Houston Parkway near end

NEAR THE END — Crews for Amarillo Road Co. of Amarillo began a hot mix overlay Monday at Houston Parkway, signaling the end of the project which dates back some two years here. It is expected to be completed by the end of this week and likely open for traffic next week. The completion will add a new city street linking west 30th St. to the Big Spring Hwy. (SDN Staff Photo)

The Houston Parkway extension, a project with its inception dating back almost exactly two years, is expected to be completed by the end of this week and likely open for traffic next week.

Its completion will add a new city street linking west 30th St. to the Big Spring Hwy. — a route originally designed to alleviate some of the traffic flow through Towle Park.

Officials with Amarillo Road Co. of Amarillo said Monday they should complete a hot mix overlay on the new street by Wednesday.

Still to be completed will be striping of the surface, cleanup procedures and the state's final inspection.

Officials with the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation estimated it will likely be next week before these procedures can be completed.

Once this is done, City of Snyder officials are expected to consider any traffic control signs to be placed along the route. City Manager John Gayle said this will likely be discussed at the regular June meeting.

The only stop sign now placed along Houston is where 42nd St. runs into Houston Ave. adjacent to Towle Park.

The state will erect stop signs where the street ends at the Big Spring Hwy. and west 30th St.

In all, Houston Parkway will stretch just over 2 miles. The strip involving new construction has involved a two-block area from 30th to 32nd St. and a 1 mile strip to the south and east connecting a deadend at 48th St. back to the Big Spring Hwy.

The new highway construction was bid last July 9 at a cost of $639,288 by the Amarillo firm. Funds to finance this were borne by federal urban funds approved during 1984 amounting to some $723,000.

It was noted at the time that bids for the project came in well under projected costs for the project.

The City of Snyder was required to provide the right-of-way for the street — a phase in-

Oil prices break $17 Monday

NEW YORK — Oil futures prices have hit their highest levels in more than 14 weeks, driven upward by heavy demand for gasoline, short supplies for the kinds of crude used to make it and technical market factors, analysts say.

On the New York Mercantile Exchange, contracts for June delivery of West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude, closed Monday at $17.16 a 42-gallon barrel, up $1 from Friday's settlement price. The price eased slightly at midmorning today to $16.90.

June contracts for refined products also showed strong gains on Monday. Unleaded and regular gasoline both were up more than 1 cent over Friday's closing prices — unleaded at 55.75 cents a gallon, vs. 54.38 cents and regular at 55.76, up from Friday's 54.41 cents.

Unleaded eased slightly at midmorning today to 55.25 cents a gallon and regular fell a bit to 55.30 cents a gallon.

In less than three weeks, crude prices have soared by nearly $4 a barrel. The rally marks a sharp reversal of the precipitous drops that took place a few months earlier, when oil was plunging from a late-November price near $32 a barrel.

The near-month contract had not traded for more than $17 since Feb. 7, while Friday's close was the first time since Feb. 14 that oil had sold for more than $16.

After hovering mainly at levels between $11 and $14 per barrel between March and April, the June contract, which closed at $13.34 on April 30, broke through $14 to $14.73 on May 2, and passed the $15 mark, at $15.21, on May 7.

Madison Galbraith, senior energy specialist at Merrill Lynch Energy Futures, said there was "a lot of refinery buying" in the crude market.

"What it comes down to is, they haven't bought it, they need it, and they're going to buy it," he said.

Over the last two months, gasoline demand has picked up, as dealers prepare for the Memorial Day opening of the summer driving season.

Refineries have increased their demand for crude by 1.45 million barrels daily since March 21. But there have also been short supplies of the lightweight grades used to make gasoline and other distillates, such as jet fuel and heating oil, said Peter Beutel, an analyst at Rudolf Wolff Futures Inc.

Two of those widely used light crude grades are West Texas Intermediate and Brent crude from the North Sea.

Retiree profiles begin this issue

(Editor's Note: With this issue, the SDN begins profiles of Snyder school staff members due to retire at the end of this term).

Eleven longtime Snyder school staffers have announced their intent to retire at the end of the 1985-86 school year — two principals, eight teachers and a library aide, all with 20-plus years experience with the local system.

Included in the list of retirees are Jimmie Lynch, junior high social studies teacher and coordinator of the audio-visual department; and Suzanne Ferrell, library aide at Snyder High School.

Lynch will end 36 years in education — all of them spent with Snyder ISD.

He joined the district in 1950 after earning his degree from Howard Payne University as an education and history major.

In 1960, he went on to earn his masters degree in education from Sul Ross University. He has continued his post-masters study at Texas Tech.

JIMMIE LYNCH

He is a member of the Classroom Teachers Association.

A longtime library aide at SHS, Ferrell joined the system in 1966.

SUZANNE FERRELL

As the spring semester comes to an end, she will be completing 20 years with the district.

Locals will join 'Hands'

A group of about 30 Snyder volunteers plan to participate in Sunday's "Hands Across America" event and are now seeking additional participants from the surrounding area.

Glenda Freeman is heading up the local effort. Anyone wanting more information about the event can call her at 573-6959.

"Hands Across America" has been organized on a national level over the past year as a fun-

Hometown shows set for one-act

The first of two hometown performances of "A Man for All Seasons," runnerup at the Class AAAA state contest this year, will be Wednesday.

It is scheduled in Worsham Auditorium at 8:45 p.m. and will be followed by a second performance Thursday at 8 p.m.

Admission for both shows will be $2.

"A Man for All Seasons" won first place UIL one-act play honors at the district, area and regional level this year.

In addition, student actors earned more than 20 awards for individual excellence.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Maybe we should call it Taxx. It deserves to be a four-letter word."

At a recent national newspaper editor's convention Chrysler's Lee Iacocca and sex counselor Dr. Ruth Westheimer were on the program.

Iacocca followed Dr. Ruth on the program agenda and it gave the auto executive an idea for a presidential running mate. Quipped Iacocca, "I could tell everybody what to do and Dr. Ruth could tell them how."

Over the past few months since Dr. Ruth has had her advice show on television, we've observed that everyone knows who Dr. Ruth is but no one watches her. "I saw it once..." is the most common statement.

Now there is controversy in the newspaper business about a syndicated sex advice column by Dr. Ruth. The debate is raging as to whether such material belongs in a family newspaper.

A recent panel of newspaper editors argued the pros and cons of frank talk about the subject. Many TV shows begin with warnings to parents about adult content, and we'd rather avoid parental warnings in newspapers.

We do admit that times are changing--and not always for the best. Another new national columnist is controversial sportscaster Howard Cosell.

We figure Cosell could get in as much hot water as Dr. Ruth--which gives us an idea for a TV talk show. We can just see it now, Dr. Ruth and Howard Cosell expounding on great issues of the day--from a hot tub.

Men really took it on the chin from researchers last week. It was revealed that one-fifth of women make more money than their husbands.

Then someone came along and said that women walk faster, covering 256 feet per minute, than their male counterparts. The third item was the real kicker--women give less complicated directions to strangers.

Wives may be able to give directions to strangers--but never trust 'em to read a road map on family vacation.

11 linked to recent vandalisms

Police say they have cleared a series of six weekend vandalism incidents with the arrest of 11 individuals, mostly juveniles, Monday night.

Taken into custody on misdemeanor criminal mischief charges were one 17-year-old female and 10 male juveniles ranging in age from 13 to 16.

The 11 were charged with the Saturday night BB gun shootings of windows in vehicles owned by Hope Heaton of 3614 31st St., Dennis Downing of 3204 40th St., Todd Owens of 3102 Ave. V, David Walker of 3012 Ave. W and W.W. Mitchell of 3012 Ave. V.

In Brief

First MX

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — The first armed MX nuclear missile to be deployed in southeastern Wyoming will be lowered into a silo within 30 days, according to U.S. Air Force officials.

An inert missile will be installed in an underground, modified Minuteman 3 silo within the next two weeks to train crews in installing the weapons, said F.E. Warren Air Force Base spokesman Capt. Dave Newbry.

In the meantime, almost 300 civilians and 50-60 Air Force personnel will continue processing sections of the four-stage missile, which the Air Force calls the Peacekeeper, and completing modification work on the five silos that will be the first to hold the MX, he said.

Because the MX missiles are catapulted out of the silos before their engines are fired the Minuteman 3 silos need to have metal cylinders inserted before the new weapons can be lowered into the silos section by section.

Charge secrecy law violation

WASHINGTON (AP) — CIA Director William J. Casey is trying to tighten the tap against leaks of U.S. intelligence secrets by seeking criminal charges against NBC-TV for reporting that U.S. submarines eavesdrop in Soviet harbors.

Casey said Monday that the NBC report, if true, violated a 1950 law against the willful disclosure of U.S. ability to make and break codes, and that he had referred the matter to the Justice Department.

John Russell, a spokesman for the Justice Department, said he had no comment on the matter. Network spokeswoman Sharon Metcalf said "NBC has referred Casey's allegation to legal counsel to review," and had no further comment.

Casey's action appeared to be part of a wider Reagan administration effort to plug leaks in government. The administration has recently dismissed a Pentagon executive suspected of disclosing covert arms transfers to insurgents in Afghanistan, and fired a State Department speechwriter who leaked a classified cable from the U.S. ambassador to Argentina critical of comments made by House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill on a visit there.

NBC, on its "Today" show Monday morning, said accused spy Ronald W. Pelton may have given the Soviets information about one of the National Security Agency's most sensitive secrets — a project code named "Ivy Bells." The network said that under the program, U.S. submarines eavesdrop inside Soviet harbors.

NBC did not repeat the original story in its Monday evening news broadcast, but did report Casey's action.

Pelton went on trial Monday on charges of selling the Kremlin secrets he obtained through his job at the NSA, which is thought to be Washington's largest but most clandestine intelligence organization, collecting and decoding communications for the Pentagon.

In his statement, Casey said:

"We believe that the assertions, if true, made by James Polk on the NBC 'Today Show' this morning violate the prohibitions in 18 USC 798 against publishing any classified information concerning the communications intelligence activities of the United States. My statutory obligation to protect intelligence sources and methods requires me to refer this matter to the Department of Justice."

Vague pictures of wealth are painted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like many other Americans, members of the U.S. Senate contribute to individual retirement accounts, lose money farming and like to travel.

Unlike most Americans, when senators satisfy their urge to travel someone else usually picks up the bill.

A peek at the finances of senators was offered Monday with the annual release of the Senate's public financial disclosure reports.

The forms told a lot less than people might like to know about the wealthiest senators, men such as John D. Rockefeller IV, D-W.V.; John Heinz, R-Pa.; John Danforth, R-Mo.; Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.

For example, the best that could be gleaned from Rockefeller's filing was that his assets probably total more than $1,070,000. Forbes Magazine has estimated that the great-grandson of the founder of Standard Oil is worth about $150 million.

The Japan Institute for Social and Economic Affairs was listed by Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., as picking up the tab for a 10-day trip to Japan for the senator and his wife.

Baucus also listed getting reimbursement for a week-long cruise to Bermuda he took with his wife.

Such trips generally involve speechmaking. A Baucus aide, Carole Long, said she didn't know the purpose of the Japan trip or the Bermuda cruise.

Six members of the Senate Finance Committee, including chairman Bob Packwood, R-Ore., listed IRAs on their forms. Packwood is the principal backer of a tax revision, approved unanimously by the committee, that would end the deduction for most IRA contributions.

Among the Senate farmers who lost money were Mark Andrews, R-N.D.; James Abdnor, R-S.D.; Charles Mathias, R-Md.; and Charles Grassley, R-Iowa.

Andrews listed a loss of $34,506 from his farm in Mapleton, N.D., along with an unspecified loss for his wife from the same farm. The farm's value is upwards of $250,000, and a separate livestock company is listed as worth $15,000 to $50,000.

Abdnor said he lost $144 from his farm operations in South Dakota.

Mathias owns a 370-acre farm in Jefferson County, W.Va., on which he reported a net loss of $19,483.

Grassley refused to say how much money he lost from his Iowa farm. Asked whether he lost money on his farm, Grassley said, "Heavens, yes. Eighty percent of the farmers in Iowa lost money. The only way a farmer could escape losing money would be if he is debt free."

Precise tabulation of income and assets is impossible under the form that senators are required to file annually. Instead, they list their holdings within ranges. The same is true of debts and liabilities.

The ranges tell the least about the wealthiest senators because the top category for income is simply more than $100,000 and the top for any asset is more than $250,001.

A senator's salary is $75,100 annually.

Marriage Bridging Cultures Needs a Strong Foundation

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This concerns the American woman signed "Moonstruck," who was in love with an Iranian man and wanted to marry him. I married a man from a Middle Eastern country so perhaps I can give her some advice.

We have been married for 15 years and I couldn't want a better husband, but not all American women have been as lucky with men from foreign countries. Here are some things to consider:

1. What kind of visa does he have? If he already has a green card, he's probably a good bet. Some men marry American women just to get permanent resident status in this country. An American woman should be cautious about marrying someone who is on a tourist or student visa. She should also be aware that if she does marry a foreigner with a criminal record or who is considered to be an undesirable alien, he could be deported even if he is already married to an American.

2. How long have you known each other? Marrying someone from a different country, especially if there are language barriers and vast cultural differences, can create serious problems. Don't rush into marriage. Get to know each other very, very well. If it's love, the waiting won't hurt.

3. Could you be happy living in his country? You may have to if things don't work out for him here. Although most Americans think this is the greatest country in the world, many immigrants cannot adjust to living here. And if the political situation in his country changes for the better, he may want to return and take you with him. How would you feel about that?

THE VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

DEAR VOICE: Thank you for a valuable letter.

DEAR ABBY: A few years ago I wrote to you requesting a copy of your booklet titled "What Every Teen-ager Ought to Know." This booklet has been very popular; in fact, one of the health teachers here at school uses it in her class.

For that reason I am requesting six more copies. I agree, it contains what every teen-ager ought to know.

BONNIE L. RAASCH,
LIBRARIAN, C.B. VERNON
MIDDLE SCHOOL,
MARION, IOWA

DEAR MS. RAASCH: Thank you for what I consider high praise. The teen booklet has also been used at both Baptist and Catholic summer camps. Many teachers have suggested that it would be even more helpful if it were given to children ages 10 to 12. Our children are maturing physically much earlier today than they did 25 years ago. To order, send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

DEAR ABBY: In your advice on car thieves, you missed an obvious point. When the prospective buyer asks permission to test drive the car by driving it around the block, be sure you are in the car during the test!

MORT EISENBERG,
DELRAY BEACH, FLA.

DEAR MORT: Surely you jest. A person risks more than auto theft when he or she gets into a car with a stranger.

(Getting married? Send for Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) envelope to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Post Spring Art Show was held at the Algerita Art Center with Marvin Moon, associate professor of art at Texas Tech University in Lubbock, as judge. There were 391 entries in the show.

Snyder participants included Lu Bright entering three watercolor pictures with "Fishing Boats" receiving a third place.

In the animal watercolor division, Myrtle Joiner won first place with "Is There Anybody Home;" first place in the landscape division with "Queen Anne's Lace;" and second place with "Autumn's Colors." In miniatures, Joiner placed third with "Leaf Alone." An honorable mention was given to the still life watercolor, "A Day At the Beach."

La Verne Lee entered four pictures with "Wind Blown" placing first and "Wildflowers" placing second. An honorable mention was given to "Doodle Bug-Doodle Bug."

Students nervous to return

COKEVILLE, Wyo. (AP) — Pupils who spent three hours as hostages before a bomb blast that burned scores of children and adults still dream of the attacks and say "it's gonna be scary going back" when school reopens this week.

"When the school building, the teachers and the students are ready, that's when we'll open the school," Cokevill Elementary School principal Max Excell said Monday night. Teachers were to begin planning today for classes.

Three hundred to 400 family members of the former hostages attended the meeting as local psychologist Dr. Nohl Sandall and nine specialists discussed the trauma of the incident that left David and Doris Young, who held 150 pupils and teachers for $300 million ransom, dead.

"What we're expecting is changes in patterns of sleeping, unusual dreams, or a preoccupation or fear associated with the school building," Sandall told the families, who applauded the courage of the teachers involved.

"Thanks for risking your own lives for the kids' sake," read a large card signed by many members of this tiny town near the Idaho border.

Children who had the day off from school Monday rode their bicycles and played in the streets, but they hadn't forgotten the blast Friday that killed Doris Young and burned 78 people, or the suicide of David Young.

"I have problems getting to sleep at night now," said 10-year-old Matthew Buckley. "I just keep thinking he can come into the class and do it again. I know he's dead, but it's just scary."

Lawyer: witness could have escaped

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — Defense attorneys in the organized crime trial of a Hill Country rancher and two others accused of kidnapping drifters and forcing them into slavery have challenged the implication that a prosecution witness was held at the ranch against his will.

On trial are Walter Wesley Ellebracht Sr., his son, Walter Wesley Ellebracht Jr., and former ranch worker Carlton Robert Caldwell. They are accused of conspiring to commit aggravated kidnapping and murder in connection with the death of Anthony Bates at the Ellebracht Ranch in March 1984.

Daryl Hunsacker, a prosecution witness who has been on the stand since last week, has testified about alleged torture sessions at the ranch. He has said he was forced by the Ellebrachts to stay at the ranch.

Defense attorneys implied that Hunsacker could have escaped from the ranch if he had wished.

The junior Ellebracht's attorney, Ray Bass, introduced a receipt that the elder Ellebracht got when he and Hunsacker went to a large San Antonio store to have a chainsaw repaired.

"It was a big warehouse and weren't there a lot of people inside?" Bass asked. "It was easy to get lost in there — lots of people, lots of machinery to hide behind."

Hunsacker said he was too scared to tell anyone about his ordeal or to try to escape.

Bass played several short segments of recordings of alleged torture sessions, some using electric cattle prods, at the ranch that Hunsacker admitted taking part in. Hunsacker was asked to identify the voices on the tape, which was filed with screams, threats and sexual references.

At one point, Richard "Racehorse" Haynes associate Dan Cogdell loaded a cattle prod with batteries and told Hunsacker to step down.

'Star Wars' said to be wrong name

HOUSTON (AP) — The recent Soviet arms reductions proposal in Geneva is a dividend paid from the United States' research into the so-called "Star Wars" defense program, the director of that program says.

"It's not the kind of reduction proposals that are even, but it is a reduction proposal," Air Force Lt. Gen. James A. Abrahamson said.

In an address Monday to The Forum Club of Houston, Abrahamson said the Soviets also are keeping up the debate about the Strategic Defense Initiative "to help talk ourselves out of it.

"When they talk about the dangers ... they are aiming at public reaction," he said.

Abrahamson took issue with the nickname "Star Wars," saying it is damaging American public perception of the project.

He said surveys show 60 to 70 percent of Americans support construction of a defense system to protect them from enemy missiles. However, as soon as the term "Star Wars" is introduced in the question, support dwindles to 40 to 50 percent, he said.

"There you can see the danger of the 'Star Wars' label on the program," he said.

Abrahamson's 45-minute address to 600 people was interrupted briefly by about a half-dozen hecklers who burst into the hotel ballroom, chanted slogans and threw what appeared to be flour on several of the people in the audience.

"Prevent World War III no matter what it takes!" one of them shouted.

"That is what we're about," an unruffled Abrahamson said after the protesters fled. "What is the real area of concern here is what is the right means in order to achieve that end. I don't mind that."

He said the goal of the system is to shift the nation's priorities from offensive weapons to defensive weapons.

"We have a gun pointed at the forehead of the Soviet Union with our finger on the trigger and vice versa they have a gun getting bigger and more powerful and more potent and their finger is on that trigger aimed at us as well," he said.

Reagan attacks Democratic trade bill as voting nears

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan attacked sweeping Democratic trade legislation as guaranteed to boomerang against American exports while the House prepared for a showdown on the measure.

"This isn't a fair trade bill, it's a less trade bill," Reagan told executives Monday in the White House Rose Garden on the eve of debate over the nation's $148.5 billion trade deficit and resulting job losses.

Reagan, leading a campaign against the bill before its debut on the House floor, warned that it would "not open markets to U.S. products. It will close them."

"It will mandate that the United States violate many of our most basic rules of international trade," Reagan said, signing a "World Trade Week" proclamation. "And it would expose our most productive farms and industries to retaliation by other nations."

Democrats, who control the House by a 130-vote margin, showed no signs of being intimidated by the barrage of criticism, which also came from Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige and U.S. Trade Representative Clayton K. Yeutter.

"It's shootout time at the OK Corral," said Rep. Donald J. Pease, D-Ohio, a framer of the bill. "My colleagues will either have to vote with the American people who want a tough trade bill or with President Reagan, who is willing to let our foreign competitors continue to take unfair advantage of us."

Minority Leader Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., was ready with a Republican version that would provide lawmakers an escape from the dilemma of whether to oppose the bill — and thus leave themselves open to potential attack in fall campaigns — or support it and embarrass the White House.

Recent raids signal hard-line approach rather than talks

GABORONE, Botswana (AP) — By launching three sudden military strikes across southern Africa, the white leaders of South Africa chose to ignore a proffered option of negotiation in favor of an iron fist.

The attacks Monday against alleged African National Congress guerrilla targets in Botswana, Zambia and Zimbabwe occurred while a delegation from Commonwealth countries was in South Africa to try to arrange talks between South Africa and the outlawed black guerrilla group.

At least three died in the raids, which happened while conservative whites in South Africa were mounting their strongest challenge yet to President P.W. Botha's program of tentative race reforms. Ultra-conservatives attacked the ruling National Party's cautious reforms as a recipe for white abdication.

In opting for force against the rebels Botha appeared determined to undermine that ultra-conservative threat, even at the cost of increased foreign castigation.

"It was just another attempt to terrorize the people of Botswana and to impress a fringe element of misguided white South African racists," said Botswana President Quett Masire.

British Labor Party lawmaker Donald Anderson said the raids may have doomed the Commonwealth initiative. "This is Botha bellowing defiance at world opinion and the Eminent Persons Group," he said.

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I use a product for acne and as a moisturizer. It is 90 percent aloe vera, the active ingredient is lidocaine hydrochloride. The warning says, "Use in large quantities only with the advice of a physician." If I use this product on a daily basis could it be harmful in any way?

DEAR READER — I think not. Aloe is safe, and the amount of lidocaine, a local anesthetic, is not large enough to harm you.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What are phleboliths? Are they serious?

DEAR READER — A phlebolith is a vein stone — a calcium deposit in a vein. The condition commonly occurs in the pelvic veins and is often discovered by accident during abdominal X-ray examinations. It is not serious and requires no treatment.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I was diagnosed as having a small blockage in a small artery. All the main ones are fine. My cholesterol is 154 and my triglycerides are 75. How did I get this blockage when my cholesterol and triglyceride levels are so good?

DEAR READER — Regardless of your cholesterol level, arterial blockage is a normal consequence of the aging process. It probably begins during adolesence. High blood cholesterol can, of course, accelerate arterial blockage. However, even with a low serum cholesterol level (as you have) arteriosclerosis will occur in all of us as we grow older.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report, UNDERSTANDING CHOLESTEROL. Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 2597, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm 63 and yesterday in my garden I got chewed up by mosquitoes. I take Coumadin and I think they love the ice water in my veins. What can I do to keep these pests at bay?

DEAR READER — Your best bet is to use a mosquito repellent. I doubt that the bugs are attracted to you because of the Coumadin, a blood thinner. You'd probably make a good meal for them anyway.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What can you tell me about spondyiosis and spondylolisthesis? My doctor says that nothing can be done for the pain. Should I see a specialist? If so, what kind?

DEAR READER — Spondyiosis means stiffness of the spine. Spondylolisthesis refers to the dislocation of one vertebra over the vertebra below it. There are many causes of these conditions. I think you would be best served by consulting with a rheumatologist, a specialist in bone and joint disorders. Special exercises and physiotherapy can often relieve the pains that result from these back ailments.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have no sense of direction at all, and panic when alone in a strange place. My aunt was severely afflicted with this and was the butt of all family jokes. Is there a name for this problem? How can I get over it?

DEAR READER — You seem to be describing a form of phobia — anxiety and irrational fear of a specific object or situation. Behavioral modification through counseling may help you to overcome your panic. Phobias often result from an unpleasant experience that causes people to develop an overwhelming need to avoid the feared object or situation. You probably have a better sense of direction than you give yourself credit for. Ask your doctor to refer you for counseling.

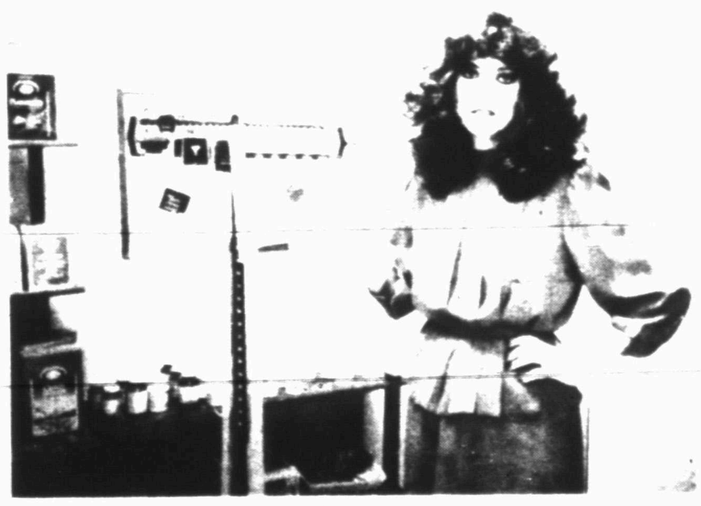
Diet Center can help you lose weight

Diet Center, located in Snyder's Varsity Square Shopping Center, offers a total weight control program. There are no gimmacks, no contracts to sign, no hidden charges and no prepackaged foods to buy. If you are determined to lose weight, Diet Center is a nutritionally sound alternative to fad dieting, crash diets, appetite curbing drugs and starvation diets.

In 1982, Mary Woodall joined Diet Center to lose weight and learn how to keep it off. She lost 19½ pounds at Diet Center. Now, as owner and counselor of Snyder's Diet Center, Mary is in the business profession of helping others lose unwanted weight and keep it off. You can lose weight by joining Diet Center and by following its nutritional weight reduction program. Call Mary at 573-8583 or stop by Diet Center's convenient Varsity Square location. Regular morning hours are from 7:30 to 12:30. Appointments after hours are available also.



MARY WOODALL, owner and counselor at Diet Center, instructs dieters on how to lose weight permanently. Mary lost her weight two years ago and maintains her weight loss by following the maintenance program. (SDN Staff Photo).

Mary attended intensive counselor training at Diet Center's international headquarters in Rexburg, Idaho in order to become a certified Diet Center counselor. She received updated information from Diet Center, Inc. through Diet Center's monthly magazines and newsletters. With more than 2,000 Diet Center locations throughout the United States and Canada, Diet Center is today's largest franchise weight-loss program. Each month, more than 1,000,000 pounds are lost at Diet Center locations. During Diet Center's 14 years of being in the weight-loss profession, more than 4,000,000 men, women and children have successfully lost weight and learned the way to keep it off at Diet Centers. Diet Center offers a professional diet counseling service.

Diet Center attributes it's success to the effectiveness of its total weight control program. It is a weight reduction program that works. Dieters on the program eat nutritional foods which are purchased from local grocers and are prepared for consumption by the dieter. The unique supplement Diet Center offers helps dieters control uncomfortable hunger by keeping blood sugar levels stable in the body. The protein found in the supplement aids in the dieter's digestion process. The supplement also contains Vitamin B to help dieters feel well while dieting.

Daily weigh-ins and caring professional counseling helps dieters stay committed. They refrain from nibbling on foods not allowed, knowing they will face the scales each day. No drugs or shots are involved on the Diet Center program - just a sensible nutritional weight loss program wth foods having staying power.

The program starts with a two day conditioning diet which builds the dieter's strength and replaces sugars in the body with natural sugar found in fruit. The dieter then follows the reducing program until losing the unwanted weight. Weigh-ins are daily on the reducing program. Next, the stabilization diet locks in the weight loss and firms up body tissue. The maintenance program then follows giving dieters one year of free maintenance and weekly weigh-ins. The maintenance program teaches dieters how to eat for a lifetime to avoid gaining weight. Nutritional education classes are available also.

Women can lose up to 25 pounds in six weeks at Diet Center. Children lose a few pounds less in six weeks. Men can average up to a pound a day off in six weeks. You can lose weight at Diet Center and learn how to keep it off. Mary enjoys helping anyone with a weight problem, whether they need to lose five pounds or over 100 pounds. If you need help, call Mary at 573-8583 or go by 3020 Varsity Square, mornings 7:30 to 12:30.

Auto telephones will be common

NEW YORK (AP) — In the not-so-distant future, telephones in automobiles will be as common as air conditioners and stereo equipment, notes Travel Agent magazine.

According to the international travel industry journal, this will be a special boon to traveling business men or women, enabling them to transact necessary business when otherwise tied up in traffic.

SCC Pro-Member announces victors

Snyder Country Club held its Pro-Member Tournament on Monday with a group including Gena Menice, Jimmy Wadkins, Bobbie Hargrove and Abilene Country Club pro Dave Sherman coming out on top.

Shaun McDonald of Ranchland Hills in Midland won the pro event with a 68. Harold Danford of Big Spring and Jerry Dixon of Plainview were winners of the pro-pro event.

The team featuring Sherman won the pro-member event with a 53. Second place went to J. J. Wagner, David Sisson, Herb Reed and Ranchland Hills' Doug Desive with a 59.

Third place was won by R. Dale Smith, Jimmy Wadkins, Ricky Billingsley and Odessa's David Teichman.

Fourth place was won by Phil Carey, Joe LaRoux, Rickey Daniell and Levelland pro Ronnie Rossen. Both the third and fourth place teams shot 60s.

Four individuals tied for second place in the pro competition with 69s. They were Steve Goldstein of Abilene, Dave Foster of Western Texas College, Danford of Big Spring and Chad Davis of Odessa.

Aggies win title; join Texas and Hogs in tourney

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - The Texas A&M Aggies, who won their first Southwest Conference baseball tournament Monaday afternoon, have turned their attention towards meeting South Florida in an NCAA regional tournament hosted in Tallahassee, Fla.

It took a come-from-behind 7-6 win over Baylor with a five-run seventh inning to give the Aggies their title and a spot in the NCAA playoffs.

Two other Southwest Conference teams, Texas and Arkansas, also will be in regional tournament action Thursday. Texas will play Southern Illinois at Austin and Arkansas will meet Oregon State in Stillwater, Okla.

Baylor is the only Southwest Conference tournament team that has to pack away its gear. Bear coach Mickey Sullivan said, "In the two games against A&M, we made a few mistakes and they quickly took advantage of them. That's the sign of a good team and I congratulate them. I thought when we had a 6-2 lead we were in good shape, but their five-run rally did us in. This loss will stay with us for a long, long time."

Aggie coach Mark Johnson said, "It means a lot top the Southwest Conference to have three teams in the NCAA tournaments. I think that tells you how strong this conference is.

Old pro, Niekro, keeps Stieb from obtaining 96th victory

by The Associated Press

Career victory No. 300 proved an elusive milestone for Phil Niekro, so he can understand the anguish Dave Stieb is feeling as the Toronto pitcher goes after triumph No. 96.

"It's so frustrating it's kind of hard to describe," Stieb said Monday after Niekro pitched the Cleveland Indians to a 6-4 victory over the Blue Jays. "The worst part of this is right now, right after the game."

"I'm just trying to figure out, 'Why?' When is it going to end?"

Stieb, who led the American League in earned run average last season, fell to 0-6 with a 6.33 ERA after nine starts. He gave up five runs on 10 hits and struck out six, but walked five as the Indians snapped a five-game losing skid and halted Toronto's three-game winning streak.

In other American League games, Boston rallied past Minnesota 8-7 and Kansas City beat Texas 6-4. The California at Baltimore game was rained out. There were no games scheduled in the National League.

Niekro, who evened his record at 3-3 with career victory No. 303, struck out four and walked three in his first appearance at Exhibition Stadium since beating Toronto on the final day of the 1985 season for his 300th career triumph. But because that victory came four starts after his 299th victory, Niekro understands Stieb's frustration.

"If you get knocked down, you have to get right back up," Niekro, 47, said of Stieb's early-season woes. "If he feels like he's defeated, it's a tough feeling to shake. But he's going to win if he keeps getting back up. He'll come out of it."

Red Sox 8, Twins 7

Jim Rice drew a bases-loaded walk with two outs in the bottom of the ninth inning, forcing home the tying run, and Mark Sullivan was then hit by a pitch, giving Boston its victory over Minnesota.

Joe Sambito worked the ninth for Boston and won his first decision of the season. It was Sambito's first major-league victory since 1981.

Royals 6, Rangers 4

George Brett hit a pair of RBI singles and Frank White homered as Kansas City downed Texas in a fight-interrupted game.

Kansas City's Rudy Law and Texas third baseman Steve Buechele got into a fight in the eighth inning after Law slid into third. Buechele shoved Law, and Law swung back. Both benches emptied, but the two players were quickly separated.

Angels-Orioles, Ppd.

The game was called in the bottom of the second inning with the visiting Angels leading 1-0 on Ruppert Jones' home run. The game will be made up Thursday afternoon in Baltimore.

Tigers hope to find timing as series opens with Dunbar

LUBBOCK -- Coach Albert Lewis is hoping his Tigers can overcome whatever problems a week's layoff might have produced as they open their best-of-three bi-district playoff series with Dunbar here this evening.

Game time is 7 o'clock at Connie Mack Field.

Game Two will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. at Snyder's Moffett Field. A Game Three, if necessary, will follow at approximately 3 p.m.

Snyder's last outing was a 3-2 victory over Pecos on June 10, the same day Dunbar was finishing up its regular season with a win over Pampa.

"The thing that worries me is not having played in a while. It's got to hurt our timing but it should hurt theirs, too," said Coach Lewis, whose Tigers are ranked 10th in the state in Class 4A. "I don't think it will hurt anything else, just the timing at the plate."

In fact, it could help Snyder in one area. The layoff has allowed catcher Ricky Hunter to heal a sore shoulder.

"It's been bothering him since mid-March but Friday he said he felt real strong. So maybe that (the layoff) helped out a little bit," said the coach.

Snyder will open the series with Jimmy Velasquez on the mound. The senior right-hander has a 9-4 season record with a 1.66 ERA and 104 strikeouts in 84 innings.

He'll be countered by Dunbar's Danny Lopez, 9-5.

Tonight's meeting will be the second of the season between the two teams. They met in the Snyder Tournament early in the season and Dunbar took a 1-0 victory. Both Velasquez and Lopez gave up only three hits.

Snyder is 19-8 on the season and has won 12 of its last 13 games. Dunbar, 13-11, has won nine of its last 13 outings.

"Dunbar really impresses me," said Lewis. "They have had a lot of adversity this season and they've managed to overcome it and get into the playoffs. They've been up and down, playing poorly at times but coming back and really playing well."

Leading off for the Tigers tonight will be Hunter. He'll be followed by third baseman Justin Webb, short stop Brad Holcomb and Velasquez at the cleanup spot. Batting fifth will be first baseman Steve Parker, followed by centerfielder Mike McWilliams, second baseman Chris Fryar, left fielder Dennis Martinez and designated hitter Kenneth Pickering. Pickering will bat for right fielder Michael Long.

Holcomb's .500 average leads a strong contingent of Tiger hitters, six of whom batted .400 or better for the season. Webb is hitting .475, Parker .458, Fryar .449, Hunter .429 and Hunter .425.

For the season, the Snyder club is batting .375 and has 28 home runs. The nine batters playing for the Tigers tonight have a combined average of .409 and have accounted for all of the 28 home runs.

In other bi-district action this week, Pecos and Dumas square off Friday at 4:30 p.m. at the Texas Tech University field in Lubbock. Game Two of that series is slated for 1 p.m. Saturday, also at Tech. Game Three, if needed, has been scheduled for 3 p.m. Saturday.

Joseph urges high school coaches to take an interest

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Coaches in Texas high schools should not turn their backs to illegal recruiting tactics and drug and alcohol problems among athletes, the executive vice president of the Texas High School Coaches Association says.

"If an athlete is being offered something more than his scholarship, he needs to be told that he or she should take a close look at going there," Eddie Joseph said Monday.

Joseph told the Texas Associated Press Sports Editors convention coaches should explain to athletes the pitfalls that await them.

"He needs to be told that that school could be disciplined and he could be in trouble too."

Joseph said it's time for coaches to change tactics.

"In the past, it's been an unwritten rule that you didn't try to influence a kid as to where he went to school," Joseph said. "But I think that's going to have to change."

With three Southwest Conference schools currently under sanctions from the NCAA and four other league schools facing allegations, impressionable young athletes need counseling, Joseph said.

"Coaches have a moral obligation to try to protect an athlete." he said.

"Some recruiters expect coaches to give them preferential treatment and some communities might favor a certain school for a kid. So the coach decides to say 'I'm out of this.'"

Joseph said coaches should begin to learn the tell-tale signs of drug and alcohol abuse early and try to help athletes in trouble.

"The number of alcoholic youngsters in junior high right now is staggering and hard to believe," Joseph said. "Any coach who thinks drug abuse in schools is not a problem, has his head in the sand.

"If they don't know what to look for, there are places they can find out."

Coaches face problems in some school districts because officials don't want to admit there is a problem, Joseph said.

"The coach has a problem where the school boards think their children are not capable of being involved with drugs," Joseph said. "The coach can conform or find another job."

Some school districts, however, are setting up testing programs to deal with the problem, Joseph said.

School districts at Belton and Longview already have programs in place and Temple will start a program next year, Joseph said.

"Such a program can give a youngster an out," Joseph said. "Where peer pressure is involved, he can always just say 'I can't, they may test.'"

Bailey Marshall, executive director of the University Interscholastic League, said the UIL has no uniform drug and alcohol program but it assists schools that ask for help.

Rozelle to explain his side as antitrust suit continues

NEW YORK (AP) - NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who spent three days being grilled by USFL lawyer Harvey Myerson, now gets to tell his story of the competition between the two leagues under more friendly auspices.

Rozelle, called by Myerson in the laywer's attempt to prove the USFL's $1.32 billion antitrust case through the words of its principal adversary, wound up 13½ hours on the stand Monday by again emphatically denying any connection with the three "smoking guns" the USFL says will prove its case.

Next Rozelle will be questioned by the NFL's lawyers, Robert Fiske and Frank Rothman. They will attempt to convince the jury of six non-football fans that some of the inferences left by Myerson during his grilling of Rozelle are incorrect or incomplete.

Myerson spent much of Monday continuing to plant those inferences.

He tried to get Rozelle to say that he - or someone in the NFL - had promised expansion franchises to New York and Oakland after those cities lost teams to keep USFL teams out. But Rozelle said he only gave them his standard answer - that he would consider them.

He got Rozelle to acknowledge that though he "almost got physically ill" when he saw a Harvard Business School Study Myerson calls "How to Destroy the USFL," he met with the author of the study 18 months later. Rozelle said the meeting only took place because "a close friend" had urged him to do so.

He tried to damage Rozelle's credibility with an account of the commissioner's secret signing, in 1959 as general manager of the Los Angeles Rams, of Heisman Trophy winner Billy Cannon before the running back had played his final college game. That came after Rozelle said the USFL's signing of Georgia running back Herschel Walker with a year of college eligibility left hurt that league's credibility.

But at the end of his testimony, Rozelle reiterated his basic contention - that he knew nothing about the Harvard study or a memo from Jack Donlan, head of the NFL Management Council, on bidding for USFL players to drive up that league's cost of doing business.

"Has anything you have heard since refreshed your memory as to any of those items?" Myerson asked.

"Absolutely not," Rozelle replied.

Rozelle's most emotional moment on the stand came a bit earlier when Myerson was outlining what the USFL calls "the New York Conspiracy" - its allegation that after the Jets moved to the New Jersey Meadowlands, the NFL dangled another New York franchise in front of city officials in an effort to keep out a USFL franchise.

Lakers on verge of losing series

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) - History and the powerful Houston Rockets are working against the Los Angeles Lakers, who are on the verge of becoming the 17th consecutive NBA champion to fail to successfully defend the crown.

"We're not out of it, but we're reeling," Lakers center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar said. "If I were on Houston, I'd be very confident right now."

However, the 39-year-old Abdul-Jabbar, who has scored more points than any player in NBA history, expressed some optimism, saying, "We've been in all the games. It's not like we've been swamped."

The Rockets dropped the opener of the Western Conference finals to the Lakers 119-107, but won the next three games by scores of 112-102, 117-109, and 105-95 to take a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

The fifth game will be played Wednesday night at the Forum.

"I don't think they can win three in a row," said Houston center Akeem Olajuwon, the star of the series so far. "(But) I don't think they'll give up. They're a very experienced ball club."

Only four teams in NBA playoff history have come from a 3-1 deficit to win a series, each time in the conference finals. And no NBA team has won consecutive championships since Boston accomplished the feat in 1969.

One of the teams to rebound from a 3-1 series deficit were the Lakers, who did it against Phoenix in the Western Conference finals in 1970.

The last team to do it was Boston against Philadelphia in the Eastern Conference finals in 1981. The Celtics then beat Houston in the finals to win the NBA title.

The coach of that Boston team? None other than current Houston Coach Bill Fitch.

"All I know is if we win the next one, we win the series," Fitch said. "I've been in a locker room where we've been down 3-1, and I'm wearing a (championship) ring."

Should the Lakers win Wednesday night, a sixth game would be played at the Summit in Houston Friday night. A seventh game, if needed, will be played at the Forum next Monday.

"Either we do it now or we sit there at home and watch them play the Celtics on TV," Earvin "Magic" Johnson of the Lakers said. "There's got to be some answer - but I haven't found it ..."

Obituaries

Charles Huffman

Services for Charles Victor "Vic" Huffman, 85, of 107 N. Ash are pending at Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home.

He died at 7:40 a.m. Tuesday at his home following a lengthy illness. He was born Nov. 5, 1900 in Wells County, Ind. He retired from Sun Oil Co. in 1965. It was formerly known as DX-Sunray and he had worked for it for many years. He had lived in Snyder since the 1950s.

He married Julia Stephens June 3, 1929 in Drumright, Okla. She survives.

He is survived by two sons, Johnnie Huffman of Oklahoma City, Okla. and Charles V. Huffman Jr. of Pasadena, Tex.; two daughters, Jewel Townsley of Edmond, Okla and Mary Ann Wright of Mesquite; 10 grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Henry Lee Layne

Services for Henry Lee Layne, 78, of Route 3, Snyder are set for 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Ira Baptist Church with the Rev. Jim Moseley, pastor of Union Baptist Church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Mark McMillan, pastor of Ira Baptist Church. Burial will follow in Ira Cemetery under the direction of Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home.

He died Monday at Snyder Care Center. He was born May 6, 1908 in Hood Co., Tex. He was a farmer and Baptist. He married Oleta Smyrl Dec. 20, 1930 in Scurry County. She survives.

He is survived by one daughter, Billye Sego of Phoenix, Ariz.; one son, Jimmy Layne of Snyder; five grandchildren; four grandchildren; five sisters, Virginia Huddleston of San Angelo, Thelma Ford and Mattie Hobbs, both of Snyder, Luella Looney of Canton, Tex., Annabelle Stewart of Groveton, Tex; one brother, Buck Layne of Snyder.

Pallbearers will be Hubert Clements, Bill Davies, Jake Autry, Donny Dunn, Bill Houston, Weldon Perry.

J. M. Lawrence

SWEETWATER--Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday for Johna Mack Lawrence, 82, the founder of an area chain of Piggly Wiggly food stores.

Lawrence, who operated the stores--including Snyder--with his sons, died Monday in the Rolling Plains Hospital in Sweetwater after a short illness.

Services are scheduled for the First United Methodist Church with Dr. Darris Egger officiating, assisted by the Revs. Kenneth Ford and Howard Hollowell. Burial will follow in the Garden of Memories Cemetery.

Active in Sweetwater civic affairs, Lawrence was the city's outstanding citizen in 1962. He was also an active member of the First United Methodist Church and served on all boards and committees of the church.

He was a member of the Holiday Rambler Club, the Oak Creek Trailer Club, the Sweetwater Chuck Wagon Gang, and on the board of the Sears Retirement Center in Abilene, and the Sweetwater Rotary Club.

He also served on the board of directors of the council of government's committee on aging, which serves a 19-county area.

He was a former Sweetwater mayor and member of the city commission, a past-president of the Rotary Club and was past-president of the Abilene Retail Grocers Association and served for 18 years on the Sweetwater school board.

Survivors include his wife, Thelma Lawrence of Sweetwater; a daughter, D'Ann Grimmett of Snyder; three sons, Jack, Jerry and Tere Lawrence, all of Sweetwater; and five grandchildren.

Thelma Oswalt

LAMESA--Services for Thelma Martin Oswalt, 65, will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the Second Baptist Church with burial to follow in the Parklawn Memorial Gardens in Plainview.

Mrs. Oswalt, a former Scurry County resident, had lived in Dawson County since 1930. She Married Clifton Martin in 1937 in Carlsbad, N. M.

Survivors include two sons, Clifton Martin of Austin and Larry Martin of Longview; a sister, Peggy McCollar of Lamesa; four brothers, Dale Meeks of Lubbock, Curtis Meeks of Orlando, Fla., and J. B. Meeks and Forrest Meeks, both of Lamesa, and three grandchildren.

volving no cost to the city — and monies for curb and gutter, estimated at some $95,000.

The project was not without its opponents, however. Homeowners in the immediate area protested at two state hearings that the street would encourage speeders through the residential neighborhood of far west Snyder.

To enforce city zoning requirements adjacent to it, the city also annexed the land bordering the street to the north — an action which also prompted protests from adjacent property owners.

That proposal was eventually brought to a city vote on Jan. 19, 1985. With 282 ballots cast, the proposal for annexation passed by a 20-vote margin.

draising effort for "the hungry and the homeless" in the U.S.

The object is for people all across the U.S. to join hands, forming a continuous human chain from New York to Los Angeles.

The chain has been routed through Texas along U.S. Hwy 287 which passes from Amarillo to Dallas-Fort Worth. It passes through Clarendon, Childress, Vernon and Wichita Falls.

In Texas, the chain will be formed at 2 p.m.

Currently, the Snyder volunteers are slated to man a strech of 287 some 12 miles west of Vernon.

Freeman said Monday no donation is necessary to participate in the event. Certificates and T-shirts are available to those who wish to make a donation, but these are not required.

Thus far, the Snyder contingent consists mostly of members of the First Christian Church.

Freeman suggests that any individuals or groups wanting to participate should plan to arrive at the site around 1 p.m. Sunday and to allow four hours driving time from Snyder.

Jack Spikes prepares for arraignment

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Friends call Jack Spikes a football player.

Even though his football career ended in 1967, after seven seasons as a running back on four teams, even after he got a real estate license in 1974, and even after he was appointed chairman of the board of his brother's bank, his friends say he is foremost a football player.

Spikes, 44, is scheduled to return to his hometown of Fort Worth Friday for arraignment on a 14-count federal indictment on charges of misapplying more than $560,000 during less than two years as chairman of American Bank of Commerce in Grapevine.

Spikes, who grew up in Snyder, graduated from Texas Christian University in 1960. He was a star fullback for the Horned Frogs.

In addition to the federal indictment in Fort Worth, he was indicted on separate charges in Dallas. In the four years before that, he had declared personal bankruptcy, gone through a divorce of his wife of 23 years, and been slapped with more than a half-dozen lawsuits filed after the collapse of four of his West Texas banks owned by his brother, Sam.

"I'm really kind of shocked that Jack was indicted at all," said H. Grady Terrill III, a Lubbock lawyer representing both brothers in federal lawsuits filed after the collapse of the four banks.

"Jack had very little to do with the banks aside from sitting on an honorary board of one or two," Terrill said. "He's not a banker, and he didn't make any loans that I know of ... Jack's a football player."

Jack Spikes' professional football career started with the Dallas Texans. He moved with the team to Kansas City, then the Houston Oilers, and finally the Buffalo Bills.

Spikes earned a real estate license in 1974. He was working in real estate and oil investments when his brother bought the Grapevine bank and appointed Jack chairman of the board. Sam and his associates acquired at least four more banks from 1971 to 1982.

"Jack was just not a banker," said George S. Henry, the Dallas lawyer for American Bank of Commerce. "He's like a football personality. And football personalities can lead a lot of fools around."

Between September 1983 and January 1984, the Spikes borrowed more than $268,000 from the Grapevine bank, according to lawsuits filed in state district courts to collect the loans.

The bank had about $1 million in substandard loans for oil, real estate, racehorses and the like, Henry said.

Henry said Sam caused most of the bank problems. "Sam was an ex-bank examiner and knew how the state and federal bank examiners worked, not talking to each other, so he moved these screwball loans from bank to bank ahead of the examiners."

The Grapevine bank was wrested from the brothers' control in February 1984. It was almost insolvent, but it was "whipped into shape in a hurry" under new management, Henry said.

Vandalisms cause arrests sixth incident — previously unreported — was discovered at the Junior Ingram residence at 4200 Lubbock Ave.

Investigators said Tuesday they believed one of the incidents was motivated by a disagreement between one suspect and the victim.

The other five episodes are thought to have been at random.

All of the suspects were released to the custody of their parents Monday evening.
