In Poland...

New Strike Is Threatened

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A new labor-government confrontation over alleged police brutality appeared to be building today in Poland's southern coal fields.

The new threat to the nation's chief earner of foreign exchange developed as West European nations said they were nearing the limit of their ability to send aid to shortage-wracked Poland.

Officials of the Solidarity labor federation in the Silesian town of Chorzow accused the local police of beating up and arresting about 20 union militants on Wednesday to stop them from putting up union signs around the town. The officials claimed one of the men was hospitalized with a concussion.

Chorzow union leaders called a local factory strike alert and demanded punishment of those responsible for the police action. They said if the demand was not met, "we will gradually intensify the action up to a general strike in the region," which includes the coal mines that produce Poland's principal export.

The government television service reported all those arrested had been released. But there was no word of any action against the police.

The last Solidarity-government crisis over police brutality occurred eight months ago after police beat up three union leaders who refused to leave a government-union meeting in the northwest town of Bydgoszcs on March 19. After a nationwide four-hour warning strike eight days later, the government took disciplinary action against the police to avert a general strike.

Elsewhere in Poland, about 1,500 drillers were on strike in the southern oil fields, farmers were occupying public buildings in three towns, and 100,000 students were striking at 91 colleges and universities.

The leading hardliner on the Communist Party Politburo, Stefan Olszowski, accused the strikers of wanting to destroy Polish communism.

"Political reactionaries and counter-revolutionaries may start provocations aimed at bloodshed," he wrote in the party newspaper Trybuna Ludu. "... But let no one entertain the illusion that he is able to liquidate socialism in Poland."

It was believed that he was reflecting the feeling of most of the party central committee, which was to meet today.

The drying up of West European aid to Poland was discussed at a summit meeting in London of the 10 Common Market nations.

"We are very impressed with Poland's needs, but it's a bottomless pit," said a British official.

"We have reached the ceiling of what can be done," said a spokesman for the West German government, which contributes more to Common Market aid to Poland than any other nation.

Since liberalization began last year in Poland, the Common Market countries have sent Warsaw $100 million in economic aid. Earlier this week they appropriated $11 million more to help transport food to Poland this winter.

Haig Bids For Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., in a last-minute search for a compromise with Israel's foreign minister, is trying to find a way around an impasse with the Jewish state over European participation in a Sinai peacekeeping force.

Haig scheduled a mid-morning meeting at the State Department with Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, who declared before taking an all-night flight from Tel Aviv that Europe's "conditions are unacceptable."

The Israeli government also sent a military team here to resume discussions at the Pentagon on new strategic ties with the United States.

A U.S. plan, submitted to the Israelis 10 days ago, called for stockpiling American medical supplies in Israel and some token military cooperation. It fell short of Prime Minister Menachem Begin's hopes for closer ties between the two countries.

The disputes over European peacekeepers and Middle East strategy are straining U.S.-Israeli relations again.

The Reagan administration fears severe damage to the Camp David peace process if the Europeans are shut out. But the Begin government is angry with the allies for pushing for a role for the Palestine Liberation Organization in future negotiations.

Shamir plans to return home in time for a meeting Sunday of the Israeli Cabinet, which is expected to reject European participation in the Sinai force unless some compromise can be worked out with Haig.

Both Israel and Egypt hold veto power over which nations join the force. Its job will be to maintain peace between the two countries after Israel completes its scheduled withdrawal from the Sinai in April.

Some observers in Jerusalem speculated that a compromise might be struck in which the administration would step up its military cooperation with Israel in return for accepting the Europeans.

But Shamir took a tough stance after meeting Thursday with Begin. "It is not a question of flexibility," the foreign minister said. "We have our principles. Europe's conditions are unacceptable to us."

Yehiel Kadishai, Begin's personal secretary, said in Jerusalem that he had no doubt the Cabinet would reject the Europeans. Begin was quoted as saying he would urge a veto "under the present conditions."

Keeping tab on our neighbors:

Most football fans in this area are familiar with the Tahoka-Slaton court case. The University Interscholastic League had ordered their first seven games forfeited because ineligible players had participated. That is, they were ineligible according to UIL rules.

So, Tahoka and Slaton went to court and won an injunction preventing the UIL from enforcing its ruling.

It was interesting to note that, following the judge's ruling, the district committee met to take up certification of the Tahoka and Slaton teams. The vote to certify them was 2-0, with four schools abstaining. Voting for certification were Tahoka and Slaton and abstaining were Post, Frenship, Roosevelt and Cooper.

The Post dispatch reported that the abstentions obviously were a protest of the court's ruling, but the four schools did not come right out and vote against certifying Tahoka and Slaton because they feared that the court would hold them in contempt.

Jim Cornish of the Post dispatch said the court hearing was a worrisome day.

"The worst kind of day we know is to sit and listen to somebody else talk for seven or eight hours without having an opportunity to get in a few words ourselves," said Cornish.

"But the thing that impressed us most was how all the 'legal lights' feel about their work days.

"They don't mind a full day in court. Not at all, but when 5 p. m. came that afternoon in Tahoka, the outlook changed drastically. The young assistant attorney general ended his case right there. The three Tahoka attorneys quit hammering at the UIL executive secretary, both sides rested, a Tahoka attorney gave a 45-second summary argument, and the assistant attorney general passed that. Then, without wasting any time at all, Judge George Hansard made his decision. Everybody was on their way home at 5:02."

Friday update

Holiday Traffic

The nation's Thanksgiving holiday traffic death toll climbed past 100 today, with more than half the weekend still ahead.

By 3 a.m. EST, 109 deaths had been counted.

The National Safety Council estimated that between 480 and 580 people would die in accidents on the nation's roads during the four-day period. A year ago there were 504 traffic deaths.

During a non-holiday weekend of the same length at this time of year, about 580 could be expected to lose their lives, council statisticians said.

Americans traditionally tend to stay at home during the Thanksgiving weekend more than on other holidays.

For counting purposes, the holiday began at at 6 p.m., local time Wednesday and continues until midnight Sunday.

The worst Thanksgiving weekend was in 1968 when 764 people were killed.

Teague Honored

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Astronaut John W. Young honored the late U.S. Rep. Olin E. Teague by giving Texas A&M University a miniature United States flag that was carried into space on the first voyage of space shuttle Columbia.

Teague, well known for his support of the American space program during his congressional tenure, died early this year. He was a member of A&M's class of 1932 and a recipient of the school's Distinguished Alumnus Award.

"I remember Congressman Teague in the early 60s talking of his desire to send an American to the moon and bring him back," said Young, who commanded the Columbia on its maiden flight. "It was the 'bring him back' part I liked the best."

Sambo's Closings

CARPINTERIA, Calif. (AP) — The closing of 447 Sambo's restaurants in 43 states and the resultant layoff of up to 10,000 employees in an attempt to ease the chain's financial crisis has left it with 667 facilities still operating, company officials said.

Arthur Dowd, Sambo's vice president, told The Associated Press Thursday that the closings were unrelated to a company decision Wednesday to consider declaring bankruptcy if lenders refuse to restructure the company's debt.

The November closing of 447 restaurants has laid off up to 10,000 employees, based on an average of 20 to 25 employees per restaurant, Dowd said.

Sambo's posted losses of $77.8 million in 1979, $11.6 million in 1980 and $29 million in the first nine months of this year. Last month, the chain announced that it had failed to pay a $4.8 million first installment on a $100 million restructured loan.

Begin Satisfactory

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin spent an almost sleepless night but was in no pain today following surgery on a thigh bone he broke in a bathroom fall, Hadassah Hospital reported.

"The prime minister is resting after his operation," said the hospital director, Dr. Shmuel Pinhas. "He feels no pain, had little sleep, and his condition is satisfactory. We are satisfied. This morning, I found him to be of calm and clear mind."

He said Begin has been in touch with his office and was able to handle paperwork in bed. The injury Thursday night was expected to confine the 68-year-old prime minister to the hospital for two weeks.

Arms Negotiator Arrives For Talks

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Veteran U.S. Arms negotiator Paul H. Nitze, vowing to be "reasonable and tough," arrived in Geneva today for talks with the Soviet Union on limiting nuclear arsenals in Europe.

"The present state of anxiety and the imperatives of establishing peace give the United States and the Soviet Union every reason to be sincere in their efforts to reach agreement on the reduction of nuclear weapons," Nitze said in a brief arrival statement.

"I feel that there are prospects for reaching a fair, equitable and verifiable agreement which could be the blueprint for a new era of East-West relations."

The two sides are to sit down Monday for the opening round of deliberations that are widely expected to last for months. Nitze, 74, who has the rank of ambassador, heads the U.S. delegation to the talks on theater nuclear forces, the weaponry trained on targets in Europe.

The negotiations will be the first on nuclear arms for the Reagan administration.

Nitze's Soviet counterpart, Yuli Kvitsinsky, a 45-year-old diplomat, is due here Saturday.

Nitze, who has earned a reputation as a hardliner in years as an arms-control negotiator, is expected lead off for the U.S. side with a formal presentation of the so-called "zero-option" proposal, outlined by President Reagan last week.

The proposal calls for the United States to scrap plans to deploy in Western Europe 108 Pershing II missiles and 464 cruise missiles. The Soviets, in turn, would dismantle their intermediate-range SS-series missiles, which include the formidable, triple-warhead SS-20.

Invasion Is Repelled In Seychelles

VICTORIA, Seychelles (AP) — The leftist Seychelles government says it crushed an attempt to overthrow it by a planeload of mercenaries from southern Africa. About half the invaders fled the airport battlefield in a hijacked jetliner and were arrested when they landed in South Africa.

The government of the Indian Ocean archipelago said the invasion was over by Thursday night, some 24 hours after 100 armed men landed on the main island of Mahe and tried to take over the Pointe Larue airport.

Government troops repulsed the invaders, killing some and capturing others, while a handful escaped into hiding, officials said.

So far, nobody was saying who organized the plot. In London, the exiled former president of the Seychelles, James R. Mancham, said he had been asked to join but refused.

Officials said the mercenaries arrived about 5:30 p.m. Wednesday aboard a regularly scheduled Royal Swazi Airlines flight, from the tiny black state of Swaziland, on South Africa's northeastern border.

Gilbert Confait, editor of the government newspaper The Nation, said government troops surrounded the airport by 7 p.m. but held off their counterattack until just before dawn Thursday.

During the fighting, the mercenaries took some hostages, said Confait. "There is a possibility that among the dead there may be some hostages," he said.

About five hours later, as the mercenaries fought a losing battle for control of the airport, an Air India Boeing 707 landed with 79 passengers and crew members. It was on a flight from Salisbury, Zimbabwe, to Bombay, India, and was making a scheduled stop.

After their arrest, the men were flown from Durban to the Waterkloof air base near Pretoria.

Parents Of Murdered Children Share Their Grief

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — John Lewis wishes desperately that he could show his mean racquetball serve to his son Scott. The teen-ager taught his dad the sport, and the memory of those lessons now makes the father weep.

"It hurts me to realize things I want to share with Scott but can't," said Lewis, breaking down.

Scott, like the children of others who gathered here on a recent evening, was murdered, but his body was not discovered for more than half a year.

"Scott really took pride in his body," his mother, Jean, continued. "And when I think of his body lying out there, deteriorating for seven months ..."

Mrs. Lewis stopped, her hand shielding her eyes. Others in the room had wept the same tears. For them, spending an evening or two each month with Parents of Murdered Children makes the pain easier to bear.

The shock of losing a loved one can be catastrophic, said Charlotte Hullinger, who started the organization after her 19-year-old daughter, Lisa, was clubbed to death in 1978.

Life after one's child dies is especially devastating since "all your dreams and all your hopes are dying with your child," Mrs. Hullinger said in a telephone interview.

"Violent death brings anger so intense most people can't stand it," she said. "We find that those who would normally be helpful, like people in the church, especially don't like these unacceptable emotions and will try to smooth them over with platitudes like 'It's God's will.'"

She and her husband, Robert, a Lutheran minister in Cincinnati, turned to other parents in desperation.

A priest gave her the name of two couples whose children were slain, and the Hullingers asked the parents to meet informally with them. Mrs. Hullinger says she had no idea that the invitation would grow into Parents of Murdered Children, which now has 20 chapters all over the country. Its members all have violently lost their children, who ranged in age from 2½ months to 52 years.

Mrs. Hullinger has received a thousand letters from parents and spends hours each day and sometimes $400 or more of her own money each month on telephone calls.

Robert Lea, a counselor at the Grief Counseling Center in Marin County, said a parent is overwhelmed with "the shock, the disbelief, then the rage that such a thing could happen, the pointlessness of it."

"People who suffer a loss like that have to go out and find their own support" from those who have suffered a similar trauma, said Lea, who began counseling after his wife killed herself.

On a recent night, the Lewises, who are from San Jose, drove 45 miles through a rainstorm to meet with several other people in Santa Clara at the Center for Living Dying, which counsels people on death.

Joining them were a couple whose 16-year-old son was killed in a restaurant holdup, a man whose daughter and fiance were shot in the head after a fraternity party and two counselors.

The seven sat cross-legged, or sprawled on large, plump cushions and sipped coffee. A warm orange light gave the room a comforting aura.

Sometimes trembling, the parents spoke of frustrating legal delays, of feeling "weird" when emotion grips them in public, of the impatience with which others view their grief.

And they dread holidays.

Three Christmases ago, 16-year-old Tracy Anderson asked for a rust-colored down jacket. Roberta and Jim Anderson tried to find one, but couldn't, so they gave him money instead.

Then Tracy was murdered. The next Christmas found Mrs. Anderson "running out of stores. They all had racks of rust jackets," she says.

Hal Sowers is haunted by the thought that his daughter, Mary Beth, 21, might have been alive while two suspects were in custody for a week before her body was found in a pasture one year ago.

Sowers, a physicist from San Carlos, was angry that investigators could not force the suspects to talk.

"They talk about Miranda rights?" he asked the other parents.

Lea said that with a child's murder "it's just inevitable that it is a much longer and harder grief. There's no comfort" like the kind that comes with knowing you tenderly cared for a son or daughter dying of illness.

Mrs. Hullinger describes Parents of Murdered Children as a "crutch." One person came to a meeting 10 years after a murder. Another calls from Kentucky every Friday afternoon and talks for two hours. The caller's son was killed on a Friday afternoon.

The bereaved "need to go over those things until they're able to put it aside on their own," said Lea.

But mainly, it's comforting to be able to share the terrible experience with others.

"If a person from POMC says 'I know how you feel,' that's right," said Sowers. "They know how I feel."

CHRISTMAS DINNER THEATER— This is a scene from "A Most Unlikely Angel," which will be presented next Wednesday, Thursday and Firday nights in the eighth annual Christmas Dinner Theater at First Baptist Church. From left are Randy Gressett, Donna Browning and Brad Vincent. The dinner will begin each evening at 7 p. m. and tickets are still available for each performance. Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Preventive medicine works

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Surely you agree that a person can be checked up on Thursday and drop dead or have a heart attack and die within hours the next day. This happened to my father-in-law. My husband, with no history of high blood pressure, suffered a stroke and has been disabled for seven years. His blood pressure has been in the 130s before and after the stroke. What good have his annual physical checkups been? Send me your Health Letter on medical examinations.

DEAR READER — Even good medical examinations that include all the tests we know of that can or should be used in a medical examination will not prevent some such cases from occurring.

If doctors did coronary arteriograms and visualized the coronary arteries, they would find more advanced disease earlier, but the procedure is costly, time-consuming and not without risk. It is a good procedure in people who have symptoms or heart disease but it is not something that we recommend as part of a regular medical examination.

The standard, good quality medical examination will find many cases of high blood pressure, high cholesterol and abnormalities people do not know they have, which will enable these to be treated early — thereby decreasing the risk and disability.

Your husband may have been unlucky. Or he may have had a high cholesterol or have been a smoker. Also, a few strokes occur because of a birth abnormality in the arteries to the brain.

As you requested, I am sending you The Health Letter number 10-2, Your Valuable Medical Examination. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. As it explains, the regular medical evaluation is our best tool in finding the diseases that account for most of the deaths that occur. That includes heart attacks, strokes and cancer.

It is still true that the best opportunity to cure cancer is when it is found early and treated early. A good examination is the right time to review your lifestyle and change it for the better to avoid or at least postpone to an older age many of our major medical problems. There really is something to preventive medicine.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have had some lab tests done. A test called a CBC has turned out to be abnormal. Could you please explain to me what that test is? What does this mean about my health? Is it serious?

DEAR READER — CBC is just an abbreviation for "complete blood count." It includes measuring a hematocrit to tell the doctor how much of your blood is made up of blood cells and how much is fluid. It includes a measurement of your hemoglobin (iron pigment in red blood cells). And it includes a count of your white blood cells including how many of several different types of white cells. The red blood cell count is also included. Platelets, the little cells associated with blood clotting, are counted and the early cells that lead to formation of red cells.

So what your test means depends entirely on what the abnormality is. If you have a low red cell count, you are anemic. If you have a low hemoglobin, you may have an iron deficiency. And if your white cells are up, you could have an infection. The degree of change is also important in terms of judging its importance in relation to health.

Berry's World

"I don't know, lady — sometimes I just don't think this 'volunteerism' thing of Reagan's is gonna work."

paul harvey

There is never a consensus in the inexact science of economics. Inevitably there are diverse views.

However, over the seasons certain economists and schools of economics—in their projections—have proved right more often than wrong.

Recently the Wall Street Journal sought out these fiscal crystal ball gazers who have the most impressive batting average and asked them: "What's ahead in the eighties?"

Hang onto your hat; it's going to be an exciting ride!

Money shrinkage, chronic around the world, is less. The tight money remedy is hurting—but helping.

The inflationary pressure of 1979 and 1980 is less almost everywhere including here.

Our nation has adapated to oil price increases with remarkable resiliency.

Because we have made substantial progress in cleaning up the environment, less of our resources will be diverted to those purposes; more to increasing productivity.

The Reagan administration's emphasis on economic efficiency will crank up the generators again.

Howard Howe of Wharton Econometric sees our future "undergirded with strength."

Economist Vincent Malanga anticipates "a fairly long period of prosperity."

Most analysts project a real inflation-adjusted growth in our economy amounting to a healthy three prcent per year.

They expect Reaganomics--especially tax relief and self-sufficiency--to result in an increased output per worker.

More output will dampen inflation: more income will buy more cars, more houses, more appliances.

Most economists anticipate annual price increases by the end of this decade averaging five to eight percent; a few as low as three percent.

There is a factor called "the aging of baby-boom children" to which many economists attach much significance. What they are betting on is that the working age generation of the eighties, more mature, more responsible--will be more efficient producers and more affluent consumers.

Jay Schmiedeskamp of the Gallup organization also recognizes that confidence begets confidence. There is an optimism abroad in our land, born of great expectations. We've needed that.

The decade of the eighties is really going to be something!

New technology will create whole new industries.

If only in the development of alternative energies, these next 10 years promise a fabulous cornucopia of goodies—and the jobs to produce them and the money to enjoy them.

Happy Thanksgiving!

Appeals Court Backs Prisons

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A state appeals court says the state has the authority to confine inmates in prison, even if prison conditions violate the U.S. and Florida constitutions.

The 1st District Court of Appeal voted 3-0 Monday to reverse a judge's ruling that prisoners who escaped from the Florida State Prison did not break the law because the facility was overcrowded.

Faith Baptists Slate Revival

Faith Baptist Church, 37th and Avenue C, will celebrate its 12th anniversary with a revival meeting the first week in December.

Rick Goodman, pastor of the Tulaker Baptist Church in Oklahoma City, Okla., will preach and Wanda Jackson will sing in all services.

The revival will start Dec. 2 and conclude Dec. 5. Nightly services will begin at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday. Sunday, Dec. 6, services will begin at 10 a.m.. An afternoon service has been set for 2 p.m. that day, but there will be no night service.

Wanda Jackson and her husband Wendell Goodman were saved in 1971. After that Wanda gave up a lucrative night club circuit to devote herself to serving the Lord.

Wanda still works some secular dates; concerts at auditoriums and fairs and last year she performed at Disneyland.

The Goodmans have two children, Gina and Greg, who travel with their parents whenever possible. They sing a song they have written themselves. The family is active in the South Lindsay Baptist Church in Oklahoma City.

Aircraft Look For Bomber

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — British, French, Italian and U.S. aircraft searched the Mediterranean for a jet bomber that failed to return to the USS Nimitz after leaving for a routine operation, officials said.

The crash of the A-7E Corsair II on Sunday was the second time in a week and the fourth time this year that the carrier has had to list names of the "missing, presumed dead."

The Navy thinks the plane went down northwest of Sardinia, said Lt. Cmdr. Tom Connor, spokesman for Naval Air Force Atlantic headquarters in Norfolk. Lt. Hal B. Hawkins Jr., of Wiklesboro, N.C., was flying the single-seat plane, part of squadron VA-82 at Cecil Field Naval Air Station in Florida.

Dear Abby

Mother's Little Love Goes a Long Way

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: You frequently fill your column with a lot of sanctimonious garbage about how much we owe our mothers, and how we ought to write, telephone or visit them as often as possible.

In my case, my mother is 88, mentally alert and in reasonably good health, but she is more than I can take, except in very small doses. For the last six years she has lived in a nursing home 600 miles away. She hasn't traveled more than 10 miles from her home in the last 35 years. The last time I visited her (last summer) she talked steadily for 45 minutes about people I had never heard of. When she wasn't talking about people I didn't know, she was complaining about the other people in the home, the food, the care, her aches and pains, and the high cost of everything. (She lacks for nothing, and the home she's in is one of the most expensive.)

What really makes me want to run screaming from her room is the way she always dredges up some incident from my childhood that she thinks is "amusing." It's invariably something that was painful, degrading and humiliating to me. She loves to talk about it, but it's like a knife in my gut!

I write to her often so I won't feel guilty about visiting her so seldom. Thanks for letting me get this off my chest. No name, please. I don't want to start any family wars.

INFREQUENT VISITOR

DEAR VISITOR: The next time you feel like running from your mother's room, pause a moment and take a long, hard look at her. You may see your future self.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, 24, will be getting married within the next six months. She wants a formal church wedding.

Of course, we will send engraved wedding invitations, but we have a question. Our daughter's given name as it appears on her birth certificate is "Agatha Suzanne," but she has never been called anything but "Happy" from the time she was a year old. Very few people even know her real name.

How should it appear on the wedding invitations? We want everything to be strictly according to Hoyle. (P.S. And by the way, who was "Hoyle" anyway?")

PLANNING A WEDDING

DEAR PLANNING: Use Happy's given name on the wedding invitation.

P.S. "Hoyle" was Edmond Hoyle. He was born in 1617 in London, and was the first technical writer on card games. His rules on whist gave rise to the common phrase, "according to Hoyle" — meaning the ultimate authority.

DEAR ABBY: A lot of women enjoy talking on the telephone, but I don't happen to be one of them. I am busy with gardening, canning, sewing and other productive activities, and I consider talking on the telephone a waste of time. Besides, it makes me nervous.

I have changed my telephone number three times in the last two years. It costs $25 every time you change your telephone number here, but it was worth it to me because each time I got rid of one bad pest. I kept my number secret for 10 months from one particularly persistent, long-winded pest by telling her I had my phone disconnected, but she got my number from a mutual friend and now I'm trapped.

When she calls me, I say, "I hear someone at my door, so I have to hang up," but she says, "Go ahead and see who it is. I'll wait."

Abby, this boring, talkative woman is driving me crazy! How can I discourage her calls? There is no cutting her off once she gets me on the phone.

TRAPPED IN TAHUA, WASH.

DEAR TRAPPED: What's wrong with the truth? Simply tell her that you dislike talking on the telephone; it makes you nervous. Just recite your speech and hang up.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, 12060 Hawthorne Blvd., Suite 5000, Hawthorne, Calif. 90250.

Clogged Narrative...

"The Hotel New Hampshire"

THE HOTEL NEW HAMP-SHIRE. By John Irving. Dutton. 401 Pages. $15.50.

John Irving's "The Hotel New Hampshire" suffers from the same flaw that marred his previous novel, the best-selling "The World According to Garp."

Like "Garp," it contains lots of good things. But, once again, it's the stuff in between — the stuff that should have been blue-penciled out — that clogs the narrative arteries and slows the flow of the story.

The novel is divided roughly into three parts. The first portion is long but mostly good. The other two have their moments, but they are few and far between.

Each segment is built to a large extent around a hotel called "New Hampshire." The hotels in their various incarnations are run by members of the Berry family.

The first is located in Dairy, N.H. It used to be a girls' school until Win Berry decided to make it into a hotel. Berry, a pleasant, ineffectual dreamer, moves into the hotel with his wife, their five children, and Win's father. What follows is often sad, often hilarious, usually interesting since the Berrys, despite their protestations, are "eccentric," and "bizarre."

The story begins to go downhill, however, when the family decides to move the hotel to Vienna. Its residents in that city, for the most part, are prostitutes and anarchists, people of little interest except to get the Berry family to move to Maine and the third Hotel New Hampshire. Also not a good location nor a terribly good way to end this story.

Those who like whimsy probably will like this novel since it's loaded with it. Those who don't find it all that enchanting probably will find some of the shenanigans of the Berry family of interest but when finished probably will think of the Berrys in the words said by one of its members:

"In this world, just when you're trying to think of yourself as memorable, there is always someone who forgets that they've met you." PhilThomas

SNACK FARE

Pumpkin Bread
Milk

PUMPKIN BREAD

One of the best of its kind.

1 ½ cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup butter, at room temperature
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 large eggs
1 cup solid-pack canned pumpkin
1 cup coarsely broken walnuts (size of chick peas)

On wax paper stir together the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. In a medium bowl cream the butter, sugar and vanilla; add the eggs and beat until blended. Stir in the flour mixture in 3 equal additions, alternately with the pumpkin, mixing each time only until dry ingredients are moistened. Stir in the walnuts. Turn into a buttered loaf pan (about 8½ by 4½ by 2½ inches) and bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean — 1 hour. (Top will be cracked.) Loosen edges and turn out on a wire rack; turn right side up. Cool completely. Crust softens after standing a few hours.

"Advanced Play at Bridge" has a chapter on bad breaks. Kelsey points out that in rubber bridge you should guard against bad breaks when you can do so.

Here is his first example. West opens the king of diamonds against your four heart contract and after receiving the three spot from his partner West shifts to the queen of clubs.

You take dummy's ace and play dummy's three of trumps. East follows with the eight and unless you are one of those players who takes no precautions against such things as a 3-0 trump break you will play your ace of trumps.

West will show out and after several moments of careful plan and soul searching study you will lose four tricks, game, rubber and your partner's respect.

Now suppose you take out some insurance. When East follows to that first trump just play your jack. You will lose an unnecessary trump trick if West produces the queen, but you will be sure of your contract any way you played the hand.

Tortillas Are Mexican Bread

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The tortilla, a ubiquitous part of Mexican cooking, is actually one of the world's simplest breads.

Tortillas are created by softening dried corn in lime water, forming a thin cake and baking.

Tortillas are available today in most American grocery stores in both frozen and fresh varieties, says Patio Mexican Foods.

Use the meat of raw walnuts or pecans to clean the inside of a sticky, gummy wooden salad bowl.

Soviets...

Make Only Modest Progress On Living Standards

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts by the Soviet Union to upgrade consumer living standards have made only "modest progress" and are likely to "slow to a crawl" in coming years, according to a study commissioned by the CIA.

"Shoddy goods and services, queues and shortages have become characteristic features of everyday (Soviet) life, along with endemic black markets and corruption," said the study released Thursday by the congressional Joint Economic Committee.

The study said that Soviet priorities favoring heavy industry and defense and a "rigid and cumbersome" economic system "have combined to produce a consumer sector that not only lags badly behind both the West and Eastern Europe, but also is in many respects primitive, grossly unbalanced."

Soviet per capita consumption of consumer goods and services is less than a third of that in the United States, according to the study, which said that during the 1970s the gap between U.S. and Soviet living standards widened after narrowing somewhat in the 1960s.

"Over the past 20 years, the Soviets have made the most progress in 'catching up' in food, soft goods and durables, but have retrogressed relative to the United States in housing, recreation, education and health," the study said.

The report was based on a detailed analysis of economic data from 1976, along with estimates of expected trends since then.

It said that in 1976, food, beverages and tobacco accounted for 46 percent of total household spending in the Soviet Union — compared with 17 percent in the United States, 23 percent in France, 27 percent in West Germany, 29 percent in Japan and 35 percent in Spain.

The overall pattern of Soviet consumer spending "in many respects conforms to that in the less developed countries, and remarkably little progress toward a more modern pattern has been made in recent decades," the study said.

An "extraordinarily large share" — 17 percent — of Soviet household outlays went for hard liquor, compared with 1 percent to 6 percent in the United States and other Western countries.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

November 28, 1981

This coming year you will be rather fortunate in situations and areas which previously may have caused you frustration and concern. Everything will begin to run so smoothly you might even find it hard to believe.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You should be rather lucky today in just about anything in which you are involved, but your greatest advantages are likely to come from new enterprises which have captured your fancy. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Play your hunches today should you become involved in a challenging situation. Your intuition may present you with alternatives your logic might overlook.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You should be very good today at adding clever, progressive touches to ideas which have been bogged down. Your new twists will get things off dead center.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll respond very well to challenge today, especially in situations where others are about to throw in the towel. Boldness brings you victory.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Others can be supportive only to a limited degree today. It will be up to you to put the final touches on things if you wish to realize important aims.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't be afraid to assert yourself today. You have more power over events than you may realize. Take steps to change for the better that which needs altering.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Persons with whom you have a good rapport socially could prove helpful to you in other ways today, such as opening doors or offering sound business advice.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Matters important to your work or career can be successfully concluded today. You know which are the most critical. Give them top priority.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Whether at work or play, your peers or associates won't resent your taking charge today. Under your guidance, all runs smoothly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're entitled to let your hair down a bit for some fun pursuits today, but first take care of things important to you financially or security-wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're likely to be far luckier today with ventures that are large and meaningful than you will be with the trivial or mundane. Think big.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Lady Luck is in your corner today. She may shower you with benefits you might not feel you deserve. You're wrong — you do.

Beaumont City Fathers Are Tired Of City's Image

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — The city fathers are tired of this coastal city's national image as a "heavily industrialized, dirty little town," and they're painting a new picture of an international business center nestled among the aromatic piney woods of East Texas.

In the past, Beaumont has been nationally known as a city of smokestacks and troublesome labor unions, says Chamber of Commerce president Dennis Sederholm.

Beaumont's new image — or at least the image Sederholm and others want to project — consists of residential areas amidst the fragrant piney woods, a skilled and sophisticated work force that can meet the demands of industry and an inland port with space enough for international trade.

"Come to where the future is. Come to Beaumont, Texas," urges a promotional videotape prepared by the Chamber of Commerce. "This is the city that heads Money magazine's list of top ten growth towns for the 1980s. This is the [illegible] of the unexpected: major industry coexists peacefully with some of the cleanest air in Texas. In fact, most of the air pollution in Beaumont is the subtle fragrance of the surrounding pine forests..."

This is the Beaumont being touted by the Chamber of Commerce and the city's Economic Development Foundation. Both organizations are changing their sales pitch to prospective business and industry.

"Our national image is not good," Sederholm says. "People feel like Beaumont is a heavily industrialized, dirty little town.

"Once we get people down here they are amazed," he contends. "They see the trees, the cleanliness. We buck the image."

When compared with an extremely industrialized area, such as Gary, Ind., Beaumont has a lot going for it, Sederholm says.

"We have to make an effort to change our image. We have to let them know that Beaumont is a good business town, that people can make money here and that they already are succeeding."

Economic Development Foundation director Jack Cawthorne believes, like Sederholm, that attracting new industry here has been hampered by misconceptions about the town.

"If we can get industry leaders into the city and expose them to our educational, business and city leaders, then they like it," Cawthorne says of his recruitment efforts. "Our big problem is getting them to Beaumont.

"The problem we have to address is we have an image that over the years has gotten distorted," he says. "Some of the bad things we hear happened 20 years ago. And we know damn well it's changed since then."

To back his contentions, Cawthorne and his group have collected information that lays some of the old stereotypes to rest, he says.

Recently released results of a labor study of the city shows that not every business is staffed by unjon members, Cawthorne said. Many businessmen believe that a major plant in the area eventually would be unionized, he added.

"In terms of quality of life, we have the potential to be better than Austin," Sederholm says. For example, he adds, Beaumont has some extremely attractive residential areas which are close enough to the culture of a large metropolis such as nearby Houston, but far enough away from the traffic jams and other hassles of big city life.

"I can play golf 12 months out of the year here, drive to Houston for a baseball game and experience some of the best fishing in the world," Sederholm claims.

These ambitious ideas are part of an advertising campaign both the chamber and the foundation were trying to take to the world. Ads were placed in national and international publications and posted in airport terminals throughout the United States, he said.

"Our advertising in the past has only reinforced our bad image," Sederholm says, pointing to a placard, which shows pictures of smokestacks and reads "A good climate for growing plants."

The new advertisement focuses on the city's strategic location and international appeal, he says.

"We should present the facts, but they should be in the best light possible," Sederholm said.

"You don't sell a car when it's got a hole in the engine block. You fix it, then sell it. We're selling a car while we're fixing the block," he explained. "We don't want to hide anything, but to get the prospective businessman here we sure don't tell him there's a hole in the block."

Police Arrest 1 Shoplifter

One case of shoplifting and three minor traffic mishaps disrupted an otherwise quiet Thanksgiving holiday for Snyder police officers.

Around 11 a.m. Thursday morning, police responded to a call from the C & W Food Basket at the intersection of of Huffman Ave. and U. S. 84. Shortly after arriving at the scene, officers arrested one male suspect on charges of shoplifting.

The first traffic accident of the hoiliday period occurred at 6:54 p.m. Wednesday. Involved were a 1968 Chevrolet owned by Johnny Wood and a mobile home owned by Mrs. Archie Gill. Children playing in the car apparently knocked the vehicle out of gear and allowed it to roll into the mobile home. Only minor damages and no injuries were reported in this incident in the 2700 block of 26 th St.

Thursday evening, around 5:30 p.m., a 1974 Oldsmobile driven by Robert Lee Gaddis was in collision with a mail box owned by Wayne Cole. This accident took place in the 500 block of 17th St.. Only minor damage was reported to the car and damage to the mail box was set at $25.

At 11:33 p.m. Thursday, a 1978 Chevrolet driven by Martin Benetiz was involved in a collision with a 1969 Chevrolet driven by Charles M. Staton. Only minor damage was reported in this mishap at the intersection of 37th St. and College Ave.

In other routine action, officers picked up two subjects on charges of public intoxiaction and made one arrest for DWI and possesion of marijuania, less than two oz.

Medflies Are Turning Up

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — It seems those pesky little medflies are turning up everywhere.

The fourth fire of the day was another cotton trailer fire 5 miles southeast of Hermleigh. Snyder firemen were assisted by members of the Hermleigh Fire Department as they put the fire in a trailer owned by Tonie Pavlas.

Cowboys Struggle To Skin Chicago Bears, 10-9

IRVING, Texas (AP) - History shows the turkey of the Dallas Cowboys' football team - the backup quarterback - can always look forward to Thanksgiving Day.

It was Thanksgiving Day in 1974 that Clint Longley came off the bench for the injured Roger Staubach to beat Washington 24-23 on a last-second touchdown pass.

Glenn Carano got his chance Thursday when Danny White was knocked out of the game in the second quarter and produced a 10-9 victory over the luckless Chicago Bears on a late fourth period touchdown drive.

The victory put the Cowboys a half game ahead of Philadelphia in the National Conference Eastern Division with a 10-3 record while the Bears tumbled to 3-10.

"We'll be able to swallow our turkey tonight," said a thankful Dallas Coach Tom Landry.

White suffered bruised ribs when he was tackled while scrambling for a first down. Doctors said X-Rays proved negative and he may be available to play in 10 days against Baltimore.

"Glenn did just a great job," said Landry. "He was very tight in the first half but settled down in the second half.

"Danny is hurting and we still have to check on his arm more. He has some nerve damage or something ... he's hurting ... hopefully he will be back in 10 days."

After a 3-3 halftime deadlock, the Bears moved ahead 9-3 early in the fourth quarter on quarterback Vince Evans' two-yard touchdown run. However, Ed "Too Tall" Jones blocked John Roveto's extra point attempt to set the stage for a Carano-led comeback.

James Jones returned a punt 17 yards to the Chicago 37. Carano scrambled for 11 yards and passed 15 yards to Ron Springs. Two plays later Springs scored from five yards out and Rafael Septien kicked the extra point.

Roveto's 49-yard field goal try with 31 seconds to play was wide right.

The loss spoiled a brilliant day by Chicago's Walter Payton, who rushed 38 times for 179 yards.

"It doesn't mean anything when you lose," said Payton. "We lost."

"Payton is the best back in football," said Landry. "He has great strength and great running ability. We just couldn't stop him."

Carano had only thrown 12 passes all year. He completed 6 of 15 Thursday for 131 yards, including a 55-yard completion to Tony Hill.

Lions Will Try To Halt Borger Winning Streak

Football fans are expected to see one of the top games of the season here tonight when Brownwood and Borger clash at Tiger Stadium.

Kickoff time is 7:30.

Brownwood, always a top contender, is rated No. 4 in the state and is the favorite tonight after defeating Wichita Falls Hirschi last week, 17-0.

But unranked Borger, 9-2, has come a long way since a 35-7 whipping at the hands of Hereford. The Bulldogs, who also lost to Lubbock Dunbar, 16-14, have won five straight games, including a 14-10 decision over fourth-rated Andrews last week.

Borger's key asset may be speed, where the Bulldogs have "much faster people" than Andrews, according to Brownwood Coach Gordon Wood. Sprinters Cedric Love and Terrance Sheppard man the runningback positions, and quarterback Tony Tillman has run the 100-yard dash in 9.4.

Wide receiver Phillip Bailey is another speed threat, and Borger's big, 200 pound line has the size and quickness to give Tillman time to hit him.

Brownwood, 10-1, represents a mixture of both solid offense and defense. The Lions' only loss was to Abilene Cooper, 14-13, in their season opener. Since then, Brownwood has recorded four shutouts, allowing less than 8 points a game on the average. The Lions are averaging over 30 points offensively.

Leading rusher for Brownwood is Gene Gibson, 172-senior, who has 837 yards and a 5.5 per rush average. The Lions have used a cage full of other backs, including 178-junior Aundrey Henderson, who has 388 yards, and quarterback Tyler Tabor, a 177-senior, who has 268.

Tabor's passing could be the difference in the game. He is 55 of 108 for 1,119 yards, 13 touchdowns and only three interceptions. Favorite receiver is Kyle Story, a 157-junior who has 345 yards in 17 catches for six TDs.

Brownwood's defense is keyed by 199-senior captain Mike Kinsey, a preseason pick as one of the state's top athletes.

NOTE: An earlier article which had Borger ranked No. 1 in Class 4A was incorrect.

Pitt Puts Ranking Against Penn State

by The Associated Press

"This is the easiest game to coach, as far as I'm concerned," says Joe Paterno. "You don't have to worry about motivating the kids."

The Penn State coach is talking about the Pitt game, of course. That's coming up Saturday - and, as usual, has some importance attached to it.

"Every year this game has grown bigger and bigger," points out Pitt Coach Jackie Sherrill. "The intensity has really increased."

As so often has happened in the past, the Pitt-Penn State game has national implications. It marks the third time since 1976 that one or the other enters the contest with the No.1 ranking. This time, Pitt is top-ranked with a 10-0 record and shooting for another national championship, while Penn State is No.11 at 8-2.

Penn State leads one of college football's most bitter rivalries 39-38-3.

"The win over Notre Dame puts us in a more positive frame of mind," said Penn State guard Sean Farrell of last week's victory over the Irish. "We also have the added challenge of going against the No.1 team."

Pitt has been invited to play in the Sugar Bowl against third-ranked Georgia on New Year's Day, while Penn State will play in the Fiesta Bowl the same day against Southern Cal.

The Crimson Tide, which will play in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day against Texas, is heavily favored in this game over their intrastate opponent.

Other games Saturday include Lamar at No.17 Southern Mississippi; Arizona at No.18 Arizona State; Florida State vs. Florida; Boston College against Holy Cross; Oklahoma vs. Oklahoma State; Houston vs. Rice; Tennessee against Vanderbilt and LSU vs. Tulane.

In a game today, Notre Dame took on Miami of Florida.

In action Thursday, quarterback Robert Brewer guided seventh-ranked Texas on an 80-yard scoring drive to rally the Longhorns past Texas A&M 21-13. Brewer capped the drive himself with a one-yard sneak.

Texas Takes Care Of A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - The bruised and battered Texas Longhorns drove 80 yards without a limp for one touchdown and got scores on a 60-yard dash by John Walker and a 38-yard pass from Robert Brewer to Herkie Walls to whip Texas A&M 21-13 in a game "played for pride."

Texas Coach Fred Akers said after the Thanksgiving Day game that injuries had left his seventh-ranked Longhorns "one of the more weakened teams" in the Southwest Conference.

"We're pretty bruised and battered and I'm glad we've got some time to heal up before going to the Cotton Bowl" against No. 4 Alabama.

Texas, 9-1-1, had six starters on the sidelines with injuries against A&M which lost one of the nation's top quarterbacks when Gary Kubiak reinjured his right shoulder with 4:03 left in the first half.

However, A&M coach Tom Wilson said Kubiak should be "fine" when A&M, 6-5, plays Oklahoma State in the Independence Bowl at Shreveport, La., Dec. 12.

A&M, with a wind gusting to 20 mph at its back, drove to the Texas 18 and 10 yard lines against the nation's No. 2 defense in the first quarter but settled for field goals of 35 and 27 yards by David Hardy.

Brewer, a late-season sub for injured Rick McIvor, guided Texas 79 yards against the wind to the A&M one, then punched it over on second down after the teams switched ends of the field.

After an A&M field goal attempt of 46 yards was wide, Walker raced for a score behind blocks by guard Doug Dawson near the line of scrimmage and Walls downfield.

Walker, a third teamer until injuries cost Texas Rodney Tate and A.J. "Jam" Jones, ran 36 times for 178 yards - the most any back has gotten against A&M this year.

Following a 32-yard punt to the A&M 38, Texas scored on its next offensive play, with Brewer pitching a strike to Walls, a 9.2-second sprinter, in the end zone.

That ended Texas' scoring with 6:09 left in the second quarter.

Kubiak's sub, John Elkins, threw a 50-yard pass to Mike Whitwell at the Texas five to set up the final score of the game.

It came on a 6-yard Elkins toss to Don Jones with 11:15 remaining in the third quarter.

College Cagers Begin Season Debuts Tonight

by The Associated Press

Larry Farmer was a player at UCLA when John Wooden was coaching the Bruins to one national basketball title after another. Now, Farmer is in Wooden's old seat at Pauley Pavilion, and many feel dynasty again is at hand.

Farmer makes his regular-season debut as coach tonight when UCLA, ranked No.2 in The Associated Press preseason poll, opens its campaign at home against Brigham Young.

All five of last season's starters are back on the Bruins' roster, but the key player could be a new one: Stuart Gray, a 7-foot freshman center.

Gray is among several towering youngsters who will be in the spotlight in the first weekend of the season.

Georgetown, No.5 in the preseason Top Twenty, has 7-foot freshman Patrick Ewing as it opens tonight, playing Southwest Louisiana in the first round of the Great Alaska Shootout in Anchorage.

Wichita State, ranked sixth, has 7-foot-1 Greg Dreiling, a hometown product, at center for its season opener against Abilene Christian.

And the best big man of last season — in fact, the Player of the Year — is also on the court tonight. Ralph Sampson, Virginia's 7-foot-4 center, leads the seventh-ranked Cavaliers into the Virginia Tipoff Tournament against Fairfield.

Two other Top Twenty members also open tonight at home. No.14 Alabama-Birmingham hosts Benedictine and No.20 Alabama takes on New Hampshire.

North Carolina, the No.1 team in the preseason balloting of sports writers and broadcasters, opens its season Saturday against Kansas in Charlotte, N.C.

Coach Dean Smith, in his 21st year at the Tar Heels' helm, still is looking for his first national championship after losing to Indiana in the NCAA finals last March.

The Tar Heels, 29-8 last season, have three starters returning. Forward James Worthy and center Sam Perkins will rejoin guard Jimmy Black in the starting lineup, while Matt Doherty will move up from his reserve forward role. The other guard spot will be filled by either Jim Braddock or freshman Michael Jordan.

Brownfield Snyder Foe

BROWNFIELD -- Snyder's Tigers, 1-2 on the season, hope to hit .500 here Saturday as they take on Brownfield's Cubs here.

A junior varsity game will open the doubleheader at 6:15. The varsity game will start at 8.
