Army Brass Takes Reins In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Lt. Gen. Juan Carlo Ongania, a former army chief, is to be sworn in today as head of a new military regime which hopes to win over some of the Argentine masses still loyal to Juan D. Peron.

Ongania, 52, was picked by a three-man military junta made up of the present commanders of the army, navy and air force. They took control Tuesday after the army overthrew the civilian government of President Arturo Illia in a bloodless overnight coup.

The military gave no indication how long it intends to remain in power. Veteran observers predicted it will be several years before it permits election of another civilian regime.

The military, which overthrew Peron and sent him into exile in 1955, is determined to prevent the Peronists from returning to power. Its chief grievance against Illia was his failure to reduce the strength of Peron's followers, who won control of three of Argentina's 22 provinces in recent elections and probably would have won Buenos Aires Province in elections next March.

The junta said it plans sweeping economic, political and social reforms aimed at wooing Argentines away from Peronism. An estimated 20 to 30 per cent of Argentina's 12 million voters still recall with longing the benefits Peron gave them during his nine-year dictatorship.

The military said two of its main aims are "rebuilding Argentina's prestige abroad and modernizing the country."

Military sources said Ongania plans to streamline the cabinet traditionally made up of eight ministers and 12 secretaries. They indicated he will not name a defense minister or secretaries for the three armed forces. This would leave the army, navy and air force chiefs who make up the junta in complete charge of their respective services.

Ongania, one of Argentina's most respected officers, graduated from the Argentine Military College in 1934 and moved up through the ranks until Illia named him to command the army in 1964. An opponent of military involvement in politics, he played a large part in securing military acquiescence to the election in which Illia won the presidency.

Later Illia feared the general was becoming too powerful and friction developed between them. Ongania retired last November but remained a dominant figure in military circles.

VFW Plans Flag-Raising

A Flag raising ceremony, speeches, jet aircraft and military displays will be a part of the huge July 4th celebration being planned at Towle Park.

The VFW Post 8231 color guard will be in charge of the Flag-raising ceremony which will begin at 10 a.m. A reviewing stand will include VFW and American Legion personnel.

Bill Seale, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will give the welcoming address following the Flag raising ceremony. A hero of the Viet Nam war, Lt. Walt Turk of Webb AFB in Big Spring, will deliver the main Independence Day speech. A combat veteran, he won the Silver Star medal for heroism in Viet Nam.

The main speaker will be introduced by Capt. Henry Hill, also from Webb AFB, who will speak on America's heritage. A Mr. Teague, who is connected with the Agency for International Development, will talk on customs in Viet Nam.

Jet planes from Webb AFB will fly over Towle Park at 11 a.m. as part of the festivities. The Air Force will present films and have weapons on display in the Armory at 8:30 p.m., and the speakers will be on hand to answer questions from the audience.

Trustees Hold Budget Hearing

The board of trustees of the Snyder Consolidated Independent School District held a public hearing Tuesday night in the high school cafeteria on the tentative budget for the 1966-67 school year.

All figures given were tentative since the final budget will not be adopted and approved until August.

Included among those present were 10 men representing various oil companies.

The proposed budget is $2,409,000 for operating expenses or about $3,000 higher than the $2,406,140.52 appropriated for the 1965-66 school year.

The board is considering a slight increase in the tax rate from $1.95 per $100 valuation to $2.02 per $100 valuation. The 7 cent hike would be for local maintenance. Of the present $1.95 rate, $1.43 is for operating expenses with the remaining 52 cents for the interest and sinking fund.

Total bonded indebtedness of the school system as of Sept. 1 will be $2,942,000. There is a reduction in the debt service from $687,137 appropriated for 1965-66 to the proposed figure of $683,645 for 1966-67. Standard Oil Co. of Texas, in keeping with past policy, will advance the board $550,000 in taxes to be applied against the bonded indebtedness.

The budget figures show a balance of $195,856.52 for the 1965-66 school year with an estimated balance of $120,000 for the 1966-67 school year.

There are no significant increases contemplated for operating expenses. Teachers salaries, always the largest item in the budget, are slated for a slight hike from $1,637,827 to $1,660,455.

School board members and school officials present for the hearing were Pat Falls, Bill Schiebel, Clifford Terry, Ken Wilson, Dr. Robert Clinton, Dillard Teal, Ted Crenwelge, Max von Roeder and Doug Flynn.

Wilson, president of the school board, opened the meeting with an introduction of those present. Dr. Clinton, school superintendent, said, in his opinion, it costs less in the long run to repair and renovate school buildings as improvements become needed than to wait until they deteriorate to the point where replacement is absolutely necessary.

Clinton also noted that if teachers' salaries remain competitive, then "we can maintain quality education."

A spokesman for Standard said the school system had its support "so long as we feel we can openly and freely discuss the budget."

Typhoon Kit Spends Self

TOKYO (AP)— Typhoon Kit blew itself out over the Pacific today after its fringe hit the Tokyo area and left at least 52 dead, 12 missing and 89 injured.

The high winds and torrential rains that lashed Tokyo and nine surrounding states Tuesday night also destroyed 256 houses, flooded another 105,000 and much farmland. Many roads were washed away or blocked by landslides.

The typhoon disrupted rail service, including the 300-mile Tokyo-Osaka line, for almost 12 hours.

A 15-foot landslide destroyed a women's dormitory, killing five female employes of a bus company at Isogo, Yokahama. Five coal miners were buried alive in Hanno when a landslide crashed a shack in which they sought shelter.

Tokyo's subway, which carried more than two million passengers daily, was knocked out for hours by floods, forcing thousands of commuters to sleep on the concrete floor of Tokyo's central railroad station.

New Explorer To Orbit The Moon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The United States plans Thursday to launch a Lunar Explorer toward an orbit about the moon — a scientific experiment that could ease the way for astronauts traveling to that distant target.

A three-stage Delta rocket is scheduled to loft the 206-pound mooncraft into space at 11:08 a.m. (EDT).

Billie Sol Is Denied Status Of Pauper

By PAUL RECER

SAN ANTONIO (AP)— U.S. Dist. Judge Leo Brewster, noting that Billie Sol Estes was gathering up money "by the suitcase full" just before his 1962 bankruptcy, refused to declare the former West Texas promoter a pauper at a hearing Tuesday.

"The whole picture shows that whenever Billie Sol Estes needs money, he's come up with it," the judge said in denying a motion by attorneys that Estes be declared unable to pay for an appeal that could lead to a new trial.

Estes, who has been convicted of mail fraud and is serving a 15-year prison sentence, was not present as government witnesses described in detail how he stockpiled thousands of dollars in cash during a two-week period before his estate was placed in bankruptcy.

The bankruptcy trustee Harry Moore of El Paso, testified he believes that Estes gathered up at least $196,000 from his firms before the bankruptcy audit was taken.

Former employes testified being instructed by Estes to collect cash from his businesses and deliver it to him or one of his brothers.

Lloyd A. Stone of Plainview, manager of a fertilizer firm owned by Estes, told of collecting $49,000 in less than two weeks and turning it over to Estes or a representative.

Stone said Estes called him March 29, 1962 and told him to collect the firm's cash, sack it and deliver it to a pilot at the Plainview airport. Stone said he gathered up $26,550. The pilot tesfied he flew it to Abilene where John L. Estes received the money.

Twelve days later, Stone said, he got another call. This time he delivered $22,500 in cash to Estes personally.

The former general manager of Estes' various West Texas businesses, A. B. Foster, told the court that he was with Estes in Dallas in March, 1962 when the former promoter gave him two signed, but blank, checks to send to another Estes brother, Bobby Frank Estes of Pecos, by bus.

A cashier at the First National Bank of Pecos said Bobby Frank Estes cashed the checks for a total of $75,000 and left the bank with the currency in a zippered bag.

Committee Dilutes Rights Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee voted today to exempt home owners who sell their own homes from a proposed tough open housing proposal in the administration's new civil rights bill.

The compromise, adopted by a bipartisan vote of 21-13, cleared the way for final committee approval of President Johnson's bill which deals with discrimination in jury selection, school desegregation and protection of Negro's rights, as well as open housing to the house.

The key vote on the housing provision came in adoption of a substitute by Rep. Charles M. Mathias, R-Md., for the sweeping ban on racial discrimination in the sale and rental of all housing proposed by the administration.

The Mathias version would exempt from the ban owners of homes up to 4-family units in size, who sell or lease the property themselves. Real estate agents and brokers would be prohibited from engaging in any discriminatory practices.

Mathias said if an owner, who is himself exempt, engages a broker and instructs the broker not to sell or rent to a Negro, the broker would also be exempt.

An owner could make only two such transactions in any one year. In the event he made a third one, he would be covered by the ban on racial discrimination.

The effect would be to remove from the proposed law nearly all private housing except big developments.

Chilean Lad Is Exchange Student

The American Field Service has announced the acceptance of Hernan Hechenleitner, 18-year-old Chilean, as a student at Snyder High School next term under the foreign student exchange program.

Hernan will be a senior. He is of German extraction, but comes from a family that has been in Chile for three generations. He is tall and slender—6 feet, one inch and 156½ pounds—and has blond hair.

HERNAN HECHENLEITNER

His home address is listed as Box 108, Phillippi Street 1395, in the town of Frutillar and province of Llanquihue. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reinaldo Hechenleitner. His father is a farmer and the family are Lutherans.

While in Snyder, Hernan will live with the Thayne Mebane family. Mebane is county commissioner of precinct 3. He also is a farmer.

Under the AFS - sponsored student exchange program, the students are placed with a family where the background and environment are similar to their own.

In Chile, Hernan attended the school of Liceo de Hombres of Osorno in Frutillar. In addition to Spanish, he speaks German with a fair degree of fluency, and he has studied English for five years.

Hernan likes sports, having participated in football and basketball. He also is at home in a machine shop as mechanics and electricity are among his favorite subjects. He studied seven years at the German Institute of Frutillar prior to enrollment at Osorno.

Hernan's application for study here contains much interesting information about himself and his family:

. . ."After school I am interested to go to the University even if I still don't know what profession I am going to follow. I like the scientific subjects like chemistry, physics and mathematics and I am very interested in electricity and mechanics.

"My father has been mayor (several times) at the community of Frutillar. My mother . . has been secretary of a Club which works for a public hospital called 'Center of Friends of the Hospital,' and she has worked for public schools . .

Wilson Expresses Regret Over Raids

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson expressed regret over today's American bombing of oil depots near Hanoi and said Britain is unable to support the action.

"We have made it clear on many occasions that we cannot support an extension of the bombing to such areas," Wilson said.

The White House in Washington declined comment on Wilson's statement.

Areas Left In Flames

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force and Navy jets brought the air war closer than ever to North Viet Nam's capital and major port today, bombing major fuel depots three miles from the center of Hanoi and in the dock area of Haiphong.

The pilots reported the raids were "highly successful" with both storage areas in flames. Smoke rose 35,000 feet from the complex of fuel tanks near Hanoi and 20,000 feet from the Haiphong tanks, a U.S. spokesman said.

The Hanoi target "was covered like a blanket," he reported.

The U.S. Air Force announced one plane, an F105 Thunderchief fighter-bomber, fell in the attack near Hanoi and the pilot was missing. This came out after a communique of the U.S. command had reported 'no U.S. aircraft were lost in either strike."

Radio Hanoi claimed seven planes were shot down — four near Hanoi and three in the Haiphong area — and several U.S. pilots were captured.

The air offensive in the Communist north, now in its 16th month, completely dominated the U.S. Command's daily war report.

In South Viet Nam, where thousands of U.S. troops are in the field searching for the Communists, "only very light and scattered, minor contacts" were reported.

On the political front, the threat of a Buddhist boycott of South Viet Nam's September elections diminished as more monks rallied behind the conciliatory policy espoused by the moderate chairman of the Buddhist Institute.

The growing support in the Buddhist hierarchy for Thich Tam Chau left his militant rival, Thich Tri Quang, increasingly isolated, but Quang showed no signs of abandoning his hunger strike.

Six flights of Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs struck the petroleum complex three miles across the Red River from the center of Hanoi, using 750-pound bombs during the 25-minute attack, the U.S. spokesman said. He said the area around the 32 tanks had no sizable population.

Four flights of Navy jets from the 7th Fleet carriers Constellation and Ranger raided the oil facilities at Haiphong, two miles from the center of the city. The spokesman said 95 per cent of the fuel going into North Viet Nam moves through the depot, which contains 38 tanks above and below ground. The raid lasted eight minutes.

A flight usually numbers about four aircraft.

The American pilots ran into intensive antiaircraft fire over Hanoi but said they encountered little flak in the Haiphong area.

The Communists did not send up any MIG fighters to challenge the U.S. fighter-bombers nor were any surface-to-air missiles sighted, the spokesman said.

U.S. planes have been gradually tightening a noose around Hanoi and its port, which lies 65 miles to the east. There has been pressure in some quarters in Washington for an aerial offensive against the cities of Hanoi and Haiphong themselves.

Only Tuesday, the White House declined to comment on reports circulating in Washington that President Johnson had canceled air strikes against Hanoi and Haiphong in the past five days because of security leaks.

The U.S. Command's communique on the attack said the destruction of the oil facilities would "make infiltration of men and supplies into South Viet Nam more costly and more difficult." It said the raids were ordered after consultation with the South Vietnamese government and were "consistent with our continuing policy of bombing only military targets in North Viet Nam."

Seamen End Long Strike

LONDON (AP) — Britain's 45-day seamen's strike was settled today.

The executive committee of the National Seamen's Union voted 29 to 16 to call off the strike after meeting all morning at their South London headquarters.

The decision followed by less than 24 hours a charge in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Harold Wilson that Communists were pressuring the seamen to prolong the dispute for political motives.

The shipowners, in meetings Tuesday with union chiefs, were adamant. Their final offer was an immediate cut in the working week at sea from 56 hours to 48 with a further eight-hour cut next June, plus 48 days annual vacation.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I wrote to you once before about this problem, but I turned chicken and tore up the letter. The problem has come up again, and this time I've made up my mind to mail it. My husband has been interested in nudism for some time, and has tried to get me to go to a nudist camp. I have nothing against camps like that, but I am just not the type who could strip down naked in front of so many people.

We have had a lot of arguments about this, and have even come close to getting a divorce over it. I don't see how normal people could go to a place like that without getting a few "vile" thoughts. Am I wrong to think this way, or am I evil minded? And do you think a man who really loved his wife could bear to see her walking naked in front of other men?

ANTI-NUDIST

DEAR ANTI: One's attitudes about nudity are based on his early training, acquired inhibitions, and the customs and culture of the society in which he exists. Some people adopt unconventional beliefs that are not, necessarily, "evil minded." I believe, however, that everything has its place. Including the fig leaf.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were married four years and didn't seem able to have children. My sister had four little girls. Last year when her husband was in the penitentiary she started running around and got pregnant. She told us if we paid all her expenses we could have the baby when it was born. We agreed, and she went to the hospital, under my name, and had an adorable baby boy. It didn't seem to bother her to give it up at first, altho I knew she always wanted a boy.

She lives near us, and comes over every day, to help with the baby. He is a doll, and I can see while she's holding or feeding him how much she loves him. It's about to drive me crazy. I have the funniest feeling the baby knows where he belongs. I love my sister, and it kills me to see her hurt. I feel like I have taken away the only thing she has ever really wanted. I love the baby, too. What should I do?

MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED UP: If you and your husband legally adopted the child and were to move away and sever all ties with your sister, only then could it work out. But as long as you remain where your sister can see him every day you'll have no peace of mind. So you might as well give the baby back to his mother and adopt one thru an agency.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: This is for the bride who wanted her real father to give her away instead of her stepfather. She admitted that her real father had disappeared during the most important years of her life, and her stepfather had been more like a "real" father to her.

I had that decision to make a few years ago, and the circumstances were identical. My parents were divorced when I was 2 years old. (My father left my mother for another woman.) I figured that my real father had already "given me away" once, so when it came time for me to marry I chose my stepfather to give me away. I have never regretted it.

Youth Killed By Low-Flying Plane

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Jimmie Sims, 14, was killed Tuesday by a low-flying crop-dusting plane.

He was hit in the back by a wheel of the plane at the Lollipop Ranch on Arkansas 134 near Rouke, 15 miles south of here.

The plane, piloted by Curtis Myrick of Corpus Christi, Tex., was being used to seed a field near the ranch, coroner Price Citty said. The youth was standing at the end of a row to show the pilot which row needed to be seeded.

The pilot crash-landed the plane on the dirt runway at the ranch because the wheel was damaged, Citty said.

Bishop Drury Endorses Labor Union

By WALTER GRAY

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex. (AP)—A Roman Catholic social leader says his bishop supports an effort to unionize farm workers and a veteran labor organizer has thrown his support to the striking union in the latest round of labor developments in Starr County.

The Rev. Charles McNaboe said Bishop Thomas J. Drury of the Corpus Christi Diocese endorsed a statement issued Monday by the Catholic Association for Social Action (CASA), which McNaboe heads.

Franklin Garcia of Corpus Christi, international representative of the Meatcutters and Butchers Union, AFL-CIO. SAID Tuesday his union's movement would be conducted as a strike against Rio Grande Valley growers, rather than civil rights protest.

Garcia emphasized his union is supporting the striking farm workers only from a labor standpoint. He said he would help the union work out nationwide consumer boycotts against growers as a main strike force.

The Rev. Charles McNaboe said CASA seeks money, unperishable food, and clothing for the strikers. The statement issued by McNaboe's group urged valley growers to pay the minimum authorized scale under federal legislation.

The strike, launched against melon growers by a newly organized independent union, began June 1, but has slowed since a court order against picketing was issued June 2.

Union leaders have called the strike a Mexican-American civil rights protest, explaining that most of the farmers were of Mexican-American background.

The strike has been conducted by Eugene Nelson, who said his only previous labor union experience was as a picket captain in a grape pickers strike in Delano, Calif.

Meatcutters Local 173 voted last Sunday to aid the striking workers, and Garcia said the union's 1,800 workers will be assessed money to support the Starr County movement.

The statement issued by CASA said: 'It has been 74 years since Pope Leo VIII spoke out strongly defending the working man's needs and right to form unions."

CHICKEN LIVERS taste wonderful when they are skewered and broiled with green pepper, onion and bacon.

Patio-Style Chicken Livers Are Here

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

WHO'S READY to start rehearsing for outdoor cookery? One of the best ways to begin is to try some recipes for skewered foods in the broiler of your indoor range. After that, mark those recipes you particularly admire with a big star and use them later when you cook on the patio grill.

Here's a good recipe to start you off. It calls for popular and widely available chicken livers, broiled shish - kebab style. The halved chicken livers are alternated on big skewers with green pepper, onion and bacon — and just to gild the lily, there's a basting sauce concocted of lemon, butter and tarragon.

What to serve with these livers? Pilaff, made from cracked wheat or rice, is an excellent accompaniment. And so are a tossed green salad and a loaf of crusty garlic bread. When red-ripe tomatoes are abundant, you might like to serve these, too, to eat out of hand or sliced and marinated in an olive-oil and wine - vinegar dressing.

One direction in this recipe we'd like to emphasize. Don't jam the squares of bacon too close to the next ingredients on the skewers or the bacon won't crisp.

The onion, used according to the directions given here, will be crisp. If you like your onions softer — and some people do— parboil them before quartering and using.

PATIO-STYLE CHICKEN LIVERS

1 pound chicken livers
4 small green peppers
8 white onions
8 slices bacon
4 fourteen - inch skewers
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup butter
1 teaspoon leaf tarragon
Salt
Freshly ground pepper

Rinse and thoroughly dry the chicken livers on paper toweling. Cut the livers in half, removing center membrane.

Cut green peppers in half; remove stem end and seeds; cut each half in four quarters.

Remove ends from onions and peel. Cut into lengthwise quarters.

Cut each bacon slice into fourths making "squares."

On each skewer, thread the food — close together but without jamming — in this order: Onion quarter, bacon square, liver half, green pepper square. Repeat, using the remaining ingredients in the same order.

Heat together the lemon juice, butter and tarragon.

Place skewers on broiler rack 3 to 6 inches from the heat in a gas broiler, 8 to 9 inches from the heat in an electric broiler. Broil 7 to 10 minutes on each side, basting with lemon - butter mixture. To serve, sprinkle with salt and freshly ground pepper; spoon over remaining lemon - butter mixture. Makes 4 servings.

Note: The broiling direction is a general one — adjust it to suit your own range and tastes. We like to broil these skewered chicken livers close to high heat just long enough to have them cooked through and the vegetables both slightly softened and definitely charred.

Food Poisoning A Problem Every Summer

Each year thousands of people in the United States suffer needless discomfort and disability because of food poisoning—a relatively common, but generally preventable disease that reaches its peak during the hot summers months.

A high percentage of food poisoning originates from hands that are not absolutely clean. Even hands that look clean may harbor millions of germs that are capable of contaminating an entire platter of food and making a whole family ill.

Therefore, the first step in prevention of food poisoning is to maintain "hospital - clean hands" for everyone who prepares or serves food. This will prevent harmful germs from contaminating food and poisoning the intestinal tract.

Many hospitals and other types of food-service organizations instruct all their food handlers to wash their hands often with an antibacterial skin cleanser that keeps the germ count down to almost zero. With routine use, it produces a cumulative degerming effect. Surgeons use pHisoHex for preoperative scrubbing to keep their hands virtually germ-free. The same cleanser can be used frequently at home because it is nonirritating and leaves hands soft.

Keeping fingernails clean is important, too. And anyone with a skin infection anywhere on the hands is advised to avoid handling food until the infection is cleared up.

In addition to maintaining clean hands and fingernails, every member of the family should be instructed to take special care when storing leftover foods. The U. S. Public Health Service advises housewives to refrigerate food promptly, even if it is still warm. This applies especially to foods which consist in whole or in part of milk, eggs, meat, poultry, and fish (including shellfish) as well as cream pies, custards, and such salads as potato, chicken, and tuna fish.

Picnic foods should be as nonperishable as possible. The Public Health Service also advises using a portable cooler for salads and other perishable foods. Do not let the cooler sit for long periods with the top off, and always try to place it in a cool spot such as under the picnic table or in the shade of a tree.

If you are adding garlic or onion salt to that ground beef you plan to use for hamburgers, go slow in adding other salt.

When a recipe calls for "stewed" tomatoes, buy that variety to use. Some cooks confuse stewed tomatoes with plain canned tomatoes; the former are packed with bits of onion and green pepper and are well seasoned. The stewed tomatoes come in 4-serving cans and also in buffet cans to serve two.

Deft Spy Thriller

THE KREMLIN LETTER. By Noel Behn.

The really first - rate espionage novel — and this is one — gives the reader a mounting crescendo of startling breaks in the plot, a dazzling array of technical tricks and atmosphere, some sex spice and plenty of deadly action.

It also helps if there is enough motivation to make the good guys and the bad guys seem believable for the moment, but that doesn't matter too much if there is plenty of action and entertainment. As there is here.

The hero of this story is a U.S. naval intelligence officer named Rone, who is recruited by an independent spy network; his code name (because he is a beginner in the tough major leagues of spydom) is "The Virgin."

Rone becomes a member of a team sent into Russia to replace a veteran agent, Polakov, who has gambled once too often and is very dead.

There may have been a secret letter — who has seen it? — from a Western power to someone in the Kremlin hierarchy offering support in the power struggle over Khrushchev's ouster and succession. One Kremlin faction may want to use it for blackmail; the Western powers may want to get it back. Professional spies know it is worth millions.

The story is developed with a teasing balance between direct, stark narrative and cryptic encounters. Behn is very good in sketching rapidly those bobtailed scenes and clipped dialogues which are designed to tantalize the panting reader; those split-second scenes of brutality, disguise and betrayal, those fancy moments of intuitive deduction and desperate pursuit.

This is real spy-story magic. Of course we all know it is sleight-of-hand. But when it is done, as deftly as this, it becomes a really delightful performance.

US Communists' Confab Spotlights Unhappy Plight

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communist party, U.S.A., this month held its first convention since 1959. It was a pitiful sight in more ways than one.

This in turn raises questions about the so-called new left which is supposed to be developing in this country, although not connected with communism which is said to look out of date to the new radicals.

Congress, courts, FBI and changing times made a wreck of the American Communist party. It claims a membership of 10,000 to 12,000, way down from the 80,000 to 100,000 it claimed in depression days 30 years or so ago.

In a way the New York convention looked a little like an old folks' home. The 213 delegates and 42 alternates from 36 states were mostly up in years and had been in the party for years.

Many got bored and walked out the opening night when Gus Hall, the general secretary, hit them with a three-hour speech. Hall, 55, has been a party member most of his life.

The party wants to attract young people and there was some infighting with newcomers anxious to wrest control from the oldsters. The oldsters held fast.

It's not just the fractured condition of the party which makes it look pathetic. It's the vagueness. There were harsh words about the American role in Viet Nam. But, generally, the tone was as mild as a pussycat.

Hall was the prince of vagueness, talking about setting in motion a movement to present an independent candidate, although not a Communist, for president in 1968.

The party is trying to hook onto the fringes of agitation, like the civil rights movement or among youths. It's operating at a bad time.

The Communist world is split. The satellites are restless, Marxism in Europe is losing its rigidity, communism's chances in the prosperous countries are hopeless and in the backward countries it's not doing well.

The American Communist party is in a particularly unhappy spot and has been since President Franklin D. Roosevelt changed the direction of American thinking by establishing government concern for the general welfare.

All that has happened since then has been in the same direction, but more intensely, which makes the promises of communism look a little ridiculous.

There are vast areas of poverty and deprivation in America but the general population has a prosperity it never enjoyed before. And that population, since it now has so much to lose, is not going to listen to demands for radical change.

This is what the new radicalism in America faces: A largely self-satisfied society, richer than ever, despite the injustices inflicted on individual groups, like Negroes.

The question then is: To whom can the new or young radicals, so-called, appeal? If their cause has anything more than restless discontent, like an ideology for the American future, it hasn't reached the masses of the people.

And it is questionable that many of the discontented young people are motivated by ideas or dreams of a more perfect society. With many the motivations are probably personal, the product of individual frustrations.

Any kind of radical third party movement of any real force — at a time when the government is preaching the Great Society theme and doing something about it — seems impossible now or far off.

Dwarf Is Smart Man In Tall World

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Pound for pound and inch for inch, Michael Dunn may well be the smartest man in the world.

But undoubtedly he is the most successful dwarf in show business since the late Tom Thumb.

Michael is 31, weighs 78, stands 3 feet and 10 inches in his stockings, and has an intelligence quotient of 178.

"Theoretically, I'm a genius," said Michael, peering owlishly through thick-lensed glasses over a plate of parsley at his favorite Broadway saloon.

"Being a so-called genius doesn't mean you can do any thing. But it is of some help to anyone. It makes your mind more fun."

For his role as the philosophic traveler in "Ship of Fools," Dunn became the first fellow his size ever to be nominated for an Academy Award. He recently completed work on a second film, and has two more lined up.

Also in the works are a Broadway play and a television series of his own in which he plays a detective who is 'more cerebral than muscular."

"I'm not a professional midget — I'm an actor," carefully pointed out Michael, whose theater pals call him "Gremlin" and "the Purple Avenger."

"There's a difference. A midget gets carried onstage in a basket, pops out, says a funny line and runs off. I don't think that takes much talent.

"My lack of height is incidental. It would be foolish to say that people don't notice it, but I transcend it.

"Most stage parts for midgets or dwarfs are pratfalls. But now they are writing me real roles."

Michael suffers from achondroplasia, a congenital but not hereditary disease also known as fetal rickets, in which cartilege fails to develop properly.

"I knew by the time I was 3 or 4 that I would always be small," he said matter of factly. "But my mind gave me a good edge.

"I never got hung up emotionally because my parents wisely let me do what I wanted to as a child. They didn't overprotect me. If they had, I'd have turned out to be a pretty sour character.

"I played football and basketball and got my nose broken a few times. I'm still a good swimmer and a very dirty water polo player."

Unable to achieve a career as a concert pianist, he started singing in night clubs at $5 an evening; now on occasion makes $2,000 for a single television performance.

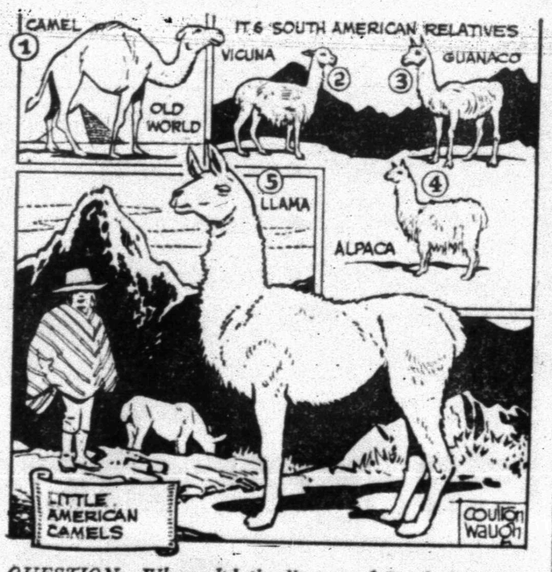
Using special rigs, Dunn is able to drive a car or fly an airplane. He is cheerful and lighthearted about being a small man in a tall world.

Plant's Closing Blamed On Age

LEOMINSTER, Mass. (AP) — Age is blamed for a projected Sept. 1 closing of the Leominster Division of the Mead Corp., paper mills.

A company spokesman has told the 140 employes the 86-year-old plant can't compete successfully with more modern facilities.

Junior Editors Quiz on LLAMAS



QUESTION: Where did the llamas of South America come from?

ANSWER: We are all familiar with big, clumsy Old World camel (1) But it will surprise many to find out that the camel's ancestors did not come from the Old World but from North America.

About 38 million years ago, animals about the size of a sheep, with long neck and legs, appeared in North America. Some of these wandered to Asia and North Africa (America and Asia being connected at that time) and became the ancestors of the camel, which grew very large. Others migrated to South America. These were the ancestors of the llamas of today. The vicuna (2) is small but has a valuable fleece. The guanaco (3) is larger. Both of these are wild animals; it is thought the two other forms have been domesticated from the guanaco. The alpaca (4) is raised for its valuable wool and the llama (5) for its meat, hide and value in transportation. Like all camels, llamas are haughty and stubborn. When given too heavy a load, they lie down.

FOR YOU TO DO: Look up an article on geology and see if you can find a map showing how America and Asia were once connected. 6-29

RFK Captures NY Democrats

By TOM POSTER

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy emerged today as undisputed leader of New York's Democratic party, strengthened by a smashing victory over once-powerful Tammany Hall in a normally obscure primary judgeship race.

Kennedy's hand-picked candidate for judge of the Surrogate (Probate) Court — Samuel J. Silverman — defeated the regular Manhattan organization candidate, Arthur Klein, in an open test of Kennedy's political strength. Both Silverman and Klein now are New York Supreme Court justices.

The race was the highlight of New York's primary elections, which also saw a Goldwater Republican defeat a candidate endorsed by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, and an opponent of President Johnson's Viet Nam policy upset a veteran congressman.

On suburban Long Island, Steven Derounian, who lost his congressional seat when he backed Barry Goldwater in the Johnson landslide of 1964, won the Republican nomination over GOP moderate William J. Casey.

From Washington, Goldwater said in a statement that Derounian's victory "was just one more convincing proof the mainstream of the Republican party is, as it always has been, common sense conservatism."

Casey was endorsed by Javits, but Javits did not campaign actively for him. Derounian will face Rep. Lester L. Wolff, the Democrat who defeated him two years ago, in the November election.

In Brooklyn, the powerful Democratic organization beat down two strong challenges against Rep. Edna Kelly, a Democratic national committeewoman, and Rep. Abraham Multer.

In an upstate Hudson Valley contest, Hamilton Fish, Jr., son and grandson of former congressmen, won the Republican nomination for Congress. He defeated Alexander Aldrich, a cousin and former aide to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Kennedy encouraged Silverman to enter the race for Manhattan surrogate last month after the New York County Republican organization followed Tammany Hall in endorsing Klein.

Marchbanks Rites Held

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Marchbanks of N. Avenue R lost a son in World War II and they lost his son (their grandson) in the war in Viet Nam.

The son, R. B. Marchbanks, of Albuquerque, N.M. was killed while serving with the U.S. Army during the Battle of the Bulge in Sept. of 1944. His son, R. B. Marchbanks, Jr., was two years of age at the time of his father's death.

Now he has given his life for his country. He was killed in action in Viet Nam on May 29 at the age of 24. His father died at the age of 22.

The grandson attended Texas Tech two years prior to joining the Marine Corps about two years ago. He was unmarried.

Mr. and Mrs. Marchbanks attended the funeral for their grandson June 7 in Albuquerque. They have three sons who presently are in the service: Bobby with the Navy in San Diego, Charles Dean with the Air Force in Washington, and Alfred T. with the Air Force in Florida.

JULY 4TH CELEBRATION

Towle Beauty Pageant, And Swim Meet Planned

Entries are being accepted for the Miss Towle Pool Beauty Pageant and Swim Meet for the July 4 celebrations at Towle Pool.

Girls ages 13-16 interested in entering the beauty contest should contact Eddie Phy, pool manager, before Sunday at 5 p.m. No special requirements are necessary for this event, but names do have to be registered at the pool.

There was no such contest held last year, but in years past it has been a sucessful venture. Phy said there has not been a good response to the contest, but expected more names this week.

Phy also reported that persons interested in signing up for the special July 4 Swim Meet could do so any time this week.

There will be events for the age divisions of 8-10, 11-12, 13-14 and 15-17. There will be races in all of the regular swimming events. No entry fee is required.

Phy said that there will be a special underwater swim for all of the age groups, and it should prove to be a highlight of the affair.

The swim meet will begin at 4 p.m. July 4. A good crowd is expected to witness the yearly event.

Towle pool will open at 9 a.m. on the Fourth as part of the city celebration Phy said.

Helicopter rides at the rate of $3 per person will be available during the July 4th celebration in Towle Park.

The rides, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, will begin from an area south of the National Guard armory. The first ride will go aloft at 9 a.m. They will continue through the day until 6 p.m.

Plains Helicopter, Inc. of Lubbock will make a small helicopter available, and it will be piloted by Rodger Evans.

Body Found By Searchers

PYOTE, Tex. (AP)—Rancher A.M. Lasiter, 54, roped a calf, started to alight from his horse and apparently suffered a fatal heart attack Tuesday.

Searchers found the body about 1 a.m. today. It lay in a gully 2 miles south of the Lasiter home. His horse stood nearby, the calf still secured by a rope tied to the saddle.

Thirty to 40 men using horses, jeeps and three airplanes joined in a widepsread search after Lasiter failed to return home at 10 a.m. from inspecting cattle, as expected.

Neighbors helped Mrs. Lasiter began the hunt on the family's ranch south of here in Ward County. Their efforts proved fruitless, and Sheriff Blackie McNerlin organized the wider search.

A party which went back for a final look after midnight came upon the rancher's horse and soon found the body in a pasture.

Hermleigh Child Home After Surgery

Virginia Castillo, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perfecto Castillo of Hermleigh, returned to her home Tuesday following surgery at the Children's Hospital in Houston. She was returned in a Bell - Seale ambulance.

The little girl contracted polio about seven years ago and wore a brace for a long time. The purpose of the surgery was to correct curvature of the spine resulting from wearing the brace.

The father of the girl said she is in satisfactory condition.

The newly dedicated National Geographic Society Laboratory in Nairobi, Kenya, will provide additional facilities for the study of archeological specimens recovered by Dr. Louis S. B. Leakey, whose investigations into prehistoric man have been supported by the society since 1959.

Thompson Rites Held

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Longtime friends and associates paid final tributes today to Ernest O. Thompson, recognized as a man who exercised perhaps more influence than any other of his era on the oil industry.

Thompson, 74, died Tuesday at an Amarillo nursing home after a long illness.

He had retired only last year after serving on the Texas Railroad Commission for a record 32 years. That agency regulates oil production in the state, and as a member and often chairman Thompson had gained worldwide prominence as an authority on oil conservation.

A funeral service was set for 10 a.m. at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Amarillo. Arrangements were made for the body then to be flown to Austin for graveside rites in the State Cemetery.

His last resting place will be beside his first wife, opera star May Peterson, who died in 1952.

Surveyor Fails To Reactivate

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — America's camera on the moon, Surveyor 1, failed Tuesday night to respond to initial commands sent to reactivate it after the super-cold lunar night — two weeks at temperatures as low as 260 degrees below zero.

Said a spokesman at Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which sent the commands: "This was not totally expected. We hoped it would work."

The 620-pound spacecraft which began sending pictures June 1 after a soft landing on the moon, transmitted more than 10,000 pictures before it was engulfed in the lunar night June 14.

JPL, through its Goldstone, Calif., transmitter, attempted to stir Surveyor again for 3½ hours beginning at 6 p.m., approximately 5½ hours before the lunar sunrise.

The JPL spokesman said further transmissions would be sent Wednesday and Thursday night, and, if unsuccessful, another attempt would be made July 7 when the craft's solar panels face the sun at lunar noon.

Three reasons were given why initial attempts to revive Surveyor failed: the craft's batteries could be completely dead; since it was still lunar night, it was too cold for Surveyor to answer; or the extreme cold disrupted the contact frequencies.

Bathing Cap Ruling Extended To Boys

BATAVIA, N.Y. (AP) — A rule that girls must wear bathing caps in the municipal pool has been extended to boys with long hair.

Officials said they decided to expand the rule after noticing an increasing number of boys were allowing their hair to grow long. They said accumulation of hair in the water clogs the pool filtering system.

AT WIMBLEDON

Ralston Has High Hopes

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Dennis Ralston's service — one of the most unpredictable in world tennis — could take him into the Wimbledon final today for the first time.

The U.S. Davis Cup star from Bakersfield, Calif., faced South Africa's Cliff Drysdale in the semifinals. And Drysdale admitted that Ralston's service can be brilliant, and "I know I must tame it if I am to beat him."

Ralston's service has been erratic throughout the tournament, and he dropped one set in each of his first four matches. But against Bob Hewitt of Australia in the quarter-finals the American had his service going well — and it took him to a comfortable straight sets victory.

He has an old score to settle with Drysdale. In the U.S. Championships at Forest Hills last year, the South African defeated him in a five-setter in the quarter-finals.

Apart from that the two men have met only twice — on clay courts. Ralston won one and Drysdale the other.

The other semifinal today was between Manuel Santana of Spain, winner at Forest Hills last year, and Owen Davidson, unseeded Australian left-hander.

If Santana does what is expected of him and knocks out Davidson, the final will be the first for 11 years without an Australian. That hasn't happened since Tony Trabert of the United States defeated Kurt Nielsen of Sweden in 1955.

Santana won a five-set classic against Australia's Ken Fletcher Tuesday on the center court.

Fletcher, who had kept the wily Spaniard at full stretch with a fine display of hard hitting, finally cracked and Santana won 6-2, 3-6, 8-6, 4-6, 7-5.

Drysdale upset Australia's Tony Roche, the No. 2 seed, 9-7, 6-2, 6-2.

Australian hopes have slid to almost zero, the three top Aussie stars — defending champion Roy Emerson, three time runner-up Fred Stolle and now Roche — have been tumbled out.

Davidson, a unseeded left-hander whom nobody took seriously, found himself carrying the Australian flag alone.

The center court, greasy and slippery after intermittent rain throughout the last week, has proved the downfall of both Emerson and Britain's Bobby Wilson, who slipped and hurt his knee while playing Santana.

It almost claimed another victim Tuesday, Mrs. Ann Jones, British left-hander who is aiming for the women's title. She defeated Nancy Richey of Dallas, Tex., 4-6, 6-1, 6-1 and went sprawling as the American girl hit the last shot of the match out of court.

Ann limped off the court but said later she was all right. She twisted her left ankle in the fall.

It was her third victory over Miss Richey this year. She previously defeated her in the final of the French Championships and in the Wightman Cup.

Cubs, Yankees In LL Victories

The Cubs broke a four game losing streak by downing the Giants 14-3 and the Yankees clipped the Athletics 16-6 in Little League games played Tuesday night.

Gary Smith singled, doubled and homered in four trips to the plate to lead the Cubs past the Giants. Smith also got credit for the win with his pitching performance as he allowed three runs and four hits in the four innings he worked. Doug Arnold and Brett Bell each got two hits for the Cubs in their 13 hit attack. The Giants scored one run in the second inning and two in the third for their only tallies.

Marvin McClanahan, Kent Horsley and Jimmie Shelburne each contributed heavily to the Yankee win. McClanahan had two singles and scored twice while Horsley did the same. Shelburne scored three times and picked up two singles. David Davis had three hits and scored twice to round out the big guns. Tommy Davis homered for the A's and also singled.

Yanks, Cubs Take FL Wins

The Yankees defeated the Athletics 12-2 and the Cubs trounced the Giants 29-12 Tuesday night in Farm League games.

Mike Kerley and Moel Blalock each scored five runs in leading the Cubs past the Giants. The Cubs unleashed a 15 hit attack and scored 18 runs in the first inning to keep their three game winning streak alive. The Cubs also had seven runs in the fourth inning. The Giants scored only one run in the first inning and never threatened the Cub lead.

The Yankees pulled away from the A's in the fourth inning when they scored seven runs. A double by Steve York and a single by Kenny Kerney were the major blows in that frame. York hit another double in the second inning. The A's managed single runs in the first and third innings, and led only one time in the contest.

Red Sox, Braves In League Wins

The Braves defeated the Sports 8-2 in a Pony League game while the Red Sox slipped by the Yankees 10-9 in a Colt League game played Tuesday night.

Ronnie Lewis and David McGinnis provided the slugging power for the Braves' win over the Sports. McGinnis had a single and a homer while Lewis cracked out a single and double. Orville Schwartz had a three base hit in the fifth inning following McGinnis' homer. The Sports' Terry Bell got two hits and scored both runs in the losing cause. Eight of the nine starters scored for the Braves.

The Red Sox scored 10 runs on four hits in their victory over the Yankees. Max Moreland got key singles driving in two runs in the third and fifth innings. Richie Thompson and Ted Winter also got hits for the winners. Yankee pitching walked 10 Red Sox batters which proved to be enough for the difference. The Yankees scored nine runs on seven hits.

Rochester's opening day lineup in the International League this season included five players who were on the Baltimore Oriole spring roster.

Ed Barnowski, future Baltimore Oriole who struck out 207 batters in 177 innings for Elmira, N.Y., last season, began 1966 with seven strikeouts for Rochester against Richmond. He won 3-2.

Terrell Taps Jones For Easy Decision

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Ernie Terrell of Chicago, the towering World Boxing Association champion who could give away two rounds on low blows and still win a lopsided decision over dogged New Yorker Doug Jones, may announce today the next defense of his title.

There were indications it might be Cleveland Williams, the Houston heavyweight on the comeback trail after a serious wound from a highway patrolman's gun.

Williams appeared on the card Tuesday night when Terrell won a unanimous 15-round decision over Jones before 9,346 fans who paid $102,155. Cleveland preceded to beat up Tod Herring of Houston so badly he got a technical knockout early in the third round.

Williams' manager, Hugh Benbow, already has offered $50,000 to Terrell to fight his boy. Terrell also has a $75,000 offer to fight Canadian George Chuvalo, the man he defended his title against the first time last November.

"I am ready to defend my title against anybody," said Terrell after his decision over Jones, who at 6-foot-1 and 187½ pounds was five inches shorter and 22 pounds lighter than the towering Terrell.

Anyway, he has called a press conference today and probably will make known whom the third defense of his title will be against.

Jones was bitter about Terrell's holding tactics in the late rounds — something the crowd booed lustily.

But Terrell said, 'The people always boo the big guy when a big guy and a little guy fight — and cheer the little guy. The referee kept pulling me off; I couldn't turn him loose. He would hit me on the breaks."

Jones said it was a wrestling match, not a boxing match. "I don't believe in holding. I was looking to get the best of him and he was looking to hold me."

The second and 14th rounds were taken away from Terrell for low blows. Before the referee, Ernie Taylor, could even rule on the second foul, a Jones second, Rollie Hackmer, rushed across the ring and the referee had to order him out.

Sam Solomon, trainer for Terrell, said Jones should have been disqualified for the second's action "but we don't want it that way."

There were few damaging blows although Terrell got a cut over the right eye in the sixth round and Jones had a bloody nose in the eighth. Terrell used his left jab, for which he is noted, in a monotonous hammering of Jones' face.

TAX ANSWERS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

* * *

Q — My company promoted me last month and now I'm earning more money. Should I increase my withholding to avoid a large year-end tax bill?

A — Your withholding will automatically be increased by your employer under the new graduated withholding system. You will not have to do anything yourself unless the new withholding is substantially below your full liability.

To determine your withholding situation, obtain a copy of IRS Document 5642 which explains the new system. It is available from the IRS or your employer.

Q — I think a mistake was made in my refund check. Who should I call about it?

A—When any change is made in a refund, an explanation of the change is sent to the taxpayer usually before the check is mailed. If you did not receive the explanation, or have further questions, write your local district office. Be sure to include your full name, address and social security number so that your return can be properly identified.

Q — We have been invited to a charity ball. The tickets cost $100 including dinner and dance. Will the full $100 be deductible?

A — No. Only that portion of the $100 over and above the value you receive in food and entertainment may be deducted as a charitable contribution. The sponsors of the event should be able to tell you how much that is.

Q — We are thinking about becoming foster parents. If we do, can we claim the children as dependents and do we report the payments we get as income?

A — The children can probably be claimed as dependents if you provide more than half their support for a full year. If the subsistence payments you receive for the children do not exceed the expenses paid by you in supporting them, the payments are not reported as income to you. However, the payments must be considered when determining whether you have provided more than half their support.

Foster children placed in your home, unless for adoption, cannot be claimed as dependents unless they are members of your household for the entire year. They must also be citizens or residents of the United States, or residents of either Canada, Mexico, the Canal Zone, or the Republic of Panama during the year for which you claim the exemption.

Q — My refund check was made out to both my wife and myself. Do we both have to sign it?

A — Yes.

Q — Do I need a federal license to sell beer?

A — Yes, an occupational tax stamp is required. Special Tax Return Form 11, available from your IRS office, is the form to use to apply for this stamp. Application must be made before you sell any beer.

Q — Do I have to pay Social Security taxes for a summer handyman?

A — If you pay him $50 or more cash wages during a calendar quarter you are required to report the wages on Form 942 and pay Social Security taxes on them. Circular H, Household Employer's Social Security Tax Guide, explains these requirements. A copy of this free booklet and Form 942 may be obtained at your local IRS office.

Q — Are vacation expenses tax deductible?

A — No, vacations are personal expenses and these are not deductible.

Q — I need a copy of my 1964 return. Where can I get it?

A — Copies of returns may be obtained by writing or visiting your district director's office. A charge of $1.00 a page is made to cover costs. You will be billed when the copies are sent to you.
