Craxi chosen to form government

ROME (AP) — President Francesco Cossiga today asked Bettino Craxi to form a new government to replace his coalition that fell apart over his handling of the Achille Lauro hijacking crisis.

Cossiga's decision had been expected following three days of consultations with leaders of the five political parties of Craxi's old Cabinet.

Politicians predicted that Craxi, a Socialist, would try to put together a government with the same parties — the Christian Democrats, Socialists, Republicans, Social Democrats and Liberals.

Craxi was expected to begin sounding out the former coalition partners immediately.

Under fire from Washington and a coalition partner for his role in the aftermath of the cruise ship hijacking, Craxi resigned as premier last Thursday, bringing down Italy's 44th postwar government.

The Republican Party split from Craxi's center-left coalition over the government decision to release PLO official Mohammed Abbas, accused by the United States of masterminding the Oct. 7 seizure of the Achille Lauro cruise ship. An American passenger was killed during the two-day hijacking.

Abbas and the four hijackers were on an Egyptian plane that was intercepted by U.S. warplanes and forced to land in Sicily. The four hijackers, now jailed in Spoleto, are charged with seizing the ship and slaying Leon Klinghoffer, 69, of New York City.

Giovanni Spadolini, the defense minister who resigned along with two other Republican ministers to provoke the government's fall, said Sunday his party would rejoin the coalition only if its members accepted three conditions:

—Redefinition of foreign policy toward Europe, America and the Middle East.

—Creation of a mechanism to ensure greater governmental consultation during crises.

—Formation of a common strategy against international terrorism.

Strike end is in sight

TORONTO (AP) — A tentative contract that gives Chrysler's 10,000 striking Canadian workers wage parity with Ford and GM could light a fire under talks to end a six-day walkout by 70,000 employees in the United States, company and union officials said.

The company said it planned to reopen its four Canadian plants for today's afternoon shift, but cut back to four-hour shifts until the U.S. strike is settled. If the walkout continues next week, Chrysler officials say they will have to lay off the Canadian workers.

"I think it has to add some pressure to the United States negotiations," William J. Fisher, Chrysler Canada Ltd.'s chief negotiator, told a news conference Sunday.

Robert White, president of the newly independent United Auto Workers of Canada, said he expected the pact, reached Sunday after an all-night bargaining session, would be ratified easily in today's voting by the rank-and-file.

Analysts have estimated Chrysler's losses at $15 million a day from the strike, which began Wednesday in both countries.

In the United States, company and United Auto Workers bargainers were to return late this morning to Chrysler's headquarters in Highland Park, Mich. The talks recessed Friday for a weekend meeting of local UAW leaders in Huntsville, Ala.

Snyder has 'most' for choir tryouts

Twenty-six Snyder High School choir members qualified to advance to district Saturday with four others named as alternates.

Some 39 SHS students competed in Abilene at the south zone competition for Region 2 of the Texas Music Educator's Association.

Choir Director Bill Lyon noted that Snyder qualfied the most students of any school at the event. Other schools with students entered included Abilene High and Abilene Cooper, Sweetwater, San Angelo Central and Lake View, Abilene Christian High School, Wylie, Ballinger, Clyde and Stamford.

These students will now compete against singers from the north zone at district competition in Iowa Park Nov. 16.

From there, winners will advance to the regional contest in Vernon, then state competition in Austin.

SHS singers to advance to district are:

—Soprano I: Stacey Hillis, Sheila Martin, Shanna Byrd and Amy Miller, second alternate.

—Soprano II: Angie Lay and Missy McIntire.

—Alto I: Dawn Farmer, Kristi Neill, Rebecca Vestal and Robyn Fambro, second alternate.

—Alto II: Tracey Marvin, Julie Newbury, Cindy Tolbert and Christy Quintela, second alternate.

—Tenor I: John Pyburn, Royce Hataway, Jim Bob Henderson.

—Tenor II: Jeff McGuire, Charlie McCormick, Richard Lack, Donnie Chapman.

—Bass I: Kevin Tate, Jamie Cofer, David Trevey, Judson Morrison, Todd Perry.

—Bass II: Patrick Malone, John Traylor, Robert Patterson, and Robert Neblett, second alternate.

Court okays order with road request

Scurry County commissioners approved an order for a neighborhood road during Monday's regular session.

Artis Payne of Lubbock made the request Aug. 19 claiming that he had no other access to property located near Fluvanna. Payne said that he needed to cross 15 acres belonging to Jim D. Duncan, also of Lubbock.

The other land owner opposes the road's construction, commissioners say.

By law, county commissioners may issue such an order when an individual has no other means to reach his property.

According to the final order, the road will be approximately three-quarters of a mile long.

Commissioners originally delayed action on the order until an agreement was negotiated between County Attorney Mike Line and Payne's attorney, Preston Poole, to release the county from any costs involved in the road's construction. The order releases the county from any court costs, attorneys' fees

Motorcyclist injured here

Daniel Torrez of Rt. 2 was listed in critical condition Monday at Lubbock's Methodist Hospital following a one-vehicle motorcycle wreck Sunday at 6:42 p.m.

According to Department of Public Safety accident reports, Torrez was riding a 1979 Honda on U.S. Highway 180 about 14 miles east of Snyder when he apparently lost control of the vehicle.

Torrez sustained serious head injuries. He was transferred to Lubbock Sunday.

Youngsters age 8, 11 linked to vandalism

Police report they cleared Sunday afternoon a weekend felony vandalism with the identification of two juvenile suspects.

Oakley Shelton of Snyder reported the incident to police at 3:48 p.m. Sunday. The vandalism occurred at a rent house he owns at 2811 Ave. J.

Two juvenile males — one age 8 and the other 11 — were taken into custody in connection with the incident and later released to their parents. The cases are referred to county juvenile authorities now.

Officers said Monday morning the suspects in the weekend incident were involved also with a group of some nine juveniles who had been entering the Snyder Child Day Care Center over the past several months.

Damage to the Shelton property were estimated at $1,296.

According to investigators, the house had apparently been entered sometime over the weekend. Paint left in the dwelling was splashed over carpeting, furniture and walls.

Entry was gained by breaking out a window.

Siblings reunited for 'first' meeting

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor

Separated by circumstances beyond their control, three brothers and one sister had not seen each other for 27 years — until they came together for the first time last week in Snyder.

They all met at a local restaurant, but had little appetite for food as they became both acquainted and reacquainted. Two of the brothers had never seen each other.

The reunited siblings are Bobby Shifflett of Snyder, Bill Shifflett of Hobbs, N.M., Mitiz Swim of Denver City and Carroldon Burleson of Hermleigh.

Shifflett, the spokesman for the four, explained that they were all born in Snyder to Betty Sue Gregory and Lowell Gene Shifflett.

A divorce though soon split the siblings up. However, while their natural parents were still married, Burleson was allowed to be adopted at the age of five months by Travis Burleson and Lorena Burleson of Hermleigh.

Shifflett and his brother, Bill, and sister, Mitiz, grew up together here in Snyder and in New Mexico. While living in Snyder they never realized that their other brother, Carroldon, was growing up a few miles away in Hermleigh.

Bill Shifflett said that until the age of 10 he was raised by his grandfather in Snyder. Later he went to live with his natural father who has since remarried and is living in Seminole.

Ask Us

Q. — With Snyder's rain total now past 27 inches, when was the last time a 30 inch-plus rain year occurred here?

A. — In 1971 and 1972, the year's total exceeded 30 inches, according to official records. In 1972, the total was 30.2 inches and in 1971, it totaled 33.6 inches. Only three other years since 1912 have exceeded this number. In 1915, it was just over 30 inches; in 1932, it was 35.8 inches; and the all-time record in 1941 of 44 inches.

Local

Choir concert

The Snyder Junior High School Choirs will be presenting their annual fall concert Tuesday evening in Worsham Auditorium at Snyder High School.

Featured on the program will be the seventh grade girls choir, the eighth grade girls choir and the combined seventh and eighth grade boy's choir along with the eighth grade chorale.

Curtain time for the performance will be 7:30 p.m. There is no admission charge.

WTC to meet

The board of trustees at Western Texas College have scheduled a special morning session Tuesday to begin at 7:45 a.m. in the board conference room.

It will be closed to the public and is related to an internal audit at the college in connection with possible missing funds.

Booster films

The Snyder Tiger Booster Club will meet at 6 p.m. Monday, an earlier time to allow viewing of a volleyball game film.

The Snyder-Lamesa football game film will be shown also.

Boosters meet at the Snyder High School student center.

Trial begins

Jury selection began shortly after 9 a.m. Monday in 132nd District Court for a trial involving felony driving while intoxicated charges against a local man.

The defendant is 30-year-old Danny Dee Benson of 2604 26th St.

Records show he was arrested in May and indicted for the alleged offense by the Scurry County grand jury in June.

Carnival slated

The annual Halloween Carnival sponsored by the Stanfield Parent Council is again set this year. It will be conducted next Saturday from 6 until 10 p.m. at the National Guard Armory.

Game and food booths will be featured.

Your Birthday

Oct. 22, 1985

This year you are likely to be given greater responsibilities to manage where your career is concerned. If your performance is good your rewards will be commensurate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Carefully examine any merchandise offered to you as a bargain today. You could be taken if you're not extremely alert. Trying to patch up a romance? The Matchmaker set can help you understand what it might take to make the relationship work. To get yours, mail $2 to Astro-Graph , c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov.22) Do not let your patience and tolerance desert you today when dealing with testy family situations. You'll regret it later if you lose your cool.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Limitations that confront you today could be of your own making. Don't let negative thinking paint you into a blue corner.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be sure to voluntarily pick up your end of the check today when socializing with friends. Don't give pals any reason to think you're freeloading.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) To achieve career objectives today, you'll have to be tenacious and thick-skinned. Victories might not come easily.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's best not to become too locked in on a single course of action today. Plans that you think are feasible may have to be totally revised.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's best not to become involved in any joint ventures today if the people with whom you'll be associating are unproven entities. Stay on familiar turf.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The easy answers for which you'll be looking today might not be there. Face up to difficult decisions, yet do nothing in haste.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today you might experience a little more pressure and urgency at work. Regardless of what occurs, don't let it overwhelm you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't take foolish gambles today on people or ventures you don't control. Those upon whom you depend may lack competency.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Harmony on the home front will be disrupted today if you bring up issues upon which you and your mate disagree. Let sleeping dogs lie.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Normally you're the first to be of service to others. But today you might turn a deaf ear to one who needs you.

A corollary to Murphy's Law could be written to say that flat tires occur most often when you are late for an appointment or in the middle of a thunderstorm. To avoid such predicaments, race car driver Lyn St. James says it's wise to carry a can of an aerosol tire inflator in your car's emergency kit.

Reagan willing to forget to keep Senate for GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — When it comes down to the battle to retain Republican control of the Senate, President Reagan is willing to forgive if not forget, which might explain his willingness to recruit Richard Snelling to challenge Democratic Sen. Patrick Leahy of Vermont.

After meeting with the president at the White House last week, Snelling, a former GOP governor, went home to Vermont and announced he was ready to run.

According to Snelling, Reagan told him, "I would rather have you run for the Senate and serve in the Senate disagreeing with me than not have you run at all."

If Snelling makes it into the Senate, Reagan might end up wishing he had been less persuasive.

For the first four years Reagan was in the White House, Snelling was one of the principal Republican thorns in his side. And their disagreements centered on how to deal with budget deficits, the issue that is likely to dominate the 1986 campaign and the remainder of Reagan's term in office.

During his first term, Reagan proposed "new federalism," a plan to transfer $38 billion in federal programs to the states, and Snelling was in the forefront of governors who protested that it would dump an unfair burden on them.

AP Analysis

"The governors cannot support a plan that fails to provide for the medically needy, discourages adequate state welfare assistance or ignores differences in state burdens," Snelling said when he was chairman of the National Governors Association.

As for the president's call for a constitutional amendment to mandate a balanced federal budget, Snelling called the idea "nonsense."

"My own view is that you ought to have a balanced budget almost all the time, but I personally do not think it is a worthy idea to try to enshrine the call for a balanced budget in the Constitution," he said.

Snelling also supports higher taxes to help reduce budget deficits. Boosting taxes is at the top of Reagan's list of things he says he won't do. And he cites his 1984 landslide re-election as public endorsement of his anti-tax stand.

But for Republicans scrambling for the strongest possible lineup to enhance their chances of retaining their Senate majority, this clearly was no time to worry about past disagreements.

Snelling is, after all, a Republican and probably the only one in Vermont who might beat Leahy next year. It generally is agreed Leahy and Snelling are the two most popular politicians in the state.

Ortega defends civil liberties crackdown by country's officials

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — President Daniel Ortega of Nicaragua, while declaring that victory over U.S.-backed rebels is within reach, says civil liberties will remain suspended until the United States accepts the legitimacy of the Sandinista revolution.

During an hour-long interview with a small group of reporters Sunday, Ortega said last week's internal crackdown was needed to guarantee final victory over the resistance forces, known as Contras.

Ortega was expected to deliver a strong defense of the crackdown in the opening speech today to the General Assembly as it begins the final four days of celebrations of the United Nations' 40th anniversary. An estimated 60 heads of government planned to take part.

In what the Reagan administration described as a "further step toward imposing a totalitarian regime," the Sandinista government last week imposed new restrictions on the freedom of speech, travel and assembly, the right to strike and on the protection of privacy in the home and the mails.

Defending curbs on the activities of the Roman Catholic Church, Ortega said, "The church must behave as a church and the state must behave as a state."

In recent years, the church has become one of the most important centers of peaceful opposition to the government.

Ortega indicated the restrictions will be in effect for the long-term.

Stage fright and medication

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a violinist with a symphony orchestra. Notwithstanding the relatively minor qualities of the work (as compared to the Boston Symphony, for example), the work does manage to exert a lot of pressure on me, largely because of the demands of our conductor. My biggest annoyance is my head — one or two ferocious headaches a month (probably connected to the menstrual cycle) — and my eyes, which have an aggravating way of going dry at crucial times. With my eyes becoming increasingly sandy and scratchy under bright stage lights, I felt one night that I'd not make it through the rehearsal.

Yoga relaxation techniques and artificial tears are helping my eyes, but nothing seems to touch the headaches. Is there something else I could be doing?

DEAR READER — Although you may be suffering from a common type of muscular-contraction headache, I am going to make an unusual suggestion. Many artists experience a variety of complaints — the worst is stage fright — when they perform. Some experts believe these symptoms develop from an overwhelming stimulation of the nervous system, so that your body tenses and many neurological circuits become jammed. A class of nerve blockers called beta-blockers can help undo the short-circuiting without affecting your thinking or your coordination.

Ask your doctor about taking Inderal, a prescription beta blocker, before a rehearsal or performance. Your headache and dry eyes may disappear. If this suggestion doesn't work, I'd advise you to see a neurologist, who may approach the problem from a different angle.

DEAR DR. GOTT — For several years I have been using a popular brand of hair-color restorer. It contains lead acetate. Is this harmful in any way?

DEAR READER — I am not aware that the small amounts of lead acetate will affect your body, providing the hair solution is used precisely according to the manufacturer's directions. Hair-coloring compounds are regulated by appropriate government agencies and are marketed only after having been proved safe. Of course, like any chemical, it is best not used if possible. No one knows the really long-term effects — after say, 30 or 40 years — of using such cosmetics.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Twenty-three years ago I had a mastoidectomy. Last October I developed an ear infection. I've been to a specialist who wants to operate and drill the bone out. But a pharmicist told me that different antibiotics could be tried until one was found to heal this particular infection. Can this be done?

DEAR READER — Mastoid operations were common years ago, before antibiotics became available. Occasionally mastoid surgery is necessary today, but most doctors prefer to treat infections with antibiotics. Rather than choosing between your doctor and your pharmacist, obtain another opinion from a qualified otolaryngologist. Perhaps surgery will be necessary, but in your case, the procedure will be elective, so why not take your time about making a decision? Get another opinion.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott in care of this newspaper at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

Dear Abby

Children Shouldn't Be Seen Or Heard on Most Job Sites

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: A group of us women were discussing the letter from "Timid in Louisiana." "Timid" (a housewife) hired a contractor to install a swimming pool. The contractor brought his son and very young grandson along on the job, causing "Timid" problems. Almost every woman in the group had a similar story to tell.

One said she hired two men to build a patio. They showed up lugging a suitcase-sized radio, already tuned to a rock station, and without asking if it would disturb anyone, they turned the volume up full blast. It blared away all day until quitting time. She said she was too intimidated to complain.

Another woman said three roofers brought a radio to keep them entertained while they worked on her roof. Her phone rang all day long with calls from angry neighbors asking her to turn down her stereo; the sound had carried to the next street and down the block! She also said nothing, because good roofers were hard to get.

SYRACUSE HOUSEWIFE

DEAR HOUSEWIFE: Read on for the flip side of that story:

DEAR ABBY: I just finished reading the letter from "Timid" complaining to you about the self-employed contractor who brought a small child along on the job. I have the opposite problem. I am a self-employed contractor who has worked at houses where the lady of the house will put her kids down for a nap, run out the door and say, "I have to go to the store for a few minutes; please watch the kids." Then she's gone all day.

There are also women who send their children out to play while we try to work on her house. The kids take our tools, unplug our drills, pound nails in our boards and crawl up ladders. We have to watch them every minute.

We are hired to do a job, not to be baby sitters.

FED UP IN THE TWIN CITIES

DEAR FED UP: Speaking of baby sitters, let's hear it from a pro:

DEAR ABBY: I am director of a child care center with 12 years experience in child care. My reply to the woman who complained about the workmen who brought a small boy along on their job would have been as follows:

Woman of the house: "Oh, I see you have brought your child with you. I'm sure my homeowner's insurance will not cover a lawsuit if he gets hurt on the premises, so I will baby-sit for you while you are working. By the way, I charge $10 per hour for baby-sitting, which I will be glad to deduct from your bill."

She then could have turned to the child and said, "Come on in and have a glass of juice, and we'll find something fun to do while your daddy works!"

I read your column daily. Keep up the good work!

NANCY GOLDSMITH, M.ED., BRANT ROCK, MASS.

DEAR ABBY: Re your position that not everyone is cut out for motherhood, I always say: Everyone should have children; no one should be allowed to escape. Cheerfully,

FATHER ANDREW L.J. JAMES, PH.D., HOLY CROSS EASTERN ORTHODOX CHURCH, ATHENS, OHIO

(P.S. I have three.)

Klinghoffer proposed for medal of honor by two congressmen

NEW YORK (AP) — Leon Klinghoffer came home in a flag-draped coffin to a hero's welcome and widow's tears, eulogized as a "symbol of righteousness" whose death aboard the hijacked cruise ship Achille Lauro made him a victim of "a world filled with evil and cruelty."

An Army honor guard, federal officials, his grieving widow and a dozen other relatives and friends gathered Sunday in a remote corner of Kennedy Airport to meet Klinghoffer's plain wood coffin when it arrived by plane from Rome on Sunday.

Terrorists who hijacked the Italian cruise ship Oct. 7 are in an Italian jail, charged with killing the 69-year-old Klinghoffer. Crew members say the gunmen ordered them to toss Klinghoffer's body and his wheelchair into the Mediterranean Sea. The body washed ashore in Syria last week.

Marilyn Klinghoffer, his widow, wiped tears from her eyes and at one point seemed faint as U.S. Sens. Daniel P. Moynihan and Alfonse D'Amato, Rep. Ted Weiss and Assistant Secretary of State Michael H. Newlin eulogized her husband.

"May Leon Klinghoffer's memory be a blessing to the world," President Reagan said in a letter read to the assembly by Newlin.

"The pain you feel is shared by all Americans as we stand by you in prayer at this difficult time," Reagan said in the letter. "Fortunately, the criminals who murdered your husband did not escape.

"I want to assure you that the United States will take every measure to ensure that justice is done."

"The hearts of all Americans go out to you in your time of grief," said D'Amato, R-N.Y.

D'Amato and Weiss said they would nominate Klinghoffer for a Medal of Honor, the highest U.S. military decoration.

Moynihan described Klinghoffer as a "symbol of righteousness in a world filled with evil and cruelty."

"He died because he was an American, because he was a Jew and because he was a free man. He will live in this nation's memory always for just those reasons," said Moynihan, D-N.Y.

Mrs. Klinghoffer and other family members, observing a mourning silence, made no public remarks during the ceremony, held under an overcast sky at a cargo apron of the airfield.

After the Pan Am 747 jetliner landed and discharged its regular passengers at the terminal, it taxied to a rostrum where the dignitaries waited with Mrs. Klinghoffer, her daughters, Lisa, 34, and Ilsa, 28, Lisa's husband Jerry Arbittier, Ilsa's fiance, Paul Dworin, and others.

After the speeches, Mrs. Klinghoffer kissed her hand and touched the casket.

Members of the Ft. Hamilton honor guard, wearing white gloves and dress blue uniforms, removed the flag from the coffin, folded it, and Sgt. Calvin Sherrod of the Bronx handed to Mrs. Klinghoffer.

omens were bad after the opening lead. It seemed as though East held the spade ace. If so, it was less likely that he would also hold the diamond ace. With a sigh, declarer played the king from dummy. East won and returned the four of spades. West took the jack and continued with the nine. That seemed strange to declarer. How could West know that South had another spade? Declarer played dummy's eight of hearts, overruffed by East's jack, and the contract was one down.

As is so often the case, declarer's mistake came at trick one. Since there was no possibility that West held the spade ace, declarer should play low from dummy. East will win the second spade, but the threat of an overruff will no longer exist. However, South must still be mentally nimble. East will probably lead a low diamond back, away from the ace. Declarer must now go right up with the king, giving East credit for not making such a bad play as leading away from the queen of diamonds with dummy's jack staring him in the face.

When going up means going down

By James Jacoby

A bridge convention that's near and dear to me — the Jacoby transfer bid — seems to have brought on a bad result in today's deal. When North bid two diamonds, transferring to hearts, South jumped to three hearts (he had four-card support, a maximum notrump and a doubleton diamond). North unhesitatingly raised to game.

The contract was good but the

Raise own pumpkins for Halloween fun next year

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

An estimated 80 percent of the pumpkins sold for fresh use in this country are picked up in October to become Halloween jack-o-lanterns or other decorations.

It's easy to go to the market or a roadside and buy a pumpkin, so often the centerpiece for the Halloween observance. If you are a gardener, plan ahead for next spring and grow your own pumpkins, with the whole family participating. Have a contest to determine who can raise the largest or best-shaped pumpkin to carve at Halloween. Children will enjoy raising pumpkins, with a little parental help.

Pumpkin seeds are fairly large and easy to sow when the weather and soil are warm in spring. Seeds sprout fast and the plants grow large.

Some varieties of pumpkins, Big Max, Jack-o-Lantern and Triple Treat, require considerable space to handle their sprawling vine habit. But if your garden space is limited, there are newer bush-type pumpkins needing only 6 square feet. These include Cinderella and Spirit hybrid with compact plants.

The pumpkin meat makes delicious pies and puddings and the seeds provide a tasty, high protein snack raw or roasted.

Pumpkins cannot stand frost in spring, so wait until soil and weather are warm before planting. Select a sunny, well drained site. Prepare the soil well, working in ground limestone if needed and a balanced fertilizer. Compost, peat and other organic materials improve the soil and help grow better plants.

For vine-type pumpkins, sow five to six seeds in groups on hills 6 to 8 feet apart each way. Cover with one half-inch to one inch of fine soil and firm lightly. Usually there is enough moisture in spring ground for good sprouting of seeds. If the weather is very dry, water with a fine spray to keep the soil evenly damp. When seedlings begin to crowd, thin each group to two to three plants.

Bush types may be sown closer — three to four seeds every 2 feet in rows 3 feet apart. Later thin to one to two plants in each group.

Where the growing season is short, start pumpkins indoors 3-4 weeks before outdoor planting time. Use peat pots filled with sterile planting material or potting soil. Sow two to three seeds in each and cover lightly with soil. After germination, thin to the best one seedling, grow on a sunny window sill, under plant light for 12-16 hours daily, or in a greenhouse.

When frost danger ends, transplant seedlings to garden after hardening outdoors for a week in a light, sheltered place. A cold frame is ideal.

To get jumbo-size pumpkins, let only one or two fruits develop on each vine, keep fertilized and watered.

Westerners take 2nd in WJCAC golf event

Western Texas College shot an eight-over-par 288 to take second place in the third Western Junior College Athletic Conference golf tournament, held here Saturday.

New Mexico Junior College won the 18-hole tournament with a 284.

The second-place finish leaves Western Texas with 8 conference points at the end of WJCAC fall season. The conference will hold three more tournaments in the spring. Western is now seven points behind first-place Midland, which has 15 total points after shooting a 291 here Saturday. The Chaparrals finished third in the tournament.

Odessa took fourth place with a 292, followed by New Mexico Military Institute with a 296 and South Plains with a 302.

The current standings after three tournaments have Midland in first with 15, NMJC second with 13, Odessa third with 12, NMMI fourth with 11, Western fifth with 8 and South Plains sixth with 4.

"We played well under the weather conditions," said Westerner Coach Dave Foster, "but NMJC played four shots better. At least we started hitting the ball better."

Sophomore co-captain Bo Kay and freshman Mike Harrison led the Westerners with a pair of even-par 70s. Frank Schuster shot a 73 and Pat Fitzpatrick carded a 75. Adolph Garza and Scott Sawyer shot a 77 and an 80, respectively.

Medalist was Midland's Raymond Cole, who turned in a 68. New Mexico Junior College's Todd Nilsson shot a 69.

Next action for the Westerners will be in Huntsville on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1.

'Jaws' gobbles Dallas; Raiders nip Cleveland

by The Associated Press

While a journey down memory lane proved pleasant for quarterback Ron Jaworski and the Philadelphia Eagles, it was a rerun of a nightmare for the Cleveland Browns.

Jaworski, who was benched after the first game of the season in favor of rookie Randall Cunningham, led the Eagles to a 16-14 victory over the Dallas Cowboys Sunday, in a game Jaworski called his "biggest win since we beat Dallas in the National Conference championship game in 1980." The last time the Eagles defeated Dallas during the National Football League regular season was a 24-20 triumph in 1982.

But 1980 was not a year the Browns would like to recall and neither was Sunday's 21-20 loss to the Los Angeles Raiders on Marc Wilson's fourth-down 8-yard touchdown pass to Todd Christensen with 29 seconds to play.

In a 1980 playoff game in Cleveland, all the Browns had to do was kick a short field goal in the final seconds to advance to the AFC finals. Instead, a Brian Sipe pass was intercepted by Mike Davis and the Raiders went on to win the Super Bowl - 27-10 over the Eagles.

Elsewhere Sunday it was Houston 44, Cincinnati 27; Buffalo 21, Indianapolis 9; Los Angeles Rams 16, Kansas City 0; Atlanta 31, New Orleans 24; New York Giants 17, Washington 3; Pittsburgh 23, St. Louis 10; Minnesota 21, San Diego 17; Detroit 23, San Francisco 21; New England 20, New York Jets 13; Miami 41, Tampa Bay 38; and Denver 13, Seattle 10 in overtime.

Chicago, which is 6-0, hosts Green Bay tonight.

In Philadelphia, the Eagles trailed 14-9 with 10:07 remaining when a Jaworski pass was tipped by defensive back Everson Walls into the hands of Kenny Jackson at the Dallas 25. Jackson ran the rest of the way for the touchdown.

The loss left Dallas with a 5-2 record in the NFC East, one game better than the Giants and two ahead of Philadelphia, Washington and St. Louis.

Cards shock KC; leads series by 2

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - The bedsheet banner read: "Charlie, pitch another Rembrandt."

It lay crumpled in the debris at Royals Stadium - quite possibly along with Charlie Leibrandt's confidence and the Kansas City Royals' World Series hopes.

Leibrandt, the Kansas City savior in the American League playoffs, ran out of miracles Sunday night, three outs shy of a two-hit masterpiece that would have beaten the Cardinals 2-0 and sent the best-of-seven Series back to St. Louis deadlocked at one game apiece.

Instead, the Cardinals were 4-2 winners, all four runs coming in the top of the ninth inning - three on Terry Pendleton's two-out double down the left field line.

"Whenever you get in a situation like that, you always say, 'Please get me up to the plate,'" Pendleton said. "That's what I was doing."

And the Cardinals crossed the plains of Missouri today with a two-game lead, the next three scheduled in their own Busch Memorial Stadium - and the knowledge that no team has lost a World Series after winning the first two games on the road.

In the top of the ninth the fabric began to unravel.

Willie McGee doubled over third base.

With the crowd chanting "Charlie, Charlie!" on every pitch, Ozzie Smith hit a bouncer to Brett, who looked McGee back to second and threw to first for the out. Tommy Herr flied to Pat Sheridan in right, McGee again holding second.

That brought up Clark, whose three-run homer in the ninth inning of Game 6 of the National League playoffs had beaten the Los Angeles Dodgers and vaulted the Cardinals into the World Series.

On a 3-0 pitch, Clark reached out and singled to left, McGee scored and the Royals' lead was 2-1.

Next up was Tito Landrum and he responded with a double which sent Clark to third. The Royals handed Cesar Cedeno a walk to load the bags.

Up came Pendleton, who tore Liebrandt's 2-1 pitch down the left-field line, scoring Clark, Landrum and Cedeno.

Frosh sack Tors, 42-0

LAMESA – Snyder freshmen kept their unbeaten string intact here Saturday, whipping Lamesa 42-0.

The win gives the Cats a 6-0 mark as they prepare to host Sweetwater this Thursday at Travis Field.

Snyder seventh grade was to play over the weekend but conflict with a choir concert caused the games to be postponed until a later date.

Snyder scored on its first drive of the game Saturday. Mark Garcia took the payload in on a 7-yard run. The conversion attempted was unsuccessful.

The Cats went up 14-0 by halftime as Kenneth McClain scored on a 50-yard run in the second quarter. Lee Fletcher ran over the conversion.

McClain struck again in the middle of the third period as he intercepted a Lamesa pass and ran it back 30 yards. Garcia bulled in with the conversion points as Snyder led 22-0.

With 8:09 left in the fourth, Vyron Clay tallied on a 25-yard run for Snyder. Fletcher ran over the points.

The Cats were content then to run out the clock, but Roy Gutierrez had more on his mind. The youngster broke for touchdown runs of 67 and 64 yards in the final 2:37 of the game to pad Snyder's advantage.

Snyder had 433 yards rushing and 58 passing. Quarterbacks Fletcher and Todd Odom combined for a 6-10-0 throwing effort.

Gutierrez led all ballcarriers with 131 yards on just four carries. Garcia had 67 yards on 10 carries and Michael Riggins had 57 yards on 11 tries. Riggins, Israel Hinojos and Tom Marvin also caught two passes each.

The Cats limited Lamesa to just 17 yards total offense and no first downs. McClain and Riggins picked off a pass apiece.

Lady Tigers top Mustangs; trek to San Angelo Tuesday

Snyder's Lady Tigers bridled the Mustangs of Andrews here Saturday to keep atop of the District 2-4A volleyball standings.

The Tigers, who boast a two-game lead in the standings, defeated Andrews 15-2 and 15-10.

Snyder junior varsity and freshmen also won in matches with the Mustangs over the weekend. The JV won 12-15, 15-8 and 15-11. The freshmen won 15-7, 5-15 and 15-6.

Next action for Snyder will be Tuesday in San Angelo. The junior varisty will play at 6:30; the varsty at 7:30. Snyder freshmen will play at home, hosting Levelland at 5:30.

In defeating the Mustangs, Snyder varsity rebounded from its only loss - a three-game defeat to Lamesa last Tuesday.

"It's good to get back on the winning track," said Coach Vicki Nelms, whose Tigers are now 9-1 in district play and 22-5 for the season.

"As far as kids playing well I thought Shondra (Robinson) did a good job of mixing up our hitters (setting to different hitters) against them. I was concerned about Karlene's ankle but she played well. She didn't seem to let it affect the way she played," the coach said of Karlene Thompson, who had injured an ankle in the match with Lamesa.

"Kima (McLarty) had two hits and both were kills, one right-handed, the other left-handed. I thought Hope (Hernandez) hit real well. Again, I think Sharnette Thompson came off and did a real good job for us," added the coach.

Robinson and Karlene Thompson served up 7 points each while Pam Casias and Leslie Ward added 5 apiece. Karlene Thompson was 11 of 12 in hitting with 5 kills while Brenda Anderson was 13 of 15 with 2 kills and McLarty was 2 of 2 with 2 kills. Sharnette Thompson was 3 of 4 with 1 kill.

Snyder's junior varsity win left the Cats with a 17-7 record. The freshmen are 4-9.

"It was one of our best matches," said freshman coach Jan Kruse. "We're finally beginning to do the things we've been learning about."

Bears keep rolling on

by The Associated Press

The Baylor Bears are the team to catch in the Southwest Conference football race, but Coach Grant Teaff says none will survive unbeaten in the long haul.

"The odds are in favor of a champion with one loss," said Teaff. "The top contenders still have to play each other and SMU is going to be a lot of trouble even though the Mustangs are on probation and can't win (the title)."

Texas stunned previously unbeaten Arkansas 15-13 Saturday in Fayetteville on Jeff Ward's five field goals to bounce back from a 14-7 loss to Oklahoma.

The Longhorns are 2-0 and the only unblemished team in conference play besides Teaff's Bears, who are 4-0 after a 20-15 victory over Texas A&M University with four games left on the SWC schedule.

Suprising Rice won its second league game against one loss with a 29-27 victory over Texas Tech on James Hamrick's 57-yard field goal with 18 seconds to play.

In other games, Southern Methodist rallied from back-to-back losses to blast Houston 37-13 and Texas Christian edged North Texas State 14-10 to up the SWC's non-conference record to 18-8.

Arkansas and Texas A&M are tied with Rice for third place with 2-1 ledgers.

In games this week, Baylor hopes to keep its Cotton Bowl express on track when TCU comes calling, Texas A&M is at Rice, Texas is at SMU, and Arkansas hosts Houston at Little Rock in the 12:04 p.m. SWC television game of the week.

8 months later, bizarre murders unsolved

JACKSON, N.H. (AP) — When the telephone rang near dawn, Willis Kelley was preparing for bed, thinking the worst of the night was behind him. The fire chief and his men had spent hours outside in January weather so hateful the wind made their heads ache, and their hoses left icy bark on charred timbers.

Now, an alarm brought Kelley's crew out again, to the home of Malcolm and Elizabeth Jennings, who lived next to their 111-year-old Dana Place Inn at the edge of the White Mountain National Forest.

"Nothing on this earth or beyond" could have prepared him for what he found at the burning house, Kelley said later.

In the ashes of the home, Kelley found two charred bodies.

"I could never go through that again," he said. "We knew those people."

By day's end, Jackson's 700 residents learned that a killer had bound, gagged and repeatedly stabbed the innkeepers before burning their house.

"I believe our boys saved the case," Kelley said of his men. "Without their work, the ropes and gags and everything else would have gone up" in flames.

Twelve days later, two more bodies were found in a burned shack in High Springs, Fla. Among the few bones and teeth which survived, investigators identified one tooth. It belonged to Page Jennings, the 21-year-old daughter of the innkeepers.

Authorities thought the other body was that of 50-year-old Glyde Earl Meek, Page's boyfriend and a former prison inmate. Notes found near the shack suggested a murder-suicide.

In July, however, police concluded that Meek was alive, and charged him with the murder of Malcolm and Elizabeth Jennings. They also concluded, despite the tooth, that Page was not killed in the Florida fire.

The two bodies in Florida have not been identified. Investigators only know that four people are dead, and Page and her boyfriend are missing.

Also missing is Page's puppy, "Chelsea," a black Labrador retriever known to be in the Jennings' home in Jackson on the day of the fire.

"You don't know what we went through over that little dog — looked everywhere for it," Chief Kelley said. "Found a (dead) cat, but no dog. If the dog was around, live or dead, there would have been some sign of it."

Page bought Chelsea last October. Four days before her death, Mrs. Jennings told neighbors she was waiting for Page to send money to ship the puppy to Florida.

Authorities won't say any more about the dog's connection to the case.

"We're dealing with a psychopathic personalty here," said Carroll County attorney William Paine, a long-time friend of the Jennings family. "There are certain things that only (the killer) would know. Why give him an advantage and let him know about any evidence?"

Jennings, 54, and his wife, 47, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary about two months before they died. They owned Dana Place for a decade, and generously helped new innkeepers learn the business — "two of the most vivacious and wonderful people," said local waitress Nan Cosentino.

It was common knowledge, though, that Meek didn't get along with the parents.

Page, an honor student in high school, met Meek in Alaska when both worked for a hunting lodge. They argued often, sometimes violently.

Page's brother, Chris, a Gainesville, Fla., newspaper employee, believes Meek may have argued violently with Page and killed her before their parents died.

"He either killed her by accident, or ... he was so obsessed by her that he decided if he couldn't have her, no one could," Jennings said.

While Meek instilled fear in some and was believed capable of murder, others who knew him earlier describe him as quiet and friendly.

"If you met (him) in a pub instead of on the battlefield, you'd say he's one of the nicest guys around," said Art Eggers, a Washington state prosecutor who sent Meek to prison for 15 years in 1962 for burglary. "I've been at this job for a long time and he's about my favorite crook."

Meek was known as a skilled roof burglar and the best football player ever on the penitentiary team in Walla Walla, Wash., Eggers said. Meek was paroled in May 1970, despite having his sentence extended for an escape.

Ron Passage, a high school friend from Pasco, Wash., remembers Meek as "simply the strongest man I've ever met."

Col. Robert E. Lee resigned his U.S. Army commission in 1861.

Congress, Reagan bicker over plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — As predictable as the characters in a Hollywood potboiler, Congress and the Reagan administration are again struggling and bickering over how to meet the ambitious set of budget goals they have set for themselves.

Congressional negotiators were resuming work today on drafting a compromise version of a Senate-passed plan whose supporters, including President Reagan, say will force a balanced budget by 1991.

"Either they (the bargainers) take the instruments of largess away from us or we will never be able to do it ourselves," said Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., the assistant majority leader.

The House has embraced the goal but not the specifics of the plan.

Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., chairman of the congressional Joint Economic Committee, used the Democratic response to Reagan's weekly Saturday radio address to call the plan a "mindless threat" to the economy.

"This scheme is a prescription for making recessions worse and for doing the least about the deficit when we can most afford it," Obey added.

To underscore his point, Obey called Franco Modigliani, winner of the 1985 Nobel prize for economics, to testify on the plan before his panel today.

Modigliani, a professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has been a critic of the supply-side economics Reagan has used as the foundation of the administration's economic policy.

The negotiators from the House and Senate were meeting today for the third time to go over the proposal for setting declining limits on budget deficits — now running at about $200 billion a year.

The plan has been attached to legislation raising the national debt limit, the government's borrowing authority, to more than $2 trillion. Treasury Department officials have said they will need that borrowing increase in about 10 days, thus putting pressure on the negotiators to come up with a version of the balanced-budget plan that will pass both chambers.

So far, House Democrats have spent most of their time questioning senators and their staffs about the implications of the plan. This week, the House bargainers are expected to make proposals for revisions they think will be necessary to make the plan work.

In an issue paper to House colleagues last week, Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., the assistant majority leader and one of the negotiators, said, "The application of the present Senate proposal in practice would be complex, uncertain, and perhaps dangerous or unconstitutional, because of major gaps, omissions, contradictions and confusing passages in the legislation itself."

Under the Senate plan, there would be statutory ceilings on budget deficits, beginning with $180 billion in the current fiscal year and decreasing by $36 billion a year until reaching zero in 1991.

If Congress and the White House are unable to agree on actions to meet the annual goals, the plan directs the president to impose automatic across-the-board spending cuts to keep the red ink within the ceiling.

White House officials, anticipating passage of some version of the plan, already concede it will be difficult to submit a budget to Congress early next year that meets the interim goals of the plan and keeps faith with the president's staunch opposition to tax increases and a military spending cuts.

Woman begged to be killed

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Defense attorneys will argue that a man on trial for the murder of a 20-year-old Fort Worth woman shot her because she begged him to kill her and take her out of her suicidal misery.

Michael Wayne Goodin, 19, is charged with the Jan. 9 shooting death of Lisa Griffin, one of nine Fort Worth women who disappeared or were found slain in an unsolved series of crimes in 1984.

A special police task force has ruled out Goodin as a suspect in the other killings.

His trial in Ms. Griffin's death begins today.

Goodin was arrested June 21 after he gave authorities a statement and took officers to the railroad tracks in southwest Tarrant County where Miss Griffin's body had been found six months earlier.

The prosecution, headed by Tarrant County Assistant District Attorney Rufus Adcock, claims Goodin shot Miss Griffin with a .22-caliber weapon at close range.

Defense lawyer Travis Young, who represents Goodin, contends Miss Griffin was taking drugs at the time of her death and was so depressed that she asked Goodin to kill her.

Goodin has said he was aiding a suicide, legally a lesser crime than murder.

"She just kept saying, 'I want somebody to shoot me,'" Goodin said during a jailhouse interview last July. "I guess she didn't have the nerve to do it."

An autopsy report filed by the Tarrant County medical examiner shows that Miss Griffin's urine contained traces of cocaine and amphetamines.

"There is no question that she was using drugs," said Nizam Peerwani, Tarrant County's medical examiner.

Lavonne Griffin, the victim's mother, angrily denied that her daughter wanted to commit suicide.

"She was a beautiful, well-adjusted girl. She was working at two jobs. Like any young girl, she had problems, but she could handle them," Mrs. Griffin said.

"Goodin didn't have the license to kill her just because she was depressed, if she even was depressed."

Goodin also has been described as having problems. The mother of his ex-girlfriend, who asked not to be identified, said he was a troubled young man who had a falling out with his parents.

Police reported that he was asleep, wrapped in a blanket, lying in a vacant lot a few blocks from the Griffin home at the time of his arrest.

The victim's mother says that if the two were friends, she didn't know about it.

"He never came into this house," she said.

Tarrant County officers have declined to discuss how Goodin became a suspect in the killing and have never given details about their investigation.

Goodin said he met Miss Griffin at a club where she worked as a waitress. She also worked as a clerk at an insurance agency. The defendant said that he and Miss Griffin were driving that night when they got out to walk along some railroad tracks.

"This is where I want to die," Goodin quoted Miss Griffin as saying.

Her body, dressed in a jogging suit, was found the next day.

Defense lawyer Young said Goodin has never changed his version of what happened.

"I am told that there are five teenage suicides a day in this country. This girl's problems did not end with her 20th birthday," Young said.

Births

Luann and James Burleson of 4502 Fredonia are the parents of a baby girl weighing eight pounds, five and one-quarter ounces born at 3:52 p.m. Friday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

A baby boy weighing seven pounds, five ounces was born to Mary and Anisto Olivarez of P.O. Box 1243 at 8:12 p.m. Sunday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Karen and Reed Wilson of Dublin are the parents of a baby girl born at 12:18 p.m. on Oct. 10 in Stephenville. She has been named Lauren Amber. Grandparents are Preston and Etta Wilson of Snyder and M.O. and Joan McHorse of Manard.

Four siblings reunited again

In fact, it was the illness of their grandfather that brought the four together for the first time in 27 years, Bobby Shifflett said. The reunion was an unexpected twist of fate, but a most welcome one they all agreed.

When Bobby turned 14 he became a ward of the state and began living in a succession of foster homes in Snyder. That was when he began in earnest to try to find his brother who had been given up for adoption.

But, he said he met resistance from the state because they were enforcing state rules regarding wards of the state and his mother who was trying to adhere to the original adoption agreement never to reveal the adoptive parents.

But Bobby said he perservered since he was determined to find his brother and finally his mother told him the name of his brother's adopted mother.

But before he could pursue attempts at a reunion, much red tape had to be negotiated. Finally, with the permission of the social worker, Shifflett said he looked up the Burleson family in the phone book and called them.

"I spoke to Mrs. Burleson for a long time and asked her if it was all right if I visited Carroldon. She said yes."

Burleson said his parents had always told him that he was adopted and that he had had brothers and a sister.

That first meeting was strange, according to Shifflett. "I remember it was a cloudy day as we drove to the farm. The atmosphere was strange. It was strange to see someone for the first time who is your blood brother."

While this reunion was taking place, both Mitiz and Bill were living in Lovington, N.M. with their father.

Mitiz finally met Burleson for the first time three years ago in Snyder. She was visiting kin in Snyder when an aunt told her that her brother was living in a nearby apartment. It was then that they met for the first time.

But Burleson and Bill Shifflett had never seen each other until this week. Yet the two are amazed at how similar they look and how similar their lives have been. Both are divorced and have children. Both have worked in the oil field and both have a passion for pool.

Ironically, after they became acquainted and began comparing notes each realized that they worked the same well in Artesia, N.M. a few years ago--without realizing they were brothers.

"When I saw Carroldon for the first time it was a shock at first because we really do look a lot alike," Bill Shifflett said.

They didn't know what to say at first, but later the words and feelings came.

"The family feeling was there right from the beginning," Burleson said. "We just fell right in together like we had always known each other."

He said, "It was an experience having us all together for the first time. It was an odd feeling to know you had brothers and a sister but had never seen them. I'm glad about it now because I had wondered about them all my life."

When asked how it feels to have three brothers Mitiz said "it feels great. We just want to keep in touch now."

Indeed, the four siblings plan to get together for the major holidays and at least one reunion each year.

After visiting with each other and assessing their likes and differences, Bobby Shifflett said they have concluded that they are "all outgoing and always reaching out, wanting to know things." Three of the four have also been divorced. Swim recently remarried. The other two have not and Bobby Shifflett has never married.

Since Carroldon has never seen his natural father, that is the next reunion the four are planning on. In fact, the project has already been set in motion.

Bobby Shifflett said he is writing a book about their varied experiences. The other three credit him with arranging the reunion since he was the one who found their adopted brother and knew where everyone else was.

The four siblings shared a brief reunion before each returned home, but they all left with a determination to stay together this time no matter what.

County agenda for Monday told and construction or maintenance costs.

According to the commissioners, Duncan can appeal the order to 132nd District Court.

In other action, the court accepted the highest bids offered on two cars and miscellaneous oilfield equipment. Slim Graham purchased three three-quarter inch elevators and three two-inch plug valves for $300. Tim Collier bid $3,300 for a 1982 Buick and M.L. Duke bought a 1979 Honda for $750. The vehicles had been confiscated by the sheriff's department.

County Treasurer Billy Wayne Thompson presented his department's quarterly report. He listed total receipts for the county during the last three months as $1,511,728 with disbursements at $2,386,093. Cash balance stands at approximately $2,605,384.

The county's money market fund produced some $69,921 and the Super Now account yielded $12,648. Thompson noted that the county has earned approximately $308,474 during the first three quarters.

Thompson added that airport revenue for the third quarter was about $20,818.

Police weekend reports include bikes said stolen

Police are investigating three misdemeanor theft reports filed over the weekend — two of these involving missing bicycles.

Bill Watkins of 204 35th St. filed the first report at 12:54 p.m. Saturday.

He told police that his son's 20-inch bicycle had apparently been stolen from outside the residence. Value of the missing bike was set at $65.

Todd Clark of 2511 26th St. filed a similar complaint at 1:04 p.m. His Murray brand BMX bike valued at $250 was apparently stolen sometime earlier Saturday.

John McCleery of 2013 Peyton St. filed the third report at 5:22 p.m. Saturday.

He told investigators that an orange cracker box type welder on a cart had been stolen from an open garage at his residence.

Value of the missing welder was listed at $200.

City officers logged a total of seven other misdemeanor arrests over the weekend including three for public intoxication and four for being intoxicated on a premises licensed to sell alcohol.

Local's pickup overturns on muddy road Saturday

An Ira woman and two children escaped serious injury in a one-vehicle accident west of Snyder around 10:40 p.m. Saturday.

According to Department of Public Safety accident reports, Jeffri Long of Ira was driving a 1985 Ford pickup southbound on County Road 3115 about 4.7 miles south of U.S. Highway 180 when she apparently lost control of the truck on the muddy road.

The Long vehicle left the roadway and overturned.

She reportedly sustained a minor cut to the head which did not require medical treatment. Two children riding in the vehicle were uninjured.

Highway patrolmen were also called to investigate a minor two vehicle accident early Sunday morning.

Involved in the 12:40 a.m. accident on the parking lot of the Willow Park Inn, east of Snyder, was a 1984 Dodge driven by Jose Angel Medrano of 2301 Peyton Ave. which struck a parked 1979 Fiat owned by Shahala Blair of 3111 Ave. X.

No injuries resulted from that mishap.

Mandia suffers 'slow speech'

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Doctors said they will resume searching for a human heart for the first recipient of the artificial Penn State heart, despite a "neurological event" that briefly impaired his speech.

The Hershey Medical Center surgeons who implanted the mechanical device in Anthony Mandia's chest as a stopgap said Sunday that the patient is "a good transplant candidate at this point," according to hospital spokesman Dr. John W. Burnside.

Early Sunday, about two days after the device was implanted, Mandia's speech became "slow and thick," Burnside said.

fitness will be featured.

At 6:30 p.m., there will be a demonstration of how to check your body for scoliosis.

Screening booths and tests will be in the following areas: glaucoma, pulmonary (lungs), blood pressure, diabetes, a hearing test in Room B of the coliseum, a grip test for strength, a blood sugar test (hematocrit), height and weight measurements, vision, cancer risk assessment, oral cancer screening and the tuberculin skin test.

All screening tests will be from noon until 7 p.m.

The Extension Home Economics Advisory Board hopes to make this an annual event.

Driver flees in minor wreck

Police logged one minor traffic accident in the city over the weekend, a hit-and-run incident discovered at 7:48 p.m. Sunday.

It involved a parked 1982 Ford owned by Jerrel Pylant of Rt. 1, Snyder.

The Pylant vehicle was apparently struck while parked in the 1800 Block of Ave. T by a vehicle which fled the scene.

State senator still wary after courthouse battle

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — Cleared of wrongdoing last month by a grand jury, State Sen. Carl Parker still says he's careful to lock his favorite pickup truck.

"There are people who would have no qualms about planting something on me," he said.

After more than a year with Parker under indictment for charges of dealing in cocaine, prostitution and pornography, a Jefferson County grand jury last month declined to indict the Port Arthur Democrat.

"I think that concludes the investigation of Sen. Parker in every way," District Attorney James McGrath said at the time.

Parker says he isn't so sure.

His troubles began in April 1984 when Port Arthur police raided Happy Times Video, an X-rated video store operating in a house half-owned by Parker. Parker said he owned the house only as an investment and knew nothing of what went on there.

Jefferson County grand juries indicted Parker twice, but each time the indictments were thrown out by a district judge because of irregularities in the grand jury proceedings.

A third grand jury, this time working with the Texas attorney general's office, reviewed the evidence and declined to indict Parker on Sept. 27.

Rules for borrowing on crops tightened

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — A faltering farm economy and rash of loan defaults by farmers nationwide have spurred the federal government to tighten loan requirements for those who want to use their crops as collateral.

The government now requires a lien search on all requests for Commodity Credit Corp. loans — a change from the random checks previously run on only about 15 percent of the applications.

The policy is intended to "protect the security interest" on loan money funded by taxpayers, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service officials at the county, state and national level say.

Officials said the policy is indicative of extremely low commodity prices and the uncertainty over whether farm credit will be available at the start of 1986.

Commodity Credit loans are issued through ASCS offices to farmers who use their crop as collateral. The farmer may either repay the loan with interest or let the government take possession of the commodity on which the loan was made.

"The money we spend (on the loans) is taxpayer money and we are obligated to get a clear title," said ASCS administrator Everett "Bud" Rank of Washington, D.C. "We are making more loans than ever in history and we are more subject to losses."

Virtually all of the 1985 crop production will enter the loan because prices are hovering at or below the loan rate established by the government, ASCS officials said.

The loan rate for the quality of cotton predominantly harvested on the High Plains is 47.05 cents per pound, for example. If predictions are correct that buyers will not be offering that much money for the 1985 crop, High Plains farmers could opt to store the crop under the Commodity Credit loan provisions rather than accept the lower price.

Prior to the new rule, ASCS officials issued loan checks to farmer-applicants and only randomly searched for liens, checking about 15 percent of the requests, said Lubbock County ASCS executive director Alan Mackey.

Unless a lien search was made and a lien holder found, the loan check was made payable only to the farmer-applicant.

If a lien holder does not get paid, the Commodity Credit Corp. has to reimburse that person, in effect, paying for the Commodity Credit-held commodity twice, Mackey said.

Wayne Mayfield of College Station, Texas ASCS executive director, said the new policy is a preventative measure rather than one resulting from losses.

"I can't quote any cases last year that we lost," Mayfield said. "If there were any losses in Texas, they were very minor.

Many Depend on McDonald's for Supplies

McDonald Welding Supply has gained a reputation for service, and for good reason. The staff at McDonald Welding Supply comes early and stays late. This is especially important to the area's busy oil fields, and this is why so many companies have depended on McDonald Welding Supply for their supply needs.

The firm serves an area bounded by Sweetwater to Loraine to Colorado City and Big Spring and back to Snyder. The company has three 18 foot bobtail trucks for delivery to farms, businesses and well locations.

In stock at McDonalds Welding Supply is the Miller Big 20 D.C. welder for the oil patch. It has a built-in A.C. power plant and can furnish electricity for any device that runs on household current. The welder runs on regular gas or can be purchased to operate with a diesel engine. They also have a Lincoln Machine available. McDonalds Welding Supply also has a large stock of smaller welders. They vary in size and can fit in the rear of a foreign truck as well as a two-ton truck.

If you need steel for oilfield fabrication, you can find exactly what you need at McDonalds Welding Supply. In addition, the firm has a complete line of Milwaukee heavy duty electric tools and grinders. They have Williams hammer wrenches and havy tools, Victor and Uniweld welding and cutting equipmnt and Wilton vises.

Saftey equipment of all types is stocked including goggles, first aid kits and refills, arm guards, hard hats, liners and fire extinguishers. This popular business also stocks chains, cable, tubing and chain hoists. Blocks as well as all types of pulleys may be added to the list.

The available list of supplies is almost endless, just ask for it. Stop by and see Gayle McDonald and the staff at McDonald Welding Supply, 1110 College Ave.
