The SDN Column

With schools ending their spring semester and the first 100-degree temperature reading in the record book, summer is here, for all practical purposes.

Graduation programs long have been associated with hot weather. Those graduating feel it especially as they wear their traditional caps and gowns. But, this is another activity in which the youngsters of today definitely have it better than their predecessors.

Before the days of air conditioning and the briefer graduation programs, the commencement gowns were much more of a burden than they are today. In fact, many a graduate of those days probably remembers the discomfort of the heat more than any other single factor associated with his, or her, commencement. And there always was a lengthy baccalaureate service, usually on the Sunday evening before commencement day, plus an equally-lenthy commencement program with a long-winded speaker.

As we observed previously, we cannot recall the names of the speakers at our own high school and college graduation programs, let alone their topics.

Yes sir. The graduates of today have it better than we did, and I am glad they do.

But, getting back to the subject of summer. It really is not here on the calendar, of course. It will begin officially at 1:38 p.m. June 21. As for the thermometer, it obviously is there already.

If you use absentee voting as a criterion for a prediction, there should be fewer than 2,500 votes cast in the Democratic Party runoff election Saturday in Scurry County. That would be less than 30 per cent of the registered voters in the county and less than 60 per cent of the total that voted in the first primary election on May 4.

When you go to the polls Saturday, remember that you can speed up the process if you hunt up your registration certificate and have it ready when you arrive at the polls. However, if you are registered and can't find your certificate, don't let that keep you away from the polls. If your name is on the registration list of the election judge for your voting box, you may still vote by signing a list maintained for that purpose.

The inflation spiral was reflected in the bidding activity on the county agriculture exhibit building. Based on the quotations of the successful bidder, Wadleigh Construction Co. of Snyder, the over-all price of a building in the half-million dollar range increased by over $15,000 within a month. And the economists in Washington say the rate of inflation declined somewhat at about that time. We are fortunate that the coliseum was built earlier. It probably would cost about twice as much as it did in 1968.—WACIL McNAIR

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, May 30, the 150th day of 1974. There are 215 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1431, Joan of Arc was burned at the stake in Rouen, France.

On this date:

In 1498, Christopher Columbus sailed from Spain on his third voyage to the New World.

In 1539, the Spanish explorer, Hernando de Soto, landed in Florida.

In 1883, a report that New York's new Brooklyn Bridge was about to collapse created panic. Six persons on the bridge were trampled to death.

In 1961, the dictator of the Dominican Republic, Rafael Trujillo, was assassinated.

In 1963, the official death toll in a windstorm which struck East Pakistan was put at 10,000.

Ten years ago: U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in Saigon, said the United States was determined to force Communist China and North Vietnam to leave their neighbors in Southeast Asia alone.

Five years ago: A general strike practically paralyzed Argentina as workers laid down their tools to protest police action against students.

One year ago: President Nixon flew to Iceland for meetings with President Georges Pompidou of France.

Hutchison Blasts Press

By ROBERT HEARD
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Rep. Ray Hutchison, R-Dallas, blasted the press today and told the Constitutional Convention he would move to reconsider an environmental proposal that opponents say was written by industry lobbyists.

The proposal, which was approved Wednesday, would not prohibit future legislatures from authorizing suits by private citizens against polluters, as news reports indicated, Hutchison said.

"That is absolutely and incredibly false," he said.

He called that interpretation "the most gross and misleading press reporting that I have seen..."

Hutchison was the floor leader for the proposal. He said he would ask the convention to reconsider it at the end of the general provisions article. He is willing, he said, to leave the constitution silent on the question of environmental lawsuits, something opponents of the measure argued for Wednesday.

The proposal authorizes citizen suits against state agencies charged with protecting the environment.

Irish In Crisis Talks

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Northern Ireland's British administrator held crisis talks with Ulster's political leaders today after a night of violence in the predominantly Roman Catholic city of Londonderry.

The army said a band of about 300, many armed with pick handles and garden shears, attacked troops during the night. Soldiers fought back with rubber bullets and antiriot gas.

Seven sniper attacks, without casualties, also were reported.

Merlyn Rees, Britain's minister for Northern Ireland, met with Brian Faulkner, Protestant head of the toppled provincial coalition government, hoping to salvage something of the collapsed power-sharing experiment between Protestants and Catholics.

Rees said he met today hardline Protestant leaders Rev. Ian Paisley, Harry West and William Craig.

Meantime, commercial life of the British province moved toward normal as Protestant workers, satisfied that their 15-day general strike had reversed British efforts to bring minority Catholics into the Ulster government, returned to their jobs.

Houstonians Eye 1-27 Extension

HOUSTON (AP) — Citizens groups suggested four possible routes Wednesday night for an extension of Interstate 27 in West Texas.

It was the last of seven public meetings on the feasibility, location and need for the extension.

About 145 persons who included representatives from 25 chambers of commerce, attended.

Testimony and public recommendations from the seven meetings will be compiled in a report to the Federal Highway Administration.

"The whole purpose of these meetings is for citizens to offer what need, feasibility and route they consider to be best," said Phil Wilson, director of the planning and research division of the Texas Highway Department.

Proposed routes were: I-27 would follow U.S. 87 through Lamesa, Big Spring, San Angelo, Eden, and Menard and join Interstate 10 at Junction; follow U.S. 84 through Slaton, Post, Snyder and Roscoe, and join I-20 through Abilene and follow existing routes to Coleman, Cross Plains, Brownwood, Goldthwaite, Lampasas and Austin and join I-10 at Columbus;

I-27 would follow U.S. 84, through Slaton, Snyder, and Sweetwater, then through Ballinger, Brady, Llano to Austin then continue to Columbus and join I-10, or I-27 would follow U.S. 84 to Snyder, south to Colorado City, Robert Lee, San Angelo and link with I-10 at Junction.

A highway department spokesman stressed the purpose of the meeting was not to tell the public where the highway would be built but to get public feedback on where it wanted the highway.

The I-27 project is part of a nationwide study of 10 highway systems. All 10 studies will be presented to Congress by Jan. 1.

A highway department spokesman said comments from all the meetings favored the extension because it would provide a logical link between military bases from Denver and Colorado Springs, Colo., through Texas; it connects major educational institutions throughout the Gulf Coast to Plains area; it provides important connections for industrial areas; it connects tourist attractions and links the agricultural Panhandle-Plains with the oil rich South Plains-Permian Basin region.

Other meetings were held in Big Spring, Lubbock, Lamesa, Snyder, Abilene, and San Angelo.

Sirica Refuses To Give Tapes To Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today refused to turn over tapes of four White House conversations sought by the House Judiciary Committee for its impeachment inquiry.

Sirica said he was legally powerless to meet the request because the tapes of the four conversations, two on June 20, 1972, and the others from June 30 and Sept. 15 of the same year, were delivered to him for rulings on claims of executive privilege by President Nixon.

He said it is up to Nixon whether or not the tapes should be turned over to the committee.

Citing this as a special case, Sirica said in a legal memo answering the Judiciary Committee, "The court does not in any way imply that the recordings sought are irrelevant to the impeachment investigation."

Sirica said his decision "is based rather on the wholly unrelated ground that the court simply has no role to play in the matter."

The judge said if the committee is turned down by the White House, then it must decide whether to pursue the tapes in the courts once again.

The first two conversations took place three days after the June 17, 1972, break-in at the Watergate apartment complex, which housed Democratic National Committee headquarters. The other two conversations are believed to involve discussions among Nixon and his top aides about the break-in.

In denying the request, Sirica cited an earlier U.S. Court of Appeals decision ordering the White House to turn over tapes. He said the decision does not direct a federal judge to perform a "pass-through or conduit function" for the Judiciary Committee or anyone else interested in presidential conversations.

St. Clair Responds

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House lawyer James D. St. Clair told the Supreme Court today that bypassing the U.S. Court of Appeals in the matter of the Watergate tapes and documents would result in "unjudicial haste."

"When a case raises the most fundamental issues of the allocation of power among the three branches of the federal government, it is more important that it be decided wisely than that it be decided hurriedly," St. Clair said in a brief submitted to the high court.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ruled May 20 that President Nixon must give tapes and documents subpoenaed by Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski for judicial inspection.

Last Friday St. Clair appealed the judge's order to the Circuit Court of Appeals. Shortly afterward Jaworski asked the Supreme Court to take the appeal directly, skipping the appeals court.

SAYS KISSINGER

Pact May Prove Turning Point

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger arrived here today en route home from his 33-day marathon peace mission, and a senior American official said the cease-fire agreement he mediated between Israel and Syria would take effect as soon as it is signed on Friday.

Before leaving Jerusalem, the American secretary of state told newsmen the pact may become "a turning point in the history of the Middle East."

The senior official, talking to newsmen as the Kissinger party flew here to report to President Anwar Sadat on the accord, said wounded prisoners of war would be exchanged within 24 hours of the signing in Geneva.

As part of the agreement to separate Israeli and Syrian forces in the Golan Heights, the official said, Israel would give up the Golan city of Quneitra and six or seven villages taken in the 1967 war, as well as land gained last October.

The U.S. official said Israel would retain possession of three strategic hills and all of its settlements, but will yield about "a field and a half" of cultivated land east of the disengagement line.

The text of the accord distributed to newsmen gives Syrian and Israeli negotiators until Wednesday to work out details of the troop separation in the Golan Heights.

Actual disengagement is to begin by next Thursday and completed by June 25. All of the remaining 73 Israeli and 408 Syrian, Moroccan and Iraqi prisoners are to be repatriated by Thursday.

In a protocol accompanying the agreement, Israel and Syria agreed that the U.N. peacekeeping force will number about 1,250 men and will carry out regular inspections.

But the force is not to hamper the Syrian civil administrators who will move into the demilitarized zone between the separated armies.

Kissinger and Sadat are to lunch together during a six-hour stopover before the secretary continues to Washington.

Announcement of the Syrian-Israeli agreement Wednesday did not halt fighting in the Golan Heights.

No Inquest Planned On SLA Six

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A spokesman for Los Angeles County Coroner Thomas Noguchi says no inquest is planned, despite a request for one, into the deaths of six Symbionese Liberation Army members killed in a shootout with police.

Dr. L.S. Wolfe had asked for an inquest into the death of his son, William, and the five other SLA members who died in a more than hour-long gunbattle with Los Angeles police almost two weeks ago.

Wolfe, of Emmaus, Pa., arrived here Wednesday to press his demand and to seek help from the American Civil Liberties Union in forcing the issue. The local ACLU, which has criticized the shootout, said it was considering Wolfe's request.

The coroner's spokesman said, "We know of no reason to have an inquest. Nothing in our research has shown up anything irregular."

In an interview with television station KNXT here, Wolfe said Los Angeles police assured him before the raid on the SLA hideout that "the last thing we will do is go in with our guns blazing."

But Wolfe said: "They didn't know who they had killed, they didn't know who was in the house, they didn't know who they were trying to kill." Identities of the victims were not learned until the day after the gunbattle.

There was no immediate comment from police. They have said before that when they gave occupants in the house a chance to surrender, the response from the SLA was protracted gunfire.

Johnson Bust On Display

WASHINGTON (AP) — It took four years for sculptress Jimilu Mason to finish a 24-inch bust of late President Lyndon B. Johnson. The result is now on display at the National Portrait Gallery.

Lady Bird Johnson formally presented the bust, her favorite, in a ceremony Wednesday night at the gallery, a branch of the Smithsonian Institution.

"We weren't too successful in getting him to sit," Mrs. Johnson remarked about the time stretch, from 1959 to 1963, needed before the bust was finished.

Miss Mason of Alexandria, Va., was subsequently appointed by President Johnson to the National Council on the Arts.

"He was a big man, a giant," said Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., in a tribute to Johnson, whom he served as vice president. "When he embraced you you were embraced; and when he chastised you were chastised. There was no doubt about it."

Two Dead In Blast

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — A bomb blast ripped apart a car parked in front of a drive-in restaurant, killing at least two occupants, police said.

The explosion late Wednesday night occurred just two nights after a blast killed three persons as they sat in a car at Chautauqua Park. That blast still is under investigation.

A police spokesman said two persons died in Wednesday's explosion. Witnesses at the scene said they believed a third person was killed, but officers would not confirm that report.

Another person was reported in critical condition at Boulder Community Hospital.

Identities of the victims were withheld.

The drive-in hamburger restaurant had closed a short time before the blast.

Butz Concerned About Production Of Beef

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz says he is concerned about the possibility of an increase in the slaughter of beef cows and heifers because of current financial problems in the cattle business.

If that happens and fewer breeding cattle are available, Butz said Wednesday, consumers may face tighter beef supplies and higher prices later on. Feedlot operators since last fall have been squeezed by high feed costs and relatively low market prices for cattle.

The effects are being felt all along the beef production pipeline, Butz said.

Butz made his remarks at a meeting called to brief consumer specialists from the food industry, including representatives of agribusiness firms, about USDA policies and thinking on the food situation.

As he has before, Butz said much of the current difficulty in the livestock sector stems from federal price curbs last year. As an example, he said hog producers a year ago indicated they would produce a six percent larger pig crop in the last half of 1973 than they did a year earlier.

But government price curbs were a signal to producers that troubles lay ahead, he said. Consequently, many pregnant sows were sold for slaughter and, instead of a larger pig crop in the last half of 1973, production dropped one per cent from a year earlier.

Similar signals have been received by cattle producers, Butz said. Instead of expected larger placements of new cattle in feedlots last winter and fall, fewer animals were put on feed. That helped push retail beef prices to record heights last January and February, he said.

Butz said some consumer groups and politicians were guilty of demagoguery whenever they saw a chance to "stir up things" about food prices. He said many do not relate food on grocers' shelves with items farmers produce.

Recently, Butz said, "somebody in Congress" discovered a cow could have only one calf per year and that the normal gestation period between breeding a cow and delivery of a calf was nine months.

Consequently, Butz said, "a bill was prepared to cut the gestation period in half" and thus speed up beef production. "And I think if that bill had been introduced, it would have passed," he added.

Report Nixon Assessed 5%

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — President Nixon was assessed a 5 per cent negligence penalty by the Internal Revenue Service in connection with $467,000 he owes in back income taxes and interest, a newspaper said today.

The Baltimore Sun, quoting sources familiar with the case, said the IRS included the 5 per cent penalty on April 3 when it assessed Nixon $432,787 in back taxes, plus interest.

The Sun said the dollar amount of the alleged negligence penalty could not be determined.

Nixon has said he would pay the taxes, but the White House has refused to say whether a negligence penalty was involved. The IRS refused comment on the newspaper report.

Dr. Tully To Head Kiwanis

Dr. Jim Tully was elected president of the Noon Kiwanis Club during the regular luncheon meeting, held Wednesday at the American Restaurant.

Dr. Tully is director of the learning resource center at Western Texas College. Other new officers elected are Harry Dietz, president-elect; Sam Kitching, first vice president; and Bobby Beard, second vice president. They were elected after their names were placed before the club by Hubert Cargile, chairman of the nominating committee. They will be installed later. Four new directors also will be elected in the near future.

Cargile also installed three new members—Perry Turnbow, Darryl Dieckmeier and Darrell Echols.

Turnbow presented the program. He showed slides about the new Golf and Grounds Operations program at Western Texas College. It is one of only three such programs in the United States.

The meeting was presided over by E.T. (Pat) Patterson, club president. Roy Meador, Jim Tully and Roy McCloskey will represent the Noon Kiwanis Club at a meeting of Division 22 to be held June 8 in Midland.

The Noon Club approved a request of the Sunrisers Kiwanis Club to help them with the annual hamburger sale in Towle Park July 4.

Guests included Mike Mitchell, Tollie Faver, Glenn Polk, W.C. Graves, Geral Greene and Wirt W. Dieckmeier.

The first weightlifting world championships were held in London in 1891.

Long nose, flat chest makes her miserable

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old married woman with three children. At school I was called "Pinocchio" because my nose was so long. I also was teased because I was flat-chested. This gave me a very bad inferiority complex.

Last summer I decided to see a plastic surgeon, so I looked in the yellow pages and picked out a name I liked and made an appointment. He charged me $25 just to tell me he wanted $1,500 to do my nose, and $3,000 for silicone implants, cash in advance! I don't have that much money now.

I was so desperate I wrote to President Nixon and asked if he knew of a plastic surgeon who would do it for less. I told him that life wasn't worth living without those operations.

He forwarded my letter to the Mental Health Department, and they suggested I call "Suicide Prevention" if I felt the need to talk to somebody.

Abby, I hate to go anywhere because I always see women with little noses and big bosoms and I feel like crawling into a hole.

Please, please help me. A MISERABLE MESS

DEAR MISERABLE: You can't be as big a mess as you say because at least one man thought you were appealing enough to marry.

Start with your nose. Call your county medical society for the names of plastic surgeons who would let you pay on time. Also, try a university medical school.

Nobody has everything, dear. Write to Frederick's of Hollywood for their lingerie catalogue. Their padded bras are so realistic, they could fool a nursing baby. And, good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I do volunteer work at my child's school three mornings a week, and I enjoy it. I do not gossip, I mind my own business, and I am not better acquainted with my child's teachers than any other parent.

I felt quite satisfied with myself until my husband asked me to find some other kind of volunteer work. He says he "knows" our child resents Mother "nosing around" school.

Our child is an average student with no problems, and I was of the opinion that he enjoyed seeing me in school. All the mothers I know do some volunteer work involving their children. [Scouting, Sunday school, etc.] I am at a loss to figure this out. Can you? CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: No. Ask your husband how he "knows" what he claims to know, and if he doesn't come up with something convincing, just keep on doing what you're doing.

DEAR ABBY: A man in prison for murder wrote and asked you if murder was a forgivable sin. He said he could find no reference to it in the Bible. All he could find were references to "an eye for an eye."

Your reply, "There is no sin that will not be forgiven by sincere repentance," was beautiful. Perhaps it would be useful to further point out that three of the most admired persons in the Bible were also murderers—Moses, David and Paul. So surely if these men could rise to such heights after having committed such an act, it shows the way for anyone to do so. W. T. McL.: WASHINGTON, D. C.

Revenue Sharing Tales Differ With Two Cities

By ROD DAVID
Associated Press Writer

Impact and Uncertain are 350 long Texas miles apart, but each has a federal revenue sharing problem—one can't give money away and the other can't get it.

But that's the only thing the two miniscule Texas cities have in common—what they call a giant headache from the federal revenue sharing program.

The 350 miles is measured only from the East Texas fishing resort community of Uncertain to the West Texas liquor oasis of Impact.

Folks say it's a little longer the other way because you might have to weave around a lot after visiting Impact whose major industry is supplying alcohol to dry Abilene.

According to recent reports, the government says Impact and Uncertain are two of 242 towns and cities that have failed to accept revenue sharing grants.

While that's true for Impact, it's not certain in Uncertain.

Patty Turner, secretary for the 200 population lakeside city, said Uncertain had sent requests for revenue sharing funds to "Washington, or Cleveland or Chicago or somewhere up North" in March, but has never received a dime.

She said federal officials claimed to have mailed a check to Uncertain and then said it was returned.

But, retorts Miss Turner, "The postmaster in Karnack assured me no such letter was ever delivered."

If Uncertain had the money, it would have probably kept it, she said.

"We have no objection at all I don't think."

Across the state things are a little different. Impact has gone to great lengths to get rid of the money it has received.

With a population of 61, the city has gotten, and returned, four checks totalling $1,816.

"We decided that the amount of money they were talking about wouldn't justify the time involved in filling out all the forms and plans that were required to spend it," said Mayor Dallas Perkins.

"It would have required hiring somebody to do it. And the money wouldn't have even paid that, much less having anything left over, so we sent it back."

Perkins said federal officials weren't satisfied with a simple refusal.

"They wrote back and said we couldn't just do that arbitrarily. The city council had to vote on a resolution to refuse the funds.

"They said we have to vote and pass another resolution every entitlement period or they'll start sending the checks again."

The four checks were returned last July, and, in line with federal wishes, the city council voted again in January to continue its battle against the unwanted money.

Station's Award Accepted By Mayes

The Secretary-Treasurer of Radio Station KSNY in Snyder was one of two Texas broadcast executives who went to New York this month to accept the the 1973 George Foster Peabody Award for Radio Public Service. Wendell Mayes, Jr. accepted the Peabody, broadcasting's highest honor, on behalf of Radio Station KNOW in Austin. Mayes is President of KNOW.

The award was presented by the University of Georgia School of Journalism at a Hotel Pierre luncheon sponsored by the Broadcast Pioneers, an organization of national broadcast industry executives. KNOW News Director Bob Shrader accompanied Mayes to New York.

Mayes is also president of Radio Stations KCRS in Midland and KVIC in Victoria. He is a former president of the Texas Association of Broadcasters and a former member of the board of directors of the National Association of Broadcasters.

Making the presentation at the New York ceremonies were Dean Warren Agee of the University of George School of Journalism and Hal Niven, Executive Vice President of the National Association of Broadcasters.

KNOW was cited for a series of documentaries and editorials on Texas marijuana laws, broadcast in February, 1973. KNOW is the only Texas radio station to win a Peabody for broadcast journalism in the 34-year history of the awards program.

Other Peabody winners accepting awards at the luncheon included veteran CBS Radio newman Lowell Thomas, Sr. NBC sportscaster Joe Garagiola and representatives of the three major broadcast networks.

The Peabody Awards were established in 1940 by the Board of Regents of the University of Georgia System in memory of the late George Foster Peabody, a native of Columbus, Georgia, who became a successful New York banker and philanthropist.

Reactions Vary On Agreement

By The Associated Press

President Nixon, Western European leaders and young Israelis welcomed the Israel-Syria disengagement agreement. But the Soviet Union was cautious, Syria and most other Arab countries were silent and some older Israelis were skeptical whether the pact will succeed.

President Nixon said the agreement was "obviously a major diplomatic achievement and Secretary Kissinger deserves enormous credit for the work that he has done ...."

He said in a televised speech that as a result of the pact, "the prospects for reaching agreement on a permanent basis, I think now, are better than they have been at any time over the past 25 years."

A British Foreign Office spokesman said, "We congratulate the governments concerned in this achievement. We salute Dr. Kissinger, whose unremitting efforts have done so much to bring it about."

The West German foreign minister, Hans-Dieter Genscher, said the agreement reached by the German-born Kissinger is "a good sign for progress at the Geneva peace conference on the Middle East."

Most Arab countries said little about the accord, and Syrian broadcasts only quoted President Nixon's announcement that a settlement had been reached. There was no official Syrian confirmation of the pact, and some citizens doubted it was settled.

A highly placed source in Damascus said Syria might not make an announcement until Friday, when the agreement is to be signed in Geneva. Palestinian guerrilla sources were not commenting, apparently waiting for Syria to take the lead.

In Egypt, however, news of the settlement was flashed on Cairo radio. Particular attention was paid to President Nixon's statement that the prospects for a lasting peace now are better than ever.

The Soviet news agency Tass reported the agreement but said it must be accompanied by other measures to really pacify the Middle East. It said "appropriate measures should immediately be taken to achieve an all-encompassing and just settlement."

That viewpoint was echoed in a communique issued in Damascus by President Hafez Assad and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

"The Syrian and Soviet viewpoints converged that a just and lasting peace cannot be achieved in the Middle East except through complete Israeli withdrawal from all occupied Arab territories and the restoration of the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people," the communique said.

Glenn Toombs
A PROVEN RECORD OF PUBLIC SERVICE

Lowered Taxes

In 1971, shortly after taking office as County Judge, Borden County was threatened with a lawsuit from area oil companies concerning the tax valuation of farm and grassland in Borden County. Rather than have a court order a revaluation, Toombs acted and a citizens' tax revaluation committee was formed to revalue land in Borden County - which had not been appraised for tax purposes since 1891. The result was that, while cash values increased to approximately 29% of real worth, average taxes were lowered. The tax rate in Borden County is now just under 4 cents per acre for grassland and about 13 cents per acre for farmland..

Controlled Predators

In 1972 and 1973, when the Environmental Protection agency banned the use of poisons to control predatory animals, Glenn personally worked in both Washington and Austin to find a solution. After many months of hard work, in conjunction with this area's Congressional delegation, state legislative delegation, and concerned citizens from this region, we succeeded in passing legislation enabling us to hunt predators from the air under the regulatory authority of the Texas Wildlife Commission. We also received a special emergency permit from the EPA to use poisons in certain counties, including several from this district to control coyotes.

Increased Fuel Share

During the energy crisis, Judge Toombs provided leadership and hard work in raising this area's fuel allocations. In January, this region was receiving 75% of 1972 allocations of petroleum products. Today, the average is between 100% and 120% of 1972 levels. In addition, as Director of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, Toombs succeeded in achieving a direct line into the Federal Energy Office for this area.

Ma Bell Asks Hike In Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Southwestern Bell has asked city councilmen for its second rate increase in 13 months, this one to be large enough to give the firm $32.9 million more gross income this year.

"We can no longer keep pouring in dollars at a record pace as we are, to expand and modernize an operation that is earning only 2.12 per cent," Paul H. Moore, division manager for Bell, said Wednesday.

The firm did not lay out a schedule of rates it wants the council to adopt. A spokesman said Bell first wants to convince the council it needs the money.

Last April the council approved an overall 11.5 per cent increase which included a boost of 16.6 per cent in residential areas. That increased the average homeowners' telephone bill from $6.30 to $7.35.

There was no immediate reaction from the council to Moore's proposal.

Subpanel To Probe TWOB

AUSTIN (AP) — A subcommittee of freshmen House members has been directed to investigate the Texas Water Quality Board, which has come under fire from numerous legislators for its industrial waste disposal activities.

House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. ordered the investigation in response to a petition from 45 representatives.

The standing subcommittee on pollution, headed by Rep. Gene Jones, D-Houston, will start its formal investigation after the Constitutional Convention adjourns this summer.

Other subcommittee mengers are Reps. Chris Miller, Fort Worth, vice-chairman; Frank Madla, San Antonio; Ron Waters and Woody Denson, both of Houston; Pete Laney, Hale Center; and Ronnie Earle, Austin. All are Democrats.

Daniel said it was not the intent of the probe to prejudge the board but to obtain facts and determine whether any remedial legislation or administrative action may be needed.

"We are ready, willing and able to show them anything they want to look at. We don't have anything to hide," said the board's public affairs spokesman, Bill Berger.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. As part of the property settlement of my divorce, I'm transferring stock to my wife. Will I be taxed on the difference between my basis in the stock and its appreciated value on the day of the transfer?

A. Yes. You realize a taxable gain equal to the difference between the appreciated value and your basis in the stock.

Q. I filed my return just before the April 15th deadline. When can I expect my refund?

A. If there are no mustakes on your return that might delay processing, it normally takes about six weeks after return is filed. It might take a little longer to get your refund, however, due to the large volume of returns filed in April.

Q. I'm a doctor. I recently received a brochure promoting a Caribbean cruise during which professional matters are to be discussed. Is the cost of the trip deductible as a business expense?

A. If your primary purpose in taking the cruise is a vacation, the cruise is considered personal in nature and the expenses incurred are not deductible. However, if you engage in business activities while on such a vacation trip, any expenses incurred specifically for business activities are deductible. For example, the properly allocable cost of a series of lectures on business or professional subjects you actually attend on the cruise may be deductible.

Whether a cruise is primarily personal depends upon the facts in each case. An important factor is a comparison of time spent on business affairs and time spent on personal activities. Deductions claimed for cruises where little time is devoted to professional or business activities are checked carefully by IRS examiners to determine whether the expenses are properly deductible. You are required to substantiate the amount of time spent on business activities.

Q. What interest does IRS charge on taxes that are not paid when due?

A. Interest at the rate of six per cent a year is assessed on the unpaid balance from the date the tax is due until it is paid. In addition, a penalty of one-half of one percent of the unpaid taxed is imposed for each month, or part of a month, beyond the due date that the tax remains unpaid, up to a maximum of 25 percent.

Sultry Heat Covers Texas

By The Associated Press

Sultry heat enveloped nearly all of Texas again today.

Another weak cool front eased to a standstill across the Panhandle south of Amarillo without exercising any appreciable effect on the state's weather.

Behind the frontal system the early morning temperatures sagged to 55 degrees at Dalhart and 62 at Amarillo. Readings elsewhere ranged upward through the 70s, staying as warm as 80 at Brownsville, Corpus Christi, Galveston, Palacios and Wink.

Occasional showers dotted the Big Bend country in far West Texas in early morning, and others fell around Cotulla in Southwest Texas and from near Matagorda on the Upper Texas Coast inland to Rosenberg.

Heavy thunderstorms died out during the night after rumbling through parts of the Red River Valley near Vernon and Wichita Falls.

Top temperatures Wednesday afternoon went as high as 100 degrees at Mineral Wells, 101 at Midland, 102 at Wink and 103 at Wichita Falls.

Rains Help Wheat In Great Plains

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rains last week helped later-maturing winter wheat in parts of the Great Plains but hampered corn planting in much of the midwest Corn Belt, according to a weather report by the Agriculture Department.

"The moisture was especially helpful in Southwest Kansas, where topsoil was dry," the report said. "Wet weather in North Dakota continued to keep farmers in the northeast area from planting spring wheat."

The report, issued in summary form Wednesday, said the Kansas wheat crop was in "satisfactory condition" as of last weekend, with 90 per cent of it headed, compared with 70 per cent last year and a normal heading of 85 per cent.

The wheat harvest in Texas was about nine per cent completed by the weekend, compared with two per cent a year ago. Rain stalled the harvest just beginning in southwestern Oklahoma.

In the Corn Belt, farmers generally were held to less than two days of corn planting last week, the report said. By May 26 about 75 per cent of the crop in the northcentral states was planted, versus 74 last year and a five-year average for the date of 81 per cent.

Offshore Oil Bids Studied

By BILL CRIDER
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Government officials studied high bids totaling $1.5 billion for new drilling space in seabottom off the Texas Coast today—and low bidders in the lease sale pick up their cash and go home.

Interior Department spokesmen said decisions will be reached soon on which bids to accept on the 123 Gulf of Mexico tracts involved. Some may be rejected as too low.

H. R. Hirsch of Houston, Southern exploration manager for Mobil Oil Corp., said the tracts were the best of the Texas offshore area and the sale was an opportunity that won't knock again.

"They may offer more tracts for lease but now the good stuff is gone," he said.

Mobil headed a combine that was the big buyer, with high bids totaling $650 million.

Joining Mobil in the potent bidding combination were Union Oil Co. of California, Texas Gas Exploration, Amoco Production Co. and Northwest Mutual Life Insurance Co.

There were 245 tracts offered in the sale but 122 of them did not draw bids.

Cash kept goes into the Treasury, plus one-sixth royalties from any future production of oil or natural gas.

All of the sealed bids were submitted just before Wednesday's deadline because oilmen feared legal complications might delay the sale and created unexpected bank interest expense.

One-fifth of each bid had to be in cash and most companies take temporary bank loans for a few days. The losers' cash was available to them today.

The most popular tract of the sale was 5,760 acres about 100 miles off the beach south of Port Arthur in water 200 feet deep. It attracted 13 bids. The Mobil combine was high with $67.9 million.

Hirsch said the margin between high and low bids was high, "more so than ever before."

"The industry faces a very uncertain future and the choice was lay low or plunge," he said. "We have shown our response to the energy crisis in these sales."

School Must Open Records

NACOGDOCHES, Tex. (AP) — An opinion by Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill has declared Stephen F. Austin State University must make public student evaluation of faculty members.

The controversy began in December, 1973 when a Stephen F. Austin student asked the school to release the results of the evaluation survey. The school refused.

Hill said the state-funded school is covered by the 1973 open records law and the requested information should have been made public.

Henry Aaron hit homers in opening games in Cincinnati and Atlanta this spring. His second homer broke Babe Ruth's record of 714.

OUR MAN ON BROADWAY
Dick Maurice

Guess who plays a reporter in WALTER MATTHAU's new motion picture, "Pelham One, Two Three"? None other than Your Man On Broadway. Your friendly reporter can be seen on the big screen in the Fall.

Some people in Hollywood are peeved with TONY CURTIS. In a London interview he allegedly said that some fine actors like PAUL NEWMAN, KIRK DOUGLAS and JACK LEMMON are so desperate for work they'll make a movie for nothing and take a percentage. "Anybody who wants Curtis must pay his price. And I'm not cheap, bragged Tony.

A romance of several years back has resumed—JIM NABORS and DOROTHY MALONE. They're both from the south and have a lot in common. Their mothers are friends and were present when Dottie visited Jim in Las Vegas during his stint at the Sahara. I wonder if you know who is singing, Friends, Lovers No More?

When CHER BONO was on a shopping spree in New York recently, I happened into the same shoe store. She spent over $1,000 just on shoes! I could think of a couple of other things she should have bought instead.

Ex-Tarzan RON ELY has been chosen to play the hero of the 181 Savage novels. He seems to fit the role perfectly.

JAMES CAGNEY is working on his autobiog. Another author put out what Jimmy calls "a piece of junk" about him, so now the retired star is putting the truth on paper. Cagney, who says he quit acting because he "just lost interest," still tap dances. "Whenever I feel achy or sluggish, I do a few choruses to get the kinks out of my body," he explains.

JOANNE WOODWARD, a vegetarian for years, now has husband PAUL NEWMAN following the program.

CAROL CHANNING who books things far ahead will be leading the Macy's Thanksgiving parade. She was fired once from the Macy's bakeshop. The reason she was fired was she was eating the blueberries from the muffins.

EMBARRASSING MOMENT OF THE WEEK AWARD has to go to MR. AND MRS. HENRY FONDA. At a party recently they were introduced to a MR. and MRS. TOM FORAN. Before Henry could even say "Aw shucks how do you do," Mrs. Foran said, "your son-in-law knows us." He does indeed as Mr. Foran was a prosecuting attorney in '69 when TOM HAYDEN was a member of the Chicago Seven! Don't know what Hank said to that but I wish I did.

Whether or not you're a "feminist" as she is, there's no denying that HELEN REDDY has talent. She's been signed to a $1 million, two-year contract by the MGM-Grand Hotel and that's more than any other female star has ever received in Las Vegas.

TROY DONAHUE blew back into town and turned up at a bash. He's just completed a role in "The Godfather Part II" and is now back in town to try and stir his career back up. Troy looks like his old self again and it shouldn't be long before he's back in the swing of things. It doesn't seem so long ago that he was the fair haired boy of the motion pictures.

Telephoned and asked GLENN FORD, a neighbor of RITA HAYWORTH and DINAH SHORE: if the ladies shared his enthusiasm for gardening (he raises all his own vegetables). "Nope," he grinned, "in fact they think I'm a character. They call me the original Beverly Hillbilly, since I've been gardening for 25 years." Glenn attributes his good health to a careful diet but adds, "If you're in love with somebody who loves you, you're the healthiest person in the world. If you go through a traumatic love affair, you can get sick overnight."

EXORCIST joke around town: What happens if you don't pay your exorcist after he's done his job? . . . . You get repossessed!

Almost forgot to tell you that the talk around New York's St. Regis Hotel is that GENE BARRY who is currently appearing at the Maisonette Room with his one man song-and-dance act would like to continue in nightclubs. He's having a great time at it and so are audiences who catch his show. He's fast becoming America's Maurice Chevalier.

Isn't it true that PAUL NEWMAN will be cutting down in his film-making? Incidently, I understand that Mr. Newman has given up racing motorcycles. . . but STEVE McQUEEN has taken up ballooning as a new hobby. I remember back when KIRK DOUGLAS tried his hand at it. Kirk almost got killed and decided to call it quits. Why can't Steve take up something sensible like tap-dancing.

It's sad to report that the latest rumor about JACK KLUGMAN and his funny charming wife BRETT SOMMERS is that they've split and are trying to work their differences out. . . apart.

Speaking of couples, LUCILLE BALL has never been happier than with husband GARY MORTON, but Gary is still wary of any mention of Lucy's first husband DESI ARNAZ—and after all these years.

Female Consuls See Nothing Odd In Position

By DAVID MICHELMORE

CAIRO (AP) — In a short kilt and red turtleneck sweater, 25-year-old Beth Jones looks more like an American college girl than the American consul in Egypt.

"Some people — especially Americans — really look surprised when they first come into my office and see me," she said.

Although some might expect a distinguished-looking middle-aged man, or, at least, a tweed-suited middle-aged woman in the consul's chair, Beth Jones — young, single and attractive — sees nothing odd about her position.

She thinks the astonished first looks are merely "amusing."

"Once we sit down to begin working on whatever problem they have, the surprise goes away and it's all business," she said.

There are fewer than ten women diplomats among some 800 men working in the Cairo embassies, a small minority in a long male-dominated profession.

Beth and the other women diplomats interviewed by The Associated Press said there were no tasks a woman diplomat could not do in Cairo, a city "easy going and Mediterranean in its attitude toward women" according to one.

They said they were too busy doing their jobs to even think about the differences, if any, between male and female diplomats.

But they admitted that getting past the first astonished looks is a hurdle attractive women diplomats face that their male colleagues do not.

"They say, here is this woman with long blonde hair and long legs — what is she doing here?" said Countess Helga Strachwitz, 32, the leggy, blonde cultural attache of the West German embassy.

"So you have to prove right away that you are efficient, not more efficient than men, but that you are efficient," she said.

Solmaz Dinzer, 28, Turkish first secretary and a 1966 graduate of Bryn Maw (Pa.) College, thinks her single, feminine status may even give her an advantage in the diplomatic game.

"It's easier for us to get invited to parties and to meet people," she said. "Men will look at me perhaps first as a woman, but then you have to establish yourself as a professional, to turn that first casual meeting into a useful diplomatic contact,"

At least one male diplomat — a bachelor and a Frenchman — thinks single, attractive diplomats like Solmaz and Beth are "overbooked."

"They are asked out by everyone, even people of much higher rank, just to fill in the atmosphere," said Georges Moussa, a French Embassy attache. "Diplomats exploit the presence of a nice, charming young lady who can perform well at a dinner party or a cocktail party."

Neither Beth nor Solmaz see themselves as "decorative" additions to a diplomatic dinner table. Their full social calendars are part of the job, as much as long arduous days at the office, and also part of the independence they cherish.

"I am the master of my own time. I have no one to worry about but myself. I can go to the embassy early and come home late at night. It's up to me," said Solmaz.

"But I am enough of a Middle Eastern woman that if I ever feel the need to get married, I will probably leave the foreign service. I don't want to impose the protocol restriction on my husband of having to follow my name," she added.

But Beth Jones is enough of a modern American woman, self-assured and adventurous, to toss off the question of marriage: "Oh God, no. Are you kidding? I don't know what it would be like to be married. I don't think about it," The 1970 Swarthmore College (Pa.) graduate said.

"But I know I'll never stop working and I'll never accept any husband's dominance. If I got assigned to a new country, he'd have to follow. There would be no question about it," she said.

Countess Strachwitz, unlike Beth and Solmaz, is married. Her husband, a United Nations official in Jordan, flies to Cairo to see his wife and young son on weekends.

"It's not that easy," Countess Strachwitz said of being a wife, a mother and a full-time diplomat. "But you can overcome. You get taken to the water and you swim. That's all."

But for Beth Jones, daughter of career foreign service officer William C. Jones, now assigned to Washington, the diplomatic life is much more exciting than a swim.

It's an adventure — whether it takes her to dinner parties, horseback riding in the desert, driving her small car about the pyramids in the middle of the night, or working 20-hour days as she did during each of U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's visits to Egypt.

"I love it," she said.

With more than 80,000 government employes, Kansas City ranks second only to Washington D.C. as a Government employment center.

Atheneum Holds Final Meeting

Members of the Atheneum Study Club held their final meeting of the year on May 14 at the Martha Ann Woman's Club at 4:30 p.m. Mrs. Martha Webb, newly elected president, presided at the meeting.

Ideas for programs and plans were formulated for the new year book. Mrs. Wanda Clinton is chairman of the year book and she asked that all members be thinking of ideas and to contact her this summer if any have plans or ideas that would be helpful.

All club members gladly accepted the request that Mrs. Charles Shaw be asked to rejoin the club.

Mrs. Buddy Drum was granted a leave of absence from the club for six months.

The resignation of Mrs. Kathy McFaul was accepted with regret.

The club members voted to change the by laws to read "The Club will meet on the second Tuesday of each month" instead of meeting on each second and fourth Tuesdays. This change of one monthly meeting will begin in September, 1974.

No further business was conducted and the meeting was adjourned.

The WEEDERS GUIDE

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

The three All-America Rose Selections Award winners this year should please fanciers of the grandiflora, hybrid tea and floribunda roses. The three champions of 1975 include one of each, Arizona, Oregold and Rose Parade.

Arizona is a bronze and copper grandiflore; Oregold, pure yellow hybrid tea, and Rose Parade, coral pink floribunda.

Arizona was originated by Ollie Weeks of Ontario, Calif., who also produced 1973 and 1974 winners, Gypsy and Perfume Delight, and shared in the development of many other AARS selections, including Royal Highness, Angel Face and Mister Lincoln.

Arizona is as colorful as the state for which it was named and it has the unusual combination of bronze and copper, with shadings of yellow, red, pink and orange. It has a light tea fragrance, well-shaped buds that open into 3½-to 4-inch blooms.

The plant grows vigorously, has good sturdy stems, each carrying several blossoms in candelabra effect, satisfactory for cutting. The new foliage is shiny, mahogany, turning dark green with leathery texture.

The AARS reports Arizona is quite free from mildew and has above average resistance to blackspot.

Oregold, an import from the German nursery of R. M. Tantau, is described as one of the rare good yellow roses. It has pointed buds of buttercup yellow that spiral open into high-centered, five-inch blooms. It has the fine form of Peace rose, with 35 to 40 petals of heavy substance. The blooms generally are borne singly on eight-to 14-inch stems, providing nice, long cut flowers.

The plant grows three to four feet tall, is bushy and compact, but quite thorny.

Parents of Oregold are Picadilly X Konigin der Rosen and its ancestry includes winners Tropicana, Kordes Perfecta and Peace.

Floribunda Rose Parade is an attractive blend of light coral pink, with 2½-inch flowers shaded with peach, contrasting with the dark green foliage. It is of medium height with full-petaled blooms much of the season, excellent for mass plantings. The blooms have a rich perfume.

Benjamin Williams of Maryland was the hybridizer of Rose Parade.

New Garden Book

Ken and Pat Kraft, who have teamed to produce five other garden books, have another, "Grow Your Own Dwarf Fruit Trees" (Walker and Co., New York).

Simply put, they advise that you can raise a good fruit tree in a space no larger than your 9 by 12 rug. The tree can be apple, pear, nectarine, plum, cherry or apricot. They recommend suitable varieties, where to get them, how to plant and grow healthy trees and good fruit without chemicals or poisons, and how to harvest.

Little Comfort Found In Nixon's Economy Report

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There is very little comfort to be distilled from the latest report of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, which contains forecasts that instead might contribute to financial insecurity.

The rise in the cost of living should slow somewhat in the final quarter of the year, it states, but still will be at an unacceptable 7 per cent rate. Unemployment might rise from 5 per cent now to nearly 6 per cent then.

But maybe even more significant than these numbers is the greater uncertainty with which economic advisers seem to assess the future. Continued failures have undermined assurance.

Herbert Stein, the chief economic adviser, had been talking about a 6 per cent inflation rate by the end of the year, but apparently he now goes along with the 7 per cent forecast. Once pragmatically optimistic, he sounds less so now.

The President himself referred to "signs of improvement," which hardly has the starch of those old pronouncements that seemed to say the future is ours. He talked of "a special danger" that inflation might escape restraints.

Slowly the realization seems to be descending on makers of economic policy that they do not get the same response to their actions as they did a decade ago. It may be only that the ailments are so extreme, but it might be more than that.

The fact is that the federal budget as an instrument of economic change is not the flexible instrument it once was. The President's authority over the budget is restricted more each year; his spending is done for him.

As more of the budget becomes precommitted to social and defense and income maintenance programs, the nation's ability to hold down federal spending is reduced. It cannot exert the same anti-inflation pressures.

Inflation control becomes less effective also as economies become more influenced by world events. U.S. food prices, for instance, have been influenced by a poor Soviet harvest and by attempts everywhere to raise living standards.

A more obvious example is the changing oil market, which affects so many other industries. It wasn't an increase in U.S. demand nearly so much as a changed attitude by supplier nations that led to price increases.

To a much greater extent than even a few years ago, therefore, prices are beyond the effective control of domestic governments. In that respect, economic advisers probably feel as inadequate, as helpless as any householder.

Man Makes Saddles In Basement

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. AP) — From the basement of his small ranch house here, Harold Madden, 58, practices one of the lost arts in this country — saddle making.

Madden learned the art 17 years ago when he was a calf roper. He couldn't afford the saddle he wanted, so he decided to make his own.

He's been making saddles for a living for the past 15 years.

"It's a lost art," says Madden. "Nobody is willing to teach anybody else. You have to learn by experimenting. You learn to do it the long way and the wrong way."

Madden now makes about 20 saddles a year. Each one takes 2½ weeks. The average saddle sells for $795. The most expensive saddle he made sold for $1,700.

Each saddle's custom-made for rider and horse. He has never made two identical saddles.

"I enjoy it. It gets to be work, but I enjoy it. And I'm good at it," Madden says of his craft.

Linstrum Back 59nd Time

LEEDS, England (AP) — George Arthur Linstrum, 78, who claims a world record for the most court appearances, has been back in the dock for the 592nd time.

The latest trip was Tuesday—24 hours after his last appearance for being drunk and disorderly.

He made his 500th appearance before a magistrate May 29, 1971, and found his way into the Guiness Book of Records.

Junior Editors' Quiz on BACTERIA

QUESTION: What is bacteria?

* * * *

ANSWER: Bacteria are microscopic, single-celled organisms in the lowest order of the plant kingdom. They are present almost everywhere and they occur in many forms, such as round, rod-shaped, spiral, etc. Bacteria multiply rapidly under favorable conditions and usually reproduce by the process of fission, the splitting of one cell into two cells.

Bacteria are popularly called germs or microbes because they are the cause of many dangerous diseases in man and animals. They also have beneficial effects. Bacteria which live in the digestive tract aid in digestion of certain foods. The activity of bacteria in the decay of dead animals and plants results in enrichment of the soil and the production of good crops. Many useful products are made through bacterial fermentation, e.g. alcohol, vinegar, wine, buttermilk and many kinds of cheeses.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

TV Emmy Winner Worried

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — One would think that the kid TV series called "Zoom," having won its econd Emmy award in two years, would be on Easy Street now. But one would be very wrong, says David Ives.

He's president of Boston's WGBH, the station that has produced "Zoom" since January 1971, and he says he's worried whether the series will survive public TV's version of the auction block.

"This is one of those odd stories in the whole Emmy business," he says. "Some people have said the Emmy award is the kiss of death. I just hope to God it isn't this time."

The source of his concern is the Public Broadcasting Service's new national program cooperative, in which stations are now asked to pay a percentage of some national shows they once got gratis.

"Zoom" is one of those shows. It's getting no federal funds next season from the Corporation for Public roadcasting. CPB says it no longer will finance public TV series beyond two years.

Under the new cooperative plan, now undergoing a series of initial price rounds, the final per-station price of each show involved rises or falls, depending on the number of stations willing to pay.

What worries Ives is that many stations may decide the "Zoom" price is too high and drop out of the early bidding, thereby increasing the tab for those still interested.

And those stations in turn may subsequently decide the new price is too high and that they'd rather put their money into series that'll offer them more programs next season than "Zoom" will.

"And if the price is roughly the same," Ives says, "there's going to be a tendency—and it's showing up already—for the stations to want more programming for the dollars they put up.

"So that's the ironic situation," says Ives. "Here is 'Zoom,' winning its second Emmy in a row against the best competition the commercial boys could put up, then facing this situation.

"The economics of public broadcasting this year are raising some questions about whether it's going to make it or not. And it's got us worried at the moment."

The series, one of seven children's shows offered by the cooperative, isn't cheap. The tab is more than $1.4 million for 32 new half-hour shows for next season.

Peterson To Design Sculpture

SEGUIN, Tex. (AP) — A Texas Luterhan College artist has been asked to do one of the first major Bicentennial sculptures.

Elmer Petersen, head of the Art Department, will design and fabricate a mammoth sculpture to be placed in Jamestown, N.D., as part of the nationwide Bicentennial celebration.

A working model is complete, Petersen said, and the finished piece will be in place by Sept. 1.

The Bicentennial sculpture will be 17 feet high by 26 feet wide and will be mounted on a curved stone wall on the Memorial Building facade in Jamestown. The commemorative will weigh more than a ton, and will include over 1,500 pounds of bronze plates.

Rangers' Brown Hurls 3-Hitter

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Texas Ranger Manager Billy Martin isn't looking forward to 10-cent beer night and bat night in Cleveland next week.

Not after Wednesday night's "basebrawl" in which he was decked twice during an eighth inning free-swinging flurry as Texas downed the Indians 3-0 on Jackie Brown's three-hitter.

"They'll all be mad at me in Cleveland that's for sure," said Martin. "I'm not exactly looking forward to it."

The flurry of fists erupted in the eighth inning as Lenny Randle laid down a bunt and threw an elbow at Cleveland pitcher Milt Wilcox as Wilcox tried to field the ball.

Indian first baseman John Ellis promptly tackled Randle and both benches traded punches.

Martin was downed twice in a wrestling match with Budd Bell of the Indians. Steve Foucault and Ferguson Jenkins of the Rangers brought Cleveland Manager Ken Aspromonte down from behind and pinned him.

Ellis said "I don't think that was too professional of Randle to run at Wilcox. Nobody runs at one of our pitchers like that and gets away with it. For a while there was 9 against 25."

Ellis said "Randle was mad because Wilcox threw beind him but it wasn't intentional. There was nothing between he and him but the goalline."

Fritz Peterson, the starting Cleveland pitcher who suffered his third loss in six decisions, said "I bet Randle won't do that on the road."

The Rangers make a swing into Cleveland next week. Tuesday night is 10-cent beer night. Wednesday night is bat night.

"Oh, Lord," said Martin. "That's just what we need. But I'll tell you this our team was battling and that's the way they'll be all season."

Wilcox said "I wasn't trying to throw at Randle. I was going to throw the ball to first and not tag him but he really hit me good."

During the brawl, several fans on the sideline poured beers into the Cleveland dugout, infuriating catcher Dave Duncan.

"There was one guy who must have had 10 beers but I couldn't get to him," said Duncan, who was restrained from going into the stands by his teammates.

Randle said he wasn't bunting to lay an ambush for Wilcox.

"I was just trying to bunt to get on," Randle said.

Aspromonte refused to be quoted on the fray saying "I have nothing to say."

Martin had no hard feelings, saying "Lenny believed Wilcox was pitcing a little close to him. I can't blame Ellis for trying to protect his pitcher. But I'll get the blame on 10-cent beer night you can bet on that."

Overlooked in the fray was the fine pitching of Brown, now 3-1 for the season. Brown also was one of the first to join in the combat along the first base line. Press box observers scored him with a no-hitter in the brawl.

Martin said "We played our type of game. We had the hit and run, the suicide squeeze and we battled. Did we battle. We'll just let Brown pitch against them again in Cleveland."

Brown was not available for comment on which date he preferred—10 cent beer night or bat night.

Meramec Wins JuCo Crown

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — Sophomore pitcher John Whitaker held Miami Dade North of Florida to three hits as undefeated Meramec of St. Louis, Mo., defeated the Floridians 6-4 Wednesday night to win the National Junior College Baseball Tournament.

It was the first championship for Meramec in four trips to the annual tourney.

Meramec jumped off to a three-run lead in the third inning on an error and two singles, one of them by shortstop Steve Viefhaus, who was voted the tournament's most valuable player. Viefhaus, who scored one run and had one RBI in Wednesday's game, set a new tournament record with four home runs in five games.

Miami came back in the bottom of the third, scoring two runs on a homer by Carl Gardner. They took over the lead with two more runs in the fourth, one on an error and the other on a single.

If the fifth inning, Meramec scored two runs on a double by Mike Murphy and a single by Tony Baryiski. Viefhaus scored the final run of the game in the ninth on a single by John Franz.

Whitaker was 12-0 for the season.

DICK BUTKUS FILES $1.6 MILLION SUIT

CHICAGO (AP) — The owner of the Chicago Bears says he is surprised and puzzled by the $1.6 million lawsuit filed against his team by star linebacker Dick Butkus.

"It looks as though all of their dialogue with us was a sham," said George S. Halas in a statement issued shortly after the suit was filed Wednesday. "It also is eminently clear that all Dick is interested in is sitting in Florida and collecting his paychecks for the next four years."

According to documents supplied by Halas, Butkus and the team management seemed on the verge of an agreement for surgery and rehabilitation expenses for his knee.

"Dick said he was going to have the surgery done by Dr. Don O'Donoghue of Oklahoma City and that was agreeable with me," he said.

"I am puzzled by this latest action particularly in light of my harmonious conversation with Dick Butkus last Thursday," Halas said. "He said he would have surgery within a week or as soon as the lawyers could work out the language of a stipulation concerning his surgery."

Filed in Circuit Court, the suit said the Bears' management did not provide medical and hospital care promised him in a contract Butkus signed July 13.

It also said the Bears refused to play Butkus this year and the remaining four years of his contract.

According to the suit, orthopedic surgeons and the team physician examined Butkus' knee and said he is unable to perform the contract's requirements.

Butkus "may well never again be in the necessary physical condition to play professional football," the suit quoted the doctors as saying.

Injections of cortisone and other drugs caused irreparable damage to Butkus' knee and tratments were given without advising him of the long-term effects of the medications, according to the suit, which asked for $1 million in punitive damages and $600,000 in salary.

The suit lists Butkus' annual salary at $115,000.

Bethany Hears Threats

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Southern University track Coach Dave Bethany says several threatening phone calls he has received this year are proof enough to him that there is prejudice in NCAA track and field circles.

Bethany, whose highly touted Tigers are competing in the NCAA's University Division for the first time this year, said Wednesday night four or five phone calls warned him not to enter the NCAA championships at Austin, Tex., next week.

"I thought we had come a long way (in race relations) but I don't see any light at the end of the tunnel," said Bethany, whose Tigers have won the all-black Southwestern Athletic Conference title the past three years.

"But all this has made me realize that there is still a lot of prejudice and discrimination."

Bethany said he has always received letters and phone calls, both complimentary and derogatory, but he usually laughs them off. The threats are something else.

"I remember one of them said, 'Don't go to the University Division championships if you value your welfare,'" he said.

"Another guy congratulated us on a fine year at TSU and then added, 'Now we're asking you not to go to the NCAA.

"They (major universities) want to recruit the black boys but they don't want to see the small black school do good and have to compete against them."

Bethany said some major universities were trying to get some of his athletes declared ineligible because of their grades. He said some of these efforts were directed toward freshman sprinter Melvin Turk of Bay City.

"He didn't qualify for the NCAA championships but he entered TSU with a 2.87 grade point average," Bethany said.

Bethany said 13 of his Tigers qualified for the NCAA championships, scheduled next weekend at the University of Texas' Memorial Stadium.

Asked if the threats made him hesitate about competing, Bethany said, "We qualified for the NCAA and we're going to go and do our best. If everything went just right we could win it, and we should finish at least in the top five."
