Quite a number of Dallas Cowboy fans didn't see the spine-tingling finish of Sunday's last-gasp victory over Philadelphia, we are told. They had either turned off their television sets in disgust, or else had switched to the game on the other network.

They should know by now that professional football not only is a game of inches, but also a game of seconds. The Cowboys were defeated a week earlier in much the same manner, and then the Buffalo-Miami game also went down to the wire the past week. And don't forget that overtime match between Dallas and St. Louis.

We encountered Willie Bigham, Joel Griffin and John Gary in a huddle at the teachers convention Monday at the Scurry County Coliseum, and they were replaying the Cowboy-Eagle game, as were various other groups the morning after. They finally got around to the unexpected pass by the Dallas punter on fourth down early in the ball game and deep in Dallas territory. It was nearly picked off by Texan Bill Bradley.

Gary said he once heard of a reason for such plays. He said Sammy Baugh, the all-everything quarterback for TCU and the Washington Redskins, told him once that he always pulled a bizarre play just before half-time during his tenure as head football coach at Hardin-Simmons. It gave the opponents' coaches something to talk about during the half-time intermission. Then, he usually pulled another unexpected maneuver about the middle of the fourth quarter to give the scouts a few things to put in their notebooks and study in preparation for their upcoming game.

We have received a request from the R.L. Pascahl High School in Fort Worth to announce that it will celebrate its 90th anniversary in conjunction with the nation's Bicentennial by establishing a Hall of Fame honoring graduates. The deadline for nominations is Saturday, Nov. 1. They seemed to think there probably are some Pasachl graduates in this area. Nominees for their Hall of Fame should include the candidate's occupation, background and area of achievement, and should be mailed to Paschal Bicentennial Committee, 3001 Forest Park Blvd. Fort Worth, 76110.

A recent television show on CBS titled "Guns of Autumn" caused an unusual amount of concern among United Funds in several cities. The show, which dealt with hunting in the United States, was controversial and many viewers thought it was sponsored by the United Fund because the network ran some public service announcements for the fund-raising organization during the showing. United Fund didn't have anything to do with scheduling the announcements, since they were contributed by the network. That's the reason the network, in a followup program titled "Echoes of the Guns of Autumn," advised viewers, "If you're angry at CBS News, that's one thing, but don't blame the United Fund."

They say viewers in at least 12 major cities became so upset they had threatened to withdraw their support of the United Way campaigns.—WACIL McNAIR.

Sadat Resumes Quest For Arms

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat resumed his quest for American weapons today after praising President Ford for moving toward "an even-handed policy in the Middle East."

Sadat met for half an hour at Blair House with Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger and then held a second session with Ford at the White House.

Blair House is government quarters for visiting dignitaries.

Both Ford and Sadat were in a jovial mood as they began their talks in the Oval Office with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy.

At a state dinner in his honor on Monday night, Sadat said U.S. relations with his country have improved because of "a greater degree of American understanding of our just cause and our legitimate struggle to establish peace in the area."

He urged Ford to boost creation of a Palestinian state — "Are they not entitled to their national rights like all other peoples?"

The Palestinian cause is gaining more international support every day, Sadat said, and "many Arabs are confident that the United States will not dissent from this irreversible trend."

His appeal went unanswered. But Ford, speaking first, stressed that "there can be no peace until the legitimate interests of all people in the Middle East are taken fairly into account...."

SOCIOLOGIST CHANGES VIEW

Busing Reviewed

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading sociologist who once advocated busing to achieve school desegregation today told Congress that forced busing has had the opposite effect in the nation's large cities.

Dr. James S. Coleman of the University of Chicago told the Senate Judiciary Committee that court-ordered busing "raises a spectre of a country of black cities and white suburbs."

A report by Coleman in 1966 for the U.S. Office of Education provided an underpinning for busing to achieve desegregation. The report found that children from disadvantaged backgrounds performed somewhat better when they attended school with children from more affluent homes.

Coleman said today that although he never believed in compulsory busing, he had once held that busing was the quickest way to achieve school integration in the nation's schools.

However, he said he has now changed his mind after realizing that busing contributed to the flight of whites from the central cities into the suburbs.

However, Coleman refused to endorse proposed constitutional amendments before the committee that would ban compulsory busing as a means of achieving school integration.

Massive busing of students should be discontinued, Coleman testified, but this should come through the courts and through political processes rather than by an amendment to the Constitution.

Before the committee are proposed amendments that would bar court-ordered busing plans like those put into effect this September in Louisville and Boston.

Kentucky Gov. Julian M. Carroll testified that the Louisville busing plan has caused "extensive harm" to Louisville and Jefferson County.

He urged the committee to approve an amendment only as a last resort. First, Congress should enact a moratorium on forced busing and establish a study commission to evaluate the nationwide impact of busing orders, Carroll said.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., disclosed at a news conference Monday that President Ford has ordered the Justice Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to "extensively review" options to busing.

Tower met with Ford for 30 minutes Monday and later told reporters the President "agreed with me that forced busing to achieve racial balance is counterproductive."

However, Tower said Ford did not suggest any specific alternatives to busing and refused to endorse his proposed constitutional amendment that would forbid busing for racial purposes.

Ford To Make Speech On NYC Crisis Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will make what was described as an important speech about New York City's financial problems on Wednesday, the White House said today.

Press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford will deliver the address before the National Press Club here. Nessen declined to say whether Ford has changed his position against federal help for New York.

Ford will deliver his speech at noon and then will depart in the early afternoon for a two-day Republican fund-raising trip to California, with a stop in Milwaukee on the way home Thursday.

Ford has maintained he has no legal authority to help New York and said that bailout legislation would not be necessary if New York City would take the hard steps necessary to put its financial house in order.

However, he has never said specifically that he would veto legislation if Congress sent him a measure to help the city avoid default.

Nessen called the speech "an important speech — on an important subject" and said Ford had selected a long-standing invitation from the National Press Club to speak on the issue.

Some sources have said that Ford has left himself room to maneuver and does not want to announce his opposition to any legislation before the legislation is approved.

When asked if Ford has changed his position, Nessen replied, "I suggest you listen to the speech tomorrow."

The first indication that Ford was planning an address came when Treasury Secretary William E. Simon canceled a planned appearance today before a House banking subcommittee considering help for New York.

Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, chairman of the panel, said Simon told him he did not want to appear before the subcommittee until after the President spoke.

The Senate Banking Committee was expected to approve federal aid for New York City this week, but it may not contain the kind of help that New York officials are seeking.

Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., and committee chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., met Monday night to discuss their differences over proposed aid plans.

Jail Plans Proposed

County Commissioners yesterday met with architect J.D. Hinton to discuss proposed plans for the new jail to be constructed on the site of the Travis Junior High building.

Hinton, in preliminary drawings, proposed the new county jail building to have about 15,000 square feet of floor space. He said the building could have offices for the Sheriff, Justice of the Peace, the Department of Public Safety and the Texas Ranger as well as accommodations for 48 to 50 prisoners.

No action has been taken on any of the proposals.

"The jail project is still in the talking stage," pointed out County Judge Preston Wilson.

In other action yesterday, commissioners voted to advertise for bids for five new automobiles to be used by the Sheriff's Department, and also advertise for bids for furnutire to be used in the Scurry County library. Bids for both of these will be opened at the court's meeting Nov. 17.

Oil Imports Cut Trade Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP) — A surge in imported oil eroded the nation's foreign trade balance in September, but the United States still managed to record its eighth consecutive monthly surplus, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said the surplus for September was $976.4 million, compared to a $1.04 billion surplus in August. It was the smallest monthly surplus in five months.

The drop in the surplus came because imports rose 2.9 per cent during the month, while exports advanced 1.9 per cent.

The biggest factor in the import increase was a 9.5 per cent jump in oil imports to a total of 207 million barrels. The quantity of oil imports in September was second only to January's import of 285 million barrels this year.

Oil imports have varied widely all year as importers responded to President Ford's imposition of oil import tariffs and the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries increased prices. The latest increase in imports was in line with expectations by trade specialists that oil imports would resume their growth later this year as the U.S. recovery picked up steam and demands for fuel increased.

Despite oil, the quantity of imports for all of this year are still 1.9 per cent behind the same period a year ago.

Because of prices increases, the value of the oil imported so far — $18.5 billion — is 2.4 per cent ahead of the same period a year ago.

The over-all trade balance for the first nine months of this year is in surplus by $8.4 billion, compared to a $1.8 billion deficit for the first nine months of last year.

Commerce said the biggest factor in increased exports for September was a $112.5 million jump in wheat. Exports of wheat totaled $554.3 million. Exports of chemicals, civilian aircraft and nonferrous metals also were up.

Other major increases in imports besides petroleum included a $114.2 million jump in sugar imports.

Nuclear Test Shakes Three States

MERCURY, Nev. (AP) — An underground nuclear warhead test shook parts of three states early today, swaying tall buildings in Las Vegas and chandeliers in Fresno, Calif.

No damage was reported from the blast, also felt in parts of northwest Arizona, which registered 6.5 on the Richter scale at the University of California Seismographic station at Berkeley, Calif.

People were shaken from their sleep in Ridgecrest, Calif., 150 miles northwest of Los Angeles. A spokesman at University of California, Berkeley, reported its telemetry devices felt the blast throughout California.

The weapons development test, code-named Mazuri, was detonated 4,150 feet underground and had an announced yield of 200 kilotons to one megaton.

"This was not the largest test ever conducted at the test site, it was considerably smaller than the largest test," said David Jackson, spokesman for the Energy Research and Development Administration.

"It was a large test, however, no doubt about it."

Jackson said the largest underground test ever conducted at the site was the "Boxcar" test in 1968 which had a force of 1.2 megatons.

A rolling earth tremor that shook Las Vegas, about 100 miles south of the blast site in the remote Pahute Mesa region, lasted about 20 seconds.

A UNITED WAY AGENCY

Day Care Center Exists To Benefit Total Family

Snyder Child Day Care Center exists to provide children with care, love, and learning opportunities. The center contributes to the total family welfare by providing a place where the child will be well cared for at a price the mother can afford. It is one of the agencies supported by the Scurry County United Way.

Mrs. Vivian Dyer, director, points out that because of the economy and increase in the number of divorces today, many mothers have the responsibility to support their family. "Mothers do make better employes when they know their children are happy and well cared for," she stated.

Statistics from the Texas Office of Early Childhood Development show that 84 per cent of working mothers with children under six are working because of economic necessity. It is known that some 32,000 Texas children under six are left to care for themselves, and another 33,000 may not be receiving care at all while their mothers work.

The Snyder Day Care Center is striving to provide quality day care for mothers in Scurry County who need to work or to attend school. Mrs. Dyer points to the fact that in several cases the center has provided just the needed support for a mother or a family to enable the family to take itself off of welfare and to become self-supporting.

The emphasis at the day care center is continually on love, care, and learning. A child's day at the center includes many varied activities. Children are divided into four groups according to age, and activities are planned according to abilities. Some of the learning activities include developing basic skills such as using scissors, paints, pencils, and crayons.

Classrooms also include interest centers for free play activities such as homemaking, blocks, books, music, art. Mrs. Dyer stressed that planned activities are designed to prepare the children for entering public schools.

The center also cares for the well-being of the children. Records are kept of each child's immunizations, and parents are reminded when they should be updated. Teachers and workers watch children closely for signs of illness, disability, or abuse. The center provides breakfast, a lunch planned around the public school menu, and a nourishing afternoon snack.

In caring for children, the center has made referrals to rehabilitation centers, doctors, dentists, counselors, the Foundation for the Blind, the Family Planning Program,

League Action Watched Closely

By The Associated Press

Supporters and opponents of the proposed new Texas constitution trained their sights on today's proceedings of the Texas Municipal League, which was to consider a resolution for support of the document.

With only a week left before the Nov. 4 election, the action of the league, with members from 600 municipalities around the state meeting in Houston, was regarded by each side as a key stand. League officials predicted the resolution would be hotly debated, and the vote closely contested.

Rival camps did some last minute lobbying before the league Monday, with speeches by Gov. Dolph Briscoe, an opponent of the new charter, and by former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., who was chairman of the state's 1974 constitutional convention.

They tussled over the bone of contention in annual instead of biennial legislative sessions, with Briscoe labelling them unnecessary. He asserted they "would lead us down the road to a state income tax."

Daniel countered that yearly sessions would permit legislators and the public to review the state's budget annually, a process not possible with current biennial sessions.

Meanwhile, Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, embroidered on Briscoe's theme rejecting annual legislative sessions, charging that supporters of the new charter are misleading the public by claiming the annual sessions would save money.

He said two "experiments" with annual budgets — one in 1967 under Gov. John Connally and another in 1971 under Gov. Preston Smith — resulted in larger second-year expenditures than at first estimated.

Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Tex., said he is in favor of all eight propositions because "horse and buggy limitations" have sidetracked the legislature from "dealing effectively and promptly with major issues and problems affecting the people of Texas."

Comptroller Bob Bullock said a provision calling for taxing property at true market value means "or a statewide average, houses and lots would increase more than 60 per cent on the tax rolls."

He said then it would be up to cities, counties and school districts to reduce their tax rates and assessment ratios "or property taxes would go sky high."

2 Hurt As Car Rolls

Two persons received injuries in a one-car roll-over at 1:00 a.m. today at the intersection of the Clairemont Road and U. S. Highway 84.

Sylvia Silva of Houston, driver of the car, and Glen H. Burns of Reese Air Force Base at Lubbock were taken from the scene by Snyder Ambulance service to Capitol Memorial Hospital.

Police said that as Miss Silva was attempting to go up the ramp on the highway after coming off of the Clairemont road, the car apparently flipped over several times and finally ended right-side-up.

The 1975 Chevrolet Monza she was driving was a total loss.

Hospital authorities said their condition this morning was good, and that they will be transferred to Reese Air Force Base Hospital later today.

At 2:30 p.m. City Police investigated a minor car-truck mishap in the 3400 block of College Avenue. Involved was a 1974 Buick, driven by Ben Lanier of Sweetwater, and a 1975 Mack truck operated by Tony Pardo Vasquez of Odessa.

Pressure Mounts For Switch

By LOUIS NEVIN
Associated Press Writer

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Pressure increased today on the Spanish government to name Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon chief of state, though Generalissimo Francisco Franco clung to life and was reported in slightly improved condition.

A midday medical bulletin said the 82-year-old Franco's fever had disappeared and his blood pressure was normal. It said that cardiac rhythm was stable at 80 beats per minute, and signs of congestive cardiac insufficiency had been reduced.

However, it added: "Intestinal hemorrhaging has not disappeared. Gravity continues."

A morning bulletin said he had a quiet night, and a Monday night bulletin said he had passed a peaceful afternoon and requested food.

After not being expected to live through the night Sunday, Franco rallied early Monday. A spokesman at his Pardo Palace said he talked with his daughter, son-in-law and grandchildren during the afternoon. The spokesman commented that he was "tranquil and lucid."

One medical expert said that even the slight improvement in Franco's condition after a week of heart attacks and other complications was "medically incredible." But even though he recovered from a near-fatal attack of phlebitis in July 1974, there was no expectation that this time he could resume control of the country again.

For the moment, the Spanish government rocked along under its own momentum.

Premier Carlos Arias Navarro and his cabinet are transacting the day-to-day routine of government as usual. The country is quiet, with terrorist activity at a standstill, and the only major foreign policy problem, the Spanish Sahara, is under negotiation and appears to be headed for a peaceful solution.

Girl Scouts To Stay All Female

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Girl Scouts voted today to remain an all-female organization.

By a show of hands, 1,800 delegates to the 40th national convention of the Girl Scouts of America overwhelmingly refused to return a good turn by the Boy Scouts of America.

The Boy Scouts voted last year to admit girls aged 14 to 21 to their Explorer division.

The two groups are not affiliated.

At a session Monday, the delegates plus 2,700 visitors and other guests — young, middle-aged and old, but all Girl Scouts — discussed whether membership should include boys.

By the clapping and cheering for those who opposed the idea, it was doomed from the start.

The delegates were to vote later in the day on whether a mini-scout program should be started for children under six.

Those who favor the admission of boys argued that it would attract more girls and increase membership.

The Camp Fire Girls offer membership to boys from 14 to 18. And, last year, the Boy Scouts offered membership to girls 14 to 21.

"We need coed programs," said Mrs. Clyde Bridges of Hibbing, Minn. "A merger would interest and retain the older girls and cut expenses."

Texas Jobless Rate Drops 8%

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Unemployment in Texas dropped eight per cent for the month ending in mid-August, the Texas Employment Commission said today.

The TEC said the latest available figures show total unemployment at mid-August was 324,500 or six per cent of the state's labor force, compared to 6.5 in mid-July and 3.9 in mid-August a year ago.

The TEC said the reduction in the past month was primarily due to the withdrawal of summer jobseekers from the labor force.

IPAA Asks Restoration Of Depletion Allowance

HOUSTON (AP) — Independent oil and gas producers asked today that Congress restore the depletion allowance and other tax provisions that would stimulate domestic production.

A tax study committee asked the 4,100 members of the Independent Petroleum Association of America to continue their efforts to obtain legislation that would eliminate "counter-productive" protions of the Tax Reduction Act of 1975.

Congress practically eliminated the depletion tax allowance last March except for some special exceptions for small independent operators.

At the concluding session of the trade group's annual meeting, the tax committee said the Tax Reduction Act prevents independent producers from fully utilizing all capital resources which would otherwise be available for continued expansion of domestic explorations and development.

It called for the adoption of equitable tax laws which would permit the formation of investment capital "without which domestic oil and gas producers cannot expand their exploration and development activity, a forerunner to increasing domestic production."

"This should include a return of the tax incentives which have in the past enabled oil and gas producers to reinvest substantial portions of their income in new exploration and drilling activity," the committee said.

The independents also were expected to renew their pleas for complete decontrol of oil and natural gas prices.

John A. Hill, Federal Energy Administration deputy administrator, told the independents Monday it is conceivable the Ford administration could recommend restoration of the depletion allowance.

"If we don't get decontrol of oil prices, we could suggest that consideration be given to restoration," Hill said. "We have not actually proposed such action and don't have any numbers, but there could be a suggestion for the return of depletion or enactment of some tax credit to encourage investment capital.

Hill said the administration is basically opposed to anything that prevents maximum efforts for explorations for new oil and gas reserves.

"Price decontrols form the single policy with the greatest impact for boosting domestic production," he said. "The loss of depletion was not a good thing for the country in that it means less exploration activity."

Bicentennial Inspires New Floor Treatments

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In trying to do something early American to their homes in time for Bicentennial celebrations, some women have become interested in the treatment of floors in the colonial manner. As one woman put it, "I'm sure my husband will not let me touch the parquet floors in our living room, but I can have a bit of fun in the family room. He doesn't mind what happens there."

It's something to think about before you do anything different to floors. That woman would like to paint the floor in a color and put a rug over it that reflects the American colonial life. She also plans to use quilts (folded and put over a sofa) and candles and one or two early accessories.

Wood floors can be painted and even spattered. In fact old floor boards are vastly improved if they are painted in one of the colors that were popular in the early days. Dark red, even deeper than barn red, and a deep orangey-yellow, near to a pumpkin color, can be delightful pick-ups for a room. The floor can be painted in the solid color or in geometrics. Some colonists favored diamond patterns. And there are old records that reveal stenciling was used on floors as well as walls.

Paint colors can be discussed with dealers who can mix the colors easily. Years ago it was difficult to get off-beat colors but now there is a greater selection in paint shops.

Some decorators use multicolors in spattering floors. This is a pretty effect and it makes it easier to tie other colors into the room as time goes on. There are various methods of spattering floors and if one can afford it a professional worker should be able to do a good job. For those who would do it themselves — it is tedious work — patience must be employed. One decorator was observed spattering a table and he advises a floor is done pretty much the same way.

Hold a very stiff brush in one hand and using a wood stick or other object, run it gently over the brush of paint. This should be practiced until you get spatters of the right size. Distance makes a difference — start by holding the brush about four inches from the floor. It's a good idea to wear a smock as the paint can go awry.

Spattering is another way to cover old floors that are beyond smoothing, but decorators have remarked that there should be some pattern in addition, such as squares, as an eye-arresting solution to bad floors. But one must practice, one woman emphasizes. She had made such a botch of spattering — some of the paint came out in big blobs — that she used geometrics to cover her mistakes. But you must measure the distance accurately when you do squares. She had to enlarge some squares because the boards were uneven. A paint outline should be made.

Rag, hooked and canvas rugs were used over early American floors. Hooking is popular right now, and this might be the choice that would be pleasing and currently fashionable. Then, too, a lot of the motif in kits runs to the early American designs. The choice is usually flowers and these are often set within a geometrical pattern of one large or six little squares alternating with a floral square. A 4 by 6 latch hook rug might take about four months.

Painted canvas is another kind of early American rug, but some people do not consider these very satisfactory as they do show wear. Other people like the effect of the worn design just as they might appreciate a worn, faded Oriental rug. A canvas rug may not be a happy solution in a child-oriented home. Unless the rug is lined it is very light weight and might take on the appearance of an old potato sack in a short time. But lining such rugs helps tremendously. If the motif is kept to darker colors — some people have even used house paint in making their designs — the colors may last a long time. Generally, paint used for wall art is more satisfactory and if fixative is applied it can provide wear for a reasonable time.

There weren't too many accessories around in the early days, but some articles made later can charmingly carry out the early look. Decorative boxes that were used to hold salt, candles, spices and cutlery on walls and tables can be used for the purpose. Sconces and lanterns of the time period can add a touch and of course, if one has a spinning wheel in the barn, it can be put in a corner to collect some dust while you are making early American points.

Blanket chests add a homey touch, too. In a family room, a blanket chest could be a neat solution to the problem of records, magazines and odds and ends, if clutter is a problem.

Home Life Is Theme For Altrurian Study

The Altrurian Club met Friday afternoon at the Martha Ann Woman's Club with twenty members in attendance. Mrs. Porter King acted as hostess and Mrs. Frank Whistler gave the devotion.

Miss Evelyn Boone, president, presided for a short business session. Plans were made for the "Love Feast" to be held in late November. Reports were given from those attending the Mesquite District Workshop. It was brought out that the workshop stressed clubs reporting programs, projects and special activities which should be built around the theme, "Anything that is worth doing is worth reporting, and if it is not worth reporting it is not worth doing." The responsibilities of each department were discussed.

"Home Life" was the theme for the afternoon program. It was presented by a panel composed of Mrs. Dave Harlin, Mrs. Enid Irving and Mrs. Charlie Miller.

Mrs. Harlin gave a resume on "Home Making Now and Yesterday." She stated yesterday's home life was predicated upon family living, a close and divine life with many chores to be done and little time for rest. Today with many, many inventions less time is spent working, and more time spent resting. She displayed many antiques of yesterday and told how they helped the early pioneers.

Mrs. Irving presented thoughts of "Colonial Life" and the ways pioneers helped each other when in need. She stressed the life of Martha Washington's family. Martha had 15 spinning wheels going at one time during the Revolutionary War to aid the needy.

The speaker displayed an Altrurian club yearbook for 1916-1917 and discussed the amusing topics for study. She read two recipes which were over 100 years old. They too, were quite fascinating when compared with modern recipes.

Mrs. Miller discussed "Mothers In The Home." She stressed mother love and companionship, stating that it takes a lot of living around a house to make a home. She read many interesting proverbs to trace the threads of divine living and sincere parental devotion. Close relationship between parents and children will foster a happy and contented home life.

The need for an entry finesse is usually the result of some overbidding. South didn't know what to do after East opened the bidding in front of him. Eventually, he decided to overbid to six hearts. As he explained later, he had hopes that East or West would believe him and take a save at seven diamonds. When they just passed and West opened the diamond queen, South was stuck with his bid.

He ruffed the second diamond high and saw that he had one chance for his contract. He needed to take two spade finesses and that meant he had to find two entries to dummy.

Therefore, at trick three he led a low trump and finessed dummy's eight spot. This would have left him two tricks short if East had produced the nine, but when East had to follow low, South had his extra entry.

A quick spade finesse, a trump to dummy's 10, another spade finesse and it was all over but the scoring.

Ask the Jacobys

An Indiana reader wants to know when a hand with 13 high-card points should overcall at the two level.

Such hands are worth an opening bid, but not necessarily a two-level overcall. The principle requirement here is playing strength and we would never make such an overcall with a mere four-card suit, seldom with a five-carder, but almost any time with six good cards in the suit.

We will discuss these overcalls in the next few articles.

Halloween Hoaxes: Trick Or Truth?

Last Halloween 8-year-old Timothy O'Brien of Pasadena, Texas, ate candy laced with cyanide and was dead a few days later. The incident was widely and sensationally reported as an example of an adult distributing tainted treats to children on their treating rounds. The facts of the case—the child's father was indicted and later convicted of murder—are less widely known since follow-up stories of such tales are rarely front page news.

In the case of Timothy O'Brien, police emphasized that the incident had nothing to do with Halloween. That the father used the holiday as a pretext for committing a crime in order to collect insurance payments on the death of his children was brought out at the trial. But this fall, the media are already reporting the Texas tragedy as proof that Halloween activities are dangerous, having either forgotten or never having learned what really happened.

A number of reports of incidents of like nature, though none as truly horrifying as the death of Timothy O'Brien, prompted the National Confectioners Association in 1972 to begin a program of research into reported Halloween tainted treats. Working closely with police departments nationwide, the NCS investigators reported the following results of this study:

In 1972 we investigated a representative sampling of 200 tainted treat incidents out of 363 reported nationally. Investigation showed that:

-76 cases were outright admitted hoaxes

-there was not a single confirmation of any attempt by an adult to harm a child

-no arrests were made

-no injuries of significance resulted

For Halloween of 1973 the number of reported instances of tainted treats was substantially lower. There were only 67 reported incidents in 1973. Of these, it was found that:

-over 95 per cent of the cases could not be substantiated after further police investigation

-26 incidents were hoaxes or at least highly questionable

-in 38 instances, police had no further information other than the initial complaint, and felt investigation would not be justified

Only two of the 1973 cases were apparently valid. Police found evidence of barbituates in a child's candy in Sonoma, California, though no arrests were made. In Philadelphia, police reported a pill was placed in a child's bag by an 80-year-old woman in "advanced stages of senility" who was ultimately given mental health supervision. There was only one reported charge made after parents got involved in fisticuffs with a person suspected of tampering with their child's treat.

For Halloween of 1974, questionnaires were sent directly to police departments across the country, and 114 departments responded. Significantly, of these, 58 reported no incidents of tainted treats whatsoever. The remaining 56 departments reported a total of 90 incidents. Of these:

-27 were hoaxes proven false after police investigation

-22 were considered questionable by police after further investigation, and could not be factually supported

-in 40 instances police had no further information other than the initial complaint and felt investigation would not be justified.

Survey forms returned by police again substantiated that many tainted treat reports are indeed questionable and offered such comments as: "the kids do it to get attention, but we couldn't get any of them to admit it" and "Persons reporting such incidents tend to create confusion among our citizens."

Highway Patrol Is A Woman

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — During their first six weeks as officers with the California Highway Patrol, women graduates of the CHP training school performed at "comparable and generally acceptable levels," but it will take a year of field experience before the patrol will consider hiring women permanently, according to findings of a report on the two-year Woman Traffic Officer Project.

The final report to the state legislature will contain the CHP's recommendations on how well women officers perform the tasks facing a highway patrol officer.

The 16-week academy course for women was initiated as a pilot project after a federal civil rights suit in 1973.

Mickey Baird Hosts Patriotic Party

"The day to day issues and debate that were of such significance to the people of 1776 may have passed from our memory, but the ideals and principals forged within the course of those debates remain supremely important. By assisting the democratic promise of our heritage, we can establish a sense of security and continuity with the most positive aspects of our American tradition." With these words Mickey Baird, dressed as Uncle Sam, began a birthday party for the United States of America, complete with decoration and a cake. The party was held Oct. 21 at Martha Ann woman's Club as a program for Beta Sigma Phi. Mrs. Baird, as America, introduced her guests to the party, several members portraying persons and places important to the development of America. She reviewed the events leading up to the birth of America, noting that the Constitution was not enough, therefore, the Bill of rights came into being. With Mrs. Baird and her "Pieces of America" everyone took a journey into the land of yesterday.

Mrs. Baird welcomed the following people and places to her party; The Alamo (Carla Barnes); J.F. Kennedy (Lora Beasley); Abe Lincoln (Barbara Bills); Robert E. Lee (Mona Bryant); Mt. Rushmore (Donna Cullar); Neil Armstrong (Carolyn Fortune); George Washington (Laura Greene); Mark Spitz (Bette League); Ben Franklin (Carolyn Martin); Harry Truman (Wanda Wilson); Mark Twain (Carolyn Limmer); Francis Scott Key (Mary Lou Scott); Each of these guests told of their importance in American history, the heirtage of the past.

Mrs. Baird concluded her program by saying "America, here we are! Without each part of the country and each person and events, America would not be celebrating a 200th birthday."

Vikings Hit Undefended Spot; Triumph, 13 To 9

CHICAGO (AP) — "I looked up and there was no cornerback," Minnesota Vikings' wide receiver Jim Lash said. "I just kept running."

It was all the edge Fran Tarkenton needed. The scrambling Viking quarterback unloaded a 45-yarder and hit Lash jogging alone into the end zone to defeat the Chicago Bears 13-9 Monday night in a nationally televised National Football League game.

The costly lapse by the Bears at 13:03 of the second quarter allowed the Vikings their only touchdown and preserved their record as one of two teams still undefeated in the NFL.

"I had a sideline pass called to both sides of the field," Tarkenton said. "I saw Lash and saw that he was not covered and he just kept running which is what he should have done."

Although Francis hit on 16 of 30 passes for 234 yards, a newly stiffened Bears defense took away the big play on every Minnesota drive until Chicago suddenly found itself minus a cornerback. The other two Vikings scores came on Fred Cox field goals of 46 and 52 yards.

"It was just another freak accident," Bears' Coach Jack Pardee said. "It seems we get caught in them every week."

Pardee said the Bears were caught a man short because cornerback Allan Ellis was injured on the previous play and neither the Chicago bench nor the officials noticed it immediately.

"I'm not blaming the officials," he added.

"We got caught with a man just running on and we weren't lined up right," Pardee said.

Holding the Vikings to 13 points and Mike Hartenstine's sack of Tarkenton for a safety in the third quarter spelled no moral victory, Pardee said.

"Not at all, at one win and five losses we need some real victories, not moral ones," he said.

Actually, the Bears got the first break. On the first series of downs, Chuck Foreman of the Vikings fumbled to Bears safety Craig Clements and three plays later Mike Adamle ran 14 yards for a touchdown.

"We made a mistake," Minnesota Coach Bud Grant said of the play. "We gave them that fumble."

"But they gave it right back to us," he added, referring to the missing cornerback.

But Grant had praise for the rebuilding Bears who took a 28-3 beating from the Vikings in Minnesota three weeks ago.

"Who said the Bears are dead?" Grant asked. "They were ready to play tonight. Pardee has done a good job."

Waldrep Files Big Suit

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A Texas Christian football player who was partly paralyzed in a 1974 game with Alabama has filed a $3.5 million suit charging that the artificial playing surface was not safe.

The state court move Monday by Kent Waldrep is against five firms connected with making and installing Poly Turf, which then was on Legion Field's playing area.

Waldrep, 21, said he was "severely and permanently injured as a result of the impact on his head and neck against the artificial playing surface of the football field."

He accused the defendants of negligence and said the surface was "unreasonably dangerous and not reasonably fit for use as a football playing field."

The TCU running back was hurt when tackled during the Oct. 26, 1974, game, won by Alabama 41-3. The Poly Turf since has been replaced with Astroturf.

Defendants are American Biltrite, American Biltrite Rubber Co., Weston & Sampson Co., Monsanto and Patton Contracting of Birmingham.

On Saturday, Waldrep was a special guest at Legion Field for this year's Alabama game, won by Alabama 45-0.

Saints Fire John North

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — John Mecom Jr. fired John North as head coach of the New Orleans Saints after the National Football League team lost its fourth game against one thin victory.

The Saints owner said Monday night that Ernie Hefferle, who has been in charge of the Saints' scouting team, would be the interim coach.

But he stressed that Hefferle's reign would be temporary.

"He is fully aware that he will not be our head coach in 1976 when we will endeavor to obtain the services of the very best head coach who would be available to the Saints," said Mecom after a 90-minute meeting with North.

The firing came after two successive road losses, a 35-21 defeat at the hands of San Francisco and a 38-14 rout by Los Angeles Sunday. The only Saints' victory was a 20-19 decision over Green Bay.

"It is with much regret that I have found it necessary to replace John North as head coach of the New Orleans Saints," said Mecom in a prepared statement.

"Coach North approached his job with tremendous vigor and energy and did succeed in some areas of player development. Unfortunately, these accomplishments aren't reflected in the league standings."

The Saints won 11 but lost 23 regular season games since Aug. 26, 1973, when North was named head coach to replace J.D. Roberts, who was also fired.

North still has one year to run on his contract and could remain with the club in another capacity. However, he was not available for comment Monday night.

Mecom did not indicate who might become permanent coach of the Saints, although published reports have quoted sources as saying Mecom's first choice is Ara Parseghian, who retired as Notre Dame's football coach vowing to remain out of football for one year.

Parseghian was not available for comment, but his wife said her husband had not even talked with the Saints. She said he would not accept any coaching job until his self-imposed retirement ends after the first of the year.

Hank Stram, who guided Kansas City to victory over Minnesota in the 1970 Super Bowl, has also been mentioned as a possibility. Stram was fired by the Chiefs after last season and currently is a pro football TV commentator.

Hefferle, who has been with the Saints for three years, was head coach at Boston College before joining the National Football League. He was offensive line coach with the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1965 and 1970, and held the same job with the Miami Dolphins from 1966 through 1969.

9th Grade Girls Win

The 9th grade Black won 15-3, 12-15, 13-11 while the 9th Grade Gold won 10-15, 17-15, 15-7.

Scoring for the Black were Lanell Selmon with 13 points, Dana Elrod 10, Cindy Koonsman 6, Sherry Neves 5, Debbie Myers 4, and Kathy Harrell 2. For the Gold, Trudy Hataway scored 11 points, Shanna Smith, Dana Myers and Sara Fagin 7 each, Terri Dennis 6, and Angela Brumley and Joan Alarcon 2 each.

Boosters To Attend Match

Members of the Tiger Booster Club will attend the district girls volleyball match between Snyder and Sweetwater tonight in Tiger Gym. They voted last week to attend the volleyball match rather than hold a regular meeting this week.

Ricky Bell of Southern California rushed for a total of 560 yards in his first three games this season.

WTC Wins Dual Match

SWEETWATER—The Western Texas Blue golf squad fired a 286 (one over par) yesterday on the Sweetwater Country Club golf course to defeat both of Abilene Christian College's squads and the other Westerner team in a dual match.

The ACC White team finished second in the match with a 293. The Westerner Green squad carded a 300 for third. And, the Wildcat Purple unit shot a 305 for fourth.

Sophomore Ross Wortham and freshman Brown McCrory of WTC tied for medalist honors with fine rounds of 69, two-under par. ACC's Dennis Lewis was runner-up medalist with a 70.

Each school played two teams and counted the four low scores of the five players on each squad, medal play.

Other WTC Blue team results were Arnold Madril 72; Dave Hurt 75; and Dave Foster 75.

WTC Green squad results were Grant Collyns 72; Sammy Smith 74; Jeff Richardson 77; Donnie Loerwald 77; and Bryan Hargrove 81.

Winds gusted from 20 to 25 miles per hour from the south throughout the match.

Next action for the Westerners will be back to back conference tournaments in Midland Thursday and in Odessa Friday.

WTC and Odessa College are tied for first place after three conference tournaments with 25 points each. Midland College, in third place, trails the Westerners and the Wranglers by only one point.

AGGIES 5TH, TEXAS 8TH

Undefeated and untied teams monopolized the premier five spots in The Associated Press college football poll today, with Ohio State still holding a wide margin over second-ranked Oklahoma.

Ohio State, 7-0, had little trouble rolling over Big Ten rival Purdue 35-6, and 50 out of 61 voters were convinced of the Buckeyes' supremacy. Ohio State collected 1,190 of a possible 1,220 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

The Oklahoma Sooners, 7-0, the defending national champions who haven't lost in their last 36 outings, drew eight first-place votes and 1,084 points after beating Iowa State 39-7, despite 13 fumbles.

Oklahoma's chief rival in the Big Eight, Nebraska, 7-0, continued to roll along undefeated, blasting 16th-ranked Colorado 63-21. The Cornhuskers were checked off No. 1 by two voters, Nebraska's first two first-place ballots of the year, and moved up a notch into third place with 939 points.

Displaced Southern California, 7-0 and a 24-17 winner over stubborn Notre Dame, dropped into fourth with 890 points.

Also 7-0 is Texas A&M, which survived a scare from Baylor, winning 19-10. The Aggies totaled 632 points.

Arizona State, 7-0, the only other unbeaten-untied team among the Top 10, finally made the grade, taking the No. 10 spot from Colorado following a 24-6 victory over Texas-El Paso. Arizona State collected 342 points.

Alabama, 6-1, which hasn't lost since its season opener against Missouri, stood sixth with 609 points after crushing Texas Christian 45-0. Michigan, 5-0-2, unbeaten but twice-tied, humbled Indiana 55-7 and earned 584 points in the poll.

Texas, 6-1 and 516 points, held its No. 8 position after roughing up Rice 41-9 and ninth-rated Penn State, 7-1, blanked Army 31-0 and collected 459 points.

This week's Second Ten shows, in order, Florida, Missouri, UCLA, Maryland, Notre Dame, Colorado, Arizona and newcomer San Diego State with Miami of Ohio and Oklahoma State tied for 19th.

Sparky Anderson Is Best Manager

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Sparky Anderson, the hard driver of Cincinnati's Big Red Machine, was named the National League Manager of the Year today.

Anderson, who sparked the world champion Reds to their greatest season in history, was a runaway choice in the voting from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

The popular 41-year-old manager won by a landslide 289-61 margin over Danny Murtaugh, manager of the East-winning Pittsburgh Pirates.

John McNamara, who piloted the San Diego Padres to a fourth-place finish in the National League West, finished third with 30 votes while Philadelphia's Danny Ozark was fourth with 18 and St. Louis' Red Schoendienst fifth with seven.

Anderson's well-heeled Reds won the National League pennant with a flair. They swept the West by winning an amazing 108 games, including a record 64 at home, and then polished off the Pirates in three easy games.

The topping to Anderson's sweetest season came in the World Series, where the Reds defeated the Boston Red Sox in seven games to claim their first world title since 1940.

"A lot of people say it doesn't mean anything to them, but I can't say that," said the gregarious Anderson. "I'm really thrilled. It'll be even a bigger thrill to the guys on my ballclub.

"They'll really love it.

Anderson, a strict, fair leader who allows no long hair or bad conduct by his players, has had one of the best winning percentages in baseball history — but only this year did he realize the dream of a world championship.

Until 1975, Anderson's best year was 1970, when his club soared to the National League flag with 102 victories. His Big Red Machine, however, was taken in five games by the Baltimore Orioles in the World Series. When the Reds again won the National League pennant in 1972 and lost to the Oakland A's in the World Series, Anderson was tagged by some as the manager who couldn't win "the big game."

All this talk was quieted by Anderson's biggest triumph, over Boston this year.

When Anderson was named the Reds' manager in 1969, he was a virtual unknown and the day he got the job, some newspaper headlines read, "Sparky Who?"

Anderson played only one year in the major leagues, as an infielder with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1959. He managed for five years in the minors and was a third base coach with the San Diego Padres prior to joining Cincinnati.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—One area of crime that's growing faster than almost any other is also one that most consumers worry least about—although it indirectly takes more money from their pockets than any other.

It's "white collar" crime, a problem that harms not only individual consumers and businesses but the economy as a whole, say experts.

Some national business organizations estimate that the cost of "white collar" crime is at least $40 billion each year, although the total cost is almost impossible to determine. Of this, the estimate of the amount that consumer fraud, illegal competition, and deceptive business practices account for is $21 billion—more than half.

Recently, lawyers from our Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division participated with representatives of several federal agencies in a "traveling road show" on "white collar" crime sponsored by the F.B.I.

In addition to our Consumer Protection attorneys and F.B.I. officials, participants included the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the Internal Revenue Service, and the U.S. Post Office.

These agencies were included in the "road show" because "white collar" crime can be any one of a number of illegal acts, such as consumer fraud, postal fraud, deceptive securities schemes, insurance fraud, embezzlement, pilferage, or fraud by credit card or check. And any one of these agencies may be involved singly or together in combating such illegal acts.

The "road show" has visited several Texas cities and will visit others during the next few weeks to acquaint local law enforcement officials with the growing problem of "white collar" crime, how to recognize it, and how to stop it.

Not only law enforcement agencies, however, but businesses themselves are getting involved in the fight against "white collar" crime. That's because businessmen as well as other consumers can be the victims of such crimes.

Our Consumer Protection attorneys have pointed out to those attending the "road shows" that there are certain basic consumer fraud "formats" that appear and reappear in "white collar" crime, although the specifics of the deceptive schemes may vary. Repair frauds, deceptive or misleading advertising, chain referral plans, pyramid and distributorship frauds, and misrepresentations involving home improvements, work-at-home plans, or door-to-door sales are examples of areas in which details may vary but the overall method of deceptive operation stays the same.

Part of the difficulty in controlling "white collar" crime is that in many cases, persons who have been victimized don't even know it. An illustration of this might be a sophisticated securities scheme in which the investor never realizes that he lost his money because of a deceptive trade practice, but instead thinks it was due to a shift in the economy or the market.

One aim of the cooperative "road show" is to pool the expertise of agencies that deal frequently with such illegal acts, and to share this knowledge with local law enforcement officials, so they can help consumers and businessmen spot the early warning signals that may indicate fraud or deception.

So if you have a problem involving false, misleading, or deceptive acts in business transactions, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

Ramsey Won't Seek Reelection

AUSTIN (AP) — Chairman Ben Ramsey of the Texas Railroad Commission announced today that he will not seek reelection when his term expires Jan. 1, 1977.

Three persons already have said they will run for Ramsey's job, although Walter Wendlant made his candidacy contingent upon Ramsey not seeking reelection.

Ramsey, 71, said he would return to his hometown of San Augustine in East Texas to practice law.

Ramsey served in the Texas House and Senate and as Secretary of State before winning election as lieutenant governor in 1950. He served as lieutenant governor for a record six two-year terms.

Ramsey was appointed by Gov. Price Daniel to the railroad commission and took the oath of office Sept. 18, 1961, succeeding the late Olin Culberson.

He was elected to the unexpired term in November 1962 and was re-elected to full six-year terms in 1964 and 1970.

'SHOW ME' MOOD PREVAILS

Americans Are Hard To Convince On Recovery

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. economy might be on the road to recovery, as measured by several popular statistical [illegible] can people to believe it seems to be another, probably more formidable, challenge.

The mood of the country seems to be one of "show me." Point out that the Gross National Product soared 11.2 per cent in the third quarter and the response might be, "Let's see what it does in the fourth quarter."

The mood is clearly illustrated in the attitude toward job figures. Who doesn't know that unemployment is at a 8.3 per cent rate? But who does know that since March total employment has risen more than 1.5 million?

There are indications that interest rates might drop a bit, although perhaps not smoothly. But what businessmen or consumer borrower doesn't choose to comment on the height instead of the trend?

Polls of businessmen and consumers show they share many attitudes. They appear to be uncertain. They are reluctant to commit themselves to big spending projects. They wonder when their own private economies will join in the general improvement.

Consumer spending, while it has improved since the depths of the recession earlier this year, has a long way to go before it can be counted on to give a sustained push to the economy.

The First National City Bank polled consumers on their view of the economy in September. The conclusion: Worse of than six months ago, with recovery anywhere from one to three years away.

Businessmen are very slow to commit themselves to capital improvement and expansion, citing the existence of idle capacity even now and difficulties in borrowing at what they feel are fair terms.

Lionel D. Edie & Co., the economic consulting associate of Merrill Lynch, the nation's biggest broker, found in a survey that industry planned to expand capital spending in 1976 by only 3 per cent, an almost insignificant amount.

Edie's conclusion: "Capital spending is not about to provide the recovery with any real upward thrust ..."

Somewhat to their surprise, many thrift institutions found themselves with a cash inflow for September, when they had expected funds might be withdrawn by savers in search of higher returns elsewhere.

The U.S. League of Savings Associations reported some $3.6 billion was added to customer accounts in that month, and that its member savings and loan associations made mortgage loans of about $5.6 billion, a record for the month.

That might suggest an improvement in confidence among home buyers, and that the new home market was turning up sharply.

Equality Credit Laws In Effect

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beginning today, lending institutions will be barred by federal law from refusing credit or loans because of an applicant's sex or marital status.

Under provisions of the Equal Credit Opportunity Act, a woman cannot be asked whether she plans to have children, and lenders cannot assume from loan applicants' ages that they are likely to become parents.

Lenders cannot use discouraging comments or delays in processing of applications as a subtle form of sex or marital discrimination.

And over a period of three years, new rights gradually will be added. For example, anyone turned down for credit for any reason will have the right to find out why after Jan. 31, 1976.

The Equal Credit Opportunity Act became law exactly one year ago. It was passed in response to complaints that women had difficulty in obtaining loans, maintaining credit records apart from their husbands' accounts and being considered the equal of men as credit risks.

But the law will have an impact on men, too, particularly a provision providing access to a creditor's reasons for turning down applicants or for cancelling existing credit privileges.

Under rules drafted by the Federal Reserve Board and to be enforced by the Federal Trade Commission, rejected applicants will be able to write or telephone a bank, credit card company or other lender for an explanation of the firms' reason for denying or cancelling credit.

The law requires that rejected applicants be given a reason orally, although government officials have predicted that most explanations will be provided in writing. The Federal Reserve is providing lenders with a model reply to requests for reasons for credit denial.

The phasing in of various rules going beyond general injunctions against sex discrimination begins Saturday. That's the date married women can seek their own credit ratings if in the past they've been lumped in with their husbands when creditors rated their reliability.

Another batch of regulations, including a ban against discounting income from part-time jobs, goes into effect Nov. 30.

Envoy To Morocco Optimistic

HOUSTON (AP) — The United States envoy to Morocco says that country holds "tremendous" opportunities for American businessmen despite territorial controversies in the area.

"There is hope that in the next few days these problems will be settled," Ambassador Robert G. Neumann said Monday.

He referred to Morocco's claim to the bordering Spanish Sahara, now tenuously held by Spain, which Algeria, another neighbor, wants to see under self-determination.

"Yes, there has been a crisis," he told members of the Houston World Trade Club, "but there have been developments in recent days that seem promising."

Neumann called the potential for trade between the United States and Morocco "enormous".

"While there is not oil, there is phosphate," he said.

He said Morocco has 60 per cent of the world's exportable phosphate and another 20 per cent lies in the Spanish Sahara region.

He said phosphate mining may not be as glamorous as drilling for oil but "a dollar gained from phosphate is worth as much as a dollar gained from oil."

Rizzo To Rally

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mayor Frank Rizzo came out of the hospital in a wheelchair for a political rally and his first public appearance since he broke his hip at an oil refinery fire earlier this month.

He was cheered enthusiastically by more than 2,000 Democrats at a $100-a-plate campaign fund-raising dinner Monday night in which he declared that he expects to win a second term by the biggest margin ever given a candidate in the city.

Rizzo was injured when he collided with a bodyguard as the two were fleeing an explosion at the refinery fire Oct. 12.

Dr. Lamb

Reader's aches at age 86

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—As a dedicated reader of your column, I think I am sufficiently informed for certification. The only problem, I cannot pronounce those long words.

I would like to read something discussing the effects and what to expect as one grows old, physically and mentally.

I'm 86 and recently some of my old injuries are bothering me, and after sitting I feel a bit stiff in the hip joints when I arise. I have been very active all my life.

DEAR READER—At 86 you could probably give all of us some useful tips on living, staying active and enjoying it.

There are a vast array of changes that occur in your body with time, and you can do something about a good many of them. If you don't mind a few of those big words, I would suggest that you read my book, "Stay Youthful and Fit" (Harper and Row). Your library should have a copy.

The book describes what happens to your body. It will tell you why you develop eye changes and the eye problems common with aging, such as glaucoma, cataracts and floaters. The changes you have in your ears, causing the ringing and buzzing and loss of balance, are discussed. You can help prevent these.

Of course you need to know about vascular disease, because it is the big one that you can do something about to prevent strokes, senility and heart attacks, the things that make you old before your time.

A lot of the posture changes with age are because of lack of proper exercise. At your age I'm sure you have seen people with bent knees, bent hips and a tottering gait. This is often related to loss of muscle strength and flexibility. The tendons and muscles shorten, bending the hinge joints. Proper movement of joints through their full range of motion helps prevent this. The book will explain these in detail and tell you which exercises you can use to help prevent these problems.

Your lung function changes in part because people lose the flexibility of the movement of their ribs. This cuts down on the full capacity to exercise and causes breathlessness or fatigue with limited exertion. Good posture exercises help to prevent these. These, too, are discussed.

Of course, there are changes in sexual functions as you get older, but as the book points out, men may be active well into their 90s. One example of a man 118 years old and still potent is mentioned. Your living habits have a lot to do with whether you are over the hill at 50 or still enjoying yourself at 90.

Psychological factors are important, too. That includes being socially active with family, friends and community. The desire to live and the feeling of being useful or needed are important factors. These important aspects of aging and others in the book were included in recent U.S. Congressional hearings on fitness and aging. I think it will give you all you want and tell you where we stand on doing something about aging.

To Sell or Not To Sell When the Kids Leave

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A couple whose youngest child left for college asked your readers to help them decide whether or not to sell their big home.

I say, sell while you can still get your price! We didn't. We kept waiting for our kids to come home for a visit. It was always the same story: "Too busy. Maybe next year."

The one in college chose to spend Christmas with her boyfriend's family!

We finally wised up and sold it for what we could get.

POOR TIMING IN WISCONSIN

DEAR ABBY: Sell now! It's better to move to a strange place where you know no one while you are together. I suggest a retirement community where all others have been uprooted and are eager to make new friends. Choose a place where each of you can pursue new interests and hobbies and prepare for that day when one of you must carry on alone.

THE L'S IN LAGUNA HILLS

DEAR ABBY: Sell! Sell! Sell! Store what furniture you want to keep, buy a camper and take off, leaving no forwarding address.

Hold hands, sleep late, make love and enjoy each other. Buy some great clothes, go dancing cheek to cheek, then come home if you want to. And never let your children use you as a free babysitting service or a place to go for a free vacation.

OREGONIANS WHO DID IT

DEAR ABBY: Sell the house and get into something cheaper and easier to care for. If the kids come, put them up in a nearby motel. Even if you have to pay for it, it's still cheaper, and they won't stay as long.

CANADIANS

DEAR ABBY: I've worked with college students for 15 years, and I would advise parents not to sell their homes until their youngest is through college. Until that time, children desperately need a home to come back to, and it should be there whether or not it's made use of.

SANTA BARBARA

DEAR ABBY: Hang on to your home even though your children are gone. We have six grandchildren who come to visit us the day school lets out, and they stay all summer. If we had sold our big, five-bedroom home and moved into a small apartment, we'd have missed some wonderful dividends.

THE G'S IN GA.

DEAR ABBY: Would you like to hear what our parents did after their kids left home? They sold their big house and now they visit each one of their six married children for two months every year. They said, "We took care of you; now you can take care of us!

THE KIDS

DEAR ABBY: I don't think those people should sell their big house. If they were to move into a little apartment and their children and grandchildren wanted to spend Christmas or Thanksgiving with them, where would they put them? Where?

GRANDCHILD IN VA.

DEAR ABBY: Don't sell the house. If you think you'll be happier in an apartment, rent the house for a year and try living in an apartment. If you like it, then sell the house. Otherwise, you've still got your house.

Some of our friends sold their homes and were sorry a year later.

NOT RUSHING IN ILL.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

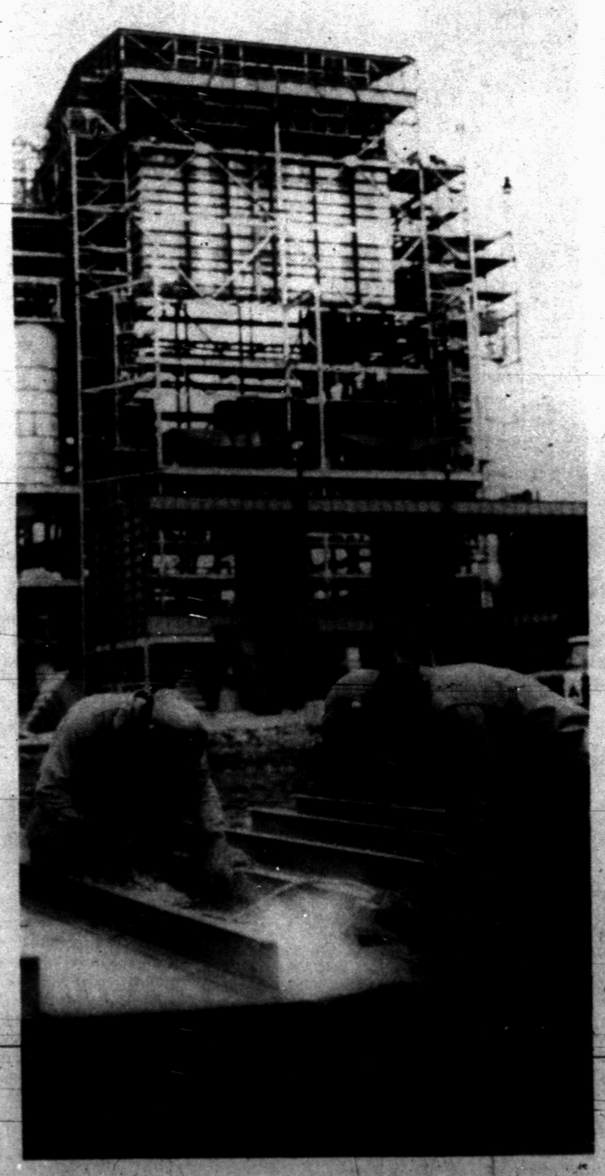
We're building power plants that use lignite coal.

It's our answer to the rising price of natural gas.



This power plant is being built in East Texas at Martin Lake near Henderson. It will make electricity by burning lignite coal.

We have to build lignite plants because we're running out of low-cost natural gas, our main fuel today. New supplies are hard to get and very costly.

Lignite plants cost more than twice as much to build as comparable gas-fired plants, and that means electricity will cost more. But expensive as they are, lignite plants will still make electricity more cheaply than plants using high-priced gas.

That's because our large lignite supplies, acquired many years ago, are much cheaper than new supplies of gas. And using cheap fuel is one way we're keeping your electric bill as low as possible.

The average bill for Texas Electric customers is already 27 per cent below the national average, and we're working to keep it that way.

Pair Warns Country Of Cult

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Two men taken from a religious cult that camped in nearby mountains have accused the group of psychologically kidnaping them.

A county prosecutor is exploring the possibility of filing charges against the cult, a nomadic, highly disciplined group led by a man identified only as Jim Roberts and called "Brother Evangelist."

Bruce Surber, an Iowa medical student, and Robert Main, an Arkansas law student, appeared at a news conference here Monday to explain their life with the cult.

"They wanted to warn the whole country of what's going on here," deputy Pima County Atty. Michael Trauscht said. "They're 90 per cent back to normal."

He said the cult is under investigation for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. In addition, he said, "We will look into the possibility of filing psychological kidnaping charges."

But he added there is no precedent for such a charge in this country.

"Italy, as far as I know, is the only country that has psychological kidnaping laws," Trauscht said. "Florida is working on something" of that nature.

Main, arrested last week on auto theft charges, told reporters, "I know I was psychologically kidnaped. I was like a robot, a puppet. I had no will of my own. They controlled me."

He described life with the cult as "almost like a drug-induced state."

Surber said he joined the group in Iowa City six weeks ago because he was "searching for something, and was attracted by their robes.

"Maybe they knew something about Jesus that I didn't know."

Asked if he thought he had been kidnaped, Surber replied, "Yes, but I thought I was doing the Lord's will and if I didn't do this, I would be damned."
