Akins 'expected' site would make it

By RAMONA NYE
Staff Writer

That the Garden City "supercollider" site made federal energy officials' first cut Friday came as no surprise to area representatives ramroding the location.

"It was certainly expected that we'd be in this group under the technical review," said Garden City SSC Project Manager Thane Akins Friday of the local proposal's selection 36 nationwide.

The 36 will undergo technical review by a National Academy of Science and Engineering panel.

"It's the next cut we're interested in," said Akins, who is also a former Midland mayor.

Of the 43 original proposals submitted, seven were cut for failing to meet one of five basic DOE requirements.

The requirements mandated that the site's land be provided to the government free and accommodate the 52-mile ring that will contain subatomic particles being propelled close to the speed of light and collided.

The proposals also must meet utility requirements, cause no known unacceptable environmental impact and be located within the United States, said Gail Bradshaw, a DOE spokesperson in Washington D.C., said Friday.

One proposal advocating an SSC site on the moon missed most of the criteria, Ms. Bradshaw added.

The quality of the Garden City site was confirmed by this first cut, said San Angelo Mayor Dick Funk Friday.

Although the first screening only eliminated seven candidates, Funk said, "I feel a lot better being in, than I would out. If we make that short list, that's the one I'm sweating."

In January DOE expects to receive a list of the "most excellent" proposals from the scientific panel, Ms. Bradshaw said.

The scientific panel has not been directed to whittle down the finalists to any specific number, and conceivably there could be 36 finalists, she said.

A "preferred" site is expected to be designated next July, and after a safety and environmental review process, the final site will be announced in January 1989

Garden City and an El Paso site were two independent Texas bids to make the first cut. The official Texas sites near Dallas and Amarillo also made the first cut.

Three independent bids from Liberty County, east of Houston, were eliminated.

All sites will be measured against the "same criteria" no matter whether they are officially supported by their states or not, Ms. Bradshaw said.

"For those remaining we're still on a level playing field," she said.

A member of a state commission that selected Amarillo and Dallas as the state's official sites — Odessa oilman Charles Perry — said the large number of Texas finalists could work for or against the state.

Perry said some fellow Texas National Research Laboratory Commission members have speculated that the national panel might refrain from choosing among several Texas sites fearing a political fray.

"In order to try to get away from that we have gotten commitments from Amarillo and Dallas if one is chosen the other would fall behind," Perry said.

And although no similar commitments were sought from backers of the two independent Texas bids, Perry said, "I feel like our commission would line up behind any site they might chose. Our job is to try to get it in Texas."

Shevardnadze apologizes for soldiers' actions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze apologized Friday for the shooting of an American serviceman by Soviet soldiers in East Germany, but the Pentagon said it would insist on a fuller explanation of the "unprovoked" attack.

Robert Sims, the Pentagon's chief spokesman, declined to rule out unspecified "further actions" in response to the attack in addition to formal protests that were lodged Thursday.

Shevardnadze, appearing at a news conference at the Russian embassy here, acknowledged that Soviet military personnel had opened fire Thursday after confronting a vehicle carrying two U.S. servicemen attached to an accredited military liaison office in East Germany.

But Shevardnadze insisted the Soviets had fired only warning shots and that both sides were at fault.

Sims dismissed those assertions, saying the two Americans were outside any restricted area; had been fired upon with an automatic weapon from behind, and had done nothing to violate the terms of the 1947 of the church.

"This stinks," said Helena Barrett, who lives a few streets away from the cathedral. "I'm going home. I can get a bird's-eye view on TV."

Stores in suburban Hamtrack posted open-all-night signs Friday as the bustle of last-minute preparations for the papal visit gripped the community, where Polish and American flags proclaimed the loyalties of the residents.

The pontiff is due in Hamtramck this morning to bring a message in his native language. More crowds were expected to hear the pope's address on social justice at a downtown plaza and for Mass in the Pontiac Silverdome later in the day.

Hamtramck was bustling Friday afternoon, especially along Holbrook Street near the site where the pontiff will speak.

At the Orlikowski Funeral Home across the street from the papal site, family members already were gathering for today's papal appearance.

Nabih Berri says arrest of suspected hijacker 'act close to piracy'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Nabih Berri, justice minister and leader of Lebanon's Shiite Moslem Amal militia, on Friday denounced as "an act close to piracy" the arrest at sea of a suspected Lebanese hijacker by U.S. agents.

Berri called Fawaz Younis' arrest aboard a small boat in the Mediterranean on Sunday "an aggression against the dignity of Lebanon."

Younis was flown to the United States on Thursday and arraigned in Washington on Friday on charges of hostage-taking, conspiracy and destruction of an aircraft.

U.S. authorities believe he masterminded the hijacking by Shiite gunmen of a Jordanian airliner in Beirut on June 11, 1985, when the city's airport was under Amal control. Amal is the main Shiite militia in Lebanon.

Four Americans were among the 74 passengers. Six Jordanian sky marshals who were aboard the plane were taken off and held prisoner, but later released.

The gunmen released the passengers the following day and blew up the Boeing 727 on the runway of Beirut airport. They fled into the surrounding slums, a stronghold of Shiite militants.

Several days later, Shiite militants demanding the release of Arab prisoners held by Israel commandeered a Trans World Airlines jetliner en route from Athens to Rome and forced it to land in Beirut.

Signs in Polish greet John Paul in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Signs in Polish and English greeted Pope John Paul II Friday as he arrived from the West Coast, beginning the last stop on his 10-day U.S. tour, which has had moments of pointed disagreement between American Catholics and the Vatican, the pope greeted people at Blessed Sacrament Cathedral with a short address on unity.

"This is the relationship that we are celebrating today: the deep reality of the Eucharist, the local church and the bishop in the oneness of the universal church," he said.

About 200 people, some of them carrying signs in Polish, waited outside the cathedral. However, many of those who turned out more than four hours early left frustrated and angry after a line of 20 buses carrying invited guests blocked their view agreement that established the Military Liaison Mission system.

"This was an obviously serious incident that had almost tragic results," Sims said. "What we have done is protest this as totally unjustifiable. We've said that we expect a full explanation for the reasons for the incident."

Sims identified the two Americans as Air Force Capt. Bennett McCutcheon of Scottsdale, Ariz., and Air Force Master Sgt. Charles L. Barry of Tucson, Ariz. Barry, a 15-year veteran who was driving the vehicle, suffered a superficial wound from a bullet fragment to his left arm and is in good condition, the spokesman said.

Shevardnadze said the two Americans were "very close" to an area "which is prohibited to members of foreign military missions."

"They were taking pictures of Soviet military aircraft and also were engaging in radio and electronic gathering near the Soviet military facility," he said.

The Soviet foreign minister made no claim, however, that the U.S. servicemen had actually violated a restricted zone, nor did he attempt to explain why the Americans were partially at fault.

"When Soviet soldiers approached, the members of the mission tried to flee. And therefore there was warning fire, small arms fire," Shevardnadze said.

"The actions of both the U.S. and the Soviet soldiers in this case were a a violation of the agreement on military liaison missions accredited to the Soviet and American commanders in the occupied zones of Germany," he said.

"At the same time we are conveying our apologies for what has happened and we state that the Soviet side will take necessary steps to exclude the possibility of any such incident in the future," the foreign minister said.

Spokesman Maj. Dennis Pinkham, of the U.S. military's European Command headquarters in Stuttgart, West Germany, said the shooting was "inexcusable." He said "at least one" member of a five-man Soviet patrol fired at the vehicle, hitting it seven times.

Mattox predicts Richards would pull out of race

By JIM WARREN
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The night after Treasurer Ann Richards raised $600,000 for her possible bid for the Governors Mansion, Attorney General Jim Mattox again predicted that she would pull out of the race and raised questions about her ability to raise money.

Mattox, who "in all likelihood" will seek the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1990, said Friday that a primary race between him and Richards would divide the party. Richards will follow the path that Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros took and withdraw from the governor's race, Mattox said.

"I think she'll test the waters out there for a while and find out it's not the proper decision for her or for the Democratic Party," Mattox said. "I think it'd be extremely divisive."

Richards

Mattox

Recalling the heated 1978 Democratic primary that led to the election of Republican Gov. Bill Clements, Mattox said the Democrats "do not have the luxury, given the kind of money that will have to be spent for a race against the Republicans, to have a very tough and expensive Democratic primary."

Richards held a major $25-a-head fundraiser Thursday night in Austin and drew an estimate crowd of 2,000 whose members spanned the political spectrum. Billy Rogers, her chief fundraiser, said the event at the Austin Hyatt raised just under $600,000 and more pledges are on the way.

Many of Richards' supporters wore "Ann Richards For Governor" buttons, but the 54-year-old treasurer said she is not ready to commit to a gubernatorial contest. She said she must first decide if she has enough money, a strong 254-county organization and "an agenda for Texas that will make all that effort and time worthwhile."

As Richards mingled with the crowd, several legislators, judges, political activists and lobbyists urged her to run for governor. Several Republicans attended the fundraiser as well as conservative Democrats.

"We've got to take them one at a time, and right now I'm co-chairman with Henry Cisneros of (Democratic U.S. Sen.) Lloyd Bentsen's (1988) reelection campaign and we need to work for him, because he's the only senator we've got."

For now, she said, Democrats need "to stop this posturing and one upmanship and get on with the work for Texas. The vision of Texas must not be tied to political ambition."

The thinly veiled shots at Mattox were Richards' first public reaction to the attorney general's less than subtle attempt to drive her out of the race. Mattox implied Friday that Richards was inflating the amount of money she had raised, a charge that fundraiser Rogers denied.

"It'll show up on our (campaign finance) report," he said.

Iran says it foiled Iraqi attack on Kharg

WORLD

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Iraq said its warplanes flew a 700-mile mission to attack Iran's Lavan Island oil terminal in the southern Persian Gulf and also hit a ship off the Iranian coast Friday in an escalation of its air offensive.

Iran claimed its anti-aircraft guns thwarted an Iraqi raid on the Kharg Island oil terminal, shooting down a jet.

Iraq said its raid on Kharg and other oil targets was in response to Iranian shelling, which it said killed nine civilians.

In New York, a report by U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar on his just completed six-day peace mission said Iran indicated it would agree to an undeclared cease-fire while the United Nations identifies the aggressor in the 7-year-old Persian Gulf war.

Tehran Radio quoted Iran's chief justice, Ayatollah Musavi-Ardebili, as telling a Friday prayer rally there would be a "glimmer of hope" for peace if the United Nations declared Iraq the aggressor.

Baghdad radio, monitored in Cyprus, said Iraq's fighter-bombers raided Lavan Island at 8.50 p.m.

An unidentified "large maritime target," which usually means a tanker, was hit in a "destructive raid" in the northern part of the gulf 25 minutes earlier, the radio reported.

It gave no other details. But the long-range mission against the terminal at Lavan marked an escalation in Iraq's campaign to throttle Iran's vital oil lifeline.

Earlier Friday, the Tehran radio broadcast, also monitored in Cyprus, quoted a military communique as saying Iranian fighter-bombers struck oil installations in the Kirkuk region of northern Iraq around noon.

The terse announcement said the raid was in reprisal for Iraqi attacks on populated and industrial areas in Iran. It said all planes returned safely after inflicting casualties and damage.

The official Iraqi News Agency, also monitored in Nicosia, denied Kirkuk was bombed.

INA quoted a military spokesman as saying one Iranian jet intruded but was driven off by heavy anti-aircraft fire without dropping any bombs.

It was the first reported raid in weeks by Iran's air force, which independent experts say consists of about 60 to 80 aircraft, mostly holdover U.S.-built planes from the days of the fallen shah.

The Iranians are believed to be outnumbered as much as 8-1 by Iraq's more modern air force, and relies on a 3-1 edge in manpower to combat Baghdad's superior firepower.

Tehran Radio denied Iraqi planes bombed Kharg. It said air defense units shot down one French-built Mirage and the other planes "withdrew hastily."

It said the Mirage crashed on Kuwait's northern Bubiyan island.

There was no immediate report from Kuwait on the report, but an Iraqi military spokesman, quoted by Baghdad's official media, denied the claim.

He insisted the Kharg terminal, a frequent Iraqi target, was bombed and all the aircraft involved returned safely.

INA reported earlier that Iraqi warplanes blasted Kharg and two other Iranian oil targets after long-range Iranian artillery shelled the southern Iraqi port city of Basra and the border towns of Badra and Khanaqin, killing nine people.

Perez de Cuellar's report, submitted to the U.N. Security Council after his return Wednesday from his peace mission to the area, said Iran would not agree to a formal cease-fire until the party responsible for starting the war was named.

But he said the Iranians told him: "Upon the identification of the party responsible for the conflict, the undeclared cessation of hostilities would be replaced by the declaration of a formal cease-fire."

The secretary-general said Iraq considered the Iranian position "a clear rejection" of the Security Council's Resolution 598, calling for a cease-fire and spelling out proposed terms for a negotiated settlement.

Perez de Cuellar said Iraqi officials told him "under no circumstances would Iraq accept an undeclared cease-fire."

West Germany plans to dismantle missiles ahead of schedule

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The government said Friday it would remove its fleet of aging Pershing 1A nuclear missiles ahead of schedule, as a result of the U.S.-Soviet accord.

A government statement said the 72 Pershing 1As will have been dismantled by the time other U.S. and Soviet missiles are removed.

"The chancellor has informed the American president on this decision," chief government spokesman Friedhelm Ost said in a statement.

Chancellor Helmut Kohl pledged Aug. 26 that West Germany would scrap its Pershing 1As after the United States and Soviet Union removed their intermediate-range missiles from Europe.

But Friday's statement went one step further, saying West Germany would start dismantling its missiles as soon as the superpowers begin to do so and that their removal will be completed at about the same time.

The government press office said the change in schedule did not represent a change of basic government policy as set out in Kohl's original statement.

The United States and the Soviet Union announced Friday they reached a draft agreement on eliminating all of their intermediate-range missiles.

For weeks, the Pershing 1A issue threatened to block a superpower arms accord.

The Soviet Union insisted the missiles be included in an arms agreement with the United States. The United States said the rockets were West German and could not be a subject of discussion between Washington and Moscow.

Secretary of State George Shultz said Friday the United States refused to include the West German missiles in the draft treaty with the Soviet Union, but would destroy the U.S.-controlled warheads on the rockets like other warheads covered by the accord.

The Pershing 1As are shorter-range missiles, with a reach of up to 440 miles. The West German government had the right to modernize the missiles in 1992, but Kohl gave up that right when he decided to have them scrapped.

West Germany has also deployed 48 of the 96 cruise missiles earmarked for its soil and all 108 Pershing 2s. These missiles will be removed under a U.S.-Soviet accord.

"The West German government is pleased that the United States and the Soviet Union have found a solution acceptable to both sides" regarding the warheads for the Pershing 1As, Ost said in the statement.

He said Kohl's August statement on the missiles had provided "decisive conditions" for this solution.

"In accordance with the statement, the German Pershing 1A system will have been dismantled by the time the U.S. and Soviet INF (intermediate nuclear forces) warheads have been removed," Ost said.

Families want to broadcast reward offer

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Relatives of Americans missing in action in the Vietnam War hope to buy air time to broadcast offers of a $2.4 million reward they've offered for the return of MIAs, a group spokesman said Friday.

The group Thursday tossed about 2,500 plastic bags carrying the reward announcement into the Mekong River, which flows through Laos, Vietnam and Cambodia, the three Indochinese nations now all under communist control.

Former U.S. Rep. Bill Hendon, R-N.C., said Friday they were "terribly pleased" at being allowed to release the bags. Thai authorities, fearful of increasing tensions with Laos, stopped the group's original plan to advertise the offer by floating 2,500 helium-filled balloons into Laos.

"We are confident these messages are going where we want them to go. We just hope someone will pick them up and go to work," Hendon said after returning to Bangkok from two days at the Thai-Laotian border.

The money, put up largely by 21 members of Congress, is being offered to any Laotian, Vietnamese or Cambodian who defects or escapes from Indochina and brings out an American held prisoner.

About 2,400 American servicemen are listed as missing in the Vietnam War, with 544 of them lost in Laos.

Hendon said he and a few of the MIA family members would remain in Bangkok, hoping to buy advertising time on radio or television stations beamed into Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia or find other means to advertise the reward.

Radio and television stations in Thailand are controlled by the government and may be reluctant to accept the group's advertisements.

"We understand the Thai position. They are friends of the United States and certainly friends of ours," Hendon said, adding he might travel to Manila to place the ads with a Catholic radio station that broadcasts to Indochina from the Philippines.

"We are terribly pleased how things came out," he said. "We adjusted our plans to the Thai view of things. The authorities were firm but understanding. The local people were just wonderful."

The group, consisting of Hendon, six MIA family members and an accompanying free-lance journalist, traveled to the Thai-Laotian border town of Nakhon Phanom on Thursday, planning to float the balloons across the Mekong.

They were stopped by the Thais, but a compromise was struck and at sunset Thursday the group tossed the plastic packets into the river.

Reporters who drove about six miles downstream from Nakhon Phanom on Friday said they saw hundreds of the pouches floating on the river, near the Thai shore. Some had washed up on the shore.

Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam deny holding any Americans, and the U.S. government is skeptical that any of the MIAs are alive.

Laos and the U.S. State Department criticized the group's action.

The State Department said it could harm official negotiations under way to resolve the fate of the missing.

Hendon defended unorthodox methods as necessary, saying the U.S. government failed to adequately investigate reported sightings of surviving Americans in the three countries.

Over the past decade, private American groups have launched a number of cross-border forays into Laos and tried other means to find U.S. servicemen they believe are held prisoner.

Most of the MIAs in Laos were airmen shot down on missions over rugged territory, including the Ho Chi Minh Trail, the main supply route between North Vietnam and South Vietnam.

Man bitten by snake kills it, eats head raw

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A cobra bit a man and the victim, "raving in anguish," pounded the reptile to death and later ate its head, the Kenya News Agency said Friday.

The 30-year-old man was bitten during a midnight stroll from an inn where he was staying in Mbatini, 93 miles southeast of Nairobi, KNA said.

According to the report, the man beat the snake to death with a club before getting his wound treated. The next day, he cut off the snake's head and ate it raw, KNA said.

"I'm not a snake eater, but I have to do it after a snake bite," the unidentified man told KNA. "It is my cure."

The report didn't say what day the incident occurred.

Gephardt stumping in Carlsbad, N.M.

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP) — Democratic presidential hopeful Rep. Richard Gephardt on Friday questioned the federal government's refusal to allow New Mexico to bid on a high-level nuclear waste repository.

The government is considering putting the commericial waste dump in three states where political opposition is strong — Texas, Washington and Nevada.

But support is growing in New Mexico, where suggestions have been made to bid on the waste dump in tandem with the Department of Energy's super collider project.

Bork will return for fifth day of testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court nominee Robert H. Bork, 60, answered questions well into Friday evening in what has become a marathon inquiry into his fitness for confirmation. He is to return today for a fifth day of testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee. No high court nominee has ever been questioned at such length before.

The Friday session adjourned at 8:15 p.m. EDT, more than 10 hours after it began. Today's hearings will begin at noon.

Earlier Friday, Kennedy, D-Mass., accused Bork of following a White House strategy of changing his views to win confirmation. "Mr. Bork's balloon has been rapidly losing altitude in the Senate. He's been rapidly jettisoning the baggage of a lifetime," Kennedy said.

Bork countered, "If those charges were not so serious, the discrepancies between the evidence and what you say would be highly amusing."

As the committee strained to conclude its questioning of Bork — questioning that has lasted longer than for any other prospective new justice in the five decades of such hearings — the nominee also came under fresh attack from opponents who said his earlier-stated views frighten women and minorities.

At one point, Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, a stern opponent of Bork's nomination, accused him of once approving a ruling that gave women at a chemical plant the "shocking" choice of being fired or accepting sterilization to avoid danger to potential fetuses.

Bork said the ruling was fair and humane in at least giving the women a choice rather than leaving them to be demoted or dismissed outright.

Metzenbaum later read aloud a telegram he said was from one of the women who agreed to be sterilized. She said, "This was the most awful thing that happened to me."

The opposition to Bork appears to have coalesced around two related themes:

Liberals say the views he has expressed in a 25-year career as lawyer, scholar and judge place him outside the mainstream of generally accepted American jurisprudence. And they charge that his moderate stances this week merely reflect his ambition to be on the high court rather than any true change of heart.

Bork sought Friday to reassure the Senate he has not vacillated nor is he an extremist.

"I have expressed my views here and those views are now widely known," he said "It really would be preposterous to say things I said to you and then get on the court and do the opposite. I would be disgraced in history."

The remarks were in response to Sen. Howell Heflin, D-Ala., one of three or four apparently undecided members of the closely divided committee.

Heflin said some people fear "you could do great harm to minorities."

Bork responded, "That argument assumes something about me that's not true," and he pointed to his opinions as a federal appeals court judge upholding the rights of minorities and women.

Such an argument also "assumes there are four other justices who have sinister views, which is not true," he added.

The Supreme Court, with eight justices after the retirement of Lewis F. Powell in June, is seen as closely divided on many important issues — most notably affirmative action and abortion.

Bork addressed what his detractors charge is a convenient change of views on judicial activism by drawing a distinction between "activism" and "imperialism."

He said, "I don't want anybody to think courts should be passive and not defend individual liberties. Courts should be active in that field."

"Imperialism" is what he finds offensive, Bork said. "That means taking over territory that doesn't belong to them."

Kennedy, attempting to show contradictions in Bork's views, played a tape of remarks the nominee made on Oct. 8, 1985, to students at Canisius College.

In the remarks, Bork said, "I don't think precedent is all that important. I think the importance is what the framers were driving at, and to go back to that."

Bork this week repeatedly has stressed the significance of Supreme Court precedents, giving assurances he would not throw out decades of decisions on civil rights and individual liberty.

After hearing himself on tape, Bork dismissed the remarks as off-the-cuff "give and take" and not a fully balanced presentation of his views.

One of the more dramatic moments of the day occurred in an exchange after Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, said he was shocked by an opinion of Bork's upholding a chemical company's plan dealing with dangerous lead levels in the workplace.

SHOOTING

"It was a Mercedes four-wheel-drive, jeep-like vehicle, which clearly was marked with the U.S. flag, the letters MLM — for military mission — on the back and front, and other U.S. Army markings," said Pinkham.

U.S. officials displayed the vehicle to reporters late Friday. The left rear window was smashed and there were at least seven bullet holes, including one in the driver's door. The holes were different sizes and appeared to have been caused by weapons of two different calibers.

The only identification marks that could be seen were front and rear license plates, both marked with American flags and the number 29. In the lower part of the plates, "American Military Mission" was written in Russian.

The two were driving down a road near the town of Wasleben when they spotted a single individual, dressed in civilian clothes, by the side of the road. The leader of the American team, the Air Force captain, had "a gut feeling that the individual was in fact a Soviet soldier or some other government representative, and he decided that they should leave the area."

Sims agreed the two Americans "were in the area of routine Soviet activity; that's their job."

"But this team was in an area that is not a restricted area," he added.

Sims offered the following account of the incident, which occurred around 9:15 a.m. EDT on Thursday:

As the two Americans were driving way, they encountered "a second individual, about 30 meters away, dressed in a large, black overcoat, again without any insignia or rank."

"They presumed that this individual was a civilian and continued to leave the area. As they moved on, they saw him pick up an AK-74 (automatic rifle) from the ground. At that point, they began to accelerate. Then, less than 100 meters down the road, they heard at least seven shots fired ..."

The vehicle was struck repeatedly, shattering the glass windows, and one bullet fragment struck the driver, Sims continued.

The Americans then stopped their car and were immediately surrounded by the two men observed earlier along with three other Soviets, at least one of whom was wearing a Russian military uniform. The Americans were held at gunpoint and the Air Force captain was initially refused permission to provide water and medical assistance to his driver, the spokesman said.

About 20 minutes after the incident began, the two Americans were finally allowed to leave.

The military liaison missions were created in 1947 by the four occupying powers in Germany after World War II — Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States — to foster cooperation. The Soviet Union has a team in West Germany.

The teams from all four countries now operate as thinly disguised intelligence-gathering operations, observing each other's military deployments and exercises. The teams are allowed to roam freely except in areas that have been posted off-limits.

The U.S. team in East Germany, based in Potsdam, consists of 14 men. They are provided special ID cards and license plates for their vehicles.

Thursday's incident was the most serious since March 1985, when a Soviet sentry shot and killed Maj. Arthur D. Nicholson. In that case, the United States also charged that Nicholson was in an unrestricted area and had been shot without provocation and that his driver had been prevented from administering first aid.

An agreement negotiated a year after that shooting was aimed at preventing a recurrence of such incidents. The Pentagon said at the time that Soviet sentries would be told how to identify U.S. personnel and instructed not to use deadly force against them when they were properly identified.

BERRI

Berri played a key role in gaining freedom for the 37 American passengers held hostage on the jet. One passenger, U.S. Navy diver Robert Stethem, was killed by the hijackers.

Berri's Amal took over guarding most of the hostages and negotiated their release after 17 days' captivity.

Berri's statement, broadcast by Lebanon's state-run television network, did not specifically say that Younis was a member of Amal, but it was widely regarded in Beirut as almost being an admission that this was the case.

"It was Amal who rescued the passengers of the Jordanian jetliner. It was also Amal who returned the air marshals aboard the plane who had been kidnapped at that time," Berri said.

"I have been astonished by the justification attributed to the U.S. attorney-general charging Younis with hijacking the Jordanian plane," Berri added.

"One wonders where this U.S. enthusiasm to defend Jordan's interest came from."

Berri continued: "Jordan is our brother, and if the Jordanian government possessed information to this effect it would have submitted it to the competent Lebanese authorities.

"I, as justice minister, would have followed the matter up for Jordan's sake.

"This would have spared the United States this muscle-flexing in the Mediterranean."

"At any rate, we have asked competent (Lebanese) departments to follow up the Younis affair and find out the circumstances involved before taking the necessary measures to defend a Lebanese citizen," Berri concluded.

Younis was spotted weeks ago by U.S. intelligence agencies. He was placed under surveillance and, at an unspecified Mediterranean port, lured aboard a small boat piloted by FBI agents.

After the boat reached international waters, Younis was arrested and transferred to the U.S. aircraft carrier Saratoga in the Mediterranean near Corsica.

He was flown to Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington on Thursday.

POPE

"It's usually busy out there around Christmas, but I've never seen anything like this," said Camille Carravallah, who came from nearby Warren to her father's funeral home for the weekend.

Her sister, Renee Orlikowski, said there was a big crowd just to watch a choir practice on Thursday afternoon.

"And today, I mean the bank is closed, and you can hardly move on the streets," she said.

Hamtramck stores planned all-night hours as crowds gathered for this morning's motorcade. Vendors hawked souvenirs including T-shirts proclaiming "I went to Rome to see the Pope but he was in Hamtramck."

The predominantly Polish city of about 20,000, entirely surrounded by Detroit, displays special affection for the Polish-born pope, who had celebrated a Mass there as a cardinal. A twice-lifesize statue of the pontiff dominates a streetcorner park in the heart of the town.

The pope's appearance on a three-story high platform at Hart Plaza on Detroit's riverfront will be visible from the streets of Detroit, the river and the Canadian shore less than one-half mile away.

Commercial vessels over 65 feet will be barred from the river from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., and boats will be directed to anchoring areas for the pope's address, said U.S. Coast Guard Chief Doug Baker.

A forecast for rain might cut down the boating crowd, which can reach 5,000 vessels for events such as the city's annual Fourth of July fireworks display, Baker said.

The archdiocese has erected elaborate sound systems around Hart Plaza, said Archbishop Edmund Szoka. "We've had architects and engineers out there checking the sightlines and checking on the best positions to put these platforms...

"People shouldn't be afraid that they can't get there. Wherever they are, they will be able to see and hear the pope," Szoka said.

The church has distributed about 90,000 tickets for the mass at the Silverdome — home of the Detroit Lions and site of the 1982 Super Bowl — most of them through drawings at parish churches in the archdiocese.

The archdiocese said 57 bishops and eight cardinals would participate.

The city's Grand Circus Park area, downtown but not near any of the papal events, was set aside for protests.

Two vans from Kalamazoo brought members of Recovering Catholics and the Alter Society — made up of former Altar Society members who decided rather than pressing linens for Mass "they'd spend their time altering the church," according to spokeswoman Sheila O'Sullivan of Kalamazoo.

Correction

In Friday's edition of the Midland Reporter-Telegram it was incorrectly reported that right of way east of Lamesa Road would be bought by the city to widen the road. In a revised plan adopted by the City Council only right of way on the westside of Lamesa Road from U.S. Highway 80 to Florida Avenue will be purchased.

The Midland Reporter Telegram regrets the error.

3 people killed, 101 hurt when trains collide

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Two passenger trains crashed head-on in northern Austria Friday, killing three people and injuring 101, officials said.

A spokesman for Austrian Railways in Vienna said an express train from Innsbruck to Vienna and a passenger train going from Vienna to Salzburg collided near Lambach, about 25 miles southwest of Linz.

Herbert Haunschmid, the locomotive engineer of the Innsbruck to Vienna train, told Austrian television his train was going about 85 mph when "I suddenly saw a train coming toward me on my track."

"I put on the emergency brake...then fled into the engine room," Haunschmid said. "I had an all-clear signal and was definitely on the right track."

Gustav Hammerschmied, regional director for Austrian railways, said the crash occurred near the site of repairs. The repair work caused the train coming from Vienna toward Salzburg to be diverted onto the track where the Innsbruck express was approaching, he said.

"It was terrible," Max Krenner, a fireman who pulled injured people from the wreckage, told Austrian television. "There were badly injured people still in the cars. It was awful."

Among the injured was an American woman identified as Mary Ann Lecotte, 44, of Louisiana. Her hometown was not available.

Those hurt included two Britons, a Canadian, a Brazilian woman and a Yugoslav.

The train from Innsbruck had about 200 people on board, and the Vienna-Salzburg train about 100 passengers, the railway spokesman said.

The spokesman, who spoke on condition of not being further identified, said four cars were derailed and both engines destroyed in the crash, which occurred about 8:40 a.m.

Five helicopters, 100 rescue vehicles and more than 100 firefighters and medical personnel helped in the rescue effort.

Two adults and a 5-year-old boy, all Austrians, were killed and 101 people treated for injuries, according to a list released by the Red Cross in the north-central state of Upper Austria.

Four people, all Austrians, were said to be seriously injured, and 39 more people hospitalized.

An additional 58 people were treated for injuries at the scene of the crash, the Red Cross in Linz said.

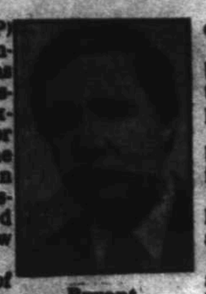
Fewer aliens expected to seek amnesty



Bryant

WESLACO (AP) — Far fewer undocumented aliens than originally estimated are expected to apply for amnesty under the new immigration law, a congressman who helped develop the law said Friday.

A low turnout of applicants nationwide since the amnesty period took effect May 5 is "suggesting that the total number of 2 million the INS was shooting for may have been overestimated," said Rep. John Bryant, D-Texas.

Bryant helped shape the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 as a member of the immigration subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee.

He praised the work of the Immigration and Naturization Service in implementing the new law, which he said was designed to stop the formation of an underclass of people who "live in the shadows."

Bryant, who said he does not know the reason for the low numbers seeking amnesty so far, spoke at a conference titled, "Immigration Reform and Control Act — The First Four Months."

"Probably we overestimated the desire of a lot of Mexican people that have come here to become American citizens," Bryant told The Associated Press.

"We probably overestimated the total number of people that were here before January of 1982," he added.

Most of the people eligible for permanent residency under the new law must show proof that they have lived here since Jan. 1, 1982.

The government estimated that between 2 million and 3 million would apply for amnesty, but only 690,000 legalization applications have been accepted nationwide, according to the INS.

Charlie Perez, district legalization officer for the INS' Harlingen office, said the agency now expects that possibly half the original number expected will apply "based on daily capacity."

But he said there is a chance that business will pick up at the legalization centers as the deadline approaches next May.

"It's hard to get statistics on this, because you're only four months into it," Perez said.

The Harlingen office was set up to handle 300 people a day, but is averaging 130.

The border city of Laredo averages 10 daily applicants. Some of the larger cities, however, are taking in more than they expected, according to the INS.

"There may be some discouraging factors that need to be taken into consideration," Bryant said, "such as fear of detection, not believing that they're going to be given a fair shot to be legalized, and instead fearful that it's a trick to catch them."

John Armistead, the INS official in charge of working with agencies known as qualified designated entities, authorized to assist amnesty applicants in the 13-state southern region, agreed that an unwarranted fear of arrest is discouraging some aliens.

"That's probably still keeping some people from applying," Armistead said.

The rise of fraudulent documents and recent arrests are in many cases the product of eligible people who have no receipts to prove they were here being victimized by unscrupulous individuals. He said the government needs to better inform applicants and people who work with them that affidavits often provide sufficient documentation.

Some early problems, however, have been resolved, including a provision that originally excluded all Texas amnesty applicants with driving while intoxicated convictions. Those assessed a punishment of less than one year have since been declared still eligible.

Other issues, such as whether a person eligible for amnesty will be able to legalize other members of his family, probably won't be resolved this year, Bryant said.

"There will not be, I'm quite sure, any major amendments to the immigration law this year," he said.

Sessions says he hopes FBI 'free of politics'

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Family, friends and associates of U.S. District Judge William Sessions gathered Friday night to pay tribute to the man expected to be confirmed as new director of the FBI.

About 200 people attended a wine-and-cheese reception at which Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, was among those who praised Sessions.

"He represents the best that we have in our law enforcement in our judicial system," Gramm said. "I know that I am going to enjoy working with him."

Sessions later told the crowd that he hated to leave the bench, but that he realized he could not pass up the challenge of directing the FBI, which he hoped would be free of politics.

"God willing, I will be able to do a task that when I've finished it, they'll be sorry that I'm leaving it and I hope that will work out well," Sessions said.

The Senate Judiciary Committee earlier this week unanimously approved Sessions' nomination, and the full Senate is expected to confirm the nomination next week, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said Friday.

Bentsen said senators have been working long hours on the defense authorization bill and did not have enough time to devote to the FBI nomination this week.

"The problem with Judge Sessions is that so many senators want to say so many nice things about him," Bentsen said. "I see no problem with his nomination and I think he will do an excellent job as director of the FBI."

He also said Sessions' nomination was unusual because it produced little controversy among senators.

"He's a straight arrow," Bentsen said.

The reception honoring Sessions was organized by attorneys Seagal V. Wheatley and Stanley D. Rosenberg, two of Sessions' longtime friends.

"This has moved very fast and I'm sure that he will be confirmed very quickly," Wheatley said. "We thought that before it happens that we get together and honor him."

The guest list included federal, state and county judges, City Council members, other attorneys and friends.

Sessions, 57, is the chief judge for the western district of Texas. He was a former federal prosecutor and was named a federal judge in 1974.

Juvenile officers upset by sentence

HOUSTON (AP) — Juvenile officers were upset when they learned that a man arrested on a charge of fondling and taking lewd pictures of young girls was given probation — and they were never called to testify, a police spokesman said.

John Clifton Ball, 69, pleaded guilty Aug. 25 to aggravated sexual abuse of a child and was granted 10 years deferred adjudication probation by State District Judge Charles Hearn. Ball also was ordered to move to Texarkana to live with his daughter and get psychiatric treatment.

"When juvenile officers called (the district attorney's office) to find out why they hadn't been subpoenaed to testify, they were told (Ball) had already been given 10 years deferred adjudication," police spokesman J.C. Mosier said Thursday.

With deferred adjudication, Ball's conviction will be stricken from his record if he successfully completes his probation.

Woman patches memories together from family's quilts

By DJUNA FOSTER

BONHAM, Texas (AP) — Flower garden, snake-in-the-grass, log cabin, chain links, and double wedding rings. The possibilities are limitless.

Quilting's timeless elegance rivals art.

"To me, a pretty quilt is just as beautiful as any oil painting," says Donnis Peebles of Dodd City. Some of her efforts recently were on display along with others at the Fannin County Museum.

The Fannin County native began learning to quilt at the age of 10 by helping her mother work on quilts for the family.

"I was just barely tall enough to reach the quilting frame, but I loved those times; they were special to me," she said.

Her first solo effort, in 1928, used a creation her mother pieced together. Ms. Peebles said quilting patterns appeared in the Dallas Semi-Weekly News every week. If they missed an issue, they exchanged patterns with someone else.

"They had pictures in the paper and you were supposed to look at them and then create your design from the idea." She added that patterns weren't pre-stamped and ready-to-quilt in those days.

"Women even had to hand-dye the materials for quilting in the very early days if they wanted any color other than work-clothes brown," she said. "As technology progressed, dry goods stores began to carry what they call quilting bundles," she added.

Laughing as she explained the concept, she used a patchwork quilt of a thousand prints to tell the story.

"All it entails is a big roll of scrap material mixed together — solids, prints, checks and of course, work-clothes brown," she said.

"My most vivid memory of quilting is trying to piece the different design of materials together so they did not clash.

"Although in that day — the design was not of utmost importance," she said with a nod. "The importance was in the function of the quilt — keeping us warm."

Ms. Peebles noted that many quilts tell family histories. One example she recalls was constructed solely of several dozen men's neckties saved by a woman as her husband followed the fashion trends.

Another quilt in the Fannin County display featured a log cabin in each block. Ms. Peebles said a small piece of rose-colored material in the direct center of each cabin symbolized a welcome to husbands returning from hunting or the fields.

The quilts themselves also sometimes make history.

Ms. Peebles and a friend, Floe Runkle of Windom, worked together to construct an original Texas Sesquicentennial quilt that was displayed throughout the state.

Ms. Peebles said her love for this art came from an aunt. "Don't get me wrong, my mother loved doing this," she said. "But my aunt — it was her life. She made some of the most beautiful quilts I could ever hope to see."

Displaying various items from baby quilts, to wall hangings and stuffed animals with intricate stitching she said she most enjoys hand-piecing and hand-quilting.

STATE IN BRIEF

Loeffler says he's not interested in serving on Supreme Court

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Congressman Tom Loeffler, who now serves as President Reagan's Capitol Hill lobbyist on Central America policies, has told Gov. Bill Clements he isn't interested in becoming chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court.

"Based on my present responsibility to the president, the vice president and my law firm, I cannot ask for your consideration," Loeffler said in a letter to Clements.

Loeffler also is co-chairman of Vice President George Bush's presidential campaign in Texas.

He and Clements earlier discussed the opening created by Democratic Chief Justice John Hill's decision to resign Jan. 1.

James Huffines, the governor's appointments secretary, said Clements will name a successor to Hill by mid-November.

"We're still continuing to receive a lot of names of lawyers, some in private practice and some sitting judges," Huffines said.

Recycler finds shuttle documents

HOUSTON (AP) — FBI agents are looking through dozens of space shuttle documents discovered by a paper recycler.

"At first glance, I don't see a federal violation," FBI spokesman Charles Kearney said Thursday after informed of the discovery by William Rosch III, an attorney for Steve Wickett, who owns the recycling company Delta Fibers.

Wickett, of La Marque, this week found training manuals and technical drawings dated 1979 to 1985.

White said none of the material was stamped "secret" or "confidential" and appeared to be paperwork given to reporters prior to shuttle missions.

Council OKs AIDS foundation

AUSTIN (AP) — The Austin City Council has approved plans to establish a private foundation to raise money for the treatment of AIDS patients.

The plans, which were developed by the Austin-Travis County Health Department, were approved Thursday.

The city council also accepted the department's plans for a program to educate the public on preventing acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

Nearly $250,000 already has been approved by the council to fund AIDS-related programs next year.

A committee is to be appointed to oversee solicitation of money, creation of the public awareness program and formation of support services for patients with the fatal illness.

Pure Jamaican cociane seized

AUSTIN (AP) — Five people were being held on drug charges after Jamaican cocaine with an estimated street value of $20,000 was seized in a raid, Austin police said.

Officers in the police department's repeat offenders program, which targets cases involving career criminals, seized six ounces of cocaine, much of it pure and uncut, said Sgt. David Neely.

Officers also took almost $25,000 in cash and jewelry that police believe is worth $10,000, Neely said. He said officers believe the money and jewelry were involved in drug transactions.

Two guns, one of which had been reported stolen, also were confiscated in the Thursday raid, along with television sets, typewriters, car radios, stereos and several telephones police believe had been traded to drug dealers in return for narcotics, Neely said.

Former employee appeals layoff

HOUSTON (AP) — A former assistant to the city of Houston's solid waste director has appealed his layoff to the Civil Service Commission, charging he lost his job in retaliation for being a departmental whistle blower.

Richard Leach, 33, was one of 12 workers in the Solid Waste Management Department laid off Sept. 2 in the city's second wave of budget-related personnel reductions. In his appeal, Leach says Assistant Director Thomas Buchanan laid him off without following city guidelines.

"That's aboslutely false," Buchanan said Thursday. "In the first place, I did not make the selection of the classifications for layoffs. I did make the selections (of people) within the classifications, but that's mechanical."

Leach has been employed by the city since June 11, 1979, and worked for the department since January 1986.

Denton blacksmith hand-forges steel path into future

DENTON (AP) — With glowing forge and pounding hammers, the blacksmith shop gives a glimpse of yesterday. The designs that come from Paul's Forge, however, owe more to today and tomorrow than to the past.

"I do modern work, things from today and tomorrow and a little bit from yesterday," says Paul Matthaus, who turns out hand-forged crafts at his shop in Denton. "Modern, abstract designs excite me."

Matthaus pays tribute to the past with his candle holders, letter holders and ashtrays made to look as if they were formed from harnesses or horseshoes. Those items, and his handcrafted knives, sell well at shows, but his heart lies with the modern sculpture he forges.

"I get my ideas from books from Europe and the United States, and not only books but the different things I see," he said. "An artistic blacksmith has unlimited designs. Take different types of metal and put them together and you can make anything the customer wants."

Much of Matthaus' work is standard forge contract work. He produces gates and window bars to order, hoods for fireplaces and kitchen stoves, racks for pots, chandeliers, and irons and fireplace tools.

He works with a designer and his forged steel, stainless steel and tempered steel — often mixed with other metals — all is designed for customer approval. His love of producing one-of-a-kind handcrafted works keeps him a happy man.

"It satisfies me very much, to take metal and twist it, bend it and make something not everybody does. It's an interesting trade. I love to mix metals to make abstract designs. Different kinds of metals give different moods," he said. "I love to come to my shop. I love to design and be my own boss."

Being his own boss is important to Matthaus, who was born in Wenderborn, East Germany, near the Polish border. After World War II, Wenderborn was under Communist domination.

"I and my family escaped to West Berlin in 1955 and got free forever," said Matthaus, who came to the United States in 1971.

"I've been forging since 1955, too, since I was 15 years old. My father was a barber and there was a blacksmith shop next door. I didn't like my father's trade, so I went next door," he said.

Matthaus started out shoeing horses and repairing farm equipment.

Weekend to be cooler, mild

From Staff and Wire Reports

A weekend of mild, fall-like temperatures is predicted by the National Weather Service at the Midland Regional Airport.

Today is expected to be cloudy in the morning with decreasing cloudiness occurring in the afternoon. A 40 percent chance of showers and thunderstorms is predicted.

Today's high should be in the mid-70s and the low in the upper 50s. Evening winds will be east at 5 to 15 mph.

Sunday is expected to continue to remain mostly cloudy with a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms. Sunday's high should be in the mid-70s and the low should dip down to the upper 50s.

STATE

A cold front that stretched from near Laredo through Central and Southeast Texas prompted thunderstorms mostly in South and Southeast Texas Friday as it wandered toward the south.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were mainly in the northern parts of South Texas and extended into the Edwards Plateau and Hill Country and into Central and north Central Texas.

The National Weather Service issued a flash flood watch for Pecos and Terrell counties in Southwest Texas Friday night, saying heavy rains that fell Thursday have saturated the soil and made the area vulnerable to flooding.

Thunderstorms also plagued Southeast Texas, the mid and upper Coastal Plains and the waters of the northwest Gulf.

A few scattered thunderstorms and light rain were observed around the Permian Basin, and skies were cloudy around the state even in areas where it wasn't raining.

In the forecast, skies should be partly to mostly cloudy Saturday but should begin clearing by Sunday. Today's highs should be mostly in the 70s and 80s.

NATION

Heavy thunderstorms idled by a stationary front continued to douse the northern part of the nation from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic Ocean on Friday.

Up to 2 inches of rain was reported in parts of Pennsylvania and New York during the afternoon, and flood watches were issued for parts of the Catskills and lower Hudson Valley.

Showers and thunderstorms were also scattered from western Texas and central New Mexico eastward through the lower Mississippi Valley and the Gulf Coast into Florida. Strong winds felled trees and power

Mustangs trip Tors in 2-4A tilt

By ERIC SCHURER
Sports Writer

LAMESA — The Andrews Mustangs turned the tables on their kicking game and it was Lamesa that paid the price.

Andrews parlayed a pair of blocked punts and three Golden Tornado fumbles into two first half touchdowns for a 14-8 District 2-4A opening win Friday night. It was the first win of the season for the Mustangs, 1-0, 1-2, while for Lamesa, 0-1, 1-2, it was the first loss.

"We made the same things happen to them that have been happening to us and it made the difference for us," said first-year Andrews coach W.T. Stapler. "We felt like their kick coverage was so strong that we didn't have much chance to run one back, so we were going for the blocks all the way."

The Mustangs, who had three of seven punts blocked in losses to Hereford and Midland High to open the season, cold-cocked the Tors' kicking game with the blocked kicks, but it was a pair of first-half fumbles deep in Lamesa territory that led to two short drives for the only Mustang touchdowns.

And it was a swarming defensive scheme that held Lamesa's explosive backfield of Gerry Woodberry and Tim Demerson to less than 100 yards on the night.

Strong-side linebacker Marc Taylor forced both fumbles that led to short Mustang touchdown drives. Taylor, a 6-0, 165-pound junior, also blocked a kick in the second half and was in on a dozen tackles.

Taylor's first fumble recovery came on the second Lamesa play after a botched Andrews' field goal attempt near the goal line. Taylor met tailback Woodberry in the backfield attempting to turn the corner and simply stripped him of the ball.

On the first play after the turnover, Andrews' quarterback Robert Morris swept right and dove for the end zone marker after a 10-yard run.

Midland Lee defender Steve Brenner (77) puts pressure on El Paso Eastwood quarterback Rocky Daily (12) Friday night. The Rebels thrashed the Troopers, 56-0.

No contest, Lee rolls, 56-0

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

What the Midland Lee Rebels did to El Paso Eastwood Friday night was a bit like using an elephant gun on squirrels, like throwing a harpoon at a catfish or, as has become a habit, like pitting District 4-5A against District 2-5A. It really doesn't make for fair sport.

Once again the Rebels and Troopers met in a pre-district finale and, like most meetings, it was no contest. The Rebels dominated the Troopers. They ran over, through and around tacklers when they had the ball and stuffed blue and gold jerseys into the Memorial Stadium sod when Eastwood went on offense. It was a rout, "Little Southwest Conference" style, 56-0.

It wasn't an offensive effort to match last week's Rebel school record 522 yards rushing, but it was impressive none the less. Backs Joe Woodard, 145 yards, and David Whiteside, 103 yards, accounted for five of Lee's eight touchdowns. Dennis Sterling collected two on 96 yards rushing and During Jenkins caught a TD pass for the eighth.

"Joe had a great night," said Rebel assistant coach Van Tom Whatley. "He had a great night because the offensive line blocked well. Some nights Joe's going to get the ball more than the others, sometimes the others will. It's a great tribute to the backs. They don't care who gets the job done."

And, getting the job done doesn't always mean breaking the big play or even carrying the ball. Sometimes it's the basics, like fullback Waymon Goodley and his blocking.

"Waymon had as good a game as he could play but only had 30 yards," said Whatley. "But, he did a fantastic job blocking. If we get 11 people playing, we've got a chance to move the ball."

Move the ball! The Rebels didn't just move the ball against the Troopers, they MOOOOOVED the ball, 403 yards on the ground on 41 carries and 44 yards passing on a 4-of-5 effort by quarterback Geoff Rich, including a 29-yard TD pass to Jenkins.

"It was a real good night, I ran good," said Woodard, who recorded his first 100-yard effort of the year. "The line was blocking real well, setting up a lot of holes for us and that's all it took.

"We (backs) all try to block for each other, try to be unselfish. We try to think as a unit," continued Woodard. "If we don't do our job, the whole team won't come out on top."

Rangers hand Buffs first loss

By JOHN FREY
MRT Correspondent

GREENWOOD — Coming into Friday night's game against the Stanton Buffaloes, Greenwoood Ranger Coach Bob Purser had a plan that he hoped the game would follow.

"We felt we had to get ahead," Coach Purser said. "Stanton hasn't trailed in either of its first two games and we felt it was important to get them down. It is also something that we needed to help our confidence."

Coach Purser did not have to wait long to get his wish as Randy Donnell picked up the opening kickoff at the 16 yard line and raced 84 yards down the sidline for a touchdown. This was all the confidence the Rangers would need as they went on to a 19-8 win.

After the opening kickoff the rest of the game was not a thing of beauty as the two teams combined for 10 turnovers. The difference, however, was the Rangers' ability to capitalize on the Buffaloe miscues scoring two more first quarter touchdowns.

With 6:08 left in the opening quarter Greenwood was forced to punt. However, a roughing the punter penalty gave the Rangers a second chance and it took only four plays before Donnell went in from the 3 yard line to make the score 13-0.

On Stanton's next possession quarterback Jeff Hall had his only pass of the night intercepted deep. The Rangers again took only five plays to score, Donnell going in from one yard out for his third touchdown.

Stanton was cashed in on a Greenwood fumble, a botched handoff from quarterback Tommy Lawson and fullback Jimmy O'Briant. That gave the Buffaloes the ball at their own 36. Two Ranger penalties after interceptions kept the drive alive. Halfback Steve Scurlark then carried in from the nine. The two point conversion on a pass from Skip Hopkins to Carlos Ortiz made the score 19-8.

Just before halftime Greenwood survived a score as Vince Carlisle recovered a Ranger fumble at their own 20 yard line to keep Stanton from pulling any closer.

The two teams exchanged turnovers and penalties in the second half with neither team able to mount many scoring opportunities. Despite the sloppy play both coaches felt that there were many positives to build on for the upcoming weeks.

"We would much rather have these mistakes in the preseason rather than during district play," Stanton Coach Dale Ruth said. "I was very proud of the way we played in the second half. We never gave up. This game is definitely a learning experience for us. We have to give Greenwood credit they were very well prepared for this game and they came out hitting hard."

For Coach Purser this win was expecially sweet as it was their first win of the year and his first as head coach of the Rangers.

"Anyway you can get that first win we'll take it," Purser said. "We were tickled pink with the win. We knew it was going to be a tough game even with the early lead. Stanton is too good of a team and has too much charactor to get blown out. We just kept playing hard and tried to cut down on our mental mistakes. It was definitely a good win for us."

Bulldogs rally for 21-13 win

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

LUBBOCK — Midland High's youthful Bulldogs went through their manhood rites at Lowrey Field Friday night in a gut-wrenching 21-13 victory over the Lubbock Coronado Mustangs.

Trailing 13-0 at the half, MHS buckled down helmets for a second half assault that hasn't been seen from the Purple in many years. They literally grew up in the space of 24 minutes of play.

It was a night that these 'Dogs could have died and rolled up in some lonely Lubbock gutter. Instead, they stood up and went back into an old fashioned back alley fight.

The victory came from two factors - brillant defense and a time gobbling offense that scored when it got the opportunity.

Coronado was allowed only 15 second half plays as the MHS defense, led by Clyde Govan, Ronnie Forest, Clif Coleman and Jeff Rashall, gave up only one second half first down to the bewildered Mustangs.

THE OFFENSE, meanwhile, marched on scoring drives of 71 and 87 yards to take a 14-13 lead with 5:40 left in the game and did on drives of 13 and 18 plays each.

"It was a tremendous second half effort by these kids," said an elated MHS coach Doug McCutchen. "We were a little frustrated in the first half because Coronado put in some things we hadn't seen with the week off they had last week. We came in at the half, showed the kids what we were doing wrong and then went back out and dominated. They stayed and fought and never gave up and that's what really makes us proud of this young ball club."

Nothing much went right for Midland High in the first half as the 13-0 deficit was produced by two breakdowns.

Coronado scored the first time it touched the ball when Kirby Adams returned a 78-yard punt return for a 7-0 lead. In the second period, Coronado busted a counter trap with tailback Chris Henson roaming the sideline for an 84-yard TD to up the margin to 13-0.

"We just felt like we needed to get things together in the second half. I guess we were down a bit in the first half because those two plays went against us and we were making mistakes against some things we hadn't seen from Coronado. We knew we could do it in the second half," said MHS quarterback Jeff Somers.

SOMERS directed the 13-play, 71-yard march to open the third period, hitting two passes and scoring on a controversial one-yard plunge to end the drive. Many felt MHS was given five downs inside the 10-yard line when the Bulldogs declined a penalty and kept the down at third down.

Then on the next possession, the Bulldogs plugged 87 yards with Guy Giesecke getting the final nine yards and Jeff Fry added his second point after for a 14-13 lead. Only 5:40 was left in the game when the Bulldogs completed the "forever" drive.

"I knew it was do or die on that second touchdown," said Giesecke. "Nothing could have stopped me on that play. No one wanted it worse than I did. I think we came together as a team tonight."

Coronado, who didn't complete a pass all night against the stingy Pack defense, tried to get back in the game by throwing. Coleman intercepted a Jason Greenwood pass at the Coronado 20 and returned it to the 16-yard line. After a penalty, Somers dialed Michael Ball with a 20-yard scoring bomb to salt away the amazing comeback.

"I saw the ball, broke for it and got it," said Coleman of his interception. "I felt like that was all we needed to win. I know one thing. It really made me feel good at that point."

MHS assistant coach Johnny Williams said, "I don't think we came from behind to win all last year. In fact, we haven't done much of that in the past few years and I think that will mean a lot to this team on down the road."

Steers rally to beat Chiefs, 28-26

By PETE HERNDON
MRT Correspondent

BIG SPRING — San Angelo Lake View punt returner Mitch McAda's fumble of a Big Spring punt at the end of the third quarter opened a Pandora's Box of football follies here Friday night, catapulting the Steers to a bizarre 28-26 come-from-behind win in the District 2-4A opener for both teams.

With Big Spring bottled up deep in its own territory throughout the third quarter, the Chiefs led the Steers 24-14 before the miscue. However, after the fumble the defending district champions needed only two plays to get back into the game.

Quarterback Shawn Shellman earned eight yards on an option-right to start the attack. With second-and-two from the Lake View 42, the stealthy signal-caller made a fake pitch on an option left, reminiscent of Oklahoma's Jamielle Holloway, then cut back inside and scampered to the goal line untouched.

Ted Molina's point-after made it 24-21 Lake View but the Steers had newfound momentum.

"We played well from the standpoint that we made some big plays offensively," Big Spring Coach Quinn Eudy said after the game, referring to plays like running back Charles White's 65-yard first half touchdown gallop that helped the Steers stay within 17-14 at intermission. For the night, White had 131 yards on 16 carries, joining Shellman (12 carries, 112 yards) in the century club.

"Defensively, we made the big plays when we had to," he added. "But overall, we didn't play as well as I expected us to. We still have a lot of little things to correct."

After Shellman's score, the defense came up with one of its "big" series of the half by holding the Chiefs to three downs and a punt, giving the Steers the ball back at their own 41 with 10:08 left to play in the game.

This time, the Steers went the distance in four plays, all on the ground, with running back Bruce Jones motoring the last 28 yards to give Big Spring the lead after Molina's kick at 28-24.

Then the "little things to correct" came into play.

Behind the passing of Eric Dumas, the Chiefs drove from their own 24 to the Steers 42 before an interception stopped the Lake View drive. Three plays later the Steers fumbled the ball back to Lake View at the Big Spring 34. Then with just over four minutes to play, Shellman apparently saved the game for good by picking off a pass in the end zone and returning it close to the thirty.

A clipping penalty, however, brought the ball back to the five and two plays later Shellman fumbled the ball back to the Chiefs again seven yards away from the Big Spring end zone.

The Steers stiffened and with third and goal from the four, Dumas dropped back to pass and was sacked by defensive tackle Rocky Ramirez at the 12. On fourth down, safety Danny Williams intercepted Dumas again deep in the end zone, and after narrowly avoiding a safety, returned the ball to the Steers 27 with 1:31 to play.

A clipping penalty on the return, however, brought the ball back to the Steers three-yard-line. The Chiefs, using their last timeout and an injury to Shellman to keep the clock from running out, forced Big Spring into fourth down from the five with :01 showing on the clock.

The officials, however, said there should be six seconds left. The extra time forced the Steers into a "punting" situation, when wide receiver Danny Williams went back into deep formation in the end zone and was able to avoid Chief rushers until the clock expired, before stepping out of bounds for a safety.

The 2-1 Steers will try to stay unbeaten in District 2-4A Friday when they travel to Sweetwater. Lake View host Lamesa as both teams try to earn their first district wins.

Big Spring's Tony Lewis (86) wonders where the crowd came from as Lake View Chiefs gang up on him in Friday's 2-4A action at Big Spring.

LEE

THE REBEL attack took the opening kickoff and easily moved the ball down field, using six plays to cover 68 yards with Sterling breaking free on a 52-yard run for the score.

However, the ensuing point after proved to be the first of two kicking miscues as holder Rich bobbled the snap from center and Arthur Donnelly never got a chance.

The next two Rebel possessions ended in punts but, the 6-0 game was about to get out of hand. Six times Lee got the ball in the second quarter and six times the Rebels scored.

Woodard ownded the Troopers in the second quarter, breaking three long runs on three attempts for three scores.

Woodard's first TD was his longest, a 41-yard run with 10:36 left in the half. Following a kickof fumble, recovered by Lee's Robin Pyle, Woodard scored from 24 yards out with 10:21 still on the clock.

After another short Eastwood possession and a three-yard pass completion, Rich to Goodley, Woodard went 25 yards for yet another TD.

Sterling followed with a 31-yard run and Jenkins hauled in his scoring pass from Rich with seven seconds remaining in the second quarter.

The Troopers managed to keep Lee out of the end zone in the third quarter, but couldn't keep them out forever. Whiteside made it 48-0 with a 44-yard run and Donnelly connected on his first successful PAT kick. With two seconds left on the clock, Whiteside notched the final TD and Donnelly added the point, 56-0.

WHILE THE Rebel offense was rolling up big yardage for the third consecutive week, the defense was playing it's most impressive outing, especially in the first half.

Not only did Lee hurl a shutout at the Troopers, but held them to minus 14 yards rushing and five positive yards passing for a net minus nine yards the first two quarters.

The Troopers finished the game with 80 yards through the air but only 24 on the ground and managed only one sustained drive, 17 plays for 54 yards. It died when Eugene Farmer intercepted Rocky Daily at the seven-yard line.

As good as the defense was against Eastwood, there is still room for improvement, or so says linebacker Tony Pena.

"We can be better than that but we've got to play as a team," said Pena. "That's all it takes is playing harder and playing as a team."

"Well, I think the defense has just been a little bit away from playing really well the first two games," said Whatley. "A break down here, a break down there from playing super. I think they got the allignment problems they've been having straightened out. Minus nine yards in the first half, you can't ask for more than that."

THE VICTORY leaves No. 4 ranked Lee with a 3-0 record and sets up a big date with cross-town rival Midland High next Friday in the 4-5A opener for both schools.

The Bulldogs are also 3-0, after a 21-13 victory over LubbockCoronado and the Rebels are looking forward to the game.

"We're ready for next week and district," said Pena. "All we've got to do is play hard and work hard next week."

"District is right around the corner and this was good experience for us," said Woodard. "This helped get us ready for Midland High."

....to add a paint sealant and other dealer add ons to a new automobile? To tell you the truth, not very much. What it does is line a dealer's pocket. You'll find these dealer adds on the addendum sticker of a new automobile. Village Lincoln Mercury Dodge believes in making money, but we believe in doing it by working for your business before and after the sale, not by adding something like an addendum sticker.

TED BATTLES

Streaks, good and bad, come and go on and on...

Battles

In case you missed it last week, two of the nation's streaks were preserved when Augustana, Ill., went unbeaten for the 51st game in a row against Elmhurst and Bowie State stretched the nation's longest losing streak to 32 in a row with no sweat, losing to Hampton, 25-7.

Meanwhile, the defending NCAA Division II champion, North Dakota State, lost to Northern Michigan, 10-6, the first loss for the Bison in 23 games.

And over in Las Cruces, N.M., New Mexico State stopped worrying about being the next Bowie State by beating New Mexico, 17-14, to end a 10-game losing streak.

Gordie Lockbaum, the only Heisman Trophy candidate, slim as his chances might be, to play the entire game, offense, defense and special, sat out two quarters in Holy Cross' win over Army and still took part in 107 plays.

The week's wildest game had to be Montana State's 52-48 win over Sam Houston State, which got new coach Earle Solomonson off the hook. Solomonson, beginning his first season after two national titles at North Dakota State, junked State's passing game for the option offense. Fans were in rebellion, fearing he had robbed the Grizzlies of their scoring punch...

LAST WEEK against the line, the tally was 12-5. I'll settle for that any week.

This week the SWC....

BYU minus 5 over TCU— Frogs' best hope is that Cougars will be flat after last week's win over Texas.

Texas A&M plus 2 1/2 over Washington— Huskies have Chris Chandler, but Aggies are at home and have had a week to brood about LSU.

Rice plus 31 over LSU— If Tigers want to keep this sure-win on the schedule, they'll keep it within reason, won't they?

Arkansas minus 22 over Tulsa— Last week Florida took the eye out of the Hurricane.

The Big Ones....

Florida plus 6 over Alabama— Tide has home field advantage, but Gators having fun with the pressure off.

Clemson minus 5 over Georgia— It's tough to pick against a team that beat Oregon State, 41-7.

Duke minus 6 over Vanderbilt— Last week Northwestern...who's next, Princeton?

North Carolina plus 2 1/2 over Georgia Tech— Since the Wreck won 51-12 and Heels lost 28-0, I suppose this could qualify as an upset.

Oklahoma State minus 3 1/2 over Wyoming— Cowboys no match for the Cowboys.

USC minus 6 over Boston College— Trojans may not be what they used to be, but they won't have to be in this one.

Wake Forest minus 3 over North Carolina State— I don't know why I'm doing this. No one picks Wake Forest and gives points...or even even.

Michigan State plus 6 over Notre Dame— Irish suffer the post-Michigan letdown.

The blowouts....

Florida State minus 28 over Memphis State— If Vanderbilt can beat Memphis by 10....

Ohio State minus 22 over Oregon— Did you know that Oregon plays the second toughest schedule in the nation? The Webfoots know.

Pitt minus 19 1/2 over Temple— BC did it by 21 last week, so....

Cincinnati plus 19 over Penn State— No No. 1 for Lions this year.

Harvard minus 20 over Columbia— Ivy League, first game of the season...it would be tough to figure except that Columbia always is in mid-season form.

Aggies take shot at No. 10 Huskies

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

SWC

The Southwest Conference gets another shot at a Top Ten team Saturday, when the Texas A&M Aggies can stop the league's image-bleeding with a victory over the 10th-ranked Washington Huskies of the Pac-Ten Conference.

ESPN (3 p.m.) will carry the game.

A&M has had two weeks to get over a 17-3 loss to Louisiana State on Sept. 5 that snapped the nation's longest home winning streak at 14.

Besides A&M's loss to LSU, Texas was blown away by Auburn and Texas Tech lost to Florida State in other losses to Top Ten clubs.

The Aggies are a field-goal underdog to the Washington, although they won the only game of the series between the two schools 28-15 in Seattle in 1974.

The game was expected to mark the collegiate debut of the heralded Randy Simmons of McKinney, the top running back in Texas in 1986. Simmons suffered a knee injury in the July All-Star game and didn't play against LSU.

In other games this weekend, 12th-ranked Arkansas, the SWC's only unblemished team, is a four-touchdown choice over Tulsa in a noon (Raycom TV) game, LSU is a 31-point pick over Rice in a 7 p.m. game in Baton Rouge, Texas Tech is a 17-point favorite over Lamar in a 7 p.m. clash in Jones Stadium, Brigham Young has a 6-point nod over Texas Christian in a 7:30 p.m. game in Amon Carter Stadium, and Baylor is a touchdown favorite over Nevada-Las Vegas in a 9 p.m. game in Nevada.

The SWC is 4-9 against outside foes, its worst start since 1972.

Aggie Coach Jackie Sherrill has met Washington Coach Don James on two previous occasions.

James defeated Sherrill's Washington State team 51-32 in 1976, but three years later, Sherrill's Pittsburgh team downed the Huskies 26-14.

"Washington may be the biggest team, physically, that we play all year," Sherrill said. "They may be every bit as good as LSU. We couldn't schedule two stronger opponents to start the season.

"I think it will be better for us in the long run because it will prepare our young team for the conference race."

TCU, one of the preseason favorites, is 0-2 and Coach Jim Wacker says "we really need a victory. Potential only gets you beat in this world; it's performance that counts. We have to some how, some way, discover how to play with a great deal more intensity than we did in either of our first two games."

BYU lost to Pittsburgh but defeated Texas 22-17, while TCU and BYU have never met.

Rice Coach Jerry Berndt, who saw his Owls lose 35-13 to Indiana last week, had the best quote of the week.

"I hope we can keep the score beneath the Georgia Tech-Cumberland College game of years ago," Berndt said.

Georgia Tech won the game 222-0.

Chap golfers open WJCAC

From Staff Reports

Midland College opens conference golf action Saturday at Snyder in a tournament hosted by Western Texas College. The one-day 27-hole event is the first of five conference tournaments scheduled for the year. Five-man teams post their best four scores for 18 holes and for nine holes.

Chaparral coach Delnor Poss is taking seven players to the tourney, two of whom will be playing as individuals. The Chaps took fourth in the New Mexico Junior College Invitational last weekend with NMJC winning.

"We have several players who are posting great scores right now, including a 66 and three 68's during one qualifying round," Poss said. "If they can keep their consistency during tournament pressure, we could come out pretty well."

The WJCAC includes five golf teams, each hosting one tournament. Two tournaments will be played during the fall and three in the spring. New Mexico Military Institute is the site for the other fall event, with spring tournaments hosted by Odessa, NMJC and Midland.

Lettermen Rob Anderson, Gordon McGarva, and Gordon Wessels head the squad playing at Snyder. Also competing for the Chaps will be Mark Cuipka and Campbell Elliott, both of whom played for South Plains College last year, plus freshmen Marty Scoles and C. J. Ebel.

MSU, Irish tops schedule

Associated Press

Defensive back Todd Krumm of Michigan State will play in his fourth game against Notre Dame on Saturday, so he is well acquainted with Fighting Irish flanker Tim Brown.

"I remember in the game (in 1985), Brown beat me on a 50-yard pass," Krumm said. "That took it to our 10-yard line, and they scored. And he ran back a kick for a touchdown."

The Irish won that game 27-10, so Krumm would rather remember last year's contest at East Lansing, Mich. He intercepted two passes, running one back 44 yards for a touchdown, as the Spartans won 20-15.

This year, both teams bring 1-0 records into the contest at South Bend, Ind. In their openers, No. 17 Michigan State beat Southern Cal, and the ninth-ranked Irish defeated Michigan.

College Football

The rest of the schedule involving ranked teams has Rice at No. 4 Louisiana State, Oregon at No. 5 Ohio State, Memphis State at No. 7 Florida State, No. 18 Georgia at No. 8 Clemson, No. 10 Washington at Texas A&M, Florida versus No. 11 Alabama at Birmingham, Tulsa at No. 12 Arkansas, Fresno State at No. 13 UCLA, Pacific at No. 15 Arizona State, Temple at No. 16 Pitt, Washington State at No. 19 Michigan and Cincinnati at No. 20 Penn State.

The top three teams in the AP poll — Oklahoma, Nebraska and Auburn — are idle.

Also, Boston College is at Southern Cal in a nationally televised game Saturday.

Oregon at No. 5 Ohio St.

Ohio State's defense held West Virginia to three downs or fewer on 13 of the Mountaineers' 17 possessions in a 24-3 victory last Saturday, but Buckeyes Coach Earle Bruce was dissatisfied with his offense. Ohio State totaled 213 yards offense, only 63 on the ground, in the season-opening victory.

No. 18 Georgia at No. 8 Clemson

Clemson is a five-point favorite to beat Georgia for the second straight season, something it hasn't done since 1906-08. The Tigers won 31-28 last year on David Treadwell's 46-yard field goal on the final play of the game.

Both teams are 2-0, but Georgia Coach Danny Ford admitted that being 2-1 after Saturday would not mark an end to the Bulldogs' season.

Roscoe hands Rankin first defeat, 6-0

From Staff Reports

RANKIN— Roscoe's Plowboys handed Rankin's Red Devils, 2-1, their first loss of the season, punching over a second period touchdown for a 6-0 victory here Friday night.

Quarterback Sammy Herrera went in from the one-yard line on a sneak with 8:06 left in the half. Although there was no more scoring, the Plowboys had the edge in statistics with 13 first downs to seven and 182 yards rushing to 105.

"They want to know what life's like without football," he says. "We live for small jokes like the NFL scouting service writing the other day for our stats. The NCAA redbook wanted a directory of all our coaches. It does get comical at times."

Then White takes a walk down a darkened hall that normally would be swarming with players and coaches.

"Then I get very emotional," he says. "Then it really hurts."

NOW APPEARING BARBARA HUMPHREY

The best way to describe this beautiful, blonde entertainer is style...And maybe energetic, sensitive, animated, creative, flirtatious, and last but definitely not least, talented.

Miss Humphrey's repertoire extends a vast selection of material from the 40's to the 80's. Perhaps her forte is the gusty blues and jazz tunes of such greats as Billy Holiday, Fats Waller, Nat King Cole, Dinah Washington and Gershwin. But her style translates equally as well on renditions of her favorite Motown artists: Sam Cooke, Marvin Gaye, Odis Redding and Aretha Franklin, not to mention such country greats as Patsy Cline and Hank Williams. Barbara loves to sing the soulful sounds of the 80's from artists like Whitney Houston, Anita Baker, Al Jarreau and Sade. Undoubtedly though, Miss Humphrey shines her brightest when performing her own original material. Lyrically moving and musically "finger-snappin' and foot-tappin'" good.

NFLPA refuses to OK extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — The NFL players union refused a request by the owners Friday to extend the strike deadline 30 days, sticking to its plan to walk out Tuesday for the second time in six seasons.

Union head Gene Upshaw said after a three-hour meeting with management's Jack Donlan that the owners were stalling for time and offering deals that "don't have any meat."

"Unless they're willing to move toward us, I don't see any way to avert a strike," Upshaw said. "We both agreed on that today. We all see where this is headed."

There was no immediate response from Donlan and the NFL Management Council, which was expected to issue a statement on Saturday.

THE WALKOUT would begin after Monday night's game between the New England Patiots and the New York Jets at East Rutherford, N.J.

The 1982 strike lasted 57 days, wiping out seven weeks of the season.

Upshaw said he and Donlan discussed roster size, pension, severance pay and free agency but that Donlan's offers were "the same things I heard two weeks ago."

"The message today was clear to me: Players, reconsider your strike deadline and let us keep talking. The players are saying 'You're nuts,'" Upshaw said.

Upshaw said Donlan had talked about settling the pension and squad issues, suggesting: "Give us 30 days and we can work the other stuff out."

Upshaw said he talked to seven player representatives after his conversation with Donlan and said some "don't even want to play this week."

"Management's idea of playing scab games has really upset them. They did more to unify us than to separate us, which is what they were trying to do," Upshaw said.

OWNERS HAVE said they will still field teams if there is a strike by using free agents and roster players who would ignore picket lines. The owners have told television networks that if there is a strike there would be no games on Sept. 27 or 28, but that play would resume on Oct. 4 and 5.

ANDREWS

It was the first offensive touchdown of the season for the Mustangs.

"We've changed quarterbacks around this season trying to shore up our running game," Stapler said. "But the sophomore (Morris) has been running the option real good. We wanted to control the ball and get a lot of first downs, we didn't exactly do that, but I'll take it."

Morris did lead all rushers with 60 yards and punched in both Mustang touchdowns. He scored the final Mustang TD late in the second quarter after another short drive set up by a Taylor fumble recovery.

This time it was only seven yards and Morris did the honors with a three-yard keeper off right tackle.

"You just can't make mistakes like that deep in your own territory and win games," said Tors coach Clyde Noonkester. "Our defense really played super, they were just in a hole there a couple of times, and our kicking game just fell apart."

But the real story was the inability of Woodberry and Demerson to gain consistent yardage. Woodberry, who gained 248 yards in the first two games with his 10.3 100 meter speed, was contained all night by Mustang pressure, totaling just 58 yards. He broke one long-gainer, a 37-yarder late in the first quarter, but middle linebacker chased him down as he cut upfield looking for the score.

"That was the key to the game for me," Stapler said. "He scores and it's a different ballgame."

Demerson, who had gained 141 yards in two games, was hampered with an ankle sprain and was never a serious factor, gaining 40 yards on 13 carries.

The Tors finally managed to move the ball as the final minutes ticked down. Quarterback Santos Moreno and tight end Jim Horton connected for three passes that marched the ball to the goal line from their own 31. Moreno then hit Horton for an 8-yard touchdown and a two-point conversion with just under three minutes to play.

Though the Tors did regain possession, Moreno's last gasp toss was intercepted by Joe Don Finley and the Mustangs ran out the clock.

"It was a tremendous win for us, we had a terrible offensive game, but our special teams and our defense bailed us out," Stapler said. "We'll take it."

From Staff Reports

FORT STOCKTON— Fort Stockton's Panthers rolled to their third straight win with a District 2-4A-opening 33-2 win over Snyder Friday as Mike Nix led the way with 117 yards rushing.

Juan Urias had two catches for 812 yards and Nix caught three for 36 yards.

A 4-yard run by Ryan Murphy gave Fort Stockton a 6-2 halftime lead after the Panthers made a gutty goal line stand. And in the second half was all the Panthers as Roman Valeriano returned a punt 60 yarfds for a TD and Pete Martinez passed to Urias for another third quarter score.

Nix scored on a three-yard run and David Alvarado cashed in from the one in the final period.

Fort Stockton travels to Andrews next Friday for its second league game.

McCamey rips Alpine, 30-12

From Staff Reports

ALPINE — The McCamey Badgers had little trouble with the Alpine Fightin' Buck, scoring 30 points in the first three quarters before allowing a score enroute to a 30-12 victory.

Russell Haley scored the first Badger TD on a nine-yard pass from quarterback Roman Zarate early in the second quarter. Zarate followed with a 12-yard run for a 12-0 lead (pass attempts failed on both scores) and Frankie Abalos made it 18-0 with his one-yard jaunt. Daniel Flores scored the two-pointer on a pass from Zarate.

Chris Chunn upped the lead to 23-0 at halftime with an 18-yard field goal.

In the third quarter, Clay Heji closed out the McCamey scoring with a 35-yard TD pass from Zarate, whith Chunn adding the PAT kick.

Alpine scored on a two-yard run from Abel Losoya and a 36-yard Ivar Hella to Bohn Young TD pass.

The victory improves McCamey to 3-0 on the year. Next week the Badgers travel to Ozona for an 8 p.m. contest.

Ziegler leads

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Larry Ziegler shot a second-round 68 Friday to take the lead at the rain-delayed $500,000 Greater Milwaukee Open, but Robert Wrenn led a crowd of challengers threatening to overtake him when play was suspended by darkness.

Ziegler began the day by finishing his rain-delayed first round in 8-under-par 64, then added a 68 for a 36-hole score of 12-under 132 and a 4-stroke lead over those who completed their second round Friday.

MHS

JUNIOR running back Dwane Roberts climbed over the 100-yard mark for the third week in a row with 137 yards. He had only 32 yards rushing in the first half.

Coronado's Henson had 131 yards rushing for Coronado and accounted for all but 27 yards of the Mustang attack. However, Henson got 84 yards on one play. Subtract that and the Mustangs would have had a meager offensive total of 71 yards.

But now that the Bulldogs have passed the manhood initiation rites, they have to face powerful and state ranked Midland Lee next weekend to open District 4-5A play. Lee defeated Coronado 47-6 in Midland to open the season.

If this victory, however, gave MHS the confidence it needs, the city of Midland may be in for a real treat come kickoff time Friday at Memorial Stadium. There is one thing for sure. Lee hasn't met a team with a defense like the Bulldogs showed here.

Padres ease by Astros

Associated Press

HOUSTON — Benito Santiago extended his hitting streak to 22 games and drove in the game-winning run as the San Diego Padres defeated the Houston Astros 2-1 Friday night.

Trailing 1-0, Tony Gwynn led off the Padres' eighth with a single and moved to second on Shane Mack's sacrifice bunt.

Dave Smith, 2-1, relieved starter Jim Deshaies and pinch-hitter John Kruk singled to score Gwynn. Kruk stole second, moved to third on third baseman Ken Caminiti's throwing error, and scored on Santiago's ground ball.

Lance McCullers, 8-8, pitched 2 1-3 innings of scoreless relief for the victory. Jimmy Jones went six innings for the Padres, giving up one run and six hits.

Cubs 8, Cardinals 1

ST. LOUIS — Rick Sutcliffe, 17-8, pitched a four-hitter and Chicago took advantage of sloppy St. Louis defense to beat the Cardinals. Sutcliffe also contributed a sacrifice fly. At one point, the right-hander retired 16 of 17 batters. The Cardinals ended a streak of 20 scoreless innings on Tony Pena's RBI groundout in the eighth.

The St. Louis loss enabled third-place Montreal to move within two games of the Cardinals. The Cards entered the game with a 1½-game lead over New York.

Chicago capitalized on right fielder David Green's three-base error to take a 1-0 lead in the fourth against Danny Cox, 9-8.

Cox, who has lost four straight times since last winning Aug. 23, walked Ryne Sandberg and Leon Durham ahead of Keith Moreland's two-run double in the sixth, giving the Cubs a 4-0 lead.

Expos 6, Phillies 3

MONTREAL — Bryn Smith, 10-7, pitched six shutout innings and Andres Galarraga drove in two runs as Montreal defeated Philadelphia.

Tim Raines and Mitch Webster opened the Expos' first with singles off Bruce Ruffin, 10-14, and Tim Wallach scored Raines with a single. It was Wallach's 113th RBI of the season, tying the club record set by Andre Dawson in 1983.

Pirates 10, Mets 9

PITTSBURGH — Mike Diaz's fourth hit of the game, a two-run double in the seventh inning, broke a tie and rallied the Pirates over New York, costing the Mets a chance to gain ground in the NL East. The Mets remained 1½ games behind the Cardinals.

With the score tied 8-8, the Pirates — who had trailed 3-0 and 8-5 — got a leadoff single in the seventh from Felix Fermin and Al Pedrique reached when first baseman Keith Hernandez booted his sacrifice bunt for an error.

Roger McDowell, the fifth Mets' pitcher, replaced losing pitcher Randy Myers, 2-6, and walked Jose Lind to load the bases. Diaz followed with a line-drive shot into right-center field that scored Fermin and Pedrique.

FORT WORTH — Abilene High ran into trouble in it's pre-district finale, dropping a 28-14 decision to Fort Worth Eastern Hills.

Eastern Hills jumped out to a 14-0 lead on Bryan Chamberlain's 13-yard reception from Charles Llewellyn and a Llewellyn one-yard run. David McWilliams added one of two extra points.

The Eagles came back with a Jon Davis 79-yard TD run and a Trey Forkerway PAT, but Chamberlain struck again, this time a 17-yard reception from Llewellyn. Jeff Williams caught Llewellyn's two-point conversion for a 21-7 lead.

AHS cut the margin to 21-14 at the half on Forkerway's 20-yard pass from Daivs and kicked the PAT. But, it was as close as the Eagles would come. Eastern Hills added an insurance TD in the fourth quarter on a Marcus Buckley four-yard run and McWilliams kick.

Terrell, Evans gear Tigers

Twins spank Indians

Associated Press

DETROIT — Walt Terrell continued his mastery at Tiger Stadium and Darrell Evans hit an historic home run as the Detroit Tigers held off the Milwaukee Brewers 7-6 Friday night, maintaining their lead in the American League East.

AL

Terrell, 15-10, matching career-highs achieved in 1985 and 1986, gave up five hits in eight innings while running his record at Tiger Stadium to 12-2 this season, 31-7 lifetime.

Terrell, 9-2 since the All-Star break, has won his last five starts and his last six decisions.

The home run by Evans, with Alan Trammell on board in the fifth, made him the first man in major league history to hit 30 homers at the age of 40. Ted Williams, in 1960, hit 29 home runs when he was 42. No other player has hit more than 29 at that age.

Twins 9, Indians 4

MINNEAPOLIS — Randy Bush drove in five runs with a homer, single and sacrifice fly, as the AL West-leading Twins snapped a three-game losing streak by improving their major-league leading home record to 50-23.

Bush, starting at first base in place of the injured Kent Hrbek, has a .478 average and 13 RBI in his last seven games.

Kirby Puckett and Tom Brunansky also homered in support of Bert Blyleven, 14-11, who pitched a five-hitter over eight innings.

Blyleven tied Juan Marichal for 40th on the all-time list with career victory No. 243. He also allowed Brook Jacoby's two-run homer and Cory Snyder's 32nd homer and has given up a major-league leading 42 homers, putting him within reach of the big-league record of 50 which he set last year.

Bush's sacrifice fly brought in Minnesota's first run. Two pitches later, Puckett hit his 25th homer, a 438-foot shot to center.

Mariners 1, White Sox 0

CHICAGO — Mark Langston, aided by Scott Bradley's sixth-inning RBI single, won his career-high 18th game and took over the major league strikeout lead.

Langston, 18-11, winner of seven of his last nine games, outdueled Chicago starter Floyd Bannister, 13-11, with a six-hitter in earning his fifth career shutout and third this year. Langston thus took over the major league strikeout lead from Houston's Nolan Ryan, 237-235.

Red Sox 10, Orioles 7

BALTIMORE — Pat Dodson hit a three-run homer during a six-run Boston rally that lifted the Red Sox to a 10-7 second-game victory over the Baltimore Orioles and a split of Friday's twi-night doubleheader.

Larry Sheets hit a two-run homer as Baltimore won the opener 9-4, snapping a nine-game losing streak while beating Boston for the first time in 10 tries this season.

Rangers 5, Angels 1

ARLINGTON, Texas — Jose Guzman, 14-11, pitched a four-hitter for his sixth straight victory and went the distance for the sixth time this season in beating the Angels for the second time in a week. Guzman allowed the Angels' only run on Wally Joyner's 30th homer in the eighth.

Angels starter Jerry Reuss, 4-4, lasted 5 1-3 innings.

Blue Jays 6, Yankees 3

NEW YORK — Willie Upshaw hit a two-run homer and Jesse Barfield also drove in two runs to keep Toronto within one-half game of first-place Detroit in the American League East.

Blue Jays Manager Jimy Williams played the game under protest, citing poor field conditions. A college football game played at Yankee Stadium in the rain Saturday night tore up part of center field, but the Yankees played four games at home since then without incident. Williams was ejected during Thursday night's 6-5 loss after a disputed third strike.

Athletics 4, Royals 0

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Steve Ontiveros and two relievers combined on a four-hitter and Mike Davis hit a two-run homer and scored twice, giving the Oakland Athletics second place in the American League West.

The victory moved the Athletics a half-game ahead of the Royals, who began the night three games behind front-running Minnesota.

Doctor says bacterial illness may spread across Chicago

NATION

CHICAGO (AP) — A bacterial illness that has killed one Cook County Hospital patient, stricken as many as 20 others and forced the closing of a surgical ward appears to be part of a citywide outbreak, a hospital official said Friday.

"It can be dangerous, but it is treatable and if treated early, patients do well," said Dr. Charles Kallick, chairman of the hospital's division of infectious diseases.

"We have reason to believe there is a significant amount of this in the city. We may be the only place where it's been found out," he said.

Dr. Linda Murray, assistant to City Public Health Commissioner Lonnie Edwards, issued an alert asking city hospitals and nursing homes to report similar cases so officials could determine the extent of the outbreak of the intestial bacteria.

"We've heard about other cases," but they are not documented," said Ms. Murray, an environmental and occupational health specialist.

"We're in touch with state and federal officials, but right now, our first priority is to document the cases and make certain health-care professionals know what to look for.

"We hope to be able to have a handle on (the number of cases) by early next week," she said. "At that point, we'll decide any future course of action."

Kallick said he believed the outbreak may have been spread by raw sewage, which in recent weeks has been dumped in the metropolitan area's water supplies because of unusually heavy rains and flooding.

However, Cecil Lue-Hing, director for research and development for the Metropolitan Sanitary District, called Kallick's remarks "irresponsible speculation."

Frank Dalton, superintendent for the sanitary district that covers the city and most of suburban Cook County, said about 2 billion gallons of flood water were dumped into Lake Michigan in mid-August.

He said 10 percent of that might be raw sewage, but bacteria in any lake water used by the city would be destroyed in treatment plants.

"There is no way it gets through that system," he said.

The source of the outbreak at County was identified as the bacteria called clostridium difficili, which is carried in the intestines of about 3 percent of all Americans but is mostly inactive.

When people are debilitated, and if other non-harmful bacteria are killed by antibiotics, the clostridium difficili produces toxins that result in pseudomembranous colitis — a condition marked by diarrhea, intense pain, high fever, dehydration and internal bleeding.

Kallick said the hospital treats an average of one to three patients each month for bacterial-induced colitis which, when diagnosed properly, can be easily treated with the proper antibiotics.

He said officials began noticing a higher-than-normal rate of such cases about two weeks ago, around the same time an elderly, chronically ill patient with colitis died.

"All of the other patients have since been given the right antibiotics and are doing well," said Kallick.

The hospital decided to close its surgical ward Wednesday as a precaution and will reopen it Monday following a complete disinfection, said Terrence Hansen, the hospital's executive director.

Only elective surgeries have been postponed, Hansen added.

Kallick said the outbreak at County prompted me to "contact my colleagues. Since then, I've found a number of similar instances around the city...talked to doctors at at least two different institutions who've seen five or six patients, and a nursing home where as many as 20 percent (of the residents) may have the ailment," he added.

Dr. William Jarvis, acting chief of the epidemiology branch of the federal Centers for Disease Control, said Friday that bacterial outbreaks attributed to clostridium difficili are fairly common and that food and water supplies are the most likely routes of transmission.

"There have probably been at least a dozen (outbreaks) reported since 1970, several that included fatalities," Jarvis said in a telephone interview from his Atlanta office Friday. "There have been outbreaks in nurseries, surgical wards, and intensive-care units.

"Often, though, clostridium difficili isn't recognized as the agent...because some of the typing techniques (used to trace the source of the outbreak) are available at very few hospitals and research centers," he said.

Gore criticizes sources of stories about Biden's alleged plagarism

Biden

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Albert Gore Jr. on Friday criticized those who leaked stories about Democratic presidential rival Sen. Joseph Biden, as controversy grew about who leaked stories on Biden's failure to credit others for key parts of speeches.

Rep. Richard Gephardt, another Democratic hopeful, strenuously denied he or his aides were the source of the information for stories about the Delaware senator's plagiarism in law school and in recent speeches.

CBS News said Gephardt aides had been passing out such information in Washington, and the Chicago Tribune quoted sources as also pointing the finger at the Missouri representative.

"I believe that the people in our campaign have not been involved in this and I have no more information than that," Gephardt said in a news conference Thursday in Springfield, Mo.

And The New York Times, which printed the first story on Saturday, denied that the Gephardt campaign had planted the item.

"They did not plant any Biden story on The New York Times," said Craig Whitney, Washington bureau chief for the newspaper.

Biden, of Delaware, refused to identify any of his opponents as the source, saying it might have been Republicans or Democrats.

The Biden furor drew the spotlight away from the week's hearings on Robert Bork, President Reagan's nominee for the U.S. Supreme Court. Biden is chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and thus is presiding over the hearings.

"Whoever took pains to alert the press to this incident on the eve of the Bork hearings made a judgment open to question," Gore said.

"If it turns out to have been another campaign, then that campaign apparently placed a much higher priority on damaging Joe Biden than on insuring that the nation had a full opportunity to explore without distraction Judge Bork's nomination," the Tennessee Democrat added.

On Thursday, Biden told a news conference that he had committed plagiarism in a first-semester course at Syracuse University law school in 1965. He apologized for his mistake and was allowed to take the course again.

Biden also admitted occasionally failing to quote others as the sources for the rhetoric in some of his speeches, but he termed the controversy over those failures as "much ado about nothing."

The other Democratic presidential hopefuls generally closed ranks behind Biden after the news conference.

For instance, Gephardt told reporters in Rolla, Mo., that "I don't think it's a big deal...(Biden) is running a good campaign. He's a good candidate, and I consider him a worthy adversary."

Bad relations between consultants for the Biden and Gephardt campaigns have been blamed for the finger-pointing.

"It's just not true," Gephardt spokesman Mark Johnson said of the allegations that the campaign was the source of the stories.

"I think that the Biden people are spreading that rumor because of the personal animosity between one of our consultants and one of their consultants," he added.

The Chicago Tribune said Gephardt consultant and speechwriter Robert Shrum had been blamed by some for the stories. Shrum denied it, saying "They're just blaming me because they hate me."

Shrum and Biden consultant Patrick Caddell once had a consulting partnership, which has since split up. Caddell told the Tribune he would not speculate about the source of the stories aimed at his candidate but that there was "undoubtedly some personal antipathy toward me" behind the Biden disclosures.

Legislature meets at Independence Hall

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania Legislature convened here Friday for the first time in 200 years to re-enact the first public reading of the U.S. Constitution on Sept. 18, 1787, to the young nation it was to govern.

Like the Constitutional Convention, the session was a mixture of idealism, ceremony and practical politics.

Under cloudy skies, lawmakers walked in procession behind a fife-and-drum corps to the open-air Constitution Pavilion on Independence Mall just a block from the Pennsylvania Statehouse, where the Constitution was written. The building is known today as Independence Hall.

After a town crier called the meeting to order at about 1 p.m., an actor portraying Benjamin Franklin explained the document to the assembled legislators and urged its ratification.

On Friday night, presidential hopeful Jesse Jackson, former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark and feminist Eleanor Smeal spoke at a forum, "To Form a More Perfect Union," to discuss race, class and gender issues. About 400 people crowded into a Quaker meeting house to hear the discussions.

Jackson, a Democrat, said U.S. Supreme Court nominee Robert Bork would be a divisive influence on the country.

"We clearly need a Supreme Court justice who finds more respect for the individual," Jackson said. "He is a threat and he is divisive for workers, for women, for blacks, for Hispanics, for poor people. We deserve a better nominee."

Before Jackson's arrival, Clark, Smeal and Philadelphia union leader Roger Tauss spoke out against various aspects of the Reagan administration.

"We deny the reality of our strength when we are ignored," said Ms. Smeal, president of Fund for the Feminist Majority and former president of the National Organization for Women. "For eight years we have watched the New Right grow and many of us believe that they are the majority."

The special session marking the reading of the Constitution came a day after President Reagan and former U.S. Chief Justice Warren Burger stood in front of Independence Hall to review a parade on the anniversary of the signing of the Constitution.

In a speech before the legislators, Burger suggested that countries in Central America should band together the way the 13 original states did to form a union.

Burger was joined by Goode and Pennsylvania Gov. Robert P. Casey at the legislative session. Casey, a Democrat, angered Republican lawmakers by urging quick action this year on a package of environmental bills. And a black Democratic lawmaker from Philadelphia, Rep. David Richardson, was denied permission to address the session about African heritage and steps to make blacks feel more part of the "We in 'We the People.'"

Richardson ended up reading the statement to himself and a colleague after the session in the near-empty pavilion.

Pope seeks stay for prisoner

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Pope John Paul II, in his second attempt to intervene for a Florida death row inmate, asked the governor to block the scheduled execution of James Armando Card, Catholic leaders said Friday.

Gov. Bob Martinez turned him down, but a federal court blocked the execution.

Card won an indefinite stay of execution Friday afternoon following a hearing before U.S. District Judge Maurice Paul, said William Nolas, Card's attorney.

Card was convicted in the June 1981 slaying of Western Union office operator Janis Franklin. He robbed Ms. Franklin of more than $1,000 at the Panama City office, nearly cutting off the woman's fingers in a struggle. He then drove her to an isolated area, ordered her out of the car and slit her throat with a knife, court records show.

On Wednesday, Paul granted a temporary stay less than a day before Card was to die in the electric chair at Florida State Prison. That stay would have expired Monday afternoon if Paul had not blocked the execution.

In 1983, the pope asked then-Gov. Bob Graham to spare the life of condemned killer Robert Sullivan, who was also executed.

The pontiff's request for clemency was relayed through Bishop J. Keith Symons of the Pensacola-Tallahassee diocese, said Tom Horkan Jr., director of the Florida Catholic Conference.

Martinez, however, said he believed in the death penalty and saw no reason to spare Card.

"The governor has great regard for the pope and the church but can't use his religious feelings where the law speaks clearly," said Jon Peck, a spokesman for the governor.

The pope's request followed a dinner meeting with the bishops of Florida at the Miami home of Archbishop Edward A. McCarthy in which the death penalty, generally, and Card's case, were discussed.

Texan reunited with West German mother

SCHWEINFURT, West Germany (AP) — A 38-year-old Bryan, Texas, man was reunited Friday with the West German mother he hadn't seen or heard from since he was a baby.

U.S. Army reserve Master Sgt. Michael Newman, in Germany for a military exercise, found his mother, Elsbeth Mundi, with the help of U.S. and West German military authorities.

"There aren't the words to describe it," Newman told The Associated Press Friday at his mother's apartment in Schweinfurt.

"It's a feeling of relief and of joy — the strongest word that I can think of is elation in finally finding my natural mother," he said. "My father was also a GI."

His mother was 20 years old and unmarried when her son, whom she called Juergen, was born. Two years later, she gave him up for adoption to an American military family and he went with them to the United States in 1968.

Mrs. Mundi, a frail woman of 58, has all these years cherished a portrait of herself with her only child.

"I've searched for him for at least 20 years," Mrs. Mundi said, speaking in German. "And now I'm very, very happy that he's here."

Now she has a new picture of her son, daughter-in-law Beverly, and two grandchildren, Vaughn, 15, and Melissa, 13.

"I will bring my wife and my mother's grandchildren to see her probably next summer," said Newman. He says he speaks a few words of German, and his mother also speaks some English.

Mrs. Mundi said she tried to find her son through various West German officials but had no luck.

"Everywhere I encountered rejection," she said. "After 20 years I thought, now I'm so old, and maybe he's been killed in the Vietnam War."

Newman said he did serve in Vietnam for a year in 1969 and 1970.

He said that when he was sent to West Germany on a military exercise in 1984, he began to search in earnest for his mother. He looked through telephone books to no avail.

"She had married and now had the last name Mundi instead of her maiden name, Schott," Newman said.

Newman came to West Germany again for the field maneuver "Certain Strike" that started last week. This time he brought his adoption papers and old West German passport with him.

Newman drove down from the manuever site with several army officers Thursday, and met his mother in her apartment that evening.

TDC director OKs plans requiring AIDS testing for certain inmates

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — The Texas prison system director approved new plans that require AIDS testing of high-risk inmates and the release of more information to law officers about convicts furloughed to their areas.

Texas Department of Corrections Director Jim Lynaugh signed the two new administrative orders this week. They were made public Thursday.

The guidelines call for extensive education and testing of certain inmates in the groups identified as probable carriers of the disease. The guidelines came about partly in response to an announcement by Gov. Bill Clements on July 28 that the state would test all inmates for acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

Prison officials had been reluctant to test all inmates because of concerns about cost and treatment. Those subject to mandatory AIDS testing include hemophiliacs, those immunized with certain live viruses, inmates receiving blood transfusions or dialysis, prisoners who throw their blood or urine on guards, convicts who sexually assault other inmates and some convicts receiving psychiatric care.

Lynaugh also approved guidelines for providing information to sheriff's departments in counties that receive inmates granted short vacations home. Well-behaved inmates who have served a minimum amount of time in prison — usually about six months — are allowed the seven-day furlough.

Man allegedly kidnaps doctor, sets home afire

HOUSTON (AP) — A man who allegedly abducted a Houston physician, tied up her husband — also a doctor — and set their home on fire was in custody Friday, authorities said.

The suspect is being held in the Colorado County Jail, a jail spokesman said. No charges have been filed.

The physician, 32-year-old Michelle McDermott, called Houston police Friday morning from Brookshire, about 25 miles west of Houston, where she apparently had been released, Houston police spokesman J.C. Mosier said.

Mosier said the woman appeared to have been unharmed.

A pistol wielding man forced his way Thursday night into the home of Dr. Thomas Chandler, a staff physician at Houston's Hermann Hospital, and his wife. The man then fled in a gray 1983 Porsche, police said.

Chandler told police the man knocked on their door and identified himself as a doctor, then pulled a gun and tied him and his wife before ransacking their southwest Houston house.

Ms. McDermott is a former medical chief of staff for the Texas Department of Corrections, and investigators speculated the gunman might have been someone who knew her from the prison. She now is working on an endocrinology fellowship at Hermann Hospital.

The man set the house on fire before leaving, he said.

Neighbors saw smoke and freed Chandler, police said.

"Dr. Chandler had tape around his hands and around his feet," said Wayne Pappert, a neighbor. "We grabbed some hoses and tried to hose the house down."

"Dr. Chandler was running around saying 'He took my wife, he took my wife,'" another neighbor, Matt Jones, said.

Police said the man and Ms. McDermott wound up at a Brookshire motel about 1:30 a.m. Friday. At the time she was tied up and assaulted, officials said. The man left the motel about 7 a.m. and headed towards Columbus where he was captured.

The man was taken to Columbus Community Hospital and treated for injuries he suffered when his Porsche crashed into a dump truck on Interstate 10 between Weimar and Columbus after exchanging shots with a Colorado County sheriff's deputy.

Bill Esterling, chief county deputy, said one of his officers pulled over the car, which had been sought by Houston police.

"The deputy said the man got out, shot and jumped back in the car and took off," he said. "The deputy fired and hit the rear window."

The deputy was not wounded in the gunfire, Esterling said.

Retarded men will become Eagle Scouts

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Two mentally retarded brothers will receive scouting's highest honor tonight when they become Eagle Scouts, an award only about 2 percent of Boy Scouts ever achieve.

Tony Campbell, 20, and his 18-year-old brother, Bobby, were born with the chromosome disorder called Down's Syndrome, yet earned more than the 21 merit badges needed to become Eagle Scouts.

To gain the honor, they accomplished the same tasks required of other Eagle Scouts. But because they are handicapped, the age limit for passing the requirements was extended to 21 rather than the normal 18.

Tony earned 24 merit badges, and his brother earned 23.

"It was kind of a shock to me," said their father, Mike Campbell.

He says that to think about his sons beating the odds and achieving the most their potentials will allow makes him emotional.

Tony joined Scout Troop 378 in 1981 and Bobby joined a year later. They became involved in the program through the Mackey Developmental Center for handicapped children.

Tony said his camping badge was the most difficult to earn because it required mustering up courage to sleep outside in a tent. But Bobby thought camping was fun and offered his brother strength to get through the night.

"I like swimming," Tony said of his favorite badge.

While the Campbell brothers have worked hard for their merit badges, they still found time for other activities. They often help take collections on Sundays at Resurrection of the Lord Catholic Church, and both have part-time jobs.

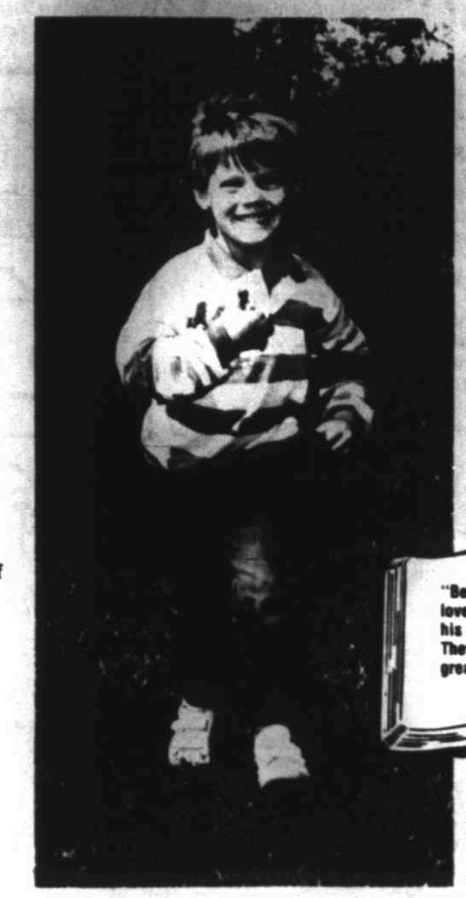
MAYBE AUTUMN ISN'T COMING THIS YEAR!



My six-year old came to me and asked, "How do you know the leaves will turn color after summer? Maybe autumn won't come this year."

What a silly fear! I reassured him, "Of course autumn will come after summer; it always does. The changing of the seasons is an event that we can always count on."

"God is the reason that fall and winter, spring and summer always come," I explained. "God set certain laws into effect when he created the world. God is faithful to his creation."

My son was satisfied, but I kept thinking about how no one ever doubts the changing of the seasons. Seeing the faithfulness of God in creation tells me something about his nature. It reassures me that God is faithful to his promises to me in the Bible. God will do what he has said.

To know what God has said, I turned to the Bible. Natures' picture of God's faithfulness was written out in these words:

> "Because of the Lord's great love we are not consumed, for his compassions never fail. They are new every morning; great is your faithfulness." (Lamentations 3:22)

Every family needs this kind of solid reality in their lives to give meaning and strength in today's difficult times.

Take your family to worship Sunday!

Kelview to show film's part two

Kelview Heights Baptist Church is presenting the second part of the film series "Twice Pardoned" at 5:45 p.m. Sunday.

In this film series, ex-convict Harold Morris talks about the perilous effects of peer pressure and how little mistakes can have big consequences. Shot on site at several locations, including Georgia State Penitentiary, the films retrace Morris' fall from all-star athlete to death row inmate. Through interview segments with Dr. James Dobson, Morris explains how he met Jesus Christ as his savior and how he was dramatically pardoned from a double life sentence.

Since his release from prison, Morris has shared his faith with hundreds of thousands of young people in high schools and colleges across the country. when one of his presentations aired on the "Focus on the Family" radio program, an unprecedented 15,000 letters arrived in response. Morris' autobiography, also titled "Twice Pardoned," has remained on the Christian best-seller list for nine months.

Part Two takes a close look at Morris' life and includes an interview with Dobson, profiles of people who influenced Morris or who were impacted by his message and scenes from his return visit to Georgia State Penitentiary.

Kelview Height's pastor, the Rev. Frank Johnson, invites to public to view this series, which was produced by the producers of "Focus on the Family."

His articles are read in a number of religious periodicals, and he is the author of 11 books, among them "Why I am A Nazarene," now in its eighteenth printing in several languages; and his most recent ones, "It's Revival We Need" and "You'll Like Being a Christian."

Dr. Fisher was for eight years the regular speaker on "Showers of Blessing," a weekly radio broadcast of the Church of the Nazarene from Headquarters in Kansas City, Mo., reaching an all-time high of over 700 stations across America and around the world.

Films to be shown Wednesdays

"Making Things Right, When Things Go Wrong," a full-color five-part film series about problems everyone faces, is being shown at the Main Street Church of Christ, corner of North Main and West Parker, at 7:45 p.m. each Wednesday in September.

The films feature the humor and practical advice of Dr. Paul Faulkner and are based on years of counseling experience and major research studies. This film series shows why things always seem to work well for some people, while others fail at nearly everything they try. Actually, everyone struggles with problems related to friendships, marriage relationships, child-rearing, vocational crisis, personal ministry decisions and personal spiritual growth.

"Making Things Right" is designed to be a step-by-step guide for putting a wide range of life's concerns back in order no matter how tangled things may have become.

Faulkner heads one of four programs in Texas certified by the American Association of Marriage and Family Therapists to supervise counselor training. His first film series, "Marriage Enrichment Series," also featuring Dr. Carl Brecheen, has been viewed by more than 3,000,000 people across the United States, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and the United Kingdom.

The 35-minute film presentations in "Making Things Right" include such titles as, "Choose a Positive Disposition," "Act Better Than You Feel," "Cut Your Line When It's Tangles," "Keep Cool, Even When You're Hot," and "Make Your Relationships Right."

This series was produced by Earl Miller, Producer of James Dobson's "Focus on the Family."

LIFESCOPE

Hundreds Expected To Die Memorial Day Weekend! Your Lifescope Says, "You Do Not Have To Die!"

An earthly body made of flesh and blood cannot get into God's kingdom. These perishable bodies of ours are not the right kind to live forever.

But I am telling you this strange and wonderful secret: we shall not all die, but we shall all be given new bodies! It will all happen in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, when the last trumpet is blown. For there will be a trumpet blast from the sky and all the Christians (true believers) who have died will suddenly become alive, with new bodies that will never, never die; and then we who are still alive shall suddenly have new bodies too. Yes, the fact is that Christ did actually rise from the dead, and has become the first of millions who will come back to life again some day.

For our earthly bodies, the ones we have now that can die, must be transformed into heavenly bodies that cannot perish but will live forever.

When this happens, then at last this Scripture will come true - - "Death is swallowed up in victory." O death, where then is your victory? Where then is your sting? For sin - the sting that causes death - will all be gone; and the law, which reveals our sins, will no longer be our judge. How we thank God for all of this! It is He who makes us victorious through Jesus Christ our Lord!

So, my dear brothers, since future victory is sure, be strong and steady, always abounding in the Lord's work, for you know that nothing you do for the Lord is ever wasted as it would be if there were no resurrection.

Evangelicals praise pope

WHEATON, Ill. (AP) — Evangelicals, generally aloof from ecumenical associations with Roman Catholicism, have praised Pope John Paul II for his opposition to abortion, euthanasia and homosexuality activity.

The National Association of Evangelicals, in an unusual statement, also applauded his efforts to promote political and religious freedom, and commended "the new spirit of freedom in the Roman Catholic Church."

But the oganization, including 71 mostly smaller, conservative denominations, said the pope, "like his predecessors, stands for all the teachings that have historically divided a biblically rooted evangelical Christianity from Roman Catholicism."

Among differences cited were the 16th-century Protestant Reformation mottos, "Scripture alone, faith alone, grace alone."

Nevertheless, the NAE said it shared a "common Judeo-Christian value system" with Roman Catholicism and called for "continued cooperation in forging a moral leadership that will advance the cause of righteousness in our nation and around the world."

Woman organize Bible study

Paula Ramsey, Linda Chaffin and Betty Isaacs met for prayer for a time last year, at 5 a.m. weekly. From those prayer meetings came awareness of a need for a ministry for working women in downtown Midland. These three women organized and began studies in September 1986. Study began with Paula teaching a study on the Character of God. Paula and Linda teach and Betty leads in prayer and shares in ministry. Eddie Lue Hunter became involved shortly after studies began and serves as administrator.

This non-denominational group has held luncheons, special programs, testimonies and a weekend retreat at Lake LBJ. Mrs. Chaffin will begin a new study Sept. 23 on "The Supernatural Power of Prayer."

This group meets each Wednesday at noon in the Midland American Bank Building, downstairs. It is the goal of these women to take these studies to other areas of our city as well as other cities. Outlines and tapes are available for anyone in other areas to use for similar studies.

The first branch from this study began Aug. 26 in the ClayDesta area with Mrs. Jolene Sollivan teaching the study on the Character of God. The ClayDesta group meets at noon on Tuesday in the Sun Tower Building, Suite 150. Assisting Mrs. Sollivan with that study is Mrs. Lee Harley.

Persons interested in either of these studies, or studies on how to deal with financial difficulties, develop family relations or cope with unemployment are invited to call 682-4780 or 682-6598. You can also call these numbers for personal ministry or counselling.

East Berlin community gets rabbi

NEW YORK (AP) — The small Jewish community in Communist East Berlin this week got its own rabbi for the first time in almost a quarter century — a result of efforts spearheaded by the American Jewish Committee.

Rabbi Isaac Neuman, 65, of Campaign, Ill., a survivor of the Nazi death camp at Auchwitz, left this week to assume his new post serving the less than 600 Jews remaining in East Germany.

He says he took the post because Jews "are in need of spiritual service in a place out of which so much evil and destruction once emanated." He says "it is my joy to try to rebuild and reconstruct and provide" for their needs.

His position there was arranged by the American committee after a long series of visits and negotiations with East German officials. Final approval by the East German government came in July.

Before leaving Sept. 10, Neuman said he hoped to help East German Jews "understand the oneness of the Jewish people, their shared history and experiences."

1787 Constitution Daybook

Wednesday, Sept. 19, 1787
PHILADELPHIA TODAY

Today's Pennsylvania Packet carried the first complete text of the new Constitution to be published in any newspaper. The Packet text used the same type John Dunlap used to print the final copy of the Constitution that he sent to Congress in New York.

An advertisement appeared in the Pennsylvania Gazette for American-made floor and bedside carpets. The manufacturer, Peter William Sprague of Burlington, N.J., claimed that his product was fashioned on the Axminster mode, "which for softness, warmth, and duration, exceed anything of the kind ever attempted in this country." Customers could inspect samples at the Richard Needs and Son store on Third Street in Philadelphia, and as an added incentive, they could purchase the carpets with New Jersey paper money.

The Pennsylvania Assembly voted to create Huntington County from a portion of Bedford County.

CONFEDERATION TODAY

From Paris, Thomas Jefferson informed John Jay that he was ready to purchase the freedom of the Americans held hostage in Algiers for $400 each as soon as he received the money from the United States commissioners of the treasury. The religious order of Mathurines arranged for the transaction and claimed that the United States was buying the freedom of their countrymen at a bargain rate. Since the deal was not yet consummated, and since Jefferson calculated that the entire transaction would cost about $10,000, he suggested that Jay not inform the families of the captives until they were set free.

RATIFICATION TODAY

Besides printing a copy of the Constitution, the Pennsylvania Packet offered the first newspaper commentary on the new form of government. It praised the separation of power into three branches over the present single legislature. "All (single) governments," it argued, "are tyrannies — whether they be lodged in (one) man, a (few) men — or a (large) body of the people."

In his letter to Silas Jellot of New York, Thomas Mifflin expressed his hopes that New York would adopt the Constitution as soon as its neighbors New Jersey and Connecticut. He further noted that Pennsylvania would call a ratifying convention without delay to consider it. He concluded by saying "that unless we immediately agree to it, America will repent our neglect."

DELEGATES TODAY

George Washington's journey home included some unanticipated excitement near Wilmington, Del. He described it in his diary:

"At the bridge (over the Christiana River) my horses had a very narrow escape. For the rain which had fallen the preceeding evening having swelled the Water considerably there was no fording it safely. I was reduced to the necessity therefore of remaining on the other side or of attempting to cross on an old, rotten and long disused bridge. Being anxious to get on I preferred the latter and in the attempt one of my horses fell 15 feet at least, the other very near following which (had it happened) would have taken the Carriage with baggage along with him and destroyed the whole effectually.

"However, by prompt assistance of some people at a Mill just by and great exertion, the first horse was disengaged from his harness, the 2d. prevented from going quite through and drawn off and the Carriage rescued from hurt."

LOOKING BACK
John Dunlap, Printer of the Constitution

John Dunlap had the honor of first printing the Declaration of Independence, the Articles of Confederation, and the Constitution of the United States.

As a 10-year-old, he had been sent from Ireland to be apprenticed as a printer to his uncle William in Philadelphia in 1757. Nine years later the uncle sailed for England, leaving 19-year-old John in complete charge. Two years later he was sole owner and shortly began printing the weekly Pennsylvania Packet. On Sept. 21, 1784, Dunlap converted his Packet to the first daily paper in America.

On the evening of July 4, 1776, Dunlap printed the Declaration of Independence from Thomas Jefferson's manuscript.

On July 13, 1776, Dunlap and his partner David Claypoole swore to deliver all printed copies of the Articles of Confederation and Perpetual Union to Congress. They both affirmed that they would disclose none of the content.

During July, August, and September, Dunlap furnished eight different drafts of the proposed new Constitution to the Convention. On the afternoon of Sept 17, Dunlap and Claypoole had in hand the final version. By 10 o'clock the next morning they had their final printing on the stage to New York to be placed in the hands of Congress.

Paulsens' divorce forcing sale of California town

ASTI, Calif. (AP) — Comedian Pat Paulsen's town is for sale, but he'd like to stay on anyway, even if he's no longer the head honcho.

The sale of Asti, population seven, was forced because Paulsen and his wife, Jane, are divorcing after 28 years of marriage.

The $3.7 million asking price includes the Pat Paulsen Winery, a roomy ranch house, three residences, a deli, apartment, a wine tasting room and 20 acres of prime vineyards.

He said it would be crazy for someone to buy the winery and town and kick him out.

"I think I'd have to be retained. I think I'm somewhat integral to the winery, so I'd hope I could retain a certain percentage."

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Republican activist Holly Coors has filed for divorce from her husband, brewery magnate Joseph Coors, claiming their 46-year marriage is "irretrievably broken."

The petition was filed in Jefferson County District Court on Monday, records show. Accompanying the petition was a request that Coors, vice chairman of the Adolph Coors Co., be ordered to pay her an unnamed amount for temporary maintenance, plus attorney fees and court costs.

Mrs. Coors, 67, a member of a prominent Philadelphia family before her marriage, "is without sufficient funds to enable her to prosecute this suit, pay attorney fees and to provide for herself the ordinary necessities of life," the motion said.

Phil Lowery, attorney for Mrs. Coors, said she is seeking "a fair and equitable property settlement."

A spokeswoman in Joseph Coors' office at the brewery said he would have no comment.

Coors, 69, is one of three grandsons of Adolph Coors, who founded the brewery in 1868. He and his wife have five sons.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) — Robert Penn Warren, the nation's first poet laureate, will be honored with a center devoted to the study of his writing at Western Kentucky University.

The opening is scheduled for the poet's 83rd birthday, on April 24, 1988.

Earlier this year, the university sought to buy the house in which Warren was born and move it to the Bowling Green campus. The school dropped the plan after the city of Guthrie bought it.

"I hope that Western Kentucky University will become known internationally in literary circles as the place to come for Warren studies," said Joy Bale Boone of Elkton, chairwoman of the Committee for the Robert Penn Warren Center.

The committee has raised $38,000 for the project.

Warren's writings will be divided between the English department and the Kentucky Museum and Library on the university campus.

Senate refuses to invoke War Powers Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite sharp criticism of President Reagan's Persian Gulf policy, a divided Senate refused Friday to invoke a controversial law which might force the withdrawal of U.S. personnel from the war-torn waterway.

The Senate voted down, 50-41, a proposal that would have triggered the War Powers Act.

The decision came as the Democratic-controlled chamber plowed through a $302 billion bill authorizing the Pentagon's budget for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

Still pending were decisions on a number of controversial issues, including nuclear arms control, chemical weapons, anti-satellite weapons and a military pay raise.

The Persian Gulf debate was touched off by an amendment calling on Reagan to invoke the War Powers Act, the 1973 law enacted by Congress in the waning days of the Vietnam War. All presidents since then have said they question the law's constitutionality, but the Supreme Court has not ruled on the case.

The law requires a president to notify Congress within 48 hours after he sends U.S. military personnel into situations of imminent danger. The personnel would have to be withdrawn if Congress doesn't approve their deployment after 60 days.

Reagan's Persian Gulf policy involves reflagging 11 Kuwaiti tankers and convoying them through the gulf with U.S. Navy warships. Congressional critics fear the United States will be drawn into the Iran-Iraq war since Kuwait has aided Iraq, but Reagan has refused to invoke the War Powers Act.

Congress has not yet been able to agree on any action opposing the gulf policy, even though 37 U.S. seamen were killed when the frigate Stark was hit by an Iraqi missile on May 17.

Criticism has been muted in recent weeks as the convoys have proceeded without incident, but the first convoy was marred July 24 when the Bridgeton, the largest of the U.S.-protected ships, hit a mine.

Sen. Brock Adams, D-Wash., said, "We are proceeding down the track toward war in the gulf and that is what the War Powers Act is meant for...the environment there clearly meets the test of the War Powers Act."

Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., agreed with Adams, telling his colleagues, "there is not one member of this body that doesn't know we're courting disaster in the Persian Gulf."
