Drouth Relief Campaign Fund Goes Over Top

Red Cross Officials Announce Wednesday That A Total Of $10,005,828 Have Been Paid Into Organization

Total Of $185,400 Raised In Lone Star State; Delay In Reaching Goal Is Blamed On Senate Proposals

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 18. — The Red Cross campaign to raise $10,000,000 for drouth relief today reached its goal.

John Barton Payne, chairman, announced $10,005,828 had been contributed and that the organization's record of never failing in a campaign had been kept intact.

Delay Experienced

It took two months and five days, however, to raise the money which Chairman Payne told a congressional committee should be obtained in two weeks.

During the bitter drouth relief controversy in congress, Red Cross officials complained the organization seriously was embarrassed by senate proposals that congress appropriate and give money to the Red Cross.

Refuse Appropriation

Refusing to accept a government appropriation, the Red Cross continue its appeal to the public.

Payne said in addition to meeting the fund fully, the American people had contributed 621 carloads of foodstuffs.

Contributions by states included: Iowa, $106,600; Kansas, $55,100; Missouri, $264,500; Nebraska, $69,400; Oklahoma, $59,100; Texas, $185,400; Kentucky, $61,563.

Fresh Charges Are Lodged Against New Yorker

(By The Associated Press)

ALBANY, N. Y., March 18.—Removal of Mayor Walker of New York, on charges he had "condoned incompetence" and "encouraged corruption" in 10 specific instances, was asked of Governor Roosevelt by the City Affairs committee in a letter made public by the state's executive today.

The charges, appearing over the signatures of Dr. John Haynes Holmes, clergyman, and Rabbi Steven S. Wise, chairman and vice-chairman of the committee, were vigorous in their denunciation of the mayor's administration of government. They spoke of the mayor's "easy procrastination," "gross betrayal of public duty," his failure to speak "one clear and earnest word of disapproval and denunciation of this orgy of corruption in one department" and alleged he not only declined to help the inquiry into magistrates' courts "but actually sought in every way to obstruct and even block its progress."

Is Held Responsible

"Legally as well as morally," the letter said, "the mayor of New York is culpable for the corruption of his subordinates, the breakdown of his departments of government, the collapse of law and order, and the prevalence of low standards of public life under his administration."

The mayor, the letter charged, had brought the city's administration "into disrepute by daily neglect of the affairs of his office, by careless standards of public life and by complete indifference to the inefficiency and dishonesty of appointed subordinates."

The committee declared he had violated not only in spirit but in letter the section of the city charter under which he was charged to serve the people. A memorandum was attached to the letter purporting to bear out this charge.

Praise Given Market Week Upon Closing

Third Semi-Annual Affair Is Brought To Successful Close Wednesday; Salesmen Declare Business Was Good

Finis was written Wednesday afternoon to the third semi-annual market week in Lubbock as salesmen and representatives of the more than 80 firms who were entered in the show packed their sample cases and headed for the next stop.

Unanimous decision was that the show, from almost every angle, was a complete success. In attendance, in number of firms represented, in displays and along other lines the show was by far the largest held here.

Definite assurances were given by participating firms that the fall show would be larger and better than ever.

Need Good Crop

"This South Plains country is remarkable and, give us one good crop this summer, and we can come back," said E. B. Ward of the Perkins Dry Goods company. "This is the only country I know of where one crop will put it back on its feet. Take East Texas, where I came from, it takes three years or so."

Checkup of the salesmen left yesterday indicated they had sold as many, if not more dresses, than had been expected.

"We had a very satisfactory business," W. H. Johnston, representing Higginbotham-Bailey-Logan. "We sold a lot of dresses and ready-to-wear. I have no complaint to make. I had new shipments every day, too."

Murray, Miss Newby's married sweetheart, that his car had been left there March 3. Murray had said two men threw him out of his car in the forestry March 2, beat him into unconsciousness and kidnaped his companion.

Lieut. Lester Laird of the county highway police announced the letter had "cast all suspicion" from the 47-year-old engineering salesman.

JOLIET, Ill., March 18.—Flaming riot held sway in the new Stateville penitentiary for one mad hour today.

The short lived mutiny by 1,800 howling convicts, climax to a week of stifled rebellion, ended with five buildings prey to fire and three mutineers wounded. Damage was estimated at $300,000.

The cowed remainder were safely in their cells when the first company of state militia marched through the prison gate at 3:30 p. m.

Surging into a furious start in the prison chair factory, the revolt spread until nearly every convict out of his cell had joined to widen destruction.

Before 3 p. m. Warden Henry C. Hill and prison guards had subdued the rioters and by 3:30 firemen from

Governor Sterling, Railroad Commission Urge Application Of T. & P. Be Granted By Interstate Body

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 18. — Governor Sterling and the railroad commission today asked the interstate commerce commission to grant the application of the Texas and Pacific Northern railroad, subsidiary of the Texas and Pacific, to construct a new railroad from Big Spring to Lubbock, Amarillo and Vega.

The governor urged the granting of the application because of "the existing necessity of this road which would penetrate a vast virgin agricultural area" and because the road would "afford additional needed railroad outlets to competitive marketing sections."

Represented Here

The railroad commission was represented at the hearing on the application at Lubbock in December. It stated that "in our opinion the testimony was conclusive, showing an existing necessity authorizing the construction of the proposed line of railway for the reason that the road would penetrate, open and intensely develop a new, rich and virgin undeveloped agricultural territory."

The three commissioners stated further that additional transportation facilities, both freight and passenger, were needed to develop competitive markets for the area to be served and that the new railway would afford a needed north-south system connecting with the parent east-west line.

Starvation And Death Face 118 Men As They Huddle On Tiny Arctic Isle

Rescue Ships Battle Gamely Through Icy Seas

(By The Associated Press)

ST. JOHNS, N. F., March 18. — Seven stout ships of the far north poked their noses against an enormous ice barrier today, desperately trying to carry aid to tiny La Barbe island, over which hovered a threat of starvation and death.

On the island, without medical aid or proper food supplies, huddled 118 survivors of the explosion that sank the sealer Viking Sunday in White Bay, Newfoundland.

Aboard two of the rescue ships were six other survivors. Some of them were in agony with injuries and all of them faint from exposure to the cold.

Find Charred Wreckage

Roaming the murky waters of the bay in an attempt to find or break a crevasse in an ice barrier five miles wide, the sealers Eagle and Neptune came upon a mass of charred wreckage, timbers and clothing floating amid the icy cakes. That was the spot where the Viking, carrying a party of American movie men, was rent asunder, probably by an explosion of blasting powder.

From the debris, the rescuers picked a shattered body, unidentified and frozen stiff. It was the first recovered of a score feared dead.

Driving Car Stolen From This City On March 7 When Officers Make Arrest; Name Is Not Known Here

One of the Muleshoe jail-breakers of March 7 is thought to have been apprehended at Ardmore, Oklahoma, according to information received Wednesday from Oklahoma officers. The man's name was not given in the message.

The car, which the man was driving at the time of his capture, was recognized as a Buick coupe, 1930 model, missing since the night of Saturday, March 7, when it was taken from 1208 15th street, in this city. It was also occupied by three women and was loaded with groceries, Oklahoma officers said. The stolen car belonged to George Crossman, of Panhandle.

Identity Placed

The arrested man has been identified as one of the three men who sawed their way from the Bailey county jail, Saturday, March 7, and appropriated Sheriff Howard Sterling's car. The same night the sheriff's car was found abandoned on highway No. 7, about three miles northwest of Lubbock, and a short time later Crossman reported his Buick coupe stolen. The three jailbreakers were: Finis and Farley Hughes, charged with violation of the liquor laws, and A. T. Young, charged with theft.

Belgian Maestro's Race With Death Is Won And Triumphant Opera Scores

(By The Associated Press)

LIEGE, Belgium, March 18.—Eugene Ysaye, 73, Belgium's beloved violin maestro and once director of the Cincinnati symphony orchestra, has won the race he ran with death, writing a triumphant opera as he ran.

Ysaye is recovering after amputation of his right leg, done to end two years of suffering. During his illness, and while the shadow of death often was near he constantly was attended by his wife, daughter of Dr. Herman Dincin, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians visited him almost daily.

When physicians informed him he must undergo the operation he was writing his opera, "Peter the Miner," which recently was sung with great success for the first time at Leige. He ordered preparations to be made for the operation. Gradually the score assumed form in the hospital, and he often played or hummed strains of the music.

When he recovered, the opera was produced under the auspices of the king and queen.

Consternation Rife In Texas Over Decision

Action On All Local Bills In Texas Legislature Is Suspended Following Decision Of Supreme Court

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 18.—Consternation was rife in legislative halls of Texas tonight as the result of a supreme court decision, handed down shortly before noon, which held, in effect, that hundreds of so-called "local" laws passed by the legislature were unconstitutional.

Action on all local bills in both houses was withheld pending an investigation of the scope of the decision.

Mandamus Action

The supreme court held the legislature did not have the right to pass a general law whose application was limited solely to one county or city and never could affect another county or city. The decision was made in a mandamus action brought by the city of Fort Worth to compel the attorney general to approve special assessment bonds levied by the city under an act passed by the last legislature.

"We hold that a law that has uniform application throughout the state, to cities of a certain class, as to population, or other legitimate classification, is not repugnant to the constitutional provisions even though there is only one city in the state of that class, but when the law is so drawn that it applies to only one city, and can never apply to any but this one city in any possible event, the law is unconstitutional and void because such law is not based on classification but on isolation," the supreme court held.

Speaker Fred Minor said he would study a copy of the opinion and confer with house floor leaders to determine what action, if any, could

Six-Year-Old Dallas Girl Is Victim Of Criminal Attack

DALLAS, March 18. (AP)—An unidentified youth, described as being 17 or 18 years old, today attacked a six-year-old Dallas girl as she was walking home from school accompanied by a boy of her own age.

The children said the youth accosted them as they reached a bridge across Cedar creek. He took the little girl in his arms and carried her into the creek bottom, later taking her along the creek to the Santa Fe railway tracks, where he released her. The child was placed under the care of a physician. She was reported severely injured.

Ten Years Given Mal S. Daugherty

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O., March 18 (AP)—Convicted of abstracting funds from the defunct Ohio State bank while he was the president, Mal S. Daugherty, brother of Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general under President Warren G. Harding, today was sentenced to spend 10 years in Ohio penitentiary and pay a fine of $5,000. Judge Charles S. Bell also ruled Daugherty must pay the cost of prosecution.

After Judge Bell overruled a motion for new trial and passed sentence, counsel for Daugherty was granted 20 days to take the case to the appeals court.

Commenting on the verdict, Judge Bell said it was warranted by the weight of the evidence.

Deliberations Of Jury Start This Morning

Case Given To Body At 10:25 Last Night After Arguments Of State Attorneys Asked Supreme Penalty

Graves On Stand

In Effort To Dodge Electric Chair, Lubbock Youth Takes Stand To Testify He Shot In Self-Defense

THE FATE of Alvis Graves, charged with murder as the result of a shooting at a dance in this city on January 11 in which two men, Horace L. Smith and Robert Averett were fatally shot and three other people wounded, was in the hands of twelve men this morning.

The case, that of the charge for Smith's slaying, was given to the jury at 10:25 last night after a crowded courtroom of people heard spirited argument by both the state and defense in a night session before Judge Homer L. Pharr in 72nd district court. The jury retired without beginning deliberations which will be taken up the first thing this morning.

Death Is Demanded

The death penalty was demanded by both Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney and L. A. Howard, assisting him by appointment of the court, in their pleas before the jury. W. W. Campbell and J. E. Vickers, defense counsel, made pleas for the acquittal of the defendant.

Throughout both the morning and night session Wednesday, the courtroom was filled with curious spectators, several hundred of them remaining in the room from 7 o'clock in the morning until after the case was given the jury last night. Many had their lunch brought to them at the noon hour. It was estimated that approximately 1,000 people were in the room last night when the arguments were presented.

Defendant Testifies

Wednesday morning's session was featured by the testimony of the defendant, who testified for over two hours regarding various details leading up to the shooting and incidents just prior to the affair. He declared he opened fire on the two men only after he 'thought they were going to kill me,' bringing out the self defense plea waged by his counsel.

Following the close of testimony, the entire afternoon was spent in the preparation of the charge by the court. The night session got under way shortly before 7 o'clock.

Burks opened the argument for the state in which he announced the state's demands for the extreme penalty, citing its opinion that the defendant was a menace to society and that the case was one in which all people should be interested in.

Earnest In Speech

"We certainly don't want this defendant turned loose," Burks almost shouted to the jurors as he became engrossed in his message. "He is guilty of premeditated murder in the highest degree or he is guilty of no crime at all, and we want the jury to decide it that way."

He went on giving detailed readings of the court's charge and citing where the state's case rested in its clauses.

Burks declared Graves had plan-

Expect Out-Of-Town Women To Attend Baptist Two-Day Conference

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

IT SEEMS that some Lubbock women had a club with a fancy name — Spanish, French or something of the sort—and one of the members was asked the meaning. She didn't know and some men were so amused at the incident that it finally got around to me.

And while I'm offering no defense for the woman, this story might help.

Some men here had a club. One day it was thought advisable to run a story about one of the meetings in the paper and we didn't know how it was spelled. Several members were called but no one was sure of the method. Each was a little embarrassed over the incident, we could tell, and each suggested that it ended in an "er" or an "or" and that we might take our choice as probably no one knew the way, anyway. And every member is well educated.

TODAY'S BUSINESS WOMAN

RECENTLY an article was published about today's business woman and her superiority. Her slogan is "to look well, feel well and be well" the writer said, elaborating on the charm of today's stenographer or professional woman.

The successful business woman is well for she realizes the necessity of this one thing. The day when women were semi-invalids is past. There isn't time in the rush of today for one to think enough of illness to imagine ailments. The average woman in business must be at her desk six days out of every seven and good health is a necessity if she is efficient in her work.

I don't believe that organic ills can be cured through thinking that they do not exist, but it is possible for one to imagine that he is ill until he actually is. And women are more subject to this than men.

Good health is the fad today and most of us cultivate it, but there was a time when invalidism was fashionable.

Here is something else in the same theme that may be interesting. Dr. Edwin E. Jacobs, president of a college in Ashland, O., has studied the physical measurements of 6,000 girl freshmen in five institutions of higher learning during the last half century.

He has found a steady increasing vigor among them and the measurements have been based on weight, height and lung capacity.

Among the reasons for this increase in vigor, Dr. Jacobs suggests that the girls may now come from a different stratum of society; physical education in high school may have its effect; the general health conditions of all homes are better than formerly; the general physical vigor of this part of the population is improving; vigorous and robust girls may take more interest in college now than formerly, but his study has revealed that as far as the college girl is concerned, there is no decline in physical vigor.

WEARING MORE COTTON

THE LATEST slogan sent out from the extension bureau at A. and M. college is to "wear cotton clothes and hose and be in style."

Cotton was never more popular than it is now, we are told, and there are cotton fabrics for every occasion. Even cotton hose may be bought of such quality that they can't be distinguished from silk across the room."

There are cotton tweeds, charmeuse, ginghams, prints, organides—cotton materials in a variety of weights and weaves and this is a season which promises to use a lot of this staple, so that the campaign probably will have encouraging results—except for the hose. And, much as I favor the use of more cotton, I think the hose are going to be hard to put across. There is something about the feel of silk hose and the way they look that make the thought of cotton unpopular.

However, having faith in the ability of manufacturers, I'm not going to be surprised if cotton hose is put on the market that will be as satisfactory as the silk ones.

Rare Coffees from Central America
Twice the Richness . . . Twice the Flavor

(FUNG GALLOWAY)
From Lofty Mountain Plantations Mules Carry These Coffees to Town.

Coffees That Experts Concede Are Not Duplicated Anywhere Else in the World

HAVE you tasted it yet? This rare flavor in coffee that people everywhere are talking about.

It comes from tiny mountain districts along the West Coast of Central America. A region where Nature produces coffees that, experts concede, are not duplicated anywhere else in the world. Coffees with a rare tang and mellow, rich body that spoils your taste for ordinary kinds. Coffees that are never "flat," or thin, or bitter. Coffees from which Nature leaves out the "rough" offensive oils.

Introduced by Folger

Years ago this coffee was first served in the famous Bohemian restaurants of San Francisco where it was introduced by Folger. Travelers tasting it there were captivated by its unusual flavor. Flavor produced by a peculiar combination of rich volcanic soil, altitude, sun's rays and tropic rainfall—that is found nowhere else in the world.

(FOLGER PHOTO)

The Folger Test

Would you like to see for yourself just how different these coffees are—in richness and in flavor? Here's a test that is as simple as it is fair.

Tomorrow morning drink Folger's. The next morning drink the coffee you have been using. The third morning drink Folger's again. In a morning or two you will decidedly favor one or the other; the best coffee wins. That's fair, isn't it? 105

KILGORE, March 18 (AP) — East Texas oil men and others meeting here last night passed resolutions praising railroad Commissioners Neff and Terrell, criticizing Commissioner Smith for "turning against his East Texas home folks" in saying that proration would be enforced here if ordered, and offering to accept proration if petroleum imports were curtailed.

A COLLEGE COLUMN

By MARSHALL FORMBY, TECH CORRESPONDENT

EXAMS CONTINUE

Final examinations for the winter term in Texas Technological college continue today as follows:

From 8-10 o'clock all classes meeting at 8 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

From 10:30-12:30 o'clock all classes meeting at 2 o'clock on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

From 2-4 o'clock all classes meeting at 9 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

The last of the final exams for this term will be held tomorrow morning.

WILL REPEAT COURSE

Because of the popularity of the "Easy Guest Meals" class offered by the Tech school of home economics through the extension department to the women of Lubbock, plans are being made to repeat the course as soon as the present one is composed. Only 16 may be enrolled in the course at a time and practically enough women of the city already have signified their intentions of taking the course to complete the enrollment.

Under the direction of Miss Jonnie McCrery, head of the Tech Foods department the eight lessons will be taught by Miss Ella May Lyle of the Lubbock high school. The classes will meet on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7:30 o'clock in room 107 of the home economics building.

No date has yet been set as to when the next course will start but it probably will be sometime next month. Tuition fee is $3 for the eight lessons.

IN WAR HOSPITAL

Andrew J. Ligon, former Tech student, is now in a hospital at National Military Home, Kansas. Ligon, a World war veteran, has been confined in the hospital since January.

He was enrolled in Tech last fall and was a reporter on the Tech Toreador, student newspaper.

LANTERNS RECEIVED

Six dozen Chinese lanters which will hang from the ceiling at the annual Texas Tech architect's ball in April have been received, Prof. F. A. Kleinschmidt, head of the Tech architectural department said yesterday. The lanterns were received from China.

To the man and the woman wearing the most unique costume to the ball on April 4, a special Chinese prize, which also has been received, will be given. Each woman attending will be given a Chinese fan as a souvenir.

The dance, which will be given in the basement of the engineering building, is an annual attraction of the Tech architects. The floor of the basement will be waxed and special music will be obtained. Chinese motif will be carried out in the decorations.

NO TOREADOR TODAY

Because this is examination week and members of the staff will not have time to gather material, no edition of The Toreador, student newspaper, will be issued today, according to Frank Emison, editor.

Work on the next edition will begin Monday, Emison has announced. Students who wish to try out as reporters will be given a chance next week, he further added.

PLAN STUDENT BANQUET

Carrying out the theme of miniature golf, Methodist students of Tech and of the city will gather at the Hilton hotel March 24 for the Methodist Young People's banquet. Dr. J. Richard Spann, pastor of the St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church of Abilene, will be the main speaker and Robert Martin, Tech student from Graham, will be toastmaster.

Most of those attending will be Tech students and tickets were placed on sale this week at 75 cents each. Rev. J. O. Haymes, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of this city, will also be one of the speakers.

CALL FOR CONTESTANTS

All students who are to enter the oratorical contest must see me by next Tuesday," Miss Annah Jo Pendleton, acting head of the Tech speech department and who is in charge, said yesterday. The orations, which will be composed by each contestant, will be on "Peace."

Winner of the Tech contest will be given $50 which is to be used for entrance in the state contest at the University of Texas at Austin in May. The state winners will receive $60 for first prize and $40 for second.

The state winner will not be required to go to the national contest but will be allowed to enter his manuscrip. Prizes also will be given the first two winners in the national contest.

TO INSTALL OFFICERS

Formal installation of the new officers for the Tech Y. M. C. A. probably will be held the second week of the spring term, Jack Boyd, Tech secretary has announced. At the election which was held March 13 the following students were elected to offices:

President, Donald Wellenman; vice-president, Riley Millard; secretary, Wiley Loughmiller, and treasurer, Houston Rinson.

Temple City National Bank Closed; To Pay Depositors

TEMPLE, March 18. (AP)—The City National bank, Bell county depository, was closed today while a group of business men attempted to effect a reorganization. It's affairs temporarily were in the hands of National bank examiners. It failed to open for business yesterday.

Officials said several large withdrawals had depleted the bank's cash reserve to a point where an impending run would have wrecked the institution. They claimed the bank was solvent and depositors could be paid in full.

ENGROSS AMENDMENT

AUSTIN, March 18 (AP)—By a vote of 78 to 47 the house today engrossed a proposed constitutional amendment by Representative Beck of Fort Worth to allow counties to adopt home rule charters. The resolution must receive 100 votes on final adoption before it can be submitted to the electorate.

Nearly 50 warehouses have been built at the Saloniki Free Zone in Greece.

Truck Operators Favored In Bill

AUSTIN, March 18 (AP)—Governor Sterling today signed the bill designed to end out-of-state truck operators complaints about having to buy Texas licenses for an occasional trip to this state.

The bill, introduced by Senator Berkeley, of Alpine, became a law immediately upon the governor's signature. It allows operators of trucks licensed in another state to make two four-day trips into Texas each month without having to buy a license.

Residents of Oklahoma along the Rio Grande recently complained to their highway commission about having to buy Texas licenses.

The governor also signed a bill giving the John Sealy hospital at Galveston the right of eminent domain to acquire some land for a nurses' home. This law was a general measure of local application, however, and the supreme court today held all such acts unconstitutional.

The bill deeding certain lands to Texas City for a government dike was approved by the governor.

CONTRACT SIGNED

NACOGDOCHES, March 18 (AP)—A contract was signed today with the Pace Petroleum company of Oklahoma to resume drilling in the Pioneer Burke-Latimer well, taking it down to a depth of 5,000 feet. It now is 4,100 feet deep.

Roosevelt's Big Problem

GOVERNOR Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, whose name is often linked with 1932 Democratic Presidential possibilities, has an opportunity to crowd himself further into the nation's political limelight. Further than that—and what is more important to Governor Roosevelt as a political personality—he has a chance to place himself in a more favorable light with Southern Democrats.

For before Governor Roosevelt this morning there rests the case of dapper, wise-cracking, Tammany-tite Mayor Walker, of New York City—the target of numerous and deep-seated charges. Accusations of inefficiency and neglect in the affairs of his office have been bursting about Mayor Walker's head for several weeks and to make matters even more touchy, the Mayor responded to the charges by running off to California 'for a rest'.

New York newspapers—even the Democratic newspapers—have been howling for the play-boy's scalp, along with their Republican contemporaries. They have dug up the particularly odious vice 'frame' story, perpetrated by city patrolmen and detectives. They have dug up the purchasing of municipal judgeships with such accuracy and dispatch that several New York judges are listed as 'missing'. They have connected Tammany Hall, Mayor Walker's supporting organization, with this, that and the other political malfeasance until the Mayor's position, to turn to contract bridge, is wholly vulnerable. So far has the stench been carried that it has reached Governor Roosevelt's office in Albany and it is now very definitely up to Governor Roosevelt to do something appropriate to the question.

Far removed from New York, The Morning Avalanche is not as familiar as it might be with the political record of Mayor Walker. Following the case through New York newspapers, however, it appears from this vantage point that Democracy may best be served by ouster proceedings against the Mayor. And Franklin D. Roosevelt stands in a position to improve or weaken his own position as a result of the problem which now lays before him.

It is no secret that Southern Democrats eye Governor Roosevelt with suspicion, first, because of his opposition to the prohibition laws; second, because he hails from New York and the far Northeast; third because Tammany Hall, as Walker's supporting body stands between the Governor and the Mayor. Southern Democrats, we believe, will be impressed, one way or another, with Governor Roosevelt's action on the Walker case.

Whether Governor Roosevelt, as an individual aspirant to the Presidential nomination, 'clicks' with Southern Democrats means little to The Morning Avalanche and to the average South Plains citizen. But if Governor Roosevelt turns out to be our party's strongest candidate, then his ability to impress the South becomes important to us all.

Frankly, Governor Roosevelt is not our first choice for the nomination. Neither is he our second, third or fourth choice. But if he is the nominee of the party we hope to be able to support him actively—just as the individual voter of this section hopes to do. And for this reason, it is to be hoped that Governor Roosevelt's decision in the Walker case is first, fair and just; second, courageous and honest.

STANDARDIZING SPEECH

Motion pictures and the radio are working toward standardization of speech in the United States where dialects are only less numerous than they are in Germany and France. While this is an avowed objective of both, it would also be an ultimate development without any design on their part. People learn to talk by listening, and everyone is now listening to the radio and talkies.

For several years radio announcers have been teaching radio listeners how to speak "high English" by exercising care in their own enunciation and pronunciation. Their efforts cannot have been wholly in vain.

A University of Southern California professor claims the talkies are supplementing this nation-wide school of oral education. He is of the opinion that the talkies will eventually accomplish more in this direction than the radio and that national standardization of speech is but a few years off, due to the influence of talking motion pictures.

The talkies and radio may in time reform the "American language," but the public is not certain that it yearns for such reform. Would life be as interesting without the soft speech and charming elisions of the Southerner, without the Harvard accent of New England, without the picturesque New Yorkese of Al Smith, and without the drawl of the mountaineer and the peculiarities of speech of the Pennsylvania Dutch and similar provincial colonies?

If the films and ether waves succeed in this movement, they will have accomplished something in which a vast educational system has failed.

Disrespect for constitutional law is the price paid for constitutional freedom.

Practical Health Problems

RHEUMATISM INFECTION

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Most authorities are convinced that the tendency to rheumatism runs in families, although unquestionably the environment in which the person lives plays a large part, particularly as concerns the likelihood of infection.

The Ministry of Health of Great Britain found an hereditary factor in 6 per cent of men and in 48 per cent of women with rheumatic complaints. The rheumatoid condition can develop at any age and can affect the human being at almost any period in life. Both chorea, which is presumed to belong to the same group of diseases, and rheumatic joints occur from three to six times more frequently in women than in men.

The general study of statistics of people with these disorders shows that cold, damp surroundings are a frequent factor in association with the onset of rheumatic conditions. Not infrequently the person affected has been chilled by exposure to rain or cold before the onset of the disease.

Of particular importance in the occurrence of rheumatic infection is previous infection with influenza, scarlet fever, or an acute rheumatic complaint. Indeed, almost any infection with the streptococcus seems to lead ultimately to a rheumatic condition. This is particularly true when the infection is located in the teeth, the tonsils or the throat. The sinuses sometimes may be involved and serve as the focus from which the infection is carried to the joints.

It seems quite possible that there is some change in the joints or in the general nutrition of the person concerned which makes it possible for the infection to arise in some cases, whereas it will not be able to gain access to the joints in other cases. These factors may be physical factors, such as are involved in the rate of blood flow to the joints or factors of nutrition which seem to upset the acid-alkali balance in the blood.

It seems quite possible that there may be instances in which disorders of the functions of the glands of internal secretion are at the base of the constitutional disturbance which eventuates in a rheumatic condition.

If She Were A Man

By CHARLES P STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 18. — The Nineteenth amendment has not yet sufficiently transformed American politics for a woman to be seriously considered as a presidential possibility.

Otherwise that is just what Representative Mary T. Norton of New Jersey would be at this very minute.

There has been a lot of talk about what Chairman Raskob and Al Smith, Senators Joe Robinson and Cameron Morrison, Senator-elect Cordell Hull, ex-Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio and other notabilities had to say at the recent Democratic national committee meeting in Washington, but Mrs. Mary T. Norton's was the knock-out speech made at that meeting, by a wide margin.

It not only was a corking good speech for a woman; it was a humdinger of a speech for anyone.

IT HAPPENS that it was a wet speech, and wet-and-dry feeling is so bitter that it may be difficult to get drys to admit what an oratorical pippin it was, but there was wet speeches and wet speeches, just as there are dry speeches and dry speeches. When a wet hears a bell-ringer, considered as one of the latter, he ought to be broad-minded enough to recognize it, and a dry ought to be equally broad-minded when he hears one of the former.

Having made a wet speech, Mrs. Norton naturally would not thereby have made herself, by good rights, but for her sex, a Democratic presidential possibility if it were not that her party so obviously is headed down the wet alley.

Such being the case, however, there is no question that she put in the best licks for the wet cause at that committee meeting that have been scored in its favor since prohibition was adopted.

MANY dispatches have told already how, when Senator Robinson, seeking to head off the wet trend, inquired in his thunderous, awesome tones, "Do you believe that if we run up the flag of repeal, the women of this country will rally to the Democratic party?" Mrs. Norton instantly responded, "The womanhood of America will be the strongest factor in bringing about the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment."

But it is doubtful whether any except those present can fully appreciate the frightfully devastating effect of this utterance, coming from the source it did, upon the Robinsonian argument.

Of course the shot had to be fired by a woman to blow the senator so completely to pieces.

YET AT THAT, it took an exceptional woman to do it so thoroughly and to follow up her advantage with Mrs. Norton's remorseless energy.

Senator Robinson is an experienced debater, big and impressive and none too amiable of temper, but he staggered like a fighter who has run unexpectedly and wide-open into a terrific solar plexus jolt when this sock-dolager by the New Jersey congresswoman landed on him. It was a lame finish he made, and Mrs. Norton was directly after him on the platform.

What she did to the Arkansan was a plenty. Figuratively speaking, she laid him over her knee and spanked him until he hollered. The imposing Joseph T. Robinson—Democratic leader in the United States senate!

IT MUST NOT be forgotten that Robinson was not too dry to run for vice president in wet company in 1928.

It had not slipped Mrs. Norton's memory and she reminded him of it.

Robinson is a ready man with a come-back in most discussions, but this was one that he was flabbergasted. He simply sat and took his licking. Even the drys in the audience had to chuckle.

It was no joke, though.

The political consensus after it was over was that Robinson's presidential boom was done for. Mrs. Norton made him look ridiculous, and there is nothing more fatal to presidential aspirations.

INASMUCH as the time has not yet come for a woman to be named at the head of a national ticket, Mrs. Norton is richly entitled to the vice presidential nomination anyway, if the Democratic wets make their party's selections next year.

She will not get it.

The more certain it appears that the wets will dominate the Jeffersonians' 1932 convention, the more correspondingly certain it is that they will pick a dry as their candidate for the vice presidency—in an effort to placate the arid element.

Nevertheless, they would have settled on Mrs. Norton already if there were any such thing as gratitude in politics, and personally I think it would be good judgment.

The Wild Man of the Pennsylvania Pampas, who rode into the governorship on a platform promising free electricity to all, has discovered that he isn't the legislature.

It remains to be seen whether winter is over, the drouth is ended, business will soon boom again and Hoover will be reelected.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

To keep life from growing too dull in Red Thrush, Iowa, GINGER ELLA TOLLIVER, daughter of a minister and stepdaughter of the wealthy and indulgent former PHIL VAN DOORN, organized a Junior Country Club.

BARD HOLLOWAY, a young artist who was hoboing through the country, stopped in Red Thrush. Attracted by Ginger, he agreed to stay and paint portraits and decorate the clubhouse. He suggested sending to Chicago for NICOLO CALLENO, who could cook and sing and strum a guitar.

But Nicolo could not come. In his place came three of his countrymen. ANGELO could play; PIETRO could cook; BENITO could sing. Ginger took them on. Beginning to realize he was in love with Ginger, Bard suggested leaving. But Phil persuaded him to stay longer as their guest, and she wrote to SPEED RONEY, a former friend of Ginger's and invited him. She felt he would give Bard some competition.

Ginger met this move by inviting PATTY SEARS to take care of Speed. When Speed wired that he was bringing his sister she also persuaded EDDY JACKSON to come, and Eddy decided to ball things up by keeping Ginger and Bard separated. This he did. Speed's sister's nickname was COTTON. Eddy devilishly contrived to keep her and Bard together while he stuck to Ginger and paired Patty off with Speed. Everyone had a miserable time.

Meanwhile, Benito had made a trip to Chicago and returned with presents for all and a plan to kidnap Ginger and hold her for ransom. He bided his time out at Mill Rush, site of the club, and waited for his opportunity.

When Speed Roney, not knowing how matters stood, told Bard that Ginger and Eddy Jackson were engaged, Bard determined to leave. And at that point of the proceedings Ginger disappeared. Shortly afterward a note was found, containing instructions and a demand for $30,000. Phil immediately wired to Chicago for the money and a pair of private detectives.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIV

"It seems weeks," said Patty faintly. "And it was only this morning."

"Lots can happen in a day," said Phil drearily, but she added at once brightly, "and lots can happen in a night, too. Perhaps she will be with us for breakfast."

After what seemed interminable waiting, it was time to drive in to the station to meet the midnight train, and Phil decided that she and Mr. Tolliver should go alone to give their first instructions to the detectives and make clear their determination to accede to the demands of the abductors.

Huddled in an anxious group, the others watched them driving swiftly down the lane and then turned nervously back to the brightness of the big room.

"We seem so—few—without Ginger," said Patty timidly.

Both Phil and Mr. Tolliver were favorably impressed by the detectives, Marker and Holt. They were quiet in manner, rather unobtrusive than otherwise, extremely businesslike.

Marker said they would like as much advance information as possible before meeting the others of the household, and they drove out to Doorndee for a conference.

Phil gave a brief account of what had happened, described the general layout of the establishment at Mill Rush, and, at Marker's request, gave him a written list of Ginger's guests, names and address, and of the servants.

With Pat and Eddy, known to the Tollivers from childhood, he was quickly satisfied, and showed little interest in blind Benny and his wife, but of all the strangers, guests as well as servants, he asked searching questions and took the names of every one known to be connected with any of them.

Phil's efficient habits proved useful then, for she was quickly able to oblige him, giving Speed's father in Massachusetts and the references Bard had given when he first came, which she had not bothered to investigate. She turned over to him, with the references of the Italians, the answers she had received to her letters of inquiry.

Marker was frank to say that his offhand suspicions lay with Benito, Angelo and Pietro.

"I regret to say that we suspect them, too," admitted Phil reluctantly, "but it is only because they are foreigners. They are devoted to Ginger they love their work, and

Medals Sought For Two Heroes After Tragedy Which Claimed Lives Of Two

PALACIOS, March 18. (AP) — A movement was underway here today to obtain medals for two heroes of the tragedy here Saturday afternoon which took the lives of two children, one of them the 14-year-old girl who sacrificed her life in a vain effort to save an eight-year-old playmate from drowning.

The body of the girl, Tressie Huffhines, was recovered yesterday. That of the boy, Clyde Pennland, son of A. A. Pennland, had not been recovered.

Boy Took Charge

Ten-year-old Glenn Pennland is the other hero. He it was who took charge in the rotted and waterlogged skiff in which six children, five of the Pennland family and the Huffhines girl, Mrs. Pennland's sister, were playing about noon Saturday at a wharf on the old Pierce ranch, across the bay from Palacios, when the rope holding the boat to the wharf parted and the old skiff began drifting out on the rough water of the bay.

As the boat drifted farther into the bay Tressie pulled off the rubber boots she was wearing and jumped overboard and struck out for shore to bring aid to the frightened children in the boat. She had almost gained the wharf when Clyde, distracted with fear, jumped out of the boat. He did not remove his boots and could not remain afloat. When Tressie saw he was sinking she turned and swam to his rescue. She reached him as he went down the third time but was unable to drag him to shore. She sank with him.

Buffeted By Waves

The old boat began to take water as it was buffeted by the rougher waves, and Glenn began bailing with an old bucket with which the children had been playing.

Two-year-old John Pennland, Glenn's baby brother, and the other two children, also brothers of Glenn, were crying and screaming. Several times, Glenn said in telling the story, as the waves threatened to engulf the little boat, first one and then another of the frightened children, none of them more than babies, would try to climb over its side into the water to swim to shore. Glenn would pull the child back with one hand as he frantically bailed the boat with the other.

For more than two hours the boat drifted. Then after covering more than three miles it came near to the Palacios side of the bay where the screams of the children could be heard, and boats put out and took them from the skiff and brought them to shore.

Short Course Being Planned

Dawson County Is To Stage Annual Affair On March 23, 24 And 25; Many Are Expected to Attend

(Special To The Avalanche)

LAMESA, March 18.—The short course for Dawson county will be held March, 23, 24 and 25 so states W. W. Evans, county agent who is arranging the annual affair. This year new features are added and will include a meat show, yard beautification demonstrations as well as poultry, dairy and hog short course.

The Palace theater which will seat a thousand people, has been secured in which the exhibitions will be held. The meat show will likely be held in a vacant building across the street from the Palace theater for the convenience of all attending all sessions. Last year more than 3,000 people attended the short course and Evans is predicting a large attendance this year on account of the interest already manifested in the plans.

Much local as well as outstanding out of county talent will be secured and used during this course it is stated.

Due to the fact that Dawson county farmers have been the past two years very much interested in Dairying and Poultry expecially and that much recent interest is being manifested in canned meats, herds contest and hogs it is predicted that the short course will be attended by at least 2,000 and probably 3,000 farmers and farm wives this year.

Drouth Relief Loans Totaled

Thirty-five Checks Have Been Received Of Applications Sent From Lubbock County; Service Is Rapid

One hundred and thirty-four checks totaling $22,473.75 of the federal farm relief loans have been handled through the Lubbock county office, according to a statement made Wednesday by J. B. Shannon, representative of the county committee.

Thirty-five checks have been received out of the 60 applications made from here at the Ft. Worth office. This is much better service than was received from the St. Louis office which, until the founding of the Texas branch about two weeks ago, was the federal relief headquarters for this territory.

Average amount of checks received so far by the Lubbock office is slightly more than $170.

Not quite half of the total number of applications sent in have had returns. It is believed that the rest will be heard from soon.

Owing to the number of changes in regulations, many of which were not announced until the applications were received at headquarters, there has been a delay in handling many cases. Local committees have been prompt to check all applications and to forward them to headquarters.

F. C. Rector is in charge of the Slaton office. Most of his work has been for residents of other counties rather than for people living in Lubbock county.

That the Maharanee of Cooch Behar is responsible for the return of the long skirt to the dance floor, is the belief of many of fashion's followers in London. She was very fond of dancing during her visits to London and looked so particularly slim and graceful in her sari compared with the English "legginess" that many society women adopted the idea of long skirts.

After 18 Years, Eye-Witness Account Presidential Assassination Released

MEXICO CITY, March 18. (AP)—Excelsior, in its fifteenth anniversary edition today, published what it claims is a solution and eye-witness account of the mysterious slaying of President Francisco I. Madero, father of the Mexican revolution, 18 years ago.

The official version of the affair, issued by the provisional President Victoriano Huerta two hours after Madero died, was that Madero and the vice president, Jose Maria Pino Suarez, were shot and killed when a band of would-be rescuers attacked the guard which was taking them from the national palace to the penitentiary.

Excelsior lays the death of the two men at the feet of Huerta and his officers and charges three men, Francisco Cardenas, and two Guerrilas, Pimienta and Figueroas, all now believed dead, as being the actual slayers. Jose Pachi, chief guard of the penitentiary, claimed to have witnessed the shooting ahd it is his story the paper tells, commenting that it has been withheld until now because its reporter who knew it feared he would pay for the revelation with his life.

The well flowed 700 barrels the first hour before it was choked. Should it continue at this rate it should be good for 45,000 barrels daily, observers said. Te well is 150 feet north and 150 feet west of a ten-acre lease in the Winn survey.

The postponement was due to the necessary absence of several members of the committee. SUNSHINE MELLOWS Heat Purifies

The advice of your physician is: Keep out of doors, in the open air, breathe deeply; take plenty of exercise in the mellow sunshine, and have a periodic check-up on the health of your body.

LUCKIES are always kind to your throat

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why the "TOASTING" process includes the use of the Ultra Violet Rays. LUCKY STRIKE—made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED"—an extra, secret heating process. Harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos are expelled by "TOASTING." These irritants are sold to others. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

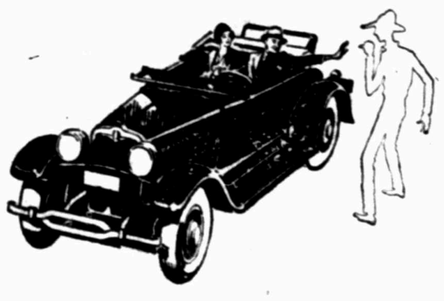
WANT A LONG LASTING CAR? THEN DON'T TAKE MR. WATER-THIN!



MR. WATER-THIN never helped keep a car on the road. For he's the quart or more of non-lubricating waste oil that ordinary refining leaves in every gallon of motor oil—stuff so light-bodied Quaker State engineers have dubbed it "water-thin." It can't prevent wear in your motor, can't make it last longer.

But Quaker State can, for there's no "water-thin" in Quaker State Motor Oil. Quaker State removes it by the most modern refining in the industry. Removes it and replaces it with rich, wear-easing lubricant. That's how Quaker State gives you four full quarts of lubricant to the gallon—not three quarts and one of waste. So you really get an extra quart of lubricant. You get a motor oil that actually lengthens the life of your car!

Get Quaker State at the familiar green and white service station sign. It costs 35c per quart—and it's by far the biggest bargain in oil. For that extra quart means more miles per filling of oil—more service from every working part of your motor—longer life for your car. Fill up with Quaker State Motor Oil to-day!

IS YOUR HOME A TESTING GROUND for UNTRIED PRODUCTS ?

THE ANSWER TO SUBSTITUTION IS ALWAYS . . .

"NO"

WHAT CAN anyone gain by buying unknown products.

And why should anyone buy them, when it is always safer to ask for brands of recognized quality.

The lure of unknown products is often a "bargain price." The clerk may say they are "just as good" as the popular advertised brands.

But isn't the approval of millions of people worth more than the word of one?

No amount of advertising will create character for a product. But constant advertising does place established character on trial.

The advertised product has a reputation at stake.

It must make good to hold your confidence. One false claim would be fatal.

The substitute product is an unknown brand, with nothing to lose.

In appearance, it may imitate a brand you know.

Over the counter, any claim may be made for it.

Only by sad experience can you prove that claim untrue!

Think of this the next time anyone tries to sell you something "just as good."

Such "just as good" products are urged upon you for only one reason. There is more profit in selling them.

The merchant who permits and encourages such substitution is looking only at today's sales slips. Not at tomorrow's loyal customers.

These facts are published by this newspaper to protect its readers.

Whenever you shop, ask for standard advertised products. Insist on getting them. Be warned by the words "just as good" that there is something better.

When you are guided by names you know you can be sure of constant quality. Of definite purity. Of honest weight. Of full value in return for the money you spent.

Scout School Started Here

Nineteen Men And Older Boys Attend First Session Held In Basement Of Church On Tuesday Night

With nineteen men and older boys in attendance, the first of a five-course training school for scoutmasters and their assistants took place Tuesday night in the basement of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

The training school is being held under the auspices of the South Plains Area Boy Scouts and is intended to prepare men and older boys to serve as scoutmasters.

This is accomplished by forming the entire school into three scout patrols and training the patrols in the same manner as used in an actual organization. Later the class will be formed into a troop.

Clapp In Charge

K. N. Clapp, scout commissioner, is serving as scoutmaster of the training troop. Executive D. T. Jennings is acting as senior patrol leader.

Men chosen to act as patrol leader of the three patrols were: Alfred Adkisson, Paul Williams and Tom Everheart.

Commissioner Clapp at Tuesday night's class instructed the scout leaders in tenderfoot requirements. Also the patrols were examined in these requirements.

"The Scout Objective and Program" was presented by George W. Dupree, chairman of the court of honor of the Lubbock scout district.

Among those who attended the scout training schoo, Tuesday night were: J. D. Hassell, Harry Blocker, Alfred Adkisson, L. B. Defley, Ira Stephens, R. F. Adkins, M. E. Noble, Tom A. Everheart, Jack M. Randal, Leslie Young, S. A. Henry, Paul B. Williams, D. L. Manire, Claude Wilson, O. H. Cline, Carrol Thompson, George W. Dupree, D. T. Jennings and K. N. Klapp.

A meeting will be held weekly at the same hour and place as that of Tuesday night's for five weeks. An outdoor night meeting probably will cap the training course.

Sample Kit Chatter

TYPES ARE MISSING

There are no big "butter and egg" men at the market week gathering here. That particular type of traveling man or firm representative, is passe as far as the Lubbock gathering is concerned. There may be a few here next month at the annual Peddler's Jubilee. But these boys here are the "needle and thread" boys.

MEZZANINE IS MECCA

The second floor of the Hotel Lubbock was the mecca for the ladies. Down the south hall every sample room was headquarters for millinery salesmen. The boys were all friendly—that is when they had time. Buyers of ladies hats came down that way so frequently during the three days that the salesmen had very little time to do much exchanging of confidences.

LAW BOOK FOUND

Ben Pupkin, well known salesman, while walking down Main street Saturday, found a law book that some one had dropped on the street. He left it at the barber shop on Main next to the Palace theatre. Tuesday Ben went into the shop to see if it was there and it was. "No name was in the book so I do not know to whom it belonged," said Ben.

STRAWS DISPLAYED

One lone salesman of men's hats was at the show. He was J. A. Bogar of the Evans Hat company of Dallas. J. A. comes from Abilene, however, although he works for a Dallas concern. "There is very little change in the styles of men's straws hats" he said as he displayed a number of extra good looking samples." The sailor hat for men is coming back. "Also the light straw hats, with a crease across the crown.

BUSINESS IS BETTER

J. E. Reno of St. Louis, school supply man, found market week here very convenient. Mr. Reno has several good customers here and a number over the territory. He advised all of his customers that he would be here and then had his big sample rooms at the Hilton full of his line. "Business is looking better" he said. "I have been all over West Texas recently and I find it is increasing, slowly but steadily."

TWO-PIECE POPULAR

Men's underwear are coming back in great shape as two tone effects, packed in boxes of one quarter dozen each. Ed Williams, who represents Wilson Brothers, well known manufacturers of men's wear, has a wide display of his lines at the Hilton. The shirts and trunks are now being packed in quarter dozen lots, with the shorts of one color and the trunks of a slightly different shade, generally darker. White broadcloth shirts with fancy colored pipings are others. Two color shirts, the body of one and a pin stripe of another or a darker shade of the same color, are also popular.

PRICES SAID LOWER

J. A. Phillips of the New York Manufacturing company says in his line, especially ladies wash dresses, business is increasing. With the summer coming on, merchants are stocking up in their wash dress lines so that they will be able to meet the demands for that particular type. Prices are lower than for years and for this reason a big season is the prediction.

PERMANENT LOCATION

The Perkins Dry Goods company, maintaining a man in Lubbock and a permanent sample room at the Lubbock, had several other men here for the week. They also had two or three extra sample rooms with a complete line of the company's merchandise. E. B. Ward, the local representative, is more than satisfied at the way the week has brought business here. "We have had a good business and I think most of the boys have done mighty well," he added. "This is a real proposition here and Lubbock should be pround of the effect this week is having in bringing the importance of the city before the wholesalers of the Southwest."

Three Persons Dead, Two Are Missing In Disastrous Fire

LYNN Mass., March 18 (AP)—Three persons were dead and two others were reported missing after fire wrecked the Hotel Lenox today. Four guests were burned, several firemen were hurt and nearly fifty persons rescued while flames roared through the interior of the five story brick building.

The identified dead are Arthur Harvey, 47, day clerk, and Arthur M. Young, 50, of Lynn, who apparently were trapped on the rear of the third floor which was not equipped with fire escapes.

A third body, reported to be that of a woman, was found in the ruins during the forenoon.

Prison Riot

Joliet had curbed the licking flames.

Outside the walls, a cordon of highway patrolmen and city police kept guard against escapes, and a hurried count of prisoners showed all were safely inside.

Second In Week

The second major uprising in a week, amplified duplicate of a rebellion at the old state prison across the town, had its inception upon 180 convicts in the chair factory.

As if by prearrangement they left their machinery, pounced on three guards, lit torches of inflammable material and rushed howling into the yard.

From adjoining structures convicts poured out, seized torches and applied them quickly to the laundry, the shoe and carpenter shop, the garage and the dining rooms.

Then, almost hidden in the billowing smoke, they gathered in the open yard.

Chaplain Caught

Caught up in the turmoil, the Rev. Eligius Weir, Catholic chaplain, pleaded for a respite. The convicts answered him with hoots and cries of "we want a new parole board! Change the parole board!"

Warden Hill was in his office across town when first word of the uprising reached him. He rushed to Stateville, walked unarmed into the yard and ordered:

"Back to your cells, boys!" A chorus of jeers was his answer.

Behind were gathering armed guards from the outer walls. He gave a crisp order, and two shots crackled above the convicts' heads. No one moved.

Guards Fire Low

"Boys," he said, "get back or you'll be shot."

Then the guards fired low into the mass of elbowing men. Three of them fell—Edward Devaney, shot in the head; Raymond Barney, shot in the stomach and Michael Farrare, in the arm. Barney probably will die. Other guards exploded tear gas bombs, and as the acid fumes spread the other convicts hastened to their cells. Then the prison gates were opened to admit the Joliet fire department.

The stifled revolt, spreading to Stateville by the mysterious prison "Grapevine", had two forerunners which kept officials on the alert. One was the discovery of a miniature armory in the cell of a lifer. The other was a free for all fight among 17 members of the band yesterday on the question whether to start a riot. Five men were injured.

The stone and brick prison, acclaimed as one of the finest in the United States, had been under augmented guard since the first hint of unrest reached officials.

"It's no use, boys," the chaplian had pleaded with the jostling men. "You can't do anything. You're just spoiling your chances." But, he said later, they paid no attention to him.

The beaten guards, J. B. Book, D. E. Schaffer and Arthur Buckingham, suffered no serious injuries, and after emergency treatment returned to duty.

The old state prison, where two convicts were killed and two wounded last Saturday, is five miles across the town from Stateville. Both prisons, Warden Hill has said, are overcrowded.

early tonight from all sources gave the following tally:

Rescued, 124.
Dead, one.
Missing, 19.

In event the vessel carried more than its recorded complement of 144, the missing list would be swelled accordingly. The number on board has been reported from that figure up to 153.

Among those still to be accounted for are Varick Frissell, young New Yorker who went north to film the romantic sealing industry on its home grounds; Alexander G. Penrod, New York cameraman; Dr. Roach, ship's doctor; three engineers, six firemen, seven sealers and one stowaway.

Dory Picked Up

This forenoon the sealing ship Boethic picked up a dory in which three men had ridden the waves since the blast cast them adrift. They were W. G. Johnson, master watch; Alfred Kean, second hand, and Fred Best, helper in the movie party.

All were slightly injured but came through the experience surprisingly well. Three others, including Harry Sargent, explorer-actor and companion of Frissell, were picked up on drifting wreckage yesterday.

The New Foundland government ordered several sealing ships, companions of the Viking, to make a supreme effort to break through. Failing this, men on the island prepared to attempt to cross the treacherous ice in an effort to obtain supplies from the ships.

Message Received

"Ice conditions terrible. Steel boat trying to reach island. Conditions there must be very bad." Thus read a cryptic message from rescuers to Bowring Brothers, owners of the Viking.

Bowring Brothers and relatives of the missing men refused to give up hope. They expressed belief the weather in White Bay probably was not abnormally cold or rough and that other men might be picked up.

The seriousness of conditions on La Barbe (or Horse) Island was emphasized when the government stopped all press and private messages between it and the outside world. The island's lone wireless operator, fatigued from a two-dag vigil, was told to conserve his strength for messages designed to procure steel ships to penetrate the ice barrier.

Skipper Abram Kean, jr., ghastly pale and ill from the loss of his ship and the harrowing experiences that followed, appealed for quick shipments of medical supplies and food. From the island, he sent a message declaring La Barbe's handful of women residents were exhausted from caring for the sick in cramped quarters. There are only five houses there and no doctor.

Yanks Weak On Hill But Still Hit

Golfing Great Moves To La Gorce

Babe Ruth And Company Cling To Traditions

"Yanks Are Coming" And No Vacant Chairs Left; Joe McCarthy Refuses To Dope Yanks As Pennant Winners

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18.—Despite the fact there appears to be at least two stronger units in the American League this year, the ball-busting New York Yankees still manage to rank as the premier attraction of the spring circuit.

"The Yanks are coming," still has its popular appeal. Say what you will about them, that their pitching is weak and their prospects bleak, but vacant chairs are scarce when the Bambino and his playmates come to town. There is no matching them for that intangible something called "color", even though the passing years have removed some of the cogs from the championship machine that was piloted by the late Miller Huggins.

Ruth In 18th Year

Babe Ruth, now as ever the "strong man" of the troupe, is starting his 18th year in the big show, yet he lost none of his value at the box office. He still "packs 'em in," as the saying goes, and already has autographed enough balls this spring to endow a baseball college.

The whole crew has been banging the ball with gusto, as usual. Their batting rallies have been a feature of the exhibition series.

So far, the club's hurling has been good, but McCarthy has no illusions about winning a pennant unless he can develop a fool-proof mound staff. He won't even attempt to predict what his new club will do until he sees how his twirlers stack up.

Pipgras Not In Shape

A blow to the Yankees' hopes of getting away to a fast start is the illness of George Pipgras, who recently underwent an appendicitis operation. He pitched 30 games last season and had been counted on as the wheelhorse of this year's staff. With him out probably the first month of the campaign, McCarthy will have to start with only five proved tossers—Herb Pennock, Henry Johnson, Charles Ruffing, Roy Sherid, and Ed Wells. All but Sherid were winners last season.

Aside from the uncertainties of the mound staff, the team will be little changed. Last year's infield of Gehrig, Chapman, Lary and Lazzeri is ready to start again.

Ruth and Combs can be counted upon to take care of two outfield jobs, with Sam Byrd and Allen Cooke, holdovers, scrapping for the third.

Bill Dickey's big bat assures him first call behind the plate, and the veteran Cy Perkins will be carried as relief.

Ted Lyons Holds Montreal Club To 2 Hits; Sox Win

BRENHAM, March 18. (AP)—Luke Appling's home run in the tenth inning gave the White Sox a 5-4 victory over Montreal of the International League in a heavy hitting game today.

Ted Lyons, Sox pitching ace, made his first start of the year and held Montreal to two hits in three innings. His successors, Frasier and Moore, however, were hit hard. The White Sox hammered three Montreal pitchers for 19 hits.

Shields And Bell To Semifinals In Net Tournament

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, March 18.—Clifford Sutter of New Orleans and Christian Boussus of France, second-seeded on the American and French lists, respectively, were eliminated today in the men's national indoor tennis championship tournament.

Herbert L. Bowman, New York, fifth seeded American, was also eliminated in straight sets, while Jean Borotra, leading French contender, advanced to the semi-final in a two-set victory. Pierre Landry of France and Berkeley Bell, Austin, Texas, seeded third on their respective lists, both advanced, as did William Aydelotte, New York, sixth seeded American.

Perrine G. Rockafellow, New York Athletic club, created the first upset by defeating Sutter, 6-1, 6-2, and going into the semi-final round with Borotra as his opponent in the upper half.

Boussus was upset by the brilliant performance which Aydelotte, national indoor champion in 1928 gave in their third-round match in the lower half. Aydelotte trailed the Frenchman by one game up to the 12th game of the opening set, when he won his own service to make it 6-6, break through Boussus' service at 7-6 and clinch the set on his own service, 8-6. The victor then romped through the second set, 6-2.

Landry took only two sets to eliminate Bowman. The score was 6-3, 6-4. Bell had an easy time with E. N. Brandt, New York winning 6-1, 6-2. Frank Shields, American favorite, drew a day of rest, and will meet Landry in one of the lower half quarter-final matches tomorrow, the other being between Bell and Aydelotte.

Slaton Track Team Defeats Lubbock Westerners, 74-73

Nowell Is High Point Man With First Places In Three Events At Practice Meet On College Field Yesterday

Winning the high hurdles, low hurdles broad jump and placing second in the high jump, Nowell, Slaton High school track star, took individual honors and helped Slaton to a 74-73 victory over the local Westerners in an unadvertised practice track meet at the Tech College field yesterday.

No announcement had been made of the meet by Coach Pinkey Lowrey of Lubbock High and full particulars could not be learned last night.

Douglas, Lubbock High sprinter, bettered his former records in the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes, winning both events easily.

The events were well matched as to entries throughout the meet, with Slaton furnishing some fine field men as well as cinderpath artists. It was the second practice meet of the season for the Westerners, they having defeated the Littlefield team here last week by a close score.

Houston Buffs Trim Aggies 10-3 In Listless Contest

COLLEGE STATION March 18 (AP) The Houston Buffs defeated the Texas Aggies 10-3 today, in a listless game, making it two in a row for the series. Klinger, starting Houston pitcher, hurled a good ball game for five innings, while Buff hitters found Scheer repeatedly for extra base blows, gunning up a top-heavy score early in the game. Shaw, relief Aggie twirler, stopped the barrage in the last five innings, giving only four hits. Sturdy, Houston first sacker, suffered a spiked foot in the ninth inning and was expected to be out of training several days.

Morrie Badgro socked a triple for the Bryants. Kelly, another outfielder, proved he can circle the bases in record time.

After local expenses, excluding trophies, are deducted, the remainder goes to teams from towns over 40 miles of Plainview. The proration is on a mileage basis. Trophies, contributed by local concerns, cost $345.

More than one-third of the receipts, it is estimated, came from Dimmitt. Many residents there bought season tickets for the tourney.

(By The Associated Press)

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 18.—The golfing great tonight wound up practice play for tomorrow's third renewal of the nation's richest golfing tournament and the season final of the lucrative South Florida links—the fourth annual $15,000 La Gorce open.

An entry list, bearing 122 names, read like the roster of a links alumni association as name after name of frequent headling prominence was listed in pairings for the opening of the 72-hole classic.

Among the entrants is Wild Bill Mehlhorn, who strode La Gorce course and its myriad sand traps in 1930 with a 285 that copped the $5,000 first prize. Others are Horton Smith, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Johnny Golden, Denny Shute, Willie MacFarlane, Wiffy Cox, Ralph Guldahl, Tony Manero, Henri Cuici and Joe Turnesa.

Eighteen hole play tomorrow and Friday will be toward qualification as well as toward total medal scores. The top 64 players and ties will battle it out in the 36-hole final Saturday.

The NUT CRACKER

BY JOE O'GOOFTY
Former Big League Pitcher

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 18.—I have been asked by my editor, who interprets the wishes of my many readers, to find out a few things wrong with baseball on my southern trip this year. So today I had a long conference with Uncle Wilbert Robinson at the training camp here, regarding the way the Robins run those hassocks.

One of the favorite pastimes of the Brooklynites has been the stealing of second or third with the bases full, but I think I have found a remedy for the condition.

My first suggestion is: guns. The second is: noses.

Give the coachers on first and third base Colt automatics. When a runner is on base, one shot means to go to second, or to third or to home base, as the case may be.

The coacher should be given carte blanche. An added advantage would be that a stray shot might hit a pitcher like Tom Zachary or some other left-hander who makes the Dodgers look like the Boston Bloomers on a bad day.

Another suggestion is borrowed from Quinn, the Peter Pan of the diamond, who appeared in the lobby of the hotel here the other day wearing a false nose that is the exact copy of the enormous beak of Catcher Ernest Lombardi.

Let the coacher fasten one of these noses on each base-runner and the players would think the base-runner was "Lightning" Lombardi and they would hold a short session of fielding practice when the man started from base to base.

For Ginger's Sake

are heartbroken at our suspicions."

"Also," added Mr. Tolliver fairly, "remember that they have been surrounded all the time by five wide-awake young people, and have had no chance to make trouble."

"Accomplices, likely," said Marker.

"Of the three, I suppose Pietro is most to be suspected," said Phil. "He is a sullen, taciturn person, and the boys have had to watch him incessantly to restrain him from turning the club into a speakeasy."

Marker was annoyed that Phil insisted upon keeping the $30,000 available for instant payment, and that she adhered to her determination to pay it over on demand without a moment's delay. He explained in vain that it was his policy as a good detective to catch the criminals first and get the victim afterward, this allowing more play—and more credit—for his professional skill. Phil was adamant. He might catch the criminals if he could, she said, but her one interest was to get Ginger back uninjured.

These preliminaries attended to, Marker said he would like to hurry out to the scene of operations and they got at once into the car. On the way, however, he asked her to stop at the telegraph office, where they were obliged to wait for 30 minutes while he wrote and dispatched a dozen or more telegrams.

The group at Mill Rush was impatiently awaiting their arrival, and with them the three Italians, timid, ill at ease, humiliated by the obvious suspicions against them, but nervously anxious for human companionship.

Marker spoke to each of them and had a brief recital of the day's events as concerned each one, when last he had seen Ginger, what he had been occupied with at the time of her disappearance, how the intervening hours had been spent. In the 10 accounts there was not one word of dissent or disagreement.

"Well," he said briskly, "why don't you all go to bed now? Holt and I will have a quiet look around by ourselves, and you will need some rest. There's nothing to be done tonight. But we'll keep watch and if anything turns up we'll call you. And if you hear any noises, don't be scared. We'll just do a little private exploring."

Certainly they had slight inclination for sleep, but as Phil joined her advice to the detectives', they paired off reluctantly to separate rooms, Patty and Cotton sharing one together.

Almost before the break of day, Marker called Eddy Jackson and asked him to drive in to town and bring out the answers to his telegrams, and a few minutes later, disturbed by the confusion of voices and the starting of the motor, the entire group reassembled downstairs, peering out into the misty gray morning, wondering where Ginger had lain her head that night.

Pietro hastened to serve them with strong hot coffee and light rolls, Angelo assisting, while Benito, evidently wounded to the heart, brooded alone and would neither eat nor drink.

When Eddy came back with the sheaf of telegrams Marker went off by himself to look them over. There was an air of satisfaction about him when he rejoined them at the table.

"Finish your coffee," he said, "but stick around. I've got a lot of questions to get off my chest and I'll want all of you. You, too," he turned to the Italians with a suddenness that sent a cup spinning from the nervous hand of little Angelo. "I want all of you."

Hurriedly they finished their coffee, feeling that something gravely portentous lay just ahead for the detective's manner indicated purpose.

"Just sit down," said Marker. "Don't get uneasy. We've got a long rigmarole to go through, and it'll take time. All right, you first," he said briskly, turning to Speed. "What do you say your name is?"

"Roney," said Speed promptly. "Lane Roney. They call me Speed."

"You say you know him?" He turned to Mr. Tolliver.

"Yes. He was out here several years ago."

"It's really Roney, is it? You can positively identify him."

"Why, of course," chorused half a dozen voices. "We've known him for years. Of course it's Speed."

He turned with great suddenness upon Cotton.

"You're his sister?"

"Why—yes."

"What's your name?"

"Cotton—Roney." Cotton was pale but composed.

"Why did you hesitate between the words?"

"Did I—hesitate?"

Speed sprang to his feet.

"Sit down," ordered the detective. "Stay away from her. Are you his sister?"

"Why—yes," she whispered.

"Do you know her, too?" asked Marker curtly of Mr. Tolliver.

Phil crossed quickly and stood beside Cotton. She took her hand kindly within her own. "We have not known Cotton long," she said gently. "She came here last week with her brother, and has been our guest since then. We like her very much indeed, and trust her implicity."

"Well, I wouldn't trust her too far," smiled the detective. "You really are his sister?" he repeated incisively.

"Y-yes— No," she said suddenly. "I'm not his sister." She covered her white face with one hand. "Let me tell the truth, Speed. I'm not his sister."

The detective laughed. "So I heard. No, Mrs. Tolliver, she is not the young man's sister. The young man's sister is at home in Massachusetts. This woman is an impostor."

GLAD TO TELL ABOUT KONJOLA

Time After Time This Medicine of 29 Ingredients Triumphs After All Else Tried Failed

A medicine is known, not for promises, but for the friends it has made and held just by making good. Well, Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends.

Let us see how this remarkable medicine works. Take, as a typical example, the experience of Mrs. C. H. Bridges, 1327 N. 13th St., Waco, who says: "For six months I had spells of indigestion. I tried a number of medicines, but without results. But after four bottles of Konjola I am greatly improved. With two more bottles I expect to feel better than in years."

MRS. C. H. BRIDGES

Next give thought to the grateful words of Mr. Thomas Moore, 214 Mission street, San Antonio. "Five years ago I began to suffer from kidney and stomach troubles and constipation. I often had to stop work for days at a time. Gas formed after meals, and I had attacks of nausea and vomiting. But after six bottles of Konjola I am better than in years. I have no more kidney trouble; food digests properly and I have gained in weight."

MR. THOMAS MOORE

No wonder Mrs. Mary E. Jones, Lake Worth Road, Fort Worth, is grateful for Konjola. She says: "For three years I suffered with neuritis in shoulders, neck and arms. Sleep was impossible. I had headaches, and my nerves were in a terrible shape. I have just finished the fourth bottle of Konjola, and am in excellent health, free from all pain and misery."

MRS. MARY E. JONES

Isn't that the kind of medicine sufferers want and need. Konjola does work swiftly, yet it is best to take a complete treatment of from six to eight bottles. Buy Konjola in any drug store, and do not accept a substitute.

NOTICE OF BANKRUPT'S PETITION FOR DISCHARGE

In the District Court of the United States For the Northern District of Texas, In The Mater of Philander Lee Kemble, Bankrupt, No. 82 in Bankruptcy.

OFFICE OF REFEREE
Lubbock, Texas, March 17, 1931

Notice is hereby given that Philander Lee Kemble of the County of Hale, and district aforesaid, did, on the 14th day of March, 1931, file in the Clerk's office of said Court, at Lubbock, a petition setting up that he has heretofore duly adjudged a bankrupt under the act of Congress approved July 1, 1898; that he has duly surrendered all his property and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said acts and of the orders of the Court touching his bankruptcy, and praying for a full discharge from all debts provable against his estate in bankruptcy, save such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.

On considering the above mentioned petition, it is ordered that any creditor who has proved his claim, and other parties in interest, if they desire to oppose the discharge prayed for in said petition, shall, on or before the 17th day of April, 1931, file with the Referee for the Lubbock Division of said district, a notice in writing of their opposition to a discharge in the above entitled cause.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 18. (AP)—Cotton today was rather quiet, but the price trend was moderately upward. There was a better trade demand resulting in the market receiving better support. Cables were about as due at the opening and Liverpool closed a shade better than due. After opening unchanged to 1 point up, prices fluctuated narrowly for a time and then moved upward gradually on trade buying and a steadier market for stocks, showing gains of 11 points around noon. The market eased off 5-6 points in the early afternoon on some realizing but the undertone continued healthy. The market scored a good rally in late trading on a private prediction that the total ginnings to be issued Friday will fall considerably short of the government's December estimate. Prices made new highs 15 to 17 points above the early lows and closed steady at the top showing net gains for the day of 12to 17 points.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, March 18. (AP)—Cotton was higher today, prices recovering a good part of yesterday's loss largely as the result of a general absence of contracts.

A show of steadiness in Liverpool seemed to offset weakness in the Alexandria market and holders of cotton were apparently not disposed to sell at present prices. Consequently the market was on the upgrade throughout the greater part of the day, with only occasional setbacks. The May position advanced to 11.00 and closed at 10.99, an advance of 12 points, while the general list closed very steady at the top of the day with net advances of 11-16 points.

It seemed to be the prevailing impression that the market for the time being was being influenced by the technical position rather than by any important new developments.

Clash Results In Hoover Departure

WASHINGTON, March 18. (AP)—A sharp clash between Secretary Hurley and a witness over the purpose of President Hoover's trip to the Caribbean took place today before the war policies commission.

Benjamin C. Marsh, executive secretary of the people's lobby, precipitated the dispute with an observation that President Hoover was taking the trip to "see if any other country is in worse condition than this one."

Secretary Hurley, chairman of the commission, who was to accompany the president to the Caribbean, retorted the remark was "highly inappropriate" and suggested that Marsh "hire a hall" if he wanted to make a "political speech."

Marsh replied he had been joking and would withdraw the remark. Hurley told him he did not understand that "form of amusement," adding Mr. Hoover was taking the trip for a vacation.

Closing Prices On The Wednesday Market Show Large Upside Balance

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, March 18. (AP)—Buying of the industrials and utilities outweighed selling of the rails in today's stock market, and closing prices represented a large balance on the upside.

An unexpected rise of $1 a ton in Carnegie Steel company's second quarter quotations for bars, shapes and plates coincided with the cheerful reports of the weekly steel trade reviews and an improvement in electric power output figures.

The day's sales of 2,000,000 shares were the smallest since the first week in February.

A late recovery was sufficiently vigorous to reduce or eliminate early losses of 1-5 points in the rails—a decline that carried New York Central, Norfolk and Western, Nickel Plate, Lackawanna, Reading, Frisco, Kay and St. Louis Southwestern to new lows for the year. But Central turned a drop of 1 3-4 into a net gain nearly as large, and Atchison, after dipping more than 2, closed 1 3-4 higher.

Market Week

Manufacturing Co., said the same. "I am packing up just 259 dresses and I came out here with over 600" he said. Dave also claims the "long distance" sales record. "I sold a bill of goods to a man in Kennedy, Texas, down by Corpus Christi," he said, pointing to a sale to the Bennett Dry Goods company.

H. C. Woillard, Phoenix, Ariz., representing Fine and Levy, said he had had good sales for a new line in this territory. He is planning to be back in the summer and will also attend the fall show.

"Our business has been very very good," said H. L. Ardis of the Donovan Manufacturing Co., and the Morten-Davis Co. "The trip had been well worth it. I only wish I could have as much business every week as I have had the first three days this week."

Lines Were Popular

Ben Pupkin, another regular in this territory, said that the lines he handles were very popular with buyers. "It takes time to put these things over" he pointed out. "The week has been bigger than last fall. The style show has helped put over the plan and Lubbock is to be complimented on the way it has supported the week."

"No complaint. We have sold lots of dresses and we have done better than we had expected," said J. W. Freundlich of Roos-Freedman-Shayn. "We had lots of buyers in here and the good the show has done will be felt for months to come."

H. C. Ammons of the R-B Manufacturing company also reported "satisfactory sales." He added that his house felt that the work of coming here had been more than worth while.

H. A. Phillips, of the New York Manufacturing Co., likewise reported splendid sales. "I am well pleased with the whole show," he added.

Another pleased salesman was Dwight Kierbow, of the Goldstein Hat company, who said his goods had been much in demand.

W. C. Keim of El Paso, representing Pacific coast houses, likewise added his bit to the chorus of satisfied salesmen. Mrs. Keim also had high praise for the week. She represents a line of ladies hats and had many customers.

Several salesmen privately admitted that they had done better in the way of sales than they had expected. "We came here with the idea because of general conditions, that we might not make expenses or more than our expense" one said. "Now we find that we have done better than that. But the big thing is the future business. Next fall, with a good crop, the week should be a record one."

From statements by several sales managers and others, the stock carried by the 80 firms or so here, was well in excess of $78,000 in valuation. While it was admitted that the absence of winter coats had cut down valuations on many ready to wear lines, yet half a dozen sample rooms had from $5,000 to $8,000 or more in goods. Many others had from $3,000 to $5,000 and hardly a man but what had at least $1,000 tied up in merchandise.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 18. (AP)—Buyers developed backbone today after wheat had temporarily fallen below the season's bottom price record. Bracing effects were largely ascribed to better shipping demand for corn and to a bullish report concerning domestic stocks of wheat on farms and in country elevators. The Farmers' National Grain company announced that such stocks were 50 per cent lower than last year both in winter and spring wheat areas of Kansas and in the spring wheat area of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and parts of Nebraska and Colorado.

Wheat closed firm 1-8 to 3-4 cents higher, corn 3-8 to 1 1-8 advanced, oats 1-8 to 3-8 up, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Alvis Graves

ned the murder of Smith and that instead of being the man's friend as he had stated he was he "was the worst enemy Horace L. Smith ever had in this world." He stated he believed in the law of self defense but that the facts of the case clearly showed there was no basis for self defense plea. He went on further in his argument pointing out evidence and indications of premeditation upon the part of the defendant and cited especially the repeated denials made by Graves on the stand Wednesday morning.

"Don't Mock Law"

He closed his address by a reiteration of the state's request for the death penalty, declaring "Let's don't mock the law in the name of the law."

He was followed by Mr. Campbell of the defense, who spoke for approximately 30 minutes and dealt with "might say admitted facts" of the case in which he pointed out that there was no testimony, evidence or statement presented during the entire range of testimony showing a possible motive in the slaying. He declared there was no indication of a plot or premeditation upon the part of the defendant and that the defense was asking that they remove all prejudices that might have been created by testimony on the "illicit relations" between Graves and the widow of the slain man and consider the case merely upon the facts presented in the testimony.

Vickers Is Heard

He was followed by Mr. Vickers who carried the bulk of the defense argument and spoke for more than an hour.

Vickers declared that the testimony regarding the improper relations between Graves and Mrs. Smith was injected into the trial for only one reason, that of prejudicing the jurors against the defendant. He asked that they disregard this altogether and consider the case on the facts presented.

The majority of his argument hinged on the self defense framework built up by he and Mr. Campbell in which he endeavored to convince the jury that the defendant was in grave fear of his life when he opened fire on the two men as they were "rushing" him in front of the house as the dance broke up.

Fiery In Remarks

Along in the course of his argument, Mr. Vickers became very fiery in his remarks and declared it was the right of the defendant to defend himself at all times, even to the extent of taking the life of his adversary. With Graves, he said, it was a case of his own life or that of Smith.

"Alvis Graves exercised his legal and his moral right," Vickers declared, "fulfilling one of the most primary instincts, that of self preservation."

He asked that the jury disqualify the testimony of the little Landers boy and the little Chadwick girl, stating that both of them were possibly mistaken in their statements on the stand.

Howard Closes

In closing for the state, Mr. Howard made an urgent and forceful plea for the infliction of the death penalty, pointing out and detailing incidents which tended to show, he said, that Graves had made up his mind to "get rid of Smith so that he could have his woman." He declared that the hunt on the Sunday before the shooting was planned by Graves as an opportunity for carrying out his plans but that the right kind of an opportunity never was offered at that time.

Howard declared that Graves was "one of the smartest witnesses I ever saw on the stand in my life" and cited instances where he appeared not to understand state cross-examination whenever a high point was about to be brought out.

He declared that Graves had forfeited his right to live through his acts and that he should be placed in the electric chair as an example for others who might wish to follow the same kind of life.

Reiterating the state's demand for the death penalty, Howard declared "the state of Texas isn't asking anything more than what Horace Smith should have done or would have done had he known of the facts more than two years ago."

At this juncture, the case was given the jury.

Graves was called to the stand immediately after court had convened at 8:30 in the morning session.

He stated that he was twenty-six years of age and that he had lived in Lubbock all his life with the exception of short periods when he was away in other cities. He said he had known the Smiths for about three years and that he had met Mrs. Smith first, not learning that she had a husband until 'two or three months later.'

Defense attorney J. E. Vickers drew from the witness, details of events taking place during the day and evening of the shooting and also incidents at the dance just prior to the 'homicide.'

Graves related seeing Mr. and Mrs. Smith on three different occasions on the day of the shooting, when he took them home from town at noon and ate a few bites at their table, returning with Mr. Smith to town later, when he took them home in the afternoon sometime 'between 4:30 and 6 o'clock' and that night when he took them to the dance at the home of E. D. Chadwick, 2107 8th street. He declared that both Smith and Mrs. Smith asked him to return for them at 'about 11:30,' refuting testimony of Mrs. Smith on Tuesday that both she and Mr. Smith had stated they would go home with someone else.

Didn't Slam Door

He related that he arrived at the Chadwick home at about 11:30 and went inside to tell Mr. Smith that he was ready to take them home and that he replied, 'All right, we'll be ready to go in a minute,' 'or something to that effect." He denied seeing any screen door on the house or slamming it on anyone's arm as Dave Harper testified Tuesday he had done. Graves declared he didn't remember all of the conversation at the dance but that Smith came to the door later with his coat on and his hat in his hand and said something about going by his (Graves') house as they went home but that he (Graves) replied that he would if his wife was awake but that he didn't want to awaken her that late if she was asleep.

He testified that soon after that Smith apparently 'got mad' and "did some swearing and said something about fighting and about me always talking about Tom Simpson and cursed me and told me to 'shut your dam mouth'." Questioned by Vickers regarding Smith's anger again, he said, "Yes sir, he was very mad." He declared that he "didn't want any trouble and wanted to get him in a good humor, not taking offense at the insults and tried to quiet him down."

Tried To Humor Him

"He said something about my glasses and fighting," Graves went on, "and I just tried to get him in a good humor, just kinda cut the conversation and asked him to give me a cigaret and then I noticed Averett leaning against the wall near him. Well, then I thought Smith was in a good humor but he turned and said something to Averett that I didn't hear and then he (Averett) came around and they both started coming towards me and he (Averett) says 'Let me to that ——' and I started backing off as they came towards me."

"Well, they rushed me off the porch, backwards, and when I stepped off, I sort of stumbled and before I recovered, they both had hold of me," the defendant continued. "Averett hit me in the neck," he said, "about this time they were ahold of me, flogging, that's the word to use, and I asked them to leave me alone. Smith says 'Hold him, I'll fix him' and I kept walking backwards, you know, squirming like and trying to get away all the time. I told them to leave me alone two or three times and I think I said please, believe I did. We had walked and scuffled back about 15 or 20 feet and when I saw that I couldn't get loose, I reached for my pistol and began firing. I thought they were going to kill me."

"Didn't Want to Kill Anyone"

Graves declared he didn't know how many times he shot but that both of the men had hold of him when he was ducking and dodging and trying to get away as he opened fire. They both turned loose after he started shooting, he added. He declared that after he had quit shooting "because he didn't want to kill anyone," Smith hit the pistol and it was discharged again, his blow striking the butt of the gun and causing the cartridge clip to fall out. Graves declared that one of the men kicked his shin in the scuffling and displayed a scar to the jury. He said the muscle and leader in his neck where he was struck by Averett was 'sore for two or three weeks' after that.

The defendant declared upon questioning by Vickers that he 'didn't expect trouble, if I had I wouldn't have gone up there,' refuting testimony of the Landers boy Tuesday to the effect that he had made a statement that the dance would be one 'long remembered.'

Was Told Of Threats

He told of being informed of threats against him by Smith by Mrs. Smith, Cecil Gunn, Harold McMillin and L. M. Brooks on various occasions in the past two years. He couldn't remember the dates of any of these threats. He said he had seen Smith many times after that and that a few months later he (Smith) came to him and asked that it all be forgotten and that they be friends.

"We were always friends as far as I was concerned," Graves declared, "I always did what I could for him, let him use my car."

He testified he believed there wouldn't have been any trouble at the dance between he and Smith if Averett hadn't stepped in. He said Averett's attitude was like having 'chip on his shoulder'. He stated on questioning that both of the men were about his size.

Guessed He Could Have

Queries by the defense brought denial of any statement of his regarding 'stumping his toe' while hunting or about seeking a chance to kill Smith while on the hunting trip a week before the shooting. He said he hadn't thought of killing Smith, didn't want to kill him, that he guessed he could have on the hunt if he'd have wanted to.

Upon cross examination, L. A. Howard questioned him regarding meeting Mrs. Smith and he admitted intimate relations with the slain man's widow.

He denied various phases of the testimony of Sheriff Wade Hardy regarding the incident in which he had notified the sheriff that 'Smith was out looking for him with a gun'.

At various times in the questioning by the state the defendant declared he 'didn't quite follow, will you repeat the question.'

Smith Asked Him To Come

Graves said that Smith had never objected to his visiting Mrs. Smith and had often asked him to go there and meet him there and that he had never asked him to quit coming there. He denied going out of the back door of the Smith home on one occasion during the last week that Smith lived when the husband had driven up to the front door, although he said he had 'gone out of both doors' many times. He denied 'fussing' with Mrs Smith during that week only about Rosa Belle Yauger being in her home but that he often advised her what to do about certain things. He also denied stating to Mrs. Smith that 'He'd cook her goose and she would suffer' but said he told her instead that 'any woman would suffer if she got to running around with 6 or 7 men and that she'd cook her own goose.'

He admitted taking his gun out of pawn from a local hardware store the afternoon of the shooting after learning of the dance that night. He also admitted having only one clip in the gun but that he went by his house later and got the other two. He stated further while being questioned that he didn't 'follow' and also denied previous testimony about statements and incidents at the dance.

Has Never Been Mad

"I have never been mad," he declared when questioned regarding his feeling at the dance.

At this juncture the state closed its case and the defense also announced closed.

In rebuttal testimony by the state, Henry Harper, son of Dave Harper of Hale county who testified Tuesday, was called to the stand and he gave a short description as to the location of Averett at the door.

E. A. Guthrie of Shallowater, one of those present at the dance, was the next witness placed on the stand. He declared that he had 'smoked a cigaret' with Graves at the dance. He also testified upon questioning that he didn't see any fighting or scuffling just prior to the shooting and that he didn't see Graves stumble off the porch. He said he could see the three men plainly. He also related seeing Averett come out of the house and drop a guitar saying 'take this' as he went toward Graves and Smith.

Sticks To Statements

On rather close examination by Vickers regarding the details, Guthrie stuck to his statements.

Dave Harper, one of those testifying Tuesday, was recalled to the stand by the state. He stated after objections of the defense were overruled that he didn't see any sort of fighting or scuffling and didn't see Averett hit Graves as the shooting took place. He was not cross examined.

Mrs. M. K. Bell, another of Tuesday's witnesses, also testified that she didn't see any blows struck immediately before the shooting.

At this point both the state and defense announced their cases closed.

be taken under the supreme court's decision. Minor expressed the opinion some of the local bills could be re-enacted by having the bills advertised for 30 days in the county affected and by naming the county to which it would apply.

The number of bills affected by the supreme court's decision could not be ascertained and members of the legislature would not hazard a guess as to the total. Most of the bills affected were passed by the 40th, 41st and 42nd legislatures.

Belief also was expressed that a number of the bills could not be re-enacted because they were passed in the first instance, in violation of the constitutional inhibitions.

Allred Investigating From New Angle Wastage Of Gas

AUSTIN, March 18. (AP)—Attorney General James V. Allred said today he was investigating "from a new angle" the waste of oil and gas in the Reagan county field.

Allred intimated his investigation was separate and apart from any other investigation and attempt at proration in other Texas fields.

The attorney general said wastage of resources had been going on in the Reagan field several years.

In addition, he said he was making an investigation of waste of oil and gas on state-owned lands.

United States Will Not Be Included In Naval Agreement

LONDON, March 18. Bill Allowing Texas Boxing Gets Favor Of House Group

AUSTIN, March 18 (AP)—Boxing in Texas, if conducted by clubs, colleges or non-profit associations and where no purse was offered, would be legalized under a bill by Representative Davis of Brownwood, reported out favorably today by the house criminal jurisprudence committee.

The bill was sponsored by the American Legion. The bill would permit sponsors of boxing exhibitions to charge admissions, now prohibited, and would permit championship exhibitions, the victor to be awarded with a trophy and not by a cash purse.

Because of the influenza epidemic all public institutions of Derry, Ireland, were closed to the general public recently.

Piece Goods Are Unusually Good

Women are buying more piece goods this season than for many years according to dry goods salesmen, with the result that there has been a big increase in that line.

"More piece goods are being sold this year than for many years," said James Rawlence, of the Monnig Dry Goods company, a veteran salesman. "People are making their own dresses this year. I don't know when I have sold as much piece goods as I have this spring."

Other veteran salesmen confirmed the report. Said one man, "you can buy this percale mighty cheap and a woman can get three yards of it and some trimming and make a dress. You can buy some good crepe for a dollar a yard, retail, good stuff, too."

Said a third salesman, "I got an order for 70 bolts of piece goods. It was the biggest order I had had of that kind for so long I have forgotten when. There is a lot of pretty material this year, colors are bright and all materials are now fast colors."

Daring Holdup Is Staged Wednesday

NEW ORLEANS, March 18. (AP)—Four armed men today robbed a race track betting establishment of approximatelyy $4,000 after forcing 40 men to lie face down on the floor.

The bandits laid in wait until an armored car arrived from a bank bringing money to pay off yesterday's wagers.

While Emile Durreau, who operated the establishment with Milton Schotts, was placing the money in cash drawers the bandits appeared with drawn revolvers. One of them scooped the money in a bag while the other three cowed the patrons.

None of the patrons was molested and the four men rushed to the street where they disappeared in the midday traffic.
