Young Homemakers H. D. Club Met Thursday

The Young Homemakers met in the home of Mrs. Jimmy Doyle on June 11th, with six members present, and Mrs. Kreklow.

The program was on "Vegetables—The Ordinary Made Glamorous." The members present formed teams and each team prepared a vegetable. Mrs. Kreklow assisted with the program, and pointed out that vegetables can be prepared in less fattening ways but still can be very tasty.

A waterless method was used in cooking these vegetables, which consisted of carrots, squash, and spinach.

The president Mrs. Jimmy Doyle presided over a short business meeting. Mrs. Doyle was nominated as a nominee to the council to go to the state meeting. The council will elect the delegates to the state meeting in Houston.

Mrs. Kreklow announced there would be a Homemakers College on the campus of Texas Tech in July, with housing provided in the dorms. There will be no charge for this school and further information is available from Mrs. Kreklow at her office. There will be a meeting in July. Call Mrs. Jimmy Doyle for this information.

Miss Fought, her mother, her grandmother, Mrs. Ruby Damron, the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. August Baethge and his aunt, Mrs. Otto Sauer, were in the receiving line.

Mrs. Norman Bonnett, sister of the bride, registered the guests. A number called during the afternoon.

The bride-elect's chosen colors of pink and white were carried out in the decorations. The serving table was covered with a white linen cut-work cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink gladioli.

Miss Joan Doyle poured the punch and Miss Eileen Kent served the decorated cake squares, mints and nuts.

Hostesses were: Mrs. Vernal Suduth, Mrs. Claude Doyle, Mrs. H. A. Belk, Mrs. Cramer Sofge, Mrs. Milton Fought, Mrs. Gus Love, Mrs. Kenneth Doyle, Mrs. Gene McCalla, Mrs. Paul Phillips, Mrs. Orland Harris, Mrs. E. G. The couple will be married June 27 at the First Baptist church here in Eldorado and will make their home on a ranch at Doss, Texas.

Methodist Notes

Kay Peters and Sharon Nyquist returned last Saturday from Mt. Wesley near Kerrville where they attended the Senior Camp. They gave a report at the Sunday evening vesper service. Larry McGinnes previously attended an Officers Training Camp and this coming Monday, June 22, several intermediates will go to camp.

The aluminum bulletin board has arrived and is to be installed on the front lawn of the church. It is being given by the family of the late Mrs. W. H. McClatchy in her memory.

Dick Preston is serving as usher in charge during June and Albert McGinnes will take over in July.

First Sunday in July is our Quarterly Communion.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

by Tiny Godwin

Schleicher County Agricultural Agent

Original Texas Agriculture by Leonard Kent

One spring morning hundreds of years before white men set foot on the soil which is now Texas, the rising sun glimmered on the pine-tops of an East Texas forest. Smoke from cooking fires curled upward through the morning mists of a small fertile valley along a meandering stream between the pines. As the sun rose higher, it illuminated copper-colored bodies laboring between and among fire blackened stumps and logs, digging, raking and tilling the soil. Dome-shaped straw houses, resembling beehives in shape and in the activity going on among them, sat beneath the pines at the western edge.

This was a village of Caddo Indians, the first farmers of Texas. As the morning sun was chasing away the fog, the villagers were beginning their spring planting.

The greatest pre-white man agricultural area north of Central Mexico was the land which is now the Southeastern United States, of which the East Texas piney woods were a part. The Sabine, Neches, Angelina, Sulphur and Red Rivers and their tributaries formed a network of fertile bottomlands occupied by the ancient Caddo farmers.

The Caddoes were composed of two dozen more or less related tribes of Indians in East Texas, Western Louisiana, small parts of Southeastern Oklahoma and Southwestern Arkansas. The Hasinai, the Kadohadachos, and the Natchitoches were the three principle groups of the Caddoes. The name Texas came from Qayshas, a Hasinai term meaning "allies" or "friends."

The importance of these early agriculturists is evident when one realizes that three-fifths of the world's agricultural wealth comes from plants first domesticated by American Indians.

While corn was the most valuable domesticated plant in aboriginal East Texas, a host of other domesticated plants included Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, manioc (from which tapioca is made), several varieties of beans, squash, pumpkins, watermelons, long-staple cotton and tobacco. The Caddoes depended on a harvest of wild plant products also. Plums, mulberries, grapes, cherries, acorns, blackberries, chestnuts and pecans were harvested from the woods in season. Many of these have been domesticated and improved by the white men. Foods manufactured from crops and wild fruits included hickory-nut and pecan oil, persimmon bread, hominy, and yaupon tea.

A variety of corn known as "little corn" by the Louisiana French was planted early in the spring and matured in about a month and a half. After the Indians harvested this, they planted "flour corn" in the same fields, and harvested it about three months later, so they raised two crops of corn per year on the same land.

Enough seed corn was preserved to last through two successive years of planting in case of crop failure. They preserved the seed by hanging the ears in houses where they became well smoked and resistant to insects. Beans, squash, pumpkin, watermelon and other seeds were preserved in the same way.

Both men and women worked the gardens, using hoes fashioned from wood or buffalo shoulder-blade bones. Such crude tools could be used effectively only on loose, easily worked soils; so, many rich clay soils were probably not farmed. Among the Caddoes planting and harvesting was a community effort. The entire village began by planting the crops of the highest ranking Indian of the town, and so on down through the class structure until the lowest villager had planted what he needed for the year.

Corn, the principal food crop, was roasted to eat if it was green, or made into mush or stew. Pumpkins, squashes, and peanuts were stored in dry places until they could be used. Dried corn, beans, acorns and other seeds were ground to a pulpy flour in wooded mortars made of hollowed out tree trunks. They then were mixed with ashes to keep out insects.

Caddoes, principally farmers, acquired only a small amount of their food from animals. In times of food scarcity they sometimes ate domestic dogs; but generally, wild game such as deer, bear, turkeys, small mammals and fish provided them with meat. It is interesting to note that trotline fishing was being used by the Caddoes when the first white men came to Texas.

Now there is little left in the piney woods of the East Texas hills to tell the story of Texas' first farmers. An Ancient Caddo would be amazed today to see the vast acres tilled by one man, to see big cotton pickers and corn pickers harvest a crop in one day that it would have taken him weeks to gather, and then to observe huge iron monsters tearing up the soil at a prodigious rate.

All has changed, nothing is the same, nothing remains except the wind whispering through the pines, the sun gilding the trees with gold at dawn and chasing the mists down the valley and the brown earth to put forth life anew at the beginning of each year. How long will these remain?

'PT 109' Is About Kennedy In WW2

It's been nearly seven months now since John F. Kennedy, 35th President of the United States, was assassinated on a Dallas street, but his memory remains quite clear to all Americans. Early in September of 1963, just 2½ months before his death, Warner Bros. released "PT-109" which depicted the late President's role during World War II. It is coming to the Eagle Drive-In Theatre screen Sunday and Monday nights, and is in color.

In 1943, Kennedy figured in a modestly heroic action off the Solomon Islands. As skipper of a battered "PT Boat," Lieut. (jg) Kennedy, a "30-day wonder," daringly hustled his crew off a craft rammed by a Japanese destroyer. They swam or floated to a jungle island. They were most uncomfortable since the only food, drink and therapeutic unguent was in a plentiful crop of coconuts.

It was something of an ordeal, not as bad as some but not child's play either. The crew, uniformly intrepid, does beef about the rescues and once despairingly is fouled up by careless and superficial scout planes.

Lieut. Kennedy eventually made contact with Australian spies. He carves a message on a coconut shell and sends it by natives, who sense but cannot transliterate English.

The hero of the lively color movie, "PT-109" is a young man called Jack. Impersonated by Cliff Robertson, he looks somewhat older than Jack's 26 years.

At that, he shows extraordinary poise for his age. He forgets himself only once, using the strong word "hell." And then he was merely commenting on what Gen. Sherman said on the state of war.

Eventually, the Navy slips between the Japanese patrols and rescues the shipwrecked men. Lt. Kennedy was then slated to go on to bigger and better things, but that is another story quite different from "PT-109."

"PT-109" is an undeniably gallant story. Since the leading character (Cliff Robertson) is older than JFK's 26 years in 1943, he is a bit more callow than his character. He is no great strategist but does face danger. He is a determined young man and doesn't put on too much front.

What emerges is a splendidly planned and cunningly edited picture. The photography, shot off Key West, is handsome, well composed and still not arty or precious. JFK manages dignity, good nature and a camaraderie that does not distinguish between enlisted man and officer. A Texan, Ty Hardin, sports a blond beard as Skipper Jack's faithful ensign.

Vocational Building For W. T. Boys Ranch

On June 7th, the West Texas Boys Ranch dedicated a new vocational building. Funds for building were donated by Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Carr of San Angelo. This building is a long-time dream for the Ranch. For years the Ranch has placed emphasis on introductory vocational training and job placement. It has needed a place where the younger boys and older boys could develop more skill in working with machinery, etc. The Carr Building has a shop for the younger boys and one for the older boys, a classroom and a library.

The West Texas Boys Ranch has 66 boys in residence and 16 to 20 in placement away from the Ranch. The boys are given an opportunity to work away from the Ranch during the summer on such jobs as ranching, garages, etc. This has been very beneficial as it gives the older boys an opportunity to develop more skill, self-respect, and also an opportunity to earn extra money.

"Hard-luck" is a term coined at the Ranch to define a boy who is not a delinquent, but a boy who if allowed to remain in the environment he was in before being sent to the Ranch would surely have gotten in trouble.

Throughout the years, since it was founded, the Ranch has continued to operate solely on donations. More than 600 boys have lived at the Ranch. The Ranch accepts boys from ages 8-14.

Visitors are welcome at the Ranch located near Tankersley at any time and open house is held every Sunday from 2:00 to 4:00 pm. The West Texas Boys Ranch director representing Schleicher county is Charlie Trigg of Eldorado.

Austin.—A study of the recent party primaries and runoff elections reveals that the number of Republican candidates on the upcoming General Election ballot, in the grassroots area, will strengthen the ever-growing trend toward a complete two-party state.

For example, 18 Democratic nominees for sheriff will face Republican opponents in November.

Also, the Republican party is engaged in one county judge race (in Lubbock county); seven races for county attorney; two for county clerk; 12 for county tax assessor and two for county superintendent of schools; and 78 for county commissioner.

GOP also has candidates for most top state posts and for more than half of the 150 House of Representative posts. In addition George Bush will carry the Republican banner in the U. S. Senate race against incumbent Democrat Ralph W. Yarborough.

Water Pollution

Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr's opinion committee on the oil-field-waste disposal question may postpone its decision meeting indefinitely now that Superior Oil Company has filed suit against the Texas Water Pollution Control Board, asking for a declaratory judgment against the agency.

A decision by former Atty. Gen. Will Wilson ruled that the board has jurisdiction over disposal of oilfield wastes under the Water Pollution Control Act passed by the 1961 Legislature.

Railroad Commission asked Carr to issue a new opinion after a group of oil companies raised strong objections to the board's regulatory actions. Superior's filing of the suit may change the picture entirely on any new opinion.

Connally Honored

Gov. John Connally returned from the national Governors Conference in Cleveland, Ohio, with an important new appointment. His selection as first chairman of the Democratic Governors Caucus was a unanimous one by the 50 Democratic state chief executives.

Reportedly, Connally also was given some consideration for chairman of the 1965 Governors Conference, although he is in his first term. The governors will hold their first major caucus just before the National Democratic Convention in Atlantic City, N. J., during August.

National Guard Concerned

Texas National Guard Association expressed concern over reports that U. S. Department of Defense would stop logistical support to the so-called "reinforcing reserve."

These units, said NGAT, would provide a mobilization base on which the country would build its force in event of large-scale war.

Texas' 9th Armored and 36th Infantry divisions are both part of this "reinforcing reserve," as is the 90th Reserve Division.

Manufacturing Plants Totaled

Texas had a total of 10,325 manufacturing plants which added $6.4 billion of value by processing raw materials into finished goods in 1962, according to the "Annual Survey of Manufacturers", recently released by the Bureau of Census.

Figures represent an addition of $589 million capital expenditure for new plants during a single year. Some 500,000 plant workers

Fair Fashion Show

"Great Moments" in Fashion" will be the theme of the free daily fashion shows at the 1964 State Fair of Texas, Mrs. Leah Jarrett, director of the Women's Department, has announced. Dates of the 1964 exposition will be October 10 through 25 in Dallas.

The shows will feature fashions for the important events in a woman's life, Mrs. Jarrett said.

Included will be clothes for a first birthday, kindergarten, school and college, travel, entertaining at home, fashions for football, club and business life, the opera and Christmas Eve. Final fashions will be shown in a wedding scene.

Featured at 2 and 4 p.m. daily in the air-conditioned Women's Building auditorium, the shows will present wearing apparel from a number of manufacturers.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wimer and Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Newport and Genie, and Peggy Hill, spent the week end on Buchanan Lake.

earned a total of $2.7 billion for the year, while 350,000 production workers earned $1.6 billion.

Food processing was the largest employer with 80,239 employees. Biggest investment was made by the chemical industry, with $167 million in new capital expenditures. The petroleum refining industry spent $155 million for plant construction and improvement.

Railway Authority

U. S. Representative Henry B. Gonzales has asked support from Governor Connally, Lt. Gov. Preston Smith and House Speaker Byron Tunnell on his recently introduced bill which aims at creating a multi-state railway authority for Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Gonzales told them, "This is truly a states' rights program. States involved jointly investigate and determine their own needs in the area of passenger rail transportation." He further stated that "In my judgement, passenger rail transportation has not been adequately developed and is not presently competitive with other modes of transportation—particularly in the Southwest."

Fire Insurance

After July 1, it will be illegal for an insurance company to charge less than 6 per cent interest per year on delayed premium payments for fire insurance, a new State Board of Insurance ruling decrees.

Several years ago, the board issued this same rule, but withdrew it when an objection was made by a company which charged no interest at all for deferred payments. An attorney general has held on two previous occasions that the board has no authority to set minimum interest rates on delayed payments, but Attorney General Carr advised the board to take a new tack.

However, litigation is entirely possible on the part of insurers who would prefer to deviate from the ruling by charging less than the new minimum.

Appointments Announced

Governor Connally named Tom Pegues of Mineola and Charles T. Wickersham of Orange to the board of directors of the Sabine River Authority. He reappointed Gus Osborne Jr., of Emory. Appointments extend until July 6, 1969.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., has chosen Norman V. Suarez of Austin as legal counselor for the Tex. Department of Public Safety. He succeeds the late Bill Kavanaugh of Round Rock.

Trial Publicity Explored

Representatives of Texas' four major press associations met here with State Bar officials for the first of a series of discussions about news coverage of trials.

Texas Press Association, Texas Daily Newspaper Association, Tex Associated Press Managing Editors Association, and United Press International Managing Editors Association participated. Talbot Rain of Dallas served as chairman of the panel.

Future conferences on the subject will be conducted for radio and television broadcasters and law enforcement officials.

Court Case Argued

The State of Texas has asked the Texas Supreme Court to reconsider its decision that the Sunday closing law does not prevent customers buying any article of merchandise on Sunday if they sign emergency certificates.

Employment Picture

Texas Employment Commission reports that in April total unemployment declined for the third straight month some 39,300 jobholders increased the employment total to 3,590,700.

Farm employment rose 17,800 to reach 300,700 by mid-April as seasonal workers were hired to plant a variety of row crops. This brought the total of seasonal workers to 105,800, or 3,500 more than at this time in 1963.

Short Snorts

The State Board of Education voted to extend to one year the State's six-month program to combat school dropouts . . . Twenty-one of the 2,500 elderly persons who have signed up for "Texas 65" health insurance coverage so far this month are over age 90 . . . Texas Good Roads Association announced David D. Ford of Austin as its new manager. He succeeds Callan Graham, who was TGRA executive vice president.

Clint C. Small Jr. of Austin is the newly elected president-elect of the State Bar Association. Vice President will be W. O. Shafer of Odessa . . . A voter in a party primary is ineligible to sign the application of an independent candidate for an office for which nominations are made in the primary, Atty. Gen. Carr held in an opinion . . . Measles cases are four times more numerous than last year, State Health Department has reported.

Bob Shepard of Harlingen was elected governor of Boys State during activities here. Bill Storms of La Feria was chosen lieutenant governor and Bill Birdwell of Hearne attorney general . . . A 25-member Texas AFL-CIO committee on job safety, compensation and liability has held its first meeting. The committee will conduct a series of sessions to recommend changes in the state workmen's compensation and job safety laws.

Home Demonstration Agent's Column
By MRS. VIDA KREKLOW

A nice attitude of helpfulness around the home has been developing with the younger married set for some time now and usually everything works out to everybody's advantage.

However, sometimes there is a slip-up such as happened to a couple of my friends not too long ago.

The hour was about 5:30 in the afternoon, both got home from work about the same time, and both were hurrying toward a deadline of seven o'clock appointment at a family gathering a few miles out of town.

"What can I do to help get supper while you start to get ready?" the husband asked.

"You can get the chicken from the refrigerator and fry it, if you will please," was the delighted reply.

In a little while the young woman whizzed through the kitchen and took a glance at the frying chicken. It didn't look right. After a while she looked again. It looked even less right this time. Finally she got a chance to ask if everybody was absolutely sure that it was chicken which was cooking.

"Absolutely — at least I know chicken when I see it," was the emphatic answer.

"Well, did you roll it in corn meal?" was the next question.

And again the young man reminded his wife that he was bright enough to know the difference between flour and corn meal.

"In fact," he said, "I used the same sack to shake the chicken in that you used last."

"Which one?" the wife asked a little feebly because she knew that she never saved a sack with flour in it from one time until another.

"This one," said the husband, and on saying opened a drawer and picked up the brown paper sack. The wife gasped. "Oh No," she said, "not that!"

It was a small brown paper sack of plaster of paris.

Later on as she remembered, the young mother said that they enjoyed the hamburgers very much on the way to the family party.

It isn't true that hamburger is just hamburger regardless of how it appears. I found this recipe in very interesting booklet called, "Round-the-World Recipe Favorites." These favorites have been compiled by newspaper food editors from all over the country and there are some very delightful recipes which have been included. The one I'm giving now is from South America, has a Spanish flavor and is called

Picadillo

1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 clove garlic, mashed or chopped

1 large onion chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
4 sprigs parsley, chopped
1 1/2 lbs. ground beef
1/4 cup seedless raisins
1/4 cup blanched, raw almonds
2 tablespoons sliced, pimiento stuffed olives

1 tablespoon Capers (these may be omitted)
1 bay leaf
2 teaspoons salt (if recipe is doubled, DO NOT double salt; it just won't work)

1/4 teaspoon black pepper
1/2 cup tomato paste
1/4 cup tomato juice (or, 1/2 cup canned tomatoes instead of the paste and juice).

In a large container, melt fat. Sauté garlic until golden; remove and discard. I usually run a toothpick through the clove of garlic when these directions are called for — it makes the garlic easy to find. Sauté onion, parsley, and pepper until soft in the same fat. Add ground beef and cook until slightly brown, stirring with a fork occasionally to keep the lumps out. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cover and simmer for about 30 minutes. Serve over rice or noodles. Serves six.

Not long ago I needed a filling for hot dog buns and I took the lid off and cooked this mixture until it was fairly dry and it made a filling with a new taste. The buns were filled with the Picadillo wrapped in foil and warmed in the oven (250 F.) for 30 to 40 minutes before serving and the left overs were frozen for another day.

Make up two or three recipes of this one and keep it on hand this summer. It's good and it's quick. I made three recipes and had enough, with a little left, for six dozen hot dog buns. Happy 4th of July.

And still thinking about food, and we might as well, every one else will be, try these little tricks that change the ordinary into something a little extra ordinary. —For a different hot dog, try grilled frankfurters on onion buttered rye bread. Spread bread generously with butter, sprinkle with instant minced onion, then top with the hot frank, split lengthwise. The sweet crispness and gentle flavor of this moisture free onion are delightful.

—Spoon this Creamy Onion Sauce over chilled asparagus, green beans or tomatoes — or grilled fish or hamburgers! Combine tablespoon instant minced onion with 1/2 cup sour cream and 1/2 cup mayonnaise. Add seasoned salt and let stand to blend. Stir in handful chopped parsley just before serving.

—Use crisp toasted almonds, butter and jam to make this delicious cake topping. Combine 1/3 cup chopped unblanched almonds with 2 tablespoons butter and heat. Stir frequently until almonds are lightly toasted. Add a cupful of peach or apricot jam and two or three tablespoons fruit juice or water and heat until jam melts. Drizzle the warm glaze over any kind of cake. It's good on angel food too.

Fire Damages Grain Elevator

An early morning fire severely damaged the Continental Grain Company elevator here Wednesday morning. The Santa Anna Volunteer Fire Department was called out about 3:00 a.m. Some members of the department were still with the elevator until after daylight.

R. C. Smith, manager of the elevator, said he did not have any idea of the amount of damage Wednesday morning. The fire began in the very top of the elevator structure and most of the damage was confined to that area. The lifting belts were severely damaged and some damage will result to some of the wheat stored in the elevator. The elevator was completely full of wheat. —Santa Anna News.

NOMINEES ELECTED FROM HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUBS

Nominees have been chosen from the five Home Demonstration Clubs for delegates to the State Convention in Houston on Sept. 16-17.

Army Specialist James Lee Swain is visiting here on leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Swain. He has been in the Army seven years and was most recently stationed at Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

The Senate made history last week when by a 4-vote margin the so-called Civil Rights bill was cleared for final passage.

Twenty battle-weary southern Democrats, aided by a few from border states and only six Republicans (including Senator Goldwater), went down to defeat after holding the line against the radical measure for 2 1/2 months.

Senator Richard Russell of Georgia, who led the southern forces, even in defeat emerged as the nation's leading champion of freedom and constitutional government.

Border state Oklahoma's two Senators voted for the bill on the cloture test. So did Senator Anderson from the border state of New Mexico. But Anderson's vote was off-set by the other Senator from New Mexico—Senator Meacham who voted with the southerners. The two Texas Senators also split—Yarborough voting for cloture and Tower lining up with Russell & Co.

Early passage is now assumed. This is election year, and the Negro bloc vote has a tremendous appeal to the politicians.

Described as "the most liberal package bill ever proposed in the Congress", the measure contains 7 bills lumped into one, each advancing the philosophy of the
