Selznick, 63, was stricken in his lawyer's office Tuesday. Actress Jennifer Jones, his second wife of 16 years, was with him. She accompanied the producer to Mt. Sinai hospital, where he died about an hour later.

IN ALGERIA

New Riots Are Feared

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

ALGIERS (AP) — Foreign ministers of the African-Asian world converged on Algiers today as Col. Houari Boumedienne's new military regime braced for new waves of demonstrations in support of ousted President Ahmed Ben Bella.

The foreign ministers were scheduled to meet in the Algerian National Assembly Thursday. Originally, their chief task was to decide whether the Soviet Union and Malaysia should be invited to the second African-Asian summit conference scheduled June 29.

With supporters of Ben Bella taking to the streets every night, the ministers now will have to decide whether the summit meeting should be held at this time.

African and Asian prime ministers attending the London Commonwealth conference already have suggested that the summit meeting be postponed. President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania and Prime Minister Hastings Banda of Malawi said they would not attend. The Japanese government was reported planning to send a second-rank delegation. Japanese Foreign Minister Etsusaburo Shiina canceled plans to attend Thursday's meeting and ordered two of his ambassadors to represent him.

Boumedienne, fearful of losing face, sent emissaries to London and leading capitals of Asia and Africa in an effort to persuade leaders to come to Algiers on schedule.

With only six days to go before the scheduled summit meeting, the nightly riots increased in violence. Several persons were reported injured in clashes with troops and riot police Tuesday night.

The crowds brandished banners with portraits of Ben Bella and pro-Ben Bella slogans.

Several hundred youths roamed the streets shouting, "Long live Ben Bella" and "Boumedienne assassin."

One diplomatic source estimated that up to 400 persons had been arrested in all parts of the country since the coup Saturday, not including countless youths picked up during the riots.

The government claimed only six persons were arrested for political offenses — including Ben Bella and two of his top lieutenants, former National Assembly President Hadj Ben Allah and former Health Minister Mohamed Seghir Nekkache.

PARTY MEET

Delay Indicates Red Dissension

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party has decided to break its rules and postpone a party congress, indicating indecision or even disagreement among the leaders on basic questions, informed sources said today.

A number of major decisions face Soviet leaders:

How much to oppose the United States in Viet Nam and help the Vietnamese Communists, in an effort to maintain leadership of the Communist bloc against Chinese claims to be more revolutionary. How to balance this against an effort to avoid nuclear war by preserving peaceful coexistence with the United States.

How to distribute the Soviet Union's strained economic resources among various demands for more consumer goods, industrial development, military and space research expansion, and foreign aid.

And, possibly, who is to control the party, which controls the Soviet Union.

The decision to postpone the party congress means these issues are still unresolved and causing trouble in the leadership, the sources said.

According to party rules, a congress must be held every four years to decide policies. A congress ratifies decisions reached by party leadership.

The last congress was held in October 1961, making the next one due this October. But, the sources said, the party has decided to postpone it until next spring.

The party's central committee has not announced the congress so far. According to other reports here, which would not be confirmed, a central committee meeting has been postponed because of indecision.

The committee was expected to meet in the middle of June but there has been no announcement that it did.

Fulbright Says Reds Would Balk

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said today he believes the Communists would balk at any new proposal to unite North and South Viet Nam through a supervised election.

It was partly because of this belief, Fulbright said, that he went beyond the public position of the Johnson administration to advocate in a June 15 Senate speech a return to the 1954 Geneva accords, "not just in their essentials but in all of their specifications."

One of the specifications is for the reuniting of North and South Viet Nam by a supervised election. Critics have said the United States encouraged the regime of the late Ngo Dinh Diem to ignore this provision for fear the Communists would win in such a test.

Fulbright, who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview he thinks the United States should disregard such fears if negotiations over Viet Nam ever materialize.

"I don't think we need to worry about the Communists favoring such elections," he said. "They always shy away from elections and avoid them if they can."

The Chamber office will be closed during the move Monday, and will be open again Tuesday in the new location.

Oil Men Praise School Budget

A budget for the 1965-66 school year was presented Tuesday evening at the annual budget hearing, and drew praise from most of the oil companies' tax experts who attended the meeting.

The 1965-66 budget shows a decrease of almost $40,000 over the last year's budget — down from $3,069,087 to $3,030,352.

Dr. Robert Clinton, superintendent of schools, said that he felt much of the saving had been effected by making the teachers and principals responsible for setting their individual budgets.

C. E. McBride, representing The Standard Oil Company of Texas, pledged the support of those he represented to provide the best possible schools in Snyder. He asked that the board continue to work toward this end, but to do so as economically as possible.

School board president Harold Bennett replied that this was the goal of the board, but noted that education of Snyder's youth was definitely their first concern.

Claude Gallamore, representing Tidewater Oil Company interests, and Jack Miller of Sun-ray-DX, added their congratulations to the board for apparently increasing the quality of education here, and doing so without an increase in the budget. Also praised as an aid to education was the redistricting program which was done by the school board.

Jack Fightmaster, also representing Standard, suggested that a 9 cent reduction in taxes for operation, and a 1 cent reduction in taxes for debt services, could be done without impairing the budget, and would result in a savings of $130,000 for taxpayers.

Dr. Clinton said that after the final figures for the last three months of the school year were totaled, he and the board would again review the school's financial position with an eye to the possibility of some tax reduction.

Dr. Clinton noted that the school's largest expense by far was salaries, and that the number of teachers to be needed next year was still uncertain, and also that some salary adjustments could possibly be put into effect next year. The uncertainties of the amounts needed here would preclude the promise of any tax reduction at this time, he felt.

The taxing rate of $1.47 per 100 valuation is to remain unchanged. Total value of property in the Snyder Independent School District is presently set at $130,972,000.

Wilson Hunt of the tax evaluation firm of Prichard and Abbott was also in attendance at the budget hearing.

SPACE COCOON WORKERS — Scientists say huge plastic bubbles like this may be the answer for astronauts who must leave the comparative safety of their spacecraft to assemble space platforms or repair other craft. Inflated in orbit, the bubble would surround the workers like a protective cocoon. Astronauts enter and leave through air lock. Idea was suggested in report compiled by Air Force and Boeing scientists. (AP Wirephoto)

Deluge Hits Texas Area

By The Associated Press

Torrential downpours caused brief flooding in at least two areas of Southwest Texas today, routing a few families from homes at Kerrville.

Unofficial gauges measured more than 9 inches of rain at both Kerrville and Fredericksburg, which is 17 miles upstream from President Lyndon B. Johnson's LBJ Ranch.

City police and street crews evacuated 10 families from mostly new homes in two additions on the east edge of Kerrville. Water up to 4 feet deep rose in some houses. Property damage promised to be heavy but there were no deaths or injuries.

Streets filled in Fredericksburg "and it got over the curbs in some places," Deputy Sheriff R. L. Franke reported, "but most of the rain fell right here in town—there wasn't any to the west of us to come pouring down the river."

An estimated 2 inches of rain fell at Stonewall, 3 miles upriver from the LBJ Ranch.

At Kerrville, state patrolman Frank Felts said 3.5 inches of rain poured down between midnight and 3 a.m.

Rises of 10 to 12 feet surged down four creeks flowing through Kerrville into the Guadalupe River as the runoff mounted and receded with matching swiftness.

Felts reported 23 persons were escorted to safety from homes near the Veterans Administration and state hospitals on the east outskirts of Kerrville. Most of the houses are in the new Meadowview and Nichols additions.

The water level climbed five feet behind Flat Rock Dam which forms Stae Park Lake in Kerrville.

At Abilene, Big Elm Creek, swollen by heavy rains Tuesday, overflowed its banks early today and caused some flooding in the western part of the city. A few persons left their homes. Others remained and with the help of emergency workers sandbagged their property.

Damage Is Said Heavy

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force planes hammered North Viet Nam's Son La military complex today for the third time in six days. A spokesman said they destroyed 50 buildings and damaged 43.

Farther South, the spokesman said, a U.S. jet pilot bailed out of his burning fighter-bomber and parachuted onto Communist soil, but was plucked back safe and sound within two hours.

The downed pilot was with a team of four F105 Thunderchiefs on a road reconnaissance mission along Route 15 when his plane was hit by ground fire, according to the spokesman. The plane broke up in the air before hitting the ground, the spokesman said.

Down at 2:15 p.m., the pilot was rescued a few minutes after 4 p.m. The spokesman disclosed no further details.

The spokesman said 37 planes staged the raid on the Son La complex, 110 miles west northwest of Hanoi and 80 miles from Red China's frontier.

The first raid on Son La, well north of the 21st Parallel, was last Friday. It passed with little notice because of a dramatic operation in South Viet Nam, the bombardment of a Viet Cong-held jungle by B52 jet bombers from Guam. The second Son La Raid was Tuesday.

The new attack was reported to have lasted only five minutes. The spokesman said anti-aircraft fire was heavy, but all planes returned safely.

Four Navy planes attacked underground oil storage tanks about 130 miles south of Hanoi and pilots claimed 80 per cent destruction of their targets.

On the ground, South Vietnamese forces attacked Viet Cong guerrillas in Thua Thien Province, north of Da Nang, for the third straight day. A U.S. Army spokesman said 54 Communists have been killed and 15 captured so far in the "search and destroy" operation.

The Vietnamese claimed they killed 50 Reds in another operation in the Binh Son district of Quang Ngai Province, about 340 miles northeast of Saigon. U.S. spokesmen said an American enlisted man and two U.S. Army officers were wounded slightly.

Four Skyraiders escorted four Skyhawks on the raid against the petroleum depot. The pilots said they also knocked out a truck parking region and storage buildings about 140 miles south of the North Vietnamese capital and damaged a wooden bridge in the area.

The pilots said they ran into light Communist groundfire but saw no hostile planes.

Twelve U.S. Skyhawks bombed Moc Chau military barracks west of Hanoi and 125 miles south of the Red Chinese border. The pilots reported 10 per cent destruction. U.S. planes hit the same target Monday, claiming 25 per cent destruction then.

Wild River Shows Signs Of Slowing

By The Associated Press

Thousands of persons continued to flee ahead of the great Arkansas River flood but it started to show signs today of developing middle-age spread and slowing down upon reaching Great Bend, Kan.

The water at Great Bend rose rapidly, but an earlier forecast of a 17-foot crest was revised downward to between 13 and 14 feet. Authorities expressed cautious optimism that the city would escape extensive flooding.

Great Bend levees have been extended by sandbagging to 13½ feet, and it would take an estimated 5½ feet over bankful to top them. The forecast was for a crest 5 feet above flood level.

River spotters also reported the flow had diminished to about one mile an hour, indicating a lessening of pressure as the flood spread over the broad plains in the Great Bend area.

A temporary dike on farm land five miles southwest of Great Bend broke shortly before midnight.

No homes in the area were threatened and officials said a permanent dike about three miles from the city would help divert the water back toward the main channel.

At Dundee, 11 miles upstream, the flood widened from four to seven miles before falling. Larned, farther upstream, reported that its two-mile levee was holding.

As a precaution, about 2,500 persons were asked to leave their homes in lowlands west and south of Great Bend.

Back of the flood in Kansas, there have been three deaths, according to the Red Cross, and an estimated $22 million damage, an estimate made by Gov. William H. Avery.

LBJ Plans UN Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today that President Johnson definitely plans to address 20th anniversary ceremonies of the United Nations in San Francisco Friday morning.

Press secretary George Reedy said Johnson would speak at 11:30 a.m. — Pacific Daylight Time — in the War Memorial Opera House to mark the 20th anniversary of the signing of the U.N. Charter.

There was no immediate word on when Johnson would leave Washington.

After the San Francisco appearance, Johnson is expected to fly to his Texas ranch for a weekend stay.

Revenue To CRMWD Is Up Slightly

BIG SPRING — Operations for the Colorado River Municipal Water District continued somewhat in the same pattern for May — revenues steady but production off.

Revenue fund reports showed sales of 965,757,000 for the month (actually these were April deliveries which were paid for in May), making 3,816,599,000 for the first five months of the year. This is behind the 3,957,541,000 for the same period a year ago, and all of the decline is in draws by the member cities.

Revenue from the sale of water amounted to $253,776 in May, of which $128,176 was from member cities. Pipeline fees and recreational charges boosted total revenues for the month to $257,444, making $1,104,863. For the same period last year the returns were $1,070,324.

Most of the production is coming from Lake J. B. Thomas. In fact, the well fields were not required, but the city wells yielded the 34,825,000 gallons which did not come from Lake J. B. Thomas.

Ira Pipeline Bids Opened

Bids were received Tuesday afternoon by the board of directors of the Ira-Dunn Water Supply Corporation on construction of a 4-inch pipeline from Snyder to Ira and Dunn.

Apparent low bidder on the project was Rhode Pipe Company of Silverton with a bid of $161,308.86. Other bidders were Panhandle Construction Co. of Lubbock, $164,456.65; Kavanaugh Construction Co. of Castroville, $180,885.98; and Clouse-Fourton, Inc. of Abilene, Brown-McKee, Inc. of Lubbock, and Clyde Construction Co. of Odessa, all of whom entered bids in excess of $200,000.

It is believed that the F.H.A. which had approved a loan of $179,000 for the project, will approve the low bidder within a week.

Construction on the pipe line could then start sometime in July.

Consulting engineers on the project are Yates and Decker of Abilene.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for four months and pregnant (a baby). I am delighted and so is my husband. But here's the problem: Even before my ring I started to get it from all sides. My mother, his mother, my grandmother, his aunts, everyone said: "Now don't go and have a baby the first year you're married!" Then I heard lengthy lectures on the high cost of living and the importance of "getting to know your husband first." I've heard this so often I feel like a complete dimwit for wanting a baby so soon. Now I'm actually afraid to tell anyone. I'm 22 and it's not like I didn't know any better. We both wanted a baby right away. How should I tell people? And what do I say when they make smart remarks? I'm sure no one will believe we planned it.

GOT A SECRET

DEAR GOT: Tell people when you are good and ready. And don't be sheepish. You owe no one any explanations or apologies. A planned child is a gift and a privilege. Enjoy it!

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from the mother who was up in arms over the fact that her child's teacher kept the whole class after school because a "few" children misbehaved, I am up in arms, too. Did it ever occur to this mother that after a confining, active day of teaching, we teachers look forward to a quiet, empty classroom where we are free to plan our next day's work? We don't enjoy staying in after school with students. But believe me, occasionally this is a very effective means of handling an unruly class. Common sense would have led this angry mother to inform the teacher that her child had a doctor's appointment. What good did it do her to sit in her car for half an hour? We are not clairvoyant. When will the parents learn to cooperate and stop fighting us?

A TIRED TEACHER

DEAR ABBY: Can't "UP IN ARMS" see that the teacher was staying on her own time in order to teach discipline to that group of youngsters? She wasn't getting time and a half overtime! I am not a teacher, but I can remember that 30 years ago that method worked. The teacher didn't know the guilty party, but WE did. No one told the teacher, but the culprit was told by the rest of the class, and it never happened again.

Why, oh, why do parents think they are doing their children a kindness by letting them "express themselves"? We must have discipline and consideration for the next person if we are to live healthy, happy, peaceful lives. Proverbs we lived by are unknown to young people. Even the Golden Rule has changed to "Do it to them before they do it to you." No one takes the time to teach our young people moral lessons. Everyone is hurrying — to his grave. Sincerely,

GRANDMA

DEAR ABBY: How do you know when you are in love? I asked my mother and she said there isn't any such thing; it's just something you imagine. But she is 37 years old and it's been so long since she was in love she probably forgot. I've asked several other people and nobody seems to have the answer. Have you?

THINK I AM

DEAR THINK: When a person is really "in love" (and there IS such a thing!) he doesn't ASK anyone. He knows it. So if you "think" you're "in love," I would say, think again.

Mishaps Reported

The Texas Highway Patrol reported a mishap at 2:15 p.m. Tuesday in Hermleigh.

Involved were a 1960 Ford driven by B. D. Smith of Hermleigh, and a bicycle ridden by 9-year-old Ricky Mark Bowen. Officers reported that the mishap occurred when the Bowen boy rode out of a garage on Hawkins Street just south of the caution light and struck the side of the auto.

The boy apparently was unfamiliar with the hand-type brake on the bicycle, officers said.

He received minor injuries, and was released from the hospital following an X-ray examination.

Snyder city police reported a minor mishap at 9:32 p.m. Tuesday on the Snyder square.

Involved were a 1963 Plymouth driven by Jerry Sharp, 1910 Coleman, which received about $90 damage. The other car left the scene of the accident, and that car is being sought by police officers.

RFK Would Halt Weapons Spread

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy called on President Johnson today to give "central priority" to efforts to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

Kennedy said in a Senate speech that the United States cannot wait for peace in Southeast Asia or for the solution of any other problem to move against the proliferation of nuclear weapons by at least a dozen nations able to produce them within three years.

"The need to halt the spread of nuclear weapons must be of central priority in American policy," Kennedy said. "Of all our major interests, this now deserves and demands the greatest additional effort."

The New York Democrat said the 1963 limited nuclear test-ban treaty had been hailed as the first of many actions to secure peace "but we have not yet taken the second step."

"The world has not moved, beyong the limited nuclear test ban itself, to halt the proliferation of nuclear weapons," he said.

Kennedy said: "With every day that passes, the likelihood increases that another nation will develop the bomb; and every new possessor will lead others to abandon the restraint that alone keeps them from acquiring a nuclear capability now."

To meet this situation, Kennedy proposed:

That the United States initiate negotiations with the Soviet Union on a nonproliferation treaty in which all nations — friendly or otherwise — would get a two-power guarantee against nuclear blackmail.

Explore the possible creation of nuclear free zones in the world, particularly in Latin America and Africa.

Extend the test-ban agreement to include detectable underground explosions.

Freeze U.S. and Soviet nuclear stockpiles at their present level.

Strengthen and support the International Atomic Energy Agency.

Kennedy conceded that it won't be easy to get an effective nuclear agreement because of Red China's explosion of an atomic device.

"It is difficult to negotiate on any question with the intransigent leaders of Communist China," he said.

"But China is there. China will have nuclear weapons. And without her participation it will be infinitely more difficult, perhaps impossible in the long run, to prevent nuclear proliferation.

"But if we must ultimately have the cooperation of China and the Soviet Union and France and all other nations with any nuclear capability whatever, it does not follow that we should wait for that cooperation before beginning our efforts."

AMARILLO (AP) — Willard Blevins, 75, a minister from Hereford, and R. A. Burrell, about 65, from near Amarillo, died in a car-truck crash 15 miles southeast of here Tuesday.

Blevins' wife Maude, 72, was injured as their car and Burrell's truck collided at the intersection of FM 1151 and 2250.

Survey Of Folks Over 65 To Be Made Here Saturday

High school and college age-youths of Scurry County will aid in conducting a survey Saturday to determine the needs of people over 65 years of age here.

The survey will be done in connection with the local Governor's Committee on Aging and with the cooperation of the ministers of Scurry County.

The latest census shows that six per cent of the population, or 1,360 people are in the over-65 age group. Letters have been sent to more than 700 people in this bracket. Those who did not receive a letter have been asked to contact Miss Ruby Butts, County Home Demonstration Agent, at HI 3-3282.

A breakfast for the young people who will be helping with the survey will be served at the First Baptist Church at 8 a.m. Saturday morning at a cost of 25 cents.

The Rev. John Gordon, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, speaking on behalf of the Ministerial Alliance, said that "all youth of the county are urged to come and share in this worthwhile project."

"If you do not have your own transportation, then ask a friend or your parents to bring you, as you will need to furnish your own car.

"The survey is planned to provide information about housing, leisure time, activities, interest, and other information of like nature.

"This is a service that is needed for an age group that is often forgotten, and one that all can share in, so plan to come and do your share in this worthy project."

Solons Ask Warning On Cig Packs

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both House and Senate have now passed bills requiring this warning to be printed on each package of cigarettes: "Caution: Cigarette smoking may be hazardous to your health."

While they agree on the cigarette pack warnings, the two bodies of Congress disagree on what to do about cigarette advertising.

The House bill forbids the Federal Trade Commission to regulate cigarette ads. The Senate bill places a three-year ban on FTC regulation. The FTC had proposed to require health warnings in cigarette ads, and this action brought the matter to a head in Congress.

Tobacco state congressmen took the lead in urging passage of the House bill Tuesday. The bill was called up unexpectedly and only a few members were on the floor. It passed on a voice vote.

The bill now goes to a Senate-House conference. The main difference to be straightened out is whether the ban on FTC ad regulation should be for three years or forever.

During the brief House debate, the tobacco congressmen challenged medical findings linking cigarette smoking with cancer. They said no causal connection has been found.

A federal panel reported in January 1964 that cigarette smoking is a health hazard and a major cause of lung cancer and other diseases. Surgeon General Luther L. Terry later said the Public Health Service endorsed the panel's findings.

Surplus Food To Go To Egyptians

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials expect a further improvement in relations with Egypt as a result of President Johnson's decision to send that strategic Middle Eastern country $37 million worth of surplus food which had been held up here for six months.

Johnson made the decision Monday to supply the promised aid. It was announced by the State Department Tuesday night.

The announcement said the President had decided "that it is in the U.S. interest" to fulfill the assistance commitment under a three-year program which expires June 30.

The suspension of the program was ordered at a time of badly strained U.S.-Egyptian relations. A U.S. Information Service library was burned in Cairo last November and United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser announced in December that he had been sending arms to Communist-backed rebels in the Congo and would continue to do so.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey was asked why the President had now decided to restore the aid shipments.

He replied: "There has been a definite improvement in our relations with the U.A.R. since aid was suspended six months ago."

The Egyptian government was reported recently to have asked the United States to consider a new three-year program providing for up to half a billion dollars worth of surplus food in the period 1965-1968.

The latest U.S. move in restoring aid to Egypt appeared to open the door to consideration of the new Egyptian approach, but officials here said that as yet no consideration has been given to it.

As evidence of improved relations, U.S. officials cited several developments.

They said the Nasser government has promised to pay compensation for the burned library, which was destroyed by a mob demonstrating against U.S. actions in the Congo. The Egyptian government has provided temporary library facilities rent free.

Officials said that the U.A.R. had stopped sending assistance to the Congo rebels in mid-April.

Offers New Imports Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Imports legislation backed by Texas' largest group of independent oil operators has been introduced by Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex.

The bill, which also has been offered in the House, is aimed at offsetting low prices of foreign oil by requiring importers to bid for licenses.

It is supported by the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association.

Importers would bid competitively for licenses and the President would set minimum bid figures. As a result importers would add their bids to prices, bringing them into line with more expensive domestic oil.

Gay 20 Club Takes Nine Pledges

The Gay 20 Social Club recently invited nine sophomores to become pledges: They are Debbie McCants, Janet Womack, Shannon Traugott, Susie Hendrix, Debbie Mebane, Murry Ann Jackson, Geni Davis, Judy Williamson and Sue Allen Line. They will remain pledges throughout the summer, and will become full-fledged members after formal initiation in August.

Pledges were taken in after a rush period highlighted by a "Getting To Know You" brunch held in May in the home of Karen Dolen; an Italian dinner held June 3 at the home of Suzanne Shearburn and a "Beatnik" dance held June 11 at the Katheryn Ryan cafetorium.

"The Techniques", a four-piece combo from Texas Tech provided music for the dance.

Use a swivel-blade vegetable parer to have paper-thin, long, wide pieces of carrot to add to a tossed salad. If you like, you can roll up each carrot piece, secure with a toothpick and soak in ice water. When the toothpicks are removed, there will be carrot "curls" to add to the salad.

A good dip for raw vegetables is one made from creamstyle cottage cheese, sour cream and poppyseed.

Heating a fresh coconut in a slow oeven for about half an hour makes it easier than usual to remove the shell.

WONDERFUL SNACK—Pastry turnovers have a filling of Roquefort cheese, with a suspicion of scallion, and they are delightful party fare.

Roquefort Turnovers Are Special

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

ONE OF the most delicious hors d'oeuvre we have tried recently is in turnover form.

Pie crust mix is used for the pastry, and the filling is a luscious combination of Roquefort cheese, butter, eggs and a suspicioun of scallion.

This recipe makes a lot of turnovers. You'll find them great to serve for an afternoon or evening refresher. If any are leftover, store them in a tightly covered container in your refrigerator and reheat them; they'll add a delectable touch to a main course salad lunch or supper.

ROQUEFORT TURNOVERS

½ pound Roquefort cheese
2 tablespoons minced scallions
¼ pound butter, soft
2 eggs
Heavy cream
2 packages (each 10 ounces) pie crust mix

Mash Roquefort, stir in scallions and butter. Beat eggs until they are thickened and lemon colored; add half of these beaten eggs to the Roquefort mixture; beat until thoroughly blended. Beat in enough cream, a little at a time, to make a thick paste that holds its shape. Reserve the remaining egg.

Prepare pie crust mix according to package directions. With a prepared pastry cloth and a stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out pastry so that it is about 21 by 13 inches; with a rule square sides so that you have a 20 by 12½-inch rectangle. (Pat leavings from edges of dough into a ball; cover and refrigerate.) With a pastry wheel or sharp knife, cut the pastry rectangle into 2½-inch squares — there will be 40. Brush the edges of each square with some of the reserved beaten egg. (Use refrigerated scraps of dough with any leftover filling.)

Put 1 teaspoon of the Roquefort mixture near the center of each pastry square; fold over each square to form a triangle. Press edges together firmly. Place on lightly greased cookie sheets. Brush tops with the remaining beaten egg and prick with a fork. Bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven for 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly brown-ed. With a wide spatula, remove to a wire rack. Serve warm or reheat.

A loaf of bread in its original wrapper may be kept in the freezer for a couple of weeks. If you want to store it for a longer period, freezer-wrap

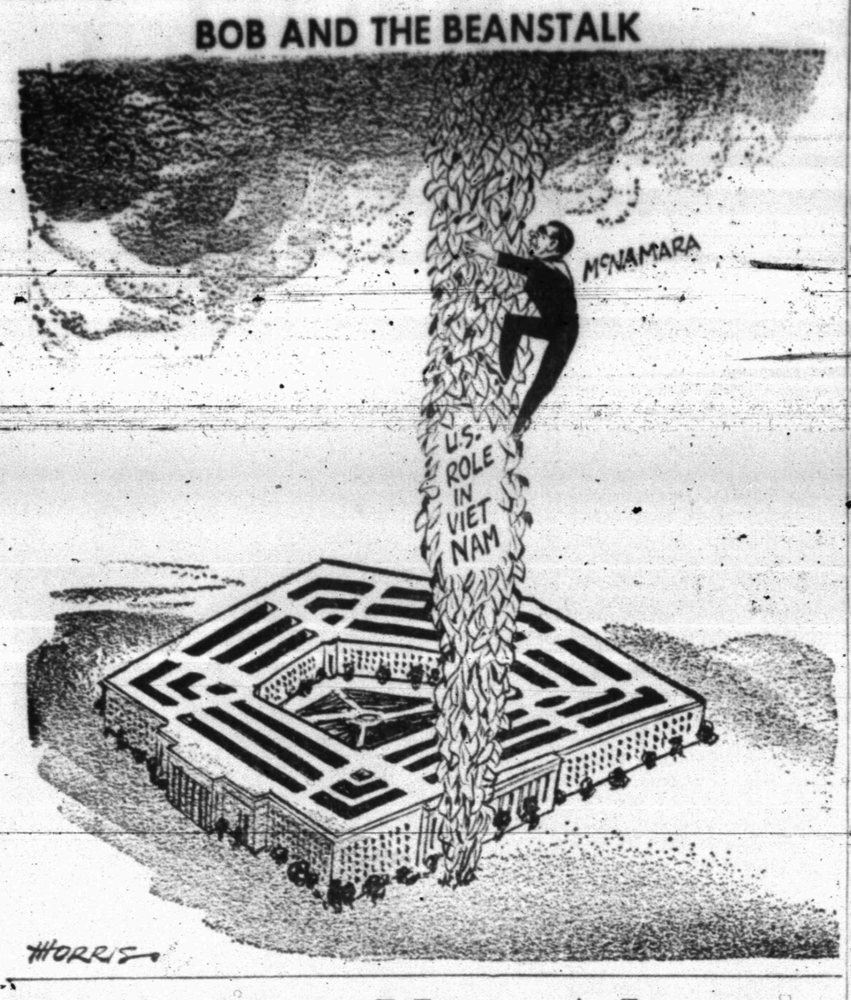
BOB AND THE BEANSTALK



North Viet Migs Adopting Guerrillas Hit-Run Tactics

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The North Vietnamese air force seems to be adopting some of the tactics the Viet Cong guerrillas have used on the ground for years — hit and run, and fight only when you think you are stronger than your opponent.

North Vietnamese MIG17 jets are coming up to do battle with American raiders more often. There were brief aerial clashes over North Viet Nam last Thursday and Sunday. Both times, the MIGs lost.

Some U.S. officers speculate that North Viet Nam may have more MIG17s than when the American raids began earlier this year. Hanoi may have enough planes to be willing to risk some of them in battle, these officers speculate.

The North Vietnamese also may be worried that their air bases will soon be primary targets for the American planes, even bases close to Hanoi. The Hanoi air force may feel it is better to give its planes a fighting chance in the air while these bases still are able to operate.

U.S. officials do not believe the North Vietnamese air force has any of the high-performance fighters made by the Soviet Union, such as the MIG19, MIG21, MIG23, Sukhoi or Yak25. All the latter are supersonic jets with sophisticated armament. If these planes were available, they probably would have been fighting the Americans by now.

But the MIG17 can be a dangerous enemy if flown by experts. It first went into operation in 1954 and was a big improvement over the workhorse fighter of the Korean war, the MIG15.

The maximum speed of the MIG17 is about 650 miles an hour — just under the speed of sound, and less than half the top speed of the American F4B Phantom jets with which it may have to tangle. But the MIG17 carries two 23mm and one 37mm cannon, which give it a dangerous bite.

Several months ago, two MIG17s swept down on a formation of U.S. Air Force F105 jet fighter-bombers while the American planes were slowly circling, waiting their turns to bomb a bridge. Each MIG fired one long cannon burst and flashed by into a cloud haze. Two of the F105s went down, and the MIGs got away.

Since then, the MIG pilots may have become more confident. Last Thursday, Communist radar would have indicated to a flight of four MIGs that two American Phantoms were flying just to the south of them.

At 2-to-1 odds, the MIG pilots apparently thought it was worth a fight. Unfortunately for them, the Phantoms were ready and carrying Sidewinder missiles. Each Phantom fired just one heat-homing Sidewinder. Two of the MIGs exploded. The other two fled.

Last Sunday, a pair of MIG17s apparently thought they had spotted another likely target — four propeller-driven Skyraider fighter-bombers. The Skyraider is only half as fast as a MIG and has been technically obsolete for years. But it is extremely maneuverable, which high-speed jets are not.

The quartet of American planes went into a wild series of maneuvers to duck MIG cannon fire, getting off bursts from their own 20mm cannon each time they had a chance. One burst hit, and a MIG went down in flames. The other fled, and all the Americans got home.

U.S. officers express belief the Hanoi MIGs will go on trying to pick off likely looking targets whenever they have a chance, in much the same way Viet Cong snipers work.

US Builds Taj Mahal Of The Hills

By HAL BOYLE

KHE SANH, South Viet Nam (AP) — They call the fortress built here by the U.S. Army's Special Forces "The Taj Mahal of the Hills."

It is the northernmost of scores of camps of its kind built as strong points throughout South Viet Nam. It lies only 10 miles south of the demilitarized zone that divides this warring land.

"It's the most beautiful of all the camps—and possibly the safest," said an officer on the supply plane that flew me here.

Beautiful, yes. But safe? The possibility of being overrun, or betrayed from within, makes none of these camps a haven.

The Khe Sanh garrison lies on a plateau only four miles from the Laotian border. A 1,000-foot-deep gorge yawns at one end of the airstrip and down it tumbles a series of waterfalls in filmy splendor. Green hills undulate in a grace that hides their savagery.

The camp's buildings, thatch-roofed and cement-floored, squat in serene comfort in their exotic setting.

The cheerful monarch of this little kingdom is Capt. Ralph Bostic, 32, Charlotte, N.C. He is a short, pleasant-faced officer who seems thoroughly happy to be here.

"There's nothing beyond us but the enemy," he said, waving his hand at the impassive hills to the north.

"We're lucky. There's enough altitude to make it cool. We sleep under a blanket every night. It gets really cold in winter. We're fixing up a fireplace now."

The camp is staffed by 13 Americans, an Australian, and a bodyguard force of Nungs, mercenary Chinese troops. They are helping train nearly 700 civilian irregulars whose ultimate task will be to protect the hamlets throughout the region.

They go out on periodic patrols over a mountainous and jungle area that measures about 30 by 12 miles. No great battles are fought here, but skirmishes with the enemy are growing larger.

"The people are caught in the middle," said Bostic.

"Many say they are forced into the Viet Cong. They say the V.C.'s tell them, 'Join us or we'll shoot you.' The V.C. often use them for coolie labor and pay them off only in salt. They are forced to bring along their own rice."

Bostic's training force, like most of the civilian population, is made up of Montagnards, or mountain tribespeople.

"They won't leave their home area. If you try to train them anywhere else, they go AWOL and make their way back through the mountains on foot.

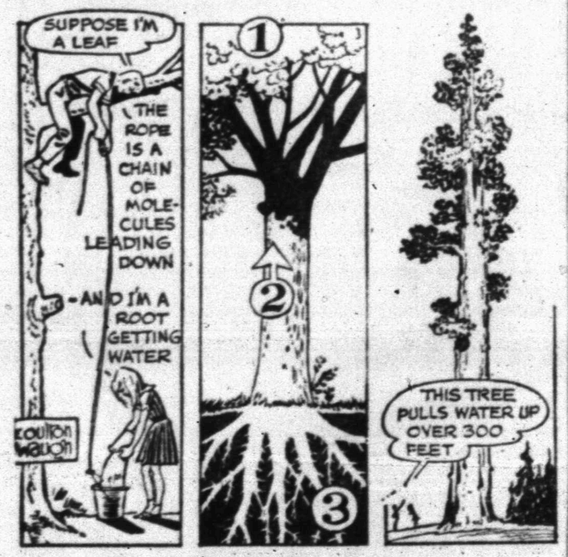
"Some of our own troops are Viet Cong. We know they are. But we are trying to swing them over to us."

The same situation is true of other camps. At one the commanding captain's desk was boobytrapped with a grenade. He spotted the trip wire in time to avert being blown up.

Bostic had heard of the incident but was undismayed.

"You can't sit up all night for fear they'll sneak a grenade into your bed," he remarked.

Junior Editors Quiz on OVERCOMING GRAVITY



QUESTION: If gravity pulls downward, how can water get to the top of a tree?

ANSWER: There are several forces working inside trees to overcome gravity and pull up the life-giving water they need, which must reach to the topmost leaf. The young people at the left illustrate the most important of these forces. John, on the branch, represents a leaf, where the lifting power starts. Leaves are covered with very tiny openings, through which moisture is always escaping into the air. The molecules of water inside the tree are attracted to each other by a force called cohesion. As water escapes, the molecules moving out pull the ones behind, and these pull others back of them. This chain of molecules reaches down the stems, through the branches and inside the trunk, all the way down to the very bottoms of the roots. On the roots are tiny hairs which are constantly getting water out of the soil, which is represented in the drawing by Jane. As the water comes into the root, it becomes part of the chain of molecules and is pulled up. A force called capillary attraction, which tends to lift fluids in narrow tubes, also helps. Another, osmosis, gives a push as water works its way through thin membranes in the roots. Still another force, root pressure, helps push the water up.

FOR YOU TO DO: Hold a thin drinking straw in a glass of colored water, a bit up from the bottom, and you will see the water rise higher inside the straw than the level of the water outside. This illustrates capillary attraction, one of the water-lifting forces inside trees. 6-23

Oil Compact Panel Begins Comprehensive New Study

By MAX B. SKELTON

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Another comprehensive study aimed at strengthening the nation's self sufficiency in petroleum resources has been initiated by the Interstate Oil Compact Commission.

A 33-member committee will examine long range energy requirements, productive capacity, proved reserves trends, imports and the impact of new sources of oil and gas, such as production from federal offshore leases.

Objectives of this new study were adopted at the commission's mid-year meeting, being attended by 400 federal, state and industry oil and gas conservationists.

"This is an ambitious program," A. L. Porter Jr., the committee chairman from Santa Fe, N.M., said today. "This is a standing study committee and I suspect it will be working a long, long while."

Porter is secretary of the New Mexico Oil Conservation Commission.

The new study is an outgrowth of a 20-month report the commission completed last December with the release of a voluminous survey of oil and gas conservation practices in the various states.

The committee also will keep the conservation study on a current basis by publishing periodic supplements to the 1964 report.

Objectives of the new study implement recommendations included in the conservation report and are in line with suggestions made Tuesday by Gov. John Connally of Texas, the compact chairman.

Porter's committee will project total domestic energy requirements for 5, 10 and 15 years and estimate quantities to be supplied by oil, gas, gas liquids, Hydroelectric power, nuclear energy, coal, shale oil, and tar sands.

Porter said there is great need for an accurate state by state estimate of the nation's petroleum productive capacity.

"This may prove to be a very difficult job but it involves a question asked very frequently of the industry," he said.

Productive capacity estimates currently are being made by the National Petroleum Council and by the Independent Petroleum Association of America. They use different formulas.

The council, an advisory body to the Interior Department, recently estimated domestic capacity at about 11 million barrels a day, but some of this capacity lacks pipeline connections for transfer to markets.

The independents have estimated capacity at about 12½ million barrels daily. Their formula does not include oil without a pipeline outlet.

The new committee will report periodically on ratio trends of oil and gas with production and demand.

Connally said depressed conditions within the industry have curtailed exploration programs so sharply that reserves ratios have been affected adversely.

"For several years I have become increasingly alarmed at the consistent annual decline," Connally said. "At the end of 1964, the ration of oil reserves had dropped to 11.7 and gas reserves had dropped to a ratio of 18.3."

Many surveys in recent years have indicated the industry should strive to maintain oil reserves sufficient to meet at least 12 years of demand and gas reserves to meet at least 20 years of demand.

Divers Fail To Find Boys

DEATH VALLEY, Calif. (AP) —Five divers climbed out of a vast water-filled cavern shortly before midnight Tuesday and sadly told relatives of two missing youths that no trace had been found of their bodies.

Officials conducting the search immediately called a halt to further rescue attempts for David Rose, 20, and Giancontieri, 19, two Las Vegas students.

ers-in-law who vanished while skindiving Sunday night in nearby Devil's Hole.

Among those assembled outside the craggy entrance to the cavern were Rose's bride of two months, Paula, 20, and Giancontierei's mother. Paula is Giancontieri's sister.

Lt. Walter Butt of the Clarke County, Nev., sheriff's department, said the search would have continued if there was any indication that the bodies could be discovered.

Authorities gave up hope early Tuesday that they could be found alive.

Devil's Hole is administered by Death Valley National Monument personnel but is actually a few miles inside Nevada.

Following the final unsuccessful dive Tuesday night, officials indicated the cavern will be sealed off, a steel diver's grill a steel fence built around the opening.

Drought In North Spotlights Conversion Of Sea Water

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — How far are we from being able to get fresh water out of the salt sea at a reasonable cost?

The questions has peculiar interest to the Northeast section of the country, which has been seared by a long drought. So serious is the resulting water shortage that waiters in New York restaurants have been ordered not to give a customer a glass of water unless he asks for it.

It also is a question of burning interest in many parts of the world, such as arid Israel, where water means life itself. Israel has taken a leading role in research to find better ways of desalting salt water.

When the U.S. Office of Saline Water was set up 13 years ago, it began experimentally desalting water at a cost of $4 to $5 per thousand gallons. Now it has gotten the cost down to $1 to $1.25 per thousand gallons — an improvement, but still too high.

The Saline Water Office says the average U.S. consumer is now paying 35 cents per thousand gallons of fresh water.

President Johnson has ordered full speed ahead on a proposed $275-million desalting program. That is why he has called an international meeting on desalting to convene here in October. Already 55 nations have signed up to attend.

One big problem is the implacably corrosive effect of salt water, its tendency to cake the pipes with sediment.

A highly refined distillation process, probably powered by atomic reactors which also would produce electricity, seems promising.

Other methods include electrodialysis, in which positive and negative electrodes draw sodium and chloride out of the water. Another method is freezing, in which salt crystals are trapped between crystals of pure water. The problem is to separate the salt and ice crystals economically.

Besides several laboratories, the office of Saline Water operates three demonstration plants which supply desalted water to consumers. These are:

At Webster, S.D. — A 250,000-gallon-a-day electrodialysis plant.

At Freeport, Tex. — A one-million-gallon-a-day "long-tube vertical" distillation plant.

Roswell, N.M.—A one-million-gallon-a-day "vapor compression" distillation plant.

The Office of Saline Water used to have a plant at San Diego, Calif., but it was rushed to Guantanamo, Cuba, when Fidel Castro tried to get tough about the water supply for the U.S. naval base.

Areas Eye Relief Funds

AUSTIN (AP)—Officials in six counties recently hit by floods and a tornado will discuss with disaster relief office personnel how to divide up an initial federal grant of $200,000.

A spokesman for the state office of defense disaster relief said the total allocation may top $1 million.

Gov. John Connally called the meetings Tuesday for officials of Hale, Terrell, Freestone, Navarro, Leon and Rusk counties and persons from the state disaster office and the federal office of Emergency Planning. The conferences will begin Monday.

President Johnson declared the counties major disaster areas June 19.

To Test Redistricting Proposal

AUSTIN (AP)—New plaintiffs will test Texas' congressional redistricting proposal in federal court, State Republican Chairman Peter O'Donnell said Tuesday.

He noted that the original plaintiffs were from Harris County, "one of the few metropolitan counties treated fairly in the bill."

A three-man federal court in Houston ordered the state to redistrict by early August.

O'Donnell criticized the meandering districts of Dallas, Bexar and Tarrant counties.

"Also, there is no logical reason for dividing Midland and Ector counties, Jefferson and Orange counties, or for splitting Brazoria County into two districts," he said.

O'Donnell said other plans presented the legislature contained more compact districts with community of interest, matching no more incumbents than under the bill that was passed, and keeping population variance closer to the ideal average under the court's "one man, one vote" edict.

Saigon is one of the most crowded cities on earth.

Maybe You've Seen The Adolphus—

Hospitality and gracious service do not change, but physical comforts do. Here at The Adolphus we have blended the best of the old with the best of the new, with unique and pleasing results.

Today The Adolphus offers you the most modern hotel possible to produce with furnishings and other equipment selected from the best of the new — fast, self-service elevators, direct-dial telephones and television, to mention a few.

But the conventional requirements for hotel comfort, such as large rooms, have not been overlooked. For example, nowhere else we know of can you find rooms such as our "Texas Size" rooms — 300 square feet of comfortable living space with "his" and "her" baths, two closets, and lots of attractive space left over for entertaining.

All this, plus free indoor in-and-out parking in our garage, makes The Adolphus the best place to stay next time you're coming to Dallas.

What's the catch?
There isn't any.
Plunk $1691 into a salesman's hand and he'll plunk you into the seat of a new 1965 Volkswagen Deluxe Sedan. (Give him $30 more, and you'll be plunked into a Volkswagen with matching leatherette upholstery.)

Indians Hotter Than Pistol In Tight American League

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

It all works when you're hot.

Ask the Cleveland Indians, hottest team in big league baseball.

A starting pitcher came on in relief for the Indians Tuesday night and stopped a rally. Then a rookie pinch hitter tied the score with his first homer in the majors. Then a .237 batter won it with another homer.

The result was a 5-4 victory in 10 innings over Minnesota that stretched the Indians' winning string to 10 games and pushed them into a tie for second in the American League, just one-half game behind the Twins.

Cleveland is even with the Chicago White Sox, whose home game with Washington was rained out.

Baltimore's fourth-place Orioles split with Boston, winning the opener 4-1 before taking a 4-2 loss. George Brunet of the Los Angeles Angels pitched a three-hit 3-0 victory over fifth-place Detroit for his first major league shutout. And the New York Yankees broke even with Kansas City by winning the second game of their twi-night doubleheader 4-2 after being whipped 6-2.

In the National League — the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped the New York Mets 4-2, Pittsburgh blanked San Francisco 6-0, Cincinnati swept St. Louis 5-4 and 4-2, the Chicago Cubs beat Milwaukee 6-1 and Philadelphia trounced Houston 7-2.

Chuck Hinton was the .237 hitter who settled matters at Cleveland when he tagged Twins reliever Al Worthington for a homer leading off the 10th inning. Rookie Duke Sims had tied it with his homer in the eighth as a pinch hitter for Sam McDowell, the starter Manager Birdie Tebbetts used in relief.

McDowell replaced Don McMahon with none out in the eighth inning of the see-saw battle with Minnesota ahead 4-3 and Twins on first and third. Jimmie Hall went out trying to score on Jerry Zimmerman's grounder, then McDowell struck out Bernie Allen and Worthington.

Gary Bell was the winner, checking Minnesota the last two innings.

The Orioles won their 10th in 11 games in the opener, beating the Red Sox with three runs in the sixth on four singles and a sacrifice. Then Boston dealt Robin Roberts his seventh straight loss, with Earl Wilson holding Baltimore to four hits.

John Miller, recently called up from Indianapolis, was the first-game winner, getting relief help from Dick Hall. Boston's Felix Mantilla boosted his league-leading RBI total to 52 in the nightcap with a pair of run-scoring singles.

Brunet held the Tigers hitless for six innings, then yielded a leadoff single to Jerry Lumpe in the seventh, a single to Don Demeter in the eighth, and another om Al Kaline in the ninth. Vic Power knocked in two. Angel Mas[illegible] winner in the second against loser Mickey Lolich and with a single in the sixth.

Kansas City scored four times in the first two innings of the opener at New York, chasing Jim Bouton, and John O'Donoghue blanked the Yankees until Ray Barker and Mickey Mantle homered in the eighth. Wayne Causey had three of the Athletics' 12 hits. O'Donoghue, Ed Charles and Ken Harrelson added two each, and Rene Lachemann homered.

The Yanks settled the second game with two runs in the seventh, scoring on Horace Clarke's sacrifice fly and Bobby Richardson's single. Pedro Ramos was the winner in relief and reliever Wes Stock took the loss.

Atlanta Battle Not Over Between Football Leagues

ATLANTA (AP) — Today may be the day of decision for Atlanta, the only city ever allowed to choose between the National Football League and the American Football League.

The NFL has called a news conference for late today at which the older league is expected to announce its choice to own a franchise in the virgin professional football territory.

Although the announcement of the news conference gave no specific reason for its being called, the announcement promised discussion of a subject of "special interest to the people of Atlanta."

Should the NFL announce its ownership choice for Atlanta today, the territorial struggle between the two leagues could be ended rapidly.

Arthur Montgomery, head of the Stadium Authority, which will rent Atlanta's new $18 million stadium to the most suitable tenant, said Tuesday the nine-member group is willing to meet with anyone and discuss terms on short notice. "We're available at any time," Montgomery said.

Four persons are known to have applied for the NFL's Atlanta franchise, but Commissioner Pete Rozelle told Montgomery in a telephone conversation Tuesday, others are seeking the franchise. He did not say how many have presented applications.

Members of the Stadium Authority have individually expressed their preference for the NFL, but Montgomery said the group would give "every consideration" to an American Football League proposal.

The AFL franchise was awarded earlier this month to the Cox Broadcasting Co. which paid $7.5 million for the franchise.

Astros Lose Marshall In Car Wreck

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Gary Marshall, signed as a bonus baby pitcher by the Houston Astros, lay in a hospital here yesterday, his baseball career at an end after an automobile accident that killed a teammate and their young woman companion.

Jay Dahl, 19-year-old southpaw from Bloomington, Calif., and Miss Patti Troutman, 20, of nearby Salisbury, were killed in the Sunday night accident. Police said it was caused by excessive speed.

Marshall and Dahl both were signed as bonus players in the $5,000-$12,000 range, the Houston club reported.

Marshall was trapped in the wreckage of the car police said he had been driving, when it ran off a Salisbury street and crashed into a tree. His companions were thrown from the car.

A blow torch was required to free Marshall from the twisted machine.

Swim Team Gets Meet Experience

Snyder's swim team did not fare too well in the swimming meet held last weekend in Towle Pool, but it did give a lot of experience to the young swimmers.

Snyder finished third in the triangular meet with Lubbock and Andrews. All the meets that Snyder participates in are in preparation for the Regional AAU Junior Olympics in the latter part of July held here in Snyder. The meet will draw all the swimming teams in West Texas together for thoroughly organized AAU competition.

Lubbock took home the honors of last weekend's meet by fielding a very strong swimming team.

According to the swimming coach, Larry McNair, there are still a few openings left on the Snyder swim team. Anyone who is interested in swimming competition must contact Coach McNair at the Towle Pool. The membership fee is $3.00 which includes use of the pool and entry fees.

Dodgers, Buffs In Pony Wins

The Dodgers beat the Sports 9-3 and the Buffs downed the Braves 8-2 in Pony League games played Tuesday night.

The Dodgers scored five runs in the sixth inning to put the game out of the reach of the Braves. A. C. Hernandez lead the Dodgers to the victory by scoring three runs and getting three hits in three trips to the plate. One of his hits was a double. The Braves did not score until the fifth inning, and they got one in the inning. The Dodgers scored three in the seventh mainly on the strength of Jerry Northcutt's triple.

Randy Hardee pitched the Buffs to their league victory over the Braves. He only gave the Braves three hits and two runs in the full seven innings he pitched. The Buffs were never behind in the contest, however, the score was knotted in the second inning at 1-1. Bob Bailey had a triple in the sixth inning for the Buffs that drove in a run.

AFL Franchise May Be Granted

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The American Football League will have a Philadelphia team next year if the city guarantees the club will be able to play in the proposed new $25-million stadium, scheduled to be completed by 1967.

The AFL's expansion committee met with prospective owners of a Philadelphia franchise Tuesday, and also with city officials.

Lamar Hunt, chairman of the committee and owner of the Kansas City Chiefs, said, "The AFL has definitely decided they want to come into Philadelphia — and will come into Philadelphia if they can receive assurances that the team can play in the new stadium."

The Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, now playing in the University of Pennsylvania's Franklin Field, have demanded an exclusive lease in the new stadium. Eagles owners say they were promised exclusive rights in a "gentlemen's agreement" by city officials.

But Mayor James H. J. Tate, though agreeing to give exclusive rights to the baseball Philadelphia Phillies of the National League, has refused to grant the same rights to the Eagles.

Hunt said an AFL team could pay a rental equal to that which Eagles' owner Jerry Wolman has agreed to — providing he gets exclusive rights.

Earlier, this month the AFL granted a franchise to an Atlanta, Ga., group for $7.5 million but found out later it didn't have a firm commitment to use the new stadium there.

Jazy And Clarke To Have Distance Race

PARIS (AP) — France's Michel Jazy, who recently broke the mile record, and Australia's Ron Clarke, the world's fastest runner at 5,000 and 10,000 meters, will face each other in a two-mile race tonight.

The long-awaited clash of two of the hottest distance runners in the world will be held at Melun, 26 miles from Paris.

The Frenchmen recently lowered the mile mark to 3:53.6 but failed in attempts to beat Clarke's time for 5,000 meters.

Top Legal Experts Meet; Offer Aid To Nation's Poor

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 500 of the nation's top legal minds meet here today to recruit professional support in extending legal services to the nation's poor — many of whom have no idea such help is available.

The three-day National Conference on Law and Poverty is being sponsored by the Justice Department and the Office of Economic Opportunity as part of the administration's antipoverty program.

"Poor people are prone to legal trouble," says a report prepared for the conference. They are often defendants, rarely plaintiffs. They are bewildered and bemused by legalities they face daily as parents, consumers, tenants, recipients of public assistance, accused of, lenders.

If poverty itself is at the root of most of their legal troubles, their escape may lie at least in part, in establishing legal rights that the landlord, the social agency, the neighborhood merchant and the police will honor."

Without the active support of the legal profession, the conference report warns, "the poor will not emerge from the tentacles of slum housing, job discrimination, welfare inequities, unjust criminal procedures and commercial exploitation."

The conference working-paper points out that "the poor man is ruled by a legal system he neither understands nor trusts." But he steadfastly ignores the legal help available to him, it goes on, for several reasons:

—He is not aware that he needs a lawyer or that a lawyer can help.

—He doesn't know where to get legal help.

—He finds the lawyer remote and "will court exploitation to bypass exposure to an unfamiliar milieu or a social snub."

—He is afraid of reprisal: eviction, credit cutoff, loss of his job.

The Economic Opportunity Act authorized federal financing of up to 90 per cent of local antipoverty programs, including programs of legal help to the poor.

The conference, which will hear from Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach, Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, and Director Sargent Shriver of the Office of Economic Opportunity, is dedicated to encouraging lawyers to initiate and support such programs—even when the rewards will never be financial.

Insects Of Future To Find These Pills Most Repelling

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Some summer you may swallow a harmless pill — to make mosquitoes and other biting bugs avoid you like a plague.

The anti-bug pill hasn't arrived yet.

But scientists are actively trying to find one, with some hopes of success.

The pill would do something to your skin so a mosquito, tick, chigger or other pest would scram away. You would remain as socially acceptable as ever to other people, to dogs and cats and canaries.

This quest for an anti-bug drug, and better usual ways of repelling insects, were described today to the American Medical Association by a group of physicians and scientists.

They are mainly interested in preventing bugs from passing diseases on to humans — such as U.S. soldiers serving in tropical lands — but any progress would quickly benefit picnickers, bathers, gardeners and summertime porch sitters.

Now "we can envision a pill" that would repel mosquitoes and other insects, said Dr. Jacques L. Sherman of New York, describing research begun in 1962 under the U.S. Army's Research and Development Command.

Among major reasons for hope, he and others said, are:

A pill is known that clears up fungus diseases, like athlete's foot, by acting through the skin.

Some people naturally are more bug-proof than others — mosquitoes usually avoid them — and scientists have some clues as to why this is so.

A fair amount of knowledge has been found as to what seems to attract or repel blood-sucking insects — how they are governed in choosing their targets.

A few bug repellents do a fair job of making a mosquito go elsewhere.

Detailed research is going on to find why these work, and to turn up better ones. One trouble with usual repellents is that they don't last long, they rub off, are oily or smelly, or have other disadvantages.

A joint program of the University of California and Stanford Research Institute has proved what many people generally have thought — some of us are pretty unattractive to mosquitoes, said Dr. Howard I. Maibach of San Francisco.

Natural substances, from people that attract or repel bugs have been collected, tested for their effect, and are being chemically isolated, he said.

From this could come potent repellent defenses.

Treatment For Burns Developed

WASHINGTON (AP)— A potential life saving method of graphically mapping severely burned areas of the human body has been developed at Children's Hospital here, it was reported today.

The method involves injecting blue dye to allow quick distinction between dead tissue (third degree burns), which must be removed, and less severely burned areas which require no surgery.

Until now, a report from the hospital said, it often has been difficult to readily differentiate such areas in extensive burns, causing delays of two weeks or more in surgical removal of the dead skin and its replacement by grafts.

Meanwhile the patient is exposed to the risk of infection, the leading cause of death in severe burn cases.

Dr. Judson Randolph, a surgeon who helped develop the technique, said this is what happens when the dye is used:

Within seconds after injection, normal skin begins to turn green-blue, with the color reaching maximum intensity in 10 minutes.

Injured but still living skin (second degree burns) turns a brilliant blue within 10 to 30 minutes.

But the dead skin of third degree burns remains virtually untinted and sharply outlined against the other areas.

Thug Nabbed In Nogales

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP)—Donald Rainey, 40, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted men, was nabbed Tuesday as he tried to enter this country from Mexico.

Rainey and his son Gerald are charged in the $18,726 robbery of a Del Ray, Calif., bank last December.

The elder Rainey was on parole from a federal prison after serving eight years for robbing the same bank in 1956.

FBI agent William Soyars said Rainey surrendered without a struggle. He said Rainey was carrying a .38 caliber pistol and $11,000.

Gerland Rainey was arrested June 18 at Brownsville, Tex.

The Louisquisset Golf Club, North Providence, R.I., was the first public course in the nation to offer nighttime play, in 1964.

New Caparol
controls weeds in cotton at layby
without residue problems in crops planted next spring.

You can spray new Caparol* at layby for control of most annual broadleaf weeds and grasses, without fear of a soil residue carryover to harm crops planted in the spring of 1966. Just apply Caparol after your cotton is up six inches or more and before weeds are two inches high.

Spraying Caparol at layby will give you control until your cotton is up high enough to shade out any weeds that may germinate late in the summer. You can even apply Caparol where other herbicides have already been used and you find weeds breaking through.

Caparol is easy to handle and apply. Just direct the spray at the base of the cotton plants. You'll get quick knockdown of the young weeds and grasses. Then the action of Caparol continues to control weeds and grasses through the roots as they germinate for the next several weeks.

With Caparol on the job, you won't have weeds to compete for moisture and plant food. And you won't have rank weeds to foul up harvesting . . . to stain and downgrade lint.

So plan now to use Caparol at layby. It's available through your local supplier.
