Centennial, bank closing mark 2nd quarter

The three-month period from April to June of 1984 contained the year's two stories which will likely be remembered the longest by Snyder citizens — the closing May 4 of American State Bank and the 100-year Centennial anniversary of Scurry County June 28.

From a news standpoint, 1984's second quarter featured several wild rides, to include a memorable runoff race for district attorney; the first-ever contested election for the college governing board; several "jewels in the crown" for SHS; and the first rumblings of an ongoing controversy related to the Houston Parkway extension project.

The year's spring and early summer included also the naming of a new superintendent for Snyder ISD; announced plans for a new car dealership in the city; and another portent of declining oil production values for the county.

The following lists a chronological account of key news events during 1984's second quarter.

—April 5: A humorous program was offered by Oklahoma Gov. George Nigh as the annual Snyder Chamber of Commerce banquet was held. Four Snyder citizens were honored also. John Jarrell received the Vestal Award; E.D. Walton the McLaughlin Award; Donald Tate the Winston Award; and Jack McGlaun the newly named Paul Sizemore award.

—April 8: Incumbent college and school board members were returned to office here. Roy Baze won the first-ever contested race for the WTC board, along with incumbent Bill Wilson. For the school board, J.D. Hinton won a contested race and Allen Grimmett won a two-man race as a write-in.

—April 12: The first set of bids to construct Snyder's first housing development for senior citizens — Golden Terrace Village — were returned almost $100,000 more than funds budgeted, prompting project planners to rethink their plans.

—April 13: A new surgeon was welcomed to Snyder, Paul Tate.

—April 16: Two newly elected members of the Snyder city council were sworn in — Troy Williamson and Tommy Davis.

—April 18: The SHS Black and Gold Symphonic Band won the Sweepstakes Award in UIL Regional Concert and Sightreading competition in Abilene. This included the first division rating won last fall in marching.

—April 18: A proposal to bring Snyder's United Way into the computer age was unveiled here. In addition to transforming all records to computer memory, directors also approved hiring a part-time staffer to assist with the drive and the past president and drive chairman — Rex Robinson and Roy McQueen — agreed to serve one more year during the transition.

—April 20: Preliminary plans for Scurry County's Centennial Celebration were announced by chamber of commerce and historical commission spokesmen.

—April 20: Finance figures for the first quarter were released by Cogdell Memorial Hospital personnel, and as predicted the income from Medicare patients came up short some $74,000 when compared to actual expenses. The shortfall was blamed on revised guidelines mandated by the federal program.

—April 23: It was announced that Cogdell Memorial will begin offering a home health care operation.

—April 4: Officials with the Texas Low Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority described negotiations to purchase land in Borden County as "pretty much written off."

—April 26: Members of the Scurry County Producers Association announced plans to call a special referendum election to decide the possible assessment of county cotton production.

—April 28: Snyder High School one-act play cast members won state in Austin — the department's ninth state championship trophy since 1968. Judged best for Class AAAA was "The Crucible." In addition, cast member David Etheredge was named best actor at the competition. Other players honored were Dana Parham,

GNP gain noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's main economic forecasting gauge jumped 1.3 percent in November, the biggest gain in nine months, as various business barometers offered new evidence that a four-month slowdown is ending, the Commerce Department reported today.

The sharp increase in the Index of Leading Economic Indicators followed a revised 0.5 percent drop in October.

Before November, the index had fallen in three of the last five months — something that had not occurred since the recession year of 1981.

The declines had spurred growing concern that a new recession might be imminent. Overall growth, as measured by the gross national product, dipped to an anemic 1.6 percent from July through September — far below rates of 10.1 percent and 7.1 percent turned in during the first and second quarters this year.

However, a variety of economic statistics have pointed to renewed strength last month. Unemployment fell sharply and orders for manufactured durable goods posted their biggest gain in almost four years.

Despite the revival in the domestic economy, the country is still suffering from huge trade deficits.

In a new report today, the Commerce Department said the trade deficit rose to $9.9 billion in November, up 7.6 percent from the October level of $9.2 billion.

The increase stemmed from a 2.7 percent rise in imports and a slight 0.1 percent dip in exports. For the first 11 months of the year, the country has posted a trade deficit of $115.4 billion, virutally guaranteeing that the total deficit will almost double last year's record of $69.4 billion.

The Commerce Department's Index of Leading Indicators is a compilation of 12 forward-pointing economic measurements.

RECEPTION HONORS HOLT — Retiring District Judge Wayland G. Holt addressed a crowd in excess of 100 Friday morning prior to the official unveiling of photos and historical sketches of judges who have preceded him in service to the 132nd Judicial District. A come and go reception from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. was to honor Holt Friday upon his retirement. The research regarding the past district judges was a project he completed during his last year in office. (SDN Staff Photo)

Hood undergoes second operation

Former Snyder School Superintendent Bill J. Hood again underwent surgery at Dallas' Baylor University Medical Center Wednesday, his second bout of surgery since Dec. 10.

The operation Wednesday was to repair a ruptured colon suffered as a result of injuries from a one-vehicle automobile accident Oct. 26 near Abilene.

Reports are that Hood came through the recent surgery well, although he remains in the critical care unit listed in serious condition.

The surgery Dec. 10 was an attempt by doctors to pinpoint the source of a continuing fever which has plagued Hood's recovery.

Family members say the fever continues at between 101 and 102 degrees.

In addition, prior to surgery he was placed back on a respirator — a mechanical device which assists breathing. It was noted that doctors hope to have him breathing again without aid within the week.

As of Friday, Hood has been hospitalized nine weeks.

He and his wife Carolyn suffered multiple injures when their vehicle left the roadway of Interstate 20 just outside the Abilene city limits.

Mrs. Hood is now convalescing at a nursing home in Wichita Falls.

Cards or letters to Hood may be sent in care of Baylor Medical Center; 3500 Gaston Ave.; Dallas Tx., 75246.

Cards may be sent to Carolyn Hood in care of the Highland Nursing Center; 4822 Lake Road; Wichita Falls, Tx., 76308.

Pharmacy inventory reduced for Cogdell

The Board of Managers for Cogdell Memorial Hospital heard a variety of reports Thursday evening at the regular December meeting — including an indication that an excess inventory at the hospital pharmacy has been substantially reduced.

After granting routine approval of the monthly administrator's report and approving a transfer of funds between the hospital's depreciation account and the operating account, board members heard reports from Administrator Cy Miller and hospital Chief of Staff Dr. James Howell.

Miller reported that revised methods implemented by hospital pharmacy personnel several months ago were having good effect with the inventory of drugs now stocked in the pharmacy valued at $35,000.

This figure represents a reduction of $20,000 in the drug inventory as compared to the same time in 1983.

Howell reported on medical staff committee activities and noted that ongoing efforts by the medical staff to comply with recently revised Medicare reporting procedures had resulted in sharp improvement in the rate of approval of local Medicare claims.

The board adjourned into an executive session at 7:40 p.m. to allow Miller to report on various legal matters confronting the hospital and returned to open ses-

The feller on Deep Creek says, "It seems a lot of TV evangelists are more interested in the fleece than the flock."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

Walter Buckel, in the Lamesa-Press Reporter, had an interesting bit on the last of the Kennedy boys. Some say Teddy Kenney will likely head the Democratic ticket in four years. Said Buckel:

"A Boston newspaper columnist had fun recently ribbing Senator Edward Kennedy. The point was made that Sen. Kennedy had become fat.

"The columnist suggested that Kennedy looked like the World Trade Center in a blue serge suit. He also wrote that Kennedy's campaign slogan was: If you can't stand the heat in the kitchen, eat the cookies in the living room.

"All good fun. The columnist and the senator are longtime friends. Kennedy wrote a letter back to the Boston Globe adding to the general mirth.

"He may have to worry about his girth. President William Howard Taft was a huge man and there have been other hefty national figures. But, you have difficulty recalling one at the very top on the national scene in this age of TV.

"So, image may be a problem. Senator Kennedy says he will soon remedy that. And he denies when he stands to speak, that his feet were in different zip code areas.

"Kennedy has recitified bigger image problems than weight. But it's true that television has increased the penalty for obesity. The world no longer loves a fat man--in a government job at least."

Do you mean if Tip O'Neill had been slender, he could have been president?

At a Christmas family gathering, Seminole's Marshall Day overheard a conversation from an elderly couple who had been wed in excess of 50 years.

"In all that time--did you ever consider divorce?" they were asked.

"Never, not divorce," the wife said. "Murder sometimes, but never divorce."

Q. — Is Snyder going to have an organization to take people home that are too intoxicated to drive like they do in larger cities?

A. — The SDN has not been notified of any such service. If one is noted before New Years, the newspaper will report it.

In Brief

Plant to close

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — American Petrofina Co. notified workers of a possible shutdown at the firm's Port Arthur plant, but company and union spokesman say the notice is a precautionary measure and the facility probably won't close.

The oil refining firm on Thursday issued a temporary plant closure notice, as required by a labor agreement, to local members the Oil Chemical and Atomic Workers Union.

The petrochemical plant employees about 500 people, about 300 of which are OCAW members.

Glenn Selvidge, the firm's vice president for employee relations, told union leaders economic pressures prompted the company to issue the layoff notice.

But American Petrofina does not plan any layoffs, said company spokesman Bill Cahill.

OCAW workman's committee chairman Clayton Belenger said the firm's move was "purely economical."

Dismiss case

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge dropped indictments against seven men accused of trying to import 25,000 pounds of marijuana because of a prosecutor's presentation of the case before grand jurors.

U.S. District Judge Ross M. Sterling dismissed charges Thurrsday against the defendants after their attorneys read transcripts of the grand jury proceeding.

Protestors block entrance

EAGLE PASS, Texas (AP) — For the second day in a row, Mexican protestors blocked the international bridge between Eagle Pass and its sister Mexican city, Piedras Negras, preventing vehicles from crossing, authorities said.

The blockade, which began late Wednesday, forced some American tourists to abandon their vehicles in Mexico or drive several miles out of their way to cross the border, according to James Bazemore, an inspector with the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service in Eagle Pass.

Leaders of the Partido Accion Nacional called for the blockade to draw attention to what they claim was voter fraud during the Dec. 2 mayoral election in which a candidate from the established Partido Revolucionario Institucional was declared the winner.

PAN claims it won the election by 490 votes out of 23,000 votes cast, even though PRI's candidate was given the victory by 183 votes. Protestors have vowed to continue the blockade until the PAN candidate is formally recognized as the winner.

The newly elected mayor is scheduled to be inaugurated Jan. 4.

The blockade began about 4 p.m. Wednesday and resulted in a complete shutdown of the bridge to vehicle traffic, Bazemore said Thursday.

American tourists were forced to drive to Del Rio about 60 miles away to bring their vehicles back across, Bazemore said.

Members of a wedding party had to walk across the bridge, and during a funeral procession, a casket had to be carried into Mexico on a gurney instead of in a hearse, officials said.

Protestors began blocking entry points to the bridge after the elections, Bazemore said, but never for 24 hours straight.

Your Birthday

Dec. 29, 1984

A number of pleasant changes are in store for you in the year ahead. There will be added funds in your purse, as well as a rise in prestige and status.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try not to be too demanding of others today. You'll be disappointed if you expect them to drop what they're doing just to cater to your whims. Major changes are in store for Capricorns in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Insincerity will be easily discerned by your companions today, so do not praise another lavishly if it doesn't come from your heart.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you find yourself in the company of friends who are better off financially than you, don't feel you have to spend on a par with them just to be accepted.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Targets must be clearly defined today if you hope to achieve your goals. Concentrate on trying do one thing best, instead of taking scattered shots.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It will greatly increase your level of difficulties today if your attitude is doubtful or negative. Don't see yourself as a loser or fall guy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be extra cautious today in any commercial dealings you have with people whose motives you suspect. Chances are that your suspicions are correct.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Guard against tendencies today to do things against your better judgment. Don't let companions pressure you into doing something you know you shouldn't.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It will turn out to be more work for you in the long run if you try to get unskilled help to do something for you today that you can do better.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It will prove wise today not to allow yourself to be drawn into a complex financial or business problem with a friend. Your input won't help anyway.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be very selective regarding who you go to for advice today. An ineffective counselor could really steer you wrong and cause additional woes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Normally you're the type of person who doesn't dillydally when there is work to be done, but today you may get off to a slow start even ignore your duties.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Excercise self-control today over expenditures. Later, when it comes time to pay the bills you'll regret your extravagant splurges.

Deny tornado aid for Dallas area

DALLAS (AP) — The federal government has denied Gov. Mark White's request to declare Dallas and Ellis counties major disaster areas, thus making victims of the Dec. 13 tornado ineligible for most relief aid, officials said.

The request was turned down because a majority of homes suffered only minor damage and most homeowners had insurance, officials said Thursday.

The tornadoes, which swept Dallas and Ellis counties, damaged more than 600 homes and businesses and caused approximately $27 million in damage, according to local estimates.

White House officials said President Reagan acted on the recommendation of the Federal Emergency Management Administration in denying the request for eligibility to three major federal aid programs.

The action means that about 260 tornado victims who might have qualified for special assistance must find other forms of aid, said Laureen Chernow, spokeswoman for the governor's Division of Emergency Management.

Eligibility was denied for the Individual and Family Grant Program, which could authorize up to $5,000 in aid; the FEMA Temporary Housing Program; and the Disaster Unemployment Assistance program.

Eligibility for two other programs — Small Business Administration low-interest loans and Farmers Home Administration low-interest loans — still may be granted, Ms. Chernow said. The SBA, which makes loans available to victims at interest rates of 4 and 8 percent, may approve relief aid in a day or two, she said.

White had asked the president on Dec. 20 to declare the counties disaster areas.

Alton Ray, disaster assistance coordinator for the Denton office of the FEMA, said the agency relied on a Dec. 17 survey of the damage in making its decision.

"We looked at the insurance in effect, the homeowners' policies, the number of homes affected and the number of homes that were uninhabitable. And from the analysis that we made, we concluded that it was not a major disaster," Ray said. "We did feel that there's a need for an SBA declaration, however."

Even in areas hardest hit by the storms, most homeowners had insurance and few people needed to take advantage of shelter facilities, Ray said.

Robert Willie executed

ANGOLA, La. (AP) — With a final wink to the nun who helped him through his last hours, a cocky Robert Lee Willie went to his death in the electric chair today as the parents of the 18-year-old woman he raped and murdered watched.

Willie, 26, winked at Sister Helen Prejean, his spiritual adviser and a death penalty opponent, but avoided eye contact with the seven other witnesses in the death chamber, including Elizabeth and Vernon Harvey, the mother and stepfather of the victim.

He was pronounced dead at 12:15 a.m. by Dr. Alfred Gould, said C. Paul Phelps, Secretary of the Department of Public Safety and Corrections.

'Pinwheel' puppets...

Couple puppeteers a fantasy world

by Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK (NEA) — Reality got a blow when Mr. Merkle "answered" the door because he couldn't have done it. The old geezer is a puppet. Craig Marin, 32, was actually behind puppet and door. Still it was difficult not to accept Mr. Merkle on his own terms, especially when Marin's wife and partner, Olga, appeared and said, "I dislike Mr. Merkle intensely. He insinuates things about ladies."

"I don't!"

"You do."

Mr. Merkle leered at her and cackled. "I wish they'd given me legs!"

Reality deteriorated further when Otto D. Bumm showed up. He's a plaid-clad, big-browed hobo puppet whose life is very much in his own hands.

"We work him together high above our heads," Olga explained as Craig inserted his left hand into Otto's head. Standing beside Craig, Olga slipped her right hand into Otto's right, and suddenly he was aloft declaring, "I was born in New York to be near my mother!"

"If we're using Otto on TV, we watch the monitors to see which camera is on," Olga said. But they don't need to see themselves at all for the right hand to know what the left is doing. Otto's uncannily coordinated gestures result, she says "from Craig and my working together for the past six years. We operate as one mind." They disengaged themselves from Otto and Olga went to make some coffee.

"I'll take mine black with some milk," Craig called after her, and sat down on what was probably a chair. It was hard to know. The Marin's Upper West Side apartment is a child's landscape, where the real is as likely to become fantastic, as the fantastic, real. There's an appealing clutter that delights when sorted out: Why, there's a barber chair. A piano. Tables that turn out to be trunks when the tablecloths are lifted.

And everywhere, there are puppets and marionettes. There are newborn clay heads about to see life as a hand puppet; a rod puppet, which is a hand puppet with one rod attached to each hand so the hands and arms can be moved; or marionettes emanating as many as 25 strings that will be worked from a distance of two to 25 feet.

And there are veterans of 260 episodes of "Pinwheel," the one-hour show for preschoolers seen by 18 million families on cable TV's Nickelodeon channel: the Admiral Bird, a rod puppet used for close-ups and his smaller marionette version that flew and crashed into walls. And two cuddly, marionette bugs called Herbert and Lulu. "Those shows will run ad infinitum," Craig says.

Now, he and Olga are working on a double ventriloquist act. And, through their company, Flexitoon, Ltd., — "The puppets are flexible cartoons to us," he says — they do commercials, stage shows, anything that requires animating the inanimate.

That's what each has wanted to do since childhood, although their backgrounds are dissimilar. He's from New York; she's from Cleveland. His father sketched cartoons for vaudeville audiences; hers was a blacksmith and ornamental metalworker who eventually opened a candy store. She majored in theater at Northwestern University ("You couldn't major in puppeteering"), while, says Craig, "I toured colleges with my own puppet show."

Since finding each other while working on an industrial film, they've created 300 puppets — mostly warehoused outside the apartment — and the creating goes on because they can't help it.

"First we think of an idea for a puppet and discuss the character," Craig says. "Then I draw it real fast in various poses so we know the full range of expression in the face and body. It has to jump off the page and have a life of its own just by looking at it."

When they're content with its personality, Craig sculpts the head from clay — "I do all the animation to make the parts move" — casts it, often with rubber compounds Olga has concocted, paints the face with "a special rubberized paint that gives it flexibility" and builds the body.

Olga, meanwhile, dreams up and executes the costume. "As we work, we start talking in the voice of the character so it gets its soul," she says.

CREATING REALITY — Puppeteers Craig and Olga Marin work so well together that their fantasy characters seem real. (NEA Photo)

If the puppet has wings that must move or a light that must light, the Marins devise motors or whatever else is needed because, says Craig, "There's no industry that makes puppet parts."

Puppeteering, then, means invention. Resourcefulness. Even a knowledge of anatomy. "You have to understand the mechanics of movement for a form to move right," Olga says. Then to move that form right — puppet or marionette — takes practice and, she says, "the ability to act with your arms and capture personalities with your voice."

And above all, perhaps, the gift of making it all so real that even an adult can be enticed into conversation with things that can't speak — and hardly realize it until the talking is done.

TARRAGON MAYONNAISE

1 large egg
1 large egg yolk
1 cup vegetable oil
2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
¼ teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper to taste
½ teaspoon dry mustard

In a food processor with the metal blade, process the whole egg, egg yolk, ¼ cup of the oil, the vinegar, salt, pepper and mustard until blended — several seconds. With the motor running, through the feed tube pour the remaining ¾ cup oil in a steady stream to make a thick creamy emulsion. Makes 1 and 1-3rd cups. Store in a tightly covered jar in the refrigerator. Good served with fish.

Wanted: trick number 10

By James Jacoby

Today's declarer had a severe attack of insomnia after mangling the play of the hand in four spades. After the opening lead of an obvious singleton diamond, he rose with the ace and quickly played the A-K of hearts, shedding a diamond. He could count nine tricks, and the apparently easy tenth trick would be via a club ruff in dummy. Accordingly he led a club.

East won the king, played the king of diamonds, on which West threw a heart, and led another diamond. Declarer ruffed high, as West threw still another heart. South led another club to East's ace and East led still another diamond. South trumped high once again, ruffed his third club in dummy and played A-10 of spades. But now when declarer came off dummy with a heart, he was left with K-8 of spades in his hand, and West was able to take the setting trick with the nine.

The key to the hand is so simple and apparent that if the solution were a snake it would absolutely bite you. After the A-K of hearts, declarer should merely trump a third heart from dummy before leading clubs. The play will then go just as before, with the difference that at the finish, after cashing dummy's A-10 of spades, declarer will be left with the lone king. He will make his contract and have no trouble getting to sleep at night.

Arthritis facts unclear

ATLANTA (AP) — More than 36 million Americans, about 1 in every 7 people, have some form of arthritis.

Yet, say the Arthritis Foundation, most people have incorrect or only hazy knowledge of what arthritis is, what treatments are available, and how they can cope with their disease.

The facts, it says, are that arthritis is 100 different diseases, that it strikes people of all ages, and that there is usually no cure.

Big play makes difference...

Auburn edges Hogs, 21-15

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - The big play - only a fingertip away for Arkansas - became reality for Auburn and halfback Bo Jackson, whose 40-yard, fourth-quarter touchdown run gave the 16th-ranked Tigers a 21-15 Liberty Bowl victory.

Despite four pass interceptions by the Auburn seconday - one turned into a 35-yard TD run by cornerback Kevin Porter - Arkansas, 7-4-1, came within a whisker of capping its 1984 season with an upset victory Thursday night at Liberty Bowl Memorial Stadium.

After seeing an early 3-0 lead turned into a 14-3 first-quarter deficit on a 2-yard run by Jackson and Porter's TD return, the Southwest Conference Razorbacks gave Auburn and Coach Pat Dye everything they expected and a little more before becoming the Tigers' ninth victim in 13 starts.

"They did exactly what we thought they'd do, and they did it well," Dye said. "The only thing that beat Arkansas is four turnovers."

The Razorbacks put on a determined rally in the fourth quarter, scoring on a 2-yard run by fullback Marshall Foreman with 11:56 remaining to cut the Southeastern Conference Tigers' lead to 14-9. Then they came within one play of possibly taking home the trophy.

That play, on fourth-and-one from the Tiger 46, saw Arkansas halfback Bobby Joe Edmonds drop a sure touchdown pass from quarterback Brad Taylor in the open at the Tiger 15.

Five plays later, Jackson, who gained 88 yards on 18 carries and was named the game's MVP, slithered through the hands of the Razorback defense at the Arkansas 38 and raced into the end zone with the deciding touchdown.

"We went for it all on fourth-and-one," said first-year Arkansas Coach Ken Hatfield. "We felt the play would be open. If we scored, it would put us ahead and would force them to throw the ball late in the game when they were tired."

Edmonds said it was a case of "being too open."

"It was a lack of concentration. It looked like the pass would be long, then I thought I'd have to dive for it. Then the ball was there and I knew I was in trouble when I felt it go off my hands and into the air," said Edmonds, who set a Liberty Bowl record for pass receptions with 10, covering 68 yards.

After Jackson's scoring run, the Razorbacks got a 25-yard TD pass from Taylor to split end James Shibest with 3:10 remaining, but could not move past their own 45 as the clock ran out on their final possession.

Degrate, Gray laud Hawkeye QB Long

From AP Reports

ANAHEIM, Calif. -- The University of Texas Longhorns were lauding the performance of Chuck Long after the Iowa quarterback completed 29 of 39 passes for 461 yards and six touchdowns against them in the Freedom Bowl.

"I've never seen a quarterback do what he did to our defense," said Lombardi Award winner Tony Degrate, a 6-4, 280 tackle from Snyder, Texas. "He's probably the best quarterback I've ever seen and I've seen some good quarterbacks in my time. It's definitely the best I've ever seen a quarterback play."

Long led the Hawkeyes to 31-third quarter points in the 55-17 victory for Iowa.

"He's easily the best I faced this year," said All-America defensive back Jerry Gray, from Lubbock, Texas. "He got the ball off when he had to and found the receivers when he had to."

Texas Coach Fred Akers expressed similar sentiments.

"We couldn't get enough heat on Long," Akers said. "We had to blitz too often to get the pressure. So we had to keep playing man-to-man (defense). Long was everything that we saw in the films. He was a perfect as I've ever seen a quarterback."

Gator Classic pits Gamecocks, OSU

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) - Oklahoma State has prospered under Rusty Hilger's leadership, but the senior quarterback isn't one to rest on past laurels.

"In playing the game of football, you have to have a short memory," says Hilger, who'll lead the ninth-ranked Cowboys against No. 7 South Carolina in the 40th annual Gator Bowl tonight. "We can't expect what's happened in the past to help us . . . We've got to be mentally and physically prepared."

Hilger, the Cowboys' all-time passing leader, is the first quarterback to guide Oklahoma State to three straight post-season appearances and the Big Eight school has compiled a 19-8 record with him as a starter.

A victory over South Carolina would give the 9-2 Cowboys their first 10-victory campaign in history and relieve a bit of the pain lingering from a 24-14 loss to Oklahoma that cost the team the Big Eight championship and an Orange Bowl berth.

South Carolina hopes to end its most successful season ever with the school's first bowl victory.

"We want to make history . . . win it for the people back home in Columbia," said All-American linebacker James Seawright, leader of the Gamecocks' Fire Ants defense. "It's very important to us."

South Carolina, which cracked the Top Twenty four weeks into the season and eventually climbed to No. 2, will carry a 10-1 record into the 7 p.m. CST contest, which will be shown on ABC-TV.

No. 20 Wisconsin and Kentucky meet Saturday in the Hall of Fame Bowl in Birmingham, Ala. (8 p.m., WTBS).

Wisconsin went 7-3-1, led by quarterback Mike Howard. Kentucky, 8-3, has a strong defense anchored by linebacker Cam Jacobs.

Howard completed 163 of 285 passes for 1,924 yards and 10 touchdowns this season.

The Aloha Bowl, featuring No. 10 Southern Methodist against No. 17 Notre Dame, also is scheduled for Saturday in Honolulu (7 p.m., ESPN).

SMU, 9-2, won its last five games while Notre Dame, 7-4, overcame a shaky start in winning its last four.

Snyder girls, JV boys fall in Jayton tournament play

JAYTON -- Paducah girls outscored Snyder 20-10 in the fourth quarter here Thursday morning to crank out a 54-53 victory in the opening round of the Jayton Tournament.

Snyder's junior varsity boys also lost to Paducah here, 79-40.

Coach Larry Scott's varsity boys do not play until Saturday, when they host Brownfield in a non-district game in Scurry County Coliseum. The 7:30 contest will be the final non-loop game for the Tigers, who open 2-4A play by hosting favorite Lamesa on Jan. 3.

Coach Ken Housden's Lady Tigers, now 10-4, were to play Spur at 10 Friday morning in consolation action as the three-day Jayton Tournament continued. Spur was crushed 63-37 by Hamlin in its first-round appearance.

Snyder got off to a 15-11 lead in the first quarter but held on only 25-24 at halftime. The Tigers came back out in the third and took a strong lead, 43-34, but Paducah outgunned the ladies 20-10 over the final eight minutes.

Karlene Thompson and Stephanie McKnight led Snyder in scoring with 16 and 10 points respectively. Linda Stewart had 18 for Jayton while Susie Wallas added 16.

In other girl's action here Thursday, Lubbock Christian popped Coahoma 44-42 and Crosbyton nailed Jayton 56-39.

Snyder junior varsity boys were to take on Hamlin, a 69-62 loser to Spur, today in consolation play. Other boy's scores had Jayton topping Crosbyton 62-55 and Ralls downing Coahoma 50-46.

Mark Daniels scored 13 points to lead Snyder JV.

But then, who wouldn't?

'Pokes wouldn't mind getting Flutie

From AP Reports

DALLAS -- Dallas' quarterback picture already is cluttered, but the Cowboys haven't ruled out adding another element - Doug Flutie - to it, player personnel director Gil Brandt said Thursday.

He said the National Football League club is "going to try" to improve its drafting position "and so is everybody else going to try. Whether you can do it or not is another thing."

If the Cowboys "had an opportunity" to make an advantageous trade for a pick with which it could take Flutie, the Heisman Trophy winner, "I'd recommend to Coach (Tom) Landry that we consider it," Brandt said.

Currently, the Cowboys have the 17th pick in next year's draft.

The Cowboys have three quarterbacks, Danny White, Gary Hogeboom and rookie Steve Pelluer. The Cowboys had inconsistant quarterback play all season but Brandt said that wasn't all the fault of the quarterbacks.

"When you lose a lot of offensive linemen and you lose receivers like Drew Pearson to retirement and Butch Johnson in a trade, I think it takes something away from he ability of a quarterback," said Brandt. "I think that's what happened to the Cowboys."

Meanwhile, another quarterback getting rave reviews is Iowa's Chuck Long, who passed for 461 yards and six touchdowns in the Hawkeyes' 55-17 Freedom Bowl victory over Texas.

Veteran professional coach George Allen said he thinks Long, who is 6-4 and 220 pounds, is perhaps the best college quarterback in the nation, despite the success this season of Flutie and Brigham Young's Robbie Boscoe.

"He's definitely professional caliber," said Allen. "He may be the best college quarterback as far as being future pro material."

Long will graduate this year, but still has another year of athletic eligibility if he choses to take it.

Despite being already stocked in the QB department, Flutie remains appealing to Dallas, which thrived for years with Roger Staubach, a quarterback with a similar style.

"I'd love to have him on our team," Brandt said of Flutie. "People in American are starved for heroes and he's a hero.

"Teams that have the right chemistry are successful and the right chemistry starts with him."

NC State, St. John's vying in Holiday Classic match

EDITOR'S NOTE: WJCAC basketball followers may recognize North Carolina State guard Spud Webb as a former all-conference player from Midland College. Also, St. John's Walter Berry, last year's NJCAA National Tournament MVP, played for juco champion San Jacinto College and led them to a quarterfinals win over Western Texas College in the 1983-84 tourney.

NEW YORK (AP) - The alley-oop passes from Spud Webb to Lorenzo Charles are a sight to behold.

Whether 14th-ranked North Carolina State can work the same magic against No. 5 St. John's in Saturday's championship of the 33rd Holiday Festival basketball tournament remains to be seen.

Charles, a 6-foot-7, 255-pound senior, scored 24 points and Webb, a 5-7 senior, added 16 points, seven rebounds and seven assists before the crowd of 12,570 at Madison Square Garden to down Rutgers 80-68.

St. John's, a six-time winner of the Holiday Festival, downed Old Dominion, making its Garden debut, 77-66 behind Walter Berry's 15 points and nine rebounds.

Georgia Tech, ranked 10th, won Thursday night's only battle of ranked teams, beating No. 11 Washington 65-58 in the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu. Ninth-ranked DePaul which crunched Creighton 87-58 in the only other game involving a ranked team.

Both N.C. State and St. John's will carry 7-1 records into Saturday's finale.

In Thursday's second game, Maryland beat host Hawaii 70-71 as was to meet Georgia Tech tonight for the championship.

In other college basketball action, Arkansas defeated Iowa State 84-79 in consolation of the Rainbow Classic while Iowa topped Cornell 59-56 in overtime.

Alabama beat New Orleans 73-55 and Virginia knocked off Penn St. 66-54 in the Sugar Bowl Classic. Other scores were Texas Tech over Colorado 76-75 in overtime, South Alabama over Alabama St. 90-85 and Tennissee over Lafayette 77-58.

Also, Oregon popped Davidson 55-50 and California defeated Portland 55-51 in opening action of the Far West Classic while first round games in the NCC Holiday Tournament had Augustana beating North Dakota 79-71, Morningside defeating Nebraska-Omaha 68-67 in double overtime and South Dakota downing South Dakota State 74-71.

Yankees obtain Whitson

NEW YORK (AP) - The New York Yankees announced Thursday that right-hander Ed Whitson, who spent the past two seasons with the Padres, had signed a free-agent contract, bringing him from the National League to the American League. The five-year deal is worth about $4.5 million, sources say.

Last season, Phil Niekro led the Yankees staff with 16 victories, but he will be 46 years old in April. Ron Guidry, 34, had his worst major league season, finishing 10-11. Marty Bystrom and John Montefusco have been injured, and youngsters Joe Cowley and Dennis Rasmussen are unproven.

Even Whitson, a seven-year major leaguer, has yet to prove himself a top-notch starter. Although he was 14-8 for the Padres last year and helped the team to the World Series, his lifetime record is 53-56.

The development of a palm ball late in the 1983 season may have helped Whitson turn his career around. He developed the pitch almost by accident, when he cut a finger on his pitching hand on a piece of metal on a soda-pop can.

Male hormones and fertility

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What percentage of testosterone should a man have to father a child? Do low sperm counts cause infertility in men? What part does testosterone play in reproduction?

DEAR READER — A man's ability to father a child depends on the number of healthy sperm cells he produces. Testosterone, the male hormone, stimulates the formation of sperm cells. The sperm cells are formed in convoluted tubules within the testicles. Between these tubules are specialized cells that produce testosterone.

This explains why one can have a high testosterone level and still not produce healthy sperm cells. A good example is the common vasectomy, which severs the main tube — the vas deferens — that transports the sperm cells out of all those small tubules. As a result, sperm cells cannot escape, but the formation of testosterone by those specialized cells between the tubules is unaffected. In this case, a man could have normal, or even super-normal, levels of testosterone and still be sterile.

Low testosterone levels can cause infertility, but if the level is low enough to do that, there usually are other signs of low levels. There may be a loss of secondary sexual characteristics, or, if the testosterone levels never reach normal levels, a male may not go through normal puberty.

Regardless of these more complex hormone problems, the bottom line is the number of healthy sperm cells actually produced. This is measured by a semen analysis, in which the number are actually counted and their characteristics observed.

You will want to read the Health Letter 17-4, Male Reproductive Functions, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 19, and for the last three months I have been taking Ovcon 50, the 28-day-regimen birth-control pills. Since I started to take these, my menstrual periods have dwindled to three or four days. I am getting married in two months and would like to know if there is any danger that I might become pregnant during the remainder of the week in which I would not be taking birth-control pills. If there is, should I use another form of birth control or should I start to take the pills earlier, instead of waiting till the next Sunday?

Also, will the birth-control pills take effect on the first day after I have been off them for my menstrual period?

DEAR READER — Your letter suggests that you really do not understand how birth-control pills work. They are intended to prevent ovulation. Ovulation is stimulated by the pituitary gland under the brain. The estrogen in your oral contraceptive keeps this gland from stimulating your ovaries to ovulate. This is not a one-day affair, but a program for the entire 28-day cycle.

The bleeding you now experience is withdrawal bleeding, since the estrogen stimulation of your oral contaceptives has been stopped. It is often not quite the same as a menstrual period that occurs naturally.

No, you will not have an increased risk of pregnancy when you are off the pills for one week; and yes, you still will be protected when you begin to take the pills again. No, I do not recommend some other form of birth-control pill before it is time for you to start your Ovcon 50 again.

Court can try former military rulers

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentina's Supreme Court has ruled that civilian judges can hold public trials for nine former military junta members accused in the abduction, torture and killing of thousands of people during the 1970s.

The high court said the three-man Federal Court of Appeals acted properly in deciding to take control of the cases from a military tribunal that had failed to act in nine months.

The ruling issued late Thursday clears the way for trials before the appeals court that local news media liken to the Nuremberg war crimes trials of Nazis that followed World War II.

The defendants — three former presidents and six other former military commanders — had appealed to the Supreme Court, contending the charges involved actions in their capacity as military officials and that they could only be tried in military courts.

The high court, rejecting this appeal, said: "We are not dealing with the judging of military institutions as a whole, but only of those members that may have applied methods contrary to the most elemental ethical and judicial values."

"The defendants have the full guarantee for a proper trial" in the civilian court, the ruling said.

The defendants are accused of involvement in the disappearance of at least 9,000 people during a campaign against leftist subversion by security forces in the late 1970s.

The nine include generals and admirals who made up three successive three-man juntas that ruled after a 1976 coup.

They are former presidents and army commanders Jorge Videla, Roberto Viola and Leopoldo Galtieri; former navy commanders Emilio Massera, Armando Lambruschini and Jorge Anaya; and former air force chiefs Orlando Agosti, Omar Graffigna and Basilio Lami Dozo.

President Raul Alfonsin ordered their prosecution three days after his Dec. 10, 1983, inauguration ended nearly eight years of dictatorship. The military government agreed to elections and a return to civilian rule after the country's disastrous defeat at the hands of Britain in the 1982 Falkland Islands war.

He ordered that the summary trials be carried out by the Armed Forces Supreme Council, the country's top military tribunal. But the tribunal failed to reach a verdict in nine months and on Oct. 4, the appeals court took charge of the cases, ruling that the council was guilty of "unjustified delays."

Hubert Humphrey, former U.S. vice-president, died in Minnesota on Jan. 13, 1978. He was 66.

Bar two-for-one happy hours

AUSTIN (AP) — The state Alcoholic Beverage Commission, trying to curb Texans from gulping cut-rate drinks, has banned two-for-one "happy hours."

"Some retailers of alcoholic beverages were getting carried away," said TABC Administrator W.S. McBeath. "The practices we are banning tend to encourage very rapid consumption."

The rules, announced Thursday and effective immediately, bar two-for-one happy hours, but do not prohibit selling doubles for the price of singles or offering half-price drinks.

An Abilene lawmaker on Thursday filed a bill that would ban all happy hours and contests involving drinking. Rep. Gary Thompson said his bill is patterned after a recently approved Massachusetts law.

"This legislation is aimed squarely at one of the major causes of traffic accidents — overindulgence encouraged by restaurants and bars," he said.

Texas Restaurant Association Vice President W.H. "Buckshot" Price said the TABC rules announced Thursday are "inadequate and confusing." He complained that the ban does not cover "the more potent drink and drown" nights, free drinks and nickel beer.

The rules bar only the sale of "two or more containers of alcoholic beverages for the price of one."

"TRA maintains that action taken by the TABC will not eliminate the problem because it focuses only on the sale of alcohol through bars and restaurants and fails to consider alcohol abuse which takes place in schools, cars, homes and the workplace," said Price.

Joe Darnall, McBeath's assistant, said two-for-one promotions "appeared to be the area where action seemed to be needed."

The rules are not intended to "regulate prices or get into price-fixing," he said.

Darnall said doubles and triples for the price of a single were not banned because "that has not been the same sort of problem we've had with multiple containers."

"It's not the price, it's the number of drinks," said Darnall. "Where you've got multiple containers as part of the deal, then the customer says, 'Yes, I'll have a drink' and he ends up suddenly with two or three."

The rules are aimed at reducing "the extremely rapid consumption our agents have observed," he said.

McBeath said the new rules come under the commission's ban on "giving an inducement with the sale of alcoholic beverages." The commission also can restrict businesses "conducted in a manner contrary to the public welfare," he said.

One Austin bar owner said he likes the new rules.

"We'll still serve doubles" for the price of a single drink, John Benavidez said through a spokesman. "That's fine with us. It saves on washing glasses."

Benavidez is an owner of Casablanca's, which features a three-hour happy hour.

Vietnamese continue to attack camps

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnamese infantry, tank and artillery units were reported closing in today on the headquarters of an anti-communist resistance group which earlier this week lost control of its largest camp to Vietnam's offensive.

Thai intelligence officers, who spoke on condition they not be identified, said 1,000 Vietnamese troops had moved to within a half mile of Ampil camp, 12 miles northeast of Rithisen camp, which was overrun and set afire by the Vietnamese on Wednesday.

The officers said the Vietnamese were staging a pincer movement today from the southwest and northeast. Both camps, located near the Thai border, are strongholds of the Khmer People's National Liberation Front, whose fighters are armed primarily with rifles and mortars.

There have been conflicting casualty figures, but Thai and guerrilla commanders have estimated several hundred Cambodians and Vietnamese killed or wounded since Hanoi's offensive began Tuesday. Artillery fire from the fighting has landing in Thailand, and Thai border forcehanty bamboo and thatch shacks and were huddled along a Thai-built anti-tank ditch. The ditch is inside Thailand but the refugees have not yet fled to prepared evacuation sites deeper inside Thai territory.

"We expect like everyone else that Ampil will be attacked," an international aid officer said.

Some analysts, however, cautioned that in the past Vietnamese forces had staged similar movements as diversions to attack other guerrilla areas.

An attack against Ampil would increase the refugee burden and the fall of the camp would be a major blow to the front, one of three major resistance groups fighting Hanoi's occupation forces and the smaller army of the pro-Hanoi Cambodian government set up after Vietnam invaded in late 1978.

Ampil is better defended than was Rithisen, which was penetrated by a tank-led attack on Wednesday. Ampil is defended by an estimated 5,000 well-entrenched guerrillas.

Ampil is fringed by thick forests and somewhat protected by a lake. Rithisen is located on a flat, sparsely vegetated plain where the use of tanks was more simple.

The Thai officers said Rithisen was almost totally controlled by the Vietnamese although the guerrillas were able to move into some areas of the devastated encampment.

C-City resident hurt in traffic accident

An 18-year-old Colorado City man reportedly sustained minor injuries in one of two traffic mishaps reported in Snyder Thursday.

According to police reports, Robert Bradbury was a passenger in a 1980 Renault driven by John D. Kelly of Colorado City when that car collided with a 1983 Pontiac driven by Mary W. Aucutt of Hermleigh.

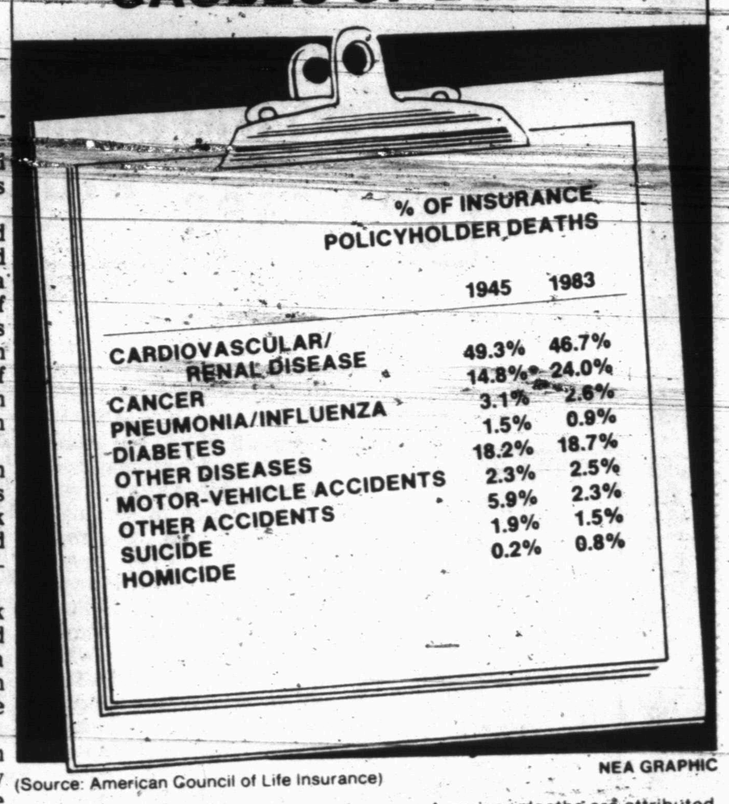
The wreck occurred at the intersection of 19th St. and Ave. O at 11:21 a.m.

Bradbury sustained minor injuries described as lacerations and bruises. He was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released.

Thursday's second accident — a hit-and-run incident — was reported at 7:13 p.m. on the parking lot of the Varsity Square Shopping Center.

According to investigators, a 1978 Ford owned by Julian Lusino of 1908 Coleman Ave. had apparently been struck by an unidentified vehicle while parked on the shopping center lot.

CAUSES OF DEATH



(Source: American Council of Life Insurance) NEA GRAPHIC

Despite years of medical progress, far more American deaths are attributed to cancer today than in the mid 1940s. Further, nearly half of all U.S. deaths still involve cardiovascular/renal diseases. Accidents other than traffic accidents, however, take a much smaller toll than before.

1984 news event review continues

Kathy Norris and Larry Light.

—April 30: A goal of 108 hours of straight rope jumping was reached, a marathon event conducted by members of the Phi Theta Kappa group at WTC to raise funds for the American Heart Association.

—May 4: The First National Bank of Snyder was declared insolvent by officials with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. A bid process to purchase the bank's assets was conducted immediately, with the high bid submitted by American State Financial Corporation, a holding company based in Lubbock.

—May 5: A bank president for the newly named American State Bank of Snyder was announced — Eddie Johnson, a native of Levelland and a 13-year veteran of West Texas banking.

—May 5: The Democratic Primary election here ended with a runoff vote required in the race for district attorney involving Ernie Armstrong and Mike Line. In addition, incumbent County Commissioner Eldon Perry won over two candidates running against him.

—May 8: Guy Staton was named valedictorian and Susan Brim the salutatorian of the SHS graduating class of 1984.

—May 11: David Rockefeller was in Snyder to personally present a $10,000 check from the Rockefeller Foundation honoring the SHS fine arts departments.

—May 11: Commencement exercises are conducted at WTC for the 12th graduating class at the college.

—May 20: A Texas Supreme Court decision was revealed which ended the eight-month legal question related to the residential use of residue gas from the SACROC field. The court denied a request to rehear an earlier decision overturning an injunction which had temporarily halted the gas shutoff.

—May 21: Residents of the Hobbs and Hermleigh ISD conducted a second meeting to consider the consolidation of the two small school districts.

—May 23: The 170-member SHS graduating class for 1984 received diplomas at graduation exercises here. It marked the final commencement for retiring Superintendent Bill J. Hood.

—May 24: A new superintendent for the Snyder ISD was named E. Robert (Bob) Hawes, currently the superintendent at Vidor.

—May 24: Longtime city staffer Alfred Kohl — who served as city fire chief for 18 years — was honored by retirement ceremonies at city hall.

—May 30: Snyder citizens joined with other U.S. citizens in viewing a rare solar eclipse.

—June 2: Ernie Armstrong won the Democratic nomination for district attorney in a runoff race between he and Mike Line. A margin of 153 votes — approximately five percent of the voter turnout — separated the two.

—June 8: The hiring of a new librarian for the Scurry County facility was announced. New to the city will be Janice Mitchell, moving here from Comfort in South Texas.

—June 12: Protests were heard regarding the proposed extension of Houston Parkway at an on-site public hearing conducted by the city council.

—June 12: Gene Thomas was sworn in as a newly appointed member of the city council. He replaces Gayle McPherson, an engineer with SACROC who had been transferred.

—June 12: A plan to update the computer class offerings in the Snyder school system was approved — a measure projected to increase the school budget some $268,000.

—June 20: A slightly decreased budget of $75,830 was approved by the United Way budget planning committee.

—June 21: Plans for a new Chrysler dealership here — to be called Snyder Motor Inc. — were announced.

—June 24: A decline in county oil and gas production values was announced — down from $2.3 billion to $2.1 billion.

—June 26: Mike Otto, an assistant professor of science at WTC, was named the new chairman of the college's Science Division.

—June 28: The official 100-year date for the formation of Scurry County was observed as Centennial activities in Snyder began. A new historical marker was unveiled at the courthouse which honors the men of Company "G."

OPEC considers monitoring plan

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — OPEC ministers reconvened today hoping to formally approve an unprecedented plan to monitor each member nation's production and pricing — a last-ditch bid to stop a tailspin in world oil prices.

Twelve of the 13 OPEC nations tentatively agreed to the proposal on Thursday. The 13th member, Nigeria, a major OPEC producer that has suffered from steadily falling prices and strayed from cartel policy as a result, was expected to declare its position today.

Nigerian Oil Minister David Tam-West showed up late and missed the meeting Thursday at which the consensus on the enforcement plan was reached.

Ecuador's delegation expressed opposition to the plan earlier in the day, but changed its mind after consultation with its government, according to Oil Minister Arturo Hernandez Grisanti of Venezuela.

Chances of the plan's success do not hinge on Ecuador, a small producer. But the decision of Nigeria, one of OPEC's biggest producers, will be crucial. Nigeria, seeking to bolster sagging sales in a time of slackened demand for oil, has not indicated which way it will lean.

OPEC's members are Algeria, Ecuador, Gabon, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Libya, Kuwait, Nigeria, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, United Arab Emirates and Venezuela.

In 1839, a gallows was erected in London, Upper Canada, where the first hanging in the province took place.

Midwest employees earn service awards

Murray Simmons and Beverly Rister each received 30-year awards from Midwest Electric, presented at the employees' Christmas party.

Rister was employed on Nov. 1, 1954 and is now in charge of consumer accounting.

Simmons, employed on Dec. 17, 1954, is the director of operations and construction.

Other employees receiving service awards were Rickey Jeffrey, three years; Dalvin Alexander, three years; Charles Wheeler, three years; Earl Williams, five years; and David Stephens, 10 years.

Dear Abby

Grown Children Have Found There's No Place Like Home

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Please say something in your column about grown children who choose to live at home. I am a widow with a large house and three grown children who live with me because their jobs are in this area, and so are their friends, their church and a university where they take advanced courses to enhance their careers.

Every day some busybody (usually a woman my age whose children have all left home) asks, "Why are your children still living at home?" Such astonishment is expressed that one would think there was something wrong with adult children living at home. My children tell me they often find themselves trying to justify their living at home, as though it were some kind of abnormal lifestyle.

We hope that one day they will all have homes of their own, but in the meantime, living together offers each of us financial and emotional support. Besides, there are four of us to share all the household chores, and that ain't bad.

A MOTHER WHO LIKES HER KIDS

DEAR MOTHER: When grown children want to live at home, and their mother wants them to, I would say it's an ideal arrangement.

Three cheers for you, Mother. (Make that four.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: "Charlie's Pal" wrote to say that Charlie was hit by a car while crossing the street listening to music on his headset. So Charlie winds up in the hospital with two broken legs and a broken arm. "Charlie's Pal" told Charlie to sue the manufacturer of the headset for failing to warn the buyers that headsets could be dangerous if worn in traffic.

Abby, following that kind of logic, manufacturers of paper bags should be required by law to put a warning on their product stating that if the paper bag is worn over the head while walking in traffic—or operating machinery—it could cause serious injury or death.

If we could only protect the fools from the world, we could have a world of fools.

DIK BROWN

DEAR DIK: I received a ton of mail on that one. Hear this from Chelsea, Mich.:

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine (I'll call him Charlie) was walking down the street reading your column when a car hit him. The driver said Charlie had walked against the light, right into the car's path. Now Charlie is all banged up.

If it hadn't been for your column, Abby, Charlie would have blamed himself for not paying attention. Instead, he hired a real sharp lawyer to sue you. After all, you should have put a warning in your column to let people know that it's dangerous to read "Dear Abby" in traffic. Right? Sorry.

ANOTHER
CHARLIE'S PAL

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have a crush on a guy. I'm 25 and he's 29. I felt that he was as attracted to me as I was to him, although he never asked me for a date.

I knew that your advice would be, "Tell him how you feel about him," so I did.

He told me that it would be a long, long time before he got into a new relationship after having broken up with his girlfriend of several years. (They broke up about a year ago.)

I'm afraid that if I'm not the one to change his mind, some other girl will. The only time I see him is when my friends take me to the club he belongs to.

Do you think I blew it? What should I do now?

DEAD END

DEAR END: Do I think you blew it? Probably. Now, back off. The next move, if there is to be one, should be his.

Bargain hunters can expect some good January sales

By The Associated Press

The nation's retailers, overly optimistic about the Christmas selling season, are heading into January with overstocked shelves that not even holiday promotions could empty, economists and analysts say.

Christmas sales were below expectations, but retailers and industry watchers said Thursday that the overall results were upbeat.

"There is inventory to clean up in the whole industry and we'll all be doing the best we can to do it," said Bob Northam, senior vice president of J.C. Penney Co. "It's normally a very promotional time anyway."

Cubans await city hearings

HOUSTON (AP) — Manuel Poceiro, who fled from Cuba for Spain in 1980, thought his dream of a life in the United States had come true last week when he arrived in New York.

But officials told him shortly after an Iberia Airlines plane landed in New York Friday that his immigration papers and those of 75 others aboard the flight were false.

Now he and 25 other members of the group are waiting in a privately run detention center in north Houston for a hearing which will determine whether they can stay in this country.

The 26 were flown to Houston Monday because federal officials in New York did not have enough space to detain them, said Duane Austin, a spokesman for the Immigration and Naturalization Service in Washington.

"We don't know what will happen," Poceiro said Thursday. "Right now we don't have a lot of information. We don't have any."

He said officials had not told them how long they would be held in Houston or when their hearings might begin.

"The hard thing is not to know anything," said 36-year-old Maria Camarena, another member of the group sent to Houston. "We don't know about the laws of this country or what will happen with us."

Javier Lopez, the INS deportation officer in charge of the 300-bed detention facility, said hearings should be held within a week. He said he had not told the prisoners because no one had asked him for specifics.

Poceiro said he and others aboard the Air Iberia flight, including his 21-year-old sister, Marianely, paid a Madrid lawyer $60 apiece for immigration papers. He said the attorney said he had connections with the U.S. State Department.

"Of course, we thought they were good," he said of the papers.

Poceiro said members of the group was not told where they were being taken to Houston until they had been loaded onto a van headed for La Guardia Airport New York.

He said he was afraid the move would disrupt the effort to win political asylum by distancing the refugees from attorneys and relatives.

Poceiro said he and his family left Cuba for Spain because "it was the only way we could get out of Cuba."

But he said he had always wanted to live in the United States.

"We just want to stay here and be normal people, to be free," Poceiro said. "We don't want to take from the government. We have friends and family.

Relatives in New York have described the 77 Cubans as being among the 10,000 who left the island four years ago after seeking asylum at the Peruvian Embassy in Havana.

The INS has said that none of the Cubans would be forced to return to Cuba even if Spain, the country from which they arrived, refuses to take them back.

Investigator says pilot lost control of airplane, crashed

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A La Porte man was not certified to fly on instruments alone when his single-engine aircraft went down in dense fog, killing four people, a National Transportation Safety Board investigator says.

J.O. Johnson, an NTSB air safety investigator, also says the Wednesday crash was probably due to pilot — and not mechanical — error.

McIlvoy had filed an instrument flight plan before taking off shortly after 5 p.m. from San Antonio International Airport. The aircraft went down minutes later in dense fog, crashing on airport property.

McIlvoy died in the accident along with his 36-year-old wife Carol, their 2-month-old son John Jr., and Mrs. McIlvoy's mother, Joice Sanford.

Johnson, who inspected the crash site early Thursday, said indications are the right wing of the aircraft hit the ground first.

"It went down in a shallow dive and hit at a terrible rate of speed," he said.

The single-engine Mooney plowed through heavy brush for about 400 feet before it "plastered itself around a 1½-foot tree," Johnson said.

The plane disintegrated on impact.

A final ruling on the cause of the crash will be made by the NTSB office in Washington, Johnson said.

But he said, "From what I've seen, the pilot was just not controlling the airplane."
