Moro Still Alive

ROME (AP) - A photograph of kidnapped former Premier Aldo Moro holding a copy of a Wednesday-dated newspaper was found by a Rome reporter today after a telephone tip, the daily Il Messaggero said.

The discovery was made after the news media received a new message attributed to his Red Brigade kidnappers saying Moro was still alive but would be executed if the government refused to free jailed communists by Saturday.

Amnesty In Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) - Chile's military junta has decreed a general amnesty for its political foes that should free about 280 prisoners and allow thousands of exiles to return home without fear of arrest.

Anchors Away!

NEW YORK (AP) - ABC News President Roone Arledge says Harry Reasner will lose his anchor position on the "ABC Evening News" this summer. Barbara Walters, reportedly receiving $1 million a year for her services, also will give up anchor chores but will remain in a featured role as an interviewer.

Kissinger Testifies

WASHINGTON (AP) - Former presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger testified today he was told in 1972 that South Korea had allegedly bribed a Congressman but said he received no other early warnings of alleged Korean influence buying.

County Sells Hospital Bonds

Scurry County Commissioners this morning sold $4 million in hospital bonds to First National Bank of Dallas and associates at an effective interest rate of 4.39812.

The Dallas bank, which submitted the bid on behalf of a group which includes financial institutions in Houston and Fort Worth as well as Dallas, had the lowest of eight proposals received.

The net interest cost will be $745,713.09.

The eight bids ranged from the successful low quotation to an effective interest rate of 4.55238, which was regarded as highly competitive.

Joe Smith of the First Southwest Co., who served as the county's fiscal agent in preparing the bond issue, said he was pleased with the bids received. Martin Brooks, president of West Texas State Bank, and Rex Robinson, executive vice president of Snyder National Bank, who were present for the bid opening both said they felt the bids were good. Robinson is on the hospital board and Brooks was on the board when the bond issue was voted last Nov. 8 having left the hospital board at the end of 1977. Also present for the bid opening were John Jarrell, president of the hospital board; Henry Clark, member of the board, and Cy Miller, hospital administrator.

Sale of the bonds clears the way for a construction project at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. Plans are now being completed for a three-story addition to the hospital building which will provide 50 additional beds and expanded facilities for other services.

Miller said that plans for the construction project are scheduled to go to contractors early next month and that bids are expected to be opened June 14. This would enable the successful bidder to begin actual construction on the project early in July.

UIL PLAY - Marca Parham, on the left, was named best actress at the District meet for her portrayal of a good-hearted school teacher who tries to save a talented Welsh boy from a life in the mines. On the right is Laurie Bethel who plays a Cockney girl with her own plans for the young miner. Miss Bethel's acting won her a spot on the district's all-star cast. The SHS Players will present "The Corn Is Green" again Friday at the regional contest in Odessa. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

US Sets Six Gold Sales

By JOSEF HEBERT
Associated Press Writer

The United States, trying to cut its whopping trade deficit and bolster the sagging dollar, will put nearly two million ounces of gold up for public auction beginning next month.

The announcement brought quick response today in Tokyo where the dollar's value rose against the powerful yen to 233.70 after opening at 222.00.

The Treasury Department said Wednesday night it would hold at least six auctions beginning May 23 with 300,000 ounces of gold to be sold at each. The department said it then would determine "Whether the amounts to be offered at succeeding auctions should be altered."

The dollar, which had been on a year-long decline, held steady on European markets prior to the news of the gold sale. Gold bullion sold at $174.75 an ounce Wednesday in London and closed at $174.875 an ounce at Zurich, up on both markets.

Treasury Department spokesman Joe Laitin said the gold sales "will have the effect of reducing the U.S. trade deficit, either by increasing exports of gold or by reducing the imports of this commodity."

The United States last year imported 8.3 million ounces of gold worth $1.8 billion for commercial and industrial uses.

Laitin said the sales also would be "a step in the direction" of easing the downward pressure on the dollar. The American currency has been declining against the strong Japanese and West German currencies partly because of the large U.S. trade deficit. The sale of gold would take dollars out of circulation as foreign holders buy gold.

The last U.S. gold auction was held in 1975 when 1.3 million ounces of the metal were sold at two sales. The auctions coincided with a change in U.S. law that allowed citizens for the first time since World War II to buy gold.

The Carter administration's chief aim with the gold sale was to attack the trade deficit which reached a monthly record of $4.5 billion in February adding to the slowdown of the overall economy during the first quarter of 1978.

Postal Unions Open Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) - Four postal unions, opening the country's largest collective bargaining negotiations this year, are refusing administration pleas to cut their demands and join the president's anti-inflation crusade.

Leaders of the unions representing 554,000 workers begin talks today with Postal Service management-the first national negotiations since President Carter's anti-inflation speech last week.

Carter urged unions and industry to hold wage and salary increases "significantly below the average rate for the last two years."

The SDN Column

Those who registered to vote in time to take advantage of all opportunities this year are assured that they will get their money's worth - provided of course, they bother to go to the polls.

We've already had public school elections, city elections and junior college elections. Next up are the primary elections. And that's where the fun really begins for those who enjoy keeping up with county, state and national politics.

There is certain to be a fairly good offering in the runoff primary this time on the Democratic Party side. The Democrats have a big ballot coming up May 6 and there are so many races with three or more candidates, that some runoffs are inevitable.

Between the first and second primary elections, though, Snyder voters will have a local option issue to decide at the polls on May 8.

Both the Republican and Democratic primary ballots have a special referendum included on May 6. It brings up the question of parimutual betting on horse racing. The Democratic ballot also has a referendum on interest rates for loans under $5,000.

Getting back to the over-all length of the Democratic Party ballot for the primary, we spotted some names that were unfamiliar for some of the state offices. Did you know that there is a candidate named Donald R. Beagle in the race for governor? Or that Troy Skates is seeking the lieutenant governor's post?

One of our earliest memories of a political campaign involved a little-known candidate for a state office. Back in those days, people down there in East Texas gathered on the courthouse square after the polls closed. As the various voting boxes reported, a man with a booming voice shouted out the figures through a megaphone. There weren't any electronic devices then. Another man wrote the figures on a big blackboard that had been carefully marked off.

This particular year, there was a candidate named Culpepper who got one vote in our county for a state office, or so they said. Thereafter, every two years as the returns began to come in for the primary election, someone always yelled "Hurrah for Culpepper." This tradition endured until some of the newer onlookers began to inquire who Culpepper was. Finally, the last of the Culpepper generation faded from the scene and within a few years the town blackboard had disappeared also.

Players Go For Regional Title

Jerry Worsham will take his Snyder High School one-act playcast and crew to Odessa tomorrow to compete in the regional University Interscholastic League contest.

The Snyder players hope for another trip to Austin and a shot at a third state title in a row. Worsham's students have won the Class AAA state championship that past two years and he has won a total of six state titles over the past 11 years.

Snyder and Lubbock Estcado plays were judged best in the district contest and both will be competing in Odessa for regional honors and a trip to the state meet.

The regional contests will begin at 3 p.m. Friday in the Odessa College Auditorium. Snyder High's cast is scheduled to rehearse at 11 a.m. at the site of the contest.

The Snyder play will be the fourth on the program, and it is due to begin at approximately 5:15 p.m. The critic-judge for the regional contest will be Joe Manry, head of the drama department at Angelina College in Lufkin.

Robby Moore and Marca Parham of Snyder were named best actor and best actress, respectively, in the district contest, while Nell Sears and Laurie Bethel were named to the all-star cast.

In the regional contest, Odessa Ector will lead off with "A Raisin in the Sun," and will be followed by Perryton's presentation of "The Miracle Worker," Seminole's "Persiphone," Snyder's "The Corn Is Green," Lubbock Estacado's "Cyrano de Bergerac," and Canyon's "Scapino."

Clovis Epidemic Is Over

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP) - New Mexico's chief health officer, Dr. Jonathan Mann, was planning today to return home to Santa Fe, confident that the botulism outbreak here has run its course.

"The epidemic in Clovis appears to be over," Mann said Wednesday.

He said most of the 33 botulism victims remained hospitalized, but "there is encouraging news of stabilization in most cases and full recoveries in others."

He added, however, that full recovery for the majority of victims may take weeks.

The 33rd victim was admitted by Clovis Memorial Hospital Tuesday afternoon, and one person was released from the hospital, becoming the first of those stricken to recover.

Meanwhile, a search of the Clovis dump was under way in an effort to find food cans that Mann said may help explain how the botulism outbreak began.

The cans hadn't been found Wednesday night, but Mann said workers would continue sifting through the refuse today.

If the cans are not found, he said, "Then it may not be possible to completely determine the cause of this outbreak."

Mann said the cans were used in a Sunday meal at which five persons became ill.

Stock Market Rally Revived

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market ran up another strong gain in heavy trading today, reviving its recent rally as the dollar rose sharply in foreign-exchange trading.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 10.65 at 818.65.

Gainers outnumbered losers by more than a 4-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Mishap Sends Two To Hospital

A major accident and two minor mishaps were investigated Wednesday by Snyder police.

The major accident took place at the intersection of 17th St. and College Ave. when a 1973 Chevrolet driven by Kenneth W. Smith and a 1977 Buick driven by Kemberly Bennett collided.

Reports indicate the Smith vehicle was traveling south on College and was attempting to turn east onto 17th St. when it was in collision with the Bennett car traveling north on College.

Hazel Edward Underwood, 42, and Kenneth R. Smith, 46, were taken to Cogdell Hospital. Smith was treated and released, and Underwood was admitted to the hospital for observation, sources reported.

The mishap occurred at 3:52 p.m. and resulted in heavy damage to the cars.

Another Wednesday mishap was reported at the intersection of 37th St. and Ave. D at 5:37 p.m. Involved in it, reports show, were a parked, unoccupied bicycle owned by Marty Allen and a 1974 Ford pickup driven by Ollie Chapman.

Wednesday's final mishap occurred at 11:05 p.m. at 1310 24th St. when a 1970 Chevrolet driven by Sheryl Cargile Chambers was in collision with a parked vehicle owned by Karen S. Dunovan. Only minor damages were reported.

Vance Meeting With Gromyko

MOSCOW (AP)-Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance expressed hope that he and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko would make progress toward a new pact limiting nuclear arms in talks starting today. But he warned that "complex and difficult problems" remain.

Vance, arriving Wednesday night from London, said he and Gromyko in four meetings over the past 18 months "made progress...in bringing the two sides together on a number of issues."

However, "complex and difficult problems remain in the SALT negotiations;" he added. "I hope my visit here will make progress on remaining major issues."

Vance failed to budge the Soviets in his last trip here in March 1977, and U.S. officials said they did not expect this visit to yield solutions to remaining problems. They said the three-day stay would be considered a success if it narrowed gaps on three major issues.

there's a difference

Most of us rarely, if ever, think of wheat and cotton and natural gas and oil in the same connection. But these essentials of the space age are subject to the same economic law. There are differences, as a matter of course. Wheat and cotton are annual crops. Production can be changed to fit conditions in a single year. Oil and natural gas must be mined where nature deposited them, usually thousands of feet below the surface of the ground where wheat and cotton are grown.

Currently national leaders are concerned with production both of these categories. The law of supply and demand is operating. Price is involved in both situations. Farmers are arguing with Government leaders over ways to assure producers of cash return sufficient to cover cost of production and a tiny bit more for profit. But in the meantime they are cutting back on production to assist in the process of balancing supply with demand.

The food and fiber situation is almost at the stage where production could be zero this year without exhausting supplies on hand. Economics of the wheat and cotton situation are plain for anybody to see. Chance of dealing with it in a constructive manner seems doubtful at the moment, but there is no reason for panic because a miscalculation can be corrected in a matter of months.

Unfortunately thinking among national leaders is all mixed up with politics and populist economics in dealing with the energy problem. President Carter and consumer-protection groups want to use the power of government to limit the price of oil and natural gas and indulge in some populist redistribution of wealth in the process. That approach might make sense if we had plenty of oil and natural gas and could increase the supply when need arises.

We can double production of wheat and cotton in a single year. Years are required for increasing production of natural gas and oil in significant quantities.

Apparently it has never dawned on President Carter and apparently a majority of Representatives and Senators that developing new sources of oil and natural gas is a little more complicated than adjusting crop production to current market conditions.

tempting the reds

The majority of Americans, according to recent polls, support President Carter's plan to pull U.S. ground troops out of South Korea over the next few years.

But they are opposed to his intent to turn over equipment now used by U.S. troops to the South Korean armed forces. Both views suggest a "we-give-up" attitude. They are void of logic.

The comparative silence of North Korean Communists since the release a decade ago of the Pueblo crewman and the visible indication of a thaw in our relations with Red China probably influence the public lack of concern over our Pacific security.

It seem likely, however, that alleged efforts of South Korea businessman Tongsun Park to buy favorable treatment for his nation in Washington have eroded American support for the Seoul regime.

The evidence of increasing disenchantment coincides with the return of Park to testify before a congressional committee of his role in the scandal.

There is a reason to believe that the Communists have abandoned their goal to "reunite" Korea under the Communist banner. The troop withdrawal alone would be tempting to the Red leaders. The additional denial of American arms would make the temptation nearly irresistible.

segregation upheld

On North Central Avenue in Phoenix, Ariz., there is a strictly segregated high school.

Race restrictions are rigidly enforced.

And this segregated school is supported by the United States government.

How come our government, in this era when school busing is forced on the rest of us, is itself supporting a segregated school in Phoenix?

I can't get an answer to that question from anybody.

Personally, I'm not recommending that government policy in this instance should be changed - yet it is an interesting inconsistency that proves segregation is sometimes best.

The school is one of a dozen schools in the Phoenix Union High School District. The district has been seeking to comply with government requirements regarding racial balancing.

Yet this one school - Phoenix Indian High School - is entirely of, by and for Indians.

When you start asking questions of federal government officials as to why this instance of segregation is condoned you experience a monumental buck-passing runaround.

Nobody wants to be quoted. Vaguely, some refer to treaties, to legal precedents, to "tradition" or to something they call "the trust."

Phoenix Indian School opened in 1891 when the federal government undertook to provide education for Indians who were then "wards of the government."

Since the Indian Citizenship Act of 1924, Indians and their children enjoy "equal rights" with the rest of us - yet public education and Indian education continued to be separate entities, the latter administered by the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

In 1954 when the Supreme Court forbade racial segregation in public schools, the decision was first applied to the South. Since the Civil Rights Act of 1964 federal courts have sought to enforce racial balance in schools everywhere.

Almost everywhere.

James Cook, an investigative reporter for Phoenix Newspapers, sought but found no federal government pressure and no apparent federal government interest in requiring this Indian school to balance itself racially.

In Tucson, federal court is contemplating requiring crosstown busing among whites, blacks, and Mexican-Americans - the latter two minorities having claimed that they were being discriminated against.

Yet Indian schools - and the Phoenix school is just one of many in the state - have not been required to accept "outsiders," and would, in fact, turn away any non-Indian.

Some 15,000 Indians elect to attend Arizona's integrated public schools.

Some 51,000 remain in segregated BIA schools.

And having that choice, none complains.

WASHINGTON-(NEA)- Is the Calorie Control Council an organization of weight-conscious dieters or a lobbying group heavily financed by soft drink manufacturers opposed to a federal ban on saccharin?

Is the Electric Consumers Resource Council a coalition of homeowners angered by high electric bills or a lobbying organization supported by major companies within the power industry?

The second choice is the correct one in both cases, but identifying organizations with deceptive titles won't be easy under provisions of a bill, soon to be considered by the House, that's supposed to "reform" federal regulation of lobbying.

The proposed new law actually represents a major step backward in providing public identification of the financial backers of lobbying groups because the House Judiciary Committee recently eliminated a provision calling for disclosure of all donors of $3,000 or more.

In contrast, the existing statute, passed by Congress in 1946, contains a provision requiring the public reporting of the names and addresses of all contributors of $500 or more to any lobbying group.

In a 1954 decision, the Supreme Court specifically cited the importance of knowing who finances lobbying efforts:

"Congress has not sought to prohibit these (lobbying) pressures. It has merely provided for a modicum of information from those who, for hire, attempt to influence legislation...It wants to know only who is being hired, who is putting up the money and how much."

The Judiciary Committee, however, bowed to those who cited undocumented concerns about the potential invasion of privacy of major financial backers-and that was only one of more than a dozen loopholes that make the bill a hollow version of badly needed "reform."

The legislation is important because for the first time in more than three decades Congress probably will pass a new law this year governing lobbying. In addition, President Carter is committed to seeking a new statute.

"But the president will sign any piece of paper that has the words 'lobby disclosure' at the top," says one knowledgeable administration official. "Carter wants a bill-any bill," says another insider.

Because of that attitude in the White House, a heavy lobbying effort to weaken the bill and the notorious unwillingness of Congress to tackle tough issues, the House legislation is a pathetically pale version of what a new law could and should be.

For instance, the bill perpetuates a long-discredited system under which lobbying organizations are allowed to establish their own unchallenged apportionment of the time and money their employees, lawyers and consultants spend on lobbying.

As a result, major corporations, labor unions and other special interest groups that maintain large legislative liaison staffs often are able to claim lobbying expenses of only a few hundred dollars a month or less.

That's because they use the narrowest possible definition of lobbying, referring only to occasions when a representative specifically discusses pending legislation.

Not included are the countless additional hours those lobbyists spend on Capitol Hill, befriending legislators, buying them drinks and meals, and discussing the problems of the industry or union in general terms.

The Judiciary Committee could have closed that loophole by requiring public disclosure of the full salaries and expense accounts of those engaged in lobbying, as well as the research and other support services provided by their organizations.

But in referring the bill to the full House, the committee explicitly rejected that needed reform. "It is not the committee's intent," the panel said in its report, "to reach beyond those activities which are directly related to the lobbying process."

money misspent

WASHINGTON, D.C.-- Millions of dazed taxpayers staggered to their mailboxes last week to deposit their damp tax returns. Perhaps it is just as well that there was little publicity about a report of the Inspector General of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare that in 1977 between 6.3 and 7.4 billion dollars was lost by fraud, abuse and waste. The overburdened taxpayer, already unhappy, would and should, graduate to irateness.

People generally will not mind paying their fair share of taxes to support their Government if they could feel their Government was spending their money properly. We know that our national defense is necessary for our safety and a thousand and one other services to which we have become accustomed. However, the reports of the Inspector General of HEW is enough to ignite outrage from San Francisco Bay to the Gulf of Mexico. The Eastern press carried the story on its inside pages and T.V. news hardly took notice. The reason may not be particularly important but one must wonder if we have become calloused to such happenings when we hear every day of misdeeds.

The report is staggering in its implications. This loss, for whatever reasons, amounts to about 5 cents of every dollar in this massive Agency's 1977 budget. An estimated one billion dollars evaporated through outright fraud or abuse in the "social services" administered by HEW. It seems the remaining losses were largely between Medicaid, welfare and student loan defaults. When Secretary of HEW Joseph Califano was questioned by Committees of Congress as to why, where and how such a thing could happen, about the most he had to say was that it was just a doggone shame that all of these billions slipped away. He said, "We have been moving administratively and as aggressively as we can within existing law and resources to deal with this problem."

The HEW budget for the fiscal year 1977 from which the approximately $7 billion got lost was $148 billion. For the current fiscal year it is $164 billion. The Carter Administration's proposed budget for this Department for the next fiscal year beginning October 1, is $181 billion. Let's see now.....5 cents of.....

It seems that we are to be comforted by secretary Califano's assurance that he has cranked up the Department's computers to try to trace this appalling leakage. One must wonder if the Congress and the Country has slipped into a sort of fatalism and made to feel that with such a huge bureaucracy with the billions of dollars it oversees, it is inevitable that things like this may occur.

No one really knows how much a billion dollars is in the first place and when it reaches up into the hundreds of billions, we seem to lose our concept. The taxpayer has the right to know as best he can as to how is money is being spent--yes, as to how a lot of it is being wasted. We can't all agree on purposes for every expenditure but can agree that extravagances, fraud and carelessness not be tolerated. Publicity about these things and demands for correction are the only recourse. For the future, the remedy is for Congress not to appropriate these huge sums for those programs which have obviously failed or were not justified in the first place.

my turn

by john long

The recent outbreak of botulism in Clovis, N. M. should remind us that we are what we eat.

I recently became convinced that eating too many animal products is hazardous to the health. So, for a period of about four weeks, I experimented with a lecto vegetarian diet.

At the end of that period I became weak, and I suspect, even anemic. It was then that I went back to eating lean, red meat.

For those of you not acquainted with vegetarianism, a lecto vegetarian diet includes the drinking of milk.

While milk and eggs are not, strictly speaking, meat, neither are they vegetable matter. They fall somewhere in between.

For almost four weeks I heroically refrained from eating meat and eggs. It was a real challenge. Giving up smoking was easier than giving up the meat-eating habit of a lifetime.

I subsisted on fruits, vegetables, milk, and milk products. As I got hungrier and hungrier, it became more and more difficult to derive what I felt to be proper sustenance from foods in my limited diet.

I ate carrots, turnips, celery, nuts, and avocadoes, and sometimes I even ate them cooked. Still, it was less than filling.

I have discovered that only meat can truly satisfy a person.

After the initial onslaught of the vitamins wears off, one is left with a gnawing feeling in the stomach. Having never before eaten very many vegetables, I was at first pleasantly surprised at their taste. Man does not live by vitamins alone, however.

Milk, cheese and soy beans contain protein, but they cannot be baked, boiled, fried, barbecued or otherwise cooked in the same manner as meats.

The need to tackle something crispy, chewy, and even tough became increasingly hard to ignore. The first vision presented itself to me in the form of four golden fried chicken legs dancing before me.

The second vision consisted of seeing bits of fried fishing swimming in oceans of tarter sauce. The final vision was of skinny steak fingers pointing themselves at me.

It was at that point that my resolve faltered and I began eating meat again.

Generous George played his three of spades on North's four at trick one. This gave South a chance to win a trick with a five-spot and he was heppy to avail himself of the opportunity.

Some 10 minutes later, he wished he hadn't. That cheap trick left South just two tricks short of the three notrump he would have made if he had won that first spade with the ace.

It seems that George let South hold the second trick with the king of diamonds. After that simple second trick play there was no way for South to run dummy's diamond suit.

South pointed out as some justification for his play that Generous George would have played low if he held the king not the jack, whereupon South would have wound up three down if he had used his ace of spades at trick one.

South was correct in assuming that George would have played low from tHe king of spades, but that did not excuse his play. There is little difference between down two and down three, but a lot of difference between down two and making your contract.

Pilcher Has Guild Program

The Art Guild Study Club met Tuesday, April 18 at 7:30 p.m. at the Martha Ann Woman's Club with Mrs. M.W. Pilcher as hostess and program director. The program, "New Mexico, Scenic Vacation Land" included pictures of scenery in the state during the four seasons, and a description and picture of the state capitol in Santa Fe and surrounding areas.

These include the summer operas, concerts by the orchestra of Santa Fe, performances by ballet and modern dance companies, and the numerous art galleries and craft shops which invite visitors to see Indian pottery, weaving, silver and turquoise jewelry, and Spanish woodcarving and weaving.

The story was told of "lumanirias," the festival lights of New Mexico--the paper sack lanterns, which are seen at Christmas time in many areas.

Club president, Mrs. John DeShazo, conducted the business meeting following the program. refreshments were served to 16 members.

Cookout Times Coming

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

What's a cookout without barbecued chicken? For quick basting, combine orange juice concentrate and Worcestershire sauce. Use it to baste chicken on the grill every 5 minutes.

Round out an easy meal with your favorite potato or bean dishes and a wilt-proof mushroom-vegetable salad.

You may use fresh or frozen vegetables but toss the combination with the salad dressing and chill for more than one hour to blend the flavors. This packs well in a glass or plastic picnic container.

Top off the meal with a watermelon fruit bowl, mixing fresh fruits and their juices with watermelon balls.

ORANGE barbecued chicken and mushroom vegetable salad go together.

BARBECUED CHICKEN

- 5 pounds chicken parts
- Salt
- 1 can (6 fl. oz.) frozen orange juice concentrate, defrosted
- ¼ cup original Worcestershire sauce

Sprinkle chicken lightly with salt. Arrange on a rack over slow burning charcoal. Broil for 30 minutes, turning once.

Or, if desired, place on rack under a preheated 375-degree broiler and broil for 30 minutes, turning once.

Meanwhile, combine orange concentrate with Worcestershire sauce; blend well. Baste chicken every 5 minutes, turning often until chicken is tender, about 15 minutes.

Leftover sauce may be refrigerated in a covered container. Use on spareribs, hamburgers or ham steaks. Makes 8 portions.

MUSHROOM-VEGETABLE SALAD

- 1 pound fresh mushrooms or 2 cans (6 to 8 oz. each) sliced mushrooms
- 2 packages (10 oz. each) frozen mixed vegetables
- 1 cup bottled Italian salad dressing
- ⅓ cup chopped parsley
- ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper

Rinse, pat dry and slice fresh mushrooms (about 5 cups) or drain canned mushrooms. Place in a large bowl. Cook vegetables as label directs; drain. Cool slightly; toss with mushrooms.

Mix salad dressing with parsley and black pepper. Pour over vegetables; toss lightly. Chill. Makes about 1½ quarts or 8 portions.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Like fried rice, Chinese style? Try serving the blazing hot rice with a chilled head of iceberg lettuce. Eaters roll up spoonfuls of the fried rice in lettuce leaves and enjoy. These rolls are finger food.

Tourists Urged To Ignore Stickers

NEW SMYRNA BEACH, Fla. (AP)-This Atlantic coastal town doesn't want tourists to go home, despite what some local automobile bumper stickers say.

A student at New Smyrna Beach High School, apparently upset about weekend traffic jams, sold the stickers until Principal William Pickhardt ordered a halt.

The stickers have sayings as "Save the South; Teach a Yankee to Drive" and suggesting to visitors from Orlando: "O'villes, Go Home."

If House Okays Senate Bill...

Cheaper Air Fares Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) - Air travelers could look forward to cheaper fares and more vigorous airline competition if the House approve legislation that passed the Senate by an overwhelming margin.

The airline deregulation bill, first proposed by the Ford administration and embraced by President Carter as an anti-inflation measure, faces an uphill House battle.

The Senate bill, approved 83-9 Wednesday night, would give the airline their first limited authority to inaugurate new service and to raise or lower fares without prior permission from the Civil Aeronautics Board.

It would be the first fundamental overhaul of federal regulation of airline routes and fares since the CAB was created 40 years ago.

Carter called the Senate action "an important step in the fight against inflation" and urged quick action by the House.

He said the bill would "put an end to a form of government regulation of business that is not only unnecessary, but also counter-productive from the public's point of view."

While supporters said the bill would result in improved service and lower fares by increasing competition.

AIR FORCE SHOW COMING - A fast-paced audio-visual show concerning history of aviation and the U.S. Air Force will be presented from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday at Snyder High School. The show, titled "Flight Through Time," will be presented in a 36-seat movie theater, and will feature a multi-image presentation and a stereo sound system. It illustrates the progress of aviation from Leonardo da Vinci's dreams of manned flight through the present. The exhibit is sponsored here by T-Sgt. Art Clark, USAF Recruiter.

Yantis Opposes Home Insurance Rate Hikes

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)-State Insurance Board Chairman Hugh Yantis, who often leads the other two members to vote his way, says he is against any statewide increase in homeowners insurance rates.

"I do not see any reason for an increase in homeowners rates, and I am going to vote against it," he said at a board meeting Wednesday.

Yantis also:

-Announced he will propose an emergency rule whose effect would be to discourage sale of "deposit term" life insurance policies.

-Ordered staff lawyer Doyce Lee to draft rules to punish agents, companies or salesmen who victimize the elderly by selling them insurance they neither need nor can afford.

Board statisticians recommended a 13.1 percent -or $43 million-increase in rates for homeowners policies. Yantis said the board probably would vote in June. Rates for property insurance have not changed since July 1976.

Yantis said he might approve selective increases, such as for certain areas or categories of construction.

"What I am saying is the rate structure in effect right now should not be altered such that it affects the statewide average cost," he said.

A spokesman for insurance companies called Yantis' statement "disappointing."

Yantis said the board cannot ban deposit term life insurance but should issue emergency rules "to protect the unwary purchaser."

Deposit term policies are issued for 10 years. The first-year premium is twice the normal premium. The extra payment is called a "deposit," which is paid back double when the policy expires.

But if one drops the policy or fails to pay the premiums, the deposit is forfeited.

Yantis said the emergency rule he will propose -possibly later this week- would require return of the deposit.

He said he was "fully aware" this would come close to outlawing deposit term, since companies make money from forfeited deposits.

"Any line of insurance where inducements to agents include automobiles up to and including Cadillacs makes you wonder," Yantis said.

Yantis said he wants an emergency rule since it will be months before permanent rules can be adopted.

The chairman told board attorney Doyce Lee he also wants emergency rules written and passed to punish agents, companies and salesmen that victimize old people.

He said he received three telephone complaints in one week about sales of life or health insurance to "elderly people who either could not afford new insurance or didn't need it."

'Boxcar' Cells Ruled Illegal

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) - A federal judge has ruled unconstitutional the use of "boxcar" cells for solitary confinement of federal prisoners.

U.S. District Judge James L. Foreman ordered Marion, Ill., prison officials on Wednesday to remove all prisoners from the cells at the U.S. Penitentiary there. He said use of the cells, which are 6 feet, 6 inches wide and 8 feet long, is cruel and unusual punishment.

Krueger Says Christie Owes Him, Staff Apology

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Bob Krueger, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, says his Democratic opponent, Joe Christie, owes him and his staff an apology.

Christie charged last week at a Washington news conference that Krueger was acting "improper, if not illegal" by using members of his staff for campaign purposes, and paying them with campaign funds.

Christie spokesman Robert Heard retorted Wednesday night: "There will be no apology."

Krueger issued a statement Wednesday, a day after House Administration Committee chairman Frank Thompson, D-N.J., apparently cleared Krueger of any wrongdoing.

"Now that the chairman of the House Administration Committee, to whom Mr. Christie complained, has held that Mr. Christie's attacks are without basis in fact, I hope we can bring to this campaign a discussion of the issues rather than the unfortunate groundless attacks on the integrity of my campaign," said Krueger.

"I think Mr. Christie owes an apology to the members of my congressional staff and I hope that an apology is forthcoming," he added.

"We feel that Bob Krueger owes an apology to the voters of Texas for using his congressional staff in his campaign while they were on the federal payroll," countered Heard. "The issue is not dead. The issue is just beginning. What Krueger's friends and fellow members of the House may say is not the final answer to this issue."

Thompson's letter said congressional employees had the same rights as any other citizen when they are "off duty." He said they could "engage in political activities, and be reimbursed for expenses incurred."

Thompson added that Krueger could rightfully employ persons on his congressional staff who were formerly employed on his campaign staff.

Krueger pointed out that he currently has employees on his congressional staff who once worked on his campaign, but said they never do both jobs concurrently.

Both Krueger and Christie seek to oppose Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, in the November general election.

The Rev. Henry Duncan, pastor of a poor parish in Dufriesshire, Scotland, founded the first savings bank in Britain in 1810. The officers of the non-profit bank donated their time to governing it as a philanthropic service.

PLANT CERTIFIED

For Higher Cotton Yields

Yields from certified cotton planting seed were up to 18 percent higher than yields from caught or non-certified seed according to research by Dr. L. L. Ray at the South Plains Research and Extension Center in Lubbock, Texas. Certified seed has not undergone genetic deterioration in the field. Volunteer plants and undesirable cross-pollination are eliminated. And certified seed from Pioneer is free from pests and weeds which often accompany non-certified varieties. See your ginner or Pioneer brand seed dealer for these certified varieties.

Certified LX571*

Dependable even in dry country!

You can't control the weather. So, you need a hedge against drouth. . . . and that's where the Lankart variety LX571 fits in. It consistently produces top yields of high quality cotton . . . even under tough, dry conditions. And you don't have to give up anything to get this outstanding drouth tolerance, either.

LX571 produces fairly long, strong fiber . . . with micronaire normally in the premium range. And storm resistant bolls strip well in one pass through the field. Add up all the good things about LX571 . . . then it's easy to see why this is one of the most planted cotton varieties in the Rolling Plains, Central Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma.

*LX571 is a U.S. protected variety (Plant Variety Protection Certificate No. 7200018). Unauthorized propagation and unauthorized seed multiplication prohibited by law. LX571 cotton planting seed can be sold by variety name only as a class of certified seed. It is unlawful to sell non-certified seed of this variety.

Long-time favorite.

Cotton growers in Texas, Oklahoma and Eastern New Mexico have relied on certified Lankart 57 for consistently high yields for years. This variety has vigorous plants with short main stems and short fruiting branches. Leaves are large and dense. And this medium-early maturity cotton has storm-proof bolls. Lankart 57 is a good stripper cotton, too. . . . well-adapted to Texas and Oklahoma dryland production.

Certified LANKART 57

Certified LANKART 611

High yielding, early variety.

This cotton variety was developed for the early maturity needs of dryland farming . . . especially in the Blackland and Rolling Plains of Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma. Vigorous plants with short main stems and close fruiting branches produce large bolls of high quality lint. A good stripper cotton for the Southern High Plains on wilt-free soil.

Certified LANKART® and LOCKETT® brand cotton planting seed is available from your ginner or Pioneer® brand seed dealer.

Wife Suspects His Luncheon Sessions

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a clergyman, but I'm not disclosing the denomination because this is a small town. A few months ago, he started counseling a young woman in an effort to save her marriage. (I'll call her "Mrs. J.")

Last week he phoned to say he wouldn't be home for lunch as usual because Mrs. J. was coming in for counseling and it might take his entire lunch hour.

I didn't think anything of it until a few days ago when he told me not to bother preparing lunch for the next few weeks because Mrs. J. needs a lot of counseling, and she always brings a nice lunch for both of them when she comes in. (She started with one session a week, now it's five!)

Yesterday when my husband came home, I noticed liquor on his breath. I was shocked because he seldoms drinks, and I asked him if he had been drinking. He didn't try to hide it. He said Mrs. J. had brought along a small bottle of wine to have with their lunch.

Abby, I'm not the typical jealous wife, but I'm beginning to wonder what's going on at those sessions.

What do you think?

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I hope he's not a rabbi, because those lunches sound anything but "kosher" to me.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter called us last month and announced that it was official—she and her boyfriend are living together.

We, her parents, are very unhappy about this arrangement. We like the young man very much. He is a college graduate (as is our daughter), attractive, successful and from a good family. (We are friendly with his parents.)

Our daughter and her boyfriend are both 28, and there is no reason why they should not get married, but she made it plain that they have no such plans for the present.

The boy's parents don't like this setup any more than we do, but they are also helpless. People are asking us questions, and it is very embarrassing. What should we tell them?

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Don't be embarrassed. Parents are not responsible for the actions of their 28-year-old children, which is what you should tell people.

DEAR ABBY: In response to the family with "a darling little 88-year-old Granny" who reads their mail, may I add a thought:

At her age, this dear woman probably doesn't receive much mail of her own. By now, most of her friends and probably many of her relatives have already passed on. And since she lives with her daughter, she probably doesn't even get bills of her own.

Reading the rest of the family's mail might be her way of feeling in the mainstream of life. Perhaps if the family saw to it that there was something at "mail call" each day for Granny, she wouldn't need to read someone else's mail to feel important.

Think about it. At 88, receiving a personally addressed card just might be the highlight of your day.

B. IN MEDFORD, N.J.

DEAR B.: Bless you for your empathetic attitude.

Assistance For Elderly

A representative of People for Progress, Inc., is due in Snyder tomorrow to take applications for the Emergency Energy Assistance Program.

A $7,000 grant has been made available to assist low-income and elderly persons with their fuel bills, medical, food and clothing needs. Applicants must bring a recent fuel bill, proof of income and bills that remain unpaid because of the harsh winter.

The applications will be taken Friday and Monday at the Senior Citizens Center at Western Texas College between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The earliest record of an organized system of shorthand dates back to 63 B.C. in Rome. Around that time, Marcus Tullio Tiro invented a system of notae used to record the speeches of Cicero, Seneca and other members of the Roman senate.

HISTORY STUDENTS :- Junior high students studying Scurry County History visited the Scurry County Museum at WTC Wednesday with their instructor, Paul Mitchell. One of the four classes is pictured above in the museum lobby. Many local and area students visit the museum throughout the year and teachers interested in arranging guided tours are invited to call the museum office at 573-6107 for information.

Black Battalion Finally Honored

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

Three decades after its six-month blitz across Europe's battlefields to link up with Soviet troops in Austria, America's first all-black tank battalion is being awarded the presidential citation its survivors have fought for ever since.

The 761st "Black Panther" Battalion battled its way from France across Belgium and Germany for a record six straight months spearheading the allied drive and inflicting thousands of casualties on the Nazi army.

The battalion joined the First Ukrainian Army at Steyer, Austria, on May 6, 1945. The German high command surrendered a day later.

In its record 183 straight days in combat, including a key action in the Battle of the Bulge, the unit suffered a nearly 50 percent casualty rate, with a total of 36 officers and enlisted men killed and 360 wounded. The battalion lost 71 tanks.

Its members collected eight silver stars and 62 bronze stars.

"The response by the unit has been amazing," said David Williams, the battalion's white commander who now is a Miami stockbroker.

11 Ira Students In Regional Contests

IRA - Eleven high school students will travel to Levelland tomorrow to compete in seven literary events in the Region II University Interscholastic League meet.

These students qualified for the regional contest by placing high in the district meet.

In class 8-B District competition, Jimmy Byars and R.D. Phillips teamed up to win first place in debate and Kim Layne and Keith Clements qualified for regional with third.

Joe Hall's ticket to Levelland is a blue ribbon in ready writing and informative speaking.

Jimmy Byars also won the number sense competition and Brenda Cooley was right behind him with second place.

In persuasive speaking, Fred Kesner took the top honor and Scott Kesner will make the trip to the Panhandle as alternate with his fourth place rating.

Jack Stack won the science event and Kristi Hughes placed fourth.

Tate Kesner placed third in slide rule and Jimmy Byars is filling the alternate's shoes in that event.

Mayor Dismisses Class

AMARILLO (AP) - The mayor of Amarillo has fulfilled one of his childhood wishes, but he may have lost a vote from the local high school principal.

Mayor Jerry Hodge, an alumnus of Tascosa High School, returned to the campus Tuesday morning to dedicate a park. The students turned out and the mayor cut the ribbon.

Then, about 11 a.m., Hodge made an announcement he said he had been told not to make. "Class dismissed," the mayor said. With that, the students scattered.

Principal Gerald Nipp said the mayor had no authority to send the students home. He warned that no absences would be excused.

A check after lunch revealed that about half the students had returned to class.

Shrikes, like hawks, typically sit upon vantage points where they watch for their prey, which includes large insects, small reptiles, mammals or birds. They have prediatory habits, but do not have strong feet to hold their prey, and some species impale their catch on thorns and leave part of it uneaten.

All-Out Production Maintained

AUSTIN (AP) - The Railroad Commission today set the statewide oil allowable at 100 per cent for May, maintaining the all-out production that has gone almost every month for over six years.

Chairman Mack Wallace noted that crude oil imports into the United States totaled 8,034,000 barrels per day for the four-week average of April 7.

This represents 42 per cent of this country's demand for oil, he said.

Major buyers of Texas crude oil submitted nominations for 3,551,424 barrels a day in May, an increase of 7,627 barrels a day from April.

As usual, the commission held the allowable for the East Texas Field at 86 per cent to avoid possible waste.

The statewide allowable has dipped below 100 per cent in only three months since April 1972.

Here are major buyers' nominations for May, in barrels per day, with any changes from April in parentheses:

Amoco 320,000 (down 5,000)
Atlantic Richfield 170,000
Chevron 66,380
Cities Service 105,000
Continental 55,000 (up 500)
Diamond Shamrock 36,000
Exxon 654.000 (down 2,000)
Gulf 140,000
Marathon 49,670
Mobil 345,000
Phillips 115,000
Shell 241,000(down 2,000)
Sun 131,000
Texaco 130,000
Union of California 95,000

Slick Alive Thanks To His Owner

OAK PARK, Mich. (AP) - Slick the garter snake is giddy but alive, thanks to his owner who held him by the tail for three hours after Slick slithered down an auto dashboard vent.

"He was halfway into the windshield defrosting vent before I grabbed his tail," said Leonard Schiffman. "If I had let go he would have crawled in further and probably have died.

Slick, though, apparently didn't realize the jam he was in and fought Schiffman's gentle tugs on his tail.

"I couldn't pull too hard or I would injured him," said Schiffman.

AAM Meeting Called Tonight

A meeting of the American Agriculture Movement has been set for 8 o'clock tonight at the local strike office.

Strike participants reported the purpose of the meeting is to analyze the latest developments in proposed agriculture legislation and to discuss a larger meeting of the AAM to be held in Oklahoma City, Okla.

The Oklahoma City meeting is scheduled to be held April 24.

Jim Bunning pitched a no-hitter in both the National and American Leagues.

Without Congress Action...

Americans Altering Energy-Use Patterns

By MARTIN MERZER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Exactly one year after President Carter called for approval of his National Energy Plan, a program that still hasn't been passed by Congress, new statistics indicate that Americans are using less imported oil and are slowing the rate of growth of all energy use.

On April 20, 1977, Carter - describing the developing energy crisis as 'the moral equivalent of war" - asked Congress to approve a variety of programs designed to conserve energy and develop resources.

But action on most of his proposals still hasn't been completed, primarily because of a disagreement over natural gas prices.

Statistics released Wednesday, however, show that the United States is altering its energy-use patterns even without congressional action:

Imports of crude oil and oil products, which jumped 18 percent in 1977 and 20 percent in 1976, are down a surprising 14 percent for the first three months of 1978 compared with the same period last year, according to statistics released Wednesday by the American Petroleum Institute.

In addition, preliminary data indicate the United States significantly reduced its growth of energy use last year, according to the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, an independent study group.

The development is likely to help strengthen the U.S. dollar overseas, might help reduce the balance of payments deficit and should blunt some political criticism of the United States for not slacking its thirst for energy.

"In previous years, every 1 percent jump in the gross national product was matched by a 1 percent jump in energy consumption," said Lawrence Goldstein, a foundation economist.

"Last year, each 1 percent increase in the gross national product was matched by a 0.5 percent increase in energy use," he said. "That is absolutely staggering."

The dollar has been losing value during the past year, and analysts have attributed much of the problem to the United States' $26.7 billion trade deficit last year. For foreign oil alone last year, the U.S. spent $44.3 billion.

Although the level of oil imports is expected to rise slightly during the second half of the year, most analysts expect total imports at year-end to be below the 1977 level, perhaps as much as 5 percent lower. They expect imports to rise again in 1979 or 1980, but at a much slower rate than in recent years.

Hobbs Sets Supper, Talent Show

HOBBS - Hobbs High School will have a combination pancake supper and talent show May 4 in the school auditorium.

The pancake supper will be held from 6-8 p.m. and the tickets will sell for $2.25. Tickets to the talent show, set at 8 p.m., will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. A combination ticket may be purchased for $3.00 which will cover both events.

There will be three divisions in the talent show; adult, high school and elementary. First and second places in each division will be presented trophies.

All persons interested in participating in the talent show should contact Mrs. Charles Black, at 735-2850 by day and 735-3091 by night.

Gov. Brown Due Larger Refund

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - An error in arithmetic on Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s 1977 state income tax return caused him to claim a $433 refund when he actually was entitled to a refund of $468.

The governor's accountant, Carolyn Fox, chagrined at the error, said the state Franchise Tax Board would catch it and send Brown a check for the proper amount.

The tax returns showed that Brown owed $13,895 in federal taxes and was due a $1,141 refund, and that he owed $3,948 to the state and was due a $443 refund - the uncorrected amount.

Daniel Names Nunley Local Coordinator

Price Daniel, Jr., Democratic candidate for Attorney General of Texas, has designated Mickey Nunley of Snyder as his campaign coordinator in Scurry County.

Nunley said, "I am honored to accept this important role in Price Daniel Jr.'s campaign for Attorney General of Texas, because I know that he is well qualified by his experience and outstanding record of public service to be the people's lawyer. As the reform-minded Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives following the Sharpstown scandal, Price Daniel, Jr. successfully led the effort to clean up State government. TIME Magazine called him 'incorruptible' and named him one of the outstanding young leaders in the nation, and the President of the United States honored him with a national legislative leadership award."

"Price Daniel, Jr. has studied law, administered law, practiced law, and helped make law. He is independent and free from the influence of special interests and powerful lobbying groups. As the next Attorney General of Texas, Price Daniel, Jr. will be a good, honest lawyer for all Texans."

Confusion about arthritis

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — May I have your Health Letter on the symptoms of osteoporosis, arthritis and spurs on the spine? I had an X-ray recently of my back. These are the things that showed up on the picture but the doctor who looked at me didn't give me any explanation of my condition.

DEAR READER — There is a great deal of confusion about what arthritis is. Osteoporosis is not arthritis, but most of the public calls it arthritis. It is degeneration of the bone because of actual loss of bone tissue and it is most often present in women after the menopause. It is five times more common in women who have been on a calcium-deficient diet.

Osteoarthritis is wear and tear disease and is the result of wearing of the joint surfaces. It may be associated with formation of bony spines. Almost everyone gets some of this if he lives long enough.

So I am sending you both The Health Letter 4-10, Osteoarthritis and 6-10, Osteoporosis. You could very well have both at the same time. You will be able to sort out from the two issues what these two conditions are like. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for either of the two issues with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I had some stomach and chest X rays during my period. The next month I missed my period and it turned out I was pregnant. About a month later I started spotting and had a spontaneous abortion.

I have accepted this and I am not bitter over what has happened. My question is to ease my conscience about having the X rays. Could these have damaged the fetus and caused the abortion when I conceived two weeks later?

DEAR READER — Rest your conscience; they had nothing to do with it. Women in the child-bearing age in the United States have about 7.5 million conceptions a year, and 3.75 million of these end in spontaneous abortion whether or not the mother-to-be has any X rays taken. Abortions occur then in over half of all pregnancies.

To this observation I should add that the risk of a birth defect from X rays during pregnancy is so small that the major consideration is whether the mother-to-be needs an X ray for her own medical problems or not. If she does she should have it. Birth defects occur in nearly as many births to mothers who have had no X rays as those who have had such diagnostic X rays. Yes, there is some slight increase in risk but it is small.

The question often comes up whether a mother-to-be should have an abortion if she has had X rays and then finds out she is pregnant. The American College of Radiology researched the point and discovered that you would have to destroy 1000 normal pregnancies to prevent the birth of one child with some form — often minor — of birth defect.

And you should know that the danger period to the fetus is thought to begin about the time of conception. Since you were having your periods and tended to be regular that means you were still two weeks ahead of this time when you had your X rays. Conception should not have occurred until two weeks before your next expected period.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

April 21, 1978

Your material prospects look quite hopeful for the coming year, provide you don't team up with the wrong type of partner or associate. Make no alliances with persons who aren't on par with your ideals and capabilities.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You might have to play the loner's role today because associates lack your perceptiveness and may not go along with your bright ideas. Like to find out more of what lies ahead for you? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't broadcast your financial status at social gatherings today. You could find yourself in an embarrassing situation when a poor risk tries to put the bite on you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You must be very careful today if soliciting a favor from an influential friend. Should he feel he's being used, it could seriously impair the relationship.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Although you will be grateful of help from another in furthering your ambitions today, it's not likely you'll praise his efforts in front of your peers.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Spreading your resources too thin is something you will have to guard against today. An unbalanced budget isn't worth a wild spending spree.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This is one of those days when you're apt to feel you are doing far more for others than they are doing for you. Don't despair. Things will even out later.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your inclinations to take on others' responsibilities today is admirable, but know where to draw the line. Too many straws can cause an aching back.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't leave the workbench before the whistle blows today just because you have some fun on the agenda. The greater rewards come from a job well done.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try not to let being No. 1 assume too much importance today. Allies could become opponents if you are too self-serving.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Keeping harmony is more important than challenging your mate as to whose ideas are right or wrong. Strive for duets, not debates today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's best not to try to manage or mastermind the affairs of others today. Your talents may not match your good intentions.

ARIES (March 21-April 20) If someone throws roadblocks in your path today, keep cool at all cost. Coexistence is essential to your immediate aims.

NFL Players Ink To Aid Job Corps

WASHINGTON (AP)-Professional football players will be helping to double the size of the Job Corps, an antipoverty program designed to prepare youngsters for the working world.

The NFL Players Association and the Labor Department signed a one-year $191,000 contract Wednesday under which the athletes will aid in recruiting, develop community acceptance and boost morale for the centers.

The Job Corps, an arm of the Labor Department, provides residential services to educate and train poor youngsters between the ages of 16 and 21. There were 61 centers in 1977 but the Carter Administration hopes to expand that number to 110 within the next year.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall signed the contract for the government.

Sideline Glances...

Checking The Sideline

by BILL McCLELLAN

SOMETIMES SPORTS gets to be so involved here in Snyder that the sidelights are passed off the side. That is, sometimes the track meet gets in the way of who's actually doing the running, if you know what I mean. Seem's we've passed over an athlete that deserves special recognition.

It's no secret around town that Clay Peterson, local high school senior, will be heading for the U.S. Military Academy in West Point this summer.

WHILE IT'S no secret either that Clay is something of a local athletic star, West Point has chosen him for other reasons. But the military will no doubt appreciate Clay's abilities on the field; as well as those academic abilities which have made him a standout in the high school choir, the drama club and the National Honor Society.

Clay's athletic accomplishments are widespread and include football and track. A two-year starter and letterman at tailback, he gained approximately 1,800 yards rushing during that time, and had several 100-plus games. His best effort was against Borger this past season, when he ripped the opposing line for 199 yards.

CLAY LED the team in rushing in 1977 and scored eight TDs. Needless to say - but we will - he made all-district both years.

In track, Clay is a three-year letterman, running the sprints; 100 and 220 dashes. In 1977, he was a regional qualifier with a time of 9.9 in the 100 yard dash. And Saturday, he'll join Coach Winfred Shipp's track team at the district meet in Lubbock, where he'll try for another regional title.

At 5-7, or maybe just a shade under, Clay won't be the tallest man at West Point, but according to Snyder track coach Mike Jenkins, that's never bothered the speedster before.

"CLAY IS a real good competitor. He's overcome his lack of size with a lot of determination and work. Of course he won't be going there because of his athletic ability, but he does plan to participate in football and track while he's there."

As for Clay himself, there really isn't any question.

"No, I'll just try to keep in shape. I'll do some running and work out with the weights before I go. Other than than, it's just 'wait until I get there'."

Thanks, Clay. We'll bet they are waiting on you.

Pump Jack Entries Still Being Accepted

Entries are still being accepted for the annual Pump Jack Invitation Golf Tournament scheduled at Snyder Country Club on Saturday and Sunday.

The $60 fee includes participation into the two-day tournament plus a free tournament dinner and disco dancing on Saturday evening.

Shotgun starts for the event begin at 8:30 a.m. Saturday with the Championship, First and Second flights. Lower flights will tee off at 1:30 p.m.

In addition a ladies' round-robin Doubles Tennis Tournament will be held at the country club courts, beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday. Entry fee is $5 per team and the top five winners will receive gift certificates.

A free tournament dinner for "golfers and their ladies" will be held from 7:30 until 9 Saturday evening, followed by disco dancing to Starship Disco.

The tourney will resume at 9 a.m. Sunday with the lower flights teeing off. Higher flights will get underway at 2 p.m.

Practice rounds and an optional sweepstakes will be held all day Friday in conjunction with the tournament. Sweepstakes entry is $10 per team, "with several ways to win prizes," according to club pro Bill Keys.

A number of top wosomes have already entered the well-known tournament. These includes 1976 Championship flight winners Larry Anderson of Snyder and Bobby Birdwell, formerly of Snyder; Jess Claiborn and Jake Broyles of Lamesa; and the team of George Powell, Colorado City, and Jim Bell Harris, Hobbs, N.M.

Any area golfers wishing more information are requested to contact Keys at Box 498 Snyder (79549) or call 915-573-7101.

A&M Sets Game, Golf Tournament

COLLEGE STATION (AP)-Texas A&M winds up its spring football drills with its Maroon and White game at 7 p.m. Saturday, but there'll be other sports activity earlier in the weekend.

A field of 91, including 65 newsmen, will tee it up at 11 a.m. Friday for A&M's annual News Media Golf Tournament at Bryan's Briarcrest Country Club.

Texas A&M and Texas Tech clash in a three-game Southwest Conference baseball series Friday and Saturday. A 2 p.m. game Friday will be followed by a double-header starting at 1 p.m. Saturday.

The football squad has been divided evenly.

Mike Mosley's White team has fullback George Woodard, halfbacks Holly Wilson and David Brothers, center Ed Pustejovsky, tackle Cody Risien and split end Gerald Carter among its top offensive players and end Jacob Green, tackle Gerald Galloway, cornerback Jimmy Hamilton and safety Carl Grulich on defense.

David Beal's Maroons have Raymond Belcher at fullback and Curtis Dickey and Adger Armstrong at the halves, with Doug Teague at split end and Zach Guthrie at a tackle on offense.

Detroit Nabs Texas' Davis

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)-The University of Detroit has signed West Oso's Jerry Davis, a 6-5, three-time all-state forward who is considered one of Texas' top high school basketball players.

Davis chose the Titans on Wednesday over New Mexico, Texas A&M and Houston. He had been contacted by about 200 schools, considered about 30 of them and visited only four.

Davis was one of 10 blue chip basketball players named by the Dallas Times-Herald after a poll of coaches of the nine Southwest Conference schools and North Texas State. He was named on nine of the 10 ballots.

He averaged 34.8 points and 18.3 rebounds game this season and became the leading scorer in South Texas history, finishing with a career scoring average of 28 points per game. He hit 60 percent from the field his senior year.

Davis scored 29 points last weekend in a national all-star game in Dayton, Ohio, and won the slam-dunk contest. In West Oso's bi-district victory over Rio Grande City, Davis scored 58 points.

Pirates-Cards Game Cancelled

PITTSBURGH (AP) - The National League baseball game scheduled between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the St. Louis Cardinals for today has been postponed because of rain.

A Pirate spokesman said the game will be made up at Three Rivers Stadium with a double-header Sunday, the final day of a scheduled four-game series with St. Louis.

At 3-AAA Track And Field Meet...

Several Tigers Probable For Regional Qualification

LUBBOCK--Snyder will be among the area cities represented here Saturday during the annual 3-AAA district track and field meet held at Coronado High School.

Others are Dunbar and Estacado from Lubbock, Sweetwater, San Angelo Lake View, Lamesa and Brownfield.

Both Dunbar and Brownfield boast strong teams depth-wise, and are favorites to win the team title.

Individual events are expected to spread their winners over all seven schools. The first and second place individuals per event and each top two relay teams will advance to Regional competition, slated for April 29 in Odessa.

Field events will open the one-day meet at 9:30 a.m., with running prelims to begin in the morning also. Finals are scheduled for 2 p.m.

Snyder's best chances in qualifying for regional lie in its field competitors. Randy Courtney and Brownfield's Kerry Cranfill each have posted efforts of 6-8 in the high jump and will be favored 1-2 in that event. Snyder's "next-best" threat lies in freshman Dale Jenkins, who has posted a mark of 14-0 in the pole vault. Brownfield's Randy Newsom has noted an equal effort.

Another Tiger capable of making the regional meet is 120 hurdler Jeff Terry, who has posted one of the fastest times in the district. Terry ran an unofficial 13.7 at the Cub Relays in Brownfield--unofficial because one flight of hurdles was left out of the full-length distance which caused the race to be run faster than 'normal''. However, Terry's 13.7 time was still considered "fast" despite the missing hurdle.

Other Snyder possibilities include sophomore Lloyd Benson in the 440 or 880 yard run event, and--on an outside chance--Morris Anderson in the long jump.

Boys 3-AAA Meet

Unser 'Saved' By New Helmet

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)-Al Unser, one of six former winners entered in the May 28 Indy 500, owes his life to a new triple-layer helmet, says Frank Del Roy, technical chairman of the U.S. Auto Club.

Unser, who 11 days ago set an unofficial record of 202.2 mph in tire testing at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, slammed sideways into the wall during practice at the Texas World Speedway last Friday.

The right side of his helmet struck the outer concrete retainer, splitting the helmet slightly.

"If he didn't have that helmet, his skull never would have been able to take that blow," said Del Roy, who was a riding mechanic in the days of cloth helmets.

Other than a severe headache, Unser escaped without injury. The helmet will be sent by USAC to the Snell Foundation in Sacramento, Calif., for examination.

Del Roy said helmets didn't "start saving lives" until Snell began examining them for impact reaction in the 1960s.

The Speedway announced Wednesday the official entries for this year's race, listing a record 92 cars which may compete for the 33 starting berths. The former record was 90 set in 1967.

Clerk Upsets Zugarelli In Nice Tourney

NICE, FRANCE - Argentina's unseeded Jose-Luis Clerk upset seventh seed Antonio Zugarelli of Italy 6-3, 6-1 in the second round of the Nice Open International tennis tournament.

Cats To Try Cubs Today

BROWNFIELD - Snyder High School baseball team, 4-1 in league play, was to conclude its round-one district campaign here at 4 p.m. today.

The Tigers, who clinched the first-half championship earlier this week by defeating Lamesa 17-4 in Snyder, boast an 18-5 season record.

Round-two action of the 3-AAA district is to begin Tuesday as Snyder hosts the Cubs.

In other action today, Snyder junior varsity team was to play the Indians in Seminole at 4 p.m.

Coach Albert Lewis, who led Snyder to district and bi-district championships during his first season as head baseball coach last year, directs the Tigers. Snyder JV is under the guidance of Coach Roger Goodwin. Coach Steve Roberts aides Coach Lewis with the varsity.

'Great Being Able To Eat Now...'

Dental Surgery Slims Martin

DALLAS (AP)-Harvey Martin didn't want to be eating soup through a straw when he's 50-years old, so he decided to do it for six weeks while he was 26.

The Dallas Cowboy All-Pro defensive end quietly submitted to dental surgery after the Super Bowl in which he and teammate Randy White were named the Most Valuable Players after the victory over Denver.

"The orthodonist told me I had a bite that was not hitting right," said Martin Wednesday. "He said it could be corrected, but if I waited until I was 50 years old then I would not be able to eat."

What had to be done to Martin was described by the four-year National Football League veteran as strictly "gross."

For one, they broke his jaw.

For two, they put it back together again.

For three, they wired it shut. "I went six weeks eating soup and chocolate malts through a straw," said Martin. "I remember I got a real craving one night for lasagna and spaghetti. So my friends whipped it up in a blender-but I couldn't choke it down."

Martin and Baltimore's George Kunz were honored Wednesday as the NFL's defensive and offensive linemen, respectively, by Seagram's Seven Crowns of Sports. They each got a trophy and $5,000.

Martin was some 25 pounds lighter than his playing weight of 245. He looked like a slim fashion model.

Some suggested Martin looked like a tight end, and Cowboy defensive coordinator Ernie Stautner said quickly, "Harvey likes to hit. He doesn't like five guys hitting him."

Martin led the NFL in quarterback sacks with 23 for the 1977 season.

Martin said he was on a crash eating craze spiced with lots of lasagna.

"It's great right now, being able to eat all you want," said Martin. "I'm getting fired up for the season. I'm starting to think Super Bowl again."

Oakland Surprisingly Strong So Far

By The Associated Press

Oakland Manager Bobby Winkles will settle for all the gray hairs his young, low-salaried A's will give him this season ... if they keep winning..

New York Yankees Manager Billy Martin, on the other hand, probably is ready to tear out his hair over the performance of his veteran, highly paid world champions ... especially relief specialist Rich Gossage.

The A's, who under penurious owner Charles O. Finley have unloaded virtually all their players from the 1972, 1973 and 1974 World Series winners, were not expected to be contenders this year.

But so far they have been the early-season surprises of the major leagues.

Wednesday, they raised their record to 8-3 and moved within one game of first-place Kansas City in the American League West, beating the Minnesota Twins 6-5 in 11 innings.

The Yankees, AL champions the past two years, fell to 5-6, three games behind frontrunning Detroit in the East Division, losing to the Toronto Blue Jays 4-3. The winning run scoring on Gossage's second throwing error in the ninth inning.

"I'm sick. I'm almost ready to cry," said the downtrodden, dejected Gossage, loser of his third straight game since signing a reported $2.75 million, six-year free agent contract with the Yankees after the 1077 season.

In the only other AL game Wednesday, Ron Jackson drove in six runs with two doubles and a single, powering the California Angels to an 11-2 rout of the Seattle Mariners. Two games were rained out - Detroit at Cleveland and Milwaukee at Boston.

Blue Jays 4, Yankees 3

Toronto scored the winning run in the ninth inning when John Mayberry led off with a single, pinch runner Garth Iorg was sage at second on Gossage's low throw to the bag on Rick Cerone's bunt and Iorg scored when Gossage fired Dave McKay's attempted sacrifice over the head of first baseman Chris Chambliss.

Angels 11, Mariners 2

Jackson delivered a two-run two-out single in the third inning, a run-scoring double in the seventh and a three-run double in the eighth after Enrique Romo walked the bases loaded. Chris Knapp allowed one run over the first five innings and picked up the victory while Jim Todd, who replaced Seattle starter Glenn Abbott in the second inning, was the loser. Abbott reinjured a hamstring muscle.

Mets 2, Cards 0

While Zachry was limiting St. Louis to second-inning singles by Keith Hernandez and Jerry Morales. Bruce Boisclair drove in both runs, with a sacrifice fly in the first inning and a single in the third as the Mets completed a sweep of a three-game series. Zachry called it "my best game in the majors."

Dodgers 5, Reds 4

Rick Monday drove in four runs with a pair of homers and unbeaten Tommy John scattered nine hits for his third victory as Los Angeles salvaged the finale of an important early-season three-game series. The Reds' Joe Morgan tied a major league record for consecutive errorless games by a second baseman, completing his 89th flawless game. Morgan, who committed only five errors last season, matched the mark set by Baltimore's Jerry Adair in 1964-65.

Astros 2, Padres 1

Joaquin Andujar singled home a run and held San Diego to six hits in eight innings. The triumph was the Astros' fourth in a row and sixth in their last seven games after an 0-5 start. The Padres dropped their fourth straight, all at home, where they have not won yet this season.

Expos 8, Cubs 6

Ellis Valentine and Larry Parrish delivered two-run singles in the top of the ninth inning as Montreal rallied for four unearned runs against Chicago relief ace Bruce Sutter.

The Expos loaded the bases with one out on two walks and an error. After a force at home, Valentine singled and reached second when left fielder Gene Clines overran the ball. Parrish followed with another two-run single. Larry Biittner homered for Chicago while Chris Speier connected for Montreal.

Braves 2, Giants 0

What Can McAdoo...Do?

NEW YORK (AP)-It is the finesse of Caldwell Jones? The muscle of Steve Mix? The wear and tear of a season that started six months ago?

Whatever the reason, unless New York center Bob McAdoo ends his shooting slump tonight, the Knicks will likely be in for a long evening against the Philadelphia 76ers in the third game of their best-of-seven National Basketball Association quarter-final playoff series.

"They had better show something different from what they showed in the first two games," said the 76ers' Julius Erving, refering to his team's easy 130-90 and 119-100 victories in the series' first two games.

The biggest difference must come from McAdoo, the NBA's No. 3 scorer with a 26.5 average who has shot 11 for 34 and scored just 22 points in the first two games.

"I'm in a scoring slump," said McAdoo, stating the obvious. But why?

"It's a combination of two factors," he said. "First there is the tough defense of Caldwell Jones. The other is that I've been taking shots from out of position."

Jones, a lean 7-foot-1 leaper, starts the game at center for Philadelphia and plays McAdoo head to head.

"Everywhere he goes on the court, I'm following," Jones said. "You just can't let him take those shots, or he'll score 100 on you."

When Jones leaves the game and muscular Darryl Dawkins takes over at center, the job of guarding McAdoo goes to 6-8 forward Steve Mix.

"He doesn't like the physical type of defense on him, so I'll bump him and shove him and crowd him," said Mix.

All of which means McAdoo is drawing constant attention, as he has all season. He is the key to the Knicks' offense and every opponent knows it - contain McAdoo and you'll beat the Knicks.

McAdoo thinks part of the problem lies with his teammates.

"I'm not getting the ball enough, but there's nothing I can do about it," he said. "when I run to get it, I'm out of position."

Whatever the cause of McAdoo's current problems, Jones knows that he and his teammates can't expect to stop New York's scoring ace forever.

The Knicks would like nothing better than such a "Big Mac Attack' tonight, or in Sunday afternoon's fourth game of the series. If it doesn't happen, chances of the series returning to Philadelphia are remote-and the Knicks know it.

"Bobby got us here," said Reed. "He's a pro. He's just got to weather this storm."

Philadelphia's game at New York is the only one on the NBA calendar tonight. The other series resume Friday night, with Seattle, leading 1-0, at defending champion Portland; Milwaukee, trailing 1-0, at Denver, and San Antonio at Washington in a series tied 1-1.

Georgia Picked Small Favorite At Schenkel

STATESBORO, Ga. (AP)-Georgia is a slight favorite to capture the eighth annual Chris Schenkel Intercollegiate Golf Invitational tournament that begins Friday.

Coach Dick Copas' Bulldogs have won two of the five tournaments they entered this year and finished second in the others.

The 54-hole Schenkel tournament will be held on the 6,850-yard, par 72 Forest Heights Country Club. Each of the 21 teams will play five men, with the combined totals of the low four determining the winner.

Ohio State is second-seeded, followed by Wake Forest, Georgia Southern, North Carolina, Florida, Florida State, North Carolina State, Auburn and Louisiana State.

Other schools competing include Alabama, Maryland, South Carolina, East Tennessee, Memphis State, Marshall, Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana, Georgia Tech and Mississippi State.

'Toughness' Makes Howe

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) - Gordie Howe, at 50, was still scoring goals in 1978 for the New England Whalers of the World Hockey Association. A lot of people wondered how he did it. One of Howe's long-time opponents on the ice had an explanation.

"His toughness had as much to do with his lasting that long as anything," the player said. "He's strong and aggressive and he has the younger players in the league scared to death. Nobody messes with Gordie."

Gottfried Doesn't Want To Hear It

HOUSTON (AP)-Brian Gottfried, top seeded in the $175,000 World Championship Tennis Tournament at River Oaks Country Club, likes to play lights-out tennis and remain in the dark as to the importance of his victories.

"It's easier for me to play without knowing the points I need or what the standings are," Gottfried said Wednesday after his 6-4, 6-2 second-round victory over Terry Moor.

"As long as I keep winning, I'm okay. I'd prefer to live in a vacuum, not knowing who I play. I sleep better that way."

Reminded he is tied for tenth in a bid to make the top eight that will compete in the WCT championship finals, Gottfried said, "Yes, I know, and that's all I want to know about it."

Gottfried fell behind 4-1 in the opening set until he got accustmed to the tricky spins that Moor kept bouncing off the hard River Oaks clay.

"Guys with a lot of spin on clay like that can really make you look silly," Gottfried said.

Gottfried then won eight straight games to take control of the match.

Fourth-seeded Harold Solomon, the next highest seeded player still in the tournament, had an easy victory with a 6-3, 6-1 trouncing of Dick Saviano, trying for his second big upset.

Solomon broke Saviano in the second and sixth games of the first set and after Saviano held in the opening game of the second set Solomon won six straight games to win the match.

Ilie Nastase easily beat paul Kronk 6-2, 6-2, still using the specially strung racket he says gives him better spin. The racket is strung with the four middle strings unwoven.

In other matches Wednesday Jeff Borowiak beat Dick Stockton 7-5, 6-4; Hans Gildemeister beat Peter Fleming 5-7, 6-3, 6-4; Carrado Barazzutti beat Tom Okker, 6-3, 6-3.

Zeljko Franulovic defeated Ken Rosewall, 6-3, 7-5, and Jaime Fillol defeated Ovie Bengston 6-2, 6-2.

Soviets Defeat States Netters

NORCROSS, Ga. (AP) - Billie Jean King salvaged some American pride by ripping Yelena Granatruova 6-0, but the Soviet Union took three of five matches to edge the U.S. squad 26-24 in a five-match round of the American-Soviet Tennis Series.

The Americans held an 80-72 lead after the first half of the series, played in the Soviet Union in September. Their lead was narrowed to 104-98 after Wednesday's play.

The Soviets captured the first three one-set matches as Vadium Borisov and Teimuraz Kakulia defeated Stan Smith and John Whitlinger 6-2 in the opening doubles match. Borisov then had little trouble with Smith in the men's singles, crushing the former Wimbledon champion 6-2.

King and Julie Anthony then dropped a 7-6 decision to Granaturova and Irina Chevchenko, losing in a tiebreaker 5-4 after leading 5-0. King then tore Granaturova apart before the mixed doubles team of 16-year-old Ben Testerman and Anthony edged Kakulia and Chevchenko 8-7.

IF YOU WANT SNYDER TO STAY
CLEAN, PROUD AND DRY, READ

Every vote counts. Some six years ago a liquor election was held in Snyder. The outcome was far closer than it should have been. The City stayed dry by a margin of only 174 votes (1703 to 1529). A lot of people who did not really want Snyder to go wet took it for granted that it would never happen - so they stayed home and didn't vote. Make no mistake about it, the wet forces have been at work for many months, even before their aborted attempt to call an election last fall. The over 700 names on the petition include those who are wealthy, ambitious, and determined. We are encountering a well-funded, well-organized and dedicated effort to open Snyder up to all kinds of liquor (not just beer). We dare not take anything for granted. We must make every sacrifice to see that every qualified voter gets to a polling place Monday, May the 8th.

Some may have to take off work for an hour or even for an entire day to vote...some may need to pick up and deliver those who have no transportation...some may need to be reminded on Monday the 8th that today is the day...and some may need to make plans ahead of time to vote absentee if they are to be out of town on the 8th.

If we fail to defeat the issue soundly, we will probably be in for more elections involving other parts of the County. We must unite in a great show of concern and single-mindedness and score a decisive victory. The alternative is unthinkable...

The time may come when Snyder gets "down" far enough to go the route of Post, Sweetwater and Big Spring, but that time is not yet. The only thing that can defeat us is carelessness or indifference. Please do your part. Take a stand. Use your influence. Vote! It's your family, your future, your community at stake. Don't let anyone or anything keep you from voting dry on May the 8th.

State, Local Officials Claim...

Feds Hampering Fight Against Drug Smugglers

By MILLER BONNER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - State and local law enforcement officers are suffering in their fight against drug smugglers because of interference from federal officials, says the head of the Colorado Organized Crime Strike Force's narcotics division.

Ron Pietrafeso joined three other state officials - including Floyd Hacker, the head of the Texas Department of Public Safety narcotics division - in asking a Senate Judiciary subcommittee Wednesday for more cooperation from federal officers.

Afterwards, Pietrafeso outlined an incident he says supports his claims.

Last fall, Pietrafeso sent 16 men into the Big Bend area of Texas to follow a group of heroin traffickers and watch the group as they transported their illegal cargo from the Texas-Mexican border back to Colorado.

Pietrafeso said he wanted to seize the shipment in Colorado, thereby snaring not only the traffickers but also those financing the operation.

"We had notified the Texas DPS and seven DPS men working with us for about a week," said Pietrafeso. "The DPS, in turn, notified Customs."

An informant told Pietrafeso's men the group was not able to make a heroin purchase when originally planned. "He said the buy would take place a week later than we thought and we were in a position to wait for them."

Customs, however, did not, he said.

As the would-be traffickers traveled from Presidio toward Marfa, Customs moved in and made arrests.

"Of course, we had given them the identity of all the persons and the type of vehicle they were driving," added Pietrafeso. "They searched for drugs and, or course, didn't find any."

Customs also overlooked $13,000 in cash hidden under a floorboard of one of the cars, Pietrafeso said. "And $13,000 in cash would have been a lot easier to find than dope," he added.

Customs did find two guns, however, and made a firearms arrest.

Customs officials told the San Angelo Standard-Times, which published a copyright article today on the incident, that they did not know the identities of the men they arrested and declined further comment.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Jamie Boyd of San Antonio told the newspaper, "I think it was just a lack of coordination and communication."

Pietrafeso said Colorado had invested more than eight months and thousands of dollars in the ill-fated case. "I had eight men in Texas the week Customs picked everybody us. We also had eight vehicles and two airplanes involved in surveillance... all for nothing."

Pietrafeso said he and DPS officials "raised hell with Customs" and a meeting with state and federal officers was arranged by the DPS.

"And when I stood up in the meeting and told what happened," Pietrafeso began, "a DEA Drug Enforcement Administration man said by us following narcotics from Texas to Colorado, we would have been in violation of federal narcotic conspiracy statutes and if he caught us doing it again, he'd have us thrown in jail. Can you believe that?"

Boyd confirmed that the statement was made and said later, "I can't keep him the DEA agent from arresting someone, but as far as I'm concerned, there would be no prosecution as long as the agents are operating in a legitimate fashion."

The ten men arrested by Customs were convicted on drug trafficking charges, based on the information compiled by the Coloradoans and DPS.

"But, naturally, we would have had a much stronger case and more arrests if we had completed what we set out to do," noted Pietrafeso.

"But before the trial, we asked Customs for a report on [illegible] and for them to return some scales used in weighing heroin and cutting material to dilute the heroin before street sale so we could use them during the trial," he added. "After about a week, they said we couldn't have the reports. They said it would be a violation of the Privacy Act."

United States On Block Again

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) - The luxury liner United States is on the block again, the U.S. Maritime Administration has announced. The federal agency, which once demanded $121 million for the ship, says it will not accept bids under $5 million.

Recruited From Alcoholism Council....

Pinney To Head Federal War On Smoking

By CHRIS CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government's war on smoking today gained a general who was recruited from the battle against alcoholism.

John M. Pinney was named first director of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's new Office on Smoking and Health by HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr.

Pinney, 34, had worked for the National Council on Alcoholism, a private organization for five years, and has directed its Washington office since 1975.

Like Califano, Pinney is a former smoker. He quit the habit early this year, before Califano launched his anti-smoking campaign and before Pinney knew he was being considered for the job, an HEW spokesman said.

Califano began his campaign Jan. 11, on the 14th anniversary of the first surgeon general's report that warned of the health hazards of smoking. Califano's $29.8 million program includes increased spending on smoking research and on disseminating anti-smoking materials to schools, the media and the public.

Pinney previously had managed programs to fight alcoholism in major corporations in nine U.S. cities under a $2.8 million federal grant.

Califano announced the appointment in Denver in a speech to the Association of State and Territorial Health Officials.

The HEW secretary said in a statement: "As director of a major program to educate the citizens of his country to the dangers of alcohol, Pinney understands fully the equally urgent need for educating people, particularly teenagers and those who have not yet begun to smoke - to the dangers and problems associated with tobacco."

Pinney, a former Navy officer, worked as an HEW analyst from 1971 to 1973.

He will oversee distribution of HEW's "seed money" to government and voluntary agencies for smoking research and pilot programs, as well as the development of new anti-smoking materials.

The new office, situated in Washington, will embody HEW's National Clearinghouse on Smoking and Health, now headquartered in Atlanta.

GOPs Urged To Shed Image

By The Associated Press

Republican candidates will have to shed their "fat cat" image if they expect to win elections in November, according to GOP gubernatoral candidate Ray Hutchison.

Speaking at Longview Wednesday, Hutchison said "The main thing for the Republican Party to do is erase its image of caring only for big business and not the little people. We've got to show that we are the party of hope for the future."

Hutchison also said it is "unfortunate, but true" that the GOP's current image is not "electable."

While Hutchison was in Longview urging Republicans to change their image, his opponent, Bill Clements, promised he would be a full-time Texas governor, if elected.

Speaking to business students at Texas Christian University at Fort Worth, Clements said "Democratic governors in the past have been practicing law or punching cattle part time while governor."

"I'll be there in Austin full time. I'll put all my business affairs in trust and work at giving the state a full-time administrator...I won't be in Uvalde, I'll be right there in Austin," Clements said.

Attorney General John Hill told a news conferernce at Sherman that no Texas governor has ever asked for 10 years in office, "and Dolph Briscoe is having to overcome this tradition by flooding the campaign with money he borrowed from seven banks totaling $90,000 to finance his media blitz.

"Texas has rejected empirebuilding by governors in the past, and I predict Dolph Briscoe's millions cannot overcome our state's traditional rejection of governors who want to build political dynasties," Hill said.

"State government can continue to improve without growing in size only if the spending of taxpayers' money is based on sensible priorities instead of wild political promises," Briscoe said at Kilgore.

The governor said state services have vastly improved under his administration without resort to new state taxes, but "this policy would go out the window if John Hill manages to promise his way into the governor's office. That would return Texas to the days of big taxes, big spending and less stability in government."

Party Slated For Hike-Bike Participants

A "cake and Coke party" will be held Monday at the Scurry County Work Center for those who participated in and helped with the Hike-Bike for Retarded Citizens.

The party is set for 7 to 8 p.m. At that time, the trophies and prizes for the Hike-Bike will be awarded. In order to qualify for a prize, each participant must have his money collected and turned in to Robert Miller, 3004 41st by Sunday.

Women Pilots Follow Dads

By SUSAN LINNEE
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP)-Like fathers, like daughters? Six women whose fathers are all pilots have won their wings as first officers from Texas International Airlines, which now boasts more women in the copilot's seat than any other major U.S. airline.

The women, including the first black female to qualify as a major airline pilot, joined 32 men Wednesday in promotion ceremonies at the Houston-based airline. They are all first officers who will sit in the right-hand seat.

Jill E. Brown of Baltimore, a home economics major who learned to fly along with her parents when she was 17, said an article on the small number of black commercial airline pilots in the United States prompted her to see how far she could get.

"I contacted Warren Wheeler, who runs the only black-owned scheduled airline in the country. He gave me an interview and then offered me a job," Miss Brown said. She started out at Wheeler's Raleigh, N.C., based airline in August 1977, flying Beech 99 aircraft.

TI previously had no women pilots. Western Airlines has six women flight engineers.

Marcelyn Bishop, 23, of Oroville, Calif. became the first woman to serve as copilot on a scheduled TI flight when she sat at the controls of a DC-9 jetliner during a Dallas-bound run later in the day. Miss Brown will be flying 40-passenger Convair propjets for several months until the airline phases them out.

The other women pilots are Alberta Parkison, 33, Irving, Texas; Duana Bucklin, 22, Jamestown, R.I.; Linda Greco, 23, St. Petersburg, Fla. and Mary Rose Heltrick, 22, Elysburg, Pa.

Miss Parkison, who was a stewardess for 10 years, taught her father, a retired Air Force officer, to fly a seaplane.

Many of the male pilots gained previous flying experience during military service, but Miss Bucklin, who plans to marry a pilot in August, said that didn't make much difference.

"Men probably get more encourgement to become pilots than women do," she said. "But we didn't have the problem of unlearning things from military flying experience like they did."

All six women said they would rather be out flying airplanes than discussing the historical and sociological significance of their new jobs.

TI vice president for flight operations Donald Breeding said the company has no female maintenance technicians, although he added he hopes women will apply for the jobs.

About 75 women and 400 men were actually interviewed for openings in the airline's first pilot class in eight years. Breeding said no women applied for the job eight years ago.

Although the airline, which now has 338 pilots and 26 DC-9 jets, is expanding rapidly, Breeding said it will still be a few years before any of the new pilots moves into the captain's seat.

Majority Favor Tougher Laws On Illegal Aliens

By MILLER BONNER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, says a questionnaire to which only a 50th of Texas Hispanics responded shows an overwhelming majority favor tougher laws concerning illegal aliens and the Americans who hire them.

Bentsen said Wednesday that 100,000 persons with Spanish surnames were sent questionnaires concerning aliens. He said of about 2,200 replies, 82 percent "see a real need for legislation to deal with the illegal alien problem."

"This is not a scientifically valid 'poll' and I do not view the results as such," said Bentsen. "But it is significant to me when a substantial number of people indicate so clearly their desire to clamp down on illegal aliens."

Another item on the poll was reaction to President Carter's proposed Illegal Alien Reform Act. Only 34 percent said they favored the measure. Forty-one percent expressed opposition.

One measure included in the president's plan calls for a temporary work visa program. Fifty-nine percent said they were against that part of the measure, and 34 percent were for it.

Other results of the poll were:

-A "forgery proof" Social Security card that would be shown to an employer by all prospective employees. Eighty-two percent for, 13 percent against.

-Penalties against employers who hire illegal aliens. Seventy-one percent for, 13 percent against.

-Increased enforcement along the U.S.-Mexican border. Eighty-two percent for, 16 percent against.

-Granting amnesty to illegals who entered the U.S. prior to 1970 but who have resided here since that time with a record of good behavior. Fifty-three percent for, 41 percent against.

Bentsen said 74 percent of those replying said they were against a blanket amnesty for all illegal aliens currently in the U.S.

What should we be doing? Ben Franklin said, "Tis far better to do the right thing middling well, than to do the wrong thing with great dispatch." I'm with ole Ben.

White House Fails Inspection

WASHINGTON (AP)-Come to think of it, who ever heard of a fire marshal inspecting the White House for fire hazards?

It does happen, and on a regular basis. What's more, the latest inspection turned up what was judged to be a threat to public safety.

Before getting into that, White House inspections aren't carried out like those in most public buildings. The fire marshal doesn't get to poke around on his own in searching for fire code violations.

When the White House is involved, inspectors from the District of Columbia Fire Department are accompanied by plenty of chaperones.

First of all, the Secret Service, which is responsible for the president's safety, dispatches it own fire inspection team to accompany the D.C. department.

In addition, a similar team goes along from the General Services Administration, which is in charge of maintaining the White House offices and living quarters.

As a result of the latest inspection, GSA workers are installing two lighted "Exit" signs in the White House press center. These point the way to a rear exit formerly marked only by a printed red and white sign that reads, "Emergency Exit Only - WARNING - Opening Door Sounds Alarm."

Skip Holcomb, a White House aide, said the inspectors felt the press center is used by many people who might, in an emergency, be unaware of the rear exit, which is tucked into a dark corner.

Holcomb, who joined the staff last year, said he did not know why the signs weren't installed sooner. The press center, after all, was built in 1970.

Still bereft of such signs are the East Room and State Dining Room, which often accomodate crowds far larger than those that congregate in the press center.

Holcomb surmised that the inspectors felt exists from those more formal gathering places were too obvious to require lighted reminders.

They also would intrude, of course, on the statelines of the surroundings.

Name Is Problem

Rosalynn Carter has been very much in the public eye for a couple of years. Yet a surprising number of White House visitors are unacquainted with her preference for pronouncing her name.

Many continue to call her Roz-a-lynn instead of Rose-a-lynn.

More embarrassing, no doubt, was the recent lapse by a major television network that mispelled the first lady's name when superimposing it over a news program film of Mrs. Carter in action. An "n" was dropped from Rosalynn.

Setting Enjoyed

President Carter chose Camp David, Md., as the site for last weekend's skull session with key aides and cabinet members because the rustic setting was likely to induce a relaxed, informal approach to the talks.

Judging from the behavior of appointments secretary Tim Kraft, Camp David lived up to expectations.

When the first helicopter arrived with guests Sunday, Kraft rode to the camp's heliport on a bicycle to serve as a welcoming committee.

Kraft was last seen pedaling back into the mountaintop forest making a siren-like noise, waving a hand in a circle over his head and shouting: "I'm a state cop I'm a state cop!"

Comic Book Ads Eyed By FTC

WASHINGTON (AP) - "Tired of bullies kicking sand in your face?" asks the ad picturing a skinny chap standing meekly next to his buxom, bikini-clad companion. "Send for our body building kit."

Or.

"Just $1.25 for sea monkeys. Cute. Easy to train. Includes a full year's supply of sea monkey food. Just add water and you have instant life." What you get are two ugly brine shrimp.

Or.

"Just 99 cents for 200 stamps to start your very own valuable collection." You get the stamps. You get another batch each month and bills for $9 or $10 dollars.

Or.

"Amaze your friends when you shake hands. This buzzer will startle them." It probably will.

Comic books are full of these come-ons and the Federal Trade Commission wants to take a closer look at just what young consumers are getting for their money.

Advertisers spend about $66 million a year to plug their wares in comics. And it's no wonder, says the commission's William Erxleben:

"Between the ages of 5 and 15 there are 40 million potential buyers. Independent figures show that 82 per cent to 92 per cent of all children between the ages of 7 and 11 read comic books.

"And our estimates indicate that for every $1 spend on comics book ads, there are $3 in sales. That amounts to a $200 million product industry each year," Erxleben said.

He said the commission worries especially about a child's first contact with the "free enterprise system."

"Children can become very disillusioned with the system and legitimate business should be very concerned," Erxleben said in a telephone interviews.

The big problem, with many of the schemes, he said, is they are run from post office boxes.

"You can chase them all over the country just to find them operating somewhere else shortly."

He said his Seattle regional office will conduct the investigation over the next 18 months and thinks it may have recommendations for the FTC that will "make sure kids are getting a fair shake."

Lake Eyre, in South Australia, is 52 feet below sea level.

Institutions Put Stock Market In News Again

NEW YORK (AP) - Suddenly the stock market is news again, a spasm of buying having erupted from long-dormant institutions, which found themselves loaded with cash and needing a place to store it.

Institutions? The state correctional facility is an institution, but generally the people residing there have limited amounts to invest. Who are these investing institutions, and what are they doing?

Prudential Life Insurance is one. The XYZ Mutual Fund is another. So is your pension fund, and the endowment fund of your college. Sometimes bank-administered trust funds are included in the category.

On some days the combined activity of these investors totals 75 per cent of the value of all transactions on the New York Stock Exchange, the nation's largest and by far most important exchange.

Sometimes they are called dinosaurs, being so large that any movement by them affects the entire trading environment. In 1975, they owned $230.5 billion of the $685.1 billion market value of all NYSE stocks.

At other times they are compared to horses, exciteable and tending to gallop in herds. The comparison is made because of their nervous tendency to study each other's moves as often as stocks themselves.

This in fact is what a good many analysts say happened during April 14, 17 and 18. When a few institutions made their move after having lain idle for weeks, the others may have feared being left behind.

They ran in a herd. That is, they jumped on the same stocks, the big blue chips, the movers of industrial America. Why? Big institutions need big companies, with many shares outstanding, in which to invest. Why do they need big companies? For their own safety, for one thing. A massive purchase in a small company could make them the overwhelming determinant of price, a dangerous situation for investor and company.

For another, they are permitted to own only small percentages of any one company. Companies such as General Motors, with 286 million shares outstanding, can easily accomodate huge institutional purchases.

And so they bought shares in companies such as General Motors - and then on April 19 were said to have sold some of them. "Profit-taking," said the analysts, so seldom without a likely explanation.

Profit-taking? A term loosely used. You may be sure that many of those who sold shares on April 18 weren't taking any profits. Some of them in fact were merely getting out while the getting was good.

It is unlikely, even in days of in-out trading for an institution to buy in and sell out within so short a time. More likely, it seems, the sellers were those who had owned their shares for much longer periods.

Whether these sellers had profits or losses is difficult to say, but there is at least the likelihood that a good many had losses, the stock market averages being lower today than they were a dozen years ago.

Fifth Career, Life...

Father Of US Space Program Now Priest

EDITOR's NOTE -He's into his fifth career and his fifth life. After surviving three cancers and open-heart surgery, the man some call the father of the U.S. space program has found his calling as a priest.

By IKE FLORES
Associated Press Writer

MAITLAND, Fla. (AP) - As a mere stripling of 57, Major Gen. John Bruce Medaris ramrodded the team which developed the rocket carrying America's first satellite into space.

At age 75 and in the 20th anniversary year of the nation's space program, Medaris is a bit stockier and sports a sparse, snow-white goatee and moustache. This crusty general turned priest has overcome cancer three times - at least once, he contends, by "divine intervention" - has undergone open-heart surgery and wears a pacemaker.

But this man some call the father of the U.S. space program goes about his duties as an Episcopal priest with the same fervor he had as a Marine, Army general, businessman, civic official and friend and boss of Wernher von Braun.

And he still is as outspoken as he was in the days when he argued with his Army bosses and President Eisenhower's policymakers for authorization giving his Redstone Arsenal command primary responsibility for launching this country's first satellite.

"Von Braun and I went to Washington and made it clear that we weren't going to be anybody's backup support," Father Medaris says, referring to the inter-service rivalry over the development of a powerful rocket needed to play catch-up to the Russian Sputnik. "We threatened to resign."

But they didn't, and eventually they resolved what Medaris calls the key problem in space travel-returning an object from space without destroying it on reentry into the earth's atmosphere.

Medaris, in an interview in his sun-dappled study next to the Church of the Good Shepherd in Maitland, explains his role in what he calls "certainly the most exciting period of my busy life."

"Von Braun and I were the cutting edge of getting into space," Medaris says.

The Air Force doesn't like the fact that he's called the father of the space program, Medaris says, and neither does the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

It was Redstone Arsenal and the von Braun-Medaris team which on Jan. 31, 1958, provided the modified Redstone rocket called Juno which blasted into orbit an 18-pound, basketball-size missile, saving some face for the United States in the space sweepstakes.

The Soviet Union had shocked the world with its Sputnik almost three months earlier.

After Explorer I - as the first space object was called-came the reorganization and concentration of the country's resources into one space agency. And Medaris and other Army men became disenchanted.

"NASA was to take over half of my empire," Medaris recalls. "I had nothing more to gain. I had no desire to preside over the dismemberment of what I had built."

So he retired in 1960 after 37 years in the military.

Then came some rough times mixed in with his civilian life as president of Lionel Corp., the electric train company, and later as an industrial consultant with his own firm in Florida.

He had prostate cancer successfully removed during his tenure at Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, Ala. But in 1964, bone cancer was diagnosed. "I was full of it," he says. "In those days, it was inoperable. The verdict was I would be dead by Christmas 1965."

However, Medaris says he was cured by the "laying on of hands" and the spiritual powers of a faith healer who ministered to him through the auspices of the Church of the Good Shepherd. Instead of death, his doctor informed him around Christmas 1965 that after slow remission over many months his cancer had vanished.

Shortly after 10th anniversary ceremonies of the first space flight, he was again stricken with cancer - of the lower part of his mouth. Chemotherapy treatments, along with "my strong faith that God had other plans for me," got him through.

It was at that time, Medaris says, that he entered into his "special relationship with the Lord." He became a lay leader, then a deacon and finally in 1970, at age 68, a priest.

Less than two years ago, Medaris underwent open-heart surgery and got a pacemaker implanted in his chest.

His various trials convinced him that "as long as the Lord wants me to do his work, he will take of me."

Pulitzer Mistake 'Honest

NEW YORK (AP)-The Pulitzer Prize for spot photography awarded earlier this week to a United Press International photographer was given to the wrong man, the administrator of the prize says.

Through what a UPI spokesman called "an honest error," a picture taken by John Blair, a free-lance photographer from Evansville, Ind., was credited to Jim Schweiker, photo editor in UPI's Indianapolis bureau.

The photograph showed a hostage being held at gunpoint in Indianapolis.

"We're going to have to take the prize away and give the $1,000 to the man who took the picture," Pulitzer administrator Richard T. Baker said Wednesday.

He said that "it was an honest mistake, resulting from the large number of pictures that were taken that day."

The mistake was discovered when Blair claimed the picture was his. Schweiker and William Lyon, UPI vice president for news pictures, inspected the negatives and agreed with Blair.

Robert E. Page, vice president and general manager of UPI, notified the advisory board of the Pulitzer committee.

"An honest error occurred during the handling of the large number of negatives and the crediting of the winning photograph to Schweiker," Lyon told the Evansville Ind. Courier.

Page said 15 prints were prepared out of 24 rolls of film taken during the Feb. 10 ordeal. The mixup was made as the pictures were identified prior to transmission.

When Schweiker learned Monday that he had won an award, he told reporters, "I'd forgotten I'd been entered and didn't even know what picture won the prize until it came back over the wire."

Antonine Joseph Sax, a Belgian who made musical instruments, discovered that the proportions given to a column of air vibrating in a sonorous tube are the sole determinant of the character of the timbre produced. He patented his sahorn and a group of cylinder instruments called saxotrombas in 1845, and he registered the saxophone on June 22, 1846.

T-Shirt Misleading

DALLAS (AP)-Lawrence D. McLennan probably wasn't as happy when he left a Dallas County criminal courtroom as his T-shirt would have led one to believe.

McLennan was being arraigned Wednesday on a marijuana charge before Judge Robert H. Stinson, who took issue with the T-shirt the man was wearing, saying it didn't fit in with courtroom decorum.

"It (the shirt) said 'I'm so happy I could defecate. But he used a four-letter word," the judge explained later.

After arguing for a time with McLennan about a dress code for appearing in court, Stinson told him, "I'm going to provide you with a mighty fine place to be happy. You're going to the county jail where there's plenty of plumbing for your needs."

And with that, the judge increased McLennan's bond from $200 to $1,000 and he was taken to jail in lieu of bond.

The judge said he increased the bond because anyone who appeared in his courtroom "with that kind of attitude probably wouldn't show up for his trial."

Amy Trophy Report Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) - Amy Carter's gym teacher, her mother's press office and the Secret Service all deny it: There was no trophy stolen for Amy after she finished last in a relay race at a track meet.

The Washington Star gossip column, "Ear," reported Wednesday that after losing the race, Amy sat down and "bawled."

A Secret Service agent asked what was wrong and the Star reported that this is what followed: "I want a trophy,' moaned Amy, whereupon the agent trotted over to the table, sneaked the sparkly gilt first place trophy away in his jacket, then gallantly gave it to the First Daughter.'"

Mary Hoyt, first lady Rosalynn Carter's press secretary, called the story "preposterous. It's totally false." Secret Service press spokesman Jack Warner said there was "no validity" to the report.

Schenectady, N.Y., was established in 1661 when the title to the wide, flat river plain above the falls on the Mohawk River was sold to Arent van Curler and his associates by the Mohawk Indians.
