

There are three of the above structures in the Eldorado - Divide Soil and Water Conservation District.

United States Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman will dedicate the 1000th flood prevention dam built in Texas. Dedication ceremonies will begin at 10 a.m., September 8, 1966, at the dam site 12 miles northeast of McKinney just off Texas State Highway No. 121.

A large delegation of United States Congressmen, Department of Agriculture officials and conservation leaders from all parts of Texas are expected to attend. The public is invited.

The Collin County Soil and Water Conservation District is sponsoring the dedication. They also sponsor the Sister Grove project, which drains into the Trinity River. These projects are designed to prevent flood damage to crops, bottomlands, roads, bridges, and cities. Other major benefits include outdoor recreation and protection of downstream municipal and industrial water supplies.

Local watershed sponsors secure easements and rights-of-way and maintain completed structures at no cost to the Federal government.

The Soil Conservation Service administers construction funds and provides engineering services for design, layout and construction.

The Collin County SWCD counts more than 110 such structures within its boundaries; more than 10% of all such dams built in the state of Texas.

Other agencies assisting the Collin County SWCD in the Sister Grove project include the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and the Farmers Home Administration.

On The Screen . . .

Julie A-Poppin in Walt Disney's 'Mary Poppins' Picture In Color

Publishers have announced plans to re-issue the "Mary Poppins" books by British author Pamela L. Travers, which first appeared 30 years ago. Then, all they had to go up against was Aesop, the Brothers Grimm, Mother Goose, and Milne.

Now the "Poppins" books, which had a fantastic circulation in several languages, must cope with Walt Disney and Mary Poppins herself. When making a big movie, Mr. Disney brings a technical eloquence that matches most of the brightest words that have been written. As for Mary, the British governess (circa 1910), she comes alive through the histrionic talents of screen-beginner Julie Andrews, who was immortal on Broadway as Camelot's Queen Guenevere and the fair lady of My Fair Lady.

Mary Poppins, in big screen color, is this week end's offering at the Eagle Drive-In Theatre. It will be shown Saturday and Sunday nights, and show time is now 7:45 p.m.

For his quasi-classical children's stories, author Travers could not have dreamed up more anthropomorphic fulfillment than Disney's newly-found camera star. Disney also located high qualities in his next best personality, Dick Van Dyke, which television producers may have skipped.

All great nursery characters belong to adults. Mary Poppins, to this votary, was every inch a nanny (a firm and bossy British surrogate mother); was pretty with peaches and cream complexion, and had a dancing body.

Julie Mary Andrews Poppins will never be a day older, less fresh, less agile or less authoritative during endless runs.

Julie and "Mary Poppins" have the advantages, too, of the Disney studio color. This, apparently, was applied by skilled brushes dipped in the palette of that other master of visual make-believe, Maxfield Parrish.

The unruly children of Mr. and Mrs. Banks of London have run off every governess; the last being no less than Elsa Lanchester, a hard girl to harass.

At home, Mr. Banks (David Tomlinson) is a major martinet. Down at the bank, Mr. Banks, named with Dickensian aptness, is a hand-washing sycophant. He does get into trouble but Mary Poppins loyally sees him ingeniously triumph.

Mary Poppins takes charge because nobody has the nerve to say to her nay. She has arrived by parasol and can slide up, not down, the bannisters. Anybody who can do this already has won her juvenile cutups.

Besides, Mary takes the children on most wonderful excursions. She introduces them to Dick Van Dyke, a one-man band, a sidewalk artist, a hot chestnuts vendor, a kite salesman and the best chimney-sweep in London. Dick mobilizes all the other chimney-sweeps. He and Mary stage "Mary Poppins" biggest ballet on the rooftops of London. This is a bit longish, reflecting the Disney studio's not infrequent self-infatuation, but it is quite a brilliant sight if you relax and let it "take" you.

Miss Andrews sings with the touching Welsh-border accents heard in "Camelot" and the adorable scooping for which the average singing teacher would slap her wrists.

Van Dyke matches her sprites and "hoofs" with some of the catchy athleticism of a Ray Bolger. He sings the haunting theme song, "Chim-Chim-Cheree," as a running motif. This is the best number in the score of Richard and Robert Sherman which has the customary Disney consistency of Sugarwater. Generally, the scenes are so bland that they could have been composed only on purpose.

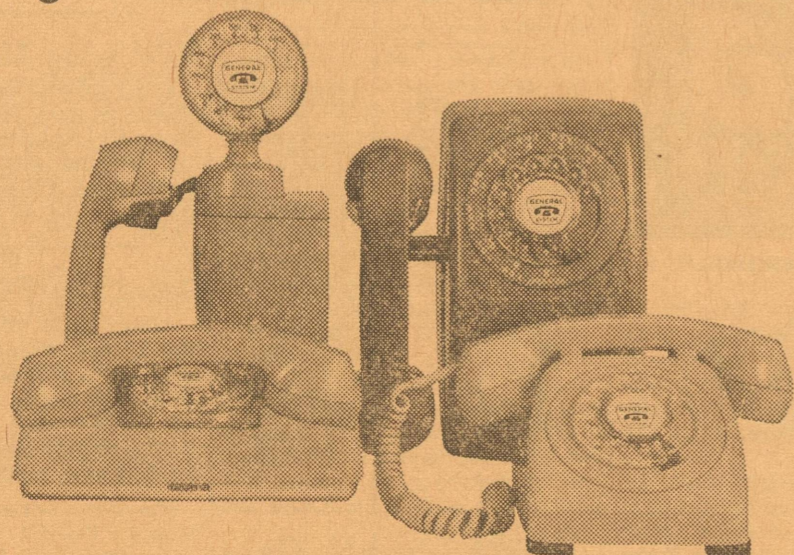

The two children, played brightly by Matthew Garber and Karen Dotrice, just love it. They flip over the carousel which delightfully comes to life and dashes down the race track. Did we neglect to say that Disney's world is peopled by living and cartoon folk, combined in the best studio techniques ever? Among the characters are cafe waiters as penguins, the antiseptic, winning pigs, dogs, hens and roosters, steeds, maternal milch cows. Mary Poppins has some not so little lambs with fleece white as snow.

A happy levitating hunk of live actor and not a cartoon is Ed Wynn, who looks like one anyway. He can weep himself to terra firma and laugh himself midway between floor and ceiling.

There are a variety of Disney cartoon figures to go with Arthur Treacher, a constable with aplomb; Rita Shaw, as Mrs. Brill; Jane Darwell as the apple woman and Hermione Baddeley as an adroitly modulated Cockney kitchen angel. The booming Reginald Owen, as biggest admiral, shoots off a signal cannon every night from his roof-deck. Only Glynis Johns has no time for this world of Mary Poppins. She is a simperingly neglectful mother, busy with suffragette rallies.

In a word: Disney's artistic sword is mightier even than Miss Travers' pen; and is fine

Lions Vote To Sell Halloween Candy

The Eldorado Lions club voted yesterday at their meeting to sell Halloween candy again this fall, as a money-raising project. A successful sale was put over last year, when 480 bags were sold at $1 each.

This year, the club will order 600 bags, of which the Eldorado East Side Lions Club will take 150 for sale in the Latin community. Granvil Hext will order the candy soon from Del-Tex Candy Co.

Another Fall money project for the Lions will be the Broom and Mop Sale on Nov. 9th.

The Lions club uses money raised for community betterment projects of all kinds.

Charles Wimer presided at the meeting yesterday. New member kits were presented to Glynn Hill, Wayne McDonald, Ben Isaacs Jr., Buddy White, Don Williams, Pete Bryan, and Ken Thomas, all of whom have joined the club in recent weeks.

Tom Wallace was a guest. For the program, Bill Simms, who is executive secretary of the Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, discussed that organization. He traced the association's beginning in Sonora in 1915 to combat rustlers, to the present when it uses its influence in connection with proposed legislation that affects the wool and mohair industry.

E. T. Calk was winner of the "friendly dollar" from A. G. McCormack.

PHONE NIAGARA FALLS

Elizabeth Ballew advises that she had a most pleasant and gratifying experience Monday night when she placed a call to the Bauers, Ernie and Zetta, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and talked with them, as well as their children, Karl, Helen and Benjie.

The Bauers left Eldorado about 10 years ago after closing their jewelry store, and moved to Niagara Falls.

Karl, the oldest son, attended college for 1½ years and is presently employed in a shoe store. Ernie is with Hooker Chemical Co. Helen, the daughter, graduated from high school this year, and Benjie, the youngest son, attends a Lutheran school and is a seventh grade student.

They said that Mr. and Mrs. Yaseen now live in Alabama and had recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

The Bauers inquired of their friends here and asked to be remembered to them.

TOM CARROLLS HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Carroll came through Eldorado Monday and spent the night with Hazelwoods and Whiteleys. Former residents of Ozona, the Carrolls have recently been located at Monahans where they managed a motel for a chain, and were on their way from here to Detroit, Mich. They explained that they were being assigned as managers of another motel in the same system.

Mr. and Mrs. William Luman and Wanda of Silsbee, Texas, visited here recently with Mr. and Mrs. Dee Shipman and Mr. and Mrs. John Luman.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Taliaferro visited their children in Odessa and were met there by their niece, Claudelle Sellers and Susan of North Hollywood, Calif.

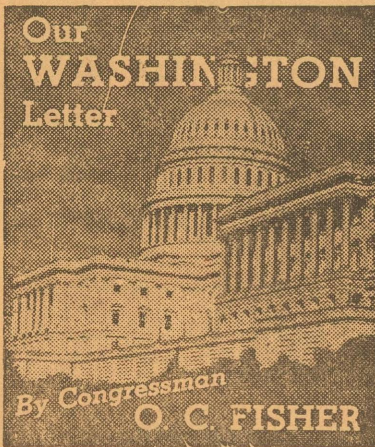

Mr. and Mrs. James Parker returned home Monday after spending several days here and in Baytown. James is attending college at East Texas State in Commerce where he is a senior majoring in elementary education.

New Babies

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Woodward of Carlsbad, New Mexico, are parents of a son born Aug. 18th. The baby weighed 6 lbs. 7 oz. and has been named Christopher Keith.

The Woodwards also have a girl, Sandy, who is 4, and another son, James Michael, 16 months.

Mrs. O. L. Woodward and Billie Jean McAlpine recently made a trip to Carlsbad to visit the family.

A wage-fixing bill, with inflationary overtones, gained final approval last week. Often mis-named a "minimum wage"; this legislation actually becomes a going wage for most of those it directly affects.

AFL-CIO, a chief sponsor, has always contended that by pushing up the "minimum", the higher wage levels, not directly affected, will automatically advance. Another unconcealed motive of the unions is to make it less attractive for industries to locate in the south—including Texas—where the cost of living and of production is lower than in the union-dominated high-wage industrialized east and north.

It goes without saying that everyone likes to see good wages paid. But under our free enterprise system wage levels are supposed to be related to productive capacity of the worker. Yet certain union leaders and politicians maintain that by forcing wages upward they can thereby force more prosperity.

This theory is both unsound and tragic. By forcing wage levels up to $1.60 an hour ($1.40 Feb. 1, '67; $1.60 Feb. 1, 1968), there will undoubtedly be tens of thousands of the fringe—or less productive—wage earners laid off.

The legislation will force a good many smaller businesses to close down. Many others that stay open will reduce their work forces to off-set the increase in cost of production, as set by Congress.

Despite grins of triumph on the faces of certain law-makers who were induced to vote for this wage-fixing legislation, there is a guilt complex mixed with it. After all the Member must answer: whom am I to tell Mr. X, a shop-keeper on Main Street, how much he MUST pay his employees. Can it be that the merchant (who is besieged with debts, high taxes, high interest, upkeep mounting, government controls, and a hundred other things) is better able to make that decision, than is a politician 2,000 miles away?

Austin, Texas.—It seems that a power struggle between House and Senate leaders on the Legislative Budget Board cost Director Vernon McGee his $20,000 a year job.

Board is made up of five state senators and five house members. In the past they have fashioned the state budget . . . mainly behind closed doors.

House Speaker Ben Barnes maintains that the budget should be written "on the floor" by the lawmakers and that all committee hearings on it should be open to legislators and the public.

Barnes wants the House to have a larger role in writing the multi-billion-dollar state general appropriations bill. He also wants to put a brake on conference committee powers.

He feels that a new budget chief, without close ties in the senate, will aid his drive for a joint legislative rules amendment to restrict conference committee to adjusting differences between bills, rather than writing new legislation in secret session.

McGee has helped process the state's $3.6 billion biennial budget during the past 17 years.

Speaker Barnes, while praising McGee's ability, said the budget director had become too powerful and was too close to veteran state senators who have long dominated budget writing.

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith favored re-employing McGee. But the board voted 6-3 against rehiring. One senator joined representatives in the vote for discharge and another voted "present."

Patrol Gets Short Week

Uniformed Texas highway patrolmen are going on a five-day week as the Department of Public Safety moves to recruit and keep qualified officers and provide better law enforcement.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the DPS, says there are 125 vacancies in the patrol services. Next deadline for applications is October 17.

Treasury Surplus Climbs

Biggest fiscal year-end surplus in the general fund in Texas' history was recorded August 31 by State Treasurer Jesse James. Total ran $138 million.

James reported the surplus as $1.6 million higher than the previous year. Current biennium ends August 31, 1967.

Attorney General Rules

A road district can be formed which encompasses territory lying in more than one county. So held Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr in an official opinion. However, the entire area of each county making up such district must be included and counties involved must be contiguous to each other. "Road districts," says Carr, "may acquire right of way for use by the State Highway Department to improve and extend the state Highway System."

In other opinions, Carr held that:—Texas Parks and Wildlife Department may buy Calhoun county land under a law authorizing purchase of property "near Rockport" for a salt water experiment pond.

—"Self-insuring" counties carrying their own liability risks rather than purchasing workmen's compensation insurance are not deprived of common law defenses. Also, liability is not affected.

—Service citation fees to sheriffs or constables in small claims court cases ($2) still are in effect.

Millions Asked For Buildings

State Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation is seeking $53.6 million for new buildings and for expansion of existing facilities during the next biennium.

Money would go to facilities at Abilene, Austin, Denton, Corpus Christi, El Paso, Lubbock, Lufkin, Mexia, Richmond, Big Spring, San Antonio, Kerrville, Rusk, Terrell, Wichita Falls and in the Rio Grande Valley (site to be selected.)

Board for MH/MR was informed that mental hospitals at Rusk, San Antonio and Wichita Falls fell below standards of the Joint Commission on Accreditation and cannot participate in Medicare benefits until they correct shortcomings.

Revenue Split "Barred"

Staff attorneys for the Texas Legislative Council say a proposal by big-city mayors that municipalities get a share of state tax revenue is unconstitutional.

But municipal officials still are convinced that where there's a will, there's a way to obtain a partial refund of broad-based taxes collected by the state in their boundaries.

Texas Municipal League Director Steve Mathews says he feels "things can be worked out" if the Legislature wants to provide a source of supplemental aid to hard-pressed cities.

"No" To Farm Workers

Gov. John Connally told Rio Grande Valley farm workers he will not call a special legislative session to consider a $1.25 an hour minimum wage act. Connally went to New Braunfels to meet the marchers who were on a 400-mile trek to the Capital for a Labor Day rally.

Short Shorts . . .

Texas business activity dropped 4% in July—sharpest break since last fall and second sharpest since 1953.

State Health Department urges Texans to destroy all possible mosquito breeding places (water traps) to combat disease.

An Employ-the-Handicapped Conference will be held here September 23 by the governor's committee.

Another 1.5 million in Neighborhood Youth Corps projects for 27 counties has received the governor's approval.

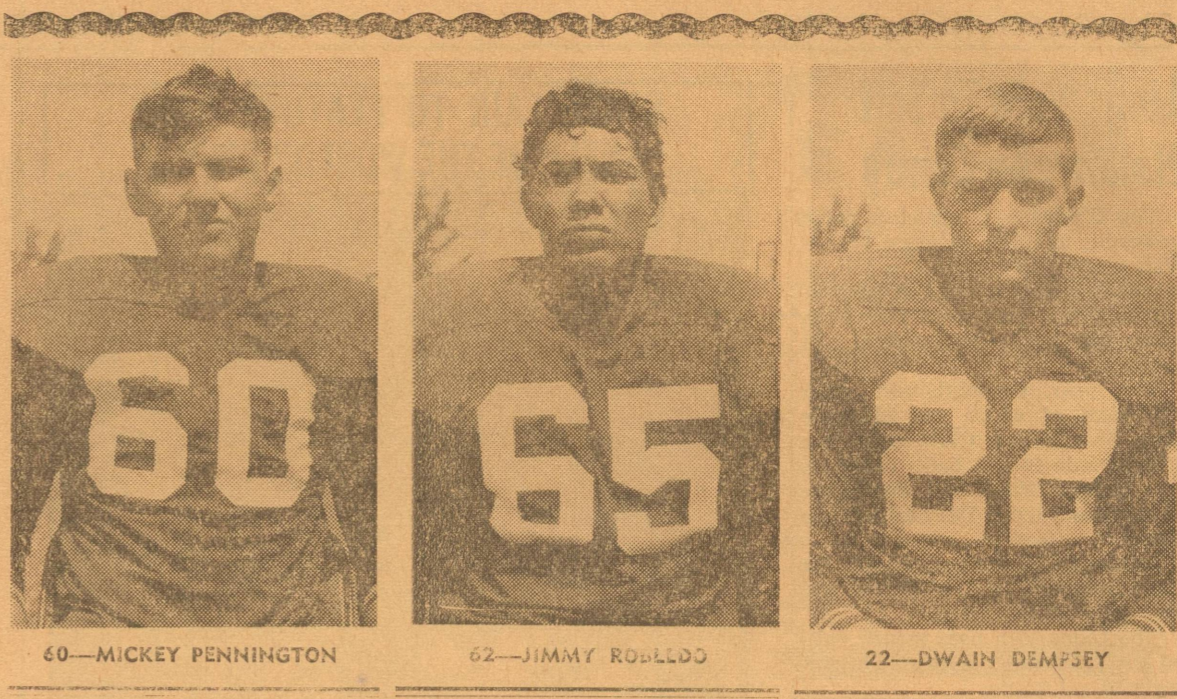

Texas Department of Public Safety is seeking authentic objects, used by Texas Rangers during any period, to be permanently placed in a public museum being organized at the department's headquarters in Austin.

GIANT NINE-TON STEAM-POWERED ANTIQUE TRACTOR TO STAR IN 1966 STATE FAIR'S AGRICULTURE SHOW

HOW 'YA GONNA KEEP 'EM DOWN ON THE FARM when there's going to be a big mad, mad, mad Agriculture Show at the 1966 State Fair of Texas in Dallas October 8 through 23. And Hal S. Smith of Cresson will bring his 1885 J. I. Case steam tractor to be the centerpiece in the big fun show. Here Smith oils some vital parts of the old tractor, still in running condition and still capable of furnishing power for a sawmill as it did around the turn of the century.
