The SDN Column

There used to be a saying immediately after World War II that the quickest way to sell merchandise was to get a rumor started that a shortage was developing. Shortages as they were known during the days of that second World War faded from the scene years ago, but now some of them are returning, or at least there is a threat that they will return.

Public reaction apparently is the same as it was 25 or 30 years ago to such situations. If there is a rumor that Yugoslavian thumb tacks are in short supply, the thing to do is go down and buy all of them you can find, regardless of whether you need any Yugoslavian thumb tacks now or ever have. And, if an item you use or consume regularly is threatened by shortage, buy all you can find, or at least all the store will sell you.

There was a report of a Dallas individual buying 34 pounds of bacon the other day because bacon was disappearing rapidly fom the meat counters in the Dallas area. Obviously this man will not need any more bacon for several weeks, unless he has an extra large family which is on a bacon diet. So, those of us who didn't get in on the rush should be able to expect the bacon situation to stabilize at least temporarily while those who bought it up the past weekend are using up their extra purchases.

But, getting back to the World War II situation, there were many retailers who kept their cash registers jingling for months and months after the real shortages had eased simply by limiting quantities they made available each day. This was especially so in the case of women's nylon hosiery. This item was worth considerably more than its weight in gold during World War II, even at today's prices, and even after "nylons" became available in substantial quantities there were those who could not resist buying all of them in sight whenever they went shopping.

The answer to shortages, of course, is production, whether it involves food, fiber or petroleum. That apparently is the reason the Senate has cleared the way for construction of the Alaskan pipeline. Texas Senator Lloyd Bentsen said he went all-out in support of the legislation to enable the pipeline to be built because "we need the petroleum resources of Alaska and we need them as quickly as possible."

You can hardly dispute that if you have been out much lately and noticed service stations opening late and closing early , or even hanging "sold-out" signs on some of their pumps. But no quick solution via Alaska is in prospect because the present schedule will not deliver any oil from that source until 1977 and the pipeline could not be at full capacity until 1980, according to Sen. Bentsen.

Incidentally, the protests of naturalists and ecologists, which had delayed this project earlier, and possibly with good reason, finally were overcome in the U.S. Senate because as now designed, the Alaskan pipeline will have more built-in safeguards than pipelines now in use serving New York, Houston, Dallas or any other large city, according to Sen. Bentsen. The project has been examined from every angle and studies have filled volumes containing over 3,500 pages. It is unlikely that further delays would add anything new.—WACIL McNAIR.

SPLIT IN TWO—A Lubbock woman was killed and her 1967 Model Chevrolet Nova was split into two pieces in a one-car mishap on U.S. 84 about nine miles northwest of Snyder at 7:05 a.m. today. The front of the vehicle appears in the picture at the top and the back of the car appears in the picture below.

Lubbock Woman Killed In Crash

Rhonda Sue Burney, 19, of Lubbock was killed when her car crashed into a concrete culvert at about 7:05 a.m. today nine miles northwest of Snyder on U.S. Highway 84.

The impact ripped the 1967 Chevrolet she was driving in two.

Investigating Highway Patrolmen said the young woman was traveling toward Lubbock when she apparently lost control of the car. The vehicle left the roadway and traveled down the median strip in the center of the divided highway. When it struck the concrete culvert, she was thrown out of the car and onto the pavement of a crossover road.

The two sections of the car came to rest about 30 feet apart in the median beyond the culvert.

She was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Snyder Ambulance service and after being pronounced dead the body was transferred to Bell-Seale Funeral Home to await funeral arrangements. Her father, Joe Burney, was reported en route to Snyder late this morning.

Miss Burney was a native of Snyder, but the family had lived in Lubbock several years , it was reported.

Bank Hearing Cancelled

By ROD DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

VERNON, Tex. (AP) — A state injunction hearing involving Vernon cotton brokers R.E. Huntley and G.F. Hemphill was cancelled today, apparently due to action being taken under the federal bankruptcy code.

Ney Sheridan, lawyer for the pair, said the injunction hearing, designed to force Huntley and Hemphill not to dispose of cotton receipts, had been called off at the mutual agreement of contending parties.

The hearing had been requested by the First National Bank of Altus, Okla., in connection with a series of bad checks apparently drawn on the men's account as part of an alleged multi-million-dollar cotton deal.

Sheridan also said he has filed new documents for reorganization of Huntley-Hemphill interests with bankruptcy referee John C. Ford in Dallas.

Sheridan said the reorganization would ultimately combine a partnership and a separate corporation owned by Huntley and Hemphill.

Libya Will Try Hijackers

CAIRO (AP) — The Libyan government announced today that it will try the four hijackers who took over a Japanese jumbo jetliner and blew it up on the airfield at Benghazi, Libya, Tass reported.

The Soviet news agency said its information came from Radio Tripoli, the voice of Col. Muammar Khadafy's Libyan regime. Khadafy heretofore has been hospitable to Arab hijackers who landed in Libya, but this foursome was disowned by all recognized Palestinian guerrilla groups.

Japan Air Lines hoped to send two relief planes to Benghazi tonight or early Thursday to pick up the 137 passengers and crewmen stranded by the destruction of the 747.

House Near Vote On Powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House moved closer today toward expected passage of a bill that would provide ways for Congress to overrule President Nixon when he impounds funds the legislators have voted to spend.

Democrats, pushing the legislation in a constitutional confrontation with the President, showed in tests on amendments Tuesday that they apparently have the votes to pass the bill—even though it faces a presidential veto.

The House amended the bill to limit its duration to one year, by which time the lawmakers hope to have perfected legislation giving them better control over the budget process.

The amendment resulted from a drive, headed by Republicans but joined by many Democrats, to keep the pressure on Congress to enact budget reform.

Debate on the impoundment measure opened with pledges from Democratic members of the Rules Committee that they would not delay consideration of the budget legislation. Republicans then dropped an effort to tie the two issues together on the floor.

Democrats, in turn, did not resist the proposal to limit the impoundment procedures to one year.

The bill would require the President, whenever he impounds funds, to report in detail to Congress within 10 days. If either chamber within 60 days passed a disapproving resolution, the impoundment would be voided.

An amendment by Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, chairman of the House Republican Conference, which would have required both House and Senate to agree on a resolution of disapproval, lost 206 to 205.

Overseas Force Cut Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., today proposed that the 500,000 U.S. ground forces overseas be cut in half within three years.

"The time has come to set aside the rhetoric of the Cold War used to justify a status quo of military involvement around the world," Mansfield said.

He advocated that no less than 25 per cent of the cutback be accomplished in each of the three years and suggested the biggest reductions be made in Europe. Mansfield said, however, the ultimate decision of where to cut should be left to military commanders.

Mansfield was the first witness at a hearing on U.S. troop levels in Europe being conducted by the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on arms control and chaired by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

Mansfield was to be followed by Kenneth Rush, deputy secretary of state, who told a House committee hearing two weeks ago that prospects for negotiating a mutual force reduction with the Soviet Union would be destroyed by a unilateral reduction by the United States.

Mansfield said unilateral action is "the only practical method."

In proposing a 50 per cent reduction in military personnel oversaes, Mansfield said he would include home-ported naval units but not the 100,000-man fleet off foreign shores.

Mansfield said the United States has roughly 313,000 troops in Europe, but he said questions can also be raised about the 45,000 in Thailand, 40,000 in Okinawa, 42,000 in Korea, 8,000 in Taiwan, 15,000 in the Philippines, 18,000 in Japan, "or even Bermuda where about 1,000 men defend our national interests."

EHRLICHMAN TESTIFIES

Nixon Ordered Aides To Crack Papers Case

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman today said President Nixon told an aide "to take such steps as were necessary" to stop the Pentagon Papers leak, but didn't expressly authorize a burglary.

Ehrlichman also denied that he or Nixon authorized an offer of clemency for one of the Watergate conspirators, E. Howard Hunt, and denied that he suggested to former acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III that he destroy politically embarassing documents found in Hunt's White House safe.

Ehrlichman, who had been Nixon's top domestic adviser, testified to the Senate Watergate committee that the Pentagon Papers investigation, undertaken by the White House unit known as the "plumbers," was "an effort to crack what at that moment was the largest raid on secret documents that had ever been made in the history of this government."

He said White House assistant Egil Krogh Jr. might well have considered his instructions as contemplating extraordinary steps to get information about Daniel Ellsberg, who leaked the Pentagon Papers which recounted the secret history of the Vietnam war.

After a long lawyers' debate in which his attorney contended the President may have a reservoir of power permitting the use of burlgary in foreign intelligence cases, Ehrlichman faced detailed questioning about the break-in at the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist in September 1971.

Ehrlichman said he did not authorize the burglary, although he has acknowledged signing a memorandum which approved a covert operation to get information about Ellsberg—so long as it could not be traced to the White House.

"We didn't know whether we were dealing here with a spy ring, just an individual kook, or whether we were dealing with a serious penentration of the nation's military and other secrets," Ehrlichman said.

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., asked Ehrlichman specifically whether Nixon had authorized the break-in, a step the President later said he would have disapproved had he known of it.

"Not in express terms, at least not to my knowledge," Ehrlichman replied.

But he added:

"On July 24 (1971) I sat in a meeting where the President gave Mr. Krogh his charter, his instructions ... I must say that the President put it to Mr. Krogh very strongly that he wanted Mr. Krogh and his people in this unit to take such steps as were necessary, and I can recall in that conversation specific reference to the use of polygraphs and summary procedures for the discharge of federal employes who might have been involved."

Nixon said in a statement last May 22 that he put such emphasis on stopping security leaks that he could understand how well-motivated people could believe they were authorized to undertake illegal activities. But Nixon said he didn't approve any illegal activities and would have stopped them if he'd known ahead of time.

White House Prepares Response

WASHINGTON (AP) — A legal battle over presidential documents moved closer to the courts today as the White House prepared its response to subpoenas served by the Senate Watergate committee and special prosecutor Archibald Cox.

The deadline for the White House response to both was 10 a.m., EDT, Thursday.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said President Nixon would respond to the subpoenas, served on the White House Monday evening, and that the answer would be consistent with earlier refusals to produce presidential documents.

Warren refused to say what form the response might take but the likeliest challenge would be a White House motion in U.S. District Court to kill the subpoenas on the grounds neither the committee nor Cox has the constitutional authority to require a president to surrender his personal files.

The texts of the three subpoenas became available Tuesday.

Cox demanded the tapes of nine meetings President Nixon had with members of his staff along with Gordon Strachan's political memoranda to H. R. Haldeman and a brief note concerning the transfer of E. Howard Hunt Jr., convicted Watergate conspirator, from his job as White House consultant to the President's re-election committee.

CREW WINDS UP TRAINING

Skylab 2 Count Starts Tonight

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Skylab 2 crew began its last full day of training today for man's longest space adventure as the launch team prepared to start the final countdown for Saturday's liftoff.

Flight batteries were installed on the Saturn 1B rocket and radio frequency tests were conducted by the control center as a prelude to starting the countdown clock at 11 p.m. EDT.

Astronauts Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma are to be launched at 7:11 a.m. Saturday for their 59-day mission aboard the Skylab station, now orbiting 270 miles above the earth.

The astronauts boarded a spaceship simulator at Johnson Space Center near Houston, Tex., this morning for their last flight rehearsal.

They were to rehearse the launch and the 8½ hours of maneuvers required to rendezvous their modified Apollo moonship with the space lab Saturday afternoon.

They also were to practice reactions to emergencies that might occur during the launching of the 22-story-tall Saturn 1B booster rocket.

On Thursday, the three astronauts are to fly T38 jets to Cape Kennedy, and on Friday they are to review the flight plan for the lengthy voyage.

Once aboard the 85-ton lab, they will continue the medical, earth resources, solar astronomy and other experiments started by the Skylab 1 astronauts, who completed a 28-day mission aboard the space station last month.

Medical experiments had priority on the first mission because of uncertainty about how the long exposure to weightlessness might affect man physically. A physician, Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin, was on board to handle the complex experiments.

Solar astronomy will have top priority for Skylab 2. Garriott is a solar physicist who will conduct most of the work with the eight telescopes that extend from the side of the lab. Medical experiments will rank second, earth resources third.

4TH 7/26 Good Adverse Neutral

Secretary's duty has gotten out of hand

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 By Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: For 20 years my employer, his wife, and I have been good friends. Mine has always been one of those "dreamy" jobs. I ran the office, had everything my way and the pay was great.

Recently we added a young divorcee to our staff and it's apparent that she and my boss are carrying on an affair. This girl has him wrapped around her little finger and he is walking around in a daze. His wife is suspicious. She calls and asks me all sorts of questions. Of course I cover up for him, but it is making a wreck of me. I can't keep my lies straight and I am popping tranquilizers like crazy.

To leave this job would be a big sacrifice for me. Besides I dislike having this girl run me off.

Should I keep taking tranquilizers and hope this affair will end soon? Or should I just quit? Don't suggest I talk to him. I already have and he is so far gone, it's hopeless.

MEDICAL SECRETARY

DEAR SECRETARY: It's too late to tell you that it would have been far better for all concerned had you and your boss [and his wife] maintained a strictly professional relationship. Now you're trapped because you're more than an employe—you're a trusted friend. Your only solution is to try to wait her out, and lay off the tranquilizers before you become so "tranquil," you're carried off for dead.

DEAR ABBY: I am divorced, 40 years old and am madly in love with a man who is only 30. I have known and dated him for seven months. We are amazingly compatible and unbelievably good for each other. I was married for 17 years before, but I feel more like a schoolgirl now than I felt 25 years ago.

I want to marry this beautiful, wonderful man, and he's been asking me for three months. He is big and husky and has gray hair. He looks more like 35, and I look like about 38—in the dark.

Our relationship has reached the point where we either get married or say goodby forever. My friends keep reminding me that when he is 50 and I am 60, I might regret it. I guess I need someone to give me some encouragement.

IN LOVE

DEAR IN: The number of birthdays you've had isn't nearly as important as the state of your health and the state of your mind. If you feel young and think young, you ARE young. I say, marry the man and good luck to you.

DEAR ABBY: My stepdaughter is 19 years old. She works in an office and pays us $15 a week room and board. She doesn't do one thing to help me with the house. All she does is wash and iron her own clothes. On weekends she sleeps until 2 or 3 in the afternoon. She says she doesn't have to help me in the house because she pays for staying here.

My husband says she doesn't have to do anything. Who is right? She moved out once for three months and begged to come back. Of course she said she would change, but she hasn't.

Please print this with your answer. If I am wrong I won't say anything more to my husband about it.

HOUSEWIFE

DEAR HOUSEWIFE: The problem here is that you and your daughter do not have a clear-cut understanding with regard to what she should do to "help" you. You say she promised to "change." Spell out exactly what is expected of her. And if she agrees and then fails to live up to her word, you can complain.

DEAR "NAG FEVER" IN JERSEY: No horse can go as fast as the money you bet on him. Try Gamblers Anonymous. You sound like a compulsive gambler to me.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

John Roger Turner pleaded guilty in county court this morning to a charge of driving while intoxicated. He received a $100 fine plus court costs and a 3-day jail term. He was arrested June 23 by Highway Patrolmen.

Syphilis Study Suit Filed

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A suit seeking $3 million for each of the 600 untreated participants in the Tuskegee syphilis study has been filed in federal court here. The total asked is $1.8 billion.

The suit was filed Tuesday by the Legal Defense Fund, an affiliate of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Named as defendants were the U.S. Public Health Service and several other federal agencies, the state of Alabama, the state Board of Health, participating private physicians and the private Milbank Foundation, which helped finance the study.

The suit asks U.S. District Court Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. to award $1.5 million in damages and another $1.5 million for alleged violation of the Constitution's Fifth, Ninth, 13th and 14th amendments to each of the estimated 70 survivors of the experiment and the heirs and estates of those who have died.

The study, which began in 1932 in Macon County, was intended to determine by autopsy what effect syphilis has upon the human body.

The suit said the 600 men who took part received no treatment and were discouraged from seeking help despite a campaign during the 1940s to wipe out the disease.

The suit charged that the defendants "purposefully did not inform" the participants of their condition and gave them the impression they were receiving proper medical attention.

At least 26 participants died of syphilis.

The study was ended last year after news reports revealed it to the public. The suit said some of those who were studied did not learn that they had the disease until they were officially informed in April.

Social Security Paying $296,000 A Month Here

Social security benefits were being paid to residents of Scurry county at a rate of $296,000 a month at the close of 1972, Don Minyard, social security manager in Big Spring, said today.

Of the social security beneficiaries living in Scurry county, 1548 are retired workers and their dependents. Another 634 are receiving benefits as the survivors of workers who have died, and 222 are getting benefits as disabled workers or their dependents.

Minyard pointed out that although most social security beneficiaries are older people, about one out of every four is under age 60. In Scurry county, 550 people under age 60 are collecting social security payments each month. About 300 are under age 18, receiving payments because a working father or mother has died or is getting social security disability or retirement benefits. Most of the 66 beneficiaries in Scurry county between 18 and 22 years of age are getting student's benefits under a provision in the social security law permitting the continuation of a child's benefits beyond his 18th birthday, and up to age 22, if the child is attending school full time.

Also in this 18-22 age group, Minyard said, are some other types of beneficiaries, illustrating the broad family protection that the social security program provides workers of all ages. Some are children of retired, disabled, or deceased workers who became disabled before they reached 22 and who will probably never be able to work and become self-supporting. The monthly benefits of these young people, severely handicapped by physical or mental disabilities, will continue indefinitely. Benefits are also payable to the mother if the disabled son or daughter is in the mother's care.

Minyard said that another relatively small but significant group of youthful social security beneficiaries are those who are receiving benefits as disabled workers.

Ex-Resident Shows Home

Chris Sellars, an expert cabinet maker, formerly of Snyder, made his debut this week in the home building profession by showing his second work in the Cavalcade of Homes in Canyon. This is the second home he has ever built and it was open for public viewing during the nine day tour of homes in that area.

The country style home features cabinet work by Sellars. He believes that the kitchen is the show place of the entire house and emphasizes its importance. The dining room also demonstrates his handy work in a corner cabinet for china and glassware.

Collaborating with his wife, Connie, on the $32,000 home, he included such extras for the housewife as electrical outlets in each cabinet to hide electric can openers and other appliances when not in use.

Couples from the Snyder area visiting the event in Canyon were Mr. and Mrs. Hack Fargason of Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. C.C. Sellars of Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Squires of Lubbock.

Sellars was formerly employed by T.E. Shelburne and Co., general contractors in Snyder. He has lived in Canyon for the last three years and now owns a cabinet shop there.

Boat Ramps Extension Set At Lake Spence

Work may start within a week or two on extending three boat ramps at Lake E.V. Spence to elevations that they will be out of the water even when the lake catches full.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission has pledged funds to pour additional concrete slab on proper grade at three boat launching areas at the lake. The project will cost around $22,000, estimated R.A. Schooling, administrative assistant for the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

A sudden, dramatic rise at this stage could put the boat ramps under water.

The sites are at the north end of the dam, in a location just to the southwest of the dam, and at a recreational area on the southwest side (where a concessions building now is located). These are in public recreational areas.

One of the ramps will call for 4-in. concrete slab 195-30 feet; another 210x45 feet; and a third 250x35 feet.

This will put the ramps above the maximum elevation of 1898 feet when the lake is filled.

Scholarship Fund Memorial Started

Contributions for the Memorial Scholarship are being received daily, according to Dr. Ben Brock, Western Texas College vice president and academic dean.

Miss Shelburne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D.D. Shelburne, died June 30 after a lengthy illness. She was a student at Western Texas College.

CREATE A TAKE OFF of a tasty German cake—Black Forest Cherry Ice Cream Cake. It's a perfect partner for coffee when having guests in for the afternoon.

Treat Your Guests To German Taste-Treat

Don't limit your entertaining pleasure to the evening. Have fun in the afternoon, too! Get together an informal gathering in the afternoon to enjoy a light snack or dessert, and a favorite beverage. When you add the lively art of conversation, it adds up to a friendly, festive atmosphere.

Why not try this American adaptation of the English Tea and invite friends over for some cake, coffee 'n conversation! And, to be certain to tantalize everyone's taste buds, serve a scrumptious cake–Black Forest Cherry Ice Cream Cake. It's a cake with history! Originally it was made with cherries from Southern Germany's Black Forest. And, the cake, the whipped cream filling and whipped cream topping were laced with Kirschwasser, an aromatic cherry-flavored brandy.

Black Forest Cherry Ice Cream Cake is a delicious descendant of its German ancestor. The chocolate-cherry flavored ice cream cake is made from a layer of kirsch syrup, and is alternated with two layers of ice cream. Sweetened canned cherries and a mixture of kirsch and vanilla ice cream make up the ice cream layers.

The dairy delicious ice cream is the difference between the "old" and the "new" cake. Cool refreshing flavor and good nutritional value come from the ice cream. Milk and cream, basic ice cream ingredients, contain many nutrients, such as high-quality protein, calcium, vitamins and minerals. So, you'll be serving a cake full of good taste and good nutrition!

BLACK FOREST CHERRY ICE CREAM CAKE

1 can (1 lb.) red sour pitted pie cherries, drained
¼ cup sugar
2 pints vanilla ice cream, softened

Stir 1 tablespoon kirsch into each pint of vanilla ice cream. Turn one pint of ice cream into each cake pan. Drain cherries and sprinkle half over each ice cream layer; freeze. To prepare Cake Layer: Generously butter bottom of one 8- or 9-inch cake-pan and dust with flour. In a small mixing bowl cream butter; gradually add ¾ cup sugar and beat until well blended. Sprinkle about ¼ cup syrup evenly over each layer; let rest 5 minutes. To assemble ice cream cake: On serving plate, place a layer of cake. Onto it unmold a layer of ice cream. Add a second layer of cake and second layer of ice cream. Top with third layer of cake. Return to freezer until ready to frost for serving. To prepare Frosting: Whip cream until it begins to thicken. Add confectioners sugar and continue beating until stiff peaks form. Frost cake with whipping cream and garnish with maraschino cherries and chocolate curls. Makes 12 servings.

Overprotection Can Hurt Children

NEW YORK (AP) — What are the biggest medical problems facing kids this summer?

Insect bites, cuts, sunburn, diarrhea and allergies rank highest on the list. Yet colds, and the chance of catching pneumonia and other illnesses can also be a problem.

Surprisingly, tension is an important problem with the young as well as their parents.

"Too many parents over-protect their children with unnecessary medicines and lotions, while others show too little concern," says Dr. Fredric Snyder, general pediatrician. He suggests several medical tips for parents with small children.

"Diarrhea is probably one of the most prevalent disorders among kids during the summer," Dr. Snyder says. "The problem is often caused by viral infection, food or just the tensions of traveling.

"The best remedy is letting the illness run its course, while giving the child clear fluids to prevent dehydration and eliminating milk and fruit from the tot's diet. Kaopectate won't cure him, but will give symptomatic relief."

He says tension is another problem. Children need some way to release their emotions.

"Clay is good because they can pound the material into a shape. Another release is water. For example, one way to relax a tot before he goes to bed is with a lukewarm bubble bath. Put in a few tub toys and let him splash.

"A word about bubble baths. Be sure to use the correct amount and never leave the box or plastic bottle near the tub. Kids have a tendency to add more bubble bath mixture as the suds disappear. That's not good," Dr. Snyder said.

"Insect bites also plague kids at this time of year, but putting a lot of cream on tots to prevent bites really isn't that good for them.

"It's best to dress the child in long sleeves and pants. Then treat any bite with calamine lotion, keeping it free from infection and covered so the child won't rub or scratch the area."

Dr. Snyder feels sunburn needn't be a problem if the child is initially exposed to the sun for short periods of time each day while wearing loose clothing. That way he builds up his tolerance.

"Always make sure the child gets plenty of liquids while in the sun, so he won't become dehydrated," Dr. Snyder suggests, "and remember suntan lotions really don't work that well, except for zinc oxide which blocks out the ultra-violet rays."

As a precautionary measure, Dr. Snyder recommends up-to-date inoculations. For example, at two, three and four months the child should be having his DPT booster, and follwed at 12 with a DT.

"If a child's tetanus boosters are up-to-date, there is no reason to get a tetanus shot for a minor injury or cut," he says. "I really think we're guilty of over-giving tetanus shots in the U.S.

US Has Slight Edge In Living Standard

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Statistically speaking, the living standard in the United States surpasses that in other countries.

Americans have more cars, telephones, television, appliances and such per person. Per capita income is the highest, although Sweden isn't far behind.

But other industrial nations not only are catching up but also can show statistical superiority in some areas.

Figures compiled by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development show that the German jobless rate is less than one per cent, compared with a five per cent U.S. average.

In fact, the group's midyear economic outlook shows that Canada and the United States most likely would be happy to exchange their jobless rates with many of the 22 other member nations.

The rates for other countries—based on three-month averages ending, because of differences in compilation time, between February and May—are: Canada 5.4, Japan 1.4, Australia 1.6, France 2.1, Italy 3.5, United Kingdom 2.5, Belgium 2.2, Netherlands 3.1, Finland 2.5 and Sweden 1.7.

Also the people of many other nations save much more of their take-home pay than Americans do.

The Japanese lead the world by saving more than 20 per cent of their disposable income. Close behind are the Italians, who in 1972 put away 18.6 per cent of their income.

In contrast, Canadians last year saved 8.5 per cent of disposable income, and Americans put away seven per cent. However, the American wage rate is much higher than in many other countries. Americans therefore might save the same amount in dollars but a smaller amount in terms of percentages.

One area in which the United States shows clear superiority over many other nations is in restraining consumer prices. Inflation is now far worse in several European countries and in Japan.

The rise in Japanese consumer prices for the three months that ended last April was 16.4 per cent, but even that wasn't the highest for the organization's countries. Ireland's rate, measured through February, was 18.2 per cent.

In the United States, the three-month rate through April was 7.9 per cent, although that figure has risen since. For the six months through June, it was about 8.3 per cent, still lower than the 10.9 per cent of Switzerland, the 12.7 of Italy and the 9.4 per cent of Denmark.

The best score, 4 per cent, was attained by France, followed by Sweden at 5, the Netherlands at 5.1, and Germany at 6.8.

Child Care Charges Probed

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Department of Finance has launched an investigation into the state-funded boarding of Illinois children in Texas institutions.

Charges of kickbacks to Illinois officials who send wards of the state to Texas homes also are under investigation, a department spokesman said Tuesday.

The state paid three Texas youth centers $3 million last fiscal year for caring for 400 children.

In recent months a Texas lawsuit has charged one of the centers—the Wimberly Center near Austin—with keeping its wards out of school for as long as three years and housing them in tents.

A 13-year-old Illinois resident at another Texas center, the Meridell Achievement Center, was given a hysterectomy in 1971.

Drought Blamed On Prostitutes

By RAYO ROTIBI
Associated Press Writer

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — A "jihad"—Moslem holy war—being waged by emirs in Nigeria's Islamic north against prostitution has stripped many cities of their spinsters.

Single women started fleeing the north a few weeks ago in the wake of orders by the angry religious leaders demanding they get married or face dire consequences.

The emirs claim the severe West African drought that has hit Nigeria's arid north is due to the immorality of single women.

In Minna, in Nigeria's Northwestern State, unmarried women were given a week to find husbands.

Wives who had deserted their matrimonial homes were ordered to return to their husbands immediately or face expulsion from the town.

Many women fled rather than shop for husbands in the short time allowed. Others preferred remaining single, claiming the young men available for marriage were not ready to shoulder responsibilities.

The emirs say prostitution, which they claim has become widespread in the strongly Moslem north, not only violates Moslem law but "disorganizes married homes and mars the fortunes of young men."

One man in Minna disagreed, arguing prostitutes contribute to the "social happiness of the town," one local newspaper reported.

In the university town of Zaria, the emir, Alhaji Mohammadu Aminu, summoned single women to his palace and lectured them on Islamic morality.

Single women are to blame for the drought, he charged. The drought was "Allah's punishment," he said, "for adultery and fornication."

Prostitution has spread somewhat in Nigeria since the end of the 30-month civil war with Biafra that left many homes without "bread winners," the victims of bullets or starvation. Soaring inflation has also increased the need to seek additional income.

Seeking legal protection, about a dozen crusading prostitutes recently formed a national union in Lagos and asked the government for official recognition.

They hired a lawyer, opened a secretariat and called a news conference to claim their "fundamental" rights.

Police raided the place in the seedy Lagos outskirts of Ikorodu Road, closed the one-room office and rounded up a number of prostitutes for "living on immoral earnings."

—Junior Editors' Quiz on— BUTCHER BIRD

QUESTION: What is a Butcher Bird?

ANSWER: Butcher Bird is the common name for the shrike, a member of a large family of birds with many species living in the Old World and about eight species in North America.

Shrikes are the only hawk-like song birds. They are about the size of a robin with a thick head, stout hooked bill, short legs and slim tails. The plumage is predominantly gray, black and white, and they are often confused with the mockingbird which does not have a hooked bill. Shrikes are called Butcher Birds because of their habit of impaling their prey on thorns, barbs of a fence and short splinters. Their hooked bills, like the bills of miniature hawks, are used for seizing and tearing their prey, which consists of small mammals, such as shrews and mice and small birds, such as sparrows and warblers, small frogs and reptiles as well as grasshoppers, crickets and beetles. The name shrike is thought to be an imitation of their harsh, screeching notes, although they also have a sweet song. They have a peculiar, bouncing flight.

TRESPASSERS BEWARE—Bruce the Tiger relaxes at a side gate of the Des Moines Children's Zoo after patrolling with Zoo Director Bob Elgin. The zoo had problems with vandals so last year started a program to use animals to patrol the grounds. Currently Bruce and a jaguar are patrolling with a lion cub and a leopard in training. Elgin says the animals don't really eat intruders but just knock them down until help arrives. (AP Wirephoto)

Texans To Get Auto Insurance Rate Cut

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The State Insurance Board has made it official: Texans will get an average 4.3 per cent statewide reduction in car insurance rates next month.

Policies written or renewed as of Aug. 27 will reflect the new rates, and further reductions can be expected by some policeholders after the new competitive rating law takes effect Sept. 1.

In addition to setting rates for standard coverages, the board also issued rates for the new "no-fault" personal injury protection coverage established by the legislature this year.

Board chairman Joe Christie said the new coverage, which pays injured motorists' medical expenses and reimburses them for lost income without regard to fault, will cost an average of $22 per car for $2,500 worth of insurance. Premiums will average $32 for $5,000 worth and $44 for $10,000. This compares with $15 for $2,500 worth of the present medical payments coverage, $17 for $5,000 and $22 for $10,000.

"There is some overlap in protection. If a motorist drops medical and adds personal injury protection, the average overall rate increase is likely to be only $5 to $11," he said.

The new coverage will be added to all policies unless policyholders reject it in writing.

"As far as I'm concerned, even if a policyholder writes the company on a brown paper sack declining the coverage, the board intends to make sure he won't be charged," Christie said.

Statewide average rates changes ordered for the common categories of coverage are:

Bodily injury liability, down 7.4 per cent.

Property damage liability, up 0.6 per cent.

Full coverage comprehensive, down 16.1 per cent.

$100-deductible collision, up 1.8 per cent.

Uninsured motorists coverage, down 0.3 per cent.

Medical payments, down 7.8 per cent.

Despite the average decreases, which will cost insurance companies about $25 million over the coming year, some motorists will have increases. Actual rates vary according to a driver's age, where he lives and how he uses his car.

The standard rates approved by the board are the same as those recommended by board actuaries at a July 10 hearing.

"These basic rates will provide a starting point for company requests to deviate under the governor's competitive rate plan. I am hopeful that Texans can expect even greater savings on auto insurance when the law becomes effective," Christie said.

REV. MILLER F. ROBINSON

Local Pastor Is Invited On Crusade

The Rev. Miller F. Robinson, pastor of Colonial Hill Baptist Church, has been invited to participate in mission crusades this fall in Seoul, Korea, and Tokyo, Japan.

Some 20 pastors are scheduled to go to the Far Eastern Countries on the mission crusades, with the schedule calling for them to be in Korea Sept. 26-Oct. 7 and in Japan Oct. 7-13.

The Rev. W.H. Jackson, a former Southern Baptist Missionary to Japan, is directing the effort.

Rev. Robinson said that it is possible that several members of Colonial Hill Baptist Church will accompany the pastor on the Far Eastern Crusade.

Bob Hope To Rebuild Home

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope says he will rebuild his desert home that was destroyed by fire.

A spokesman said Hope and his wife were "philosophical and positive" about the loss Tuesday.

Only the vast, mushroom-shaped roof of the house had been completed when the fire broke out, but the roof alone had cost $500,000.

The house had been under construction since January and was to take 18 months to complete. It was destroyed in 30 minutes.

City officials discounted arson as a possible cause, but firemen were investigating the blaze.

Hope reportedly had spent more than $1 million on the house, and planners said the final cost was likely to be about $3 million.

Entry Tough In Veterinary School

Career Corner
by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: In recent months I have become interested in the field of veterinary medicine. I have heard it is very difficult to get a degree in this field. Is this true? What are my chances of admission? Could you also include information on classes, requirements and expenses? – J.W., San Diego, Calif.

The outlook is cheery for this profession with a shortage of veterinarians expected by 1980. Only a major economic downturn is likely to affect the opportunities in private practice.

But competition for entrance to veterinary college is as tough as pulling a hippo's tooth. Recently there have been at least 5 applications for each opening in the nation's 18 veterinary colleges. In 1972, total freshman enrollment was 1,580, of which 285, or 18 percent, were women.

LOVE OF ANIMALS isn't enough to qualify you for the profession. Still, you need not be a near-genius. In his book, "Opportunities in Veterinary Medicine," published this month by Vocational Guidance Manuals, Robert Swope says primary considerations are:

"Academic performance in high school and in an undergraduate college program; possession of honorable personal characteristics, including interest and motivation which fit the individual for his professional environment; part-time or summer employment experience (farm, veterinary hospital, laboratory, pet shop) that will help him prepare for his chosen field; good health and stamina; and an over-all competency in the biological and physical sciences as exhibited in an aptitude test."

DR. SWOPE, who is professor of veterinary science at Pennsylvania State, tour-guides you through the science-oriented curricula of veterinary colleges, and comprehensively covers other career aspects as well.

At least 2 years of college studies are required for admission to a veterinary school, although several schools require 3 years of preprofessional study. This is followed by 4 years of professional education; several veterinary schools operate year-round which allows you to finish in 3 years. The average student graduating as a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine has spent a little more than 7 years in college, and about 1/3 of veterinary freshmen already have obtained a bachelor's degree. Upshot: While you can become a D.V.M. in 6 years of preprofessional and professional study, most students stretch it out to 7 years, and some to 8 years.

IN MOST SCHOOLS, during the first 2 years studies focus on the principles of normal and pathologic biology. Courses include: anatomy, biochemistry, microbiology, parasitology, pathology, pharmacology, and physiology.

During the final 2 years a student spends much of his time in a clinic working with animals. He studies large and small animal medicine and diseases. Some instruction is given in meat and milk inspection and other facets of public health. A student also may work off-campus under the direction of a veterinarian in private practice.

EXPENSES VARY WIDELY among schools. It cost a student from $2,000-5,000 a year to attend a veterinary school in 1971. These are total figures including tuition, fees, supplies, and even personal expenses. Thus, the 4 years of study to obtain a D.V.M. degree would cost from $8,000-20,000 – plus increases in the past 2 years of about 10-20 percent. You will have to check your eligibility for financial aid with the school's aid officer.

Locally Assembled Plane Completed

Rex Hopkins of 2900 Thirty-fourth Street has completed his Davis DA-2A airplane after five years of construction work on the $2800 machine. Leon David, of Midland, designed the two-seat aircraft with all aluminum construction and tricycle landing gear.

It took Hopkins, business manager of Western Texas College, approximately 1600 hours to assemble the plane. On its test flight July 14 the craft reached a speed of 125 miles per hour with the Continental C-85 engine. The N157 is the 14th Davis airplane to be built and flown to this date. It will hold 20 gallons of fuel and carry a useful load of 562 pounds, passengers, luggage and gasoline.

Commenting on the plane's flying ability, Hopkins stated that "it has good flying and ground handling qualities," visibility is superb from the two passenger craft.

He also added that there are more experimental airplanes such as his in the air than major airline crafts. Fewer accidents occur in these planes than any other model, too.

Hopkins is a member of the "Experimental Aircraft Association" chapter 123 of Midland and Odessa. He has been a licensed pilot since 1965. This is the first time he has owned a plane.

Blast Cause Undetermined

HOUSTON (AP) — Officials of Atlantic Richfield Co. said late Tuesday night they were still unable to determine the cause of an explosion and fire at a company refinery here which injured seven men and caused an apparent heart attack in an eighth.

The explosion, which rocked the area around the plant, started a fire which shot flames 100 to 150 feet high and produced a cloud of smoke that rose more than 1,000 feet.

Officials said the explosion occurred in an isolated part of the refinery which extracts propane and will not affect other operations.

Six persons were hospitalized after the blast. According to company spokesmen they are:

—Rudolph E. Castillo, 28, in critical condition with burns.

—Alvin C. Zoch, 55, fair condition with burns.

—M.J. Sawders, 55, fair condition with burns.

—Clyde Stevens, 27, fair condition with head injuries.

—Francis Mack Belin, 54, fair condition with burns.

—E.H. Kirschke, 62, fair condition with a possible heart attack.

Showers, Winds Rake Panhandle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thundershowers and gusty winds raked much of the Texas Panhandle early today and forecasters predicted further thunderstorms and cooler temperatures as a new cool front entered the area.

Besides the precipitation in the Panhandle region, showers also developed in the early hours in the Lufkin area of East Texas and across the Gulf of Mexico.

Elsewhere in the state, skies were generally clear to partly cloudy. Temperatures near dawn ranged from 62 degrees at Dalhart in the Upper Panhandle to 82 degrees at Galveston on the coast.

Some heavy thundershowers lashed the Upper Coast late Tuesday from Victoria to Beaumont. Other storms hit northward from Beaumont over Toledo Bend Reservoir. A very heavy thunderstorm struck the High Island area.

Temperatures for the day were topped by the 101 at El Paos and the 100-degree reading at Wichita Falls. The lowest maximum Tuesday was 86 at Marfa.

Hoarders Causing Price Hikes

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Two prominent agricultural and economic spokesmen say at least some of the food price hikes in Texas are caused by food hoarders.

"Phase 3 caused a shortage to develop in broiler supply; now the consumer is on a buying binge that will cause broiler prices to compete with some cuts of beef," said Mike Walton, market news chief of the Texas Agriculture Department.

Dr. Francis B. May, University of Texas professor of business statistics and expert consultant for Texas Business Review, said he felt food hoarding was contributing to the price increases.

"We're not faced with famine in this country," May said. "This is not China. Nobody can produce like the American farmer. ... It's difficult to believe that these price increases are natural due to the lack of a freeze. In countries with long periods of inflation, everybody becomes some kind of a speculator."

May predicted food prices to decrease within three months "if people will stop buying more food than they need."

Walton predicted the shortage of eggs will continue for at least the rest of this year, since it takes seven months to grow a chicken to production age. However, he thinks there will be a decrease in egg prices in 1974 because the increased prices now will cause producers to expand production next year.

Queen Elizabeth Gives Blessing

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II has given her blessing to the proposed marriage of her daughter Princess Anne to Capt. Mark Phillips.

She had to, according to the Royal Marriages Act of 1772, which provides that certain members of the royal family cannot legally marry "without the previous consent of the sovereign."

LPG Shortage Blamed On Price Restrictions

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — "Phase 3-A" restrictions on prices for oil products were blamed Tuesday for the shortage of liquefied petroleum gas (LPA) in West Texas.

Lowry Carpenter, executive vice-president of the Texas Liquefied Petroleum Gas Association, made the assertion at a hearing of the House Energy Crisis Committee.

Restrictions on prices for finished petroleum products meant LPG dealers could bid as high for the LPG output of gasoline plants as brokers and wholesale pipeline companies, he said.

"They bought plant after plant's output for the next 12 months," he said, drying up refinery dockside deliveries to dealers in parts of West Texas.

Shortages of LPG—Rural Texans' chief hearing and cooking fuel—have prompted the Texas Railroad Commission to stop one company from moving the fuel out of the area where it was produced. The commission is considering a rule keeping LPG supplies in local markets, blocking sales of all but surpluses to pipelines. Carpenter said commission chairman Jim Langdon had asked the LPG association to write a plan to implement such an order.

Oil companies contend such a restriction on sales and movement of LPG is beyond the commission's power, indicating a court test of the proposed order once it is issued.

C.G. Herrington, senior vice-president of Exxon Co., U.S.A., recommended temporary relaxation of certain environmental standards.

Texas standards for sulphur dioxide emissions into the air are at least three times as tough as federal rules, "which are very tight in the first place," he said.

He also recommended construction of a deepwater port to enable oil companies to import more foreign-drilled petroleum, and a bill making it easier to unitize an oil and gas field's production.

Some older fields have been drained about as much as they can with primary recovery techniques. Backers of unitization contend it would make it easier to employ secondary recovery methods, such as waterflooding, to squeeze out more oil.

Exxon supported a unitization bill that was passed by the House but died in the Senate during the legislative session that ended May 28.

"In view of the nation's current energy problems, it is hard to accept the permanent loss of substantial volumes of oil," Herrington said.

Twins Mark 90th Birthday

DALLAS (AP) — Twins who traveled with their parents from Arkansas to Texas in covered wagons in 1885 celebrated their 90th birthdays here today.

Statisticians have figured that the chances of twins both reaching that birthdate are about one in 25,000. But Ray H. Clem and twin sister Mrs. Mae Sherard have bucked the odds.

"Our great-grandmother, Mae, lived to be about 90," said Clem. "That's the only person we know who lived in the days of George Washington, She was born the year before he died."

The twins were next to the youngest in a family of five girls and 10 boys. Two other sets of twins were born in the family; however, they died very young.

Mrs. Sherard has not be feeling chipper lately, but Clem is as sharp a 90-year-old as can be found.

He can name all 254 Texas counties—either geographically or alphabetically.

About 200 blood relatives were expected for the twins' birthday party today.

Dollar Pinch Hits Paris Attractions

PARIS (AP) — The French capital's hotels, restaurants and other tourist attractions are feeling the pinch of the devalued dollar. The free-spending American seems to have disappeared overnight.

"Fewer Americans are coming, and those that come tend to stay for shorter periods and spend less," the operator of one tour agency said.

"We get Americans in here now who sit down, take one look at the menu and walk out again," said the maitre d' of a luxury restaurant on the Champs Elysees. A plain grilled steak there costs about $9, and the dollar devaluation has meant fewer orders also for lobster and champagne.

Tourist agencies report a drop of 15 to 30 per cent in summer vacation traffic from the United States, while transatlantic charter airlines say the usual summer rush has slowed to a trickle.

There has been a substantial increase in the number of visitors from Japan and Germany, the two countries whose currencies have experienced the largest upward revaluation. But the manager of one tourist agency says the Germans and Japanese don't make up for the missing Americans.

Some hotels are trying to attract Americans by charging them at the predevaluation rate of exchange and absorbing the loss.

But the manager of one medium-price hotel charging $40 a night for a double room said he couldn't afford to cut prices—"Our overheads are going up all the time." Prices for the French have been climbing at a rate of at least seven per cent a year.

The stores that are complaining the loudest are those selling souvenirs, perfume and clothing. The owner of a shop with $20 neckties in the window said: "The average American tourist? He doesn't come through my door any more."

Dallas Not Counting On Trains Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The passenger trains may come back to Big D some time, but most residents of Dallas, which has no rail passenger service, are not counting on it soon.

The National Railroad Arbitration Board heard arguments about the extension of Amtrak service to Dallas Tuesday, but when it was all over it told lawyers for both sides to resolve the dispute without board action.

Amtrak's proposal to provide service in Dallas was at issue. Amtrak wants to re-route the Texas Chief on its Chicago-Houston run over Southern Pacific tracks.

The train has been making the run over a route belonging to Santa Fe.

Southern Pacific, however, contends its tracks already are too congested with freight and that its roadbed is insufficient for fast passenger service.

Amtrak attorneys said there is no reasonable alternative route and pointed out that Dallas is one of the largest cities in the country without rail passenger service.

The board, after telling lawyers to get together and work out something, gave no indication when it might rule—if ever.

Food Prices Are Going Up, Up And Away

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Up, up and away: That's where food prices are going according to an Associated Press marketbasket survey.

The AP surveyed the prices of 15 food and nonfood items in 13 cities on March 1 and has rechecked at the beginning of each succeeding month. An extra check was made this week in the wake of the lifting of price controls on all foods except beef.

The total marketbasket bill was up in 12 of the 13 cities checked. Pork chops and eggs led the list of higher-priced items, with increases of 20 and 30 cents a pound on the chops and boosts of up to 17 cents a dozen on eggs. Previous increases averaged no more than a dime an item.

One-fourth of the food items checked went up in price from July 1 to July 23. Twenty-two per cent of the total number of items checked—food and nonfood—increased during the same period.

In addition, the survey found 60 per cent of the food items stayed the same, 7 per cent went down and 8 per cent were not available on one of the check dates. The figures for all the items were: unchanged—61 per cent; declines—6 per cent; and not available—11 per cent.

Beef prices remain controlled until Sept. 12. They are limited by the ceilings imposed March 29 on lamb, beef and pork.

The controls on the other items were removed as part of the Phase 4 economic program, partly as a result of reports that shortages of certain foods were developing because processors were closing rather than operate at a loss.

The pork industry was among the hardest hit and pork products were among the first to jump up after the ceiling was lifted.

Pork chops were up in 11 of 13 cities. They were unchanged in Seattle and Miami, but a spokesman in the meat department of the Miami supermarket used for the survey said he expected a new higher price list momentarily. The increases ranged from a penny or less than one per cent in Dallas—where a pound of pork chops went from $1.48 to $1.49—to 25 per cent in Los Angeles—where the cost jumped from $1.48 to $1.75.

Eggs were more expensive in eight cities.

House Of Manure, Glass Eyed

By RICHARD SALTUS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A house built almost completely of material made from fragmented bottles and cow manure is the goal of a suburban Van Nuys company.

"We combine powdered glass—bottles, the labels, tops and everything—with processed manure," said Jerry Johnson, technical manager for Environ Contol Products, Inc.

"Then we put it in a furnace. The manure acts as a foaming agent, and the resulting material is 100 per cent glass."

Johnson said the the material, called Envirite, could be made as porous as a sponge or as smooth as stone.

The first commercial application of Envirite was as glazed foam wall panels and acoustical ceilings in a recently finished building at the Fullerton Air Industrial Park near here.

Johnson said Envirite will make up about 60 per cent of a model house now being built and added that just about everything but windows, hardware and sanitary fixtures could be made of Envirite.

He said the company hopes eventually to be able to mold the wastes into almost all the materials needed to build a house.

Dr. John D. MacKenzie, a University of California at Los Angeles engineering professor, invented the process two years ago. The university has applied for patents on it. At least eight firms, two of them overseas, have been licensed to market the material.

"In California alone, livestock produce one million tons of dried dung annually, equivalent to 100 million cubic feet in volume," the inventor said. "This is a tremendous ecological problem because the stuff can't be used economically as fertilizer and is polluting our rivers."

MacKenzie, an authority on glass and ceramics, added that Californians throw away about 50 million bottles a week.

He said that the glass-and-manure derivatives are lighter and stronger than other building materials, provide excellent insulation and are completely fireproof.

Crop To Solve Soybean Snag

By Don kendall
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz says export controls on soybeans are only a "temporary snag" that will dissolve as new crops are harvested and farmers move into high gear in the world market.

Undaunted by arguments that soaring exports have contributed to higher food prices for U.S. consumers, Butz said Tuesday farmers need to produce at full capacity and can do so only if viable export markets continue.

"In a society in which consumers will not stand for high food prices, farm income can improve only with increasing volume and added efficiency," Butz told a conference of U.S. agricultural attaches.

"We are in the export business for keeps," Butz said. "We are dead serious about this commitment for agriculture and the nation."

Butz, as he has before, referred to a congressional probe of last year's big grain sale to the Soviet Union as a "red herring" issue raised by people he contended do not understand the role of trade in keeping world peace.

Butz said it is not possible for the United States to persist in the future as "an isle of affluence in a distressed world" and foreign countries no longer can be viewed as dumping grounds for American surpluses.

Instead, he said, trading nations are building an integrated market for world food supplies, with each producing what it can best produce to help feed itself and others.

Butz said the export curb on soybeans and other protein products was a necessary but worrisome action.

"It was temporary," Butz told the meeting. "It will be lifted when the new crop begins to come in during September. As crop conditions appear now, there will be absolutely no reason to impose import controls on the 1973 crop."

Butz cited USDA crop projections and estimates showing that record crops of corn and soybeans are possible this year and that the 1973 wheat harvest is setting a record.

He said the crops add up to the "world's most massive increase" during any one year.

Snyder LL All-Stars Win 3rd Playoff Tilt

HAMLIN—The Snyder Little League All-Stars won their third straight playoff game, beating Stonewall-Kent 8-3 here last night to gain the right to meet Abilene Dixie All-Stars at 8 p.m. Thursday in Redbud Park in Abilene for the District 5 title. Abilene Dixie beat Abilene Southern 7-3 last night.

Stonewall-Kent took a 2-0 lead in the 1st inning, but the Snyder lads scored one run each in the 1st and 2nd frames and five tallies in the 3rd to take command of the game. Stonewall-Kent scored once more in the 5th and the Snyder team tallied again in the 5th.

Richard Crayton worked beautifully on the mound for Snyder, firing a 2-hitter. He gave up a home run to Frank Mullins in the 1st and a single to Lanny Hall in the 4th. Mullins' blast scored Gary Myers, who had walked ahead of him.

Randy Doughtrey scored the other Stonewall-Kent run after he walked. Hall's single occurred in this inning.

Snyder rapped out six hits off Frank Mullins, who was the loser. Crayton aided his own cause with a double and a single. Other Snyder lads who hit safely were Mitch Mackey and Zane Sterling, each of whom socked a double, and Sid Everton and Gerald Snyder, each of whom cracked a single.

Sid Everton scored the first Snyder run. He reached first on an error. There also was a walk and a single by Gerald Snyder in the same inning.

In the 2nd frame, Crayton doubled and scored on an error. In the 3rd inning, Mitch Mackey, Mark Davis, Richard Crayton, Bobby Roemisch, and Randy Hodges all scored runs. There were two walks, a hit batsman, doubles by Mackey and Sterling and singles by Everton and Crayton. With two away in the 5th, Greg Sullenger walked, advanced to second when Bryan Vincent was hit by a pitched ball, and scored on an error when Sid Everton was the batter.

The Snyder boys played outstanding ball, commiting only one error during the six-inning affray.

Ted Crenwlege is manager of the Snyder team, and Mickey Sterling is the coach.

Crayton had good control most of the way as he sent nine Stonewall-Kent batters down on strike outs.

Cage Trouble At Ball High?

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — The superintendent of public schools here will seek a meeting today with the executive director of the University Interscholastic League (UIL) about what he termed serious irregularities in Ball High School's basketball program.

Supt. Eli Douglas said Tuesday he will talk to Dr. Rhea Williams about the matter. The UIL supervises schoolboy athletics in Texas.

Douglas met Tuesday with the District Executive Committee of the UIL and afterwards said he had disclosed the irregularities which he said occurred during the last basketball season.

The resignation of George Hatch, head basketball coach, was asked for and accepted by the district last Friday. No explanation was given for the resignation.

College Boosters Raising $6,000

The Booster Club of Western Texas College is launching a drive to raise $6,000 for this year's WTC athletic scholarships.

School officials estimate that $6,000 is needed to provide full or partial scholarships for about 30 athletes, who have been recruited for the Western athletic teams.

The Booster Club is asking Snyder and Scurry County citizens to join in the scholarship drive with a contribution made out to the WTC athletic department. A $250 donation entitles the donor to an executive membership; a $100 donation is good for Century Club membership; and, other donations are for regular membership.

The athletic department must raise the necessary funds for its athletic programs through contributions from interested persons and businesses in the community since tax money cannot be used to provide tuition, books or fees for athletic scholarships.

Guy Sullivan, president of the Booster Club, any Booster Club member or WTC coaches can provide details of how one can become a Booster Club member and scholarship contributor.

Cowboy Corral Has Empty Saddles

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — It was early in the year and Dallas Cowboy retirement rumors were flying thick and fast.

Veteran All-Pro Bob Lilly, who at the time was unsigned to a contract, handed a friend a card. It had a prediction for the 1973 season written on it. The friend flipped the card over and it read "8-6".

Lilly, the all-star defensive tackle who is the heart of the Doomsday Defense, later signed a two-year contract for $70,000 a season but become so disillusioned with the way management was treating other players he almost quit.

It's been an off-season of discontent and empty saddles in the old corral for the Cowboys, who were the kings of professional football in January, 1972.

Gone are Mike Ditka, Chuck Howley, George Andrie, Dan Reeves, Lance Alworth, Herb Adderley and Dave Manders. The Cowboys have lost a staggering 65 years in National League football experience with the exit of the seven players.

Ditka became the Cowboy receiver coach; Howley went into the uniform rental business; Reeves, Alworth and Andrie are in the real estate business; Adderley is with New England and Manders works for a Dallas radio station.

Middle linebacker Lee Roy Jordan and cornerback Mel Renfro have yet to come to terms with management although both are in the Thousand Oaks, Calif., camp working daily.

Disgruntled quarterback Craig Morton signed a three-year contract Saturday with General Manager Texas Schramm and said he was "very happy." The first day at practice Morton was running on the third team—behind No. 1 Roger Staubach and Jack Concannon.

All this pre-season turmoil might leave one to surmise the Cowboy dynasty—which has seen the club go to the NFL playoffs seven consecutive years—is on the verge of collapse.

But Coach Tom Landry says Dallas' frontline strength is on a par with Washington's.

"It's not going to be behind them, that's for sure," Landry says.

Almost unnoticed in the departure of the veterans who carried Dallas to victory in Super Bowl VI are the losses of receivers Billy Parks and Ron Setlers, who distinguished themselves last year. Parks was traded to Houston in the off-season and Sellers went to Miami for Otto Stowe.

Stowe, who played behind Paul Warfield at Miami, has made a big impression in camp.

"He comes off the line so fast he gets you out of your backpedal," said Renfro. "He looks to me every bit as good as Warfield."

In the past seven years, the Cowboys own a 73-23-2 record—best in the NFL.

"I still feel we possess the talent to get back to the Super Bowl," Landry said.

Landry says the team still has the talent. And now an aroused Lilly says the team has the spirit. Lilly might want that prediction card back now and revised it—upward.

"I want to end my career on top," Lilly says.

Nationals Rip Americans 7-1

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A roast beef sandwich sat on Sparky Anderson's desk, but he hardly glanced at it. He found the taste of victory better.

"This is great satisfaction to me," said the manager after his National League team defeated the American League 7-1 Tuesday night in the 44th All-Star Baseball Game.

The meaning was obvious, for the Cincinnati Reds' skipper had finally broken a personal losing streak against the other league. He had lost two World Series and the 1971 All-Star Game before Tuesday night's overwhelming success.

"I was nervous before the game," said Anderson, "probably as nervous as the players. I really had butterflies."

But that uptight feeling vanished along about the middle of the game, when the Nationals pulled away on home run power supplied by Johnny Bench, Bobby Bonds and Willie Davis.

For a very brief moment, it appeared that Anderson's bad luck would continue against the American League. A double by Reggie Jackson followed by a single by Amos Otis gave the Americans a 1-0 lead in the second inning before a partisan crowd of 40,849 at Royals Stadium. But then Anderson's own Reds helped produce the first four runs for the Nationals.

Cincinnati's Pete Rose and Joe Morgan scored on singles by Cesar Cedeno and Hank Aaron in the second. The Reds' Bench smashed a long home run into the left field seats in the third and Morgan doubled and scored on Bonds' homer in the fifth. Davis finished the Nationals' long-ball attack with a two-run shot in the sixth.

Anderson also found satisfaction in watching Bonds' performance. The San Francisco outfielder also got a double and was voted the game's most valuable player.

A modest Bonds was surprised that he was voted MVP, though.

"Gosh, it could have gone to almost anyone on the team," he said. "They could have given it to Davis, Bench... Anyone."

But the other National Leaguers didn't wholly agree with that asseesment.

"Bonds does everything a ballplayer can do," said Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves. He's super."

Dick Williams of Oakland, the American League's manager, didn't like seeing Bonds on the other side—or for that matter, the other sluggers in the National League order.

"I was feeling okay—until they started to hit," said Williams. "Then I felt a little pain."

The reference was an obvious one to his recent appendicitis operation. He had left a hospital bed after his illness just last Thursday to be in Kansas City for the glamour game.

The National League victory was its 10th in the last 11 games and boosted its overall series edge in All-Star affairs to 25-18 with one tie.

The Western Texas College Athletic Department is extremely proud to have recruited these outstanding Snyder High School athletes from the 1973 graduating class. Their contributions and conduct, both on and off the athletic fields, have resulted in their being chosen as scholarship recipients at WTC.

These local boys will be joined at WTC by some twenty other scholarship athletes, recruited from around the state and nation, to make up what we believe will be exceptionally fine basketball, golf and tennis teams to represent our town and school in contests around the country.

The Booster Club of Western Texas College asks your help in its Scholarship Drive to raise the needed funds for scholarships for these fine young men. Individuals and businesses in the county are asked to contribute as generously as possible.

If a Booster Club member calls on you, please respond warmly and generously, in keeping with the Snyder spirit of giving, and if you are not contacted personally, please seek out a Booster Club member, or contact any WTC coach for information about how you can help.
