Rev. Robert Bradford

Masked Gunmen Kill British Parliament Member

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Masked gunmen walked into a Belfast community center during a dance today and shot and killed the Rev. Robert Bradford, a Protestant member of the British Parliament, and another man, police said.

The Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility for the killings, which was carried out 12 hours after an IRA bomb ripped through the unoccupied house of British Attorney General Sir Michael Havers in London.

Press Association, Britain's domestic news agency, said the second man killed was a caretaker who was shot in the doorway of the center. Police said the gunmen — who were said to number two or three — fled in a waiting maroon-colored car.

Bradford's bodyguard fired shots at the car, but it was not known if any of the attackers was hit, police said. About 60 young people were at the dance, and a number of them were taken to nearby houses and treated for shock.

A telephone caller told The Associated Press in London that Bradford was "one of the key people responsiblle for winding up the Loyalist paramilitary sectarian machine" in Northern Ireland.

Bradford was an outspoken critic of the IRA and a close friend of the Rev. Ian Paisley, Northern Ireland's militant Protestant leader. The two ministers had planned an anti-IRA tour of the United States.

Police at first mistakenly reported that the killing took place as Bradford was driving away from the center, which he used as a regional office for his constitutents.

Bradford, 40, a member of the hardline Official Unionist Party and a minister at Suffolk Methodist Church, had represented south Belfast in Parliament since 1974.

It was the first killing of a member of the British Parliament linked to Northern Ireland's sectarian violence since Airey Neave, the Conservative Party's spokesman for the province, was assassinated March 30, 1979, in a car-bombing outside the House of Commons.

The bombing at Havers' home in London Friday night left three police officers slightly injured and another treated for shock, said Cmdr. Mike Richards of Scotland Yard's anti-terrorist squad. The officers were part of a team that maintains a 'round-the-clock guard on prominent British political figures.

Havers, 58, was attending a legal conference in Madrid, Spain, his family was away and the house was unoccupied at the time of the blast, Richards said.

In Madrid, Havers said he and his wife would have been in their London home when the bomb went off, and that "it was only by luck that we extended our Madrid visit by one day.

Unclaimed Property

Snyder Police Prepare For Upcoming Auction

Monday and Tuesday, November 16th and 17th, the Snyder Police Department will be accepting sealed bids for the purchase of a variety of unclaimed property.

Items for sale include 11 bicycles ranging from 10 speeds to 20 inch childrens models. Also up for bid are three shotguns, two rifles, four pistols, and forty-six knives of various brands and types.

Additionally, the auction will feature several men's and lady's watches and other miscellaneous items including 8 boxes of Hobart welding rods, a Kodak Colorburst 250 camera, a dining room chair, and a varied assortment of tools.

Items to be sold in the auction are those that have been stolen, abandoned or recovered and remained unclaimed with the police department for at least 60 days. In actuality, most items offered for sale in this auction have been unclaimed for peroids longer than the 60 day minimum.

The Snyder Police Department makes every possible and reasonable effort to locate the original owners of stolen, abandoned and recovered property and items are not sold until all means of locating owners are exhausted.

These sales are held on an irregular basis, mostly depending on when the department accumulates a substantial mumber of items eligable for sale.

Bid forms for the sale will be available beginning at 10:00 a.m., Monday, the November 16. Forms can be picked up at 1611 27th St. after 10:00 a.m. Monday and also at 10:00 a.m. Tuesday. Bids may be returned to the police until bidding closes at 5:00 p.m. Wednesday, November 18th.

All bids will be opened at 10:00 a.m, Friday, the 20th of November.No employee or officer of the City of Snyder will be allowed to bid in this auction.

Next Challenge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The crewmen of the Double Eagle V barely had caught their breath following a record-setting trans-Pacific balloon flight, and already there was talk of an even grander challenge.

"I'm trying to convince Captain Abruzzo to go around the world in 20 days," thrill-seeking restaurateur Rocky Aoki said hours after he, Ben Abruzzo and two others crash-landed their huge craft during a rainstorm in the rugged mountains of Northern California.

"This flight took one year and six months to arrange, and cost us $1.25 million," said Aoki, a Miami resident who helped sponsor the four-day journey from Nagashima, Japan to the U.S. coast.

"To go around the world would probably cost $2 million," he said.

Gas Well Leak

LAMAR, Ark. (AP) — About 300 Johnson County residents had to spend a second night away from home as crews worked to seal off a natural gas well leak that began Wednesday night.

Dempsey Coffman, a state police spokesman, said the ordeal might be over Sunday when a 2½-mile pipeline is completed from the well north of Lamar to an Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. transmission line.

Shuttle Heads Back To Earth

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Columbia headed home today, its disappointed astronauts wishing for "a little longer" in space, but comforted to know they accomplished "90 percent" of their flight objectives despite a fuel cell problem that cut the mission short.

Mission Control decided Friday that although the spacecraft was performing splendidly, prudence called for ordering Joe Engle and Richard Truly to end their journey after a "minimum mission" of 54 hours. They are to land at 1:22 p.m. PST on a hard-sand runway in California's Mojave Desert.

Thus Columbia's second mission, scheduled to take it through 83 orbits of the Earth over five days, ends up the same length as its 36-orbit maiden flight in April.

"Wish it was a little longer, but we'll see you all in Houston," Engle told Mission Control as the astronauts retired for their second and final night in orbit Friday.

Once again Columbia is to swoop down from space toward an airliner-like landing at Rogers Dry Lake. Astronauts and space officials are hoping for a repeat of the ship's perfect touchdown last spring, although clouds and gusty winds in the area were causing some concern.

"We'd like better weather, to be honest with you," flight director Thomas Holloway told a briefing in Houston early today. However, he expressed confidence the shuttle would be able to land in California and not have to use a backup landing site in New Mexico. He said NASA would try to make a final decision "a couple of hours" before touchdown.

The astronauts are to fire their deorbit rockets high above the Indian Ocean, slowing their speed by 300 mph and starting their descent on a path that takes them over the Pacific north of Hawaii, across the California coast and into Edwards Air Force Base.

Volleyballers In Regional Finals

LUBBOCK—Snyder High School's varsity volleyball team was battling for the regional title here Saturday afternoon after ousting Borger from the regional tournament in the opening round.

The Snyder team ran its season record to 32-5 by bouncing the Borger entry, 15-8, 15-4.

They were to face the winner of the Graham-Everman match at 3:15 p. m. for the right to advance to the state tournament.

In the first game with Borger, the Snyder girls took a quick 3-0 lead, but Borger tied it at 3-3 and then went ahead, 3-4, before the Tigers could get untracked again.

Borger continued to make a game of it as the lead see-sawed until it hit an 8-8 deadlock. The Tigers then took charge, and after they had seized a 10-8 lead, Becky Harrell served seven consecutive points to wind it up.

The second game failed to draw much of a challenge from Borger after the opening moments. Snyder jumped to a 7-0 lead before Borger managed to close the gap at 8-4. Then, Toni Elrod duplicated Harrell's feat and served seven straight points to clinch the regional title for the Tigers.

Scoring for Snyder were Harrell with 17, Elrod 9, Sabrina Robinson 2 and Sherri Rich 1. The Tigers also got one foul point.

Borger scorers were Carolyn Mitchell 4, Shelley Webster 3, Shelley Majors and Christi Blake 2 each, and Alisa Hill 1.

In Class AAA action Saturday morning, Seminole defeated Colorado City and was to face Perryton at 2 p. m.

PCA Schedules Open House

Open house has been set Sunday afternoon at the Sweetwater Prouction Credit Association's new office building.

Visitors are invited to come between the hours of 2 p. m. and 5 p. m. The building is located at 5111 College Ave., just west of the entrance to Cogdell Center.

'Bright Star' In Operation

CAIRO WEST AIR BASE, Egypt (AP) — About 850 U.S. paratroopers and tons of heavy military equipment floated under olive-drap parachutes down to a six-mile-square patch of Egyptian desert today, marking the start of the largest American military exercises in the Middle East.

Less than six minutes elapsed from the time the first sled of equipment — including trucks, jeeps, and heavy weapons — was dropped from the military transports to when the last soldier hit the sand, with a 60-pound pack on his back and an M-16 rifle strapped to his leg, witnesses said.

A minute later, after releasing their parachutes and adjusting their gear, the men were ready for combat in the first of a series of major military maneuvers involving 4,000 American troops, military spokesmen said.

A witness said that one U.S. officer was injured and flown out of the desert by helicopter. Army radio reports said the man, who was not identified, suffered a broken hip. His condition was not known. Associated Press photographer William R. Foley said an eight-wheeled transport vehicle crashed to the ground after its parachute failed to open.

"I'm OK," said Pvt. Ted Morris, 18, of Los Angeles, moments after removing his parachute. His face was smeared with sand-colored camouflage paint and he carried an M-16 and a field pack.

"It was a good exercise, a good drop," said Lt. Gen. Robert C. Kingston, commander of the Rapid Deployment Force.

In Water Suit...

SACROC Wants Federal Hearing

SACROC wants the Colorado River Municipal Water District's suit for $230,685 heard in federal court.

The CRMWD filed a suit originally in 132nd District Court in Snyder asking recovery of the money which it says represented underpayments due from water made available to SACROC, an unitized secondary recovery operation.

SACROC and Chevron USA, Inc., the prime defendants in the suit, have asked that the case be removed to the U. S. District Court in Lubbock because Chevron is a California Corporation. The petiton also disputes CRMWD's contention that it is entitled to receive payment for 8,000,000 gallons of water daily from Lake J. B. Thomas, plus the minimum payment under a supplemental agreement in 1970 to furnish SACROC brackish water from wells.

CRMWD agrued that the contracts were essentially one and that the prime contract of 1952 takes precedence over the 1970 agreement.

("Written contracts speak for themselves," the SACROC petition said. "The plaintiff (CRMWD) interpretation...is unsupported by the contractural language...CRMWD's contention that the 1970 salt water contract be treated as a part of the 1952 fresh water contract is contrary to the language of the contracts."

Robert H. Moore, Big Spring, is attorney for CRMWD, and Baker and Botts of Houston represents SACROC and Chevron.

Area Cotton Begins To Move Again

The Scurry County cotton harvest was regaining momentum late the past week following a temporary interruption by weather conditions.

A survey of gins in the county disclosed than 10,225 bales had been processed by Friday afternoon, and the pace was expected to quicken considerably during the coming week, barring any more inclement weather.

Heavy frosts during the past week also tended to speed up the harvest, although a substanial amount of defoliation by spraying had been done.

All gins in the county were busy by the end of the week.

Heir Sues

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Oil-fortune heir J. Paul Getty III, whose ear was sliced off in a kidnapping eight years ago, is blind and paralyzed from a stroke, and is suing his father to pay medical bills, his godfather says.

The SDN Column

Scurry County is about to experience more of the problems produced by the Voting Rights Act, the federal legislation that requires Texas and a few other states to get clearance from Washington before they can make any changes in voting precincts, or election rules.

The time is approaching for new voter registration certificates to be distributed. But, if they go out on time, they may be obsolete before they can be used because precinct lines are up for a change.

Now, this change in precinct lines is dictated by the United States Constitution, which requires that new district lines be drawn following each federal census. The Constitution doesn't say anything about the Voting Rights Act---that is something that Congress came up with to produce a selective monitoring of voting election procedures.

Anyway, Scurry County commissioners have agreed on new precinct lines for the county. But they had to send their proposal to Washington. Neither the county nor the state could approve them without consent of the bureaucrats.

Now, if we get new voter registration certificates soon, which should be the case, and they have the present precincts listed on them, it will be all for naught. Ditto if the proposed new precincts should be listed and the feds should change them, or disapprove the whole thing.

If the county could set its own precinct lines in accordance with the constitution, there would be no problem. It could have been accomplished a couple of months ago, in plenty of time to get the new precinct designations on the new voter registration cards.

The Voting Rights Act would expire next year if Congress would allow it. However, the House already has approved an extension, and reports out of Washington indicate that proponents of the Act have even "snowed" the administration. Some hopes were expressed that at least some revision would be made in the Senate.

Meanwhile, less than a dozen states, including Texas, and parts of a few more are arbitrarily saddled with this regulation under the guise of protecting the voting rights of minorities. Minorities in more than half of the states are without this "protection."

Our vote for the most resourceful football fans this season goes to a bunch of Clemson grads who live in the Dallas-Fort Worth area. Unable to see their team in person, or pick up any of its regional games on television, they rented one of those satellite discs and monitored last week's game with North Carolina, which was televised only in the Middle Atlantic States. The tab came to $450 for the afternoon.

Commission Fines 3 Trainers

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Three race horse trainers, including the current and immediate past president of the New Mexico Horsemen's Association, have been fined $250 each for alleged drug infractions at the Sunland Park track earlier this month.

The New Mexico Racing Commission imposed the fines during a meeting Thursday in Albuquerque. The trainers involved were Charles W. Mattox, Bob Arnett and Clifford Lambert.

Mattox is the current president of the horsemen's association while Arnett is the former president. Lambert was the leading trainer at the New Mexico State Fair meet in September.

All three were fined because traces of the outlawed drug phenylbutazone were found in tests conducted on horses trained by the three. The drug, which was banned by the commission last April for use on race horses in New Mexico, is an anti-inflammatory agent.

Discussion on the cases of the three trainers produced a division among the four commission members present. Commission Chairman Raymond Eaves and Commissioner Pete Casados wanted stiffer penalties imposed, while Commissioners Buddy Majors and Willard Kruger voted for the $250 fine and no suspension.

After the commission deadlocked on a motion by Major that the three trainers be fined $350 and placed on probation, a telephone call was placed to the fifth commission member who was not at the meeting, Fern Sawyer. Ms. Sawyer voted with Majors and Krueger in favor of the fine without suspension penalty.

Before imposing the fines, the commission heard from state racing chemist Ted Cochran. Cochran testified the amount of the drug found in the horses trained by Arnett, Mattox and Lambert was relatively small and probably would not have affected the horses' performances.

Major argued that in light of the small traces found in the horses and the fact none of the horses involved had won, suspending the trainers as well as fining them would be too stiff a penalty.

Eaves countered by saying the commission had to consider the integrity of horse racing.

DOCTOR'S ADVICE—Dr. Claire Scott, portrayed by Rebecca Pierce, advises the patient, Ken Harrison, played by Jay Blakemore, in the upcoming Western Texas College Theatre production of "Whose Life Is It, Anyway?" The play opens Friday, Nov. 20, and runs Saturday and Monday in the Fine Arts Theatre. On Sunday night, Nov. 22, the play will be presented at 8:30 p. m. For reservations, call 573-8511, extension 234.

VICA Prepares For Honey Sale

Members of the Snyder High School chapter of The Vocational Industrial Club of America are busy launching their annual honey sale. The sale begins today and runs through November 30th.

According to Wallace Combest, faculty advisor to the group, the club is holding the sale to raise money for the club's annual employer-employee banquet. Some of the money raised will also be used to help defray yearly operating expenses for the club.

During the period of the sale, club members will be going door to door taking orders for the honey. The honey comes in old fashioned canning jars packed in wooden crates. Prices for the sweet stuff range from $2.25 to $12.50. The little jars of honey come highly recommended as gifts for the upcoming Christmas season.

WTC Play Set For November 20-23

The Western Texas College theatre department will open the season with the production of "Whose Life Is It, Anyway?" on Nov. 20-23

Performances will be in the Fine Arts Theatre on campus, with curtain time set for 8 p. m. nightly, except for Sunday, Nov. 22, when the show will begin at 8:30 p. m.

Tickets are priced at $3 each for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens. They may be reserved by calling the box office at 573-8511, extension 234. Tickets also will be available at the door.

"Whose Life Is It, Anyway?" was written by Brian Clark and concerns a man almost totally paralyzed from a severed spinal cord who is battling doctors for his right to die.

"The play argues an issue and encourages us to try to think it out," Jim Rambo, director, said. "It is a play of glittering verbal energy, much of it concentrated in the fierce and funny talking head that moves desperately on the hospital pillow, the paralytic Ken Harrison."

Appearing as Harrison will be Jay Blakemore of Indianapolis, Ind. Others in the cast are Tim Tatum and Mike Short of Post, Pam Trice of Hawley, Suzanne Hale of Kerrville, David Coats of Comanche, John Hendrix of Sweetwater, and Becky Pierce, Nettie Moss, Laurie Phillips, Kelly Deavers and Tod Fritz, all of Snyder.

Rochester, N.Y., is the world leader in production of photographic, optical and scientific instruments.

Woman's Voice Instructs Shuttle Astronauts

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — For the first time, U.S. astronauts circling the earth in a spacecraft took their commands from a woman, and the verdict for Sally Ride was "mighty good."

Miss Ride, 30, is the first woman to serve as a "capcom" — a capsule communicator. She instructed space shuttle Columbia astronauts Joe Engle and Dick Truly from Mission Control here Friday as the two pilots unfolded the ship's brand new robot arm for its first test.

In the first exchange, the voice from space said, "Okay, Sally, we got the arm secured right now. We've got the power on and we're getting ready to turn it on."

Miss Ride: "Okay. Sounds good."

Space shuttle: "You sound mighty good too."

Once the arm was successfully deployed, Miss Ride told Engle and Truly, "Okay. That sounds great, and you guys do good work."

Miss Ride is a native of Encino, Calif. and was one of the first six women accepted into the U.S. astronaut corps in 1978.

She joined five male astronauts chosen as capcoms for the historic second flight of Columbia.

"She's an astronaut, she's a scientist and she's very familiar with the remote manipulator," said NASA spokesman John Lawrence. "We needed someone who had worked with the system and could talk knowledgeably about it."

Miss Ride has a doctorate in physics, specializing in astrophysics, and has worked extensively with the Remote Manipulator System, the official name of the device.

Most of the chit-chat was highly technical as the astronauts went through a step-by-step deployment of the $100 million, Canadian-built gadget.

"I was sitting around trying to think of something witty or humorous to say to those guys while they're up there," she said before the launch. "That's not part of the job."

The rookie had no trouble telling the two senior astronauts what to do and when.

"We'd like you to cycle the cabin fans and the way we'd like to do that is have you turn cabin fan A on; let us verify that it's on and we'll give you a go to cycle B off," she said.

"Okay, sure enough," replied Columbia. "Looks like it's a little cloudy out here, Sally. It's a good thing the SIR-A (radar) sees through that."

"Columbia, we would like to get the cabin fans changed as soon as possible," Miss Ride reminded.

A moment later, the shuttle replied, "You bet it is on, Sally, and we can hear it crank up on board."

Bush Says Stockman Should Remain On Job

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — Vice President George Bush says budget director David Stockman should stay in the Reagan administration "because Reagan wants him to."

"Stockman made a terrible mistake but he admitted it candidly," Bush said Friday, referring to Stockman's criticisms of the administration's economic program.

In the December issue of Atlantic Monthly magazine, Stockman was quoted as expressing admissions of doubt and deception in the administration's economic program. He renounced those comments Thursday and offered to resign, but Reagan rejected the offer.

Bush, pointing to recent declines in interest rates, said Reagan's economic program will work if it is given enough time. And he said Reagan is standing firm in his resolve to stick with his economic policies.

"No matter what happens, the president won't shift gears," Bush said.

In a speech later in the afternoon, the vice president added, "Reagan has a firm unbending philosphy on how to go about solving the many problems facing us. Ronald Reagan is not a man to adopt one policy and then yank it away replacing it with something new whenever he encounters some opposition."

Bush spoke to about 300 people at the dedication of a new wing of the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame. He also visited Lubbock Friday night for a speech to the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Today, Bush and his wife are to be in Houston and are to be honored tonight as "Houstonians of the Year."

MEC To Sponsor Annual Contest

An all-expense-paid trip to Washington, D. C., next June will be awarded two young people from this area in a contest sponsored by Midwest Electric Cooperative.

All high school sophomores and juniors in the system's service area are eligible to enter the contest.

The contest, to be held Jan. 7 at the Midwest Electric office in Roby, will be an oral presentation on the subject "The Importance of Rural Electric Cooperatives in America."

Edwin Jackson, member service director for the cooperative and last year's youth tour winners, Tisa Lovett of Roby and Kerry Gardner of Ira, have been visiting area schools the last two weeks giving slide presentations and promoting this year's contest.

Deadline for submitting applications for the contest is Dec. 1. As participants in the youth tour, local winners will have 12 days of touring to and from Washington, D. C., including a full day at the Worlds Fair to be held in Knoxville, Tenn. The tour dates are June 10-22.

Approximately 1,000 youth tour prticipants from across the nation will meet during the week for a special program coordinated by the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association.

Reservations Are Open For Tour

The Scurry County Museum is accepting reservations for a three-day tour to Dallas on Jan. 28-30, Sharon Sutton, museum director, has announced.

The highlight of the tour will be the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts showing of master paintings from the Phillips Collection. Seventy-five paintings are included in the exhibition which focuses on impressionism, its sources and its legacy.

The Phillips Collection is housed in the former Washington, D. C., residence of steel heir and art connoisseur Duncan Phillips and his artist-wife, Marjorie Acker Phillips, and has achieved international renown among art lovers. The paintings have never before been presented as a grpup outside Washington.

The tour group will be staying in the luxurious Plaza of the Americas Hotel at 650 North Pearl Boulevard, five blocks from the downtown Neiman-Marcus, and arrangements will be made for visits to at least one large mall according to the interests of the tour members.

The tour will leave Snyder at about 8 a. m. on Jan. 28, traveling by chartered bus. Fees are $250 per person for Museum Association members, or $275 per person for non-members, based on double room occupancy. The fee includes transportation, hotel accommodations, a guided tour of the exhibition and luncheon in the museum, and theatre tickets.

A minimum of 18 reservations will be needed for the tour, and a $50 deposit must accompany each reservation.

Larry White To Be In Concert

Larry White will present a concert Sunday at Agape Christian Fellowship, 111 E. 37th, according to Jay Newsom, pastor. Scheduled times are 10 a.m. and 6 p.m.

The concert will feature a variety of music, including southern gospel, contemporary, traditional and classical.

White has been involved in a music ministry for many years including college and church choirs and traveling with a nationally recognized quartet. White and his wife, Tracy, spent three years singing in churches, revivals, conventions and concerts primarily in the western United States. White has recorded three long-play albums, the latest of which was recorded with the Imperials Band and is entitled, "Shelter."

White has also served churches in California, Arkansas and Forida as youth and music minister. Most recently he served as associate crusade director for the David Wilkerson Crusades in Lindale, Tex.

The Whites have two sons, James and John. The family resides in Lindale, just north of Tyler.

Scurry County Museum Membership Drive On

The Scurry County Museum provides a veritable kaleidoscope of exhibits and events the year around and community involvement with the museum is an essential component of the ongoing programs.

The museum is conducting a membersip campaign throughout the month of November and visitors are specially invited to tour and become acquainted with the museum's activities during the drive.

Located on the campus of Western Texas College, the museum is open each weekday and from 1-5 p.m. on Sunday afternoons.

Members of the Museum Association's Board of Directors will be serving as guides [illegible] of the building this afternoon and next Sunday afternoon as part of the "get acquainted" emphasis.

"We need memberships and gifts to help with the operating expenses of the museum," Sharon Sutton, museum director, emphasizes. "The museum can continue and expand its offerings as community interests dictate."

The Scurry County Museum came into being through the efforts of the Scurry County Museum Association, an offspring of the county's Historical Commission. The Association continues to direct the operations of the museum through its board of directors.

The museum building, one of the few in West Texas built specifically for use as a museum, was officially opened to the public in August, 1971, although the dedication was delayed until 1976 to coincide with the Bicentennial and the county's Centennial.

The history of the county is outlined in the permanent exhibit gallery, while temporary displays are arranged in the multipurpose area. These have included paintings by the Old Masters and American Abstract Expressionists on loan from the Blaffer Foundation of Houston, art by local school students and adults, western art, traveling exhibits from the Texas Watercolor Society and the National Park Service, photographs, quilts loaned by local owners, a flower show, ceramics, coiled baskets, weavings, and currently, oriental rugs.

The museum sponsors Summer Youth Classes for students and workshops for adults, brown bag luncheons to bring a variety of noon-hour programs, fashion shows, and the Christmas Happening. These are planned as community service projects and do not generate revnue for the museum.

Persons interested in museum memberships are invited to call the office at 573-6107 or to mail dues to the museum at Box 696, Snyder, Tex. 79549. As members, they will receive discounts on gift shop purchases and fees for workshops or other special events. Gifts to the musem are welcome at any time, and may be designated as memorials or honorariums.

Defensive Driving Course Set

An eight-hour defensive driving course will open Tuesday night at Western Texas College.

Classes are scheduled from 6-10 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday in the Learning Resource Center. Fees are $18 per person and may be paid at registration which will be held at 5:45 p.m. Tuesday. Dr. James Palmer will be the instructor.

Persons planning to enroll are to reserve space in the class by calling the Continuing Education office at 573-8511, extension 240.

Museum Slates Luncheon Talk

Behind-the-scenes work which results in the varied exhibits of the Scurry County Museum will be the subject for Monday's brown bag luncheon in the museum.

Sharon Sutton, museum director, will speak for the program beginning at 12:15 p.m. The public is invited to attend and no reservations are necessary. Brown bag luncheon programs end about 12:45 so working people can return to their jobs on time.

Information about museum programs can be obtained by calling the office at 573-6107.

Intelligence Failed In Iran

NEW YORK (AP) — A pledge by the United States to the late Shah of Iran not to contact opponents of his regime led to "one of the most massive intelligence failures in the period following World War II," newsman Pierre Salinger says.

The isolation of U.S. intelligence permitted the surprise takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Iran on Nov. 4, 1979, Salinger said Wednesday in a speech to the Overseas Press Club.

He said despite evidence that Shah Reza Mohammed Pahlavi's regime was crumbling, the United States "continued to live by the rule of the game that was set out for us by the shah."

Salinger, one-time press secretary to President John F. Kennedy and now working for ABC in Paris, said he learned the information while writing his new book, "America Held Hostage: The Secret Negotiations."

Richard Walkers Are New Managers

Richard and Arlene Walker have recently been named new managers for the Royal Trailer Park in Snyder.

The Walkers came to Snyder around the first of November after Oasis Mobile Homes of Odessa purchased the park from longtime Snyder resident, Blackie Miears. Before coming to Snyder, the Walkers owned Diamond Mobile Home Service in Odessa.

Now established in Snyder, they are dealers for six makes of mobile homes and Richard has plans of relocating his mobile home service business to Snyder.

After five years in Odessa, the Walkers are looking forward to getting settled in a smaller town. They have four children, two boys and two girls, ages 10 through 19.

Local Police Arrest Man

Snyder police officers investigated two minor traffic mishaps and made one arrest Friday.

At 8:45 a.m., at the Snyder Junior High school, a 1981 International bus driven by Jesnell W. McMahan was involved in a collision with a 1975 Ford driven by Louis J. Beurelein. Only minor damage was reported in the incident.

Later, officers were summoned to the scene of another mishap in the 4100 block of College Ave. At 9:22 p.m. Friday evening, a 1974 Ford driven by Tina Louise Herrley was involved in a mishap with a 1980 Ford driven by Katrina Lee Humble. Only minor damage was reported to both vehicles.

City police also arrested one male subject on charges of DWI during the evening.

County Court Fines Given

Six persons entered pleas to various charges in the Scurry County Court over the last week.

John Ramon Gonzales pled guilty to charges of possesion of marijuana less than two oz., resisting arrest, and criminal trespass of a habitation. Gonzales was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail for each of these offenses.

Richardo Zamora and Lupe Zamora both entered guilty pleas to charges of resisting arrest. They were fined $300 each for their offenses.

Robert Haines entered a plea of Nolo Contendre to charges of possession of marijuana less than two ounces. He received a fine of $500 for this offense.

Moises Castro and Ira D. Pruitt each entered pleas of guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated. Castro was fined $200 and sentenced to 3 days in jail. Pruitt was fined $50 and also sentenced to 3 days in jail.

Qualified Engineers Are Needed

NEW YORK (AP) — Environmental problems caused by some products and industrial plants are leading more and more companies to look for qualified engineers and other experts who can cope with these issues, reports an executive recruiter.

According to Dr. Jeffrey Honig of Richards Consultants Ltd. there are more jobs now available for those individuals capable of coming up with solutions that can help solve or deal with such problems as hazardous waste, air pollution and water pollution than at any time previously.

Liver Donor Found For Girl

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A 2½-year-old girl battling a deadly disease underwent a delicate nine-hour liver transplant operation today at Children's Hospital.

Lauren Toohey was in critical condition following the surgery, said nursing supervisor Regina Burk-Kearns. She said it was normal to list patients that way after such an operation.

The child had been waiting since summer for a suitable donor. The transplant operation began shortly after midnight.

Lauren and her parents, Joseph and Beatrice Toohey of Kinnelon, N.J., arrived at the hospital Friday evening after flying from New Jersey with Dr. Thomas Starzl, a transplant surgeon at the University of Pittsburgh.

The surgeon was lecturing in New York City when a donor was found, said Dorothy Dennison, a spokeswoman at Beth Israel Medical Center in Newark, N.J.

Beth Israel officials were notified earlier Friday that a young Wisconsin child was declared brain dead, and the parents gave permission to donate their child's liver, Ms. Dennison said.

Doctors have said Lauren suffered from liver cancer and a metabolic liver disorder and might not survive until Christmas unless a new organ could be located.

Snyder's Tigers found opportunity, but were unable to take advantage here Friday night and lost their final season ballgame to the Fort Stockton Panthers, 21-6.

The Tigers, under their first year with Coach George Byerly at the helm, conclude the campaign with a 1-9 record, 1-7 in District 2-4A play. Fort Stockton winds up with a 4-6 mark, 2-6 in conference action.

Andrews claimed the loop title Friday night with a 28-18 win over Sweetwater. In other action, Lake View defeated Monahans, 17-7.

The contest was tighter than it appeared on the scoreboard despite the fact that Fort Stockton's grass-chomping offense dominated most of the night. Snyder got into Panther 5 and 18-yard lines but was unable to reap any profits from either drive.

Snyder opened its first offensive series with a 24-yard pass play from Brent Beck to Mark Shaw which got the hosts in Panther territory at the 48-yard line. Three plays later Beck found David Miller for a 20-yard gain to the 24. Runs by Casey Peterson and Raymond Jeffrey got Snyder a first down at the Fort Stockton 13 before the drive began to fall apart.

Beck rushed for six yards on the next play and Shaw picked up two on second down, but a pass play on third was beyond the reach of tight end Curtis Gafford, and Snyder called time out.

With 4:29 showing in the first period the Tigers were apparently going to go for a 24-yard field goal. Backup quarterback Darryl Boone took the snap and Perry Echols faked the kick as receiver Britt Vincent faded out into the endzone. The Tiger junior was covered well by Panther defenders, however, who batted away Boone's pass attempt.

After penalties killed their first pair of drives, the Panthers began to click in the second quarter. A nine-yard pass play from QB Jerry Gray to end Ron Reeger put the ball at midfield, and Trent Huckaby picked up nine yards in three carries. On fourth down at the 41-yard line Mark Dunn raced for three yards and renewed life for the visitors.

Fort Stockton lost five yards on its next two attempts, but on third down Gray found Joe Salmon for a 10-yard gain. Then, needing four yards on fourth down, Gray handed the ball to David Richardson on a draw and the 180-pound junior picked his way 33-yards for the touchdown. Salmon booted the conversion good, and with 3:40 showing the Panthers led, 7-0.

After gaining one first down, Snyder punted the ball back with 1:44 left in the half. Fort Stockton got possession on its own 48 and promptly marched 52 yards for another touchdown. The eight-play drive was highlighted by passes of 12 and 11 yards to Richardson and Salmon respectively, and Huckaby's 5-yard TD run with only 17 seconds remaining. Salmon again kicked the conversion.

Fort Stockton out-rushed Snyder 148 yards to 37 in the first half and had 14 first downs to five. Still, the Tigers came out for the final two quarters with strength. Though Snyder punted after its first possession went cold at the 42, Chad Peterson was on hand to intercept a Panther pass minutes later and give the hosts momentum at the Fort Stockton 37-yard line.

Snyder got only two yards on its first three attempts at moving the ball, but on fourth down Beck hit Glen Parham for a 16 yard gain to the 19. Officials tacked a roughing penalty on to the play and Snyder was suddenly at the Panther 9.

The Tigers were temporarily set back when they were flagged for motion on first down, but this time the puzzle was to fit together. On the next try Beck found Shaw open in the endzone, making it Fort Stockton 14, Snyder 6 with 7:17 still to go in the game. The Tigers tried for two points on the conversion, but Jeffrey was stopped just short by a swarming Panther defense.

That Fort Stockton defense told the rest of the story. Snyder got another major break on the Panthers' next series when Casey Peterson recovered a fumble at the opponent 33-yard line. Jeffrey and Casey Peterson combined for 12 yards and a first down to the 21 before the good luck charm began to fall through Snyder's fingers.

Beck was thrown for a three-yard loss by Stockton's big, 250-pound noseguard Issac Chavez on the next play, and though Jeffrey raced for 6 on second down, the Tigers were still faced with long yardage. Beck tried the quick pass on third down but was sacked before he could get the ball off, and his pass on fourth down found no receiver.

Fort Stockton took over on downs and made its longest march of the night, 79 yards in 13 plays, to sack up the victory. The visitors came up with several big plays in the drive, included a 11 yard pass from Gray to Reeger and a 31 yard run by Richardson to the Tiger 30-yard line. Snyder held the Panthers to a fourth-and-two situation on its 12 at one time, but Richardson managed to find four yards on the "first down", and Fort Stockton finally capped the excursion on a 6-yard toss from Gray to a wide open Russell McGuairt with 8:59 left in the game. Salmon's PAT was good, for the final 21-6 score.

Snyder later managed yardage to the visitors' 39-yard line, but consecutive sacks by the Panther pass rush accounted for a minus 15 yards on the next two plays and the ball went over again on downs.

Snyder finished the night with only 53 yards rushing, though a number of yards in the final period took away over 30 yards, indicated by the fact that Jeffrey had 65 on 17 carries.

Richardson was the game's leading ballcarrier with 135 yards on 17 totes. Huckaby also carried the ball 17 times, for 69 carries.

Borden Coyotes Finish Season With Triumph

McCAULLEY—The Borden County Coyotes rolled to a 42-12 victory over McCaulley to close out their 1981 season with a 7-3 record Friday night.

The Coyotes were 5-1 in District 2-A six-man conference play, losing only to Highland's champion Hornets a week ago.

Highland, 10-0 for the season, defeated Trent, 42-13, Friday night and will meet Whitharrel in bi-district play.

Borden County got two touchdowns in the first period Friday night and increased its lead to 20-0 by half-time.

Jym Rinehart got the Coyotes scoring machine in gear with a 26-yard touchdown sprint and a little later Darrell Green passed to Jibber Herridge on a 12-yard scoring play. Jr. Benavidez kicked the extra poins after the second TD.

The Coyotes kept up the pace following intermission as Rinehart flipped a 14-yard pass for six points to Benavidez, who again kicked the extra points.

McCaulley finally broke the scoring barrier then on a 31-yard run by Doby Morgan. However, the hosts were unable to get the extra points.

Borden County added an insurance tally in the fourth quarter when Charles LaRue scored on a 10-yard run. The kick for extra points failed.

McCaulley closed out the scoring when Morgan broke for a 45-yard touchdown run.

Westerner Links Teams 6th, 7th

FREEPORT ISLAND, Bahamas -- When you've won your previous three tournaments and suddenly find yourself in a paradise, it's difficult to keep things under control. Western Texas didn't.

WTC's golfers finished sixth and seventh here over the weekend, playing in the Sam Houston University Intercollegiate Golf Tournament. The Westerners had previously won their three WJCAC tournaments, the New Mexico JC Intercollegiate, and finished first in the junior college division of another tourney.

"We didn't perform to our ability," said WTC Coach Dave Foster. "It was great experience to play in a tournament of this caliber though, and to play two championship golf courses."

Play was on the 7,100-yard Ruby Course and on the 7,290-yard Emerald Course here at Freeport Island.

Sam Houston State University, a top collegiate golfing school for years now, won the meet with rounds of 308, 304 and 304 for a total 917. Stephen F. Austin was second with a 920.

Western Texas Blue team had 967 (320-332-315) for sixth, led by Jeff Seger's 233.

The WTC Green squad had a 973 (322-322-329) and was led by Gary Ray's 244.

Tahoka 'Freed' To Win District

LAMESA, Texas (AP) - Tahoka, with the help of a state judge and the cooperation of rival Slaton, won the District 4-AAA championship Friday night by defeating Lubbock Roosevelt 34-14.

Slaton lost to Post, 17-0.

Earlier Friday, a temporary injunction issued by state District Judge George Hansard had restored the right of Tahoka and Slaton to compete for playoff berths and reinstated two players who had been declared ineligible.

The University Interscholastic League had declared the two West Texas schools ineligible for post-season play because of allegations that they had used players who were not academically qualified.

Slaton would have won the title if it had triumphed in its contest, regardless of the outcome of the Tahoka game. Slaton's loss combined with Tahoka's victory gives the title to Tahoka.

The UIL had said the players earned more special education credits during their junior years than state rules permit, but school officials claimed they were not aware of the restriction the players allegedly violated.

McEnroe And Connors Win

WEMBLEY, England (AP) — Defending champion John McEnroe and second-seeded Jimmy Connors both scored straight set victories to advance to the semifinals of the $175,000 Benson and Hedges tennis tournament.

McEnroe trounced Brian Gottfried 6-1, 6-2, while Connors downed Shlomo Glickstein of Israel 6-4, 6-0.

In other matches, No.8 seed Sandy Mayer upset third-seeded Roscoe Tanner 6-4, 5-7, 6-1 in an all-American clash, and No.4 seed Yannick Noah of France defeated unseeded Richard Lewis of Britain 6-3, 6-2.

Statistics On Re-Entry Draft Move To Magic Bottom Line

NEW YORK (AP) — With [illegible] of numbers owners and general managers turn to another line of figures as they try to strengthen their teams with free agents.

Batting averages, home run totals, won-lost records, innings pitched and dozens of other statistics that pour from the hati[illegible] sions made on who among the 41 eligible players would be selected or ignored.

Now, attention focuses on the bottom line — that string of digits, preceeded by a dollar sign and often containing six zeroes, which will determine if a team can lure a free-agent [illegible]

"This weekend," Baltimore Orioles General Manager Hank Peters said after Friday's sixth annual re-entry draft, "is when we really start to work."

Conducted under a new set of rules born of the midsummer strike and with some of the biggest potential free agents already signed to new, multimillion-dollar contracts, the draft contained few surprises.

Reggie Jackson, the first player chosen when the first re-entry draft was conducted in 1976, was No.1 again, selected by the Toronto Blue Jays. Some see Jackson as past his prime at age 35, but seven other teams also picked him.

"If we didn't see Reggie as a productive, dominating ballplayer, we wouldn't have drafted him," said Joe Torre, the new manager of the Atlanta Braves. "Ted Turner (the Braves' temperamental owner) isn't looking for an ego trip by drafting him."

Jackson's New York Yankee teammate, Ron Guidry, was the most popular player of the day, selected by 17 teams. The Yankees also retained negotiating rights to the ace left-hander.

"We are not going to be unreasonable," said John Schneider, Guidry's agent and longtime friend. "We're going to have a pricetag for each of 18 ballclubs, what they can reasonably offer to pay. Eighteen pricetags."

Schneider said Guidry would seek a five-year, guaranteed, no-cut, no-trade contract. He reportedly rejected a Yankees offer of a three-year deal worth $2.4 million.

Pitchers led the selection list. Guidry was followed by John Denny, with 13, and Joaquin Andujar, with 11. Outfielder Dave Collins was picked by 10 teams, but his old club — Cincinnati — failed to retain his negotiating [illegible]

The Reds and Houston both made Guidry their first-round pick, then dropped out of the draft. Minnesota, San Diego and Detroit made no selections.

Pittsburgh, coming off a disappointing season, picked the most players — 15 — and pushed the draft to 18 rounds.

The Yankees had announced last week — after acquiring outfielder Ken Griffey in a trade from Cincinnati and thus removing him from the free-agent market — that they would forego this year's draft. But after passing on the first round, the Yanks plunged in, drafting five players and retaining rights to Jackson, Guidry, pitcher Dave LaRoche and outfielder Bobby Mercer.

Yankees owner George Steinbrenner, one of the draft's biggest spenders in years past, said last week's statement had been nothing more than predraft strategy.

Guidry was the only one of three Type A free agents to elicit much interest. Ed Farmer was selected by Atlanta, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Texas, and his rights were retained by the Chicago White Sox. Dick Tidrow was drafted by only the Phillies and the White Sox, and so became eligible to negotiate with all 26 teams including the Chicago Cubs, his old club.

Type A players are those ranking in the top 20 percent of statistics for their positions over the last two seasons. The category was created in the strike settlement, and it means that their old clubs will be able to select compensation from a pool of roster talent if they sign with another team. The compensation draft will be held in January.

Marvin Miller, director of the Major League Players Association and the players' chief negotiator during the strike, said it was too soon to tell whether the compensation formula or the economic impact of the 50-day walkout affected the draft.

"It went pretty much as I expected," Miller said. "I think this draft ranks somewhere in the middle of the six drafts so far. As far as potential free agents signing with their old clubs, you have that happen every year."

"No one wants to get into a bidding war," the agent said in a soft Louisiana drawl. "We're not going to see any Dave Winfield settlements."

49ers Plan To Give Fems Free Rein

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — There'll be some changes made in the San Francisco 49ers' locker room Sunday following the game with the Cleveland Browns — female reporters will be allowed in.

The National Football League team on Friday decided to abandon its plan to set up a separate post-game interview room for reporters following a judge's order that the team must allow female reporters into its locker room if it allows men.

Michele Himmel, sports writer for the Sacramento Bee, filed suit against the 49ers, saying the team refused to permit her in the locker room after games.

She said this action gave male reporters the advantage of getting players' immediate reactions to events on the field. She also said that about half of all NFL teams already allow female reporters in to locker rooms.

Other sports have league policies to allow female reporters into locker rooms and Jim Dawson, Bee executive sports editor, said he would push for a similar policy in the NFL.

Rob Williams Has Surgery

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston guard Rob Williams underwent orthoscopic knee surgery Friday and will be out of the lineup until after Christmas, school officials said.

Williams, who averaged 25 points a game last season to become the nation's fifth leading scorer and the Cougars' high-point man, was operated on by Dr. G. William Woods at Methodist Hospital.

Woods said the surgery was successful and he expected Williams would be able to play sometime around the first of the year.

Fourth Net Seed Advances

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Fourth-seeded Mark Edmondson of Australia beat eighth-seeded Tim Gullikson 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 in the quarterfinals of the $75,000 Taipei invitational tennis championships.

In other matches, No.3 Paul McNamee of Australia beat Mike Estep 6-0, 6-3; Pat Drupre beat Ivan Dupasquier of Switzerland 7-6, 6-3; and Robert Van't Hof beat Rod Frawley of Australia 6-4, 3-6, 7-5.

Bengals Looking For Recognition

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sportswriter

The Cincinnati Bengals always knew who they were. And they're fast convincing the rest of the National Football League that they deserve recognition.

"I think we have finally gotten over that identity crisis that many people had about us," said Steve Kreider, a third-year wide receiver for the American Conference's Central Division leaders. "Most people just didn't think we were for real."

Now, most people probably think they are. The 40-17 demolition of the Chargers in San Diego last Sunday surely convinced a few people of that, one of the Bengals among them. "We're 7-3 and we are rolling," said Cincinnati defensive lineman Eddie Edwards.

The Bengals hold a two-game lead over Pittsburgh and Houston and can maintain or widen that edge by beating Los Angeles Sunday. The Rams are 5-5 and struggling, tied with Atlanta three games behind San Francisco in the National Conference West.

Sunday's other games are Pittsburgh at Atlanta, Houston at Kansas City, Cleveland at San Francisco, Dallas at Detroit, Baltimore at Philadelphia, New Orleans at Minnesota, Denver at Tampa Bay, Oakland at Miami, Buffalo at St. Louis, Washington at the New York Giants, the New York Jets at New England and Chicago at Green Bay. Monday night's game is San Diego at Seattle.

Ray Malavasi, coach of the Rams, will be starting Dan Pastorini in place of Pat Haden at quarterback for the second week in a row.

The Bengals' starting quarterback may not be known until game time. Ken Anderson, ranked No.2 in passing in the league behind Denver's Craig Morton, completed 18 of 28 passes for 288 yards and two touchdowns against the Chargers, but sprained his left shoulder making what he admitted was an ill-advised head-first slide during a scramble late in the game.

Anderson worked out Wednesday and is listed in questionable condition. If he doesn't start, Jack Thompson will. The Throwin' Samoan has been used sparingly this year, completing eight of 24 passes for 113 yards with one touchdown and one interception.

Like the Rams and Falcons, the Steelers, Oilers each are 5-5 and battling to remain playoff contenders.

Pittsburgh, with a defense that has proven itself glaringly vulnerable to the long pass, will be facing Steve Bartkowski. The Atlanta quarterback has thrown 22 touchdown passes this year, tops in the league. Alfred Jenkins has caught 11 of them, tops in the NFC, and his 902 receiving yards leads the league.

Southpaw Ken Stabler, whose injured left wrist kept him out of last Sunday's John Reaves-led victory over Oakland, will probably start at quarterback for the Oilers against Kansas City, even though he missed Wednesday's workout and was fined by Coach Ed Biles for his unexcused absence.

The 49ers, with the league's best record (8-2, shared by Dallas and Philadelphia), will be trying Sunday to run their club-record winning streak to eight games. The Baltimore Colts, on the other hand, will be trying to halt a club-record nine-game losing streak that has buried them with a 1-9 mark, the league's worst.

Burrough Set To Test Kansas City Secondary

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — On a scale of 10, Houston wide receiver Ken Burrough rates the Kansas City secondary at 9½.

"I really believe they're one of the best secondaries in the league," Burrough declared, "and especially the cornerback, Gary Green. He's really underrated. He's very physical, but not a cheap-shot artist at all."

Burrough, who's just getting back into the swing of things after sitting out last season with an injury, will get one more chance to test the Chiefs' secondary Sunday. More than 72,000 people were expected for the 1:01 p.m. CDT kickoff, a game that could be crucial to the Chiefs' fading playoff hopes.

At 6-4, Kansas City enters the game tied with San Diego for second place in the AFC West, a game in back of Denver.

The Oilers, under first-year head coach Ed Biles, are an up-and-down 5-5. They opened with two victories on the road, then dropped three in a row before beating Oakland last week.

"We've had a very inconsistent season," acknowledged Biles. "We've gone through quite a few changes."

It's been a season of change for the Oilers. Not only did Biles replace the popular Bum Phillips, but quarterback Ken Stabler retired and unretired. His backup, Gifford Nielson got hurt, then Stabler suffered a wrist injury. At mid-week, Biles was still undecided whether Stabler would be sufficiently recovered to play, or if he would go with John Reaves. Starting his first professional game since 1978, Reaves completed [illegible] of 31 passes for 197 yards and a game-winning touchdown pass to Mike Barber.

"Our quarterback situation has been indicative of the type of season we've had," said Biles. "We've been playing about .500 ball, and that's exactly what our record is."

The Chiefs will be out to snap a two-game losing streak. Last week, in overtime, they were upset 16-13 by the Chicago Bears.

"I would think we're catching them at an inopportune time," said Biles. "When a team loses a couple of games and they're playing at home, they're going to prove to their home fans they're a little better than what they've been playing. I'd much rather be playing a team that had won two games in a row than a team that's lost two games."

Chiefs Coach Marv Levy finds himself in a bit of an unsettled quarterback situation. Levy announced Tuesday that Bill Kenney, who has started every game this season, would again get the nod. There had been speculation that Steve Fuller, a first-round draft choice in 1979, would get a chance since Kenney has struggled the past three games.

Warriors Nip Houston, 102-100

HOUSTON (AP) - The plan didn't call for Sonny Parker to be a hero. It just worked out that way.

"No one blocked me out and my man was doubled up on (Lloyd) Free. The ball just came to me and it was an easy layup," Parker said Friday night after rebounding Free's shot and hitting a reverse layup as time expired to give Golden State a 102-100 NBA victory over the Houston Rockets.

"Our original plan was for Free to come around a screen, but as it turned out he had to drive for the basket and Houston collapsed on him. Sonny Parker just happened t be in the right place at the right time," Attles said.

"We wanted to make sure that we got the last shot. We could have taken the shot a little sooner, but we didn't want to take a chance on Houston getting the ball back and maybe winning with a long shot or a three-point play," he added.

Parker had 15 for the night, behind Free's 18. The Warriors, now 3-4, also got 14 points from Joe Barry Carroll before he fouled out in the final minute of play.

The Rockets were led by Moses Malone with 33 points and 15 rebounds, Tom Henderson with a season-high 19 points and Bill Willoughby with 12.

Two points were added by forward Larry Smith, who rejoined the team Friday night after settlement of a contract dispute. Smith, a 6-foot-8 forward, averaged 12.1 rebounds last season as a rookie to achieve the third best average in the NBA.

Houston is now 2-6, having dropped the last five straight.

"All of the losses have been close. We are playing at our pace and the ball won't fall for us," Henderson said.

He recalled the winning play: "When they came in there on the drive, Robert (Reid) partially blocked the shot, Mo (Malone) nearly got the rebound but Parker had the ball come right to him and he just laid it up."

Houston was ahead 81-71 in the opening minute of the final quarter but Joe Hassett scored seven points and Parker added six as the Warriors caught Houston with 3:15 left and took a 92-91 lead on a Parker layup.

Tigers Stack Up Well As Scott Takes Over

Ten seniors and two juniors, including seven lettermen, greet first-year Snyder High School boy's basketball head coach Larry Scott this season as the 1981-82 cage campaign is about to tip off.

Snyder opens the season by hosting Abilene Cooper in the final game of a quadruple-header at 8:30 Tuesday night.

Scott steps up from assistant duties to take the whistle, left for him in the spring of 1981 when George Byerly moved into the head football coaching job.

Returning to the Tiger lineup this season are starters Curtis Gafford, a 5-11 junior, and John Wilson, a 5-11 senior, and lettermen Brad Robertson, David Rios, Ricky Housden, James Caldwell and D.W. Lofton.

Others on the current varsity roster include seniors Randy Burrus, Keith Wallace, Riley Kitchens, Mark Shaw and Kermit transfer Quent Gilbert.

Scott, who has been with the Snyder school system for three years, comes into a program that is fast building a reputation for itself. The Tigers have won three straight district titles, and advanced to the state finals in 1979-80.

That kind of tradition places a certain kind of pressure on a new coach.

"I've got pressure on me, but it's the pressure I put on myself because I'd sure like to make it four (district championships)," said Coach Scott. "I'm not sure there's that much pressure from anywhere else though. It's a tradition, really. I think the kids have some pressure on them because of what the past teams have done and I think that's an advantage for us that they can put to good use."

"I think other people realize our tradition, especially those teams from the old (3-3A) district," he added.

Despite seven returning lettermen and tradition, Snyder has been picked to finish fourth in the district, behind Ector, Andrews and Lamesa. Scott doesn't argue with the forecast. He figures fourth is a good place to start from.

"We've got two starters returning, but neither is a prolific scorer. And of our seven returning lettermen not all of them got to play a whole lot, so we're really fairly inexperienced," he added.

If Snyder has another weakness, it's probably lack of depth at the post position. Kitchens is 6-5 and Caldwell 6-2. Other Tiger players can provide good strength inside, but lack the height.

As far as overall height, the Tigers will "probably match up pretty even with everybody," noted Scott. Quickness is "between average and below average" but that can be misleading. Snyder hasn't had an overly speedy ballclub for several years, yet still managed to contend with much quicker teams.

"We'll have about the same quickness as we had last year. Basically, we'll be pretty deliberate, like we've been in the past," Scott said. "If we have the fast break we'll take it, but we're not going to push and run the ball a lot. It's to our advantage to set up our offense."

"Defensively we might not be able to run our half-court trap as much as we'd like to, but we'll run a variety of defenses and try to keep our opponents off balance as much as we can."

In other regards, Snyder looks fairly solid.

"We've got good shooters. Right now our rebounding isn't as strong as it should be, but hopefully we can be better. We've got good ballhandlers," said the coach. "I think attitude is on our side too. And with 10 seniors we've got good leadership, not from just one person, but as a team."

High School Basketball ...

Snyder Girls Shooting For District Cage Title

It was in 1979-80 that Coach Ken Housden led his Snyder High School girls basketball team to a district championship. After taking second place last year, he'd like to repeat the previous season again - and it appears he has the talent and experience to do it.

"Just from talking to other coaches I figure we'll probably be picked at the top of the district, along with Andrews," Housden pondered. "Lake View and Ector will probably be picked close behind, with Monahans right behind them."

It's no secret that Snyder has a shot at the 2-AAAA title this year. The Tigers return all but one starter from last year's squad which finished second in the conference with a 12-4 record. Pam Gray is the only player graduated, and she missed the final five games of the season with a knee injury.

The team will be staffed with seven seniors, two juniors and a sophomore. Among them are three-year letterman Brenda Anderson and two-year lettermen Theresa Browning and and Tracey O'Day. Others who lettered last year include Pam Perceval, Michelle Townsel and La Donna Halford - all seniors. The juniors are Tammy Merritt, Tonya Mitchell and Penny Wolfe. Carmen Rios is the lone sophomore on the team.

Despite the obvious wealth of experience and talent - four of the girls have been all-district either last year or the year before - numbers may play a vital role in Snyder's season.

"We'll have to keep healthy from injuries and sickness because we don't have that many players," Housden said of the nine-member squad. "And our depth as far as pressing the full game is limited. We'll probably have to get out of the press part of the game."

Despite that, Tiger basketball this season promises to be exciting. Housden's crew will utilize their speed as much as possible and opponents will have to watch out for the fast break.

"We like to move pretty fast up and down the court and press a lot," the coach noted. "We'll fast break every chance we get."

Height-wise the girls are 5-9 with O'Day and Perceval, and 5-7 with Anderson, Townsel and Wolfe. Rios is the tallest team member at 5-10.

"We don't have real good height but we're not short either," pointed out the coach. "I'd say we had decent size. We've got pretty good quickness. Our inside shooting should be pretty strong but our outside shooting probably needs some improvement."

The Tigers open the 1981-82 season Tuesday night in Tiger Gym by hosting Clyde at 5:30. The four-game series will open at 4 with a girls JV game, followed by the girls varsity, a JV boys game and a varsity boys game. The boys will play Abilene Cooper.

Each game is important to the girls because time is oh-so limited before District 2-4A action arrives. The Tigers play Clyde on Tuesday, are in the Roosevelt Tournament on the weekend, play San Angelo Central on Nov. 24 and are in the Levelland Tournament Dec. 3-5 before opening conference play Dec. 8.

The opponent?

WTC Slams Foe 98-53, Tests Cisco Saturday

CISCO -- Joe Cushing's Dusters pounded St. Gregory's College 98-53 here Friday night to gain a shot at the Cisco Tournament championship.

The Dusters, who defeated Henderson County College on Thursday here 71-62, were take on host Cisco Junior College at 6 p.m. Saturday. Cisco defeated St. Gregory's on Thursday but lost to HCC Friday night, 93-79.

"It was a total team effort," Cushing said of the Dusters' win. "We had a lot of people go in and play well, both offensively and defensively."

Despite the near-100 point tally, WTC had only four girls in double figures, a feat accomplished because all 15 team members scored in the contest.

"I'm sure that's a Duster record," said Cushing. "I don't think we've ever had everybody on the team score in one game before."

Dorcas Perkins' 15 points led the way, though Norma Frazier had 13 and Jackie Briggs and Darla Thomas added 10 each. Briggs led on the boards with 11 rebounds. Cindy Goltl, who led WTC in scoring the previous night, had six points and seven assists. Julie Poynor also had a half-dozen points, as did Tracey Muehlbrad and Vicki Teal.

Cindy Ray and Teresa Stith led the Oklahoma-based St. Gregory's team with 16 and five points.

In increasing its record to 4-1, Western Texas out rebounded its opponent 54 to 29, shot 38 of 78 (49 percent) from the field, and 20 of 29 (69 percent) from the charity stripe.

Cushing urged Snyder fans to make the trip here for Saturday's final game.

"We'll play at 6," he said. "And after that, Midland's men play Cisco at 8. Fans can come watch our game, then stay over and get a look at Midland."

Midland has been a strong rival of Western Texas College's men's team in past years.

Insurance FACTS by Tom Deffebach

YOUR Independent Insurance AGENT

All commercial insurance falls into two general major classifications, personal and property. History shows us that, because of legal restrictions, commercial insurance is written in this country by companies specializing in particular forms of insurance. These are life and health companies, fire and marine companies and casualty and surety companies. Of course, these days, many companies now extend their activities to include several or all categories for the convenience of their customers.

As an independent agency THE DEFFEBACH AGENCY, 3201 College, 573-5611 handles insurance from many different companies. We will work with you in assessing and protecting your needs while securing competitively priced policies designed for your specific needs. You can be sure of getting the best service and advice possible. Open: Mon. thru Fri. 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

INSURANCE TIP:
Do you have an extinguisher, and know how to use it? Is it in good condition?

FOREIGN RISKS

Many a vacation in foreign lands has been dampened by an unfortunate intestinal illness. Much depends on where you go and what you eat. To avoid diarrhea, realize that all the infectious bacterial organisms are destroyed by thorough cooking. Therefore, stick to well cooked foods, avoiding salads, raw vegetables and unskinned fruits. If the quality of the drinking water is questionable, it shouldn't even be used for brushing teeth or for making ice cubes.

Final Order On Hughes Estate

HOUSTON (AP) — A probate judge ended more than five years of courtroom bickering over Howard Hughes' fortune with a final judgment designating a deceased aunt and 21 first cousins as the only heirs of the eccentric billionaire.

Probate Judge Pat Gregory took less than five minutes Friday to sign the nine-page order that culminated a 5½-year battle by the heirs to guard their claim to the estate worth up to $2 billion.

"Based on the findings, a jury's verdict ... and after hearing the evidence, the court finds, declares and determines they are the heirs and only heirs of the estate of Howard Robard Hughes Jr.," Gregory said.

However, attorneys for the heirs said a variety of pending appeals may delay distribution of the money for up to five years.

Gregory's order gave half the estate to 17 maternal relatives and half to five paternal first cousins. However, the judge agreed to amend the percentages fixed by Texas law to comply with a settlement agreement drafted by the relatives in 1976.

Four of the heirs have since died, and their shares of Hughes' fortune will go to their estates.

None of the heirs, who range in age from 18 to 81, were present at Friday's hearing.

Gregory's order came more than two months after a six-member jury denied estate claims by about 500 paternal second, third and fourth cousins.

The distant relatives have 30 days to appeal, but their attorneys said no decisions have been made on a possible appeal.

The U.S. Supreme Court will decide if Hughes was a Texas or California resident and lower appeals courts will determine if he was married when he died or if he signed a "lost will" that allegedly left the fortune to a Florida-based medical institution he founded.

"The biggest thing to settle is the tax question ... to decide whether Texas or California can collect inheritance taxes. That could take three, four, maybe even five years to settle," said Shelton Smith, an attorney for the paternal heirs.

Hughes death aboard an April 5, 1976, emergency medical flight from his Mexican seaside hideway to a Houston hospital prompted a worldwide search for a will. More than 40 documents surfaced, but all were ruled invalid.

Gregory ruled last July that the recluse left no immediate survivors and ordered four separate trials to determine who would share the estate. The last of the proceedings ended in mid-September.

James Watt, inventor of the steam engine, was born in 1736.

Dear Abby

Absent Father Remains A Haunting Presence

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate.

DEAR ABBY: In 1930 I gave birth to a baby girl out of wedlock. When she was a year old I married a man who she thinks is her father. Today she is a lovely Christian wife and mother.

I am worried now because I'm afraid one day she will have to send for her birth certificate to get a passport or some other reason, and she will learn the truth. Abby, I have cried this room full of tears. Is there any way I can get a birth certificate for my daughter with my husband's name on it as her father?

I am desperate to get this done before I die. I am 73 and more than willing to pay for any trouble you have to go to get this information for me.

NEEDS HELP

DEAR NEEDS: Two important questions need answering: Did the man who fathered your daughter sign any paternity papers? Did your husband legally adopt your daughter?

If no paternity papers were signed, and your husband legally adopted your daughter, when the adoption occurred a new set of birth certificates would have been made up naming your husband as your daughter's father. (No mention of adoption appears on these new birth certificates.)

Your state department of health (birth and death records division) has this information on file. It would be wise to ask a lawyer to guide you. Good luck and God bless.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a good man, but he doesn't know how to be a father. He says he loves our children (6, 9 and 11), but he rarely talks to them except when they ask him a question or when discipline is needed. He rarely even touches them or takes them anywhere. He rarely goes to school functions or sports events, even when the children are involved. And on those very rare occasions when he goes, he always acts as though he'd rather be somewhere else.

We do very little as a family together. Their childish noise drives him into a gloomy silence and he takes off to be alone. On days when he's home, he finds numerous errands to busy himself, or he sleeps late.

I've tried hard to love him and accept him as he is, but I get few compliments on a meal or a well-run house. I know God can heal this home and that is what I am hoping for. I've mentioned my sad situation to some of my friends and find that others have it, too.

When are husbands going to wake up and realize their responsibilities to their families? What do you tell a child who feels fatherless with a father in the house?

Abby, I know he loves us, but how I wish he'd show it. Print this. It might help.

NAMELESS IN MAINE

DEAR NAMELESS: Your problem is a familiar one in many homes. Fathers who don't know how to show love or relate to their children are usually men who themselves had no father-son relationship while growing up. I urge you both to talk to a marriage or family counselor. And if you belong to a church, your clergyman will be happy to counsel you. If your husband is, as you say, a good man, he will want to learn how to be an involved family man. Help him.

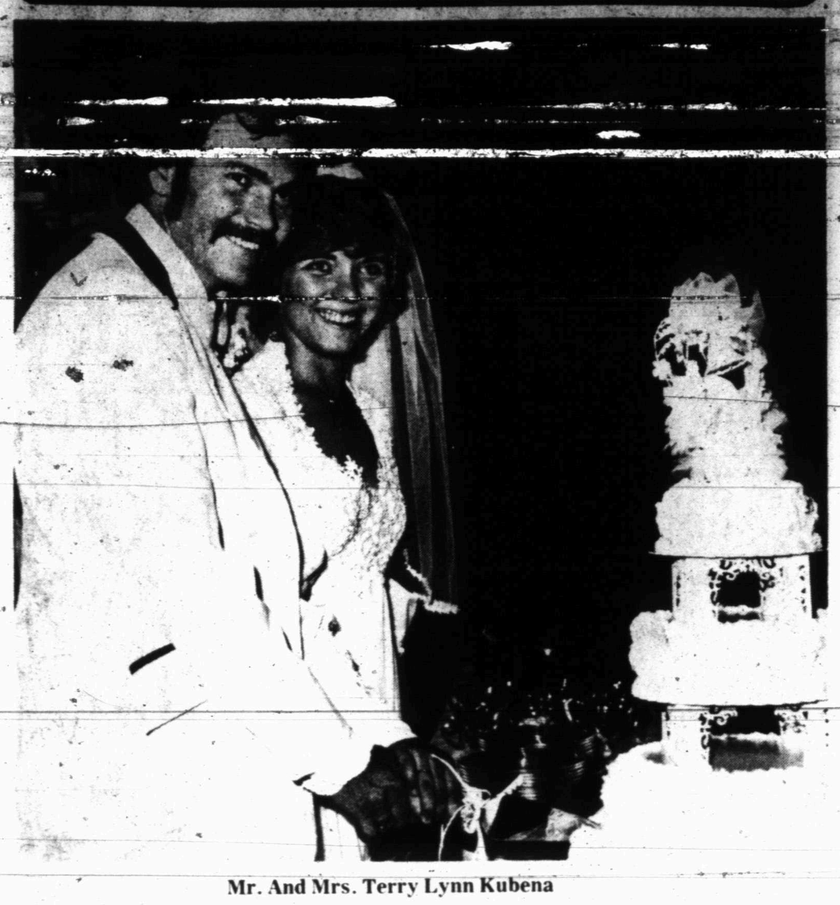
Terry Boatman Marries Lynn Kubena



Mr. And Mrs. Terry Lynn Kubena

Terry Lanell Boatman became the bride of Terry Lynn Kubena in a double ring ceremony September 26 at 4 p.m. at St. John's Catholic Church in Hermleigh. Rev. Louis Moeller and Rev. Tom Jordan officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Boatman of Snyder and Mrs. Joyce Prichard of Marlow, Okla. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Kubena of Hermleigh.

Church decorations consisted of two-heart-shaped candelabra and two baskets atop brass stands of peach gladiolis, bronze mums, butterscotch daisies, brown eucolyptus and baby's breath.

Wedding music consisted of "We've Only Just Begun", "Color My World, "Lord's Prayer", and "The Wedding Song."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an organza dress with chiffon overlay and scoop neckline. The bodice was covered with multi floral venise lace and was adorned with pearls and featured long full sleeves with wide cuff. Venise medallion covered cuff and extended upward on sleeve. It is also highlighted with pearls The empire waistline flows into a full skirt. The skirt decorations were designed by the bride's stepmother.the design is of Chantilly and venise lace adorned with pearls. The appliques descend and continue around the front hemline.

The lace continues around into the smei-cathedral train.

The bonnet headpiece was covered with venise lace and adorned with pearls. The two-tiered fingertip veil was trimmed with matching lace and pearls.

For something old the bride wore her great-grandmother's wedding band; something new was her dress; something borrowed was a pearl bracelet from her mother. She wore a blue garter and pennies minted in the couples birthdates.

The bride carried a crescent shaped bouquet of peach silk roses and brown baby's breath accented with lace ribbon.

Tammy Merritt of Marlow, Okla, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a beige crepe spaghetti strapped floor length gown. She carried a bouquet like the bride's, only smaller.

Brooke Kubena and Jiletta Kubena of Hermleigh, nieces of he bridegroom, served as flower girls. They wore long apricot voile dresses with ruffles.

Mrs. Laura Johnson and Mrs. Shawna Holder, both of Snyder were the bridesmaids. They were attired similar to the maid of honor.

Randy Kubena of Hermleigh served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Don Kubena of Hermleigh and Bill Kubena of Midland, brothers of the bridegroom.

Ushers were Melvin Boatman of Snyder, bother of the bride, Charles Lee of Lubbock and Mike Piccino of Midland.

Brandon Kubena of Midland, nephew of the bridegroom, was the ring bearer. He wore a dark brown tuxedo.

The reception took place at the Hermleigh Community Center. The bride's table was laid with a white lace cloth and an antique pitcher served as the centerpiece. The four-tiered wedding cake was topped with doves.

Mesdames Mindy Whittenburg, Janet Gattis and Malinda Smith presided at the table.

The bridegroom's table was covered with a beige lace cloth and centered with a tractor. Chocolate cake and coffee was served. Mesdames Lisa Lee and Mrs. Merry McGee presided at the table.

Kim Reed registered guests.

After a wedding trip to Cancun, Mexico the couple now lives in Hermleigh.

The bride graduated from Snyder High School and attended Western Texas College where she studied cosmetology.

The bridegroom graduated from Snyder High School. He is a farmer.

Out-of-town guests were from Oklahoma, Ft. Worth, Abilene, Midland, Dallas, Wichita Falls, Weatherford, Lubbock and Sweetwater.

The parents of the bridegroom hosted a rehearshal dinner at a local restaurant.

To Return

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gary Coleman will return to work on the NBC series "Diff'rent Strokes" next week after settlement of his contract differences with Tandem Productions.

Barbara Brogliatti, a spokeswoman for Tandem, said Coleman, 13, would be back Monday to begin work on the fifth new show of the season. Coleman did not return to work when production was resumed in September and four shows were taped without him.

A settlement was reached Wednesday night and the final details were worked out Thursday morning, said Ms. Brogliatti.

Beurerlein-Clanton Exchange Vows

Anne Elizabeth Beurerlein became the bride of Monte Carl Clanton on Oct. 10 at St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church in Snyder.

[illegible] of the bride, was the main celebrant at the Nuptial Mass. Co-celebrants were the Rev. Timothy Schwertner of Levelland and the Rev. Louis Moeller, St. Elizabeth's pastor.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Beuerlein of Snyder, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Clanton of Fairbanks, Alaska.

A brass 15-branch candelabrum centered the altar and was flanked on both sides by two nine-inch brass candletrees decorated with greenery and ivory satin ribbons and bows. The side altars were decorated with pots of white daisy mums. The [illegible] and [illegible] wedding rings decorated the memory candle and two small candles were in an arrangement of daisies, greenery and baby's breath. It rested on a pedestal before the main altar. Satin bows and streamers decorated the pews and kneeling bench.

Emily Kincaid, guitarist, and Mrs. Rudy Rodriguez, aunt of the bride from San Antonio, accompanied Rudy Rodriguez, uncle of the bride, who sang "Sunrise, Sunset," and "Longer," before Mass. Mrs. Early Watts, organist, played the traditional wedding march and accompanied Rudy Rodriguez Jr. as he sang Schubert's "Ave Maria" during the offertory Mass. During the sign of peace, Rudy and Norma Rodriguez, accompanied by guitars, sang "Peace, Joy and Happiness," as the bride and groom presented their mothers and his grandmother, Mrs. Lorine Willis of Hearst, with long-stemmed red roses. During the communion service, they sang "Wherever You Go."

Acolytes were Daniel Scannicchio of Snyder and Kyle Sorrels of Ira.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory satin. The fitted bodice ending in a point at the waistline was decorated with self-covered buttons and complemented by tiny tucks. Chantilly lace insertions extended to the hem of the full skirt in the front and down the back with extensions into the traditional long train. The long sleeves trimmed with the same Chantilly lace extended to points over her hands. The full-length veil of illusion was attached to a picture hat of original design. The brim was topped with lace ruffling and medallions centered with beads taken from her grandmother's wedding gown. French veiling cascaded down the front of her hat. She carried a bridal cascade bouquet of fresh miniature sweetheart roses, stephanotis and lilies of the valley, intersperced with baby's breath and streamers of ivory lace and satin.

Something new was a mother-of-pearl rosary given to her by her parents. Something old was a gold heart locket given by her uncles, Rev. Hubert Halfmann and Rev. Curtis Halfmann. Something borrowed was her wedding gown which belonged to her mother. She wore a blue garter and pennies minted in the year of their birth.

Mrs. Mike Forbes served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Mark Bawcum, Paula and Terese Beurelein, sisters of the bride, and Melinda Kvapil, cousin of the bride. They were attired in matching floor-length gowns of midnight sky blue. The high-fitted bodice and slightly loose-fitted midriff had front and back pin tucks released at the waistline. The square front was topped with a scalloped band. A narrow self-belt held in slight fullness at sides and back. They carried nosegays of true blue camellias, toast azaleas and ivory blossoms and baby's breath fixed on ivory lack backs with streamers of ivory lace and picot satin. They wore half wreaths of the same flowers in their hair. Crystal hearts worn at the neckline were gifts of the bride.

Beth Franklin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Franklin, was flower girl. She was dressed in a long beige and blue print dress with short puffed sleeves trimmed in ivory lace. A halo of blue camellias and toast azaleas adorned her hair. She carried a basket of ivory colored rose petals which she threw in the path of rhe bride.

The groom was attired in an ivory Royale tuxedo. His Boutoniere was an ivory sweetheart rose, lily of the valley and stephanotis.

Best man was Mark Clanton, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Mark Bawcum, Louis Joe Beuerlein, brother of the bride, Delton Caddel of Andrews and Glen Prescott of Odessa. seating guests were John Lange, cousin of the bride, and David Lee. They wore toast colored tuxedoes with ivory pleated shirts and bow ties.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in Katherine Ryan Hall. The bride's table was laid with a lace cloth and held an arrangement of white daisies and white tapers in a silver candelabrum. The three-tiered cake was decorated with rosebuds and tiny silk blue flower cascades. Topping the cake was the chiro wedding cross encircled with blue silk flowers and baby's breath.

Punch was served from a crystal bowl and appointments were of crystal and silver. Presiding at the bride's table were Mrs. Stan Kvapil, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Kenneth Halfmann of Temple and Mrs. Jimmy Halfmann of Burlington, cousins of the bride.

The groom's table was laid with an ivory cloth with blue [illegible]. A brass coffee service was complimented with brass appointments and blue candles. Serving were Tracy Keene, cousin of the groom from Weatherford, and Mrs. Mike McKee.

Reception tables were decorated with nosegays of ivory and blue flowers and streamers. In the house party were Mrs. T. W. Holder, Mrs. Eddie Miller, Mrs. Loyd Raschke, Mrs. Tom Sccannicchio, Mrs. Phyllis McGinnis and Mrs. James McCaleb.

Nettie Moss registered guests and Karen Kvapil of Winters and Christy Rodriguez of San Antonio passed out ivory and blue satin rice flowers from wicker baskets.

A chuckwagon barbecue was served preceding the dance. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lange, aunt and uncle of the bride, led the traditional grand march to begin the dance, which featured the music of Ted McMillan and orchestra.

For going away, the bride wore a two-piece rose velvet suit with an ivory silk blouse. She wore a orsage of sweetwheart roses.

The bride is a 1979 graduate of Snyder High School and a 1981 graduate of Western Texas College. The groom is a 1977 graduate of Service High School in Anchorage, Alaska. He is employed as a sales engineer by Chromalloy Drilling Fluids in Snyder.

Following a wedding trip to Dallas the couple is at home in Snyder.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents in the Spanish Inn.

A bridesmaid's luncheon was held in the home of Mrs. Troy Scott. Assisting Mrs. Scott was Mrs. T. W. Holder.

A miscellaneous shower was given by 16 hostesses in the T. W. Holder home and a lingerie shower was hosted by Mrs. Mark Bawcum, Mrs. Mike Forbes and Mrs. Bud Dennis in the Dennis home.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Dallas, San Antonio, Odessa, Andrews, Lubbock, Hurst, Levelland, Weatherford, Muleshoe, Rowena, Olfen, Winters and Fairbanks, Alaska.

Citizens of the newly formed United States of America voted for a president for the first time on Jan. 7, 1789.

Cooking Is Fun

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

We know one young man whose wife doesn't have to urge him to help at dinner-time. That's because he's enjoyed cooking since he was a teenager. His sisters remember his high-school repertoire included spaghetti with various sauces, pizza and all kinds of cookies. His wife recalls the paper-thin Swedish pancakes he surprised her with one weekend morning shortly after they were married.

But he had never tried his hand at making the all-American apple pie. Recently when he did, the result was a sweet version with a nut topping rather than the usual pastry. Here's his recipe.

STEVE'S SWEET APPLE PIE

1 cup all-purpose flour
½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
½ teaspoon ground ginger
1 teaspoon lemon juice
½ cup butter
½ cup chopped walnuts
3 tablespoons cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter, melted
¼ cup honey
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
4½ cups pared sliced apples
1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell

In a small bowl, stir together the flour, sugar and ginger; with a pastry cutter or 2 knives cut in the ½ cup butter until coarse crumbs form; stir in the walnuts. Reserve to use as a topping.

In a large bowl, stir together the cornstarch and salt. Stir in until smooth the 2 tablespoons melted butter and the honey; stir in the lemon rind and lemon juice. Add the apple slices and toss until well coated. Spoon into the pastry shell. Sprinkle the reserved topping over the apples. Bake on the rack below the center of a preheated 400-degree oven for 15 minutes; reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake until apples are tender and crust is browned — about 30 minutes. Cool on a rack.

President Harry S. Truman announced in 1953 that the United States had developed a hydrogen bomb.

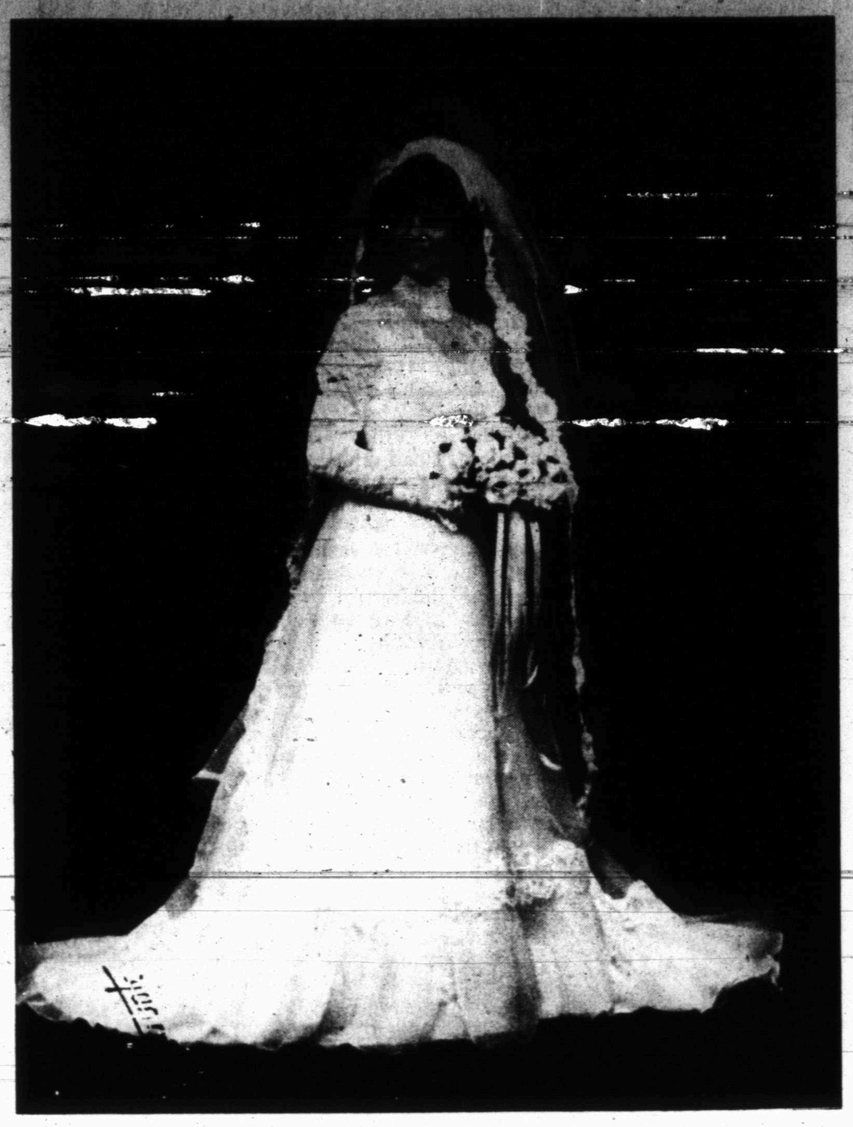
Sherry Bosley, Carl Holmes Are Wed



Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carl Holmes

An altar of spiral candelabras and greenery was the setting at the Village Baptist Church in Irving, Texas for the exchanging of vows between Sherry Renee Bosley and Roy Carl Holmes on Saturday, Nov. 7.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Jim Bosley of Alvarado, Texas, and the groom is the son of Wayman Holmes and the late Elsie Holmes of Snyder.

The bride was given in marrige by her father, the Rev. Jim Bosley, who also performed the double-ring ceremony. He was assisted by the bride's uncle, James R. Wilson of Irving.

The bride chose a floor length gown of polyester organza and chantilly lace. The gown featured a see-through bodice with standup collar, an empire waist and was enhanced with seed pearls and sequins. The gown also had long filled laced sleeves waist and was enhanced with seed pearls and sequins. The gown also had long filled laced sleeves with a ruffle at the wrist. A flounce ruffle and hem that swept into a chapel length train and came up to the waist in the back gave the gown the apron effect and was encircled with chantilly lace and a satin bow.

Her matching chapel length veil fell from a beaded lace headpiece. She wore her grandmother's cameo pendent and carried a bouquet of apricot roses and white daisies with greenry.

The bride's sister, Linda Patrick of Alvarado, served as matron of honor. Cousins of the bride, Debrah Shephard and Judy Wilson, wore bridesmaids.

The attendants wore a pale apricot gown of polyester lace that gathered at the shoulders and carried a nosegay of gerber apricot daisies and small white daisies. The bride's sister-in-law, Debra Bosley, attended the registry table, while the groom's sister, Debbie Holmes, attended the rice bags.

Best man was Charles Lee Jr. of Irving. Randy Wilson, cousin of the bride, and Jim A Bosley, brother of the bride, were groomsmen. The bride's uncles, Thomas Moore and John Dooley, both of Dallas, served as ushers and candlelighters.

Pianist and soloist was Wendell Wright, also an uncle of the bride.

Special guests were the grandparents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Irving of San Angelo.

A reception given by the bride's parents was held in the reception hall. The bride's aunts, Mrs. Kimm Wright, Mrs. [illegible] Dooley, both of Dallas, and Mrs. Maxine Wilson and Louise Shephard, both of Irving, served at the bride's table.

The couple will make their home in Irving after a short honeymoon. The groom [illegible] American Steel Company in Grand Prarie.

Mills Brothers Span 56 Years

PIQUA, Ohio (AP) — The Mills Brothers, who grew up here, have spanned 56 years as performers.

They have recorded more than 2,200 records and now consist of Herbert Mills, 68, Harry Mills, 67, and Donald Mills, 65.

Originally they were a quartet. John Mills Sr. performed with the group until his death in 1968 at the age of 85.

Their biggest hit, "Paper Doll," was recorded in 15 minutes in 1943. It was chosen as the B-side of "'ll Be Around."

Small Parts In Computer

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — There could be more than 1,000 20-cent parts in one $500,000 computer, says a spokesman for Pixley Richards, an electronics-industry supplier.

"It only takes one misaligned 20-cent part to down a computer," he sid. "It could happen if the part is just .001 inch out of place. For comparison, a human hair is .003 inch wide."

Company Displays Photos, Ids

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — To help production people feel a part of Pixley Richards, a plastics components company, the management displays identification cards and color photos of all employees on a highly visible wall.

"This helps new people learn the names of their co-workers on a shift and helps older employees acknowledge new people on other shifts," said Peter Richards, president.

Perpetuating Poverty

The United States may be the first country to pay people for being poor—creating a class of professional poverty victims who pass their calling from generation to generation.

This is one of the insights of George Gilder, author of "Wealth and Poverty," which explodes the orthodoxies that have dominated U. S. thought and policy on social and economic problems and how to handle them for many decades.

Total social welfare spending from 1964 when the "War on Poverty" began has grown from $77 billion to more than $400 billion a year. Direct public aid has grown from $6 billion to more than $60 billion. Housing, food stamps, medical care and other phases of the endless and seemingly no-win "war" have cost more than a trillion dollars.

During the 1970s, Gilder observed, 44 welfare programs increased 2½ times faster than the Gross National Product, three times faster than wages. By 1979, the government was spending $18,000 a year to support the average welfare family of four. By now, the emphasis was not on breaking the poverty cycle, but on "outreach"—getting the most benefits possible for as many people as possible out of as many programs as possible.

These programs, Gilder says, "Have surprisingly little beneficial effect, but they do have a dramatic negative impact on motivation and self-reliance."

A subtle underccurent of racism is involved. As Gilder explains it, "The prevailing expressed opinion is that racism and discrimination still explain the low incomes of blacks. This position is at once false and invidious. Not only does it obstruct the truth, it encourages by its essential incredibility the alternate falsehood that blacks cannot now make it in America without vast federal assistance, without, indeed, the very government programs that in fact account for the worst aspects of poverty and promise to perpetuate it.

Gilder asserts that "the poor choose leisure not because of moral weakness, but because they are paid to do so."

Is there a way out? Gilder believes that there is. It requires escaping from the chains of the welfare state with its penalizing of ingenuity, creativity and productivity.

"The competition is really getting fierce. They're cents-off coupons for our next purchase of tactical weapons."

The feller on Deep Creek says, "You know you are fat when you are walking and your chins are jogging."

When your alma mater is losing, generally you can find something else in the stadium to entertain you on a Saturday afternoon.

It was a long afternoon for everyone at Lubbock's Jones Stadium last week. By the clock, the game took almost four hours, but that last quarter was an eternity for Tech homecoming fans.

Even though Texas Christian has been considered the doormat of the Southwest Conference for the past 10 or so years, the Red Raiders have consistently had trouble with the Frogs.

We remember another homecoming in 1972 when Tech was under the direction of Jim Carlen and the team finished with an 8-4 season and a trip to the Sun Bowl.

On that afternoon, the game was moved up to 11:45 a.m. to accomodate a regional TV audience. If our memory is correct, TCU was winless at the time. But that afternoon the Frogs looked like national champs and clobbered the Raiders by 31-7.

Also there was that 3-3 tie a couple years ago, but nothing compares with last weekend's fiasco.

At the end of the third quarter, Tech leads TCU by 32-6 and appears to have the victory securely bolted away. Then something happens--a breakdown of breakdowns that even the Guinness Book of Records would have difficulty believing.

TCU runs back a Tech punt for a score, an onside kick to Tech hits a front linesman in the back and TCU recovers to set up another score.

Expecting another onside kick, Tech moves all but a lone receiver up near the front line. The squib kick heads for the corner and TCU again comes up with the football.

What happens is that the Frogs score three times without Tech ever touching the football. Tech picks up seven more points, but the Frogs move within two points. A blocked punt out of the Raider endzone ties the score 39-39.

The final score holds as Tech misses a 28-yard field goal attempt with just seconds remaining.

Tech homecoming fans were in a state of shock. What happened was impossible, wasn't it? It's a game that will long be remembered, but wouldn't it be nice to forget.

IN WASHINGTON

Robert Walters

WASHINGTON (NEA)—A loaf of bread costs $7.66, tomatoes are priced at three for $5.24, bananas sell for $3.28 per pound—and a 10-ounce jar of instant coffee is a luxury item selling for $45.06.

The nation's consumers, warns Robert Rodale, are likely to encounter those prices within 20 years "if a more sustainable and energy-efficient food system is not created soon."

As board chairman of a highly successful family-owned publishing firm, Rodale has spent years promoting the cause of an abundant, safe, efficient and flexible food system from the Emmaus, Pa., home of Rodale Press Inc.

Now he's planning to carry his campaign to Washington, with a warning that "the $7.66 loaf of bread will be a fact by the end of this century unless we act now."

Rodale's personal commitment to the issue has led him to establish a public-interest venture called The Cornucopia Project, which employs six full-time staff members and is financed through hundreds of thousands of dollars contributed annually by the publishing company.

Its concerns range from soil erosion and land loss to energy use and chemical contamination of food. In an era when huge corporate farming operations provide much of the nation's food. Rodale offers compelling arguments for localized agricultural production on a modest but self-sufficient scale.

New Yorkers, he notes, consume about 24,000 tons of broccoli annually, virtually all of it grown on the West Coast, then shipped across the country at a cost of almost $6 million—but that trip isn't necessary because broccoli could be produced almost anywhere on the East Coast.

Although Pennsylvania is the leading agricultural state in the Northeast, it imports 99 percent of its lettuce, 88 percent of its carrots and 77 percent of its beef. Transportation costs total more than $400 million annually.

For every $2 spent on energy to grow food in this country, another dollar is spent on energy consumed in shipping—but transportation isn't the only villain because processing and packaging also use vast amounts of energy.

A typical 44-cent can of California tomatoes, for example, contains 20 cents' worth of processing, 19 cents' worth of transportation, overhead and profit—and 5 cents'worth of tomatoes.

Quality invariably is sacrificed in food varieties bred principally to endure a mechanical harvesting process and the rigors of cross-country shipping—but there are alternatives that can both reduce costs and improve quality.

An agriculture Department study of farmers' markets in Colorado shows that local producers receive 44 percent more profit when selling directly to consumers rather than to wholesalers, while buyers save 28 percent compared with supermarket prices. In New York City, farmers' markets save purchasers 7 percent to 35 percent compared with grocery store prices.

An even more efficient and economical alternative already has been chosen by the approximately 34 million households that grow food in their own gardens and 8 million others who use containers on porches, patios and decks.

Home gardens, with average dimensions of only about 22 feet by 30 feet, produced 40 percent of all vegetables consumed last year, with a net worth of $15 billion.

A 1980 nationwide survey conducted by the Gallup Organization found that another 17 million households have space for a garden but don't choose to have one, while an additional 14 million households would like a garden but lack the land.

If the first group could be provided with inspiration and the second provided with space, individuals could grow more than 35 billion pounds of vegetables each year—almost 80 percent of the country's total consumption.

That program typifies The Cornucopia Project's committment to helping people "to understand more about what's happening today on the nation's farms, in its supermarkets, at its dinner tables—and then to do something about it."

Since biblical times, ivory has been one of the world's precious commodities, but much of today's ivory is being held as a grisly investment. Many are buying raw tusks and holding them in the belief that the elephant will become extinct and the price of ivory will skyrocket.

at wits end

by erma bombeck

You know how I've been nagging at my son for nine years to get his hair cut? He finally did it.

And you know something? It's not the high I thought it would be. We have absolutely nothing to talk about anymore. I had no idea a large part of our relationship was based on such intimacies as: How long does it take you to wash all that? How are you financing the shampoo? Why don't you at least style it like Jaclyn Smith?

Our visits now are awkward. We're strangers.

It occurred to me that most of our relationships with our children are based on some form of criticism. I tried once to hold a five-minute conversation with one of my sons without expressing my viewpoint. Three seconds into the exchange, right after, "So what are you doing these days?"...I took over and he never got to speak another word.

Actually, long hair in this country did all parents a big favor. It brought us together on some common ground. Fathers who had never before noticed their sons began to talk to them from the moment they entered the door and continued until the moment they slammed it shut. They had rapport. They shared threats and feelings.

I found myself planning our next encounter and thinking of creative ways to bring up the subject of his hair. At church, when we were all asked to shake hands and wish one another peace, I'd turn to him and smile, "Get a haircut." I used to show him pictures of Dick Clark and say, "Now there's a boy who enjoys rock and roll and you can still see his ears."

Once on vacation, it was all we talked about from Gary, Ind., to Salt Lake City, Utah. The time really flew.

There are few things parents can talk about with their teenagers. Oh, sure, there are a few standards like, "You live like a hog," "Don't you ever hang up a towel?" and "Don't ruin your dinner with that junk." But I'm talking about a sure-fire topic to whip everyone up into a state of aggravation and hostility.

My son dropped by the other night and said, "Mom, how's it goin'?"

I said fine and we lapsed into a long silence. Finally, I ventured, "How are things with you?" He said okay and five more minutes went by. Finally, I said, "So, why didn't you tell me you were getting your hair cut?" We chewed on that for an entire evening. It was like old times.

Your Birthday

November 15, 1981

You'll be able to recognize and take advantage of opportunities that friends or co-workers may overlook in the coming year: Knowledge gained from experience is what will enable you to capitalize.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're capable today, which may be more obvious to others than to you. The only thing that could hold you back is needless self-doubt. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Keep those who are not directly involved out of your personal affairs today. An onlooker with no vested interest may try to gum things up for you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Compromise will be necessary today if you hope to work out an important agreement amicably. Be prepared to yield a little in order to make a deal.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Once you set your mind to something today, there's small doubt you'll achieve your purpose. Be careful, though, not to drive those who assist you too hard.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be a gracious winner today in a competitive activity. There's a chance you may have to contend with a poor loser who holds grudges.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Neither you nor your mate should act without first consulting the other in financial matters today. Your spending philosophies may differ considerably.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Participate in fun activities that are not too organized or structured today. If you play a sport, do it more for fun than for the score.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Material accumulation is likely today, provided you're prepared to work for it. Lady Luck won't be picking up hitchhikers for free rides.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Those you meet socially will find you charming and fun. However, if a poll were taken at home, you might not score as high.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Normally you're a grateful person to others who are helpful to you, but today it's possible you may step out of character and fail to be appreciative.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Enjoy yourself with your pals today, but don't attempt to mix business with pleasure. Carefully skirt any issue that pertains to commerce or money.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Sometimes when we try too hard, we do the wrong things and success eludes us. Much can be accomplished if you play it cool and keep calm.

November 16, 1981

You will be lucky and resourceful this coming year in ways that can add to your material growth and enhance your security. Unusual changes and conditions will work out for your ultimate benefit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your intuitive perceptions, usually rather accurate, could be off target today. However, if you rely totally on that splendid mind of yours, success is inevitable. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Some unusual, but beneficial, conditions are stirring at this time. They could represent a major turning point in your life. Be doubly alert today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A venture that hasn't looked too promising could take a surprising turn for the better today. The new conditions may be brought about by someone else.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today you could learn an important lesson — not to prejudge someone before you get to know him or her. You'll find a pal where you didn't think one existed.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't despair if things haven't been going too well lately where your career is concerned. Beginning today, there should be a marked improvement.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be wary of making snap decisions today. Your initial evaluations may not be your best. After you study matters, your judgement improves.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Workwise, plan your moves carefully today if you hope to be productive. Once you take on a task, be sure to see it through.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you are shopping for a large ticket item today, don't be afraid to haggle for a bargain. With some shrewd horse trading, you can get a better price.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You have the ability today to turn losing situations into profitable ones if you apply yourself. Use your smarts where dollars and cents are concerned.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Not too much is likely to be accomplished today unless you are pressed or challenged. When the burners are turned up, it ignites your enthusiasm and drive.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You may find yourself in a situation today where you feel you are giving more than you are getting in return. Keep cool. All will balance out eventually.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) An opportunity may present itself today to give you a chance to strengthen bonds in a relationship that has been a bit shaky lately.

Woman And Son Find Each Other After 20 Years

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — On Oct. 16, 1961, Darlene Bennett Landrum got aboard an airplane in San Diego and flew to Texas, leaving behind a husband, a son and a daughter.

She was not deserting her family. She was coming home to Lufkin to spend the last few month of a difficult pregnancy with her mother.

The day Mrs. Landrum stepped into that airplane in California was also the last day she ever saw or spoke to her son, Jimmy.

Until October 1981.

On Oct. 16, 1981, as Darlene Landrum sat down to dinner in her trailor, the phone rang. Expecting nothing special, she answered.

What she heard was more than special. It was, she says, a miracle.

"A man's voice said, 'Is this Darlene?' I said yes. He said, 'This is your son, Jim Bennett.'"

Twenty years to the day since she had last seen him, Mrs. Landrum was talking to her son.

When she left San Diego in 1961, she expected to stay away only long enough to safely have her third child. Between the birth of her daughter Debbie, then 7, and Jimmy, then 3½, she had a miscarriage.

"I didn't want to lose another baby," she remembers.

So when she became pregnant for a fourth time and began to have difficulties, she decided to return to her home in Texas to be with her mother, intending to return to San Diego as soon as the baby was born.

But when three weeks went by and she had heard nothing from her husband in California, she called him.

He told her he wanted a divorce. Not good news, but better than what was yet to come. He said he would send Debbie to Texas, but would keep Jimmy himself.

A few weeks later, Mrs. Landrum tried to call her husband. His sister said her brother had left — with Jimmy — and that she had no idea where they had gone.

"There I was with no money, expecting a baby, with another little girl to support. I didn't know what to do," she said.

She had the baby, named her Angela, got a divorce and began her 20-year search for her son, Jim Bennett.

"I went to seven different lawyers. Each said that we couldn't find him unless he came back to Texas. They said they wouldn't go after him out of state. I didn't have the money for an investigator. I didn't have any money at all," she said.

The trail was cold, but she never gave up hope.

"I knew either he'd find us or we'd find them. I've prayed for it every night. Even if you think it's hopeless, it's not."

That hope became more substantial this fall. Her daughter, Angela, now 19 suggested contacting the Social Security Administration, who said Jim was alive and had been working two years before.

Although they were not allowed to reveal his address, they suggested mailing a letter to Jim in care of the Social Security office, enclosing copies of his birth certificate and the divorce decree.

They would forward the letter to his place of employment, they said.

A variety of circumstances--the Social Security official went on vacation and a family outbreak of measles — delayed the mailing of the letter. Finally, Oct. 16, the letter was mailed to the Social Security office.

Later that evening, the phone rang.

"The first thing I thought was that somehow he had already heard from the Social Security people," Mrs. Landrum said, even though she had been told the letter would not reach her son for at least 90 days.

But Jim had been conducting a search of his own, and, through a complicated set of cirumstances — a miracle, Mrs. Landrum says — the searches of mother and son overlapped.

Jim, now 23 and married, had been looking for his mother for a year and a half, contacting relatives as she had done with no luck.

His wife suggested contacting the Angelina County Courthouse, since they last knew his mother was in Lufkin.

He explained the situation. He was looking for his mother but only knew her maiden and first married name. Not much to go on.

But Mrs. Harvard had not only known Mrs. Landrum since she was five years old, she had made the copies of the birth certificate and divorce decree two weeks before. She knew the story of Mrs. Landrum's missing son.

So when Jim mentioned his mother's name, Mrs. Harvard said, "Oh, I know her. She's hunting for you too."

That night Jim spoke to his mother.

The conversation lasted an hour. Mrs. Landrum found out her son was living in Portland, Ore., drove an eighteen wheeler and had a beard. His wife's name was Angela. Her daughter Angela had married a man named Jim. Coincidences.

Mrs. Landrum says that the coincidences with the names are further evidence that her reunion with her son is a miracle, no matter if it took 20 years for that miracle to happen.

Her main concern is seeing her son in person.

"I want to see him so bad but neither of us has the money," she said. "He just took a vacation and doesn't have any vacation time left, but I'm hoping his boss, when he hears this story, will give him some time off so he can come down here."

TO WED IN JANUARY--Mr. and Mrs. Bronc Hawkins announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Renee, to Van Spikes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Spikes of Snyder. The couple plan to be married January 9 in the First United Methodist Church in Aspermont.

50 YEARS TOGETHER--Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Cain will be honored with a 50th wedding anniversary reception Sunday, Nov. 22, from 2-4 p.m. at 2900 34th Street. The couple was married November 20, 1931 in Marietta, Okla. The reception will be sponsored by their children: Bill of Arlington, Wayne of Irving, James of Snyder and Virginia Smith of Lubbock. They have 12 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

Shah's Daughter May Attend Classes

BENNINGTON, Vt. (AP) — The oldest daugher of the late Shah of Iran has made inquiries about attending Bennington College, one of the nation's most expensive, college President Joseph Murphy has confirmed.

But Murphy said Wednesday the liberal arts school has not received an application from 17-year-old Farahnaz Pahlavi.

"Until we have an application, I don't know if we have a student," Murphy said.

Jordans To Mark 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert M. Jordan will be honored this afternoon (Sunday) with a reception celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

Hosting the event in the Garden Room at First Baptist Church in Snyder will be their children, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jordan and Mrs. Nancy Dailey, and grandchildren.

Friends have been asked to come between the hours of 2 p. m. and 4:30 p. m. The honorees have asked that no gifts be brought to the celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Jordan were married on Nov. 15, 1931, in Texarkana, Ark. The vows were solemnized by a justice of the peace who also was a Baptist minister.

Miss World Surprised

LONDON (AP) — Miss Venezuela was a favorite of London's major betting houses, but insisted she was surprised when she captured the title of Miss World.

"I didn't expect to win," 18-year-old computer engineering student Pilin Leon said Thursday. "There are so many pretty girls here"

Miss Leon won $51,192, a fur coat and a one-year employment contract as the winner of the 30-year-old beauty contest.

Miss United States, 23-year-old Lisa Moss of Louisiana, was among 15 semi-finalists at the pageant held at historic Royal Albert Hall.

Vickie Harrell Weds Jim Hall

Vickie Harrell became the bride of Jim Hall in an afternoon ceremony on Oct. 10.

Vows were exchanged in the chapel of the United Methodist Church in Midlothian.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Tucker of Grand Prairie. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Noble Odell, formerly of Snyder who now live in Midlothian.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hall of Ira.

East won the first trick with his king of clubs. He saw no future in the club suit and led back the 10 of spades.

The play proceeded quickly from then on. South entered dummy with a club, took a diamond finesse, returned to dummy with the other top club, repeated the diamond finesse and wound up with five diamonds plus two tricks in each black suit.

There was some discussion about the possibility that South could have made an overtrick if the defense had slipped, but no one noticed that East could have beaten the hand if he had simply played a low club at trick one.

Interest rates are high today, but no interest is paid on tricks at bridge. If East had ducked that first club, South would have had just one entry to dummy to lead diamonds. East would surely have made his king of diamonds and South would have been able to take only eight tricks.

Of course, the play might have proceeded very slowly. Maybe South would have found a way to get a trick out of his heart king, but in all probability he would not have worked that out.

Home Games More Popular

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans are playing more games at home than ever before.

More than 5 million video game systems have been installed in American homes, according to Jim Levy, president of Activision, a designer and seller of video-game cartridges.

This electronic pastime is so popular, he adds, that demand for new systems is growing by 50 percent a year in the United States

Johnnie Lou McCright Weds Barry Preston

Johnnie Lou McCright and Barry Wayne Preston were united in marriage October 10 at 7 p.m. at the Colonial Hill Baptist Church. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. John McCright, 3011 Avenue V, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Preston of 3749 Highland Drive.

Officiating the double ring ceremony was Rev. Roscie Williams.

The bride, given in marriage by Ronald Bearden, her brother-in-law, wore a traditional gown of white organza, lavishly trimmed with Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice featured an empire waistline with high neck line featuring a stand-up collar embroidered in seed pearls. The sheer bodice was accented by two rows of Chantilly lace, also embroiderd in seed pearls. The full sleeves were of Chantilly lace, ending with fitted cuffs and lace ruffles over the hands. The full skirt featured a wide ruffle of organza edged with lace at the bottom. An additional row of lace bordered the top of the organza ruffle, and along with the ruffles, swept from the front of the skirt up the sides and ended in a point in the back just below the waistline in an apron effect. A satin bow with streamers accented the back of the dress at the waistline. The bride's fingertip veil was attached to a comb and was embroidered with Chantilly lace.

In keeping with tradition, the bride carried a pink Bible attached to her bouquet for something old. The bride's brother and his wife gave the Bible for her birthday. Something new was her dress. Something borrowed was a ring from Lori Johnson which was attached to a ribbon on her bouquet. She wore a blue garter.

The bride carried a bouquet of blue, pink, yellow, white, and creme colored flowers. White lace and ribbon trimmed with baby's breath finished the nosegay. White streamers tied in love knots hung from the bouquet surrounded by yellow, pink, blue, and light green streamers.

Bendi Gannaway of Hermleigh, niece of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a pink floral print gown and carried a small nosegay similar to the bride's. Lori Johnson and Teresa Stratton, both of Hermleigh, served as bridesmaids. Stratton is the bride's niece.

Kenneth Preston served his son as best man. Groomsmen were Dale Cotton and Donnie Taylor.

Ushers were Lee Holder and Jeff Gannaway of Hermleigh, the bride's nephew. They also served as candlelighters.

A heart shaped candelabrum stood in the center of the altar, entwined with greenery. A white memory candle, encircled with palms, silk flowers and ribbons sat in front of the arrangement between two long stemmed candles. To the sides of the wedding party stood seven branch candleabra entwined with greenery.

Mrs. Troy Lilly, pianist, played "The Wedding Song", and "A Time For Us" while the guests and parents were being seated. "Always and Forever" was played as the couple exchanged vows. When the memory candle was lit, "We've Only Just Begun" was played. Teresa Smith of Arlington sang all the vocal arrangements. Mrs. Virgil Mott, organist, played traditional wedding music.

As the bride entered the altar she presented her mother with a long-stemmed red rose. As the bride and bridegroom left the altar, the bride presented her new mother-in-law with a long-stemmed red rose.

Guests of honor were Wayland and Gayland Bearden and Jay Gannaway, all nephews of the bride.

The reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bridal table as laid with a green tablecloth covered with a lace tablecloth. A centerpiece of orange, beige and brown flowers accented the table. A three-tiered cake trimmed with yellow, pink, and blue flowers was decorated on top with a pair of doves. The appointments were in crystal and silver.

Mrs. Janell Bearden and Mrs. Ladell Gannaway, sisters of the bide, presided at the table.

The bridegroom's table was laid with a creme tablecloth. A pair of doves decorated the center of the table. The chocolate cake was decorated with a Rathole machine. Coffee was served from a silver coffee service set. Mrs. Sue Cotton presided at the table.

The registry table was decorated with a mirror picture frame with the bride and bridegroom's picture in it. Brenda Cumba of Abilene, niece of the bride, presided at the table.

After a honeymoon trip to Oklahoma and Arkansas, the couple now reside at 2241 Sunset in Snyder.

The bride is presently attending Western Texas College. The bridegroom is employed by Ratholes, Inc.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearshal dinner at a local restaurant.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Preston of San Angelo, grandparents of the bridegroom; Mrs. Rodney Hancock of Abilene, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Robert Cumba of Abilene, niece of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Brasuel Of Robert Lee, aunt and uncle of the groom; and Teresa Smith of Arlington.

FRUIT SALAD

Attractive and practical way to serve a summer favorite.

Large fresh pineapple
Sugar
1 pound sweet red cherries, stemmed
2 large ripe bananas
Orange juice
1 pint creamstyle cottage cheese
6 portions mixed salad greens
French dressing

Cut pineapple in half lengthwise through crown. Using a pineapple or grapefruit knife, cut fruit away from shell. Cut out core and discard. Dice fruit and sprinkle with sugar to taste; let stand about half an hour. Pit cherries. Peel bananas, score and slice; sprinkle with a little orange juice. mix drained pineapple fruit, cherries and bananas; pile into pineapple shells. Serve the stuffed shells with a bowl of the cottage cheese, a bowl of the greens and a sauceboat of the French dressing so guests can help themselves. Makes 6 servings.

Both important: energy and the environment . . .

let's keep our balance.

We Americans have built a great nation through productive use of the country's vast energy resources. Sometimes, though, things have gotten out of balance when long-term effects on our environment were overlooked.

Today most of us recognize the need to preserve the quality of our air and land and water, now and in the future. But the pendulum has swung too far.

At your electric company, we are faced with some laws which raise the cost of electricity without any significant benefit to the environment.

For example, a 1977 amendment to the Clean Air Act requires that plants using low-sulfur coal emit less sulfur dioxide than those which use high-sulfur coal. This requires more air quality control equipment on plants that use low-sulfur coal than is necessary to protect the environment. Ultimately, this will penalize our customers by increasing the cost of electricity from our future low-sulfur coal plants.

There's a lack of balance here that's costing all of us. Only the U.S. Congress can put it right by changing our laws so that they can be applied intelligently and made to work. Good regulations help keep a balance — let's get the benefits we're supposed to, and be sure they're worth the costs.

Go To Honoree For Job In Presidential Museum

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — How do you get a job as curator of one of the presidential museums that honor past chief executives of the United States?

Why, you talk to the former president himself! That's the way the executive director and curator of the new Gerald R. Ford Presidential Museum in Grand Rapids got his job, he says.

William K. Jones was serving as a liaison with the National Archives and the Gerald R. Ford Commemorative Committee when he went to Rancho Mirage in California to meet with Ford in February 1980 to discuss the museum project.

In the course of their talk, Ford asked Jones to take over the post of executive director.

"It was just that simple," says Jones, whose background as an anthropologist and historian equipped him for his new role as the presidential museum's director.

But, in addition, he brings to the new museum that was officially dedicated in September similar experience as curator of the Dwight D. Eisenhower Presidential Library in Abilene, Kan. And it was while Jones, a tall man in his early 40s, was involved with the Everett McKinley Dirkson Center for Congressional Research at Pekin, Ill., that he first came to Ford's attention.

"Of the presidential museums, this has the largest exhibit space of any of them," he says, pointing out what makes the Ford Museum different from others. "The others also serve as libraries. This museum is also the first one to be built in the downtown area and that is really great. We expect greater utilization of the facility than if it were located in the country."

Having served as a curator of a presidential facility, he has had an opportunity to study some of the thousands of visitors attracted to such museums.

"There is still a fascination with the presidency in this country," says Jones. "We appear to want to know all there is to know about the man and the decisions he has to make. Even though the country is ruled by the three branches of government, the president is still the single most important individual in the system."

Jones is especially proud of two exhibits in the new museum — President Nixon's letter of resignation to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and President Ford's document pardoning Nixon.

"These have become significant in the course of the nation's history and very well should be here," he adds.

One area of the museum that is expected to fascinate visitors is the replica of the Oval Office in the White House that will reflect the Gerald Ford era.

Day-Long Program Of Church To Focus On Cross Of Christ

Two members of the 37th Street Church of Christ will be featured speakers at a day-long focus on The Cross of Christ.

The special services are set this Sunday at the 37th Street building, located at 2500 37th St.

Speaking at the 10:45 a.m. worship service will be Dr. James Howell, patholigist at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. Speaking at the 6 p.m. service will be Dan Cotton, Snyder attorney.

Dr. Howell will speak on the Cross from a medical viewpoint and Cotton will speak on the Cross frm a legal viewpoint.

In addition to the two special lessons, Bible classes for all ages are set for 9:45 a.m. All classes will have a special emphasis on the Cross of Christ. Following the morning worship service, everyone is invited to a fellowship luncheon to be held at the West Elementary School cafeteria.

Dr. Howell is a native of Lamesa and moved to Snyder last summer to become associated with Cogdell Hospital. He graduated from Lamesa High in 1951 and received his B.S. degree in medical technology from Hardin Simmons University.

Howell entered the Air Force and served four years during the Korean War. Following that he attended University of Texas Southwest Medical School in Dallas where he also became affiliated with the U.S. Navy.

Dr. Howell recently retired from the U.S. Navy where he served in the Medical Corp. He began work as pathologist in Snyder last July. He has specialized in pathology for the past 16 years.

Dr. Howell has been a member of the Church of Christ since 1952 and he has served various congregations as both a deacon and elder. Dr. Howell, who has done some preaching, has delivered the message on The Cross numerous times.

Cotton is a 1947 graduate of Snyder High School and a 1951 graduate of Texas Tech University. He served 12 years as County Clerk.

He was admitted to the State Bar in 1961 and in 1966 he began a private legal practice in Snyder. Presently he is associated with his son, David, in practice of law.

Cotton is a member of the State Bar Association, is general counsel for the Midwest Electric Cooperative, and is a past president of the Snyder school board.

Cotton is one of the original members of the 37th Street congregation which was begun in 1953. He has served as an elder for the past eight years.

The Vehicle Assembly Building at Kennedy Space Center in Florida is the second largest building in the United States.

Rock Hudson Is Doing Well

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Rock Hudson was "cheerful and happy and pleased to be going home," but it will be some time before he gets back in front of a camera after heart bypass surgery, a hospital spokesman says.

Hudson left Cedars-Sinai Medical Center Wednesday, 10 days after a quintuple heart bypass operation he underwent after a series of medical tests prompted by chest pains last month, said center spokesman Larry Baum.

The 55-year-old actor's recovery will delay the premiere of a new NBC-TV show, "Devlin Connection," which Hudson was working on when the chest pains started, network officials said. The show was scheduled for broadcast Nov. 27, but it will be postponed until Hudson recuperates.

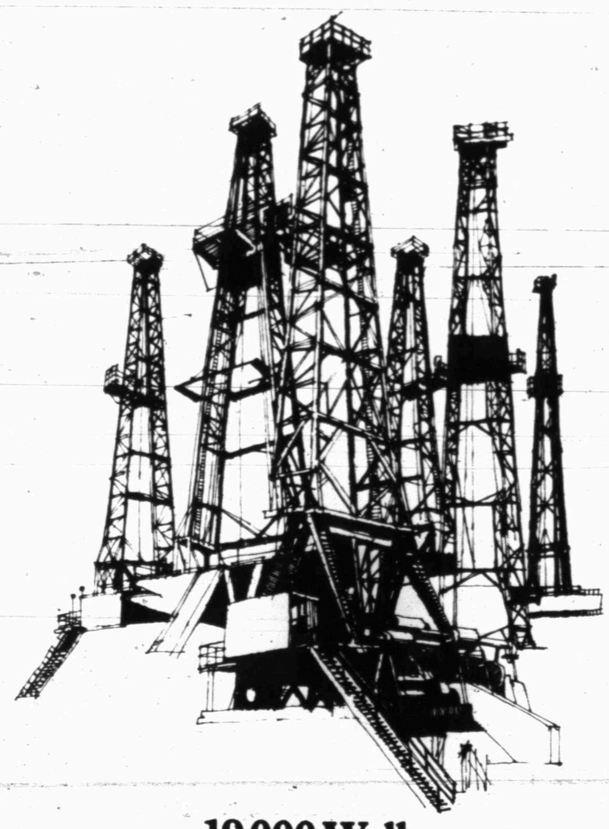
Why gas is plentiful:



19,000 Wells

About 19,000 wells, in addition to pipeline agreements, now supply the natural gas we sell to you. Because of Lone Star's aggressive purchasing program, our supply position is strong. And we will contract for more gas whenever we can negotiate for terms favorable to you. Our ability to deliver all the gas you need for your home is another reason to be glad you're served by the Lone Star system.

Gas. It's plentiful, efficient and right for the times.

Fabulous Fortune of Prizes

OVER $540,000 IN CASH AND GROCERY PRIZES

Win A Trip To Hong Kong!

Collect nine "Hong Kong Holiday" markers and qualify for a chance to win a trip for two to Fabulous Hong-Kong!

ODDS CHART

Odds to win and number of prizes unclaimed will be updated in all participating stores and newspaper ads each week after thirty (30) days. All tickets and Collector Cards must have same series number and are valid only in that Series Number Game. The total number and worth of prizes to be awarded will depend upon the number of winning tickets actually redeemed.

ODDS CHART EFFECTIVE October 23, 1981

PRIZE VALUE	NUMBER OF PRIZES	ODDS FOR ONE GAME TICKET	ODDS FOR 5 GAME TICKETS	ODDS FOR 15 GAME TICKETS
$1,000	165	1 in 58,909	1 in 7,469	1 in 2,305
100	1,032	1 in 9,533	1 in 1,192	1 in 367
10	3,669	1 in 2,709	1 in 338	1 in 105
5	7,395	1 in 1,337	1 in 166	1 in 52
1 1/2" Product	57,615	1 in 172	1 in 22	1 in 6.6
81" Product	106,799	1 in 93	1 in 12	1 in 3.6
Total	176,569	1 in 56	1 in 7	1 in 2.2

Odds vary depending on number of Game Tickets you obtain. The more you obtain, the better your chances of winning.

Odds to obtain all nine (9) Hong Kong Holiday markers and qualify for Grand Prize Drawing are 1 in 22.5. Odds to win Grand Prize Drawing will depend on the number of redemptions. FABULOUS FORTUNE OF PRIZES Series #WD19 is being played in 226 participating Affiliated Food Stores in Texas.

Scheduled termination date of this promotion is December 5, 1981. However, FABULOUS FORTUNE OF PRIZES officially ends when all Game Tickets are distributed.
