District judge will seek another term

District Judge Gene Dulaney, 68, became the first Scurry County office holder to officially announce his intentions for the 1988 political season Thursday, indicating he will be a candidate for a second four-year term.

Thursday is the first day to officially file as a candidate. Locally, nine district or county political offices will be included on the March 8 primary ballots and the General Election in November of 1988.

The filing period for these offices will end Jan. 4.

Dulaney will again seek the Republican nomination in the spring primary. He won over a Democratic opponent in November of 1984 following the retirement of then-District Judge Wayland G. Holt.

Dulaney has been a resident of Scurry County for 37 years.

U. S. makes new charges...

Pre-summit flareup

WASHINGTON (AP) — New charges by President Reagan of Soviet treaty violations are clouding the atmosphere four days before the arrival of General Secretary Mikhail S. Gorbachev for a third superpower summit meeting.

The charges could stiffen conservative political resistance to the missile-destruction treaty Reagan expects to sign next Tuesday and to submit to a skeptical Senate for ratification.

There was no immediate indication in Washington that Reagan's fresh complaints of Soviet treaty cheating — promptly denied by a newly arrived advance guard of the Kremlin contingent — would put the summit in jeopardy.

But, underscoring the atmosphere at the White House as the administration prepared for the meeting, presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater pointedly portrayed next week's sessions between Reagan and Gorbachev as a meeting of "enemies."

Besides the new charges, which are centered on a shift of two Soviet radars to the vicinity of Moscow and Kiev, Reagan told Congress in a report Wednesday that "other violations are continuing."

He said he had urged the Soviets to take corrective actions.

9 county, district office holders face political deadlines

Thursday is the first day to officially file as a candidate for county, state and federal political offices, elections to be finally decided in November of 1988--a ballot which will include the race for U.S. president.

In Scurry County, eight district or county office holders have terms due to expire. The local ballot will include also one unexpired term involving the position of county clerk.

This year's filing has been moved up since Texas, for the first time, will hold its party primary elections on March 8 to coincide with the Super Tuesday presidential ballot.

In past years, the Texas primaries for the Republican and Democartic parties were held on the first weekend in May.

The filing period which begins Thursday will run through Jan. 4. Also, Jan. 6 is the final day to withdraw as a candidate.

The deadline to register to vote in the primary races is Feb. 7. Primary run-off elections, if necessary, will be April 12.

The following is the list of Scurry County political offices affected by the upcoming ballot.

—District judge: Gene Dulaney, a Republican, is completing his first four-year term. He won a two-man race for the office in November of 1984 following the retirement of then-District Judge Wayland Holt.

—District attorney: Ernie Armstrong, a Democrat, is completing his first four-year term. He won his party's nomination in a three-man race in the spring primary of 1984, a race that included a June runoff. He was unopposed in November of that year.

—County commissioner, Pct. 1: Duaine Davis, a Democrat, has held the post since being appointed in July of 1985 after the death of then-incumbent Eldon Perry. In the spring primary race of 1986, he won a three-man race--to include a runoff in June--for the remainder of the unex-

In Brief

Return home

PARIS (AP) — Five Frenchmen who had been trapped inside the French Embassy in Tehran returned home today, leaving behind three colleagues to oversee French interests in Iran, the Foreign Ministry said.

Paul Torri, first secretary at the embassy, had returned to France on Monday after the French government turned over to Iran an employee of the Iranian Embassy in Paris.

Bank bailout

VICTORIA, Texas (AP) — The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. announced today a $2 million bailout of the Crossroads Bank of Victoria to prevent it from failing, a spokesman said.

Crossroads Bank has been acquired by a group of investors headed by Dorothy Ploeger and service to customers will not be interrupted, said Bill Olcheski, FDIC spokesman in Washington.

Found guilty

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — A Lansing, Mich. youth faces up to 30 years in juvenile facilities and prison when sentenced today after a Tom Green County jury found him guilty of shooting a local newspaper editor.

A jury took less than 25 minutes to convict the 15-year-old boy of delinquent conduct because of attempted capital murder in connection with the Sept. 23 shooting of Roy Cooper, editor and publisher of the Junction Eagle.

Yule Happening set this weekend

The Scurry County Museum invites the public to its ninth annual Christmas Happening slated from 1 until 4 p.m. Sunday at Western Texas College.

The Diamond M Museum at 909 25th St. also invites visitors to its special Christmas exhibit from 1 until 4 p.m. Sunday.

Santa Claus will arrive at the Scurry County Museum at 1 p.m. and will be visiting children until closing time at 4 p.m. Pinata breakings for children will take place on the lawn in front of the museum during the afternoon.

In addition, the Christmas concert of the WTC music department will be at 2 p.m. in the Fine Arts Theatre.

Adults are invited to browse in the museum's Country Store for gift items, gift wrapping materials and books for children and adults.

Holiday decorations in the museum will feature a patriotic theme in keeping with the nation's observance of the 200th anniversary of the Constitution.

Featured in the Christmas concert will be the WTC Vocal Ensemble directed by Brent Hardegree and the WTC Ladies Ensemble and the Singing Cowboys directed by Jane Womack.

Solos and duets by members of the Vocal Ensemble will round out the program, which will last about one hour. The music will be a combination of traditional and non-traditional Christmas music.

There is no charge for admission to any of the Christmas Happening activities nor to the Diamond M Museum, which will be showing art by sixth grade students, antique Christmas cards on loan from the Scurry County Museum and paintings from the Diamond M collection.

"The Christmas Happening is our holiday gift to the community and we invite everyone to come out and enjoy it," Shirley Leftwich, Scurry County Museum director, said.

THE MIDST OF CHRISTMAS — 10-year-old Mark Bullard and his 7-year-old sister, Christina, look over packages at the Scurry County Museum's Christmas Country Store, where a "Christmas Happening," featuring a visit by Santa Claus, a pinata-breaking, Christmas concert and puppet show, will be staged from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday. Fire burns vacant residence

Firemen battled a fire in a vacant house for about two hours Wednesday night at 706 15th St.

The house, owned by Julian Olivarez, was heavily damaged by fire in a bedroom area in the back and had heat and smoke damage in the front, Fire Chief Terry Don McDowell said.

The call came in at 9:45 p.m., and the fire fighters left the scene at midnight.

McDowell said the cause is currently under investigation.

Other Wednesday fire calls included one at noon to the grass fire at 37th St. and Rose Circle that firemen were briefly occupied with and a 12:55 p.m. fire in a cotton stripper being operated by Ricky Williams nine miles east of Snyder off the Roby Highway.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Looking at the lists of Republican and Democratic candidates for president make you proud to be an independent."

Dealing with a bureaucrat can be really frustrating--especially if you call one of those toll-free numbers. It's not really toll free--taxpayers are picking up the tab.

A few years ago we first heard a federal employee speaking of his agency's "comfort level." We didn't give a hoot about his comfort level, and before the association ended, he obviously didn't have a lot of interest in ours.

Now the Infernal Revenue Service is spending our tax money to train employees how to keep calm when handling calls from irate taxpayers.

New IRS employees now have a five-week training course on how to deal with us. It's called, in typical government language, "sensitivity training sessions."

One such suggestion: "Put them on hold and then make faces while writing ugly words on your pad." That's what we call mature problem-solving.

The sessions include stress-reduction techniques where employees learn to roll their shoulders and stretch their fingers and necks while doing breathing exercises.

In person, IRS employees are told to listen with their eyes. As expected, no where in the training class did we find any evidence that an infernal revenue agent had to have a heart.

We love those double standards. It's now against the law for any executive branch official to accept a free meal from anyone.

The U.S. House of Representatives, however, recently changed its rules so members of congress can accept up to $50 worth of free grub at any one sitting.

And you thought there were no free lunches.

Triple slingshot flight scheduled

WASHINGTON (AP) — How do you get to Jupiter on a weak rocket? Well, first you go to Venus and then skim past the Earth twice.

It takes longer, but NASA scientists say that's the only way their Galileo spacecraft can make the voyage.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif., devised the triple near-pass maneuvers to salvage the much-delayed $1.3 billion Galileo project, a robot space probe that was grounded by the 1986 Challenger accident.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials announced Wednesday that Galileo will be launched from space shuttle Discovery on Oct. 9, 1989, meander through the solar system for six years and finally rendezvous with Jupiter and its moons on Dec. 7, 1995.

NASA space science chief Lennard A. Fisk said the three-ton Galileo will open "a new golden age of planetary exploration" by harvesting sophisticated photographs of Venus, the Earth and its moon, and two asteroids, before starting a long-term study of Jupiter and its satellites.

JPL scientists used a computer to design a flight path that uses the gravitational pull of Venus and the Earth to accelerate the underpowered Galileo to a speed great enough to reach the destination.

"This was the only way to get to Jupiter," JPL scientist William O'Neil said.

Galileo originally was scheduled for launch into low Earth orbit last year by the space shuttle. A powerful liquid-fueled rocket called Centaur was then to drill it toward Jupiter, a trip that would have taken only 20 months.

But when Challenger blew up on Jan. 28, 1986, killing seven astronauts, the shuttle fleet was grounded, and so was Galileo. NASA later canceled the Centaur program.

To salvage the mission, NASA scientists fitted Galileo to a smaller rocket, which is approved for shuttle use, and then designed the triple slingshot maneuver.

John P. Casani, the Galileo project manager, said at a news conference Wednesday that Galileo will be placed into low Earth orbit by the space shuttle and then fire a rocket to start toward Venus.

Five months later, Galileo will arc around Venus and streak toward the first of two fly-bys of its home planet.

It will pass 620 miles above the Earth on Feb. 9, 1990, and then spend two years in a huge elliptical orbit that carries it near the asteroid Gaspra.

Galileo passes within 200 miles of the Earth on Dec. 8, 1992, picking up the velocity and direction needed for a three-year voyage to Jupiter.

In July 1995, as it approaches Jupiter, Galileo will drop a probe. The probe will diverge, aiming directly at the planet, while Galileo angles toward a Jovian orbit.

The probe will parachute into Jupiter's atmosphere. Six instruments will radio back data as the probe falls into the increasingly dense atmosphere. After 75 minutes, officials said, intense pressure will crush and silence the probe.

Galileo will then spend 22 months orbiting Jupiter, sending to Earth close-up pictures and measurements of the Jovian moons Io, Ganymede, Calisto and Europa.

Project scientist Torrence N. Johnson said that while following its long, complex path to Jupiter, cameras on Galileo will capture unique views of Venus, Earth and two asteroids, and will take the first high-quality photographs ever of the moon's north pole.

Former Navy secretary says Gulf suicide attacks likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deployment of Navy ships in the Persian Gulf courts suicide attacks such as the Beirut bombing that killed 241 servicemen, according to former Navy Secretary John Lehman.

The Navy escorts for Kuwaiti vessels placed under the U.S. flag were "precisely the right thing to do" but should have been temporary, Lehman said in a speech Wednesday.

"For us to maintain 25 ships or so in the Iranian back yard, in an exposed position, vulnerable to surprise (and to) the picking and choosing of times for potential suicide attacks by whatever medium, is guaranteeing that sooner or later it will happen," Lehman said.

"The problem of continuing such a posture in such an exposed position is that when it happens, there is no satisfactory response."

Lehman said the situation is similar to the conditions preceding the suicide attack on a U.S. compound in Beirut that killed 241 Marines and sailors in October 1983.

Lehman, who resigned as Navy secretary in April after six years in the job, spoke at a conference sponsored by Oil Daily, a petroleum industry publication.

After the speech, he said Saudi Arabia and Kuwait could have worked out production swaps that would have avoided the tanker runs to Kuwait at the head of the gulf.

Lehman said nations buying oil from gulf producers, and those producers, should share the cost of maintaining forces to protect gulf oil, a cost he put at $40 billion a year.

He mentioned no dollar contributions except that Japan should put up at least $10 billion a year.

The United States obtains only a few percent of its oil imports from Persian Gulf countries. Europe obtains far more and Japan receives about two-thirds of its supply from there.

"In the long term it is very dangerous and wrong for us to pretend that the American people are prepared to put five divisions on the mainland of Mesopotamia (Iraq) or Iran to fight a land war to sustain Persian Gulf oil," he said. "In my judgment the American people will not do so and to pretend and bluff that we will go it alone is dangerous, because people start acting as if that is the reality."

Lehman said the United States could supply equipment without bearing the full cost.

"If it is the United States through such a regional (cost-sharing) arrangement that must provide the aircraft carriers and destroyers and AWACS aircraft, so be it," he said.

If Europe and Japan are unwilling to help pay for the U.S. force after years of what Lehman called a "free ride" under U.S. defense protection, "it's time we re-assessed just what role we should play in the gulf," he said.

Your Birthday

Dec. 4, 1987

In the year ahead, you will begin to reap benefits from two projects that appeared to be only mildly promising. In fact, they may turn out to be your biggest gainers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone who has known you for a long time is thinking about taking you into his or her confidence regarding a matter that could prove financially rewarding. Major changes are ahead for Sagittarians in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone you'd least expect is saying lots of nice things about you to others. You'll be quite flattered when you learn this person's identity.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It looks like you may derive some type of material benefits today from a rather peculiar development. It will be cloaked in secrecy.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Select companions today whose thinking and interests closely parallel yours. People with whom you don't share common interests may make you uncomfortable.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will have some important insights today. They will be extremely helpful to one close to you who is unable to find his or her own answers.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Yours will be the steadiest hands on the helm today in an important personal relationship. Keep this in mind if critical decisions are required.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today shouldn't be devoted to all fun and games. There's a delicate matter that needs prompt attention and sober reflection. Don't neglect it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There will be a favorable shift in conditions today. This will result in the strengthening of a bond that is vital to you at the present time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You won't enjoy resting on your laurels around the house today, so try to be productive. Improve or mend something that needs fixing.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll be in a communicative mood today, but not for idle chatter. Involve yourself with people from whom you may be able to learn something of value.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're presently in a favorable cycle where your determination is equal to any challenge with which you may be faced. It's a good time to advance self-interests.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A good old-fashioned talk today with a close friend could reveal some information about which you've been curious, but unable to acquire from other sources.

North did not have to jump to four spades. Bidding three would have been enough. That way South would not get so carried away that the partnership winds up in five spades, a contract that any bridge player should abhor. Still, there declarer was in an 11-trick contract under his own power, and he had to figure out the best play to bring it home.

East won the ace of diamonds and continued the suit. The cards played indicated that West was now out of diamonds. Although the location of the spade ace was uncertain, declarer had to guard against the likelihood that East held the spade ace and West the spade jack. In that event, how could declarer prevent West from ruffing a third round of diamonds with the spade jack? Declarer cashed his heart ace, traveled to dummy with a high club and played K-Q of hearts, throwing his diamonds away. Now he played a spade from dummy. East grabbed the ace immediately and played the expected diamond. What now?

Since East had shown six diamonds with his jump bid and had followed to three rounds of hearts, it was very unlikely that he began with A-J-x of spades. Declarer's best chance is to ruff with the king or queen of spades and play the other one. If West started with J-5-2 of spades, there is no hope for the hand anyway.

'Purple lady' is legend

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — To ask Sonia Young her favorite color is redundant.

She drives a purple convertible, writes on a purple typewriter, eats off purple dishes with purple silverware and usually appears decked from head to toe in purple or a derivative thereof.

Her passion for purple has made her a local celebrity, but many people who have seen her in parades, on television or in the newspapers don't even know her name — just her sobriquet, the Purple Lady.

She's even listed in the telephone book under her alias, in case her fans have trouble finding her.

"I always liked purple as a child," said Young, who portrayed an orchid in a dance recital at age 5. "Whenever I could find anything in purple, I always wore it. When I designed my own paper dolls, they had purple clothes."

Young, 52, estimated that she's been wearing purple exclusively for about two decades.

"It got to the point that people would get real upset when they didn't see me in purple," she said, relaxing on a couch at her home wearing a purple dress, glasses, earrings and toenail polish.

"Even now, people will come up to me, if it's a shade they don't think is purple enough, they'll say, 'This is not purple.'"

"I don't like any other color as well. I'm not happy wearing another color," she said. "I've tried on clothes that were blue. They don't look like me. I don't look right in them anymore. I wear lots of shades of purple, magenta, red plum, lavender. I have a wide range."

Bob Elmore, executive director of tourism for the Chattanooga Convention and Visitors Bureau, said she had been a familiar figure for years at events to promote civic projects or charitable causes.

"She's a colorful person and does some good work," Elmore said. "I see her wherever I go. You have a tendency to notice her. She's not exactly a shrinking violet."

Bernie Sellman, who has worked with Young for years as a supporter of the local community theater, said she had been good for the city as a booster of the arts.

"Sonia is an energetic woman who is always into everything," he said. "She's pro-Chattanooga. She's always looking to better, not only the theater, but everything.

"But she's never without her purple costume," he added. "All we have to do is spot purple and we know Sonia is around."

Young says she wore the color to help entertain children and put them at ease when she worked as a psychological examiner at a local speech and hearing center and also has used purple in several business ventures, including a job as an insurance broker.

"When I was in the insurance business — you could have five women in the room, including Raquel Welch, but I'm the one they'd notice first," she said. "I mean, purple hat, gloves, shoes, bag. They'd eventually get to Raquel Welch, don't worry. But it did get you into a lot of doors right away.

"Obviously, it has been something that I've used as a marketing point. Just like other people package groceries. I packaged me," she said. "But I've used it, one, to get through to children and, two, to help raise money for charities or to promote the opera, the symphony or whatever it was."

A tour of her home reveals an extensive purple collection. Some standard items include purple rugs and furniture, but the exotic also is represented in such things as a purple toilet seat, purple stethoscope and a 1970 purple Charger.

Book shelves include titles such as "The Color Purple" and the song, "Deep Purple," can be found among her records. Closets are filled with almost every imaginable item of purple clothing, from shoes to wigs to fur coats.

She frequently gets purple gifts from friends and has a list of stores on the lookout for purple accessories.

Young says she realizes some people view her as an oddity. "I don't worry about it," she said.

Tiger teams lace sneakers for area cage tournaments

Coach Larry Scott's high-flying Tigers are scheduled to take on Frenship at 5:30 p.m. today in the Levelland Tournament.

Snyder's varsity boys are just one of six local high school teams involved in tournament play this weekend. Coach Ken Housden's varsity girls play Van Horn at 5:30 p.m. Friday in the Crane Tournament.

Snyder's varsity teams are both 4-1 on the young season. The Crane Tournament will mark the end of non-district play for the Lady Tigers, for awhile at least. Housden's charges open 2-4A play on Tuesday, Dec. 8, by hosting San Angelo Lake View. The boys do not open district competition until Dec. 15.

In one schedule change, today's freshmen boy's basketball games with Abilene High have been cancelled. The games have not been rescheduled, though Coach Scott said the school is attempting to find more opponents for the ninth graders.

In other tournaments this weekend:

- Snyder junior varsity boys play Coahoma in the Coahoma Varsity Tournament at 7 o'clock tonight.
- The sophomore boys take on Midland Lee at Lee in the Midland Tournament at 5:30 this evening.
- The junior varsity girls will split into two teams and host the Snyder JV Tournament beginning today at the high school gym. The B-Team plays Lamesa at 5:30 p.m.; the A-Team plays Andrews at 7 p.m.
- Snyder freshmen girls play Denver City at 7 p.m. Friday in the Seminole Tournament.

Western Texas College basketball teams do not play this weekend, but host Howard College next Thursday, Dec. 10, in a conference doubleheader at Scurry County Coliseum.

Pelluer will start

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry says Steve Pelluer will start at quarterback when the team plays the Atlanta Falcons Sunday.

Pelluer, in his second start, will probably play the whole game, Landry said Wednesday.

Frogs win 2nd straight game but Aggies, Owls are toppled

by The Associated Press

The Texas Christian University Horned Frogs remained unbeaten, but it took a strong second-half performance for TCU to take a come-from-behind victory over Idaho State.

TCU defeated Idaho State, 65-50, to become the only SWC to take a victory Wednesday night. Nebraska overwhelmed Texas A&M, 92-60, and Mississippi State edged Rice, 72-68.

"We couldn't get anything going in the first half because we weren't willing to work for anything," TCU coach Moe Iba said. "Obviously, we played a little harder in the second half and it started paying off for us."

Norman Anderson scored a career-high 20 points to lead Texas Christian to the victory.

The 6-8 Anderson, who also grabbed 11 rebounds, scored a dozen of his game-high points in the second half, enabling the Horned Frogs to overcome a five-point halftime deficit of 27-22.

TCU upped its record to 2-0, while the Bengals fell to 1-2.

Much of the Frogs' work in the final 20 minutes was on defense and the boards. Idaho State upped its lead to 29-22 only 59 seconds into the second half, but then the Frog defense took hold.

For the next 13 minutes, the Bengals were limited to only four points as TCU moved to a 46-33 advantage.

During that span, the Frogs forced six Idaho State turnovers and out-rebounded the taller Big Sky conference club 10-2. Anderson contributed 10 points during that decisive TCU run.

He was supported by a 12-point, 12-rebound performance of 6-1 sub John Lewis. Idaho State's Michael Green, with 15 points, was the only player to score in double figures for the losers.

Derrick Vick scored 15 points as Nebraska jumped out to a 17-point halftime lead and cruised to an easy 92-60 victory over Texas A&M.

Nebraska sprinted to a 44-27 intermission lead as freshman guard Clifford Scales came off the bench and hit four consecutive shots to kick the Huskers' running game into gear midway through the half.

Rich King, the 7-2 freshman center, made his presence known in the first half, blocking two shots and slamming home two dunks on his way to a 15-point game.

Texas A&M shot only 34 percent in the first half and trailed Nebraska in rebounding.

Nebraska stretched its lead to 31 midway through the second half as coach Danny Nee shuffled his lineup, playing four freshmen through the final 10 minutes of the game.

Freshman Beau Reid had 13 points for Nebraska, which evened its record to 2-2. Pete Manning added 10 points.

The Aggies, who fell to 1-2, were led in scoring by Donald Thompson with 14. Keron Graves had 12 points.

Greg Carter scored 17 points to lead the Mississippi State Bulldogs to a 72-68 victory over the Rice Owls.

Joe Courtney and Carl Nichols each added 10 points and seven rebounds for the Bulldogs, who improved to 2-0. Rice, 2-1, was led by freshman David Willie with 16 points and D'Wayne Tanner with 13.

Mississippi State took its first lead of the game, 35-34, on the opening basket of the second half. Neither team led by more than three points until the Bulldogs scored nine straight to take a 55-45 advantage with 11:47 left.

Rice shaved the Bulldog lead to 65-62 with 2:41 left, but Mississippi State then reeled off seven straight points to lead 72-62 with nine seconds left.

The Owls managed a pair of 3-point shots in the final nine seconds.

Rockets sputter; Spurs win, 97-93

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - The San Antonio Spurs got hot about the same time the Houston Rockets went cold and it added up to a come-from-behind victory by the Spurs.

The Spurs outscored the Rockets, 29-13, in the fourth quarter enroute to a 97-93 victory Wednesday night. The Rockets had led by as many as 14 points in the third quarter before their cold spell.

Houston coach Bill Fitch said there was a simple reason for the loss.

"We missed seven of eight free throws down the stretch," Fitch said. "You can't do that. You have to go up and hit your free throws."

In addition to missing the free throws, the Rockets were unable to convert from the field during the final five minutes of the game.

"It takes guts and character," Fitch said. "Tonight we just lacked that killer instinct."

David Greenwood's performance was less than enviable until the final 1:13 when he gave the Spurs their first lead with back-to-back baskets. The four points were the only points he scored.

"I wasn't hitting any shots tonight," Greenwood said. "Alvin (Robertson) and the guys kept telling me to shoot."

The victory broke a three-game losing skid for the Spurs and after the game San Antonio coach Bob Weiss said he felt along the Spurs could come back.

But Weiss said it didn't take any special urging to motivate the Spurs.

"That was our first game of the season where we had the opportunity to comeback and win. And we did," Weiss said. "There was no Knute Rockne speech. I just told them that if we could control the boards and stop the second shots we had a chance."

Controlling the boards is exactly what Frank Brickowski did. He had grabbed a career high 15 rebounds before fouling out with 4:15 remaining.

But by then Houston had already turned cold and was unable to score a point.

Akeem Olajuwon led all scorers with 23 but missed his final three shots from the field. He showed his frustration late in the game when he committed his sixth foul.

"Olajuwon took a lot of shots we wanted him to," Weiss said. "But he was hitting them until the end."

Johnny Dawkins led the comeback with 12 of his 20 points in the fourth quarter.

Connors upended in tennis Masters

NEW YORK (AP) - Brad Gilbert traveled the globe to get to the Masters tennis championship, but said he would have gone even farther.

"I might have gone to the moon to get here," the No. 8 seed said Wednesday night after beating No. 4 Jimmy Connors 6-4, 7-6 (7-5) in the round-robin tournament at Madison Square Garden.

"I played the last 16 consecutive weeks since Cincinnati. I got here Saturday from Brazil, but I'm strong and eager."

In the last two months, Gilbert's road to New York passed through Los Angeles, Tel Aviv, Paris, Johannesburg and Itaparica, Brazil, where he clinched the final berth in the eight-man Masters field last week.

In other opening-night matches, second-seeded Stefan Edberg of Sweden beat No. 7 Pat Cash of Australia 6-4, 4-6, 6-1 and No. 3 Mats Wilander of Sweden downed No. 6 Miloslav Mecir of Czechoslovakia 6-4, 6-1.

The losers remain alive, however, because everyone plays three matches before the field is cut in half for Sunday's semifinals.

Despite his hectic schedule, Gilbert didn't appear travel weary against Connors, who beat him last summer in the U.S. Open quarterfinals.

At the Open, Connors rallied to win after losing the first set. With Gilbert trailing 5-3 in the tiebreaker, it looked like a similar comeback was possible. But the 26-year-old Californian won the last four points of the match.

Connors, who has a cold and an ear infection, committed 36 unforced errors - one more than his age. But he wasn't upset by his performance.

"To go 6-4, 7-6 and have a chance to win the match, I can't complain about that," he said.

Connors hasn't won a tournament in more than three years, but opponents don't take him lightly.

"He's damn good," Gilbert said.

Sooners dominate All-America squad

by The Associated Press

Tight end Keith Jackson and guard Mark Hutson, repeaters from last year, are among a record-tying five first-teamers from No. 1-ranked Oklahoma to make the Associated Press All-America football team.

The AP team, announced Wednesday, features five repeaters and also includes a first-ever return specialist - Notre Dame's Tim Brown - and the first Tulane player in 48 years to make the elite first team - record-setting wide receiver Marc Zeno.

The All-American backfield consists of Syracuse quarterback Don McPherson, the national leader in passing efficiency, and running backs Craig "Ironhead" Heyward of Pittsburgh and Thurman Thomas of Oklahoma State, who finished second and third, respectively, in rushing.

The other holdovers from 1986 besides Jackson and Hutson are Brown, Ohio State linebacker Chris Spielman and Miami defensive back Bennie Blades.

Oklahoma's other representatives, all from the nation's top-rated defensive unit, are linebacker Dante Jones, defensive player of the year in the Big Eight Conference; end Darrell Reed, a four-time All-Big Eight selection, and free safety Rickey Dixon.

The All-America team is selected by the AP's sports editor, college football editor and regional sports editors. A player must make his all-conference or all-sectional team to be considered for the All-America first team.

Second-ranked Miami of Florida, No. 3 Florida State and No. 6 Auburn each had two players on the All-America team, which includes defensive lineman Daniel Stubbs of Miami, linebacker Paul McGowan and defensive Deion Sanders of Florida State and offensive tackle Stacy Searels and linebacker Kurt Crain of Auburn.

Notre Dame's Brown was a wide receiver on the 1986 All-America team but his receptions were down from 45 to 39 as opponents double-teamed him and the Irish threw less following an early-season injury that sidelined quarterback Terry Andrysiak.

Brown finished sixth nationally with an average of 167.6 all-purpose yards a game and a total of 1,843 yards - 144 rushing, 846 receiving, 401 on punt returns and 452 on kickoff returns. He is Notre Dame's career leader with 2,493 reception yards and tied an NCAA record by returning two punts for touchdowns against Michigan State.

The All-America wide receivers are Zeno, the major-college career leader with 3,725 reception yards, and Indiana's Ernie Jones, player of the year in the Big Ten.

This season, Zeno caught 77 passes - his average of seven a game tied him for second nationally - for 1,206 yards and 13 touchdowns. Jones caught 59 passes for 1,115 yards, an 18.9-yard average. His yardage total and 5.3 catches per game led the Big Ten.

Gaetti tries fortunes in free agent market

NEW YORK (AP) - Gary Gaetti, the most valuable player in the American League playoffs, is ready to test the freer free agent market, after the World Champion Minnesota Twins offered him salary arbitration.

The hard-hitting, slick-fielding third baseman said Wednesday he would consider playing for several other teams, including Chicago Cubs, California, Los Angeles, Toronto, Milwaukee and Detroit.

Gaetti said he "would consider almost any offer."

"Why sell yourself short?" he said. "Why would you want to limit yourself."

The Twins won the American League West title by beating the Toronto Blue Jays in the AL playoffs and defeating the St. Louis Cardinals in the World Series.

Gaetti, who hit more than 30 home runs and drove in more than 100 runs for the second consecutive year, homered in his first two playoff at-bats and finished with a .300 batting average (6-for-20) while driving in five runs in earning the MVP award.

Gaetti will find out his worth to the Twins - and the other major league clubs - during the off-season.

In 1987, he was Minnesota's third-highest paid player, earning $950,000.

"I'm going to do what's best for me," Gaetti said. "If it's a multi-year contract, if it's one year, whatever.

"But there's more to it than leaving the team. It means having to move your family, make new friends and a lot of other things."

Gaetti was encouraged that the free agent market, which had been stagnant for the last two years, appeared ready to break open, following the signings Tuesday of Cleveland outfielder Brett Butler by San Francisco and Giants outfielder Chili Davis by California.

Sergeant demoted, sentenced to 5 months in military prison

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — An Army sergeant was demoted and sentenced to five months in military prison after admitting he had sex with three women soldiers without telling them he had the AIDS virus, officials said.

Richard W. Sargeant, 28, was demoted to the lowest rank of private, forfeited all his military benefits and was dishonorably discharged after a court-martial at Fort Sam Houston Wednesday.

The sentence was part of a pretrial agreement and was made public only after an eight-member military panel had deliberated three hours.

The panel had decided virtually the same sentence, except that it had ordered Sargeant to serve nine years in military prison.

After the jury was dimissed military judge Lt. Col. Stephen Saynishch announced the pretrial agreement, accepted the sentence and ordered Sargeant to confinement at Fort Hood.

"Sgt. Sargeant is understandably upset and we'll evaluate the outcome of this after we have digested this for a day or two," Maj. Louis Cashiola, Sargeant's attorney, said.

Sargeant and prosecutors declined to speak with reporters after the sentence was announced. Sargeant's case will be automaticaly appealed to the U.S. Military Court of Review, which will analyze procedures in the trial.

The sentence was the first of its kind handed to a serviceman and military officials believe it will set a precedent for servicemen to obey orders from superiors' regarding AIDS.

"They were trying to downplay the sexual aspect of the case and upplay the preventive part of it," Lt. Col. Jim Polley, staff judge advocate at Fort Sam Houston, said about government prosecutors.

"This was an attempt to establish 'you will not do this.' Up to this point, it was questionable," he said.

Sargeant had pleaded guilty to one count of sodomy, two counts of adultery and two counts of disobeying an officer, who warned Sargeant to wear a condom and tell prospective sexual partners of the AIDS virus.

In return, government prosecutors dropped charges of aggravated assault and reckless endangerment. Sargeant could have received a maximum prison sentence of 17 years.

Sargeant, in a teary eyed testimony before the panel during the sentencing phase, apologized for his actions.

"I have no explanation for what I have done. I wish I could undo all the pain I have caused," he said.

"What bothers me is I have put these women in a position that I am going through and I don't want anybody going through the same thing I am," he said.

"I have let down the Army, my family and my friends .... if I am going to die, I pray it not be in jail," he said.

Testimony did not reveal and officials declined to say whether any of the women Sargeant had sex with had also tested positive for AIDS.

Sargeant, a former medics instructor at the Academy of Health Sciences at Fort Sam Houston, was diagnosed as carrying the AIDS virus during a blood test last year in Hawaii.

He has been examined several times since then and his condition is deteriorating, but is not yet at the optimum AIDS level, said Maj. Clifton Hawkes.

COSMETOLOGY GRADUATES--These students, who will be completing their studies in the Western Texas College cosmetology program soon, were honored at a graduation reception Tuesday. Left to right, they are Dee Ann Morris of Colorado City, Amy Ramos of Sweetwater, Rhonda Johnson and Sherry Spells of Snyder, Gayla Seary of Post and Rayanna McGaha of Colorado City. Upon completion of their required hours, they will be eligible to take the Texas Board of Cosmetology examinations for licensing. (WTC Photo)

Texaco receives extension okay

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Texaco Inc. was granted another 40 days to file a plan to emerge from Chapter 11 bankruptcy, and company lawyers say the oil giant could make "substantial progress" during that period to resolve its $10.3 billion dispute with Pennzoil Co.

After a seven-hour hearing Wednesday, U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Howard Schwartzberg gave the go-ahead for a creditors committee to continue to float a plan offering a base and cap for a possible settlement.

In a packed courtroom, Schwartzberg said he would terminate Texaco's exclusivity period if two-thirds of the Texaco shareholders approved the limits.

Texaco attorney Harvey Miller said "substantial progress could be made within 40 days to a consensual plan or another resolution." He added that Texaco was ready to meet "any time, any convenient place" to negotiate.

In addition, Texaco's newest large shareholder, TWA Chairman Carl Icahn, offered through his attorney to help facilitate a settlement between the two oil companies.

"We feel TWA and Mr. Icahn can be a positive force for negotiations," he said. "What we offer is a new face. Mr. Icahn can act as mediator."

Icahn was seeking to buy 24 million shares of Texaco to add to the 6 million he already owns, according to his attorney David Friedman.

A Texaco offer for a base-cap plan was revealed through the testimony of Charles Luce, head of the general unsecured creditors committee, which opposed giving Texaco more time to file its exclusive reorganization plan.

Luce, who has been actively trying to negotiate a settlement, said Texaco Chief Executive Officer James Kinnear was willing to offer Pennzoil a base payment of $500 million with a cap of $3 billion.

However, Luce said, Kinnear wanted Luce to tell Pennzoil the offer started at $370 million with a $2.6 billion cap.

Pennzoil, which also opposed the extension of exclusivity, has said it would accept $1.5 billion as a non-refundable payment while Texaco seeks appeal and would want an additional $3.5 billion, or a total $5 billion, should Texaco lose the case.

Texaco had sought an extension of its exclusive period until Jan. 18. Schwartzberg had granted an extension last July giving Texaco until Dec. 8 to file a plan of reorganization, but on Wednesday he terminated that period and put the new 40-day period into effect, setting the deadline of Jan. 11.

$850 million in debts cancelled

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A federal bankruptcy judge has dismissed about $850 million in T. Cullen Davis' debts, leaving the fallen oil tycoon with less than $15 million in unresolved liabilities.

Judge Massie Tillman's ruling Wednesday protects Davis from action by 200 to 300 creditors, including many of the nation's major banks, but still leaves him with four unresolved claims that total about $15 million.

Twalla J. Dupriest, the court-appointed trustee of Davis' petition, says the ruling will not end his financial woes. She has until mid-January to raise objections to the actions taken at the hearing.

"It's going to drag on," Ms. Dupriest said. "We're not through by any means. Just because he was discharged doesn't mean it's over."

Davis filed Chapter 7 bankruptcy July 2, listing debts of $865 million and property worth only $1.8 million. He lost most of his fortune on ill-fated real estate investments, according to court papers filed Sept. 10.

Tillman's action came without convening a scheduled hearing because no creditors objected to the plan.

"Most of the creditors did not object because they know there's just nothing left," lawyer Eddie Roush Jr. said of Davis' fortune once estimated at more than $100 million.

Roush said he is not concerned about Ms. Dupriest's continuing investigation of Davis' finances.

"We've been very honest about every financial situation," he said.

The bankruptcy petition also insulated Davis from civil suits filed by his other ex-wife, Priscilla Davis, and central figures in the Aug. 2, 1976, shooting spree by a mysterious "man in black" at the Davis mansion.

Two of the claims not affected by Wednesday's hearing in U.S. Bankruptcy Court stem from the 1976 shooting. The other two claims are from one of his ex-wives, Sandra Davis, and the Internal Revenue Service.

Mrs. Davis has testified in court that Davis was the assailant who killed her boyfriend and her daughter.

In 1977, an Amarillo jury acquitted Davis on criminal charges in the death of Andrea Wilborn, his 12-year-old stepdaughter. The oil heir was also not convicted of charges that he plotted to kill the judge who presided over his divorce proceedings from Priscilla Davis.

And earlier this year, a civil jury deadlocked on consolidated wrongful death suits filed by Priscilla and Andrea's father, Jack Wilborn, acquitting Davis once again.

Davis, who was not at the Wednesday hearing, could not be reached for comment.

Testing for Agent Orange

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I spent four years in Vietnam and was exposed to Agent Orange. The Veterans Administration doctors think that is what caused me to develop a high porphyrin urine count of 1740 to 2160. Can you explain what this means?

DEAR READER — Porphyrins are biological colorings that, under certain circumstances, are released from the bone marrow or the liver. Excess porphyrins can be measured in the blood or in the urine and can produce light sensitivity, nerve damage and abdominal pain.

Agent Orange, a defoliant used in Vietnam, was contaminated during manufacture by a toxic compound called TCDD. According to the Centers for Disease Control, blood analysis of TCDD is a satisfactory marker for men who were exposed to Agent Orange. According to a preliminary report, the TCDD levels were a better indicator of Agent Orange exposure than the men's "self-perceived herbicide exposure." From this study, one can conclude that TCDD is a more accurate reflection of Agent Orange exposure than is the excretion of porphyrins and that Agent Orange, therefore, is not the cause of servicemen's complaints. However, this point is still arguable, and the final results have not been completely reported.

DEAR DR. GOTT — How does heavy drinking affect the heart?

DEAR READER — Alcohol poisons the heart muscle, resulting in cardiomyopathy, a condition in which the heartbeat is less forceful than normal. Alcohol cardiomyopathy is a common problem in alcoholics and can be fatal. This has led some physicians to question whether so-called moderate or social drinking might produce the same effect over time. This has yet to be proved, however. many health-conscious consumers are beginning to regard alcohol as a dangerous drug that will cause brain, heart and liver damage. Consequently, there is a welcome tendency for people to reduce their consumption of alcoholic beverages.

DEAR DR. GOTT — A friend was told that a drop of hydrogen peroxide once a week in each ear was a good way to keep from catching a cold. What do you think?

DEAR READER — Pure hogwash. Colds are caused by viruses that enter the mouth and upper respiratory tract. However, hydrogen peroxide is a good way to help break up ear wax that may be blocking the canal.

Arms control isn't the only thing on superpower agenda

WASHINGTON (AP) — The focus will be on arms control when President Reagan and Soviet General Secretary Mikhail S. Gorbachev meet next week, but the two leaders also will grapple with a long list of other critical subjects.

East-West conflict being waged on bloody Third World battlefields — in Afghanistan, Central America and southern Africa — is among them.

The superpowers have negotiated a treaty banning intermediate-range nuclear missiles, to be signed next Tuesday, but they have had less success in resolving armed conflicts in which both countries have a stake.

For most of the post-war era, insurgencies have been fought in pro-Western Third World countries. But under Reagan the United States has supported rebel movements in countries aligned with Moscow. American-backed insurgents now operate in Nicaragua, Angola, Afghanistan and Cambodia.

At the summit, Reagan will be eager to learn whether there is any truth to reports the Soviets are prepared to announce a 12-month timetable for the withdrawal of their troops from Afghanistan.

This array of conflicts, as well as the situation in the Persian Gulf, comes under the heading of "regional issues," one of four broad agenda topics that Reagan and Gorbachev will discuss. The others are arms control, human rights and bilateral issues.

The highlight of the summit is expected to be the signing of the missile treaty Tuesday afternoon and the discussion of whether agreement is possible on a proposed 50 percent reduction in intercontinental missiles.

Aside from the arms reduction treaty, no major breakthroughs are expected, although an agreement may be signed to increase commercial air traffic between the two countries. They also are working on ways to increase people-to-people exchanges and scientific cooperation.

One nagging issue expected to arise is the status of the American Embassy in Moscow and the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

The United States has halted work on its new embassy complex in Moscow because of shoddy workmanship and evidence that bugging devices have been installed. Until work is completed, the United States won't allow the Soviets to move into a new chancery they have built on a 350-foot-high hill in Washington that critics claim is ideal for spying.

Reagan and Gorbachev are expected to give high priority to human rights. Until Gorbachev's accession 2½ years ago, U.S. efforts to discuss this issue invariably were rebuffed by the Soviets.

pired term. He was unopposed last November for the remainder of the term which now expires in December of 1988.

—County commissioner, Pct. 3: C.D. Gray Jr., a Democrat, is completing his first four-year term. He defeated the Republican incumbent for the post in November of 1984 after winning his party's nomination in a two-man race in the spring of that year.

—County sheriff: Incumbent Keith Collier, a Democrat, was unopposed both in the primary and November election in 1984 for a new four-year term. He has served as sheriff here since January of 1965.

—County attorney: Mike Line was first appointed to the post in February of 1985. He won the Republican nomination unopposed in the spring of 1986 for the remainder of the unexpired term.

—County clerk: The remainder of an unexpired term for this office will be on the November, 1988 ballot. Beverly Ainsworth vacated the post due to health reasons earlier this year after winning a new four-year term in November of 1986. Jenna Vee Miller was appointed to the post, but she indicated at the time she would not be a candidate for the unexpired term in 1988.

—County tax assessor-collector: Rona Sikes, a Democrat, is completing her first four-year term. She won her party's nomination from a field of three candidates in May of 1984 and was unopposed in the November election that year.

—Constable, Pct. 1: Bill Love, a Democrat, was unopposed for the office both in the primary and November election of 1984. He first took office in January of 1975.

locating here in 1950 after graduating from law school at St. Mary's University in San Antonio.

A native of Kentucky, he earned an undergraduate degree from Vanderbilt University in Nashville, graduating in 1942.

He served as municipal judge for the City of Snyder for 20 years prior to his election as district judge.

Locally, he is a member of the Episcopal Church and a member of Rotary.

He and his wife Mary have two children, a daughter, Mrs. Robert Stockton, and a son, John Dulaney, both of Fort Worth.

Obituaries

John Cox

ROTAN — John F. Cox, 87, a longtime Rotan area rancher, died at 1:45 p.m. Wednesday at a Rotan nursing home. Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at the First Baptist Church with the Rev. Steve Peace, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be at Hillside Memorial Gardens in Snyder under the direction of Weathersbee Funeral Home of Rotan.

Born April 17, 1900, in Swisher County, Cox came to Fisher County from Snyder in 1953. He married Lorena Eiland on Aug. 16, 1924. He was a member of the First Baptist Church.

A daughter, Dorothy Sue Wills, died in 1979.

Survivors include his wife; a son, Bruce of Rotan; two daughters, Loel Forrest of Snyder and Gay Sherrill of Washington, D.C.; a sister, Jennie Teele of San Angelo; eight grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

Turnabout Is Not Fair Play In World of Men's Fashion

DEAR ABBY: Why, oh why, the double standard? Over the years women and girls have dressed in every conceivable piece of men's attire. They wear our trousers. They wear our suits. They wear our shirts. They wear our T-shirts. They wear our blue jeans, and now they are wearing our boxer shorts — outside, no less — and everyone thinks it's cute and "harmless."

Just let a boy (or man) put on a pair of panties and all the women go bonkers! They rush the poor guy off to the nearest psychiatrist for "counseling." Can you imagine the horror and furor that would ensue if a boy walked down the street with a pair of frilly panties over his jockey shorts? Half the women in town would be down to the police station trying to get him locked up. The other half would be locking their daughters in the linen closet.

Abby, maybe you can explain it. I sure can't.

PERPLEXED IN LARGO, FLA.

DEAR PERPLEXED: Conditioning, my friend. Nearly 50 years ago, Marlene Dietrich stunned the world when she appeared in public in a tuxedo and a mannish hat. Everyone thought she looked gorgeous! (She did; she'd have looked gorgeous in anything — or nothing.)

But a man in a frilly negligee! No way. It's not fair. But who said life was fair?

DEAR ABBY: I am a long-time single father of two boys (11 and 13). It's their school's policy that on campus they may not kiss a girl or hold her hand. They do not understand. How do I best explain this to them other than, "It's school policy"?

They're both responsible, considerate and loving, and, as their father, I owe them a responsible, considerate and loving answer.

So, Abby, I'm asking for some 1987 advice for these super sons. They are both well-informed about puberty, sexually transmitted diseases, AIDS, pregnancy and responsibilities, but they would still like to at least hold their girls' hand. Respectfully,

SACRAMENTO SINGLE DAD

DEAR DAD: Having given your young sons a thorough grounding in every aspect of sex education, these well-informed young men surely know that touching and kissing are the preliminaries to more serious expressions of affection. Now, explain that although "wanting" to kiss a girl and hold her hand is natural, school policy forbids it, and, therefore, they must respect the rules. Period.

DEAR ABBY: I have just returned from my dentist's, where he explained that a crown on a back tooth would cost $600. Assisted by a young woman, he proceeded. Then he called a female technician to the doorway of the adjoining office. Apparently she was idle, and they kept up a three-sided conversation constantly on a variety of subjects, interspersed with an occasional "Open wide!"

My husband had the misfortune of having a first appointment the morning after a big televised sport event in which he had no interest. He said patients as well as employees were involved in a detailed rehashing of the game. The dentist is young and skilled and we do not plan to change.

My husband says his barber is worse. He converses with the other barbers and customers, sometimes looking over his shoulder as he clips. Also, he has a phone cradled on his shoulder for other conversations while he works.

Is this a way of life with professionals, or am I getting crotchety?

LYNNFIELD, MASS.

DEAR LYNNFIELD: Unprofessional "professionals" can be found everywhere. It's not confined to any age group or special area. There is no shortage of skilled dentists — or barbers. If you put up with this type of unprofessional behavior from a dentist or a barber, you're not crotchety — you're crazy.

Discrimination alleged against some students

AUSTIN (AP) — The state university system discriminates against Mexican-American students by failing to adequately recruit and admit them to colleges or locate graduate and professional schools in Hispanic communities, groups that are suing the state charged today.

"Minority students in Texas have long been denied participation in quality higher educational programs and access to equal higher education resources in violation of (the) Texas Constitution and statutory law," the lawsuit alleges.

"The direct and unavoidable consequences of the defendants' acts and omissions result in the infringement of educational, social, economic and civic opportunites for Mexican Americans in Texas," the lawsuit said.

Three Mexican-American service groups, six student organizations and two dozen college students filed the lawsuit late Wednesday in state district court in Brownsville.

At a news conference today, the plaintiffs charged that the state university system had discriminated by failing to:

— Recruit and admit Mexican-American students at traditionally white senior colleges.

— Offer counseling, financial aid and other retention measures to improve graduation rates among Hispanic students.

— Locate graduate and professional schools in areas necessary to serve more Mexican-American students.

— Allocate sufficient resources to people residing in "underserved" areas of the state.

"The Texas system of higher education excludes more than half of Mexican-American graduating high school seniors from four-year colleges in Texas," said Antonia Hernandez, president and general counselor for the MexicanAmerican Legal Defense and Educational Fund.

MALDEF was joined in the lawsuit by the League of United Latin American Citizens and the American GI Forum, two of the state's most powerful Mexican-American organizations.

"Hispanic families are less able to afford to send their children away to college," added Rolando Rios, who also represents plaintiffs in the lawsuit.

"The manner of distribution of state resources in higher education has been a problem for some years now but only recently has developed into a crisis of tremendous proportions, especially for South and West Texas," Rios charged.

The suit names as defendants Gov. Bill Clements, officials of the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board and the presidents and chancellors of 15 state university systems.

Fires damage rural property

They were called at 2:05 p.m. to a fire in a cotton trailer at Ira Gin 11 miles south of Snyder, and they pumped 4,750 gallons of water into the 16,000 pounds of cotton to put it out, McDowell said.

The cause is also under investigation in a vacant house fire at 7:50 p.m. Tuesday three miles east of the city off U.S. 84.

The house, owned by R.B. von Roeder, had damage primarily in the attic. Firemen were at the scene for about an hour.

Let's All Meet The Challenge

On Nov. 9, Snyder was selected to be home for a new 1,000-bed state prison faclity. That's great news for Snyder! It means hundreds of new jobs and millions of dollars to our economy.

But there is still work to be done. And it can't be done without you. By Friday, Dec. 4, $1 million must be raised to buy the land and multi-purpose building for the new correctional facility.

On that date, the Scurry County Area Foundation must purchase the 608 acre site selected by the Texas Department of Corrections. Your help is vital!

Our Foundation is now accepting tax-deductible contributions to be used to purchase the land and building.

To show their commitment to this project, Snyder's financial institutions are offering long-term, low-interest personal loans to help you increase your contribution. Simply complete the application and go by your bank or savings and loan.

If you qualify, you'll have the confidence in knowing you made a big difference in making a better future for Snyder...better schools, better streets, better job opportunities.
