Deliveries By CRMWD Set Record

Water deliveries by the Colorado River Municipal Water District set a new record in 1966.

During the year CRMWD delivered 11,753,026,120 gallons, or 4.01 per cent more than the previous year. It even topped the previous high year of 1964 when CRMWD produced 11,544,510,382 gallons.

An abnormally wet summer, however, cut the over-all demands by the member cities of Odessa, Big Spring and Snyder, which used 7,528,896,100 gallons, which was well under (4.81 per cent) the 7,528,896,100 for 1965 and the peak year of 1964 when member cities took 8,138,616,900.

On the other hand, relaxation of the pinch on oil allowables increased the draw of oil companies for secondary recovery. During 1966 the companies took 4,287,949,720 gallons, an increase of 13.72 per cent over the 3,770,805,236 of 1965.

December deliveries were substantantially up. The member cities used 451,402,300 gallons as compared to 409,031,400 for the same month in 1965, and oil companies took 38[illegible],825,358 gallons as compared with 318,848,292 for the same month the previous year. Thus, the December total was 838,227,058 as compared with 727,879,692 for December 1965.

During 1966, Odessa received 4,035,170,000 gallons of water from the CRMWD, a decrease of 3.27 per cent for the year. Big Spring drew 2,691,465,000, an increase of 3.52 per cent. Snyder took 738,441,400 gallons, a decrease of 2.49 per cent.

The oil company draws for the year were: SACROC 1,740,709,320 (up 39.71 per cent) Sharon Ridge 41,598,000 (up 11.94 per cent), Lion Oil 19,775,600 (down 4.49 per cent), Tidewater 125,513,200 (up 2.91 per cent), Standard and Sinclair 497,545,600, (up 3.43 per cent), Sun Oil 1,190,393,000 (down 2.54 per cent).

Red Supply Vessels Hit Hard By Raiders

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. Navy pilots attacked more than 200 North Vietnamese supply barges and junks Tuesday and reported destroying or damaging 111.

Moving in one day after American Air Force planes shot down seven Communist MIG21s, Navy fliers from three aircraft carriers reported using rockets to damage a surface-to-air missile radar site and to set fire to a torpedo boat off North Vietnam's port of Haiphong.

In South Vietnam, the ground war simmered down to small actions while elsewhere British moves to start peace talks met with a Communist rebuff.

North Vietnam officially rejected Britain's proposal to bring together representatives of the United States, North and South Vietnam. Hanoi called the British plan an "act of malicious intention."

In South Vietnam, the Viet Cong set free two American civilian construction men whom they had held prisoner since last May 27 and a Filipino whom they seized last June 24.

The trio was found today by a company of Vietnamese popular force troops some 40 miles northeast of Saigon, U. S. officials announced.

In other developments, Air Force long-range B52 bombers struck twice today at Communist positions in South Vietnam.

Before dawn, the heavy bombers swept in from Guam to hammer a suspected troop concentration 32 miles northwest of Saigon.

Soon after daybreak, a second wave of B52s pounded another suspected troop concentration eight miles west-northwest of Bong Son near the central coast.

In the Navy's air strikes Tuesday, F4 Phantoms and other jet bombers from the carriers Enterprise, Kitty Hawk and Coral Sea joined in repeated assaults against cargo junks and barges along the North Vietnamese coast and on inland waterways.

Pilots claimed they destroyed 13 barges and 3 junks and damaged 64 barges and 31 junks, scoring hits on more than half of the 200 watercraft attacked.

Navy Phantom jet pilots attacked a North Vietnamese torpedo boat 23 miles east of Haiphong and reported their rockets left the PT boat with two fires burning on it.

Other carrier pilots used rockets to strike at a missile radar site southeast of Thanh Hoa and reported damaging the site.

In all, U.S. Navy pilots flew 54 strike missions over North Vietnam Tuesday. Air Force pilots added another 26 missions, hitting at oil depots, staging areas and roads in the southern panhandle.

Only one Communist MIG21 ventured forth during Tuesday's forays, a U. S. spokesman said. He said the MIG "scooted away" when a flight of F4 Phantom jets closed in and there was no contact.

The spokesman disclosed that one of the Phantom fighters involved in Monday's big air battle sustained light damage. Previously, U. S. officials announced that all the U. S. planes escaped unscathed when they shot down seven MIG21s for the biggest single day's bag of the war. The spokesman said one of the more than 50 Phantoms in the Monday battle flew through fragments of a disintegrating MIG and sustained minor damage but made it safely back to base.

In air action over South Vietnam Tuesday, U. S. pilots flew 288 strike sorties and South Vietnamese pilots flew 78.

Plotters Of Invasion Jailed In Key West

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The leaders of a tiny Cuban-Haitian exile army are in jail today, fuming over breakup of a fantastic plan to conquer Haiti and turn it into an invasion base against Fidel Castro.

Officials at Key West's Monroe County jail said all were held for the federal government on charges of violating U.S. neutrality laws.

Bond was set at $5,000 for Rolando Masferrer, exiled Havana politician who has tangled before with the United States over plots to shoot up Castro Cuba.

Officials set bond at $2,500 each for most of 27 comrades jailed here with him after a roundup of about 80 motley-uniformed persons, including a woman and a priest.

William B. Meadows, U.S. attorney for south Florida, said he was checking on whether Masferrer had violated restrictions imposed on him by the Immigration Service for previous war-making activities.

About 50 of the captives were taken to Miami for booking. All were released Tuesday night in recognizance bonds of $100.

Masferrer, an athletic 45, criticized the United States for "protecting Fidel Castro" by arresting him and his band at a Florida keys rendezvous where federal agents said the expedition was preparing to embark.

One of the group's officers, Anton Constanzo, said at Miami that he eluded arrest and hitchhiked home.

Constanzo said the expedition had planned to land at Port Au Prince, Haitian capital, join forces with 20 comrades in the Negro island republic, and overthrow Haitian President Francois Duvalier's government with the help of native malcontents.

Then the island would be used as a base to make war on Castro, whose territory lies only 50 miles west across the Windward Passage. Constanzo said Masferrer was confident he could forge a Cuba invasion army within a month.

The Rev. Jean Baptiste Georges, a Haitian priest and once education minister under Duvalier, was to be installed as president. He was among those rounded up. Another was the group's only woman member, identified as Auria Poggio and described by exiles as the expedition's quartermaster.

The raid was made on Cocoa Plum Island, near Marathon, when agents saw a 55-foot shrimp boat being loaded late Monday night. They surrounded the island's only house and exiles came boiling out like ants from a kicked-over hill, cursing the raiders.

"Why do you stop us?" one demanded.

When the federal men saw how many persons they had surprised, they quickly got help from 20 sheriff's deputies. There was no resistance. Agents said they found a quantity of arms in the house.

Udall Issues Reminder On Tidelands

WASHINGTON AP) — In a step obviously intended to safeguard millions in government oil royalties, Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall reemphasized Tuesday that the offshore tidelands are under control of his department.

His order primarily affects the continental shelf off the Texas and Louisiana coasts, a heavy producing area.

While Udall made no direct reference to the royalties, he urged that the states join the federal government to establish "a system of formal cooperation in the proration of oil production in those outer continental shelf areas adjacent to states with proration systems."

While the individual states regulate oil production, the flow of crude from offshore wells has been prorated the past 13 years by informal agreements between federal and state authorities.

If states increase allowables for inshore areas, they might press for lowered production from well soffshore. This would reduce royalties the federal government shares from the offshore wells.

Udall's order says the government is reaffirming its jurisdiction over oil and gas exploration, development and production; exploration and development of other mineral resources; protection of recreational and esthetic values, aquatic resources and other public resources.

Udall said he expected the new procedures to be effective about July 1.

London Asks Hanoi To Reconsider

By ROBERT LIU

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam's Foreign Ministry today officially rejected the British proposal for talks to stop the fighting in Vietnam today as a new appeal from London was on its way to Hanoi.

The British call for the U.S. and North and South Vietnamese governments to meet at once had been accepted by the United States and South Vietnam. North Vietnam denounced it as "an impermissible vicious act."

In an official statement, a North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry spokesman called the British proposal "an act full of malicious intention aimed at serving the dark designs of the U.S. aggressors."

Despite earlier rebuffs from official Hanoi newspapers, the British Foreign Office appealed again Tuesday night to North Vietnam to agree to talks.

It said an affirmative response "will commit them simply and solely to joining efforts to lift the burden of war from their country and so creating conditions in which a political settlement could be negotiated."

The North Vietnamese statement appeared to slam the door on the British suggestion first made by Foreign Secretary George Brown Dec. 31.

"By 'calling for peace' at this juncture," Hanoi said, "the British government is precisely dancing to the tune of the United States so that the latter may take new, more serious steps of war escalation.

"The government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam has always held that the U.S. is the aggressor; therefore it must stop its aggression, withdraw all its troops and those of its satellites from South Vietnam, put an end to all acts of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, and let the Vietnamese people settle their own affairs by themselves," it said. "Then peace will be restored immediately."

In New York, U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg discussed Vietnam with U.N. Secretary-General U Thant Tuesday but Goldberg said he presented no new American plan for ending the war.

The United States has asked Thant to take any steps he feels necessary to bring about talks that might lead to a cease-fire.

Runaway US Missile Buzzes Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unarmed Air Force missile fired in a test from Florida has veered off its scheduled course into the Gulf of Mexico and presumably soared over Cuba, the Pentagon said today.

A terse Defense Department announcement said the surface-to-surface air-breathing missile carried no warhead.

The weapon, undergoing research and development tests, was launched at 10 a.m. EST from the Air Force proving ground at Eglin AFB, Fla., the Pentagon said.

"The research vehicle took off on an unprogrammed course that would cause an impact at 11:21 a.m. EST, about 100 miles south of the southwest coast of Cuba," the Pentagon statement said.

The Pentagon gave no other details.

A spokesman said the missile, a Mace, has a maximum range of about 1,200 miles. The test range lies in an area of the Gulf of Mexico off Cuba.

Reports Indicate New Red Turmoil

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — Conflicting reports from Communist China indicate Mao Tse-tung and Lin Piao have struck a possibly crippling blow at President Liu Shao-chi through the big Chinese labor movement.

The Soviet news agency Tass and the Czech news agency Ceteka both have announced that the 21-million member All China Federation of Trade Unions — ACFTU — has been dissolved and its official newspaper shut down.

A later report from Japanese correspondents in Peking said the ACFTU had not been disbanded but that its leadership had been taken over by a new Mao-Lin oriented group called the All-China Association of Red Revolutionaries — ACARR.

If either report is true, it means Liu has lost a critical round in his fight to survive mounting pressure against him.

Liu, who made his niche in Red China as a labor organizer and was formerly ACFTU chairman, is believed to have heavy trade union support in the present confrontation with Mao and Lin.

Though it is a labor organization, the ACFTU's primary function is to carry out the party's orders on production. As such, it is the link between the party and the nation's 26,250,000 industrial workers.

Mao's young Red Guards have encountered resistance from workers in many parts of the country where Liu presumably continues popular.

The name of the new labor group suggests that it is on the Red Guard model, probably made up of a minority of nonunionists who follow Mao and Lin.

On Dec. 30 — three days after the reported move against the ACFTU — the official New China News Agency reported that the Chinese union had issued a statement protesting the decision of the Soviet-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions barring it from its Dec. 8 general council meeting in Sofia, Bulgaria.

This suggested that the reports the ACFTU has been taken over, rather than abolished, are true.

Ruby To Rest In Chicago Grave

CHICAGO (AP)—Jack Ruby, who grew up on Chicago's tough West Side, returned home in death today after gaining international notoriety as the slayer of President John F. Kennedy's acussed assassin. He will be buried beside his parents.

The plane carrying Ruby's body landed at O'Hare International Airport shortly after midnight after a flight from Dallas, where he died Tuesday at Parkland Memorial Hospital — the same hospital in which Kennedy and Lee Harvey Oswald died.

His death from a blood clot in the lungs forever clouded the international doubts surrounding the assassination of President Kennedy. Until the end, Ruby insisted he acted alone in fatally shooting Oswald.

Ruby, 55, had extensive cancer, but Dr. Earl Rose, the Dallas County medical examiner, said it was a massive blood clot that would probably have killed him even if he had not been weakened by cancer. Rose said, however, that cancer would be listed on the death certificate as a contributing cause.

Rose, who performed an autopsy, said the blood clot apparently formed in Ruby's leg Tuesday morning and traveled through the heart to the lungs.

Ruby's coffin was taken from the plane as soon as the doors were opened. Twenty policemen quickly placed it in a hearse for the drive to a North Side funeral home.

Ruby's brother, Earl Ruby of Detroit, and two sisters, Eileen Kaminsky of Chicago and Eva Grant of Dallas, accompanied the body on the plane.

They appeared composed as they walked quickly and silently past a waiting crowd of some 50 newsmen.

Hershey Weinstein, president of the Original Weinstein & Sons Chapel, said services and burial would be held Friday morning.

Weinstein said that only Ruby's parents were buried in the large family plot in Westlawn Cemetery.

Ruby's death prompted statements from various individuals connected with the case in one way or another.

In New York, William F. Kunstler, one of Ruby's lawyers, said his death denied him the opportunity "to have a jury decide that he was guilty of nothing more than murder without malice, a crime that carries a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment."

Rare Art Works Recovered Intact

LONDON (AP)—Eight paintings worth $7 million, stolen five days ago in the world's biggest art theft, were reported today recovered intact.

Three of the old masters were found in what was believed a professional robbers' den and others in a parcel behind a clump of bushes not far from London's Dulwich College Gallery where they were stolen Friday, police informants said.

Scotland Yard announced the recovery of the paintings but declined to give details. Detectives were still questioning some men in connection with the theft, the Yard said.

The paintings — three Rembrandts, three Rubens and one each by Gerald Dou and Adam Elsheimer—were reported to be in good condition despite exposure to frosty air. Some of the paintings were damaged slightly, officials said.

Scotland Yard insiders said three of the paintings were found Monday at a hideout which contained a hoard of other stolen property and some weapons.

They said an anonymous telephone call led detectives Tuesday night to Streatham Common, about four miles from Dulwich Gallery in South London, where the remaining five paintings were found in some bushes.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My sister has a 12-year-old son who was born with one deaf ear and about one third hearing in the other ear. His doctors have informed my sister that in the very near future the boy will be totally deaf.

Don't you think the mother is being extremely unfair to hide the truth from her son? She is a college graduate and a prominent socialite and she seems almost ashamed of her son's handicap. She said she couldn't bear the thought of his wearing a hearing aid or studying lip-reading so young.

She thinks highly of your advice, Abby, so please answer.

DEVOTED AUNT

DEAR AUNT: That mother is doing her son a shocking disservice. The boy should start preparing immediately to live in a silent world. It will be much more difficult for him to learn after he has suffered a total hearing loss.

Urge your sister to talk to her son's doctors and to follow their recommendations. And I hope for the boy's sake she acts at once.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 and a boy I know who is 14 asked me to be his girl and I said yes.

Then he asked me if he could kiss me on the lips. Abby. I told him that I had never let a boy kiss me on the lips and I wasn't going to let him either. Well, then he said he was sorry, that he guessed he was just a little bit more grown up than I was, and he would have to find someone more grown up to be his girl.

Well, I didn't really care that much about him, so there wasn't too much heartbreak. But, Abby, I am still confused. Should I have let him kiss me on the lips?

PRIVATE NAME

DEAR PRIVATE NAME: I think you used excellent judgment.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband is dead and I had two enlarged pictures of him nicely framed and I keep them in my living room. The other day a neighbor came in and saw them and she said personal pictures did not belong in the living room.

Abby, I haven't had much education and I would appreciate it if you would tell me if I am wrong to keep his pictures there.

I get a lot of pleasure out of looking at his pictures in the living room, but if they really don't belong there I suppose I could put them somewhere else. Thank you.

JUST DUMB

DEAR JUST: Personal pictures should be enjoyed. And they "belong" where ever they afford the most pleasure.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WITS END WIFE:" Yours is the curse of being married to a man who appears to be younger than his years and also younger than his wife. Don't for goodness sakes, try to let people know in some "subtle" way that he is really older than you. It is bound to create the opposite impression.

Two Prison Terms Levied

Two men were handed two-year prison sentences in District Court Tuesday, but both sentences were probated for one year.

Willie Wilford Blanton, Dallas Negro who was charged with the burglary of the Town House Restaurant Aug. 12, 1965, pleaded guilty to the charge. Jack Vicars, accused of burglarizing the North Elementary School, Nov. 26, 1966, also entered a guilty plea. Both received the two-year probated terms.

Judge Sterling Williams also handed a 90-day jail term to Jimmy O'Dell Tilley after he pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated, second offense, on Nov. 20, 1966.

Two pleas of innocence were heard. Robert P. Snoddy pleaded innocent to the burglary of the Prentice Bass residence Oct. 22, 1966. Tommy Collum pleaded innocent to three counts of forgery that allegedly occurred Nov. 14 and Nov. 15, 1966. Both men remain in County Jail in lieu of bond.

Feed Grain Exports To Level Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said today it expects U.S. exports of feed grains to level off this marketing year. They totaled 26 million tons during the past sales year.

The department said increased production elsewhere, particularly in Western Europe where imports have been rising, is expected to prevent any material increase in American sales abroad during the 1966-67 marketing year.

Newspapers Ask Repeal Of Royal Marriage Law

By RONALD THOMSON

LONDON (AP) — Three London newspapers today urged Parliament to repeal George III's royal marriage law so Queen Elizabeth II won't have to decide whether her first cousin can marry the mother of his illegitimate son.

The Royal Marriages Act of 1772 was denounced on all sides as a museum piece of royal spite. It was brought to public attention again by the Earl of Harewood's announcement Monday that he is being divorced for adultery and wants to marry a former model who bore him a son 2½ years ago.

The 43-year-old earl is 18th in line of succession to the throne. His 40-year-old wife is expected to bring her divorce petition before the courts next month.

Under the ancient act, all members of the royal family descended from George II must have the monarch's permission to wed. This means that, technically at least, Harewood must seek the queen's consent before marrying Patricia Tuckwell, a 39-year-old divorcee from Australia.

As head of the Church of England, which opposes the remarriage of anyone whose partner is living, the queen would face clerical pressure to refuse her consent.

The Conservative Daily Mail, the Laborite Sun and the Evening Standard, a Beaverbrook newspaper which takes an independent line, all urged repeal of the 95-year-old act. So did Cyril Hankinson, former editor of De-Brett's Peerage.

Calling the act a "frowsty piece of legislation pushed through Parliament by George III," Hankinson said the king who later went mad after England lost her American colonies "was furious at secret marriages made by his brothers, the dukes of Cumberland and Gloucester, to commoners.

"Most people today think that the royal family should have the same rights as the queen's other subjects when it comes to a personal matter like marriage."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman reported today that farmers are continuing to increase their efforts to conserve soil, water, timber and wildlife despite rising food demands upon them.

The secretary said that more than one million farms increased the acreage treated for conservation purposes in 1966 under a cost-sharing department conservation program. About $200 million in federal funds was spent on these efforts.

In addition, farmers in 339 counties in 33 states also obtained cost-sharing funds from the department to help repair and restore land damaged by natural disasters.

More than 2 million acres of cropland were diverted to non-crop uses under the department's cropland adjustment program. Freeman expects an additional 2 million or more acres to be added to this program in 1967.

Retired Pilots To Ease Shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pilot shortage has driven the Air Force into restoring 2,300 older airmen to the cockpits they abandoned in 1960-61, a Pentagon source said today.

An Air Force spokesman confirmed the 2,300 figure while noting that the Pentagon has denied officially the existence of a pilot shortage.

Even so, the Air Force announced Tuesday a program to train 3,247 pilots annually, an increase of 487 over the present rate. It also announced the reactivation of Randolph Air Force Base near San Antonio, Tex., as the ninth pilot training base.

To man the ninth base, the Air Force has been authorized an additional 891 officers, 2,472 enlisted men and 766 civilian employes. The Air Force estimates cost of the expanded program at $300 million over the next five years.

All of the Air Force's 2,300 aging airmen — most are on their third war — are 45 years old, or older, and held flight status for 22 years, or longer, before stepping down in the big pilot curtailment program of 1960-61.

The Air Force spokesman said some grandfathers are among these older airmen. He told of one who is flying a twin engine C47 cargo plane in Vietnam while his son flies an F4 Phantom fighter from the same airfield.

To meet pilot needs, especially for the multiple engine cargo planes, the Air Force reportedly has striped its middle-management echelon of nearly all men who once held a pilot rating and who can still pass a flight physical.

This had left the support of air operations in many instances in the hands of nonfliers with little Air Force experience.

Some of these new managers, the spokesman said, are first lieutenants.

In 1963 as part of its career management program, the Pentagon set up the so-called 45-22 club. Members of this club could at age 45, and after 22 years of jockeying aircraft, step into desk jobs and still retain their flight pay.

Whether the Navy is to get an increased pilot training program still is uncertain. Navy sources have reported the training of only 279 carrier qualified pilots annually, but say the need is around 750.

The subject of pilot shortages is to be investigated by the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, headed by Sen. C. John Stennis, D-Miss., shortly after Congress reconvenes.

The subcommittee already has in hand reports that the Army is short of helicopter pilots.

The over-all pilot need in all the services has been placed by some sources as high as 8,000. It takes about 18 months and $500,000 to turn out a fully qualified jet pilot.

Hanoi Says Demands Not Prerequisite

NEW YORK (AP) — Premier Pham Van Dong of Communist North Vietnam says his government's four-point demands in the Vietnam war are not necessarily conditions for peace talks but rather a "basis of settlement of the Vietnam problem," the New York Times reported from Hanoi today.

LONG DISTANCE RATES NOW REDUCED
on most station-to-station calls within Texas

ON January 1, long distance rates were reduced on most station-to-station Long Distance calls within Texas.

The reductions, which apply on most calls of more than 56 miles, vary from 5 to 15 cents for three minutes, depending on the distance. Reductions are even greater for calls over three minutes.

Users Help Make Cuts Possible

In addition, all station-to-station calls within the State of Texas which are made after 8 p.m. and all day Sunday get the lowest night rate — a maximum charge of 80 cents, plus tax, for three minutes to any point in Texas. In the past, only station-to-station calls which were prepaid (charged to the number placing the call) and credit card calls got this low rate.

Much of the credit for making possible these reductions in Long Distance rates goes to telephone users themselves. The cooperation of customers in placing calls by number, using area codes, and taking advantage of Direct Distance Dialing where it is available has helped to make possible the operating economies that led to the reductions.

Tenth Reduction Since World War II

This is the 10th reduction in Long Distance rates for Texas telephone users since the end of World War II. In this time when almost all prices are going up, we are glad to be able to reduce the cost of telephone service and bring these savings to our Texas customers.

Telephone service in Texas is a bigger bargain than ever before.

SOUTHERN WRITING IN THE SIXTIES, Edited by John William Corrington and Miller Williams (Louisiana State University Press, $7.50 hardbound, $2.95 paperback)

The editors of "Southern writing in the Sixties" contend that southern fiction has "a certain special quality that makes it always different and frequently superior to the literature of other sections."

The belief of the editors, John William Corrington and Miller Williams of Loyola University, might be subject to debate, but in a lengthy introduction they make a good case for their viewpoint.

They point out correctly that the South has been a region of contrasts since its settlement and therein lies much of the drama and the atmosphere for the development of emotion.

"There is a southern mentality," say the editors and seek to determine why.

The reasons, they find, are legion. One is the abuse of the South that extends into today and which creates a certain solidarity of the people.

Then there is poverty over many years, and the effect of deep-seated religion.

Add to that the feeling for history of the southerner and the fact that this has been a bloody land from the arrival of the first settlers and the themes for fiction become limitless.

The editors say their analysis of the South and its writing is little more than a distillation of some of the themes and central concerns apparent in the writing of William Faulkner and other southerners.

But has the tradition carried into the 1960s?

The authors seem to believe that it has, both as to themes and quality.

But the reader can determine that for himself in 20 stories included in the book, some of them short stories and the remainder portions of books.

The stories certainly do have a quality of their own. It is unfortunate that so many appeared in magazines which do not have general circulation. But such were the beginnings of some of the great names in fiction.

TEXAS RIVERMAN, By William Seale (University of Texas Press, $5)

Andrew Smyth's life bridged the most dramatic periods in Texas history. The Revolution, annexation, the Civil War and Reconstruction.

During all that time, he did many things, but his most interesting occupation was that of river boat captain on the Sabine, Neches and Angelina Rivers.

All his papers were preserved in a trunk and surprisingly remained intact until William Seale of Lamar State College of Technology in Beaumont put them into this story.

Capt. Smyth's fortunes went up and down with the changes in Texas, but he took surprisingly little parts in the events that made history.

He seemed content to try to make a living, generally taking lumber down the rivers and returning with goods needed by upriver settlers. Finally the business grew to the point that he built his own sawmill.

Traveling the streams was an adventure, with his chief opponents sand bars, floating debris and uncharted and shifting channels.

Capt. Smyth probably would have difficulty believing what has been done to the streams since his time and the vast waterway extensions planned for them.

Cookbooks Are Lavish This Year

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

THIS YEAR'S crop of cookbooks yields some unusually handsome and lavish contributions — all reflecting their authors' special culinary interests.

From New York City comes "The New York Times Menu Cook Book" by Craig Claiborne (Harper and Row, $9.95). The author has devoted followers and this latest offering should delight them. For here are 400 menus for special dinners, international and holiday meals, simple suppers and other repasts. The more than 1200 recipes in the book are keyed to the menus, and the recipes themselvs are the best of those that appeared in The Times from 1960 to 1966. They include special favorites of Craig Claiborne's, tested in his own kitchen, as well as some (such as Pirog, Beef Wellington and Chocolate Cheesecake) widely sought after these days.

From Greenwich Village, New York comes "Feasts for All Seasons" by Roy Andries de Groot (Knopf, $10.95). It is a fascinating account of how the author, his wife and two daughters shop, prepare and serve all sorts of gourmet meals built around the foods particularly appropriate to each season of the year. Mr de Groot defines a gourmet as a perfectionist; he himself has presented his advice, menus and recipes with meticulous care. Because his background has enabled him to enjoy and experiment with foods and dishes from all over the world, his cookbook is cosmopolitan. The last chapter of the book, bound to beguile many cooks, is an index of marketing and mail - order sources for many delicacies — from crayfish (Wisconsin) to vanilla beans (Madagascar).

Also from Greenwich Village, comes "The Thousand Recipe Chinese Cookbook" by Gloria Bley Miller (Atheneum, $20), an enormous compedium of recipes plus supplementary information to aid in preparing them. Mrs. Miller, first introduced to the delights of Chinese food in San Francisco, has spent the past five years writing her book. She is an extraordinarily good researcher; not only did she track down a wealth of information from many sources, but during the time she worked on her book, she and her sculptor husband "ate" the recipes at dinner each night! Because she stresses techniques and has organized her material so well, any cook seriously interested in Chinese cuisine should find her book enormously helpful.

From England comes "First Slice Your Cookbook" by Lady Arabella Boxer (Hawthorne, $15), but it does include advice on adapting English weights and measures to American kitchens. Each tall page of this amusingly presented book is sliced into three — first courses on top, main dishes in the middle and desserts at the bottom. Because of this device a cook can choose a dish from each category and then see her menu at a glance. With each main-dish recipe, an appropriate wine is suggested. The book was planned for sophisticated hostesses who do their own cooking and includes fairly simple but epicurean dishes that the author has obviously made with success. Here is a recipe adapted from her book and enjoyed in our own household.

BURIED STRAWBERRIES
(Adapted from "First Slice Your Cookbook" by Arabella Boxer.)

3 packages (each 10 ounces) sliced or halved sweetened frozen strawberries
2 egg whites
3 tablespoons sugar
½ pint heavy cream
½ cup plain (unflavored) yogurt

Remove strawberries from packages and place in a serving dish so that they will be defrosted just enough to be separated shortly before serving. At serving time, in a medium-small bowl, beat cream until stiff, gradually adding the sugar toward the end of the beating time. Without washing beater, in another medium - small bowl, beat cream until stiff. Still without washing beater, in a large bowl, beat yogurt until smooth. Gently fold egg whites and cream into yogurt. Turn the creamy topping over the strawberries, covering them completely. Serve at once. Makes 9 generous servings. (If topping is made ahead, refrigerate and serve within an hour after preparing.)

Deviled Eggs Supreme Nice For Entertaining

Why don't you plan to entertain your best pals soon with a special weekend brunch in their honor. Serve Deviled Eggs Supreme for the main course - plus go-alongs of crisp toast points, fresh fruit, and coffee.

Make the elegant main dish by preparing the eggs with deviled ham spread, mustard, and vinegar then heating them in a satiny sauce made from condensed cream of celery soup.

DEVILED EGGS SUPREME

6 hard-cooked eggs, halved lengthwise
1 can (about 2 ounces) deviled ham spread
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon vinegar
Dash pepper
¼ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of celery soup
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
Toast points

Remove egg yolks, mash and combine with ham, mayonnaise, mustard, vinegar, and pepper. Refill egg whites using pastry tube, if desired. In saucepan, cook green pepper in butter until tender. Stir in remaining ingredients except toast. Heat; stir now and then. Pour soup mixture into shallow baking dish (10x6x2 inches); arrange eggs in sauce. Bake at 425 degrees F. for 10 minutes or until hot. Serve on toast points. Makes 6 servings.

Two-Gun British Cowboy Partial To American South

By EDDY GILMORE

(AP) — Geographically, the Southern Hotel is appropriately down south—way down yonder in South Manchester.

High above the hotel flies a tattered Confederate flag. In the main ballroom is the Lone Star flag of Texas. A miniature Confederate flag decorates every table in the dining room. Above the bar is another burgee with the stars and bars of the Confederacy.

Why?

"I'm probably the only middle-aged, South-loving, frustrated English cowboy you've ever met," explained John Ridley 45, "and I'm the proprietor of the Southern hotel.

"I like the South. I like the Southwest. I've been fascinated by everything Southern and Southwestern since I was a child. But, it was just pure luck when I got the Southern Hotel. You see, it had been named that before I got it. I suppose it's because it's in South Manchester."

In addition to being the proprietor of the Southern Hotel, Ridley is also an official of the Quick-Draw Club in Blackpool.

"We started the club four years ago," he said. "I practice in my cellar, get through about 1,000 rounds of ammunition every week."

Then the members own guns?

"Loads of them. I've got a single-hand rig and a twin-rig. The twin-rig is for the two-gun man. I confess, I'm a two-gun English cowboy."

And horses?

"Oh, yes, we've got horses. Not only do most of us have horses, but we have rifles, real American Western rifles and for that matter, handmade leather holsters."

But isn't all this very costly?

"You're right it is. Just ask my wife. She's giving me hell about it, pardner."

Ridley said he wanted to get one thing definitely understood. "I like all Americans," he insisted. "I just happen to favor the South.

"During the war in Italy, I was in a hospital in Caserta. It was my birthday and they let me out on crutches.

"I met up with some of your boys in a little cafe and got to talking and I said I'd met American men, but I'd never even seen an American girl.

"A big sergeant said, 'We'll fix that.' Do you know, those American soldiers picked up my crutches and they picked me up too and they took me to a place where your WACs were stationed.

"Well, sir, those soldiers knocked on a door and we all went in and sat around for a few minutes being entertained by two delightful American girls."

"The sergeant was a fellow named McDonnell from Texas. Well, he disappeared and after a while I began to get embarrassed at taking up so much of these girls' time.

"Just then some sliding doors opened and I saw about 20 or 30 of these American girls. They were standing around their dining table and on the table was a cake and on the cake there was some candles. They began singing 'Happy birthday.'"

"I cried like a child," said Ridley.

Have any Americans ever been in the Southern Hotel?

"Not that I know of," he replied, "but I'd be proud to welcome them."

And if they were Southerners?

"The first Southerner who comes in here, or for that matter, the second or the third one, well, if he wants to drink I'll promise he can drink all he wants to—and it won't cost him a penny. Why, I'd be honored, suh."

Demos To Decide On 21-Day Rule

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — A decision that could vitally affect the course of legislation in the 90th Congress will be made next Monday when House Democrats hold their presession caucus.

They will decide whether to try to retain the 21-day rule or discard it.

The rule puts a limit of 21 days on the time the Rules Committee may block House action on legislation approved by other committees. It was adopted originally at the insistence of Speaker Sam Rayburn to protect President John F. Kennedy's legislative program from strangulation by the Rules Committee then dominated by conservatives. It has been retained at the insistence of the Democratic leadership.

But last year's election results made the rule less appealing to its original sponsors. Among other things, the elections vacated the seats of Rules Chairman Howard W. Smith, a conservative Virginia Democrat, and James W. Trimble, an Arkansas moderate.

Democrats held 10 seats on the Rules Committee last year and Republicans 5. The ideological division was 8 to 7 in favor of the liberals, although there were times when the reverse was true, and the 21-day rule was used on several occasions.

The lineup in the new Congress will be 10 Democrats and 5 Republicans. Democrats plan to fill their two vacancies with liberals. Theoretically that would give the Democratic leadership a 9-6 voting edge on most legislation, or at worst 8 to 7. The new chairman, Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., has voted in the past with the 5 Republicans and probably will continue to do so.

With that strong grip on the committee, the leadership sees no point in retaining the 21-day rule. It could be used to force House votes on legislation the leaders want bottled up by the Rules Committee.

Conservatives will be in numerical control of some committees this year and might kick over the traces and approve bills the administration doesn't want. In that event, an unfettered Rules Committee could serve as a graveyard.

Rep. Richard M. Bolling, D-Mo., one of the original champions of the 21-day rule and a leading spokesman for the liberals, sees no reason to retain the rule.

"We don't need it and we don't want it if we get a strong grip on the Rules Committee," Bolling said.

Speaker John W. McCormack and Democratic Leader Carl Albert reportedly agree with Bolling, although they have made no formal statements to that effect. Next Monday's caucus probably will bow to the wishes of McCormack and Albert.

Whether the rule is retained or junked is up to the House itself. It will make the final decision when the new rules are adopted at next Tuesday's opening session.

Conservatives who opposed the rule in the past now see some merit in it if it is changed.

Junior Editors Quiz on MARK TWAIN

QUESTION: How did Samuel Clemens get the name Mark Twain?

• • •

ANSWER: Samuel Langhorne Clemens was a famous American humorist and writer who lived between 1835 and 1910. Mark Twain was the pen name he used when writing books and stories. Clemens was brought up near the Mississippi River and became a river pilot. Later, as he began to write stories, he used much material from the colorful river life he had seen at close hand. He adopted the pen name Mark Twain because this reminded him of happy river days. The words meant two marks on a steamer's lead line, which indicated a depth of 12 feet, or "safe water." Twain's most famous book, The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, tells how his boy hero and Huck's friend, Jim, drifted down the Mississippi on a raft, having wonderful adventures as they went. The raft gave Huck a sense of security. With it, he could always escape the entanglements of the shore. Twain's writing style—direct and vivid—influenced American writing toward greater observation of reality. Almost as well known as Huck is Twain's other boy character Tom Sawyer, who, in a famous episode, tricked some of his friends into whitewashing a fence he was supposed to do himself.

FOR YOU TO DO: Get to know Tom and Huck even better than you do now. You'll laugh at them—love them, too.

Boy To Undergo Psychiatric Test

ORANGE, Tex. (AP)—Ronnie Lee Ozio, a 14-year-old high school sophomore charged with a New Year's gun and knife rampage that claimed three lives, will undergo "immediate and thorough" psychiatric examination.

Dist. Judge Eugene R. Hoyt ordered young Ozio transferred to the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston for this purpose Tuesday.

A motion to commit the youth for such examination came from Dist. Atty. Roy S. Wingate, who has asked that Ozio be ruled a juvenile delinquent.

Police said the youth arose New Year's morning and killed his father, John A. Ozio, 39; his grandmother, Mrs. Victoria Ozio, 77, and Mrs. Bobby Mayberry, 35, of Foreman, Ark., who was engaged to Ozio.

The women were shot repeatedly with a .22 caliber rifle and pistol, Ozio's body was pierced by a hunting arrow in addition to bullets.

Officials said young Ozio's high school English themes might hold a clue to what prompted the killings. Two themes in his notebook spoke of a "friend named Randy" who had fallen in love with "Debi."

The only person in the Ozio apartment unscathed in the carnage was Debi Mayberry, daughter of one of the slain women. "Randy" in the first theme met "Debi" while their families were visiting. That was how the 100-pound, 5-foot Ozio met Debi Mayberry.

"Randy" resolved to do something about his meager physique and physical unattractiveness. A second theme, written two weeks later, said Randy still had not impressed "Debi" and "is an ugly clod and probably will be an ugly clod for some time to come."

The high school themes, along with relatives' statements about the quiet, bushy-haired Ozio, will be sent to his psychiatrists.

In a Beaumont hospital, Creg Mayberry, 16, Debi's brother, was recovering from a knife wound suffered while trying to stop the slayings.

Ozio cannot be tried on a murder charge until his 17th birthday under Texas law. He can be held as a juvenile delinquent until then if a court so decrees.

The youth displayed no emotion yesterday as his father and grandmother were buried. The body of Mrs. Mayberry was returned to Arkansas.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

Acapulco, Mexico — The plush spot for lounging around this Pacific resort is Mr. Teddy Stauffer's Villa Vera. It is a Mediterranean - type hostelry perched high on the mountain side with a built-in view of the vast bay.

This is the place to catch up with the film industry brass. Mr. Glen Ford and Mr. Troy Donahue are currently at the villa for Mexico's VIII World Film Festival. Likewise Miss Nancy Kovac and the rest of the U. S. delegation.

And this morning I received a polite nod from Miss Merle Oberon as she strolled past the swimming pool.

One of the Villa's features is the Raquet Club which is composed of two tenniscourts down too many steps for me to inspect closely. From high up, they look well barbared.

Mr. Stauffer just got through holding his annual tournament for old timers and wound up winning one of his own cups in the doubles championship.

"The cups are just a little something for people to remember me by," said Teddy.

There is little question that he will be remembered, and mostly for merely being Teddy Stauffer.

Years ago the Swiss-born musician came to Acapulco leading a dance band. He like what he saw and settled down to manage a night club.

From there he worked up to part ownership of a swank place. Then full ownership and later he acquired a small hotel. After that he picked up some mountain real estate and built his gorgeous Villa Vera.

A Swiss Horatio Alger story.

The Villa sprawls across the steep slopes in a series of bungalows with green lawns and flowering vines. There is a sort of round house bar by the chest-deep swimming pool and a sun deck filled with ladies and gentlemen catching a golden tan.

Right now, a good many of these tanees are film festival people and the chances are at any time of the year you will see a Hollywood figure or two wandering about the premises.

One side of the bar is for regular clients. The other side is for swimmers and has underwater stools. Possibly so they won't drip on the floor.

A flowering hedge braces around the sun deck and from there you spill off into space. Acapulco lies below and we stand there looking down on the skyscraper-type hotels poking up from the beach.

So Mr. Stauffer was saying now that his 1965 tourney is over, he will start getting ready for next year's tennis event. This is a unique sort of championship because it is not played by the youngsters. The participants are 45 and above.

And let is be said that the winners of the Teddy Stauffer trophies perspire copiously to earn them. But it is worth the effort because the stands are always filled with celebrities to spur the players on.

"One thing," added Mr. Stauffer. 'Please spell my club 'racquet' and not 'racket.' I don't want anybody to get the wrong ideas."

Kindly bear that in mind if you ever pick up a racket to play at his racquet club.

Viet War Produces New GI Jargon

SAIGON (AP) — The Green Beanies came out of the boonies last week for Bob Hope's show and the word for the Hollywood round eyes was "something else again."

Like all the rest of America's 20th-century wars, the Vietnem conflict is producing its own GI slang.

Foot soldiers who were doughboys in World War I and dogfaces in World War II are grunts or ground pounders in Vietnam.

The wild blue yonder types of 1941-45 and the jet jockeys of Korea are zoomies or Steve Canyons here.

Casualties are seldom killed; they are zapped, waxed, get their plows cleaned or get schnitzled. They may be dinged but rarely are wounded.

Atomic age troops in Vietnam prefer affirmatron or negatron to yes or no.

The American buildup in Vietnam began with retread argot from previous wars. Boondocks described the bush or any obscure location. It later became boonies and now shows signs of reverting to World War II's tulies.

Some twisting of the language grows out of boredom with repetition. A few GIs prefer balloon to platoon and corpuscle to corporal. Drinking water is referred to as potable, as in "give me a glass of potable."

Other slang is functional or, in the case of the F105 Thunderchief, malfunctional. A series of crashes by the jet fighter-bomber earned it the title thud. The two-seat model is known as double thud.

The most widely used single phrase is still "sorry 'bout that." Heard here for almost two years, it is stencilled on caps and shirts, used as explanation or apology and is the title of a book of war humor.

The difficult tonal language of Vietnam has been raided by American soldiers for suitable expressions.

"Troi oi" (pronounced "choi oi") is loosely translated as "Oh, My God" and has become a universal exclamation. "Di di" (pronounced "dee dee") means go. It sometimes is used as "di di it up" or "let's di di the hell out of here." "Dien Cai Dau" (pronounced "dinky dow") means crazy.

U.S. troops and some Vietnamese rate people or objects by the numbers. "No. 1' is the very best; "No. 10" designates a "cheap Charlie" or some other disliked item. Nobody seems to use any of the numbers in between.

Some troops express sarcasm with "real fine" or "outstanding." "Something else again" is high praise, used, for example, in referring to a particularly well endowed Hollywood starlet. Roundeye is the GI term for a western girl.

Conservatives To Question Supersonic Airliner Project

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The awards of contracts for the U.S. supersonic airliner were not all they seemed.

Although the government designated Boeing as contractor for the craft and General Electric as the supplier of engines, no announcement was made of a schedule for the project.

As it stands now, the supersonic contracts do not even lift the project off the drawing boards. President Johnson said he could not even predict when construction would begin.

Some observers still are disturbed by the fact that the tremendous thunderclap that will trail the supersonic may make it almost useless for domestic flight.

Despite years of work on how to eliminate the boom that accompanies the smashing of the sound barrier, the problem remains. The supersonic, if it were used on domestic flights, would shake up millions of people and send shivers through hundreds of square miles of landscape.

A question, then, that conservative members of Congress will be asking is whether the nation should commit enormous sums of money to build this craft while also pushing a costly space program and a war in Vietnam.

Any project of this size, especially one which involves innovations that have been proven only on paper or in the laboratory, is wide open to criticism. And the critics aren't silent.

Among the chief criticisms is that the supersonic airliner is not needed. Another is that it is unproven technologically. And still another is the method and cost of financing.

Present indications are that development costs will come close to $5 billion. The government is committed to pay at least 75 per cent of this amount —a sum that has been growing, as seems always to be the case in financing large projects.

Some feeling also exists that one company should not be entrusted with sole responsibility for such a project. And the fact that the thunderclap problem has not been solved, and won't be until a prototype is built, lends credence to suggestions that Lockheed still might be in the picture.

The reasoning here is that most of Boeing's supersonics might initially be used for transoceanic flight. The noise factor isn't so important over water. The big plane could cruise from its take off city at subsonic speed, reaching sound-breaking speed out over the ocean.

If the Boeing supersonic is used only across oceans, it is possible that a smaller, slower supersonic might be built for domestic use. The assumption is that a small plane would be less of an nusiance.

Balanced against these negatives is one overriding positive aspect: the demands of the U.S. balance of payments situation.

A supersonic airliner could make a tremendous difference in our trade balance. If we exported supersonic planes our trade balance would improve by billions of dollars. Without a supersonic we would have to import, and our trade deficit would deepen.

Three other nations are involved in building supersonics: the Soviet Union, Britain and France. American companies already have signed contracts to buy the supersonic Concorde, a product of a French-British alliance.

Condition Of Twins Fair

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP) — Margaret and Mary Gibb, 54-year-old Siamese twins, are reported in "fair to good" condition a Holyoke Hospital for treatment of an undisclosed ailment.

Hospital officials said Tuesday the sisters were admitted last Friday.

The unmarried sisters are joined at the base of the spine and share the same blood supply. They have separate organs and do not feel each other's pain.

Margaret has twice undergone operations, in 1946 for removal of a stone from her bladder and in 1953 for a tumor removal.

The twins performed in vaudeville and with circuses during the 1930's in Europe and America. They returned to their native Holyoke in 1941 and opened a gift shop in their home.

10th Satellite Discovered Near Saturn

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Astronomers have discovered a 10th satellite circling Saturn just outside the rings that are its trademark.

The satellite apparently is the closest to the planet and the rings, collections of particles that reflect light.

The Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, a clearing house for information about celestial discoveries, confirmed the discovery Tuesday night.

A spokesman said the satellite is between 100 and 200 miles in diameter, but not visible to the naked eye on earth.

Saturn, about 71,500 miles in diameter, is some 886,700,000 miles from the earth. Its largest ring is 170,000 miles in diameter.

Dr. Audoin Dollfus of the Paris Observatory reported to the Smithsonian Tuesday that he had discovered the satellite Dec. 15, but confirmation was withheld until a second sighting was reported.

That came from R.L. Walker at the U.S. Naval Observatory in Flagstaff, Ariz., who said he spotted the satellite on a photographic plate taken Dec. 18.

The satellite is the first to be found circling Saturn since 1898.

Freshman manager Joe Adcock of the Cleveland Indians is working under a two-year contract.

Sharp Bengals Bomb Lake View, 83-51

"B" Boys Blast Chiefs, 106-41

Those hustling Snyder Tigers breezed to an 83-51 decision over Lake View in their second District 3-AAA encounter here Tuesday night after the Bengal "B" team had blasted the young Injuns, 106-41.

All of the Snyder boys got into the action in both games, and everyone scored.

The Chiefs simply couldn't cope with Snyder's pressing defense as the Tigers of Coach Ned Underwood and Coach Bill Hartsfield jumped into a 21-14 first quarter lead and extended it with ease in each of the remaining periods. The halftime score favored the Black and Gold, 43-24, and they took a 66-39 margin after three frames. So devasting was the Tiger attack that they scored more points in three quarters than the Chiefs did in four.

Amazingly, the Tigers only grabbed 10 rebounds in the second half after capturing 17 in the first half, but they hawked the ball so well that they got off several more shots than the visitors. M. C. Powell led local rebounders with only five.

Rocky Woods, the state high jump champion, frequently went high in the air to grab rebounds, and he captured scoring honors in the game for Lake View with 17 points.

Mickey Almond and Frankie Grimmett both were hitting well for the Tigers. Each compiled 14 points. Most of Almond's points were garnered in the first half as coach Underwood substituted liberally throughout the game. Tommy Bullard, shooting with deadly accuracy from outside, connected for 11 points.

Snyder was impressive in all phases of the game. Although Woods grabbed most of the rebounds with his superior jumping ability, the Tigers fought him tooth and nail under the boards. They looked like champions at ball handling and playmaking.

The Bengals started slow, hitting 7 of 16 from the field, compared with 3 of 11 for Lake View in the first quarter. Then, the Tigers connected on 10 of 16 for a torrid 62 per cent in the second quarter while Lake View found the range on only 4 of 16. In the third quarter, Snyder hit 11 of 19 while Lake View zeroed in 6 of 12. The Chiefs dunked in 5 of 6 — mostly from close range — in the last quarter while the Tigers meshed a phenomenal 8 of 11.

The outstanding shooter from Lake View was Bob Bruce, a 6-4 Sophomore. He collected 10 points before fouling out in the first half.

Bobby Clardy and Langston Powell also were hot for the Tigers, scoring 8 points apiece. But then, all of the Tigers, including the subs, who saw about as much action as the regulars, looked good.

Coach Underwood said he was pleased mostly "with the hustle" exhibited by the Tigers. It was clearly evident even to the most casual fan that the Bengals had come to play.

Tiger shooting from the free throw line also was excellent as the Bengals sank 11 of 14. Lake View, with considerably more gratis tosses, dunked in only 13 of 26.

With title hopes reviving, the Tigers journey to Levelland Friday night.

"That's the big game," said Coach Underwood. "If we can beat them, we'll have a shot at the championship."

The "B" boys also were fantastic, scoring more field goals than their opponents scored total points. Coach Tyrone's lads took a 31-6 first quarter lead, pushed it to 53-17 at halftime and extended it to 74-31 after three periods.

Again, the subs saw as much action as the starters as the Tabbies seemingly could do no wrong.

Benny Ward won scoring honors with 25 points, and Jerry January meshed 24. Mitch Rambin and David McGinnis also finished in double figures with 12 and 11 points respectively.

McAden was high point man for the young Injuns with 16 points.

In other 3-AAA games last night Levelland beat Sweetwater 60-49 and Brownfield beat Littlefield 50-44.

PRESSING DEFENSE — Lake View just couldn't cope with Snyder's pressing defense here last night as the Bengals copped an 83-51 decision to bring it's District 3-AAA record to 1-1. The victory kept alive Snyder's championship hopes. Here, Tommy Bullard (left) puts the pressure on the Chiefs' Ralph Key.

Mustangs, 'Horns, Aggies Win As Play Begins In SWC

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Southwest Conference opened a new basketball campaign Tuesday night but it looked little different from the one ended 10 months ago.

Southern Methodist, Texas and Texas A&M won as expected, and SMU Mustangs produced another heart-stopping finish reminiscent of last year's championship team.

The Methodists, hitting an amazing 80 per cent of their shots in the second half, caught Baylor 78-78 in the last 13 seconds when Bill Voight completed a three-point play, then won 85-83 in overtime when Charles Beasley lofted a 20-foot shot with two seconds left.

Texas cashed 50 per cent of its 54 field goal attempts and turned back stubborn Arkansas 71-62 while Texas A&M subdued Rice 69-66.

Texas Christian and Texas Tech will complete the first round of conference games tonight at Fort Worth.

Southern Methodist's victory had a little more significance because it came on the road, where winning generally is tougher. Texas and Texas A&M each won at home.

The triumph was SMU's seventh straight this season and 11th consecutive in the conference, since the Ponies won their last 10 a year ago to clinch a second title in a row.

Two of the last three victories were claimed in extra periods, and it took two overtimes to beat Drake 84-81 in the Sun Carnival tournament last week. That also was the second straight two-point decision for SMU.

The 6-foot-5 Beasley, an all-conference selection last year, scored a career high of 30 points for the Methodists, tossing in 14 of 21 shots from the floor. Darrell Hardy got 26 and Ed Thorpe 24 for Baylor.

The first night of conference action was great for the shooters. Rice hit 49 per cent of its shots, Baylor 48 per cent, A&M 46 per cent and Arkansas 45 per cent, while SMU wound up with 61 per cent.

Rice, which has won only two conference games in two years, came within one point of tying the Aggies three times in the last five minutes and finally lost at the free throwline 23-16. A&M also controlled the rebounds 39-29.

Larry Miller was high for Rice with 17 points and Sonny Benefield led A&M with one less.

Charlie Turnbough and Billy Arnold picked up a sagging Texas offense in the second half. After Tommy Rowland's basket gave Arkansas its only lead of the game 41-40 in the second half, Arnold sank three consecutive baskets and Turnbough added 10 points and the Longhorns had a 59-52 lead.

Turbough was the leading scorer with 20 points although he fouled out with 6:13 to play. Rowland got 19.

Cards Trip Bronte, 60-56

HERMLEIGH — The Cardinals won two of three basketball games here Tuesday night over Bronte in the last non-district program of the season.

Hermleigh's varsity won, 60-56; the host girls came out on top of a 50-41 count; and the "B" boys lost, 30-41.

Despite the personal heroics of Bronte's Davis Corley, who scored 30 point, Hermleigh rallied from a 23-25 halftime deficit to score a come-from-behind victory in the boys varsity game.

David Creswell was high point man for the Cardinals with 16 points. Tom Chorn and Ted Winter each pitched in 10 points. Danny Peterson dunked in 14 points

Sharon Pieper paced the Hermleigh girls with 25 points, and Norma Pruitt tallied 22 for Bronte.

In the "B" game, Williams meshed 14 points for Bronte, and Jim Averitt scored 12 for Hermleigh.

The Cardinals journey to Ira Tuesday night for their first district game.

BRONTE (56) — Glenn 4-0-8; McCutchin 3-1-7; Corley 14-2-30; Allan 5-1-11; totals 26-4-56.

HERMLEIGH (60) — Chorn 4-2-10; M. Peterson 3-2-8; Creswell 6-4-16; D. Peterson 5-4-14; Winter 3-4-10; Helm 1-0-2; totals 22-16-60.

BRONTE — 10-15-13-18-56
HERMLEIGH — 14-9-17-20—60.

Lamar Wins Pair From Stamford

Lamar swept two junior high basketball games from Stamford here Tuesday night, the Texan 8th graders taking 28-15 decision and the 9th graders following up with a 78-57 triumph.

Jeff Stewart paced the Lamar 8th graders with 14 points as the Texans built up an 18-8 advantage at half-time and coasted in. Steve Dillaha and Mike Shearburn had 4 points each, while Bid Cooper, Bill Wilson and Bill Branson had 2 each. Robinson paced Stamford 8th with 7 points.

In the 9th grade game, Coach John Gary yanked his starting five after they leaped to a 24-10 lead in the first quarter. From there on Texans reserves saw plenty of action with no less than 10 boys contributing to the scoring.

Larry Greene was Lamar 9th's top scorer with 16 points. Billy Bowden and Lee McNair had 14 each, Randy Levens 12, Phil Ator 8, Terry Book 4, Steve Boydstun and Gary Terrell 3 each, and Bruce Bell and Ronald Gladson 2 each.

Roy Don Weaks was Stamford 9'th big gun. He split the threads for 28 points.

Norm Cash has hit five grand slam home runs for the Detroit Tigers. His fifth came against the Cleveland Indians Last July 22.

Otto Mum About Plans

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — South Coach Otto Graham is being closed mouthed about his plans for Saturday's 18th annual Senior Bowl football classic as North Coach Norm Van Brocklin asserts his team will play a passing game.

Graham, of the Washington Redskins, didn't verbally indicate what his strategy would be, but Tuesday's workout preparation appeared to be both in the air and on the ground.

Van Brocklin, of the Minnesota Vikings, said his squad "will definitely play a passing game" against the South.

One Senior Bowl official termed the North's practice as "one of the hardest workouts in at least 10 years here." The South squad worked on passing and running while emphasizing the old-fashioned draw up the middle.

Sidelined for the practice was Alabama's All-America end Ray Perkins who has signed a contract with the Baltimore Colts after catching nine passes for 159 yards against Nebraska in the Sugar Bowl.

Gentile At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies have added controversial slugger Jim Gentile to their roster as a backup man for first baseman Bill White, injured in an off-season accident.

General manager John Quinn of the National League Phillies, announced Tuesday that Gentile 33, had been acquired from the Cleveland Indians' Portland farm club for a player to be named later or cash.

He said the deal was made for Gentile due to "the need to go into spring training with an experienced first baseman."

White, who drove in more than 100 runs and hit more than 20 homers last season, injured his ankle while playing handball in St. Louis Dec. 19. Doctors said he is expected to miss part or all of spring training this year.

Willie Mays, San Francisco center fielder, has played 150 or more games for the Giants for 13 seasons.

Texas Sports Writers Name Haskins Coach Of The Year

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don Haskins, who led the Texas Western basketball team to the National Collegiate championship, was named senior college coach of the year by the Texas Sports Writers Association today.

He got 60 first place votes to 44 for second place Hayden Fry of Southern Methodist, whose team won the Southwest Conference football championship.

Chris Gilbert, Texas' outstanding running back, was picked as amateur athlete of the year over John LaGrone, Southern Methodist's great guard, and Randy Matson of Texas A&M, the world's leading shot putter.

Boyd Converse, whose Kilgore team was national junior college football champion, was junior college coach of the year with Bob Baccarrini of Henderson County, whose team was Junior Rose Bowl champion, the runner-up.

BOAT CRASH KILLS CAMPBELL

CONISTON, England (AP) — Donald Malcolm Campbell, who flirted with death setting speed records on land and water, vanished and was given up for dead today when his jet hydroplane boat Bluebird somersaulted and sank racing at about 300 miles an hour on Lake Coniston.

Witnesses on shore said there appeared to be an explosion. "Campbell must be considered killed," said one.

Wreckage of the boat and parts of Campbell's clothing, including his oxygen mask, were found, but there was no sign of the 45-year-old racer.

His last words radioed from his speedcraft were: "I'm giving her full power. I can't see much. I'm going."

Campbell, who was out to break his own record of 276.33 miles an hour, was strapped in the Bluebird. He made one run up the lake and was making a return run when disaster struck.

While playing cards with friends Tuesday night he turned up the ace of spades followed by the queen of spades.

He remarked: "Mary, Queen of Scots, turned up the same combination of cards and knew from it that she was going to be beheaded. I know that one of my family is going to get the chop. I pray to God it is not me."

Campbell appeared in a cheerful mood this morning, however, as he got set for his record attempt.

He was the son of Sir Malcolm Campbell, who gained fame in the 130s for his racing exploits on land and water. The younger Campbell took pride in being known as one of the "fanatical Campbells."

Shore observers said that Campbell's last words "I'm going" could have meant that he sensed disaster or that he was going all out in trying for the record.

An explosion was reported as the boat went down.

Wreckage strewed to the surface but there was no sign of Campbell.

Campbell's shoes, helmet, and oxygen mask were recovered.

An eyewitness on the shore said:

"The boat appeared to become airborne before somersaulting. A rescue boat circled the spot but appeared to find no sign of life. As the boat hit the water there appeared to be an explosion."

Campbell had been waiting for nearly nine weeks for suitable conditions to break his own water speed record of 276 miles an hour.

During trial runs in his hydroplane speedcraft he has had narrow escapes — twice hitting a bird while traveling at over 200 miles an hour.

A north westerly wind was blowing as the 45-year-old racer started his run today.

His father, Sir Malcolm Campbell, was a noted racer on both land and water. His son took over from his father, who died in November, 1948.

The younger Campbell was the first man to set up land and water speed records in the same year.

In 1964 he achieved 403.1 miles per hour in his gas turbine car Bluebird and 276.33 miles per hour on water in his jet hydroplane speed boat of the same name.

Campbell said then he hoped to do 400 miles an hour on land and 300 on water and if he attained these speeds he would retire.
