Arabs Urge Sadat To Abandon Talks

By George A. Krimsky
Associated Press Writer

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) The 20-nation Arab League summit meeting today dispatched a four-man delegation to Cairo to try to persuade Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to abandon his peace initiative with Israel and return to the Arab fold.

Conference sources indicated there was some opposition to this campaign of persuasion from the more conservative delegates.

Announcement of the decision to send the delegation caught officials in Cairo by surprise. Prime Minister Mustapha Khalil first heard of the plan through news agency reports, his secretary said.

Sadat refused to attend the summit, which was called by Iraq specifically to oppose the Camp David accords between Egypt and Israel and the peace offensive launched by the Egyptian president with his trip to Jerusalem last year.

The official Iraqi news agency said the delegation is headed by Lebanese Prime Minister Salim el-Hoss and includes Syrian Information Minister Ahmed Iskandar, Iraqi Baathist Party official Tariq Aziz and Foreign Minister Ahmed alSuedy of the United Arab Emirates.

There was no word from Egypt on how the delegation would be received. Since it is headed by the Lebanese premier, protocol would dictate that it be received by Khalil, but that could not be confirmed.

Lebanon is considered a friendly country by Egypt, but the delegates from Syria and Iraq come from countries that have been pouring invective on Sadat for the past Yzar. Relations between those two nations and Egypt have been suspended since late last year.

Before the suprising announcement, Arab leaders were reported in a deadlock on whether to take steps to further isolate Sadat from the Arab camp.

While a condemnation of the separate Egyptian-Israeli peace move was likely from the summit, a united stand on what sanctions, if any, to take against Sadat appeared unlikely.

Delegates reported today that moderate states led by Saudi Arabia have resisted pressure from the hardliners to declare Sadat a pariah in the Arab world and cut him off politically and economically from his fellow states.

Before the meeting, the Saudis said the purpose of the summit should be to unify Arabs, not to isolate Egypt.

The hardliners are led by Iraq, Syria, Algeria and the Palestine Liberation Organization, while the powerful Saudis and Jordan lead the moderates. Egypt is the only Arab League member not attending.

PLO spokesman Mohsen Abu Maizer noted the split in the summit ranks when he told reporters "the United States is trying to push other parties here at the conference to join Sadat." He did not name the parties but was evidently refering to the Saudi-led Persian Gulf states and Jordan, which thus far have not condemned Sadat's peace gestures.

Abu Maizer said the debate at the summit pits the moderate position that Sadat's peace initiative represents a different "point of view" against the hardliners' stand that it represents "an imperalist-Zionist plan to divide and control the Arab world."

He said the fact this summit was convened on an anti-Camp David banner indicates "it is a success." The remark, supported by reports from other summit insiders, indicates the hardliners are trying to gloss over the disagreement and put the best face possible on what they expect will be disappointing results.

Sunday update

Need Positive Thinking

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Carter administration is hoping to put the power of positive thinking to work alongside traditional economic measures in its program to whip inflation.

The president's top inflation fighter, Alfred Kahn, told Congress Friday that a key part of making the program work is getting enough people to believe it will succeed.

Moreover, Kahn said he believes there is a national "mood of anxiety to respond to the appeal of the president."

Iranian Students Shot

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)-Government troops fired into demonstrating students at Tehran University Saturday and unconfirmed reports said at least 10 were killed and as many as 30 wounded.

A cab driver who witnessed the shooting said he counted 20 victims lying in the street or in gutters. He said all appeared dead.

Government sources said the students were preparing to march to the home of Moslem holy leader Ayatullah Taleghani despite the opposition of heavily armed troops.

Vietnam, Soviets Sign

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)-The peace and cooperation treaty between the Soviet Union and Vietnam, both of which are at odds with China, pledges "appropriate and effective measures" if either is attacked, Vietnam said today.

The 25-year treaty, the first between the two countries and the first Soviet treaty with a Southeast Asian nation, provides for economic aid to Vietnam and cooperation in other fields.

West Bank Autonomy

WASHINGTON (AP)-With an Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty nearing completion, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance says groundwork is now being laid for implementation of Camp David provisions calling for Palestinian autonomy on the West Bank.

After 20 Years Of Service...

Snyder Police Chief Has Seen Profession Change

BY JOHN LONG

"A career in law enforcement can be rewarding," said Chief of Police Bill Stone as he thought over his own 20-year career as a policeman.

Stone was honored at a surprise party given Friday afternoon at the police station. The party was attended by officers, their wives, and members of the sheriff's office.

Stone's career in law enforcement began Nov. 3, 1958, when he joined the Abilene Police Department. For the past five years he has been Snyder's chief of police.

"As I reflect over 20 years in law enforcement, I feel as though I have been able to help some people," the 45-year-old Stone said.

Stone had finished a two-year stint in the military and was working in the oilfields around Abilene when he noticed an ad in a newspaper calling for police recruits. He applied and was hired.

Entering law enforcement, he said, "always had been an ambition of mine." His first assignment, he remembers, was walking a beat in Abilene's south business district.

He has seen many changes in his profession. Probably the biggest is in the realm of police training.

Stone had been a policeman three months before he received any training. The officer today has to have 240 hours of training.

"I think the officers of today are better trained when they put their badge on than we were," Stone said. "From that standpoint, I have seen a tremendous change of events."

Being a policeman, however, also has its drawbacks. One of the biggest is coping with the person-to-person relationships that often develop.

"When you work on cases involving young adults you get to know them and you get so involved in the procedure that in some instances it is very difficult to remain unaffected," he said of his experience in Abilene.

In Snyder it was at first different. Here he had to change from being a criminal investigator to becoming an administrator. "That has been one of the most difficult things I have found since I have been here," he said.

If he had it to do over, would he become a policeman again, Stone was asked.

"Yes," he replied, "I think so because I feel like I have been able to help some people."

Last Spraying Is Completed

The second and final spraying of Scurry County cotton fields for the control of boll weevils was completed Friday.

Milton Stephens, president of the Scurry County Producers Association, said the organization felt that the program was successful.

There were only two sprayings this year.

The SDN Column

The latest unemployment figures for the nation show that 5.8 per cent of the country's work force is unemployed. That, of course, is not the case in Snyder, as well as some neighboring towns.

However, we are told that, although Texas as a whole has a lower unemployment rate than the nation, there are some communities with large numbers on their jobless rolls.

There are some paradoxes. In some areas with unemployment at five percent or higher, newspapers have page after page of help-wanted advertisements on their classified advertising list. They usually list opportunities in a variety of fields, including some of the top trades and professions. Yet they never seem to get them all filled.

It will be interesting to see how the job fair here Nov. 18 comes out. It is known that there are nearly 300 jobs available in the immediate area and it is known that the unemployment rate here has been consistently around two per cent, which the experts say, means that there is virtually no unemployment here.

The Texas Industrial Commission has mailed out notices state-wide about the Snyder job fair. Also, the Snyder Chamber of Commerce plans to advertise the job fair selectively in some areas where unemployment figures have been relatively high. It will be especially interesting to see whether substantial numbers of potential employees can be lured here from other areas by prospects of employment.

One factor that may affect unemployment totals in specific areas is mobility. More and more people, we are told, are becoming reluctant to move. This even applies to young executives of corporations who used to bounce around from coast to coast whenever there was an opportunity for advancement, especially if it carried a significant pay increase.

So, it appears that a community which needs more workers must be attractive in other ways as well. Often this may mean that there must be opportunities for both husband and wife to find suitable employment. The number of two-income families is mushrooming, according to statistics from various sources. It is becoming necessary for two to work so that they may live as well as one.

Three Voting Box Sites Are Changed In Snyder

Scurry County voters will cast ballots in all precincts in Tuesday's general election.

There have been some changes in locations of boxes in Snyder. Box 15, South Snyder, which formerly voted in the school administration building, will be located in the Towle Park Barn. Box 18, Southwest Snyder, which formerly voted at the El Paso Avenue Fire Station, will be in the schoool administration building. Box 17, Northwest Snyder, which formerly used the city hall, will be located in the county library. All other boxes will be in the same locations as before.

All 13 voting boxes will be equipped with the new punch-card type voting facilities which will be used for the first time in an election here. Each voting box will have the equipment and be prepared to give detailed instructions on the use of the voting machines.

Voters throughout county have had numerous opportunities to see and participate in demonstrations in the use of the voting machines. County Clerk Beverly Ainsworth has conducted demonstrations at meetings of many clubs and other groups and also has had demonstrations at the courthouse for the general public. Election judges, and clerks have attended sessions and will be ready to provide instructions to any voters who need it Tuesday at the polls.

The voting precincts, with the locations and elections judges, in order, are:

1. Northeast Snyder, north side of coliseum, Delbert Hirst.
2. Loyd Mountain, Northeast Community Center, Sam Cross.
3. Fluvanna, community center, Paul Turner.

Ask Us

Q—Why did Judge Holt give a cold-blooded murderer just 25 years in jail (Three questions concerning the sentence assessed Armando Garcia, confessed slayer of Lonnie Ray Elder, were received)

A—Judge Wayland G. Holt says the 25-year term was agreed upon by prosecuting and defense attorneys following a conference and appraisal of evidence, potential testimony, etc. The District Attorney also consulted the family of the victim. Ultimately, all agreed to a plea of guilty for a 25-year term. When plea-barganing of this type takes place, if the presiding judge accepts the plea of guilty, it is mandatory that he impose the sentence agreed upon. It is not unusual, said Judge Holt, for all concerned to seek a means to forego a long, drawn-out trial in such cases, and the 25 years is not considered a light sentence. In fact, juries often assess less punishment in such cases, such as a Callahan County (Baird) case recently where a jury gave a woman 20 years for beating her five-year-old child to death.

Blood Drive Set Monday At Hospital

A blood drive has been set Monday at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Contributions of blood will be accepted between the hours of 2 p.m. and 9 p.m. The blood is needed to assure that adequate supplies will be available for local patients' needs.

"Donors often respond when there is an emergency, but community blood centers depend much more on donors who are willing to give to meet day-to-day blood needs," a hospital spokesman said. And the contributions of blood here have not kept pace with demands.

Healthy persons between the ages of 17 and 66 are generally accepted as donors. However, persons with a history of hepatitis, pregnancy within the past six weeks, major surgery within the past six months, weight less than 110 pounds, or a history of unarrested clinical tuberculosis are disqualified.

A person may safely donate blood every eight weeks, and the entire process usually takes only about 30 minutes.

Snyder Building Figures Set Another New Record

The City of Snyder issued building permits in October for construction costing $757,923 to push calendar year figures to a new record.

The city already had set a new record for its fiscal year which ended Sept. 30, with a total of $8,753,077.

The October permits pushed the figures for the calendar year to $8,409,122, which puts 1978 ahead of 1977 by more than a million dollars with two months to go. The total for the calendar year of 1977 amounted to $7¼ million.

The permits issued in October included six new single-family dwellings at a total cost of $432,500. Commercial projects accounted for $203,043, the largest being the new Midwest Electric Cooperative building in the 2200 block of College Avenue and the Western Marketing Co. Service Station at College and 42nd St.

Also included in the October totals are seven mobile homes, making a total of 13 new living units for the month.

The total number of permits issued for the month was 23, six more than for the same month in 1977.

With November and December still to go, prospects appeared bright for the city to record a building year of more than $9 million.

Biofeedback Flourishing...

Growing Numbers Are Practicing Controls

TOPEKA, Kan. (APZ(— In special classes across the land, hundreds of Americans are practicing mind over matter.

Here, at the Menninger Foundation, migraine headache suffers are learning to turn off their headaches.

In a darkened room at the University of California at San Francisco, college volunteers sit quietly with electrodes attached to their foreheads learning how to reduce anxiety.

In Spearfish, S.D., youngsters from the first through the 12th grades practice raising their hand temperatures and reducing muscle tension.

At Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center in New York, men who cannot walk more than a block or two due to reduced blood flow to their legs are learning to increase that blood flow, and some are now even able to jog.

And at the University of California at Los Angeles, patients are learning to control their involuntary gnashing of teeth during sleep.

This is all part of the remarkable world of biofeedback, once a fad but now an accepted method of treatment at some of the nation's most respected medical centers. Thousands are under treatment.

"We think psychosomatic diseases are all controllable," says Dr. Elmer Green, a biofeedback pioneer at Menninger's. "We don't know the limits of biofeedback yet."

"We still have our cave bodies," he explains. "When something startles us, the body acts as if a tiger were coming at us. We have these bodies that were suited for life in the wild. But we live in the modern world, and that's why we wind up with psychosomatic diseases."

For years, doctors have marveled over some patients who could voluntarily raise or lower their heart rate and other presumably involuntary biological functions.

Now with the help of machines that measure brain activity, electrical activity in muscles, heart rate and other bodily performances, patients can see what is happening and learn to control these manifestations.

In biofeedback training, the patient learns to control blood pressure, skin temperature, heart behavior, brain waves, muscle tension.

With the help of a therapist using sensitive electronic instruments, patients are given, or "fed back," information about their biological processes, such as hand temperature. By becoming aware of these functions, people can learn to control them.

Another misconception confuses biofeedback with the purported use of biorhythms to determine a person's good and bad days. Biofeedback has nothing to do with biorhythms.

One major research project at Menninger deals with migraine headache sufferers.

Dr. Joseph Sargent, an internist, is director of the project.

The study, supported by the National Institute of Mental Health, began in January, 1975, and Dr. Sargent expects to have worked with 150 patients by the time it is finished, perhaps by next July.

The mass of data has not been analyzed yet, but Sargent says preliminary indications show that biofeedback has "a reasonable chance of having a moderate effect" on migraine. While that may not sound impressive, these are patients who found no relief in anything else.

Elmer Green and his wife, Dr. Alyce Green, who collaborated in the early biofeedback research, have written:

"If every young student knew by the time he finished first biology class in grade school, that the body responds to self-generated psychological inputs that blood flow and heart behavior, as well as a host of other body processes can be influenced at will, it would change prevailing ideas about both physical and mental health.

The Greens point to the program employing biofeedback techniques in a school district in Spearfish, S.D. As of last June, 195 students had completed the program, according to Oretta Engelhardt, Director of the project.

Two biofeedback instruments are used—the hand temperature trainer, which helps individuals raise their hand temperature to increase overall blood flow and lower overall blood pressure, and the electromyograph, or EMG, for measuring muscle tension and the ability to relax.

CHAPTER VII

Which Candidate presents himself to West Texas as a conservative while lining up behind the Liberal Northern Democratic Leadership?

CHAPTER VIII

Which Candidate was defeated in his own home town in a school board race?

NO, THE BUTLER DIDN'T DO IT

1. Charles Stenholm did it--He has accepted over $50,000 from special interest groups. including Energy Political Action Committees from Florida, California, Maryland and most mysterious of all, the Northeastern Electric Political Action Committees of Westboro, Mass. Massachusetts is, of course, the home of Carter's henchman, House Leader Tip O'Neil and Edward Kennedy. There is no oil in any of these states and they want our oil. Under Carter's New Energy bill, we will be forced to burn coal industrially at a minimum cost to Texas Taxpayers of $7 billion while our oil and gas is sent North at reduced prices. When the roll is called on Texas Energy Interests, Charlie will have to pay his debts.

2. Charlie done it--He accepted $1,000 Contributions from L.D. Brinkman, Chairman of the Krueger Campaign and the Jim Wright Majority Cong. Comm., Rockville, Md. We all know what Jimmy Carter and Jim Wright did to West Texas Farmers.

3. Charlie Done it--He accepted money from the Southwestern Committee on Political Education COPE. Cope is the Committee on Political Education, the Political Action arm of the AFL-CIO.

4. Charlie done it--He actively supported George McGovern in 1972 and was an official in Carters Campaign in 1976.

5. Charlie done it--In response to a question from the audience in Tuscolo Oct. 4 Charlie said he backs Carter 100 percent. This response was quoted in The Abilene Reporter News. After widespread concern was expressed by Conservatives, he said he didn't really mean it. Charlie can't have it both ways.

6. Charlie done it--He has stated that he will vote the party line for Tip O'Neil for Speaker of the House, but his personal choice is Jim Wright. What's the Difference? Jim Wright betrayed Texas farmers and betrayed all Texans by pushing Carter's energy bill.

7. Charlie done it--Charlie says he will always vote the straight Democratic Party ticket--This means he will support Teddy Kennedy or anyone else the Northerns choose to run the country. Omar Burleson was the most Conservative member of the entire Congress. He could not change the party's leftward lurch. Charlie can't either.

8. Charlie done it--He was defeated in a school board election in his own home town of Stamford--Your neighbors know you best!!!

More Questions Raised About Test Profession

EDITOR'S NOTE-If you're contemplating college, you're also probably contemplating the College Boards, the tests that have helped determine the future for millions. Such tests serve a purpose, but they have also been criticized as being unfair and arbitrary.

By CHRIS CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)- More and more people are asking questions about the professional question askers.

Who gives the tests that permit or deny entry to colleges and professions for millions of people each year? Are the tests fair? Are they misused?

The questions become more important as interest rises in minority admissions to college and as it becomes more difficult each year to get into law and medical schools. Many of the questions - from parents, educators and lawmakers - are directed at the Educational Testing Service, the titan of the testing industry.

On a bucolic 400-acre campus outside this well-heeled university town, its 2,000 employees go quietly about their business, constructing and processing the multiple-choice exams that can raise or dash the hopes of several million people a year.

Success or failure on the flagship ETS exam, the Scholastic Aptitutude Test, can determine whether a student attends the college of his choice. Other tests help choose entrants for dozens of occupations, from podiatry and police work to architecture and auto mechanics. The State Department uses an ETS test for Foreign Service officers. And ETS, with questions supplied by the Central Intelligence Agency, even tests prospective spies.

Among those who question the ETS tests is Peter J. Liacouras, dean of Temple University Law School. He says ETS is becoming 'the cradle-to-grave arbiter of social mobility in America."

It tests inhibit "Well-roundedness" and reward "the skilled test-takers, hip-shooters and cross-word puzzle whizzes," Liacouras says. He thinks law schools put too much emphasis on ETS, Law School Admission Test scores.

William W. Turnbull, 58, a Canadian-born psychologist who joined ETS shortly after its creation and became president in 1970, bristles at the notion that ETS is America's "Arbiter of social mobility."

"That's nonsense," he says. "We are makers of gates, and other people have to decide whether to open them or not. Gates serve to get people through fences, as well as to keep them out.

"The people at Temple and other universities have to make the admissions decisions. We have zero to say about who gets in anywhere."

Some criticisms apply to all standardized testing. Minorities generally fare worse than whites on these tests, and some minority groups say the tests are biased.

Blacks and certain other minorities score 100 points or more below the national average on the LSAT and the widely-used Scholastic Aptitude Test, familiarly known as SAT. Both are graded on a scale of 200 to 800.

ETS officials screen test questions to eliminate overtones of race in five forms, and the LSAT five times in separate editions. The al or sexual bias. And they insist that the difference stems not from cultural or racial bias in their tests, but from the more sweeping bias of poverty and inferior schooling. Turnbull calls it a "bias of opportunity."

Kenneth B. Clark, psychologist and educator, says the problem lies not with the tests, but with how they are used.

"I'm not against exams," he says. "I'm against their abuse and making distorted and exaggerated claims about what they show." He says the value of ETS' tests depends upon "how skillfully, intelligently and humanely they are used. You can use almost anything in an idiotic, exclusionary and dehumanizing way."

Test critics forget that errors also are made in grading students' essays, interviews, references and classwork, Turnbull says. The SAT became popular with colleges in the 1940s because it "provided a common currency that was impervious to the differences in grading between schools and between parts of the country."

Columbia Prof. Diane Ravitch says the end of the baby boom portends a diminished role for the SAT and a rival test offered by the American College Testing Program of Iowa City.

"As school enrollments continue to decline, and as colleges compete to recruit students, the importance of admissions tests as selective devices will be less than ever," she said.

The number of SATs given annually already has fallen to 1.4 million from a peak of 1.6 million in 1970.

But the competition remains intense to get into professional schools, where the test scores traditionally have played an even bigger role. The student rejected by one college usually can go elsewhere, but those rejected by a medical or law school may be left out in the cold.

1-Day Child Care Course At WTC

A six-hour workshop for persons who provide child care is shceduled at Western Texas College, with sessions set for Nov. 9, Nov. 16 and Nov. 30.

Each session will meet from 7-9 p.m. in the basement classroom of the Scurry County Museum building on the south side of the WTC campus. Cost will be $3 per person.

For those employed by licensed child care facilities, the three sessions will fulfill six of the 12 clock hours of training required by the Department of Human Resources. The workshop will also provide valuable and interesting information for anyone who works with children, whether they care for children in their own home, provide babysitting services on a paid or volunteer basis, or work in day care centers.

Dr. Mary Hook, professor of psychology at WTC, will be the speaker for the first session. Her topic will be "Communicating with Children." Jolyn Mikow, director of Mikow's Playschool in Colorado City, will speak on "Teacher-Made Learning Activites for Preschoolers" at the Nov. 16 session. "Nutrition and the Preschool child" will be the topic for the final meeting on Nov. 30, with Carolyn Limmer, home economics instructor, as speaker.

Persons wishing information about the workshop are invited to contact Judy Barkowsky at WTC by calling 573-8511, extension 297, or the Community Service office at 573-8511, extension 240.

	Started with nothing and built successful world-wide drilling company. Deputy Secretary of Defense for four years. Responsible for $100 billion a year budget and 3 million employees. Not a politician. A proven manager and administrator.	Professional politician. Claims lawyer. Perpetual candidate. Political appointee who later became State Attorney General. Has been running for Governor for 10 years.
POLITICAL PHILOSOPHY	Conservative. For less government and less federal interference. For local control.	Liberal. For big government and federally controlled assistance. Supported new Constitution which would have centralized power in Austin. Has increased State Attorney General's staff by 300% and budget by 600% during his term in office.
EDUCATION	Background as eight-year Chairman of SMU Board of Governors, and as head of Defense Department Committee on Excellence in Education. For student competency testing, back to basics and discipline in the classroom. Has made no promises to special interest groups.	Got teacher's union endorsement in return for promising to raise all teachers' salaries regardless of performance. (At cost of over $1 billion). No education related experience.
TAXES	For Taxpayers Bill of Rights: provides for citizen Initiative and Referendum; bans income taxes of any kind; requires a record vote of 2/3 of both houses of the legislature to pass a tax bill; and will allow local taxpayers to call an election to ratify or reject tax increases by local governments.	For billion dollar giveaway program to increase the size of state government and centralize bureaucracy. Fought measure in Taxpayer's Bill of Rights. Fought in the Special Session to keep tax relief to the citizens of Texas to a minimum so he could afford to finance his promised giveaway program.
ENERGY	For complete and immediate natural gas deregulation. For increased production of all energy sources. Favors expanded research into solar and other energy producing forms. Against Carter energy plan which will give the federal government power to allocate Texas' resources.	Despite his claims of dissatisfaction with Carter energy programs, Hill is closely tied to the policies of his national party and leaders and will support them.

A NEW JERSEY opthalmologist uses a laser beam to treat one of the leading causes of blindness, proliferative diabetic retinopathy. The laser is used to coagulate proliferating blood vessels that, if uncontrolled, can lead to hemorrhaging, fibrosis, scarring, impaired vision and eventual blindness. At right is a fluorescein angiograph of the eye's optic nerve, showing the successful coagulation of new blood vessels after laser treatment. About 60 percent of the 4 million U.S. diabetics suffering from some degree of retinopathy can be helped with the laser technique, says the American Association of Ophthalmology.

Welch Award Donor Was Self-Made Man

By MICHAEL O'CONNOR
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Robert Alonzo Welch was the consumate self-made man who almost certainly was a model for the stereotyped image of the penny-pinching multimillionaire.

He always gave a 10-cent tip to the barber at the Rice Hotel after his haircut and beard trim. For years he lived alone in an apartment, never owned a car, and preferred 15-cent bus rides to taxicabs.

He gave little money to individual charities during his life.

He wasn't a miser, however, but a very successful oilman and entrepreneur with a vision for the future that is manifested in part this week when the fourth $100,000 Robert A. Welch Award in Chemistry is presented to Dr. E. Bright Wilson of Harvard University.

The award ceremony is to be held Tuesday in conjunction with the 22nd annual Welch Foundation Conference on Chemical Research on the subject of the "Chemistry of Future Energy Resources."

More than 1,600 chemists from throughout the world are expected to attend the three-day conference, which begins Monday at the Shamrock Hilton in Houston.

Welch, whose formal education ended with grammar school in North Carolina, arrived in Houston in 1886 at the age of 14 with less than 50 cents in his pocket. He died a bachelor 67 years later, leaving an estate estimated at $50 million.

The bulk of the money went to the chemical research foundation. In his will, Welch said he wanted to dispose of his estate "...in the way most beneficial to mankind.

"I have long been impressed with the great possibilities for the betterment of mankind that lay in the field of research in the domain of chemistry," he said.

"He was reluctant to do any charitable work while he was alive because he wanted to do this great thing at the time of his death," said Dr. W. O. Milligan, director of research for the foundation.

"Although I'm sure he never heard the expression, I believe his philosophy followed something a wise man once said: 'You should teach a man to fish, not give him a fish,'" Milligan said.

Since its inception in 1954, two years after Welch died, the foundation has distributed about $90 million in grants and awards to chemists casting in the deep pools of pure research.

"We support new research, basic research," Milligan said. "If somebody came to us saying he might be able to solve a great practical problem, we wouldn't give him any money.

"The foundation is trying to get new things, knowing full well that many other people will work on it and maybe lead it to some practical result," he said.

"We want our grantees to find something so new that it's presently undreamed of," he continued. "I contend that if you can dream of it, it's almost too old to do."

Basketry Classes To Begin Nov. 13

Coiled basketry will be taught in afternoon and evening classes scheduled to begin Nov. 13 at Western Texas College.

The afternoon class will meet from 1-3 p.m., while the evening class is to meet from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Both classes will meet on Mondays through Dec. 4.

Steve Wiman will be instructor for the class. Students will pay fees of $10 each and will furnish their own materials. Enrollment wil be limited to 10 students per class.

Students will need to bring to the first class meeting 10 yards of some type of rope, Wiman said. The rope should be no smaller than a pencil, preferably stiff, and can be of nylon, jute or sisal. Most lumber yards and crafts shops have this in stock. In addition, the student should being one skein of yarn (any color), craft yarn, rug, acrylic or wool, and one large-eyed needle (three inches).

Persons wishing to enroll in either the afternoon or evening class must call the Community Services office at 573-8511, extension 240, to reserve space in the classes.

PRUSSIC ACID POISONING IN LIVESTOCK

Frost will be hitting Scurry County before long, and this could lead to prussic acid poisoning in livestock grazing certain pasture grasses and forages.

Although many plants contain the toxic material that causes poisoning, those causing the highest mortality in livestock when grazed after they have been frozen and wilted are Johnson and Sudan grasses and sorghum or hybrids of these.

The most dangerous time as far as the grazing of these plants is concerned is following frost when the plant material begins to wilt. Livestock should not be allowed access to the wilted material until it has dried completely. This usually takes three or four days or more of good sunlight. New plant growth usually becomes non-toxic and can be grazed within 10 days to two weeks following a rain.

As far as prussic acid poisoning is concerned, the person acts rapidly and can kill animals within minutes. In most acute cases, animals become affected within 10 - 15 minutes after eating toxic material and can die in two to three minutes. Symptoms may include a brief period of stimulation followed by depression and paralysis. Signs of colic may be present. Stupor (loss of sensibility), difficult breathing and frequent convulsions may result. Death is caused by soffocation since oxygen reamins in the blood and is not exchanged to the tissues. This also causes the blood to appear bright red.

To prevent prussic acid poisoning in livestock these steps can help.

1. Allow plant material affected by frost to dry thoroughly before grazing. This may require a week or more of good sunlight.
2. Feed animals hay or a supplement before turning them in on plants that may contain prussic acid. Animals that are not hungry will not be affected as seriously by toxic material since their intake will be limited.
3. Remove all animals from the pasture if one in the herd shows any signs of poisoning.
4. Call a veterinarian immediately if an animal appears to be poisoned. An antidote to treat affected animals is highly efficient if given early. This product is available from veterinarians.
5. Have suspect plant material checked by the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratories at College Station or Amarillo. Local veterinarians will be happy to submit samples for you.

The overall key to preventing prussic acid poisoning in livestock is to be aware of plant materials that may cause poisoning and then to keep cattle from grazing such plants until a safe period has passed.

A race horse listed as a $625,000 as a yearling in 1974 and earned only $5950 in his seven-race career.

Ticket Sale Begins Monday...

'Little Foxes' To Open Nov. 16

"LITTLE FOXES"--Marca Parham will portray the scheming Regina Hubbard Giddens in the WTC production of "The Little Foxes" Nov. 16-19. A 1978 graduate of Snyder High School, Miss Parham will be making her first appearance in a WTC production. "Foxes" will also be the season opener for the college drama department. Advance ticket sales will begin Monday.

With Marca Parham (Regina) in its chief starring role, Lillian Hellman's acidulous play, "The Little Foxes," will be presented at the Western Texas College Fine Arts Theatre Nov. 16-19.

Now considered one of the glories of the American theatre, "The Little Foxes" first overwhelmed Broadway theatregoers early in 1939. Tullulah Bankhead played the leading role of a malicious, money-obsessed Southern matron in that production, which became the talk of New York and its "hot ticket" for an even year's run. Subsequently the play was made into a vastly successful movie starring Bette Davis as its icily determined villainess.

Ten years later Marc Blitzstein made the play's chronicle of greed and intra-family antogonisms into an opera called "Regina" after the tale's central figure. In 1967, 28 years after its first sucess, the play scored a second triumph in a production at New York's Lincoln Center. Apart from these presentations, "The Little Foxes" has continuously been one of the most frequently produced plays in regional theatres all across the United States.

The play's action focuses on the Hubbards, two brothers and a sister, who long to become new lords of the land where their father had been despised for profiteering in scarce commodities during the Civil War. By 1900, the year in which the action of "Foxes" is set, the Hubbards have come up in the world by various sharp practice, even by the marriage of one of them to the heiress to a bankrupt plantation, and now they are eager to head for really big money.

Their chance comes in the form of a partnership with a northern captialist their little Alabama town of a textile mill. The advantages, they proclaim, are that his would "bring the machine to the cotton and not the cotton to the machine." Actually the mill is expected to be enormously profitable because in the South at that time labor could be monstrously underpaid.

The fortune-building project seems about to be blocked by the gentle, kind-hearted husband of Regina, who knows his wife and her brothers for the pirates they are. Suffering from a serious heart condition, he wants only to rescue his daughter from the evil Hubbard environment; but Regina callously lets him die and then compels her brothers to give her the lion's share of their potential loot.

In addition to Miss Parham, the WTC theatre cast will include John Hopkins and Rick Mantooth as Ben and Oscar Hubbard, Jean Schooler as the pathetically mistreated wife of Oscar Hubbard, Bill Martin as Regina's husband, Janet Johnson as the daughter of Regina and Horace, Robby Moore as Leo Hubbard, Mike Mahan as the urbane Yankee entrepreneur, and Pat Farmer and John Prunts as the knowing servants in the home where the hard bargains are made.

Jeanne Kobuszewski is directing the play and is designing scenery to represent the home of the queen achemer.

Tickets will go on sale Monday at the Fine Arts Division office at WTC and at Snyder Drug. Admission for adults will be $3, with student tickets $1.50. Group rates are also available. Information about tickets may be obtained by calling the Fine Arts office at WTC, 573-8511, extension 240.

Tigers Twist A Tornado; Clinch A Bi-District Berth!

By BILL McCLELLAN

There is no doubt about it now. Snyder fans can begin charting their calendars for the bi-district playoff, because barring an act of God, the Tigers will be battling a District 3-4A opponent Thanksgiving weekend.

Friday's 28-15 win, here over visiting Lamesa, coupled with a Sweetwater victory in Brownfield, gives Snyder at least a co-championship, and the right to represent District 3-3A in post season action.

Clay Johnson, Mitch Mackey and Richard Crayton provided the right combination to dispell Lamesa's Tornado. Add an aggressive offensive line and some clutch defensive effort, and the Tigers were able to chalk their seventh victory in nine outings.

Snyder scored from its first possession in the ballgame, marching 66 yards in 15 plays to light the boards with 4:42 left in the initial quarter. The scoring strike came on a 16-yard pass play, when quarterback Johnson nailed a high-leaping Mackey deep in the corner of the end zone. Baron Land made it 7-0 when he kicked his first of four conversions on the night.

The lead was brief however, as Lamesa quarterback Mark Price guided his team across the Tiger goal line less than a minute and a half later. Price, who led all takers in the rushing department with 108 yards on 11 carries, broke open from the Snyder 43-yard line and scampered 57 yards to score. James Goolsby tacked up the conversion kick.

Lamesa came out of the game with 208 yards rushing - 13 better than Snyder's 195. But a bad punt, a trio of fumbles and some stout Tiger defense at the right times gave the Tigers a decisive edge in all other statistics - and on the scoreboard.

Meanwhile, the Cat offense generated more than enough points to keep Lamesa at bay. With 8:07 left in the half, Johnson again found Mackey in the end zone, this time from 34 yards out. Once more Land drilled the PAT, and Snyder was on top to stay.

A defense-forced fumble set the Tigers in motion minutes later at the Lamesa 40. Accented by runs of 8 and 5 yards from tailback Crayton and 6 and 7 yards via fullback Don Chandler, Snyder drive to the Tor 7-yard-line. On first down, Johnson ran over the third Tiger TD. Land kicked the point-after with 2:31 showing on the clock.

Just before the half, Snyder recovered another Lamesa fumble, but was unable to push in a score from the 37.

The Tors began driving early in the third quarter, charged on big runs by Goolsby and Price. A 15-yard penalty, followed by a three yard loss knocked the visitors back to their 11 before fourth down. A swarming Tiger defense hurried the ensuing punt, and the ball sliced out of bounds at the Lamesa 18, giving Snyder good field position once more.

From there, Snyder ran five plays with Johnson taking over the score from two yards out. Again, Land's kick was good.

Lamesa's longest and most futile drive occurred after the following kickoff. From the 20, Goolsby's run of 30 yards and a 10-yard pass play helped move the ball deep into Tigerland. But on first and 10 from the four, Price was sacked.

On second down Kirk Hawkins managed two yards, and on third a pass to Dennis Borland was tipped away by Snyder's Thomas Selmon. Then, on fourth and goal from the five, Price was held for a one-yard gain and Snyder took over.

The Tors' final score came on a Price to Bubba Henderson 6-yard pass play with 29 seconds left in the game. Price ran over the two-point conversion to cap the 14 play, 66-yard march.

In addition to Price, top rushers were Goolsby and Snyder's Johnson, both with 73 yards. Goolsby toted the ball 15 times, while Johnson carried it 21. Crayton had 69 yards on 21 carries.

Johnson was three of five through the airlanes for 74 yards. Back-up quarterback Paul Gafford completed two of three for 32 yards.

A trio of injuries marred the game. Snyder's Chandler and Bobby Degrate - both running-backs - received what were thought to be minor leg injuries. Lamesa's Billy Joe Mojica had to be carried from the field with a probable knee injury.

Lamesa, now 1-7 on the season and 0-2 in district play, will host Brownfield next. Snyder will take next Friday off and travel to Brownfield for its final regular season game Nov. 17.

COLORADO CITY--The Wolves moved one step closer in their bid for a consecutive District 6-AA title here Friday, pounding Merkel 21-0. It was the fifth consecutive shutout handed down by Coach Mike Farda's group, and the fifth conference win also.

Colorado City scored early as fullback Doug Johnson crossed the Merkel goal from one yard out. Gary Hulme kicked the point after.

In the second quarter Hulme, the game's leading rusher, scored on a 30-yard jaunt. He also booted the conversion.

In the second half Hulme made a good on a 74-yard sprint. This time Ruben Garcia kicked the PAT.

Colorado stands at 7-1 and 6-0 after the victory, and heads into what promises to be the premier game in the area Nov. 10 as undefeated Coahoma hosts the Wolves. Merkel falls to 3-5 and 2-3.

Hulm's rushing states for the night were 187 yards on 13 carries.

Cardinals Swat Hornets To Remain Undefeated

By JOHN LONG

HERMLEIGH — The undefeated Hermleigh Cardinals preserved their winning streak Friday night by downing the Highland Hornets 43-0.

Hermleigh also moved a step closer to a possible district championship in six-man football. Now 8-0 for the season and 4-0 in district play, the Cardinals take on McCaulley next week in Hermleigh. They then travel to Southland where they play their final district opponent.

It was no hornets nest they stirred up when they took on Highland, however. The Cardinals dominated the game both offensively and defensively.

The first quarter of the game Friday night seesawed between the two teams with neither being able to score. it was not until the second quarter that Hermleigh opened the game up.

The Cards battled down to the one-yard line and left it up to Stan Warren to make the final across-the-line dart for a touchdown. Chip Roemisch kicked the extra points.

Late in the second quarter, James Williamson intercepted a Hornet pass on the Highland five-yard line. Warren again made the final dart across the goal line. The extra points kick by Roemisch was good.

In the third quarter, Wesley Kruger scored on a 50-yard touchdown pass. This time the extra points failed.

With only half-minute left in the quarter, Warren ran three yards for a touchdown. The extra points kick by Roemisch was good.

The fourth quarter opened up with Warren scoring on a 10-yard touchdown run. Kruger caught an endzone pass for one extra point.

Hermleigh's final score was on a 10-yard touchdown pass-run over the goal line by John Williamson. The extra points failed.

Highland, however, mounted a daring pass attempt with only seven seconds left in the game. Hornet Don Martin threw a 50-yard pass that very nearly resulted in a Highland touchdown. He attempted to throw another pass but it failed, and the final seconds ticked off the clock.

"I thought our defense, particularly Larry Bridges and James Williamson, did a find job," said Hermleigh coach Clarence Spieker. He indicated a good defense would be needed next Friday against McCaulley.

"Well, it will be a tougher game than this week's. McCaulley is big," said Speiker.

"They're capable of scoring a lot. They're a good ball club and it will take good effort on our part to beat them," he added.

McCaulley is 4-4 for the season and 2-2 in district play.

Coyotes Are Crushed, 27-0

STERLING CITY--It was a Demere duo and Roger Medina that bought Sterling City its second win of the season against eight outings.

The trio combined to slap yet another loss on winless Borden County, 27-0.

Halfback Boots Demere opened the Sterling City mele with a three-yard run in the first quarter. The point-after try failed.

In the second quarter Medina, also a halfback, scored on a one-yard run. The two point conversion was good as quarterback Dusty Demere passed to Medina in the end zone.

In the second period Dusty Demere broke for a 33-yard touchdown run. Boots Demere kicked the conversion.

Sterling City scored its

Rotan Finds Win Column In Albany

ALBANY--The Rotan Yellowhammers scored in every quarter to garner their first District 8-A victory of the year here Friday evening, whipping Albany 35-6.

Mark Nowlin put Rotan on the board first, scoring after a wild 68-yard run. David Thornton later crossed the Albany goal from one yard out to give the Yellowhammers a 13-0 lead at halftime.

Freddie Acorn, who holds the most recent class A dash record in track, ingited for one touchdown and 173 yards in the game, doing most of his damage in the first half.

Early in the third quarter Acorn received an Albany punt and confused the host team by handing off to teammate Keith Mullins. Mullins, behind good blocking, raced 55 yards to score.

Just minutes later Albany caughed up the ball on its own 31, and the 'hammers took advantage of the situation with Nowlin taking in the payoff from nine yards out.

Albany got its lone score in the third period when Ronnie Kitchens - who managed 117 yards rushing in the game - found the stripe from seven yards away.

Acorn got his TD in the final quarter, crossing over from nine yards out.

The Yellowhammers, now 5-3 and 1-3, will host tough Baird on Nov. 10 before ending the season in Hawley.

STOPPED COLD--A couple of unidentified high-flying objects - namely two Hermleigh Cardinals - bring down Highland's James Pantoja during District 3-B six-man play Friday night. Hermleigh won, conserving its perfect record, and moving closer to a loop championship. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

Trent Topples Panthers, 38-18

By JIM WASHINGTON

The Trent Gorillas withstood a first-half Hobbs Panther attack trailing 18-6 and bounced back to score a come-from-behind win Friday night, 36-18.

The Panthers could do nothing wrong in the first half racking up 18 points while holding the restless Gorillas to only one touchdown.

Hobbs was first on the scoreboard when halfback Wayne Jones completed a 47-yard pass play to Walter Cave on a halfback pass. The point after failed.

One minute later the Gorillas struck back with a 59-yard jaunt by Herbert Beaver. The point after failed.

Hobbs was not through when they faced a fourth and goal from the 1-yard line. Jones struck pay dirt with 4:38 remaining in the first quarter. The point after failed.

The hometown team led at first quarter end, 12-6.

The second quarter was all defense with the Panthers scoring once more on a halfback pass that proved successful earlier from Jones to Cave with :04 remaining in the half. Hobbs led at the half, 18-6.

The second half was all Trent as the Gorillas posted 30 points on the scoreboard.

Richard Beaver capped a 65 yard drive for the Gorillas in the third quarter with a 5-yard plunge. The point after failed.

With 2:21 remaining in the quarter, Herbert Beaver caught a 4-yard pass for the TD. Coy Williams split the uprights for the point after to give the Gorillas the lead, 20-18.

The Gorillas kept the pressure on in the final quarter with a 28 yard run by Herbert Beaver around left end. Williams' point after was good.

Hobbs was caught inside the 5 yard line on the kick-off and sacked in the endzone for a safety.

The final Trent touchdown came with 6:06 remaining when Richard Beaver scooted around end for a 15 yard touchdown. The point after was blocked.

Hobbs' loss left the Panthers 3-4 on the year and 2-2 in district play.

GETS IT OFF--Quarterback Gene Carter gets off a pass under pressure during Colorado City's 27-0 romp of visiting Merkel on Friday. The Wolves, undefeated in District 6-AA play, have shutout their last five opponents. They travel to undefeated Coahoma next week. (SDN STAFF PHOTO by John Dunnam)

Jenkins Comments

"To say we're happy would be underestimating," said Coach Jenkins following Snyder's 28-15 victory over Lamesa Friday, which with Sweetwater's defeat of Brownfield puts the Tigers into a bi-district playoff.

"I told the kids, it's almost impossible to explain how I feel. You really have to be in the dressing room when they are beat up and sweaty and tired to know what it means to them.

"We were real pleased with our effort," he added. "Lamesa played well but the defense shut them out when they had to. Offensively and defensively we've stuck with what we believe in all year. Now its payed off. These kids have played big game after big game. We're very proud of them."

Halfback Pass Dooms Brownfield Cubs, 19-15

BROWNFIELD-- Utilizing a play that spelled defeat for them only a week before, Sweetwater came from behind to nip the Cubs here Friday night, 19-15.

Trailing 15-13 with 1:08 left in the game, the Mustangs took their victory on a Everett Todd to Mike Aguilar halfback pass which went 82 yards to score.

Ironically, the halfback pass was the ingredient that sparked Snyder to a last-minute 25-7 win over the Mustangs just a week ago. With four minutes left in the game, it broke up anotherwise competent Sweetwater effort, and began in a scoring mele for the Tigers.

While Friday's halfback toss here did not encourage a wealth of points for the Mustangs, it did bring the roof crashing down on hopeful Brownfield. Sweetwater's win, coupled with a Snyder 28-15 victory over Lamesa, also gave the Tigers a berth in the bi-district playoffs.

Brownfield composed an early 9-0 lead here as Elias Garcia botted a 28-yard field goal and Gilbert Frankton scored on a 37-yard run.

Sweetwater narrowed the gap in the third period as Todd ran it over from four yards and then kicked the PAT, but Brownfield's Garcia upped the figure back to 15-7 with a three-yard scoring run of his own in the third period.

With 3:44 left to play, Sweetwater quarterback Kirby Head scored on a one-yard run, cutting the margin to 15-13. A little over two minutes later, the halfback pass won it for the 'Stangs.

Sweetwater is now 3-6 and 2-1, while Brownfield falls to 2-6 and 0-2. Sweetwater meets Lake View next week, while the Cubs welcome Snyder.

Roby Rips Loraine

LORAINE--The Roby Lions rolled up 426 yards of offense here last night and whipped hosting Loraine in the process 42-14 to garner their sixth win of the season.

Despite the well-earned victory, the Lions weren't too happy after Friday's game. It was learned - as expected, really - that rival Jayton had sewn up the District 3-B East zone title by drilling Garden City 54-0 in the same evening.

A Jayton loss to G-City would have kept Roby's faint title hopes alive.

Nonetheless, Loraine was the only team to walk away totally unhappy. The Bulldogs managed little right, beginning when Roby blocked a Loraine punt on the two-yard line early in the game. The Lions took quick advantage of the situation, and two plays later quarterback Mark Pope scored from a year away.

Al Gonzales scored on a 19-yard run minutes later, and the Pope-Gonzales duo teamed later on a 58-yard scoring strike.

Loraine also scored in the first period as quarterback Casey Merket found Ricky Williams on a five-yard TD toss.

Roby added two more touchdowns in the second quarter, both by leading rusher Johnny Rivas.

The fleet tailback scored from 11 and 4 yards out to clinch the Lion victory.

Both teams scored in the final quarter. Loraine's Tommy Ward crossed over on a three yard run, and Roby's Timmy Morton scored from a yard away.

Rivas had 205 yards for the evening on 23 carries.

Roby, 6-3 and 3-1, will host winless Borden County next week in its final game of the season.

Westerns Fail To Cut Margin

ROSWELL, N.M.--Western Texas College failed to gain any ground on its conference opponents at the last fall tournament held here Friday.

The Westerners fired a 301 to finish third in the conference meet and conclude the fall schedule 4½ points behind leader Midland College.

In the New Mexcio Military Institute Intercollegiate Tournament, held in conjunction with the conference match, the Westerners finished second behind New Mexico Junior College with a two-day score of 592. NMJC took first with a 588, followed by Midland 596, Odessa 598, NMMI 613 and Frank Phillips College 642.

"We played well the first 18 holes on Thursday and poorly the second 18 Friday, which counted toward the Western Conference race," commented Coach Bob O'Day. "We have played well in the nonconference tournaments, but have slipped in conference play. We have three conference meets in the spring - one at WTC - and I hope we can play better then. We still have an outside chance at the conference race."

Conference standings include: Midland 16 points, Odessa 13½ points, NMJC 13 points, WTC 11½ points, NMMI 6 points, and Frank Phillips 3 points. In Friday's conference tournament, Midland was first with a 295, followed by NMJC with a 296, WTC with a 301, Odessa with a 303, NMMI with a 308 and Frank Phillips with a 324.

WTC's Britt Lindsey and Richie Cooper from NMJC ties for medalist with scores of 142, even par.

Other Westerners scored as follows: Greg Reynolds 146, Mike Waller, Don Cofer and Billy Sitton with 153's, and Scott Barrett with a 154.

Cowboys, Dolphins Head Pro Game Lineup Today

By The Associated Press

Excuse the Miami Dolphins if they keep one eye on the scoreboard and the other on the Dallas Cowboys when the two clubs collide Sunday in a major National Football league clash of teams pursuing division leaders.

The Dolphins and Cowboys go into their match wtih 6-3 records, one game behind in their races. Miami will be watching the progress of the New England Patriots, whose 7-2 mark gives them first place in the American Conference East. The Pats play at Buffalo.

Dallas, meanwhile, is concerned with the Washington Redskins, who are 7-2 and leading the National Conference East. But the Cowboys will have to wait until Monday night to watch the progress of the Skins who play at Baltimore in the final game of the NFL's 10th weekend of action.

The Dallas-Miami game between the two second-place clubs highlights the schedule which includes Cincinnati at San Diego, Cleveland at Houston, the New York Jets at Denver, Oakland at Kansas City, Detroit at Minnesota, Green Bay at Philadelphia, the New York Giants at St. Louis, San Francisco at Atlanta, Tampa Bay at Los Angeles, New Orleans at Pittsburgh and Seattle at Chicago.

The Dolphins-Cowboys game matches professional football's two winningest coaches - Don Shula of Miami and Tom Landry of Dallas. In 16 NFL seasons, nine with the Dolphins, Shula has a 170-60-5 record. Landry, the only coach in the history of the Cowboy franchise, has a 168-107-6 record in 19 years. In head-to-head confrontations, Shula holds a 3-2 edge over Landry.

Miami sends a rejuvenated offense against the Cowboys with quarterback Bob Griese returning to fulltime action in last week's 26-8 victory over Baltimore. Griese completed 14 of 21 passes for 190 yards and two touchdowns in that game.

Dallas suffered a pair of early turnovers that led to Minnesota touchdowns as the Vikings scored a 211-10 victory in a rare Thursday night game. That schedule afforded the Cowboys three extra days of preparation for the Dolphins' game.

Minnesota, meanwhile, starts a three-game home stand, hoping to make up some ground in the NFC Central. The Vikings go into their game against Detroit two games back of first place Green Bay.

The Packers scored a last-minute victory over Tampa Bay and now move on to Philadelphia, where the Eagles became the first team this season to lose to St. Louis.

Fight Leaves Player Injured

De KALB, (AP—A black De Kalb football player, paralyzed from the waist down following a post-practice fight with two white coaches, was in a hospital as 14 white teammates suffered defeat at the hands of the largely-black Jefferson High School team 40-7 Friday night.

James Arthur Cuba, 18-year-old senior running back, remained in serious condition with a broken neck at Doctor's Hospital in nearby Shreveport, La., Friday night after scuffling with head coach Johnny Lowe and assistant coach Lynn McCord shortly before 5 p.m. Thursday.

League Home To Be Moved

PHOENIX (AP)—Bill Cutler has been elected president of the Pacific Coast League and will move the baseball league's headquarters to Phoenix for the next season, the Arizona Republic said Saturday.

The newspaper said Cutler, former owner and general manager of the Spokane club, was named president for one year at a San Francisco meeting of the Triple A circuits's club owners. He has an option to continue the following year, the story said.

Vida Blue, the star southpaw of the San Francisco Giants, owns a 3,500-acre cattle ranch.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Blues have demoted defensemen Dick Lamby and Jamie Masters to the National Hockey League team's affiliate at Salt Lake City in the Central Hocky League. Neither 23-year-old backliner had scored a goal in 11 games.

Southern Crescent, Last Of Its Kind, Now Ailing

By G.G. LaBelle
Associated Press Writer

ABOARD THE SOUTHERN CRESCENT (AP)—An older America passes by, speeds by, sometimes slowly slides by.

In South Carolina, you glimpse the Solid Rock Baptist Church. In Cobb County, Ga., Cleveland Brown Used Cars, with a fanciful fence full of hub cabs, is near John Brown's Furniture, but there's no time to learn if the Browns are related. And even a stop in Hattiesburg, Miss., won't tell you why the town tried to span the nation, as the home of both the Coney Island Cafe and the California Sandwich Shop.

The silent world beyond the train's window is one of faded lettering on red brick buildings, of courthouse squares, of cars at crossings, of waving children—and once, in Alabama, of two red-haired youngsters lazily lobbing stones at the passing train.

It is not the world of golden arches or Holiday Inns or signs saying where to exit the Interstate or even of signs so ubiquitous in tiny towns that offer welcome from the Rotary, the Lions, the Kiwanis.

The Southern Crescent runs from Washington to New Orleans along a route largely forgotten by entrepreneurs. After all, you can't jump off in response to a billboard hawking a restaurant a few miles up the track.

It's been that way since the then Southern Limited begun in 1926, a time when cross-country trains were not so limited. Now the Southern Cresent is the last privately operated long-distance passenger train in the country, and it may not last much longer.

The Southern Railway wants to end the run, claiming it loses $500,000 monthly carrying a dwindling passenger load. The Interstate Commerce Commission has ordered the train continued until next August, but Southern is contesting that.

The ICC says it hopes agreement can be reached for Amtrak, the federally sponsored rail operaton, to take over the route. But would an Amtrak Crescent be the same? Railroad buffs will tell you no.

They will tell you that on the Crescent there are fresh-cut flowers on dining car tables, silverware instead of plastic, food cooked right on board, not just reheated. Yes, there are such things, niceties dropped on all but special Amtrak passenger trains.

There's porter L.O. Smith, who says right away, "I'll take care of you"—and does. And fans that work, and sinks that fold from walls, and beds that fold from who knows where, with sheet initialed NAPC—North American Pullman Co.

It's not all perfect, of course. There are delays. It's not only much quicker to fly to New Orleans; it's cheaper. And there are what a 7-year-old named Catherine called "lurches and flurches."

A "flurch?"

Disabled Vets Could Obtain Bigger Check

The Veterans Administration is alerting disabled veterans in Texas to a provision of a new law that could mean an additional $175 per month in VA compensation payments to them, E.H. (Dan) Dever, Jr., Scurry County Veterans Service Officer, said.

The added payments are authorized by the Veterans Disability Compensation and Survivors Benefits Act of 1978 which was signed by President Carter on Oct. 18.

In general, veterans eligible for the additional payment are those who suffered the service-connected loss, or loss of use, of one extremity, and who have subsequently lost the paired extremity from non-service connected causes. The veteran must have been rated less than 100 percent disabled to be eligible for the newly added compensation.

Veterans who need information about this new program or other veterans benefits may contact Dever at Western Texas College. His office is in the WTC Administration Building and is open each weekday.

Couple Prays For Revival Of Dead Child

BATON ROUGE, La (AP)-A couple grief-stricken over the death of their 7-month-old son refused to report the baby's death and instead prayed constantly that the child be revived by God, authorities said.

An anonymous phone tip sent police officers to the home of Louis and Kevin Greenup on Tuesday, a day after the baby died. They talked the couple into giving up the body. Greenup said he and his wife were disappointed that authorities learned of the death. He said they had planned to pray until midnight Tuesday for their son to revive and then call authorities. Coroner Hypolite Landry said the child apparently died of natural causes, but that an autopsy was planned.

"MISS AMERICA SHOULD look like an all-American person, like the girl next door," says Kylene Barker, Miss America 1979. To keep in all-American form, the 22-year-old Virginian recently jogged along the sidewalks of New York.

Four Mishaps Are Reported

Investigating reports of four traffic accidents kept police busy Friday.

Olen Carmichael O'Rear reported minor damage to his 1977 Buick. Police records indicate it was not immediately ascertained where or when the damage occurred. It was reported to police shortly after 9 a.m. Friday.

At 11:42 a.m., officers investigated a two-car collision in the 2700 block of College Ave. The wreck involved a 1965 Buick driven by Marilyn Ward and a 1975 Buick drivien by Anna White. Minor damages were reported.

The 2200 block of Sunset was the site of a hit and run involving a 1977 Chevrolet pickup owned by H.R. Amox and a vehicle which left the scene. That mishap was reported at 5:07 p.m.

The final wreck was at 9:50 p.m. in the 4100 block of Austin. There, reports show, a 1969 Chevrolet driven by Rebecca Lou Martin collided with a 1978 Ford driven by David Joseph Strelecki. Again, minor damages were reported.

Renters Want Owners To Share Windfall

By JOHN C. EAGAN
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - California's Proposition 13 "tax revolt" has property owners smiling, but angry renters in five cities have banded together in an effort to use the ballot box to force owners to share their tax windfall.

Petition drives placed rent rebate or rent control measures on Tuesday's ballot and others aimed at a June 1979 election are under way.

They are bitter fruit for the rental industry, which has mounted a $500,000 newspaper, TV and direct mail campaign against the drives.

Other states considering property tax limitation measures can expect the same uproar if renters are not included in the laws.

Nothing in Proposition 13, a $7 billion property tax cut approved 2 to 1 in the June election, requires a landlord to pass on savings to tenants of commercial or residential property. It is estimated that the savings average about 10 percent of rental costs in California.

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. and Proposition 13 co-author Howard Jarvis, who works for a landlord group, urged owners to share savings. Some landlords agreed, but others boosted rents after Proposition 13's passage, triggering initiative petition campaigns.

Two bills were introduced in the state Legislature to require that 80 percent of the tax savings be passed on to tenants. But both died in August under heavy attack from real estate interests.

So rebate measures will be voted on Tuesday in San Francisco, Berkeley, Palo Alto and Davis. In Santa Cruz, voters will decide on a much more extensive proposal for regulating the price for each rental unit in the city through a rent control board.

About 900,000 residents are involved in the five communities.

The activism is concentrated on residential tenants, who make up an estimated 47 percent of California's 8 million households. But the rebates also would apply to commercial rentals.

Gary Grant, executive director of the California Housing Council, whose 200 members own about 500,000 of California's 3 million apartment units, says most owners plan to rebate at least 80 percent of their tax savings. The council has provided about half of the money to fight the initiatives, and opponents are spending 10 to 25 times more than supporters.

"Rent control has been tried 200 times on the East Coast and the results are disastrous. We should not experiment any more here," Grant said.

"When rent control becomes protracted, property is abandoned because owners can't make a fair return on their investment; new, privately financed construction stops, and owners cut expenses where they can, such as maintenance," Grant added.

He said a major reason for the success of petition drives is that many landlords have failed to tell tenants that they intend to grant rebates in lump sums after tax bills are due Dec. 10 and April 10.

'Crawdaddy' Changes Name

NEW YORK (AP)-Crawdaddy magazine, which started life nearly 13 years ago as a mimeographer review of rock music, will change its name to Feature starting with the January issue.

Peter Knobler, editor of the 200,000 circulation magazine, said the name was changed to reflect the diverse content of the publication, which no longer is devoted exclusively to music. "Music has become the mainstream. What was once underground now controls the airwaves; the culture is ours," Knobler said in a note to readers in the December issue. He said movies, sports, books and politics, as well as music, are points around which people run their lives.

Wed In First Baptist Church

Kelly Denise Gressett became the bride of Richard Edward Cook in a 7 p.m. ceremony Oct. 28 in the parlor of First Baptist Church. Rev. Ben W. Warton, director of creative ministries of the church, officiated the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Gressett, 2705 28th St. and Mr. and Mrs. Ron Cook, 603 25th St.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length dress of off-white cotton. The fitted bodice was designed with a deep scoop neckline outlined in cotton lace. The long, full sleeves of lace had deep cuffs of the dress fabric. A panel of lace complimented the front of the full skirt, which was finished with a deep flounce.

She carried a nosegay of apricot and yellow frenched carnations attached with off-white satin ribbon streamers tied in love knots. Her bouquet was carried atop a white Bible given to her by Miss Faye Cook.

Miss Tammie Justice was maid of honor. She was attired in a floor length dress of ivory knit. Her corsage was apricot carnations trimmed in colors of apricot and yellow.

Ron Cook served his son as best man.

Vows were exchanged before a brass arch flanked by two seven-candle brass candelabra. The arch was accented with greenery backed yellow carnations tied with large yellow bows. The memory candle, surrounded by yellow carnations was in behind the arch on a pedestal table covered with a white floor length cloth.

Mrs. Randy Perkins, pianist, accompanied Miss Suan Ferrell as she sang "Theme From Evergreen" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Perkins played several "Love Theme" selections.

A reception was held in the parlor and garden area of the church.

The table holding the two tiered wedding cake topped with wedding bells, was covered with an ivory cloth centered with a silver candelabrum decorated with English ivy. Mrs. Bill Fischer of Amarillo, cousin of the bride, served cake. Punch and coffee was served by Miss Jennifer Floyd. Miss Shelly Davenport presided at the guest book. The houseparty included Miss Faye Cook, Mrs. Derald Lambert, Mrs. Bob Pollard, Mrs. Leroy Donald Gressett, Mrs. Eddie Don Floyd, Mrs. Ed Raborn and Mrs. James Jones.

The couple will reside in Kingsland were the bridegroom is employed with a construction company.

Out of town guests were from Hobbs, New Mexico, Amarillo, Fort Worth, Forsan and San Angelo.

Judging will be based on national interest, originality, social significance and industrial application. The first prize winner also will win $3,000, with $2,500 for second place, $2,000 for third, $1,500 for fourth and $1,000 for fifth. Eureka is a Greek word meaning, "I have found it."

Film Ratings 10 Years Old

WASHINGTON (AP)— "X-rated" films are 10 years old today. So for that matter, are films rated G, PG and R.

It was 10 years ago that the Motin Picture Association of America created the movie rating system in an effort to help parents decide what films their children should see. Jack Valenti, president of the association, says the rating system is a success, production of pornographic movies is declining and the number of PG-rated films is increasing.

Teach Efficient, Effective Decision Making

COLLEGE STATION - Children learn decision making from observing how adults make decisions, reports a family life education specialist.

It is a big "plus" for children if they grow up in an environment where the skills of quality decision making are practiced, Jenny Reinhardt says.

However, if children aren't that fortunate, it's possible to modify or acquire new skills.

Miss Reinhardt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. She suggest these steps to follow to become a more efficient and effective decision maker:

1) Recognize that you have options. Thinking that there are several different choices makes decision making easier.

2) Be open to re-decision. There rarely are issues that are forever resolved.

3) Learn to base decisions on facts--not emotions. Consider the facts that affect the issue, make the decision and then allow feelings and emotions to flow. In other words, deal with the facts, and then celebrate.

4) Evaluate options. Look at the best and worst that could happen if a certain option is chosen.

5) Take the initiative. By being on the offensive in decision making, we improve our chances of getting what we want.

6) Accept that all decisions won't be good ones. The evidence to make "perfect" decisions rarely exists.

7) Be persistent in following through after making a decision. Part of the reward of effective decision making is the satisfaction of seeing the decision put into practice.

Blood Pressure Diet

By Gaynor Maddox

The impact of high blood pressure is staggering.

High blood pressure plays a significant role in the 1.25 million heart attacks and 650,000 heart attack deaths that occur each year.

And high blood pressure is the most important factor in the development of strokes, which kill almost 200,000 persons below the age of 65 annually.

So warns Dr. James C. Hunt, new dean of the University of Tennessee medical school. For 20 years, Hunt was chairman of the Department of Medicine at Mayo Clinic.

After years of tests, Hunt reports, new emphasis is being placed on diet in the treatment of high blood pressure.

"We now know that carefully planned ways of eating and the discipline needed to stick with this new diet can substantially alter the conditions of high blood pressure," he says.

Hunt and his team gave the diet to patients who were being treated for high blood pressure with drugs alone. After following the diet, 50 percent of the patients withdrew from drugs.

Of the 50 percent who still needed drugs, 30 percent used only a diuretic to remove excess water from the body. (Excess water puts extra pressure on the blood, aggravating high blood pressure.)

Hunt explained to his patients the reasons for food changes and substitutions. He convinced them that the new high blood pressure diet differed only slightly from what they were used to. He also urged them to consult their own doctors regularly.

Joyce Daly Margie worked for 10 years with Hunt, translating his findings into an edible diet. Together they have produced the hypertension diet cookbook, "Living With High Blood Pressure," (HLS Press, Bloomfield, N.J., $12.95).

The book stresses the importance of reducing sodium intake and offers a controlled-sodium meal plan. An explanation of food groups and many carefully developed recipes are included.

The emphasis throughout is on reducing sodium content without destroying food's palatability.

For those with all-American tastes, Hunt and Margie have come up with a tasty hamburger made of lean ground beef, onion, freshly ground pepper, dry mustard and iced water. These hamburgers may be broiled, pan-fried, or grilled. One serving contains 270 calories.

The book's appendices contain conversion tables on calculating the nutritive value of recipes not found in the book and on modifying the amount of sodium in a dietary program. There is also advice on eating away from home. Names and addresses of companies supplying special dietary products are provided.

The correct play at four hearts is really easy once you see it.

In case you haven't seen it yet, we'll give you a hint. It is a variation of the lose on the peanuts, gain on the bananas play.

In other words, South must let West hold the first spade.

If South wins that first spade he has several lines of play at his disposal, but all lead to the same result. He will be set two tricks.

Now suppose that South lets West hold that spade. West is very likely to lead a trump to stop a ruff of the second spade. If he leads the ace of trumps and follows with a second spade, South will take his ace of spades, draw trumps and eventually discard his queen of clubs and last two spades on good diamonds. Five odd.

If West leads a low trump at trick two, South wins, leads trump back and makes four or five odd depending on whether or not West cashes his ace of clubs.

West's best defense is to continue spades. This bothers South a little but doesn't hurt him. He ruffs the second spade and leads a club to his queen and West's ace. West leads a third spade. South wins, goes to dummy with a diamond, discards his last spade on the club king, ruffs a club to get back to his hand; leads trumps and makes 10 tricks.

Ask the Experts

An Indiana reader wants to know what a cipher bid is. This is another name for an artificial bid. The best known are the takeout double and the Blackwood four notrump. These artificial bids are in such general use that a player who does not use them is really thought to be bidding artificially.

Operators Continue To Increase Lease Holdings

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—Domestic oil and gas operators have been increasing their lease holdings while pushing drilling operations to a 21-year high.

A new report indicates operators boosted their lease holdings nearly 10 million acres last year.

At the end of 1977, proved oil or gas productive leases totaled 44,843,341 acres and non-productive leases were estimated at 363,574,273 acres.

The combined total of 408,417,614 million acres amounts to 18 percent of the total U.S. land area and compares with a total of 398,990,130 million acres reported at the end of 1976.

The new total, however, is still well below the all-time high of 424,250,615 million acres at the end of 1959.

Huge chunks of leases were dropped as a prolonged slump in drilling operations continued through the 1960s. Lease holdings plunged to a modern low of 325,105,566 acres by the end of 1967. Total holdings, however, have increased in eight of the 10 years since then.

The latest totals on leases are included in the 1978 edition of "The Oil Producing Industry in Your State." The 120-page booklet published annually by the Independent Petroleum Association of America economic reserves, exploration, development, production statistics for the nation as a whole and for 32 producing states.

The prolonged slump in drilling operations also saw the number of producing oil wells drop from an all-time high of 617,057 at the end of 1961 to a low of 494,968 at the end of 1974.

The 13-year decline was reversed in 1975 when domestic producers totaled 507,934. The total dropped back to 503,249 in 1976 but jumped to 508,340 in 1977.

The high level of drilling operations has been a factor in reversing the 13-year decline in producing wells but a major factor has been a sharp deline in abandoments of stripper wells.

Stripper wells produce 10 barrels or less a day. Abandoments totaled 20,496 in 1968 but only 9,000 in 1977, the lowest for any year since 1957.

Federal price controls do not cover stripper well production and the National Stripper Well Association attributes the low rate for abandoments to "incentives provided by a free market price."

Production from 368,930 stripper wells last year averaged only 2.91 barrels a day but the overall output of 392,532,000 barrels accounted for 14 percent of total domestic production.

With a record 617,057 oil wells in 1961, domestic crude production totaled 2.6 billion barrels with stripper wells accounting for 22 percent of the output. Daily production averaged 11.7 barrels a well.

Production moved to an all time high of 3.5 billion barrels in 1970, with strippers claiming 14 percent. The average per well output was 17.2 barrels a day.

Last year's production of 2.9 billion barrels involved a per well average of 16.2 barrels a day.

There were only 79,359 producing natural gas wells in 1961. The number moved to 124,092 in 1966 before the drilling slump cut the count to 103,120 in 1969. Since then the total has moved to a record 145,453.

Proved crude oil reserves since the Drake well discovery in Pennsylvania in 1859 have totaled 148 billion barrels. Total production of 118.6 billion barrels since 1859 left the nation with 29.4 billion barrels of proved reserves at the end of 1977.

Since 1859, the industry has drilled 2,429,875 wells. A total of 1,447,610 or 59.6 percent were completed as oil wells and 237,180 or 9.8 percent were completed as natural gas wells. The remaining 745,085 or 30.6 percent were dry holes.

A blender might help

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — After a series of X rays, my husband was told that he has diverticulitis. He was given a diet sheet and I understand that he is not to have any vegetables with skins or leafy vegetables or nuts. Someone told me if I put peas, butter beans or turnips in a steam pressure and liquified them in a blender, it would not hurt him. Will you please tell me if this is true or not? He is 84 years old.

DEAR READER — It depends a lot on how severe his diverticulitis is, and whether he is having an acute attack or just having chronic symptoms.

Diverticulosis is simply pockets of the colon, but if he really has diverticulitis, that means one of those pockets is inflamed, like a small attack of appendicitis. For that reason, I am reluctant to comment too specifically on what type of diet he should use.

It is true that if you should use a blender, and liquify substances so that there are no hulls, skins or other solids, the likelihood of having any problems with these should be minimal.

You might consider using baby foods. Older people with digestive problems who have trouble getting the right foods for them often will find items that they can tolerate easily among the foods provided for babies. You are on the right track with your method if you want to get rid of skins and undigestible materials.

You really should ask your doctor whether he should increase his bulk or not. Studies over the last five to 10 years have suggested that many patients with diverticulosis do better if they have increased bulk in their diet.

Perhaps the best source of bulk really is the bran fiber found in cereals. It's not roughage, but softage once it's wet and, if you have any doubt about that, just look at a bowl of cereal that's been soaking in milk for a while and you will see how soft it really is.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-6, Diverticulosis, which discusses this problem which occurs so commonly in middle-aged and older people and the general philosophy on what can be done to manage it. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What is a so-called fatty tumor? I have a lump about the size of an egg, which has gotten no larger or smaller, just to the left and below my right shoulder blade. My doctor says that is what it is.

DEAR READER — And that's about as much as any of us know about it. It is called a lipoma, which means a fatty tumor. They are harmless, even though you might not care for their appearance. The lump as you describe it can be removed. However, if you scoop out the fatty tumor, it may leave a depression under the skin which you might not like much better.

The most important thing about all lumps is to have your doctor see them, feel them and decide whether a lump is innocuous or is something that should be removed.

Some doctors believe firmly in the idea that lumps should be in bottles and not in bodies and, in most instances, that idea has merit. At least once the lump is out and looked at under a microscope, there is no doubt about what it is.

Candidates Are Entitled To Time

WASHINGTON (AP)- Broadcasters must make a reasonable amount of time available to political candidates, regardless of the type of music or news the stations present to listeners, the Federal Communications Commission says.

The FCC said in a decision announced Thursday that WKKQ in Hibbing, Minn., must report how it intends to meet obligations to Sen. Wendell Anderson, the Democratic nominee seeking another term. Anderson complained the station refused to sell him five-minute segments and quoted exhorbitant rates for such broadcasts. The station argued it had a policy against selling time longer than spot announcements.

Krueger lack of military service noted

Counterattack hits Demo

By JAMES McCRORY

The fact U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger didn't serve in the military or a civilian service group has come under attack from the campaign manager for U.S. Sen. John Tower.

The attack indicates the battle for the U.S. Senate, with only 40 days remaining before the election, is going from pea shooters to howitzers.

Krueger's own campaign materials provided the opening for the attack by Ken Towery before the Bexar County Republican Men's Club in the San Antonio park named for Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Observing that Krueger "has the audacity to circulate material poking fun at John Tower for having been just an average enlisted man in the Navy," Towery said that Krueger had no time to devote to his country in those days.

"He had to spend his time hiding out in academia, studying poetry, while his peers were being called to the colors by the thousands," Towery said, reading from prepared remarks so there would be no misunderstanding about what he was saying.

"Perhaps he can explain to the people why he was never called up, or better yet, why he never volunteered for his country."

"And if some physical impairment kept him from the service he could have at least joined the USO and gone abroad and entertained the troops with poetry readings," Towery said. He added Krueger also could have served his country by joining the Peace Corps or VISTA, as thousands of Americans did.

Instead, Towery reported, Krueger waited until he felt the urge to become a congressman before he became interested in public service.

In answer to statements he attributes to Krueger telling audiences Krueger will be a stronger advocate for national defense than Tower, Towery said all across the state he asks the question: "Do you know which branch of the military service Bob Krueger volunteered for during very critical times for our country?" and the only sound he hears in response is the air conditioner running.

Towery reported to the Republicans that both he and Tower volunteered as enlisted men and returned home as enlisted men, and were proud of their rank.

The Tower campaign manager said he resents people who, having enjoyed the bounties of the U.S., somehow find ways to avoid carrying their share of the burden.

Also alluded too obliquely in his speech was the break-up of the friendship between Krueger and Phil Hardberger. Hardberger was a personal friend and supporter of Krueger's, and their friendship ended when Krueger endorsed Hardberger's opponent, state Rep. Bob Vale, also a Krueger friend, in the Democratic run-off for the Texas Senate won by Vale.

REP. BOB KRUEGER ...didn't serve

There's a big difference between the candidates for U.S. Senate.

SENATOR JOHN TOWER

Throughout his adult life, he's maintained close ties to the military...Volunteered and served in the Navy during World War II... Still maintains reserve status as enlisted man...Has served on the Senate Armed Services Committee since 1965, now ranking G.O.P. member of that committee...Staunch advocate of a strong national defense...Recognized leader in decisions on policy and legislation that affect our military in Texas, the U.S. and throughout the world.

Rated by U.S.. News & World Report as one of the five most influential members of the Senate...As Armed Services Committee member, has helped shape all major legislation relating to military and defense...Includes measures that have provided loan guarantees for Texas defense industries, preserving thousands of jobs.

Krueger succeeded former Democratic Congressman O.C. Fisher, who endorsed Krueger when he ran for his first term four years ago. Fisher, who served many years on the Armed Services Committee, has now examined the voting record of both men and has strongly endorsed Senator Tower in this election.

"I found his (Tower's) record to be far superior to that of his opponent," Fisher said, on October 1.

REP. ROBERT KRUEGER

REP. ROBERT KRUEGER has no military ties whatsoever, personal or in the Congress. He should be named the "AWOL Congressman" since he has missed most of the major recent votes of importance to defense and to veterans.

In recent years, he missed the following votes:

- Military Construction Appropriations, FY76, 10/8/75
- Military Construction Authorization — Conference Report, 7/1/76
- Supplemental Defense Authorization, FY78, 10/12/77
- Military Construction Appropriations, 6/16/78
- Supplemental Defense Authorization, FY78, 10/12/77
- Bill to increase funds for annual programs of grants to states for construction of veterans medical care facilities, 4/4/77.
- Veterans Disability Benefits Increase, 5/23/77
- Dependents Allowance for Disabled Veterans, 6/28/78
- Veterans Disability Compensation Bill, 6/28/78
- Amendment to Civil Service Reform Act to retain existing veterans preference standards, 9/11/78 and 9/13/78

The stakes are high on November 7.
Vote for a true friend of the military—Senator John Tower.

Snyder FFA Team In National Competition

Three members of the Snyder FFA Chapter will travel to Kansas City, to participate in the National FFA Dairy Cattle Contest opening Tuesday. The contest, which is held in conjunction with the 51st National FFA Convention is being sponsored as a special project of the National FFA Foundation by the Associated Milk Producers, Inc.

Members of the SHS team are Robert Early, Ricky Williams, and Terry Williams. Billy Bob McMullan vocational agriculture instructor and chapter advisor is the team coach.

The dairy cattle contest is one of eight national agricultural contests conducted annually by the National FFA Organization as part of the National FFA Convention. The Snyder FFA team will be one of 43 dairy teams which will judge nine classes of dairy cattle provided by the American Royal Livestock and Horse Show of Kansas City. They will give oral reasons on two classes of dairy cows and judge nine classes. The contest is one of many educational activities at the National FFA Convention in which FFA members put into practice the lessons taught in the vocational agriculture classroom.

Each of the teams competing in the dairy cattle contest participated in contests at the local, area, and state levels, and won at each level in order to earn the trip to Kansas City. As teams progress to area, state, and national contests, the competition becomes more difficult. The Snyder FFA team has spent many hours preparing for the national contest.

Club admiser is Mike McBride, associate professor of journalism.

Dogs Keeping Carsons Awake

LOS ANGELES (AP)-It's not that Johnny Carson and his wife don't like dogs. It's just that they like to sleep at night.

The "Tonight Show" host and his wife, Joanna, filed a Superior Court petition Tuesday charging that five neighborhood dogs - including two owned by fellow entertainer Sonny Bono - are keeping them awake with their barking.

Church Fund Drive At Half Of Its Goal

Colonial Hill Baptist Church has attained nearly half of its goal in a financial campaign when a tabulation was made Thursday night.

Colonial Hill is raising funds to build a new adult edueation building and to remodel its nursery and office space. The goal is $350,000. The amount contributed and pledged had reached $174,138.

This figure came from less than half of the church families, and the remaining gifts and pledges will be received within the next 10 days, church officials said.

Myron Roe is the campaign chairman and Miller F. Robinson is pastor of the church. The campaign was officially launched with a banquet Wednesday night attended by approximately 325 persons.

Bankruptcies Decline 5%

CHICAGO (AP)—Bankruptcy petitions declined again in the fiscal year that ended June 30, according to the Commerce Clearing House.

The agency said the total of 202,951 case filings for the year marked a 5 percent drop from the 214,399 recorded the previous year. The all-time high was the 254,484 recorded in 1975.

California topped the state-by-state listing for the latest fiscal year, with 36,330 cases pending.

freedom for whom?

Freedom of the press in the sense the term is used in the U.S. Constitution seems to be breaking into the news with greater frequency than is normal. Two recent events emphasize the point.

One involved jailing of a New York Times reporter when he refused to submit notes in his possession concerning a murder case for inspection of the judge and defense attorneys.

An appeal to higher courts was unavailing. They agreed with the trial judge that the reporter was in contempt. Appeal was taken to the U.S. Supreme Court. Consideration was refused. This action had the effect of affirming the decision of state courts, though it is possible in another proceeding the Supreme Court might consider the issue on its merits.

The question was rendered moot when a jury acquitted the defendant in the murder case. As matters now stand reporters can be required to open personal files to inspection by judges, attorneys and the police. In this context the Supreme court's action involves a highly important principle of constitutional law. It also suggests the possibility that the first step has been taken in the direction of a police state in this country.

Second incident of interest in this connection occurred in Dallas this week. A newspaper reporter wrote a story for the Dallas News which said the Sheriff of Dallas County was intoxicated in a public place on a certain occasion. The allegation was denied. And when the offending reporter showed up with reporters in the Sheriff's office suite he was ordered to leave. The reporter questioned the Sheriff's authority to order him to vacate a certain section of a public building.

For that the reporter was placed under arrest and sent to jail, where he remained 45 minutes. He was released but still faces a charge of criminal trespass. Arresting a citizen for trespassing when he peacefully occupies a few square inches of floor space in a public building raises an interesting point of constitutional law.

Maybe the reporter was stretching the right to express an opinion in print. Whether a person is drunk can be a matter of opinion. This incident could be classifed as something of a tempest in a teapot, except for one fact. The reporter wasn't jailed for any violation of law. He was locked up because he wrote something for publication a public official didn't like.

This apparently was a case of two people acting irresponsibly but it raised some important questions of constitutional law in the process.

theologians win one

Most scientists today believe our entire universe (or time as we know it) "began" with what is commonly referred to as a "big bang."

Now the two Bell Laboratory scientists who discovered the seemingly conclusive evidence—quite by accident, of course—have just gained significant recognition for their work: the Nobel Prize for physics.

Recipients of the $165,000 award were Arno Penzias, 45, head of the radio physics division of Bell Labortories in New Jersey, and his colleague Robert Wilson, 42, a member of the technical staff.

(They share the 1978 honor with Soviet Physicist Piotr Leontevich Kapitsa, 82, the "Don Quixote" of Soviet science. He risked his life by refusing on moral and personal grounds to work on the atomic bomb.)

The discovery in 1964 by Penzias and Wilson of cosmic microwave radiation—a faint signal pervading all space—is said to confirm the theory that an explosion created the universe more than 18 billion years ago.

Penzias and Wilson had been using a sensitive antenna for research in radio astronomy and satellite communications when they made the surprising discovery. Before that the "big bang" theory had been well-known, but they were the first to verify that there was radiation left from the suspected explosion.

Notes Wilson: "The next question is: will the whole thing (the universe) stop and collapse or does it keep expanding?"

For some, the question goes even deeper than mere science.

Penzias said the "big bang" explanation was not incompatible with the religious view (for instance: "Let there be light") that the beginning of the universe occurred at a definite time. And that it was a specific event.

The scientist admits: "Western religion deals with progress, and progress to some extent is purpose. The theologians seem to have won this time."

"He just tipped me with his tax cut."

doers return

The doers are back in school! Admissions deans most everywhere tell me that student preoccupation in the freshman and sophomore years is with "vocational education," good for us!

One U.S. industry is so huge and so eager to train qualified replacements that the industry itself has established a special school program in 10,000 school districts across the nation.

The sole purpose is to prepare young people for this important and growing industry.

The industry itself has changed so drastically in recent years that it was necessary to initiate this crash program of training skilled people to catch up and take over.

Up-to-date know-how in this industry is so rare that the education program itself is hard taxed to find enough qualified teachers.

In most sciences and professions and trades there are more than enough teachers; not in this one.

This is the only high school educational program in which a "youth organization" is included as an intracurricular activity. It includes training in technical competency, of course, but also in leadership, citizenship and cooperation. Even patriotism and good manners are a part.

Where heretofore this educational program was for boys only, now young women are flocking to enroll. Thousands of them are joining young men in training for this profession of the future which already is the largest business—the number one industry in Texas and in Ohio and in Delaware.

This industry with assets in excess of $300 billion and employing 16 million people and needing many more supports every one of us. Our nation's number one "growing industry"? Agriculture.

EVANSTON, Ill. (NEA)- When politicians start claiming that "your vote could decide this election," the typical audience response is a yawn and a grimace. But nobody sneers when Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., delivers the pitch.

"Close" is not the word for congressional elections here in the 10th District, which was created from the affluent North Shore suburbs of Chicago by court order in 1971. Elections here are invitations to a coronary.

In 1972, the year of the Nixon landslide, Mikva lost to Republican attorney Samuel Young by 7,000 votes, a 42-48 percent margin. In the Watergate year of 1974, he took the seat back by 3,000 votes, 51 to 49 percent. And in 1976, he beat off a comeback attempt by Young by a grand total of 201 votes of the 213,000 cast, a winning margin of 50.04 percent.

With a history like that, it is no wonder that both political parties consider the 10th District of Illinois the most marginal in the nation. If there is to be a discernible pattern to this off-year election, it should - in theory - show up here.

The Republicans this year have put up a different candidate, state legislator John Porter, hoping that a change of face will help recapture the seat. The national GOP is pouring money and expertise into the campaign, including the services of Bailey, Deardourff & Associates, the top Republican political consulting firm in the nation, and one which normally sticks to presidential and statewide races.

The issues this year would appear to cut in Porter's favor, especially in a district that is one of the most affluent in the nation. The GOP candidate is running hard on the anti-spending, anti-tax themes so popular with Republicans everywhere, seeking to label Mikva as a free-spending liberal out of touch with the mood of his constitutuents.

But Mikva, who is indeed an unabashed liberal, counters with figures showing he has voted for more cuts and less spending than any member of the big Illinois congressional delegation except ultra conservative GOP Rep. Phil Crane. The distinction, of course, is that he votes for cutbacks in pork barrel public works and defense spending, while others vote to slash social programs.

Issues may not matter as much in this election as voter turnout and campaign tactics, and here the edge appears to be with Mikva. In contrast to the pattern which usually prevails elsewhere, turnout in an off-year election generally drops more among Republican voters than Democrats in the Chicago suburbs and "collar counties."

Furthermore, Mikva has one of the best volunteer organizations of any politician in the country. Wherever you drive in the 10th District - Evanston, Skokie, Winnetka, Glencoe, Wilmette - there are cars on the streets with big "Mikva!" signs on top. Some 500 high school students and thousands of college kids prowl the district on Mikva's behalf, canvassing voters, identifying potential support, passing out literature.

Mikva regularly works the high schools in his area, winning adherents even before they are old enough to vote. At graduation time, he makes sure they register - and then keeps track of them when they go off to college. "I get the largest absentee vote of anyone in the state - and it's all kids," he says.

Porter is relying on more "modern" campaign tactics, using heavy radio advertising, sophisticated polling, computerized phone bank lists. He hasn't much choice, since no first-time candidate could possibly match the seasoned Mikva volunteer organization.

As usual, the election this time is way too close to call. Both parties are throwing their big guns into the race. Gerald Ford has made a campaign stop for Porter, while President Carter is appearing for Mikva in the final week before the election.

But in the end, it will all come down to the voters - and a few hundred out of thousands will probably decide the outcome. In this district, every vote really does count.

letters to editor

Dear Sirs:

To The Daily News:

In response to the letter by Mr. Bryan Lewallen remarking that Republicans were labeling Democrats "McGovernites," Senator McGovern did run for President of the United States as the nominee of the Democratic party.

Later Senator McGovern was invited by Fidel Castro to visit Cuba to see the glorious Communist state just 90 miles from our shores with missiles pointed at the capitol of this country.

When Senator McGovern returned he praised Castro as if he was unaware of the way Castro has vilified the United States for years. Senator McGovern was shown on television saying of Castro: "He is pointed in the right direction".

it's possible

This past summer, my 13-year-old daughter Carol was in a motorcycle accident and was lying in a ditch about 30 minutes before the ambulance arrived. She almost bled to death. At her bedside she looked up at me and said, "Dad, when I was lying in the dark ditch, it was like a valley. It was so dark and all I could think of was the 23rd Psalm:

"Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for thou art with me."

"I couldn't walk, Dad," Carol added, "but it was a valley and it was shadowed. I didn't want to die. I was ready to go to Jesus, but I thought it would be awfully tough on you and mom and the rest of the family. So I couldn't die — for them!"

When I was half a world away, my daughter, out of the sound of our voices, was able to talk to a spiritual bank and cash in. She made a withdrawal — a Scripture verse that she'd memorized in Sunday School that was priceless.

You can give children an education, teach them nutrition, health and morality, but make certain you give them a faith when they are young! The time is coming when you'll be too far from them to help and they'll need a deep faith.

You can only give the gift of faith when you've spent the time yourself getting to know God. Talk with Him. Draw on His strength today!

A Norwegian fisherman lived in a simple little cottage by the sea with his wife Ingrid and his two sons. Every morning, his wife would walk with the fisherman and his two sons down to the wharf and watch them climb into their boat and row out into the ocean.

The three men would row and row until they were far enough out to catch a nice load of fish. They always would start back home before dark fell. But one day the men rowed out farther and farther, hoping to catch a bigger load of fish and lost all track of time. Before they knew it the sea seemed to be growing stronger and stronger and the sun went down behind the clouds.

Panic didn't set in because they could see the lighthouse — that would be their guide home. But then, suddenly, a storm struck and knocked out all of the electrical power on shore. They no longer had a light to follow.

The fisherman and his sons were surrounded by darkness. They quickly became disoriented and didn't know which way to go. The waves grew larger and they were in danger of dying at sea.

Suddenly, off in the distance, in the total blackness, one of the boys saw a golden glow. "Look!" he cried out, "a light!" They watched it steadily for several minutes to make sure it didn't move, because you can't take your sightings from a moving target.

The light was stationary! It was a bright light from shore! Someone must have suspected that they were out there in the ocean. The three men rowed with all their might, following the golden glow until it became a huge, glorious fire that lit up the entire wharf. They were home!

As they stepped onto land all that was left of the fire were a few smoldering ashes. And there stood Ingrid, sobbing uncontrollably. "Ingrid," the fisherman cried out. "We're safe!" She broke down again. "Everything's gone," she lamented. "What do you mean?" her husband asked. "The cottage burned to the ground," she exclaimed. "Oh, but Ingrid, the fire that consumed our house saved our lives — the lives of our two sons! We were lost! We were rowing the wrong way until we saw the glimmer of golden light!"

Their tragedy was in reality a triumph! Jesus said, "For anyone who keeps his life for himself shall lose it; and anyone who loses his life for me shall find it again." (Matthew 16:25)

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Don't forget to vote."

The state's chief election officer, Secretary of State Steve Oakes predicts that to expect 35 per cent of the voters at the polls Tuesday is an optimistic estimate.

Statewide, there are two very important races and a host of congressional battles. Still, voter turnout is expected to be less than enthusiastic.

In Scurry County, we have an interesting congressional battle in addition to races for U.S. Senate and governor. But on the local level, there just are not any contested races in which to attract voters to the polls.

We visited with some area newspaper folks Thursday and learned of some communities that do have some interesting and unique local races on the ballot.

Over in Dawson County where the majority of folks there will vote in the heated Hance-Bush battle, there are other races attracting considerable attention.

One is a incumbent county commissioner write-in situation against the Democratic nominee who won a place on the general election ballot by a narrow margin. His political ads are asking, "How many times do you have to win an election?

In the same county, there are a couple of write-in candidates against an incumbent justice of the peace who has been indicted for receiving stolen goods. One guy suggested that the incumbent will probably win.

Over in Andrews County there is a write-in ballot for constable and no other candidate has his name on the ballot.

Just to the north in Gaines County, the old Seminole-Seagraves feud continues. It seems that folks in the county seat just can't accept the idea of the county judge being from Seagraves.

Just prior to the general election, the mayor of Seminole filed as a write-in candidate for county judge and another man filed suit against the Democratic nominee from Seagraves asking that his name be removed from the ballot because he had failed to file proper campaign reports. A state judge ruled last Monday that his name would remain on the ballot, but it appears that more court action is likely.

All in all it's been a mild election year--in some places.

Psychic Aids In Arrest

SOUTH GATE, Calif. (AP)-A psychic was largely responsible for the arrest of a South Gate man accused in the deaths of a three youths, police say.

Harold Memro, 33, was arrested after the unidentified Los Angeles psychic described a man to a police artist, who then drew a composite sketch, said Sgt. George Troxcil of the South Gate Police Department. Detectives showed the sketch to the parents of 7-year-old Carl Carter Jr., a South Gate youngster missing since Oct. 22.

Blonde Bombshell Has a Short Fuse

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 29, college educated, single by choice and considered a very attractive woman. My problem? I am a victim of discrimination.

Until I became a blonde a year ago, I never realized how much blondes were discriminated against. Especially good-looking blondes. If a woman happens to be blonde and good-looking, she is immediately labeled as dumb. And if she's blonde, good-looking and has a great figure, she is automatically written off as stupid.

Abby, I am the same person I was when I had brown hair, but people (women as well as men) react totally differently to me since I became a blonde.

I am tired of fighting the "dumb blonde" image, and have considered going back to my natural color, but I like my hair this color. Please print this with some suggestions on how to cope with unfair stereotypes.

NO DUMB BLONDE

DEAR BLONDE: Intelligent people do not use labels or stereotypes. Neither do they discriminate against people because of the color of their hair, eyes or skin. Consider yourself lucky to be able to eliminate the bigots and boobs in a hurry.

DEAR ABBY: About 15 years ago you ran a most inspirational poem titled "Slow Me Down, Lord". I read it often as a constant reminder to slow down to more fully enjoy life's simple pleasures. Today, when people seem to be rushing around more frantically than ever, that poem is even more timely. Will you please run it again?

ANNA IN MONTANA

DEAR ANNA: With pleasure. I agree, it deserves a re-run:

"Slow me down, Lord!
Ease the pounding of my heart
By the quieting of my mind.
Steady my harried pace
With a vision of the eternal reach of time.
Give me,
Amidst the confusion of my day,
The calmness of the everlasting hills.
Break the tensions of my nerves
With the soothing music of the singing streams
That live in my memory.
Help me to know
The magical restoring power of sleep.
Teach me the art
Of taking minute vacations of slowing down to look at a flower;
to chat with an old friend or make a new one;
to pat a stray dog;
to watch a spider build a web;
to smile at a child;
or to read a few lines from a good book.
Remind me each day
That the race is not always to the swift;
That there is more to life than increasing its speed.
Let me look upward
Into the branches of the towering oak
And know that it grew great and strong
Because it grew slowly and well.
Slow me down, Lord
And inspire me to send my roots deep
Into the soil of life's enduring values
That I may grow toward the stars
Of my greater destiny."

B&M Insulation Opens In Snyder

Scott Robbins and Bill Philen have announced the opening of B & M Insulation Co. in Snyder specializing in industrial and residential foam insulation. The two have recently completed a training school in San Antonio to become certified and authorized dealers of Celsius Foam Insulation. They have all the equipment necessary and started their first job Thursday.

Celsius Foam Insulation is a new approach on the market to insulating the home or business. The foam insulation is in no way similar to batt insulation. It is a foam which is produced by mixing of chemicals and resin. It is basically used for exterior insulation and is installed by drilling holes in the exterior walls between studs and spraying the full length of the framework. After the foam sets, in a matter of minutes, it jells into a solid mass. Each hole is then patched to match existing exterior.

As an opening special, the first 30 days of business B & M Insulation is offering a 10 per cent discount to be used as a donation towards any non-profit organization.

The foam insulation is flame retardant and carries a Class-A fire rating. It has no significant dimensional changes throughout normal freeze-thaw cycles and carries a lifetime warranty. The foam does not conduct moisture and gives 90 percent total sounds absorbtion. It forms an effective acoustical barrier against outside noises when applied in exterior walls and against plumbing noises when foamed around pipes. The de-oiling effect of the foam discourages infestation of rodents and some insects and is resistant to common molds.

Energy factors are a big concern to home owners these days and according to a new law, homeowners will receive 15 per cent off their income tax for insulating their home.

The ideal time to insulate and save is during construction of the home. The Celsuis Foam Insulation can be installed in one day for the normal size home, according to Philen.

Tax Issues Prominent On 16 States' Ballots

By Louise Cook
Associated Press Writer

Property owners, wage earners and other Americans who have been complaining about high taxes and soaring government spending get a chance in 16 states Tuesday to put their votes where their voices have been.

Tax and spending proposals—many of them spawned or given impetus by the passage of Proposition 13 in California—are generally given a good chance of success, although some officials say the large number of referenda on the ballot this election day may cause confusion among the votes.

Michigan residents, for example, face three measures dealing, either directly or indirectly, with taxes and spending, while Oregon voters have a choice of two proposed constitutional amendments. Questions involving taxing or spending also are on the ballot in Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Illionois, Massachusetts, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, North Dakota, South Dakota and Texas.

More than half the measures are the result of petition drives, similar to the one that led California voters to approve a 57 percent cut in property taxes.

Here is a look at the money issues facing the voters on Tuesday:

ALABAMA: A propsed constitutional amendment would reduce assessment rates on farm, residential and commercial property in the state, which has the nation's lowest per-capita property tax collections.

ARKANSAS: A proposed constitutional amendment would exempt groceries and medicine from the state's 3 percent sales tax.

ARIZONA: A proposed constitutional amendment would limit state spending to 7 percent of total personal income. A two-thirds vote of both houses of the legislature would be required to exceed the limit.

COLORADO: A proposed consitutional amendment would limit increases in state and local spending to increases in the Consumer Price Index and population. An existing limit, imposed by the 1977 legislature, prohibits annual spending increases of more than 7 percent.

HAWAII: Proposed constitutional amendments limit increases in state spending to increases in the growth of the state's economy and would give taxpayers a refund or credit whenever the state general fund has a 5 percent surplus for two consecutive years.

IDAHO: Initiative 1, modeled after Proposition 13 and on the ballot as the result of a petition drive, would limit property taxes to 1 percent of market value.

ILLINOIS: An advisory referendum asks voters if they want the state constitution changed to put a mandatory ceiling on taxes and state and local spending.

MASSACHUSETTS: A proposed constitutional amendment would authorize the legislature to set separate assessment rates for different types of property. It is designed to offset a court ruling outlawing the assessment of businesses at a higher rate than residential property.

MICHIGAN: The Tisch amendment would require property to be assessed at 25 percent of true value, in contrast to the present 50 percent, and would allow a boost in the state income tax from 4.6 to 5.6 percent; the Headlee amendment would link change in state spending to changes in personal income and would allow property taxes to increase only at the rate of inflation; and the so-called voucher amendment would prohibit the use of property taxes for school operating expenses and establish a voucher system, under which parents would get vouchers toward the cost of education at either private or public schools.

MISSOURI: A proposal put on the ballot by the legislature would let lawmakers roll back property tax rates in the event of a statewide reassessment.

NEBRASKA: Proposition 302 would limit annual spending increases to 5 percent with exceptions in specified situations.

NEVADA: A proposed constitutional amendment would limit property taxes to no more than 1 percent of full cash value and would require a two-thirds vote of the legislature for revenue increases. If passed, it must be approved again in 1980 to become law.

NORTH DAKOTA: Measure No. 2, on the ballot as the result of an initiative, would cut state income taxes by an average of 37 percent.

OREGON: One proposed constitutional amendment would limit property taxes to 1½ percent of market value and set a ceiling of 2 percent on annual increases in valuation. Another proposal would require the state to pay half the property tax on owner-occupied homes, up to a maximum of $1,500, and would provide income-tax credits for renters.

SOUTH DAKOTA: A proposed constitutional amendment would require a two-thirds vote of the legislature or a public referendum before taxes could be raised.

TEXAS: A proposed "Tax Relief Amendment" would tie state spending to state growth, provide a mandatory $5,000 "homestead" exemption for property owners and prohibit tax increases of more than 3 percent without full public hearings.

Underworld Beats IRS In Tax Case

WASHINGTON (AP)- The United States Tax Court says the Internal Revenue Service failed to prove its case against two reputed underworld figures from whom the IRS sought a total of $6 million in back taxes.

Instead, the court ruled Thursday, Simone DeCavalcante of Princeton, N.J., and Albert Barraso of Bloomfield, N.J., owe taxes on about $750,000 in gambling profits. The court said the IRS failed to prove the two men ran a gambling operation in New Jersey from 1965 through 1969.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your imagination is keen and your ideas are bound to be nifty today, but don't try to do everything all at once. Overdoing causes big headaches.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is not the day to try to play things solo. You need others and they need you. Luck comes when you put your forces together.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Putting others at ease with your optimism is OK, provided your encouragement is based upon a realistic premise. Otherwise, you could lead them astray.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Doing for others is something you always cheerfully find the time for, but one who is a "taker" might impose upon your generous nature today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's essential to make a good impression on someone you consider important. Don't lose your cool if competition develops.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The assistance you give to those you cherish will not be taken for granted today. They might forget to say "thank you," but they really are grateful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Satisfy your restlessness with short jaunts or socializing with close friends today. Large groups or noisy places will irritate you.

What will you need to keep the wheels of progress turning in your community?

Communities that have built a strong, healthy economy know what they must have to keep the wheels of progress turning in the years ahead. Although each community is different, the basic requirements will be the same:

A labor force known for its productivity. Municipal water supplies that can outlast a drought. A good transportation network. Diversification of industry, just to be on safer ground. Educational opportunities. Cultural and recreational attractions. Favorable tax structures. Strong leadership.

And energy to power assembly lines. Energy to heat, cool, process foods, lift, spin, dry, pump, drill, press, shape, compute or to use however industry needs it to create products that create jobs.

Meet the Changing Times.

The cheap and abundant energy available here in years past is one reason this area emerged from the recent recessions with one of the strongest economies you'll find in the nation. Few others have a business outlook as optimistic or an employment level as high.

The days of cheap energy are gone, of course. The cost of producing and distributing energy of almost every type has increased dramatically. This, with the demand that exists for energy, has forced a sharp increase in the prices that you and people everywhere are having to pay for it.

But the availability of an abundance of energy to keep the wheels of progress turning in this area still holds true.

You Can Have What You Need.

Natural gas, for example. Lone Star's pipeline system now extends into basins that contain 50% of the remaining onshore gas reserves in the United States. And this puts us in an excellent position to buy enough new gas reserves to last our customers for many years.

Securing these reserves will be essential to the future of the communities served by Lone Star. Because gas not only meets your energy requirements directly, but indirectly as the primary fuel for generating most of the electric power you use.

The new gas will cost more, and Lone Star will have to recover the actual cost of it on a timely basis. A bargain, even so? Yes. Because these long-term supplies will help your community build job security through business growth.

And that's a bargain in anybody's economy.

We're working energetically for your area's future.
