Israelis Ignore Call

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)-Armor-led Israeli forces, backed up by warplanes and naval bombardment, pushed deeper into southern Lebanon today despite a U.N. resolution calling for immediate withdrawal, the Lebanese state radio reported.

In Tel Aviv, the Israeli military command reported its troops swept past the Palestinian guerrilla stronghold of Tyre, the biblical port 12 miles north of the Lebanese-Israeli border, and seized control of all southern Lebanon up to the Libtani River along a 30-mile front.

The Israeli Cabinet issued a statement saying any settlement of the Lebanese crisis must ensure that guerrillas do not return to the area.

Giscard Retains Power

PARIS (AP)-French voters decisively rejected the leftist bid for power in the National Assembly runoff elections Sunday and gave President Valery Giscard d'Estaing's center-right coalition a majority of 91 seats in the National Assembly.

Final returns gave the pro-government coalition 291 seats to 200 for the leftists in the 491-seat assembly.

The government's total was only seven less than in the last assembly.

Pope Paul Ill

VATICAN CITY (AP)-Pope Paul VI, suffering from a prolonged bout of the flu and a persistent fever, has canceled most of his Easter Week activities, the Vatican announced today.

The 80-year-old pontiff is taking antibiotics to overcome the illness, said the Rev. Romeo Panciroli, the Vatican's spokesman.

For the first time in his 15-year pontificate, Pope Paul skipped Palm Sunday Mass, although he appeared at his window and gave his usual noon blessing. Panciroli said the pontiff will also miss his general audience Wednesday and an outdoor way of the cross procession on Good Friday.

Teachers Endorse Hill

AUSTIN (AP)-John Hill received the endorsement of the Texas Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, today in his race for governor.

The group also endorsed Joe Christie, who is running for U.S. Senate.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe has a poor record in furthering education, the organization said in a statement.

Nebraska Flooded

VALLEY, Neb. (AP)-Nearly 2,000 persons were forced out of their homes in small towns and residential areas outside Omaha and moved to temporary shelters, as floodwaters battered four counties today.

Gov. J.J. Exon said the overflowing waters of the Elkhorn, Big Blue and Missouri Rivers caused the worst flooding in four eastern Nebraska counties in 40 years. The Platte River overflowed its banks as the runoff from melting snow ran into clogs of ice.

About half the 1,400 residents of North Bend were evacuated. The Dodge County Sheriff's office said the body of an elderly woman, apparently a victim of the flooding, was found this morning. No other injuries were reported.

House Eyes Mail Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)-The House is taking up legislation that would virtually end the Postal Service's chances of closing rural post offices and eliminating Saturday mail.

A vote was scheduled today on the bill, which would permit Congress to veto any proposed change in mail service.

The veto power would be supplemented by an increase in taxpayer subsidies to keep money-losing post offices open.

Flynt Improved

ATLANTA (AP)-Hustler magazine owner Larry Flynt is continuing to show improvement in his recovery from a gunman's attack and has been removed from the critical list, doctors said today.

Emory University Hospital said Flynt's pulmonary functions were improving and his abdominal wounds continued to heal. He is still on a respirator and doctors have said he has less than a 50-50 chance of regaining use of his paralyzed legs.

RIGHT ON SCHEDULE — This apricot tree at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Partain, 100 35th St., was right on schedule with a full showing of blooms today, as spring officially arrived. The Partains said they noticed the first blooms beginning to open about three days ago and the tree was covered with them today.

Court Upholds New Kent State Trial

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court cleared the way today for a new trial in a $46 million lawsuit against Ohio officials over the deaths of four Kent State University students during a 1970 anti-war demonstration.

The justices let stand a ruling by the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that the civil rights damage suit must be heard again because a juror had been threatened during the 1975 trial clearing Gov. James Rhodes and others of all liability.

The controversy now will return to a federal trial judge in Cleveland.

In other major actions today, the Supreme Court:

—Agreed to decide whether public officials suing for libel may force journalists to tell what their thoughts, opinions and conclusions were while preparing a news story.

—Let stand a ruling by the Florida Supreme Court that news reporters are not allowed to secretly record interviews.

—Left intact airline policies that force pregnant stewardesses to take immediate, unpaid maternity leaves, turning aside arguments that such policies represent unlawful sex discrimination.

—Declined to hear an appeal by Carmine Galente, reputed kingpin of organized crime in the United States, that he was denied a fair trial on narcotics charges.

Ohio National Guard troops killed four students and wounded nine others in a 13-second outburst of gunfire on May 4, 1970 as violent protests against the invasion of Cambodia by U.S. troops in Vietnam rocked the city of Kent and the university campus.

School Holidays Begin Tuesday

The Snyder Public Schools will dismiss at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday for the Easter holidays. Buses will run at that time. School will resume at the usual time on Tuesday, March 28.

Panel Is Split On Economic Programs

By Edmond Le Breton
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-Democrats on a congressional study committee said today that upcoming Social Security tax increases should be cut by $33 billion even before the tax boost takes effect next year.

Majority members of the Joint Economic Committee said in their annual report on presidential economic programs that the Federal Reserve should ease money supplies to counter-act growing interest rates. They also called for government spending of at least the $500 billion President Carter has called for in his 1979 budget.

But minority Republicans on the committee disagreed sharply on major points. They said easing money supplies would not work to lower interest rates but instead might increase them with heightened fears of growing inflation.

The Republicans agreed, however, that the Social Security tax increase should be moderated to avoid disproportionate burdens on middle-income families.

The Republicans by and large have opposed the Social Security tax increases from the start and now have joined that with criticism of Carter's proposed income tax cut to offset its effects. Their minority opinion said, "At best, we must expect 1978 and 1979 economic activity to do well in spite of the government and not because of it."

The call by Democrats for the $33 billion cut in the Social Security tax increases would shift to general income tax revenues the cost of disability and Medicare benefits - programs now borne by the Social Security system.

Such a move could substitute for Carter's proposed $25 billion income tax cut, the majority members said.

The congressional report comes only five days after House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill called for Carter to initiate a plan to rescind part of the upcoming increase. He said failure by the White House to propose the cut would force the House to take its own initiative.

O'Neill and many others in Congress say the public will not stand for the increase and that its discontent will show at the polls this November.

Congress is backing away from the law which it passed just last December to prop up the financially troubled system. The measure is designed to raise an additional $227 billion for the program over the next decade.

Continuing their criticism, minority members called for Congress to lower individual income tax rates and to review the tax code annually. Those members also suggested that businesses be allowed to deduct depreciation based on current equipment cost rather than on the pre-inflation price as is now allowed.

"These two steps would go a long way toward guaranteeing rapid increases in jobs and after-tax wages," the minority said.

The Carter tax plan, it said, "is a tax increase for many persons in our economy.

Milk Price Supports Are Left Hanging

WASHINGTON (AP)-A slip of the tongue last week when Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland had to abruptly end a meeting of the Commodity Credit Corporation's board has thrown Agriculture Department officials into a tizzy on how to legally raise federal milk price supports.

Bergland had formally begun the meeting about 10 a.m. Thursday and had disposed of one minor item on the agenda when security officers said angry farmers were forcing their way into the building one floor below.

At that point Bergland asked his board for a motion to end the meeting. Assistant Secretary Dale Hathaway made a motion to "adjourn" the session and it was adopted. Bergland was quickly escorted out of the building by security officers as about 50 farmers scuffled with guards and flowed into an inner patio.

The door crashers were evicted by riot police within about 30 minutes, but the CCC board members also had dispersed, leaving several items of unfinished business.

Most important was the final item of the unfinished schedule, a decision to officially approve raising federal milk price supports beginning April 1.

Outlook Good For New Plant

"It looks very good."

That summed up the comment of Bill Henry, who returned over the weekend from a trip to New York City where he presented information on the Snyder area's behalf in negotiations for a new industrial plant site.

Henry, executive vice president of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, also serves as secretary for the Scurry County Industrial Foundation and consultant to the Scurry County Board of Development.

He left for New York last Thursday to confer with representatives of a firm which had been commissioned to recommend a site for a manufacturing plant that plans to locate in the Southwest. A considerable amount of information on a possible plant site, available services and other factors was requested immediately.

"We have assurance that we are among the front-runners," said Henry, who said that the identity of the firm could not be disclosed at this time. The consultants representing the firm asked that all neogitations be kept in confidence.

It is known that it is a major manufacturer and that the plant, wherever it is located, will require a number of skilled employes, probably several hundred.

The consultants to the firm had representatives here two weeks ago and then they were instructed to speed up their process, which necessitated the quick trip to New York by Henry.

Stock Market Rally Extended

NEW YORK (AP)-The stock market moved moderately higher today extending the rally begun late last week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 3.47 to 772.18 at noon today, slipping somewhat from the morning when it was up by nearly 6 points.

Overall gainers outnumbered losers by a margin of 5-2 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

State Guard Unit Here Is Inactive

The local State Guard unit is inactive and no longer needs the $25 per month allocated by the county, Capt. T.V. Early, the commander of the unit, told the commissioners court this morning.

Early said that the State Guard here had lost membership and that paper work had discouraged active participation.

The State Guard is the state militia and its objective is to provide manpower to assist law enforcement agencies, firefighters and other groups during times of emergency.

Early said he had received his honorable discharge which was processed with the notation that it was issued due to "non-participation."

"We had an active unit for a few years," said Early. "But interest has dropped off and we don't have equipment and people to operate like the state wants us to."

He said the State Guard could be revived here any time there are people interested, but for now he was asking the county to discontinue the $25 per month it has been contributing and also for instructions as to the disposition of some $600 in the unit's bank account. The commissioners voted unanimously to discontinue the $25 per month and instructed Early to turn the remaining funds back to the county.

enemy is terrorism

Credit Radio Riyadh with raising a point while missing a more important one in its contribution to the clamor over the Palestinian terrorist raid on Israel.

Before the body count could be completed, the voice of Saudi Arabia was informing the world of the significance of the murderous assault. It demonstrated that Israel could never rest secure so long as the Palestinian problem was unresolved - a bit of wisdom not likely to be received as news anywhere, least of all in Jerusalem.

But there is considerably more to be said about the incident than this restatement of the politically obvious. The problem it points up, a cause for outrage and concern on a worldwide basis, is not Palestinians or their politics as such.

The real subject is terrorism.

It may or may not be the case that Israeli coastal security was inadequate, as is being debated. But even under the most effective security arrangements, and even in a semi-garrison state such as Israel, there can be no absolute guarantee of a civil population's immunity to terrorist attack.

Somehow, through one weak point or another in the defenses, terrorists willing to pay the price - very often their own lives - will find a way to strike.

Terrorism is a weapon of weakness. To resort to it is to acknowledge political and military inferiority to the opposition. And it is more often than not employed against the weak, or at least the undefended.

Those who employ terrorism are often willing to acknowledge this, defending and exhalting it as the strategy of the suppressed and desperate against powerful oppressors. But more often than not, the proclaimed terrorist ends up doing precisely what he accuses his oppressor of doing - seeking to impose his will by force and holding an innocent public for ransom.

Terrorism as a contemporary problem is international, transcending Palestinian or any other brand of local politics.

Effective response to it must also be international, but this presents real problems, as noted in "Terrorism," a current study of the subject by Walter Laqueur, chairman of the International Research Council of the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington.

"International cooperation against terrorism," he notes, "is almost impossible as long as some sovereign states sponsor, train, finance, equip and offer sanctuaries to terrorist groups."

This is a point which the Saudis in particular should take note of, since they are bankrolling Al-Fatah, the Palestinian group responsible for the raid. They may subsequently declare that with "all reasonable people" they deplore acts of terrorism, as stated by their ambassador in Washington, but they remain accessories after this fact.

And their point about Israeli security remains off the real point.

Passengers on Israeli sightseeing buses can never be really secure from Palestinian terrorists. Neither can Dutch civil servants and students from South Moluccan terrorists. Or New York restaurant patrons from Puerto Rican nationalists.

Or, possibly some day, even Saudi Arabian civilians from an extremist foe willing to pay the price of an assault upon Jidda.

The real enemy is terrorism, and none of us are exempt as potential victims.

at wits end

by erma bombeck

A waiter approached our table the other night with what has become one of the most predictable rituals of eating out. He said, "Are you familiar with our salad bar?"

Is he crazy? At my age, it's the only thing I am familiar with.

To date, I have built my salad out of such cutesies as a bathtub filled with ice, a hay wagon, a push-cart, and a ferris wheel.

Basically, they are the same...a mound of ice featuring half-buried bowls of lettuce, shrimp, chicken, tuna, cottage cheese, pickled beets, cole slaw, fruit, assorted dressings, croutons and black pepper.

Don't misunderstand me. I'm not knocking salad bars. I consider them one of the most adventurous bits of daring to hit restaurants since the no-pay toilets.

It takes a lot of guts to put serving spoons into the hands of patrons and say, "Help yourself." That is probably why a lot of thought has gone into the salad bar because they have to consider man's most basic force: greed!

Thus, we have the salad bar with a glass angled over it. Within easy reach toward the front is the lettuce (39 cents a pound). In the rear is the crabmeat ($8 a pound) that you can reach only by leaning under the glass and severing your throat from the rest of your body.

As a shrimp freak, I am always interested in how they disguise them. One night the shrimp were so small I had to summon a waitress to identify them. (I had blemishes bigger than those little devils.)

In keeping with the "high risk" factor of self-service, I have noted that the coveted Blue Cheese and Roquefort dressings have serving spoons in them that I have not seen since I told my babies, "Open up wide, here come the choo-choo trains."

After the waiter asked his basic salad question, he progressed to even more intimacy by introducing himself. He said, "I'm Brad and I'm your waiter this evening. When you go the salad bar, I'll turn in your order for dinner."

"Thank you Brad," I said. "I'm Erma, this is my husband, Bill, and my sons, Jaws I and Jaws II."

I thought I saw him wince but my husband said they carry insurance for nights like this.

Ad Note

Many businesses consider their advertising as one of their clerks. Your ad is answering questions for the consumer much the way your clerks do. Therefore, advertising is most effective when it has a theme which appeals to the consumer's immediate needs; offers specific brand name products; shows what the product looks like; offers these products at a special price; limits the sale price to a specific time period; and tells who you are, when you're open and where you're located.

Berry's World

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON - (NEA) - When he was running for president, no issue provoked a more emotional reaction from Jimmy Carter than the degrading practice of rewarding political supporters and "fat cat" campaign contributors with ambassadorships.

Now that he's in the White House, Carter's record of appointing ambassadors solely on the basis of merit is an improvement over his recent predecessors, but a number of questionable nominations suggest that he really hasn't been faithful to his earlier principles.

During the 1978 presidential campaign, Carter recalled with bitterness the "sickening experience" of having visited foreign countries and finding "fat, bloated, rich incompetents sitting there as ambassadors for making political contributions."

After being elected president later that year, he formulated a firm public policy on the issue:

"I plan to appoint diplomatic officials who have superb credentials, strictly on the basis of merit, not reward for political favors. And that's a commitment that I've made on my word of honor. I'm not going to break it."

Contrast that rhetoric with Carter's nomination of Philip H. Alston, senior partner in the prestigious Atlanta law firm of Alston, Miller & Gaines, to be United States ambassador to Australia.

Alston is a distinguished lawyer, but he has no background whatever in foreign affairs. He was, however, one of a select group of influential Atlantans called together by Carter in 1974 to solicit early support for his presidential campaign. An early and enthusiastic backer of that effort, Alston and his wife contributed more than $8,000 to Carter between 1973 and 1976. Other members of the Alston family donated $1,000 more.

On the same day that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee conducted a brief, perfunctory confirmation hearing for Alston, it treated with equal deference Carter's nomination of Anne Cox Chambers to be ambassador to Belgium. Mrs. Chambers also is a resident of Atlanta - and she also has no diplomatic experience.

She is, however, the board chairman of Atlanta Newspapers, which publishes the only two daily papers in that city. Between 1973 and 1976, she and her husband contributed almost $4,000 to Carter.

Moreoever, during a three-week period in October 1976, when Carter was the Democratic party's presidential nominee, Mr. and Mrs. Chambers gave more than $36,500 to the party's Campaign Victory Fund.

William B. Schwartz Jr. is an Atlanta native, president of a real estate investment corporation of that city and another member of the elite group to whom Carter outlined his presidential plans as early as 1974.

In 1975 and 1976, Schwartz and his wife gave Carter almost $2,000. After working hard on Carter's behalf, Schwartz was nominated by the president last summer to be ambassador to the Bahamas.

When asked at the Senate confirmation hearing to explain his familiarity with the Bahamas, Schwartz confessed that "Mrs. Schwartz and I have had the opportunity to visit there ... on five or six occasions, but only as tourists."

When the Senate committee sought his views on the 200-mile fishing limit, an issue causing considerable friction between the United States and the Bahamas, Schwartz could provide no substantive reply. "I certainly hope to be in a position when I get there to have some more definite ideas," he added apologetically.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said he didn't know where "some people" got "the idea that you bought this appointment."

But the American Foreign Service Association dryly noted that he certainly didn't earn the honor because of "any special knowledge of foreign affairs or familiarity with the problems of the Caribbean region."

pledge not kept

NEW YORK (AP) - One of President Carter's promises during his campaign was a pledge to simplify the bloated Washington bureaucracy. But in at least one instance - bank regulation - the president has failed to keep his word.

So far.

The issue is whether the three U.S. agencies that regulate the nation's banks should be combined into one single entity with overall regulatory responsibility. As would be expected, the three units - the office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and the Federal Reserve - oppose the idea.

Last Wednesday, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, proposed a bill for consolidation. It was co-sponsored by two other Senate notables - Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Committee on Governmental Affairs, and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

Their backing, Proxmire says, is an indication of the support the plan is gaining. Either the Banking or the Governmental Affairs committees have to approve the measure for full Senate consideration.

"Support is growing," Proxmire said in a telephone interview from Washington. "At least we don't have opposition. We do have the Governmental Affairs Committee with us."

But despite the growing support, Proxmire indicated that he is troubled by the lack of support he is getting from the White House.

"You have a real problem with the vested bureaucracy," he said. "It's unfortunate that the president hasn't backed it. I spoke to him three or four weeks ago and he was very interested. He took notes. Then he took me by surprise and said this was the first he had heard of it."

He added that the idea isn't new, and had been proposed years ago by a Fed governor. "The trouble with Carter is that he still is following the advise of deposed budget director Bert Lance. The input that he has been getting is hard to block," he said.

According to published reports, a previously proposed Carter plan to study the consolidation proposal has been shelved until next year. In addition to being opposed by the three agencies involved, the plan also met resistance from the Office of Management and Budget, the Council of Economic Advisers and the Treasury Department.

Despite the strong opposition, Proxmire's spirits are high. "It's really a good bill," he said. "We had the heads of the agencies before us explaining their roles, and it was unbelievable. It's a good thing we didn't send them up Mount Sinai; they would have come down with 30 Commandments instead of 10."

In addition to ending the duplication of efforts - "and saving quite a bit of money," the senator said - the bill also would halt the ability of the nation's banks to choose which agency would be their regulator.

Under the current set-up, the Comptroller regulates nationally chartered banks; the Fed monitors state-chartered member banks; and the FDIC handles state-chartered banks that don't belong to the Fed system.

Opening lead: ♦ K

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Oswald: "Some forty years ago I was shown the North hand. My questioner had doubled a one-diamond opening and received a one-spade response from South. He wanted to know what he should bid next. I suggested four spades and got the reply 'It dies there and we miss a slam'."

Alan: "I don't suppose that you would have been that timid with the South hand."

Oswald: "I would probably have replied two spades then, but if I had just bid one spade I would have found a bid past game after my partner jumped to four."

Alan: "I have suggested the modern way to reach his slam. South has 10 high-card points, four good spades and a really nice hand. It is a trifle too good for two spades which is only 99 percent forcing, so South cue bids diamonds.

"North cue bids right back, South knows that North is willing to play either spades or hearts and jumps to four spades whereupon North Blackwoods his way to six."

Oswald: "Six spades wraps up. There might be some trouble if all four trumps are in the East hand, but there are twelve easy tricks without that bad break."

Transmissions Defect Probed

DETROIT (AP)-Dozens of motorists have been run over, dragged and crushed against buildings by their Ford cars, trucks and vans. Six were killed, 72 others injured. Federal safety investigators want to know why.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has started an investigation of 5.3 million Ford vehicles assembled from 1973 to 1978 which may have automatic transmissions that shift on their own from park into reverse.

According to the agency's files, the apparent defect may have been responsible for at least 134 accidents in the past five years.

According to a Ford document supplied to the agency this month, the company knew of 171 accidents, 72 injuries and five deaths "allegedly attributable to inadvertent transmission shifting" in models containing C-6 transmissions since their 1966 introduction.

"Because there are deaths and accidents and injuries, and they all seem to have a relationship to the automatic transmission, it appears that there is an alleged defect," said Lynn Bradford, head of the safety agency's office of defects investigation.

The agency said Ford was not ordered to recall any of the vehicles because the apparent defect has not been precisely identified.

The investigation involves Ford Torinos, Elites, Thunderbirds and LTD IIs; Mercury Montegos, Cougars and Lincolns; and F100, F150, F250, F350, Econoline and Bronco light trucks.

All the vehicles have engines with at least 351 cubic inches of displacement. Their transmissions are of the C-6 or FMX types.

The agency started an investigation of vehicles with C-6 transmissions in November after reports of the six deaths. When it was later determined that half the fatal accidents involved FMX transmissions, the investigation was expanded.

Sergeant Harty, a security specialist, was previously assigned at Lackland AFB.

His wife, Janice, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Fargason of Dunn.

With their six legs and flat, oily bodies, cockroaches are able to escape from predators quickly through the smallest opening. Even a slight movement of air registers on the fine hairs of their antennae and triggers sensory nerves in their legs. Threatened roaches have been known to take off in 54-1,000ths of a second.

Fire Hits Downtown Winnsboro

WINNSBORO (AP)-Fire, whipped by strong southerly winds and at one time threatening the entire west side of town, destroyed four businesses in this East Texas community today.

Police Chief Charles McCarver said the businesses were in a one-story brick building about a half block long.

Housed in the building were East Texas TV Service, East Texas Appliance, Edge Realty and Hornbuckle Gift and Flower Shop.

No damage estimate was immediately available.

McCarver said the fire broke out about 8:25 a.m. and quickly spread.

"At one point it threatened the entire west side of the downtown area," McCarver said.

He said the high winds, from 15 to 20 mph and gusting to 30 mph, and heavy black smoke hampered firemen.

Fire units responded from the surrounding towns of Sulphur Springs, Como-Picton, Mineola, Quitman, Mount Vernon, Pittsburg, and South Franklin.

Nearby buildings suffered some water and smoke damage, the chief said.

Injuries were limited to smoke inhalation by the firefighters, McCarver said.

Prison Turned Fool Into Thinking Man

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)-Robert Lokey - poet, painter, sculptor, amateur lawyer, inventor, fireman and ex-inmate of San Quentin - says the 15 years he spent behind bars for murder "turned a fool into a thinking man."

Lokey, 35, walked away from the big house a free man Saturday, his life sentence cut short by parole. He carried a shopping bag full of belongings in one hand, his portable typewriter in the other.

Standing outside the gates, Lokey took a deep breath, glanced up at a sunny sky and murmured, "Ah, free air."

San Quentin officials say he was one of the prison's most remarkable convicts.

"If we had an institution full of guys like him we could lay off half the staff," said San Quentin program coordinator William Merkle.

In 1963, Lokey and his brother, Galen, were convicted of murder in the course of a robbery and kidnapping. Lokey's gun went off by accident in the struggle with his victim, who died. The court, noting the accidental nature of the death, sentenced the brothers to life imprisonment instead of death. Galen was paroled seven years ago.

After entering the prison, Lokey, a grade school dropout, earned a high school diploma, and a degree in behavioral science from the College of Marin, graduating with high honors. After completing a course in office machine technology, he learned to paint and sculpt, wrote short stories, essays, poetry and a book about his life.

"When I went to prison, I was a fool," Lokey said outside the gates. "The changes I went through here turned a fool into a thinking man."

He said he plans to study law, but needs a job first.

Acting as his own lawyer, Lokey won a court suit against the state Department of Corrections and the state Attorney General's office.

He successfully argued that he had been removed from minimum security and thrown into the main line lockup without due process. He drew an admission from officials that he had not been sent into the main line for any disciplinary reason, but because of a new departmental policy.

The court agreed with Lokey and all his privileges were restored, including the right to visits from his wife and two daughters.

As he left the prison, Lokey was asked if he would have accomplished so much had he not been imprisoned. "I don't know the answer," he said.

Diamond Prices Up At Least 50%

LONDON (AP)-Depressed by rising costs for everyday items like food? Cheer up. The rich have problems, too. Diamond prices are soaring.

The increase is worrying everyone from De Beers Consolidated Mines Ltd., the people who dominate the market for uncut diamonds, to Walter Hoving, the man who heads Tiffany & Co.

Both De Beers, which claims to produce about 85 percent of the world's diamonds, and Hoving, board chairman of the store whose name is synonymous with all that glitters, blame speculators for the boost. And both say that it is substantial.

"It's hard to generalize because so much depends on the quality and classification of a diamond, but certainly it's safe to say that prices are being inflated by at least 50 percent and much more in some cases," said De Beers spokesman Richard Dickson.

Speculators buy diamonds as an investment when, as is happening now, world currency values fluctuate. They also buy gold, which is why its price often goes up when the dollar's value declines.

In New York, Hoving said small diamonds - one carat and under - are up 50 percent over last year; larger ones cost 35 percent more. Upset by the increase, Tiffany's placed an ad in Friday's New York Times headlined: "Diamonds Are Too High." The ad said "some speculators" - whom Hoving declined to identify - have driven up prices and concluded, "We suggest you look before you leap."

He said the latest ad does not mean Tiffany is going to stop selling diamonds. It has a good stock of stones purchased before prices soared. But the store does want to stop speculation.

Hoving said it was impossible to give specific price jumps, because stones vary so in quality. Rings with stones of about one carat are being advertised by New York stores anywhere from $1,200 to $2,400, depending on the cut, quality and setting. The same stores last year advertised similar rings at from $1,000 to $1,600.

Kleason Baptized

AUSTIN (AP)-Robert E. Kleason, accused in the 1975 killings of two Mormon missionaries, was baptized in a 167-gallon galvanized feed trough Sunday in Bastrop.

Kleason is being held in the Bastrop jail on federal firearms charges.

The baptism ceremony was conducted by Howard Wheeler, evangelism director of the World of Pentecost Church in Austin, in the small exercise yard behind the Bastrop jail.

Prior to his arrest in 1974 on charges of murder in the death of two young Mormon missionaries Kleason had been a member of the Mormon church but has been a visitor at services of the World of Pentecost, Wheeler said. Later Wheeler visited Kleason in jail.

Kleason was convicted of murder in the death of one of the missionaries and given the death sentence. Later the conviction was overturned by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Basin Drops Rig Count In

There were 288 rotary drilling rigs in operation last week in Permian Basin oil fields, according to Reed Drilling Equipment's weekly survey. This represents a decrease from 340 the previous week and from 294 for the corresponding week in 1977.

Pecos County led the basin, with 30 active rigs, while Lea County, N.M. had 29.

Scurry County had one rotary rig running, the same as the week before. Figures for other area counties, with last week and the week before, in order: Borden 4 and 4; Dawson 8 and 6; Fisher 5, and 3; Garza 1 and 1; Howard 2 and 6; Kent 2 and 0; Mitchell 0 and 3; Nolan 3 and 3; Stonewall 3 and 3.

The Benedictine nun Hroswitha, who lived from 932 to 983, was the author of six religious dramas written in Latin.

Substance Suspected Of Being Drug

A routine drunkenness arrest early this morning at a local truckstop led police to discover a small amount of a white, powdery substance on an 18-year-old suspect.

Officers reported that the powdery substance was discovered while the subject was being booked in the city jail shortly after 3 a.m. today. He was charged with public intoxication and suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs.

The substance will be sent to a Department of Public Safety laboratory for analysis, officers said.

In other reports, Evlyn Stroud told police that a crocheted bedspread and citizens band antenna have been taken from her 600 Ave. R home. She estimated the loss at $125. The incident was reported to police Saturday.

Police also investigated two minor traffic accidents Saturday.

The first collision occurred at the intersection of 40th St. and Houston Ave. and involved a 1972 Ford truck driven by Mardoqueo Maestos and a 1977 Chevrolet driven by LaLonnie Matthews. The collision occurred at 11:37 a.m.

The second wreck took place at 2900 42nd St. at 2:20 p.m. The mishap involved a 1977 Ford driven by Teresa Ford of Levelland and a parked 1969 AMC owned by Hector Melgar.

Ancient manuscripts did not employ punctuation marks until around the year 364 B.C., when a mark of separation followed each word.

Firefighters Kept Busy

Firefighters were kept busy Sunday extinguishing three grass fires.

The first fire was in the 3800 block of Noble Drive and was reported at 11:25 a.m.

Firefighters were than dispatched at 5:43 p.m. to douse a small grass fire at 3215 40th St.

A rural grass fire, occurring about nine miles outside the city on the Lamesa Highway, was the final grass fire of the day. It was reported at 6:30 p.m.

Traffic Lines Being Striped

Traffic was being diverted around the 2400 block of Avenue T this morning as city crews were striping the lanes at the intersection of Avenue T and 25th Street.

The city installed curbing on the west side of the street in that block several weeks ago so that Avenue T could be widened to provide left and right turn lanes at 25th at the east end of the Deep Creek bridge.

New Law Limits Bill Collectors

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-Bill collectors may no longer make harassing late-night phone calls, threaten violence or impersonate police officers, under a federal law taking effect today.

The law covers personal and family debts, including car purchases, charge accounts and loans for medical care.

Passed by Congress and signed by President Carter last year, it also gives consumers the right to a written notice within five days of being contacted by a debt collector.

That notice must state how much is owed and to whom plus give instructions on what the consumer can do if he believes he doesn't owe the money.

The law's enactment followed hearings conducted by Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., that produced testimony about abusive practices used in the $3-billion-a-year debt collection industry.

The law, which marks the first federal regulation of debt collectors, applies to agencies hired to recover another company's overdue debt. It does not apply to creditors collecting on their own, because Congress felt that abuses are less frequent among firms that have a stake in keeping customers' good will.

The Fair Debt Collection Practices Act does nothing to change the consumer's obligation to pay his debts. But it bans these bill-collection practices:

—Harassment by threatening violence, calling between 9 p.m. and 8 a.m., publishing lists of purported "deadbeats," using obscene language, repeatedly calling about a debt or calling at work if an employer disapproves.

—Making false statements when collecting a debt, such as falsely implying that the debt collector represents a government agency or is an attorney.

—Using unfair methods in trying to collect a debt, including asking for more money than is owed, calling a consumer collect or depositing a postdated check before the date on the check.

The Federal Trade Commission is the main enforcer of the law. Consumers who believe their rights have been violated can also contact their state attorney general's office or local consumer protection agencies. Private lawsuits can also be brought against a debt collector who violates the law.

Texas Jobless Rate Increases

AUSTIN (AP)-Unemployment rose from 4.7 percent in December to 5.5 percent in January in the "usual post-Christmas slump," the Texas Employment Commission reported Friday.

As of mid-January, the commission said, the Texas labor force totaled 5,904,900 and 5,580,200 were employed - a drop of 37,200 from December.

Unemployment was up 49,000 from December to a level of 324,700.

Help for vertigo

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am 73 years old, female, in reasonably good health. My problem is vertigo, with accompanying nausea. I have been bothered with this for a couple of years, but as time goes on it becomes more severe.

This week I attended a funeral when suddenly the vertigo hit me. I was on my feet at the time. I staggered to the back of the room to a sofa, the room and everyone reeling around me. After a little while I was helped to another room where I could lie down. Then the nausea started. An ambulance took me to the hospital where I stayed in the emergency room. My doctor was with me, prescribed three different kinds of shots, one a tranquilizer. It took a half hour to take effect.

I asked my doctor if there was anything I could take when one of these attacks hit me. He said, "Sure, wasn't as the only thing they knew about it was that the inner ear swelled, causing poor circulation and/or causing dizziness. I know of others who get these attacks so I am not alone.

I have been advised to cut back on my salt, which I have done. Do you know of anything that would be of help? I cannot tolerate most of the tranquilizers or Dramamine.

DEAR READER: You described vertigo correctly. True vertigo as opposed to simple dizziness is accompanied with the illusion of being in motion, or the illusion of things around you being in motion, as happened with the attack you described.

Your sense of position and balance are dependent upon what is happening inside the brain and its ability to integrate information from three bodily systems. These include the eyes, the ears and position sense.

The eyes give a visual reference to your body position. Small nerve fibers in the joints and muscles that respond to stretching and pressure relay information on position of the body and all its parts. The inner ear has three small canals that act like a balance system for a carpenter's level. When fluid in these canals shifts because of changes in position of the head it sends signals to the brain.

A defect in any of these systems can contribute to dizziness. Or you can have a defect in the brain that makes it difficult to integrate and respond to the signals from these three systems.

In people past 50 it is common for the difficulty to involve problems of circulation to the brain that involve the areas where all this information is integrated. In younger people the cause is more often an abnormality within the ear itself (labyrinthitis).

I think you should ask your doctor to arrange for you to see a neurologist (a specialist in brain function) so he can evaluate the circulation to the brain for you. If you get a clean bill of health in that area you can see a specialist in ear nose and throat problems.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-10, Dizziness and Vertigo to give you more information than I can include here. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, TX 78292.

Vertigo is a symptom and before anyone can decide how to treat it, other than providing emergency relief, it is important to know what really is causing it.

Wise Wife Travels When She Can

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR ABBY: Congratulations on your advice to TRAVELER'S WIFE, who had mixed emotions about leaving her children in order to accompany her husband on his business trips.

I've always asked my wife to come along on my business trips, but the excuses ranged all the way from, "I don't want to leave the kids," to, "I don't know anyone there," or "What will I do while you're at your meetings?"

After 20 years of being totally faithful, I met a woman on one of these trips who appealed to me. She chased me more than I did her, and eventually I asked my wife for a divorce.

I moved this lady to my town, gave her a job, and moved in with her—all out in the open. After a few months I knew it wasn't going to work, so we broke up and I moved back home again.

Through this experience we all learned some lessons, one of which resulted in my wife's willingness to travel with me.

We were lucky enough to get a second chance, but I'm sure there are others who weren't that lucky.

HAPPY ENDING

DEAR HAPPY: It's not practical (or in most cases possible) for wives of traveling salesmen to accompany their husbands on the road. But for out-of-town meetings and conventions, if other wives go, the wise wife will get a sitter, or farm out the kids, and go along.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of people who choose to ignore a new grandchild just because it was born seven months early?

Our baby is 3 weeks old now—healthy and adorable—and my husband's parents haven't been over to see her yet. And they didn't even send a gift.

They are still upset because we didn't get married the minute I knew I was expecting.

Abby, in this day and age, premarital sex is no big deal, and we didn't see any reason to be hypocritical about it, so we took our time and got married when I was in my seventh month.

We had a nice church wedding, but his mother stayed home with a migraine headache, and her husband stayed home to take care of her.

I am 20 and my husband is 21; we went together for two years, if that makes any difference. Your opinion will be appreciated.

NEW PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Your in-laws continue to cling to a code of conventional behavior that differs vastly from yours. For them to ignore their grandchild for that reason is narrow and foolish. Give them time. They'll come around. If they don't, it will be their loss.

DEAR ABBY: This winter, as in winters past, we have opened our home to friends and relatives who are eager for a reprieve from the bitter north winds.

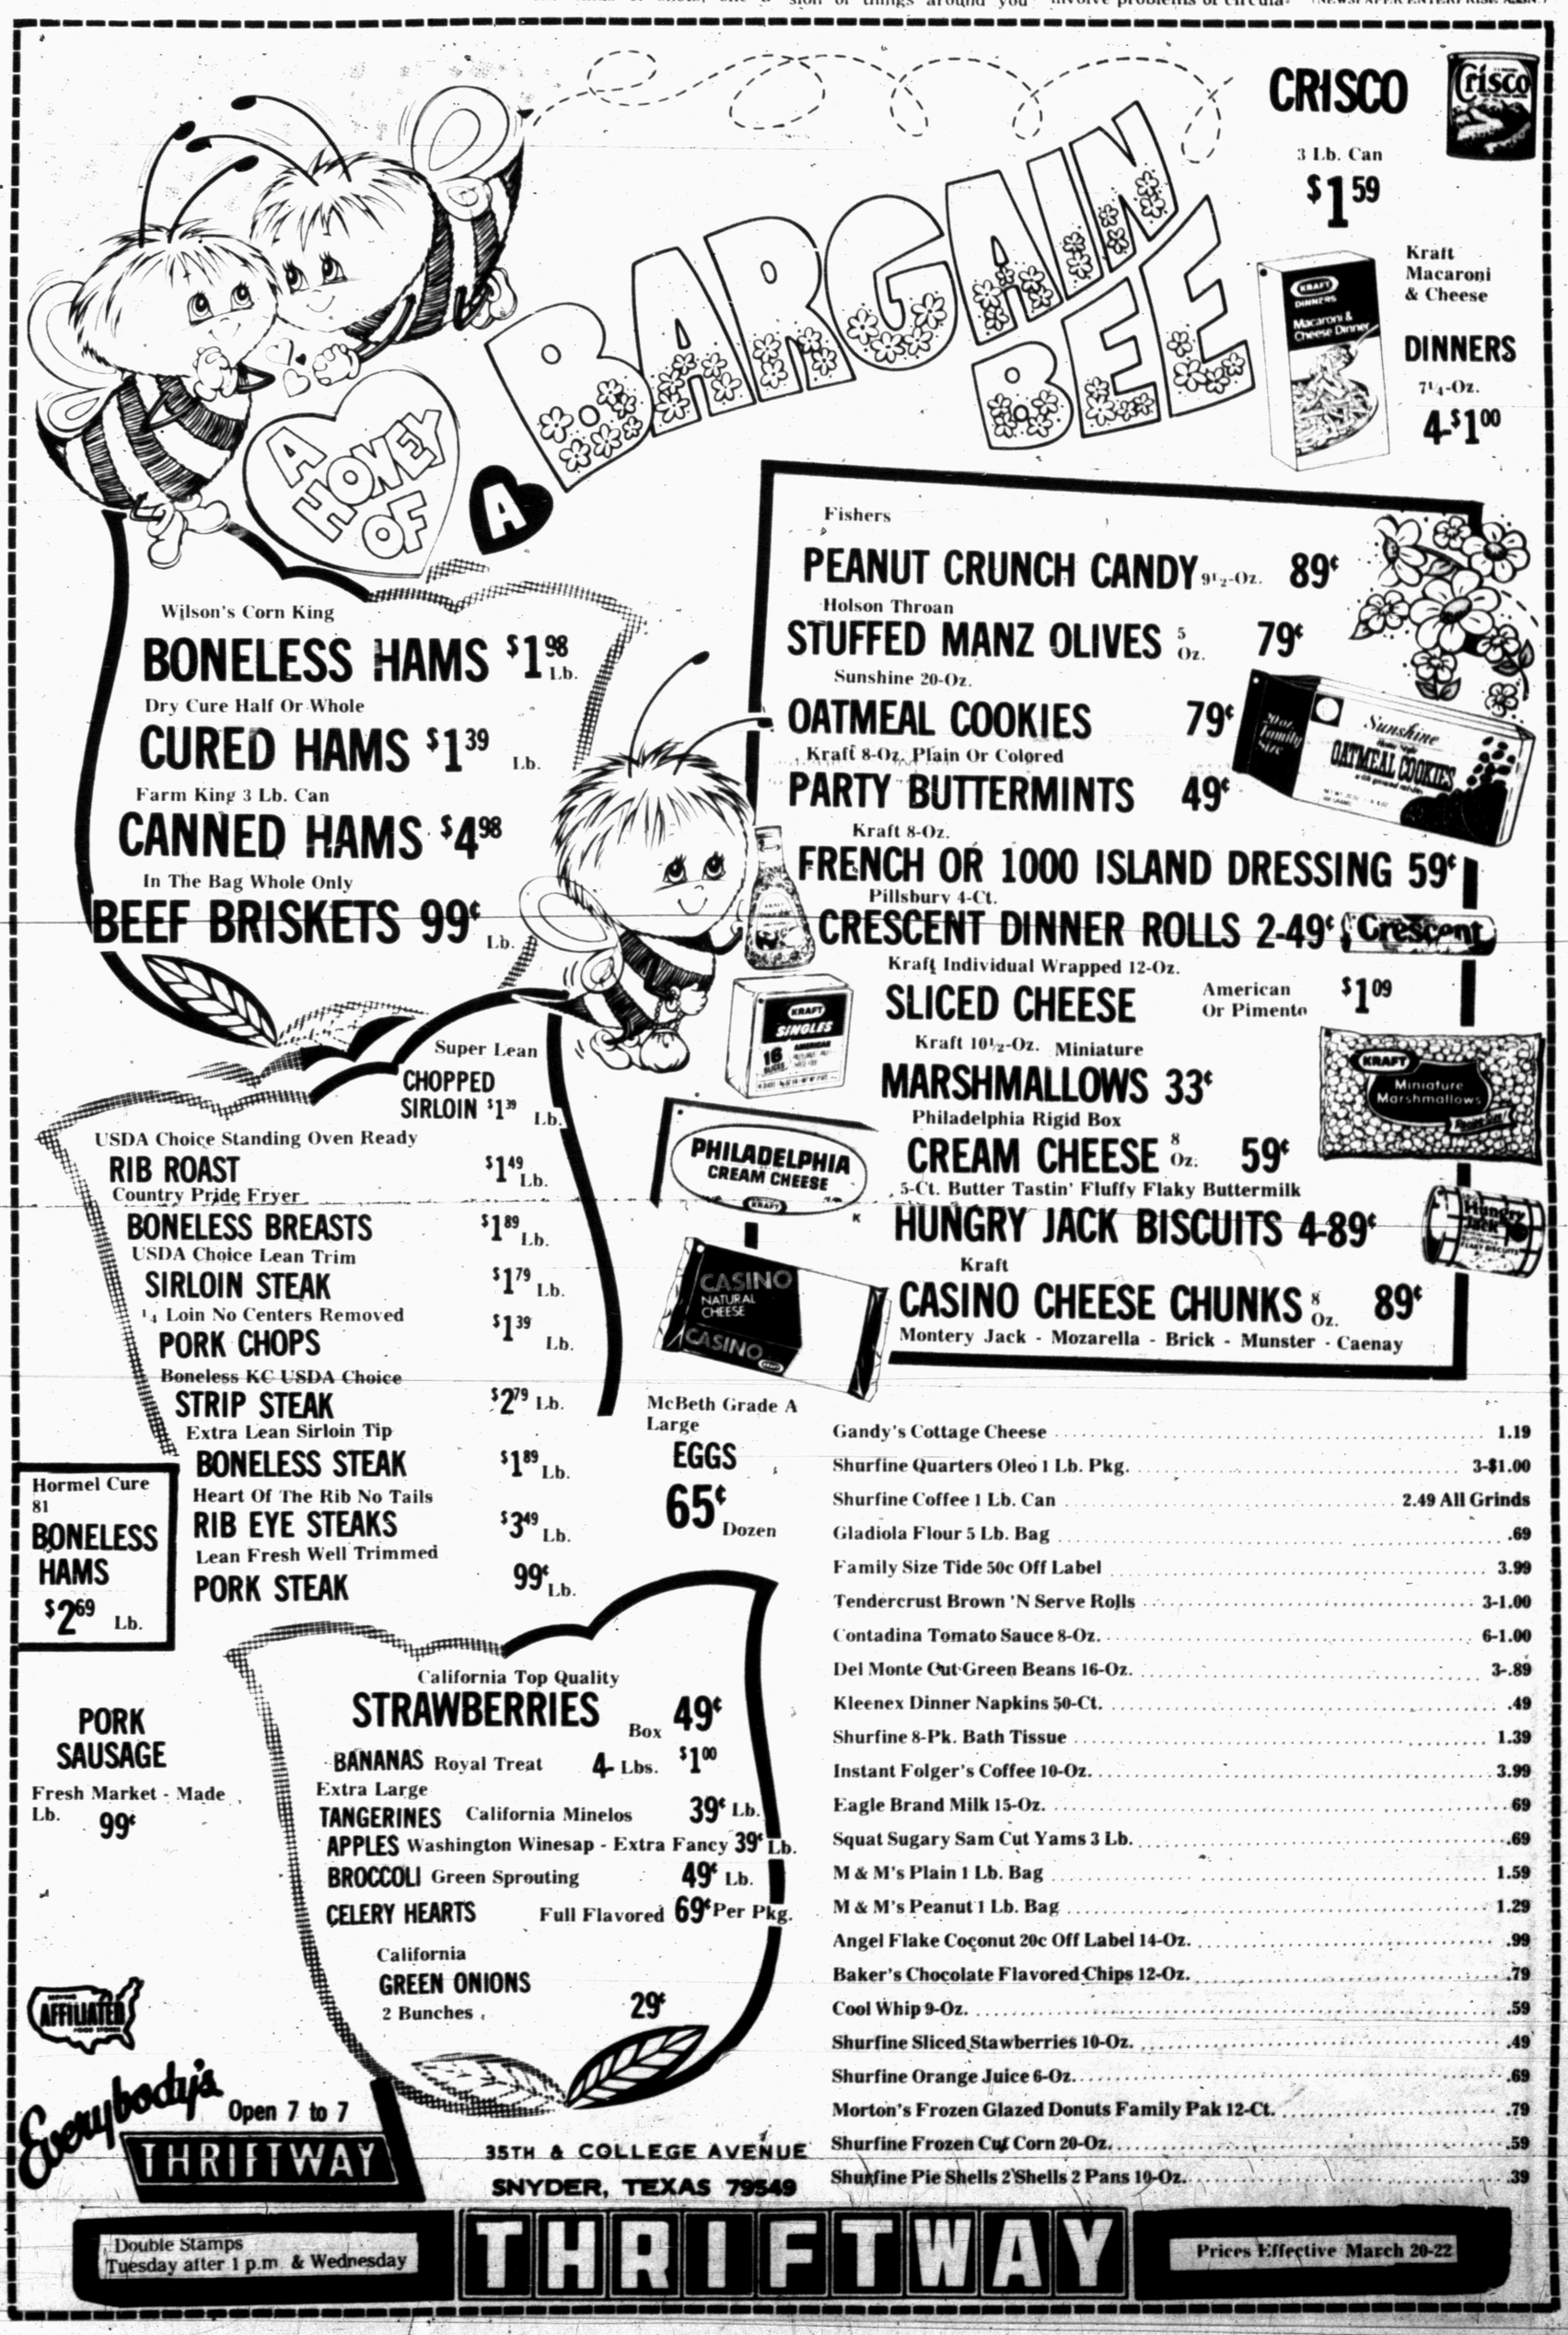
We enjoy having houseguests, but some of them leave our guest room in worse shape than they would leave a motel room! We have no help in the house, and we both work, so we can't very well clean up after them daily.

Do you know of a pamphlet or a short publication with a few tips on how to be a good houseguest? Even a poster would do it. Thanks.

LIVES IN FLORIDA

DEAR LIVES: Putting up a poster would be about as subtle as a kick in the shins, so if you're willing to go that far, simply tell those guests who need it (and you should know who they are by now) exactly what you've told me.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.



Independence Cops JC Title

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP)-Only one point separated champion Independence, Kan., from runnerup Niagara, N.Y., in the title game of the National Men's Junior College Basketball Tournament Saturday night.

But in an unusual development for a tightly fought championship game, the final score, 62-61, was forged with almost three full minutes remaining.

Neither Independence nor Niagara was able to get a shot down in the final 2:54 of the title match.

Thomas Louden gave Independence its winning shot from the free throw line, then Niagara, battling to retain its perfect record, threw up two errant shots in the final seconds and the Pirates' Bobby Potts blocked a third.

Independence seemed poised to break the game open two minutes into the second half after fashioning a 10-point lead. But Niagara regrouped to force a 51-51 tie with 8:45 remaining. Independence missed a free throw at the 1:33 mark and Niagara snared the rebound, but the Frontiersmen missed their next shot and were whistled for a foul.

Independence failed to cash in at the line, giving Niagara the ball and a chance to win with 12 seconds left.

But Niagara misfired on three straight field shots, including one do-or-die attempt at the buzzer. Niagara, led by Michael Lyles with 22 points, concluded its championship season 28-7.

Monterey Runs Away With Annual Canyon Reef Relays

Lubbock Monterey took first in five events and second in eight to win Division I of the Canyon Reef Relays held here Friday and Saturday.

In all, Monterey racked up 146 points, 50 over second place Big Spring, which scored 96. Snyder placed fourth with 67 points.

In Netter Tournament...

Womack Grabs First

Playing her usual brand of championship tennis, Margaret Womack won four matches Friday and Saturday in the Andrews Team Tournament to take the girls' singles division.

Perhaps her greatest victory was in defeating Andrews' Joni Russell in the finals, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3. Margaret's first time to win in four outings with Miss Russell, who is ranked 12th in state rankings and runner-up in the recent Cotton Bowl tournament in Dallas. In reaching the finals, Margaret defeated Duley of Andrews, 6-0, 6-1; McBeth of Seminole, 6-1, 6-1; Copeland of Odessa, 6-2, 6-2; to bring her season record to 31 wins against 2 losses. Margaret's two losses this year have been to Miss Russell and to Vicki Vasicedk, Midland's singles player who is ranked fourth in the state of Texas.

The eight teams participating in the tournament were some of the state's finest, including the state 3-A team champion, Monahans, and fourth place in the state 3-A, Andrews. Andrews won the tournament with 103 points, while the remaining 7 teams were closely matched with Seminole having 80 points, Monahans and Brownfield, 78 each; Ft. Stockton, 73; Big Spring, 65; Snyder, 63; and Odessa High, 59.

Coach Bill Boles expressed his appreciation to Mrs Max Grosshans for chaperoning the girls during the two day affair and to Snyder parents Mr. and Mrs. Bob Womack, Mrs. Barbara McGee, Mrs. Neomi Harlin, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Paige for their support in attending the matches.

Tennis action this week will see a dual match between Snyder and Big Spring on the local courts Tuesday afternoon. Play is scheduled to begin around 3:30 p.m.

Playing No. 1 boys singles, Mike Greenfield won two and lost two matches, defeating Ft. Stockton's No. 1, Urias, 6-4, 6-3, and Seminole's No. 2, Freyburger, 6-4, 7-5, and losing to Monahans No. 2, Ellis, 1-6, 2-6, and Ft. Stockton's No. 2, Ketterman, 5-7, 4-6.

Playing No. 2 boys singles, Neal Paige won two and lost 2, defeating Andrews' JV No. 1 Griffin, 6-0, 6-0, and Brownfield's No. 2, Horde, 6-1, 6-4, losing to Monahans' No. 1 Horton, 3-6, 4-6, and again to the same player, 3-6, 5-7, because of an oddity in the drawings of opponents.

Playing No. 1 doubles in the boys division, Jay Wesson and Zane Sterling won 3 matches, while losing 1 to state-ranked Conway and Hodge, Seminole's No. 1, 2-6, 4-6. They defeated Brownfield No. 1 McCummen and Gorham, 6-2, 6-7, 6-4, Monahan's No. 2 team of Lewis and Miller, 6-2, 6-1, and Seminole's No. 2 Wilson and King, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2.

Snyder's No. 2 doubles team, Jeff Wesson and Lyn Edmison won 2 and lost 2 matches, defeating Andrews JV No. 1 Moxley and McCorley, 6-0, 6-1, and Andrews No. 2 varsity Lewis and Miller, 6-4, 7-5. They lost to Monahans' No. 1 Datson and Stephens, 2-6, 5-7, and Andrews No. 1 Tibbels and Jackson, 3-6, 5-7.

Playing No. 2 girls singles, Jana Wesson lost to Big Spring's No. 1 Mary Matthews, 0-6, 0-6. Monahan's No. 1 Wilborn, 1-6, 1-6. Big Spring No. 2, Carlile, 5-7, 6-3, Ft. Stockton No. 2, Terrazas, 2-6, 1-6.

Snyder's No. 1 girls doubles team, Donna McGee and Kim Harlin won 1 and lost 2 matches, defeating the Cline sisters of Big Spring for the first time 6-3, 6-4, and losing to Brownfield's No. 1 Cooper and Jobe, 0-6, 1-6, and to Andrews No. 2 Sharp and Watkins, 3-6, 5-7.

Playing No. 2 girls doubles, Belinda Scott and Shelley Grosshans won 1 and lost 2 matches, defeating Big Spring's No. 1 Burns and Mexia, 6-4, 7-6, and losing to Andrews JV No. 2 Grady and Thomas, 4-6, 6-0, 4-6, and to Brownfield's No. 2 Milsap and Bailey, Brownfield's No. 2, 2-6, 1-6. The two doubles teams were to play each other for their fourth match of the tournament, a match that will be played later in Snyder.

Tigers Win Consolation At Monhans Tourney

MONAHANS — Snyder High School baseball team took consolation honors here Saturday as Coach Albert Lewis' Tigers rolled past Lubbock High, 7-4.

The Tigers, 7-3 for the season, turned in runs in the second, third and seventh innings to grab the victory. Scott Crenwelge opened the Snyder scoring in the second period with a lone home run. Alvin Ollison, Richard Crayton, Tracy Witherspoon, Mike LaPointe and David Lee each garnered singles in the third frame and Crenwelge and David Zajicek both walked as the Tigers pushed in five more runs. Mitch Mackey powered a base hit in the seventh and LaPointe sacrificed, the runner in several batters later to close out Snyder's scoring effort.

The Westerners, 8-3, got two runs each in the second and third innings.

Tony Degrate built his record to four wins and one loss as he came on in the fourth inning to win the game. The freshman hurler gave up one hit and allowed no runs in his four innings on the mound. He walked three and struck out four.

Sid Everton opened at the hill, giving up four runs on six hits. He walked two and fanned three batters.

Taking the loss was Rush, who pitched 2 - 1-3 innings for the Westerners. Cardenis and Naquez also mounted the Lubbock High mound. In all, Lubbock pitchers allowed the seven runs on 10 hits.

In previous action during the Monahans Tournament, Snyder had lost to Monahans, 3-0, and had defeated Fort Stockton, 2-1.

Thursday, the Tigers will host Andrews at 4:15 p.m. The Snyder Tournament is scheduled to begin Friday, and will continue Saturday. Snyder begins district play April 4 in Brownfield.

Panola Takes Girls' JC Cup

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (AP)-Rosie Walker was voted the most valuable player.

And hot-shooting Jessie Brown shattered two different scoring records.

But in the end, there was no more important player in the National Women's Junior College Tournament than 5-foot-4 guard Lisa Hughes.

Hughes, while centers Walker of Panola (Texas) and Brown of East Mississippi dueled under the basket, sparked a key eight-point surge to lift Panola past previously unbeaten East Mississippi, 67-63, for the Texans' second straight national title Saturday night.

"That's my spot out there," said Hughes, who hit a pair of 25-footers on both ends of the streak. "It's the only place on the court they'll let me shoot. They won't let me get any closer. If I did, they'd cram it back down my throat."

The eight-point run, which included long shots by Lola Baker and Karen Gentz, gave Panola a 58-51 margin with 10:28 left, and East Mississippi, 33-1 for the year, never again got closer than three.

In an earlier battle for third place, sophomore forward Theresa Willis gunned in a record 45 points and snared 14 rebounds as Seminole Okla. crushed Flathead Valley (Mont.), 99-57.

Notre Dame Tries For Field, Court Champs

By The Asssociated Press

Notre Dame has a chance to become the first school ever to win national championships in football and basketball in the same year, but basketball Coach Digger Phelps says he's happy just to be in the semifinals.

"The rest is gravy," said Phelps, whose Fighting Irish earned their trip to St. Louis by beating DePaul 84-64 Sunday in the Midwest Regional final. "To make it to the final four is just unbelievable. All we've been living for is this moment."

Next in line for the Irish is Atlantic Coast Conference champion Duke, a 90-72 winner over Villanova in the East Regional final. They'll meet in the opening game of the semifinal doubleheader in St. Louis on Saturday, with Kentucky taking on Arkansas in the nightcap.

The winners meet Monday night for the NCAA championship.

On Saturday, Kentucky qualified for the final four by edging Michigan State 52-49 in the Mideast Regional while Arkansas trimmed California State-Fullerton 61-58 in the West Regional.

Top-ranked Kentucky has the best record of the four semifinalists at 28-2. Arkansas, rated No. 5, is 31-3; Notre Dame, No. 6, is 23-6; and Duke, No. 7, is 26-6.

Notre Dame is a perennial football power, having won seven national titles, but the school's basketball program was never as strong until Phelps took over as coach in 1971. Since then the Irish have compiled a 137-64 record and made the NCAAs in each of the past five years.

Notre Dame trailed DePaul by eight points in the first half and led by just four at intermission. Kelly Tripucka's basket put the Irish ahead to stay 47-46 with 11:48 remaining and started a 22-8 burst that broke the game open.

Guard Ron Brewer led Arkansas to a 39-24 halftime lead over Cal State-Fullerton, but the Titans' full-court press helped them rally for a 58-57 lead.

Brewer connected from the top of the key, giving him 22 points and Arkansas a one-point lead. Arkansas forward Jim Counce missed the first of a one-and-one foul situation with 13 seconds to play to give the Titans one last shot, but Keith Anderson of Cal State-Fullerton had the ball batted away as he drove down the lane. Counce hit a layup at the buzzer for the final margin.

Texas Steers To Basketball Final

NEW YORK (AP)-Amid hoarse strains of "The Eyes of Texas" and "Turn Off the Lights, the Party's Over," Texas outclassed Rutgers for Coach Abe Lemons' first victory in the National Invitational Tournament finals and struck a blow for Southwest Conference basketball in the process.

With a small contingent of singing Texas followers joining the Madison Square Garden throng of 18,504 Sunday night, the Longhorns romped past Rutgers 96-76 to take a 25-5 mark into the NIT finals against North Carolina State, 21-9, on Tuesday night.

And in doing so, Texas helped the SWC rise in stature from that of an oft-beaten stepchild to a respectable country cousin in the NCAA basketball family.

Texas' victory - combined with Arkansas' advance on Saturday to the semifinals of the NCAA championship - gave the SWC two representatives in the nation's most presigious post-season collegiate tournaments.

Golfers Cap Third In Local Meet

Taking fourth in the tournament was Fort Stockton with a 657, followed by Seminole 662, Sweetwater II 693, Snyder II 697, Lamesa 704 and Andrews II 716.

Tracksters Take 3rd In San Angelo Meet

San Angelo Lee was first with 132 points, followed by Edison with 129, Snyder with 121, Lincoln with 60 and Glenn with 44.

Glenn Parham garnered four first place awards to pace the Tigers. Parham took blue ribbons in the 330 with a 39.7, in the 230 intermediate hurdles with a 33.3, in the long jump with an 18' 8" effort, and in the high jump with a try of 5' 6".

Also bringing home firsts were Danny Ramos for his 1:42 effort in the 660, Keith Wallace for a 10.1 in the 70 high hurdles, and Gary Don Edmiaston for his try of 150' 2" in the discus.

In other results, the 1320 relay team of K. Wallace, S. Gressett, R. Rosas and R. Davenport took second with a time of 2:51.7, and the 440 relay team of Rosas, S. Gressett, Echols and Davenport captured fourth place with a 49.5.

Bryan Limmer took fourth in discus with a 117' 4" effort, fifth in the shot with a 38' 6" and sixth in the 70 HH with an 11.1.

Mark Shaw took fourth in the 660 with a time of 1:45.1; Steve Gressett grabbed sixth in the 330 with a 41.4; Felix Canales took third in the pole vault with a try of 8'; Keith Wallace was third with a leap of 17' in the long jump. Perry Echols took fourth in the shot with a 40' 4" effort and Robbie Davenport took sixth in the 220 with a 25.8.

Constitution Doesn't Give Pigeons Rights

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) - A Youngstown judge has ruled that pigeons have no rights under the Constitution.

That frees the Youngstown Board of Health to go ahead with its pigeon extermination program.

Mahoning County Common Pleas Judge Sidney Rigglehaupt said Thursday that the Constitution "guarantees life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness for citizens, but I find no such constitutional protection for pigeons."

Seven Months Since Flood...

Rain Still Makes Johnstown Restless

By CHRIS ROBERTS
Associated Press Writer

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)- Over seven months have passed since the flood, yet when it rains here at night the people still get restless.

"I wake up and I can hear the creek rising inch by inch," says Sam Felix, who almost died last summer when a filthy wave of water thundered down a mountain after midnight.

"When it rains at night we all wake up," she said. "All the lights on the hill go on. We lie awake and wonder if it will happen again.

"Sometimes I can hear the people screaming. I can still hear the house splitting up. I wake up in the middle of the night and I can see the wall of water."

Mrs. Felix, 33, spent the night of July 20 hugging her 3-year-old daughter in the pitch blackness of a second floor bedroom, screaming, "God, get my baby out" as the water rose. Her husband, Terry, was at work at a Bethlehem Steel mill. It was the next morning that he learned his wife and child were alive.

Several houses up the road from the Felixes, the raging water - unleashed when a dam atop the mountain broke - washed away the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Pilot Sr. Both died.

Their grandson, Tommy Marsonik, 20, survived, although he almost lost a leg, injured as he rode the roof down the mountain.

"They still haven't found my grandfather yet," Marsonik said the other day.

It was a little over a month after the flood that he moved into a government trailer, dragged to the spot where he had lived with his grandparents while attending college here.

At first he would not spend the night in the trailer alone. A friend bunked over until he mastered his fear.

"Sometimes when I think about it I get depressed, in a goofy mood," he said. "Sometimes I wish I died in the flood for all I had to go through.

Check Mover To Avoid Problems

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Moving day is coming soon for millions of Americans and families who want to avoid problems should start now to make sure their possessions are shipped promptly and safely.

One moving company estimates that nearly one-fifth of all Americans change their addresses each year; more than half the long-distance moves are made between May 15 and June 15.

The first step to success is a check of companies' performance reports, required by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The mover must give you a copy of the report for his firm; he also should provide a copy of an ICC moving guide for consumers, BOp 103.

Prices depend on weight and distance. Interstate movers must file tariffs with the ICC on rates and charges. Copies are available at movers' offices and no interstate mover may charge more-or less-than his ICC rates.

Movers must, on request, give you a written estimate of the cost of a move in advance, but the estimates are not binding.

It is important to make sure you are not charged for more than you actually ship. The ICC, in announcing a crack-down last year, said some companies had been caught trying to boost weights and prices - by adding everything from bricks to old engine parts to moving vans.

Go to the weigh-in of your shipment. The mover must notify you in advance of the location of the scale.

The weight of a shipment is determined by weighing the van before and after loading your goods. The driver should be in the van for the initial weighing. Fuel tanks must be full and the van must contain all pads, claims, dollies, hand trucks, etc. that will be used.

The driver must give you copies of two tickets, one showing the poundage before loading your shipment; the other showing the weight after. The tickets given to you must contain the same weights shown on the official tickets issued by the weighmaster and must include the bill of lading number for your shipment.

Drivers must carry vehicle-load manifests, listing each shipment transported. Check the weight information and bill of lading number on the documents you have against the manifest.

If, when you receive your bill, you believe you are being charged for more than you shipped, request a reweigh. Again, the truck must be weighed with and without your shipment and you can watch. If there is a difference between the before and after-moving figures, the lower of the two net weights must be used as the basis for your bill.

Your Birthday

March 21, 1978

A very active year is in store for you socially. There will be many new places to go and a host of new friends to add to your list.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Steer clear of the serious-minded today because they may depress you. Conversely people with youthful and carefree outlooks bring you genuine pleasure. Find out to whom you're romantically suited to by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Dealing with older or mature individuals provide the impetus for personal gain today. There could be more than one opportunity.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Early in the day you could take life too seriously, but as the day progresses, the bright spots surface and a pleasant day should result.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You feel lucky in business situations today and you are when you apply positive thinking to the transaction. Stick to your guns if you're negotiating.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Someone you may meet today has a goal he or she has sought long and hard. You can help this person and yourself too.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) One in a high position is looking out for your best interests today. This involves a dream you previously thought was impossible to achieve.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your enthusiasm for life today will penetrate even the hardest hearts. It's a good time to pierce that inner social circle you've been eyeing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You have more luck going for you today than you might be aware of. The necessary ingredient for completing the victory is perseverance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you have a tough negotiation to handle, put it on today's agenda. You're capable of eliminating obstacles and gaining the admiration of others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) When you unselfishly volunteer your services and skills today, you not only help another, but can turn a healthy profit for yourself as well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Get into the social whirl today. Go where you can be seen because you'll make a good impression on some valuable future contacts.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Put yourself out a bit to please members of your family. The day will end on such a happy note, you'll wonder why you're sometimes selfish.

Spring Not All It's Cracked Up To Be

EDITOR'S NOTE
Spring is here! Rejoice! Who says we should? Poets and romanticists, of course. But listen to the realists. They say spring isn't all it's cracked up to be. Let's see.

By JOE WING
For The Associated Press

Spring steals in on a chilly Northern Hemisphere at 5:34 p.m. EST Monday and doubtless will set the poets singing once again.

It was John Milton who rhapsodized:

"In those vernal seasons of the year, when the air is calm and pleasant, it were an injury and a sullenness against nature not to go out and see her riches and participate in her rejoicing with heaven and earth."

But don't let Milton or anybody else fool you, not even Shakespeare with his "sweet lovers love the spring."

To balance such effusions, this from Samuel Butler:

"Youth is like spring, an over-praised season - more remarkable, as a general rule, for biting east winds than gentle breezes."

And Mark Twain: "In the spring I have counted 136 kinds of weather in 24 hours."

Butler and Twain had something. The period of the vernal quinox, when days and nights are the same length, is indeed a time for blustery, changeable weather. It's not even beyond the reach of blizzards. The blizzard of '88 raged from March 11 to 14.

Tornados also have occurred, including one on March 18, 1925, that killed 689 persons in Missouri, Illinois and Indiana.

No one has proved a connection between earthquakes and the equinox, but before some scientist intervenes let's note that the great Alaska earthquake, registered 8.5 points on the Richter scale on March 27, 1964.

If you pay attention to signs and portents on what may happen this year, there will be a lunar eclipse on March 24, a conjunction between Venus and Mercury on March 28, and a partial solar eclipse on April 7.

Despite the disaster roll, who would not agree with Robert Browning that "all's right with the world" when, as Solomon exulted, "The singing time of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in the land." He was referring, incidentally, to the dove, not the reptile.

Even before now in the southern states and in Latin America some early birds have started winging northwards, impelled not so much by the perceived promise of better weather as by the swelling of their gonads in the lengthening daylight and the consequent urge to mate and multiply. Canada geese arrive in southern Manitoba as early as March 20.

At first, the pace of various migrants is leisurely, covering only a few miles a day. The farther north they go the more impatient they become until on the last lap they seem to a trying for records. By April 1, the familiar, beloved robin, which lives and winters in most of the 48 contiguous states, has advanced well beyond the Great Lakes, and by May 1 to the peak of its range near the Arctic Ocean.

Nevertheless, "one swallow does not make a spring," as Aristotle observed, and tree sparrows, which unlike most others can subsist on berries, are hardy enough to forge north very early. But whole flocks of birds do come a cropper now and then. Given false courage by a south wind, they run into snow or sleet that chills them and lays low the insects on which many species depend. Before balmy weather comes again, myriads may die.

Bits of advice

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — I have been engaged for three years to a man who can't make up his mind about anything.

He can't even decide which movie he wants to see or which restaurant he wants to try. I end up making all the decisions and I don't like that. I think he is this way because he is insecure about me. Once we are married, don't you think he will change?

DEAR READER — No. It's risky to marry a man who fails to meet your needs in some basic way on the chance he'll change later. You should assume that during the engagement period your fiance has been on his best behavior; whatever trait bothers you now will only become more pronounced after you have settled into the routine of married life.

By the way, you have been engaged for three years. Is he indecisive about marriage too? For your part, perhaps you have a strong need to be needed. Three years is a long time to remain in a situation you say you dislike.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — I'm troubled about my recent decision to divorce my wife.

I've always wanted to begin therapy and this seems like the right time. Now I'm trying to choose the best kind of therapist for me. Psychoanalysis appeals to me because I can lie on the couch and say anything that comes into my mind. What do you think?

DEAR READER — Beginning psychoanalysis at this time may pose an obstacle to your plans for a divorce. Most analysts who are strictly Freudian require the patient to avoid making any major decision until after the analytic process — which can be five years or more.

Why not consult a psychoanalyst and discuss the problem with him. He may suggest seeing you for supportive psychotherapy until your divorce and then starting the intensive analysis. Or he may refer you to another therapist until it would be appropriate for you to begin analysis. Get several opinions on this tough decision.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — My wife and I enjoy spending some time alone in our bedroom after dinner. I would like to assure our privacy by putting a lock on the door but my wife thinks that would make the children feel excluded.

Is there any other way we can feel secure from their sudden intrusions?

DEAR READER — No. Children can be taught to respect your privacy — but they can also forget or become preoccupied with something and break the rules. Young children are especially unpredictable.

For these reasons, verbal instructions or a "Do Not Disturb" sign may not work and an embarrassing scene may result. Secure your time together — with a lock.

Write to Dr. Blaker in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Volume of mail prohibits personal replies, but questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns.
