

Shivers Blasted By Yarborough And Dickson

AUSTIN, May 8 (AP)—Gov. Shivers came under attack from two sources yesterday, but the charge was virtually the same in each case: that Shivers is trying to tell Texans how to run their national affairs.

That was the implication of a prepared statement by Ralph W. Yarborough, candidate for governor, who said he thought "the people of Texas can be trusted to pick their own President and vice president without dictation from me or anyone else."

Fagan Dickson, leader of the self-styled Loyal Democrats, said Texas voters must choose whether they will follow Shivers up a "blind alley" or continue their program of prosperity and the fight for world peace along Roosevelt-Truman lines.

Dickson gave warning that Shivers will be challenged not only in the state and national Democratic conventions but also at the ballot box.

He said Loyal Democrats "have a rendezvous with the governor on July 26 (the date of the first Democratic primary in Texas). There is no place on the Democratic ticket for candidates who are running against the Democratic Party."

Yarborough, who will draw the support of the Loyal Democrats faction, said he believed the people of Texas "are entitled to a full-time governor."

"That's what I expect to be, and I don't intend to try to tell the people of Texas how to run their national affairs," he added.

Dickson accused Shivers of trying to create a sectional party in opposition to the national Democratic Party through his insistence on an uninstrusted Texas delegation to the national convention and his opposition to a party loyalty pledge for the delegates.

Dickson said the people who controlled virtually all county Democratic conventions Tuesday were "Shiversites."

"The Shiversite conventions resolved against the United Nations and world peace, denounced the government's foreign policy, rejected resolutions requiring presidential electors to vote for Democratic candidates; rejected the principle of majority rule as applied to the national convention; opposed all resolutions calling for social progress of any kind; approved racial prejudice and embraced McCarthyism," Dickson said.

He promised the Loyal Democrats would continue their fight against Shivers' program at the May 27 state convention in San Antonio and at the national convention in Chicago.

Things Not Going Smoothly In Romania; Workers Unhappy

Primary State Communist bosses ride high in Romania, but they never know what is just around the corner. Romania has U. S. reporters but many of the things that go on there are learned by listening together and checking the mouths of inspectors, spies and diplomats. William L. Ryan tapped sources in Europe and the United States to write this article, the fourth of his series on the satellites.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Foreign News Analyst
Sirens shrill, traffic and pedestrians scatter.

A sleek green American car screeches to a halt opposite the State Bank Building on Bucharest's Kisselev Street. Three sentinels snap to military attention. Escort cars, crammed with bodyguards, pull up behind the green 1950 Oldsmobile as a guard opens the door.

Grim and unsmiling, the hammer-jawed first lady of Romanian communism steps out and walks rapidly into the building. She does not even notice the stiff salute of her personal security chief.

Ans Pauker, for all her new riches—her four cars, her lavish villa, her legion of personal bodyguards and attendants—seems worried. Nominally, the foreign minister, she has just managed to get rid of a few high Communists who may have been her mortal enemies in high places—but how many more are there?

The Russians have been watching her. Even the defense minister, Gen. Emil Bodnareu, a Ukrainian whom she has considered her ally—how long would he remain her friend if she should lose the confidence of Moscow? And there are rumors. . . .

It was a close squeeze with Vasile Luca. The finance minister had a thirst for power. For Ana it was fortunate Luca's recent currency reform caused so much chaos in the country. It gave her a lever. She and Bodnareu had him fired as finance minister and vice premier. They put in a less ambitious man, Dimitru Petrescu, former president of the State Supply Commission.

Luca, at 54, had felt he was going places. A leading Communist since 1919, veteran of many jails, he had been a confidante of Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej, the present boss of the party. It took some doing to get rid of him.

An finance minister, Luca ran into trouble in January of this year. He decreed that old lei were to be exchanged at rates ranging all the way up to 400 old for one new, on a sliding scale. At the same time prices were reduced. The result was chaotic.

Before currency reform, the average Romanian worker earned 8,000 to 7,000 lei a month. Prices before currency reform were like this: a man's suit, rationed, up to 8,975 lei, or up to 19,000 on the free market; rationed shoes for women, up to 4,800 and a little higher for men's; rationed sugar, 56 lei a kilo and 200 on the free market, jam, 240 a kilo, and so forth.

There were no wage increases with currency reform, but prices were reduced 5 to 20 per cent. The result was a rude jolt for the workers. There was a humming undercurrent of indignation. Luca was fired. But the worker is still being sadly exploited.

East Germans Plan To Set Up An Army

BERLIN (AP)—The Communist rulers of East Germany disclosed last night they are going to set up an East zone army dedicated to "fighting preparedness" against West Germany's impending lineup with Allied defense plans.

The decision was announced in a personal telegram to Soviet Prime Minister Stalin from leaders of the Socialist Unity (Communist) party, which governs the Soviet zone.

The telegram did not set any size for the new army nor say whether soldiers would be conscripted.

A trained core of an armed force already exists in the Soviet zone's 50,000-man state police and 10,000-man sea police unit.

East German leaders told Stalin they would continue to work for German unity but declared an army would be needed to fend off aggression.

Wilhelm Pieck, East German president, already had announced on May Day that the Soviet zone would be compelled to organize its own armed force because of impending West German alignment with the Western Allies.

The West Germans now are negotiating a "peace contract" with the Allies to restore most of their sovereignty in exchange for German troops in the projected European army. Both agreements are expected to be signed this month.

The currency reform evidently had been dictated by the Moscow bosses who sit in on the Romanian Communist government. Each Romanian ministry has a Soviet "counselor" who has more power than the minister himself. The Russians also direct the Army. The Soviet parade step has been introduced by special Soviet inspectors. Holders find the peculiar step difficult. Soviet officers boss the Romanian Army but consider it unreliable. Romanian children at 14 are considered ready for manual labor. If a child is of "bourgeois" origin, he likely will be sent into manual labor rather than to secondary school. Today there are reports of a new making. The Association of Romanian Journalists, an exile group with headquarters in New York, reports that in the past few months mass deportations from Bucharest have been resumed. Last November all identity and ration cards were called in by the Bucharest police and returned with special markings. At the end of February the Communist party decreed Bucharest was to become a "workers' city" from which all "unproductive people" would be deported. The expulsions are said to be on Soviet orders. In eliminate "unreliable elements," make housing available for industrial workers and functionaries, cut down on urban consumption of food and supply manpower for slave labor programs.

Taft Claims Lead In Wyoming Fight

by JOHN BRUNER
 CASPER, Wyo. (U)—The battle of Wyoming's delegates to both national political conventions reaches the final decision next Monday with Taft forces claiming a distinct advantage among the Republicans and no clear trend established among Democrats.

Republicans name 12 delegates to the Chicago convention. An Associated Press survey in 20 of 23 Wyoming counties indicates supporters of Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) will hold a majority of the 796 delegates in the state convention.

It would be a major departure from Wyoming tradition, however, if the GOP delegation to Chicago is instructed.

After county results were tabulated, Frank Mockler, speaker in the State House of Representatives and leader of the Taft movement in Wyoming, said:

"Taft forces in Wyoming have won a clear majority of the delegates to the state convention. It is a clear indication that the sentiment in Wyoming is very strong in favor of Bob Taft."

Ike Picks Up Six New York Votes

NEW YORK (U)—Six pro-Eisenhower delegates-at-large to the Republican National Convention were elected by the New York GOP State Committee yesterday.

They and 90 district delegates chosen at the April 22 primary will make up New York State's powerful 96-vote convention delegation.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has said that all but one of the district delegates will support Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the presidential nomination. One announced backer of Sen. Robert A. Taft was elected at the primary.

Supporters of Taft claim he will get at least 17 of New York's votes. Under state law, the delegates are unpledged.

They're Proud, Too

Members of Jesse Mendoza's family admire his Eagle Scout badge. Years ago he was a member of Troop No. 7 under John R. Hutto, who made the presentation. When he got to be scoutmaster of the troop, Mendoza picked up his work and earned the Eagle badge. Show with him are Dora Mendoza, his wife; their two daughters, Dora Jean and Ruth Ann; and his mother, Mrs. G. R. Mendoza.

Hutto Is Honored After Giving Award To Jesse Mendoza

One hundred and 19 awards, capped by one Eagle, which is the highest in Scouting, were given at the Court of Honor session Tuesday evening in the high school gym.

John R. Hutto, Abilene, who served as first scoutmaster for Troop No. 7, came back "home" to present the Eagle to Jesse Mendoza, one of his boys and now scoutmaster of the troop.

In turn, Hutto was himself recipient of an award made possible by his friends and former Scouts. George Melar, who had been one of his troop committeemen in those days, made the presentation.

In all there were 21 second class awards, 12 first class, one each for Star, Life and Eagle. There were 22 who qualified for camping awards, 15 for civic service, and then there were 46 merit badges earned.

George Peacock (Troop No. 2) earned his Star badge and Jerry McMahan (No. 6) his Life award. As a special feature, the Big Spring High School band was awarded a trophy for its co-operation in the recent Boy Scout Round Up here.

Ranking perhaps next to Eagle in its exclusiveness, the God and Country award was made to James Harris (Troop No. 9).

Scouts attending to the Second class rank were Lee Denton, Bobby Wright, Donald Long, Ed Nott, Danny Fivens, Kenneth Robbins, Bill Thompson, Jimmy Whitefield, Robert Rouse, Jimmie Anderson, Tony Starr, Will King, Gary Starr, Don Hicks, David Christy.

Those who reached First class were Melvin Gilmore, Bobby Thurman, Phillip Brown, Wendell Allen, Bobby Dillon, James Harris, Jerry Foreynthe, Dale Melbourne.

Not listed but earned were six from Stanton for Second class, three first First class. The Stanton troop members also earned 10 merit badges.

Troop No. 9 was the winning troop.

Participating as members of the Court were Charles Watson, chairman, Wesley Deats, John Dibrrell, Les Snow, R. H. Weaver, Bill Sheppard, the Rev. M. E. Fish, Olen Puckett, W. C. Blankenship, Melar and Mr. Hutto.

Riding THE GRUB LINE With Franklin Reynolds

The dates for the 1952 Big Spring Cowboy Reunion Rodeo are the nights of Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 6, 7, 8 and 9. The rodeo will again be produced by Rooter Brothers of Elk City, Oklahoma, and for a feature attraction the Reunion has contracted the famous Hendricks family with their horse and dog acts from California.

Tom Good is president of the Reunion, Charley Creighton and Marion Edwards are vice presidents, and R. V. Middleton is treasurer. Three other directors are Toots Mansfield, E. T. O'Daniel and Harry Lees.

Practically all the cattle on the Lorin McDowell Ranches are being shipped to South Dakota grass. What is probably the last big gather is being made today and these cattle will be shipped from Big Spring on Saturday.

Lorin has tried to hold on until he could get some rain but the persistence of the drought has made the shipment of the cattle essential. He has maintained both purebred Hereford and purebred Brahmas and a large number of Braford (Brahma-Hereford cross) heifers and cows in an extensive crossbreeding program. This year he added 10 registered Polled Shorthorn bulls to his sire battery in the crossbreeding program.

And according to all reports he didn't find grass the easy way. Finally getting it located required a great many telephone calls, covered less letters and other messages and thousands of miles of travel. All of which adds up the fact that grass is a scarce commodity all over the country.

REXIE CAUBLE reports that he has received about one inch of rain on his place and has deep plowed 160 acres at a depth of from 18 to 22 inches. Rexie says he has turned up some good clover, and that it won't take much moisture to give him a chance to start planting.

He has his herd of registered Herefords on prairie hay from Oklahoma brought here through the hay procurement service offered ranchers by Charlie Creighton. This year Creighton has brought in 31 carloads of hay for Howard County cowmen. Oklahoma hay has been available principally because the Sooner State stockmen have had a reasonably mild winter and didn't need as much as they anticipated they would need when they started storing it up last year. As they saw their need for it slacken they released it to West Texas ranchers.

Rexie believes we would have suffered some high cattle losses in this section but for the fact that we too have had a mild winter and even cattle on reduced rations didn't freeze to death.

Sam Allen, president of the Dawson County Farm Bureau and manager of the West Texas Weather Improvement District has announced as a candidate for the legislature from the Lamesa district.

Albert K. Mitchell of Albert, New Mexico, has been elected to the board of directors of the American Hereford Association. He is a veteran Hereford breeder and a national figure in livestock affairs. He runs large herds of both regis-

DRAMATIC STORY TOLD

Mechanical Heart Used On A Human

DALLAS (U)—A 60 heart-lung machine pumped a man's blood for 75 minutes, changing him from sickly blue to healthy pink, a surgeon announced today.

The machine gave him an extra heart and extra lung to fight a mysterious lung disease. It drew blood from a vein in his leg, purified it of carbon dioxide, gave it fresh oxygen, and pumped the blood back into an artery in his arm.

The dramatic story was reported to the American Association for Thoracic Surgery by Dr. James Helmsworth, University of Cincinnati Medical School.

He called it the first such successful use of an artificial heart-lung on humans in this country. All the while, the man's own heart and lungs kept working.

The man died, however, several weeks after the experiment, Dr. B. N. Carter of the University of Cincinnati Medical School said the man had an "incurable lung disease" and that the heart pumping was done only to give him relief in his breathing.

Today's report marks a big step toward a major goal—of having machines that will let surgeons completely by-pass a patient's own heart and lungs, and operate on them while they are freed from work.

Mechanical hearts that by-pass just one side of the heart already have worked on humans.

The man, a former fireman, had a disease that scarred his lungs. He hungered for oxygen, became blue and short of breath. His heart was impaired.

The machine pumped for 75 minutes while his color changed from blue to near-normal pink, Dr. Helmsworth said. He could breathe more easily and slept soundly for the first time in several weeks.

Aiken Lashes At Administration Of Storage Program

WASHINGTON (U)—Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) said today he believed a Senate investigation of the government grain storage program has shown poor administration that needs correction.

He told a reporter the farm aid program, on the basis of evidence taken so far, apparently suffered from a "severe attack of maladministration more than from any defects of law."

"Nothing has been shown up to now in testimony that improved administration could not correct," he said, adding that there is incompetence at various levels of operation.

Refuse Lone Star Funds To Expand

WASHINGTON, May 8 (U)—An application by Lone Star Steel Company of Dallas for $50,000,000 for developing production of pig iron and coke has been turned down by the Defense Production Administration.

It was one of five which were reported rejected yesterday.

DPA Deputy Administrator John H. Martin said in a letter that DPA would not approve the loans because "defense funds should not be used where expansion can be obtained by other means."

Martin's letter was to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC). Martin said DPA's refusal to make the loans "should in no way prejudice" any action RFC might want to take.

A Bible Thought For Today—

We sometimes imagine physical misfortunes are the only evils, but God will preserve us from temporal and eternal misfortunes. "The Lord shall preserve thee from evil, he shall preserve thy soul."—Ps. 121:7.

Serious Consideration Should Be Given Voting Box Removals

One of the resolutions which came up at precinct level but which did not grace the county conventions list, called for getting voting boxes out of the courthouse.

We do not know whether a party could establish its own voting place, but as a practical matter, it is wise to maintain identical polling places so far as possible. It makes for less confusion.

Under the present circumstances, however, conduct is what we have in abundance. The courthouse is the focal point for gathering on any party or general election day. Voters have to run a gauntlet of candidates and curious spectators in order to get to their voting places.

Once inside the rooms assigned to various precincts, the voter is subjected to ever further prying. There is no such thing as privacy. Voters frequently sit elbow to elbow with each other, marking and sometimes glancing about. The "secret" ballot is made a myth.

In the rural areas, schools generally serve as excellent voting places. Surely the parties and county could make arrangements for these buildings, or in the alternate, the city's two fire stations could be used.

Whatever the inconvenience occasioned by moving elsewhere, it could not compare with that which exists under present circumstances. Those concerned ought to give this proposal some serious consideration—and, we venture, some action.

If You Speed, Sooner Or Later Law Of Averages Will Get You

Of the 27,100 persons who were killed in traffic accidents in this country last year, 27,900 were destroyed by the actions of drivers. Of these 27,900, speeding drivers killed 13,750. Drivers who were using the wrong side of the road killed 5,100, those who did not or would not yield the right of way bumped off 2,570, and plain reckless driving accounted for 2,980.

These driver faults and others were present in the injury of 1,450,000 people.

The man or woman at the wheel, therefore, is the kingpin of traffic accidents, and by the same token the kingpin of traffic safety. As drivers conduct themselves, so is the nation's safety record affected one way or the other.

The modern automobile is a marvelous machine, as far from the one-lungers of the gay Nineties as the atomic bomb is ahead of Greek fire. It is structurally and mechanically sound and dependable. Mechanical failures figure seldom in accidents.

But as good as are our motor cars, they are only as safe as their drivers make them. Our traffic laws are good only insofar as they are observed. They are observed only insofar as they are enforced.

Speeders claimed 48.2 per cent of the human lives snuffed out last year in accidents attributed to driver faults. Since many of the crashes attributed to speeding resulted in multiple deaths, perhaps not more than 8,000 drivers were involved in this type of lethal malpractice.

Yet millions of drivers in this country exceed the speed limit at one time or another, and a great many of them do it habitually. Those who escaped killing someone can call themselves lucky. Few of them have stopped to ask themselves, "What if I should kill someone?"

To stay on the safe side of your conscience, observe the speed limits. They are set as much for your own protection as for anyone else's. You may beat the law of averages most of the time, but sooner or later reckless driving may take your own life or that of some loved one.

World Opinion Against Reds As Prisoners Refuse To Return

WASHINGTON (AP)—The invisible guest at the Korean truce talks ever since they began last July has been that intangible thing called world opinion.

Both sides were fully conscious of it, appealed to it, and were careful about it through more than 320 meetings filled with bickering, crises and hair-splitting.

They had to be careful about it because of their own peculiar position. They were involved not only in a shooting war but in an ideological one too.

Each represented itself to people everywhere as the guardian and advance agent of the good life for all people while condemning the other as the enemy of it.

So long as the talks continued the rest of the world could hope there might not be a resumption of that war which might lead to world war.

Because the world had a stake in the outcome, each side knew what the opinion of the invisible guest would be toward the side which broke off the talks and let the war begin for any trivial reason.

Only a few weeks ago there was hope here that the talks would soon reach a successful conclusion with a cease-fire. But suddenly the Communists met a terrible setback in world opinion.

It was on the matter of prisoners. The Communists have about 12,000 U.N. prisoners, about 7,000 of them South Koreans. The U.N. has 172,000 prisoners: 100,000 North Koreans, 20,000 Chinese and 52,000 South Koreans who were civilians or who had fought for the Communists.

Before there could be a cease-fire agreement, the Communists wanted an exchange of prisoners. They'd hand over their 12,000 for the 172,000 held by the U.N.

But the U.N. said suppose some of the 172,000 don't want to go back?

The U.N. remembered that many Russians taken prisoner by the Germans in World War II committed suicide rather than be returned.

This Day In Texas

By CURTIS BISHOP

Colonel Bernard Bee, armed with credentials certifying him as Minister Plenipotentiary from the Republic of Texas, reached Vera Cruz on this day in 1839. He may as well have stayed in Texas.

For the Mexican government promptly and finally refused the envoy permission to land. Mexico still would not concede the status of an independent nation to the Lone Star domain and so was not interested in receiving representatives from beyond the Rio Grande. Mr. Bee went back home.

Two years later Colonel Bee received another snub from Mexican officials when he and James Hamilton proposed to Santa Anna that Mexico acknowledge Texas sovereignty in return for a five million dollar cash payment. The dictator snorted that such a proposal was an affront to his honor and dignity—a reply which probably suited most Texans perfectly. Certainly they felt that the prize won at San Jacinto should not have to be paid for in cash.

Thus it seemed that Bee's diplomatic efforts always met with failure. Perhaps his and James Hamilton's contribution to history was his dying remark: "There stands Jackson like a stone wall"—which gave a famous American soldier a never-to-be-forgotten nickname.

to Russia after the war. The U.N. polled its prisoners and reported that only 70,000 out of the 172,000 would go back willingly. The U.N. said it would not force the rest to return.

This was a shocking blow to Communist prestige in Asia and everywhere. They refused to accept the U.N. position on prisoners. Yesterday the talks had reached their most critical point in 10 months.

If the talks broke off now and full war was resumed, this country was in a good position to appeal to world opinion to blame the Communists.

This was done yesterday by President Truman, Secretary of State Acheson and Deputy Defense Secretary William C. Foster in a series of statements.

The President summed it up. He said an armistice would not be bought at the price of 108,000 prisoners who didn't want to return to Communist control where they might be killed.

Share-Your-Worries Idea Considered To Be Good One

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK, May 8 (AP)—Is life too much for you? Has care got you down?

Since this is National Mental Health Week, now is as good a time as any to figure what to do about keeping all your marbles.

Statisticians estimate that one out of every 12 children born in America today will spend some part of his life in a mental institution. This is a frightening fact.

Going to a psychiatrist isn't the solution. There are only about 6,000 psychiatrists in the country. Even if patients kept their couches warm around the clock, there are too few of these professional mind probes to listen to all the people who want to tell their troubles. Also, getting to their car is a bit expensive for the average purse.

What is the answer? Well, let's look at the situation, and consider the possible remedies.

There are two ways to go through life—enjoying yourself to death, or worrying yourself to death. Most people are firmly convinced they will never die of pleasure, and as a matter of fact the very idea frightens them. So they slowly worry themselves crazy, or fret themselves gradually into a grave, borne down by the weight of accumulated disappointments and frustrated ambitions.

The big fallacy of the human race is that it is spendthrift of its happiness, but hoards worry privately like a miser.

This is all wrong. You should, of course, share your happiness; but, equally, you should share your worries.

The advantage of these share-your-worries clubs is that they would put each worry in its proper perspective. The thing about your own worry is that it always looks bigger to you than it does to everybody else.

Tell your worry to another person and, somehow, it doesn't loom quite so large even to you. And the one you told it to? He can take your worry and a dozen other worries like it from a dozen other people and go right on enjoying his meals as he did before.

It is easy to laugh at the other fellow's problems. So if everybody in the world told his worries around, soon everybody would have something to laugh about.

That's the virtue of a national share-the-worries program. Once a man has something to laugh at—somebody else's woe—it is easier for him to see how silly it is to lose his mind on the treadmill of his own despair.

Youth Must Build, Not Destroy As Some Collegians Now Doing

I feel considerably ashamed these days of the fact that I was a collegian. This, of course, does not reflect on the fact that I had the college education; rather it is because public opinion inadvertently would align me in the group simply because I did go to college and how do they know I wasn't a wild lad there?

Specifically irking to me is the fact that college boys have stooped to a new low level of law. Recent outbreaks of violence on various college campuses have been upsetting, to say the least. Youth has run wild, raiding girls dormitories and sorority houses in a rampage to acquire feminine lingerie and other intimate accessories.

In these outbreaks, which place the college lad's actions at a new low level, quite a few people have been injured, some seriously, and considerable damage has been done to university and private property.

In another rambunctious incident, a fire broke out in a university area and the location included a liquor store among the threatened buildings. Students were reported to have strained police attempts to minimize the fire loss by forays against the liquor store in seeking to vandalize its contents.

In still another instance, students watched firemen put out a blaze and further "assisted" them with accompanying jeers and hoots. Also, these students managed to swipe firemen's helmets and generally were a nuisance.

These incidents are not as rare as we may think. Many escape wide public knowledge and still others are not newsworthy today in view of more pressing material.

Furthermore, such incidents are not like the oft-told tales of collegians swallowing goldfish. When the lads did this, it is in no way affected public officials or private persons.

These latest occurrences are much more serious and make us wonder what's becoming of colleges and universities today. As a recent graduate of a university, I know from past experience that such horseplay is not too infrequent and is of the damaging type.

But I also know that when many of these affairs broke loose, very little was done to apprehend offenders or to educate them in the ways of self-discipline.

Whether such incidents can be grouped together with the so-called basketball scandals, I don't know. Perhaps this is a part of the general trend of colleges and universities to over-emphasize everything but education.

In a way, schools are doing just that. It could be, I suppose, a part of an attempt to lure potential students into attending college before rushing to enlist in the service to escape the draft.

Though I have hardly touched on many side points that could be listed as a reason for youthful escapades, I feel sure that the reader will explore these other factors himself and agree that something must be done, whether it be by college officials or parents, or just plain somebody.

Youth must build, not destroy.

Treason: Wall Streeter Regards Republican Win Bad For Stocks

SAN FRANCISCO.—The big argument among the financial analysts in convention at the Fairmont Hotel here is the election. But it's not who's best for the country—Eisenhower, Taft or whom have you. Rather, it's what party's best for the stock market.

The argument started in New York a week before the big brains behind the big money set forth for California. Ralph E. Samuel, partner in the New York Stock Exchange firm of Ralph E. Samuel & Co., committed Wall Street treason. He expressed openly the notion that a Republican president would be bad for stock prices.

Argued Samuel: "For 20 years the Democratic Party has been the spending party, the party of the unbalanced budget, the party of deficit financing." The withdrawal of the "two strongest Democratic candidates," President Truman and Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, greatly favors a Republican victory in November. Therefore, he continued:

"The deficit financing party may be on the way out and the budget balancing party may be on the way in. This, of course, may be sound and splendid. Happiness and very likely will mean a painful, difficult readjustment, not only for many types of business but for the stock market as well."

But Harry D. Comer, of the New York Stock Exchange firm of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, has no patience with that view. In a major convention address on the stock market, he declared a Republican victory would generate investor confidence. For Comer, inflation never has been a "sound basis" for prosperity in America or anywhere else. Sustained bull markets occur under conditions of stable or slightly declining price levels.

Comer went on to say that the stock market is on solid ground. Investors did not go crazy over the high earnings of 1950. They anticipated the present decline. And with a Republican administration, taxes are likely to be reduced throughout the years. That means not only higher corporation earnings, but more consumer income and more investor income. More consumer income would sustain business. More investor income would sustain stock prices. And regardless of party, Comer contended, defense expenditures will remain high.

In the words of Arthur Wiesenberger, senior partner of Arthur Wiesenberger & Co., who supports Comer's view, a Republican victory would make it possible for a "market with a Rolls Royce potential" to snap out of its Model T performance.

The facts in this argument are that anybody's right. You prove what you will. Democrats have been victorious Presidential nine times since 1872. In those years, the stock market advanced seven times between April and October, declined only twice, in 1884 when Cleveland won, and in 1940 when Roosevelt was elected for the third term. On the other hand, in eleven Republican years the stock market went down five times between April and October, up only six times. Stock marketwise that makes the Democrats look good. But wait!

Republicans can answer that what counts isn't what happens before election, but afterwards. And Republican victories have been followed by market advances eight times, by drops only three times—in 1878, when Hayes finally got the call over Tilden, in 1888 when Harrison won, in 1920 when Harding brought back "normalcy." Those, incidentally, were all bad business years. There was a depression in 1876, a recession in '88 as well as a blizzard, and the postwar commodity collapse took place in 1920. Democratic victories have resulted in six post-election declines and only three increases.

So much for election statistics. As for me, my chips are on Stalin. Tell me what he'll do about war and peace, and I'd feel sure about stock prices. If war, I'd be bearish because of tighter controls. If peace, I'd be bullish, because of a decline in defense expenditures. But, on the other hand, war would be inflationary, therefore bullish on stocks. And peace would mean lower taxes and greater confidence about the long-term future.

Tigers And Bears Found In Himalayas

Several months ago I saw a silent motion picture, brought back by a traveler who had been in India. This was one of the most amazing films I have seen. It showed a life-and-death struggle between a tiger and a lion.

That picture was supposed to show an accidental event, with the two fierce beasts happening to meet in the wilds. There was real and terrible fighting.

At first the biting and blows with claws seemed to be about even. Then the tiger started to get the better of the struggle. I expected the lion to be slain, but at last it mustered its strength and struck the tiger so hard that it fell and soon was dead.

India is one of the few places where a wild tiger and wild lion might possibly meet in the jungles. There are many tigers in India, and a few lions. There used to be far more lions than there are today. If you would like to meet a wild lion in India, the best place to look for it is in a forest or on a rock-covered hill in a section of northwestern India.

There are tigers in almost every wild part of India. Some of them measure more than 10 feet in length, from tip of nose to tip of tail. Perhaps the largest tiger ever shot was found to have a total length of 12 feet and four inches!

Some of the lower slopes of the Himalaya Mountains have tigers in large numbers. These mountains have lofty peaks, the most famous of them being Mount Everest.

Among the other animals of the Himalayas are bears and wolves. The sun bears of these mountains spend almost all their time more than a mile above sea level. Often they are found at heights of two or three miles.

Living at lower levels, along the sides of the Himalayas, are wild dogs, lynxes, leopards, tigers, foxes and antelopes.

'Fair Trade' Bill Faces House Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—A "fair trade" bill, described alternately as a boon to small business and as an extortion on consumers, faces a final test vote in the House today. The bill in effect would give federal sanction to the trade laws of 45 states which permit retailers and manufacturers to agree on minimum selling prices for many trade-marked articles. The agreements are binding on non-signers as well as on signers. A recent Supreme Court ruling that the states could not enforce their trade laws against retailers who didn't sign the agreements brought on the legislation. It enacted, the bill would get around the court ruling by declaring that the Anti-Trust and Federal Trade Commission Acts do not apply to enforcement of state "fair trade" laws. Heading the opposition to the bill, Chairman Celler (D-NY) of the Judiciary Committee told the House yesterday consumers suffer in the long run because they pay higher prices than might be charged otherwise. Supporters countered that the main aim of the bill is to protect small independent local business from price-cutting by larger outside business.

Iowa Youth May Be Free To Return Home

AUSTIN, May 8 (AP)—The 15-year-old Iowa farm boy who went to prison by a mistake in his age may soon go back home on parole. The State Pardons Board yesterday indicated agreement on recommending clemency for him. They disagreed, however, as to what jurisdiction might be retained over the youth. Herbert Fletcher went to Texas prison last year on a 10-year sentence for filling station robberies in Freestone and Williamson Counties. He told officials he was 17. As a 15-year-old, he could have been tried only as a juvenile delinquent and sent to a training school.

Payments For Protection Are Claimed In F-W

DALLAS, May 8 (AP)—Protection payments of $50 per month were claimed by a former Fort Worth gambler to have been given to A. L. Wardlaw, onetime Tarrant County assistant district attorney.

Another robbery count had been pending against Fletcher in Milam County until yesterday when the grand jury there no-billed him because of his age and recommended his parole to Iowa. Fletcher's mother and Georgetown Attorney W. K. McClain presented the Milam County Grand Jury's findings to the pardon board. Board Chairman L. C. Harris and member T. B. White asked McClain to add a letter from the Milam County attorney showing no action was planned against the youth as a juvenile.

W. H. Getzendaner testified at Wardlaw's trial for income tax evasion: "I paid him $50 a month for protection for whatever time I was open. But those places (bookie joints) don't stay open all the time."

Harris and White maintained the board had power of parole over the youth who, they said, waived his right as a juvenile when he told officers he was 17. Board Member R. A. (Smoot) Schmid contended the board by law could only recommend the sentence be commuted as illegal and Fletcher be remanded to the courts where he was convicted.

Getzendaner said he ran a bookie operation in Fort Worth during 1948 and 1949. His statements were the first indication in court of any protection racket in the Tarrant County district attorney's office during those years.

All three appeared in agreement, however, that he would be released from prison.

Getzendaner's statements were made with jury out of the courtroom at the order of Judge T. Whitfield Davidson, Asst. U. S. Dist. Atty. Cavett Blinn had asked that the jury be excused for Getzendaner's accusation.

Wardlaw is the first of two Tarrant County men indicted by a special federal grand jury that met in Fort Worth. The other, named in similar charges, is Sheriff Sully Montgomery.

Water Complaint Filed By Texas Against N. M.

SANTA FE, N. M., May 8 (AP)—A complaint by Texas that New Mexico has violated water terms of the Rio Grande Compact was served on Gov. McCham and Atty. Gen. Martinez yesterday.

Lions Note Music Week At Meeting

Music is one of the basic foods for the emotional side of which much of humanity is made, Mrs. Nell Frazier told Lions Club members Wednesday.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh
As a Matter of Fact...
Out of all the newspaper and magazine columns I read, the ones I enjoy most are those that pack in a whole lot of facts—unrelated facts, but each one an interesting bit of information in itself.
These columns go something like this: "Did you know that humpback whales are addicted to snoring? That bees have been bred with red, brown, and buff-color eyes?"
"Did you know that lead can be converted to gold—at a cost of $1,000,000 an ounce? That a 500-pound fat girl went on a diet and lost 401 pounds in 12 months? That a chrysanthemum has been developed that smells like a violet?"
From where I sit, maybe I'm a kind of "Johnny-on-the-spot." My own columns always seem to revolve around one idea—a plea for us to make sure we respect the other fellow's rights—like the right to vote for your own choice or the right to enjoy a glass of beer now and then. I may not be in style, but I believe my one fact is worth repeating—and remembering!

Joe Marsh

Adair Helps Bring Better Music Here

There's no better time to talk about musical instruments than during National Music Week. And there's no better way to tackle the subject than to talk about Adair Music Company, 1708 Gregg Street.

Because the basic musical instrument for the home, at least, is the piano, this is the item to which Jack Adair devotes most attention. In this connection, the fact that the company is the authorized dealer for the famous Baldwin line has contributed to its outstanding record in piano sales.

Jack Adair can point to many West Texas cities and communities where he had succeeded in placing Baldwin pianos with complete satisfaction to the users. On every hand schools have specified that they wanted Baldwin's or Baldwin-made pianos, both for their program and concert work as well as the small upright models for practice.

There is good reason why these pianos have established themselves as prime favorites. In the first place, only the best in materials and Baldwin is downright fussy about what it considers the best—go into the instruments. Each item is selected for excellence in a particular function, whether it be clarity, resonance, softness, ability to maintain constancy under varying conditions, or dependable and unhampered workability.

The other prime element is Baldwin know-how. Over the years Baldwin has developed a staff of craftsmen—workers who are artisans in their own right. They have proven that just as surely as a fine violin is great only in the hands of a great violinist, so are materials for a delicate yet rugged instrument such as a piano.

Adair Music Company, however, can supply other musical instrument needs. Jack Adair can suggest types and brands which are most suitable for beginners, and those which are capable of producing the crystal clearness in tone when in the hands of advanced or finished pupils.

The store also maintains a supply of top quality used pianos and has a number of other used musical instruments which generally meet the needs of those who are interested in these.

Wilson Provides Service To Car's Electric System

Specialists fully capable of taking care of any irregularities that might pop up in an automobile's electrical system are available right here in Big Spring at 408 East Third Street.

That is the address of the Wilson Auto Electric Co., a firm that never fails to put new life in balky starters and generators.

The Wilson Auto Electric Co. has been taking care of such problems for many car and truck owners in the Big Spring area, and their service is recognized as outstanding throughout the area.

Motor rewinding is one of the specialties of the concern. In fact, technicians at the Wilson Auto Electric Co. can completely rebuild a starter or generator that might appear to be completely past going. Magneto service is available for those who require it.

The firm keeps a complete stock of auto electric parts on hand, and also retails batteries. They recommend the Lindley battery to their customers. This battery is a Texas product and gives particularly good service in the Southwest.

A good battery, incidentally, is essential to good performance. A defective battery can cause generator and starter troubles to develop.

A Lindley battery, when properly serviced, insures good performance. They can be purchased at the Wilson Auto Electric Co.

Modern Way To Whip Insects

This young woman is a wise young woman. She is using No-Roach, a modern preparation which produces near miraculous results in controlling insects. No-Roach, which may be applied with a simple brushing operation, leaves an invisible film. But this coating is death to roaches, flies and other insects which might touch it. No-Roach contains chlordane and is effective for months. It is harmless to pets, other animals or children.

T. & T. Adds Unit For Fire Fighting

The T & T Welding Supply Company, this area's most completely equipped business of its kind, has recently had installed a CO-2 transfer unit, capable of filling all sizes of CO-2 fire extinguishers.

The unit is the only one of its kind between San Antonio and Lubbock, Odessa and Abilene. All fire extinguishers should be checked regularly to see if they are functioning properly. If they need refilling, the place to take them is the T & T Welding Supply Company, located at 605 East 2nd Street in Big Spring.

T & T also maintains all types of gases used in surgery and allied cases in hospitals and keeps a truck on 24-hour duty to deliver such in event of emergency.

The concern keeps in stock the famed Prest-O-Lite products, nationally known and nationally accepted. T & T, which also maintains a shop in Colorado City, is the headquarters for Purox oxyacetylene welding and cutting equipment.

Complete equipment for the welders, including all types of recommended clothing, is stocked by the T & T concern. That line includes goggles, gauges, gloves, helmets and accessories.

T & T personnel is also prepared to offer advice on the proper way to install welding equipment. Farm equipment which is falling to ruin because some minor mechanism is not functioning correctly perhaps could be made as good as new by a welder. The place to see about it is the T & T Welding Supply.

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—This Gulf Coast city had 93-degree temperatures yesterday, breaking previous heat record for the third consecutive day.

Expert Care Used In Handling Your Expensive Pianos

You probably wouldn't want a jack-hammer operator to work on your wrist watch. By the same token, you wouldn't entrust the moving of your piano or organ to someone who did not possess the experience and equipment for doing the job.

There's no need to worry on this point, however, for when it comes to moving musical instruments, Neel's Transfer, owned and operated by T. Willard Neel, has a record unexcelled. Neel knows how important it is to maintaining tonal as well as mechanical perfection when handling a piano. So these objects are always handled with respect that is due a fine instrument. It goes without saying that while Neel's is protecting the playing quality of the piano or organ, the finish and construction is equally well protected.

Phillips Handles Lawson Conditioner

The Lawson type of air conditioner, made so that it can easily be installed in any home, is available here at the Phillips Tire Company, located at Fourth and Johnson Streets.

The Lawson 5130 is proving especially popular in this area. It is built entirely of galvanized paint-lock steel, boasts a rigid neck, which is completely self-supporting, has a baked enamel finish in pearl grey, comes equipped with adjustable air louvers and a heavy duty motor switch, is equipped with a deep water pan for re-circulating pump, has a removable non-slag

Fairless Assumes U. S. Steel Post

NEW YORK (AP)—Benjamin F. Fairless took over full direction of the nation's largest steel producer today with the retirement of Irving S. Olds as chairman of the United States Steel Corp. Olds retired yesterday from his $211,000-a-year job, and Fairless immediately was named the new chairman of the Board of Directors. Fairless will continue as the president of the steel industry giant, making him the first man in the corporation's 50-year history to hold both posts. He also was appointed chief executive officer.

Fairless, a coal miner's son who became U.S. Steel's president in 1938, earned $281,000 with the corporation last year.

No Pictures, Please

LONDON (AP)—American film and stage star Jean Arthur began a three-month vacation in England today and asked photographers not to take her picture, please.

With her hair clipped short and wearing dark glasses, she explained apologetically: "I'm ugly without Hollywood makeup."

New Upholstered Furniture Doesn't Overpower Room

By ELIZABETH HILLIER
Overweight is almost as bad for a room as it is for the figure. Too much heavily upholstered furniture makes a room look crowded and dowdy and out of step with today's style. New upholstered furniture aims to trim silhouettes, chair and sofa arms are slender and often open rather than fully padded, cushioning is less thick and straighter in outline than it used to be, more designs show legs rather than upholstery to the floor. The effect of this slenderized new furniture is a fashionably open and airy look for the room. Even the change of a chair or two from oversize to lighter weight does wonders, and no room should carry extra pounds it doesn't need. Bulk isn't necessary for comfort. This you can prove to yourself by sitting on the new slimmer furniture. It's so often more comfortable than older overstuffed — because fit to the seated figure doesn't demand scale tipping, and the pitch of the back in relation to the seat plus the firmness or softness of upholstery filling matters more than thickness. Here interior designer Everett Brown shows how a small room can take two long sofas. With them he provides adequate seating space while freeing a maximum square feet of floor.
