipal water supplies, but "it would be much easier to clean up spills into rivers than a comparable spill which entered a limestone solution aquifer such as the Edwards."

Public officials from the Austin area lined up in support of the northern route during hearings last August, saying they wanted to move the pipeline out of the Edwards Aquifer because it is a key element of the Austin region's water supply.

The central route crosses the Edwards Aquifer and the southern route crosses six streams that contain important fish populations that interact with the aquifer, the report said.

Maxus sues Kidder Peabody, Boesky

DALLAS (AP) — Maxus Energy Corp. has sued speculator Ivan Boesky, the brokerage firm Kidder, Peabody & Co. and a former Kidder executive for $300 million, claiming leaked secrets drove up the price of a 1983 Maxus acquisition.

The suit filed Monday seeks actual damages of at least $300 million and unspecified punitive damages for alleged leaks by former Kidder Peabody executive Martin A. Siegel to Boesky about Maxus' 1983 acquisition of San Francisco-based Natomas Co.

Boesky, a central figure in Wall Street's insider trading scandal, is a principal defendant in a number of other civil suits by companies and investors who claim they were victimized by his greed.

The suit claims Boesky's purchase of Natomas stock drove up the price, causing Dallas-based Maxus to pay $300 million extra. The company said it would have scrapped the purchase had it known about the leak.

Meanwhile, Kidder Peabody filed countersuits Monday seeking judgments that it isn't liable for damages claimed in the Maxus suit, alleging that any wrongdoing stemmed from Boesky and a "single renegade Kidder Peabody employee."

But Maxus spokeswoman Ginger Shearburn said, "Siegel was not just any employee, he was co-head of their mergers and acquisitions division and was touted as an expert. We think the law makes Kidder responsible for Siegel's conduct."

Maxus, formerly Diamond Shamrock Corp., said its suit stemmed from collusion between Boesky and Siegel, a former Kidder Peabody merger specialist who agreed to cooperate with authorities earlier this year.

The Maxus suit names Kidder Peabody because the investment firm was Maxus' financial adviser at the time it was planning the takeover. Siegel personally headed all of Kidder Peabody's work on the plan, Maxus said.

The Securities and Exchange Commission has alleged that Siegel disclosed to Boesky Diamond Shamrock's plans to acquire the energy concern, Natomas Co. Boesky then bought large amounts of Natomas stock and sold them at a profit.

Boesky's attorney, Theodore A. Levine of Washington, declined comment on the suit, as did lawyers for Siegel. A Kidder attorney said he had no comment on the suit.

The Maxus suit claims Boesky bought more than $12 million of Natomas' stock, forcing the price up artificially. Maxus said after the purchase it has had to write off more than $900 million in Natomas assets.

Pancho Claus lands in middle of spat

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Pancho Claus, Santa's legendary cousin from south of the border, is about to land in the middle of a yuletide feud.

The fracas is between two factions of the local American GI Forum, the benevolent Hispanic veterans organization that has been raising funds with Pancho Claus' help to make Christmas a little brighter for the city's poor children.

The latest battle over rights to have a parade in Pancho Claus' name started in August, when exiled GI Forum members filed a $2 million lawsuit against the organization, claiming illegal regional elections were held so a faction could win control of lucrative state and city-funded programs.

The war now has come to a head — one organization has city permission to have a Pancho Claus parade this Saturday, and another group is asking the city for a permit to have another parade Dec. 12.

Those planning the Dec. 12 parade Monday filed a lawsuit in state district court Monday asking for a temporary restraining order to stop the sponsors of Saturday's parade from using Pancho Claus as its theme.

At stake, though, is more than a name and a legend. Those on both sides of the fight say the Pancho Claus name means thousands of dollars in donations for those who collect the money to distribute food and toys to the city's poor.

"But who ultimately loses are the children and their families which the donations are supposed to be going to," Ted Lee, the attorney representing the GI Forum, told the San Antonio Light.

In August, Daniel Ramos, Jesse Oviedo and other plaintiffs — all members of the Central Men's GI Forum chapter — filed suit against the American GI Forum of Texas and its regional and state leadership, asking for $2 million in damages they say they suffered by being kicked out of the organization.

That suit centers on the 1986 elections of the GI Forum's regional officers in which two other GI Forum chapters — the Miguel Hernandez Men's and Alamo Men's — gained control from the Central Men's chapter of the veteran outreach program and Project SER, a jobs training and placement assistance program, both of which receive state and city funds.

In losing control of those programs and the Pancho Claus project, the Central Men's chapter protested to the Forum's state leadership, but the Central Men's leaders were ousted from the organization, Ramos and co-plaintiffs charge.

They then filed the lawsuit claiming the $2 million in damages and that the disenfranchisement of the Central Men's chapter is null and void. No action has been taken or court date set in that lawsuit.

'Bums, scum' to be sent back to Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — "The United States has always picked the best brains of Cuba. Let them also take the bums and the scum."

Cuban state radio offered that description of the criminals whom Cuban authorities released from prison and placed aboard the "freedom flotilla" that brought 125,000 Cubans to Florida in 1980.

Now, after seven years, Cuba has agreed to repatriate "the bums and the scum" as part of a wide-ranging immigration agreement announced last Friday.

It is a duplicate of an accord that was signed in December 1984 but suspended by Fidel Castro five months later in a display of pique over the startup of Radio Marti, the Voice of America broadcast operation to Cuba.

A measure of the desperation of many of these Cubans can be found in the rioting by the affected Cubans at their detention centers in Louisiana and Georgia following last Friday's announcement.

The rioting has tended to obscure what Reagan administration officials consider to be a diplomatic victory of sorts. The United States, first under Jimmy Carter and then under Ronald Reagan, has been trying for seven years to get the Cubans to take back the criminals and their mentally ill companions, but only a small fraction have returned.

The initial hint that Cuba might be willing to revive the 1984 agreement occurred two weeks ago during an unannounced meeting in Montreal between Cuban and American officials. The decision was formalized late last week at a meeting — also unannounced — in Mexico City.

Just why Cuban authorities decided to reverse their position has intrigued U.S. officials and other experts.

The most commonly voiced theory relates to Cuba's economic problems. Clearly, the 2,500 prospective Cuban returnees will be a burden for the Cuban government. Most probably will face the same fate there as here.

Panhandle residents protesting coverage by area newspaper

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A group of Panhandle business and civic leaders calling for more positive coverage in the city's daily newspaper have backed off an earlier demand that the Amarilo Globe-News' ownership be changed.

Following a Monday night rally Monday to garner support for Panhandle Citizens for a Better Amarillo Newspaper, chairman Paul Engler said he was told the group was wasting its time pushing for a change of ownership.

He declined to say who told him that, however.

At the rally, attended by more than 1,5000 people, residents waved flags and chanted "we deserve better" as several speakers lambasted the Globe-News coverage and its owner, Georgia-based Morris Communications Inc.

"The Globe-News is nationally known for its shabby journalism," said Engler.

But Globe-News Executive Editor Garet von Netzer said later that "I think it's interesting that in the criticism that I've heard of our newspaper, none has been directed at the accuracy of material run."

"If it offends people for us to report the news because some of that news seems negative, then it's basically the type of thing that newspaper journalism has had to contend with throughout its history," he said.

The group — consisting of 18 Panhandle mayors and business leaders — was formed after a series of articles about the nearby town of Hereford and strained relations between whites and Hispanics. Residents claimed the series cast an unfavorable light on their community.

"We're sorry if people in Hereford were offended by the series of articles that were run. However, they needed to be run," von Netzer said. "If we hadn't considered them to be important enough to run, despite the controversy that might ensue, we wouldn't have run them."

He noted that the newspaper has offered some concessions to PCBAN, including a reader representative program and an editor's forum designed to gauge community sentiments.

That was among a list of seven changes called for by PCBAN at the rally. PCBAN also called for the newspaper to "make a dedicated and honest commitment to journalistic excellence," to apologize to Hereford and to allow an advisory board to write a monthly column detailing "the progress or lack of progress in efforts to build a better newspaper."

The group also wants the Globe-News to survey its readers to determine how to serve the community, to have the newspaper's management meet with leaders of Panhandle towns to hear their views on issues affecting their communities and public assurances from its owners that the newspaper will follow the group's proposals.

Von Netzer said he could comment only on the apology issue because the other demands were "so vague."

Oilman and corporate raider T. Boone Pickens attended an earlier meeting of the group and has lent resources of his Mesa Petroleum Co., but did not attend the rally.

PCBAN has called for subscription cancellations and withholding of advertising on Tuesdays, beginning today. Engler said he did not know how much advertising had been pulled.

People at the rally said the newspaper's coverage of issues was negatively slanted and that local topics were not given enough play.

"We don't care what goes on in the outside world — we've got three networks and (Cable News Network) for that," said Arthur Ware of Amarillo.

But von Netzer said, "I find it rather shocking that people in this or any community would go to such lengths to organize to suppress their own freedoms to be informed of all sides of the issues."

Not everyone at the meeting was opposed to the Globe-News. Jerry Black of Amarillo circulated through the crowd wearing a sandwich board which read, "Globe-News as is OK."

"I think (the newspaper) is fair," he said, adding he attended the rally because he though the publication was "being kind of butchered out there."

6-year-old boy abducted, assaulted, returned home

DALLAS (AP) — A 6-year-old boy who was abducted as he walked to school was sexually assaulted before he was found crying on a city street and returned to his parents, police say.

The kindergarten student, who was treated for minor scrapes and bruises and released from Children's Medical Center late Monday, apparently escaped his kidnapper by running away, police investigator Melba Martinez said.

The suspect, believed to be a 28- to 30-year-old white male, was still at large late Monday, said Lt. Bill Walsh, an investigator in the Dallas police's youth crimes division.
