IN HIGH COTTON — It took two shots from a camera to cover all of the area used for the backlog of cotton waiting for service at the Co-op Gin in Snyder the other day. The county's cotton crop appears certain to set a new record for average yield per acre. Gins still are running round the clock and they expect to remain busy for several more days.

Record Cotton Yield For County Assured

Scurry County's 1966 cotton crop is almost certain to go over the 45,000-bale mark—just how much "over" was a favorite topic of speculation at the end of the week.

The county's nine gins had processed 36,983 bales by Friday afternoon and all of the gins still were in operation. Reports indicated that at least 4,500 bales were on the gin yards waiting for processing.

Cotton was still coming in from all areas of the county, although the pace had begun to taper off in some instances.

The total yield will still be substantially lower than that of 1965 when over 60,000 bales were produced, but the acreage also is substantially lower. In fact the average yield per acre undoubtedly will set a record this year.

This year, Scurry County has slightly less than 41,000 acres actually planted in cotton, although maximum alltoments were some 57,000 acres. Thus, the cotton actually ginned and on the gin yards by the end of this week represented an average of a bale per acre.

Few ginners expected to reach a real "breathing spell" before Christmas, and all expect to gin some after Christmas.

County Agent Billy Roach said the yield was truly amazing, especially after last year's record yield.

"There are some cotton producers in the county who have been growing cotton for many years and they say they have never seen anything like this 1966 crop," Roach said.

Back in late summer, the county agent said, there were high hopes of an unusually good crop. However, some rainly weather in late summer and early fall appeared to be harmful, especially from the standpoint of insect damage.

However, Roach said that the ideal weather that has endured through the harvest season has contributed to the good yield. Farmers have been able to get their crops out of the fields with a minimum of damage and losses from weather have been negligible.

The Friday ginning figures by gins follow: Inadale, 7,688 bales; China Grove, 6,460; Hermleigh, 2,575; Snyder Co-op, 7,453; Snyder Planters, 2,648; Snyder Paymaster, 5,317; Fluvanna, 1,883; Ira, 1,283; Dunn, 1,680.

Explorers have been sited in King, Borden, Fisher, Garza, and Stonewall Counties.

Geochemical Surveys of Abilene has staked No. 1 Pitchfork Land & Cattle Co., 660 feet from the most northerly north line and 1,980 feet from the most westerly east line of block 2, Somervell County School Land survey in King.

The 6,500-foot Caddo prospector is eight miles southwest of Guthrie, 12½ miles northwest of the Tap (Pennsylvanian) area.

Hovgard & FitzGerald of Abilene No. 1 Masterson Heirs is to be a 4,500-foot Pennsylvanian probe, 20 miles northeast of Guthrie in King.

Location is 1,711 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 37, block 11, F. P. Knott survey.

It is a southeast offset to same operators No. 1 Jamie Cate, a scheduled 4,800-foot Pennsylvanian venture on which no official information has been released, but which some sources indicate has developed production.

No. 1 Cate is 3,568 feet from north and 1,798 feet from east lines of the same section, block and survey, across the line in Cottle County.

Ard Drilling Co. of Abilene has scheduled No. 1 Bob Masterson as a 660-foot east offset to the depleted opener of the Masterson Ranch (Bunger sand) pool of King, 12 miles northeast of Guthrie.

The proposed 4,100-foot explorer is 1,320 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 36, block A, R. M. Thompson survey.

Greathouse, Pierce & Davis of Midland No. 1-13 Higginbotham and others is projected to 8,100 feet as a Pennsylvanian venture in Borden, five miles northeast of Vealmoor.

Site is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 13, block 32, T-3-N, T&P survey, 1¾ mile northeast of the Vealmoor (Pennsylvanian reef lime) pool.

In Fisher, Edwin L. Cox of Dallas has planned No. 1 W. A. Howe, 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 12, block 23, T&P survey, three miles southwest of Gannon.

Scheduled for 7,000 feet, the Ellenburger probe is 2¾ miles northwest of the two-well Perry Ranch (Canyon sand) area.

Threeway Drilling Co. of Midland No. 1 Wheeler is slated for 4,000 feet to test the Clear Fork, 13 miles north of Post in Garza.

It spots 1,200 feet from north and 2,150 feet from west lines of K. Aycock survey 1, abstract 498, ½ mile south of the lone producer in the Aycock (3,600-foot Glorieta) pool.

No. 1 Clyde Dodson, a reentry wildcat, is a former Canyon producer which Continental Oil Co. will plug back to 3,700 feet in attempts to open lower Cisco production in Stonewall, six miles southeast of Aspermont.

It originally was drilled by W. M. and A. P. Fuller of Fort Worth and completed in December 1962 to flow 168 barrels of 41-gravity oil through an 18-64-inch choke daily. Yield came from perforations between 4,307 and 4,420 feet after injection with 20,000 gallons of fracture fluid. Gas-oil ratio was 895-1.

Site is 660 feet from north and 1,800 feet from east lines of J. M. Moore survey, abstract 908, in the Guest pool.

W. C. Blanks of Midland is attempting to finish No. 1-52 Bilby Wallace, a Kent County prospector, as a Strawn discovery

The explorer's two tries at drillstem tests on the zones from 6,468 to 6,528 feet and 6,506 to 6,545 feet both were misruns. However, production apparently was indicated as the operator has set 4½-inch casing at total depth of 6,600 feet for testing through perforations.

No. 1-52 Wallace is two miles south of the Clairemont, East (Strawn) pool, four miles east of Clairemont; 1,969 feet from south and 2,034 feet from west lines of section 52, block 98, H&TC survey.

Changes In Voting Laws Approved

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Election Law Study Committee has approved, with a few minor changes, a 207-page subcommittee report on recommended changes in the law.

The committee approved the report Friday after a brief public hearing and a lively discussion period.

One committee member, state Sen. Don Kennard of Fort Worth, said that if the report is enacted into law it will be the "most restrictive voting law in the United States.

Among other things, he criticized the Jan. 31 registration deadline, the annual registration requirement and the elimination of a county tax assessor-collector's authority to send deputies to industrial plants to register voters.

The committee instructed its staff to study the problem of lost voting certificates, with a view to possibly allowing voters to sign affidavits about losing them, and letting the precinct election judge compare the signature on the affidavit with signatures on such things as drivers' licenses or Social Security cards.

The scientific satellite will be shot into a nearly polar orbit from Vandenburg Air Force Base, Calif. The project is a joint venture of ESRO and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Gas Plant Fire Costly

TATUM, N.M. (AP) — A gas plant fire 12 miles east of Tatum caused an estimated $1 million to $1.5 million damage at a Sinclair Oil — Refining Co. processing plant Friday night. Flames shot as high as 300 feet and set off three explosions.

Concern was felt about underground butane storage tanks in the area. Spokesmen said there still was some danger in the 20-acre field but it was expected to abate.

They said the processing area of the plant was destroyed. The plant consisted of a series of pipes, tanks and vessels which reached as high as 1,500 feet.

The fire started after a filter became too hot and ignited during the process of converting raw gasoline into butane and propane.

Spokesmen said 13 men were employed at the plant and seven were present when the fire started. These men and five families in the immediate area were moved to safety.

UN Council Approves Boycott Of Rhodesia

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Security Council has adopted mandatory economic sanctions for the first time in U.N. history in a move to bring down Rhodesia's white minority government. But failure to provide for enforcement machinery immediately raised doubts that the boycott would work.

The 15-nation council Friday night ordered all 122 U.N. members to boycott 12 specific exports from Rhodesia and embargo shipments of oil, arms, aircraft, motor vehicles and parts to Rhodesia. It decided that they "shall prevent" the forbidden transactions "by their nationals or in their territories," notwithstanding prior business contracts to the contrary.

The action was embodied in a British resolution modified by African amendments and adopted by a vote of 11-0 with 4 abstentions.

Mali, France, the Soviet Union and Bulgaria abstained.

The purpose of the resolution was to end the rebellion against Britain that began when Prime Minister Ian Smith declared Rhodesia independent Nov. 11, 1965, in the face of British pressure for equal votes for Africans. It put mandatory sanctions in place of the voluntary sanctions the council adopted shortly after that event.

Rejecting five of 13 African amendments, the council refused to deplore Portuguese and South African "support to the rebel regime," to deplore Britain's refusal to use force against that regime and to invite Britain to use "all means" in preventing oil from reaching Rhodesia.

It also refused to add coal and manufactured goods to Britain's list of exports for boycott — asbestos, iron ore, chrome, pig-iron, sugar, tobacco, copper, meat, meat products, hides skins and leather.

But through the amendments the council adopted, it bound all members to prevent their nationals, land or air transport facilities or flag vessels from helping supply oil to Rhodesia and it called on all countries to deny Rhodesia economic or financial aid. Finally, it asked U.N. Secretary-General U Thant to report back by next March 1 on "the progress of the implementation of this resolution."

Chief S. O. Adebo of Nigeria said force was essential and expressed fear that the resolution would prove futile.

Britain's stated goal is majority rule in that central African land, where Negroes outnumber whites about four million to a quarter million.

The British brought the Rhodesian case back to the council Dec. 5 after Smith turned down last-ditch compromise proposals.

Britain is admittedly fearful of losing its large trade with South Africa, to the disadvantage of the pound sterling.

Both South African and Portugal, which are the chief suppliers of oil to Rhodesia, have said they will not abide by the council resolution.

Space Pact Seen As Step To Peace

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.S. Ambassadr Arthur J. Goldberg expressed hope today that the treaty outlawing use of outer space for warlike purposes could be a prelude to one outlawing the spread of nuclear weapons.

He spoke in the U.N. General Assembly's main political committee, where the treaty was expected to win approval by an overwhelming vote. President Johnson announced U.S.-Soviet agreement on the treaty nine days ago. It represents the first legal code to govern the exploration of outer space .

Goldberg said the outer space treaty was a third historic step in a series of peace-building agreements. He listed the first as the Antarctic treaty of 1959 reserving that area of the world exclusively for peace, and the second, the limited nuclear test ban treaty of 1963.

"We hope and believe this series of peace-building agreements will continue and grow," he said. "Nothing would make us happier than if the treaty against the proliferation of nuclear weapons would soon be added as the fourth item on this historic list.

"Thus, step by step, we may manage to relieve our fellow man of the increasingly heavy burden of conflict and armaments and danger he has borne so long. And step by step, we may also advance the rule of law into further areas of the relations between states."

Goldberg cautioned that the greatest danger confronting the world in outer space comes from "our own human nature, and from the discords that trouble our relationships here on earth."

He said the first responsibility of governments in this respect was "to make sure that man's eartly conflicts will not be carried into outer space."

Hanoi Area Showered With Leaflets

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — American planes showered Hanoi and the Red River delta with millions of surrender leaflets today.

A U. S. spokesman said Air Force planes dropped nearly 2.5 million leaflets calling on the young men of North Vietnam "to leave your unit when you are sent south" and to enjoy good treatment from the allied forces.

The leaflet drop was carried out while a worldwide dispute still raged over American air raids on the North Vietnamese capital area earlier this week.

Communist China claimed its embassy in Hanoi was seriously damaged by the raids, and the North Vietnamese said more than 100 civilians were killed.

The United States has repeatedly denied any bombs fell in Hanoi itself in the raids Tuesday and Wednesday.

The U. S. military command has reported no raids near Hanoi since then, although American planes have struck at other targets in the Communist north.

U. S. B52 bombers struck this afternoon at a North Vietnamese base camp and supply area in the demilitarized zone, a U. S. spokesman reported. It was the fourth time this week the giant, Guam-based jet bombers hit in the buffer zone between North and South Vitnam.

In fighting in South Vietnam, U. S. headquarters listed only minor action but Vietnamese military headquarters reported a headquarters unit of the Vietnamese 9th Infantry Battalion was badly mauled early today by a Viet Cong mortar and ground attack in the Mekong Delta.

A Vietnamese spokesman said an understrength headquarters company of an infantry battalion — estimated between 60 and 100 men — suffered heavy casualties in the enemy attack 66 miles southwest of Saigon.

Six U. S. Navy river patrol boats sped to support the unit but reports indicated they did not engage the Viet Cong during the two-hour attack. Viet Cong casualties were not known, the government spokesman said.

Mahon Detects Economy Move

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Appropriations Committee said today he has detected "a pronounced grass roots demand" for reduced government spending. But he cautioned taxpayers not to expect drastic cutbacks.

"There just isn't too large an area where you can cut," Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., said in an interview.

"The challenge facing the 90th Congress next year," Mahon added, "is to hold the line where possible and cut where possible so spending doesn't get out of line.

"We've got to give the war top priority and prune nondefense spending wherever we can."

Another key congressional Democrat, Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and assistant Democratic leader, said Vietnam war costs may produce a 20 billion deficit next fiscal year unless Johnson raises taxes or sharply cuts nondefense spending.

"This buildup for programs like medicare, aid to education and the war on poverty took decades," he added.

"What frightens me is what some of these new programs could cost if they continued to grow," Mahon said, noting that many of them have been given only initial financing.

"Congress should avoid further innovations," he said. "It should pass the necessary appropriation bills and go no farther in any significant way. This would give time for a shakedown in applying the new programs."

Mahon said he didn't think Congress would repeal any of the new programs because if it did the President would veto the action and the vetoes could not be overridden.

"It is unrealistic to expect the work of the 89th Congress to be undone by the 90th," he said. "But it should be reviewed and the brakes on spending for domestic programs should be applied judiciously."

New Method Moves Dirt Much Faster

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Southwest Research Institute has unveiled a method of earth moving that chews at dirt with explosive bites and can move almost 30 times as much earth as conventional meathods, the institute says.

The new development, called the repetitive explosive device for soil displacement (redsod), consists of a large combustion chamber mounted between a bulldozer blade and the tractor.

Compressed air and gasoline or diesel fuel are mixed in the chamber and then ignited by a spark plug, causing an explosion within the chamber. The rapidly expanding gases are directed against the earth in front of the blade and dirt is thrown upward.

SRI officials said the redsod can displace 15,000 cubic yards of dirt an hour in a ditch 10 feet wide and five feet deep. An ordinary tractor with a 10-foot dozer blade could mve only about 600 cubic yards an hour.

The device was invented by John M. Clark Jr., director of automotive research at SRI. The device was developed at the request of Army engineers.

Christmas Decorations Limited In Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuba has limited the number of Havana stores and homes that may put up Christmas decorations, Havana radio reports.

The reason: Communist officials don't want the city's shaky electrical power system overloaded.

Power failures are frequent in Havana, sometimes blacking out areas of the capital for up to six hours.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

In response to the overwhelming number of requests to reprint my TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR 20TH-CENTURY WIVES, which was the forerunner of my recently published TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR 20TH-CENTURY HUSBANDS, I hereby comply:

1. Defile not thy body neither with excessive foods, tobacco nor alcohol, that thy days may be long in the house which thy husband provideth for thee.

2. Putteth thy husband before they mother, thy father, thy daughter, and thy son, for he is thy lifelong companion.

3. Thou shalt not nag.

4. Permit no one to tell thee that thou art having a hard time of it; neither thy mother, thy sister, nor thy neighbor, for the Judge will not hold her guiltless who letteth another disparage her husband.

5. Thou shalt not withhold affection from thy husband, for every man loveth to be loved.

6. Forget not the virtue of cleanliness and modest attire.

7. Forgive with grace, for who among us does not need forgiveness?

8. Remember that the frank approval of thy husband is worth more to thee than the admiring glances of a hundred strangers.

9. Keep thy home in good order, for out of it cometh the joys of thy old age.

10. Honor the Lord thy God all the days of thy life, and thy children will rise up and call thee blessed.

Truly yours, Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago you printed a letter from a woman whose husband had a chance for a better job but it meant moving to another city, which frightened her. You advised her to be a good kid, smile, and go with him.

I felt so smug at the time because I was waiting to be moved to our new home.

Now that we are moved I am miserable. My children have regressed to bed-wetting and thumb-sucking, and their school work has slipped from excellent to poor. The sale of our home turned out to be a financial loss, and to complete the picture my husband is very unhappy in his new position. We can't go back.

Abby, some families are just not meant for relocating. Now that I am a bitter, frustrated transplant I have met oddles of women in the same boat. Why didn't I hear their stories before? I think your optimism was misleading.

WILTED

DEAR WILTED: When a man is asked to move his family in order to "grow" with his company, it usually proves to be beneficial for all concerned. Since no one has a crystal ball, some moves are bound to be disappointing. But ours would be a sad society if everyone stayed rooted in one place for fear of making a mistake.

I agree, you have had an unfortunate start, but between you and me, "a few months" is hardly a fair period for adjustment. (P. S. Perhaps your husband is "unhappy" in his new job because you are miserable at home.)

Innovations Come To Red Capital

By JOHN WEYLAND

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow will get its first baby sitter service next year.

Parents in the Soviet capital now have to rely on relatives or friends if they want to go out and leave the children at home. The custom of neighboring girls working as baby sitters is little known here.

With the organization set up, a telephone call will solve the problem. A sitter will come and stay until parents get back.

This is only one of several innovations aimed at making Moscow life easier.

Starting next year the Muscovite will be able to call for —

A pianist to play at a wedding party.

An interior decorator to give advice on improving the appearance of the family apartment.

A student to tutor a child having trouble with school work.

A dressmaker to alter clothes to conform to the newest style.

Someone to look after the flowers and pets while the family is on vacation.

A cook to prepare food for parties.

A nurse to care for sick relatives.

A small jazz orchestra for private dances.

The paper Evening Moseow, which announced the new services, said it has received many calls from readers which show how great the need is.

The postwar prosperity of the Soviet Union, compared with the Spartan days under Stalin, has created demand for services which once would have been contemptuously dismissed as bourgeois..

Mourning Characters Need No Caption

DALLAS (AP)—The editorial page of the Dallas Morning News was dominated Saturday by a cartoon showing sad-faced Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck shedding copious tears.

Their creator, Walt Disney, was buried yesterday in Glendale, Calif.

No word, no caption was used with Herc Ficklen's cartoon.

Dad Swears Children in

DENTON (AP)—Navy Reserve Cmdr. W. E. McMillen makes a habit of swearing his children into the Navy.

McMillen raised his right hand recently and administered the oath of office to one of his children, the fourth such action. Yet only three young McMillens are involved.

Cameron McMillen, a North Texas State University graduate student, took the oath for Navy Officer Candidate School.

In 1950, McMillen's daughter—now Mrs. Jim Wood of Bedford—joined the WAVE as an enlisted woman, and her father swore her in.

One young McMillen took two oaths, Michael McMillen, the eldest son, became a Navy enlisted man in Omaha, Neb., in 1952. Six years later he accepted an ensign's commission through the Reserve Officer Candidate program, and now is a lieutenant aboard the USS Galveston. His father swore him in both times.

In civilian life, W. E. McMillen is an employe of the Office of Emergency Planning regional office in Denton.

East Elementary Pupils To Present Christmas Cantata

Fifth and sixth grade pupils from East Elementary school will be featured in a cantata, "The Night the Angels Sang," on the "Know Your Schools" Closed-circuit TV program Monday evening. This Christmas program will be carried over Snyder Community Antenna Channel 2, from 7 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Mary B. Vestal, music teacher at East elementary, selected 16 youthful voices from her classes to present this program of sacred music. The group presented the cantata at a PTA meeting at their school last Monday evening.

Solos in the cantata will be sung by Mike Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Simpson; Clint Freeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Freeman, and Terrisue Sims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Sims. Charles Caine, a sixth grade pupil, will narrate for the group. Charles is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Caine. Other fifth and sixth graders in the chorus for this Christmas music presentation will be Marcie McCormick, David Jones, Jimmy Davidson, Barbara Patrick, Daryl Stokes, Kenneth Goodlet, Sue Sullivan, Waynan Monroney, Widegon Emerson, Greg Crawford, Vicki Murray, Bonnie Tullis and D'Ann Fisher.

Mrs. Anice Johnson will play the piano accompaniment for the cantata. Mrs. Johnson is a teacher of remedial reading and is associated with the schools' Title I program. Mrs. Vestal will direct the young singers.

John W. Peterson, well-known present day composer of sacred music, wrote "The Night the Angels Sang" especially for young voices. This noted contemporary composer has written several religious dramas and stories set to music for adult voices. One of his best known cantatas, "Born a King," will be presented Sunday evening by the choir of the Colonial Hill Baptist church. Other favored works of his have been presented by Snyder church choirs in the past and include "Night of Miracles," "The Wonder of Christmas," and "No Greater Love."

Next "Know Your Schools" closed circuit TV program will be cabled on Jan. 9, on Monday of the week after the Christmas and New Year's holiday period. At that time, several teachers of the Snyder schools will give viewers an insight into the schools' program for educationally deprived children now in operation in compliance with Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1956. Teachers preparing this program include Mrs. Faye Deffebach and Mrs. Wilma Stone, remedial reading teachers at Travis Junior High School, and Mrs. Carolyn Bowden, first grade teacher, and Miss Sue Stokes, remedial reading teacher, both of Northeast Elementary.

Atom Smasher May Reveal Secret Forces Of Matter

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) The government's proposed atom smasher may hold the key to whether science can ultimately hope to tap a hypothetical source of energy vastly more powerful than that loosed by hydrogen bombs.

Such a titanic force could come from still-undiscovered — but theorized — subnuclear particles called quarks.

Some physicists believe such particles exist within the nuclei, or hearts, of atoms and that they constitute the long-sought basic building stones of all matter in the universe.

Indeed, these physicists say, the hypothetical quarks may even by the keystones to the basic forces of nature, such as gravity.

They long have said that the possible existence of this particle is a prime reason why the United States should build its proposed $375 - million atom smasher. Weston, Ill., was selected Friday as site of the device.

The Atomic Energy Commission has neither confirmed nor denied that its huge machine might settle once and for all whether quarks exist. But its scientists have indicated repeatedly that a machine of such energy, 200 billion electron volts — BEV, would for an indefinite time offer science its most powerful tool for tapping the secrets of matter.

The atom smasher is designed to explore the fundamental forces of matter by accelerating subnuclear "bullets" — such as protons and electrons — to speeds approaching the velocity of light — 186,000 miles a second —and imparting tremendous energies to them.

The projectiles then crash through the nuclei, or hearts of atoms, of various target chemicals.

The Weston machine would be a system of four different accelerators, one feeding another in series.

In each of the first three units of the system, the subnuclear projectiles — protons — would be successively sped to higher and higher energies by magnetic and other forces.

Then, the "bullets" would be injected into the main ring measuring a mile in diameter.

The main ring — called a synchrotron — would consist of a ring of 500 magnets surrounding a slender vacuum tube about the size of a man's arm. The tube would comprise the racetrack for the projectiles.

The entire device would be covered by at least 20 feet of earth as a shield against radiation leakage. The general public would not be allowed within 500 feet of the machine. Heavy shielding also would be provided for scientists working in the area.

AF Sergeant Indicted On Spy Charge

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — An Air Force sergeant who served at the Pentagon in 1965 and part of 1966 has been indicted on charges of conspiring with a Soviet diplomat to commit expionage.

If convicted, Sgt. Herbert W. Boeckenhaupt, 24, could receive the death penalty. He was arrested by the FBI Oct. 31 at March Air Force Base, Riverside, Calif.

In other action Friday in U.S. District Court here, Retired Army Lt. Col. William Henry Whalen pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiring to obtain defense secrets for the Soviet Union.

The cases apparently are unrelated. An espionage charge against Whalen, carrying a possible maximum sentence of execution, was dropped at the government's request.

According to the indictment, Boeckenhaupt conspired with Aleksey R. Malinin, a former assistant commercial counselor at the Soviet embassy in Washington, to deliver documents, "code boks, signal books, sketches, photographs, photographic negatives, plans, notes and information relating to the national defense of the United States."

This information, the indictment said, included "information relating to the electronics communications and cryptographic systems and equipment information going through such equipment and the code cards connected therewith. . ."

Malinin, listed in the indictment as a co-conspirator but not a defendant, returned to Russia shortly after Boeckenhaupt's arrest. The Soviet diplomat had been declared persona non grata.

Boeckenhaupt was a radio operator at the Pentagon before his assignment to March Air Force Base earlier this year. At March, he served as an electronics communications and cryptographic systems repairman with top secret clearance and access to top secret material.

December Buying May Set Record

AUSTIN (AP) — Heavy Christmas buying probably will spur Texas' December retail sales to a record high, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research says.

December's sale should also improve the overall sales total for the year, which is running 7 per cent ahead of 1965.

The bureau said November's retail sales were off 1 per cent from October because of decreased sales of durable goods. Durables were down 2 per cent, while nondurables maintained October's level.

Automotive sales, which usually increase 2 per cent from October to November, fell 1 per cent. Other durables normally decline seasonally between the two months, the bureau said. Sales of furniture, household appliances, lumber, building materials and hardware fell less than seasonally.

Eating and drinking places recorded a 10 per cent drop in sales. Food stores sales were down 2 per cent, compared with the normal seasonal drop of 8 per cent.

The bureau said that if December's sales are only as good as the average for the rest of the year, sales for 1966 will be 800 million or 5 per cent higher than last year's. The 1965 gain from the previous year was 13 per cent.

"However, there is every indication that December's sales will materially surpass the 11 month average. Christmas crowds this September are every bit as heavy as they were last year when sales in the state reached a $1.6 billion monthly rate, well above the $1.3 billion of the 11-month average," the bureau said.

"Certainly this December's sales in the state are likely to set an all-time high for the month, and thus improve the overall sales total for the year."

October to November changes in retail sales for major Texas cities are Austin down 7 per cent, Dallas up e, El Paso up 5, Fort Worth down 1, Houston down 1 and San Antonio up 8 8 per cent.

SANTA AND THE GIANT FIGHTER

By Lucrece Beale

Synopsis: Billy meets an underground gnome who sends him to the moon cave in a Go-Bucket.

CHAPTER TWELVE
THE MAGIC WORDS

The cracking, rattling, crashing clangor of the Go-Bucket dropping through the earth frightened the dragon nearly out of his wits. He shivered and shook. His eyes rolled back in his head and he nearly swallowed his long forked tongue.

Then he remembered that he was a dragon (a fierce looking dragon, at that, the giant had told him so) and he said to himself, "If I think like a dragon I will act like a dragon."

He thought quickly of all the dragons he had known and how they made rumbling noises like thunder and lashed with their tails and shot fire and smoke from their nostrils.

At that moment the Go-Bucket slam-banged into the cave. Billy the Giant Fighter jumped out and stood there waving his sword.

The dragon reared up on his hind legs. He thumped his ponderous tail and roared. He shut his eyes and took a great breath and went "A-a-a-a-h!"

Billy expected a sheet of flame to burst from the dragon's jaws but there was not a single spark. The dragon cleared his throat and tried again. He huffed and gargled and rumbled deep in his innards and went "A-a-a-a-h!" A teeny, tiny wisp of smoke drifted from his nostrils. That was all.

"You're not a fire breathing dragon at all," exclaimed Billy. "I'm not afraid of you".

"I may not breathe fire," snarled the dragon, "but my tail can smash you to pieces!" He lashed out furiously with his sharp, pointed tail.

Billy threw his hands up to guard his face. He need not have bothered. The dragon's tail was not lashing back and forth. It was pumping up and down like a friendly puppy's and was doing no harm at all.

"Why, I don't believe you're even a dragon," taunted Billy. He poked the monster on the snout with his wooden sword.

"I am, too, a dragon," whimpered the poor beast. "But I've never been a very good dragon. All my friends went off to live in zoos. I did so hope if I did a good job guarding the moon someone would give me a home, too. But I am a disgrace. Who would ever want me?"

"You can go to Santa Land," said Billy. "Santa would love to have you there."

"Santa wouldn't want me," sniffed the dragon, "I'm no good to anyone."

"Help me free the moon," said Billy. "Then I bet Santa would give you a home forever because you will have saved Santa Land."

"The moon is sealed in this box," said the dragon. "Tell me what to do and I will gladly help."

Billy got his spelling book from his pocket. "Patrick Tweedleknees told me the magic words that would unseal the box are in this book," he sighed. "Unfortunately, I can't read the words."

"Didn't you ever go to school?" asked the dragon in astonishment.

Billy blushed. "I didn't study very much. I wanted to be a giant fighter and I didn't think I had to study for that."

The dragon looked at the spelling book. "It's a very pretty book. It's probably filled with enough magic to open anything."

They scanned the pages together. Billy could read "Cat" and "Dog" and "Boy" and "Baby." He said the words out loud but the sealed box did not open. The dragon turned to the front cover. "What are these words written here?" he asked.

"That's my name," explained Billy. "I can read that easy." He pointed to each word and said, "William Henry Christopher Preeserve"

As he spoke the words a strange hissing whistled through the cave. The box holding the moon rocked and swayed and bounced and bobbed.

Suddenly the seal burst and the lid flew open.

Tomorrow: Goko in a Rage

Sees Changes In Sunday Closing Law

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislative surgery on the state's Sunday closing law has been predicted by the executive secretary of the Texas Retail Federation, Mickey Moore.

Moore told a Civic Club luncheon Thursday that a bill for submission to the legislature in January was being drafted. He declined to say what sections of the Sunday law would be subjected to the proposed changes.

Speaking of Austin's short-lived Sunday purchasing ordinance, Moore said it was regrettable "that a handful of merchants could force our City Council to repeal an ordinance which was favored—as reflected in letters received by our city office—by an eight-to-one majority."

He added, however, "it is regrettable we had to have an ordinance calling for arrest of our citizens...and putting the burden of proof on our people and not the stores."

The Austin ordinance making customers responsible for Sunday purchases, instead of the seller, lasted only two weeks. He pointed to court decisions which have upheld the validity of Sunday closing statutes, saying all but two states have such laws although many are antiquated.

Opening of a few stores on Sunday could lead to a chain reaction by other stores seeking to meet competition, said Moore.

Moore said "competitive forces will require it to spread" if Sunday selling is continued.

Moore said the 1961 Texas law actually requires no store to close on Sunday. Instead, he said, it prohibits the sale of some items on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays.

The Texas Retail Federation has 1,000 or so store members, said Moore.

Insects To End Flight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Project officials prepared to bring back to earth today a space capsule containing an assortment of living creatures—from wasps to pepper plants.

The spacecraft, known officially as Biosatellite I, and its complement of "astrobugs" were launched into orbit three days ago from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

The craft is scheduled to fire its retrorockets late today and parachute toward the Pacific Ocean. The plan is for aircraft to snag the capsule as it descends, then fly the specimens to Hawaii for examination.

A spokesman at Goddard Space Flight Center near Washington said the satellite has behaved "almost flawlessly" during the experiment designed to learn how long distance space jaunt will affect humans.

Bengals Beat Chiefs, Gain Tourney Finals

BROWNWOOD — The hustling Snyder Tigers defeated Lake View's Chiefs 65-56 here Friday night in the first round of the annual Brownwood Basketball Tournament.

The Bengals of Coach Ned Underwood were scheduled to meet San Saba at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the second round. The winner of this tilt was to meet Brownwood in the finals at 8 o'clock Saturday night.

Trailing 12-13 after one period, Snyder put on the pressure and jumped into 29-26 and 46-42 leads in each of the next two quarters. Most of the victory margin was registered in the fourth quarter.

All of the Snyder boys got into the game, and all of them got on the scoreboard. Tommy Bullard was leading scorer with 13 points. Eldon Woodward rang the hoops for 11, and Bobby Clardy dunked in 10 points.

Two Chiefs were in twin figures: Rocky Woods with a phenomenal 27 points and Bob Bruce with 12.

The Bengals were cold on their floor shots, hitting only 25 of 68 while the Chiefs dunked in 19 of 43.

Snyder took 34 rebounds off the boards, compared with 31 for Lake View. The Bengals lost the ball only 10 times on turnovers while the Chiefs lost it 18 times.

Eldon Woodward was the leading rebounder for Snyder with nine, and Bobby Clardy was runnerup with eight.

Coach Underwood termed the Bengal performance "under par," but he said he was pleased that they won.

Snyder was favored to meet the Lions in the finals. It should be a battle deluxe as the Tigers tripped Brownwood here during the Canyon Reef Tournament last week and the Lions would be out to even the score.

A former Snyder boy, Lane Bowen, paced the Lions in their opening 73-36 triumph over Breckenridge. The Lions drew a bye into the finals.

Saban Starts Over At The Bottom

By MURRAY CHASS

Lou Saban, on top of the American Football League when he left, is returning — at the bottom.

"There can be little left to conquer in prfessional football," Saban said on the second day of this year when he left the Buffalo Bills after coaching them to two consecutive AFL ochampinships.

The day after he left the Bills, Saban agreed to a four-year contract to coach at the University of Maryland.

The school announced his resignation Friday, and at the same time, the Denver Broncos, in last place in the AL's Western Division, said Saban had agreed to terms of a 10-year contract to be both coach and general manager.

In other coaching appointments rank Rodgers was named to the Kansas job and Vince Gibson was given the task of starting Kansas State on the right road after two winless seasons.

The Broncos would not disclose the salary that helped draw the 45-year-old Saban back to pro football, but owner Gerald H. Phipps said it puts him "in the upper levels of pro football coaches."

Following his prosperity at Buffalo, Saban found out again what it was like to have a loser as Maryland finished with a 4-6 record. He might not find the Broncos much different — at least not at first.

In other coaching developments, Bill Dooley, an assistant at Georgia, turned down the head job at Mississippi State and then was reported to be the choice at North Carolina Johnny Majors, an Arkansas assistant, was said to be the new No. 1 candidate at Mississippi State.

Steve Musseau, meanwhile, was retained as head coach at Idaho.

BIG SPRING — Herman Smith, the athletic director and football coach at Big Spring High School during the 1966 season will not be back at the helm of the Steers next year. The school board has announced that his one year contract, which expires in August, 1967, will not be extended.

Applications for a new coach are being accepted now.

Smith, a native of Birdville and former coach at Plainview, Quanah, Sundown and Tulia, replaced Donald Robbins, former Snyder coaching assistant, who now is an assistant at Texas Western.

Hockey Player Sends Referee To Hospital

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A member of the Johnstown Jets of the Eastern Hockey League charged a referee Friday night and hit him with a hockey stick, sending the official to a hospital.

The referee, Ed Pantalone, was admitted to Conemaugh Valley Memorial Hospital and listed in fair condition. The extent of his injuries was not known immediately.

Pantalone called Danny Patrick, the Jets' regular center, for tripping in the third period of a game with the Clinton Comets.

Patrick charged Pantalone, knocked him down, then hit him with the stick. He was ejected from the game.

Tiger Is New World Champion

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Tiger, the old gaffer who appeared all washed up eight months ago, today had a fresh career ahead of him as light heavyweight champion of the world at age 37.

The first fighting business ahead for the valiant ring warrior from Nigeria probably will be a return bout with Jose Torres, the 30-year-old New Yorker he upset and dethroned Friday night on a popular and unanimous 15-round decision at Madison Square Garden.

"I'll fight anybody," said the jubilant, former middleweight king. "It's up to my managers."

Torres, who had predicted he would win every round and then knock out Tiger said "I thought I won the fight even though I fought a bad fight, a very bad fight."

"I knew he was talk, talk all the time," said Tiger. "I knew I could beat him. I was much stronger at 167 pounds."

Tiger said making the middleweight limit of 160 pounds hurt him last April 25 when he lost that title to then welterweight champion Emile Griffith. At 167, Tiger spotted Torres eight pounds.

A 3-1 underdog to Torres, winner of three title defenses earlier in the year, Tiger took a boxing lesson from the defender in the first five rounds and then came on like a tidal wave.

With the victory, Tiger, who had lost to the 150½-pound Griffith, became the first former middleweight champion to win the light heavyweight crown, too, in 63 years.

The Cotton Bowl will pay more than $230,000 to each team this year. It's a sum nobody in the Southwest Conference would want to forego. Even the conference teams not playing will get about $16,000. The champion would sock away $116,000.

Arkansas, which failed to get into the Cotton Bowl a third time in a row because of an unexpected defeat by Texas Tech, decided it might prefer a rule under which no team could make successive appearances.

This would be a good rule from the teams' standpoint because it would give a club the privilege of playing in other bowl games to break the monotony. But it certainly wouldn't help the Cotton Bowl. It would damage it.

Six times in the 26 years that the champion has been host (the tie-up with the bowl at first was on an "encouragement" basis, then it was an "or else not play in any bowl" and then a command), teams have made the bowl twice in succession. These were Texas A&M, Texas, Southern Methodist, Texas Christian and Arkansas (Texas on two occasions, one of which saw the Longhorns in the game three years in a row).

With a rule banning successive appearances there would have been six times in 26 years when the runnerup would have ben the host team. Baylor and Texas Tech might have welcomed such a rule in 1963 and 1965, because they could have gotten into the Cotton Bowl in those years.

Baylor was runnerup in 1963 when Texas was making a second straight appearance. Texas Tech was second in 1965 when Arkansas was duplicating the Texas feat.

Anyway, it would mean the Cotton Bowl almost a fourth of the time would have a second place outfit and runnersup aren't attractive enough to make it a highly regarded game—that is, ccompared with other major bowls—especially if the champion were playing in some other bowl, which should be made possible so the champ could get some kind of reward out of it.

It is doubtful that such a rule ever will be invoked since it would take a two-thirds vote.

But there is a chance that the Cotton Bowl may be changed up some if only because of the economics.

Pro football in Dallas, with the Cowboys drawing 67,000 per game, has caused the situation to tighten up. The Cowboys now appear ready for several years of figuring in the National Football League championship. This means ;ames in the Cotton Bowl near Cotton Bowl time. With the new league setup there could be playoff games even in the years when the league championship might not be decided.

So it's according to the way the schedule is arranged whether the Cotton Bowl may have to start moving around or be shifted to some other Texas city.

The Cotton Bowl Athletic Association has an agreement with the State Fair that no game shall be played in the big saucer within two weeks of the Cotton Bowl game unless there is an agreement. It is doubtful that the Cotton Bowl board would bar the pros from the stadium if they were mixed in a playoff although they have the power to do it. For instance, this year when a request was made to stage a playoff game on Christmas Day (a week before the Cotton Bowl game) it was quickly given.

Even if the Cotton Bowl never is moved (few think it can) a wrangle with the pros might cause the Southwest Conference to withdraw its tieup. That would hurt the Cotton Bowl more than anything.

IN COTTON BOWL

SMU's Levias May Meet Match

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Cotton Bowl football game is only two weeks away but the big play potential already is a conversation piece. It involves a couple of sophomores.

Foremost is Jerry Levias, the do-everything Southern Methodist player who was credited with winning six of the eight games going to the Methodists in their drive to the Southwest Conference championship.

But there'll be a young fellow from Georgia who might match the personal heroics of Levias—Kent Lawrence, who, like Levias, is a 9.5 sprinter, and also, like Levias, has made a specialty of going for distance.

The fabulous campaign of Levias already is well known to Texas football fans—taking a touchdown pass with only nine seconds left to beat Rice, returning a punt 83 yards to whip Texas A&M, taking a kickoff back 100 yards against Baylor, then setting up the winning field goal with a pass-reception, and taking a 68-yard pass to shock Texas Christian into defeat.

Lawrence set the tempo for Georgia in the season-end showdown with Georgia Tech as he raced a punt back 70 yards for the game's first touchdown. Earlier he had returned a kickoff 87 yards against Virginia Military and run 30 yards from scrimmage for a touchdown against North Carolina.

Neither Southern Methodist nor Georgia was noted as a passing team, yet Southern Methodist counted 11 touchdowns through the air. Levias collaborated with Mac White and Mike Livingston on two 68-yard scoring passes and he tossed one himself for 47 yards to Larry Jernigan.

Georgia's Kiry Moore threw only four touchdown passes but they were good for distance—56 and 52 yards being the longest.

Big scoring plays may be the rule instead of the exception when Southern Methodist and Georgia hook up in the Cotton Bowl Dec. 31.

SEASON'S GREETINGS FROM THE BOY SCOUTS OF LONE BUFFALO DISTRICT, THE ADULT CITIZEN SCOUTER AND THE DISTRCT PROFESSIONAL STAFF:

To our many friends and supporters in Borden, Mitchell and Scurry counties who make Scouting possible in Lone Buffalo District. We would like to also extend these greeting to the entire population of these three counties because it is their friendship and support that will make Scouting available to most boys in our district.

With these greetings on the anniversary of the birth of Christ we desire to bring you a message of Christ's attitude and teachings relating to children. The objective of the Boy Scouts of America is to train boys to become good citizens of high moral character, physically fit men ready to cope with the challenges of a changing time. This is done within the framework of a boy's world, giving him fun, adventure, and opportunity for service that he naturally seeks.

We WANT all boys to become—and remain—Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers. We WANT institutions to sponsor units. We WANT men to give of themselves in volunteer service. We NEED funds to augment the program.

For these things to happen, boys must WANT to become Scouts, institutions must WANT to sponsor units, men must WANT to serve, and communities must WANT to support the Boy Scouts.

We must, then, have the understanding and good will of all concerned. We hope that everyone will be concerned. Business leaders place monetary value on good will; it is an important item in the exchange of business and industry. It is important, very important, to Boy Scouts.

Good will starts with meriting the support of those important to us—which means performance of a good job for all because everyone is important to the Boy Scouts. Those who know Scouting know that Boy Scouts are important to everyone. It means exposing the facts to every segment of the public that we are doing a good job. We must recognize that it takes constant alertness, a planned program of public relations, and an able supporting organization to achieve good will for Scouting.

GOOD WILL TO ALL AND A BRIGHT NEW YEAR
BOY SCOUTS OF LONE BUFFALO DISTRICT.

Bengals Bomb Flower Grove

FLUVANNA — The Snyder "B" team put on a stunning rally here Friday to defeat Flower Grove, 97-68, and virtually clinch the championship of the annual Fluvanna Basketball Tournament.

Coach Wayne Tyrone's boys trailed, 14-21, after one period, but they were hotter than a pistol in the second quarter as they tallied 34 points to take a 48-35 cushion into the dressing room.

The Snyderites maintained their hot pace and dunked in 33 points in the final frame as four boys hit in double figures. Mitch Rambin was high point man for Snyder with 24 points, and Jerry January rang the hoops for 23. Benny Ward and Herman Malone each tossed in 18 points.

Snyder hit 58 per cent of its shots in the first half, and dunked in well over 60 per cent in the final two stanzas.

Flower Grove's Don McMorris was high point man for the game with 26 points, and his brother, Neal, meshed 16 points. Scoring 13 points each for the Dragons were Jimmy Graves and Jimmy Walker.

Fluvanna remained hot on the heels of the young Tigers with a 60-58 decision over Hermleigh Friday night and a 61-46 triumph over Flower Grove Saturday morning. In another boys game Friday, Hermleigh blasted Ira, 53-23.

In Girl's action, Hermleigh remained out front with a 48-40 win over Ira Friday afternoon and a 52-37 victory over Fluvanna Friday night. O'Donnell's girls tripped Flower Grove, 44-32.

Bobby Hall paced Fluvanna over Hermleigh with 26 points, and Joe Belew contributed 14 points in the winning effort. Four Hermleigh boys finished in twin figures: Tom Chorn (15), David Creswell (13), Mike Peterson (12), and Ted Winter (12).

Hall also was leading scorer in the Flower Grove contest with 27 points. Belew pitched in 10 points, and Henry Contreras registered 15. For the Dragons, Neil McMorris was high point man with 17 points while his brother, Don, notched 15 points.

Ted Winter tallied 21 points for Hermleigh in its decision over Ira while Tom Chorn won runnerup honors with 11 points — the same number scored by John Ezell of Ira.

Virginia Finch and Jane Wall were the sparkplugs in the Hermleigh girls' twin victories. Virginia notched 23 points against Ira, and she dunked in 21 against Fluvanna. Jane had 18 and 17 points, respectively. Sharon Pieper contributed 14 points in the triumph over Fluvanna.

Hermleigh's girls tallied 18 points in the final quarter to overcome a 30-31 deficit against Ira. Connie Sterling and Pam Sallee put forth good efforts for the Bulldogs with 13 and 12 points respectively. Fluvanna's Sandra Stansell scored 15 points against the surprisingly strong Hermleigh team while her teammates, June Stansell and Rinda Bruner, each netted 11 points.

Linda Vestal paved the way to victory for the O'Donnell girls with 22 points, and Linda James pitched in 10. For Flower Grove, Pam Cave garnered 18 points.

Snyder was favored to get by Ira in a 1 p.m. contest Saturday to claim the crown while Hermleigh's girls were favorites to notch the girls title with a 6:30 p.m. Saturday decision over Flower Grove.

The Fluvanna and Flower Grove girls collided at 10 a.m. Saturday morning, and the Ira and O'Donnell girls mixed it up at 11:30 a.m. Saturday.

"New Mexico will be meaner than a sore-footed Indian doing a rain dance."

Eddie Mullens, publicity director for Texas Western's national collegiate basketball champions, said that before the fifth-ranked Lobos from Albuquerque battled the second-ranked Miners in El Paso Friday night.

He was right, to. The Lobos handed the Miners their first defeat of the season 71-62 to atone for blowing a 20-point lead and losing to the Miners in overtime last season.

"This is our greatest win in my five years at New Mexico," said Bob King, coach of the Lobos.

Seattle, top independent in the Pacific Northwest, also was victorious in an 85-83 overtime victory over seventh - ranked Brigham Young, the only other team in The Assciated Press Top Ten to see action.

Victories by Wisconsin, South Carolina, Clemson, Tennessee, LaSalle, Vanderbilt, Maryland Memphis State, Richmond and Virginia Tech in the opening of five major holiday tournaments also highlighted Friday night's play.

Wisconsin beat Fordham 67-66 on two free throws by sophomore Chuck Nagle in the last 22 seconds and South Carolina edged Marquette 63-61 in the Milwaukee Classic. Clemson downed Miami of Florida 73-64 in overtime and Tennessee drubbed Auburn 73-49 in the Volunteer Classic at Knoxville, Tenn.

In the Virginia Tech Invitational at Blacksburg, Va., Richmond defeated Florida State 80-76 and Virgniia Tech whipped Eastern Kentucky 99-77.

Big 10 Under Investigation

CHICAGO (AP)— Alleged irregularities in the University of Illinois' athletic program have resulted in a full-scale investigation by the Big Ten Conference.

Conference Commissioner Bill Reed announced Friday night an investigation was launched following a report to the Big Ten office by Dr. David D. Henry, president of the University of Illinois.

Dr. Henry reported that irregularities with respect to grant-in-aid assistance to athletes had been brought to his attention.

"Dr. Henry believes that he is in possession of all facts," said Reed, "and has invited my inquiry into the matter with an offer of full cooperation on the part of the university in any investigation I may wish to undertake.

"I will begin an investigation in accordance with regular conference procedures."

The action climaxed a somewhat hectic week in the Illinois athletic picture.

Last Monday, head football Coach Pete Elliott was expected to be named athletic director, succeeding Doug Mills who resigned last month following a 25-year tenure.

Instead, Elliott withdrew his name from consideration for the job and followed that move by withdrawing from the race for the athletic directorship at Northwestern, vacated by Stue Holcomb's resignation Dec. 1.

Elliott called the report on irregularities "an administrative thing. I'm not in a position to say anything about it. It has nothing to do, however, with my wanting to stay in caching."

One surce told The Associated Press the report on irregularities "obviously is the reason that the naming of an athletic director is being held up but the report had nothing to do with the resignation of Doug Mills."

Still another source said the irregularities concerned a certain fund, but it was not learned how much was involved or where the alleged money, if any, had been channeled.

In 1953, Michigan State was placed on probation because the existence of an organization, The Spartan Foundation of Lansing, known to have solicited funds for the assistance of athletes.

Says Mexico Accepts Supplies

EL PASO (AP) — Mexican customs officers have taken a trainload of food and other items for needy Indians across the border to neighboring Juarez, an El Paso warehouse employe reported Friday.

Residents of Lafayette, La., donated the items several weeks ago in response to plas on behalf of the Tarahumara Indians in the Sierra Madre Mountains of Chihuahua state.

After the 10 freight cars filled with food, clothing and furniture arrived here, however, Mexico refused to admit the shipment. The Mexican consul general here, Roberto S. Urrera, said his government was offended at reports the Tarahumaras were starving.

The warehouse worker, who did not want to be quoted by name, said trucks transferred the goods from the firm where he works for O. D. Overmeyer to storage in Juarez after Mexican customs men took custody of the shipment.

Overmeyer was in New York and unavailable for comment.

Urrera said he knew nothing about the goods being admitted. The shipment had been stranded here since Sept. 24.

Bullets Keep On Winning

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Baltimore Bullets, under Coach Gene Shue, have won as man games in the past 11 days as they did in the first 51 days of the season.

The Bullets trimmed Detroit 121-113 Friday night for their third straight National Basketball Association victory and fourth in six games since Shue was named coach Dec. 5.

In other games, Philadelphia won its 29th straight home game tying a league record in beating St. Louis 124-113, and Chicago downed Cincinnati 128-120.

The Bullets didn't have very much success before Shue. While scraping together their first four victories, they lost 21 games. Now they're an almost respectable 4½ games away from getting out of the Eastern Division cellar.

Detroit, playing without Player-Coach Dave DeBusschere who has an infected right foot, closed to within 93-92, but Baltimore's Don Ohl whipped in five straight baskets, increasing the lead to 103-93. The Pistons never got closer than six points the rest of the way.

Philadelphia increased its record to an amazing 28-3 behind a well-balanced scoring attack. Wilt Chamberlain flipped in 22 points, Wally Jones 19, Lucius Jackson 18 and Chet Walker 17. Lou Hudson scored 27 for St. Louis.

Snow No Problem At Sun Bowl Tilt

By PAT THOMPSON

EL PASO (AP) — While much of the nation suffers through typical winter weather, fans are trying to avoid the sun for the Sun Bowl football game next Saturday between Wyoming and Florida State.

Most of the tickets being sold in the 34,000-seat stadium are on the shady side in a pattern adapted from bull fights patrons in nearby Mexico, where premium prices are paid to sit with your back to the sun.

On the field in the 32nd annual game, Wyoming puts a 9-1 record up against Florida State's 6-4.

Sophomore Gary Pajcic's 1,735 yards total offense set a Florida State record. Second-team All-America defensive guard Del Williams anchors the Seminoles' defense, which allowed popnents 1,387 points and 2,996 yards.

Florida State racked up 3,755 yards total offense, including 1,517 passing by Pajcic. Sophomore end Ron Sellers caught 55 passes for 874 yards.

Wyoming, unbeaten in three previous Sun Bowl games, won the national rushing defense title by allowing only 385 yards in 10 games.

Tackles Ron Billingsley, 251 pounds, and Mike Dirks, 221, and middle guard Jerry Durling, 213, led the Wyoming defense which gave up only 69 points. The three combined for 138 unassisted tackles.

Quarterback Rick Egloff paced the Cowpokes with 1,440 yards total offense. Halfback Jim Kiick and gained 597 yards. DePoyster was high scorer with 71 points, including 13 field goals.

Western Athletic Conference champion Wyoming lost only to Colorado State 12-10. Florida State was beaten by Syracuse, lorida, Houston and Virginia Tech. Among the Seminole victims were Liberty Bowl champions Miami and Mississippi State.

The teams were due to be in El Paso by today.

Their clash will be televised by the National Broadcasting Co., starting at 2 p.m. MST.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) —Lou Saban agreed to a 10-year contract as coach and general manager of the Denver Broncos after he resigned from the University of Maryland.

Merv Griffin Is For Syndication

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "That's the beauty of syndication," Merv Griffin was saying. "If your show is broadcast by individual stations, instead of by a network, the local station managers decide where to put it, and what spot will be best for their audiences and, of course, for you."

Now, after 18 months, 'The Merv Griffin Show" is broadcast on 65 stations, available to 85 per cent of the nation's viewers. It has proved to be the fastest-selling program of its category in the short but dramatic history of television syndication.

"We expected to be in the red for at least two years," said Griffin, "and so did the Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., which sells us. But we made it into the black much quicker — and it is not an inexpensive show to produce"

Griffin's big problem was and is NBC's "Tonight Show" and its head man, Johnny Carson. The two programs operate on exactly the same format, are interested in many of the same guests and attract approximately the same type of audience. The Carson program is broadcast on 194 stations and is seen by about one-third of the 12 million or so people who keep their sets on after the late news.

Griffin shrewdly has kept pretty well out of Carson's way. He competes for that audience only in four areas — one of them being New York City.

"We are on at all sorts of times," Griffin said. "In Miami, a resort town, it is at 9 in the morning, which isn't bad because our people are likely to be out at night and sleep late. In Philadelphia, it is at 4:30 in the afternon — and we can deliver an audience then because we catch working men who come home early. In many places we are in prime time, between 7:30 and 11 at night."

At 41, Mervyn Griffin finds himself at the head of a successful broadcasting empire. He is producer of NBC's daytime "Jeopardy" game show, owner of three radio stations, performing host of "The Merv Griffin Show" and employer of 147 people.

It is a long way — but apparently not a rocky one — from his professional start at 19 as a singer on a San Francisco radio station.

He is a pleasant, even-tempered man of many talents, none of which is overwhelmingly impressive. He plays the piano acceptably. He is a good singer — good enough to have been in Freddy Martin's band and to have made a record that sold a million copies — 'I've Got a Lovely Bunch of Coconuts." He has a quick wit and an easy manner before an audience. He plays straight man better than comedian.

But he does seem to be, almost to his own surprise, a very good business man, catalyst and on-the-spot program strategist.

Griffin, who had been an amiable host on a couple of game shows, attracted favorable attention when he auditined on the air for the "Tonight Show" after Jack Paar departed. The spot went to Carson, but Griffin later had a daytime show on NBC that frankly adopted the Paar format. It was a critical success and had a devoted audience.

Unfortunately, it was not large enough. When NBC canceled the show, more than 70,000 letters of protest flooded in.

Griffin's staff — director, bookers and musicians — scattered into other jobs. But when Griffin decided to resume his show on a syndicated basis, every one of his top aides quit what they were doing and happily came back to work.

Just Open A Can-- It's Christmas

By SALLY RYAN
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Christmas canning season is here — full of canned dresses canned nails, canned mini-panties, canned ties, canned air.

Yes, even canned air.

"We're canning just about everything that will fit," said Wilmer Wise, vice president of Franklin Simon, a New York department store.

"Young people raised sitting on the back of a basket being pushed through a supermarket relate to things that are canned," Wise said.

"There is something ingenious and kooky about the appeal of a dress in a can," said Ben Wechsler, assistant to the president of Wippette Sportswear, Inc., which introduced Le Canned Dress in November.

"It's been a complete sellout in Canada,and we've sold 100,000 in six weeks. They're in London and Paris, too."

Wippette's president, Erwin Silver, says he picked up the idea more than a year ago when he saw stores selling canned air as a novelty and canned candles.

This fall he began canning his wrinkleproof nylon dresses to sell for $25. Matching stitch-brimmed hats cost another $7 and can be dropped into the same one-pound tin. New Models are on their way for spring.

You don't even need a can opener to get at the dresses — the lids pry off.

Wise said his store has sold hundreds of canned depression survival kits which contain, among other items, instruction on how to build your own apple stand.

"Most of the things (that come canned) are teen-aged items — young, fun, giddy kinds of things," Wise said.

"What doesn't come in a can, we'll can right there," he added, pointing to a canning machine on the fourth floor.

"We've canned marble eggs, scarves, handbags, jewelry, feather dusters, games — anything that will fit. "One day a woman called and said she heard we had a canning machine. She wanted to know if we would can her preserves. We didn't do it, but it ought to give someone an idea. Someone can open a shop saying 'We'll do your canning for you'."

If you do want to set up your own shop, Sears Roebuck & Co. has a tin can sealer for $16.99. A box of 100 No. 2 cans is $9.99, and No. 3's are $14.99.

Case In Court— Tweeetsie vs Tootsie

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — First there was Tweetsie and now there's talk of Tootsie.

And Tweetsie doesn't like it.

Tweetsie is a railroad train that just runs around in circles as a tourist attraction near the town of Boone.

Tootsie is a railroad being built at Lake Lure in another part of western North Carolina.

Tweetsie says it doesn't mind a little competition, but its promoters don't like the similarity of names. So it will be Tweetsie vs. Tootsie in Mecklenburg Superior Court Jan. 4.

LAURENCE OLIVER and Charlton Heston meet in the Sudan in a futile attempt to negotiate peace. The scene is from the Julian Blaustein spectacular "Khartoum," which opens at the Ritz Theater here Dec. 25.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

Mexico City — I hate to bring up unpleasant subjects but it seems there may be something wrong with doctors.

In fact, a fellow wrote a piece in a science magazine on the subject and outlined all sorts of things that should be remedied in the medical world.

He suggest the trouble is a by-product of the medical profession's simultaneous dedication to humanity and to the profit motive. In other words, the doctor's need to get paid is often in conflict with the patient's need to get well.

Fortunately, I do not have problems like this staring me in the eye. My medic is a witch doctor who lives in a Banyan Tree down near Cuernavaca and he is not the least bit interested in profit motives.

I see Dr. Fred Uxcuintli twice a year for a regular checkup and all he charges me is a chicken or a stalk of bananas. He is a nice old fellow 326 years old and says he has never given a thought to money because he has seen it brings nothing but evil.

Once in awhile when I develop a light case of cancer or leprosy I run over to see Fred and he gives me an overnight cure with a cup of fish scale tea or a spoonful of powdered dragon's teeth.

I just go to his tree and rap on the trunk with a rock and he immediately calls me up to the fifth branch where he has his office. First thing Dr. Fred does is check my magnetism with a fig leaf. If the leaf turns brown when he lays it on my back, he knows the magnetism is out of kelter and I inhale the fumes of a dried bat dropped in boiling water.

This sets the magnetic forces in their proper channels so they can circulate well and generally turns me a light shade of green which is good.

Dr. Fred does not like for me to live around civilazation because he says there is a maldistribution of electrical charges. You don't find that in the country. Out in the open spaces the electricity is even and reliable and keeps the atmosphere balanced so a person can stay in peak condition.

All of his patients are healthy and live so long they finally get tired of looking it up on the calendar.

The last time I went to see him Dr. Fred put a fig leaf on my back and then shook his head.

"For a fifty year old boy you are in a dismal condition," he said. "You probably couldn't walk two hundred miles across the mountains without getting tired. Have you been taking medicene again?"

"Only a little," I said. "A doctor gave me some because I had a bad hole in my sock."

"And why did you take it? Dr. Fred asked.

"To help the doctor. He had to make a payment on his Cadillac and needed a new operating table."

Dr. Fred squinted and asked, "What's a Cadillac?"

"A sort of burro," I said. "You get inside and drive it to the Country Club."

Dr. Uxcuintli shook his head and said civilization was headed for extinction. Then he gave me some soup made of boiled nails to fortify me against evil spells. He may be right about the extinction process. But at the present rate, I think the doctors will be the last to go.

Grant Offered To City Of Allen

McKINNEY, Tex. (AP)—The Water Pollution Control Administration of the Interior Department has announced an offer of a $136,900 grant to the City of Allen, Tex., Rep. Ray Roberts, D-Tex., has reported.

The grant offer is to construct an outfall line, pressure line, pumping line, and a list station and the necessary appurtenances in Allen's sewage and treatment plant and lines. Total cost of the project will be $456,500.

Long Wharf Has Much Atmosphere

By WILLIAM Glover
AP Drama Writer

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — A drama dream must start somewhere, so why not in a meat market?

Which explains Long Wharf Theater, this city's venture into professional stagecraft.

Next door is a sausage factory; on the other side, a printing plant; and slabs of beef swing on hooks a short distance off in the low, functional building that houses all the varied endeavors.

If the locale is odd, it fits happily with the long-range purpose, making the group more than just another regional inconspicuous acting company.

"Regional theaters have become the Howard Johnson chain of the arts," says Harlan P. Kleiman, Long Wharf's co-founder.

"Go to any city and you find the same plays being done that are done everywhere else. We aren't going to amount to anything unless we develop a point of view — and that can't be a lot of platitudinous maxims about doing plays well."

During the next decade, he feels, there is going to be "more attrition than growth," with possibly half of the resident troupes which have cropped up in the past few years disappearing.

"A lot are museums — and mismanaged museums at that," declares Kleiman.

Determined to do something different, he and Jon Jory — son of actor Victor Jory — set up the Long Wharf Theater two years ago. Both were graduate students at Yale, but neither had New Haven roots hailing respectively from Brooklyn, N.Y., and Pasadena, Calif.

They put out a few feelers and found there was interest in their notions. Six months and 600 speaking appearances later they had the $135,000 needed to begin.

Unable to find suitable facilities in midtown, the pair gambled on an offer to knock together three stalls in a wholesale market. The Long Wharf neighborhood is cut off from the rest of the city by railroad lines and the Connecticut Turnpike, but the isolation at least solved the problem of parking space.

With Kleiman handling the business end and Jory the artistic, a first summer season drew 99 per cent attendance in the 441-seat playhouse. The seats were picked up cheap from an old theater in Hoboken, N.J., which once echoed to the hisses and cheers of audiences who crossed the river from New York to drink beer and see "The Drunkard" and other nostalgic epics.

Long Wharf's first winter season drew a healthy 89 per cent attendance, but the second summer fell off to a near-crisis 53 per cent because all the shows were new, unknown works.

Matters are looking up impressively again with the current seven-play agenda, which began with "Oh! What a Lovely War!," and moved on to a lively, unorthodox version of "The Three Sisters." After "The Man who Came to Dinner," now on with Negro actor Roscoe Lee Browne — another-offbeat gambit — as Sheridan Whiteside, works by Brecht, Shaw, Anouilh and George M. Cohan will be performed.

Oratorio Presentation Set Sunday

The Chancel Choir of the First Methodist Church in Snyder will present "Christmas Oratorio," by Camille Saint-Saens, at 5 p.m. today (Sunday) in the sanctuary of the church.

The public is invited to attend the presentation.

Mrs. Bob Womack will direct the choir, while Mrs. Wendell Rehm will be the organist and Mrs. Robert Clinton will be the pianist.

Two visiting solists will be featured, along with three well-known Snyder solists. Mrs. Carl Bradley, soprano, and Mrs. Don Newsom, Mezzo soprano, both of Big Spring, will be featured. Other soloists will include Mrs Ben Brock, contralto, Dr. Robert Clinton, tenor, and Jum Casey, bass, all of Snyder.

The oratorio is based on the Scripture from the Gospel of Luke.

BOOSTS BOYS — C. T. McLaughlin (left), Snyder oil man, presents Shelby Coker a check for $1,000. The money will be used to provide a library at the Boys Club building. McLaughlin was a guest of honor Friday night at the annual Boys Club banquet in the high school cafeteria. Also, he and Roger Mize picked up the tab for the banquet, as they have for several years.

BOYS CLUBBERS AND HOST — Roger Mize, president of Snyder National Bank, stands in the midst of banquet tables at the Christmas dinner for Scurry County Boys' Club members Friday night at the High School Cafeteria. Mize and C. T. McLaughlin are hosts for the dinner each year.

Voter Registration Deadline Is Jan. 31

The state legislature passed a new voter registration law which governs the procedures of registration for the voting year of 1967 Don Adams, county tax assessor-collector, has reminded.

Adams said the new law requires all persons who are qualified voters with respect to age and residence to register in order to be able to vote.

"In other words, he said, "If you're a qualified voter and want to vote next year, you have to register." The deadline for registering is Jan. 31.

The county tax office has been sending out voter registration applications to county residents along with their tax statements. These applications may be filled out and mailed to the county tax office. They must be signed.

It also is possible to register in person by filing out one of the registration forms at the tax office. The new law "does away with" the poll tax and there is no charge for registering to vote.

The voter qualification laws require that a citizen must be 21 years of age, a resident of the state one year and a resident of the county six months before he can vote.

People who are 60 years of age or who will become 60 years of age on or prior to the day of an election and who also live in a community of less than 10,000 population are not required to register. However, they may register if they so desire.

One important change in the law requires persons who are 21 years of age or who will become 21 years of age during the election year to register by Jan. 31. Previously, these "first time" voters could register to vote anytime during the election year.

"Such is not the case now," stated Adams. "First-time 21-year-old voters must register by Jan. 31. The voting certificate will state the exact date on which they become eligible to vote especially if it should occur after the period for registering ends.

Similarly, anyone who will have met the six months or one year residence requirements within the election year must register during the registration period. The forms will denote the exact date the eligibility for residence takes place.

Anyone who is 60 years of age or over or who will become 60 during the election year and who lives in towns of 10,000 population or more must register in order to be able to vote.

Adams reminded county residents that the mailed application forms are only an application to register. They must be signed. Such applicants will be certified as qualified voters after their applications have been checked for accuracy.

State law makes it a felony offense to knowingly put false information on an application or a voter registration form.

Qualified voters of 60 years of age or over who move to the city after the registration period ends may register any time during the election year. However, such registration must occur at least four days prior to an election.

They May Preach —But Not Loudly

DALLAS (AP) — Sidewalk preachers in downtown Dallas still can preach, but not too loudly.

This apparent ruling came after a 48-year-old preacher was arrested and booked on a charge of disturbing the peace on a major downtown street.

Officers said the arrest was made after the man refused to lower his voice.

Banker Promises Credit For Farmers

BEAUMONT (AP) —William W. Phillips Jr., president of the American National Bank here, says banks must not fail to make available adequate credit for farmers, "even in this period of tight money."

"We must not fail to produce adequate credit for farmers—who have not failed to support the growth of banks over the years," Phillips told a bankers' convention.

Pittsburgh Blaze Takes Five Lives

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Four children and an adult were killed early today in a two-alarm blaze in Pittsburgh's Carrick section, police said.

Officials said the dead children's mother, Ethel Schiller, 25, was hospitalized in satisfactory condition. The names of the victims were not learned immediately.

The blaze destroyed the family's 1½ story frame home.

Supplemental Feeding Of Livestock Is Important

With the moisture shortage this fall and winter, supplemental feeding will be mighty important during the next few months.

According to County Agricultural Agent Billy Roach, cattlemen may be able to save some time and money by feeding protein supplement twice a week rather than daily feeding.

In a Texas A&M University test, cattle fed protein supplement twice a week performed just as well as those fed daily. The result from twice weekly feeding was about a 60 percent saving of labor and travel as compared to daily feeding.

Feeding twice a week doesn't necessarily mean feeding less supplement, just feding largr amounts less frequently.

Also, during cold winter weather, cattle need plenty of forage to produce body heat. A low quality roughage that is high in fiber is a good feed during a storm, because of the high body heat production resulting from digesting the fiber in the roughage.

A well-fed cow can stand extremely low temperatures. Researchers say the critical temperature is just above the temperature at which cattle begin to shiver. A cow on a fasting diet, or without any feed, reaches a critical temperature at about 55 degrees F. A maintenance ration lowers the critical temperature to about 23 degrees F. With an increase in Protein Supplement to Range Cattle" discusses this test in defeed consumption, the critical temperature will drop to well below zero.

Wet hair coats and an increase in wind velocity raise the critical temperature and at the same time increase feed requirments necssary for body heat production.

File these wood finishing tips in the Learned-from-Experience category:

1 - When rubbing down a clear finishing meterial, such as varnish, ease up when you get near the edges of the wood, as there is a tendency to bear down harder in these areas. Whn this extra pressure is applied - and you may not even know you are doing it - the finish along the edges will have a different tone than the finish on the rest of the table top or whatever you are working on. Try to get into the habit of thinking consciously to apply less pressure as you get near the edges.

2 - Any time you apply an oil finish, which may be one of several combinations of boiled linseed oil and turpentine, be sure that the surface is first wiped lightly to remove the excess before you begin rubbing. If this isn't done, oil which remains on the surface too long will begin to get sticky.

3 - If you are staining one piece of furniture to match others, experiment first on an inconspicuous part of the object to discover how much stain to apply and how quickly to wipe it off to get the proper match. And never forget that, in this experiment, you want a tone a bit lighter than the shade to be matched, as the final finishing coat will make it darker.

4 - When using lacquer, be sure there is plenty of ventilation, not only because it is volatile but because breathing its fumes for a period of time can make you ill. If you are applying the lacquer with a brush, be sure (a) that you are using lacquer meant for brushing, and (b) that it is thinned at least 50 per cent with lacquer thinner. (You can get Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P. O. Box 954, Jamaica, N. Y. 11431.)

5 - When removing the finish from a piece of carved furniture with paint or varnish remover, there is nothing better than an old, clean toothbrush for getting into the indentations.

6 - Although you often will find a recommendation to use a hot household iron for rebonding a loose veneer to a table top, steer clear of this method unless you have had exprience with it. There are half a dozen things that can go wrong and ruin the veneer.

7 - When cleaning a brush that has been used for varnishing, be sure that the turpentine or other (solvent read the instructions on the label of the container) is soaked into the top half of the bristles as well as bottom half. If this isn't done, the top part becomes hard and unusuable, interfering with future projects.

8 - It is always better, when possible, to apply finishing materials on a dry day or, at the very least, in an inside area where there is a nimimum amount of humidity.

QUESTION: I am thinking about finishing the walls of an extra room at a side of our house. It has solid concrete walls and I want to put up wood paneling of some kind. Can you advise me whether it is better to make new inside walls, a few inches from the present walls, or whether I should attach studs to the concrete and then put the paneling on the studs?

ANSWER: If the room is small, putting up inside walls will, of course, reduce the overall size. But this method has a number of advantages. Keeping the wood away from the concrete if the latter has any tendency to be damp is one of them. You also are not faced with the problem of attaching studs directly to concrete, which can be considerable if the concrete is especially tough and resists the action of a star drill or an electric drill fitted with a carbide-tipped bit. Should you decide to do it this way - and you find the concrete in the extra room especially rugged - you might try using a special adhesive made for the purpose of eliminating the drilling.

Everything considered, we favor setting up separate walls by installing studding between floor and ceiling strips of 2 by 3's or 2 by 4's. Remember that the vertical studs must fit firmly between the base and ceiling plates if you are to have solid walls.

Remember, too, to allow sufficient space behind the wall at any point where there are pipes or anything that might have to be repaired or inspected at some future time. In some cases, you can install hinge doors to get at such areas.

It's a good idea to toast slices of bread before spreading with seasoned ground beef and broiling. Cover the edges of the toast with the meat so they won't burn.

MRS. ROBERT MELBURN HOPSON

Miss Wolcott Becomes Bride Of Robert Hopson In Houston Episcopal Church

The Saint Martin's Episcopal Church of Houston was the setting for the marriage of Darby Virginia Wolcott and Robert Melburn Hopson on November 23rd, at 8 p.m. The altar held brass candle sticks and greenery. Aisles were bedecked with tall candelabra and magnolia leaves. Rev. Thomas Bagov and Dr. J. Walter Dickson, officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Arrington Wolcott, Houston, formerly of Snyder, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dickson Hopson, Houston.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Giles Bowers of Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Lee J. Darby of Houston, and the niece of Mrs. Irene McFarland of Snyder.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a designer's gown of ivory silk satin chosen by the bride in Brussels in 1965. The sculptured bodice was fashioned with a deep portrait decolletage and the sleeves were above elbow length, complimented by ivory glace gloves. The gently domed skirt was espalliered by sprays of embroidered rose leaves, touched at intervals by intricately fashioned satin roses. A fold of the satin underscored the bodice and ended at the back where small French buttons extended. From this, pleating gave added fullness to the lavish train that ended in cathedral length.

Her veil of Brussels lace in Princess design, marked by small Rosepoint butterflies, was held by a cluster of satin roses and cascaded over tiers of silk illusion to end with the hemline of the train. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and lillies of the valley.

Mrs. Bill Munn of Austin was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Weigel and Miss Helen Mitchell, Houston; Miss Carolyn Hamel of Shreveport, La.; Miss Elizabeth Broussard, Weeks Island, La.; Mrs. Jerome Braswell, Sweeny; Miss Jane Hopson, sister of the groom, Houston; Mrs. Donald B. Dyer, Memphis, Tenn. and sister of the groom; and Mrs. Wm. Lester, Jr. of Houston.

Gowns of midnight blue velveteen were chosen for the bride's attendants, and styled in A-line silhouette. The moulded bodices had circlet necklines and brief shoulder coverage and ended at slipper length. Draped coifs of matching velveteen and long white glace gloves completed their costumes. They carried bouquets in different flowers in chartreuse color, cascading down the front of their gowns.

The bride's mother wore a pale blue beaded floor length gown featuring high neckline, elbow sleeves with white kid long gloves and empire waist. She wore a white orchid in her hair. The groom's mother wore a mauve alaskine with crystal beading around the neck and empire waist. She carried a nosegay or purple violets.

Harry Dickson Hopson, Jr. served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Fred Arrington Wolcott, Jr. brother of the bride, Mr. Wm. Lester, Jr., Mr. Justin C. White, Mr. August C. Bering, Mr. Thee Chuck Kimball, Mr. H. Markley Crosswell, III, Mr. Michael Herbert Allen, and Mr. Steven Lee Berry, all of Houston. Ushers were Mr. Daniel Duncan Neblett of Houston, and Mr. Donald B. Dyer of Memphis, Tenn.

A reception was held at Lakeside Country Club immediately following the ceremony. The club was decorated with tall arrangements of flowers all in the chartreuse color and brass candle sticks. Mrs. Joseph Rentz presided.

For her wedding trip, to Mexico City and Acapulco, Mexico, the bride chose a tope and light blue wool costume with tope accessories.

They are at home at 1509 South Post Oak Ln. Houston.

The bride attended Greenbrier College, Lewisburg, West Va., and Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, La. She was social chairman of Delta Delta Delta sorority and presently is bridal director of Neiman-Marcus in Houston. The groom is a 1964 graduate of the University of Texas, and will graduate in 1967 from University of Houston Law School, where he is house manager of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

TO WED — Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Hayes, 3612 Avenue V, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lynda Kay of Lubbock, to Mr. Glen Upchurch of Lubbock. The couple will exchange vows on December 30th in the First Methodist Church at Jal, N.M. They will make their home at 3513 Forty-ninth Street, Lubbock, where Mr. Upchurch is country circulation manager of the Avalanche Journal.

Fallen Souffle

2 tablespoons butter
2½ cups pared tart green apples (2 to 3 medium) sliced paper-thin
4 large eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
Grated rind of ½ lemon
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ cup commercial sour cream
2 tablespoons each fine dry bread crumbs and sugar mixed with 1½ teaspoons cinnamon
¾ cup heavy cream whipped until stiff with 3 tablespoons sugar and 1 teaspoon vanilla

In a 10-inch skillet over low heat, melt the butter; mix in apples. Cover and cook, stirring a few times, until slices are tender but hold their shape — 5 to 10 minutes. Remove from heat and uncover; reserve. In a medium mixing bowl, beat egg whites and salt until foamy: gradually beat in ¼ cup of the sugar: continue to beat if necessary until whites hold stiff straight peaks. Without washing beater, in another medium mixing bowl, beat yolks until thickened and lemon color; gradually beat in the remaining ¼ cup sugar; mixture should be thick and ivory color. Add flour, lemon rind, lemon juice and sour cream; beat until smooth, scraping bowl with spatula a few times. Add apples, scraping in butter from skillet. Fold in beaten whites. Turn into well-buttered oblong ovenglass 1½-quart baking dish (10 by 6 by 2 inches). Sprinkle with breadcrumbs mixture. Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven until puffed, brown (and slightly cracked — 30 minutes. Souffle will sink just before or after removal from oven. Cool. Chill. At serving time, cover chilled souffle with the whipped cream. Makes 6 servings.

Television By Laser Wave Has Become A Reality

EDITOR'S NOTE — It's a light beam, it's a laser, it's super, man. The laser beam, says the scientists, may soon bring live TV from outer space, watch astronauts at work and beam back "information sandwiches" of color, sound, and instrument readings.

By RALPH DIGHTON
Associated Press Science Writer

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP) — A light beam three inches wide spiked through the night between hilltops four miles apart.

It looked solid enough, as light beams go, but it was literally chopped into bits — 30 million times a second — and each bit was a tiny part of a television picture.

The transmitter, on one hill, was a powerful new source of light called a laser. The receiver, on the other hill, was a device like a telescope, with a mirror at its base to reflect the chopped-up light signals into electronic tubes that converted them into images.

They added up to a breakthrough in communications that some day may lead to live, home-quality television between earth and other planets.

Television by light waves instead of radio waves, long a dream of space scientists, has become a reality in experiments at Hughes Aircraft Co. laboratories.

Their laser television system, now being tested at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, Tex., is one of several under study as a way of giving physicians and engineers on earth a constant visual check on astronauts and their instruments.

Hughes engineer Charles V. Smith says laser television is better than radio television in space because its energy is concentrated in a narrow beam — not broadcast in all directions — and thus provides a stronger signal over extreme distances.

Also, he says, "light waves are much shorter than radio waves, so a light beam can be chopped into smaller pieces, each carrying a distinct bit of information needed to reconstruct an image."

Mariner 4 radioed pictures of Mars across 134 million miles in July 1965, but the signals that made up the black and white dots in the images came in at a rate of only 8 1-3 bits of information per second. It took eight hours for enough of these bits to come in to construct one crude picture.

If a laser television system had been available, Smith says, the bits would have streamed in at a rate of 30 million a second and the pictures would have been reproduced instantly with quality as good as that on a home television set.

Lasered light gets its strength — it can be concentrated enough to burn holes in metal — from the way it is generated. Instead of radiating from its source in all directions as ordinary light and radio waves do, lasered light waves travel in a narrow beam. They bounce back and forth inside a tube until they straighten out in almost parallel waves, and this is the way they leave the tube — in a straight, tight-packed beam.

Because this beam does not scatter, Smith says, "more energy hits the receiver from a given distance." His team has developed a way of modulating, or putting information into, a laser beam by twisting it slightly to right or left 30 million times a second. This is done electronically, by passing it through crystals.

A twist in one direction means the figure "1," a twist in the other direction means "0" in computer language, various combinations of 1's and 0's mean numbers.

In transmitting a picture, numbers are given to the various shades of gray that make up the photograph. A low number, such as 35, means light gray. A high number like 60 means dark gray.

By twisting the laser beam left and right in a certain sequence it is chopped into tiny slices of information — 1's and 0's — which at the receiving end can be converted into numbers which in turn make up the shaded gray dots of a picture.

All this can be done so fast that a continotsly changing picture — live television — appears on the monitor screen.

One laser beam can carry many types of signals. Some are video signals, which can be turned into color as well as black and white pictures. Others may be signals which can be converted into sound, still others may represent information about temperatures and pressures in instruments aboard a spacecraft.

All can be sandwiched — slices of video signals followed by slices of sound signals followed by temperature signals, etc. — in one beam. One laster beam can be modulated to carry dozens of different kinds of information "sandwiches" — all moving at the 186,000-mile-a-second speed of light.

Lasers work best in space because light waves are distorted by atmosphere and blocked by clouds.

Smith foresees the day when ships far out in space will be able to talk to each other by laser beams millions of miles beyond the range of radios. If they want to talk to earth, he says, they will train their laser beams on communications satellites which can convert lasered information into radio waves for relay to earth stations.

Hitting an earth satellite with a narrow beam from Mars would be a delicate engineering job — but not quite as difficult as it sounds.

Tight-packed as they are, laser beams still spread gradually over long distances. A four-inch beam leaving Mars would expand to about 200 miles in diameter by the time it reached earth — and any part of it that hit a receiving telescope would carry the needed information.

Direct communication between satellites and earth stations by laser is possible, but only in good weather. That's why Smith envisions continued use of conventional microwave radio for use wherever atmosphere might interfere.

India Officials Widen Ban On Slaughter

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The slaughter of cows, sacred to Hindus, has been forbidden by the Indian government in the Delhi capital district and the former Portuguese enclaves of Nagar Haveli and Dadra.

Tens of thousands of Hindus seeking a nationwide ban rioted Nov. 7 in New Delhi, burning and looting buildings. Eight persons were killed and 500 hurt.

Eleven of India's 17 states have a slaughter ban.

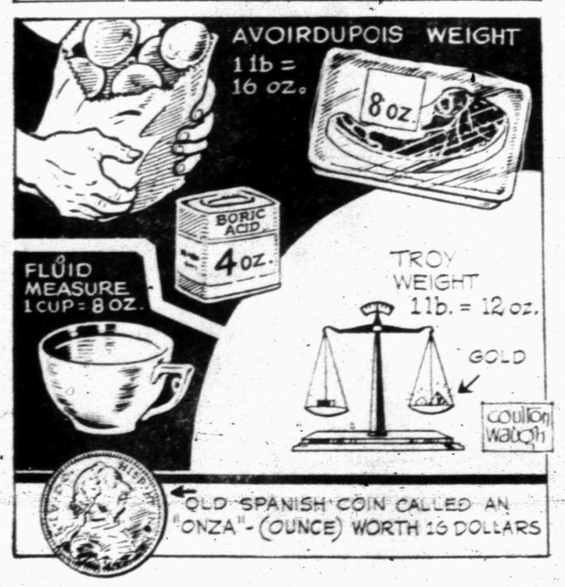
A Junior Editors Quiz About WEIGHTS



QUESTION: Why is pound written lb. and ounce oz.

* * *

ANSWER: Early in English history a standard pound weight was established. In old documents, often written in Latin, the Latin word libra was used for pound, and this became shortened to lb. This abbreviation then became used when writing in English. Oz. for ounce comes from an old Spanish coin, the dubloon, which had the value of 16 dollars and was widely circulated and used at one time by people in many countries. This coin was often referred to as a "Spanish ounce." The Spanish word for ounce being onza, the abbreviation oz. became used for ounce.

Today, avoirdupois weight is used for weighing most commodities. It has 16 ounces to the pound. Sometimes, fractions of a pound are used instead of ounces, as a bag of apples might weigh 2-1/2 lbs. For measuring fluids, 2 cups equal 1 pint, 2 pints equal 1 quart, and 4 quarts equal 1 gallon. Jewelers use troy weight, with 12 ounces to the pound, for weighing precious metals. The metric system is used by druggists when they compound prescriptions.

FOR YOU TO DO: Check on some food items in your local store to see how the weights are written on the packages.

Offer Canadian Meat Pie On Christmas Eve

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Assoicated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY — When my mother and father first moved to northern Vermont, the day before Christmas a neighbor appeared at our door, stomping off the huge clouds of snow that clung to his knee-high boots. "Trifle chill this morning," was his greeting. (It was 35 degrees below chilly!) Then he offered us a carefully held package: 'Here's a little something my wife made for you people."

The little something turned out to be wonderful eating new to us. It was a Canadian Meat Pie popular in that little Vermont town close to the Canadian border.

Our neighbor went on to tell us why he had brought the pie this day: "On Christmas eve, after we come home from midnight services, we always have this pie along with dill pickles. The pickles cut the richness. My wife says be sure to heat the pie before you eat it."

It was hearty and delicious, that pie. Made with pork, potatoes, onions, sage. And spices cinnamon and cloves. A compact meat filling between an extra-flaky crust. After that first tasting, my mother always served the pie on Christmas eve and often through the winter. Along with a green salad and a fruit dessert, it makes a lovely supper.

But I must warn you that after chatting with a number of Vermont neighbors, Mother discovered that there are several ways to fill this pie - and each has its advocate. Here's the recipe our family settled on. I hope your readers like it. -Miss M.

DEAR READERS This pie is good! Not only because along with a salad it makes a rib-sticking main course for a meal, but because it's so simple to serve. Any cook who wants to make life easier for herself can use it for informal entertaining. Leave the fine china in the cupboard for another occasion. When you offer this pie, forget dishwashing. Have on hand some of the attractive paper plates, cups and napkins so widely available nowadays. All you'll have to "clean up" is a pie plate, a salad bowl and forks. -C. B.

CANADIAN MEAT PIE

3 pounds fresh lean pork, ground
2 large onions, thinly sliced (about 2 cups)
6 medium potatoes, finely diced (about 6 cups)
2 cups water
2 teaspoons salt
1-½ teaspoons sage
½ teaspoon each cinnamon and cloves
Flaky pastry for two 9-inch 2 crust pies

Bring to a boil then simmer the pork, onions, potatoes and water for 1 hour. Pour off liquid and any excess fat. Return 1 cup liquid to meat mixture. Add seasonings and mix well; cool. Divide mixture in half and place in two 9-inch pie plates lined with pastry (thicker than ⅛ inch). Cover with top crust; flute and seal edges. Cut vents in top for steam. Bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven for 30 minutes. Serve at once or refrigerate or freeze and reheat

Stuffing green peppers? Before you do so, cut a slice from the stem end of each and scoop out the seeds. (Chop the good part of the slice and use in a salad.) Cover the peppers with boiling water and boil for two minutes, then drain upsidedown. After stuffing, the peppers will need about three-quarters hour in a moderate oven.

MERRY CHRISTMAS AND HAPPY NEW YEAR

Canned Gravy Sauces Holiday Gourmet Fare

This is the time of the year to serve foods that are delightfully different. So treat holiday brunch or late supper guests to a gourmet favorite, Creamed Sweetbreads.

Though sweetbreads have a reputation as elegant eating, many a good cook bypasses the "misunderstood" meat. No need to — they're actually easy to prepare, luscious to eat. The secret to sweetbreads is that after you buy them, don't dawdle! Sweetbreads are at their peak when they're fresh, fresh, fresh. So soak them; then cook the ever - so - tender morsels (they're the thymus glands of veal, lamb, or beef) immediately — and gently.

Finally, saute cooked sweetbreads and sliced mushrooms in butter, then veil with velvet-smooth canned chicken gravy that has been holiday "cheered" with a splash of Sherry. Heat gently and serve over toast points. That's sophisticated, superlative eating!

Remember all four canned gravies (beef, mushroom, and giblet in addition to chicken) as holiday cooking short - cuts. Whether it's party or family fare you're preparing, canned gravies, conveniently add a special touch.

CREAMED SWEETBREADS

1 pound sweetbreads, cooked and cut up
1 cup sliced mushrooms (about 4 ounces)
Generous dash crushed thyme
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (10¾ ounces) chicken gravy
3 tablespoons Sherry
Grilled toast points
Chopped parsley

In skillet, brown sweetbreads and cook mushrooms with thyme in butter. Add gravy and Sherry. Heat; stir now and then. Serve with toast; garnish with parsley. Makes 4 servings.

1¼ cups sugar
5 eggs
1½ cups evaporated milk, undiluted

1 cup canned pumpkin

Add remaining ¾ cup sugar and the remaining ingredients; stir until smooth. Pour over coating in pan. Bake in a pan of hot water that comes halfway up flan pan, in a 350-degree oven until a silver knife inserted in center comes out clean — about 1¼ hours. Cool; chill. Loosen sides of pudding. Gardener's Corner

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

FOR CHRISTMAS, your gardening friends, young, old and in between, will enjoy a new package containing a bright concept in starting plants from seeds.

This gift item is (George W. Park's) One-Step Seed Starter. The package contains plastic trays, 48 pellets that are a seed-flat, pot, sowing and growing medium with fertilizer in one. There also will be a marking pencil, plastic identification tags, a heating cable and a packet of fertilizer.

Add water to the thin wafer that is two inches in diameter. It will expand quickly into a two-inch pot filled with an efficient weed and disease-free growing medium for starting seed for later planting in larger containers or outdoors.

The roots grow right through the plastic netting around the wafer. You can plant the whole unit in the garden and the plant will grow there without transplanting shock.

A dozen pellets will soak up 1½ pints of water in their expansion.

Small seeds placed in the pot need not be covered. Larger seeds should be pressed into the peat moss of the pot and covered lightly with the peat.

The trays may be kept on a sunny window sill or beneath a fluorescent lamp.

The heating cable provides the warmth needed to get seeds started. The cable strands are spread evenly under the trays, and removed after seedlings have emerged.

If you start seeds in the tiny pots, sow a few in each pot and thin as they grow, transferring the surplus to extra pellets.

The National Chrysanthemum Society reports that an insecticide solvent is being used to remove the side buds on chrysanthemum plants. U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists said they found that if the solvent, a naphtalene-base oil, was applied in just the right time and amount the terminal flower was not affected, but the lateral buds abort.

This is what produces the big football mums now developed by nipping buds by hand.

The chemical, which needs more testing, does not work well with all varieties.

* * *

A good method of winter care of mums is to cut back the plant to about two inches above the ground after the first killing frost. Dig out the plants in clumps and move them to a cold frame.

Fill the openings between clumps with top soil, water well and cover the top of the cold frame with sash or glass panes. Evergreen boughs on top of the sash will help keep the soil frozen until spring.

If you prefer not to dig out the plants, cut back last season's growth to two inches after the ground has frozen. Cover the plants with four inches of marsh hay, straw or another coarse material that will permit air circulation. Do not use leaves or grass clippings that will pack solidly or decay easily. Remove the cover in the spring.

Stewardess Starts A Fan Club

NEW YORK (AP) — It's not only teen-agers who start fan clubs.

Miss Bonnie Blue Wright from Wilmington, Del., 23-year-old stewardess with strawberry blonde hair and gray eyes, has started one—for Hawaiian singer Don Ho.

Has she ever done anything like this before, or talked with anyone who started a fan club? No, she says, "I don't know what I'm getting into.

"But Don's the type that people want to do things for. Also, he's a fabulous entertainer."

Miss Wright first heard Don Ho when the charter airline for which she works sent her on some shuttle flights between Honolulu and New Zealand.

"I went to see his show practically every night and I was invited by a friend to a couple of his parties. I said to him, "It's a shame the East Coast doesn't know about you. What can I do? How about if I form a fan club for you?'

"He said he though the idea was just great."

Thirty stewardesses have become members of the fan club so far, and they intend to get their friends together and stage big welcome scenes whenever Ho arrives at an airport. They're currently revving up for his first New York engagement.

"He's not rock'n' roll," his fan club president asserts. "I think he stems from rhythm and blues. But all ages like him.

"My grandmother goes around humming his song, "Tiny Bubbles.' "

Coast-to-Coast NEWSPAPERS SELL THE MOST!

PLUM PUDDING from an old-time recipe, now brought up-to-date. Still as delicious as it was in great-grandmother's day!

It's Time To Make Plum Pudding

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

YES, PLUM PUDDINGS are a lot easier to concoct nowadays than they were once.

Listen to what a Vermont cook has to say about long-ago steamed suet pouddings:

In Vermont's early days, Great-grandmother often used vension suet in her plum pudding; nowadays we use veal kidney suet. She was likely to sweeten the pudding with maple sugar; now we often use brown sugar. Elderberry preserves probably went in; now we may add any heavyred fruit preserves - cherry, strawberry or plum. She often used dried wild plums instead of raisins, dried blueberries instead of currants. Pumpkin cooked in maple syrup substitued for citron; nowadays we're likely to add mixed glace fruits.'

Even though plum puddings call for a long list of ingredients, don't let that keep you from making this traditional holiday dessert for your family. The ingredients are all available at our wondrous supermarkets - shopping centers that we wager Grand-grandmother (whether she lived in Vermont or California) would have appreciated.

Our tasters like the plum pudding made from the following recipe because although the texture and flavor is good, it is not overly rich. This pudding cuts well, too - a fact any holiday hostess will appreciate.

Old-time cooks always made their plum puddings long before Christmas and kept them in "a cool place." Nowadays we, too, like to make plum pudding ahead and keep it in the refrigerator.

PLUM PUDDING

2 eggs
¼ cup brandy
½ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
2 cups soft breadcrumbs
1 cup finely ground veal-kidney suet, lightly packed
½ cup fine dry breadcrumbs
½ teaspoon each baking powder, baking soda and salt
1 teaspoon allspice
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
1-3 cup each raisins and currants, soaked in hot water (about 10 minutes) and drained
1-3 cup each diced pitted dates and mixed glace fruits
1-3 cup chopped pecans
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
Confectioners sugar
Marzipan Fruit for garnish, if desired.
Brandy Hard Sauce

In a large mixing bowl, beat the eggs slightly; add brandy and beat to combine. Stir in the brown sugar, soft breadcrumbs and suet: reserve.

In a medium mixing bowl, thoroughly stir together the dry breadcrumbs, baking powder, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add the raisins, currents, dates, glace fruits and pecans; toss until all fruit pieces are coated. Add to the suet mixture and mix well.

Thoroughly grease a 1-quart pudding mold and sprinkle with the granulated sugar. Spoon pudding mixture into mold; cover tightly. Steam for 3 hours or until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Place pudding in mold on a wire rack; uncover and let stand for 10 minutes. Loosen sides of pudding with a small spatula; turn out. (If pudding is made ahead, cool completely then cover tightly and refrigerate; to heat, replace pudding mold and steam about 1 hour.) To serve, sift a little confectioners sugar over top; garnish with Marzipan Fruit, if used; offer with Brandy Hard Sauce. Makes 8 servings.

How to steam: Place pudding in tightly covered mold on a rack in the bottom of a deep kettle. Add boiling water to half the depth of mold. Cover kettle tightly; adjust heat so water is at a steady low boil during steaming period; replenish water about halfway through steaming period if necessary.

BRANDY HARD SAUCE

1-3 cup soft butter
1 cup confectioners sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons brandy

In a small mixing bowl with an electric beater or a wooden spoon thoroughly beat together the butter and confectioners sugar. Beat in the vanilla, then gradually the brandy. Cover and chill. Makes 1 cup.

1 cup sugar
1 ½ cups soft bread crumbs
2-3 cup finely ground veal kidney suet, firmly packed
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
1 cup coarsely grated peeled tart apple

On wax paper, sift together the flour, baking soda and salt. In a saucepan, gently heat the figs and milk for about 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. In a large bowl, beat eggs to combine yolks and whites; gradually stir in the sugar, crumbs, suet, orange rind, apple, sifted ingredients and hot fig-milk mixture; thoroughly spoon-mix. Turn into a greased and floured 2-quart mold; cover tightly; steam for 3 hours on a rack in a covered kettle with boiling water coming halfway up mold; keep water at a low boil and replace as necessary. Uncover; allow to stand for ½ hour before unmolding. Makes 12 to 16 servings. Serve hot with Foamy Sauce.
