Willow Park Inn grand opening set

The grand opening for Snyder's Willow Park Inn is scheduled Thursday from 2 until 5 p.m.

The public is invited to an open house reception at the facility, located just east of the city at the intersection of U.S. Hwys. 84 and 180.

Special features include door prizes for individuals registering and a fashion show planned during the afternoon featuring a spring line of women's bathing suits.

Models will be wearing swim apparel from Margaret's of Snyder.

The fashion show will be around the indoor swimming pool which is a feature of the new motel-convention center's atrium-style inner courtyard.

The door prizes to be given away include a free weekend for

All local board incumbents make ballot plans 'official'

As of Tuesday afternoon, all incumbent candidates for both the Snyder school board and the city council had indicated if they will be on the ballot again this April.

The net result is that only one of five incumbents will not be a candidate again.

Tuesday, Councilmen Truett Bryan and Mickey Nunley both officially filed for new terms. Their actions made it unanimous for incumbent councilmen with all three who now face expiring terms to run again. Monday, Gene Thomas also filed again as a candidate.

On the council, Thomas holds place 1; Bryan, place 3; and Nunley, place 5. Council members serve two-year terms.

Thomas has served since June 12, appointed to fill out an unexpired term; and both Bryan and Nunley are finishing their first two-year term. Bryan had served as a councilman previously.

The election — with the city and school vote combined in one polling location at Snyder city hall — will be April 6.

Regarding the school board — with two trustee positions due to expire — Lillie Sullivan for place 1 has again filed as a candidate and Leslie Butler for place 2 has indicated he will not be running again.

Trustees serve three-year terms. Sullivan is completing her second three-year term and Butler his first three-year term.

The last day to file as a candidate for either the school board or city council is March 6 with absentee voting to be conducted March 18 through April 2.

Q. — I observe a difference of several degrees temperature among the two local banks and SCAT. Is any one of these near accurate and why the difference?

A. — Temperatures vary depending upon elevation and where the thermometer sensor is placed. The National Weather Service's official reading comes from a sensor enclosed in a ventilated box, located above grass (not concrete) and some 4 ft. above ground. None of the three spots mentioned have temperature sensors in "exactly" the right place.

P.C. 10 EXHIBIT — Don Williams, WTC Student from Hamlin, and WTC Art Instructor John Gibson are shown preparing a pastel by LaNelle Joplin for hanging in the P.C. 10 exhibit which opens Sunday in the WTC Fine Arts Gallery. Also shown is a pencil drawing by Nettie Faye Gardner which is included in the exhibit. About 25 paintings and drawings will make up the show which will continue through Feb. 25. A public reception is scheduled Sunday afternoon to mark the show's official opening. (SDN Staff Photo)

Exhibit again slated

P.C. 10, an exhibit of paintings and drawings by local artists, will open Sunday in the Fine Arts Gallery at Western Texas College.

The public is invited to attend a reception from 1:30 until 3 p.m. Sunday to mark the opening. The exhibit will remain in place through Feb. 28.

The event was originally scheduled last week but was canceled due to snowy conditions in the area.

Artists to be included in the show are Lois Burney, Nettie Faye Gardnér, Lila Guinn, Debbie Jenkins, LaNelle Joplin, Sally Jordan, Nena Mitchell, Ethel Mae Sturdivant, Shawn Thomas and Julie Sowell. All are members of the Snyder Palette Club and have studied with John Gibson, art instructor at WTC.

Also opening Sunday will be a special Valentine exhibit in the Scurry County Museum on the WTC campus.

A reception for it will be conducted from 1 until 4 p.m. Sunday also in the museum. Among the featured displays will be a Swiss music box on loan from Mr. and Mrs. Brud Boren.

The box will play 12 songs and provides special effects with bells and a drum.

Chamber vacancy to occur

A vacancy on the Snyder Chamber of Commerce board of directors will occur after this week as newly elected director Tom Latos is transferred from the city.

Latos, local store manager for Kmart since March of 1982, has accepted a company transfer to become store manager for the Kmart in Duncanville, a suburb of Dallas.

He will assume the manager's role at that store effective Saturday.

In addition to his role with the chamber, to include serving as treasurer, Latos also has served locally as a director with the Rotary Club. He was recently named that club's vice president-elect for 1985-86, a post that leads to the club presidency the following year.

He also has served on advisory committees for both Western Texas College and Snyder High School, at WTC for the vocational-technical curriculum and at SHS for the distributive education course offerings.

Latos served as the second store manager for Snyder's Kmart since the facility opened in November of 1980. He replaced Charlie King, who was transferred to an Austin store.

Replacing him locally will be Leonard Green, who is moving to Snyder from one of the seven Kmarts operating in Dallas. Green has been serving as a merchandise co-manager in Dallas.

Latos has been with Kmart for 11 years, in a management

Mattox...

Court upholding indictment

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals today refused to review the commercial bribery indictment against Attorney General Jim Mattox, who is scheduled to stand trial Monday on the felony charge.

Mattox is charged with threatening to use his public office to stifle the bond business of a Houston law firm.

An aide said Mattox was disappointed by the court's decision, but was ready for the trial to begin.

"The general will be disappointed. But the situation is, he's ready to go to trial. He wants this whole thing to be aired, and he has no doubt that he will be vindicated," said Elna Christopher, a spokeswoman for the attorney general.

State District Judge Mace Thurman and the 3rd Court of Appeals in Austin earlier denied Mattox's request to throw out the indictment, which the attorney general had contended was inaccurate and unconstitutionally vague.

Without writing a majority opinion, the Court of Criminal Appeals today let the indictment stand. One of the appellate judges said he would have favored a review of the indictment if the law allowed.

Judge Marvin Teague said it is imprudent to allow the trial to proceed before determining if the indictment is proper.

"This is judicial economy at its worst," Teague said in his opinion, the only one written in the case.

Teague said Texas voters in 1980 turned down a constitutional amendment that would have allowed pretrial appeals of challenges to indictments, such as that filed by Mattox.

"But for what the majority of the voters of this state did on Nov. 4, 1980 ... I would not hesitate for one moment to vote to grant (Mattox's) petition for discretionary review," said Teague.

To go ahead with the trial before determining the indictment question "defies logic and common sense," he said.

Teague added that a post-trial decision saying the indictment was faulty would make the trial "nothing more than a dress rehearsal."

Teague did not discuss the merits of Mattox's motion to throw out the indictment. He said only that the motion should have received full review.

Mattox was accused in September 1983 of threatening to block state-required approval of public bonds submitted by the Houston law firm of Fulbright & Jaworski.

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "There's still prayer in the public schools--just before tests."

Mrs. Billie Walker, second grade teacher at Central Elementary, had the distinction of teaching Tony Degrate in both the first and second grade.

She was an instructor at North Elementary when the now-famous all-American football player from Texas University started to school there. Through the years, Mrs. Walker has kept up with Tony's many achievements, and she will quickly tell you he is deserving of all honors.

Mrs. Walker is not known to often paddle students. In fact, she'll tell you it hurts her just about as much as it does the student. She well remembers the day when Tony, a first grader, was caught walking across the tops of the desks.

Tony had never been a discipline problem, but she knew she had to show disapproval of his actions. Mrs. Walker took Tony into the hallway and administered two gentle licks.

A witness tells us that Tony cried, and so did Mrs. Walker. Tony never walked across desks again, but she admired him as he walked across and through linemen to make the tackle.

Tony has visited Mrs. Walker's class many times over the years. During his recent visit to Central, Mrs. Walker introduced him to her class, and the students were wide-eyed as the 280-pound Lombardi Trophy winner was introduced.

As the class was leaving for the auditorium to hear Tony speak, Mrs. Walker overheard one student tell another, "We're going to hear 'Tony The Great' speak."

Mrs. Walker didn't disagree.

It's nice to read about success. We have a brother-in-law with real versatility. He has failed at a dozen different things.

New partner named for accounting firm

Joe Coronado, an associate in the local accounting firm of Yorgesen and Blakey since 1975, has been named a full partner in the business.

The firm now becomes Yorgeson, Blakey and Coronado.

Coronado joined the firm in July of 1975 and in October of that same year completed the requirements to be named a certified public accountant.

He graduated in May of 1973 from Abilene Christian University with a bachelor of science in accounting. At ACU, he qualified for summa cum laude honors.

Prior to moving to Snyder, he served with a national accounting firm in Dallas for two years.

Coronado is a graduate of Cherokee High School in Central Texas, earning his diploma in 1969.

His father, Pablo Coronado, is deceased and his mother, Delia Desina, lives locally.

He and his wife Geneva have three sons, Pablo Esteban, age 11; Josue, age 5; and Mateo, age 2.

Locally, he is a member of the Snyder Lions Club and is a director with that organization. He is also a member of the Spanish Church of Christ, serving as treasurer.

Bond set

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Bond has been set at $20,000 for a nine-year veteran of the U.S. Border Patrol charged with conspiring to smuggle illegal aliens — despite government contentions that the agent poses a threat to witnesses.

A request that bond be denied had been made by Assistant U.S. Attorney Ricardo Gonzalez on grounds that Joe Navarrette presented a "serious risk" to people who have said they would testify against him.

U.S. Magistrate Philip Cole granted the bond Tuesday, saying Navarrette only will have to pay 10 percent — or $2,000 — before he can be released.

Navarrette, 38, was arrested Friday while on duty at the El Paso International Airport and was charged with conspiring to harbor, conceal and transport three illegal aliens from Colombia.

PI gives up

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — A Houston private investigator accused of tampering with a witness in an investigation involving state Sen. Carl Parker surrendered and was released on $5,000 bond.

Keith William Budd Jr., head of Triad Security Associates Inc., a Houston private investigation firm, surrendered Tuesday to Calise Blanchard Jr., a district attorney's investigator.

"He put up $5,000 bond and was booked in and out of jail and is on his way back to Houston," Blanchard said.

Explosion

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Two terrorists riding a motorcycle hurled grenades at a government building in Tehran today, killing one man and wounding two as Iran celebrated the anniversary of the Islamic revolution, Iran's news agency reported.

The agency said police shot and killed one attacker, wounded the second and arrested a third man.

D. Stockman may be in 'hot water'

Did You Know?

Your Hospital

Cogdell Memorial

The hospital auxiliary sponsors a Medical Student Scholarship Fund to assist medical students.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Budget Director David Stockman concedes he may be "in hot water" for his testimony to a Senate committee that military leaders care more about their pensions than they do about national security.

His contention that the military pension system was "a scandal ... an outrage" was "a personal opinion," probably not shared by President Reagan, Stockman told the Senate Budget Committee on Tuesday.

Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger, while declining to comment on Stockman's statements directly, told a reporter "there's no scandal that I know of" in the military retirement system.

"I think the military retirement provisions that are in the president's budget are proper and we have no indication that the president has in any way deviated from those," Weinberger said.

Stockman was about midway through his testimony defending Reagan's $974 billion budget — and its proposed $30 billion increase in defense spending — when he launched his solo charge against the military establishment.

He told the panel he was tired of hearing congressional complaints about the size of Reagan's military budget — without any specific recommendations from members of Congress on what defense programs to trim.

Then, he gave the committee an example of one area of military spending that could be pared back substantially:

"I haven't been able to get anything done on military retirement downtown. It's a scandal. It's an outrage," Stockman testified.

"The institutional forces in the military are more concerned about protecting their retirement benefits than they are about protecting the security of the American people. When push comes to shove, they'll give up on security before they give up on retirement."

"Now that's just another true fact of life and I'll probably be in hot water for saying it, but I'm going to say it because it's about time it was said," Stockman added.

Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have tried to enlist in the armed forces, but every time I take their physical exam, I fail because my pulse climbs to 120. I'm 19, weigh 150 and am in good health. I don't smoke or drink, use salt or drink anything with caffeine. My usual resting pulse rate is 70 or lower.

I jog and walk about five miles a day and my maximum pulse rate never exceeds 140 a minute. Since I have been rejected four times by the Army, I think every time I take the exam I mentally increase my pulse. Can the mind play tricks with my pulse? If so, how can I overcome this problem?

DEAR READER — You are probably as healthy as can be, judging from your story. Yes, your mind can increase your heart rate that much and even more. Emotions can raise both the heart rate and blood pressure. You probably are right in believing that your emotions cause you to react this way when you are being examined.

It is difficult to overcome such reactions. If you had access to a doctor's office, you could have your pulse taken regularly until you got used to it. You might get some benefit from behavioral modification if you could locate a reliable source for it in your community.

You also could further improve your level of physical fitness. As endurance capacity is developed, the heart rate can be reduced. Roger Bannister had a resting rate of over 70 before he trained to be the first man to break the four minute mile. When trained, his resting heart rate was below 40.

If you can lower your resting heart rate considerably through training, then when you take your exam and your heart rate increases, it may not exceed the limits allowed to enter service. It's worth a try.

Meanwhile, read The Health Letter, Special Report 32, What Your Heart Rate Means, which I am sending you. Understanding your problem may help solve it. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently you discussed malnutrition among hospital and nursing-home patients. You were so right to point out the problem, but you laid the problem on the wrong doorstep.

There are patients who have no relatives or have relatives who are too ill to feed them, live out of town, are self-employed and work 12 or more hours a day, or would have to bring small children to the hospital with them.

Let's put the responsibility for feeding a feeble patient right where it belongs — with the hospital! If a hospital can charge its patients a fortune, it should provide the most basic and vital service.

DEAR READER — Hospitals and nursing homes should see to it that all patients are not only served a balanced diet according to their needs, but also that they eat it. My concern is that many trays of food go uneaten because no one helps the patient.

I wish the problem could be solved by putting the responsibility where it belongs. I don't disagree with you. But I have seen a lot of human nature and I know there will be many times when employees will not exercise their responsibility. Regardless of where the responsibility lies, the point is to feed the patient. I strongly recommend that relatives and friends make sure that their loved ones are getting good basic care, and this may require that they show up during the patients mealtime.

By Darry Modeling Agency...

Locals win in preliminary pageant

Five Snyder youth garnered winning trophies during the Kids of America beauty and talent competition held last Saturday in the Willow Park Inn. Winners included Chelsea Strunk, beautiful baby division birth to five months and photogenic competition in the same age group; Joshua Ortegon, six to 11 months; Shelby Hildebrand, 10-12 year beauty division; Zeena Cox, talent winner in the 13-17 year old division; and Angie Lay, 13-17 year old category and overall winner of the photogenic competition.

The Kids of America pageant system is a division of the Darry Modeling Agency. Saturday's pageant marked the first held here by the Dallas based agency and the first in Snyder for the past several years.

"My most important concern is that child. A young lady may not walk away with a trophy or crown but as long as she walks away feeling better about herself and learns something, that's what we strive for."

In Snyder to conduct the talent and beauty contest, Larry York, co-owner of the agency, says that helping children achieve a greater sense of self-esteem through the pageant system is the goal of his agency.

He and his partner David Westerfield established Darry Modeling four years ago to teach manners and to focus on "extensive personal development" in children. "We want to teach something they can use every day not just when they are out on stage."

York believes that pageant systems offer many advantages to the boys and girls who become involved. The advantages cited included developing self-confidence and feeling better about themselves. "We all like attention from time to time," he added.

He also felt that pageants offer a "wonderful growing experience" for the children and that many make and keep new friends. "You'd be surprised how many of them keep up with each other (those they meet at competitions)."

Mothers and daughters interviewed during Saturday's festivities seemed to agree.

Cindy Dudley of Floydada, whose daughter Danaka won the beauty competition in the seven to nine year division, said that pageant participation helped Danaka become more self assured. "It also helps develop her self-reliance," she added. "A lot of the responsibility for getting ready (for the event) is hers."

Patsy Ritchey of Colorado City said that the contests teach her daughter to get along with others. "Anything they (children) do — pageants, sports or whatever — helps them to be a more outgoing person, to care about themselves and others." Her daughter Sharie took top honors in the three to six year old beauty division.

Beverly Cross of Dallas was in Snyder to watch her daughter Connie participate. "I think it's a great opportunity for girls," she said. "If they place, it can be the start of a new career in lots of different fields.

"Her dad is really her support system," she added. "He does all the arranging and helping in her career." Connie wants to be a model. Cross believes it is unusual for a father to be as involved in the program as Connie's is. "He's a good father for her," she remarked.

While York did not cite any disadvantages to the program, some of the mothers did.

Ritchey said, "Some mothers go overboard. Some won't let their kids outside for fear of scratches. If a mother goes about it in the wrong way — if she's too keyed up about winning — that's a disadvantage to the kids."

Winners from Snyder and those from the other 75 to 100 pageants Darry conducts across the country will have their entry fees paid to the national contest in Dallas in July.

Winners in Saturday's competition included:

—Beautiful baby contest — Chelsea Strunk of Snyder, birth to five months; six to 11 months — Amanda Sloan of Snyder, fourth; Kendall Brewster of Snyder, third; Brody Redwine of Colorado City, second; Amanda Zajick of Snyder, first; and Joshua Ortegon of Snyder, winner.

In the 12 to 23 month division were Shanah Brown of Abilene, second; Katie Marr of Snyder, first; Dyana Campos of Colorado City, winner. Twenty-four to 35 month — Andrew Gunnels of Snyder, fourth; Taylor Green of Fort Worth, third; Dawn Garland of Plains, second; Brianne Fryar of Big Spring, first; and Jill Wilson of Levelland, winner.

—Talent competition — three to six year winners were Maggie Haddad of Big Spring, third; Cassie Henkle of Big Spring, second; Heather Wilson of Levelland, first; and Kimberly Duke of Lubbock, winner.

Seven to nine year winners included Cody Lewis of Snyder, second; Courtney Fryar of Big Spring, first; and Deann Ellison of Crosbyton, winner.

Ten to 12 year winners were Amanda Donnely of Snyder, third; Tamera Petrash of Lubbock, second; Raimi Fryar of Big Spring, first; and Jennifer Baker of Lubbock, winner.

Thirteen to 17 year winners were Christy Greene of Snyder, first, and Zeena Cox of Snyder, winner.

—Beauty division — three to six year winners included Kimberly Duke of Lubbock, fourth; Cassie Henkel of Big Spring, third; Lacy Golightly of Floydada, second; Heather Wilson of Levelland, first; and Sharie Ritchey of Colorado City, winner.

Seven to nine year winners were Jennifer Marquez of Sweetwater, second; Jaime Cox of Colorado City, first; and Danaka Dudley of Floydada, winner.

Ten to 12 year winners were Rachel Wilson of Snyder, fourth; Raimi Fryar of Big Spring, third; Brandee Brock of Brownfield, second; Jennifer Baker of Lubbock, first; and Shelby Hildebrand of Snyder, winner.

Thirteen to 17 year winners were Christy Greene of Snyder, fourth; Angie Aycock of Snyder, third; Connie Cross of Snyder, second; Amy Polk of Snyder, first; and Shannon Neighbors of Sweetwater, winner.

SNYDER GIRLS WIN — These girls will represent Snyder in the national Kids of America pageant sponsored by the Darry Modeling Agency in Dallas in July. Pictured are (left to right) Brooke Gladson, who won the three to six talent division in Crosbyton in September; Zeena Cox, talent winner in Saturday's 13 to 17 year division; Shelby Hildebrand, 10 to 12 year beauty winner on Saturday; Kristen Walton, 13 to 17 year beauty winner in Lubbock in December; and Starling Shields, three to six beauty winner in Abilene in October. Care for youth

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — More than 16,000 youths, including a record 785 in 1984, have been cared for by Father Flanagan's Boys Town since it opened in 1917.

The non-profit institution, located on the outskirts of this city, serves troubled, abused and neglected boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 19.

It also supports the Boys Town National Institute for Communications Disorders in Children in Omaha, where more than 6,000 children with speech or hearing disorders were diagnosed and treated in 1984.

Reagan to endorse tax plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, in his fourth annual State of the Union address to Congress, is expected to endorse the plan he ordered for simplifying the income tax system while leaving open the option of changing elements of the proposal before sending it to Capitol Hill.

Tonight's speech to a joint session of the House and Senate, which coincidentally falls on Reagan's 74th birthday, will be broadcast live at 9 p.m. EST by the major television and radio networks.

One official who read the speech called it the president's "vision of the future, the heart and soul of Ronald Reagan."

Reagan is expected to report that the economic program he launched in 1981 has spurred strong growth but that the government must now turn its attention to the record-high deficits that came with his recovery plan.

The budget he sent to Congress on Monday would increase spending by $14.6 billion to $973.7 billion in fiscal 1986 with substantial cuts in domestic programs and continued increases in military spending.

The budget projects a fiscal 1986 deficit of $180 billion, down from this year's estimated $222.2 billion in red ink.

White House Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan, asked Tuesday how specific Reagan would be about his plan to overhaul the income tax system, said: "He'll back it." But Regan added the president would not go into great detail about the tax simplification proposal.

Other White House sources, discussing the speech on condition they not be identified by name, said Reagan would reiterate his commitment to a modified "flat tax" system as the best means of simplifying the present federal income tax.

It was a year ago, in his State of the Union address, that Reagan called for "a plan for action to simplify the entire tax code so all taxpayers, big and small, are treated more fairly."

After nearly a year of study, Regan, who was then secretary of the treasury, produced a proposal for eliminating most brackets in the progressive tax system, and most deductions as well, in an attempt to design a tax structure in which all but the poorest wage earners would bear a fair share of the burden.

Reagan has said he likes the Regan plan but has indicated it may undergo some changes before he formally submits it to Congress. That has been interpreted in some quarters as a reluctance on Reagan's part to accept the overhaul scheme, which could substantially increase taxes on the wealthy.

One source who has seen Reagan's speech says the president will m[illegible] "[illegible] commitment to tax simplification" and the flat-tax concept in an attempt to put to rest suggestions that he doesn't really support the Regan plan.

An underlying theme of the message, according to unidentified officials quoted by The New York Times, will be an effort by the president to reach "all Americans," including members of minority groups, some of whom have attacked the administration's social welfare policies and budget cuts.

New budget may mean crop insurance costs will increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — If President Reagan's new budget proposals carry any weight with Congress, the government will be gradually stepping out of the crop insurance business during the next few years.

Eventually, farmers who have counted on subsidized "all-risk" crop insurance will being paying more for coverage.

The budget plan, which was sent to Congress this week, includes a provision for phasing out government premium subsidies and other functions handled by the Federal Crop Insurance Corp., an agency in the Agriculture Department.

Since Congress passed new crop insurance legislation in 1980, federal insurance coverage has been expanded to new areas and to additional commodities. The program also has been increasingly turned over to the private sector.

"Currently, private insurance companies account for almost all of FCIC coverage, half through reinsurance and half through sales and service agreements, also called master marketing agreements," the department's budget report said.

"Further privatization of the crop insurance program is proposed with a phase out over the next five years of government costs for administrative and operating expenses, and for premium subsidy."

Currently, the government pays all administrative and operating expenses of the crop insurance program and 25 percent of the premiums charged farmers.

Under the budget plan — which would require legislation — administrative and operating expenses for FCIC would be cut to $164.3 million in the fiscal year that will begin on Oct. 1, down from $198.6 million this year. Premium subsidies would drop to $92 million from $135 million in 1984-85.

Normally, the report said, the FCIC is supposed to have a loss ratio of 0.90, which means that benefits or indemnities paid to farmers equal 90 percent of the total premiums, with 10 percent reserved to cover severe losses in the future.

"Unfavorable loss ratios since 1980, however, depleted a capital stock subscription of $450 million and have resulted in a serious cash drain on the corporation's revolving fund," the report said.

In order to continue, the FCIC is requesting a $50 million supplemental appropriation, which would provide the remaining capital stock authorized by Congress in the 1980 law.

Projections for 1986 show that federal crop insurance programs will be operating in more than 3,000 counties in all 50 states with a coverage of $10.1 billion. Some 63.1 million acres of crops would be covered.

If losses are average, indemnities in 1986 could be about $540 million, down from $586 million projected for 1985, the report said.

The present political status of Angorra — joint sovereignty by France and the bishop of Urgel — dates from 1278.

SCS again selling windbreak trees

The Mitchell Soil and Water Conservation District will be selling windbreak trees from now until February 15, according to Jimmy Harrison, Chairman of the board of directors. Scurry and Borden Counties are invited to participate in this windbreak program.

Types of trees the district will sell will be the Mondell Pine, Native Plum (wild), Cottonwood (cottonless), Russian Olive, Green Ash, Hackberry, Black Walnut, Osage Orange (Bois-d'arc), Arizona Cypress, Austrian Pine and Ponderosa Pine. Apricot, redbud, lilac and bur oak will also be sold.

The Mondell Pine originated in the regions of southeast Asia. It will reach a height of about 18 feet in five years and about 40 feet in 15 years. This pine can be used for windbreaks as well as landscaping. The Russian Olive is a fast growing shrub or small tree that is excellent for wildlife. It has a beautiful foliage and also makes an excellent large hedge. The native plum is excellent for wildlife and makes excellent preserves and jelly.

Protection from rodents and wind should be planned for these trees. This can be done by using cans or other containers, shingles, hailscreens, old tires, etc. Water is essential. A minimum of five to eight gallons per tree each week will be needed the first growing season and about 10 gallons the second growing season. An inexpensive "drip" irrigation system is recommended. This can be made by using plastic pipe and emitter tubes.

Payment is due upon placement of the order. Refunds will be made if delivery is not complete. Due to variables in either conditions and care provided for the trees, no guarantee of liveability is made after the trees are received by each individual. Due to shortages of some of the trees, orders should be placed as soon as possible. Trees may be picked up at the Soil Conservation Service Office in the Snyder Shopping Center.

Forms for ordering trees can be picked up at the Soil Conservation Service office in the Snyder Shopping Center, 3423 Avenue T, or write to the Mitchell Soil & Water Conservation District, P. O. Box 910, Colorado City, Tex. 79512, and order blanks will be mailed to you. Personnel at the Soil Conservation Service Office in Snyder can be contacted for more information.

Computer problems blamed for error

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Computer problems have been blamed for a California-based company's failure to complete their work on several thousand property tax accounts in Texas.

The delay by Ticor Realty Tax Service cost more than 8,000 mortgage holders in Lubbock and Midland counties their property tax deductions for 1984.

Ron Bill, vice president in charge of Ticor's tax operation in Texas, told The Avalanche-Journal Tuesday that the tax company ran into problems with a data system that was first put on line this past year.

The problems Ticor has had, he said, were caused by the company's efforts to progress and update its computer system.

Because Ticor failed to pay the ad valorem taxes before Jan. 1, Internal Revenue Service officials said the affected property owners cannot claim the deductions for those taxes on their 1984 income tax statements. According to the IRS, the deductions cannot be claimed until the property owners file their 1985 statements.

Economists think good times ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite record deficits, congressional economists today predicted continued economic recovery for the next two years, with unemployment falling below 7 percent and inflation remaining under 5 percent.

"Budget deficits, even of the size recently experienced and projected for the next several years, are unlikely to have a sudden destructive impact on the economy," the Congressional Budget Office said in its annual economic report to the House and Senate.

However, the report cautioned that if large deficits persist without congressional action, "runaway debt" would eventually stifle the economy.

The end result could be "stagnating or perhaps even declining standards of living, deteriorating public services, or reduced defense capabilities," the report said.

"Even though the damage may be initially difficult to detect, it would become progressively more difficult to undo," it added.

Release of the report by the non-partisan agency came as the Senate Budget Committee prepared for its second day of hearings on President Reagan's record $974 billon budget.

Rudolph Penner, the budget office director, was scheduled to testify both on the report and on the president's budget.

In the absence of deficit-cutting action, the federal deficit — now hovering at just over $200 billion — will rise to $296 billion by 1990, the report said.

Reagan's budget, which recommends $39 billion in domestic spending cuts, would reduce the deficit to $180 billion by 1986 and — administration officials claim — further declining amounts each year thereafter.

The budget office forecasts "generally favorable economic performance through 1985-1986."

It predicted that the unemployment rate would drop from its 7.2 percent level of last December to an average of 7.1 percent through 1985 and to 6.9 percent in 1986.

Inflation was forecast at 4.2 percent this year, up from 3.5 percent last year,and rising slightly to 4.6 percent next year.

Overall economic growth will average more than 3 percent over the next two years, although interest rates will remain near their current high levels through the period, the forecast said.

The report said there was still no consensus among economists over when the consequences of continued high deficits would be felt.

"Over a short period they may even have invigorating effects in many sectors, boosting employment and real after-tax incomes," the report suggested.

Mengele was almost captured

JERUSALEM (AP) — The man who caught Nazi war criminal Adolf Eichmann says Israel considered a commando raid to capture Josef Mengele, the Auschwitz "Angel of Death," after he eluded Israeli agents in a posh Buenos Aires suburb.

Isser Harel, a former Israeli intelligence chief, made the revelation in Jerusalem, where a mock trial is being held this week by Jews who survived Mengele's experimentation on twins and dwarfts at Auschwitz concentration camp in his quest for a race of genetically superior Germans.

Harel also disclosed Tuesday that he ordered Israel's Mossad intelligence agency to break up neo-Nazi movements in Europe in the early 1960s.

Mengele, believed to be living in Paraguay, is the Nazi most wanted by those seeking to capture and try war criminals. He is accused of sending 400,000 people to gas chambers and picking others — mainly twins and dwarfs — for his crude genetic experiments.

Harel said he doubted Mengele could be extradited and suggested he should be assassinated if found.

"If it is impossible to bring him to trial, I would find another solution, a final solution for Mengele," he said.

Harel, 70, retired in 1963 after 15 years as Mossad's director.

Eichmann, who directed the Nazi plan to exterminate European Jews, was kidnapped from Argentina and hanged in Jerusalem in 1963.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the bride who insisted that her husband wear a wedding band prompts this: I am a superintendent at an industrial plant in Macon, Ga. After two accidents, both caused by rings, I posted an order that no employee was to wear a ring while working.

This rule was enforced until a mechanic was assigned from the general maintenance department. He was not under my control, but I saw a wedding ring on his finger and asked him to remove it—and I explained why.

He said, "My wife put that ring on my finger, and I intend to wear it until the day I die!"

Well, he didn't die, but two days later he came close. An electrical circuit on a welder was completed when he accidentally brushed against it with his ring.

Maybe branding is the answer.

JOHN B. NAPIER

DEAR JOHN: If branding would save a life, I'm for branding. Many years ago I had a letter from an electrician's wife who said that her husband had worn a wedding ring for years, had gained weight and couldn't get it off. It seems his wedding ring had worn a tiny hole through his insulated glove, and a fatal contact was made. When his lifeless body was examined, the only sign of injury was a small burn where his wedding ring had encircled his finger.

Now I tell wives: If your husband works around machines or electricity, if you really love him, insist that he leave his wedding ring at home! Sentiment is a poor excuse for wearing a ring if it can cause the loss of a finger, hand, arm or a life.

DEAR ABBY: Do I ever have a bone to pick with you! Now you say that dentists whose practice is limited to school children should work from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. and all day Saturday, so kids won't have to miss school for dental appointments.

You sure have your nerve! Dentists are people, too. They get married and have kids of their own. When are they supposed to see their own kids—on Sunday afternoons?

The dentist may be "Doctor" to his patients, but he is "Daddy" to his children.

DENTIST'S WIFE
(MOTHER OF FOUR)

DEAR WIFE: A person who chooses a specialty should be prepared to practice during hours that will accommodate his patients. And by the way, Mother, some dentists are "Doctor" to their patients, but "Mama" to their children.

DEAR ABBY: Please set me straight. If my credit cards are stolen or lost, is it true that once I report the loss or theft, I am not responsible for the charges on my card?

I was also told that under federal law, regardless of how much the thief charges on my credit card, I cannot be held responsible for more than $50 per card.

Did I hear right or not?

MAC IN THE BIG APPLE

DEAR MAC: You heard right. But in order to protect yourself against credit card fraud, you should have a neat little booklet, "Who's Got Your Number?"

It's put out by the Consumer Affairs Office of American Express Co. and the Federal Trade Commission. It explains how to guard against credit card fraud. It also explains the legal rights and procedures for victims of fraud.

This valuable little booklet can be obtained for free by writing to: Consumer Affairs Office, 19th Floor, Dept. DA, American Express Co., 125 Broad St., New York, N.Y. 10004. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Defense takes over in Ricky Kyle murder case

LOS ANGELES (AP — Defense attorneys admit that Ricky Kyle fired the gun that killed his millionaire father, but only after the elder Kyle first fired a shot at his son.

In his opening statement to the Superior Court jury hearing the younger Kyle's murder trial Tuesday, attorney Michael P. Gibson called the shooting of Henry Harrison Kyle "justifiable homicide."

"A tragedy — not a crime — occurred on July 22, 1983," Gibson told the jury. "Henry Kyle set in motion the circumstances that resulted in his own death."

The defense team's first explanation of its case came as the trial entered its 10th week.

The prosecution claims Ricky Kyle, 22, shot his father in the dining room of the elder Kyle's Bel-Air mansion because he feared being cut from the real estate and movie production tycoon's will.

Three witnesses — young Kyle's half-sister, her former fiance and Ricky Kyle's brother-in-law — testified for the prosecution that young Kyle had admitted to them that he shot his father in the back at close range.

Western entertains Howard in WJCAC action Thursday

Western Texas and Howard College tipoff one of the top rivalries in the area when they clash in a double header at Scurry County Coliseum here Thursday.

Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students outside Scurry County. Local students - including Snyder High School students - are admitted free.

The action is scheduled to begin at 6 o'clock with a women's game. The men play at 8.

In the early tilt, Western Texas College's Dusters will be going for their eighth straight victory. Sitting in second place in the Westerner Athletic Conference with a 7-1 record, the Dusters are 24-4 for the season and are undefeated in the coliseum.

Howard's Hawk Queens are 18-7 and 5-4. They will come into the game riding a three-game winning streak.

Thursday's late game is between the 14-9, 4-6 Westerners of Western Texas and the 10-11, 4-7 Hawks of Howard College.

Though both teams have struggled of late, each has shown they are capable of being a force in the WJCAC.

The contest opens a three-game home stand for the Westerners, who host South Plains in a makeup game at 7 o'clock Saturday night, then join with the Dusters in a doubleheader against Odessa next Monday.

Girls stumble, 65-51...

Mustang depth stops Snyder

Fans attending Tuesday's game at Snyder High School Gym know why Sweetwater's Lady Mustangs are the state's eighth ranked team in Class 4A.

The Mustangs flashed quickness with the fast break, worked a height advantage inside, hit well from the perimeter and had depth to fall back on when in foul trouble. They used those talents and more to overcome a scrappy Snyder Tiger team, 65-51, in a key District 2-4A shootout.

For Snyder, the loss erased all but the faintest hopes of making the playoffs. Sweetwater can wrap up second place in the district - and eliminate Snyder at the same time - with a win Friday night. Regardless, the Mustangs would have to lose their final two games before the Tigers could get back into the race.

Early on, it became apparent depth would play a role in this game. The teams took 27 freethrow shots in the first two periods alone - and gave up chances at 11 more by missing the front end of 11 one-and-ones. Both teams quickly got key players in foul trouble, but Snyder - with a disadvantage in bench strength - was hit harder.

Though Snyder led 24-21 with about 3:30 to go in the second quarter, the fouls began to work against the home team. Unable to rebound as aggressively, the Tigers backed off - and paid for it. Sweetwater took advantage of the situation and got the ball out quickly on the fast break, scoring six straight buckets for a 27-24 lead.

Snyder had chances to keep up from the freethrow line but was 4-of-7 in the final 2:11 and trailed 31-28 at intermission.

The third quarter was controlled by the Mustangs, who again dominated the boards and took advantage of several turnovers to open up a 37-28 advantage. Snyder didn't score until Karlene Thompson put up a pair of freethrows with 4:28 left.

"You just can't do that (go scoreless for almost four minutes) against a good ballclub like Sweetwater and expect to come out of it," said Snyder Coach Ken Housden. "I guess one thing was being in foul trouble, we weren't able to be as aggressive as we needed. Their depth really showed."

While 6-0 Shanna Wilburn had roamed the middle in the first half, the Mustangs went inside to Cheryl Washington in the second. Deborah McCain provided punch from the outside. In all, nine Mustang players scored - six of them tallying points in the third period.

Snyder finally cooled Sweetwater's hot hand by scoring some points of its own. Thompson, the 5-6 all-area prospect, got four of Snyder's five points in the third quarter, cutting the lead to 41-32 with 2:30 left. The Mustangs rallied to outscore Snyder 7-1 to the buzzer, however, and celebrated a 48-33 advantage going into the final quarter.

Sweetwater's lead grew to as many as 18, 59-41, when McCain notched a freethrow with 3:47 left.

The Mustangs, now 23-3 on the season and 10-2 in district play, were led in scoring by McCain's 17 points. Watson scored 14, Wilburn 12, Cheryl Owens 5 and Sandra McCain 5.

Snyder got a game-high 28 from Thompson, who also yanked down 18 rebounds. Carie Housden - who fouled out of the game for the locals - finished the night with 13 points and 10 rebounds. Brenda Anderson scored 6 points, Becky Gray 3 and LeeAnn Pierce 1.

Sandra and Deborah McCain, Watson and Wilburn all fouled out for Sweetwater. Though Carie Housden was the only ticketed player for Snyder, Thompson, Anderson, Gray, Pierce and Stephanie McKnight all ended the game with four fouls apiece.

Snyder was just 21 of 39 from the freethrow line and 15 of 50 from the field. Sweetwater shot 15 of 32 from the stripe.

The Lady Tigers, now 19-6 and 8-4, are to travel to Fort Stockton on Friday.

Tigers can't hit, fall 61-44

SWEETWATER – Snyder's Tigers couldn't find the hoop here Tuesday night and lost a crucial 2-4A battle to Sweetwater, 61-44.

The defeat leaves Snyder at 5-5 in District 2-4A competition and four games behind the second place team, Andrews. Andrews defeated Fort Stockton 74-61 Tuesday and needs only one win in its final four games to knock Snyder out of the playoff race.

Sweetwater edged out to a 13-10 lead, then jumped on Snyder 15-7 in the second quarter Tuesday for a 28-17 lead. The Mustangs then outscored the visitors 16-10 in the third period. Snyder never got back into the game.

"They were in a 2-3 zone and got ahead of us. Our shot selection was poor and we weren't running our offense like we were supposed to," said Snyder Coach Larry Scott, whose Tigers were 17 of 57 from the field. "We had trouble getting the ball inside. We just weren't aggressive enough. We didn't take the ball to them like we needed to."

Snyder was 2-of-6 inside the lane in the first half and 6-of-19 outside the lane.

"Usually we're going to take 19 shots inside and only six outside. We're not that good of an outside shooting team to be shooting that many times from outside," the coach said.

Sweetwater, also 5-5 in district play now, got 22 points from 6-6 John Layfield. Anthony Norman and Chris Harris added 10 apiece.

In contrast to Snyder's poor shooting, Sweetwater was 24 of 43 from the field.

Charles Bollinger led the Tigers with 10 points. Bobby Scott added 8, Mike McWilliams 6 and Chris Garrett 5 for the Tigers, who who fall to 10-16 on the season.

Snyder played without starting forward Jackie Anderson, who was academically ineligible.

In other action here Tuesday, Sweetwater junior varsity edged Snyder 52-50.

Mark Daniel scored 12 for Snyder while James Courtney and Reynaldo Gomez added 10 apiece.

2 to serve again on review board

Members of the Scurry County Appraisal District board of directors Tuesday reappointed Harold Lacik and Ross Carroll Jr. to the Appraisal Review Board.

The action came during the board's regular monthly session. Lacik and Carroll, who have just completed two-year terms on the three-member board, agreed to serve again. They join Walter Stirl, who has one more year to serve.

The review board's primary function is to decide disputed tax values, and in a related matter directors Tuesday discussed current litigation filed by Dresser-DiChem of Snyder disputing district values for some of that company's inventory.

At the meeting, directors discussed whether to authorize payment of attorney's fees and court costs at one time or to authorize payment as expenses are incurred. In a unanimous decision, members voted to "support the review board in defending their values in the suit Dresser-DiChem vs. the Scurry County Appraisal District."

In other action, the board tabled discussion related to the purchase of a telephone system for district offices pending more information about available equipment.

Members agreed to the purchase of a $500 paper drill requested by Ray Peveler, chief appraiser.

Members present Tuesday were Bill Hairston, Pete Hester, Ross Blanchard and Kenneth Wilson. Billy Huddleston was absent.

two at the Willow Park Inn. Other features at the facility include a jacuzzi, restaurant, large meeting room areas and the private membership Willow Tree Club.

Other door prizes to be given away will include a seafood buffet for four and a buffet for two. A weekly feature of the motel's restaurant is the Friday night seafood buffet.

The motel itself has 42 rooms plus two suites and is affiliated with the Best Western chain of motels. As part of the grand opening, plans are to have one room and one of the suites open to the public.

Refreshments will be served during the afternoon.

Willow Park Inn officially opened Jan. 19. It is owned locally by Ipollo Enterprises Inc., a partnership of local individuals.

At least 2 die in Oklahoma air crash

ALTUS, Okla. (AP) — At least two people were killed today when a twin-engine aircraft crashed and burned near the small community of Friendship in southwest Oklahoma, the Oklahoma Highway Patrol reported.

Highway Patrol dispatcher Bert Collins said troopers were on the scene. Friendship is just northeast of Altus.

Meese must wait two weeks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edwin Meese III, after winning approval of a Senate Judiciary Committee divided over his ethical conduct, must wait two weeks for his final test in the full Senate before he can take over as attorney general.

Majority Leader Robert J. Dole scheduled a Senate vote Feb. 20 after the committee voted 12-6 on Tuesday to recommend approval.

"We're confident Mr. Meese will be confirmed," Dole spokesman Walt Riker said. "The senator hopes to limit floor debate before the vote to about five hours."

Dole was one of 10 Republicans on the judiciary panel who voted in favor of Meese. Two Democrats, Dennis DeConcini of Arizona and Howell Heflin of Alabama, broke ranks and joined the Republicans but said they did so with misgivings.

"The president, for reasons beyond me, seems to place loyalty as the primary criterion for appointment to this job," DeConcini said before casting his vote. "No one questions Mr. Meese's competency.

"The question then comes: Do we ask for something more than a bill of health that says 'you may have some warts, you may have some skin cancer, but you don't have anything terminal.' That's where I find Mr. Meese. He has responded to this committee not quite exactly as I would have liked. Nevertheless, he has faced the so-called music."

Heflin said he remained concerned about Meese's ethics, but supported him "in the absence of clear and convincing evidence that he is unfit. ... I decided to give Mr. Meese the benefit of the doubt."

Committee Chairman Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. waited until all other committee members had their say, before pronouncing Meese "a man of honesty, competency and dedication. When the truth comes out, all appearances of a conflict must disappear."

From the start, a core of Democrats on the judiciary committee opposed Meese's nomination because of his conservative stand on legal issues.

Three arrested after disturbance

Snyder police logged seven misdemeanor arrests Tuesday including three men jailed following a disturbance at a north Snyder residence just after midnight.

Officers were called to a disturbance at a residence in the 1900 Block of Gilmore Ave. twice Tuesday evening and on their second visit jailed three men in their late 20's — one for public intoxication and two others for disorderly conduct.

In unrelated incidents, two suspects were arrested for driving while intoxicated, one for public intoxication and one for driving with a suspended license.

capacity the past six years.

He will be moving from a Kmart of approximately 40,000 sq. ft. in size to one of some 70,000 sq. ft. The local store employs approximately 49 staffers.

Latos and his wife Betty have two children, Tom, age 9; and Mindy, age 6.

Stop sign hit

Snyder-based Department of Public Safety highway patrolmen were called to investigate a minor traffic accident at 12:45 a.m. Wednesday.

According to reports, a vehicle was found abandoned at the intersection of Ave. E and the Camp Springs road where it had apparently run over a stop sign.

The car was towed from the scene.

Farmers protest foreclosure of area farm

LEVELLAND, Texas (AP) — About 100 farmers gathered in front of the Hockley County Courthouse to silently protest the foreclosure sale of a nearby farm, an event many say is likely to become an everyday occurrence in the area.

Kenneth M. Means, a Haskell native who, with his wife Ruby, had been operating a 163-acre farm for three decades, looked on silently Tuesday as Small Business Administration trustee Tom Swanner put up the final bid on the property at $500 an acre.

"It's hard to realize that you've spent 32 years doing something and then wake up one morning to realize you're a failure," Means lamented. "But I didn't just get into this overnight. It's been going on for eight years."

Means, 52, told the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal that his problems started when he began financing his crop production with federal government loans instead of through banks.

Through price controls on agriculture, Means contends the government made it virtually impossible for him to make enough money to repay his loan. And what happened to him, he predicts, will happen to a multitude of West Texas farmers before long.

"They (the federal government) have us over a barrel. Most of us left the practice of borrowing from the banks several years ago to borrow from the government, but then they don't allow us to earn anything because of price controls," Means said. "I'm going into debt to keep them in business."

Bidding for the property, which began at 2 p.m. Tuesday, went relatively quickly and with little of the deafening protests from farmers that have marked foreclosure sales in other parts of the country.

The SBA's Swanner, who left the proceeding immediately after it concluded and was not available for comment, opened the bidding at $300 an acre. After one man offered $350 an acre, several of the farmers started shouting, "No sale, no sale." Swanner than purchased the property through the SBA at the $500-an-acre price.

By law, the government must hold an announced public auction on all foreclosed land. If a bid is not deemed high enough, the government may assume the land and its assets, as it did Tuesday.

Means said that he originally had borrowed $46,500 from the federal government through a farm loan program and that he had accumulated about $7,000 in interest payments. But after paying for seed, equipment and the needs of his family, he had little left to make payments.

"In my best year after I took out the loan I cleared about $7,500," Means said. "I just wasn't making enough money to keep up with the interest payment."

Bobby Jackson, a Levelland farmer who works 900 acres of land southwest of town, said he joined the other farmers at the courthouse "to let the Small Business Administration people know that we don't agree with their taking our land" through foreclosures.

"We didn't come here to cause any trouble," Jackson said. "There are a lot of us old boys here that fought during the war so that we could have this land to come home to, and now we're losing it because of the federal government's farm policies."

James Long, who farms 2,200 acres near Paducah in Cottle County, called the government's foreclosure policy short-sighted and warned it would mean the end of rural America.

"Before too long, you're going to see nothing but wasteland from Lubbock to Wichita Falls," Long said. "Rural America as we know it is disappearing, and it will continue to do so unless something is done."

For every dollar invested in agriculture across the nation, $7 is returned through the harvesting, production, packaging and sale of crops, Long said. But the goverment doesn't seem to recognize that when they set prices or when they foreclosed on farms, he added.

Long estimates farmers nationwide have nearly $230 billion in federal government loans outstanding, and 99 percent of them can't make monthly payments, or interest rates.

"The same government that had made these farm loans so cheap is the same government that's keeping the prices cheap," he said. "We're losing our farms because of it, our student enrollment is dropping, and people are moving away to the city."

Means' farm wasn't the only one to go on the auction block Tuesday. Earlier in the day, Noble Haliburton Jr. lost part of the farm he shared with his father when the Texas American Bank took over the property.

Man pinned under truck for 11 hours

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — An Abilene man says the thought of an appetizing fried chicken dinner caused him to spend 11 hours pinned under his pickup truck in cold weather.

Randall Leonard, 30, was pinned under the truck for about 11 hours before he was freed early Tuesday. He had been attempting to change a tire on the truck when the truck slipped off the jack and pinned him, Leonard said.

The oilfield worker said he had been in a hurry to change the tire and that probably caused him to be pinned.

The man said he was at work when his wife called Monday night to say that she was having a fried chicken dinner.

"She (his wife) told me over the phone we were having fried chicken and mashed potatoes and gravy," Leonard recalled. He said laughingly that the meal sounded so good he was in a hurry to get home.

Leonard told the Abilene Reporter-News he was never under the full weight of the truck and was not in great pain, but began to lose circulation in the leg.

"I did situps, everything I knew how, to keep the circulation going. I had most of the pain when they got it off, because the circulation came back," Leonard said.

Leonard said the vehicle was on the frontage road of U.S. 277 and he tried to attract the attention of passing motorists by waving at them from under the truck, but most passed on by, apparently thinking that the man was merely waving to them.

The man was finally freed when Keith Middleton, a Texas Highway Department employee, found him, officers said.

The man was taken to an Abilene hospital for treatment of a compressed ankle and released. He said he did not suffer much from the 31-degree temperatures because he had put on a sweater before starting to change the tire.

Leonard's wife, Susan, said she did not become concerned when her husband did not come home for dinner because she believed he had probably been called to work at at the oilfield job.

Leonard said Tuesday he has taken a great deal of ribbing by friends who jokingly told him they believed he concocted the accident as a way to spend the night out, away from his wife.

"I told them I have the DPS (Texas Department of Public Safety), the fire department and the news media to vouch for me," Leonard said.

Youth shoots self after telling father of crime

DALLAS (AP) — A south Dallas teen-ager fatally shot himself in front of his father after confessing that he had shot another youth last week, police said.

Jerry Padilla, 16, put the barrel of a handgun in his mouth and pulled the trigger as his father, Louis Padilla, ran into a bedroom of their home about 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Police youth division detectives had questioned the teen-ager just three hours earlier in connection with the shooting of a 14-year-old on Friday, investigator Janice P. Kelley said.

Earnest Sosa of Dallas has been hospitalized in fair condition since the shooting.

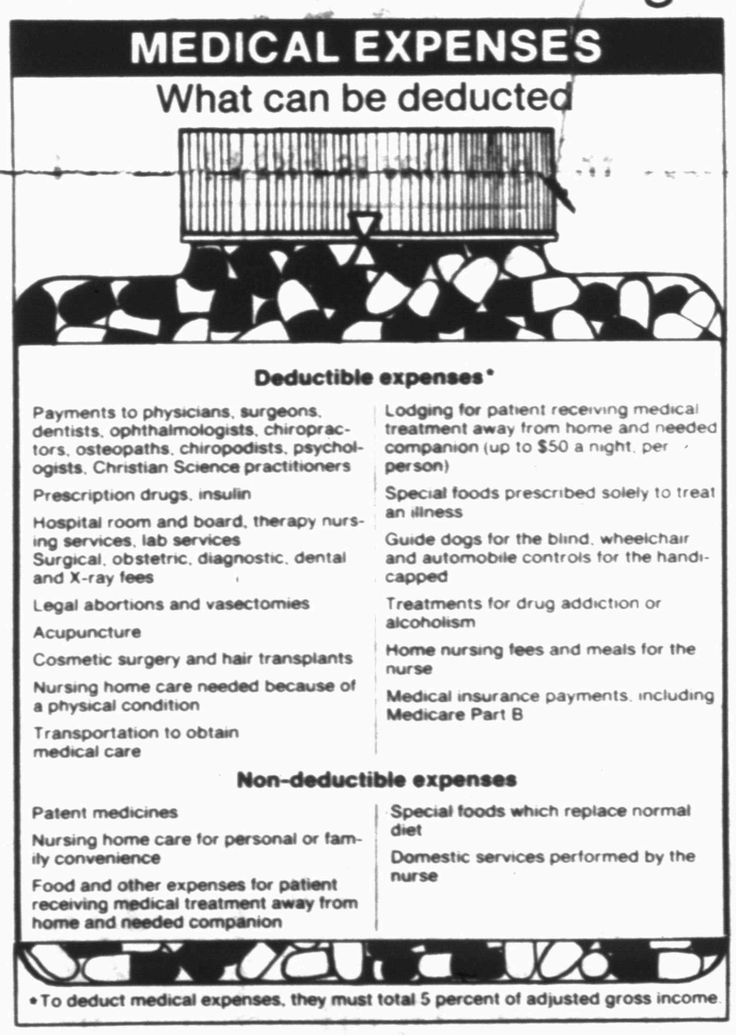
Rules on medical deductions change

By Robert Metz

(Eighth of 14 articles)

The government giveth and the government taketh away. For some taxpayers who qualify for medical-expense deductions this year, the government has a small gift. But there was a major taking away in medical deductions in 1983. That's when deductions for qualifying expenses were limited to sums in excess of 5 percent of adjusted gross income. (Previously, the limit had been 3 percent.)

First, let's look at the new facet of the medical-expense section. You may now include in the 5 percent calculation sums paid for lodging while away from home. The travel must be essential to the medical care.



To deduct medical expenses, you must itemize deductions.

CUT YOUR OWN TAXES AND SAVE

The medical care may be provided in a hospital or an outpatient clinic. If another person must accompany the patient, as, for example, a parent who goes with a dependent child, the companion's lodging could also be deductible.

If the travel is a holiday, no deduction is allowed. And this deduction is limited — the government has no intention of offsetting lavish expenses. The maximum deduction is $50 per night for each eligible person. No deduction is allowed for other expenses — not even food.

On the negative side, some helpful facets of the old law are canceled. Even so, the medical deduction is an important one.

Tax tip: You will have to use the form 1040 — the long form — and itemize deductions to claim un-reimbursed medical expenses.

Here are the kinds of expenses that can be used to qualify for the medical deduction: payments to physicians, surgeons, dentists, ophthalmologists, optometrists, chiropractors, osteopaths, chiropodists, podiatrists, psychiatrists, psychologists and Christian Science practitioners.

Tax trap: Only prescription drugs and insulin are included. That's a change. Until this year drugs were subject to a separate 1 percent offset from adjusted gross income. Now they must be included with other medical expenses.

Hospital charges for room and board, therapy nursing services, ambulance hire, laboratory services, surgical, obstetrical, diagnostic, dental and X-ray fees are included. So are payments for legal abortions, vasectomies and acupuncture treatment. You may also include the cost of cosmetic surgery and hair transplants.

Under some circumstances, you may include the cost of maintaining someone in a nursing home due to a physical condition.

Tax trap: Room and board are not deductible if the patient is in a nursing home primarily for personal or family convenience. Then, only charges relating to nursing and medical care are deductible.

Tax tip: You need documentation such as a letter from the patient's physician to prove physical condition dictates nursing home care.

Transportation to obtain medical care is a legitimate medical expense. This includes the actual cost of bus, taxi, train or plane fare. When your own car is used, you may charge out-of-pocket expenses for gas, oil, tolls and parking charges, or you may charge a standard rate of 9 cents a mile — plus parking and turnpike tolls, of course.

The cost of special foods prescribed solely to treat an illness is deductible — but only if the food does not replace a normal diet.

Costs for guide dogs for the blind, motorized wheelchairs, and special equipment installed in automobiles for use by the physically handicapped are deductible.

Payments for treatment at a therapeutic center for drug addicts or alcoholics qualify under the rules for medical expense deductions.

If a nurse is retained to care for a sick person in your home, the fees are deductible and so is the cost of meals furnished to the nurse.

Tax trap: But if domestic services are also performed by a practical nurse, the total cost of the nurse must be allocated between nursing service and domestic chores. Only nursing service is deductible.

The cost of medical insurance is treated as a medical expense. This includes payments for Medicare, Part B. However, reimbursement from insurance to cover medical expenses reduce the medical deduction.

Couple has adopted baby born without jaw

CHICAGO (AP) — Three-year-old Joey, who was born without a lower jaw and still breathes and eats through tubes, will leave the hospital Friday for the first time in his life.

Joey, one of hundreds of hard-to-place children around the country, finally has a home, thanks to Charlene Williams and her husband.

"I love kids," says Mrs. Williams, the 40-year-old mother of six who adopted Joey. "We play with all kids. My husband started playing with Joey, and that's how the relationship started."

Mrs. Williams said she and her husband will "be his moral support, be there for him, be there just to love him."

"There aren't that many resources out there for a kid like Joey," said Mary Martone, the hospital social worker who has handled Joey's case. "Families willing to take on someone like him are few and far between."

In Illinois, about 200 such children are being cared for in foster homes and another 110 in residential centers, said Gary T. Morgan, administrator of the adoption program of the Department of Children and Family Services. The agency hopes to place 65 such youngsters with adoptive parents in the next two years.

The CAP Book, published by the Council of Adoptive Parents in Rochester, N.Y., lists about 800 such hard-to-place children around the country.

Joey was born without a lower jaw; his windpipe and gullet were sealed off.

Children with such defects rarely survive, said Dr. Paula K. Jaudes, an assistant pediatrics professor at the University of Chicago who was in charge of Joey's care. Doctors saved him at birth by making an air opening in his throat.

Joey, who will turn 4 in April, has lived at La Rabida Children's Hospital and Research Center since he was a few days old. Since birth, he has had to breathe and eat through tubes.

The child has had at least six operations, including two attempts to construct a lower jaw and chin — first out of plastic, then out of bone taken from the boy's skull. Both attempts failed and years may pass before technology makes the operation possible, Ms. Jaudes said.

"We feel, yes, that the chin is important for him, but, more important, he's a well-adjusted, bright young man," Ms. Jaudes said. "He's got a great body," she added. "I can see him being a (Chicago) Cubs pitcher one day."

At age 2, Joey, whose last name is being withheld by hospital officials, was given up for adoption, Ms. Jaudes said. The Williamses met him when a foster child in their care needed treatment at La Rabida.

The Williamses spent months learning to feed Joey through the tube in his abdomen and to clean and change a tube in his throat.

Your Birthday

February 7, 1985

Any unique or original ideas you get this coming year should at least be given the chance to prove their merit. One or more could contain the seeds of success.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A friend who is indebted to you may renege on his obligation today because he knows if he gives you a sob story he'll be able to wiggle off the hook. Looking for Mr. Right? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can show you who you are best suited to romantically. To get yours, mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be careful in partnership arrangements today so that you don't bank too heavily upon an undependable ally who has let you down previously.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Unless you are patient and methodical today, you are likely to experience more frustrations than usual at work.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Do not confuse wishful thinking with positive thinking today and count on something that has not yet happened as if it were a fait accompli.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do not spring any changes on your family today without first talking them out with all members. Unexpected alterations will disturb domestic tranquility.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may find it necessary today to rush around from place to place. Don't be in such a hurry that you're tempted to drive carelessly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You could be a shade too extravagant today. Hide your checkbook or, better yet, avoid places where you're tempted to splurge.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Normally you think your moves through rather carefully, but today your customary caution could desert you and you may be tempted to take imprudent chances.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your hunches today may not be all that swift. Acting impulsively without thinking things through could provide a bitter lesson.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Novel or faddish types of merchandise could have a special appeal for you today. Be careful that you don't buy a white elephant you may never use.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Little of value will be accomplished today if you lack consistency. Have a definite game plan and don't attempt to do things in fits and starts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Usually you're a self-reliant person, but today you may look to others to do things you should be taking care of yourself.
