Heavy Rain, Hail Lash Area; Lake Thomas Level Up 2 Feet

April showers, several of them rolled into one and accompanied by hail in some areas, dumped deluges of water on the Snyder area last night.

Rainfall throughout the immediate area ranged from half an inch in Southeast Scurry County to a reported 7 inches in Southwest Borden County.

The 7-inch downpour was reported on the Beal Ranch 15 miles southwest of Gail.

Snyder had an official 2.59 inches for the 24-hour period ending at 7:30 a.m. today, with most of it coming in a heavy rain between 6:30 p.m. and 10 p.m. last night.

Hail of marble-size raked across an area about half a mile wide south of Snyder, and pea-sized hailstones fell in the south and southwest parts of Snyder.

Lake J. B. Thomas had experienced a two-foot rise by 10:30 a.m. today and water still was running into the lake. The lake's elevation was 2,254.93 feet at 10:30 a.m. The full mark is 2,258 feet.

In areas adjacent to Snyder to the east, south and southwest, up to 3.5 inches of rain fell, accompanied by hail. The rainfall was considerably lighter in the northwest part of Scurry County, with an estimated .6 of an inch at Fluvanna.

Gail had an inch of rain, with heavy hail reported in Northeast Borden County.

Elsewhere in the area, Sweetwater reported .38 of an inch of rain, Big Spring .08, Lamesa .4, Colorado City .87 with 1.22 at the Texas Electric Service Company's Morgan Creek station.

The rainfall was accompanied by brilliant lightning. Fire started by lightning destroyed the home of Fred Nichols in northern Howard County.

Lightning caused three oil tank battery fires in the area west of Ira at about 9 o'clock last night, and struck a telephone pole and shattered it into splinters at the fire station in west Snyder.

D. A. Porter, fire chief, said that the first of the three oil fires occured about 9 o'clock about five miles southwest of Ira, but that the fire trucks sent out stuck in mud and could not reach the fire. While they were unsticking their truck another tank battery fire about four miles west of Ira on the Magnolia Sterling lease was reported to them.

They went to it and put that fire out before much damage resulted.

The third battery fire, about three miles west of Ira, was never located by firemen although they hunted for it for about an hour.

A telephone service line pole at the sub fire station, Thirty-third Street and El Paso Avenue, was struck by lighting and demolished. The telephone line leading to the

Soviets Claim Armed Polar Flights Menace

MOSCOW (AP)—Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today accused the United States of sending planes armed with atomic and hydrogen bombs across the polar region toward the Soviet Union. He announced a protest against these "provocative flights" was being sent to the U.N. Security Council.

Gromyko told a news conference such flights were "unheard of in times of peace" and that the Kremlin demands their immediate cessation. He said they carry the danger of worldwide atomic war.

If the United States is trying to intimidate the Soviet Union with these flights, he said, it is wasting its time.

"The Soviet Union has sufficiently strong nerves, and its armed forces can if necessary deliver a crushing retaliatory blow to any aggressor," he added.

The foreign minister said he would like to believe the U.S. Air Force took action without sanction of the U.S. government or President Eisenhower personally. But there has been no statement to the contrary, he added.

Gromyko expressed the "profound indignation" of the Soviet government that such flights were being launched at a time when the Big Four powers were finally entering diplomatic talks aimed at convening a summit conference.

He said he had not brought up the Kremlin protest at meetings of the three Western ambassadors summoned to the Foreign Ministry in the past 24 hours to discuss a summit conference.

French Ambassador Maurice Dejean had said earlier the talks with Gromyko were "preliminary in nature."

Gromyko met the ambassadors individually, seeing Llewellyn Thompson of the United States yesterday and Sir Patrick Reilly of Britain and Dejean this morning.

"I cannot say negotiations have actually started," the Frenchman told reporters.

Gromyko's individual interviews followed agreement by the Western Big Three to open presummit talks. But the Western Allies rejected the Soviet stipulation that Gromyko and the three amasssadors confine themselves to arranging a foreign ministers' conference which in turn would be restricted to deciding the date, place, participants and agenda for a meeting of government heads.

Replying to questions, Gromyko said the Soviet government has already instructed its permanent representative at the United Nations to deliver the Kremlin's protest to the Security Council without delay.

On the Soviet position in the diplomatic preliminaries to a summit conference, Gromyko said:

"We are seeking ways to reduce the length of these discussions and to remove obstacles to the convening of a conference."

Gromyko gave no indication of the progress of the diplomatic talks.

He denied, in response to a reporter's question, that the Soviet government had in effect accepted the Western position by agreeing to start diplomatic talks. He said there were many aspects of the Western position, as laid out in the diplomatic note, with which the Soviet government disagreed.

Gromyko also charged this week's meeting of NATO defense ministers in Paris did not contribute to the easing of international tension.

The ministers recommended a Western alliance ground force in Europe nearly double its present size. The force would be backed by medium-range missile bases.

Gromyko said the Paris meeting showed that North Atlantic Treaty Organization leaders "are seeking to complicate the situation on the eve of the summit conference and are diametrically opposed to lessening of tension."

Charges Not True, White House Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House today put a "not true" brand on a Soviet charge the United States sent planes armed with atomic and H-bombs across the polar area toward the Soviet Union.

The charge was made by Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at a Moscow news conference.

Gromyko said the Kremlin was sending a protest to the United Nations Security Council to what he called provocative flights.

"Mr. Gromyko's statements are not true," White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said in reply to newsmen's inquiries.

Hagerty added that a more complete statement would be made by the State Department later in the day.

President Eisenhower, informed of the Gromyko charge, discussed the matter with Deputy Secretary of Defense Donald Quarles and Undersecretary of State Christian Herter.

Herter and Quarles stayed on at the White House for the discussion after attending a Cabinet meeting which dealt with other matters.

They were sitting in for Secretary of State Dulles and Secretary of Defense McElroy, both of whom are away from Washington.

In response to questions, Hagerty said his characterization of the Gromyko charges as not true applies to all of the foreign minister's remarks contending U.S. planes armed with atomic and hydrogen bombs were sent across the polar region toward the Soviet Union.

Guilty Pleas Are Entered In Court Here

Two pleas of guilty were entered in 132nd District Court here and three in county court this morning in criminal cases.

W. D. Berryhill, who was returned from the state prison on a bench warrant to face a forgery indictment, pleaded guilty and was given a five-year sentence. The sentence will run concurrently with 15 years' time given him in Houston cases.

Berryhill had four cases in Houston, sentenced to 12 years for burglary and three years for forgery. In a theft case he was given five years and in another forgery case seven, but those will run concurrently with the other time. He was defended by Gene Dulaney, court-appointed, here, and prosecutor was Wayland Holt, district attorney.

Berryhill also pleaded guilty to two county court cases of check swindling, one of those under an alias, W. D. Berry. He was given a six-month sentence in each, to run concurrently with his other sentences. George Kuliam, county attorney, was prosecutor.

Cecil B. Roberts, another man returned here on a bench warrant, pleaded guilty in district court to a car theft indictment and was given a two-year prison sentence, to run concurrently with another two-year sentence he was given in Abilene for receiving and concealing stolen property. Dulaney was also appointed to defend Roberts.

In another county court case, John Wemken pleaded guilty to check swindling and was fined $28.50, including court costs.

Man Coaxed From Bridge

NEW YORK (AP) — Police converged on Manhattan bridge yesterday and one of them climbed toward a man perched 40 feet up on a girder.

Halfway up, the cop persuaded him to come down.

"Why did you do it?" the cops asked Edward J. Haggerty, 50.

"Because it's my job," he snapped. "I'm an inspector in the Department of Public Works and I have to look over the steel work every Thursday."

So the police went away and Haggerty climbed back up among the girders.

Todd's Estate May Be 3 To 5 Million

NEW YORK (AP)—Showman Mike Todd's estate today was estimated unofficially at between three and five million dollars. He left half in trust for his widow, screen star Elizabeth Taylor, and bequeathed the other half outright to his son, Michael Todd Jr.

Todd's will was filed for probate in the New York County Surrogate's Court. Todd, 48, perished in a New Mexico plane crash March 21.

Sukarno Says Last Rebels Are On Run

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Jubilantly proclaiming the capture of Padang, President Sukarno's government said today its forces are advancing on the last rebel stronghold in Sumatra.

Six thousand Marines, foot soldiers and commandos swarmed into the port city of 150,000 beginning at dawn yesterday and routed the rebels to the dense Sumatran jungles by nightfall. The next objective was Bukittinggi, the mountain rebel capital 40 miles north of Padang.

A Jakarta regiment also was reported moving on rebel troops in the Celebes, the octopus-shaped island 1,200 miles to the east which stood with Sumatra in the Outer Islands' fight against Jakarta.

The rebels claim Sukarno's government on Java has been too friendly with the Communists and short-changed them on foreign trade revenues from their own rich oil, copra, spice and other exports.

The fall of Padang signaled the last days of the two-month-old rebel government. But it remained to be seen whether the Sumatran rebels would make good their threat to wage a nagging guerrilla war from the jungles, the same sort of war which the Indonesians carried on against the Dutch until they got their independence.

The amphibious assault on Padang reportedly met with some rebel resistance, but how much was not made clear. There was no report of casualties. The battle apparently was the first major encounter in the cat-and-mouse civil war.

An army communique gave this account of the capture of Padang:

Two companies of Marines went ashore 6½ miles north of Padang. Paratroopers and commandos dropped close to the airfield, which had been left pock-marked by rebel dynamiters' scorched earth tactics.

Several waves of infantrymen landed about two hours after the shock troops, seizing a bridge, securing the Marine beachhead and pushing toward the airfield and the city proper. Air force and naval bombardment continued.

Within 12 hours the radio broadcasting and railway station were in government hands, and troops had fanned out to take control of the city district by district.

An army spokesman said rebel convoys were attacked from the air as they fled eastward toward the inland town of Indarung. A communique said the main rebel force was fleeing "in great disorder."

"We are now in the final stage of crushing the rebellion movement of the Indonesian revolutionary government," Maj. Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, the American-trained army chief of staff, announced in an order of the day.

Youth Recreation Center Up For Vote Here Saturday

Taxpaying voters of Scurry County will go to the polls tomorrow to decide on a $145,000 bond proposal for a county youth recreation center.

The proposed center would be built in Towle Memorial Park for use of youth of the county, especially teenagers. Attached but with a separate entrance would be a community meeting room for use of youth or adults.

The polls will open at 8 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. All the county's 20 voting boxes will be open. The polling places for Snyder boxes, all in the courthouse, are in the commissioners courtroom for southwest Snyder, in the county superintendent's office for northwest Snyder, in the sheriff's office for northeast Snyder, and in the peace justice office for southeast Snyder.

A Snyder women's organization, the Altrurian Daughters, has offered free taxi service for those who need transportation to and from the polls. Those desiring the service have been asked to call HI3-6557.

The center was first proposed by steering committees organized out of the Parent-Teacher Association city council and the High School P-TA. There are two steering committees on the project, headed by Mrs. Frank LeFeuvre and Dr. John Hamblen.

The proposed center would cost about $115,000 for construction of a building with 12,800 square feet, $5000 for paving, and the remainder for furnishings. A kitchen, with a snack bar arrangement, would be included. Also proposed, if there are enough funds, is a skating rink adjacent to the center with roof and open sides.

The center would have fulltime supervision by a paid county director, the steering committee said. Its hours would be arranged to avoid conflict with Sunday and Wednesday church services.

Recreation would include such things as ping pong, dancing, table games, folk dancing, and other activities.

The county's present bonded indebtedness requirements, after deduction of state aid, includes $468,005 for 1959, $437,172.50 for 1960, $431,216.25 for 1961, and then drops to $41,687.50 in 1962, $2,120 in 1963, and $1,060 in 1964.

Proposed arrangement of the bonds would be so there would be payment of only interest until 1961, then payment of the principal in three to five years. The bond proposal calls for the bonds to be paid in no less than 10 years. The steering committee has proposed the delayed financing so there would be no tax increase required for the building.

Dirksen Sees Hope For Defense Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)— Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) said today he foresees ultimate victory for a reorganization of the Defense Department along the lines urged by President Eisenhower.

Dirksen, assistant GOP Senate leader, said he is "quite sympathetic to the whole thing," especially in the light of explanations he and other leaders have received at White House briefings.

Eisenhower opened his fight for the program with a nationally televised address before a meeting here of newspaper editors. He received a promt pledge of vigorous support from 24 of the Senate's 47 Republican members.

The plan also won limited endorsement from the Army Assn., the membership of which includes active, retired and reserve Army officers. The Air Force Assn. previously had endorsed the plan, but the Navy League, a civilian group, has criticized it.

Dirksen was not listed as among those joining in the senatorial statement, nor were the other top Republican leaders in the Senate —Knowland of California, Bridges of New Hampshire and Saltonstall of Massachusetts.

However, Dirksen told a reporter he had not been asked to sign it. The other three were not reached for comment, but Bridges has criticized some of the plans provisions.

The statement of the 24 senators applauded "the fighting action of President Eisenhower in presenting a plan designed to provide this nation with an effective, competent defense structure.

It described Eisenhower as, "by all odds, the best qualified man in America to reorganize the Department of Defense and urged that the legislation be given the highest priority.

Indictment Against Pound Dismissed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The treason indictment against poet Ezra Pound, 72, was dismissed today, opening the way for his early release from a mental institution.

The bearded Pound has been confined to St. Elizabeth's Hospital since 1946.

The treason charge was based on pro-Axis, anti-American broadcasts made by Pound from Italy during World War II.

The indictment was dismissed by Chief Judge Bolitha J. Laws in U.S. District Court when the government, in effect, joined in a motion asking this action.

Both Pound and his wife declined to talk with reporters. But Thurmond Arnold, an attorney who spoke for Pound, said Mrs. Pound plans to take her husband to Italy. Pound had lived in Italy 21 years before he was seized by American troops in 1945.

Dr. Winifred Overholser, superintendent of St. Elizabeth's, said in a sworn statement accompanying the motion that "there is no likelihood . . . no possibility that the indictment against Ezra Pound can ever be tried because of the permanent and incurable insanity" of the poet.

But, Overholser said, Pound "is not a dangerous person and his release would not endanger" others.

Robert Frost, Ernest Hemingway, T. S. Eliot, Archibald MacLeish and other poets and authors have been working to free Pound.

"None of us can bear the disgrace of letting Ezra Pound come to his end where he is," poet Frost said in a statement filed with the motion. "It would be too woeful a story in American literature."

Increase In Braceros For State Okayed

By BILL GIBSON

MCALLEN (AP)—Labor Department officials approved an increase of 5,495 braceros for Texas yesterday, bringing to 32,000 the number of Mexican nationals allowed in the state at one time.

The increase came at a meeting of Labor Department officials with representatives of Lower Rio Grande Valley growers, shippers, canners and ginners.

But Don Larin of the Labor Department said he was convinced there was a substandard wage problem in the Valley.

"We've informed these people that they're going to have to increase their wage and see that piecework rate earns at least the prevailing wage, he said.

Fred Braunig of Pharr, a major contractor of farm workers, said the prevailing wage for field jobs is 50 cents an hour, but that most harvesting is piece work at which laborers can earn $18 to $40 a week, depending on their skill.

Edinburg Mayor Joe Davis, a cotton farmer, said the piece work rate which has been used almost exclusively in the area had been designed so a worker could make the prevailing wage if he worked.

Larin said he was convinced of the need for more braceros in the state and so raised the ceiling on the number allowed. He said it could be changed as the situation changed.

House Demos Rally Behind Emergency Relief Program

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats today got behind a billion-dollar emergency unemployment relief program to provide 16 weeks of added jobless pay benefits for most of the nation's idled workers.

The plan, to remain in effect until June 30, 1959, would be financed wholly by the U.S. Treasury. It would apply both to workers now covered by existing state unemployment programs and to many not now eligible, but proposed rules concerning the latter have not been decided.

House Ways and Means Committee Democrats settled on the plan at a caucus and expected to have it ready for House action next week.

The Democratic-approved program represented a compromise of proposals put forth by President Eisenhower and those sponsored by Chairman Mills (D-Ark) of the Ways and Means Committee.

In its tenative form, it calls for:

1. Sixteen weeks of added benefits for insured workers who have exhausted compensation rights under state programs.

2. The same number of weeks of benefits for noncovered workers who are not eligible for state benefits.

3. Payments to be financed by the federal government in conformity with the existing level of benefits now provided under state programs, with no change in state standards.

Unemployment benefits vary from state to state in amount and duration of payments. Workers coming under the program are paid from an insurance trust fund created from employer payroll taxes. Among noncovered workers for example, would be employes of tax-exempt concerns with fewer than four on their payrolls. Domestic and farm workers also are not now eligible.

The Democratic plan rejected President Eisenhower's proposal for eventual state repayment of federal benefits. It also turned down his request to limit additional coverage to 50 per cent of the number of weeks provided under the various state plans. This would limit the extension to a maximum of 13 weeks in most large industrial states.

The Democrats dropped their original proposal to fix the amount of payments at a minimum of 50 per cent of the individual's average wage. Instead, amounts would remain in conformity with present state standards.

Sub Missile Is Launched

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Navy Polaris missile—which is being developed for launching from submarines—was launched from the Arl Force missile center today.

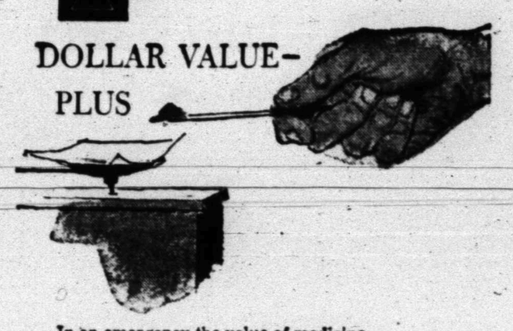
An announcement said merely that a Polaris test vehicle was launched.

The Polaris is designed to have a range about 1,500 miles.

Rear Adm. William F. Raborn, the man in charge of its development, has been quoted as saying that when it becomes operational in 1960 it can hit any target in the world.

Three new nuclear submarines to carry the Polaris are to be built. The missile itself is designed to carry a nuclear warhead.

DOLLAR VALUE—PLUS



In an emergency the value of medicine can hardly be reckoned in dollars. Medicine is priceless when needed.

Yet it is an interesting fact that nationally the average cost of a pharmaceutical prescription is about $2.50 — and more than half of all prescriptions cost less than $2.00. Although higher than 20 years ago, the increase in the cost of medicine lags far behind that of other, and less essential, commodities.

When you purchase a prescription you are sharing in the fruits of scientific research. You are getting today's best buy.

Youth Center Is Endorsed

In an informal discussion meeting held at the First Presbyterian Church this morning, a group of Snyder ministers voiced general agreement with what they called the overall advantages of the proposed program for the youth recreation center, which will be voted upon by county taxpayers tomorrow in a bond election.

"The ministers present felt that such a recreational program is highly desirable for the development of character and good citizenship on the part of young people," they said in a statement, adding that at the present time there are no faciliteis for such a supervised program available for the benefit of all the youth of the county.

Chrysler Is Winner In Mobilgas Run

By IRWIN FRANK

GALVESTON (AP)—Chrysler took the honors in the Mobilgas Economy Run, a five-day test over 1,883.2 miles from Los Angeles to Galveston.

A Chrysler Imperial Crown driven by Mel Alsbury Jr. took sweepstakes honors and led the high price class with a ton-mile rating of 62.7188. George Alsbury, Mel's younger brother, paced the high-medium price class in a Chrysler New Yorker.

George Alsbury had a ton-mile rating of 58.4028, second only to his brother and best in his class, and led the field of 29 autos with an actual mileage of 21.0217 miles per gallon.

Pierce Venable, driving a Plymouth Belvedere, took first in the low-price field with a rating of 48.3264.

Link Paola, driving an Oldsmobile 88, took class honors for the low-medium price field with a rating of 50.5951.

Mel Alsbury, who led in the ratings all the way from the start in Los Angeles Sunday, took his third straight sweepstakes crown yesterday.

Protests against the Chrysler entries, disallowed by A. C. Pillsbury, director of the U.S. Automobile Club, held up the announcement of the final results.

Ford, Lincoln, Chevrolet and Oldsmobile protested Chrysler was not using standard equipment.

The ton-mile rating is intended to allow larger and smaller cars to compete on equal footing. It is derived by multiplying miles per gallon by tons of automobile.

Communists Work In West, Hill Says

HOUSTON — Thousands of well-trained Communists are working in the Western Hemisphere to undermine democracy, Ambassador to Mexico Robert Hill warned last night.

"Anything Communism does to influence Latin America cannot but be antagonistic to all the hemisphere," Hill said. "One of the levers by which the Communists desire to gain United States recognition is by creating trouble in Latin America."

During the business hour new officers for the coming year were elected. They were as follow: Mrs. Marcel Josephson, president; Mrs. E. F. Mrs. Frank Butler presented a program on pastels. She explained that pastel is an inexpensive media and fairly easy. However, it does take practice and study to make a good picture. The colors come in sticks similar to chalk in size and texture. The most important item is choice of paper to paint on. The best is cotton and linen, however, the texture will vary with type picture painted or impression you desire to portray.

Mrs. Carl Herod was hostess to the 15 members and one guest, Mrs. W. A. McGlaun Jr.

New Ironing Table Shape Eases Work

Easing the homemaker's work load is one of her most tedious chores, ironing, has been accomplished by making the first change in nearly a century in the shape of the ironing table.

Arc shaped so the homemaker can use a natural swinging motion of her arm, the new ironing table not only makes ironing easier but it also reduces ironing time by as much as one-third.

Basic reason the homemaker finds ironing so tiring is that she usually holds her arm in an awkward position up and over the iron to guide it in a straight line.

The working side of the new table is straight from end to end, the opposite side curves gently out from the tip and then swings sharply back at the other end. The curve eliminates the necessity of moving the iron in a straight line and enables the homemaker to guide it in an arc. Guiding it this way also reduces her tendency to push down on the iron, another tiring habit.

Extra width at the center of the board is the greatest factor in reducing ironing time. Because of this width the homemaker can iron larger areas at a time. Articles she's ironing don't have to be moved so often. This is especially noticeable when she is ironing large articles such as sheets, shirts, skirts, tablecloths and other linens.

Gates Talk Called Off

AUSTIN (AP)—John Gates, former editor of the Communist Daily Worker, was dropped yesterday as a lecturer here April 24 because he wasn't Communist enough for the University of Texas YMCA.

"We wanted a real live Communist and we found we werent getting one,' Frank Wright, executive secretary of the University YMCA, said after talking to Gates in New York.

Wright denied any pressure from university officials "or anyone else" in cancelling the appearance here.

Gates resigned from the Communist Party in January about the time the Daily Worker folded.

"He indicated that his position is so modified from the Marxist Communist position that he would not present the true Communist viewpoint, Wright said, "and that was the viewpoint we wanted to give the students.

"He said he would just criticize the foreign policy of the U.S. and weve got lots of people criticizing the foreign policy.

Gates is scheduled to appear at SMU in Dallas April 23.

The Christian's Corner—

Christians Are Different!

Glen Pace
Minister

(Question) The church differs from Catholicism by its faith in the sufficiency of Christ. He is sufficient as the head of the church. God gave Christ "To be over all things to the church, which is his body, the fullness of him that filleth all in all." (Eph. 1:22,23) The office of pope is utterly unknown to the New Testament. Also, the scriptures of Christ are sufficient as the only rule of faith and practice. Yet Catholicism emphatically denies this. They urge that the scriptures "do not contain all the truths necessary for salvation." Here is a glaring contrast with the declaration of Paul that the inspired scriptures make the man of God complete, "Furnished completly unto every good works." (2 Tim. 3:17)

SPORTS

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

UNLESS TEXAS TECH officials can do some fast work in drying out their track, running event records in this week's Region 1 meet appear safe.

There's some pretty salty records to shoot at in the first place and with a soft track to run on, it isn't likely that any new standards will be set.

With a lot of sunshine the track may be dried out pretty well by tomorrow afternoon's finals.

The Tigers perhaps are taking their biggest delegation to a regional meet in the schools history, nine.

But the Bengals chances for winning the region title are pretty slim since Andrews has qualified 15 for the region meet and Abilene 12. And both Andrews and Abilene are expected to run 1-2 in the two relays, 440 and mile relays.

Must Be At Best

Track is like any other sport — you have to enjoy good days to win when you reach the regional stage.

It probably will take a dropped baton or a "passing out of lane" by one of the two mentioned above in the relay events for the Tigers to slip in with the title.

Then the Tiger athletes would have to be at their best in their pet events, the hurdles, high jump and broad jump to finish on top.

Speaking of the "passing out of lane" infraction, this probably cost the San Angelo Bobcats the state championship last season.

San Angelo, like Andrews this season, had the state's strongest relay teams last year but the Bobcats were disqualified in the sprint relay in the Region 1 meet last year after winning the race easily. The Bobcats were caught passing the baton out of the required area.

Cost State 'Title'

The Bobcat mile relay team won at region and proceeded to win at the state meet. Had the Bobcats not "fouled" up in the region sprint relay, they possibly would have won the state sprint relay, too. And with relays counting 16 points for first at state, this would have given the Bobcats a good start toward winning the state title.

You see than what we mean by having a "good day" in pinning your hopes on winning titles.

Ann Emerson of the Tigerette volleyball team was chosen on the All-Regional Tournament team at Lubbock last weekend.

Miss Emerson is one of the three Tigerette regulars who'll return next season.

So, it looks like the Tigerette prospects for next year are very promising.

Major Leagues Have Surprise Leaders

By The Associated Press

A couple of unlikely teams, Chicago in the National League and Baltimore in the American, led the baseball standings Friday.

Chicago downed St. Louis Thursday 4-3, despite a homer by Stan Musial, for a 2-0 mark. Philadelphia is second with 1-0.

San Francisco beat Los Angeles 7-4 and Milwaukee clouted Pittsburgh 6-1 in other National League games.

In the American, Baltimore blanked Washington 4-0 for a 2-0 record, the only unbeaten mark in the league.

New York trimmed Boston 3-1 to make it two out of three. Cleveland nipped Kansas City 3-2 and Chicago slipped past Detroit 4-3.

San Francisco tries Los Angeles, St. Louis plays Chicago, Milwaukee goes against Philadelphia and Cincinnati is at Pittsburgh Friday in the National League.

Patty Berg Favored In Babe's Tourney

Musial Sets Another Record But Cardinals Lose To Cubs

By ED WILKS

Stan (The Man) Musial has yet another National League record in the bag today, but the St. Louis Cardinals are still looking for that first victory in what some folks picked to be their pennant year.

Musial, at 37 closing in on a cluster of standout hitting records, slammed past Mel Ott's league record for total bases with a home run and a single last night, but it wasn't enough to ward off a 4-3 defeat by the Chicago Cubs.

Musial has collected 5,046 total bases on 2,960 hits while padding his NL record of long hits to 1,157 with his 382nd home run. Ott totaled 5,041 bases in his 22 seasons. Musial, in his 17th season, now ranks No. 5 among the major league total-bases leaders, topped by Ty Cobb's 5,863.

While the Cubs stayed unbeaten, the defending champion Milwaukee Braves whipped Pittsburgh 6-1. Ed Mathews again belted a pair of homers.

San Francisco clobbered Don Newcombe early and defeated Los Angeles 7-4 in the only other NL game scheduled.

In the American League, the New York Yankees defeated Boston 3-1; the Chicago White Sox won their first, beating Detroit 4-3; Baltimore took a full share of first place with a 4-0 decision over Washington; and Cleveland rallied in the ninth for a 3-2 victory over Kansas City.

Orioles Alone At Top In AL Chase

By The Associated Press

Manager Paul Richards may have said a first division finish for Baltimore was only a possibility before the Amercan League race started, but at the moment he's busy stockpiling early victories that could provide the payoff for the Orioles in August and September.

Richards, the only unbeaten skipper left in the AL, isn't missing any bets to get victories. Last night, despite a 3-0 lead, he pulled rookie Milt Pappas in the fourth inning, sent veteran Jack Harshman to the mound and came off with a 4-0 win.

The New York Yankees joined Detroit and Kansas City in second with a 3-1 victory at Boston while the Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians salvaged the final games of their three-day series with the Tigers and Athletics.

Early Wynn gained his 236th major league victory, with Gerry Staley's relief help as the White Sox defeated Detroit 4-3. Rookie Jim (Mudcat) Grant went all the way for his first victory as the Indians clipped the A's, 3-2.

Richards, a crafty ex-catcher who knows his pitchers, saw Pappas give up only two singles in the first three innings. But when the 18-year-old right-hander let a wild pitch slip between two walks with one out in the fourth, Richards hustled Harshman in.

The 30-year-old southpaw, with the bases loaded, put called third strikes past Whitey Herzog and Rocky Bridges and allowed the Senators just one single the rest of the way.

Gus Triandos and Brooks Robinson homered for the Orioles, who tagged loser Chuck Stobbs and two relievers for 10 hits.

Johnny Kucks spaced seven hits for his first complete game since last June for the Yankees, and didn't lose his shutout bid until Jackie Jensen's third homer in the ninth. He got pinchhitter Ted Williams, making his first appearance after a bout with food poisoning, on a grounder in the eighth. Pete Runnels led the Sox with 4-for-4.

Tom Brewer gave up the telling run on Mickey Mantle's first hit of the year— a solid, fifth-inning homer.

Wynn gave up nine of the Tigers' 11 hits before Staley pulled him out of two-on, two-out trouble in the seventh. Al Smith singled home two runs in the second off Frank Lary, but the clincher came in the sixth on two-out singles by Tito Francona, and Bubba Phillips.

Mickey Vernon's pinch double with two out in the ninth scored a pair and brought the Indians from behind against Duke Maas. Bob Cerv homered.

Area Athletes To Regional

Eleven area athletes, including eight from Ira, will journey to Odessa for the Region 1-B track meet today and tomorrow.

Hermleigh is sending two and Fluvanna one to the Odessa meet. Hermleigh's entries are Dwayne Williams in the hurdles and high jump and Dub Etheredge in the hurdles.

Albert Hataway is Fluvanna's lone entry. Hataway will compete in the shot put.

Ira's entries are as follows:

Donnell Eubank — 440-yard relay.

Tom Echols — 440-yard relay, shot put and discus.

Bobby Walker — 440-yard relay mile relay, and 880-yard run.

Elvin Loper — 440-yard relay and 100-yard dash.

Ronnie Suiter — mile relay.

Denton Douglas — mile relay.

Leroy Lindsey — mile relay and 440-yard dash.

Emmett Autrey — mile run.

Bartzen, MacKay Move Past Australians

HOUSTON (AP)—Bernard Bartzen and young Barry MacKay, safely past a couple of tough Australians, can sit back today and look things over in the 24th annual River Oaks tennis tournament.

Bartzen and MacKay moved into Saturday's semifinals with straight set victories yesterday over Mervyn Rose and Warren Woodcock. The only activity they have scheduled today is watching the other quarter-finals.

Those pit top-seeded Dick Savitt and Hugh Stewart of Pasadena, Calif., and third-seeded Louis Ayala of Chile against Hamilton Richardson.

Bartzen eliminated the second-seeded Rose 6-1, 6-2, 6-3. MacKay, the nation's No. 5 player from Dayton, trimmed Woodcock 7-5, 7-5, 6-4. Woodcock is ranked No. 6 in Australia.

Southern Beats Morrow In 220

DALLAS —If there's a trackman anywhere more versatile than Eddie Southern of Texas he's quite a fellow.

Southern made the Olympic team as a freshman and won second place in the 400-meter hurdles. Then he returned and concentrated on the hurdles and the relays with great success.

This year he switched to the 440-yard dash with the idea of becoming the world's top quarter-miler. He has run a 46.2 and a 45.8 and that makes him as good as they come in this event.

So, last night he turned to the sprints and beat Bobby Morrow, the Olympic champion, in the 220-yard dash.

Southern's blazing 20.6 220 over a heavy track licked Morrow, the Abilene Christian college star, by a foot and it brought him the designation of outstanding athlete of the Dallas Invitational track and field meet.

Southern also ran on two relay teams and he helped Texas to victory in the meet. The Longhorns scored 58½ points, Abilene Christian was second with 51, Southern Methodist third with 35 and Oklahoma last with 29½.

Today Southern flew to Lawrence, Kans., to do some relay running in the Kansas Relays.

Don Stewart, Southern Methodist high jumper redeemed himself with a victory over his teammate, Bertil Holmgren, the Swede, with a leap of 6 feet 8½ inches. It was the first victory by Stewart over Holmgren this season. Stewart was NCAA champion last year.

TIGER GAME POSTPONED

The Tiger-Rotan baseball game slated on the Towle Park diamond here today has been postponed because of wet grounds, Tiger coach Speedy Moffett revealed this morning.

The game has been re-set for Monday, starting at 4:15.

The Tigers will go to Abilene tomorrow for a doubleheader against the Abilene Eagles at Teen Age League Park.

Moffett says he will pitch Tim Roberts (2-3) and Norman Gladson (1-3) at the Eagles tomorrow.

In an earlier game Abilene pushed across and unearned run in the seventh inning to edge the Tigers, 5-4, at Towle Park.

The Bengals will carry a 6-9 season record into the Abilene twinbill.

—YOUTH CENTER—

Saturday, April 19, voters of Scurry County will go to the polls to determine the future of the proposed Youth Center. We do not question the sincerity of the advocates of this building, perhaps they are inspired by lofty ideals and virtuous ambition. Yet, we attack this proposal, not because we are against the expenditure of money, or to be in reverse when progress is attempted and surely not because we are not in sympathy with the problems of youth. We make this attack because we deplore the erection of a building from public funds to be used as a . . .

Public Dance Hall For Youth!

Christians through the years have always fought sin. They have fought that which would lead to sin and incite to lust. The so called "Chaperoned dance" which gives vent to healthy and moralizing recreation is the exception rather than the rule. In fact we know of none which has proved an asset to better morals. Let those who believe in such, plan a dance hall at their own expense without calling upon those who are not in sympathy with this type of entertainment. The Youth Center, as proposed, has many features which are attractive, features that are excellent. But shall we endorse the evil for the sake of some good? "Shall we do evil that good may come?"
We plead with every faithful Christian and every sincere thinking citizen to vote against the Youth Center as now proposed.

Sincerely,
THE ELDERS
25th St. Church of Christ

Fighting The Recession

THE CORPUS CHRISTI CALLER:

Thoughout the country local groups and agencies are beginning to buck up and fight the recession, not waiting for Congress and the administration to pass miracles while the business community sits around in a state of bemusement.

In many hard-hit communities local business and industrial enterprise have begun to fight back with spectacular selling campaigns, remedial measures, pep talks, demonstrations of confidence, and all-out effort. Detroit, perhaps the hardest hit of all, put on a community-wide demonstration a few days ago and according to reports the results were excellent.

The slump in the oil industry due in part to excessive imports of cheap foreign crude has provided the most conspicuous recess. s effects insofar as Texas is concerned, but aside from that and a few other quiet spots here and there Texas has no recession such as Detroit and other highly industralized areas are experiencing.

Nevertheless, the way to beat a recession is to meet it more than halfway and beat it down by determined, imaginative and effective action.

Remedial measures already taken by Congress and the government, or soon to be taken, should allay doubts of the immediate future. Business and employment slumps thrive on inaction and apprehension. They must be fought—slugged out toe to toe.

They can be licked. This one will be licked, but the knock-out blow must come, and will come, from the great reservoirs of strength and determination to be found in the thousands of local communiteis throughout the country.

The quicker this overwhelming mass of reserve strength and confidence is thawed out and put to work, the sooner we'll hear the last of this recession.

Vinson's Iron Hand Guides Committee

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Weeks before President Eisenhower's proposals for a more centralized control over the armed services were made public, an associate of Rep. Carl Vinson (D-Ga) told a reporter:

"The old man's getting ready for the fight of his life. I think he'ss win it."

On Wednesday, "Uncle Carl" Vinson, looking like the 74-year-old prosperous farmer that he is, fired his first salvo.

He took the floor of the House and blasted away for an hour at Eisenhower's proposals.

Vinson, long a champion of the individual services, contended they would lose their identity under the Eisenhower plan and Congress would "surrender . . . its constitutional responsibilities to prescribe their separate roles."

There were even some untypically barbed references to the President — listing aspects of the present defense arrangements now criticized by Eisenhower but which Vinson said Eisenhower himself had instituted or recommended in earlier years.

When Vinson finished, Republicans as well as Democrats stood and applauded him. And not a word was said in rebuttal to his speech.

This doesn't mean, of course, he has won the fight. But it does say something about the respect and influence the crochety, tough-fisted chairman of the Armed Services Committee commands in the House.

A city-bred tourist passing Vinson in a Capital corridor would notice his slight, cane-flourishing strut, the steel-rimmed glasses halfway down a big nose, obscuring a pair of remarkably keen blue eyes.

The city tourist might snicker at this exterior. Not so Vinson's colleagues, nor the top brass of the services, those who testify at Vinson's committee hearings. They have had a chance to see what's inside.

It may or may not be true that Vinson once dismissed the possibility he might become secretary of defense by saying he preferred to run the Pentagon from Capitol Hill.

It is true that practically no legislation affecting the services passes without his approval. In the reason may be that Vinson usually sees eye to eye with the individual military services, especially the Navy. But another reason may be that from years of dealing with him, the services have learned what they can expect to have enacted and what they needn't waste time trying for.

Vinson, a widower, was born in Milledgeville, Ga., Nov. 18, 1883. Elected to Congress first in 1914 and regularly re-elected thereafter, he served 15 years as chairman of the old Naval Affairs Committee. When the Defense Department was established, and the old Military and Naval Affairs committees were merged, Vinson took over as chairman of the combined group.

There is no question who runs the 37-member Armed Services Committee.

Members joke about it — somewhat ruefully at times — but a session with Vinson intent on getting the business done in a hurry is one of the best sights on the Hill.

Not long ago, a congressman appeared as a witness and started off easily, "I don't see the need of taking up much of the committee's time. . . ."

"Fine. Thank you very much," said Uncle Carl. Crash went the gavel. Next witness.

Vinson once told a younger congressional protege his secret of running a committee: "Never let them all get mad at once. You lose control. It's all right if they get mad one at a time."

Showman Started His Career On Top

NEW YORK —In most fields a man gets ahead by going from the bottom to the top.

George Abou ben Hamid—may his tribe increase—did it the other way. Now one of America's leading showmen, he won success by working his way from the top to the bottom.

"I started as an acrobat at the age of 7 in Lebanon," explained Hamid. "The novice always acts as top man on the human pyramid. His goal is to work down until he is the ground man and holds the others up."

Hamid now runs the world's largest booking agency for thrill acts. He owns the Steel Pier at Atlantic City and a chain of movie houses. He also is currently staging the Beatty-Hamid-Morton Circus, billed as the largest under canvas.

But at 62, George, one of the top tumblers of his time, can still turn a cartwheel n his office—and thnks it isn't a bad way for a busy executive to pep up his circulation.

"I could probably still do a somersault—maybe for Marilyn Monroe," he remarked genially. "It's the ex-athlete who quits exercising who gets flabby and fat and dies young."

Hamid has known most of the entertainment figures of two generations, but his lifelong favorites are Col. William (Buffalo Bill) Cody and Annie Okaly, star marksman with the colonel's famous Wild West show.

"I came to this country with the show 50 years ago," he recalled. "Annie Oakley bought me my first primer and taught me to read. She gave me the only schooling I ever had.

"Col. Cody made a pet of me. I remember making lemonade for him during the summertime. I started with him for 25 cents a week.

"Once when I won in a contest between tumblers from three of the biggest circuses he was so pleased he doubled my salary—from $5 to $10.

"Buffalo Bill was my hero. No man since has been worshiped in quite the way he was. They even closed the schools when he came to town.

"He made more money for a time than any man who'd ever been in the circus business. But he was too generous.

"The only reason he died broke was that when somebody told him a sob story—he'd automatically reach in his pocket for money—and he never bothered to count what he pulled out. He gave away his fortune by the handful."

It was after the Buffalo Bill show folded in 1913 that Hamid started in the booking field finding jobs for the stranded acts. Today he runs a multimillion-dollar operation and culls the world for acts.

Ship Blast Fatal To 40

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—A sunken World War II ship loaded with ammunition blew up off Okinawa last night, killing an estimated 40 natives exploring it for scrap in violation of regulations.

The explosion left a large oil slick. There was no visible trace of bodies or of a number of fishing boats known to have been in the area at the time. Police based their estimate of the dead on a check of persons missing from nearby villages.

Scrap hunting has long been one of the most profitable postwar occupations of Ikinawans despite prohibitions and warnings from the U.S. military administration. Scavengers blew up another sunken ammunition ship last July, killing at least 32 Okinawans. The scrap collectors pose as fishermen and use homemade diving gear.

The wreck detonated last night was believed that of the Canada Victory, sunk during the battle of Okinawa.

Defense Plan Rift Confusing Public

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's an old story. Touch the armed forces and it's like pinching a tiger. Even when a president does it. The latest fight over streamlining the Defense Department should leave the public confused for weeks.

The battle will be mainly over details which military experts can understand and appraise but which will leave the public pretty much in the position of wondering who's right.

This fight goes back as far as 1945, through the administrations of presidents Truman and Eisenhower. Every time they pressed for more economy and efficiency in the armed forces they ran into opposition. Eisenhower's getting it again.

The latest flareup is over his streamlining proposals of April 3. Knowing what lay ahead, he promised to fight. He's already started to, with a speech yesterday, probably the best written he's ever delivered. Who wrote it is not known.

Even before he could make this talk in defense of his ideas they were lambasted by the most powerful man in the House side of the capitol on problems involving the armed forces: Rep. Vinson (D-Ga).

Vinson, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, made an hourlong speech of his own in the House Wednesday.

He charged that Esenhower wanted to merge the armed forces into one vast organzation; that the result would be a Prussian-type general staff; and that the whole Eisenhower concept was "dangerous to the security" of the country.

Eisenhower, whose whole case is based on the need for better security, replied with words like "nonsense." The Presdent, who knew he was in for a struggle, has postponed one of the most embattled points in his plan until next year.

He had called for more "flexibility" for Secretary of Defense McElroy in handling money voted for the armed forces. Because Esenhower was extremely foggy on just what "flexibility" meant, various interpretations were put on his words.

THE UNEMPLOYMENT PICTURE—This map, based on government job data for March, shows the percentage of jobless workers, state-by-state. This data comes from the Labor Department's employment security bureau, based on what has happened to workers covered for unemployment insurance and doesn't cover farm, domestic and self-employed workers exempt from unemployment insurance coverage. Three out of five of the nation's 5,200,000 workers made idle by the recession are located in the eight shaded states.

Indian Chief Is Faced With Tedious Diplomatic Problem

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—A soft-spoken but firm-jawed Indian chief walked a narrow path today between the surging power of material progress and the turmoil of politics among his own people.

Elton Black Cloud Greene, head chief of the Tuscaroras for 11 years, was seeking a way to that high level of Indian diplomacy for which his Iroquois ancestors were justly famous.

The Power Authority of the State of New York is seizing 1,383 acres of Tuscarora reservation land under a state law only a week old. The land is to be part of a storage reservoir for the 600-million-dollar Niagara redevelopment project, already under way. The price, the new seizure law says, can be decided later.

In fruitless negotiations last winter, the Power Authority offered the Tuscaroras $1,000 an acre. The Indians refused.

"We hold sacred to our hearts," said Greene in a statement right out of history, "the small reservation we have left in our possession."

The reservation, which lies along the rocky ridge northeast of this city, totals 6,248 acres. The nearly 700 residents either farm their assigned plots or work in nearby businesses or industries.

The 68-year-old Greene, a mild-mannered retired carpenter, slipped by a tough hurdle yesterday as violence erupted briefly on the reservation. The Tuscaroras successfully turned back the state's surveyors, with Wallace Made Bear Anderson, a young dissident who reportedly yearns for the chiefdom, in the van.

Anderson and one other Indian were arrested on charges of unlawful assembly, a third was charged with disturbing the peace and a white man — a member of the survey party — was charged with third-degree assault on complaint of an Indian woman.

After all hands had pleaded innocent, the Indians returned to the reservation for a tribal powwow, where Greene and the elder chiefs prevailed. There will be no more violence, said Greene, only passive resistance. The others agreed.

Greene, who once did a turn in vaudeville as a trumpet player in an act with his two brothers, abhors violence. He wants to settle the battle in court.

"But we will fight encroachment to the end, he said.

Similar signs will go up where projects are being completed to remove dangerous driving spots.

Antibiotic Is Flown To Ailing Child

ITAZUKE AIR BASE, Japan (AP)—A new and potent antibiotic for treatment of stubborn internal fungus infections is being flown here from the United States to speed the recovery of a Texas boy.

Larry Montgomery, 4, is seriously ill. He has been responding to treatment but physicians recommended use of the new drug, amphotericin.

Larry is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Montgomery of Amarillo. The father is a Navy engineman at Sasebo Naval Base in southern Japan.

The boy was flown here Monday, suffering from Stevens-Johnson Syndrome—a disease of the skin and mucous membranes which causes ulcers of the skin and membranes in the mouth, nose and eyes—and candida albicans, a fungus infection. The amphotericin is for treatment of the fungus.

The medicine, requisitioned by the Air Force, was put aboard a Military Air Transport plane at Travis AFB, Calif. The shipment is due tomorrow.

The Montgomerys have three daughters—Sammie, 10, Darlenne, 8, and Jean, 6.

Education System Lags, Editors Told

WASHINGTON — An author-educator told the nation's editors today that the quality of education provided in American classrooms is disgracefully low.

Arthur Bestor, University of Illinois historian and former head of the Council for Basic Education, told the American Society of Newspaper Editors that "professional educationists" have frittered away the country's resources of youthful talent on what he called "trivial and short-sighted programs."

Bestor's speech was prepared for a panel session at the editors' annual meeting. It was expected to draw a vigorous reply from another panelist, Dr. William G. Carr, executive secretary of the National Education Assn.

Bestor noted that 50,000 American students are studying German, as compared with five million Soviet pupils. American schools offer physics for one year, he said, while Soviet schools require physics for five years.

"What we should imitate from Russia is not its system but its expectations," Bestor added.

"For a generation professional educationists here have been selling the intellectual abilities of the American people short—asserting that half of them are too stupid to learn a foreign language, though gutter urchins throughout the world do so, and that two thirds of them are too stupid to profit from physics or intermediate algebra.

"Contempt for the innate ability of the common man has never been so virulent as it is among those American professional educationists who like most to talk about democracy.

"The greatest need of American education today is new leadership — leadership by men and women who believe in the importance of intellectual discipline for every young person."

Members of the high school bands and choirs tonight will present their final concert of the school year in a musical revue.

The variety show, which will feature light music, will begin at 8-p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Three bands, two choirs, and several choral ensembles will be featured, all of them from the high school. The bands are the high school concert band, stage band, and studio band. The choirs are the a capella and girls choirs.

Melvin Montgomery directs the high school bands, assisted by Phil Cherry. Tim Dennis is arranger for the stage band. Bob Clinton directs the high school choirs, aided by Mrs. Landis Lee with ensembles. Mrs. Lee, however will direct all the choral portion of the program tonight, since Clinton is in the hospital.

Working in staging and lighting are Wayne Pevey, Dan Martin, and Roger Gee.

Advance ticket sales have been good. Tickets will be on sale at the door tonight, however, All seats are 75 cents for adults and school-age children. Children under school age will be admitted free.

Several unusual lighting effects will be used in staging the show.

The two-hour show will open with the concert band playing "Jubilee March," "Toccata for Band," and "Latinata," an alto sax solo with band accompaniment featuring Phillip Smartt.

Then the Decades, a vocal group, will sing "Magic Moments," "Fascination," and "I'll Walk Alone." Afterward, the concert band will play two more numbers, "Night Beat" and "Goofin'."

The girls trio will be next, singing "Dear Hearts and Gentle People," and "Born to Be With You." Two numbers will be presented by another vocal group, the Satisfiers, "Crew Cut and Baby Blue Eyes" and "Blue Moon."

A novelty number, "Lollypop," will be sung by a group called the Lollypops, who will also sing "Twenty-six Miles."

The girls choir will have three numbers, "Bali Hai," "Elijah Rock," and "Granada."

After an intermission, the stage band, which specializes in jazz and popular music, will play "Mountain Greenery," "Chances Are" with vocal solo by Tommy Contella, "Swinging Shepherd Blues," "All the Way" with vocal solo by Dana Scarborough, and an original composition by Dennis, "Hi Yo Horace."

Then another vocal group the Debonaires, will sing "To Know You Is to Love You," "O Baby Mine," and "Make Yourself Comfortable."

Next will be the a capella choir singing "Allelula," "El Yiu Neh," a Jewish song, "Lonesome Valley," "Catch a Falling Star," and "Dry Bones," in which blacklighting will be used.

A girls vocal group the Teenagers, will sing "It's Been a Long, Long Time," "After You've Gone," and "A Good Man Is Hard To Find."

The studio band is one composed of outstanding band students, playing popular music. It will play "Deep River," a novelty number "The Little Brown Jug Goes to Town and the Piccolo Gets Left," and "Camptown Races."

The two final numbers of the show will be by the studio band and a capella choir combined, "Swanee," and "A So Long Song."

LETTERS TO EDITOR

(Letters from the readers of the Daily News are always welcome, provided they are signed by the writer and give his correct address. They will be printed subject to the publisher's discretion, based on whether the material contained is libelous or the language offensive. Letters should not exceed 300 words.)

TO THE DAILY NEWS:

Consider the youth center bond issue whose fate you will decide by voting tomorrow in the county election.

Mothers and fathers of teen age boys and girls, who give thought to it, might realize that the recreation center will canalize restlessness into energy . . . The restlessness which attends such exploits as propelling the family car again and again around the square. One terse comment by a mother asserted, "I want her at a supervised recreation center rather than having her parked on the back row of a drive-in theatre."

The energy into which this restlessness might flow will include, under the guidance of a WELL-TRAINED, well paid adult supervisor, games of all sorts, music, snack bar in informal atmosphere skating, organized fun, with plenty of variety so that each one may find his desired outlet for fun hours. An example, there is a national pool contest for teenagers, which will call a screeching halt to boys' frequenting local adult pool halls, a purported situation now.

It should be obvious also that parents of younger children will see in the recreation center insurance for their family when they hit the teenage stretch and find a well-developed recreation place waiting for them.

From the standpoint of county people, who reside outside of Snyder proper, what a fine and new pleasure, a meeting place which belongs to your teenagers. From personal eexperience I can testify that heretofore through the years there was little for us to do in Snyder but to go to a movie or loiter around town.

Fluvanna kids can meet Snyder kids and Hermleigh kids and all the rest. It could only be a broadening experience for all of them.

Oh, well, even if you are single, naturally despise kids, or are just mean as a sick snake, there is an answer for you. You can vote for the center with a glow of having shown civic intelligence. After all, what is more vital to all of us than the coming of new industries to our caunty? The words on a Chamber of Commerce brochure . . . "well run youth center" could well prove a strong inducement for a businessman who is cannily deciding what your area offers his family and that of his employees.

Please consider voting for this center. Don't allow it to go down through your indifference or your narrowminded view that it won't mean anything to YOUR child right now. Look back, then look ahead, and if you are as wise and wonderful as the teen agers look up to you as being you will vote YES.

Two Women Drown As Car Plunges In Lake

LOEB, Tex. (AP)—A car plunged into Cook's Lake yesterday and drowned two women.

Mrs. Bessie Metcalf, 36, and her mother, Mrs. Ethel Parker, 55, drowned when the auto plunged into 30 feet of water near this Southeast Texas town.

Peace Justice J.M. Bowman said the driver, Mrs. Bertha Blaisdell, 36, came to the surface and was taken to a Beaumont hospital suffering shock.

Bowman said the women, all of Loeb, were on a picnic outing. He said the auto apparently went out of control at the approach to a bridge and plunged into the water.

A. R. Lacy of Port Arthur, Tex., who was fishing nearby, pulled Mrs. Blaisdell from the water.

Farm population of Sweden has decreased by about 500,000 since the middle of the 1930's.

Acers Notes Bright Spots

DALLAS (AP) — Maurice Acers, Texas employment commissioner, cited bright spots in the Texas economy yesterday and said a major reshuffling in the kind of goods manufactured may be one of the reasons for industrial layoffs.

He said service industries are booming and construction of new homes, down last year, is up this year.

He said there has been an upswing of 55 per cent over last year in hospital building, 18 per cent in churches, 11 per cent in office building and warehouses and 12 per cent in public utilities.

Government Loosens Curbs On Nation's Money Supply

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has loosened another notch in its curbs on the nation's money supply.

Twin antirecession actions yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board came as House Democrats pushed forward a billion-dollar emergency program of help for the jobless. The Democratic program goes far beyond a 600-million-dollar plan President Eisenhower has proposed in this field.

Meanwhile, rival party leaders in the Senate argued over whether the Eisenhower administration is being vigorous enough in fighting the economic slump. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) bemoaned what he said is "a policy of letting things ride." But Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said Eisenhower has taken effective steps while cooperating with Congress in other antirecession moves.

For the fourth time in five months, the Federal Reserve Board reduced its dicount rate — the interest charged member banks borrowing from reserve banks. The action, cutting the rate from 2¼ per cent to 1¾ per cent, is effective today in New York, Chicago, St.Louis, Philadelphia and Minneapolis. The seven other Federal Reserve districts are expected to follow suit in time.

In another move aimed at making more money available for lending, the board reduced the amount of reserves which certain banks must maintain against demand deposits.

Effective yesterday, the reserve requirement at central reserve city banks in New York and Chicago was dropped from 19 per cent to 18½ per cent. Next Thursday, it will go down another half of 1 per cent.

Also next Thursday, the reserve requirement will be trimmed from 17 per cent to 16½ per cent in reserve city banks, located in most other large cities. Country reserve banks were not affected.

A spokesman for the Federal Reserve Board said about 600 million dollars in gold has moved out of the country in recent months, mainly because the situation in Europe has been relatively calmer than in the past. This has tightened the domestic money supply and the board spokesman said the bank reserve reduction was intended as a counter measure.

There were these other developments bearing on the economic situation:

1. Government experts anticipated that new figures due out next week will show that the cost of living hit another record high in March, due to advancing food prices.

2. Following up Eisenhower's signing of a highway speedup bill, the Commerce Department made available to the states an extra 600 million dollars for such work. The new outlays are over and above $2,875,000,000 previously apportioned for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Mrs. Cliett Fights Suit

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. Irene Cliett, who says she seceded her 703-acre farm from the United States last month, quoted the U.S. Constitution in answer to a federal complaint.

Mrs. Cliett withdrew from the United States when an injunction suit was filed to keep her off 350 of the acres.

The government complained Mrs. Cliett had "taken up battle stations with firearms upon the aforesaid land, which she named Eneri, Irene spelled backwards.

Mrs. Cliett answered: "A well-regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.'

She also asked that the injunction be set aside because, she said, she did not get a fair trial in the suit over the land.

Heirs of the late George Scott sued for half the land after he died in 1935. Mrs. Cliett contended he was only a family friend who lived in her home. But the court held there was some indication of a partnership and said the heirs should get half the land.

Soviets Planning Huge Oil Venture

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

Russia plans to invest up to 45 billion dollars in its oil industry in 15 years.

Kremlin expenditures on geological search and preparation of oil fields alone from now to 1972 have been estimated by a Soviet economist at 20 to 22½ billion dollars.

Additional tens of billions will be invested in refining and transportation.

A tentative 15-year plan for upping petroleum output provides for increase in annual extraction from 98 million metric tons in 1957 to from 350 to 400 million in 1972. The United States, the world's largest producer, produced 352 million metric tons in 1957. A metric ton equals 2,205 pounds.

The estimates were published by the Soviet magazine Economic Questions, in an article by petroleum economist M. Brenner. He indicated the Russians pin their hopes for increased oil production on the Volga-Urals basin, which now produces 63 per cent of Russia's output. Drilling costs there are far lower than in other Soviet oil regions.

He said the Tatar Republic, which is in this basin about 500 miles east of Moscow, is now Russia's biggest oil producing region. It outranks the Bashkir Republic, 100 miles farther east, first as recently as 1956, and the old producing area of Baku in Azerbaijan. Baku now holds third place among the fields, but produces much less than before the war. The fourth biggest producing field is in the Kuibyshev Region, like the Tatar and Bashkir Republics located in the Volga-Ural basin.

Brenner said 90 per cent of the growth of Soviet oil output now comes from self-flowing wells which need no pumping. For each new well put into operation in the Tatar Republic, he indicated, there is a net growth in output of around 14,000 tons a year.

Brenner said the average Soviet oil well yields six times as much crude as the average U.S. well. He said the Soviet oil industry needs to drill only one-fifteenth as much as the U.S. industry to increase annual output by one ton and claimed the average growth in production per new Soviet well put into operation is more than six times as high as in the United States.

The U.S. oil industry has outproduced Russia by many times for more than four decades. This has exhausted many of America's shallow deposits and requires deeper drilling to find new deposits. The Russians began to tap the Volga-Urals basin on a big scale only in the last few years.

Bar Owner Cuts Prices

NEW YORK (AP)—Tavern owner Lewis T. Gill has a head start on everybody in following President Eisenhowers advice to cut prices and encourage more people to buy.

Gill pulled out all stops earlier in the week at his bar and grill: he brought back the nickel beer, a 7-ounce glass of it too. In addition, he offered whisky for a quarter and a cheese and salami sandwich for a dime.

There's a sign in his place reading "The President says buy. Large beer, 5 cents, 1915 prices." And that goes for any brand.

Last night enthusiastic imbibers were lined up two deep along Gill's 50-foot bar. Two extra bartenders were on duty.

Gill, 50, commented: "Volume sales are up in the clouds, but of course profit is a lot less. But the profit is there, even at 5 cents per. A keg costs me $14 and pennies. I get $15 and pennies."

Man, Ex-Wife Are Slain In Tavern

ORANGE (AP)—Amos Milstead, 33, of LaFayette, La., and his former wife, Mrs. Mary Granger, 28, of Orange were found shot to death in a tavern yesterday.

The bodies were found in a tavern just across the state line in Louisiana.

A pistol was found beside Milstead's body.

Dr. Harry Snatic, Calcasieu Parish coroner, withheld a verdict.

Woman Gets Pattern After 32-Year Wait

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — In 1926 Mrs. Grace Faulkner ordered a pattern through the Louisville Courier-Journal. She got a card back saying her pattern wasn't in stock. It told her to pick another and she'd get it free.

Today's Courier-Journal announced Mrs. Faulkner finally found the pattern she liked. It's been sent to her.

Navy Pilot Sets Jet Altitude Mark

EL CENTRO, Calif. —"You're up there for three long seconds."

That's the terse way a Navy pilot yesterday described the climax of a missile-like climb into the fringe of space in which he set an unofficial world altitude record for conventional jet aircraft.

"Actually, this was a brief, technological invasion of space—a jet engine operating at an altitude at which it is not meant to operate," said Lt. Cmdr. George Watkins, who rode the swept-wing Grumman F11F-1F to 76,828 feet, above the Mojave Desert Wednesday.

The previous record, 70,308 feet, was set last summer by a British Canberra jet.

"You have to know exactly the right angle to apply in the climb," said Watkins, 37, who flashed at 45,000 feet over the desert at better than 1,200 m.p.h. before ye yanked back on the stick.

"You keep a grease pencil down in the webbing of your gee suit and when you're flying level you draw a line along the inside of the canopy along the horizon line.

"Then you mark a 45-degree angle bisecting the horizon line. When you pull back on the stick you allow maybe another five degrees and keep the 45-degree angle line parallel to the horizon... This gives you the angle of climb.

"It seems like you're going straight up. The altimeter is spinning like this. (He spun his finger like an eggbeater.)

"You are climbng at 50,000 feet per minute."

What happens at the peak of the climb?

"For the first time you have a chance to look around but you can't take time to lean over and look down at the ground.

"But you do take a glance at the altimeter. You hope it shows something because that's what you came up here for — to set a record.

"Then you nose her down. She begins to pick up speed and you can maneuver the plane again.

"The pilot in the chase plane following you radios to the field to clear the runways, and you get down there fast.

"You set her down on the field, taxi off the runway and shut her down. And it sure feels good because you haven't got much gas left—about 100 pounds (16 gallons) and that's about enough for half a turn around the field."

Big Banquet Is Canceled

NEW YORK (AP)—A public dinner arranged by an Army men's organization has been canceled because Army officers declined to hobnob with defense contractors.

The canceled dinner was to have been called the "Great Army Banquet," arranged by the New York chapter of the Association of the United States Army, a nonprofit educational institution that publishes the Army Combat Forces Journal. It was to have been held May 1 in connection with Loyalty Day observances.

Col. James V. Demarest, program chairman of the chapter, announced the cancellation. He said defense contractors who tried to organize tables for the dinner were snubbed by Army officers they invited.

He said the officers apparently turned down invitations because of unofficial Army disapproval of government personnel accepting favors from outside interests.

Demarest said Army Department heads denied there was any official order interfering with the association's activities.

Presbyterian Men To Meet Tuesday

The Presbyterian Men's Club will hold supper meeting at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the First Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. R. Matthew Lynn, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Midland, will be speaker.

ALBERT SCHWEITZER, whose biography is portrayed in a film opening here Sunday in cooperation with several churches here.

Schweitzer Film Opens Here Sunday

"Albert Schweitzer," the film which was chosen for the Academy Award as the best documentary film produced in 1957, will be shown at the Trail Drive-In Theater here Sunday through Wednesday in cooperation with several Snyder churches.

The film is a boigraphy of Albert Schweitzer, the Nobel Peace Prize winner who has achieved world renown as a philosopher, theologian, missionary, physician, and organist.

Dr. Schweitzer appears throughout the feature-length picture, photographed in color in the Albert Schweitzer Hospital in Lambarene, French Equatorial Africa, and in his childhood village, Gunsbach, France.

Dr. Schweitzer wrote the narrative for the film, spoken by Fredric March. In scenes about his childhood, Dr. Schweitzer's grandson portrays the young Albert, and his mother is represented by his sister.

The picture traces his life from birth, through the time of his decision at 30 to start his jungle hospital. The second half encompasses a full day in the hospital-village with Schweitzer, now in his 80s and still very active as head of the community.

Tickets price is 75 cents. All those who purchase tickets through members of the First Presbyterian Church, Trinity Methodist, and Union Methodist Churches will be donating 15 cents to the work of those churches.

Scientists Studying New Theories On Start Of Life

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — From simple chemicals which presumably existed on the dead earth millions of years ago scientists have produced substances they believe to be identical with those which formed the first living things.

These materials include an assortment of amino acids, the constituents of protein, and finally combinations of these acids into protein-like materials. Protein is the basic substance of living matter.

The steps they followed in the test tube experiment were something like those taken by other scientists in attempting to synthesize protein, one of the great goals of biological science.

However, their object was not to make protein for its own sake but to demonstrate how the first building blocks of life could have been formed.

These scientists presented the results of their work in paper before the American Chemical Society yesterday.

Dr. Stanley L. Miller of Columbia University showed how he produced amino acids from methane, a common natural gas, water, hydrogen and ammonia, with the aid of an electrical discharge.

Miller followed the conclusions of other scientists that the young, lifeless earth had these substances in its air and ocean water, and that their coming together could have been the result of lightning flashes during storms.

He demonstrated also his idea of how more complicated materials such as the basic materials for self-reproduction of the first primitive cells may have been produced under similar conditions.

A slightly different procedure was postulated by Dr. Philip Abelson of the Carnegie Institution of Washington. He expressed belief that the original raw chemicals, hydrogen, water and carbon dioxide, came from the gas of erupting volcanoes, and that mild volcanic heat put them together in combinations similar to those of Dr. Miller.

The protein-like substances made from these primitive building blocks were produced by Dr. Sidney W. Fox of Florida State University through the use of heat.

Whether this primitive substance has biological activity — that is, the ability to accumulate other simple substances and use them to build itself into something alive or nearly alive—Dr. Fox declined to say.

However, he indicated he believes the material has some talent for acting upon or with other materials.

Movieland Gets Look At 'Feelies'

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — First the flickies, then the talkies and now the feelies.

Movieland got a preview look yesterday at a demonstration reel of the first feelie—or subliminal perception—movie.

Its an audience participation sort of thing, but it wont raise blood pressure until they perfect it so males smack their lips after a Marilyn Monroe kiss.

Feelies utilize subliminal perception, sometimes called secret pitch, a hard sell where symbols — or advertising messages — are flashed on the screen so fast that the eye can't see them. But the subconscious gets the message.

One theater owner has flashed a "buy popcorn message over Kim Novak's face.

But the producers of "My World Dies Screaming" argue that they are using SP only for dramatic effect.

Heres how it works: Gerald Mohr, the heavy, gets a snake superimposed on his face. That means he's evil. The old gaslight theater used to put a greasy mustache on the villain for the same effect.

Cathy O'Donnell, the heroine, looks at Mohr and a heart is used as the SP symbol. That means she loves him.

It had to be explained to me later; I thought she was scared to death of him.

Then when the suspense mounts, the screen is one flash after another, a skull, the words "death" and "blood". These means that he is going to kill her.

I had gotten the message earlier because he had his hands around her throat pressing on the windpipe.

Perhaps its unfair to judge a movie on one demonstration reel, shown first with SP hidden and repeated with the symbols showing.

But I felt that Alfred Hitchcock creates more suspense with conscious tricks than SP does with unconscious. The play's still the thing.

Scrap Dealer Gets Verdict Against UAW

DETROIT (AP)—A Circuit Court jury has awarded Detroit scrap dealer Carl Renda a $400,000 damage verdict against the United Auto Workers and four of its aides.

The jury returned its verdict yesterday in Renda's damage suit charging malicious prosecution in the 1948 shooting of UAW President Walter P. Reuther. Renda had demanded 4½ million dollars.

One of the defendants, Emil Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer, said the union would appeal the decision.

Renda charged the union sought to pin the Reuther shooting on him by paying Donald Ritchie, Windsor, Ont., $5,000 to testify against him.

Renda was one of four men named in a warrant four years ago charging them with conspiracy to shoot Reuther. The warrant was dropped after Ritchie repudiated his story.

The verdict was against the union; Mazey; Harold Cranefield, UAW legal counsel; Jack T. Conway, Reuther's administrative assistant; and Samuel J. Henderson, a private detective employed by the union.

The jury found no cause for action against retired State Police Lt. Joseph Sheridan, a fifth defendant.

The union contended there was probable cause for issuance of the warrant.

The 1948 Reuther shooting has never been solved.

Men and Women Take Off Ugly Fat

Here is a letter from a grateful user of Barcentrate, which tells its own story.

Mrs. Carl Nafus, 1603 North Azalea, Victoria, Texas, wrote as follows:

"We are certainly living in an age of constant improvement. As a very happily married lady, my wish is to remain so. I am 39. I am taken for a person age 20-25. I attribute this to Barcentrate. I have taken it since 1952. I lost 20 pounds and I continue to take it because I can enjoy any fattening food and Barcentrate takes care of it. As a tonic, it is wonderful. I worked in a drug store and I sold Barcentrate every time."

Ancient Ice Will Be Used

NEW YORK (AP)—If health authorities approve, chunks of ice thousands of years old will chill cocktails at a dinner here next Monday.

The 180 pounds of the frozen stuff, cut from a New Zealand glacier dating back to prehistoric times, were flown here this week from the Tasman Glacier on Mt. Cook.

Bacteriologists began a study to find out if the ancient ice is hygienic. If so, it will be served in drinks at a dinner to be given by Sir Leslie Munro, New Zealands ambassador.

If not pronounced safe, the ice will be used to cool the champagne.

'Winner' Of TV Set Is Loser By $5.33

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—"What's your name" the man asked. Mrs. Lucy Underwood told him.

"That's right," he announced, and told her she had won a television set..

The man, who knocked on Mrs. Underwood's door, said she'd have to pay $5.33 tax on the set. She did.

The set hasn't arrived. Police said it probably won't. They're looking for the man.
