Seniors To Receive Diplomas Tuesday Night

The Eldorado High School Senior class of 1966 returned Sunday from their trip to points in Colorado. They will have their Baccalaureate service Sunday night and receive their diplomas in Commencement exercises two nights later, Tuesday.

The Commencement Vesper Service, or Baccalaureate, is set for 8:00 Sunday evening in school auditorium. The usual capacity crowd is expected and most local churches dispense with their own services that night in order for their congregations to attend.

The program will include band music under direction of Eddie Pace; invocation by Rev. Kenneth Vaughan, message by Rev. Dan Sebesta, and benediction by Rev. Gene Salter. The choral club will render two selections and congregation will sing, "Onward Christian Soldiers."

The Commencement Program begins Tuesday evening at 8:00 with the Eagle Band playing the Processional. Karen Griffin will give the invocation followed by Scott McGregor, salutatory, and Kaye Harkey, valedictory.

Dr. Raymond Cavness, president of Angelo State College, will give the address.

High School Principal Guy Whitaker will present awards, and Supt. A. M. Whitis will present the class for diplomas, with Bill Lester, chairman of the board of trustees, making the presentations.

The Seniors and audience will sing, "Hail Eldorado" and Larry McGinness will give the benediction. The Band will play the Recessional to close the program.

Post Script

This week's Success issue is the first of two editions honoring the graduating Seniors of Eldorado High. We are running pictures of the grads, with brief write-ups of each, and the public-spirited merchants here have bought space to congratulate you and wish you well.

We hope the grads and their parents and friends appreciate the extra effort we have put forth in these special issues and that they will be treasured as keepsakes in the years to come.

The Success crew adds our own best wishes to the Grads, along with those found elsewhere all through these issues.

The 1966 graduating class of Eldorado High School is being sent on its way into the cold, cruel world, with words of wisdom (supposedly) and good wishes.

They are in for a few shocks. Things are not going to be quite as they anticipated, nor will they be as they have been told.

"You are the new generation," they will be told. "The world and its problems will rest on your shoulders."

These Seniors of 1966 will quickly learn that the world and its woes will not be on their shoulders, at least not for quite a while. The problems of getting started in life will be resting on their shoulders, however; the problems of founding a home, getting a college education, choosing a life partner, selecting the right job. These problems can be bigger to the individual, than those involved in saving the world.

In anticipation, these 1966 Seniors have been looking forward to the time when they will be "grown up," when they can do as they please.

It is one of the more disappointing discoveries in life to learn that no one can do as he pleases. As we leave the restrictions of childhood, imposed by parents and teachers, we move into the restrictions of adult life, which can often be even more limiting, imposed by society and law and the economic necessities of life.

When we are growing up, we look forward to the promised land of adulthood. When we attain that lofty plateau, we look back longingly at the carefree (or so we remember them) days of youth. This is human nature. The poet Shelley wrote: "We look before and after and pine for what is not."

But, despite the disappointments and disillusionments, these Seniors of 1966 look forward to the greatest adventure of all time, the adventure of life. Every man is an explorer, charting unknown lands. No one knows what his life holds for him; no one else has ever lived exactly the life he must live.

If these graduating Seniors can be granted the gift of a continuing awareness of the wonder and grandeur of life, this will be the greatest graduation present anyone could receive.

This writer took off Friday morning for Van Horn to be present that night when a 6-year-old granddaughter "graduated" from kindergarten. There were over 30 of the little kids, all dressed in red caps and gowns, and under direction of their teacher, presented a brief program before an auditorium filled with admiring parents and grandparents. Next September all of these little chaps will enter first grade and these is no doubt about it—they will have had a head start.

—ps—

"This is the land that God forgot, desolate, damned and despairful!"

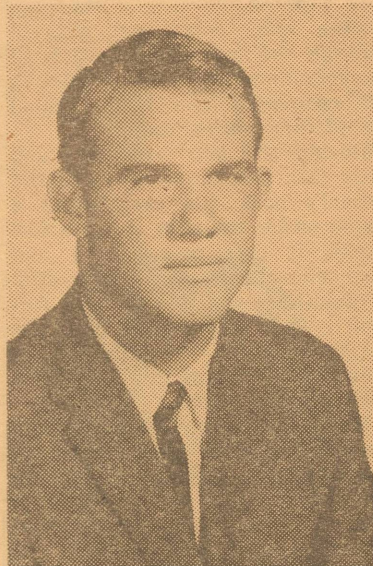

These are words written by Robert W. Service in describing the Yukon country in the Alaska gold rush of 1898. I was reminded of it when my Van Horn folks took me out to the "talc" (talcum) mines out northwest of Van Horn Saturday. No matter how gosh awful a country looks, someone will find something of value in it.

Way out there in that god-forsaken land of hills and cactus, someone was digging under a hill and bringing out pure white talcum powder! Down near the railroad was a processing plant and there was a warehouse filled with thousands of bags of the stuff. The railroad had a spur over to the plant where the stuff could conveniently be loaded for shipment. Out on the grounds were a number of discarded broken bags. The kids scooped up some in their hands and declared, "Daddy, it don't smell like talcum powder!" Of course it didn't smell at all. No doubt down there at the plant it is sold at so much per hundred pounds, but by the time some other plant in the East puts the "smell" in it, it sells by the ounce!

We all got it all over our shoes and when we started back to town my son-in-law had difficulty holding his foot steady on the throttle—that talcum made the soles of your shoes slick.

For 13 years I've been making these trips to Van Horn and it seems like the miles get longer. Actually the distance is shorter, now that we can go by way of Iraan. But there are 7 or 8 miles of construction going on about 25 miles west of Fort Stockton.

I took along three if Ben Keel's placards advertising the Sky Diving Meet in Eldorado. One was placed in a Main Street dry goods store at Iraan; another was posted in Taylor's "Big T" cafe at Fort Stockton, and the third one was given a prominent space in the restaurant at Ramada Inn at Van Horn.

SCOTT MCGREGOR
Salutatorian

With a grade average of 91.53, Scott McGregor was announced as Salutatorian of this year's graduates. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McGregor and will enroll in Southern Methodist University.

Scott served this year as president of the Science club. He was a Science Fair winner last year and this year. He is president of the National Honor Society this year. He has been in the "E" club his Sophomore through Senior years. He was in the Speech club while a Freshman and Sophomore and is now in the Spanish club. He has been in regional and state slide rule contests.

Scott played football all four years, was honorable mention this year for all-district, and served as football team captain last fall. He has also played basketball all four years and this year was team captain. He was also out for track.

He was in one-act play; and this year was second in District Tennis Doubles.

El Dorado Woolens Plans Labor Survey

Tom Wallace, president of El Dorado Woolens, Inc., pointed out Tuesday that the firm is in the process of conducting a labor survey in El Dorado, Sonora, Merton and Christoval in order to determine the number of persons qualified for employment in the local woolen mill.

"With an outstanding development in our garment sales in recent weeks," Wallace pointed out, "it has become necessary that we conduct such a survey to attempt to fill our needs. We have purchased several industrial sewing machines, and contemplate a training program to enable new personnel to become competent on them. The addition of the new machines, plus some new techniques in production should enable us to keep up with our sales program. We hope that any and all who are interested in working with us, would make it known through filing an application in our office."

Wallace added that a prerequisite of employment with the mill would be a thorough physical examination plus sewing experience of some type. Development of a training program will be coordinated with the local home demonstration agent and possibly through the home economics classes in the public schools.

Even when you're away on a short week-end visit and supposed to forget about business, you just like to put in a little promotion for Eldorado. The proprietors in all these places were very accommodating and were glad to give Ben's posters a prominent display. Afterwards I wished I had brought more.

—ps—

Out in the irrigated Lobo Valley south of Van Horn cotton has been planted and was up to a good stand, but farmers were concerned because the weather was cool and the winds too high. But everywhere it is the same story—it's a late spring. Way up in northern Minnesota there has been snow in May! And the Seniors encountered it last week end on their trip to Colorado.

It's a wonder that farmers do as well as they do—year after year.

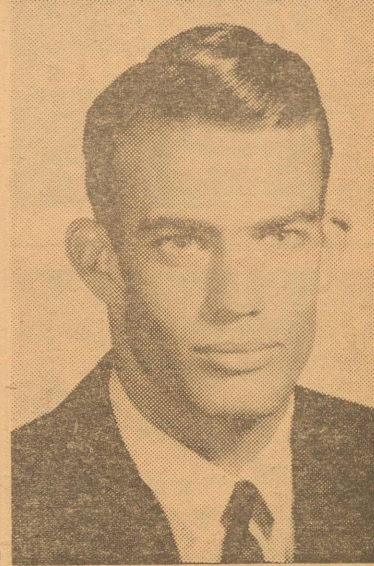

KAYE HARKEY
Valedictorian

With average of 92.75, Kaye Harkey was announced Valedictorian of the 1966 Senior class of Eldorado High School.

She has been in the Speech club four years, and served as secretary and treasurer last year and this year. She was in the Junior play cast, as well as the Senior play and one-act play. She was in band four years and secretary this year, and also in the stage band.

Kaye served as choral accompanist four years. She was in F.H.A. four years and in National Honor Society last year and this year, serving as secretary this year. She was on the Talon staff as assistant editor while a Sophomore, and editor her Junior and Senior years.

Kaye is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Harkey and will attend Texas Tech.

SAM HENDERSON
Class President

Sam has served as his class president all four years. He is Student Council president this year, as well as president of the "E" club. He was in F.F.A. last year and this year and was class favorite while a Sophomore and a Junior. He was Most Popular Boy this year and was in the Spanish club and on the football team. This year in football he was named most outstanding player, was team captain, and was on all-district as well as receiving honorable mention All West Texas. He was on the track team and won district while he was a Freshman, and state champs while he was a Sophomore. While a Junior he received third in state in the 440 relay. He was team captain last year and this year.

Sam, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Sam Henderson, will enroll in Angelo State College.

ACTION INITIATED ON MEDICAL FACILITIES

Adequate medical facilities for Eldorado and Schleicher county are close to becoming a reality as the result of a meeting Tuesday evening sponsored by the First National Bank.

Seventeen representatives of the local business community expressed their concern for the lack of adequate medical facilities as they now exist, and pledged unqualified and unanimous support toward the development of a modern plant properly staffed that will provide for the present and future needs of the community. Leslie L. Baker, president of the bank, Jo Ed Hill, vice-president, and W. R. Bearce, county judge, were named as a committee of three to select a steering committee of six persons from the various segments of the community who will be charged with the responsibility of planning, financing, and constructing the project.

Concern over the meager facilities now existing was voiced by Jimmie Powell, chairman of the board of El Dorado Woolens, Inc., the area's only privately owned industry. Powell pointed out that the woolen mill was in a process of immediate expansion with the addition of several new employees to the payroll in recent days. "We have a definite demand for additional personnel in the near future, and indications now are that we will continue to grow. However, without an adequate labor force, and the necessary facilities for caring for the medical needs of those people, there is a question in our mind as to the feasibility of our continued operation in El Dorado. We want to remain in the community and lend our efforts to its economic development. But no business can operate without the necessary elements that make that business function. We know that adequate labor properly cared for

Highlights and Sidelights FROM YOUR

State CAPITOL

Austin, Tex.—With a lackluster first Democratic primary behind, state political insiders are looking toward the big general election contest for the U. S. Senate—and even to a potentially exciting 1968.

Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, the Democratic Senate nominee, and Republican Sen. John G. Tower have their campaign machinery in gear. Both are ranging widely over the state.

Carr boasts of drawing nearly 80% of the May 7 vote in his race against John R. Willoughby, carrying both liberal and conservative areas and rural and metropolitan areas by lopsided margins.

He cites this as evidence the Democratic party will close ranks behind him in the rough race against Tower next November.

Speculation already has started on political candidates for governor in 1968 if Gov. Connally steps aside. Lt. Gov. Preston Smith admittedly plans to run for the top job when it opens up. House Speaker Ben Barnes is giving it some thought. Among prospects are U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough and State Sen. Franklin Spears who made the attorney general's runoff against Crawford Martin.

Present Martin-Spears race is the only state-wide contest on the June 4 runoff ballot. Martin received about 47% of the first primary vote to 37% for Spears and 16% for Galloway Calhoun. Calhoun has endorsed Martin. Both candidates are beefing up their organizations and replenishing financial resources before their final stump tours and appeals. Getting out the vote again is expected to be a real problem, with so few local runoffs.

Governor Connally scored a clean-sweep victory in the May 7 primary and conventions. Not only was he nominated to a third term with 75% of the total vote cast in his race, but his supporters apparently scored overwhelming victory over liberal forces in party conventions.

Only one incumbent was upset. Court of Criminal Appeals Judge W. T. McDonald lost to John F. Onion, San Antonio district judge.

Lieutenant Governor Smith, and Railroad Commissioner Byron Tunnell and Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler won hands-down.

Texas' Senate, with no fewer than 10 new faces, will be a more-liberal body than it has been in the past. Lieutenant Governor Smith says it offers the greatest challenge in history to the presiding officer. One-third of the upper house membership now is from metropolitan counties.

House of Representatives, with a minimum of 54 newcomers, will remain moderate or conservative in tone, with Speaker Barnes retaining firm control of the gavel.

JIMMY BELK

Jimmy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Belk, has been "E" Club vice president this year. He was in F.F.A. all four years, and was Sentinel his Junior year, and served on the Livestock Judging team all four years. He has played football throughout his high school career and lettered the past three years. He was captain this year of the team and last year was Honorable Mention All-District; this year he made All-District and All West Texas and Most Valuable Player. He has also played basketball.

Jimmy will enroll in Angelo State College.

NANCYE DAVIS

A transfer from Haskell, Texas, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Davis, Nancye is in the Choral group this year and is secretary. She has been in F.H.A. the last three years, and was in the band her Sophomore and Junior years, when she was also in Stage Band. She won an Ensemble First in Band while a Junior. She was cheer leader while a Junior, and has been in National Honor Society last year and this year. She was in Speech while a Sophomore.

Nancye plans to attend business school.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

by Tiny Godwin

Schleicher County Agricultural Agent

Cattle running across the field with their tails held high in the air or standing in water are pretty good indications that heel flies are busy. The animals try to protect themselves in these ways from the egg-laying flies.

Heel flies, the adult stage of cattle grubs, neither sting nor bite. Instead, they merely attach their eggs to the hairs on the legs and lower body parts of cattle. As the eggs hatch, the small maggots bore through the skin at the base of the hair, enter and migrate through the leg muscles, through the abdominal and chest cavities to the esophagus and neural canal for further maturation.

During the late summer and early fall, the larvae move to the animal's back and each forms a pouch under the skin. After a few weeks, it cuts a breathing and emergence hole through the skin. A month or two later, the full grown grub emerges through the breathing hole and falls to the ground. It develops into a heel fly within a few weeks.

Heel flies can be effectively controlled only while they are in the animal's body. A number of methods and formulas are available to control them, including sprays, systemic, dips, and powders.

Since heel flies travel only a short distance, the controlling of cattle grubs at home will keep the parasites to a minimum.

For details on the control of heel flies, ask your county agricultural agent for Texas Agricultural Extension Publication MP-61, Texas Guide for Controlling External Parasites of Livestock and Poultry.

Whether a man winds up with a nest egg or a goose egg depends on the chick he marries.

Most everyone loves a beautiful rose. Thanks to modern chemistry and the work of plant pathologists rose growers can effectively control many of the troublesome diseases which mar the flower's natural beauty.

The most common diseases in this area are powdery mildew on the leaves and canker on the stems.

Powdery mildew shows up as round, white powdery spots on the leaves. The young leaves on susceptible varieties may be completely covered with the powdery white fungal growth. It can be controlled by spraying the leaves with Karathane, Phaltan, or Actidione PM. Spraying should be started at the first sign of the disease. Warm days and cool nights favor the disease.

Poor air circulation and overcrowding of plants also contribute to the disease incidence. Control is best achieved by following a regular spraying schedule and making sure that all leaves are covered with the spray material.

Stem cankers appear as brown to black areas on the canes. The best control of cankers comes from pruning them out during the winter. Large pruning cuts should be treated with an asphalt base paint. Care should be exercised when mowing or hoeing around the rose plants to avoid breaking the bark on the canes.

It's a pity this world can't have about six months of peace and quiet so people could catch up on their worrying.

Mosquitoes are a problem in all parts of Texas and attack both man and animals. Besides the annoying bother to man, the persistent attack of mosquitoes can cause farm animals to lose weight thru continual biting and annoyance.

Some species transmit disease such as malaria and yellow fever to man, encephalitis to man and horses and heartworm to dogs.

All mosquitoes pass through four stages of development: egg, larva, pupa and adult. All require water to produce their young. The females lay their eggs on water or in places that later become flooded.

In warm weather, the eggs of most species hatch in 2 or 3 days. The larvae that hatch from eggs change to pupae within a week. Then, the pupae become adults in about 2 days. In another day or two, the female adults are ready to feed—about 14 days from egg to a biting adult. One interesting note: only the females bite, the males do not bite.

As a homeowner, you can reduce breeding on your premises by eliminating standing water. Some of the more common sources of standing water are: dripping outdoor faucets and leaky pipes, puddles from evaporative cooler drainage, tin cans and other articles which may trap and hold water. Proper use of insecticides around the home also aids in control of mosquitoes.

People in agriculture and industry can help the mosquito problem by watching drainage which may offer breeding places.

Recent rains and warm weather make conditions for screwworms very favorable. We hope all producers will increase their alertness to possible screwworm cases. Let's keep sending specimens to the Mission Lab for identification. Let's continue to treat man-made wounds against possible screwworms. Let's not forget the need for continued good ranch management as one of the key factors in preventing screwworm infestation.

A badly needed invention in America today is some kind of dough that really sticks to your fingers.

On The Screen . . . 'That Darn Cat' Is Walt Disney at His Best

For the summer season's reopening, the Eagle Drive-In will feature "That Darn Cat", which, as the title suggests, features a feline in a prominent role along with a group of capable human co-stars. It is in color and will be shown Friday and Saturday nights.

Hayley Hills, Dorothy Provine, Dean Jones, Roddy McDowall, Elsa Lanchester, Neville Brand, William Demarest, Frank Gorshin and Ed Wynn provide the human touch. The feline touch comes from Syn Cat, a handsome, brown-haired seal-point Siamese.

In the story, the Darn Cat picks up the only clue to a bank robbery when a kidnaped woman teller slips her wrist watch around his neck. The story goes from there!

Disney makes good use of Robert Stevenson as director.

Senior Trip—1966

Twenty-eight energetic Seniors and nine lively sponsors embarked on the annual Senior trip last Wednesday afternoon at 4:30, headed for Colorado Springs, Colorado.

The group traveled all night to the tune of Joe Max and the other hi-jinks that were going on in the bus. At Raton Pass the group hit snow that lasted until their arrival at the Broadmoor Hotel. The mountains, snow, grandeur of the hotel and all were a memorable sight for the group. Thursday was spent in recreation or sight-seeing and it was 80 degrees in the pool. At 11:30 that evening many of the group had been up 52 hours which must be some sort of record especially for folks 30 and over. By this time Coach Bell's eyes had turned from brown to oxblood, with the accent on blood and Rose was beginning to resemble the last of the season but she never gave up.

Friday was spent by groups in various sight-seeing, recreational and restful activities. The buzz of Suzukis could be heard but not by Kenneth Doyle and Coach Sikes who hit the sack for a brief nap. The call of the beautiful Broadmoor golf course was heeded by Coach Bell and Sam Henderson and some fellow who searched for the 10th hole at dusk. Vi and Dixie Belk and Rose couldn't keep away from the beautiful pottery shops and after an afternoon on a Suzuki H. A. Belk was convinced that it was the way to travel.

The group was well worn on the trip home but they stopped by the Royal Gorge to take a final look at colorful Colorado.

It was a pleasure to be on the trip with a group who were cooperative, lively, and well mannered. Each sponsor commented on what a fine looking group they were especially compared to any young people seen in Colorado. In a word "we were proud to claim them."

It was a trip worth remembering and as the old "Oilfield" pulled into Eldorado the group, though a little less energetic, sang "Hail, Eldorado." The sights, the fun, and the events will never be forgotten and the Senior class thanks room mothers, sponsors, and townspeople for making this wonderful trip possible. —Rep.

ACTION INITIATED MEDICAL FACILITIES

The attention of the group was called to the fact that a great amount of analysis and research has already been expended on the medical facilities problem. A medical facts finding committee recently published its report on the need and feasibility of providing for those needs. Contacts have been made with people from the state health department, and their recommendations noted. The group was informed that some 118 cities in the state are without the services of a doctor, and that the crisis will continue to grow.

"I think the consensus of opinion here tonight is that every facet of community life is affected by our problem," Bob Bradley, local independent geologist, said. "We are required by Texas Interscholastic League rules to see that a doctor is present at all football games. We could be penalized severely in our athletic program without a doctor's services. Our hoped-for development of additional industry or business is dependent on our being able to show new business prospects that we have given attention to their needs by providing the necessary medical facilities. People just don't want to live and work where there is no provision for their personal needs. Industry isn't interested in investing in a community that will not make opportunities for itself by using a little planning and foresight."

It was pointed out that with the advent of Medi-Care going into full operation in the next few weeks, already heavily loaded facilities of San Angelo and Sonora will prove entirely inadequate to take care of the patient load for this area of West Texas.

Local Student Receives Readers Digest Award

Kaye Harkey, valedictorian of the graduating class at Eldorado High school, has been given the Annual Award of The Reader's Digest Association for students who by their successful school work give promise of attaining leadership in the community. Announcement was made by Guy Whitaker, high school principal.

Miss Harkey will receive an honorary subscription to The Reader's Digest for one year and a personal certificate from the editors, "in recognition of past accomplishment and in anticipation of unusual achievement to come." The Readers Digest Association is presenting these awards in senior high schools throughout the United States and Canada to the highest honor students of the graduating class.

The award to Miss Harkey, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Harkey, was made possible through the cooperation of Mr. Whitaker and his teaching staff. They selected Kaye to receive the award, designed to stimulate scholarship, citizenship, and continued contact with good reading after graduation.

News Of The Sick

Mrs. B. E. Moore is at home after spending four days of the week she was in San Antonio at the Methodist hospital there. Her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hearne Moore, brought her home.

Crafts Workshop To Be Conducted Here

Mrs. Vida Kreklow, county Home Demonstration Agent, will conduct a workshop on making big paper flowers—like the imported ones from Mexico—on Tuesday, May 31 in Eldorado at 2:30 p.m. in the main room of the Memorial Building.

This is to be a part of the summer recreational program and is designed strictly for fun.

Everybody is welcome. This meeting is planned for those who do not belong to Home Demonstration clubs as well as for those who do.

There will be nothing to bring. Mrs. Kreklow says that she expects quite an audience and that she plans on giving a detailed demonstration (the flowers are not hard to make) and will make enough so that everyone can see exactly how they are done.

Mimeographed directions and a list of the necessary materials will be given each class member. It is quite fortunate that all of the necessary materials may be bought in Eldorado.

The Date: Tuesday, May 31.

The Time: 2:30 p.m.

The Place: Memorial Building.

First Baptist Church

Circle Meetings

The Bertha Smith circle reports two meetings held recently. The first one, on May 9, was at the home of Mrs. Vernon Rogers where Mrs. W. N. Ramsay taught the mission study lesson from the book, "The American Jew." There were eight members present and one visitor, Mrs. K. H. Richardson. Mrs. Jack Griffin is circle chairman.

The second meeting was held at the circle chairman's home on May 16. Miss John Alexander led the Call to Prayer by having each member read a passage of scripture and a missionary's name from a bookmark before the special prayer. Mrs. T. P. Robinson, Jr., taught the Bible lesson to the eight members attending the meeting.

The Ruth Dickerson circle met with Mrs. W. A. Blaylock Monday afternoon for the mission study lesson from the book, "The American Jew" which was written by 12 Jews. Mrs. Weldon Davis taught four chapters and reviewed the previous lesson.

Mrs. Blaylock will serve as community missions chairman during the rest of the church year since Mrs. Earl Barnett resigned to move to East Texas.

Mrs. Barnett was presented with a going-away gift from the circle. Eleven members were served strawberry cake and tea by the hostess.

Now — U. S. Savings Bonds Pay More Interest

4.15% when held to maturity

Higher interest on the Bonds you already own, too!

U.S. Savings Bonds are a better way to save than ever

Because now all Series E and Series H Bonds bought after December 1, 1965, will earn the new, higher interest rate of 4.15% when held to maturity. That's only 7 years for Series E — 9 months quicker than before. All H Bond interest checks will be larger beginning in June 1966.

And your outstanding Bonds will earn more, too, from now on. So, you don't have to cash in your present Bonds to get the attractive new rate.

Ask about buying Bonds where you work or bank. For America's future. And yours.

"Today, none of us can remain aloof on the sidelines."

"Today, above all, is a time for all Americans to rededicate themselves to the spirit that animated the Minutemen of Concord—who serve as a symbol of the Savings Bond program. For today, as at the founding of our nation, it is freedom which is again at stake. Not all of us are called upon to fight in the jungles of Vietnam, but while our men are there, in the front line of a distant land, none of us can remain aloof on the sidelines. We must all do our share—in every way we can—to support our men in Vietnam. One sure way is open to all Americans through the Savings Bond program."

Home Demonstration Agent's Column
By MRS. VIDA KREKLOW

Today marks the finish of a very interesting and informative course in "child guidance" for 50 County and Home Demonstration agents of Districts 6 and 7.

"Child Guidance and Counseling" is broad and high and deep. It can not be covered in any single course. Fortunately for the class Dr. Kneble of Texas A&M University did not attempt anything remotely related to a once over lightly coverage. He did give us outside work to do and it has been enjoyable.

(Oh my dears—boys and girls in school—how wonderful it will be to study and learn when you are much, much older.)

Dr. Kneble read the following letter to us one morning in class.

When he finished I had a feeling that I knew the boy who wrote it. I am actually not too sure, however. It could be one of several boys I know.

Read it—do you have any idea who he might be?

This letter was written to the parents by a son—

Dear Folks. Thank you for everything, but I am going to Dallas and try to start some kind of new life.

You asked me why I did those things and why I gave you so much trouble, and the answer is easy for me to give you, but I am wondering if you will understand.

Remember when I was about six or seven and I used to want you to just listen to me? I remember all the nice things you gave me for Christmas and my birthday and I was real happy with the things for about a week at the time I got the things, but the rest of the time during the year I really didn't want presents. I just wanted all the time for you to listen to me like I was somebody who felt things too, because I remember even when I was young I felt things. But you said you were busy.

Mom you are a wonderful cook and you had everything so clean and you were tired so much from doing all those things that made you busy; but you know something, Mom? I would have liked crackers and peanut butter just as well—if you had only sat down with me a little while during the day and said to me: "Tell me all about it so I can maybe help you understand."

And when Donna came I couldn't understand why everyone made so much fuss because I didn't think it was my fault that her hair was curly and her teeth so white, and she doesn't have to wear glasses with such thick lenses. Her grades were better too, weren't they?

If Donna ever has any children, I hope you will tell her to just pay some attention to the one who doesn't smile very much because that one will really be crying inside. And when she's about to bake six dozen cookies to make sure first that the kids don't want to tell her about a dream or a hope or something, because thoughts are important too to small kids even though they don't have so many words to use when they tell about what they have inside them.

I think that all the kids who were doing so many things that grown-ups are tearing out their hair worrying about are really looking for somebody that will have time to listen a few minutes and who really and truly will treat them as they would a grown-up who might be useful to them. You know—polite to them. If you folks had ever said to me: "Pardon me" when you interrupted me, I'd have dropped dead. If anybody asks you where I am tell them I've gone looking for somebody with time because I've got a lot of things I want to talk about.

Love to all, Jim

Tours Treatment Center At Galveston

"The March of Dimes fight against birth defects is the fight of all those who hope that every child may be born healthy and live a normal life," declared Mrs. Bill Works last Saturday, upon returning home from a tour of the March of Dimes supported Birth Defect Treatment Center located at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston.

According to Mrs. Works, "the Birth Defects Center's goal is to assist the child with birth defects to realize his full potential as an individual by providing good medical care and helping his family to understand and manage the problems arising from the condition."

"Education is a vital part of the Center's program and includes instruction of medical and paramedical students, dissemination of information to medical and paramedical personnel in active practice, and to other persons involved in the management of children such as teachers, parent groups and community agencies."

After the tour of the Center, the clinical staff, medical and paramedical personnel and members of the staff of The National Foundation held a Public Education workshop for the volunteers.

Mrs. Works stressed the importance of full time public education to enlighten the people of Schleicher county to the growing national problem of birth defects.

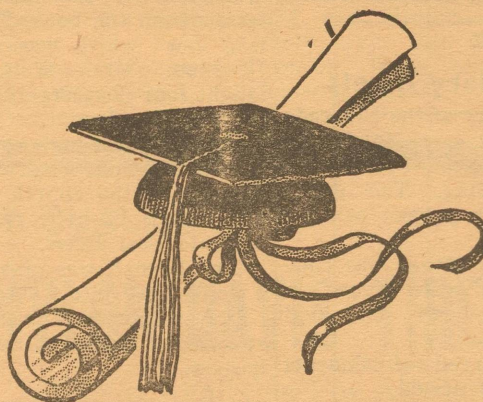

"Plans are now under way on a local level to fully implement The National Foundation's Public Education Program," concluded Mrs. Works.

Mrs. Works was scheduled to give a report to the Lions club at their meeting this week, and also at the Home Demonstration club at the DeLong residence.

The Chamber of Commerce helped sponsor Mrs. Works' trip to the center. Any club or organization that would like to see the slides and hear a more complete of the progress the March of Dimes is making, contact Mrs. Works.

'Rare Breed' Stars James Stewart, O'Hara

There is enough of fact in the story of "The Rare Breed," which comes to the Eagle Drive-In screen Sunday and Monday nights, to make this Universal picture an important visual document in the development of the cattle industry in Texas and the West.

The time of the story is the mid-1880's.

This movie is a western from the old school with some up-to-date touches by one of the more energetic young directors in the business.

Andrew McLaglen's "The Rare Breed" isn't five minutes old before Jimmy Stewart is touching off one of those free-for-all brawls in the middle of a cattle pen.

It's one of those "Excuse me, Ma'am, while I slug this baddie" sort of things, while the very prim and proper Maureen O'Hara gets in a few licks of her own with a parasol.

Director McLaglen has gone the lusty route in "The Rare Breed," but never forgets that he has a Jimmy Stewart picture. In the movie-going book that means more heart than fist, and the overall result is a Technicolor winner. Stewart and Miss O'Hara and "hands down" players in this type of picture. She is the English widow from Herefordshire who brings Vindicator, a prize Polled Hereford, to this country to begin the breed in Texas.

Stewart is the rangy bulldog who scornfully calls the hornless Vindicator a "knob-head." It is to no one's surprise, but to Stewart and McLaglen's credit, that by midway it is Stewart who is fighting man, beast and the elements to get the Polled Hereford to survive a Texas winter and challenge the supremacy of the Longhorn.

Juliet Mills is Miss O'Hara's daughter, Don Galloway is a leading man, Brian Keith is an unwashed Scottish cattleman who shaves and scrubs in a vain attempt to sway Miss O'Hara away from the inevitable blending with Stewart.

McLaglen's picture is a good one, his action never flagging, his stampedes and fist fights never stinting on realism. This is Stewart's most successful role since "Shenandoah" and is in much the same vein—human conflict, stubbornness by actor Stewart, pathos and enough romance to leave that warm feeling at the finale.
