Gin Approaching End Of Season

On Monday, December 16, the Eldorado gin had processed 2505 bales and Gin Manager Mikeska estimated then that there were 150 more bales to come. This week on Tuesday he reported a total of 2635, an increase of 130, and said he was expecting about 20 more bales.

If clear, favorable weather continues, the gin will be ready to close down in about a week.

C of C Awards Prizes To Hunters Recently

More interest than ever before was reported in connection with the hunting season just closed. During that period Mrs. John Murr served as secretary to the Chamber of Commerce and maintained an office in the Eldo hotel building and helped landowners and hunters to get together on leases.

With the close of the hunting season, three prizes were awarded to deer and turkey hunters.

The C of C announced that the sealed envelope containing the predetermined requirements for winning the prizes at the Hext Storage Vault was opened and the weight of a Buck had been fixed closest to 90 pounds; an antlerless deer closest to 60 pounds and a gobbler with a beard nearest 4 inches in length.

C. O. Dewey registered a Buck weighing exactly 90 pounds and received a 243 Winchester deer rifle.

Mrs. Dee Shipman registered an antlerless deer weighing precisely 60 pounds and received a K4 Weaver Scope.

J. F. Lang of San Antonio registered a gobbler with a beard of 2 5/8", being the nearest to the 4-inch predetermined length, and received a thermal hunting suit.

The Storage Vault records show that game was stored by people from the following places:

San Angelo, Big Spring, Lamesa, Dallas, Carrollton, San Antonio, Odessa, Hot Springs, Ark.; Seminole, Corpus Christi, Kermit, Port Arthur, Ballinger, Midland, Fort Worth, Rule, Baytown, Tyler, Colorado City, Sour Lake, Henderson, Uvalde.

Wagley Seeks ReElection As Prct. 3 Commissioner

JOE WAGLEY

A resident of Schleicher county since 1943, and now completing his first four-year term as Commissioner of Precinct 3, Joe Wagley this week authorized the Success to announce his candidacy for re-election to a second term to that office.

In a statement to this newspaper Wagley said, "I have enjoyed serving in the office of Commissioner to which I was elected in 1960 and wish to thank the people for their fine, friendly co-operation given me these past years.

"If elected for a second term, I shall continue to give fair and impartial service to the best of my ability to every citizen in this county at all times. The experience I have gained in my first term has been invaluable and if re-elected by the voters of Precinct 3 to a new term, I will conduct the affairs connected with the office on the highest plane of efficiency possible. I earnestly solicit your support and influence on my behalf in the forthcoming Democratic Primary on May 2nd."

Mr. Wagley and his wife, Callie, live on their ranch north of town and they have two children, Jody and Jan.

Precinct 3 takes in the northeast quarter of Schleicher county.

MARCH OF DIMES FUND DRIVE NOW ON IN THE COUNTY

Under direction of Dan Sebesta, C. J. Hahn, and W. R. Bearce, the annual fund drive for the National Foundation is getting under way here in Schleicher county.

Coin receptacles have been placed in local business houses, or you may mail your contribution to Mr. Sebesta.

It is planned to stage the traditional "Mothers' March" some night late in the month of January on a date to be announced. This drive, plus the contributions collected between now and then, will take in a good sum for the March of Dimes.

Mr. Sebesta, as chairman of the Schleicher County Chapter of the National Foundation, cited the following facts in regard to the Foundation and the drive being conducted for it:

In its first quarter-century, 1938-1963, the March of Dimes has devoted $392.3 million to the medical care of victims of birth defects, arthritis and polio, including $5,592 for Schleicher county residents.

The March of Dimes in 26 years has invested $81.1 million in basic research into polio, birth defects, and arthritis, making possible both the Salk and Sabin vaccines.

Arthritis and rheumatic disease afflict 11 million in the U. S. alone. A quarter of a million babies are born each year in the U. S. with significant birth defects. Help fight these cripples. Phone the local March of Dimes chapter, Rev. Dan Sebesta, chairman at 21251 in Eldorado, for further information or to contribute.

March of Dimes contributions from Schleicher county have helped establish clinical study centers in many parts of the nation for research, teaching and treatment to aid victims of birth defects, arthritis and polio. The National Foundation—March of Dimes is the nation's largest single source of private support for research and patient care in arthritis.

Contributions to the March of Dimes are deductible by donors for income tax purposes. Your March of Dimes contributions help support treatment centers for birth defects and arthritis in Texas at Dallas, Galveston, and Houston.

The National Foundation—March of Dimes in 1963 marked the fifth anniversary of its fight against birth defects and arthritis following the conquest of polio.

HENRY SPECK, Jr. IS CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER, Prct 1

Mr. Speck stated that he is preparing to make a vigorous canvass of voters in Precinct No. 1 and that if elected will do his utmost for the best interests of the county.

Henry Speck Jr., was born and reared in Schleicher county and graduated from Eldorado High school. He was an employee of the Southwest Texas Electric Co-Op, for six years until the death of his father, Henry Speck Sr. Since then he has devoted his time to ranching duties on the Speck ranch.

In making his announcement, Mr. Speck concluded by stating he would appreciate the consideration, vote and influence of every voter in his precinct.

Tax Man Sam Sez:

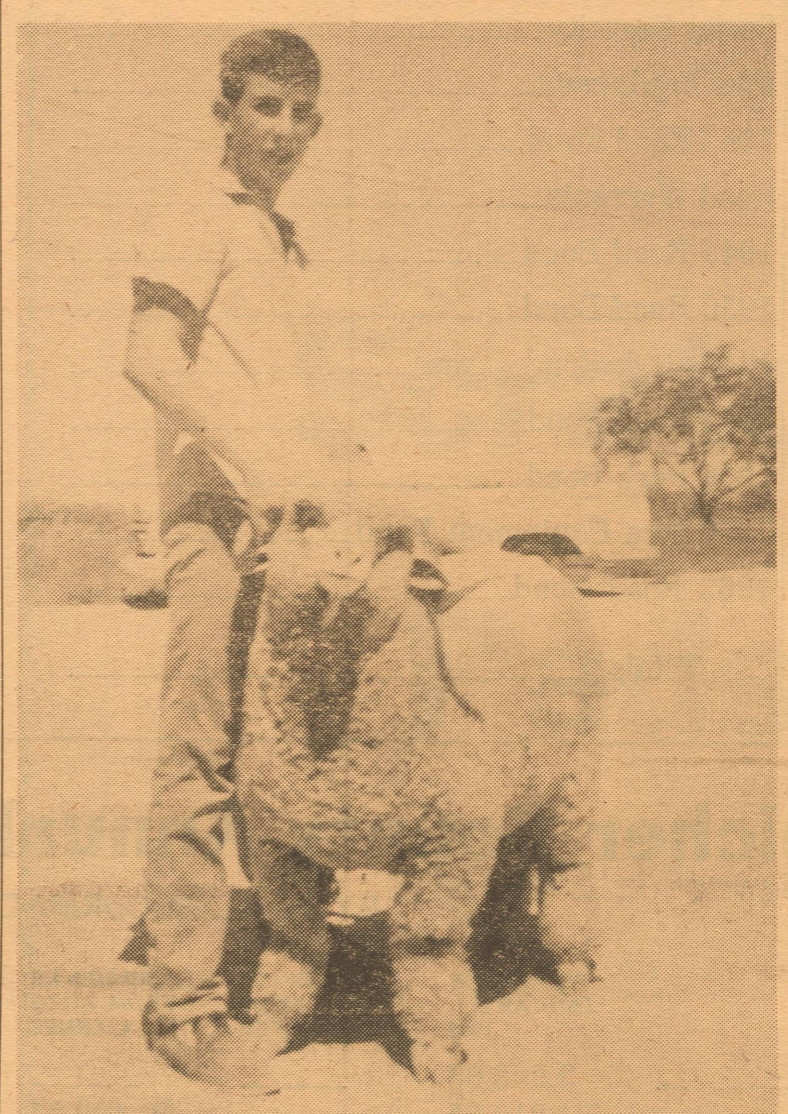

If you are a farmer you will make a mistake if you don't get a free copy of the "Farmer's Tax Guide." This booklet is available at the Internal Revenue Service offices and at your County Agent's office.

It's also prepared in plain old down-to-earth language that a farmer can understand. A little time plowing through this booklet will help you reap some tax savings.

Mrs. Lewis Tisdale of Menard spent the week end here with Mrs. V. G. Tisdale.

Cotton Coming In

Abilene.—A few days of clear moderate weather have allowed harvesting operations to get under way again. With favorable weather conditions, the cotton harvest should be complete in around two weeks, says B. B. Manly, Jr., in charge of the US Dept. of Agriculture's Cotton Classing Office in Abilene, Texas. Around 470,000 bales will be produced in 23 cotton producing counties served by the Abilene office, and the temporary office at Munday, Texas. The sub office at Munday is open only during the active ginning season. Mr. A. D. Peebles was in charge again this season. The office classed 82,874 samples, near the 88,755 classed last season, but far below the record 115,217 classed in 1961. The Abilene office should class around 390,000 this season, compared with 363,932 samples last year.

Production figures this year were surprising, especially on dry land. Although there was a lack of moisture, the crop apparently matured well, and micronaire readings and "lint turnouts" were excellent. Grades and especially staples were effected some, and they will be discussed in another article at a later date.

Production from irrigated acreage was not as good as expected in many cases. Insects and a hot dry summer took its toll in the irrigated cotton. Long staple varieties with high "Pressley readings" (an instrument that measures breaking strength of cotton) sold at a premium, bringing up to 2½ cents per pound above the loan rate.

The market was steady and fairly active. At times it was slow, but most any time cotton could be sold at a premium over the loan, except those grades above Mid Lt Sp, 31/32. Around 2/3 of the local crop sold.

During the past week prices and demand for cotton have been better than at any other period this season. Mid Lt Sp, 15/16 is bringing 29.65 to 30.05 cents per pound; SLM Lt Sp and LM Lt Sp, 15/16 28.85 to 29.10 cents per pound; and Mid Sp, 15/16 28.10 to 28.40. The prices quoted above are net prices to the producer, that is, it is the price the producer receives after warehouse and hauling charges are deducted. Some of these prices are below the gross loan price, however, by the time loan charges are deducted, they would be near loan prices.

Home Demonstration Agent's Column

By MRS. VIDA KREKLOW

One day last week my mother got a thank you letter from a 9-year-old granddaughter, thanking her for her Christmas present. She concluded her note by saying, "The Christmas rush is all over and we are all very happy."

I think Sarah Moore spoke for most of us. The rush is over, the fun was great, the new year has started, the routine has just about adjusted to the demands of everyday living and I hope that everybody is "very happy."

Isn't it lucky that we have the chance to change. Without it life would be pretty dull. I heard someone make this statement the other day: "In order to be fully appreciated money and sleep should occasionally be interrupted." The same idea applies to holiday festivities and the routines of living. Occasionally the ordinary and the extraordinary should be interrupted.

One of the most definite food needs along about this time of the year is to get away from the heavy, rich and sweet foods.

Louise Dyer and I were thinking and talking about this fact the other morning and in the course of recipe swapping she gave me one of her favorite supper dishes. This dish fits the requirements of being easy; quick, not high in calories, a meal in a dish and good as an extra feature. I'm trying it tonight — why don't you?

Glorified Spinach
Lightly brown one pound ground meat; use oil or fat sparingly.

While meat is browning cook one box frozen spinach.

Chop ½ medium sized onion very fine and add to spinach.

Add spinach mixture to meat.

Add two raw eggs to meat and scramble until eggs are done. Season with salt, pepper and a drop or two of tobasco sauce if you care for a touch of heat.

Serves four and makes a dandy supper dish.

A New Cold Water Detergent

A new cold water liquid detergent has been on store shelves for some time now and is the newest thing in laundry aids. A low sudsing heavy-duty detergent, it is said to cleanse thoroughly in water as low as 40 degrees F. Washing in cold water not only saves on hot water, says the manufacturer, but assures less shrinkage, fading and wrinkling. Some stains, such as chocolate, blood, and eggs that are set by hot water are more easily removed when soiled clothes are washed in cold water. The detergent will work equally as well in soft or hard, warm, or hot, water. Bleach or other laundry aids can be added to the wash water, as will other detergents. The product is packaged in one quart and three quart plastic bottles.

If a scarcity of hot water holds up your washing several machines full in one day this may be your answer.

And while we are speaking of laundry needs this is a good time to tell you of recently published reports concerning bacteria which live on cloth. Researchers washed the laundry of 9 families for many months to collect their information.

They say— That normal home-type laundering cannot destroy or prevent the spread of many disease producing organisms.

That the bacteriologists found as many as 30 kinds of bacteria from these nine families.

That bacteria which cause carbuncles, kidney infection, pneumonia, intestinal disturbances, lung lesions and other diseases were found.

And that—if a member of the family has such diseases or if the home laundry is done in public machines some disinfectant should be added.

Things which may be used:
1. A liquid chlorine bleach.
2. Pine-Sol, which is a brand name for pine oil.
3. A phenolic disinfectant — add these materials according to directions on containers.

It's better to be safe than to worry about the spread of bacteria.

Compiling of the school census is under way. All people between ages of 6 and 18 are to be included in the count.

David Kuykendall, who is attending school at San Angelo College and Miss Carolyn Glenn of Bronte, a student at Hardin Simmons, visited David's mother and sister, Mrs. Allan Kuykendall and Louise on New Year's.

who's doing the dishes tonight?

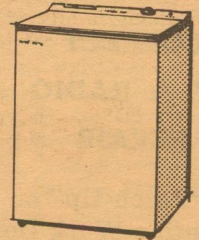

That's a silly question. I take it for granted you are, mom. Do you know that it's been proven the average woman puts in over sixty 8-hour working days per year in hand-washing dishes? . . . time that you can put to far better use.

An automatic dishwasher is the answer to your dishwashing chore. It will save you more than half of your after-meal cleanup time, and keep the kitchen neat and clean after between meal snacks. As sure as I'm Reddy Kilowatt, you'll have to admit that continuing to do the dishes by hand is about as pointless as laundering the clothes by hand.

Eagles Win 1, Lose 1, In Big Lake Tournament

The Eldorado Eagles returned to action after the Christmas holidays with a 56-52 win over Miles. This was the first action for the Eagles since December 19 when they beat Sonora 84-60. The Eagles did not play a good game as their Christmas turkey seemed to hold them flat on their feet.

Against the towering Crane ball club, the Eagles lost a heart breaker. With the score tied 54-54, Conrad Lee, Crane's fine jump shot artist hit a long set shot to down the Eagles. Time ran out before the ball could be put in play.

Richard Preston led the Eagles with 28 points against Miles and 27 points against Crane. He also was on the all tournament team.

The Eagles will open District 8A action Friday against Big Lake in Eldorado.

GARDEN CLUB MEETS

The Garden Club met Wednesday morning at the Memorial building for a regular meeting during which the conservation project was discussed. This is to plant trees as a windbreak. The project is carried over from last year.

Trees can be ordered from the Extension Service. Anyone interested can get them for $1.50 a hundred by ordering at least 100 from the Indian Mound Nurseries, box 337, Alto, Texas before Feb. 10th.

Mrs. Vida Kreklow presented a film on landscaping, showing gardens from every sector of North America.

Mrs. J. F. Runge talked on unity, scale and accent in flower arranging and used her arrangement of dried material to illustrate her talk.

Officers for the 1964-65 club year were elected to be installed at the last meeting in May. Mrs. Leo Prather was elected president; Mrs. Jimmy Doyle, 1st vice president; Mrs. C. J. Niblett 2nd vice; Mrs. Joe Kreklow, secretary; and Mrs. Bob Reynolds, treasurer.

Nine members and a guest Miss Constance Spence, attended the meeting.

CIRCLE MEETING

The Ruth Dickenson circle met Monday afternoon with Mrs. L. M. Hoover for the Royal Service program. Mary Robinson read a letter from Dr. Ruth Dickenson, a missionary in East Pakistan, for whom the circle was named.

Mrs. Hoover served refreshments to the 14 members present.

New Club In Eldorado

A recently organized group of ladies meeting each Monday night in a concentrated effort to take off excess pounds is enjoying enthusiastic success.

The club patterned loosely after the national group "TOPS" (take off pounds sensibly) the local ladies invite anyone interested in losing weight while having fun, to attend their meeting at the West Texas Woolen Mills office each Monday night at 7:00.

IN RELAY TEAM AT NEW ORLEANS

Jim Runge, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Runge spent most of the Christmas holidays in New Orleans where he participated in the mile relays run in the Sugar Bowl on December 29, as a member of the A&M mile relay team.

On Dec. 30th the city of New Orleans experienced the worst snow storm since 1886. The citizens did not know what to make of it.

Jim, accompanied by his mother and Miss Constance Spence returned to College Station last week end after spending a few days at home.

S. S. CLASS LUNCHEON

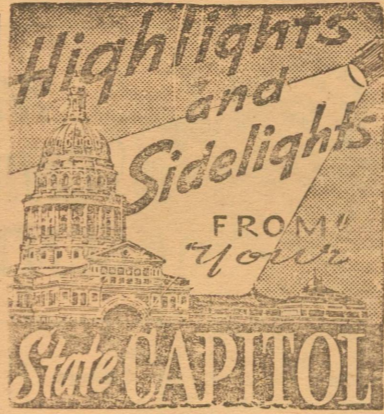

The Nixon Sunday school class met at the West Texas Cafe Wednesday at noon for the monthly business meeting and luncheon with 13 members attending. The teacher, Mrs. Allan Kuykendall, read a card and letter from Mrs. Calcote of Malibu Calif., a former teacher of the class, that was deeply appreciated.

Mildred Stanford reported that $7.00 was turned in for the Lottie Moon class from the love offering. Mrs. Bill Watson brought the devotional from Matthew 28.

The project of the year is for each member to read the New Testament through the year, dividing it by quarters.

Mrs. J. F. Runge and Miss Constance Spence visited in Austin Sunday night and Monday enroute home after taking Mrs. Runge's son Jim, back to college at A&M, Bryan Texas. While in Austin they toured the new archives building on the capitol grounds.

Guests in the James Williams home for the holidays included their son-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Wiegand and Mr. and Mrs. C. Morris Davis and their son all from Houston; also Mr. Davis's mother, Mrs. Edna Richardson from Phoenix, Arizona.

Austin.—Austin has settled back to being just the capital of Texas after nearly two hectic weeks news-wise as the vacation White House.

Dozens of top cabinet officers, military leaders and federal agency heads followed German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and his advisors to the LBJ Ranch for conferences with President Lyndon Johnson.

Encouraging predictions of progress toward world peace emerged from the President's international discussions. The federal budget and economy were spot-lighted in the domestic talks.

Before he departed, White House sources gave these insights into the President's thinking:

He does not feel the U. S. can drag its feet until after elections this year before pressing for new peace breakthroughs.

He regards civil rights and the $11 million tax cut as legislative "musts." Also, he has expressed support for the medicare program of aid to the aged.

Reducing the budget to save money for essential human needs, including education, is regarded by the President as of concern to all Americans. He hopes cost cutting will serve as a pattern for future years.

Slum clearance and "a home for every American" are seen as goals of his administration. Some newsmen interpreted this as a likely 1964 campaign slogan.

Johnson hopes to steadily improve America's preparedness. But he is strong for elimination of military obsolescence, particularly old bases and installations retained in the budget for political reasons.

Congressional leaders will run their own legislative show. But the new President won't hesitate to ask old congressional friends for what he thinks is needed.

Johnson hopes to draw on the talents of both business and labor to render public service.

He is concerned about unemployment and is calling for new solutions.

Prison Population Reduced

For the first time in 18 years, the number of prisoners in the Texas Department of Corrections shows a decrease.

Department Director Dr. George Beto reports that the December 31 count was 12,150, compared with 12,203 the year before. Since 1945, there has been a steady climb in the number of prison inmates.

Beto cited these reasons for leveling off: more adequate parole supervision; opening of a new first-offender unit; a pre-release program of preparing prisoners for freedom; an expanded trusty program; and overall improvement in the prison treatment program.

Prison chief said the reduction not only will save money on prison care, but also in welfare funds spent on families of inmates, not to mention restoring prisoners to productive lives as citizens and taxpayers.

Prison System Income

Farm products and livestock produced more than $6.5 million of the prison system's 1962 income, according to the auditor's report just released. Other sources were: manufactured products, $3,704,616; oil and gas leases, $39,237; miscellaneous, $3,287,167.

Report placed total income from farms and farm industries at $10-

144,773, with expenses of $14,304,734 for a deficit of $4,159,961.

Manufacturing operations include license plates shoes, textiles, clothing and other products.

School Income Threat

Texas school income will be drastically reduced unless the Federal Power Commission sets an adequate price for gas in the Texas Gulf Coast area and the Hugoton-Anadarko area of the Texas Panhandle, Attorney General Carr contends.

has been asked by the Livestock Carriers Association of Texas to increase truck freight rates on hay and cottonseed hulls.

Although the Texas Commission on Higher Education is responsible for the administration of State senior colleges and universities, junior colleges—which would get some $2.7 million of the grant money—come under the jurisdiction of the State Board of Education. There is no State agency for private colleges.

The construction-aid program is designed for both public and private colleges. Connally's decision must meet with the approval of the U. S. Commissioner of Education and be confirmed by Attorney General Carr.

A viewpoint on public education, Carr has filed a petition to intervene in price hearings ordered by FPC to determine reasonable rates for sale of natural gas in the areas.

Earlier he filed briefs requesting FPC to set the price of all gas in the Permian Basin area at 21 cents MCF. The FPC staff sought a nine cents MCF rate for casing-head gas and 13.7 cents MCF for gas well gas.

Attorney General noted in his brief that Texas levies a 7% occupation tax based on market value of the gas at the well head to help support state government.

He also pointed out that the University of Texas system owns more than 4,700,000 acres of land in the Permian Basin area. Bonus money and royalty income from this acreage goes to the permanent school fund for Texas education. More than 18,000,000 acres of state land are involved in the Gulf Coast hearing.

Basic structural deficiencies in the mandatory oil import program have rendered it "both ineffective and politically inappropriate," according to a Texas representative to the Sixth World Petroleum Congress.

Sen. Charles Herring of Austin so concluded in his report to Gov. John Connally.

The time has arrived, Herring stated, "for a comprehensive review of the program, leading toward the evolving of a whole new approach."

The Senator found "evidence of a serious monopoly trend within the petroleum industry" and no basis for assuming that corrective forces "will emerge from within the industry itself."

Herring said Texas is suffering "grave economic damage" from its attempts to balance supply with effective demand and to "serve as a balance wheel to world oversupply."

Haying said Texas is suffering "grave economic damage" from its attempts to balance supply with effective demand and to "serve as a balance wheel to world oversupply."

Railroad Commission already has been asked by the Livestock Carriers Association of Texas to increase truck freight rates on hay and cottonseed hulls.

A hearing on the application has been set by the Commission's rate division for January 20. In some cases this would mean a rate increase of more than 100%.

Higher Education

Governor Connally is expected to decide soon whether to designate an existing state agency to recently advanced by a subcommittee of the Governor's Committee on Education Beyond the High School, was expressed by the Education Policies Commission of the National Education Association and the American Association of School Administrators. Commission recommended that American youths receive two more years of free education after high school.

System proposed is much like that in operation in California. There any high school graduate may pursue his tuition-free education in a public junior or two-year college.

State School Meeting Set

Board for State Hospitals and Special Schools' Site Selections Committee will meet January 13 to discuss site proposals for locating a newly-authorized West Texas State School for the mentally retarded.

The school, to be located somewhere "West of the 100th Meridian", has been offered a "home" by many West Texas communities, including El Paso, Lubbock, Plainview and others. All the cities are involved in ardent community campaigns for the industrial stimulation brought about by such an institution.

Arbor Day Set

Governor Connally has proclaimed January 17 as Arbor Day in Texas. In a special observance, the Texas Forestry Association will plant several pecan seedlings on the Capitol grounds.

The pecan is the state tree of Texas.

Dinner Decision

Texas Democratic party will share with the national Democratic Committee $270,000 contributed for tickets to the November 22 Kennedy-Johnson "Welcome dinner" which never came off. Donors will get a record album of Kennedy's last speeches and souvenir programs which had been prepared for the event.

One cannot but wonder if the indescribable sufferings and privations experienced by a Confederate soldier from Fairfield, Freestone county, were not in some measure responsible in later years for the formation of a great benevolent foundation which annually gives away hundreds of thousands of dollars to alleviate such sufferings and privation.

The soldier was Colonel W. L. Moody, whose son, W. L. Moody, Jr., founded the great-hearted Moody Foundation of Galveston, one of the largest philanthropic organizations in the United States. Who can say but that the influence of the former Confederate was instrumental in the son's decision to give the bulk of his estate to help others.

Colonel Moody, who came to Fairfield in 1852, organized one of the first Texas companies to see action in the Civil War. This was Company G, Seventh Texas Infantry Regiment, whose commander was Judge John Gregg who had been one of the two representatives from Freestone county at the Secession Convention in Austin on Feb. 1, 1861, and who had been elected as one of seven Texans to go to the Montgomery, Alabama, Convention where they became members of the Congress of the Confederacy.

W. L. Moody was named captain of the company from Freestone County and his Company G, along with troops from Waco and from Upshur, Smith and other counties were ordered to Tennessee to join General Albert Sidney Johnston's forces in late 1861. Some of the descendants of those more than 100 Confederates still live in Freestone County today.

In addition to Captain Moody, the other officers were J. H. Collett, 1st Lt.; E. R. G. Steel, Senior Second Lieutenant; and O. Burleson, Junior Second Lieutenant. Non-commissioned officers were J. D. Miles, First Sergeant; C. W. Love, G. K. Anderson, J. E. Oliver, and J. F. Moody, Sergeants; W. F. Paxton, John A. Womach, S. J. Streety, J. M. Henderson, corporals; and J. L. Alston, physician.

As they passed through Marshall on their way to Monroe, La., where they were to ship out by rail and rived boat to Vicksburg and Memphis, and on to Clarksville, Tenn., the local newspaper reported of them "The Freestone company will bear a favorable comparison with any raised in the state, for appearance or material."

The Seventh Texas Infantry Regiment was organized early in November of 1861 after the men had suffered untold privation and sickness while stationed at both Clarksville and at Hopkinsville, Ky. Many of the men died from illness and by December more than half the regiment was not fit for duty due to colds, measles, pneumonia, coughs, etc. By January of 1862, 139 men of the regiment had died from sickness with Moody's Company G the heaviest loser with 25 dead and still not a hostile shot having been fired by the company.

The regiment took part in the Battle of Fort Donelson where they were captured and later exchanged. The Seventh was reorganized with Captain Moody being promoted to Lieutenant Colonel and J. H. Collett named captain of Moody's old Company G.

The participated in activities in Louisiana and along the Mississippi River just prior to the fall of Vicksburg and lost a number of men killed and missing. For his activity in one of these engagements, Colonel Moody was cited for "cool bravery."

After Vicksburg fell, Company G was sent to Chickamauga and its captain, Collett, was promoted to colonel and given command of the regiment. Granbury had been promoted to general of the brigade and Gregg, also a general, was serving in Virginia. Colonel Moody was promoted to the full rank of colonel and sent to Austin for duty there.

P. D. Browne of Baylor University, to whom we are indebted for much of the information on Col. Moody and Company G, wrote that the company, along with its regiment, the Seventh, "gradually fought itself into extinction from southern Tennessee and northern Georgia to Atlanta. Franklin, Chattanooga, Missionary Ridge, Dalton, New Hope, Jonesborough, Cass Station were all part of its story."

After the War Colonel Moody moved back to Galveston where for 50 years he was engaged in cotton and wool buying and where he employed himself in building a city that today is almost a monument to him. His name and that of his son appear all over the Gulf seaport town.

Mrs. Mary Moody Northern, the Colonel's granddaughter whom we met a couple of summers ago when we were employed by the Texas Civil War Centennial Commission and whom we have spoken with on a number of occasions since then, is one of the most gracious ladies we know. As a member of the Texas State Historical Survey committee and the Texas Civil War Centennial Advisory Committee, she is interested in and contributes to the preservation of the great heritage of Texas.

Freestone county was famous for another group of soldiers—those who sealed the breach in the Confederate lines encircling the Vicksburg prior to its fall. These men were led by Captain L. D. Bradley, whose sister, Lizzie, married W. L. Moody in 1860 just prior to the outbreak of the War.

Captain Bradley and his men were members of Waul's Texas Legion and their act was one of the most noble in the annals of the Confederacy.

Recommended Reading for This Week: Many of the men who went away to War in the 1860's made a name for themselves in the years following the conflict. Their story is told in two unusual volumes published some time ago by the Louisiana State University Press but which are fresh and vital today as veterans of World War II make their mark in the land.

These are "Veterans in Politics," the story of the Grand Army of the Republic by Mary R. Dearing, and "Confederate Leaders in the New South" by William B. Hesseltine.

And an unusual piece of fiction covering the whole century after the Civil War but which is based upon events of the War, is Margaret Banister's "Tears are for the Living," published by Houghton Mifflin.

Christmas Party

One of the highlights of the Holiday Season was a "Holiday Buffet" held at the beautifully lighted and decorated Dyer home Monday night, December 23rd. All the rooms of the home were open to guests for the festive occasion. A large wrought iron epergne filled with poinsettias and white glittered spruce and candles centered the large table covered with a pink linen tablecloth. Tall black tapers flanked the centerpiece and a variety of unusual foods was served to nearly 200 guests.

Cookies were served in the family room from a table covered with a green Christmas cloth centered with an arrangement of a large orange and green candle surrounded by orange straw flowers and Christmas balls.

The party was hosted by: Mr. and Mrs. Ben Harkey, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Teele, Mr. and Mrs. John Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis McCormick, and Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Dyer.

Deanne Hext, Jane Sanders and Alice and Mary Dyer were also members of the house party.

Studebaker—A Casualty Of Government Meddling

When the stop switch was pushed for the last time on the Studebaker automobile assembly line, a long era of progress had ground to an undeserved end.

From the fine Studebaker horse-drawn wagons to the Studebaker automobile, the company earned the respect of the American consumer.

Because it found itself in financial straits many times, its management was wise enough to diversify its product line and produce more than just automobiles.

Now, according to company spokesmen, the automobile operation—perennially in the red—has been "bleeding white" the other divisions. Finally, it reached a point where the company could no longer afford to continue its plant in the United States, which was located at South Bend, Indiana.

The loss of jobs is a severe blow to those who must now search for employment—but perhaps the lesson of this experience may save other jobs in the future. For the chief cause of Studebaker's losses was an unrealistic wage scale. Under the monopolistic labor situation created by the federal government, the labor leaders merely did what they were paid to do—press for ever-higher wages. The financial problems of the company were totally ignored.

In a free economy—that is, without government interference—labor and management would have bargained as equals. One has skills to offer; the other has jobs available. Labor would have been compelled by a free market to take as its compensation only the value of what it produced.

In other words, with no artificial clubs provided by the government, union leaders could not have pressed production costs ever upward. To some, this concept of equal bargaining is "merciless." But had it been in effect, the Studebaker plant would be running today; and thousands of jobs would have been preserved.

Instead, costs were pushed to a point where the company had no choice but to close up shop. It could not sell its cars for more than the public would pay for them. Yet it was expected to pay its employees more than they produced.

Viewing incidents like this, it is convenient to lash out at labor leaders, imploring them to exercise restraint "in the public interest." They, however, are not the cause of our problem; they are merely the inevitable effect.

The cause is to be found in the unfair advantages granted to union leaders by federal legislation. If the government would confine itself to its one legitimate function—that of protecting the people's natural rights, instead of trying to create new rights for some at the expense of others—then our labor problems would quickly disappear.

Unemployment, automation, and changing technology are not problems in a free market. Every man who wants to work can always find a job. And as management is free to properly serve its customers, higher real wages and a better standard of living inevitably follow.

Once we get rid of federal meddling, labor and management can both thrive in an unhobbled economy moving full speed ahead. —Santa Anna News.

Minus — And Plus!

The time for stock-taking is at hand, and as we contemplate the past and look to the future, there is reason for confidence and measured optimism.

Events of the last few years, and a realistic look at the problems which beset each of our major industries, compel a degree of realism, and definitely rule out any wild-eyed or unbounded optimism.

The farmers have many problems—as has been the case thru most of history. There are the ever-present shortages of water, plus the cloudy picture of multiple regulations and gradually lowering margins of profits, complicated further by increasing difficulties with insects which threaten the future of cotton growing.

The oil and gas people have their full share of difficulties, also, with over-production, excessive governmental controls, & steadily rising costs among the major headaches.

The ranchmen have never found life simple or easy in the Trans-Pecos country. It is a hard land, too dry much of the time, and there are always the problems of price and production costs to challenge the management skills of the stockman.

The merchant lives with all those problems, plus a few of his own generated by good roads, fast automobiles, and the aggressive merchandising of concerns in larger surrounding towns.

By this time a reader may wonder why the writer of so gloomy a summary bothered to get out of bed—or even breathe—but there is another side to this picture—equally realistic and far from gloomy. Farmers of the Fort Stockton demand for services in this day of high investment and operating costs.

The area are blessed with a fine overall climate, and long growing season. Soil and climate are adapted to numerous crops, with increasing emphasis on vegetable production and a grazing crop-livestock type of agriculture. There is opportunity here, despite many problems, and perhaps in years to come we may see the cost-squeeze on cotton as a blessing in disguise which has tended the change to a better balanced and more genuinely prosperous farm program.

In the oil and gas picture, we see tremendous future possibilities for the county is among the most active in Texas in new production—it has tremendous proven reserves and tax values; and lease and royalty trading continue to be a major factor in the economy of the land-owner and the towns of the area. Oil and gas are big business, provide many, many jobs and are the definite difference in a growing, progressive community and one withering on the vine.

The ranchman has always been an optimist—or he would be in some other line of work. A good rain will cure most ranch problems at least for a time, and a majority of those engaged in this basic industry of the area are experienced people who know how to make-do in the lean years and take up economic slack in years when it rains and prices are favorable.

More and better roads will bring more travel—and more competition—in the years ahead. Tourist business can be greatly developed and the returns increased by community effort—on which a fair start has been made.

Business concerns have the answer to their problems—in more efficient management coupled with more aggressive promotion at the local level to meet the challenge of the larger shopping areas.

We have an amazing amount of local industry. Hundreds of jobs are provided and millions of dollars pumped into the local economy without dependence on rainfall or favorable growing conditions for cotton or range plants.

We have strategic geographic location, fine climate, wonderful people, a rich historic heritage—and, we submit: the gumption and the fortitude to make something of them.

The New Year can be a dandy or a dud. It depends on people and how they use the plus factors to overcome the minus side of a realistic picture! It's time to be about the job. —Fort Stockton Pioneer.
