1 Drowns In Flood

BEAUMONT (AP)—One man drowned in floodwaters caused by torrential rains, and several families were forced to evacuate their homes today as remnants of Tropical Storm Claudette lashed the Beaumont-Orange-Port Arthur area.

Suburban Bridge City was the hardest hit community. City Manager C.R. Nash said, "We've had over 14 inches of rain and it's still coming down." He said as many as 20 persons were evacuated.

Detroit Sales Up

DETROIT (AP)—For the first time in months, a U.S. auto manufacturer is reporting higher sales, and analysts say the tiny upturn may mean the industry sales slump has bottomed out.

General Motors Corp. said Tuesday its sales for the middle 10 days of July were 1.1 percent above the same period last year.

Defeat Called Victory

WASHINGTON (AP)—House opponents of a proposed constitutional amendment to ban busing as a desegregation tactic say its defeat Tuesday was a victory for "basic human rights." But supporters vow the issue will come back to haunt its detractors in upcoming elections.

"I recommend that we dispose of it by soundly defeating this constitutional amendment and demonstrating to the world that the United States is not going to turn the clock back on basic human rights," said oposition member Rep. Mendel Davis, D-S.C.

Supporter Rep. Robert Dornan, R.-Calif., predicted 10 to 15 House members will not return to Congress in 1980 because they voted against the measure.

Charges Carter...

Media Exaggerating Extent Of Shake-Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter, seeking to speak directly to millions of Americans tonight in a rare prime-time broadcast news conference, says the media have exaggerated the extent of his administration shake-up.

The president and his aides say both American and foreign reporters are blowing up the power of Carter's inner circle of faithful Georgians, especially chief of staff Hamilton Jordan.

"The Washington press has grossly exaggerated this," Carter was quoted by a participant as telling about 250 political appointees Tuesday.

A second source, one of the Georgians, quoted the president as saying Cabinet members won't report to Jordan. Carter said there has been "considerable exaggeration in some quarters of Hamilton's role," said this source, who asked not to be identified.

The meeting participant, who took detailed notes, said Carter specifically blamed the Washington press for the exaggeration.

Earlier in the day, two senior aides, reflecting concern by officials over foreign reporters' negative comments, called in five or six European journalists and one Japanese reporter to rebut some of their accounts.

The aides told the reporters the administration shake-up does not represent a constitutional crisis and denied that political advisers such as Jordan, press secretary Jody Powell and media adviser Gerald Rafshoon will be influencing basic economic and foreign policy decisions.

Carter's news conference tonight is scheduled for 9 p.m. EDT in an attempt to get a bigger audience than his usual 4 p.m. sessions.

House Leaders Predicting OK For Rationing Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—With raised energy consciousness, the House is making another try at giving the president standby gas rationing authority. This time leaders are confidently predicting approval.

After rejecting the first plan 246 to 159 on May 10, the House today was considering a recycled and expanded version that has become a major piece of President Carter's energy program.

A changed mood in Congress toward energy issues - prompted by the summer's gas lines and given further impetus by Carter's new energy initiatives - is expected to provide the votes needed to overturn the May action.

The House Rules Committee, which picks the bills that will see floor action, approved the measure by voice vote Tuesday, opening the way for its consideration by the full 435 member House.

The legislation may be the only part of Carter's plan with any chance of getting to the president's desk before the congressional August recess, which begins Aug. 3.

On Tuesday, Senate leaders told Carter that final action on his "windfall profits" tax won't come until the fall. And other parts of the plan now moving through Congress also seem unlikely to be enacted until after the month-long recess.

The bill before the House would let the president invoke rationing if oil or gasoline supplies fell by 20 percent over a 30-day period - or if such a shortage seemed likely. Once invoked, Congress would have 15 days during which either chamber could block the plan.

However, White House lobbyists are unhappy with the 20 percent "trigger" and are incouraging amendments to eliminate or reduce this provision.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill predicts the House will approve the rationing bill and says there's a good chance the 20 percent trigger will be trimmed. "It was put in only to get the bill out of committee," he recently confided to several reporters.

However, sponsors of the bill say they may try to keep the 20 percent requirement to ensure that rationing is used only in an emergency of the magnitude of another Arab oil embargo.

Carter Nominates Volcker For FRB

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter announced today he is nominating Paul A. Volcker, a former Treasury official and now president of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, to be chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

In a statement read to reporters by White House Press Secretary Jody Powell, Carter said of his choice to succeed out going board Chairman G. William Miller:

"Mr. Volcker has broad economic and financial experience and enjoys an outstanding international reputation. He shares my determination to pursue the battle against inflation at home and insure the strength and stability of the dollar abroad."

The top central bank position fall vacant last week when Carter tagged Miller to succeed the departing W. Michael Blumenthal as Treasury secretary.

Volcker, 51, has been president of the New York Federal Reserve Bank since 1975 and formerly served as undersecretary of the Treasury for monetary affairs.

Volcker also currently is vice chairman of the Fed's Open Market Committee, which makes key decisions on controlling credit.

Because of uncertainties generated in international money markets by Miller's departure from the Fed, Carter had promised to give top priority to the selection of a successor.

The appointments of Volcker and Miller require Senate confirmation.

Initial reaction in Congress to Volcker's selection was positive.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, chairman of the House Banking Committee said: "Volcker is an excellent choice. International bankers being what they are, his appointment should quiet the dollar by noon today. I have worked with him for years and have found not only that he is able but that he knows there is a Congress.

Volcker, a former Wall Street banker, was undersecretary of the Treasury for monetary affairs from 1969 until 1974, when President Richard M. Nixon resigned. He was one of the few Democrats to hold a high position in the Nixon administration.

Carter considered Volcker once before as a candidate for the Federal Reserve chairmanship in 1977, when Miller was chosen.

After he left the Treasury, Volcker became president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, the largest district bank in the Federal Reserve system.

A New York banking official said he thought Volcker would be a good choice as Miller's successor because "he seems like somebody with great qualifications for the job; he has the respect of the business and financial community, and he's somebody who wants the job, too."

City To Interview Six For Manager

The Snyder city council met in special session Tuesday night and formally accepted the resignation of City Manager George Patterson.

The council then convened in executive session to discuss screening and interviewing procedures for selecting a replacement for Patterson.

It was reported that the council has set up six interviews, the first coming late this week and the remainder tenatively set for next week.

Major John Fagin said all the interviews would be private and would include the entire city council. Numerous applications for the Snyder city post have been received and will be reviewed, but the council will basically interview prospects on an invitation basis only.

Patterson, Snyder city manager for the past 17 years, resigned last week to accept the city manager's post in Highland Park in north Dallas. The resignation is effective Sept. 1.

Present for Tuesday's city council meeting were Mayor Fagin and Councilmen Vernon Rannefeld, Bryce Booker and Dr. John Best.

Absent were councilmen Milton Ham, Joe Reaves and David Holt.

Despite cries of foul play on the part of oil companies and complaints about government intervention in oil production, affordable fossil fuel supplies really are dwindling, and gasoline-devouring cars will soon become anachronisms.

President Carter's proposed energy plans call for cutting the country's use of foreign oil in half to four to five million barrels a day by 1990. Gas rationing could become a reality should Congress accept Carter's proposal for a standby rationing system during severe oil shortages.

As a result, those who are infants now may only see roomy luxury cars as museum pieces. The day of the spacious Lincoln Continental and Cadillac are reaching an end.

Soon the grocery laden station wagon, a symbol of suburbia, will be replaced by compact Volkswagens and other small cars.

In the future, teenagers will no longer cruise the local hamburger stand for a coke, Sunday drives will become a thing of the past, and cross country automobile trips will be replaced by bus, train and air travel.

Americans may finally resort to exercise as a form of transportation. Perhaps Texans will follow the example of businessmen in California who are roller skating to work.

The flat country of West Texas would provide an ideal surface for roller skates and bicycles.

For those who commute long distances, many mass transit systems are scheduled for overhaul. President Carter's energy proposals for the next ten years include a plan to spend 10 billion for improving bus and rail systems in the United States.

Instead of each commuter driving in his own air conditioned or heated cubicle, Americans are destined to share bus and subway space in an effort to end fuel wasting.

Q.--Why does the ambulance service in Snyder use city or county gas?

A.--It's part of the contract. The ambulance service in Snyder is privately operated under contract with the city and county. The contract calls for the city and county to purchase the equipment, provide up to $1200 in maintenance and also calls for a monthly cash subsidy to operate the service. Accurate records are maintained on the amount of gas used in the ambulances, and that amount is subtracted monthly from the subsidy figure. City and county officials agree that the ambulance service in Snyder is one of the most efficient and economical in the state.

Banquet Discussed At Chamber Meet

Lack of a quorum resulted in an unofficial meeting of the board of directors of the Snyder chamber Tuesday night in which those present heard committee reports. No action was taken during the meeting.

Truett Bryan, chairman of the annual banquet set for Sept. 20, was on hand to bring the board up to date on banquet plans. Eddie Chiles, president of the Western Co. and advocate of responsibility of those elected to the electorate, will be guest speaker.

Bryan said tickets go on sale soon and cost will be $10 per person.

Also on hand was Jerry Vestal, who has been appointed chairman of the 1980 banquet. Vestal sought input concerning a speaker for next year's fete.

Ralph Miller, head of the chamber's AJRA Rodeo, was on hand to discuss the rodeo set for Aug. 7-11 in the Scurry County Coliseum. This is the fourth year for the national finals to be held in Snyder.

Miller said tickets for each performance will be $3 and $2.50 and tickets currently are on sale at the chamber office. Miller added that publicity on the rodeo in the area will be started soon.

The rodeo, a self-sustaining project of the chamber, will cost from $26,000 to $28,000. Miller urged local residents to help support the rodeo by attendance and encouragement of others to attend. Several thousand persons from several states are in Snyder during rodeo week.

Chamber President Dalton Walton reported on the recent 4th of July celebration. He said all revenue and expenses are not final, but it does appear that the chamber will stay in the black as sponsor of the gigantic holiday event which concludes with an impressive fireworks display.

Rabies Clinic Set August 4

Snyder Jaycees will sponsor a rabies vaccination clinic Aug. 4 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the agricultural complex by the coliseum.

Cost of the rabies shots has not yet been determined, but vaccination tags will be free, Bill West, committee chairman for the clinic said.

Snyder veterinarians will administer the vaccinations.

doubts reign on high

Although the anti-inflation guidelines have proved practically useless in combating inflation, the White House apparently has won the court battle to save them. The Supreme Court has decided not to review an appellate court ruling that use of sanctions to enforce the voluntary guidelines is legal.

Now it remains to be seen whether the government will use the authority to deny federal contracts to violators and what good this would accomplish. The exercise seems futile.

On the other hand, the appellate decision--and now the Supreme Court action--could move the nation another step closer to mandatory controls.

Dr. Richard S. Landry, director of economic policy for the U.S. chamber said analysis of the controls last fall showed three quarters of American business firms could not meet the wage, price and profits standards. Double-digit, cost-push inflation since that time, especially in energy prices, has further reduced the possibility of compliance."

Control, simply treat the symptoms of inflation, the most visible signs -- higher prices and higher wages -- but fail to attack the underlying causes.

These causes included an expansive monetary policy; federal deficit spending, which heats up the economy and drains funds away from capital investment; the federal minimum wage law, which raises wages for millions without a comparable increase in output; higher Social Security benefits, which require higher taxes, and government regulation of business, which costs consumers, business and taxpayers upwards of $100 billion a year.

Does the average citizen understand the link between these government policies and inflation? Perhaps, now, but we may all be in for a horrible learning experience. Gasoline rationing -- government controls at their worst -- could provide that gruesome lesson. Sitting in long, frustrating gas lines, some motorists already are entertaining the idea of rationing.

But what good would gasoline rationing do? Would it eliminate the shortage in supplies of gasoline, or simply spread it around indiscriminately?

Similarly, what good are wage and price controls? Do they eliminate the root causes of higher wages and prices? Or do they simple pretend to treat the problems in the same futile way rationing would deal with a gasoline shortage?

On all of the above, the answer is the same: Controls don't work.

control don't work

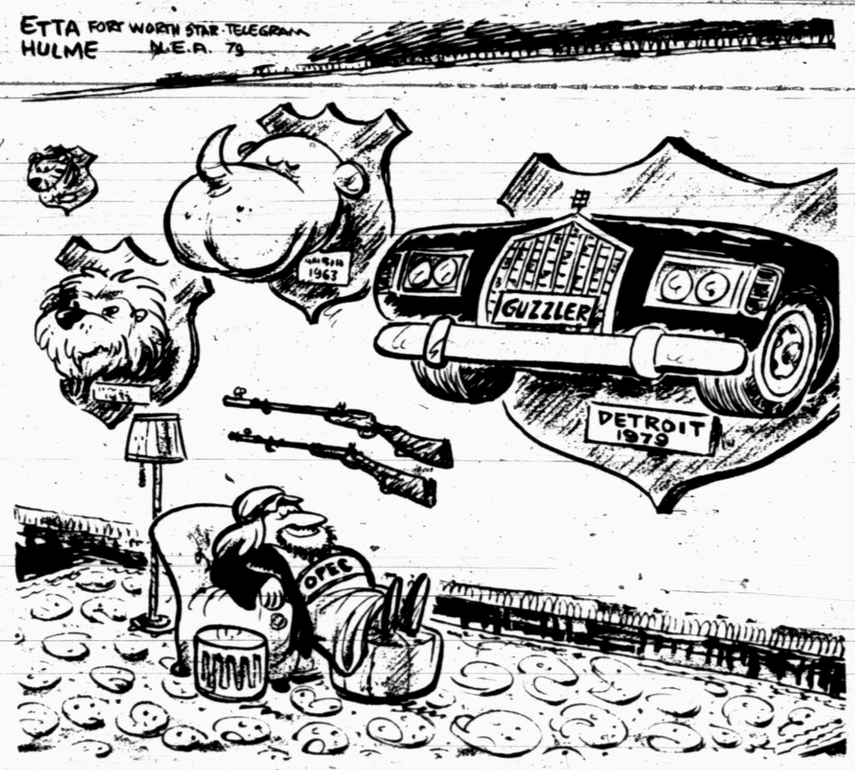
WASHINGTON (NEA)-Uncertainty about President Carter's chances for re-election now has reached unprecedented heights - to Vice President Walter F. Mondale, handpicked by Carter as his running mate less than three years ago.

During recent trips back to his home state of Minnesota, Mondale quietly passed the word to fellow Democrats: Kindly avoid making any commitments regarding the 1982 race for the U.S. Senate seat from that state.

Those who have had personal conversations with the vice president on the delicate subject say Mondale clearly is concerned about the possibility of being out of office if the Carter-Mondale ticket loses in 1980.

Mondale, apparently seeking to minimize or eliminate opposition for the Democratic nomination in the Senate race, has held public office during virtually his entire adult life and was a member of the Senate before joining the Carter ticket.

If he seeks to return to the legislature Mondale undoubtedly would face Republican opposition, probably from the current officeholder, Sen. David Durenberger, who was elected only last year to fill the remaining four years of the final term of the late Hubert H. Humphrey.



at wits end

The other morning I opened the paper to see President Carter's daughter, Amy, trailing behind him at an airport in Tokyo yawning and carrying her violin case.

The President and Mrs. Carter unknowingly are resurrecting a trend in this country that has been dormant for more than a decade. It's called taking the children with you.

Throughout the world at state dinners, high-level hellos at the airport, and motorcades, I have seen Amy trudging along carrying her books, stuffed animals and games.

Not only is the President putting the baby sitter vote in jeopardy, he is creating disharmony among U.S. children who have to stay home with a minimum wage baby sitter, $200 worth of steaks in the freezer and $5,000 worth of toys.

My son said to me the other day, "You never take us anywhere."

"Where would you like to go?"

"I'd like to get out more and meet people like Brezhnev or the Japanese Ambassador to the United States...or maybe just to see a Chinese opera."

"People don't take their children to them anymore."

"Then why does the president do it?"

"Maybe he can't get a sitter. Besides, you'd be bored."

"No I wouldn't. I'd take my skateboard along or my drum set...I'd keep busy. I know some kids whose parents even take them out for dinner once in awhile. I can't remember when you last took me out to dinner."

"I remember. It was when you uttered your first words: 'shrimp cocktail and pressed duck."

Maybe I'm overracting, but my mother tells stories of how she used to travel with us in the '30s B.G. (Before Guilt.)

She tells of how we locked ourselves in a public restroom...pulled over a gumball machine in a crowded grocery store, entwined our bodies around her legs and whined because we couldn't have candy...fell asleep at the fair... threw up on the ferris wheel and argued for 35 miles once on the life span of a centipede with foot problems.

Maybe if we had taken our violin along ... things would have been different.

The human body is a machine-like structure that has been under scientific study forever, and forever will be. In reading a family magazine, these body oddities and healthful hints were noted.

Next time anyone tells you about the legendary good old days, they might be reminded that in 1910 the average life expectancy of an American baby was 47 years. Today it's 73.

And for the 98 pound weaking, here's good news. The insurance people tell us that the person most likely to live to a ripe old age is short and skinny.

Employers who want to keep their companies more productive should keep things cool. Too much heat not only slows workers down but causes them to make more mistakes. And in case you're keeping track, a man's body temperature drops more rapidly in a cool environment than a woman's.

Women are more easily hypnotized than men, but they do not bear pain any better.

A message to the brain travels at 265 miles per hour.

If you are 35 or older, at this very same time tomorrow you will have 100,000 fewer brain cells, and for every decade after age 40, you will shrink about an half inch.

The death rate for single men is twice that of married men, and further studies show that married men aren't sick as often as their single counterparts.

In case your hat doesn't seem to fit as snugly as it should, you might want to know that no two humans' ears are alike, not even your own two.

While hair grows fastest in the morning, experts warn that most men over age 40 will be bald by the year 2000. Meanwhile, the hair on the head of the average American male is, while it lasts, getting darker with each generation.

Your biological day-the time it takes your body rhythms to recycle-doesn't last 24 hours, but between 25 and 28 hours.

If you are an adult, your brain is about three times as big as it was on the day you were born.

The best decision-making takes place between noon and 2 p.m., said the magazine.

Have you ever noticed it's impossible to sneeze with your eyes open? The human anatomy simply doesn't allow it.

A drop of blood takes 30 seconds to run through your entire body.

If you are of medium bone structure, here's a simple way to compute ideal weight, if you're a woman, multiply your height in inches by 3.5 and subtract 110 from the result. If you're a man, multiply your height in inches by 4 and substract 130.

NEW YORK (AP)-As energy prices rise and people become conscious of the potential depletion of natural resources, conspicuous consumption has been given an ignominious bum's rush.

It will be resurrected some day, but probably never again in the style of the past 30 years, when automobiles, for example, were rated on their useless horsepower and their parlor-like interiors.

It came to an embarrassing end. It was like the uncle who dressed like a banker but who never did a lick of work in his life, and who was eventually thrown out of the house. It was designed to impress rather than to perform. It was pride, snobbery, idleness.

It ingratiated itself into our houses, too. Over the past 20 years, they grew larger and more elaborate with extra bedrooms, a family room that might never be used, an extra half bath, a heated garage and a pool.

Any real estate agent will tell you that many such houses were sold on the basis of appearance rather than structural quality, ease of living, or suitability. To afford such lavishness meant you had arrived.

But now, real estate people say, the size of houses is likely to shrink. So important have operating costs become, they contend, that even the conspicuously rich may have to reconsider.

The extra rooms are being closed off. The heat to the garage is being shut off. And some people with extremely conspicuous mansions are selling them to institutions and moving to pieds-a-terre in town.

The changes already are observed by the analysts. Advance Mortgage Corp. commented this week that henceforth "luxury will be conveyed less by footage and more by quality of finish and amenities."

It and other real estate concerns report a return to considerations of location: nearness to work, stores, schools, churches, transportation. Remoteness, once a symbol of those who could spend big, is out. No longer may it be smart to leave the environment in which one earns a daily living. The new criterion, says Advance Mortgage, "will be nearness to employment centers and to good public transportation."

Conspicuous consumption will return, of course, thanks to the need of buyers to show they are better off than you, and thanks also to American marketing enterprise, which will provide them with the ways.

In the meantime, many Americans may begin to treasure their homes for their essential virtues rather than as symbols of affluence. It happened with the car: Buyers learned that less could offer more.

Already in some communities the sticker prices of small efficient cars are the prices at which you begin to negotiate. Final prices can be a couple of hundred dollars higher. Demand supports the premiums.

And you can already observe in the real estate advertisements that the selling terminology of houses is changing. Conspicuous by its presence in a recent ad was the phrase "triply insulated."

Which suggests there is probably more than one way to waste.

The United States isn't the only major democracy displaying early symptoms of election fever.

West Germany is also warming up for a national vote that could be one of the most interesting in that country's postwar experiment in representative government.

An entire new parliament - the Bundestag - is to be selected in the fall of 1980, but attention at the moment focuses on the man the opposition (for the last 10 years) conservative coalition has selected to lead them into battle against the governing Socialists: Franz-Josef Strauss.

Strauss has the longest running political career in West Germany. As a national figure he is of the vintage of Konrad Adenauer, Ludwig Erhard and Willy Brandt, all of whom long since have departed the active political scene via death or retirement.

But Strauss remains, as the perennial leader of the Christian Socialist Union, junior coalition partner of the Christian Democrats, and for the past year as prime minister of his native Bavaria.

He was a key figure in the Federal Republic's postwar conservative governments. That role, however, ended in the late '50s when, as defense minister he sent his agents on a sweep through news offices to determine the source of embarrassing press leaks concerning secret German military training arrangements with Spain. The incident was a little too reminiscent of the recent Nazi past and forced Strauss' withdrawal from the federal cabinet. But even on the sidelines, he remained a national political power.

His reputation is that of the wild bull of German politics - a powerful personality, laceratingly outspoken, a dedicated right-winger and something of a roughneck peasant.

Strauss is well aware of this image and once said that Germans would have to be in a desparate state to make him chancellor. That self-awareness may explain his sudden decision to seize the conservative leadership from a pallid clique the late Konrad Adenauer would have difficulty recognizing as his political heirs. The Germans as a whole may not have been in a desparate state, but the conservatives certainly were. Under the old leadership, the election was already written off to Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's Socialists.

The conservatives are still expected to lose - almost certainly even by Strauss himself. But at least they will be going into a real battle from which they should emerge minus the cobwebs of the past decade.

And the election now brings into direct confrontation the country's two major political figures.

Chancellor Schmidt is seen by many Germans to be the most effective national leader since Adenauer, a formidable authoritarian personality, was a far greater force in world affairs than the country he represented, the forceful Schmidt and economically powerful, politically influential West Germany are a perfect match. He is called by Germans "Helmut the Lip" for his frequently undiplomatic bluntness, to which Jimmy Carter among other world leaders can testify.

No one in contemporary German politics is in the same class as Schmidt and Strauss, but the candidacy of the latter is being deplored by the Socialists as a conservative toward extremism and a challenge to German democracy, possibly the most serious in the Federal Republic's history.

It is not that. The real rite of passage, successfully negotiated, came during the '60s in the orderly transference of power first from the Ayatollah Adenauer's iron grip to Christian Democrat successors and eventually to the Socialists.

Privately, however, the Socialists are reported to be delighted with the Strauss candidacy, certain that it will solidify their ranks and attract conservative defectors. A recent poll found 9 percent of Christian Democratic voters considering changing sides because of Strauss.

In the longer term, however, they may be less cause for celebration. If Strauss goes down to defeat but in the process shakes conservatives out of their long slumber, the next election after this could be a much different story.

Franz-Josef Strauss, the rightist bull, may never himself attain the chancellorship. And while this may not be precisely the way he would put it himself, by being instrumental in arranging the next orderly transference of power, he may end up rendering a much greater service to Germans than if he had.

The 1980 election, in retrospect, could come to be seen as another landmark in Germany's democratic coming of age.

Autumn Vegetables Dress Up Pot-Roast

Autumn's color extravaganza comes earlier to garden and grocery than to woodlands. Supplies of many bright fruits and vegetables are swelling to peak production.

To take culinary advantage of these in-season treats, couple them with meat, suggests Reba Staggs, home economist with the National Livestock and Meat Board. This Cider Pot-Roast with stuffed apples provides an appetizing example.

Cider Pot-Roast

4 to 5-pound boneless chuck or rump pot-roast
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 cup apple cider or apple juice
1 can (1 pound 7 oz.) sweet potatoes, drained and mashed
1 tablespoon brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ teaspoon salt
6 baking apples, cored
¾ cup currant jelly
Flour for gravy, if desired

Combine flour, 1 tablespoon salt, pepper and ginger. Dredge meat in seasoned flour. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add ½ cup apple cider or juice. Cover tightly and bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.; 3 to 4 hours or until meat is tender.

Mix sweet potatoes with brown sugar butter or margarine and ½ teaspoon salt. Spoon potato mixture into cored apples. Mix ½ cup apple cider or juice with currant jelly. Pour over apples. Bake in a slow oven 50 minutes or until apples are done. Remove meat to heated plater, arranging apples around it. Thicken cooking liquids with flour, if desired.

ITALIAN FAIR ACCENTS BEEF

Your budget may not permit a trip to all the countries you'd like, but imaginatively you can always travel by means of culinary adventure.

Take Italy, for instance. Famous for its seasonings such as tomatoes, garlic, mushrooms, stuffed olives and green pepper, this country yields inspiration for many entrees. All of these can be starred with good, American beef pot-roast, declares Reba Staggs, meat expert for the National Livestock and Meat Board.

Start with one three to four-pound beef arm or blade pot-roast. Dredge this meat with three tablespoons of flour which has been mixed with one and one-half teaspoons salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Brown the meat slowly on both sides in three tablespoons lard or drippings. Pour off drippings.

To the browned steak, add one-half cup of sliced onion and one (16 oz.) can tomatoes, one (4 oz.) can mushrooms, drained, three tablespoons chopped green pepper, one-half cup sliced stuffed olives and one-eighth teaspoon garlic salt.

Cover the meat tightly and cook very slowly on top of the range, three to three one-half hours or until tender.

Senior 4-Hers Plan Project

The Senior 4-H Club met Tuesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Noel Browning. Mary Garza, president, presided over the business session.

Reports were heard from Mavis Browning on her trip to Brownwood, and Martha Beavers on her trip to Teen Leader Lab at Levelland.

The group plans to make signs stating "A 4-H Senior Girl Lives Here." This is a summer community project.

Attending were Miss Ruby Butts, adult leader who was assisted by Mrs. Browning. Seniors were Miss Beavers, Miss Garza, Connie Essery, Brenda Hernandez and Belia Rocha. Mrs. Nellie Essery also attended.

Remove clothes that need ironing from the dryer while they are still slightly damp, recommends Pat Seaman, a housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Some years ago in discussing the Bath coup, we made the mistake of referring to Bath as a seaside resort in England. It is a resort, but not on the ocean as many readers pointed out to us.

The play goes way back to whist and apparently was first used by vacationers in that inland resort. It isn't a complicated play since all it involves is ducking an adverse king when you hold ace-jack small of the suit led.

South has a classic Bath coup hand. He lets West hold the first trick with his king of hearts. West may lead a second heart. In that case South scores his jack. West may shift to a spade. In that case South can get three spade tricks. West can lead a club which will give South three club tricks, or he may sacrifice his king of diamonds.

In any event, once South lets West hold the first trick West is doomed. South is sure of three notrump and may well find a way to make an overtrick.

Now, see what happens if South takes the first heart. He can bring home the bacon if he plays the ace and another diamond right away, but of course, winds up with egg on his face if East holds the diamond king. Or he can get to dummy, lose the diamond finesse and still wind up with his contract if the defense slips.

Smoking, Early Menopause Linked

A Swedith study confirms a link between smoking and early menopause. An abstract published in Modern Medicine reports that there were significantly more women smokers than nonsmokers reaching menopause by age 50 among the 1,462 Swedish women included in the study.

Help Children Converse With Elderly

For children who need encouragement to visit their grandparents, Rhoda S. Pomerantz, MD, and Joan Le Sage, RN, PhD, make the following recommendations to parents:

Suggest subjects children can discuss with their grandparents. Ask them to share a picture they drew. Let them visit alone for a while.

Grandparents can provide an opportunity for a one-to-one relationship with a child. They are likely to be tolerant, nondisciplinary figures in the child's life. "Contact among generations is also educational and facilitates the transfer of family stories and history. This provides a sense of security for the child as he begins to develop his own identity from his family's past," the specialists in geriatric medicine advise.

Unfortunately, children may react to society's negative attitudes towards the elderly, and "a special effort should be made to present the aging process and older persons in a positive way."

Dr. Pomerantz is medical director of The Johnston R. Bowman Health Center for the Elderly in Chicago and Dr. LeSage is Associate Professor of Gerontological Nursing at Rush University's College of Nursing.

Muck Filled Dragstrip Provides Entertainment

HOUSTON (AP)—It's been said that the only real way to tell the difference between adults and children is by the cost of their toys.

Now couple that axiom with the apparent fact that children seem to have an almost magnetic attraction to anything resembling a mud puddle, and the result is the premise behind Boggin International north of Houston.

Here is four-wheelin' city-style as every kind of vehicle from Subarus to tractor-trailer cabs plow through axle-deep muck in side-by-side trenches 100 yards long, battling for the title of King of the Slime.

As many as 1,000 people at $3 a head line up next to the pits each Sunday to get splattered with brown, Gulf Coast mud the consistency of overcooked chocolate pudding and watch drivers of $15,000 four-wheel-drive pickups burn out their clutches.

"Instead of going up into the backcountry around Austin or other places to run their dune buggies and off-road vehicles, people come here," said Larry McShaffry. "Because we're closer to the city, I think the fuel shortage has helped rather than hurt us."

McShaffry said he used to operate a tow-truck and made a lot of money "going out to the boonies to rescue people who got their vehicles stuck.

"There's 380,000 pickup trucks in Harris County alone, so this operation seemed like a natural," he said.

Besides the muck filled dragstrip, Boggin International also offers an obstacle course for dune buggies and motorcycles, a sand-covered dragstrip for more conventional races and an oval dirt-track.

"We even have a small, spring-fed lake for swimming," McShaffry said. "We offer entertainment for the entire family."

Sure enough, there was an entire family there - George Michel, 45, his wife Maryann, and their son and daughter, all of Spring.

"We were just out for a Sunday drive on the freeway and saw the sign, so we decided to stop in because our son is bananas over cars and motorcycles," Michel said.

"It's not the NASCAR 500," he said with a grin, "but it is automobile racing, even though it's a little crazy."

A stockbroker with Merrill Lynch, Charles Wade, pointed to a yellow Jeep parked nearby when asked why he was spending his Sunday watching this muddy mayhem.

"I do some four wheelin' in Houston. There's still some places where you can go sliding through the mud and have a good time," he said. "We came out here to see these guys sliding around."

Also watching the sliding was a bare-chested man in a baseball cap who identified himself as a minister - he was wearing a cross to prove it - but declined to give his name, fearing his congregation wouldn't understand his spending a Sunday in such a manner.

Price Of Gas Still Climbing

HOUSTON (AP)-The price of gasoline is still climbing toward $1 a gallon, and this week it increased an average of 1.7 cents per gallon in Texas, the American Automobile Association reports. Last week the average increase was 1.3 cents.

In its weekly survey of 420 Texas service stations, AAA also found slightly fewer service stations are open at night and more are limiting purchases or are out of at least one grade of fuel.

Statewide 23 percent of the stations are open after 8 p.m. weekdays, while 39 percent will be open after 6 p.m. Saturday. Last week, 26 percent were open week nights, with 43 percent open Saturday night.

Talking with service station owners, AAA reports the decrease in night availability is partly caused by stations operating longer during the day. Others say they are closing nights to save gas for Saturday and Sunday.

Although the statewide figure for Sunday fuel availability stayed the same this week - 30 percent of the stations expected to be open - several cities, such as Austin, Corpus Christi and Houston show an increase in Sunday availability.

Twenty percent of the stations in Austin, 50 percent in Corpus Christi and 21 percent in Houston say they will be open this Sunday. The corresponding percentages for last week were 14, 45 and 19.

As July fuel allocations begin to run out, 7 percent of the stations surveyed reported that they are out of at least one grade of fuel, compared to 3 percent last week.

Also, 8 percent of the stations say they are limiting purchases not counting stations under the odd-even sales plan, compared to 2 percent last week.

AAA reports stations along Interstate highways in small towns and rural areas still have good fuel supplies, and travelers should have few problems finding gas, except at night in big cities.

Gasoline prices continued their upward spiral, with self-service premium gas showing the highest increase, up 2.5 cents to 91.4 cents per gallon.

Current average full-service prices, last week's average in parentheses are: Regular 87.9 cents per gallon (86.2); unleaded 91.8 (89.9); and premium 92.4 (91.7).

Average self-service prices are: Regular 85.5 cents per gallon (83.9); unleaded 89.3 (87.6); and mium 91.4 (88.9).

The average price of diesel fuel rose from 89.7 to 90.8 cents per gallon.

Oil Slick On Way

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) —Scientists gathered here to trap the northerly meandering of a Mexican oil slick are predicting portions of the slick could drift into U.S. waters within 10 days.

But Coast Guard Cmdr. Joel Sipes, leader of the multi-agency effort, warned that precise tracking of the slick is impossible.

Dr. Jerry Galt, a National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration scientist, predicted the bulk of the thick slick probably will remain south of the border. But he added, "The problem for us is to try to figure out how the patches will move."

Galt said several patches have split off from the main slick. The oil has been gushing since June 3 from an exploratory well drilled in the Bay of Campeche by the Mexican national petroleum industry.

The northernmost patch was located 220 nautical miles south of Brownsville.

Officials have said as much as 30,000 barrels of crude are escaping daily.

Sipes reluctantly acknowledged that the team's task is similar to recent attempts to predict where the ill-fated Skylab would fall.

The scientists said some of the patches are as much as 10 miles wide.

A South Carolina scientist hired to study the Texas Coast, said, "The trick is to keep the oil out of the bays."

Dr. Miles Hayes spent a week studying the Texas Gulf Coast. He rated portions of the Coast as to their relative vulnerability to damage from the crude.

"If we could control where the oil would go, it would be on those fine-grain beaches," Hayes said as he pointed to strips of Texas beaches on a map.

Hayes said previous work with slicks has shown that sandy beaches are relatively easy to clean. He said the beaches do not absorb the oil and probably would not suffer lasting damage.

One liter of seawater may contain as many as 10 million diatoms - one-celled specks of algae that, through photo-synthesis, produce much of the oxygen we breathe.

Six Vets Miss Work

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP)-Tuesday workouts at the Dallas Cowboys training camp were minus six veterans and a rookie, all of whom suffered minor aches and pains.

All except linebacker D.D. Lewis were expected to be available for Saturday's Hall of Fame Game at Canton, Ohio, against Oakland.

Lewis injured a calf muscle Monday and is questionable for the preseason opener.

Other who missed Tuesday's workout were wide receiver Robert Steele (lower back), running back Doug Dennison (hamstring), wide receiver Drew Pearson (tight legs), cornerback Mark Washington (knee), defensive tackle Larry Cole (groin) and rookie tackle Ernie Rogers (neck).

Astros Revitalized; Win Third Straight

HOUSTON (AP)—Three games ago, the Houston Astros were looking for the bottom of a horrendous slump and wondering where they had lost the great pitching, heads-up base running and clutch hitting that had put them on top of the National League West.

Astros pitchers, who led the league in complete games with 34, hadn't lasted a full nine innings since July 5, and the team had lost 13 of 15.

But Houston ace Joe Niekro gave Houston a full game and a win Monday for its second consecutive victory, and the Astros made it three in a row Tuesday as they backed up Ken Forsch's nine-inning, four-hit pitching with 15 base-raps to blast Chicago 6-1.

"We've got our game going again," Houston Manager Bill Virdon said. "Our problem was we just weren't getting any hits, and you can't run the bases when you're not getting any base runners.

"We've had good hitting the last three games and our pitching is as good as it ever was," he continued. "I think the team is breaking loose now."

The Astros, not known for their prolific hitting even when they were playing like worldbeaters, did more than break loose Tuesday.

Every Astro except Terry Publ got at least one hit, and Publ made up for his lack of hits by getting on base enough times to score two runs.

U.S. Noticed At Spartacade

MOSCOW (AP)—American sprinters finally showed some life in the Soviet Union's Spartacade Games with Don Coleman and Wardell Gilbreath leading the qualifying in the 200-meter event and Deby LaPlante impressing a small crowd by winning her heat in the women's 100-meter hurdles.

Soviet athletes continued their gold medal sweep in their seventh national games, a pre-Olympic event this year with some 2,500 foreign athletes invited to compete.

As Red Socks Stop Oakland...

Yaz Belts 400th Homer

By The Associated Press

Mike Morgan wasn't even born when Carl Yastrzemski broke into professional baseball, but he became part of the Yaz legend Tuesday night.

Morgan, who won't turn 20 until Oct. 10, was on the mound in the seventh inning of a tie game when Yastrzemski, who will be 40 on Aug. 22, unloaded his 400th career home run, the 18th player in history to reach that mark.

"I figured I had waited long enough," Yastrzemski, who hadn't homered in 19 games, said after his two-run shot sparked the Boston Red Sox to a 7-3 victory over Oakland. The drive landed in the rear of the A's bullpen in right-center near the 380-foot mark.

"It was a fast ball and I hit it good," said Yaz. "Yeah, I watched it and I felt if that one didn't go out, then I didn't know when I'd hit another one."

In other American League action, the Baltimore Orioles took a doubleheader from the Seattle Mariners 7-6 and 11-3, the New York Yankees edged the California Angels, 6-5, the Milwaukee Brewers nipped the Detroit Tigers 5-4, the Cleveland Indians defeated the Minnesota Twins 4-2 and the Kansas City Royals spanked the Chicago White Sox 11-6. Texas and Toronto were not scheduled.

Orioles 7-11, Mariners 6-3

Baltimore left fielder Gary Roenicke's leaping catch in the eighth inning robbed Seattle's Bobby Valentine of a grand slam to preserve the first-game victory. Then John Lowenstein hit a grand slam of his own and drove in six runs in the night-cap. The Orioles, who have seven games in a row, extended their lead in the AL East to five games over Boston.

Yankees 6, Angels 5

Pinch-hitter Lou Piniella singled home the winning run off Dave LaRoche with two out in the seventh after a walk to Jerry Narron and Chris Chambliss' single. Ron Davis, 9-1, was the winner, allowing just one hit in four innings after starter Luis Tiant was tagged for long home runs by Willie Aikens, Rod Carew and Dan Ford.

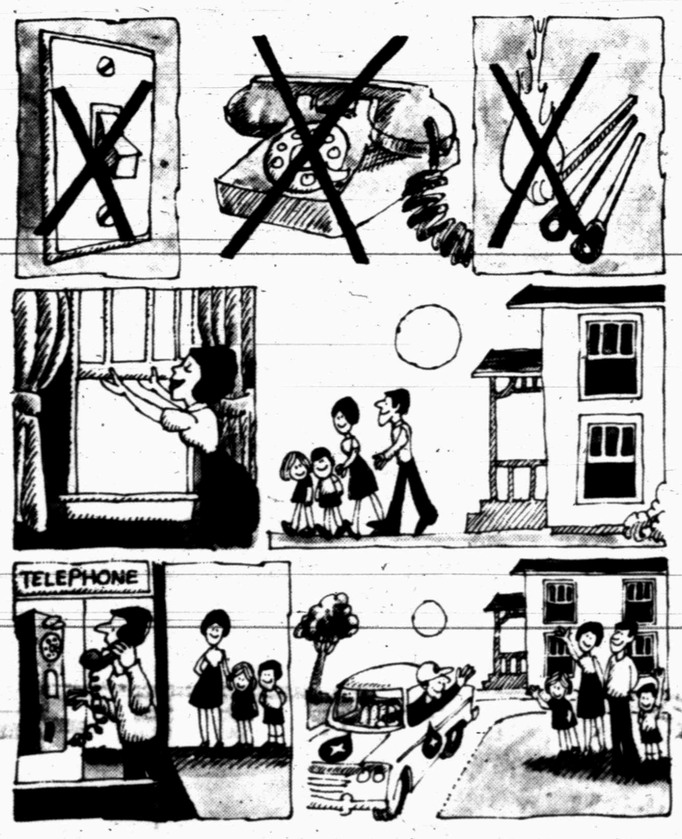
NOTICE



IF YOU SMELL NATURAL GAS, FOLLOW THESE 3 STEPS TO SAFETY.

The natural gas industry has an excellent safety record.

The fact that you can smell natural gas is because we add a harmless chemical to it as an extra safety feature. Otherwise, it would be completely odorless. If you detect faint whiffs of what you think may be gas, investigate. It may be something that is as easily and safely corrected as a pilot light that has gone out, or a burner valve that's partially open.

If your equipment seems to be working properly and the odor intensifies and seems to be everywhere, please follow these precautions:

1. Do not switch anything electrical on or off. Do not use the telephone in your own home. Do not strike a match. Do not do anything that might cause a spark.
2. Have everyone leave the house immediately, leaving doors open to help ventilate.
3. Go to a nearby telephone and call Lone Star Gas Company. Wait until we have found the source of the odor to determine whether it's safe for you to return to the house.

You may never have a natural gas leak, but we want you to be informed in case one does occur. Please make sure your family is aware of these precautionary steps. And we suggest that you keep this message for future reference.

SI PERCIBE OLOR A GAS NATURAL OBEDEZCA ESTAS 3 NORMAS DE SEGURIDAD.

La industria del gas natural tiene un récord de seguridad excelente.

El hecho de que Usted pueda percibir el olor a gas natural se debe a que se la ha añadido un producto quimico extra, que no es nocivo. De lo contrario, el gas no oleria. Si detecta ciertas ráfagas de olor que cree son producidas por escape de gas, investigue. Es posible que se pueda corregir fácilmente y sin peligro, por tratarse dé que una llama-piloto se ha apagado, o que una valvula de algun aparato esta parcialmente abierta.

Cuando suceda que a pesar de que su equipo aparentemente funciona bien, pero el olor a gas se intensifica y se siente en todas partes, entonces siga estas precauciones:

1. No conecte ni desconecte ningun aparato eléctrico. No use el teléfono de su casa. No prenda fósforos. No haga nada que pueda producir chispas.
2. Haga que todos salgan de la casa inmediatamente, dejando las puertas abiertas para que se ventile.
3. Vaya a un teléfono cercano y llame informando a la Compañia Lone Star Gas Co., y espere hasta que los encargados de la Compañia investiguen las causas y determinen si se puede o no retornar a casa.

Es muy posible que Usted nunca tenga que enfrentarse con escapes de gas, pero queremos informarle por si acaso le sucede alguna vez. Asegúrese que toda su familia conozca estas normas de seguridad. Le aconsejamos también que guarde este aviso como referencia para el futuro. Gracias.

Snyder Teens Whip Colorado City

SWEETWATER—Like a calm before the storm, Colorado City made things fairly unexciting here last night - a quiet prelude to tonight's would-be hurricane playoff with Sweetwater.

Snyder dumped Colorado City 12-3 as the Texas Teenage League Baseball district tournament continued Tuesday, leaving that squad as the only unbeaten team in the double-elimination affair.

The only real battle between title-class teams has been Monday's Snyder-Sweetwater contest, which Snyder won 8-6. Officials are expecting another close game tonight as the two go at it again at 8:45. Should Sweetwater win, giving Snyder its first loss, the teams would have to play again at 11 o'clock.

Winner of the tournament will advance to the State Meet, held July 30 through Aug. 2 in Killeen.

Snyder rode nine hits and fine pitching to hold Colorado City scoreless until late in the game yesterday. Snyder - composed of the Buffs team and three all-star members of the Oilers - were in front by 10-0 mid-way through the seven-inning contest.

Tommy Gressett, who started on the hill for Snyder, was 3 of 4 from the plate with a trio of RBI; David Rios went 2 for 3 with an RBI; Perry Echols was 2 for 4 with an RBI; David Gee was 1 for 2; and John Wilson was 1 for 4, also with an RBI.

Gressett opened the contest and hurled the first two innings before manager O.D. Brewer and staff replaced his sore, but adequate, arm with a red hot Wilson.

Wilson stayed on the mound for four innings, allowing two hits and striking out five C-City batters to claim winning pitcher honors. Wilson was relieved by Jimmy Cain in the seventh inning.

In all, Colorado City sacked up seven hits, led by Jackson who was two for four from the box. Pharris, one of four pitchers used by the losing team, was charged with the loss.

NOT THIS TIME--Snyder racked up 12 runs against Colorado City in the district Teenage League playoffs held at Sweetwater, but this is one run that didn't get across. Heavy hitter Barry Davis has nowehere to go as the C-City catcher awaits to put on the tag at home. Davis had smacked a shot 315 feet over the fence in action Monday. Bass Becomes Spur Manager

SAN ANTONIO, (AP)—San Antonio Spurs Assistant Coach Bob Bass, once a head coach and general manager in the old American Basketball Association, will become general manager of the Spurs on Sept. 1, officials have announced.

Bass, 49, was head coach of four ABA teams, including two years as head coach of the Spurs, and served as general manager of the ABA's Miami and Memphis teams. He also served a stint as director of ABA officials.

The announcement was made Tuesday by officials of the National Basketball Association's Spurs.

Bass replaces John Begzos, who will become general manager of the NBA's Kansas City Kings on Sept. 1. Begzos has been general manager of the Spurs since 1974.

In addition to serving as an assistant coach last season, Bass was also the Spurs' assistant to the president.

Carr Signs With Celtics; Boston Hopes For Boost

BOSTON (AP)—M. L. Carr says he wants to bring a championship to Boston, and Celtics President Red Auerbach says the slick forward is in the mold of the old Celtics who brought many a National Basketball Association trophy home.

"In order to get the best opportunity to be on a championship club, I felt it was here in Boston," the 6-foot-6, 205-pound former Detroit Piston said Tuesday at a Boston Garden news conference where the club announced his acquisition.

"There will be a championship during my years here," said Carr, who signed a multi-year contract as a free agent. Terms of the pact were not disclosed, but Carr noted, "It's got me smiling."

"He is reminiscent of the old Celtics," said Auerbach, who coached the Celtics to numerous NBA championships between 1946 and 1966. "He's a guy that will play a role....We want to get into the old Celtics mold,"

Auerbach said he had not yet discussed the matter of compensation with Detroit, where Carr played the last two years. Pistons Coach Dick Vitale has said he wants Bob McAdoo from the Celtics, but Auerbach said, "I'm not interested in what he wants, but what we give them."

Seated with Carr and Auerbach at the news conference was Coach Bill Fitch, beginning his first year with Boston after coming from Cleveland.

"I'm very pleased to have M. L. coming to Boston at the same time I am," said Fitch, who took over for player-coach Dave Cowens following last season's 29-53 record, the worst in the NBA Atlantic Division.

McLeod Joins Mustang Staff

SWEETWATER — Former Snyder High School assistant coach Jerry McLeod has been named head basketball coach and assistant football coach at Sweetwater High School.

McLeod, who left a head football coach, athletic director job at Merkel to take the position, worked with Snyder athletes early in his coaching career.

At Sweetwater, McLeod will work with receivers on the football field in addition to his basketball duties.

McLeod coached basketball at Snyder for three years and was head basketball coach at Brady four years before taking the head football coaching job there. He had been a head coach and AD at Merkel for three years prior to his latest move.

McLeod will join virtually a new staff at Sweetwater High School where Don Beck has taken over duties this year. Beck has also secured former Gruver head coach Steve Burleson, who will work with the offensive line, and former McLean head coach Bill Coward, to direct the Mustang defensive line.

Others on the staff are offensive backfield coach Charles McClain, offensive line coach Jim Corbin, linebacker coach Butch Sims, and junior high coach Ronnie Payne.

Defensive secondary coach Pat Miller, defensive end coach Arlan Barnes, and junior high-freshmen coaches Raul Gonzales and Joe Walters were retained from the 1978 staff.

Rail Shipping Expenses Discourage Use Of Coal

By SOLL SUSSMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)— San Antonio Mayor Lila Cockrell told a congressional hearing Tuesday it may be cheaper to buy Australian coal than bear the rail freight costs for the domestic variety. After the city decided in 1973 to convert its electric generating plant from oil and gas to coal, it found the rail shipping costs from Wyoming to San Antonio rose substantially.

Mrs. Cockrell told the Joint Economic Committee the coal freight rate rose 133 percent between 1973 and 1979 in order to subsidize the railroads' less profitable operations.

"Frankly, our crystal ball just didn't show anything like that escalation," she said. "This certainly is not going to be an incentive for other cities and utilities to convert to coal."

The mayor said she recently started negotiating with the Mitsubishi Corp. of Japan to find if shipping Australian coal by water routes might be more economical than the Wyoming to San Antonio rail route.

"It seems ridiculous me that there is even a remote possibility that we can better serve our citizens by importing coal from halfway around the world than we can be using our own resources," she said.

Norman Lorentzsen, president of Burlington Northern Inc., said the prospect of foreign coal purchases might be a "gimmick" utilities and cities are using to dramatize their claims of excessive rail rates.

"There are no conflicts between the goals of the American rail industry and a sound national energy policy. Without a viable rail industry, this nation simply cannot have an effective energy policy," he told the committee.

Lorentzsen said his railroad, which hauls coal to San Antonio, has invested more than $665 million to equip its coal hauling service.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, the committee's chairman, said a balance between energy and rail transportation goals is needed.

"I want to make it clear that in my judgment the revenue needs of the rail industry are real and pressing. But this need cannot be allowed to jeopardize national energy policy goals," he said.

The senator said it was "ridiculous" that Texas and Florida utilities were finding it cheaper to import coal from South Africa and Poland than use American coal shipped by rail.

Don Jordan, president of Houston Lighting and Power Co., said the company was abandoning its plans to convert more plants to coal because it found the freight rates rose too much after it started a coal conversion program.

"We do not feel that our customers should bear such a disproportionate cost of revitalizing the nation's railroads," he said.

Restricted exercise

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please send me The Health Letter number 3-7 on Girth Control: Avoiding The Big Middle. I'd also like to receive the one on the way to lose weight. I'm a 37-year-old overweight female. I'm 5 feet 6 and need to lose between 20 and 30 pounds.

I've been restricted in exercise this past year because of a knee injury I received playing basketball when I was out of shape. I'm now having more trouble with my knee as I teach school on the second floor of a junior high school building. My doctor thinks I have an arthritic condition and I am on from 10 to 12 aspirin a day and do not wear heels over one inch. The aspirin has really helped but I need to lose the weight and exercise more.

DEAR READER — I'm glad you recognize that you really can't do much about decreasing your girth measurements unless you get rid of the fat first. Many people don't realize that there's just about as much fat inside the abdominal cavity as there is outside underneath the skin. There's no way you can squeeze down this fat by improving the strength of your abdominal muscles so you do have to get the fat out as well as off.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-7 on Girth Control that you requested. Also I am sending you 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Other readers who want either one of these issues can send 75 cents for each one along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

It's very hard to do a lot of the exercises that use a lot of calories and help a person lose weight when he has knee problems or, for that matter, feet, ankle or hip problems as well. Most of the jogging and running exercises just simply are too hard on injured joints. Of course, the heavier you are, the harder it is on the joints involved. As you know from your own experience, many sports such as basketball require running, an activity that is almost impossible if you have joint problems.

For people who have joint problems, I think one of the best ways to exercise is in the swimming pool. The water will help support your body weight so you're less likely to injure or wear the joints. Of course, if you're a good swimmer that helps a lot.

If you can't swim, you can still exercise in the pool. You can get in the shallow end and bob up and down or hang on the edge of the pool and do kicks and other exercises. The whole point is to work the body while you're in water.

You might be able to use a bicycle. It supports the body weight some and helps to some degree but I don't think it's nearly as good as doing exercises in water.

I don't expect everybody to have a backyard pool and certainly in winters like the last one we just had, there are many parts of the United States where no one would want to be in an outside pool. However, most communities do have an indoor pool somewhere, either at a health club or a Y club that can be available to use for exercise.

Brownwood Police Chief Innocent

BROWNWOOD (AP)-A county jury deliberated 1½ hours before finding Brownwood Police Chief Vic Fowler innocent on charges he kicked a prisoner in the groin.

Five Brownwood police officers testified they saw Fowler swing his leg at prisoner Ronald A. Harling, but none of them saw Fowler's foot make contact.

"I feel great," Fowler said after the acquittal on misdemeanor assault charges. "I think the jury did its duty. I proved my innocence through the jury system. I never felt I was guilty of any crime."

During testimony in county court last week, officers said Harling had been arrested for investigation of public intoxication when the incident occured May 13. A grand jury indictment returned May 30 said Fowler kicked Harling in the groin as he lay on the floor in front of the police booking window.

Fowler has been chief in Brownwood since 1972 and is a 30-year veteran of the department.

Phone Directory Not Address Book

AUSTIN (AP)—Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. has news for phone book users - the directories are not address books.

"We feel the purpose of the telephone directory is to properly list phone numbers," Jan Morrison, Bell's phone book production manager for Texas, said Tuesday. "The postal service will be glad to answer questions about a zip code."

Mrs. Morrison told a Public Utility Commission hearing the phone company has been asked several times to list zip codes with addresses but decided against it.

"Zip codes can easily be confused with telephone numbers," she told commission lawyer Allen King. A general map showing zip code zones is included in directories of larger communities, she added.

"But isn't it a fact the telephone book really is an address book?" King asked.

The company doesn't think so, she replied.

Mrs. Morrison testified at a hearing on several changes Bell wants to make in phone books.

The company wants to add a "blue pages" section listing government agencies and community service phone numbers. White pages would be divided between residential and business numbers.

Separate surnames in the white pages would be listed once, with given names, addresses and numbers indented underneath.

Yellow pages would not changes.

King said he thought the proposed changes could go farther, such as adding zip codes. No one opposed the new format.

The phone company would save printing costs with the new books because more names could be listed on a page, Mrs. Morrison said. She added that fewer people would need operator assistance to find phone numbers with the new format.

Nonprofit organizations wishing to qualify for listing in the blue pages could apply through the company's public relations office in Dallas, she added.

Phone books in Boston, Sacramento, Calif., and Dayton, Ohio, follow the three-color format, she said.

If the commission approves, directories for Austin, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio would gain a blue-pages section plus the new white pages format.

Karen Blaker Ph.D.

The wedding must go on

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — My daughter is planning a fall wedding. But everything has become so complicated that I am considering asking her to postpone the ceremony or maybe even elope.

It's all her brother's fault.

Right after the engagement party, he wrote to say how happy he was about the news. He apologized for missing the celebration because of college exams.

He reassured me, however, that he will attend the wedding. He is planning to bring his male roommate as his date.

At first I wasn't too upset. My husband and I have known about this homosexual relationship for more than two years.

Then I started thinking about the guests' reactions if our son and his lover were to show affection at the wedding. Now I don't know what to do.

Rather than hurt my son's feelings or chance rejection from old family friends, don't you think it would be best to cancel the festivities?

DEAR READER — No. What about your daughter's feelings? This is something you are going to have to handle with your son.

It sounds like he decided the wedding would be a good time to let the world know about his sexual preference. Let's give him the benefit of the doubt and assume that his anxiety about coming out of the closet obscured his sensitivity to the problems he might cause for you.

After all, this is to be his sister's special day. You might make him aware that competing for attention at her wedding is not advisable.

Moreover, if he appears hand-in-hand with his lover and then returns to school, he is leaving you responsible for handling the anxious inquiries and the hostile comments.

More power to him if he wants to come out, but let him choose another occasion and stick around afterward to absorb some of the fallout.

Explain this reasoning to your son in a loving and concerned way. He needs your support.

But also be firm in suggesting that he come to the wedding alone. It wouldn't be fair to tell him to bring his lover but refrain from expressing affection.

Many parents find themselves in difficult situations like yours. They are trying to be understanding yet are confused and anxious about their children's homosexuality.

Some have banded together in organizations for education and mutual support. To locate the group nearest you, contact Parents and Friends of Gays, P.O. Box 24538, Los Angeles 10024, telephone (213) 472-8952, or Parents of Gays, 675 Hudson St., New York City 10011, telephone (212) 539-2459.

How do you respond to a suicide threat? Find out in Dr. Blaker's newsletter "When a Loved One Threatens Suicide." Send 50 cents plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Blaker in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 475, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Write to Dr. Blaker at the above address. Volume of mail prohibits personal replies, but questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns.

Says Government Study...

AAM's Cartels Would Add To Price Of Food

WASHINGTON (AP)—A plan by the American Agriculture Movement to set up international price-fixing cartels to help boost farm income would also add to consumer grocery costs and radically change the structure of U.S. farming, says a new government study.

But the Agriculture Department report, released on Tuesday, said the plan would accomplish AAM's goal of raising farm income, at least in the early going.

Later on, it said, the "real" income of farmers - regardless of the higher commodity prices - would begin to decline because of "increased interest charges, depreciation and real estate taxes which are closely related to increasing land values."

An important factor would be the increase in land prices because of the initial boost in prospective farm profits, suggesting that even with higher commodity prices under the AAM plan "cash flow problems in the farm sector would continue," the report said.

The AAM, which led protesting tractorcades here last winter to seek higher government price guarantees, also told department analysts who prepared the report that mandatory crop production controls would be necessary at times to keep supplies of grain and other crops in line with demands.

A spokesman for AAM said the report was "very biased" and that department analysts "took out everything positive and put in everything negative" relating to the group's proposals.

The AAM seeks a boost in federal price supports to 90 percent of parity on major crops, a formula which at 100 percent would give farmers the same buying power they had in a 1910-14 base period.

For example, the mid-June parity price of wheat was $5.98 a bushel and the actual market price was $3.73 a bushel, or 62 percent of parity.

The government's wheat price support currently is $2.35 a bushel, representing how much farmers can borrow from USDA by using their grain as collateral. At 90 percent, the support would be $5.38 a bushel.

Under the AAM plan, supports for grain, soybeans, cotton and milk would all be raised to the 90 percent level, with the increase passed along to foreign buyers as well as domestic users of the commodities. Stiff tariffs and quotas also would be used to restrict imports of foreign farm products.

"The AAM proposal reflects a radical change in both the basic philosophy underlying this country's farm policy and in existing programs for agriculture," the report said.

"It would establish a highly-controlled and managed agricultural sector and would channel most of the increase in benefits to producers of the controlled commodities."

The proposals include provisions "that would require new and controversial legislation" and, in some cases, violations of current international treaties and agreements, it said.

"For example, the imposition of new tariffs and quotas on farm imports would place the United States in violation of the existing General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade GATT," the report said.

Payments Raised To Food Programs

Federal payments to states for the school lunch and breakfast programs have been increased to reflect a 6.68 percent increase in the Consumer Price Index for food away from home during Nov. 1978 through May 1979, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman said Thursday.

The new national average payment for school lunches is 17.0 cents per lunch, up 1.25 cents, effective July 1. States and territories are now authorized by the agriculture department to pay schools up to 23.0 cents per lunch.

The special assistance payment for lunches served to needy children has increased from 71.50 cents to 76.25 cents for a free lunch. Maximum total reimbursement states may pay schools increased from 102.25 cents to 108.25 cents for a free lunch.

Under provisions of regulations announced by Foreman in January, 43 states have established a maximum reduced-price lunch charge to children of 10 cents or less. These states will receive reduced-price special assistance payments of 66.25 cents per lunch served.

The remaining 13 states charge the maximum 20 cents for reduced-price lunches, and will receive 56.25 cents in special assistance for each reduced price-lunch served.

For the school breakfast program, the national average payment increased from 12.75 cents to 13.5 cents per breakfast. The additional average payment for each reduced price breakfast increased from 23.75 cents to 25.5 cents. The additional average payment for a free breakfast increased from 31.75 cents to 33.75 cents. The maximum rate of reimbursement for breakfasts in schools with severe need increased from 49.50 cents to 52.25 cents for reduced price breakfasts, and from 54.50 cents to 57.25 cents for free breakfasts.

The rates of payments for the school lunch and breakfast programs and regulations governing federal payments for reduced price lunches are scheduled to be published in the July 20 Federal Register.

Locals Do Well In Tractor Pull At San Angelo

Local tractor pullers fared well over the weekend in the Texas Tractor-Pullers Association's meet in San Angelo.

Friday night saw Don and C.D. Gray winning first place in the 5,000 pound modified division and Eldon Kirkpatrick winning third place in the 9,000 pound modified category.

Saturday night, Don Freeman of Roscoe won first in the 6,200 modified economy class and Henry Parrot of Roscoe was second. Jesse Allen won fifth, Royce Patterson, sixth, and Larry Lee, seventh.

Kirkpatrick placed second in the 7,000 pound modified.

"This was a fine showing by our local tractor pullers against some very strong competition," said Kirkpatrick, president of the local chapter of the West Texas Tractor Pullers Association.

Plane Crash Fatal To 5 From Abilene

CHRISTIANSTED, Virgin Islands (AP)-Five Texans were among eight persons killed in the crash of a small inter-island plane as it took off from the airport on the island of St. Croix.

The 13 other persons aboard the De Havilland Heron were injured, three of them critically.

The 19 passengers included 12 Texans from Baptist churches in Abilene and Clyde on an annual missionary trip to St. Kitts, in the Leeward Islands.

Puerto Rican International Airlines said the dead were Mr. and Mrs. J.O. Connel Jr., Stephen Sepaugh and Jack Rosinbaum, all of Clyde; Sharon Geye of Rising Star, Texas; the co-pilot, William Piniero of Puerto Rico, and an unidentified man and woman who were not from the U.S. mainland.

A hospital spokesman said the critically injured were the Rev. Riley Fugitt of the First Baptist Church of Clyde; Caleb Watson of Clyde and the pilot of the plane, Jose Rivera of Puerto Rica.

The other Texans aboard were Mrs. Fugitt, her son Mickey, Pam Patton and Mrs. Preston Porter, all of Clyde. They and the other six injured passengers were reported in stable condition.

Not All Roots Bear Uprooting

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR ABBY: I can understand the adopted child's desire to know who his "real" parents were. I'm sure that almost every person who sets out to find his "real" parents imagines that he or she is the product of a beautiful, impetuous love affair between a couple who were forced by circumstances to part.

Such is not always the case. A child can be born as a result of lust, greed, fear, intimidation, blackmail, rape and a number of other ugly situations. Abortions were not always possible, and if they were, many would have refused.

Before a person starts searching for his "roots," I suggest he or she ask this question: Would I be more or less happy if my real mother were to say to me, "I don't know who your father was. You were conceived in a brothel and he had $5."

Or, "I got drunk one night and found out later that I was pregnant. When I told the boy, he took off and I never saw him again."

Or, "Your father forced my car off the road one dark night."

Or, "I was an Army nurse in World War II and your father was a superior officer and I was afraid to report the attack."

Who would want to be the product of an affair between the Jewish girl in Holocaust and the prison guard who promised to keep her young Jewish husband alive in return for her favors?

I think someone should point out that these mothers might well be protecting their illegitimate children from further pain by disclosing the circumstances of their conception.

SPEAKING FOR MYSELF

DEAR ABBY: Our son has been going with the same girl for the last four years. They met in college and have been going steady ever since. We have met her and like her very much.

They are planning to marry this November. Although we live in the same city as the girl's parents, we have never met them. I know of no reason for this except that neither side has ever taken the initiative.

Is there any rule regarding which set of parents is supposed to invite the other first? If the parents of the boy are supposed to make the first move, when and how do we go about it?

HIS FOLKS

DEAR FOLKS: It's your move. Telephone the girl's parents and tell them how happy you and your husband are about the engagement. Then invite them to join you as soon as possible for lunch, dinner, cocktails, tea or whichever is mutually convenient.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter thinks she knows everything. She says that if children have the same father but different mothers, they are half-sisters and brothers. But if they have the same mother and different fathers they are stepsisters and brothers.

I say that when children have the same mother but different fathers or the same father but different mothers they are considered half-sisters and brothers.

And stepchildren are simply "adopted" children. Please straighten this out since we are having some very loud arguments about it.

PROVING A POINT

DEAR PROVING: Stepchildren are the children of one's husband or wife by a previous marriage. Half-sisters and half-brothers are sisters and brothers through one parent only.

Baseball Gives NBC 1st Top Show

LOS ANGLES (AP)-An estimated 18 million Americans tuned in to the "50th Annual Baseball All-Star Game" July 17, giving NBC its first top ranked show this year in the national Nielson ratings.

But the All-Star game and a CHIPs rerun at the No. 16 slot were NBC's only entries in the top 20 for the week that ended Sunday, and CBS remained top banana with an overall average of 14.7 in the ratings released Tuesday.

CBS has finished or tied for first in four of the last five weeks. ABC, continuing its ongoing game of tagalong, had a 14.5 average for the week while NBC trailed with 13.9.

The last time NBC had a No. 1 show was on Oct. 17, 1978, and it was also a baseball game, the final contest of the Dodgers-Yankees World Series.

Although ABC had five of the top 10 shows - six, if you count the tie between "Mork & Mindy" and "Laverne & Shirley" at the No. 10 position - two CBS telecasts, the "Miss Universe Pageant" and a rerun of "The Jeffersons," took second and third place respectively.

The A. C. Nielson Co. bases its ratings on a survey in which each rating point represents about 750,000 homes. The ratings are used by networks to determine advertising rates.

Last week's top 10 shows and their ratings, as announced by Nielsen:

1, "50th Annual Baseball All-Star Game," 24.4 NBC; 2, "Miss Universe Pageant," 22.7 CBS; 3, "The Jeffersons," 20.7 CBS; 4, "Three's Company," 20.7 ABC; 5, "Fantasy Island," 19.7 ABC; 6, "Alice," 19.2 CBS; 7, "Taxi," 18.7 ABC; 8, "Sunday night Movie: 'War Games,' " 18.6 ABC; 9, "Dallas," 18.4 CBS; 10, "Mork & Mindy," 18,0 ABC.

At the bottom end of the ratings were three ABC reruns: "Operation Petticoat," with a 6.7 rating; "Hardy Boys Mysteries," 6.3; and "Battlestar Galactia," which finished 60th with a 6.1 rating.

The rest of the bottom 10: 51, "Friday night Movie 'Reincarnation of Peter Proud,' " 10.0 ABC; 52, "The Lovebirds," 9.3 CBS; 53, "The Paper Chase," 9.2 CBS; 54, "Good Times," 9.1 CBS; 55, "NBC Special Report: The Day They Landed," 9.1 NBC; 56, "Project UFO," 9.0 NBC; 57, "Saturday Night Movie: 'Animal Crackers,' " 8.6 CBS.
