William Clark Hired...

Richard Allen Resigns Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, opting for a national security adviser with more authority than he gave deposed Richard V. Allen, is turning to a long-time confidante with little experience in foreign affairs.

The president carried out the first major personnel shakeup of his administration Monday by naming Deputy Secretary of State William P. Clark Jr. to replace Allen, whose resignation was "mutually agreed upon."

At the same time, Reagan said Clark, 50, would be given daily access to the Oval Office, something Allen lacked.

Allen had reported to Reagan through presidential counselor Edwin Meese III, who coordinates domestic and foreign policy.

Clark, a former California Supreme Court justice, was Reagan's chief of staff when Reagan was governor of California and is one of the most senior members of the president's inner circle. He planned to begin work today in the same White House basement office Allen used.

The president, in accepting Allen's resignation, said no evidence of wrongdoing had been found in Justice Department and White House probes of the former national security adviser's conduct.

"It's rather unusual that someone who had been the subject of a lot of rumors and allegations over a long period of time could go through a rigorous and meticulous examination and be substantiated in every detail and still find himself in a situation where his resignation would be submitted and accepted," Allen said.

Later, in an appearance on ABC's "Nightline," Allen said he had asked Reagan to reinstate him Monday afternoon.

"It seemed that that was not possible, precisely because of the accumulation of what I considered to be political circumstances, psychological circumstances," he said. "Having been cleared, the best thing was to take whatever burden might have been caused by my inadvertence or oversight away from the president."

Allen was placed on administrative leave with pay Nov. 29 pending the outcome of the investigations into his acceptance of $1,000 from Japanese journalists and three watches from Japanese friends and errors in his government financial disclosure forms.

Moments after Allen left the White House, Clark met with reporters.

"As the president has directed, I report directly to the president on a daily basis or more often as the issues of the day might require," he said. Clark would thus resume a role exercised by Zbigniew Brzezinski in the Carter administration and Henry A. Kissinger, who was Richard M. Nixon's national security adviser.

But unlike Brzezinski and Kissinger, Clark brings only a year's experience in foreign policy to his White House post.

His nomination a year ago provoked a storm of protest in the Senate, and Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said: "He doesn't know anything about foreign relations."

But one senior member of the White House staff said over the weekend that Clark's appointment as national security adviser would demonstrate that the president felt that his performance over the past year as deputy to Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. should have resolved any doubts about his ability.

Asked about his qualifications, Clark said Monday that it was the president's role to determine whether he was fit for the position, which does not require Senate confirmation.

As the deputy secretary of state, Clark was an intermediary in a year of feuding between Haig and Allen, apparently winning Haig's confidence while serving as the official closest to Reagan in the State Department.

Clark said the conflict between the secretary of state and national security adviser was inherent in the structure of the jobs.

"I now must view the area of national security from a presidential perspective rather than from a State Department perspective and I hope that that experience at the prior vantage spot will assist in the teamwork we all know must exist among the CIA, the Department of Defense, the State Department," Clark said.

Clark's new job, near the top of the government salary scale, pays $60,662.

Judge Delays Decision

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A federal judge says he wants to see how hard it will be to select impartial jurors for a police brutality case before he decides whether to move the trial from South Texas.

"I'll acknowledge it," U.S. District Judge Filemon Vela said Monday of the publicity surrounding allegations of brutality by McAllen policemen. "But when we get to jury selection (on Wednesday) we need to take it up at that time."

Former McAllen police Sgt. Roberto Ramos wants his trial on a misdemeanor civil rights violation charge moved from Brownsville. He is charged with ordering other officers to beat a prisoner during an arrest Sept. 24, 1977.

His lawyer, Buck Pettitt of McAllen, entered as evidence the Friday edition of the McAllen newspaper which listed the police brutality case as the top story of 1981.

No Fumes Over Island

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Officials of a company which owns 400,000 gallons of a chemical burning aboard a barge say they are monitoring the air above Galveston Island but have detected no traces of the toxic fumes.

The barge carrying the toxic and corrosive chemical acrylonitrile, used in making a synthetic fiber called Acrylon, was still burning in Galveston Bay Monday night in a fire that began early Sunday.

The chemical, which was being shipped by the Monsanto Co., produces the poisonous gas hydrogen cyanide when it burns. Monsanto officials said tests showed no cyanide or acrylonitrile in the air above Galveston or in the air directly in the column of smoke coming from the barge.

Reorganization For EPA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency soon will go through a top-to-bottom reorganization that environmentalists say will cripple government efforts to fight pollution.

"This means the end of the agency," William Drayton, EPA's chief budget officer during the Carter administration, said Monday. "They have set out to tear EPA apart in order to get it off the backs of businesses."

Save EPA, a coalition of environmental groups fighting proposed budget cuts, said they have obtained internal documents showing that 50 percent of EPA's headquarters staff either will be fired or demoted in the reorganization, to be announced in a few weeks.

Drayton estimated that 80 percent of the people on the headquarters staff when Carter left office will have quit, been fired or demoted by next June.

Ski Mask Rapist Sentenced

DeRIDDER, La. (AP) — Confessed ski mask rapist Jon B. Simonis has been sentenced to his 20th life term in prison after pleading guilty to additional rape and armed robbery charges.

Simonis, 30, of Lake Charles, appeared before state District Judge L.H. Coltharp Jr. to face charges stemming from the Oct. 8, 1981, holdup of a DeRidder family.

Two rape victims in that incident, a middle-aged woman and her daughter-in-law, sat in front seats as Simonis, in flannel shirt and faded jeans, faced the judge Monday and said he regretted what he had done.

"I would like to apologize to the victims for the psychological and physical pain that I have caused them," Simonis said in making his guilty plea.

City Buys Ambulance; TESCO Issue Delayed

The Snyder City Council last night approved the purchase of a new ambulance for $26,444.

This was the lowest bid received from three firms and it is for a new 1981 van-type ambulance. The successful bidder was Texas Superior of Austin, dealer for Atlantic Ambulance Builders of Daytona Beach, Fla. The emergency vehicle, which will be financed by the city and county, will be leased to Scurry County EMS, the local ambulance service contractor.

The council also accepted the bid of Joe Brown Carpets for purchase and intallation of new carpeting in police department offices. The cost will be $2,099.28, which was the lower of two bids submitted.

In other business, the council voted to delay for 120 days a request by Texas Electric Service Co. to amend its fuel cost factor schedule. City Attorney Ernie Armstrong told the council that the Texas Municipal League, which represents Snyder and other cities in rate cases before the State Public Utilities Commision, recommended the 120-day delay. The request stemmed from a court decision on a case involving TESCO's exchange of some natural gas for interest in a lignite coal generating plant and a supply of lignite. A court held that the transaction could not change TESCO's fuel cost factor because the exchange was between TESCO and sister companies in the Texas Utilities Co.

Armstrong said the issue ultimately will be settled by the PUC and-or the courts.

Councilman David Holt made a motion to deny the request, but it failed to get a second. Another motion for a 120-day delay passed, 5-0.

A replat of Sunrise Addition No. 2 was approved. It was presented by Mike Graves, who heads a group planning a residential development. They already have two single-family dwellings underway and plan others, along with some duplexes. The property involved is on 36th St. and 36th Place just east of Ave. E.

The city's contract with an Amarillo law firm, Perdue, Brandon, Blair and Fielder, for collecting delinquent taxes was renewed on a split vote. Voting for renewal of the contract were Councilmen Gale McPherson, John Wilson, Don Gressett and David Holt. Councilman Ed Thrift voted against it and Councilman Rod Waller abstained. The new contract may be canceled on 30 days notice.

Patsy Huckabee was reappointed to the city park board for a three-year term, and City Manager John Gayle was authorized to purchase a laminating machine for street signs, along with street sign hardware. The city manager also was authorized to seek bids on a military surplus blueprint copy machine.

Second and final reading of an ordinance changing the zone of the west half of Block 2 in the Payne Additon was approved unanimously. The zone is being changed from a manufacturing district to a multi-family residential district.

The council agreed to schedule a joint session with the planning and zoning commission on Jan. 14 to discuss the city's mobile home ordinance and outlying developments.

Mayor Milton Ham presided over the council meeting. Council members attending were Gale McPherson, Ed Thrift, John Wilson, Don Gressett, David Holt and Rod Waller.

Snyderite Is Nominee To West Point

Andrew Contreras, Route 2, Snyder, has been nominated for admission to the U. S. Military Academy in West Point, N. Y., by Congressman Charles W. Stenholm.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Santos Contreras.

The academy will now examine and appraise the nominees and select a principal for admission, with qualified alternates. The alternates may be given further consideration, depending upon available vacancies.

Contreras is a 1980 graduate of Snyder High School and is now in his second year in Western Texas College.

New Directors To Take Oath

Two new members of the Scurry County Appraisal District's board of directors are scheduled to take the oath of office at a meeting set for 7 p. m. tonight. Billy Huddleston and Pat Falls were elected to succeed Bill Hairston and John Reed on the board.

The board also will discuss plans for permanent offices and select an auditor for 1981 records.

Football season is nearly over and what they have been doing the past 10 days is to give us enough games to last until August when a new cycle will begin. Or, perhaps they try at this stage of the season to "burn out" the fans so that they will be ready to turn to basketball for a few weeks.

It also is the season for the "alls" and the "mosts." There are the All-America teams, the all-conference, the all-pros, the most valuable offensive players, the most valuable defensive players, etc., etc.

And, of course, don't forget the team rankings. The colleges are ranked by vote, while the professionals play off for a grand champion in the Super Bowl. But we are not finished with the honor lists. Now they are ranking such things as the television commentators for football games. There was no balloting and, of course, no head-to-head competition. But a Gallup Poll has identified the best football announcers on network television. Don Meredith and Frank Gifford tied for first place. Others trailed, with Howard Cosell finishing an unsurprising last.

With all of these honors being bestowed, we figured it was an appropriate time for us to announce our personal rankings of the networks for their football coverage. First place goes to ABC, second place to CBS and a poor third to NBC. When there are two major games being televised simultaneously and one is being carried by NBC, we always choose the other game, unless, of course, NBC is carrying the Dallas Cowboys that day. NBC has a habit of ignoring all games except those it carries. For example, on New Year's Day, you could have watched the Fiesta Bowl and the Rose Bowl from start to finish and never have known the Cotton Bowl game was being played.

On the other hand, ABC always keeps viewers updated on other games, and CBS gives scores of other games occasionally. We have been told that NBC did give the score of the Sugar Bowl game occasionally while it was telecasting the Orange Bowl game last Friday night. We didn't hear it because we were watching the Sugar Bowl on ABC and they kept us posted on the Orange Bowl.

Also, it was reported recently that the National Football Conference had criticized NBC for not keeping fans abreast of scores in professional games being carried on CBS. NBC carries American Conference games on Sunday afternoons, while CBS carries the NFC games.

Of course you always wonder what you are missing when there are two games being played simultaneously. However, one poll we saw rated the Sugar Bowl as the best of the New Year's Day fare, and the Fiesta Bowl as the biggest flop.

Our nomination for the worst camera work would go to the Bluebonnet Bowl. There were times when it appeared the cameramen didn't know where the line of scrimmage was.

Rules Out Law On Creationism

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A federal judge today struck down Arkansas' creationism law, ruling that it violates the constitutional separation of church and state.

U.S. District Judge William Overton declared that the purpose of the legislation was to advance religion in violation of the First Amendment prohibition against laws that advance or inhibit religion.

The law, which was to take effect next fall, required public schools that teach the theory of evolution to give balanced treatment to the theory known as creation science.

Overton's 40-page decision said that even though the law says the legislative purpose is not to advance religion, the only inference that can be drawn from the circumstances under which the law was drafted and passed is that the purpose is religious.

Redistricting Trial Opens Today

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Republicans who claim they didn't get a fair shake from a new Texas Senate redistricting plan say the plan would make some people's votes count nearly twice as much as others.

State GOP chairman Chester Upham and six Republican senators filed a class-action suit in state district court, contending the plan is unconstitutional. The plaintiffs asked the court to draw new Senate districts for 1982 elections.

Their suit was scheduled for trial today.

The bipartisan House Study Group said the "best estimate" is that the plan would cost Republicans three of their eight Senate seats.

The Legislative Redistricting Board of five Democratic officeholders approved the plan in late October, after Republican Gov. Bill Clements vetoed the plan adopted by the Legislature.

The petition states that the redistricting board based its plan on total population figures, which include convicted felons and people under 18, rather than "qualified electors."

"As used in the Texas Constitution, a 'qualified elector' for purposes of apportionment of senatorial districts is a citizen over 18 years of age who is not a convicted felon, a ward of the state or an idiot or lunatic," the petition says.

It also says the board "failed to consider evidence of and take into account the pattern of explosive population growth occurring in certain areas of the state. ... By 1990, some districts will have twice as many people as others."

In his appearance before the board, Jim George, lawyer for the plaintiffs, said by 1990 there will be 889,203 people in Senate District 7 and only 450,964 in District 9.

"That plan simply cannot satisfy the requirement of one man, one vote. Indeed, a person's vote in District 9 will count nearly twice as much as a vote in District 7 in the 1990 election," George said.

Martin Perjury Trial Delayed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Mike Martin's aggravated perjury trial, originally set for Feb. 8, has been postponed until April 19.

The pretrial hearing was postponed from Jan. 14 to March 15, according to Frank Maloney of Austin, Martin's lawyer.

Martin is charged with lying to Travis County grand jurors when he denied arranging his own shooting on July 31 at an Austin trailer park.

Prosecutor Bill Willms said Monday the trial was postponed after Maloney told State District Judge Robert Barton of Fredericksburg that the pretrial hearing would take a week and the trial could last more than two weeks.

The case was moved to Fredericksburg after Maloney asked for a change of venue because of extensive publicity in Austin.

Maloney said he has not decided whether he would ask for another change of venue.

BIRTHS

Kenneth and Debi Goodlett of 208 33rd Street are parents of a baby boy born January 4 at Malone and Hogan Hospital in Big Spring. He weighed 7 pounds, 7 ounces and has been named Jeremy James.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Willie Davis of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Goodlett of Dunn. He is welcomed by a brother, Todd.

Sociology Class Slated

Introduction to Sociology (SOC 231) will be offered at Western Texas College on an independent study basis during the spring semester starting Jan. 20.

Designed for working students who cannot attend regular classes, the course utilizes tapes, printed articles, audio-visuals and a textbook to communicate course material. No scheduled for completion of units is required beyond completion of all material by the week of spring finals. This enables students to proceed through the materials at their own pace.

The course is required for many majors in sociology, social work, eduction, law enforcement and nursing, and is considered an excellent elective for numerous other majors.

Interested students may contact Dr. Joe Reaves, instructor, for further information. Spring semester registration will be held Jan. 18-19.

Maine Judge Is Appointed

MIAMI (AP) — A federal judge from Maine has been appointed by Chief Justice Warren Burger to preside at the trial of a Miami federal judge indicted in an alleged bribery plot, officials say.

U.S. District Judge Edward Thaxter Gignoux of Maine said Monday he has set a pretrial conference for Jan. 19 and expects the trial to be scheduled for February or March.

Alcee Hastings was indicted Dec. 29 by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy to solicit a $150,000 bribe and obstruction of justice.

Growers Want Killing Freeze

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP) — Lettuce growers in the Imperial Valley are hoping for a killing freeze to rid them of some of their crop — those plants carrying "squash leaf curl" disease.

The disease, which turns the lettuce yellow and is caused by insects, has reduced the lettuce acreage to 28,988, its lowest level in the valley in 27 years, and pushed up the price of the crop to the highest level since a 1979 farm workers strike.

at wits end

by erma bombeck

I like to think of snoring as a masculine trait, yet in my heart I know there are possibly two or three women out there who inhale loud enough in their sleep to make cattle restless within a 50-mile radius.

A doctor in Los Angeles has not only come up with a cure for women's snoring, he has established a breakthrough on how to get women to admit they snore. The cure: a mink collar studded with rhinestones.

For a mink collar studded with rhinestones, I'd admit to being a cat burglar in my sleep.

The theory behind the mink collar is that it forces closure of the mouth, preventing mouth breathing which ultimately causes snoring. What a shame men can't dress up for snoring. For some of us it's like climbing into a bed every night on the San Andreas fault, knowing that within minutes there will be a rumble, the bed will shake and the Richter scale will go crazy.

Changing beds was suggested for men who snored. The only time that worked for me was when he slept in a bed in Orlando and I slept in a bed in Dayton.

Rolling them over on their sides was suggested. This gives substance to the theory that as long as you're awake, you might as well move someting.

A pillow stretched tightly over the face has merit—as soon as they work out a few bugs.

Personally, I like the proverbial knee on the throat while you shake them senseless and tell them to wake up and hear themsleves snore.

"Do I snore?" I asked my husband the other night.

"I don't think so. Why?" he asked.

"Well, just because you can't hear me doesn't mean I don't. And if I thought I was robbing you of a minute's sleep, I couldn't sleep a wink."

"What are you driving at?"

Marj bought herself a Persian lamb collar yesterday to sleep in to keep her from snoring."

"Our dog has a collar and you've never heard him snore."

"So try a flea collar."

"All I know is it worked for Marj," I insisted.

I didn't have the heart to tell him the reason it worked is that she didn't sleep a wink all night for fear someone would steal the collar.

Your Birthday

January 6, 1982

This coming year you are likely to be given some heavier responsibilities and you'll have to work a bit harder than you did in the past. Don't let this disturb you. The rewards will be commensurate to your efforts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Keep persons out of your business affairs today who are not directly involved. You'll do well acting on your own, but a noisy intruder could gum things up. Predictions of what's in store for you in each season following your birth date and where your luck and opportunities lie are in your new Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You may be called upon to manage a difficult situation today. You should be able to do so with comparative ease, as long as you use methods which worked previously.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your greatest rewards will not come today through satisfying selfish ambitions, but by being helpful to those you love. Put their interests above yours.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Something disruptive could occur today between you and your mate. If each keeps a cool head, love will prevail and smooth things over.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today will be more profitable if you stay in your own bailiwick and out of situations over which you have little or no control. Don't gamble on benefits from others.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't let outsiders influence you today in matters which are strictly between you and the one you love. Their lack of understanding will cloud issues.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Once you set your agenda today, it's important to stick to it if you hope to achieve desirable results. Disruptions that threaten to throw you off-course could pop up.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your friends will be supportive today, and willing to do your bidding, provided you make requests of them and not demands. Be tactful and diplomatic.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Conditions look promising for you today careerwise and financially. However, things may not go exactly as you plan. Be flexible.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Follow through on plans today as you initially envision them. Making last-minute changes will lessen your possibilities for success.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're good at managing things today for others, provided there isn't money involved. Be helpful, but should cash outlay be required let them look elsewhere.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Greater strides will be made today from arrangements where you work with others than from that which you do independently. Team up.

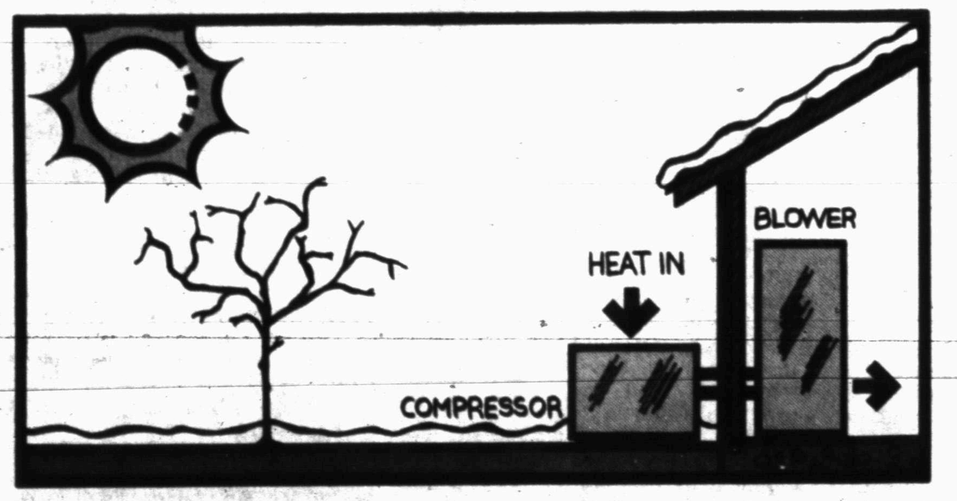
Save energy with a heat pump.



If you're planning to install a new heating or cooling system, consider a high-efficiency heat pump. It's an energy-saving, year-round alternative.

The heat pump provides year-round heating and cooling, using only electricity. During the winter, it extracts heat from the outside air (even very cold air contains heat) and brings that heat inside where it's needed. In the summer, the heat pump is a regular air conditioner, removing unwanted heat from the inside air.

The heat pump is the most efficient combination heating and cooling system that can be installed in your home today.

To learn more about the heat pump, call your air conditioning contractor or Texas Electric. And when you call, ask about our conservation incentive program.

Funny Book Has Broad Dimensions

PEEPER. By William Brinkley. Viking. 288 Pages. $13.95.

William Brinkley has a gift for making his readers laugh. He did it with "Don't Go Near the Water," a delightful postwar Navy novel which became a successful movie, with "The Ninety and Nine," and with perhaps the best tennis novel ever written, "Breakpoint."

The publisher curiously labels Brinkley's latest work "A Comedy." It is a very funny book but has broader dimensions. Brinkley takes what could have been a raunch and makes much more of it. A leading citizen in a small Gulf Coast town turns to window peeping more from boredom than voyeurism. Between window-peeping narrative, Brinkley threads perceptive insights into small-town life, memorable word pictures of the Gulf Coast, and also probes into the foibles of the human animal in delightful fashion — for instance, some women who are ignored by the peeper claim they were peeped so the town won't feel they are too unattractive to inspire his attention.

There is a serious theme beneath the Texas Aggie jokes and mildly erotic peeping scenes. That is the importance of the local paper in a small town.

The book is told through the eyes of a former star Washington reporter who has abandoned big-time journalism to edit a little Texas weekly. When the editor publishes the fact a window peeper is operating (something the whole town knew by word of mouth), the local establishment starts an advertising boycott, forcing the paper to close.

Only after it ceases appearing does the town realize the importance of information and the paper. Church guilds can't tell members when they are to meet. The local schools' sports events go unrecorded. Public pressure soon forces the advertisers to come back, the peeper ceases peeping and normal life resumes in the little town of Martha.

"Peeper" is fun reading and handles a bawdy premise in amusing good taste. Brinkley plays fair with the reader in providing clues as to the window peeper's identity but the reviewer will bet that few readers will guess his identity correctly. I didn't.

Hawaii's First Lady...

Loves Her Land And The Way She Lives

By ELLIE GROSSMAN

NEW YORK (NEA)— Hawaii's first lady, Gov. George R. Ariyoshi's wife, Jean, 48, lovely and soft-spoken, is uncomfortable. She kneads the arms of her chair, laughs and glances at an associate. She is in New York with her husband to promote tourism, not to talk about what it was like for Japanese-Americans in Hawaii during World War II.

"Yes, there was a detention camp on Oahu," she says. "My uncle spent time there; and the governor's parents had to move from downtown Honolulu out into the valley. And the Japanese language lessons I took after school were discontinued. But my father's business boomed. He had a photography shop and all the soldiers being shipped out had their pictures taken, so I just remember we went from poverty to wealth.

She did not, she says, feel discriminated against. Wahiawa, the pineapple town 20 miles outside Honolulu where she grew up was, like Hawaii itself, a community of minorities. She and her six siblings played football in the streets with Filipino and Chinese friends. "Everyone has this great warm aloha spirit and Hawaii is a happy place to live."

If it were not, she'd probably make it so because Mrs. Ariyoshi is unassailably positive. "You have to have that attitude or you will never survive," she says. That is what she has taught her three children and what has seen her through 26 years of the pressures all political wives experience, and some they don't.

FIRST FAMILY OF HAWAII—Governor and Mrs. Ariyoshi. Jean Ariyoshi, a woman of grace and stamina, is unassailably positive about life and the demands of being the governor's wife. "You have to have that attitude or you will never survive... and if you want to make things work, they will," she says.

"I met the governor when I was at the University of Hawaii where I earned a teaching degree," she says. "He had just come back from law school and we got married in '55 right after his election to the Territorial House of Representatives.

"George was the eldest son, so in the old Japanese tradition my in-laws lived with us. My mother-in-law still does," she says. "I would be lying if I said it was easy, but the love they gave my children I could not have bought with all the money in the world. And if you want to make things work, they will." She recalls something that makes her laugh and says, "When my youngest son, Donn, was 16, out of the clear blue he told me, 'Mom, when I get married, I'll take care of you.' I said, 'But you will have a wife,' and he said 'Don't worry,' and that made up for everything!"

Externally polished, Mrs. Ariyoshi is still, she says, "in my heart a country girl" who dislikes the psychological distance her position creates — "When you are first lady, people put a wall between you" — and who tries hard to diminsh it. Twice daily, for instance, she conducts tours of the first floor of Washington Place, the governor's executive mansion which was once the home of Hawaii's last queen, Lili'uokalani. The queen's baby grand is there, with the other personal effects Mrs. Ariyoshi has been searching out and restoring to the mansion for several years. "We are the first to open the home to the public and the tours are a big part of my daily life," she says. "They're my contribution to the people of this day."

Her husband, now in his second term, plans to run for a third but when he retires, she says, she'd like to maintain public contact in a different way. "I'd like to go into business. Before George became governor, I had a jewelry shop for two years in Honolulu. I did some designing myself and carried one-of-a-kind pieces by artisans I found in Hong Kong, California, the Philippines. I'm not bragging, but I even had jewelry shows at the Academy of Arts. And I had returned to the university for a degree in fine arts, but then George was elected and that's one of the sacrifices you make.

"But I have enjoyed this life enormously," she adds. A woman of grace and stamina, she seems well suited to the demands, the endless entertaining, the lack of privacy, the personal deprivation. "Politics does take your husband away from the family, but I've been fortunate because my husband has always made time for the children, which made life easier."

Her daughter, Lynn, 24, a recent graduate of Sophia University in Tokyo who, she says proudly, "chose to be educated in Japan because she wanted to know her roots," is engaged; her sons, Todd, 22, and Donn, 20, are still in college but, yes, she says, "I would love for one of them to enter politics. And they may yet because my husband always takes time to explain to them what he's trying to do for Hawaii. You know we are the only state to propose a plan concerning where we want to be in the future in tourism, energy, agriculture, etc. George feels Hawaii is a very fragile national treasure. He has looked at Oahu where 80 percent of the population live on the windward side of the island, the state has put thousands and thousands of acres aside, the last green areas left, for our children and our children's children."

She'd be happy, she says, to have her children continue his efforts and to be guided by Hawaii's motto. Which is? "The life in this land," she says, "is perpetuated in righteousness."

Hawaii was admitted to the United States as the 50th state in 1959.

Here is another one of Victor Mollo's contrived hands from "Bridge in the Fourth Dimension."

The Hideous Hog sat South and after his partner started proceedings by a ridiculous takeout double of one club the Hog felt impelled to bid a lot and to finally suggest a grand slam. Of course, North's jump to seven spades was a real [illegible] ing blind at 30,000 feet with one motor conked out. Still, everything good happens to the Hog and he brought in the contract.

See if you readers can work it out before you read further.

He took dummy's ace of clubs, ruffed a club high, led a diamond to dummy, ruffed another club high, led another diamond to dummy, ruffed a third club high and led his carefully preserved deuce of trumps in order to finesse dummy's eight.

He cashed the J-10 of trumps to discard two diamonds. Since trumps were now exhausted, he cashed dummy's last club to discard his last diamond. East had started with just two diamonds so West had to chuck his nine of hearts to guard against dummy's diamond deuce and the Hog's three hearts took the last three tricks.

Tar Heels Hold Top Spot Easily

By TOM CANAVAN
Associated Press Writer

Preseason favorite North Carolina is the near-unanimous choice today as the No.1 team in The Associated Press college basketball poll following a week in which nine of the nation's Top 20 teams lost at least one game.

This week's poll, in which Virginia replaced previously unbeaten Wichita State as the country's No. 2 team, sets up a matchup of the nation's two top-ranked teams Saturday when North Carolina hosts the Cavaliers in a nationally televised game.

It will mark the second time this season that teams ranked 1-2 in the country have met. Earlier this season, North Carolina retained the nation's bragging rights by downing then No.2 Kentucky 82-69.

North Carolina, which raised its record to 9-0 with a victory over William and Mary last night, collected 56 of 58 first-place votes and 1,158 points — two shy of perfection. The Tar Heels also posted a thrilling 56-50 overtime decision over Penn State and downed Santa Clara 63-50 in winning the Cable Car Classic last week.

Virginia, 11-0 following a pair of victories over James Madison and one over Richmond, was tabbed No.1 on the final two first-place ballots. The Cavaliers received 1,095 points from the poll's nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Kentucky, now 8-1 following a 34-26 overtime victory over Notre Dame in a slowdown game and a harrowing 68-66 decision over Georgia last week, inched up one slot to No.3 with 894 points.

Six of the remaining seven teams in the Top 10 also were ranked there last week, but have played a game of musical chairs.

Missouri, DePaul, Minnesota and Iowa all jumped three positions and are ranked 4-7 respectively.

Missouri, 9-0 after victories over Southern Cal and Notre Dame, got 959 points. DePaul, 10-1, was next with 877 followed by Minnesota at 808 and Iowa with 740.

San Francisco, 11-1, slipped two positions to No.8 when knocked from the unbeaten ranks by Rice in the Rainbow Classic. The Dons, who received 628 points, rebounded later in the tournament to beat Wichita State, 9-2, which plummeted to No.9 following its loss to San Francisco and another to North Carolina State.

Tulsa, No.13 a week ago, closed out the Top 10 with 549 points.

Arkansas, 8-1, dropped six places to No.11 after being upset by Texas Tech. Louisville is 12th followed by Georgetown, D.C., Houston, North Carolina State, Alabama, Oregon State, Idaho, UCLA and St.John's, N.Y.

Last week, the Second 10 was Indiana, Alabama, Tulsa, Louisville, Oregon State, UCLA, Georgetown, Houston, Villanova and North Carolina State.

Idaho, 11-0, and St.John's, 9-1, are the newcomers to the Top 20, replacing Villanova and Indiana. Villanova lost the championship game to St.John's in the Holiday Festival, while Indiana dropped two games in the same tournament.

Snyder Cagers To Face Sweetwater

Snyder High School basketball teams will face Sweetwater teams on two fronts tonight.

The varsity and junior varsity Tiger boys will be in Sweetwater for a doubleheader, while the Snyder girls will host the Sweetwater girls in the SHS gym.

The junior varisty game at Sweetwater will begin at 6:15 p. m. with the varsity game to follow around 8 p. m.

The girls game in Snyder will begin at 8 p. m.

The Snyder varsity boys walloped Fort Stockton, 60-38, here Saturday night in their latest action, to run their season record to 14-4 and their District 2-AAAA mark to 3-1.

The Snyder High girls dropped a 52-44 decision at Fort Stocktom Saturday night. This evened their season record at 7-7 and left them with a 2-4 record in conference play.

'Dream' From Bench Saves Cougars' Cause

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

They call him Akeem "The Dream" Olajuwon and Houston coach Guy Lewis' dream came true in Houston's Southwest Conference basketball opener.

Olajuwon came off the bench in the second half to dominate rebounding on both ends of the court, score 10 points and lead the 18th-ranked Cougars to a 63-61 victory over the determined Rice Owls Monday night in the SWC opener for both teams.

"It wasn't easy and it wasn't beautiful but it was one victory in the SWC," Lewis said. "I was just glad to see the clock run down."

Olajuwon, a freshman from Nigeria, got six rebounds on each end of the court and led an early second-half surge that put Houston ahead for good at 42-41 with 7:37 left in the game.

The victory put Houston in a tie for first place in the SWC with Texas Tech, which upset fifth-ranked Arkansas over the weekend.

In the only other SWC action Monday night, Baylor defeated Southwestern, 68-59, in a non-conference game at Waco.

Houston sophomore Clyde Drexler scored all nine of his points during the stretch when the Cougars took the lead and Rob Williams, slowed by a wrist injury, contributed 15 crucial points.

"I was nervous all through the first half but in the second half, I felt much more comfortable," Olajuwon said. "The other guys told me the SWC schedule would be tougher and it is — much more physical."

The surprising Owls, who upset sixth-ranked San Francisco and 20th-ranked North Carolina State in their last two games, took a 27-21 halftime lead, paced by high-scoring Ricky Pierce, who scored 37 points in the game.

"Pierce is the toughest player I've ever faced since I've come to this country," Olajuwon said. "He has a great lob shot and has great ability to drive to the basket."

Houston boosted its season record to 10-1 and won its ninth game in a row while the Owls dropped to an 8-5 record after winning the Rainbow Classic in Hawaii with their victories over Hawaii, San Francisco and North Carolina State.

The Cougars extended their series record to 21-1 over their crosstown rivals.

Terry Teagle scored 21 points to pace Baylor in the non-conference victory over Southwestern, but it took a steal by Teagle, a full court drive and layup with 3:05 remaining to give the Bears a lead they never relinquished.

Baylor, 7-3, held only a 34-30 halftime lead and trailed, 59-58, with 4:55 remaining in the game.

Baylor coach Jim Haller was not pleased with his team's performance in the final game before the Bears enter SWC play.

"We were very, very sluggish. Everyone on the team was," Haller said, "Usually, you have one or two guys pick the team up, but tonight we didn't."

"I'm very disappointed that we have to go into conference play on a downer. I was hoping we could play better," Haller said, "We've got to be ready every night in conference play, or we'll be in trouble."

Bengals' Anderson Gets 'Most Valuable' Award

CINCINNATI (AP) — Quarterback Ken Anderson, one of pro football's most accurate passers, accepted a coveted honor in the same low-key manner in which he guided the Cincinnati Bengals to their finest season.

"It means a lot because your team is winning," said Anderson, who was chosen by a panel of Associated Press sportswriters and broadcasters as the National Football League's Most Valuable Player for 1981.

"Leading the league in passing and having good statistics is nice. But the ultimate is winning. That's what makes the award special."

Displaying the accuracy that made him one of the most feared quarterbacks in the mid-1970s, Anderson shattered several personal passing records in leading the Bengals to a 12-4 regular season mark and the American Conference Central title in 1981.

The 11-year veteran from Augustana College in Illinois threw for 3,754 yards and 29 touchdowns, completed 62.6 percent of his passes (his second-best career mark), was intercepted just 10 times in the regular season. He was the top-ranked passer in the NFL.

His precise passing earned him a spot on the All-Pro team for the fourth time in his career and put the Bengals in their first AFC title game.

After suffering through two injury-plagued seasons, the 32-year-old Anderson was benched for his poor performance in the first quarter of the 1981 season opener against the Seattle Seahawks. But Coach Forrest Gregg started Anderson the next week, launching the quarterback's record-breaking season.

"He came back like a champion," said tight end Dan Ross, who led Bengals' receivers with 71 regular-season catches.

Gregg, who thought about benching Anderson for the Bengals' second game against the New York Jets but decided to stick with the veteran, concurred with the MVP choice.

"He had a lot to overcome," Gregg said Monday. "He was sort of the second choice of the fans (who preferred younger backup Jack Thompson). It's tough to be playing in your home stadium, you're introduced as the starting quarterback and you hear the hometown fans booing. That has to affect any player, particularly a quarterback.

"Kenny really developed a mental toughness that enabled him to handle that kind of situation. I think that has earned him the respect of his teammates. It's turned everyone's mind around in Cincinnati. You don't hear any more boos when he's introduced."

Anderson thinks it was a case of the quarterback getting too much credit or blame for how a team performs.

"The real satisfaction is that those of us who have been here for a lot of years have been through the hard times," Anderson said. "It's nice to kind of rise up again together."

Anderson, the NFL's top-rated passer in 1975 and 1976, said he doesn't consider his 1981 season as a comeback performance.

"I thought that last year when I wasn't hurt I played pretty well," Anderson said. "But I was hurt last year."

Armstrong Is Axed 1st Time

CHICAGO — Neill Armstrong is a proud man.

He's proud that in his 27-year professional football career he has never had to apply for a job. He also is proud that, until Monday, he had never been fired from a job.

"Not in 17 years as an assistant and 10 years as a head coach," he said. "Why, I played eight years of professional football and never was cut."

All that changed Monday when Chicago Bears owner George Halas fired Armstrong as head coach. Halas failed to name a successor, but former Bear tight end Mike Ditka, reportedly a prime candidate, has said he is interested in the job.

Armstrong, 55, had been head coach of the Bears for the past four seasons in which he compiled a record of 30-34. He said he plans to leave Chicago with his head held high.

"I intend to walk tall," Armstrong said. "I've seen other coaches lose jobs and I know how badly I felt for them.

"And I've seen a lot of players go. I've had to tell them myself. The ones I remember are the ones who took it like men. I intend to be the same."

Armstrong was defensive coordinator for the Minnesota Vikings for seven years before taking the Bear job Feb. 16, 1978. He succeeded Jack Pardee, who left the Bears after the 1977 season to become head coach of the Washington Redskins.

In his four years at the helm, only Minnesota had a better record than the Bears in the Central Division of the National Football Conference. The Vikings were 31-32-1 in that period while Tampa Bay was 29-34-1, Green Bay 26-36-2 and Detroit 26-38.

The Bears were 7-9 in 1978 under Armstrong and 10-6 the following year when they made the playoffs only to lose in the first round to Philadelphia. The Bears were 7-9 in 1980 and slipped to 6-10 this season.

Although no successor was named, it appeared the job might go to Ditka, currently an assistant coach with the Dallas Cowboys.

Halas recently asked and received permission from the Cowboys to talk to Ditka, but will not do so while the Cowboys are still involved in the National Football League playoffs.

If the Cowboys defeat San Francisco Sunday, they would earn a berth in the Super Bowl. That would mean Halas and Ditka would not begin talks until after Jan. 24.

Walsh Selected By AP As Coach-Of-The Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Walsh, who in just three seasons changed the San Francisco 49ers from the National Football League's losingest team to its winningest, was named today The Associated Press Coach of the Year.

Walsh was the overwhelming choice of a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters, named on 61½ of the 84 ballots cast. Forrest Gregg, who performed a "worst-to-first" feat with the Cincinnati Bengals, was a distant second with 15½ votes.

Don Shula of the Miami Dolphins received three votes, Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys got two and Dan Reeves of the Denver Broncos and Walt Michaels of the New York Jets received one vote apiece.

The 50-year-old Walsh, who doubles as general manager of the 49ers, piloted the team to a 13-3 record, the best in the NFL, in 1981. When he took control of the club before the 1979 season, it had won just 31 of its previous 86 games and was coming off a 2-14 season.

San Francisco went 2-14 again in '79, then improved to 6-10 the following year before storming to its first winning season since 1976 and its first National Conference Western Division championship since 1972.

The redevelopment of the 49ers into an NFL power was achieved in two basic steps. First Walsh put together a potent pass-oriented offense, but one which often couldn't survive the team's defense. Then, in the 1981 draft and in major acqusitions after that, he built a defense into the second best in the conference.

Among the players he drafted his first year were Joe Montana and Dwight Clark, the NFC's leading passer and receiver this year. And in 1981 he used three of his first four selections to draft Ronnie Lott, Eric Wright and Carlton Williamson, three-quarters of San Francisco's defensive backfield, then picked up a pair of defensive stars with contract problems — pass-rushing end Fred Dean from San Diego and linebacker Jack "Hacksaw" Reynolds from Los Angeles.

Last year the 49ers' defense was the second-worst in the league. This year it was second-best.

Walsh served his apprenticeship in the NFL starting in 1966 as offensive backfield coach for the Oakland Raiders, then for the next nine years was coach of the quarterbacks and receivers of the Cincinnati Bengals. During that stretch he developed Ken Anderson into one of the league's best quarterbacks. And in 1976, as San Diego's offensive coordinator, he was instrumental in turning Dan Fouts into one of the game's most explosive passers.

Walsh, who had been an assistant coach at Stanford during 1963-65, returned as the school's head coach in 1977-78 before being lured back to the pros by San Francisco.

In the 49ers' press guide put together before the 1981 season, Walsh is quoted as saying: "My last year with the Bengals in 1975, we had one of the best clubs in the NFL (11-3), and I think this year's 49ers team has young talent that could become comparable to that Cincinnati squad." Prophetic.

Gertzky Wins Another Award

MONTREAL (AP) — Center Wayne Gretzky of the Edmonton Oilers earned another National Hockey League Player-of-the-Week award, although this time he had to share the honor with Pittsburgh Penguins rookie forward Doug Shedden.

It was the third straight week Gretzky was honored and the fifth time this year he has won or shared the award.

In one basketball game against Oregon State in 1969, Pete Maravich of LSU made 30 of his 31 free throws.

CARD OF THANKS 060

TO THOSE who expressed their sympathy in so many beautiful and practical ways during our recent bereavement, we extend our heartfelt thanks. The food, flowers and particularly the kind words have helped us to more fully understand the words 'friendship' and 'love.' May we particularly mention the Scurry County EMS, the hospital emergency room staff, the Bell-Seale staff and the pastor and wonderful people of Northside Baptist Church. May God's richest blessings be yours.

THE CHRISTIAN SONS

Christian Sons Slated For Wednesday Concert

The Christian Sons, a vocal group from western Colorado, will be presented in concert Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Assembly of God, 19th and College Avenue.

The Christian Sons, consisting of three brothers, Dan, Wendel and Van Christenson, have been traveling full time since 1976 presenting concerts all over the United States and Canada and have recorded three record albums as well as appearing on numerous radio and television programs.

The concert will feature a wide variety of musical stylings that can be enjoyed by all ages. There is no admission charge.

Colorado City Woman To Speak Out On Drugs

Mrs. Margaret Baum of Colorado City will speak to all interested Snyder and Ira parents Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Ira Community Center. The topic, drug awareness, research, and education, is in conjunction with the "Governor's War on Drugs."

Mrs. Baum, a program volunteer, graduated from Texas Women's University with a degree in piano and music and minors in English and speech. During her senior year, she served as president of the student body and was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Mrs. Baum has pursued careers in fields of radio advertising, newspaper writing as well as serving for four years as coordinator of volunteer services at Big Spring State Hospital.

She and her husband, Jim, are parents to four teenagers.

According to Mrs. Baum, "For years, we have been dealing with outdated information regarding drugs for the past 50 years. We now have more than 7,000 documented studies done in the last four years which shed considerable light on the danger of the drug situation that America faces."

Mrs. Baum will be accompanied by Mrs. Billy Bruce Bridgford of Colorado, also a volunteer.

The Ira PTA members and their spouces encourage area parents to attend the meeting and to assist in Texas PTA's War on Drugs.

School Receives Funds

For the first time in more than a quarter of a century, Snyder Independent School District is receiving some funds from the Gilmer-Aiken Foundation program.

Since the oil boom days, the Snyder district has been "budget-balanced," which means that its own resources were sufficient to eliminate it from the foundation program. The foundation program is the vehicle used by the state to assure a minimum program in Texas public schools, and districts without sufficient tax resources to meet the minimum standards set by the state receive supplements from the state.

Snyder has had enough tax resources of its own to support its schools since the first effects of the oil discovery were felt in the late 40s and early 50s.

However, at some time during 1979, just prior to a revaluation program in the district and prior to decontrol of oil prices, the Snyder district's tax base fell just under the 100 percent level.

This made the district eligible for a relatively small supplement from the state foundation.

In all, E. D. Flynn, assistant superintendent—business, said the district will receive about $100,000. This represents about 1.25 percent of the budget.

Local school officials were not aware that the situation existed until they were notified by the Texas Education Agency recently.

It will be a one-shot incident, since the school district's tax base went above the foundation program's level again in 1980 and is likely to remain in the budget-balanced ranks for some time to come.

Burglary Report Taken

Scurry County Sheriff's officers received a report of a burglary near Union Monday afternoon.

According to the Sheriff, someone entered the G. W. Kitchen's residence between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday and made off with around $300 in coins.

Reported taken in the robbery were $254 in fifty-cent pieces and another $40-$50 in quarters. County law officers are continuing investigation into this incident.

Name Confusion

In a case filed in 132nd District Court styled Snyder Independent District vs. George Martinez, the defendant should not be confused with George Martinez living at 1401 22nd St. in Snyder.

N.F. Hall Wins Drawing

N. F. Hall, Route I, Box 67, Hermleigh, is the winner of the December drawing for a free year's subscription to the Snyder Daily News. Another drawing will be held at the end of this month.

Each month a drawing is held from the names of those who have either subscribed or renewed for six months or more.

The French navigator and explorer Samuel de Champlain set out on his first voyage in 1603 to what now is Canadian territory. Champlain established friendly relations with the Indians and explored the St. Lawrence River to the rapids above the present site of Montreal. He made several return voyages and subsequently was appointed the first governor of French Canada.

Minor Mishaps Are Reported

Snyder police officers investigated one criminal mischeif complaint and two minor traffic mishaps Monday.

Around 10:40 p.m. Monday evening, Debbie Botts of 2018 37th St. called police and reported the vandalism of a vehicle at her residence.

Someone had reportedly poured bleach on a vehicle owned by Botts. No value was placed on damages to the vehicle.

The 1600 block of 26th St. was the scene of a minor noontime accident Monday. Involved in the mishap were a 1971 Chevrolet driven by Mary Francis Brown and a 1981 Ford operated by Salome Guerrero Barrera. Only minor damages were reported in this accident.

Later, around 3:40 p.m., a 1969 AMC driven by Delia Zamora was in collision with a 1979 Ford driven by William Taylor. Only minor damages were reported in this incident at the intersection of 25th St. and College Ave.

Firemen Fight Treater Blaze

Snyder firemen extinguished a heater treater fire around 11 a.m. Monday morning.

Only minor damages were reported to the treater unit owned by Petroleum Corp. of Texas and located on the Iola Williamson Lease about 10 miles west of Snyder.

Dear Abby

Funeral Need Not Be a Grave Affair

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: "Confused in Indiana" wrote to say she was "shocked" to learn that a friend went dancing the night she buried her husband. You agreed, saying you thought it was "inappropriate" for mourners to dance so soon after burying a loved one.

Who do you think you are to pass judgment in the first place? That woman has the right to mourn her husband any way she wants to!

After my father was buried, we went to my cousin's house where my father had spent many happy hours. He particularly loved the clubroom. Right after the funeral I went down there and found the jukebox playing and all the relatives dancing and enjoying refreshments. On the chair where my father had always sat was a baseball cap made of flowers. (Dad loved baseball.) That was the only floral arrangement that was not left at the cemetery. It was as though my father was there watching everybody do what he loved to do in life.

After all, Abby, haven't you ever heard of an Irish wake? My family is not Irish, but not everyone sits "shivah."

MERRY IN MARYLAND

DEAR MERRY: I've had many surprises in my mail, but one of the biggest was the number of readers who wrote to disagree with me. You're right — everyone has the right to deal with his grief in his own way, but somehow, dancing the day of the funeral seemed inappropriate to me. And it still does.

DEAR ABBY: A very close friend of mine, who is a successful management consultant, has the worst case of halitosis I have ever encountered! Being a professional myself, I am worried that my friend's problem may cost him professionally and socially. He's single as well.

I have polled my friends, and no one has come up with a suitable solution. He is such a lovely person and he must be told. But how? And by whom?

HIS FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: He must be made aware of his problem by someone who cares a great deal about him. I nominate you! If you can't find the words to tell him that he needs to see a dentist and/or a physician about his offensive breath, send him this column. It would be an act of kindness. Trust me.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a married woman (early 20s) and this problem concerns my best friend. (I'll call her Lila.) We are like sisters. Lila has been going with the same fellow (I'll call him George) for three years and they are practically engaged. George's grandmother was sick in the hospital, so Lila went to see her and they wouldn't let her in because "family members only" were allowed to visit. It has caused a terrible rift between George and his family. George sides with Lila and so do I.

Abby, don't you think they should have considered this girl "family"? George's family say that as long as they are not married, she is not family. George's grandmother died a week later, and he is still on the outs with them.

LILA'S FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Since George's grandmother was seriously ill, it is understandable that only family members were allowed to visit. Lila should have checked before going to the hospital.

Test-Tube Babies Safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Test-tube fertilization is proving such a safe procedure that it may soon be routinely available to hundreds of thousands of couples otherwise unable to have children, according to two experts on the subject.

About 600,000 American couples potentially could be helped by the technique, in which a woman's egg is fertilized in the laboratory and implanted in her uterus.

According to John Biggers of the Harvard Medical School, at least 19 babies have been born as a result of what doctors call in-vitro fertilization. The latest birth, and the first in this country, occurred Dec. 28 at a hospital in Norfolk, Va.

Biggers and LeRoy Walters of Georgetown University spoke on the subject Sunday at a news conference during the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Murder Rates Continue Rise

By TIMOTHY HARPER
Associated Press Writer

Jostling aboard a crowded bus on New Year's Eve, a San Antonio, Texas college student and another rider argued briefly over whether the student should say "Excuse me."

Moments later the student lay dead, shot to death.

The homicide was a grim and fitting final statement of the growing violence in 1981 in San Antonio — where the 182 murders last year were the most ever.

According to an informal Associated Press survey, murder totals in many major American cities are the same or higher in 1981 compared with 1980.

Officials in most of those cities blame murder on drugs, liquor, prostitution, family arguments and handguns, but grope for explanations of why homicide rates go up or down from year to year.

"I don't think there's a trend," police Capt. E.H. Watson said in Greenville, S.C., where the murder rate nearly doubled last year — from seven to 13. "These people just happened to get together in a pool room or liquor house and got mad," he said.

Final FBI statistics will indicate there were 25,000 murders across the country last year if the trend toward increased violent crime continues.

In 1980, there were more than 23,000 murders in the United States — one every 23 minutes — and the FBI said the nation's murder rate increased by 4 percent during the first six months of 1981.

Dade County, Fla. remained "Murder Capital, USA," with 621 homicides during 1981. The total was an increase of 48 murders over 1980, when the Miami area led the nation with 33 murders for every 100,000 people.

Nationally, the FBI says, there are about 10 murders per 100,000 population.

FBI statistics say that three of four murder victims are male, more than 40 percent are black, and more than 60 percent of all murders are committed with guns, usually handguns.

More than one-third of the people convicted of murder are between the ages of 18 and 24.

Murder totals for 1981 were up in New York; Boston; Chicago; San Francisco; St. Louis; Baltimore; Las Vegas, Nev.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Baton Rouge, La.; Norfolk, Va.; Columbus, Ohio; Providence, R.I.; and Greenville, S.C.

New York City's 1,833 murders, the highest total in the country, included 21 cab drivers, most of them slain in robbery attempts.

Murder figures remained about the same in Denver; Pittsburgh; New Orleans; Jackson, Miss.; Topeka, Kan.; and Mobile, Ala.

But homicide totals dropped in Los Angeles; Detroit; Atlanta; Philadelphia; Salt Lake City; Indianapolis; Nashville, Tenn.; Little Rock, Ark.; Omaha, Neb.; Portland, Ore.; and Oklahoma City.

Totals were up in Houston but down in Dallas; up in Columbus but down in Dayton, Toledo and Cincinnati; up in Syracuse but down in Buffalo, N.Y.

"There's no answer, any more than a couple of years ago when it went up," said Joseph McCarthy, a homicide officer in Buffalo, where the murder rate dropped by nearly half.

In Miami, authorities said the increase in crime — blamed last year largely on the influx of Cuban refugees — has been heightened by economic conditions.

"With the unemployment, there's a lot of robberies — armed robberies — and a lot of people are killed in robbery attempts,' John Jones, a Dade County spokesman, said.

In Houston, another fast-growing city which last year was second only to Miami in per capita murder rate, Police Chief B.K. Johnson said the 10 percent increase in homicides in 1981 "is a reflection of the society we live in. The more people you have conglomerate in an area, the more violence you will have."

Even in New Hampshire, where the murder total for the whole state was 25 in 1981 compared with 20 in 1980, authorities blamed the increase on population growth.

But in Los Angeles, where the 898 homicides last year represented an 8.5 percent drop from 1980, authorities said the decrease was due to better assignment of police officers.

Actor Boris Karloff died in 1969.

letter to the editor

To The Daily News:

In December, the Scurry County Special Olympics members and chaperones were fortunate again to have a Christmas dinner provided for them by some dear anonymous friends. We want to thank people like this for caring. Now it's time that the Procter and Gamble Co. coupons are coming out in the mail. This year, as last yrear, Procter and Gamble will pay five cents to Special Olympics for each coupon redeemed. Last year Special Olympics received a check for half a million dollars due to the coupon promotiom.

We hope to do the same this year. I'm asking each of you to please use your coupons. It will benefit you and Special Olympics. You will have a part in helping over 1,000,000 mentally handicapped children and adults throughout the United States.

Our Special Olympics is "A Great New Spirit-Skill-Sharing Joy" and bringing victory to special people who overcome the odds.

Diagnosing hypoglycemia

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been having dizzy feelings for the past two or three weeks. I work very hard in a bacon plant. Our line averages 30 to 22,000 pounds of bacon in eight hours. My job is to keep the meat straight on the cardboard and pick all the ends and pieces from it. Sometimes I pass out or almost pass out.

I went to the clinic for a glucose tolerance test. It showed I have low blood sugar. Please tell me about it. What food can I eat and the amount per meal? Am I allowed to eat bananas and apples? I'm 56 years old. The diet the doctor gave me doesn't help much. What kind of meat can I eat?

DEAR READER — To correctly diagnose hypoglycemia — low blood glucose (sugar) — you must demonstrate the low values at the same time a person has the symptoms. If you did not have faintness or dizziness (your symptoms) while you were taking the test, I doubt your diagnosis is correct. These standards for the diagnosis are those recommended by the American Medical Association.

Assuming your diagnosis is correct I can say that hypoglycemia can cause dizziness and can even cause fainting. The latter is associated with insufficient glucose in the brain cells, in contradistinction to the adrenaline symptoms of sweating, heart irregularities or rapid pulse and nervousness.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 18-8, Hypoglycemia: The Low Blood Sugar Problem, which separates the two types of symptoms and explains the management to you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You will probably feel better if you eat several small meals rather than one to three larger meals a day. And you should avoid all sweets and concentrated starches as found in baked products. You can eat raw apples and perhaps other raw fruit. You'll have to try out what works best for you. Use raw and leafy vegetables.

Most meats are usually recommended for reactive hypoglycemia as they contain no concentrated sweets and because their fat and protein content slow the emptying of the stomach.

At work you might get some benefit from wearing support hose or pressure garments or bandages on your legs. That will prevent blood pooling and sometimes prevents dizziness.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I need some information on how to improve speech. I'm only 16 years old but I stutter badly at times. Sometimes I talk perfectly but then again I can hardly get the words out. At times after talking I am breathless. I have a problem reading now. I am a good student in school. I could do better but I won't read orally or do reports orally in class. During my senior year I am going to have to do a lot of oral reports to pass so I want to be prepared.

DEAR READER — I understand your frustration and am pleased with your initiative to try to do something for yourself. Stuttering is a complex problem and I would urge you to get some professional help from a speech therapist.

To be sure you get in the hands of one qualified to help with your problem, write to the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association, 10801 Rockville Pike, Rockville, MD 20852. Ask them for a recommendation for someone in your area. You can send along this column with your letter if you wish.

Others who need to know where to find a qualified speech therapist or audiologist can get recommendations from the same source.

Cuts Effect Space Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will stay in the space exploration business but will have to find more economical ways to do it because of federal budget cuts, says President Reagan's science adviser.

Dr. George A. Keyworth said Monday that the Reagan administration will continue unmanned planetary exploration and initiate major new space programs despite rumors it would cut such missions to save money.

But Keyworth said new missions to the other planets will be less complex and less expensive than recent billion-dollar projects such as Voyager, which returned spectacular data and pictures from Jupiter and Saturn.

The physicist said the administation is committed to major space science projects and will back building the Gamma Ray Observatory, a major astronomy spacecraft to be launched by the space shuttle.

Keyworth told the annual meeting of the AUssociation for the Advancement of Science that the administration has begun a major reassessment of the space program.

This review will look at the future of the space shuttle, new earth-orbiting satellites and plans for another generation of planetary exploration craft, he said.

The study also will consider broadening the base of the U.S. space program to include more industry and university involvement, as well as more international cooperative projects to share the costs and responsibilities of space exploration, he added.

But looking for cheaper, more effective ways to explore space should not be construed as lack of support or commitment, he said.

"The Reagan administration is supporting a strong initiative in planetary science, and this includes a number of new projects that will develop using the capabilities of the space shuttle," he said.

Keyworth offered few details on the new projects pending completion of the program review and finalization of the fiscal 1983 budget about to go to Congress. He did indicate, however, that they may not begin until the end of the decade.

The science adviser said there is no truth to rumors the administration is considering shutting off communications with the two Voyager spacecraft now on the way to explore Uranus and space outside the solar system.
