Henley Trial Begins

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—District Judge Noah Kennedy has ordered tight security for the second murder trial of Elmer Wayne Henley, 23, accused in a two-year homosexual torture and death spree in Houston.

The case, which gets under way today, was moved here after a new trial was ordered by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Henley was 18 when he was convicted of murder the first time and sentenced to six 99-year terms. He won a new trial when the appeals court ruled the judge in that trial should have allowed a defense motion for a change of venue hearing.

Prosecutors have said they do not anticipate much difference in their strategy from the first trial.

Truckers Strike

By The Associated Press

Operators at some truck stops shut down diesel pumps today and truck blockades impeded traffic at other service stations as independent truckers acted on a threat to shut down rigs nationwide.

A convoy of trucks led by driver Robert Somers of Colorado gathered in Frederick, Md., Sunday in preparation for a protest drive into Washington, D.C., today.

And about 350 truckers from 13 states vowed Sunday in Sioux City, Iowa, to park their rigs indefinitely to protest high diesel fuel costs.

The truckers are seeking an end to the high cost of diesel fuel and fuel surcharges, uniform length for trucks and suspension of the 55 mph speed limit which they say is not fuel-efficient for big trucks.

Flood Victims Return

NACOGDOCHES, (AP) Most flood victims were back in their homes today, surveying damage from weekend rains that sent two streams spilling out of their banks and into homes and businesses.

Water was reported as deep as 15 feet in one part of town during the height of the flood Saturday. A day later, police said all floodwaters were gone.

"We've had sunshine all day long, and there is no water left," said dispatcher Deborah Adams. "Some roads are still torn up. But it's all over unless it starts raining again."

Storms unleashed four inches of rain early Saturday, and the runoff sent the Lanana and Banita creeks flowing into city streets, chasing many residents to higher ground. No one was injured as police and other law officers evacuated 300 to 400 persons by 1 p.m. Saturday.

Vaccinations Underway

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) More than 80,000 Lancaster County residents have been immunized in special polio clinics set up to stop an outbreak of the paralyzing disease among members of the Amish religious sect.

State health officials said 56,452 people were immunized Sunday and 30,081 others received the vaccine Saturday. Several Amish families were among those who took the oral vaccine on Sunday.

Health officials have stock-piled 200,000 doses of vaccine for the three-day immunization program, which concludes today.

Hurricane Hits 90

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) The first hurricane of the season in North America, packing 90 mph winds at the center, was reported today 30 miles off the Pacific Coast of Mexico by the National Weather Service here.

Satellite photos taken at 5 a.m. PDT showed Hurricane Andres 150 miles from Acapulco and weakening slightly, the service added.

"It looks like the center of this storm has moved onshore," said marine forecaster Richard Lay. "Once it moves over land the strong winds will dissipate very rapidly."

He said the hurricane could result in a dousing of rain for parts of Texas by Tuesday.

The storm was headed northwest at about 15 miles per hour and was expected to weaken gradually as it sliced across an unpopulated section of Mexico near the town of Zihuatanejo, said Lay.

Pope Defiant

CZESTOCHOWA, Poland (AP)—Defying Eastern Europe's Communist rulers and their long campaign to promote atheism, Pope John Paul II hailed the Roman Catholics of the Soviet Bloc nations for preserving their faith and unity. It was a direct challenge to Eastern Europe's Communist governments, telling them in effect that the faith of more than 50 million Roman Catholics in their countries was still strong and despite official harrassment and repression of their church.

Water Rates For Hermleigh Hiked

Acting in response to a petition requesting additional supplies, the county commissioners court this morning increased the water rates at Hermleigh.

A petition was submitted, with nearly 100 names, asking that the water supply for the Hermleigh system be increased. It was noted that water for Hermleigh customers now comes mostly from a single well which produces at the rate of around 50 gallons per minute. There are two other wells, but their production is virtually negligible.

The minimum rate was increased from $4 to $8, which pays for the first 2,000 gallons used. The rate for water above the first 2,000 gallons was increased from 75 cents to $1.50 per 1,000 gallons. Commissioners said this would enable the county drill another well to increase the available supplies.

The new rates compare with those of the Ira-Dunn and Union - Fluvanna water systems which purchase treated water from the City of Snyder, it was reported. However, the petition submitted to commissioners indicated that the Hermleigh water customers prefer to continue using well water. At present, the Hermleigh water system has 140 customers tied in.

The commissioners court also opened bids for the construction of a retaining wall at the Senior Center. The low bid was from T.E. Shelburne and Son. It was for $7,992 with an option to reduce that amount by $1,095 if the county does some dirt work itself on the project. Two other bids were received.

Jury Being Selected In Dixon Trial

COLORADO CITY--The process of selecting a jury for the trial of William Clarence Dixon began here this morning.

Dixon, charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with a truck-school bus collision last Dec. 8, 11 miles west of Roby, was indicted in Fisher County, but his trial was moved last week from Roby to Colorado City.

He was the driver of an oilfield servicing truck which was in collision with a McCaulley School Bus which was en route to a basketball tournament at Hermleigh. Five persons received fatal injuries, and 22 others, including Dixon himself, were injured in the crash.

DC-10s Will Keep On Flying

WASHINGTON (AP)-An airline passengers' group has been rebuffed in a bid to have all DC-10 jets flown by U.S. airlines grounded until the cause of the nation's worst aviation accident is found.

The Airline Passengers Association Inc. asked a federal court here Sunday to force the Federal Aviation Administration to halt all flights of the jumbo jets until investigators learn precisely why an engine fell off an American Airlines DC-10 last month.

With the engine missing, the plan plummeted to the ground shortly after takeoff from Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, killing 274 people.

But U.S. District Judge George Hart turned down the request for a temporary restraining order, saying the court should not go around federal agencies, which are looking into the cause of the crash.

Air travelers would suffer an "absolutely tremendous" impact if the planes were grounded, Hart said.

He also told association lawyers that its members are not "irreparably harmed" because they can choose to fly planes other than DC-10s.

The crash prompted the FAA to order all U.S. airlines to visually inspect their DC-10s for any problems in the engine mounting systems.

The inspections found that nearly half the 137 DC-10s in service on the domestic airlines had defects ranging from "serious to minor," the FAA said. Many of those in which problems were discovered did not fly over the weekend.

But attorneys for the passengers association said the visual inspections were not enough as long as the FFA could not determine exactly why the left engine on the ill-fated Flight 191 fell off.

In related developments:

-Consumer activist Ralph Nader renewed his call for the government to curtail all DC-10 flights.

-Thirteen passengers aboard an American Airlines DC-10 which returned to the airport after the caller said a bomb was aboard were slightly injured Sunday when they slid down the plane's chutes after an emergency landing at Kennedy International Airport, officers said.

-Another American DC-10 turned back to Chicago Saturday night after a cockpit warning light indicated a problem in the plane's hydraulic system.

Ask Us

Q--Has there been any cloud seeding going on in this area during the recently rainy weather?

A--Yes. The High Plains Experimental Weather Modification Project, (HIPLEX) in which the Colorado River Municipal Water District is involved, has seeded thunderstorm clouds several times in recent weeks. However, we are told that clouds the past weekend were too flat for good seeding results, and also temperatures were too low for suitable conditions.

FEC Bills Carter For '76 Election

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON AP-The Federal Election Commission disclosed today it is billing President Carter for $50,202.94 as a result of an audit of Carter's 1976 general election campaign.

The commission wants Carter to repay $23,122.25 in "unqualified campaign expenses," mostly expenditures that the campaign committee could not prove to the FEC's satisfaction were related to the election effort.

The FEC also seeks reimbursement for $27,080.69 in interest that the campaign earned on deposits of nearly $1.5 million that the telephone company required it to put up. The audit report said the Democratic National Committee had assumed liability for paying the interest item. It was not clear who would pay the unqualified-expense item.

Today's audit report relates only to Carter's general election campaign. The FEC had earlier concluded an audit of his primary campaign.

The general campaign was financed, as was then-President Gerald Ford's, completely with taxpayer money under the law providing for public funding of presidential elections.

There was no immediate comment from the White House.

The FEC auditors expressed the opinion that there was insufficient documentation for $48,442.25 worth of campaign expenditures, but the full, six-member commission whittled that down to less than half in requesting payment.

However, the commission, divided along party lines, dead-locked 3-3 on whether Carter should repay the rest of the $48,000. The three Democrats voted against repaying that part and the three Republicans voted for it.

Regarding the entire $40,000, the audit staff said:

"The documentation in support of the expenditures...does not disclose the purpose of the expenditures in sufficient detail to allow determination as to whether the expenditures were made to further the election of the candidate, and consequently whether these expenditures are qualified campaign expenses" under public financing law.

Carter's campaign committee was given 90 days from May 31 to pay the $50,000. He also was given 30 days to submit any "factual materials" which would reduce the amount of repayment.

Electric Rates On City Agenda

A rate increase request from Texas Electric Service Co. is on the agenda for tonight's meeting of the Snyder City Council.

TESCO filed the application some two weeks ago for a 16.1 percent system-wide increase in rates. The council is expected to hold the application for study before taking any action.

Also on the agenda is a request by the Retail Merchants' Committee of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce to close streets on the south and east sides of the square on June 30. The merchants are planning an "Old Fashion Trades Day" event for that date.

A member is due to be appointed to serve as an alternate on the planning and zoning commission and two ordinances will be up for second and final reading.

One ordinance changes the zone of a one-acre tract in Sec. 180, H&GN Survey, from a commercial to a two-family residence zone. The other establishes a fire lane on a portion of a street on the Western Texas College Campus.

TESCO Case Set July 23

AUSTIN (AP)-A Public Utility Commission hearing examiner today tentatively set July 23 as start of the $88 million Texas Electric Service Co. rate increase case.

Alan Holman selected the date during a pre hearing conference between attorneys for TESCO, its customer cities and the utility commission.

The utility has estimated its residential customers in 48 counties would pay $5 more monthly for electric service if the rate hike request is granted.

TESCO received a $40.4 million rate increase last October after it had requested $110 million more in annual revenues.

Fort Worth, Hurst, Burkburnett and the Texas Municipal League are among intervenors in the latest rate case. Other protesters include the commissioners court of Midland and Tarrant counties and the Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now (ACORN).

In April, TESCO was ordered to refund $1.6 million to customers following a lengthy investigation of energy deals between TESCO and its sister companies in the Texas Utilities system.

cutbacks are unlikely

President Carter will attempt to save taxpayers $4 billion by having Congress hold back on pay raises for civilian and military employees. According to a recent story there are about four million workers who would have increases in pay held back until they more nearly matched employees pay in the private sector.

If $4 billion is to be saved by holding back raises for four million government workers, that would mean that each one would be accounting for $1,000 of the savings. In spite of the fact that there is little equity between government pay and pay in the private sector for the same type chores, it is doubtful Congress will move on this one.

This plan of Carter's will probably be about as successful as his idea to have vacant jobs left unfilled. Attrition was supposed to cut back the numbers of people working in the various federal agencies. Starting right with the White House most governmental functions have increased their staffs. And the use of contract assignments has proliferated.

The president's present target is a federal pay system which officials say:

-In some places pays janitors more than nurses and pays truck drivers more than engineers.

-Pays federal blue collar workers eight percent more than their privately-employed counterparts.

-Does not include the federal government's generous pensions and other fringe benefits when computing federal pay levels supposed to compare with those in private industry.

According to the plan, no federal worker would get a pay cut, but most would see their pay raises held down for possibly several years.

Bringing federal pay scales more in line with the private sector and allowing natural attrition to cut the total work force could take a lot of the load from the shoulders of taxpayers.

Cutting back a good percentage of the picky regulations which now plague business and cost consumers extra for everything they buy would also be a good stride forward. We doubt we will see much of anything done to halt even the increase in regulations or the expense of maintaining the federal work force.

However, the president can say he tried, but the Congress failed to go along. About all we can really expect is just more political rhetoric and very little holding back on government spending.

Congress will never more on this plan as long as the noise from injured taxpayers fails to equal or exceed the clamor of special interests embedded in Washington. The fury of opposition to the plan started before the formal announcement as the American Federation of Government Employees reacted to preliminary reports.

The awesome power of the bureaucracy will be revealed as never before if Congress ever does made a concerted drive to cut it down to a manageable size. We would welcome such an attempt, but doubt if it will happen until citizens become far more concerned than they appear to be at this time.

uncommon election

Voters in the nine Common Market countries head to the polls for an election that represents a major step forward in the political integration of western Europe.

For the first time, members of the European Parliament will be elected directly by the voters in member nations instead of being appointed from their national parliaments as is now the case.

Even though the 410-member European Parliament will have only limited powers, some of the continent's leading political figures are compaigning for seats. Among them are former Chancellor Willy Brandt in West Germany and former Prime Minister Leo Tindemans in Belgium.

Turnout for the election, which will be held June 7-10, may put voters in America to shame. Advance estimates range from a low of 34 percent in Germany to almost 70 percent in the Netherlands - pretty spectacular considering that barely one-third of the eligible voters in the United States bothered to cast ballots in last year's election for Congress.

The European Parliament is organized by political parties, not national groupings, and the major parties across Europe have linked up for this campaign to present unified platforms. Thus, all Christian Democrats - regardless of nationality - are running on a common platform, and likewise Socialists and Liberal-Democrats.

A "United States of Europe" still remains a distant dream, but the direct election of a common Parliament is likely to bring it one step closer to reality. Europeans, at any rate, seem to be taking the election seriously.

letter to editor

To The Daily News:

Over two centuries have gone by since a group of men met and wrote our Constitution. The critics of that day said it was unworkable. Today, the U.S. is a super power, confused, indecisive with results dangerous to everyone. Our leaders talk detente and cut military spending to the bone, while our adversaries grow bolder. Throughout Southeast Asia, Africa, the Middle East, Russian military presence increases. At home our leaders govern in confusion, caught up in an oil shortage in 1974, and five years later with nothing done. More confusion. The old adage, demand and supply set the price, is ignored. While our leaders say we should reduce the flow of imported oil, what did our leaders do but put a freeze on the domestic oil at a price below cost of production.

Now comes a SALT agreement that will give our adversaries a great advantage over the U.S. Now in confusion, we are in a mandatory wage-price control which will make inflation worse. Has our idea of free enterprise and freedom at the market place gone the way of the buffalo—extinct?

at wits end

by erma bombeck

A mother wrote me the other day questioning the property rights of mothers. (Who has custody of the ice cubes, transparent tape and the piece of chicken in the condensed chicken soup.)

"Within minutes last weekend," she wrote, "I found my 19-year-old had taken my mascara to Michigan with him to keep his blond mustache noticeable . . . my 11-year-old had scrubbed the grass stains off his gym shoes with my toothbrush...and my four-year-old had taken my magic marker and made hex signs all over my heirloom bedspread. Do mothers have any rights at all?"

It all depends. Do you remember signing anything in the delivery room? Some women sign the MATERNAL VOW OF POVERTY while still heavily sedated. I don't remember signing it at all but when I awoke the kids had rights to the fillings in my teeth.

Would it shock you to know I have not found my comb in 15 years and comb my hair by running my fingers through it? Or that everyone has worn my white sweater except the dog? (and only because he looks lousy in white.)

At his point I am trying to outlaw the MATERNAL VOW OF POVERTY by introducing a Mother's Bill of Rights.

Visitation rights to the kitchen would be limited only to those either cleaning it or cooking in it. A mother would be able to "put by" a small, cold pork chop or a half bottle of cola without planting mines around it.

Persons lifting pencils, paper clips, rubber bands, typewriter ribbons, yardsticks, scissors, hairbrushes and other personal effects of mother would be prosecuted for trespassing.

Daughters pilfering soiled pantyhose would be detained, questioned, given a defense and a trial.

Daughters pilfering clean pantyhose would be shot on the spot.

Husbands returning your car with an empty gas tank are obliged to provide you a rental car and to try harder.

Birthday checks shall not be used to pay the phone bill and school lunches.

commentary

donald f. graff

At some point back there when early man came out of the caves, or descended from the trees, he commenced refining his behavior.

He lost his taste for raw meat. Matrimony became a somewhat more involved matter than grabbing the nearest female topknot. Survival might still be a challenge for the weak and the injured, but they were no longer deliberately exposed to hasten death.

We've come a long way, with frequent detours and backtrackings, down the road to civilization since those beginnings. But we are still experiencing difficulty swearing off one deeply rooted tribal practice: the claiming of a life as penalty for a transgression.

Capital punishment is as old and as universal as human society itself. Its implementation, however, has undergone considerable refinement down through the centuries. At one time and in some places, the theft of a loaf of bread could mean death in any number of barbarically inventive ways. The supreme penalty gradually came to be reserved for the supreme crime - murder, a life for a life.

Only in fairly recent times, and in the West, has refinement reached the point of questioning the basic principle of capital punishment, the justification for the state's taking a life under any circumstances. The death penalty is in effect today in only a few Western countries, the United States notably included.

And its existence here is determined by two Supreme Court decisions - a 1972 invalidation of then-existing state laws as arbitrary and discriminatory that did not, however, find the death penalty per se "cruel and unusual" and hence unconstitutional, and a follow-up decision in 1976 upholding rewritten capital statutes in three states.

Most other states more or less promptly overhauled their laws along the lines of the approved three -- Florida, Texas and Georgia -- although more than a dozen are still holdouts.

Currently, death rows across the nation hold almost 500 condemned prisoners, with 80 percent in six southern states and Florida far in the lead with some 130.

The arguments on both sides of the issue are many and often passionately presented, but they all come down to questions of morality and practicality.

Opponents see capital punishment as a euphemism for murder by the state. It is inherently discriminatory, they say, because it is applied overwhelmingly to the poor and uneducated, society's outcasts. The punishment does not fit the crime, but the social status of the criminal. It is less justified retribution for a crime than an opportunity for the expression of society's vengeance.

Supporters argue that the nature of some crimes is such that death is the only suitable penalty, that society has a right to protect itself and that the existence of the death penalty functions as a deterent to the violent criminal.

That last is a much debated point. The studies are voluminous but totally inconclusive as to whether the death penalty has any effect on the number of murders committed. What is clear is that the public doesn't care. Overwhelmingly, 70 percent according to one recent poll, Americans favor the death penalty, and most say they would do so even were its ineffectiveness in deterring violent crime conclusively proved.

Nevertheless, as recent events in Florida and the last previous execution, in 1977 in Utah, demonstrate, the implementation of the penalty is today a very powerful public issue.

In the heyday of executions in the United States (199 individuals were electrocuted, gassed, hanged or shot in 1935) only the most sensational of legal killings attracted public attention.

In 1979, the first execution in two years is cause for nationwide attention, widespread press condemnation and public protests.

Call it refinement.

changing odds

NEW YORK AP—You're 30 years old and making $30,000 a year, a fast track combo you feel justifies focusing your sights on a distant but realistic goal, the presidency of your company.

Think again! Take your eyes off the future long enough to look around you. No matter that the 30-30 combination once almost assured you a shot at the title. The odds are against you now. These are the 1970s.

"Big business today has an astoundingly large number of managers in their 30s who make not just their age, in terms of thousands, but double it," says Prof. Eugene Jennings, an authority on the subject.

Replacing the 30-30s as candidates for the big job, his studies show, are the 30-60s, or executives still in their 30s who are earning twice their age, in thousands of dollars.

Jennings, an adviser to corporate top executives, author of numerous books on corporate life, and professor of management at Michigan State University, has spent years studying executive mobility.

Out of his studies have come many revelations that changed our views of corporations, but few findings have had greater significance to young executives than his interpretation of the 30-30s and the 30-60s.

In the 1950s, he observes, 30-30s occasionally could be found, but at best they measured three in 100 managers. By the second half of the 1960s their number had risen to 15 in 100.

The 30-60s have developed a similar pattern in the current decade, the professor's findings indicate. Occasionally found in the early 1960s, when they averaged two or three per 100, they now account for about 10 of every 100 executives in our largest industrial corporations.

Salary growth followed similar lines, he found. The 30-30s began at average salaries of $9,000, and some quadrupled their incomes in 10 years. The 30-60s began at $14,000 and multiplied at the same rate.

Why is business willing to pay the youngest of the brightest such salaries?

It begins at the top, Jennings says. "Presidents' salaries have doubled since the 1960s, and salaries of the youngest and best are geared to the top. They've always been on a separate salary track."

The route also has been cleared of competitive clutter. "We are seeing a lot of young managers opt for immobility, because of family and other considerations, leaving the track open for other executives."

The track is being cleared further down the line too, with the forced retirement of executives who might otherwise clog the routes to the top. "Younger executives spot their openings and move in," he says.

Finally, Jennings comments, industry has developed more profit centers, and these require general managers.

"The early arrivals of the 1970s, the 30-60s, unabashedly embrace the American dream," the professor said. "They seek and find these jobs." There's nothing shy about them.

Daughters Of The Republic Of Texas Elect Officers

Members of Col. John H. Moore Chapter of Daughters of the Republic of Texas met recently in the Rotan Public Library for an installation service for officers for the next two years. Mrs. Jimmy D. Hale, outgoing president, was installing officer. By tradition officers begin official duties following the state convention which was held in Waco May 17. At this meeting Mrs. Hale was installed as District X representative and member of the state board of management for the organization.

Following the installation ceremonial, Mrs. Hale reviewed the history of the 84 year old organization and the accomplishments of the local chapter. She charged the new officers with the responsibility of carrying out the purposes and ideals of the DRT. They are (1) To perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved and maintained the Independence of Texas (2) To provide the celebration of Texas Honor Days (3) To encourage historical research and (4) To secure and memorialize historic spots and to preserve the unity of Texas.

Mrs. Hale stated that Col. John H. Moore Chapter has been "cradled" for four years--the term "cradle" being significant as it is the name of the library in which the society was organized. She stated further that ours is a great heritage to preserve. Members of DRT are custodians of the Alamo, the French Legation and the old Land Office in Austin and the Cradle in Galveston. They maintain a library at the Alamo in San Antonio for research on Texas history.

Extensive Collection Viewed

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) —"A Century of Ceramics in the United States 1878-1978" has opened a two-year national tour at the Everson Museum of Art here and will remain on view through Sept. 23.

The show was organized by the Everson, which has the most extensive collection of American ceramics in the United States, and brings together over 400 works in clay by 160 artists.

The museum says, "The exhibition traces the growth of American ceramics as an art form from its tradition-art pottery roots to pioneering personal statements in clay, which have dramatically influenced the development of ceramic art internationally."

Oswald: "The simple play with today's hand is for South to cash his ace of hearts, play three rounds of trumps ending in dummy, discard his losing spade on the king of hearts and lead dummy's queen of clubs."

Alan: "East takes his ace and forces South to ruff a spade with his last trump. Now South leads his king of clubs and winds up down two because clubs break 4-1 and the suit doesn't run."

Oswald: "Bad luck! All that South needed was a 3-2 club break. Expert South would have given himself a slight extra chance. He would play just two rounds of trumps before discarding his spade and attacking clubs. Then he could afford to let dummy's jack of clubs hold the second club trick, come to his hand with that third round of trumps and make the slam."

Alan: "This play would only succeed if the man with the singleton club held two trumps, but it risked nothing. If clubs broke 3-2 no one would ruff the second round of clubs and the extra chance would pay off."

This is a tough one. Our preference is a raise to three notrump. We want to be in game and would rather try for nine tricks than for 10.

Women's Beauty Digest

HOW TO BLUSH

Many women make the mistake of placing blusher too close to the nose or eye areas, making the nose seem larger and the eyes smaller. Blusher looks best framing the face. When applying blusher place your finger straight up from your cheek to your eye and line it up with the outside of the iris. Start color right there and move from the outside of the iris along the bone into the temple. Finish by blending it well.

THE LARGER WOMAN

Larger women need not feel left out of today's current fashion trends. A fuller-figured woman looks great in today's straight-leg pants, tailored skirts and soft, unconstructed blouses. She should avoid the layered look or too many accessories, but otherwise she can be right in fashion.

SHINING HAIR

To make dull, lifeless hair come alive again try this at-home method: after shampooing, thoroughly rinse your hair. Now mix one teaspoon of baking soda to five ounces of water, stir well, apply to hair, comb through, and rinse out. This will strip hair of any soapy residue that may be left and leave it fresh and shining.

Before

Mrs. O'Bar proves that: At Pat Walker's you lose where you need to lose. The following is her true statement.

Through the years I have tried almost every diet plan available, only to gain what I lost. Today after being a patron of the Pat Walker Abilene Salon for 2 years and maintaining my weight; my friends and family know what the program has done for me.
Personally it is figure perfection! I have lost 32 lbs. and 53 inches. I wear size 7-8 clothes. Before Pat Walker's program, I wore size 14. Today, I'm 36-24-36 and will continue my treatments for firming and toning.
Pat Walker salons offer complete privacy in elegant surroundings. Passive exericse, no disrobing and each patron has an individualized program. This is the only way I could have accomplished losing the pounds and inches where I wanted, and maintaining my weight. No matter what age or size your are; if you care for your appearance, this program will work for you.

I cared...I'm a believer! Signed:

Royal Romance In C-City Play

COLORADO CITY—"Crown Matrimonial," a drama about the marriage of an English king to an American divorcee and his subsequent abdication from the throne, will be presented for five nights this week at the Colorado City Opera House.

The drama was written by Royce Ryton and is directed by Charlotte Northcutt. This will be the fourth production at Colorado City Playhouse directed by Mrs. Northcutt.

The drama, which is the true life story involving the English royal family during the 1930's, will be presented Tuesday through Saturday. Curtain time is 8 p.m. each day.

Price of tickets is $3.50 per person and reservations may be made by phoning 1-915-728-3491 or by going by the Colorado City Opera House. The box office is open Monday from 1-5 p.m. and Tuesday through Saturday from 1-8 p.m. The Colorado City Opera House seats 160 persons with central air and heat to provide comfortable accomodations.

The action in "Crown Matrimonial" revolves around the conflict within the royal family over King Edward VIII's Duke of Windsor commonly called David by the family) courtship of American divorcee Wallace Simpson.

The play takes place in the Queen's sitting room in Marlborough House in London, England. The time span covered in the play is from 1936-1945.

Those who remember the 1930's and followed the news accounts of the King's romance and his subsequent abdication from the throne so he could marry the woman he loved will remember the drama as it unfolded at the time.

"Crown Matrimonial" opened in New York in October 1973 at the Helen Hayes Theatre.

Characters in the Colorado City Playhouse production of "Crown Matrimonial" are:

Bobbie Steakley as Queen Mary, queen consort of George V of England, mother of Kings Edward VIII and George VI.

Casey Matlock as King Edward VIII, called David in the play as by his family in real life. Made Prince of Wales in 1911, became King of England in 1936 upon the death of his father. Later given the title Duke of Windsor. The oldest son of Queen Mary and George V.

--Walter Hearin in the role of Duke of York, Bertie in the play, who upon Edward's abdication, became George VI, husband of Elizabeth, father of Elizabeth, current monarch of Great Britain.

--Trina Taylor as the Duchess of York, Elizabeth in the play, wife of Bertie, mother of Elizabeth II, present Queen Mother.

--Marian Craddock in the role of Princess Royal Mary, sister of King Edward VIII and King George VI.

--Addie V. Payne in the role of Countess of Airlie (Mabell), a good friend of Queen Mary.

--Roy Byrd in the role of Mr. Monckton, K.C., an advisor to the King.

--Katy Byrd in the role of Hon. Margaret Wyndham, the Queen's Lady in Waiting.

--Debbie Wall in the role of Duchess of Gloucester (Alice), wife of a younger brother of Kings Edward VIII and George VI.

This will be first appearance on the Colorado City stage for six members of the cast although several have been active in several aspects of other Colorado City Playhouse productions. Mrs. Steakly, Mrs. Craddock, Mrs. Taylor and Womack have appeared in various other productions in leading and supporting roles and have received acclaim for their performances.

Producer for 1979 productions at Colorado City Opera House is Marsha Moore.

U.S. No Longer Calling World Economic Shots

WASHINGTON (AP)- There was a time when the economic policies of the Western world could have been stamped, "Made in U.S.A." No more.

In the decade of the 1970s, the American economy is being hurt by decisions made abroad, and there is very little the United States can do about it, in the short-run at least.

It can be seen in long gas lines, colder houses, in inflation, and in unemployment.

The American standard of living will shrink as a result, U.S. experts say.

Americans still look to their leaders to solve these problems, and the leaders often promise solutions. But the reality is that most of the rest of the world is suffering from similar ills and there is little that one country can do on its own to solve them.

Recognizing the need to develop joint solutions to common problems, U.S. presidents have attended annual economic summit conferences with leaders of six other industrial nations since 1974. President Carter will attend the fifth summit in Tokyo on June 28-29.

"We in the United States have been slow to realize the extent which the economic health of our own nation depends on the economic health of the world as a whole," Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal told a congressional committee last week.

"The age where the United States could get its way in the world by imposing its will militarily or by economic pressure is past, if it ever existed," he said later.

The steady increase in oil prices by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries is the most glaring example of how Americans are affected by decisions elsewhere. But there are others:

-There are more U.S. dollars - $600 billion by one estimate - circulating outside the United States than inside the country. Misuse of even a small share of this money, which is beyond the reach of U.S. banking and currency regulations, could undermine the dollar.

The United States has always been influenced by other nations' economic policies, of course. But in the years after World War II, the U.S. economy was so strong that it was rare that other nations took actions that ran counter to U.S. interests.

However, the four-fold increase in oil prices in 1973 and 1974 shattered the image of the United States as self-sufficient and exposed a major weakness in the U.S. economy, as well as in the economies of other major industrial nations.

"The industrial nations are all too dependent on a small group of countries for energy, and that dependence threatens the health of our economy and imperils our national security," Blumenthal says.

The vulnerability of the U.S. economy is underscored by two major developments in the postwar period. The first has been the rise of other nations, notably Japan and Germany, as economic powers with domestic needs that often conflict with those of the United States.

The second development has been the growing reliance of the United States on imported oil to meet its energy needs. The U.S. economy had been structured to function on low-cost oil, most of which was available from domestic wells.

But oil became high-cost after U.S. oil production began to trail badly consumption earlier in this decade, and OPEC took advantage of that to drastically increase oil prices. Nearly half of U.S. oil needs are now imported - at a cost of $40 billion last year alone.

Even though OPEC nations invest much of their earnings in this country, there is still a net loss of wealth to Americans since the oil nations retain control over their investments and reap the profits that result.

The enormous cost of the war in Vietnam has also been a factor contributing to the economy's instability, especially since some economists blame it for starting the current inflationary spiral.

The United States, with a 14 percent rate of increase in consumer prices so far this year, isn't the only country suffering from inflation. Most other nations are experiencing inflation rates of near 10 percent, or higher.

Alfred E. Kahn, President Carter's chief inflation adviser, says Americans must accept lower standards of living in order to control inflation.

Expansion Seen In Farm Exports

WASHINGTON (AP)-Exports of U.S. agricultural commodities to Western Europe, which totaled a record of $9.1 billion last year, may be in for a "moderate expansion" this calendar year, says the Agriculture Department.

Much will depend, however, on Europe's own agricultural output and on its economy, the department said in a new analysis of the region's farm situation.

Western Europe's agricultural production increased an estimated 5 percent in 1978, including a record output of grain, mostly due to bumper wheat and barley crops, it said.

However, weather conditions last fall and early winter were generally "less favorable for grain than in the previous year" in many countries. Based on conditions as of mid-April, it appears grain output in 1979 will be less than last year.

But livestock output, including dairy production, is expected to gain further, the report said.

"On the economic front, Western European economies are expected to show some moderate expansion in 1979, which could stimulate further demand for U.S. commodities," it said.

Americans Skeptical Of Gas Crisis

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP)-Americans say they would cut back on driving significantly if the gasoline shortage were real, but they remain overwhelmingly convinced the shortage is just a profit-making plov by the oil companies, an Associated Press-NBC News poll shows.

This is not to say people are treating current energy problems as minor. In fact, they now say energy concerns are just about as serious a national problem as the rising cost of living.

It's just that Americans are deeply suspicious of the major factors in the energy situation - the oil-producing countries. The oil companies and the government.

This suspicion and deep concern about how their lives could be changed by energy problems combine to give the public a split personality on energy.

On the one hand, three out of four Americans haven't had any difficulty getting gasoline in recent weeks. But that hasn't stopped millions of drivers from "topping off" their tanks in fear of possible shortages, the poll found.

The special AP-NBC News poll on energy matters interviewed 800 adults across the country by telephone May 29, after the Memorial Day weekend.

Nearly three out of four American drivers - 74 percent - said they would cut back their driving significantly if they were convinced the gasoline shortage were real. Twenty-three percent would not and 3 percent were not sure.

But the public doesn't think the gasoline shortage is real.

Sixty-five percent said the shortage is a hoax to get consumers to pay higher prices, while only 25 percent were not sure.

Despite this suspicion about the sources for the current gasoline situation, Americans say energy is one of the nation's top problems.

Asked what is the nation's top problem, 32 percent named the cost of living, leaving it in the top spot it has held for many months. Energy was picked by 29 percent. That's up from the 18 percent who chose energy in the AP-NBC News poll taken at the first of May.

Because of the margin of error inherent in a sample survey of 800 adults nationwide, there is no significant difference between the 32 percent naming inflation and the 29 percent naming energy as the No. 1 problem.

Crime was named by 10 percent and morality by 9 percent. The remainder were scattered among other issues or were not sure.

Many Americans report that gasoline shortages have not touched them directly - yet.

Seventy-four percent of the nation's drivers said they have experienced no difficulties in getting gasoline in the past month.

Of those who have had trouble, 19 percent reported being unable to find gasoline or spending time hunting for a station with a supply. Eleven percent said they have waited in line to fill up and 6 percent said they have been restricted in the amounts of gas they could buy at one station. One percent were not sure. The percentages add to more than 100 because some people mentioned more than one problem.

The mere fear of shortages has caused millions of drivers to "top off" - fill up their gas tanks more frequently than normal. Industry experts have said that such topping off can make a tight supply situation worse.

Twenty-six percent of the nation's drivers said they have been topping off. Seventy-three percent said they are not and 1 percent were not sure.

One of five of those who have had no problems getting gas admitted to topping off. But 43 percent of those who have faced problems getting gasoline said they have been filling up more frequently.

As with any sample survey, the results of the AP-NBC News polls could differ from the results of interviews with all Americans with telephones because of chance variations in the sample.

For polls with 800 interviews, the results should vary no more than five percentage points either way simply because of sample errors. That is, there is only one chance out of 20 that the results of interviews with all American adults would vary from these results by more than 5 percentage points.

Psoriasis has been called the "no cause-no cure" skin disease. It afflicts an estimated 8,000,000 Americans. Many approaches to treatment have been tried with varying degrees of effectiveness and side effects. Refined coal tar medications such as Alphosyl Cream or Lotion continue to be the basis for safe, long-term treatment for many patients.

A New Look At Old Girls

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: You printed a letter from UPSET IN BALTIMORE, whose 25-year-old son was in love with a 62-year-old woman. Besides telling the mother to stay out of her son's love life, you should have informed her that this asinine prejudice against older women is an American cultural hangup.

Winston Churchill's mother is said to have been alluring to young men when she was in her 60s. In fact, she married a man younger than her son.

SENSIBLE IN GA.

DEAR SENSIBLE: The younger man-old woman combination has had some notable successes. Ask Gloria Swanson, Merle Oberon, Ruth Gordon, Mary Pickford, Sybil Burton, Lucille Ball, Cher's mother and Gloria Steinem.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 12-year-old girl and I'm being forced against my will to go to summer camp again. I went last year and hated it.

My folks keep telling me how lucky I am that they can afford to send me, but I don't feel lucky. I feel like a girl whose parents want to get rid of her for two months.

My mother says if I don't go to camp I will have to sit on the porch all summer. What should I do?

HATES CAMP

DEAR HATES: Go, dear. But first get rid of that negative attitude. Most people have about as good a time as they make up their minds to have.

DEAR ABBY: My husband dresses up in a shirt and tie and vested suit for work every day. He really looks sharp. But the minute he comes home he changes into ragged jeans and a dirty T-shirt. Then he comes to the dinner table in those grubby clothes.

I once asked him if he couldn't be a little more presentable for dinner, and he said: "What for? Nobody's here." (We have two teen-age children.)

Yesterday I again said something about the way he looks at the dinner table, and one of the kids said, "Don't hassle him, Mom. He has a right to wear what he wants."

Who is right?

LEXINGTON LADY

DEAR LADY: Not you, Mom. Your husband has the right to be comfortable at home, but why must he wear ragged jeans and a dirty T-shirt? They make some sharp looking jeans and T-shirts. Surprise your man with some good-looking leisure clothes for Father's Day and you'll all be happier. (P.S. And when he's in a good mood, inform him that you and the children are "somebody.")

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FAITHFUL READER IN WOBURN, MASS": From your letter I would suggest that you go into selling. (The difference between rape and romance is sometimes salesmanship.)

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Reimbursements For Registration

Scurry County received $450.80 in reimbursement for voter registration activities, Bob Bullock, state comptroller, has announced.

The Texas Election Code directs the comptroller's advalorem division to reimburse 40 cents for each new registered voter and 40 cents for each cancellation made to update the voter registration lists.

Other reimbursements in this area include Dawson County, $535.60; Howard County, $2,146; Nolan County, $388; Mitchell County, $179.20; Garza County, $119.20, ahd Borden County, $40.80.

Buried Alive

PHENIX CITY, (Ala.) (AP) Digger O'Dell has come out of retirement to protest high gasoline prices "the only way I know how."

Herbert O'Dell Smith has had himself buried alive. He says he will stay there until gasoline prices fall.

It is the 158th burial in a long career of publicity stunts for O'Dell, who will be 63 next week. Since Friday, he has lain flat on his back, six feet underground, in the front yard of Mack's Mobile Homes at Phemx City. He calls it his "next-to-last" burial.

The world's first daylightsaving law was passed in Britain in 1916.

THANKS SNYDER

Scurry, Borden & Mitchell Counties

To our wonderful customers for 30 years of your business. We have enjoyed serving you and have done our best to give you prompt and courteous service.

The opportunity has arisen to sell our business to a reputable person who will continue to use our former employees and who we feel like will continue to give you the same kind of service you have been accustomed to.

We would also acknowledge our appreciation to Tommy Pherigo, who has been a loyal and trusted employee for 21 years and who will be manager of the new firm. We know that you can continue to call on him for your needs.

As most of you know I have been selling Moorman feed for 11 years. I have needed to devote more time to my feed customers and now this will give me the opportunity to serve them better.

We wish for Vernon Rannefeld and Snyder Electric Co. the very best.

Ann & Andy Meet Survivies Weather

Weekend rains washed out hours of playing time but did not dampen the spirits of some 45 teams entered in the annual Raggedy Ann and Andy Golf Tournament held at Snyder Country Club Saturday and Sunday.

Weather forced the play to be shortened to nine holes on Saturday, but contestants were able to play 18 the final day.

Pete Edwards and Sandy Patterson of Brownfield totalled 50 points Saturday and 98 Sunday for a 148 total which took first place in the Championship Flight. Robert Kennedy and Carole Rees of Brownfield were second with a 50-95, while George Powell and Sandra Phillips of Colorado City were third with a 48-94.

Play was on the point system with points awarded as follows: one point, double bogey; two points, bogey; three points, par; four points, birdie; five points, eagle. All flights paid in merchandise in the amounts of $200 for first, $120 for second and $80 for third.

Joe L. and Gertrude League of Snyder carded 35-90 for a 125, good enough for a one-point victory in the First Flight. Shooting a 124 on the point system were Hamlin's Sam and Inel Ferguson. Dan and Pat Gallagher of Snyder took third, with a 36-80-116.

Snyderites again dominated the Second Flight. Bill and Finnie Seale took first place with a 29-82-111; Bob and Bobbie Hargrove (29-73-102) and Russell and Barbara Yorgeson (31-71-102) tied for third. All are from Snyder.

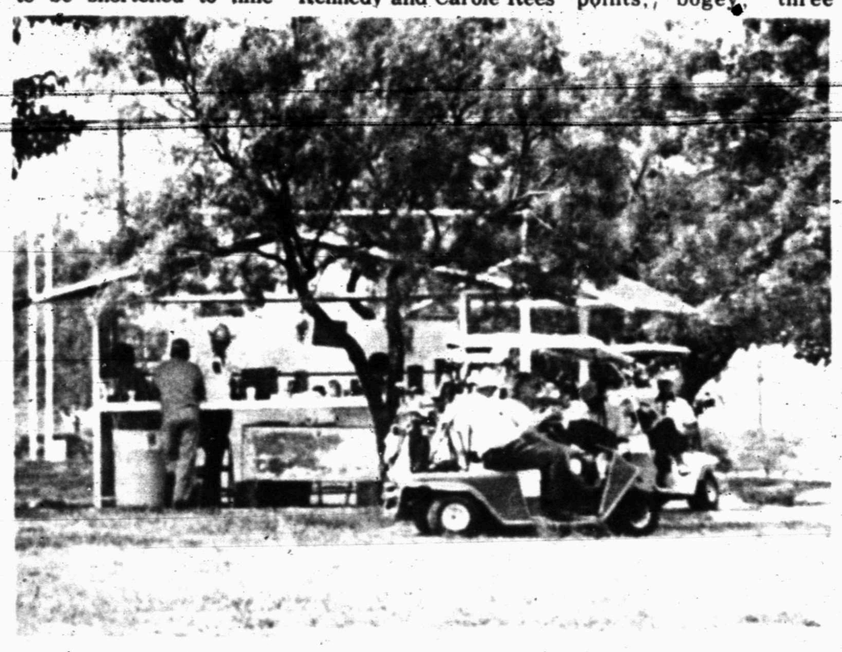
Billy Wayne and Xan Harris, another Snyder duo, took first place in the Third Flight with a 27-64-91. Second were Ardee and Goltia Morgan of Midland (27-62-89), followed in third by Beck and Joanne Adkins of Midland (25-59-84).

Fourth Flight winners were Dan and Dixie Robertson of Spur with a 22-51-72; Wayne and Kathryn Dodson of Snyder with a 22-48-70; and Dick and Alice Gray of Snyder with a 20-45-65.

Day money paid for the best round of the day that does not win any place prize in the flight was also awarded, as follows: Championship--Johnny and Lanelle Guelker, Andrews; First--Randy Erwin and Jo Sterling, Colorado City-Snyder; Second--Don Sealy and Kathy Rhodes, Snyder; Third (tie)--Dale and Gailan Thomason, Andrews, and Gordon Gray, and Dena Fellis, Snyder; Fourth (tie)--Don and Lu Wolf, Snyder, and Jimmy and Lanelle Hogan, Snyder.

Snyder Country Club will host the Earl Fish Memorial Partnership Tournament on July 7-8. Further information on the tourney may be obtained by calling the Pro Shop at 573-7101.

The Raggedy Ann and Andy Tournament was sponsored by the Women's Golf Association.



BREAK TIME--Area golfers at the local Raggedy Ann & Andy Tournament were able to take a break along the way during Sunday's 18 holes of action. The tournament, sponsored by the Women's Golf Association, was a success, despite problems with the weather. Above, during Sunday's more sunny weather, golfers stop for a cool drink. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

SUCCESSFUL--Rains swept the area Saturday, allowing only nine holes of the annual Raggedy Ann & Andy Tournament, but skies cleared for Sunday's play and the 45 teams resumed action in earnest, as this golfer attests to. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

Reps Warn, No Playoffs

IRVING, AP—Representatives of three of college football's major bowl games, promising increased revenues if the status quo is maintained in post-season activity, and warning of less money if a championship playoff plan is adapted, obviously scored a lot of points with College Football Association members.

At least more points than the National Collegiate Athletic Association was able to ring up.

The CFA, at its third annual meeting, voted overwhelmingly Sunday not to support an NCAA proposal to hold a four-team national championship playoff after the bowl games.

Baltimore Pays For It

Grubb Wakes Up

ARLINGTON (AP)-They were calling John Grubb one of the more reserved, withdrawn members of the Texas Rangers earlier this season.

A couple of weeks or so ago, they began to wonder. And Sunday night, Grubb removed all doubt when he hit a homer and two singles and bounced off the left field wall to make a razzle-dazzle catch in leading Texas to a 4-2 victory over Baltimore.

Grubb has a 16-game hitting streak, that began when he decided he needed "to be more aggressive" and the Rangers in the process rose out of the pack to take the lead in the American League West with Sunday night's triumph.

"I hope I'm not known as the quiet man any more. The last three weeks, I've been trying to pump up a little extra. I've always given 100 percent, but some people said I didn't look aggressive enough," the 30-year-old lefthanded outfielder said.

On a mid-May road trip against Minnesota, Grubb got caught up in things when the Ranger dugout exploded in mass jeers and taunts of former Ranger pitcher Mike Marshall, the Twins' relief ace. Texas swept the series, beating Marshall twice, and Grubb has been out of his shell ever since.

On the first day of the ensuing road series with Seattle, the once-shy Grubb walked onto a bus that had a woman driver and exclaimed, to the shock of his teammates, "Wow! Abussette!"

Grubb's average has soared from 180 to 311 since his streak began, although Ranger Manager Pat Corrales has been platooning him, benching him against lefthanded pitchers.

"I'd like to play every day, but that's up to the manager. This is the first contending team I've ever played on, and I'm not going to rock the boat," Grubb said.

"I've always felt confident against either a righty or a lefty, and I'm preparing myself to play every day, if it should happen. If not, I'll pull for the guy in there and hope he does the job."

Decision Angers Zarate

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)-No one was more surprised than Lupe Pintor when the announcement came that he had won a 15-round split decision over Carlos Zarate to win the World Boxing Council bantamweight title.

And Zarate, obviously angered over the loss Sunday at Caesars Palace, said he may appeal the decision to the WBC.

"He's taking his case to the Commission, and if they don't go by the rules, he might quit boxing," Phil Silver, Zarate's acting manager and interpreter, said after the nationally televised bout.

McGee Kemper Open Victor

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)-Jerry McGee, playing catchup golf most of the back side, registered a 1-shot victory in the $350,000 Kemper Open.

McGee, caught and then passed by onrushing Jerry Pate, took command with a birdie against Pate's bogey on the 17th and finished off his final round in 4-under-par 68.

McGee claimed the third victory of his 13-year tour career with a 272 total, 16 strokes under par on the rain-drenched, 7,160-yard Quail Hollow Country Club course.

Lopez Grabs 3rd Straight

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP)-Nancy Lopez shot a 2-under-par 70 in a heavy rain to successfully defend a $100,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament. She shot a four-round total of 280 at the Wykagyl Country Club.

The victory, worth $15,000, gave Lopez her third straight victory and fifth in nine tournaments this year to boost her winnings to $118,475.

Pat Bradley shot a 70 on the par-72, 6,410 yard layout to finish second with 284.

Waltrip Wins Texas 500

COLLEGE STATION (AP)-Darrell Waltrip came from nearly a lap deficit to put a lap on the field and handily win the $180,000 Texas 400 Grand National stock car race.

Waltrip finished a lap and two car lengths ahead of Bobby Allison. Allison edged Buddy Baker by a length, and Cale Yarborough was fourth, a half-length behind Baker.

Waltrip's average speed of 156.199 mph was a track record at the two-mile Texas World Speedway oval. He collected $21,500.

Teens To Begin Season Tonight

Snyder's Teenage League baseball season will open tonight with initial ceremonies at 6:45.

Players, coaches and sponsors will be introduced at the activities, held at Moffett Field.

At 7 o'clock, the Rebels play the Bullets in the season's first game. Other members of the six-team league are the Braves, Buffs, Dodgers and Oilers.

This year's schedule will be played in two halves with a playoff, if needed, to determine a champion.

Eventual season winner will advance to the Texas Teenage Junior League Regional Tournament in late July. Winner of the regional tournament advances to state. Snyder won the state tourney in 1975.

Teenage League

1. Single games begin at 7 p.m. and have no time limit.

2. First games of double headers start at 6:30 and second games at 8:45. A time limit of 2 hours will be for the first and second games of double headers.

Drug Cases Still Probed

No drug cases stemming from recent reports of overdoses were scheduled to be presented before the grand jury that convened this morning, said District Attorney Pete Greene.

Possible presentation of drug cases to a grand jury will be later, Greene indicated, after additional investigation is completed and autopsy results are received.

Cases that were tentatively scheduled to be given to the grand jury today included one bomb charge and two other charges involving drunken driving.

The bomb case involved Paul Lawson, arrested May 20 by city police officers who found a one to 1½-pound bomb at his residence.

Named in the charges alleging drunken driving were Isabel Perales Romero and Benito Rodriquez. Both had been picked up during May by police officers.

Nuclear Protest March Led To Jail For Many

By The Associated Press

Hundreds of anti-nuclear demonstrators marched, chanted and sang their way from nuclear power plant sites to jail during worldwide protests against atomic energy.

The protests were generally peaceful, but a woman was killed Sunday in Spain when a policeman fired his submachine gun.

And consumer advocate Ralph Nader told a rally in Boston: "No country or civilized society can tolerate a form of energy so linked to potential disaster that an area thousands of square miles could be rendered uninhabitable to future generations."

More than 800 demonstrators representing loosely allied anti-nuclear and environmental groups were arrested Sunday, bringing the weekend total to more than 1,100. Most were charged with minor offenses ranging from trespassing to disturbing the peace.

There was no panther, pink or otherwise, in Peter Sellers' movie, "The Pink Panther."

OBITUARIES

E. J. Wemken

Funeral service has been set for 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Central Baptist Church in Hermleigh for Edgar J. Wemken, 68. He was dead on arrival at Cogdell Memorial Hospital at 8:25 a.m. Sunday after he was stricken ill at his home at Fluvanna.

The Rev. Buddy Helms will officate at the funeral service, and burial will be in the Lone Wolf Cemetery under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A native of Mitchell County, he was married on Feb. 2, 1936, at Colorado City, to Barbara Barnes. She survives.

Also surviving are three daughters, Sheila Kemp of Fluvanna; Darlene Lack of Odessa, Eddie Lou Fenter of Marble Falls; two sons, Jeff Wemken of Fluvanna and Rickey Wemken of Odessa; five brothers, Lloyd Wemken of Morton, Don Wemken of Odessa, Truman and Doyle Wemken, both of Hermleigh, and W.L. Wemken of Ballinger; and five grandchildren.

Cigarette Makers Shun Califano's Suggestion

WASHINGTON (AP)-Tobacco company executives are thumbing their noses at a challenge from the federal government's No. 1 health official to spend $80 million to encourage children not to smoke.

The major cigarette makers maintain their $800 million advertising and promotion budgets are not directed at children and do not influence youngsters' decisions to smoke.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr., in an April 26 speech in San Francisco, challenged cigarette makers "to put some of their advertising dollars where their corporate rhetoric is."

He suggested that the companies spend 10 percent of their ad budgets on a campaign to urge children not to smoke and to warn young women of the danger smoking poses to their unborn babies.

Responding to that challenge, one tobacco executive, Lorillard President Curtis H. Judge, quoted a passage from the recent Surgeon General's Report on Smoking and Health that said "the influence of the mass media in the initiation of smoking is difficult to determine.

"Mass media advertising makes an easy and tempting target, but its influence is uncertain," Judge wrote Califano.

"Everyone, including Lorillard, agrees that children should not smoke. However, to our knowledge, nobody knows why children begin to smoke, including experts in the field," Judge said.

Although the new government survey released April 26 showed the percentage of teenage smokers had fallen since 1974 from 16 percent to 12 percent, Califano said there were 1.7 million girls and 1.6 million boys between ages 12 and 18 who were regular smokers.

Raymond J. Mulligan, president of the Liggett Group, responded to Califano that it should be left to mothers and fathers to use "their own free will in discouraging their children from starting to smoke or continuing smoking."

Mulligan added that government intrusion would only encourage many young to do "the very opposite of that which the government advocates." Mulligan said the industry does not try to encourage anyone under 21 to smoke.

WTPA Intern From Baylor Begins Duties

Sheri Sellmeyer, 20, who has completed her sophomore year at Baylor University, is serving a two-month internship at The Snyder Daily News. She began her duties today.

She is the daughter of Ralph Sellmeyer, a professor in music relations at Texas Tech University. Miss Sellmeyer says journalism is a field she has long been interested in.

"I've grown up with it, and I've always had an interest in it," she said.

She is one of four West Texas Press Association internists working this summer, and the first from that association to work at the SDN.

She is a journalism and German major at Baylor.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Spastic colon

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 35-year-old female. About seven months ago I went to a gastroenterologist because I was having trouble with my stomach and bowels. I had several tests which included an upper GI, gallbladder examination and gastroscopic examination, ultrasound, a barrium enema and a sigmoidoscopy. All of these were normal so my doctor said I had a spastic colon. He put me on Librax three times a day.

This lasted about three months before I started feeling better. Now, I have the problem again. I feel so sick. I thought maybe there was a special diet or foods I should not eat. My symptoms are frequent bowel movements which are loose, nausea, pain in the back and sometimes a hollow feeling in my stomach. I had a very sour taste in my mouth. Otherwise, I'm a very healthy person — very energetic and not used to feeling like this so I'm pretty disgusted. I don't know where to go from here and I thought maybe you could help give me some answers on spastic colon.

DEAR READER — Many people who write to me now talk about their medical examinations and refer to having an upper or lower GI. For some of my readers who may not be familiar with that terminology, that means an X-ray examination of the upper gastrointestinal tract which includes the esophagus, stomach and duodenum. A lower GI refers to an X-ray examination with a barium enema of the lower gastrointestinal tract which usually means the colon and perhaps the very end of the small bowel.

Since you've already had gallbladder studies and your stomach has been examined and all the other procedures your doctor can be fairly confident that you don't have any anatomical illness or something that would show up in that manner. That's why he decided you had a spastic colon.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 23, Irritable Or Spastic Colon. And Constipation. It will give you a great deal of information about diet and methods of training your colon so you will have less difficulties. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

People who have irritable or spastic colon do not necessarily have constipation. An overactive bowel or one that's in spasm can produce frequent small movements, not to mention the pain, distension and the other problems, some of which you have described.

You probably should increase the bulk in your diet by adding whole grain cereals and bran. This may be a little bit of a problem during the first three weeks but if you get through that phase of it and get off the white bread, sugars and refined flours and foods made with them, it might improve your digestive functions a great deal.

The coffee habit is particularly troublesome for some people with overactive bowels. I think you probably should stop coffee entirely, including the decaffeinated variety. The caffeine is irritating to the colon and in some people the oils that produce the flavor in the coffee are irritating. Another frequent problem for adults is intolerance to milk.

Cariou, Lansbury Get Top Tonys

By MARY CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Sweeney Todd," a bloody tale of revenge, and "The Elephant Man," the poignant story of a deformed young man, dominated Broadway's Tony Awards as the best musical and best play of the 1978-79 theater season.

"This is a cutthroat business — they had no choice," smiled Len Cariou, who took the top acting award in a musical for his portrayal of Todd, the demon barber of Fleet Street, who dispatches his victims with a straight razor.

"Sweeney Todd" picked up six more awards Sunday night including a fourth Tony for Angela Lansbury as best actress in a musical. It also won best director-musical, Harold Prince; best score, Stephen Sondheim; best book, Hugh Wheeler; best scenic design, Eugene Lee, and best costumes, Franne Lee.

"The Elephant Man," written by Bernard Pomerance, also brought Tonys to Carole Shelley, who tied with Constance Cummings of "Wings" as best actress in a drama, and Jack Hofsiss, as best director.

Tom Conti, making his Broadway debut, took the best actor award for his role as a paralyzed sculptor in the English drama, "Whose Life Is It Anyway."

Television news anchorman Walter Cronkite gave an old friend, composer Richard Rodgers, the Lawrence Langner Award for lifetime achievement in theater, saying, "Millions of persons around the world have sung, whistled, hummed and danced to Richard Rodgers songs. Richard, from them, well done."

Jane Fonda presented her father, Henry, with an unexpected special award. Fonda, a host of Sunday's award show televised nationally by CBS, made his Broadway debut in 1929 and only recently finished a tour as a Supreme Court justice in "First Monday in October."

Joan Hickson and Michael Gough carried off Tonys for their roles in the English comedy, "Bedroom Farce," which originated at the National Theater of Great Britain.

Tonys for featured actres and actor in a musical went to Carlin Glynn, the madam, and Henderson Forsythe, the sheriff, in "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas."

Michael Bennett and Bob Avian received Tonys for best choreography for "Ballroom" now closed. They also won in 1976 for "A Chorus Line."

Rig Count Up Slightly

Drilling activity in the Permian Basin picked up slightly last week, according to Reed Rock Bit Company's weekly survey. The count showed 227 rigs running, compared to 224 the week before. There were 282 drilling rigs in operation in the Basin this time last year.

Lea County, N.M., was the leader last week with 34 active rigs. Ward County was the West Texas leader with 14.

Scurry County had only on rig running last week, compared to two the week before. Figures for other area counties, with last week and the week before, in order: Borden 5 and 2; Dawson 6 and 5; Garza 3 0; Howard 4 and 6; Kent 1 and 2; Mitchell 4 and 2; Nolan 2 and 1.

Ferdinand Magellan, the Portuguese navigator, was killed in 1521 by natives in the Philippines.

Theft Case Under Probe By Police

A $1,500 theft was under investigation this morning by the city police department.

Reports indicate the money, all of it in cash, was taken from the 1509 College Ave. home of Lucille Boyd. The incident was reported Saturday.

In other reports, a $90 telephone was stolen from the 2007 Ave. N home of Ruth Orona. She reported the incident to police Sunday.

The city dog pound was broken into during the weekend and several dogs liberated. The break-in was discovered Saturday. At last report, five dogs were still at large.

A minor traffic accident was also reported Saturday. The collision occurred in the 2600 block of 25th St. at 2 p.m. Involved in it were a 1976 Ford driven by Laredo Hernandez and a parked 1977 Chevrolet owned by Mark Holdren.
