Deadlines Pass

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)-With one pilot dead and 86 hostages still aboard, the hijackers of a West German airliner landed in Somalia today and let two ransom deadlines pass without carrying out a threat to blow up the plane.

A West German government spokesman said in Bonn the pilot was apparently shot dead before the Lufthansa Boeing 737 jet took off late Sunday from South Yemen. His body was dumped onto the runway shortly after it landed without permission in Mogadishu, the Somali capital.

The four hijackers have demanded the release of 13 terrorists imprisoned in West Germany and Turkey and payment of $15 million, but no effort to meet the demands was reported as the hijackers extended their deadline first to 10 a.m., EDT, then to 10:30 a.m.

The West German government let a Sunday deadline pass without any attempt at compliance. However, it sent negotiators to the airport in Mogadishu in an effort to save the hostages, who included a California woman with a heart condition and her 5-year-old son.

Chimp Heart Fails

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)-Benjamin Fortes died today 82 hours after Dr. Christiaan Barnard and his surgical team put a chimpanzee's heart in the man's body to bolster his own ailing heart.

Fortes, a 59-year-old accountant, was the second man to receive a chimpanzee heart transplant and the first to get one as an auxiliary or "piggyback" pump. In 1964, Dr. James Hardy of the University of Mississippi replaced a 68-year-old man's heart with a chimpanzee heart, but the patient died two hours later.

A spokesman for Groote Schuur hospital announced that Fortes died this morning but gave no details.

Saudi Arabia Added

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter has added a ninth nation-Saudi Arabia-to his 11-day foreign trip next month, an administration official said today.

The addition, to be announced later at the White House, will enable the President to meet with Crown Prince Fahd ibn Abdul Aziz to discuss the preparations for reconvening the Geneva conference on peace in the Middle East.

Carter's Air Force One jet will be refueled during the stop in Jidda, Saudi Arabia, on his way from Lagos, Nigeria, to New Delhi, India. The President will fly on to New Delhi the same day, so the stopover will not add another day to his journey.

Other stops on Carter's trip are Venezuela, Brazil, Iran, France, Poland and Belgium. He leaves Nov. 22.

Private Rites For Bing

LOS ANGELES (AP)-A simple, low-key funeral is planned for Bing Crosby on Tuesday, a family spokesman says.

Crosby's body was to arrive in Los Angeles tonight, accompanied by his son Harry, 19, on a flight from Spain. Crosby died of a heart attack on Friday in Madrid, after playing a round of golf. He had listed his age as 73, although baptismal records list the crooner as 74.

The Roman Catholic service will be held at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church in Brentwood. Crosby, a devout Catholic, will be buried in a family plot at Holy Cross Cemetery near his parents and first wife, Dixie Lee, who died of cancer in 1952.

Crosby's second wife, Kathryn, told newsmen outside their home in the San Francisco suburb of Hillsborough that the service would be a low Mass.

"He wanted only the children and myself," she said, "but I think there are those who worshiped him for 40 years who have a right to be there."

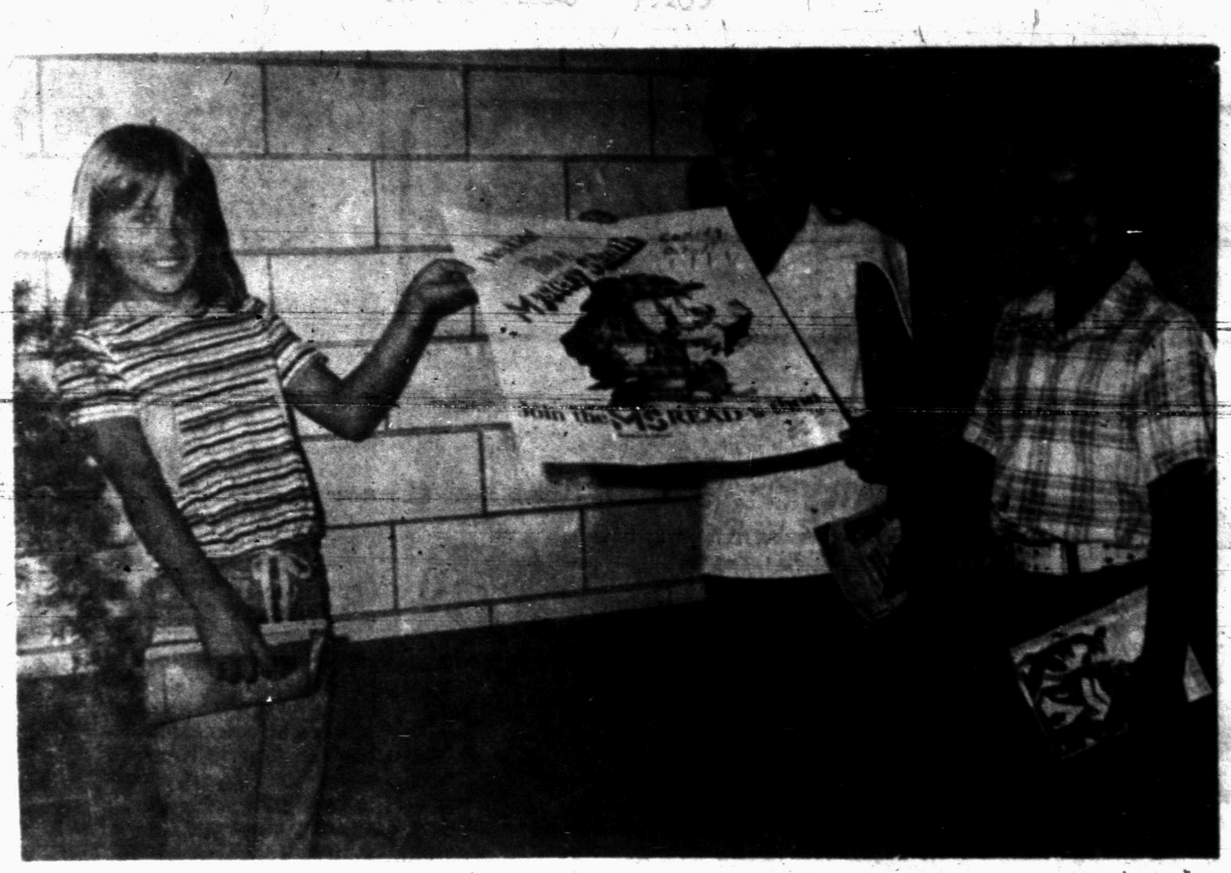
Pardon Costs Ford

NEW YORK (AP)-Former first lady Betty Ford says her husband's pardon of Richard Nixon probably cost Ford the 1976 election but he had to do it because former president Nixon was "a sick man."

Mrs. Ford, quoted in the current issue of McCall's, said: "Many people who definitely were for Jerry could not bring themselves to vote for him because he pardoned Nixon.

"I don't think they realized what a sick man Nixon was-physically sick-which tended to affect... decisions."

The magazine also quoted Mrs. Ford as saying her husband took more criticism from the media than President Carter is getting because "Jerry was a Republican, and he was associated with Nixon-and anyone associated with Nixon was automatically a "bad guy."



READ-A-THON BEGINS -- A system-wide Read-A-Thon program was initiated today at the elementary schools in Snyder. Proceeds from the program will go to the Multiple Sclerosis Society which is sponsoring the event. Shown getting ready for the program at Northeast Elementary this morning were, from left, Tonya Bennett, Carrie Housden, and Henry Dominguez. The Read-A-Thon ends Nov. 4 and participation in it is limited to students in the third through the sixth grades. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

Carter Will Not Budge On Decontrol

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter is unwilling to accept any compromise energy bill that contains any form of natural gas deregulation, the chairman of the Senate energy committee said today.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said that as a result, there may be no natural gas legislation enacted this year.

"The administration is going to be very tough and I'm pleased," Jackson said in an interview.

House and Senate conferees begin work on Tuesday on hammering out a compromise energy bill. Jackson is the head of the Senate's team of conferees.

Although the House has passed Carter's plan to lift the price lid on natural gas from $1.46 to $1.75 per thousand cubic feet and to extend controls to gas produced and used in the same state, the Senate has voted to lift controls from gas after two years.

"The administration holds all the cards," Jackson said, "either there is no bill and the price remains at $1.46 or if there's a bill with deregulation, the President will veto it."

And Jackson said the administration has indicated it would prefer no bill at all to the Senate-passed measure.

Jackson's proposed compromise had been viewed as a possible middle ground for the House-Senate conferees to adopt. But Jackson said today that even this phased form of deregulation would probably be vetoed by the President.

He said he doesn't intend to even bring it up again.

Briefs Requested In Bakke Case

Concorde Landing Cleared By Court

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Supreme Court cleared the way today for landings of the Concorde supersonic jetliner at New York's John F. Kennedy International Airport. An airline spokesman said the plane would be test-landed Wednesday and might begin daily flights Nov. 22.

British Airways and Air France said through spokesmen in New York that they would conduct a joint familiarization flight to Kennedy Airport Wednesday morning on a Concorde taking off from Paris.

The carriers said they hoped to begin daily service from London and Paris to Kennedy by Nov. 22.

The justices turned down, without comment, a request by the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey that they order a delay to all Concorde operations at JFK until a formal appeal could be filed with the court.

Today's action does not prevent the port authority from filing such an appeal. In the interim, however, it appears that commercial flights of the British-French airliner New York officials have fought against for nearly two years will begin serving the airport.

British Airways and Air France are the only airlines offering Concorde flights. To date, the only regularly scheduled Concorde flights to the United States have been landing at Dulles International Airport near Washington.

In other matters today, the Supreme Court:

—Asked lawyers for both sides in the "reverse discrimination" case of Allan Bakke to submit written briefs discussing the effect of the 1964 Civil Rights Act on the case. It could be an indication the court may base its decision on the federal law rather than the Constitution.

—Refused to hear an appeal of the contempt-of-court conviction of Jerry Paul, a North Carolina lawyer who successfully defended Joan Little in a 1975 murder trial that attracted national attention. Miss Little stabbed her jailer when he allegedly tried to rape her.

—Let stand a lower court's order directing New York City officials to take specific actions to limit motor vehicle traffic and improve air quality in Manhattan.

On Sept. 29, the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York rejected two requests by the port authority to overturn a federal trial court's ruling that Concorde operations at JFK could begin Oct. 20.

In its ruling, however, the appeals court said landings could begin "forthwith," and spokesmen for both airlines had said they intended to touch down the first of a series of test flights sometime in mid-October.

But after being asked by the port authority to temporarily postpone the effect of the appeals court ruling, the Supreme Court on Oct. 7 ordered that the landings be delayed while it considered the request.

In that request, port authority lawyer Patrick Falvey said the appeals court's ruling would cause irreparable harm because it would permit Concorde operations "before the authority has determined that such flights will not result in successful noise suits."

Falvey described JFK, situated in the New York borough of Queens, as "one of the busiest international airports in the world."

C-C Membership Contest Heats Up

Although figures were a closely guarded secret, the Snyder Chamber of Commerce membership campaign workers held a brief report and pep session this morning.

The membership teams, which are composed of chamber directors and Gold Coaters, are in a contest with the Sweetwater Chamber of Commerce again in the membership drive.

The contest will end Friday and the results will be announced at half-time of the football game between the Snyder and Sweetwater High School teams on Friday night in Tiger Stadium here.

The winning aggregation will be treated to a steak dinner by the losers. Those on the losing team will dine on beans and cornbread at the same time.

Snyder Chamber membership teams indicated that they planned to step up their efforts during the next four days. The locals were winners of the contest last year.

In San Antonio Blackout

Citizens' Actions Praised

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-Mayor Lilla Cockrell praised San Antonio citizens today for their behavior during Sunday's complete blackout while embarrased utility officials said the outage "was one of those emergencies that can be expected in a large system."

Only this past summer a utility company official had said that an earthquake was more likely to occur in San Antonio than a blackout.

The lights in this South Texas city went out at 7:10 p.m. Much of the city had power restored by 8:40 with a pickup of power from Austin. Full power was restored at 10:02.

City Public Service officials said the blackout was caused by a static line that snapped and wrapped around major transmission lines from the Calaveras Lake power station about 14 miles south of San Antonio, the nation's 10th largest city.

The blackout gave city officials throughout Texas a close view of what to expect in such incidents. Thousands of delegates to the Texas Municipal League convention were in the city for their annual convention.

Mayor Cockrell, dismissing isolated instances of looting during the blackout, said, "I think our citizens showed what they are made of. I think they showed we have a wonderful city."

Police officials said two stores reported looters. A man was shot and wounded when he tried to stop one of the looters, officers said.

CPS chairman Tom Berg said at a news conference today, "We are very sorry the incident blackout occurred, but it is one of those emergencies that can be expected in a large system as this."

CPS general manager Jack Spruce said the system has had similar incidents in the past, but the automatic device that protects other areas of the system always has worked.

Tickets Pushed For TCA Event

A sales crew headed by Joe Williamson begins a big push this week on reservations for the Texas Cowboy Artists Association banquet, set for Nov. 5 in the Scurry County Coliseum.

It will be the second time for the TCA to hold its annual show, sale and banquet in Snyder, and hopes are that the coliseum arena can be filled for the occasion.

The entertainment attraction will be Ken Curtis, who had the role of Festus in the Gunsmoke television series, and who drew a tremendous crowd at the Billionth Barrel of Oil banquet here four years ago.

The TCA members will be present, of course, along with scores of visitors from throughout the region. A number of reservations have already been made by out-of-towners who are coming here for the banquet.

Curtis will have a band here to participate in the musical portion of his program. He is a former member of the perennially popular Sons of the Pioneers singing group, and his program here in 1973 drew enthusiastic applause. In fact, there were those who acclaimed it the best-received banquet program ever presented here.

Reservations for the Nov. 5 banquet may be made by calling the Snyder Chamber of Commerce at 573-3558. Patron tickets, for tables nearest the stage, are priced at $12.50 each, and general tickets are $10 each.

New Pipeline Project Set

Work is scheduled to begin late this month on an eight-inch pipeline from Snyder to Post for Amoco Pipeline Co.

The line will transport crude oil and connect existing lines in this area and at Post, according to Prentice Rhyne, the project supervisor.

The line is being laid to improve the movement of crude oil in the Amoco system, and no new production is involved.

Scurry County Commissioners this morning approved a request for permission for the pipeline to cross county roads.

Sales Tax Rebates Continue To Gain

Snyder continues to lead cities of comparable size in its region in sales tax rebates, according to the latest report issued by State Comptoller Bob Bullock.

Snyder's city sales tax rebates for the period ending Oct. 7 amounted to $24,738, which pushed the total for the year so far to $371,930. This represents a gain from $326,841 for the same period last year, and, although Snyder's percentage of increase was 13 per cent compared to a state average of 20.8 per cent, Snyder had achieved a much higher plateau a year ago than other cities in the region. And Snyder's increase for the latest period (through Oct. 7) was up some 300 per cent over the $8,233 rebate for the same period last year.

However, Levelland, had the highest rebate in the area for this period, at $25,338. Its total for the year is now $265,137, compared to $222,753 in 1976.

Figures for other area cities, with the latest period, total for the year and total for the same time last year, in order: Lamesa $19,043 and $244,390 and $201,089; Sweetwater $15,986 and $276,209 and $231,817; Monahans $14,168 and $192,721 and $192,277; Pecos $13,766 and $221,699 and $203,511; Colorado City $9,835 and $99,665 and $85,766; Rotan $1,321 and $30,105 and $27,596.

Neither Roby nor Roscoe received a rebate for the latest period. Roby's total for the year is $8,228, compared to $8,278 last year, while Roscoe's total for the year is now $13,820, compared to $10,221 last year.

a change in thinking

If current efforts to solve the nation's economic problems don't succeed failure cannot be charged to a refusal to have an open mind to suggestions regardless of the source from which they come. Unable to understand why more economic gain hasn't been shown since he took office, President Carter is reported to be giving favorable consideration to a few key recommendations of his opponent's platform.

Heading the list of proposals in this category is a proposed change in the Internal Revenue Code to encourage development of new products and find better ways of producing and marketing products of U.S. industry. Republicans made a valiant effort to sell voters on the idea that the best way to solve unemployment and related problems is to play down use of the power to tax as a means of achieving social objectives and put the emphasis on economic objectives.

It is well known, of course, that this philosophy has not been included in dominant thinking on the national scene for a good many years. Candidate Carter was not too specific in spelling out his plans for dealing with the nation's economic ills. But he left the general impression that while he was for shrinking the size of an overgrown Federal establishment, streamlining the public service, and balancing the Federal budget he made it clear that nobody drawing a Government pay check or social benefits would be asked to take a cut.

He has been making good on the latter promise, even doing more than expected in some types of public beneficence, but recovery progress has been discouraging.

Now under consideration is a tax cut $7 billion higher than originally planned. Why not? If a promise of $15 billion worth of tax relief doesn't do the job maybe $22 billion will. Also receiving some consideration are other ideas advanced as an alternative to a spend-more-tax-less formula.

The general idea seems to be to accept some ideas of the opposition without abandoning traditional populist doctrines. Raising one tax and reducing another tax as a means of easing the pain of the first ought to make everybody happy.

wall street bust

The New York Stock Exchange has fined and suspended two of its members and censured a third for allegedly running a bookmaking operation right on the floor of the exchange.

The "big board" claims the three were handling a volume of $2,000 to $7,000 a week among fellow investors, brokers and clerks in wagers on horse races and other sporting events. One of the three, it says, had been making book on football games for the past 129 seasons.

In announcing the sanctions, the NYSE stated that such enterprises are "detrimental to the interest and welfare of the exchange."

Which will strike many people, who may or may not have dropped a bundle on Wall Street, as a prim and proper way of saying that in the midst of the gamble known as the stock market, gambling is not to be tolerated.

growing older

It may be that we seniors don't value our own intelligence enough. The directors of our senior clubs or centers ride along with our own self-evaluation. We keep our conversation at the level of chitchat. We resist discussion of controversial ideas. We pass the time together as quietly and as pleasantly as possible. We keep busy.

In all fairness, no one can object to that. But there are a great many seniors who look for more interesting companionship. This is especially true among the younger retirees. The seniors who can light fires and spark new thinking at our gatherings don't join our ranks.

If I've misstated the situation, accept my apologies. But I believe that all seniors at every age can and should be concerned in substantive matters generally, and in the problems of the aging particularly.

The proposal here is for senior clubs and centers to have regular weekly discussions on books, articles and news reports related to older Americans. Bulletin boards shold be posted with such material. A discussion committee should be elected to select topics of interest and moderate different points of view.

We oldsters need to know where we're at. None of us can safely escape to some private island of ideological security. Suppose, for example, we were to discuss books on the aging. A member presents a review of a recently published opus. If the book relates to our immediate situation, we talk of ways to prove or disprove what the author says. If the book is analytical, we check the content against our own experiences.

Let's open for discussion two recently published books on aging. We begin with "Gray Lobby," By Henry J. Pratt (University of Chicago Press, $15).

Pratt's book draws significant lessons from what the federal government did about the aged during the 1920s, '30s and '40s. Our trade unions were then pushing for pension protection. We brought our power to bear on the nation. In 1935, Social Security was one of the results.

This was our doing. We, who are now senior citizens, carried the ball on that one. We were a movement. We can be proud of ourselves. Shouldn't we recount this record in discussions at our clubs and centers?

We were responsible for the development of the Older Americans Act of 1965. Pratt documents the growth of collective awareness among us who are now seniors. We defined our grievances. We lobbied. As a result of what we did, spending for the old age programs grew from $25 billion in 1967 to $229 billion in 1972. A good record indeed.

But that was five years ago. During those years we've seen our costs of living go up like skyrockets. In some respects, seniors are as badly off today as they were before Social Security.

In those days, the elders could share homes with their children. Now we pay taxes in our own homes.

If we discussed this book at our senior center or club, wouldn't we gain by it? We'd be proud of what we did and how we organized in the past. We'd draw the correct conclusions about how to fight for our interests now.

Another new book worthy of discussion is "The Retirement Threat," by Tony Lamb and Dave Duffy (J.T. Tarcher Publishers, distributed by St. Martin's Press, $7.95). This is a how-to book. The text makes it possible for us seniors to explain our situation to our sons and daughters. Reading and discussing "The Retirement Threat" will help us reestablish our status among the pre-retired. Our children will listen to us instead of disregarding us.

All the details and difficulties of retirement are exposed in "The Retirement Threat." Its chapters move from retirement budgeting through the ins and outs of Social Security pensions. The book covers Medicare, getting jobs and making money after 65. It also offers a short course in social and political senior advocacy.

The appendices provide inside data on government programs. It names organizations of senior citizens. It lists national, regional and state offices of the aging. "The Retirement Threat" is a practical guide book for seniors. From it we may learn whether we're getting everything that's coming to us from public and private sources.

Discussions either of "The Retirement Threat" or "The Gray Lobby" may lead to an interchange of ideas. We get to understand the problems we face. We decide what to do about them. Then we can help prepare our sons and daughters for retirement.

How long is it since your adult sons and daughters asked you for advice?

NEW YORK—(NEA)—They had come from all over the country, responding to the call for a new crusade.

They were black and white and brown, and they spoke in the rich and varied accents of their heritage: Russian and Vietnamese, Brazilian and Lithuanian, Cuban and Chilean, the Deep South and the Bronx.

The man from B'nia B'rith sought to articulate their reason for assembling: to form a "coalition of concern" that could mobilize the American people behind the cause of reducing suffering wherever it exists in the world.

"Human rights," he declared, "is the civil rights movement today, the peace movement of this time."

They wanted to believe him. After all, look who had organized this conference-Bayard Rustin, one of the towering leaders of the civil rights era. And urging them on was Allard Lowenstein, prime mover of the antiwar "dump Johnson" drive of 1968 who now serves President Carter as a representative to the United Nations for special political affairs.

Andy Young had sent his blessings. And Vernon Jordan, of the Urban League. George Meany of the ALF-CIO. Doug Fraser of the United Auto Workers. Benjamin Hooks of the NAACP.

Even Jimmy Carter himself, who one day earlier had signed twin UN covenants on human rights, sent warmly worded encouragement to the group.

Yet somehow, the analogy seemed off-key. The civil rights and peace movements had not begun with a gathering of would-be generals. They had started in the streets, with the kids.

There was no confusion, in those earlier crusades, about the goals of the movement: ending segregation, ending the war in Vietnam.

But the longer this human rights conference dragged on, the more obbious it became that even the minimal consensus needed to form the kind of coalition Rustin envisions will be difficult to attain.

Should such a group focus primarily on violations of civil and political rights, or should it devote equal attention to the achievement of economic security? How do you weigh torture against starvation?

Can organizations concerned about the captive nations" of Eastern Europe make common cause with those angered by repressive right-wing regimes in Latin America?

Should the U.S. government be held to the same standards of performance in battling human rights violations in the Communists bloc, over which we have little leverage, as in Western countries dependent on American military and economic aid?

Is it possible to form a broad-based human rights coalition that will not be torn asunder by ideological and political quarrels?

How would some old-line human rights groups, that have been laboring quietly for years to aid victims of repression wherever they are found, be affected by the sudden infusion of new converts?

David Hawk, director of the American arm of Amnesty International warned the enthusiastic "volunteers" of the complexities of the human rights issue.

"The typical American reaction, whenever there is a problem, is to turn to our government and say, 'What are you going to do about it?' But we're not talking about the U.S. when we talk about violations of civil and political rights. Our target is offending governments elsewhere," he said.

Rustin is an incurable optimist. He still believes it can be done, that a centrist coalition can be welded together from the civil rights activists, the churches, the labor unions, the old-line organizations like Amnesty International.

But it isn't going to be easy. "we will have to move slowly if we are to build well," Rustin warned.

Wants Boss To Fire Her Errant Husband

By Abigail Van Buren

1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am an executive in a company that has a large sales department. A few days ago, the wife of one of our top salesmen came and asked me to fire her husband!

She said she had it on good authority that her husband is having an affair with a young secretary in the office.

The wife said if I thought her husband was too valuable to the company to let go, I should fire the girl. She said she was sure her husband could easily get another job if he were forced to, and the affair would probably cool off if they weren't working together.

Should I get involved in the domestic problems of one of my salesmen? Or do you think if a man does his job well, what he does on his own time is his own business?

NO IDENTITIES, PLEASE

DEAR NO: Call the salesman in, and tell him that word of his alleged hanky-panky with a secretary has reached the front office. And let him take it from there.

DEAR ABBY: I am one of 20 draftsmen working in a large engineering office with a lot of female secretaries. Abby, do you think a woman feels complimented when she enters a room and a man whistles at her?

One guy here insists that the girls love it. I say no woman wants to be treated as a sex object, and whistling at a woman is an insult.

I'd like a woman's point of view.

T.C. IN HOUSTON

DEAR T.C.: THIS woman's point of view is the same as yours. (P.S. Whistling at women also indicates a juvenile mentality.)

DEAR ABBY: My young grandson has a very peculiar way of eating—he will eat only one thing at a time. For example: if there is meat, potatoes, carrots and peas on his plate, he will finish eating all the meat before he even touches his carrots. Then, once he starts eating his carrots, he will taste nothing else until he's finished them. He positively refuses to mix his food. Now isn't that ridiculous?

When I try to tell him to eat a bit of one thing and then another, he says he doesn't want to. He refuses to even try.

I don't know whether this comes under the heading of etiquette, idiosyncrasies, health or habits, but it just looks peculiar to me, Abby.

Please classify this quirk and set me straight.

DEAR GRAMPS: I would classify this as nitpicking. Children come in for enough criticism during their childhood without having something as inconsequential as this being called to their attention. Skip it. What's the difference? Be glad he's healthy and can eat everything.

Opening lead — Q♣

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "How about some articles on hands from match point duplicate?"

Jim: "Here's a hand where South has almost enough for an opening bid. If he does open North and South are almost sure to get to game and go down. If he passes, North will open with one diamond."

Oswald: "North opens one diamond rather than one club because he wants to indicate a lead in case the opponents buy the contract."

Jim: "South should respond with one heart only. It is very bad tactics to jump merely because you have passed eleven high-card points. A jump by a passed hand should only be made with a very good hand and support for partner's bid suit."

Oswald: "Now it is North's turn to make a good bid. He should pass and let his partner play one heart."

Jim: "South will make four hearts if the defense slips. He takes his ace of clubs and queen of diamonds. Then he leads a spade to dummy, discards two clubs and a spade on good diamonds, ruffs a club and leads the queen of spades to force the opponent with the king win. West does win and must play ace and a low trump in order to hold South to nine tricks."

ASK the JACOBYS

A Florida reader asks for a further explanation of when a player is allowed to look at the last trick.

In rubber bridge he retains that right until he or his partner has played to the current trick. In duplicate he must not have turned his card to the previous trick.

Waste Billion Yearly

Ineligible Medicaid Claims Are Costly

WASHINGTON (AP)- Federal and state governments are wasting $1 billion in tax money a year in ineligible Medicaid payments, says the secretary of health, education and welfare.

Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. said Sunday that 4.7 million ineligible claims totaling $229 million were paid between April and September 1976.

"Now, if you project that for a year-that is just federal dollars-that is almost half a billion dollars, and the states are matching those payments; that is another half billion dollars," Califano said. "So just in terms of ineligible payments, we are throwing $1 billion a year away in this country."

The figures, taken from HEW's computerized review of Medicaid transactions, include payments to health care providers, such as doctors, and to recipients.

Califano commented on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers."

The review was instituted in April because the program for the needy has "grown like Topsy," but has received "inadequate attention" for several years, Califano said.

Called Project Integrity, the computer review already has looked at 250 million transactions involving pharmacists and physicians. It found 47,000 were questionable or improper.

HEW has sent the 2,500 most serious cases to the states, which are beginning probes of doctors and pharmacists in their jurisdictions. More cases will be referred to states in the future, Califano said.

The department previously announced some of its specific findings. For instance, a doctor said he performed three tonsillectomies on the same patient last year. A pharmacist filed a claim for 120 pills a day for 204 consecutive days for one person.

Califano also predicted the U.S. Supreme Court will uphold special school admissions programs for minority students.

He called it "perfectly legitimate" for schools to seek minority candidates and added, "I find it inconceivable that the court will rule in favor of Bakke."

Allan Bakke, a white male, claimed he was denied admission to medical school in California while less qualified minority candidates were accepted under a special admissions program.

The California Supreme Court ruled Bakke was a victim of reverse discrimination, and the University of California at Davis appealed. The U.S. Supreme Court heard oral arguments last week and is due to rule before the end of its term next summer.

Policy Gnaws At Ex-Player Eleven Years

GROVETON (AP)- Eleven years ago, Lanny Tullos and Robert Rush were spending their Friday nights leading the Groveton Indians football team to 9-1 record.

After the season, Rush and the other players received their varsity letter jackets. Tullos did not.

Tullos had married the football team sweetheart at the season's end. And a school board policy said married players could not receive the jackets.

Last month, Rush, whose father was president of the Groveton Board of Education that refused Tullos' final appeal for a jacket, was shot to death as he sat at his desk in the local bank.

Tullos is charged with murdering Rush, 28.

Groveton Independent School District Superintendent James T. Coker says the policy that prevented Tullos from receiving the jacket in 1966 had gnawed at the ex-player for years.

"That football jacket was awfully important for some reason or another," Coker said. "The boy and his parents made every effort to get him one. They contacted the football coach, school board members and me."

Tullos' marriage to the football sweetheart broke up. He was later arrested on a felony drug charge and committed to a state mental hospital and the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston. Doctors said Tullos had experimented with hallucinogens and had a series of religious experiences.

"He thought he was Jesus," one doctor said.

Former halfback Rush had worked his way up to assistant vice president at Groveton's only bank, where he was working Sept. 26 when a man walked into his office.

Without speaking a word, the man pumped four shots into Rush's chest and another two into his back.

Authorities claim that man was Tullos, believing eye-witness identifications.

"When somebody stopped and told me what happened, the fellow who happened to have been football coach is 1966 was with me," Coker said. "and I told him that this boy Tullos had said some things about him, too, and I told him to be extra careful. I was extremely careful myself."

Tullos offered no resistance when arrested two days later in the driveway of his family's house.

When arrested, Tullos raised his hands and said, "I'm glad it's over.

Source Of Seed Sought

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)- After her pet bird died last spring, an 85-year-old woman sprinkled the leftover bird seed in her garden.

She said later she thought the green sprouts might bear tomatoes. But they didn't.

The woman, whose name was not released by police, said the sprouts grew with funny-shaped leaves-definitely not tomatoes.

So she called police.

Officers verified the plants were marijuana and confiscated the barren stalks. Police said they were trying to find the source of the seed.

OBITUARIES

O. D. Hailey

Funeral service has been set for 3 p.m. Tuesday at Bell-Seale Funeral Home for O.D. (Jack) Hailey, 71. Mr. Hailey died at 1:20 p.m. Saturday at his home in Trailertopia. He was pronounced dead of natural causes by Justice of the Peace Bobby Goodwin.

The Rev. David Robertson, pastor of First United Methodist Church, will officiate at the funeral service, and burial will be in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A retired butcher supply salesman, Mr. Hailey was a native of Marlin. He had lived here since 1965. He was married on Oct. 12, 1957, in Roswell, N.M., to Georgia Reams. She survives.

Also surviving are two sons, Oliver Hailey Jr. and Thomas Hailey, both of Studio City, Calif.; three stepsons, Earl Armstrong of Oklahoma City, Donald Armstrong of Duncan, Okla., and Raymond Brock of Hemet, Calif.; a brother, Tom Hailey of Temple, and two grandchildren.

3rd Gasoline Theft Logged

The third gasoline theft this month at the Scarrow Texaco Station was reported Sunday by Ruth Scarrow who told the police the station was missing 51 gallons of gas valued at $31.75.

With the latest report, the amount of missing gasoline has been brought to 361 gallons with a value of $220. Earlier reports of gasoline thefts were logged Oct. 12 and Oct. 14.

Two traffic mishaps were also reported to police during the weekend.

A 1969 Volkswagen driven by John Robinson was in collision with a 1969 Oldsmobile driven by Billy Sanders Saturday at 8:40 p.m. at the Sonic Drive-In. Minor damage was reported to each vehicle.

Minor damage was again reported in a one vehicle accident Sunday at 8:25 p.m. A 1976 Oldsmobile driven by Pamela Turnbo struck a street curb at the intersection of Coleman Ave. and 20th St.

Mark White Announces

AUSTIN (AP) -- Secretary of State Mark White today announced as a candidate for attorney general and devoted two-thirds of his statement to slamming his chief opponent, Price Daniel Jr.

White, 37, staged his announcement on the lawn in front of the Capitol, with a public relations camera crew filming it and the subsequent news conference.

His wife Linda Gale and two of their children, Andrew, 5, and Elizabeth, 3, stood behind him as he made his statement, which seemed to attack Atty. Gen. John Hill as well as Daniel.

"I believe we should have a strong attorney general's office - but I don't believe any government agency ought to interfere with people's lives any more than necessary," White said.

The Russian satellite Sputnik I was launched in 1957.

Blue Stays In Series With Big 10-4 Win...

Dodgers Not Done Yet

LOS ANGELES (AP) -- An old fashioned revival meeting, called by their very own faith healer, Tom Lasorda, was credited with transforming the Dodger blues back into the Dodger Blue.

"This was the real 1977 Dodger team," said Steve Garvey after Lasorda preached fire and brimstone and the Dodger bats spoke firepower and base hits. The combination was pure salvation for the National League champions, who rapped out 13 hits, four for extra bases, to blast the New York Yankees 10-4 Sunday.

The World Series now hops back to the East Coast with the Yankees ahead 3 games to 2 and still lacking one victory before they can claim their 21st world title.

Yankees Manager Billy Martin originally needed Ed Figueroa, troubled by a sore finger the past few weeks, to be his starting pitcher for Game 6 Tuesday night. But Figueroa, not as ready to pitch as Martin said he was balked, forcing Martin to switch to Mike Torrea, the third-game winner.

Lasorda will be going with a proven winner of his own, Burt Hooton, who stifled the New York bats on five hits in the second game at Yankee Stadium last Wednesday night.

On the verge of extinction Sunday, Lasorda turned preacher, telling his players in a pregame meeting that, win or lose, "I wouldn't trade this baseball team for any other team in the world."

Ron Cey, the Dodgers third baseman and the only regular without a hit or a run scored Sunday, was skeptical about the importance of the team meeting, but decided: "The results were there."

Those results included Steve Yeager's three-run homer in the fourth inning, Reggie Smith's two-run blast in the sixth and the sound, nine-hit pitching by Don Sutton.

"I normally don't believe in rah-rah pep meetings," said Yeager, who also contributed a fifth-inning sacrifice fly before leaving the game with strained ligaments in his knee. "But it evidently worked for some guys."

Yeager said he had two games left in his ailing knee. "I'll see you Wednesday night after Game 7 in our clubhouse," Yeager told newsmen.

Garvey also expects to be in the winning clubhouse Wednesday night, but said it wouldn't be a bad idea to have another pregame revival meeting.

"At one point we were 7-0 after team meetings," said Garvey, who had a double and a single and scored a pair of runs. "I guess this makes us 8-0.

"We're human beings and human beings get tired mentally and depressed mentally. What Tom Lasorda did was he got everybody together and, again, told us of his feelings of warmth and affection for us. As human beings we can benefit from this.

"It got our feelings moving in the right direction."

That direction was evident immediately in Game 5. Dodger leadoff batter Davey Lopes socked a triple off the top of the left-field wall against Yankees starter Don Gullett, who started on Opening Day but did not figure in the decision. No. 2 batter Bill Russell smacked a single to left for a 1-0 lead.

SWC Hotter Than Ever

By The Associated Press

Houston and Arkansas tangle in a Southwest Conference battle for survival Saturday while league co-leaders Texas A&M and Texas hit the road again after surviving games decided in the final minutes last week.

Second-ranked Texas knocked Arkansas' No. 8 ranked Razorbacks out of the unbeaten ranks 13-9 in a nationally televised shootout in the Ozarks.

Texas stayed unbeaten under new Coach Fred Akers but it wasn't easy, and the Longhorns catch Southern Methodist in Dallas after the Mustangs shocked Houston 37-23 with a three-touchdown avalanche in the last four minutes.

The Texas Aggies, who survived a great Baylor rally to outlast the Bears 38-31, are at Houston to meet lowly Rice--a 42-7 loser to Texas Tech.

Texas and A&M are 2-0 while SMU and defending co-champion Texas Tech are 2-1.

Arkansas and Houston are 1-1 and another loss just about kills any title hopes. Houston, of course, can't go to the Cotton Bowl because it was put on probation.

Tech is idle with Coach Steve Sloan hoping injured quarterback Rodney Allison can return two weeks hence for the Red Raiders' meeting with Texas.

Houston must play the emotionally drained Razorbacks in Little Rock Saturday night. The Cougars, defending SWC co-champs, suffered their only league loss to Arkansas last year.

Snyder Takes Local Meet

Snyder junior varsity Tigerettes ripped Seminole 15-9, 15-11 here Saturday night to take the local JV volleyball tournament.

Seminole placed second in the two-day meet, followed by Big Spring and Monahans.

The Tigerettes, who clutched a well-deserved first-place trophy following closing ceremonies, opened up the tournament by defeating Abilene High, 15-5, 15-7.

The local team continued to roll, thrashing Odessa, 15-1, 15-1. "Kim Harlin and Suzanne Fisher both had outstanding games against Abilene," expressed Coach Joyce Elrod. "In the Odessa game, Kim was very strong, serving for 21 points. She scored 13 points in the first game; 11 of them ace points (no return).

In the semifinals, Snyder finished off Big Spring 15-9, 15-9 to set up the championship match with Seminole.

"In the Big Spring match, Vanessa White and Laura Fortune did very well with spiking and setting," relayed Coach Elrod. "All the girls played well in the final game, but Billie Owens played a especially strong setting game, and Vanessa, Linell (Selmon) and Connie (Weber) all played strong hitting games."

Scoring points for the local team were Kim Harlin 39, Billie Owens, 17, Vanessa White 19, Laura Fortune, Connie Weber and Suzanne Fisher, 11 each; Linell Selmon 10 and Trudy Hataway and Jill Kidd, 1 apiece.

Vanessa White and Laura Fortune were named All-Tournament for their outstanding efforts.

Tonight, Snyder 8th grade and 9th grade teams travel to Big Spring, for a trio of contests beginning at five o'clock.

Tuesday, Snyder varsity begins second-round play at Brownfield.

"We expect a strong game at Brownfield," noted Coach Elrod. "They are a very strong defensive team."

Broncos Roll On Raider Loss; First Defeat In 17 Contests

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer

Jim Turner has to be higher than Denver, which is a mile high to begin with. The 36-year-old placekicker caught a touchdown pass in the Bronco's surprise rout of the Oakland Raiders.

Denver was leading Oakland 14-7 in the second quarter Sunday when Turner trotted on for a field-goal attempt. But it was a fake. Holder Norris Weese, a reserve quarterback, took the snap and rolled right to pass.

"I looked first for Riley Odoms (a tight end)," said Weese. "But you can't waste time on the play and I saw Turner wide open ... and couldn't believe it."

Turner had drifted to his left and was standing alone in the end zone where he caught the 25-yard pass that gave the Broncos a 21-7 halftime lead enroute to a 30-7 victory. It boosted Denver to a 5-0 record and a one-game lead over Oakland in the American Conference West.

While Turner's first touchdown in 14 National Football League seasons was certainly a highlight, it was the Denver defense that did in Oakland, intercepting seven Ken Stabler passes, three by linebacker Joe Rizzo, and recovering a fumble.

The loss stopped Oakland's winning streak at 17 regular season and playoff games, one short of the record held by the Chicago Bears of 1933-34 and 1941-42 and the Miami Dolphins of 1972-73.

A successful fake field goal at Bloomington, Minn., resulted in a 21-16 victory for the Minnesota Vikings over the Chicago Bears in overtime.

"It seemed like the thing to do," said Bud Grant, who ordered the fake attempt on first down on the Chicago 11-yard line.

Irwin Clinches Texas Open With 3-Under

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) -- Hale Irwin won $30,000, a golf tournament and a ton of respect from a fellow golf pro Sunday following his closing round 3-under par 67 in the $150,000 Texas Open.

Irwin, battling Texan Miller Barber for the first place prize, paused on the 18th tee to offer encouragement to Carlton "Slugger" White, a second-year pro fighting for his PGA players' card.

White entered the Texas Open with $924.50 in earnings this year and needed to bring his winnings up to $7,000 or forfeit his card. Fifth place in the tournament would breathe life into his golf career but a poorly hit wedge shot on the 17th hole resulted in a double bogey six that plummeted White from third place to a fourth place tie with George Archer.

"I can't describe how bad I felt after making that double bogey," said an emotional White. "But Hale came over and patted me on the back and told me to forget it, that I still had a chance."

White then placed his tee shot the treacherous 175-yard 18th hole about ten feet below the pin. He two-putted for a par three and collected $6,600, thus assuring him of at least another year on the tour.

"I was really pulling for him," said Irwin, whose Texas Open title was his third tour win of the year and raised his season money-winning total to $221,455.

Before 1957, geldings were not eligible to run in the Belmont Stakes.

Redskins Agree; Cowboys Better

DALLAS (AP) -- Billy Kilmer has been through enough National Football League hand-to-hand combat to accurately assess an opponent and the Washington quarterback says the current edition of the Dallas Cowboys is the finest he's played against.

Kilmer, who was sacked five times and battered about like a rag doll in Sunday's 34-16 Cowboy victory over the Redskins, said frankly "This is the best Dallas team I've ever seen ... and they sure proved it ... We just lost to a great team."

Washington, now 3-2, fell two games behind the unbeaten Cowboys (5-0) in the National Conference Eastern Division and suffered numerous injuries in the roughouse battle, including a bruised left shoulder to Kilmer.

"It happened in the first half when I got kicked," said Kilmer matter-of-factly. "I got a shot at halftime and that kinda deadened it."

Dallas Coach Tom Landry said "I still don't know how good we are. We have an amazing team because we are so young yet we've come from behind to beat both St. Louis and Washington.

Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach threw two touchdown passes, including a 59-yard bomb to Drew Pearson that iced the game in the fourth quarter.

"Roger gave me my favorite audible," said Pearson. "He just looked at me and pointed me to go deep."

Washington was threatening a maximum blitz on the play.

Staubach said "It was an audible between us ... I was in the middle of my count and I couldn't audible .. We took a chance."

Illinois Consultant To Address TSTA Session

Dr. Marvin D. English of Barrington, Illinois, will be the featured speaker at The Annual Convention of District XIV of the Texas State Teachers Association on Oct. 24 at the Nolan County Coliseum in Sweetwater.

Dr. English, a popular keynote speaker, is president of Eduscope, a consulting service for schools and industry.

Viola Benson, middle-school teacher and president of TSTA District XIV, said that upwards of 3000 members are expected. The district covers Callahan, Eastland, Fisher, Haskell, Jones, Mitchell, Nolan, Scurry, Shackelford, Stephens, Stonewall, and Taylor counties.

The convention will begin with a business dinner meeting of the House of Delegates, Oct. 23 at 5:30 p.m. in the cafeteria of the Sweetwater High School.

The Monday general session will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the Coliseum with Mrs. Benson presiding.

Dr. Joe Starnes, superintendent of schools in Sweetwater, will welcome visiting educators and platform guests following special music by members of the high school choir under the direction of Frank McDonald.

Section meetings in subject-matter areas and interests will be combined with luncheons at various locations in Sweetwater following the general session.

Officers of District XIV serving with Mrs. Benson are Patsie Hamric of Rotan, secretary; James Jeter of Sweetwater, treasurer; and Ned Underwood of Snyder, president-elect.

Local teachers assisting Mrs. Benson in convention plans are Mrs. Michael Landrum, convention director; Mrs. Louis Wilburn, tickets; Charles Haggard, sectional meetings; Audry Todd, convention traffic; Wendell Whittenburg, exhibits; and Mrs. Dennis Hobbs, para-professionals.

Dr. English, keynote speaker, has had a wide range of experiences in the educational field. He has been a public school teacher, of band, science, and language arts. At the National College of Education in Evanstown, Illinois, he has been a researcher, teacher, and Dean of the Graduate School and Extension Service. The educator has a number of publications to his credit. Some are articles published in educational magazines and encyclopedias. Two of his most recent publications are "Meteorology: An Aviation Aerospace Science Kit" in 1976 and "Open Box: Ideas for Writing and Other Forms of Expression" in the same year.

Dr. English has received three degrees from the University of Wisconsin; a B.M. in 54, a M.S. in '57 and Ph.D. in '61. He is married and has four children.

State Of Extremes

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)-California is a state of extremes.

Within it, according to Rand McNally's "Mobil Travel Guide Series," are the lowest and highest points in the contiguous United States-Death Valley 282 feet below sea level and Mount Whitney 14,495 feet high.

CRMWD Revenues For Year Increase

Revenues gained more rapidly than expenses during the first three quarters of 1977, according to the monthly revenue statement of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

The net result is that the district has been able to transfer about $386,000 more to net revenues for the period, making $3,500,000 set aside for debt service and indentured funds during the first nine months.

Receipts for the three-quarter period amounted to $5,555,357, thanks to a robust $691,288 during September. Of the three-quarters resources, $3,547,457 came from sale of water to cities, $1,927,715 to industries and oil companies, $72,210 from recreation, and $7,974 miscellaneous. City sales were up by $469,000, industrial sales up $179,000.

Operating expenses of $2,041,491 were up by $270,000 for the period. The biggest single increase was $1,113,446 for electric energy, up $213,000 for the period. At the end of September Lake E.V. Spence had a reserve of 154,250 acre feet of water, and Lake J.B. Thomas 22,510 acre feet. Capacity on Lake Spence is 488,000 acre feet, Thomas 204,000 acre feet.

Why I Back The Chamber

By MILTON HAM

As a member of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce and a businessman, I know prosperous, growing communities don't just happen. They are planned. An essential ingredient in such planning is a central organization eternally watching community welfare and development.

That organization is the Snyder Chamber of Commerce. It is doing essential jobs no other organization can do. But to do these jobs it takes two—your Chamber and you.

Won't you join with me in continuing to make Snyder prosper by joining the Chamber during our Annual Investment Drive Week?

Basin's Rig Count Rises

There were 304 rotary drilling rigs operating last week in Permian Basin oil fields, according to Reed Drilling Equipment's weekly survey.

This represents an increase of four over the previous week and is 50 more than the number of rigs running in the Basin during the corresponding week in 1976.

Eddy County, N.M., led the Basin with 25 rigs operating, while Pecos County had 24.

The rig count in Scurry County remained unchanged at two.

The figures for other counties in this area, with last week and the week before, in order: Borden 3 and 1; Dawson 2 and 2; Fisher 6 and 5; Garza 1 and 1; Howard 6 and 7; Kent 2 and 1; Mitchell 4 and 5; Nolan 2 and 1; Stonewall 2 and 2.

Cartoonist Explains Gonzo

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)-"What does 'gonzo' mean?" a student in the University of Colorado audience asked writer Hunter Thompson, who uses the term to describe his brand of journalism.

"It means people like you asking me questions like that. It was good word I liked at the time," said Thomspon.

"But what does it mean?"

"Nothing," he said.

Thompson did tell his audience what it is like to be portrayed as a cartoon character (Uncle Duke) in Garry Trudeau's "Doonesbury" feature:

"A lot of people want to grow up to be firemen or president, but nobody wants to grow up to be a cartoon character. It's very strange."

MANY PROGRAMS OFFERED -- Area youngsters take advantage of many programs offered by the Scurry County Boy's Club, one of the agencies supported by the Scurry County United Way.

A United Way Agency

Boys' Club Membership Is Over 500 Each Year

The Scurry County Boys' Club has been serving boys in the Snyder area for over 20 years, with an average yearly membership of over 500 boys.

The club is open every day, except Sundays and six holidays during the year.

The Scurry County Boys' Club offers all boys a variety of programs, such as chess, checkers, backgammon, ping pong, pool, shuffleboard, fooseball, basketball, football, raquet ball and handball.

Anyboy may become a member of the Boys' Club. Yearly dues are kept low, ranging from 50 cents for boys 6 through 9 years, to $2 for boys 16 to 18. A boy may work at the club to earn his membership if he doesn't have the money for his dues.

The majority of the Boys' Club yearly operating funds come from the Scurry County United Way, with 98½ per cent of all funds being spend in Snyder.

National dues to Boys' Clubs of American requires 1½ per cent of the annual budget.

The Boys' Club building is available for use by clubs and organizations after normal operating hours.

Powdered Booze Is Being Studied

WASHINGTON (AP)-The ultimate in the dry martini may be headed for the American market-powdered booze.

The Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms is studying powdered alcohol, developed by a Japanese firm and being considered for sale in premixed cocktails.

The actual alcohol, still in liquid form, is in tiny particles suspended in a powder that looks like a gelatin desert mix.

And, in fact, the first sales of the product in Japan have been as a rose wine gelatin.

But cocktails in small cans or foil packets are bein studied for the American market. Global Marketing of Seattle, said distribution in this country depends on how the Treasury Department decides to tax the product.

A Treasury Department spokesman, who said the product's safety will be checked, noted that officials were having some problems deciding how to apply tax laws written for liquid alcohol to a powder.

Mike Hill of Global Marketing said initial plans, if the government approves, call for cocktails that could be made by simply adding water to the product.

He noted that there are pre-mixed cocktails on the market, as well as powdered mixes to which the drinker adds his own alcohol to make a cocktail, but said this powder would be less bulky and easier to use.

With the powdered product, for example, a customer could tear open an envelope, add water and have a whiskey sour, daiquiri, Bloody Mary or other cocktail, Hill said.

A government spokesman said the product could have a substantial effect on alcohol use, notably by campers and others carrying food into the wilds.

Alexander Laing became the first European to reach Timbuktu in 1826.

Food complaints a coverup?

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — I've been married for more than 10 years. Bob and I get along pretty well, but we really disagree about money. Our budget works out generally, except for the food allowance. He complains that we can't have his favorites often enough. But he won't increase the food budget.

DEAR READER — Since Bob's behavior in the area of food complaints seems to be so inconsistent with the way he usually relates to you, he may not really be complaining. He may merely be expressing the distress and frustration of being on a tight budget.

I am sure that there are things you would like to have but can't afford and that you complain from time to time. You sound as if you feel he is expecting you to fix his favorites even though you're on a limited budget. But if he knows the facts about food costs (have you discussed this with him?), then you can stop interpreting his complaints as a communication to make you feel guilty.

Commiserate with him. Try something like, "I like that dish, too. It's too bad that we can't afford to have it more often." Then change the subject.

However, there is another way of looking at this problem. Even though you say that you get along pretty well, Bob's complaints about your cooking may be a leaking out of dissatisfied feelings about related areas in your marriage.

Feeling some sense of not being taken care of and at the same time, not knowing what to ask for to feel better, he asks for the impossible. This expresses his irritation with you for not meeting his dependency needs.

If you take his complaints about food as an expression of his unmet needs in other areas you might be motivated to find new and more effective ways of expressing your love. You might find that he will become less demanding about his favorite foods.

While disagreements about money in a marriage are common, some differences represent a deeper rift. For example, a free spender may choose a mate whose spending is more restricted to put limits on his own impulses. And vice versa, someone who finds it difficult to spend money spontaneously may marry a free spender hoping the mate will give him "permission" to spend without feeling guilty.

If such considerations were crucial factors in their initial choice of each other as mates, one can see the conflict that develops. Each is depending on the other to curb the respective neurotic trait, yet each has a tremendous need to express that trait.

Taking some time to discuss each spouse's expectations of the other should help in at least getting some of the conflicts out in the open. Some professional help may be useful in resolving the problem.

Write to Dr. Blaker in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York NY 10019. Due to volume of mail she cannot reply personally, but questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns.

Many factors affect arteries

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband had a heart bypass operation. They told us one artery was completely blocked, two were partially blocked. They only did the one artery that was completely blocked and never explained why they didn't do all three.

Also I would like to know if there is cholesterol in veal liver?

DEAR READER — A limited amount of obstruction of an artery does not decrease the blood flow through it. As long as 70 per cent of the opening is still there the fatty cholesterol deposits won't make that much difference. There is a critical level of blockage that starts causing problems. The doctors probably felt on the basis of what they could see at the operation that a bypass around the partially blocked arteries would not significantly improve your husband's circulation to the heart.

You can improve his condition though by helping him eliminate or avoid obesity and having him on the proper diet. If he smokes he should stop. The success of many bypass operations depends on what kind of program a person follows after surgery. If the person persists in eating the wrong foods, being obese and smoking, the end result is not so good.

Yes, veal liver contains cholesterol, about 300 milligrams in a 100 gram (three and a half ounce) portion of raw liver. That small serving alone will take up all the allowed cholesterol for the whole diet for one day. All forms of liver are moderately high in cholesterol content.

To help you with a diet plan I am sending you the Health Letter number 1-3, Diet, Preventing Atherosclerosis. It will give you the general principles you need to follow. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y., 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 26 years old but the growth of hair on my chest is very scarce. There is more hair on the right half of my chest than on the left. Is there some way that more hair will develop on my left side or on my upper chest as a whole? Is there a chemical imbalance that may create this problem? Would cutting or shaving the hair I have create more?

The hair growth in other areas is adequate although not in large quantities even in the pubic region. I hope you can give me some advice to help.

DEAR READER — The best advice I can give you is to forget about it. I suspect your friends don't even notice it.

Before you have hair on the body you have to have hair follicles. It is an inherited characteristic for some people to have fewer follicles than others.

A normal male in all respects may have little hair on his body. Some race males are born with no significant amounts of hair anywhere, so hormones are not the answer.

Shaving your sparse hair will not help. It might cause your skin to itch but that is about all. What hair there is may be shorter and stiffer like a stubble but when it grows out it will be the same. Cutting hair does not affect its growth despite the old idea that it stimulates growth. I presume you have an adequate amount of hair on your head. Be glad you have it there rather than on your body.

Museum Acquires Carlyle Portrait

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)-A portrait by James Abbott McNeil Whistler of the Scottish philosopher Thomas Carlyle has been acquired by the Virginia Museum.

The museum says the portrait was painted from life in 1872, and was a study for Whistler's large painting "Arrangement in Grey and Black No. 2."

ASTRO-GRAPH
Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

Oct. 18, 1977

Try to be more of an inaugurator this coming year than you have been in the past. You'll move much faster if you initiate rather than vegetate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're not a general so don't treat the family like your personal army today. If you do, you could have a small but testy rebellion on your hands. Find out who you're romantically suited to by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Extreme sensitivity where your pride is concerned could mar this day. It may take only a sideways glance to reduce you to tears or anger.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Beware of well-meaning friends who try to steer you to bargains today. Their recommendations could be based on erroneous information.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Somewhere along the line you've stepped on the toes of one who exerts influence over your career. Today that person is in a position to retaliate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could be out of character today. You may look for the worst in others, rather than for their better qualities. It just isn't your style.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't permit yourself to be drawn into associations with those whose ideals and morals aren't up to your standards. This could taint you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Fortunately you're a rugged individualist. This will stand you in good stead today. Nobody will be behind you to give you a boost.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Co-workers must be treated with extreme tact today, particularly one you've had trouble with before. Another storm may be brewing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Make it a point today not to stick your nose into situations where you're neither involved or invited. You could be rebuffed or rebuked.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Avoid discussing what already is a sticky issue with your mate today. What was just simmering could turn into a real pot-boiler.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) As long as you're acting on your own volition, you'll be easy to get along with today. If you're ordered to do something, you'll become very balky.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Protect the tools of your trade and possessions today. An ounce of prevention could save you from the trauma of being ripped off.
