Family Owned Coal Mine...

7 Die In Kentucky Mine Blast

CRAYNOR, Ky. (AP) — Teams of workers today pulled the last bodies from a family-owned coal mine where seven men, including four members of the family, were killed in a blast that a state official says may have been caused by coal-mining explosives.

It was the fourth mining disaster in the Appalachian coalfields in seven weeks. Thirty-one men have died.

"Oh Lord have mercy, Lord have mercy, what am I going to do?" cried Lilly Hamilton, who lost three sons and a grandson in Wednesday morning's blast, as she watched work crews. Her house stands down the hill from the mine that her four sons opened several years ago on the winding left fork of Mink Branch, a tributary of Mud Creek.

"Come on inside now, mother, there's nothing you can do for them out here," Chester Newsome, a relative, said he told the woman.

The coal at the RFH Mining Co.'s No. 1 Mine had been mined with explosives, an old-fashioned but relatively inexpensive technique that also had been used in a mine in nearby Topmost, Ky., where eight people were killed in an explosion last month. Officials have speculated the Topmost blast may have been caused by a coal-dust explosion as coal was being blasted from its seam.

One body was removed Wednesday and workers today pulled the remaining six from the mine on a foggy eastern Kentucky hillside.

State Mines and Minerals Commissioner Willard Stanley speculated explosives caused the blast.

The explosion fired debris hundreds of feet and spewed so much coal dust it blackened a hill facing the mine, said Mike Froman, who was on his way to the mine when yellow smoke began pouring from it.

Stanley said the type of explosive used was a "water gel," and he said he was baffled that "it would generate that much heat." Some explosive detonators were not in proper containers, Stanley said.

UMW President Sam Church, who arrived at the mine in a helicopter loaned by West Virginia Gov. Jay Rockefeller, called the accident a "carbon copy" of the Dec. 7 blast 20 miles away at Topmost, Ky., where eight miners were killed. Church had been in Charleston, W.Va., discussing mine safety with Rockefeller.

Church said he talked with Kentucky Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. by telephone Wednesday night and said the governor wanted "to see if there is some way we might have changes in our legislation" to ban the use of explosives in underground mines."

The blast killed brothers Burnis, Don and Jack Hamilton, along with Wade Hamilton, Palmer Edwin McKenny, Ronnie Hall and Thurman Reynolds. Wade Hamilton was the son of mine co-owner Purvis Hamilton.

Allard "Buster" Newsome, who operates a mine on the other side of the mountain, was among the first to arrive after the blast.

"We got there about three minutes later and ran into Purvis (Hamilton)," he said. "He said, 'Let's get the fan back on and get some air back there.' We then got the fan back on and waited for more men to come."

Stanley told the miners' relatives that three bodies were found together about 700 feet from the entrance to the mine. The other four were much deeper in the mine, he added.

The mine was contracted to remove the coal, which was owned by Elkhorn Coal Corp. of Wayland, Ky., a subsidiary of Ethyl Corp.

Everett Blanton, a brother-in-law to the Hamiltons, said the brothers had been mining for about two years and took good care of their mine.

Solidarity Members Defect

HOUSTON (AP) — Fourteen Solidary members, including seven who fled a Polish freighter docked at the Port of Houston, will plead for asylum at a meeting with regional Immigration and Naturalization Service officials, a city council member said.

Five sailors, members of the Polish labor union Solidarity, and two women passengers left the freighter Zabrze late Wednesday and took refuge in a restaurant owned by a Polish refugee.

Another Polish sailor who fled a ship docked here about a month ago and six others visiting here when martial law was declared Dec. 13 also will ask to remain in the United States, City Councilman Dale Gorzcynski said.

"They were all members of Solidarity and were very concerned about their personal safety," Gorzcynski said.

U.S. Blocks Sanctions

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Jordan and Syria are calling for an emergency General Assembly session to debate Israel's annexation of the Golan Heights because the United States vetoed a Security Council resolution calling for sanctions against the Jewish state.

Jordanian Ambassador Hazem Nuseibeh, who sponsored the sanctions resolutions, said after Wednesday's vote that he would ask the 15-nation council to convene the assembly session. The 157-nation assembly's Third World majority probably would censure Israel, but the assembly is not empowered to take punitive action against a member.

Documents To Be Kept Secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — Responding to comments from around the government, Reagan administration officials are considering keeping even more documents secret than they originally planned.

The new plans are contained in the second draft of a proposed presidential order which was obtained by The Associated Press on Wednesday. The order is designed to replace one issued in 1978 by then-President Carter to govern how and when officials can classify national security information as "top secret," "secret" or "confidential."

The second draft is based on comments that administration officials offered to a first draft written in October.

Diplomat Sees Begin

JERUSALEM (AP) — American diplomat Sol Linowitz brought Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin a message from Egyptian President Hosni Mubarek today as preparations continued for next week's Middle East visit by Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr.

The United States is hoping to speed up an Egyptian-Israeli agreement on self-rule for 1.3 million Palestinians living on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip. Haig visited both countries last week.

Linowitz, who met with Begin for 90 minutes today, is on what has been described officially as a private visit. Linowitz was President Jimmy Carter's envoy to the Palestinian autonomy talks, and he currently serves as Haig's special adviser on the Middle East.

UAW Talks May Still Continue

DETROIT (AP) — The surprising breakdown of emergency contract talks between the United Auto Workers and the nation's two biggest automakers may not mean an end to negotiations on contract concessions, according to UAW officials.

UAW President Douglas Fraser announced the halt of bargaining at General Motors Corp. shortly after noon Wednesday, saying the two sides were deadlocked on economic and job security issues. Late in the afternoon, the union's negotiating committee at Ford Motor Co. suspended contract talks at the No. 2 automaker.

Fraser refused to elaborate on why bargaining was halted, but the suspension of talks may have as much to do with internal UAW politics as with differences between the companies and the union bargainers.

UAW bargainers have to be sure any agreement arising from the talks will be palatable to the union membership, and a UAW faction opposing the current talks vowed Wednesday to continue its fight.

Donald Ephlin, UAW vice president and head of the union's Ford Department, said he expects the suspension of talks to be only temporary, at least at Ford.

"I assume that we will resume bargaining sometime soon," Ephlin told reporters at a news conference.

Fraser refused to close the door on continued bargaining at GM, saying the fate of the negotiations would be up to the union's GM and Ford bargaining councils when they meet Saturday in Washington.

"You have to ask yourself the question...are you better off going forward now or is it better to wait until September of 1982 to try to conclude an agreement?" Fraser said at a news conference at Ford headquarters.

"The odds are with going now" because of the economic uncertainty of the auto industry, he added.

"We're disappointed," Fraser said earlier at GM. "We wanted to work this agreement out. It's disappointing and regrettable."

The breakdown in bargaining came three days before a UAW-imposed deadline for the negotiations, in which Ford and GM are seeking wage and benefit reductions to become more competitive with foreign automakers.

The highly unusual talks began Jan. 11, six months before the traditional midsummer opening of negotiations. Current contracts are scheduled to expire Sept. 14.

Gold Coats To Select '82 Officers

The Snyder Gold Coats are scheduled to elect 1982 officers at a meeting set for noon Friday at the Snyder Country Club.

The Gold Coats are a greeting and hospitality organization within the Snyder Chamber of Commerce. They assist in hosting special events, greeting dignitaries and at ribbon-cuttings for openings of new buisness firms.

Needy Persons To Get Cheese

Officals of the People for Progress Community Action Agency in Sweetwater have announced the forthcoming availability of some 10,000 pounds of cheese to be distributed to needy residents of Scurry County.

According to Ed Kaul of the agency's Sweetwater office, the cheese, part of the several million pounds being given away by the federal government, is expected to arrive around the end of the month.

The Sweetwater office is responsible for arranging distribution of the cheese in Nolan, Mitchell, Fisher and Scurry Counties.

Since People for Progress has no office in Snyder, County Judge Preston Wilson's office will be in charge of setting up local distribution. According to the judge, no plans for local distribution of the cheese have been finalized as yet.

He expects to announce finalized distribution plans for Scurry County's share of the cheese when it arrives in about two weeks.

Distribution of the free cheese will be based on need. Families who think they might be eligible to receive some of this cheese will be required to furnish information on family size, gross family income, birth dates and social security numbers for all family members.

Rickover Turns Down Position

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. Hyman G. Rickover is turning down an offer to become President Reagan's adviser on civilian nuclear power matters because "he's not interested in being just a White House adviser," Reagan says.

The 82-year-old Rickover, known as the father of the U.S. Navy's nuclear fleet, finally is being retired at the end of this month after a naval career that has spanned some 60 years.

Reagan, during Tuesday's news conference, said, "He explained to me — and I could understand that — that that doesn't sound very much like what he'd be interested in."

The Pentagon announced on Nov. 13 that Reagan had approved a recommendation by Navy Secretary John Lehman that Rickover be replaced.

It may sound premature to be talking about Christmas decorations in January, but there probably is no better time than when it is fresh on everybody's mind.

When the street decorations here were hauled out last fall, many people noticed that improvements were needed. And when the chamber tried to replace burned out bulbs and learned that they would have to come from New Jersey, it became apparent that more lead time was needed.

So, they are starting now to prepare for the next Christmas season.

This is the system used by those involved in major annual events, such as the Tournament of Roses Parade, which precedes the Rose Bowl fooball game on New Year's Day. On Jan. 2, the designers and builders begin work on floats from the next one.

The Texas Tourist Development Agency has another example of the effects of inflation.

Travel increased by 15 percent throughout the country in 1981, the agency reported. This appeared to result in an 11 percent gain in receipts, which would have been tremendous.

However, when inflation was taken into account, they determined that real growth amounted to only one percent.

They look for a similar experience this year, but by 1983 the recession is expected to subside and clear the way for a larger increase for the tourist industry.

Last week's bitter cold spell prompted some rumors that perhaps Northern Electric Co. would re-evaluate its decision to close its automatic blanket plant here tomorrow. But they were nothing more than rumors.

Bill Warner, chamber of commerce manager, said he wondered himself if they might have had a "run" on electric blankets. He inquired and was told that they had millions of them in storage—enough to take care of many blizzards. The problem was that few were buying them during a mild fall season, especially during the Christmas shopping season.

Of course there may be a few more blizzards before this winter is over, and nobody knows how many will be moved before summer.

Higher Excise Taxes Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has decided on a 1983 budget plan that calls for higher excise taxes, the transfer of dozens of social programs to the states and the biggest deficit ever sent to Congress, administration sources report.

Afer meeting with his top economic advisers Wednesday, the president settled on a budget that would seek approximately $15 billion in new taxes to keep the projected deficit to about $75 billion, according to the sources, who did not want to be identified.

The sources said the new tax package would call for higher excise taxes on tobacco, alcohol and other consumer goods and the narrowing of a number of tax "loopholes."

The sources declined to be more specific about the tax proposals, saying some minor changes were possible over the next few days. They said the president planned to disclose his major budget proposals next Tuesday in his State of the Union message to Congress.

At News Conference...

President Gives Wrong Information

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan made errors at his news conference on Pentagon spending, the steel industry, abortion, employment statistics, the "marriage penalty tax," interest rates and an Arizona program to feed elderly people.

In Tucson, the director of a program to feed the elderly poor, said the president was misinformed when he said Pima County saved $50,000 by cutting out administrative help and "doing it with volunteers."

"There is nothing that has been saved in overhead," said Frances Freeman, director of the South Park Area Council program. She said her payroll was $27,000 for four employees last year and $632 less for four employees this year.

Reagan spotlighted Pima County twice in six days as an example of better service at lower cost once federal strings are removed. The county had been spending $57,000 with only $3,000 of that going for food, the president said.

"They are now doing it with volunteers," he said at his news conference Tuesday. "They are spending $6,000 in food, feeding twice as many people, and it only costs $6,000 not $57,000." Last Thursday, in a New York speech, the president mentioned the county by name and gave the spending figure as $53,000 and the saving as $47,000.

Mrs. Freeman said she is feeding about 30 more people than last year because two other programs to feed the elderly have lost funds. Mrs. Freeman did not say how many recipients there were, but county supervisor Conrad Joyner put the number at 50 to 85.

She could not cite the exact amount of the grant, whether it was $53,000 or $57,000, but said she spent $7,000 or $8,000 for food.

Of the president's reference to the doubling from $3,000 to $6,000 she said, "This wasn't true."

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said he did not know the circumstances of the Arizona program.

Other erroneous statements made by the president Tuesday:

—"We're spending a smaller percentage of the gross national product on the military than has been spent in many, many years past in peacetime," Reagan said.

A Defense Department chart projects spending in the current fiscal year at 5.7 percent of the gross national product. It shows the percentage for fiscal 1981 at 5.5 percent, for 1980 at 5.2 percent, for 1979 and 1978 at 5 percent, for 1977 at 5.2 percent and for 1976 at 5.4 percent.

Speakes said the president was referring to the pre-Vietnam War years. Defense Department spending in the 1959-1962 fiscal years was near or over 9 percent of GNP and the peak during the war was 9.4 percent.

—"I know that the entire steel industry has a multibillion dollar expansion plan and they have personally informed me that they are ready to go forward with this plan."

But Sheldon Wesson of the American Iron and Steel Institute said: "He used the word expansion too loosely. These are essentially modernization plans, although when you modernize there can also be expansion in terms of tonnage output." Said Bob Nickels of Chase Econometrics in Bala-Cynwyd, Pa., an industry analyst: "I'm unaware of billion dollar plans for expansion."

The Institute says steelmakers have announced plans to spend $6.1 billion in capital projects since Reagan's election but analysts said some of those projects would have been announced no matter who is president, given the industry's aging plants and stiff overseas competition.

Speakes said "there was a report sometime back that indicated many steel plants were planning expansion in anticipation of the president's economic program."

—"People today have a lower interest rate than they had when we started."

at wits end

Hey, I've got a new face for Mt. Rushmore.

It's Frances Gabe, a 67-year-old woman from Oregon who, in 1981, uttered those immortal words, "For God's sake, why should women waste half their lives cleaning the house?"

This living legend has backed up her words with action by creating the first self-cleaning house, a feat that a lot of us talk about, but never really pull off.

Ms. Gabe has applied for 68 patents on devices in her self-cleaning house. Her floors, doors, walls, and ceilings are coated with a resin finish and her floors are sloped to all four corners so that all she has to do is spray 'em with soap, water them down and blow them dry.

She has no carpets.

Ashes in the fireplace are hosed down a drain.

Pots and pans are self-cleaning.

And instead of wasting time loading a dishwasher and unloading it, she has a dishwasher cupboard.

She also has a laundry cupboard where the clothes are washed and dried right on the hangers.

I don't know about the rest of you, but I'd be willing to conduct a telethon for the cure of Domestic Bondage. Or at least get some research in motion. Ms. Gabe is a beginning, but we've got a long way to go.

We need a communications system between every house in the country and a grocery store of their choice so that all we have to do is put our order into a computer and a conveyer belt will send the food right into our kitchens.

We need drip-dry children.

We need a wrinkle-eradicator stall where you step into it with your clothes on, push a button and come out wrinkle-free.

We need a hand-wash machine...a couple of little hands that gently squeeze sweaters and hose and roll them in a towel for drying.

How about a leftover that self-destructs, with a timer on it you can set for 30 days, 60 days or a lifetime?

I'd like to see a food detector that would beep and light up every time your kids took food in a room where it wasn't supposed to be.

I think we're onto something, folks. Let's all get behind this cause and perpetuate the ideals and principles set down by Frances Gabe.

I tell you I haven't been so excited since I put a sign over my oven: "THANK YOU FOR NOT SMOKING."

Searches Will Be Allowed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texans stopped for traffic offenses are subject to complete searches, including a police check of their wallets, according to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

In a 6-3 decision Wednesday, the court ruled against Donald Snyder of Houston, who said his drug possession conviction was based on evidence illegally taken from his wallet by a policeman during a traffic stop.

Judge Marvin Teague's dissent said his colleagues' decision allows complete searches of "hapless motorists" stopped for the "most petty of traffic offenses."

The majority of the court, in an opinion written by Judge Tom Davis, said the search was legal because it was "incident to a lawful arrest."

Teague disagreed, saying Officer L.D. Garrison's reasons for looking into Snyder's wallet were "incredible." Garrison testified he wanted to see if there was a lot of money in it because "if it is not a payday, he could have acquired that large amount of money by some other means."

Garrison also said he wanted to check for weapons — "razor blades, needles or even a key for handcuffs."

Teague said he "cannot subscribe to a principle of law that when any motorist is arrested for committing a breach of our traffic laws, that person becomes subject to a full body search, as well as a complete and thorough search of items of personal property found on his person."

Cowboy Fills Evenings With Embroidery Work

By BILL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

FAIRVIEW, Okla. (AP) — Shorty Rose is all cowboy, from the battered belt hat that shades the frizzled, bronzed face to the well-worn, pointytoed boots that shuffle through the dust of this northwestern Oklahoma town.

But in the evening he doesn't go honky-tonking or swap lies with other men who once bounced aboard the wild stock in the rodeos. Instead, he returns to his trailer home to catch up on his prize-winning crocheting or embroidery.

"I can't keep up with it," he drawls. "I sell everything I make. I even have it sold before I make it. I've got three tablecloths yet to make, including this one here that's 60 by 108 inches."

James H. Rose, 66, — "Everybody just knows me as 'Shorty'" — is a former rodeo bull rider, coal miner, farmer, railroad and dairy worker who is now employed at the Fairview Sales Barn, where weekly cattle auctions are held. He says he doesn't see anything unusual about his hobby.

"I know a lot of people call it 'woman's work,' but I can do it better than most women," he says.

And he has the prizes to back up the boast, including the first-place blue ribbon from this year's Major County Fair for his hand-embroidered tablecloth.

"I've won the blue ribbon the past five years," he says with a chuckle. "This one ole gal came up to me and said, 'I'll be glad when you quit competing so I can get a chance to win.' But I'm going to keep right on as long as I can.

"And I don't ever use a thimble, either," he says. "They just get in the way. But a needle sure does make the end of my finger full of holes."

Rose's winning ways aren't confined to the county fair, either. "I won first in Oklahoma City at the State Fair for my embroidery work and first place in Seattle, Wash., for my crocheting.

"I've got a pair of pillow cases that I made that are in Ireland now. I won first on them at the fair and gave them to a lady and she took them to Ireland. She's a school teacher over there."

He says he got started on his handiwork "back in the '50s" while working as a drawbridge operator for the Northern Pacific Railroad in Washington.

"I just started piddling around, crocheting, embroidering. It was just something to keep me busy," he said.

Rose says it will take him about three weeks — "working part time, in the evenings and on the weekends" — to embroider the big tablecloth he's working on. When it's finished, he says he'll sell it "for about $50," or just $20 more than the materials cost.

"I don't charge much for my work, just enough to buy something else," he says.

Opening lead: ♥9

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

The defense started with three rounds of hearts. South ruffed the third lead high and drew trumps.

When they broke 2-2 South saw that if East held the king of diamonds he had a cinch end play against him.

Of course, the end play and the whole hand would collapse if West held that red king, but South had a lot of faith in the soundness of East's bidding.

As South explained after the hand was over, "If West held his nibs, I would have come out with egg all over my face."

South cashed dummy's ace of clubs, led a club to his king and ruffed his last club. Then came the end play.

He led dummy's last heart. East covered and now South discarded his three of diamonds.

Poor East was right between one of those rocks and hard places. If he led his last heart, South would chuck his seven of diamonds and ruff in dummy. If he led a diamond, South would let it ride around to dummy's queen.

Either way, South had given away a heart trick to get rid of two diamond losers.

Beta Sigma Phi Plans Valentine Dance

Twenty members of Lambda Kappa chapter of Beta Sigma Phi were present at 7:30 Tuesday night for a regular meeting at the Martha Ann Woman's Club. Donna Fowler, first vice president, presided in the absence of Wanda Early. Donna announced that the International Beta Sigma Phi office has sent word of two transfer members who have moved to Snyder and these ladies will be contacted soon. Carolyn House, treasurer, gave a mid-year financial report to the chapter, and Nancy Ballinger, service chairman, informed members that Jackie Buckland has recently had surgery on her wrist. Carolyn Limmer discussed plans for decorations at the chapter's annual Valentine Dance which will be held Satuarday, Feb. 6, at the National Guard Armory from 9 until 12. Tickets are priced at $12.50 per couple and can be obtained by calling any Beta Sigma Phi member or 573-5970. Dena Ellis, last year's Valentine Queen, conducted a secret ballot vote to elect the 1982 Queen whose name will be revealed at the dance. Others giving reports before the end of the meeting were Mona Bryan, Laura Greene, and Judy Smith. Hostesses for the evening were Gloria Myers and Twila Polk. The hostess gift was won by Carlyon Glaze.

The evening's cultural program was presented by Donna Fowler. Her topic was "Goals and Training." Mrs. Fowler first passed a list of questions, asking each member to take one and then give an impromptu answer stating her opinion. Questions dealt with career choices, personal goals, family goals, and strength of character in achieving goals. Mrs. Fowler quoted Cicero, Greek philosopher, when she began her remarks by stating, "From the beginning, prepare. This is the form for a good ending." She shared several personal anecdotes and observations with the group before closing with another quote, "To thine own self be true."

Beta Sigma Phi's next meeting will be Feb. 2 when a guest speaker will address the group on diet and nutrition. Program chairman for the evening will be Carlyon Glaze and hostesses will be Wanda Early and Cyndee Gayle.

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to your reply to "Had It in Altoona," the woman whose husband (Pete) beat her up.

I am the director of M.E.N. Inc., a counseling program in Juneau, Alaska, for men who are violent in their intimate relationships. Pete was not only violent, he also lied about his violence and denied responsibility for his behavior. This is characteristic of abusive men; it is difficult for them to admit they are hurting someone they love.

It is tempting to call Pete and other men "sick" and "mentally deranged." This is only one of the myths that surround domestic violence. The fact is, violence has very little correlation to mental illness. Violence is one of the ways (and certainly one of the most negative and dangerous ways) that men have learned to cope with stress.

Abby, you're right. Pete needs help. But he doesn't need help for a mental illness; he needs help in accepting responsibility for his violent behavior, and learning more positive ways of coping with stress.

WALTER MAJOROS

DEAR WALTER: Thank you. But Pete cut his wife's fingertips with scissors, threw her down the stairs and beat her over the head with a telephone, causing a concussion and a gash that required 22 stitches to close! Perhaps "counseling" to teach him more appropriate ways to cope with stress is all Pete needs, but I would also insist on a psychiatric evaluation. If this man is not a dangerous psychopath, he certainly behaves like one.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Is there such a thing as "Hookers Anonymous"? We have a daughter living in L.A. who is trying to quit. She's been seeing a psychologist for some time. However, the combination of an expensive lifestyle, an expensive psychologist and the continuing temptation of "easy" money is hard to beat.

If she could talk to others in the same boat, it might help her. If there is no such thing, there should be. Right? Answer in your column, please.

CONCERNED PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: There's a support group for nearly every kind of problem afflicting the human condition, so if there isn't a Hookers Anonymous, there should be.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I always pay my paperboy by check because I think it's dangerous for a 12-year-old boy to carry cash these days.

I make the check out to the newspaper in case the check is stolen or lost; that way nobody else can cash it. Also, by having the check ready, I never have to ask the paperboy to come back because "I don't have the money," or whatever excuses people use.

You may find this worth passing on to your readers.

JOLENE IN ANN ARBOR

DEAR JOLENE: It's well worth passing on. Most people don't realize that a newspaper carrier is in business for himself. He pays for the newspapers when he picks them up, and if his customers move without paying what they owe him, the loss is his. So here's a plea to all you subscribers. Please pay your carrier promptly!

Adult Classes Set To Begin

Persons who have not finished high school but wish to continue their formal education are invited to enroll. There is no charge, and the basic supplies are furnished.

The adult education program prepares adults for the graduate equivalent degree (GED), which not only enhances their qualifications for employment, but also makes it possible for them to continue their education at the college level.

Registration will begin at 6:30 p. m. this evening in the Learning Resources Building on the WTC campus.

For Pre-Martial Law Activities...

Polish Intellectuals Under Fire

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Poland's intellectuals, the firebrands of the Solidarity reform movement, are under constant official attack for their actions during the 16 months of crisis that preceded the martial law crackdown.

"Quite a number of people from the creative milieu were dominated by some incomprehensible masochism," Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Rakowski said, scolding intellectuals at a recent meeting.

"Total criticism of almost everything that arose in people's Poland has become like a new religion," said Rakowski, an ex-newspaper editor and intellectual himself who has become a critic of his colleagues.

Rakowski blamed intellectuals for remaining "silent when they should have shouted" and "permitting the dismantling of the Polish state."

His speech was the first in what has become a series of government attacks on the thinkers who inspired the now-suspendened Solidarity labor movement.

"Some observers believe the official criticism of intellectuals for pushing Solidarity toward a clash with authorities, or failing to head off such a confrontation, is an attempt to block a reunion of labor and intellectuals after martial law is lifted.

The state media reserved particular wrath for Jacek Kuron, Karol Modzelewski and Adam Michnik, intellectuals who belonged to the dissident Committee for Social Self-Defense, or KOR, and served as key advisers to Solidarity leaders.

But in some cases intellectuals are taking advantage of the new situation to attack each other, suggesting that behind the charges of ignoring reality there may be more than a touch of personal backbiting.

Polish film director Czeslaw Petelski, in a recent interview with the official PAP news agency, criticized his colleagues for not sensing "where the (Solidarity) leaders' addiction to politics would lead them.

"It is especially unpleasant for us that an artist of the calibre of Andrzej Wajda turned out to be the most zealous advocate of extremist tendencies," Petelski said, attacking his rival, Wajda, the director best-known outside Poland.

In addition to the intellectuals, students and their professors also have come under attack from the martial law regime.

Youth...

Follows In Houdini's Steps

SOUTHINGTOXX½ (AP) — Mark Mazzarella says he's well known across Europe, but, in the United States, even his neighbors across the street don't know what he does.

Like swallowing 100 needles. Or escaping from a small tank filled with about 50 gallons of water — after first getting out of a straitjacket and leg chains. Then there's walking through brick walls. Or making an elephant disappear.

His neighbors could probably get a hint from the giant tripod-like apparatus set up on his parents' backyard patio from which he's lowered by his ankles into a bigger tank. They no doubt wonder about what goes on in a garage that was magically erected almost overnight, that's always locked up, and never seems to hold a car.

Recently the 21-year-old Mazzarella made an elephant disappear. "Even we didn't believe it," he says of this latest feat that has taken a year of planning.

The elephant, one that was not quite full grown, stepped onto a roofed platform set a few inches above a Connecticut college stage. Curtains covered the platform and it was rotated four times.

The curtains opened. The elephant was gone. Mazzarella says the trick can be performed on a stage completely surrounded by an audience.

When Mark Mazzarella was 10 years old, his two older brothers would tie him up playing cowboys and Indians. "I always managed to free myself," he said. Then one day he saw a Tony Curtis movie on Harry Houdini, and he was hooked.

He went to the library and took out books on Houdini. By 14, he says he had read them all. He would come home from school and go to the basement and spend hours and hours perfecting ricks.

Inmate Convicted Of Fellow Prisoner Murder

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Inmate Richard Chapman, portrayed by a prosecutor as a merciless killer, has been convicted of killing a fellow prisoner during the Feb. 2-3 riot at the New Mexico State Penitentiary.

A district court jury here late Wednesday found Chapman guilty of first-degree murder for the slaying of prisoner Donald James Gossens during the two days of rioting that shook the state's largest penal institution nearly two years ago.

In closing arguments, prosecutors told the jury Chapman had beaten Gossens to death and had driven a spike through an eye of the victim. Assistant District Attorney Jerry Herrera described the slaying of Gossens as "sadistic and savage."

The 12-member jury deliberated about 5½ hours before returning the guilty verdict. The state did not seek the death penalty in the case. Chapman, who is already serving a life term for murder and robbery and an additional five years for escape from the New Mexico Penitentiary in 1979, could receive an additional 30 years in prison.

Chapman, 27, also must still stand trial for the slaying of another inmate, Larry Smith, during the riot. In that case, which is scheduled to go to trial March 1, the state is seeking the death penalty.

Chapman becomes the second inmate convicted by a jury of a riot-related killing. Last year, prisoner Moises Sandoval was convicted of a similar charge. Two other inmates have been acquitted and several others have pleaded guilty to charges resulting from the bloody uprising.

During the trial the prosecution had built its case on the testimony of other inmates who said they had witnessed the killing of Gossens during the riot and identified Chapman as one of the assailants.

The defense rested without calling a single witness. Instead, defense attorneys Mark Donatelli and Richard Winterbottom tried to discredit the testimony of the inmates who testified against Chapman, either by pointing out inconsistencies in their statements to police or by noting that some inmates had benefited from their willingness to testify for the state in riot-related cases.

Persons Should Be On The Lookout For Books

GENEVA, N.Y. (AP) — You may not be able to judge the value of a book by its cover, but don't rule out its title page, copyright date, binding or foreedge illustration, advises Susan Mottu, catalog librarian at Hobart & William Smith Colleges here.

"Rare books can be found almost anywhere," says the 30-year-old Pittsburgh native, who has a master's degree in library science from the University of Pittsburgh. "People should check their attics, basements, closets and bookshelves. Searching for valuable old books can be easy and fun if you know what you are looking for."

Ms. Mottu became proficient at discovering old and valuable editions while serving an internship at the famous Carnegie Library in Pittsburgh. Her assignment was to locate rare books that had been overlooked at the library, some for as many as 50 years. She pored through card catalogs and reference stacks, and determined which books should be isolated with a view toward having the library create its own special rare-book areas.

"The first thing people should look for if they think they've found a rare book is the title page," she points out. "That's where you are likely to locate the copyright date. A very old date — say before 1700 — would mean the volume is probably valuable. But generally, an old date does not always indicate great value, while a more recently copyrighted volume — even some after 1900 — could have significant value."

The next step, notes Ms. Mottu, is to look at the edition number on the title page. Generally, a first edition is the most valuable because it represents the exact way the author wanted the manuscript to appear, while later editions indicate that the type was reset and significant changes may have been made.

In addition, many books are commonly recognized as existing in limited numbers because copies have been lost or destroyed over time, while others are "artificially scarce" due to a limited run of numbered copies.

Need Books For Play

The theatre department at Western Texas College is in need of hardback books to be used in a new set under construction, Jim Rambo, director, said.

The books cannot be returned, Rambo emphasized, so they should be books the owners plan to discard. Paperback books are not suitable for the project.

Persons who have books to donate are asked to call Rambo's office at 573-8511, extension 233, or to take them to the campus.

Gunmen Kill Several Persons In Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — Gunmen killed an evangelist and a bedridden hospital patient as the latest round of political violence in Guatemala left 14 people dead, authorities say.

Several gunmen burst into a hospital room and fired a fatal volley of bullets at Mario Lopez Lara, who was recovering from a bullet wound he suffered last week, police said Monday. The incident occurred Sunday in Cuilapa, 40 miles southeast of the capital.

In Peten province, police said gunmen killed Rodolfo Lemus as the traveling preacher conducted a religious ceremony.

McWilliams Becomes Sole Owner

Jerry McWilliams has purchased the interest of Rayburn Burgess to become sole owner of Burgess-McWilliams Pharmacy, 3706 College Ave.

McWilliams, who has been associated with the store for the past 17 years, said the name of the firm will remain unchanged for the present.

The store was opened here 25 years ago by Roy and Rayburn Burgess. McWilliams, who was reared at Silverton, joined the staff in 1965 following his graduation from pharmacy school at Southwestern Oklahoma State. The firm erected a new building in 1966, and McWilliams purchased the interest of Roy Burgess in 1971.

"I had heard that the Burgesses were looking for another pharmacist while I was still in college, and I wrote them," said McWilliams. "When I graduated, I came down and Rayburn took me around town to introduce me to business people. I was so impressed by the attitude of the business leaders here, especially those in other pharmacies, that I fell for Snyder immediately. I knew it was the kind of town I wanted to live in."

McWilliams and his wife, Paula, have two sons. Trey is a junior in Snyder High School and Mike is an eighth grader in junior high.

CB Radios Help In Emergencies

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "Breaker, Breaker. This is an emergency."

The call for help, over a CB radio, may be from a family stranded with an empty gas tank; from a motorist suddenly confronted by three or four cows on the highway; or from a driver involved in an accident.

Chances are good that the plea will be intercepted by someone like James Cozine, a member of one of the many volunteer organizations monitoring Channel 9 in Kentucky.

"We receive all kinds of messages," said Cozine. "We try to screen them as much as possible to keep state police from making unnecessary runs. If the plea is legitimate, it's passed along to the proper agency and assistance is on the way in a matter of minutes."

Cozine, superintendent of the Frankfort Cemetery, keeps his citizens-band radio in his office. Other volunteers maintain CBs in their homes.

"Our club tries to cover the county," he said. "We begin listening at 4 a.m. and shut down about 1 a.m. Ordinarily, the range for a CB is five miles but when atmospheric conditions are right, you'd be surprised at the stories you hear."

The new contract will run through June 30, 1985.

Also, the annual trustee election has been officially set for April 3.

The full terms are for the places now held by Doug Foster, Jerry Ganaway and Dub Kimzey. The other post is now held by Jay Roemisch, who was appointed to serve until the election this year.

Snyder Police Arrest Man

The suspect is expected to be charged with the Dec. 28 theft of some tools owned by Jal Dennis of Snyder.

In other routine action, local law officers investigated three minor traffic mishaps in the city Wednesday.

Around 8 a.m. Wednesday, the 3000 block of College Avenue was the scene of a minor accident involving a 1970 Chevrolet driven by Anthony Allan Daves of 1407 31st St. and a parked 1976 Chevrolet van owned by the Friendly Flower Shop at 3001 College.

Only minor damages were reported in this mishap.

Around 4 p.m., a 1976 Chevrolet driven by Betty June Carroll of 5400 College Avenue struck a parked 1982 Cadillac owned by Rudy J. Kubena of Rt. 2, Hermleigh. Only minor damages were reported to both vehicles in this accident in the 2600 block of Avenue Q.

Wednesday's last accident occurred in the 1100 block of 26th St. around 7:20 p.m. Involved in this mishap were a 1976 Oldsmobile driven by Francis Helen Martinez of 811 34th St. and a 1980 Pontiac driven by Milo Garcia of Snyder.

No injuries were reported in this mishap but both vehicles sustained moderate to extensive damages and had to be towed from the scene.

The aging mind

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a female, weigh 112 pounds and am 5-feet-2. For a couple of years I have had confusion and poor memory. This is worse when I get up in the morning. My doctor gave me niacin and that helps for most of the time. However, when I am under stress and particularly need to think clearly, I'm worse.

You have mentioned in your column that something can be done for that. I feel it has to do with circulation, as my feet are icy cold. I've been sleeping with thermal socks and underwear for the past year.

Now I have a painful leg which bothers me mostly when it gets cold until I can hardly walk on it. I have made repeated trips to my doctor but he thinks nothing is wrong. He doesn't see me when I first get up or when I am under stress.

DEAR READER — It is difficult to say from your letter how much of a problem you really have. In any case it is a concern to you. Everyone forgets things; it is the degree that counts.

There are a number of diseases that cause poor memory. Everyone thinks of senility or Alzheimer's disease that causes premature senility from unknown causes. About one in five persons labeled as "senile" has an underlying medical cause. These causes include an underactive thyroid, drugs, too much insulin as in the diabetic taking insulin, a disturbance in salt and water balance and, of course, changes in circulation to the brain.

You should ask your doctor to refer you to a neurologist. You need a careful neurological examination to see if there is an underlying cause, including plugged arteries that supply your brain. Your story about your legs could be significant but I am sure your doctor has felt your arteries in your thigh and may think that is not a problem.

Yes, you can improve your memory by training and you can adopt a lifestyle that helps to avoid some of the changes seen with advancing years. I am sending you The Health Letter number 14-2, The Aging Mind, that discusses this for you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — On my last visit my doctor told me I had herpes virus in my mouth. My entire mouth was sore and skinned inside my jaws. I've heard this is a form of "bad disease" contracted by physical contact. I'm 73, never married and I certainly have not been even near a questionable character. I'm a typical maiden lady who is crippled with arthritis and I only go out to see my doctor, to church and to the grocery store. My doctor was vague but he did give me penicillin and have me gargle. The condition was gone in 10 days. Please enlighten me.

DEAR READER — It is a bad disease all right but that doesn't mean venereal disease. You probably have herpes virus type 1. It causes the "cold sores" people complain about. It is transmitted by physical contact but that means kissing, which you may have done even as a baby.

The infection often begins in childhood and the viruses live in nerve roots for life, occasionally migrating to the skin or in your case, mouth, to produce such problems.

The herpes virus type 2 is often associated with sexual transmission. Incidentally, be careful with such sores in your mouth as you can touch them and transmit the viruses to your fingers.

Upset Time As WTC Host Chaparrals Tonight

Midland College's Chaparrals, a team many believe will be the next Western Junior College Athletic Conference champion, will try to hold off an upset-minded Westerners squad here tonight in Scurry County Coliseum.

Game time is 8 o'clock.

The Chaps feature 1980-81 All-Region standout Puntus Wilson, who averages 23.5 points and 9.7 rebounds a game. Wilson is aided in Midland's 87.9 per game scoring clip by Anthony Webb, who averages 18.6, and Chester Smith, who averages 13.7.

Western Texas College's Coach Larry Dunaway calls the Chaps "awesome".

"They are the quickest team in the conference and they have two of the three leading rebounders in the conference. When you have those two things you've got to have a good team," said Dunaway. "Wilson is sure to be first-team All-American. He's a great player. He scored 45 points in one game this year (vs New Mexico Junior College). He's the catapult. Without him, Midland would be just another good team. But he makes it all work. The other thing that makes them such a good team is depth. They have probably 12 players that could start for any team in the conference."

Dunaway realizes his Westerners will be the underdog tonight, and that beating the Chaps will take an exceptional game.

"Like Midland, we have a good supporting cast, but we don't have that one great player," said Dunaway. "We're going up against a team that has great quickness and rebounds well. Our two main weaknesses are our ball handling and rebounding, so that tells you we could be in trouble," he added.

"We'll have to try to slow the tempo of the game down and play a disciplined game so their quickness doesn't eat us up."

Midland, 15-5 for the season and 6-1 in conference play, is hitting .476 from the floor and .667 from the freethrow line. In addition to scoring 87.9 points per game, the Chaps are allowing 80.3.

Western is 10-10 and 2-5. The Westerners are led in scoring by Darren Lee with 19.6 points and 8.6 boards, and by Derrick Grow, 14.3 points, and Dwayne Hunt, 13.6 points.

The Westerners are shooting .530 from the floor and .662 from the stripe; averaging 78.3 points offensively and allowing 76.9.

Coaching the Chaps is Jerry Stone.

PLAY HERE TONIGHT – Western Texas College's Westerners entertain Midland College at 8 tonight in Scurry County Coliseum. Midland is 15-5 for the season and 6-1 in conference play. WTC is 10-10 and 2-5. Above, Derrick Grow works the ball against a non-conference opponent. (SDN Staff Photo)

Ector Next Foe For Tigers

For the boys, Friday's games mark the start of round-two District 2-AAAA action. Andrews, with a 71-60 win over Snyder on Tuesday, claimed the round-one championship. Snyder, Ector and Lamesa all tied for second place with 6-2 records.

Ector boys, who play the host role Friday, are 11-11 for the season. Snyder boys are 18-5.

In first-round play, Snyder defeated the Eagles 61-41 in Snyder. In that game, held Dec. 22, D.W. Lofton, James Caldwell and Riley Kitchens all landed in double digits for the Tigers.

Tony Gamble, a good outside shooter, scored 12 for the Eagles. Freddy Pierce hit 8 and Charles Ricks scored 7.

Snyder's girls will entertain Ector's Eaglettes in SHS Gymnasium. The Felines are 9-11 and 1-1 in second-round loop play.

In the previous girls game, Ector won 47-37 in Odessa. Stinson led the Eaglettes with 24 points. Michelle Townsel led Snyder with 13.

Friday's games will be preceded by a pair of junior varsity tilts at 6:15. The varsity games are scheduled for 8.

Gardner To A&M

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Alfonso Gardner, a three-year reserve defensive lineman for Florida A&M, was arrested on charges of using stolen credit cards, Tallahassee police said.

Gardner is the third FAMU player arrested during the past 12 months by Tallahassee police. During that period, eight football players from neighboring Florida State University also have been arrested in Tallahassee in a variety of incidents.

Richardson Back On Familiar Court

Bradley Richardson, son of former Western Texas College coach Nolan Richardson, may be wearing a different jersey, but he'll be playing in familiar surroundings tonight.

Richardson, who still holds the high jump record at Snyder High School, will be playing for Coach Jerry Stone's Midland College Chaparrals when they take the floor against Western Texas at 8 p.m.

Richardson competed for SHS in both basketball and track while his father was coach here from 1977-78 through 1979-80. He still holds a high jump record of 7-0, which he cleared enroute to a state title in 1980.

As a starter for Snyder's 1979-80 state semi-finals basketball team, Richardson competed in Scurry County Coliseum many times.

Richardson moved with his family when his father took the head basketball coaching job at Tulsa in 1980.

NCAA Nixes Hardship For TU's David Brown

TULSA, Okla. (AP) - The National Collegiate Athletic Association has refused to issue a hardship ruling for Tulsa forward David Brown, who injured a knee in an early season game.

Brown, a 6-foot-8 senior, was leading the Hurricane in scoring and rebounding before injuring his left knee in the first minute of Tulsa's sixth regular season game Dec. 12.

Tulsa has gone on to post a 12-2 record and is No. 10 in the country without Brown. A hardship ruling would have allowed the El Paso, Texas, standout an extra year of eligibility if he sat out the rest of the season.

Brown attempted to resume practice Friday, but fell during the workout and is back to doing therapeutic exercises, Coach Nolan Richardson said.

Tulsa officials have not speculated when Brown might return to the lineup.

The Missouri Valley Conference prepared a letter Tuesday informing Tulsa the request for a hardship ruling had been denied.

The NCAA rule states the player seeking the ruling cannot play in more than 20 percent of the regularly scheduled games. That percentage of Tulsa's schedule would be 5.4 games, which the NCAA rounds to six.

Seemingly, that would have made Brown eligible for the ruling since he played in six regular season games, including a few seconds of the game in which he was injured.

But the NCAA also counted an exhibition contest against Estonia of Toronto.

"It would be a countable game," said Valley Commissioner Dick Martin. "In fact, any scrimmage with outside competition is countable within the 20 percent limitation.

Sherrill Eases A&M Tension

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - New Texas A&M football coach Jackie Sherrill apparently put a meeting with his players to good advantage, easing much of the resentment the team felt over the way Sherrill was hired.

Sherrill agreed to leave the University of Pittsburgh for A&M on Tuesday, the same day Tom Wilson finally was fired as Aggie football boss.

Wilson was kept dangling while school officials negotiated with Sherrill and Michigan coach Bo Schembechler, and several players expressed resentment at the way the change was handled.

But they seemed mollified after Wednesday's hour-long meeting with Sherrill.

"You can tell right off he's definitely one of the best in the business," quarterback Gary Kubiak said Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting followed Sherrill's first press conference since being hired as A&M's coach and athletic director. He declined at that conference to state the terms of his contract.

University President Dr. Frank Vandiver said Sherrill would be paid $95,000 annually by the school but declined to be specific about money from other sources.

Sherrill said he regretted the circumstances of his arrival and Wilson's departure, only two months after Vandiver assured Wilson he would coach the Aggies in the 1982 season.

"I did not create the situation," Sherrill said. "There is nothing I can do about it. All I can do is work to rectify it by being a very straightforward, straight shooter and bring this program some integrity."

Wilson's firing antagonized Aggie grads across the state. The day before Wilson's dismissal, the powerful Houston A&M Club adopted a resolution condemning A&M Regents chairman H.R. "Bum" Bright and supporting Wilson by a 96 percent vote.

Sherrill said his contract was a six-year contract which would be renewed at the end of every year. Vandiver said Sherrill's salary is not out of line.

Sherrill said he hoped to announce his coaching staff by the weekend. He said he will bring some coaches with him from Pittsburgh and confirmed he hopes to hire University of Southern California defensive coordinator R.C. Slocum.

Back To Chicago...

'Destiny' Drawing Ditka

CHICAGO (AP) - Destiny, Mike Ditka said, brought him back to Chicago. But how long he stays on as the Bears' new head coach likely will depend on how well he succeeds in transplanting the Dallas Cowboys' offense to the colder climates of the North.

"I'm not going to do everything (Dallas) Coach (Tom) Landry did," Ditka said at a Wednesday news conference announcing that he had been hired as Neill Amrstrong's successor. "I can't be all things to all people."

But Ditka acknowledged that his nine years as an assistant coach on Landry's staff taught him "what an organization has to sacrifice" to be successful. And he added that he would begin familiarizing the Bears' personnel with the system next month and expect the players to report to training camp "with a pretty good understanding of what we expect from them.

"I'm a believer in the multiple offense. It keeps the defense off balance," said Ditka. "If the defense knows what we're going to do, they'll beat me."

Owner George Halas, who has expanded his own involvement in the National Football League club since the Bears' disappointing 6-10 finish last season, said with the appointment of Ditka, "the game plan I had been working on is now complete."

Ditka, 42, viewed his return to Chicago as "a situation that was meant for me. Everybody has their destiny and mine is in Chicago."

After being drafted in the first round in 1961 out of Pitt, where he earned All-America honors his senior year, Ditka achieved instant success with the Bears.

He went on to win Rookie-of-the-Year honors and was selected All-Pro three times during his six years in Chicago, playing a pivotal role on the Bears' last championship team in 1963. The next year, he set an NFL record for a tight end by catching 75 passes, a mark that stood until Kellen Winslow of San Diego broke it last year.

Ditka moved on to the Philadelphia Eagles for the 1967 and 1968 seasons, closing out his playing days with the Cowboys.

Ditka, who said he would not have taken the job unless he was offered a three-year contract, said he plans to meet with the coaching staff in the next week.

Ditka added that he would "set realistic goals to measure the team's success."

Bobby Collins Brings Six

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) - Six assistant football coaches at the University of Southern Mississippi said Wednesday that they would follow head Coach Bobby Collins to his new job at Southern Methodist University.

Leaving Hattiesburg for new jobs in Dallas will be Bill Clay, defensive coordinator; Jeff Bower, quarterback coach; Milo McCarthy, running back coach, Bootsie Larsen, tight end coach, and Robert Henry, defensive line coach, according to a story Wednesday in the Hattiesburg American.

Southern Mississippi offensive coordinator Whitey Jordan had already made his intentions public to go to Dallas.

Collins would not say which assistants would be traveling with him to Southern Methodist.

"Some of the coaches will have decisions to make," Collins said Wednesday. "I've talked to all my assistants here."

Collins, who succeeds Ron Meyer at Southern Methodist, will be replaced by former USM assistant coach Jim Carmody.
