Leader For Scouts' Fall Roundup

Cub Scout Mike Hull, member of Pack 22, receives a Roundup Patch from Cub master Robert Chambers, left, for Mike recruiting two new boys into Scouting. Mike, who also received a neckerchief slide while his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Hull looked on, is the first boy in the 3-county Lone Buffalo Scout District to claim two recruits in the Fall Roundup for Scouting. A hundred new recruits have been counted in the roundup and the goal is 200 more before Dec. 15.

150,000 Sterile Flies Released

Second Screwworm Case Strikes County

Mitchell County's second confirmed case of screwworm sharpens the warning to farmers and ranchers to be especially alert for possible screwworm cases.

The county's second screwworm case within a week was confirmed on the Ellwood Ranch south of Colorado City.

INITIAL CASE was reported on the H. C. Taylor farm, four miles northeast of Loraine.

Confirmation of the Ellwood case came as 150,000 sterile screwworm flies were released in a two-day period in the area north of Loraine.

Additional sterile flies will be released in the second infestation area, according to Lemons.

THE FLIES WERE released from 225 small boxes instead of usual air-drop method. However, the flies probably will be released from a plane in the southern area of the county.

"It is vitally important," the county agent said, "that livestock producers collect worm samples and mail these samples to the Screwworm Eradication Laboratory in Mission.

"A build-up of screwworm infestation can result if we don't get every possible sample and take immediate action in every area where there is a confirmed case."

LEMONS SAID that vials for submitting specimens to the Mission laboratory can be obtained at the county agent's office in Mitchell County Courthouse or at the following firms — Colorado Feed & Seed and H. A. Moore's Feed Store, both in Colorado City, and Loraine Feed & Seed in Loraine.

Lemons said the screwworm cases must be fought effectively now to prevent build up of infestation.

"This gets out of hand in a hurry," Lemons said, "and we must not allow a next generation to develop from these few cases which have confirmed.

"From one generation to another the built up mulitiples from 500 to 600 more than the previous."

THE COUNTY agent said confirmed screwworm cases are on the build-up throughout Texas. Cases have spread quickly toward this area, then in Mitchell County and now in Scurry county.

In one week last month 48 confirmed cases were reported in Texas from 22 different counties.

"This was more confirmed cases for a one-week period than has been reported since the last week in November 1963," Lemons said.

A. K. MCCARLEY AND MORGAN WRIGHT

Soil Supervisors Name Chairman, Add Member

Mitchell County Soil Conservation District's board of supervisors has a changed look with a new chairman and a new addition to its board.

Morgan Wright, who lives three miles east of Champion in Nolan County, is the new board member, succeeding long-time supervisor M. A. Dunnahoo.

Moving into the chairmanship with Dunnahoo's departure from the board is A. K. McCarley Jr., whose farming operation is centered north and northeast of Colorado City.

WRIGHT WAS elected by cooperators of the district's Zone 4 to represent them on the board of supervisors.

His zone is an area east of Farm-to-Market Highway 644, south of Loraine, stretching across the water sheds of Silver Creek and Champion Creek.

Wright, who also is a community committeeman for Nolan County's Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation program, has been a soil district cooperator for several years. He completed a Great Plains Conservation program on 309 acres of his land which included construction of 67,729 feet of terraces and a water pond.

In addition to his soil conservation and ASC work, he is a director in the Roscoe Telephone Cooperative.

McCARLEY, prominent in local civic projects and vice president of the board at Loy-Wolf Electric Cooperative, was elected president of the soil district's board, in a special meeting this to name a successor to Dunnahoo.

A supervisor for Zone 2, McCarley now heads the board which supervises soil and water conservation program for the district's more than 643 cooperators.

This program — now including 800,000 acres with about 240,000 acres of cropland and 660,000 acres of range — is aimed toward the best possible method for preservation of natural resources.

McCarley has a Great Plains conservation program in progress on 373 acres he owns north of Colorado City. His farming operations include leased acreage and

BASIC EDUCATION PROGRAM

December Start Likely For Adult Schooling

Colorado Independent School District's first major attempt in the field of adult education is tentatively set from Dec. 5 through next June 30.

The tentative schedule was set at a meeting Wednesday of a county advisory committee, which will work with school officials toward successful activitation of the program.

COLORADO CITY'S adult program will be in basic education with courses in (1) basic reading, (2) health, citizenship and social studies; (3) arithmetic and (4) language arts.

Surveys have revealed 47.8 per cent of Mitchell County male population over 25 years of age have been to school no higher than the eighth grade, and 5.1 per cent of these have received no schooling.

Members of the advisory committee, who will assist in locating and informing adults who are interested in participating in the basic education program, include Rev. C. C. Beck, Supt. J. B. Cushing of Loraine, Supt. Herman Parsons of Westbrook, Trevlyn Kelley, Bennie Franks, Mrs. Don Guitar, Mrs. Kenneth Cowan, Sister Florentine, Larry Kinard and Joe Bell.

SPECIAL PRINTED forms are being prepared now for distribution among interested persons to determine what courses and at what grade level they would like to enroll.

These forms will also provide information concerning whether or not an interested person can speak English and whether job or family responsibilities would conflict with night classes.

Classes are planned Monday and Thursday, 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., during the Dec. 5 - June 30 period. Each class must have a total of 120 hours of instruction.

COURSES WILL be free since costs will be paid by the Office of Economic Opportunity under supervision of the Texas Educational Agency.

Application for federal funds for the adult program is being prepared now to be submitted for approval in time for the December openinng.

Sign-up dates for those interested will be from Nov. 7 through Nov. 11, at any school building within Mitchell County, according to Supt. James G. McMath.

IN SPILLWAY AREA

Work to Start For New Dam

Construction work on the new Colorado River Municipal Water District dam near Robert Lee will begin this week with workers already in the area.

Initial project will be excavation of the spillway area.

Contractor for the $8,969,000 dam and reservoir is Clement Bros. of Hickory, N. C., with Charles Atkins as job superintendent.

Project manager for the contractor will be Rufus Turner and Leo Willis will be resident engineer for Freese, Nichols and Endress of Fort Worth, project engineers for the water district.

More than a dozen earth movers with 40-cubic-yard capacity level and 55-yard-capacity heaped have been moved to the construction site in Coke County. This fleet of vehicles will be increased to 21 to move approximately 40,000 cubic yards of earth every day.

Engineers report that five million cubic yards of dirt will be moved in the area of the core trench and emergency spillway — about half of the total earth work at the dam.

Initial work will be south of Colorado River and approaching the emergency spillway area. Crest of one hill will be cut down almost 200 feet from an elevation of 1,983 to 1,808 feet.

Offices for the dam construction have been set up in the Kresta residence, about 1,000 yards down the Colorado River from actual dam site.

Clement Bros. announced the project will begin with a 10-hour work shift five days per week, plus one 11-hour shift. However, this may be increased to two 10-hour shifts during peak construction periods.

For the last couple of weeks persons seeking employment at the dam have been in the Colorado City area as well as in Coke and Howard county communities with proximity to the construction.

COLORADO'S FIRST 5-AA LOSS

Anson Dims Wolves' Title Hopes, 20-15

Coach Truman Nix came out of the hospital with an aching ulcer to lead his Colorado High Wolves into a crucial 5-AA District football argument with Anson Tigers, here Friday night.

A couple of hours later, even after nipping regularly from a bottle of milk mixed with medicine, the pain was agonizing.

HIS WOLVES, despite a bruisingly determined effort, walked off the field on the short end of a 20 to 15 count.

And, the pain worsened as the fact soaked in that this loss — not exactly expected in 3-AA circles — seriously deflated the Wolves' title hopes.

It didn't help, not the least, to count the times his footballers came battling back to the brink of victory, only to fail in the final minutes . . . cranked up jarring effective offense at critical periods only to kill their drives with failure to make short yardage on fourth down tries . . . jarred Ansonn punchy with tremendous defense play only to lapse a few times with costly leaks to passes and to "trap" runs up the middle.

But don't take anything from Anson, for the Tigers produced when the chips were down — outgained the Wolves on ground and in the air.

In other words, they aren't sitting up there in No. 2 place, tied with Winters just behind unbeaten Stamford, becaus they are patsies.

No sir. They scored first Friday, came from behind with effective play and stayed off a courageous Colorado attack in the final two periods.

THAT FIRST series of plays after the opening kickoff was the omen. For Colorado took the opening kickoff and marched to two quick first downs with Fullback Donnie Higginbotham and Halfback Dan Steakley doing the chores.

One Listens While Two Go To Prison

Courtroom Scene:—Odds Against A Second Chance

Harold McCullough, a tow-headed youngster who should have been in class at Snyder High, stood up in 32nd District Court here Friday.

A few minutes earlier he had admitted, while in the witness chair, to passing a $39.50 forged check at Colorado City's Safeway store last August.

His two companions — with whom he split the money — are juvenile age under the law and face delinquency hearings in Juvenile Court.

But McCullough, who completed the ninth grade, is over 17 years and was before the court as an adult — charged with felony. In other words, he can be sent to the state penitentiary.

District Judge Austin McCloud told the muscular youth punishment for forgery would be two years in the penitentiary.

Then, the judge — calling attention to the fact that the kid had never been in serious trouble before — probated the sentence.

Probation is new in Texas criminal law and allows a judge to "take a chance" with a convicted law-breaker when there is possibility for rehabilitation at home under closely supervised restrictions.

Judge McCloud explained it this way to the youth:

"I want you to fully understand this probation order and will receive a copy of it her today.

"It states," the judge lectured, "that you shall not violate any laws of this state or of the United States. This means any laws. Do you understand this?

The kid raised his face up from looking at his white sport short and replied quietly . . . "Yes, sir." . . . and the judge resumed.

"You see, this is a very valuable sort of procedure . . . something this court believes should be used in circumstances such as yours.

"You are a young man and I don't know why you made this mistake. I surely hope you realize how close you have come to completely wrecking your life.

"This court," Judge McCloud explained, "will give you an opportunity to straighten your life if you will take advantage of it all.

"I think you should fully understand . . . that although I do not hesitate to grant a probated sentence, neither do I hesitate to revoke it."

The defendant looked down and then up again as the judge emphasized the responsibility for the future was being transferrd from the court to the youth.

"If you want to be the kind of a man you should be," the judge stated, "this is your chance.

"You can come back in this court after you have fulfilled this probation . . . and, at that time, your indictment can be dismissed and the judgement can be dismissed against you.

"It is a very valuable opportunity. Take advantage of it."

What happens if McCullough doesn't take advantage of his second chance. What happens if he fouls up again, doesn't obey law and provisions of his probation?

Well, two other young men preceded the Snyder youth into 32nd District Court Friday. This is their fate.

Kenneth A. Mills, who received a 4-year probated sentence last April for burglary of Westbrook School was quickly ordered to state penitentiary.

He returned to face Judge McCloud after being arrested for burglary of three schools in Johnson County — Alvardo Keene and Grandview.

Johnny Selvera, 19-year-old Colorado City youth charged with driving while intoxicated in connection with a downtown auto collision Sunday, was ordered to the state pen to begin a two-year sentence.

Selvera was under a 2-year probated sentence for assault with a pistol when he was arrested following the Sunday accident.

"You see," Judge McCloud made it plain to McCullough in an effort to influence the Snyder youth toward law-

AT LORAINE

Athenaeum Study Club Has Amercanism Day

LORAINE — Mrs. C. R. Green was hostess to the Athenaeum Study Club of Loraine at their second meeting in October.

Mrs. Doyle Hester led the pledges to the American and Texas flags. She then introduced Mrs. Jim Johnson and Mrs. Lily Bennett who gave the program on Restored Cities of the 18th and 19th century in the USA.

Mrs. Johnson reported on the Edison Institute of Dearborne Mich. which includes Greenfield Village, Edison Institute Museum, and Trade Schools. This restoration project was sponsored and promoted by Henry Ford Sr. Eighty six historic buildings of the 19th century have been moved from their original sights over the nation and placed in Greenfield Village, to be preserved for posterity, the development of early American customs and institutions. Each mill and shop still operates in its own capacity as it did in the days of John Q. Adams.

Mrs. Bennett gave pertient facts relating to the rebuilding and restoration of Williamsburg, Virginia, to its 18th century status. "One visiting this site today steps back across the years into a setting of buildings, furnishings, streets and scenes restored to original forms in this historic place," she said.

John D. Rockfeller Jr., made this project possible. Since 1927 some 72 million has been spent there for the benefit of preserving one of the oldest and most historic cities of the nation.

Mrs. Bennett showed pictures of these restored buildings and scenes as they stand today, to give America a deeper appreciation of its heritage from the forefathers.

Mrs. T. L. Finley presided at the business session. Reports of the Mesquite District TFWC Board Meeting and Workshop in Stamford were given by the four members who attended: Mesd. Coon, Hester, Finley and Johnson.

Mrs. B. H. Johnson also gave a report of the State Board Meeting in Austin on Oct. 4 and 5.

The hostess assisted by Mrs. Coon, served refreshments to seven members. Next meeting, Nov. 2, will be with Mrs. Percy Bond.

SOMETHING little and sweet and funny and fine goes out of life when people get so all-fired grownup they no longer get a glow about the approach of Halloween.

Being grownup is great in many ways. Nobody reminds you to brush your teeth, eat your spinach, go to bed, practice piano, or wash the supper dishes.

In other ways, being grownup is plumb painful. What happens to special days — holidays, if you please — is awful.

It really is rather grim when Thanksgiving gets to be a day of extra cooking up a storm, Christmas is a mad rush of mailing packages. Valentine day is just February 14. Easter means new finery for the grandkids . . . and Halloween involves nothing more than remembering to lay in a supply of trick or treat goodies for the little laughing spooks.

TIME WAS . . . ah yes, time was when Halloween was the favorite of all favorite times.

Looking back, I recall how Mother made marvelous jack-o-lanterns for the four of us.

Halloween happens to be the birthday of my sister Mary . . . so always and always there was a party at home. A party with peppermint stick candy hanging on bright strings in all the double doors . . . a tub of water for apple bobbing . . . little cheese pumpkin balls . . . and a real pumpkin centering the table, lighted with a real candle and surrounded with real autumn leaves.

ALWAYS and always there were costumes and masks, and masquerades. Have you ever had the fun of being a ghost . . . a witch . . . a gypsy . . . a pirate . . . a clown . . . a Red Cross nurse?

Most fun ever was the time Mother was too busy to make the usual costumes and my brother Charles and I just switched clothes. He went as a girl with wide ribbon swathing his thick blond hair and I cavorted around as a boy in his best knickers and cap.

Nobody at the party recognized either of us. And we won the prize. But only because Charles threatened to kill me if I so much as opened my mouth.

Ever had the fun of being a boy . . . and scaring the daylights out of other little girl kids you chased and tried to kiss?

IN ALL the big ways that count, being grownup is a very fine state.

You can write checks on yourself . . . plan menus with all your favorite dishes . . . stay up all night if you're a mind to . . . read wicked books, see wicked plays . . . and tell everybody younger than you are how to run their lives. Yeah.

In many little ways . . . somehow . . . being grownup is a sad thing. Because being grownup means you've left forever the world of make-believe.

You're not a gypsy or a pirate or a clown or a witch or a spook any more . . . not even for one night.

SEEN LATELYS were Doctors Elton and Virginia Berkman who are just back from a stay in the states of Oregon and Washington. They own, by the way, a ranch right on the California border, in Oregon.

Also Inez Hock and Kack Price McClelland of the ASCS office . . . Allen Sheppard of the SCS saying that his younger daughter Melinda is spending this weekend as guest of her sister Martha, co-ed on the John Tarleton College campus.

FAMILIAR FACES, all over places, belonged to B. B. Lee and J. D. Hill, Jr. . . . A. M. Holman . . . Marian Craddock (Mrs. Jay) . . . and Lillie Majers (Mrs. Oscar.)

Mrs. Majors was saying she had a late and unexpected guest visit her Historical Medallion home. She found an armadillo in the big fish pond. This story has an unhappy ending. The little armadillo was very dead when she found him. They aren't by the way, very common visitors in the town area here. Last one remembered by this column moved into the Frank Ramsdell yard and dug up the bulbs years and years ago.

Saw Clem Myers on the downtown scene . . . Dolores Foles, wife of Lacy . . . Luke Thomas who was saying he and his wife Lucy spent last weekend in Dallas where daughter Rosemary teaches.

Talked to Kitten Richardson, wife of Jake, who had the run of company last week — her mother Mrs. S. C. McCurry of Austin, who is still here . . . Her cousins the S. L. Slaughters of La Jolla, California, and the Richardson son Bob, his wife Robin and their sons Thad and Rick, of Dallas.

Expected this weekend for a short stay are our Mike and Susie Smith of Gatesville.

POSTSCRIPT: Saw Rhetta Biggs Sanders, wife of Dave and daughter of the Lester Biggs with her darling little son . . . Shana Bassinger (Mrs. Hubert) with her handsome six-months-old boy baby.

Hear tell Selma Landau (Mrs. Willie) and Mamie May (Mrs. Eli) went to market in Dallas last weekend . . . and that the beauteous Landau daughter, Sandy, and her husband Herman Ringler are expected this weekend for a visit from Denison.

In Sherman for Austin College Homecoming festivities Friday through Sunday were the Gwan Stranges, the Warren Andersons, the B. D. Basshams, Jennifer Reeves, and the Anderson three sons Randy, Woody and Leslie.

They went to see the Strange son Clay, the Anderson daughter Kathy, and the Bassham son Frank, of course, all Austin College students.

McKay Gets Praise for Defense

Coach Ernest Hawkins has credited Colorado City High graduate David McKay with a big hand in East Texas State's recent tie of Sul Ross, previously the No. 1 rated small college football team in America.

East Texas, rated by some as a 23-point underdog, came out of the Sul Ross battle with a 14-14 decision and a tie for the Lone Star Conference lead.

"I've been a little disappointed with our offence," Coach Hawkins said, "and our defense has made errors that have hurt us.

"But last week (against Sul Ross), it was hustle from everyone — especially David McKay — that kept us in the ball game."

McKay, a 5-10, 170-lb. sophomore, is member of the Lion's defensive secondary. His ability to recognize the offensive play helped contain Sul Ross' exceptionally fast backs, according to Coach Hawkins.

Faith Class Installs and Plans Party

Mrs. H. B. Graves was installation officer for the ceremony. Mrs. Tex Blankenship is new class president, Mrs. Buddy Everett, vice-president. Mrs. Frank Prewitt is secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Jerry Hammond, Mrs. Piland and Mrs. Earl Cook are group leaders.

Members of the class plan a Thanksgiving party for November 17, when a basket of food will be prepared and given to a less fortunate family.

Miss Blanks Succumbs

Friends in Colorado City learned this week of the death of Miss Alice Blanks who grew up here as daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Blanks.

Miss Blanks died suddenly apparently in her sleep, in her Dallas home. She was a secretary for an oil company office.

Graveside rites were held Wednesday of last week in Pilot Point cemetery. Survivors are two sisters-in-law.

Dr. Rhode To Attend Ceremony

Among the 350 top leaders in Texas Methodism who will be in San Antonio Tuesday, Nov. 1, will be Dr. William S. Rhode of Colorado City.

A banquet in Travis Park Methodist Church at 7 p.m. will precede groundbreaking for a new Methodist Mission Home of Texas in Northwest San Antonio, Wednesday, November 2.

The new home, for unwed mothers, will be one of three agencies of its kind for Methodists in the United States.

Three Texas Methodist bishops, Paul E. Martin of Houston, W. Kenneth Pope of Dallas, and Euguene Slater of San Antonio, will officiate at the groundbreaking. In addition, 44 district superintendents, plus board members and Methodist frieds from throughout the state will be present.

The new home for 120 girls will be a seven-building complex on a 20-acre tract, two miles from Southwest Texas Methodist Hospital, costing $1,250,000, to be constructed with federal aid.

It will be supported by Methodists from all Texas conferences and the first $70,000 has been underwritten by the churches themselves. The balance is sought by individual giving. Completion of the home is expected in the spring of 1968.

Methodists Planning All-Church Dinner

First Methodist Church will have a congregational dinner party at Civic House Wednesday evening, Nov. 2, with dinner served promptly at 6:29 p.m., the pastor, Rev. Billy Wilkinson has announced.

The all-church event is part of the Every Member Visitation program planned by the General Board of Lay Activities for local Methodist churches.

Bennie Franks, chairman of the congregational dinner, has planned a night of fellowship and inspiration. The Every Member Visitation program will not be discussed, the church announcement said, nor commitments made at the dinner.

Seven weeks has been spent by leadership of the church studying and planning, Rev. Wilkinson said, as he explained the purpose of the E.M.V. — to teach the entire membership about "the mission of the church and to outline a program of Christian service to meet needs locally all around the world."

Orientation and training for the proposed program will be done in Sunday afternoon sessions Oct. 30 (today) and next Sunday, Nov. 6.

Theme of the entire visitation program is "Witness and Live, Witness and Give."

Mr. and Mrs. James Jarratt and son, Donnie, and Miss Wanda Whitehead accompanied Miss Vickie Jarratt to Brownwood Sunday afternoon. Vickie, a sophomore student at Howard Payne College spent the weekend with her parents.

Wolves

Then, Quarterback Glen Nix's third down pass, following an offside penalty, backfired. Anson intercepted returning to C-City's 38-yard line.

Four plays later, Anson led 7 to 0.

Emillio Seballos romped over left tackle to the 24. Alvin Hinkle, a big back who dealt the Wolves misery most of the night, hit the opposite tackle for six more, then took a pitchout from Quarterback Jimmy Faulks to the Wolves 12.

This splendid athlete, who personally traveled for 64 yards rushing against Anson from scrimmage, took Anson's kickoff on his own 3-yard line, dropped the ball, then raced wide to the east sideline, cut goalward for 97 yards and a touchdown. Crunching blocks by his teammates on the Anson 30 and 40 yard lines kept him running.

NIX SENT the Wolves into the lead, 8 to 7, when he rolled out to the right side and scrambled across the goal, for successful extra point try.

Anson romped back into the lead with 7:27 minutes remaining in the second quarter, 13 to 7, when Faulks again on a rollout passed 32 yards to Brown, who made a diving catch behind a Wolf defender. An attempted pass for a two extra points failed.

Lightning almost struck again on the first play from scrimmage at the Wolves' 14 after the kickoff. Higginbotham sliced over tackle, started out wide and then cut back up the middle of the field for 86 yards with a fine blocking assist from Jerry Franks. But a clipping penalty — one of the disputed calls of evening — erased it.

ANSON STRETCHED its lead to 20-8 early in the third period, after taking over on the C-City 32. Faulks cut over his right line and fell across the goal for touchdown No. 3 when hit by Colorado City's Russel Gundrum. Andruss added the extra point from placement.

The Wolves began to pick up offensive momentum late in the third quarter with soph Randy Parker subbing for Nix at quarterback. And their big opportunity came with recovery of an Anson fumble on the Tiger 22.

Steakley, who ran and struggled for a total of 163 yards from scrimmage during the game, scored the touchdown from the 2 to usher in the fourth quarter. Higginbotham place kicked the extra point, 20 to 15.

The remaining 11 minutes 53 seconds, as far as the Wolves are concerned, can be written off as bruises and disappointments.

ful living, "both of those young men had never been in trouble before when they were given the opportunity of probation.

"But both of them are going to the penitentiary this afternoon.

"You see . . . it depends entirely upon you."

The kid looked straight ahead and agreed verbally, "Yes, sir."

But there is no mistake about the judge's policy of not hesitating to revoke the chance if law is desregarded.
