New English Teacher Hired By High School

Mrs. Earlene Patterson was hired this week to be English and Spanish teacher in the high school, succeeding Leslie Woullard who is taking a position in Angelo State College.

Mrs. Patterson is receiving her Bachelor of Science degree this August from West Texas State University at Canyon. She has 29 semester hours of Spanish and 27 of English. She will move here soon from Amarillo.

This week, the high school math position remained to be filled on the faculty.

News of the Sick

Miss Ada Woullard fell at her home about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday and was taken by Sheppard ambulance to Shannon hospital where she is now in room 301.

Carey Salter, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Gene Salter, walked into a glass door at the Dudley residence Tuesday night, and received considerable injuries when it broke. She was taken to the Sonora hospital where she received emergency treatment which included 55 stitches. She was brought home around midnight and was reported improving satisfactorily the following day.

Shirley Hubble Is Now Much Improved

Shirley Hubble was reported much improved this week in the Sonora hospital where she has been confined since her injuries in the accident July 3rd. She is now up in a wheel chair part of the time, is allowed visitors, and is able to feed herself some of her meals.

Her family are continuing to stay with her and she is still receiving the nursing care, though not as intensively as in the first weeks.

Pre-School Program Set For This Fall

A pre-school program or kindergarten for pupils five years old will be held in the local school system this fall and continue through the ensuing 9-month term, it was announced this week by Supt. C. T. Humphries.

The program will be similar to the one held this summer for pupils who will enter the first grade in September.

The school trustees voted in a meeting Monday night to have a new long-term program beginning in the fall for those who are now five, and will be six on or before Sept. 1, 1968. The pre-school program will probably begin about Sept. 15th. Details about a teacher and classroom will have to be worked out in the near future.

Tentative plans call for the preschoolers to attend their school for half a day each school day.

New Vehicles For Month Of July

Walter Lee Wallis, 34, was elected Monday night by the school trustees to be new elementary principal, succeeding Frank Janes who resigned recently after serving in the job for a year.

Mr. Wallis has had eight years' experience teaching in the San Antonio schools. He is married and has two pre-school children. He and his family expect to move soon to the house being vacated by Mr. Janes.

Painting Under Way On Steel Lighting Towers

Earl Dean Clark, who recently completed the sixth and final steel lighting tower for the football field and delivered it to the site, was busy this week priming them. All six towers are laid out horizontally on steel drums for the painting and mounting of lighting units. It is expected that all towers may be painted by this week end.

Dixie Electric Co. of Odessa has been awarded the contract for the wiring.

It will take a tall derrick or crane to hoist the towers up for mounting on their foundations.

Revival Scheduled At Assembly Of God

The Rev. Bobby Boren, pastor of the Assembly of God church here in Eldorado, announces that a Revival will be held starting Sunday night at 7:30 and continuing through the following Friday.

Preaching will be by the Rev. Jack Hetzel of Brownwood. Rev. Hetzel served in the Armed Forces more than 20 years, during which time he was in Germany, Italy, France, Greece, Japan and Korea. He ministered in those countries.

He is now retired from the Army. He received French cross of the war, WW 2 European ribbon with five bronze stars for five major battles, Good Conduct ribbon with three clasps, WW 2 victory ribbon, Occupation of Germany, Korean Service Ribbon and Korean Occupation Ribbon, and Presidential Unit Citation.

He served four years under Missionary appointment to the U. S. Forces personnel in Europe. He has preached in churches across the United States from California to New York.

Rev. Hetzel will be accompanied here by Mrs. Hetzel. They have two married sons.

The Ed Meador family left Monday to spend a few days in Colorado on vacation.

Mrs. Sherwood Barker and daughter, Jamie Lyn, visited here with relatives this week while Mr. Barker was attending the State Coaching School. The family moved recently from Dickinson to Abilene.

Revival Continuing At First Methodist Church

DR. LOWELL RYAN

The Revival services which started Monday at the First Methodist church are continuing this week.

At the first meeting Monday night, the Rev. and Mrs. Harold Goodenough of Sonora were present. Rev. Goodenough is serving the Sonora church while Rev. Ross Welch is in Europe.

The first of the breakfast meetings was held Tuesday morning in the educational building with 35 attending.

The 7:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m. meetings are being conducted through this Friday.

Rev. Dempsey Salter, pastor, and his co-workers invite everyone to the remaining services at the church this week.

Mrs. Lester To Move To Colorado City

Mrs. Beula Lester and daughter Bunny were making plans this week to move soon to Colorado City where Mr. Lester was transferred by Standard of Texas a number of weeks ago.

The Lesters are renting their house in Glendale to Norman Roberts, who is coming on the job as new assistant high school coach.

Post Script

With all these reports of negro riots and violence, it may be revealing to learn what some of the older members of that race in these small towns think of the situation. Evidently they want no part in it, as evidenced by the remark of an old trustworthy colored woman to her employer. "The colored folks never did give no trouble until this 'irrigation' came along."

From another vacationer we receive this word:

"We are at Mount Vernon today and sure seeing a lot of beautiful scenery. Hope all there are well."

—Sybil Kinser.

When Lovie Green moved to East Texas last month she took out a subscription to the Success before leaving. Naturally we did not get the correct address first time, and she wrote this week to say she finally got three papers all at one time. Address has been corrected to read: 932 Dodson Drive, Crockett, Texas.

The 22nd annual membership meeting of the Southwest Texas Electric Co-Op will be held Tuesday on the courthouse lawn, with hundreds of members and guests expected to be on hand.

Barbecue will be served at 6:00 p.m. with county 4-H boys and girls assisting Orland Harris with the serving of the meal. A year ago, about 900 people were served and about the same sized crowd is expected for this year. With the fences down from the courthouse grounds, extra tables will be in place.

There will be many Co-Op members on hand who will report having attended the 21 previous meetings; this meeting is always a highlight of the summer here in Eldorado.

The nominating committee has put up R. A. Harrell of Ozona and Jeff Owens of Sheffield for reelection to new three-year terms on the board of directors.

Hold-over directors are W. W. Sheen, Frank Bond, Peyton Cain, J. M. Christian, and Joe D. Strauss.

Following the barbecue Tuesday evening, there will be entertainment from 7:00 to 7:30 p.m., and a business meeting from 7:30 to 8:00 p.m. After the business meeting, door prizes will be given away.

This, the 22nd Co-Op meeting, finds construction going on all over the area served, for oil wells, water wells, ranch houses, and large power loads which are now called for at some installations. Most activity is centered in Schleicher and Crockett counties at this time, it was pointed out by Manager Don McCormick.

This year, the Co-Op has 2470 miles of line energized, compared with 2392 a year ago. There are now 2615 meters, and there were 2504 a year ago.

Other statistics of interest include, from 1965 to 1966, kilowatt hours purchased rose from 23,787,039 to 32,656,129. Principal paid REA rose from $112,699 to $196,736.

Drive-In To Close Out Season Aug. 19th

Delbert and Imogene Edmiston have announced plans to terminate the current summer season of their Eagle Drive-In Theatre on Saturday, August 19th.

So there will be just about two more weeks of movies to be shown before the drive-in closes for the year. Declining attendance along with other forms of local entertainment, and the late starting hour caused by daylight saving time were all factors cited by the Edmistons for the earlier-than-usual closing this year.

Football Season Tickets Go On Sale Monday

Guy Whitaker, high school principal, announced this week that season tickets for the five home football games will go on sale Monday in his office. Prices will be $7.50 each, same as last year.

The initial sale will be conducted for two weeks and holders of season tickets from last year will have option of buying their same reserved seats. On the 21st, unsold reserved seats go on sale to the general public.

The Golden Cranes come here Sept. 15th for the first home game of the '67 season.

Dr. Ryan Addresses Lions Club Meeting

Dr. Lowell Ryan, who is conducting the Revival this week at the Methodist church, was the guest speaker at the meeting yesterday of the Eldorado Lions club. He was introduced by the Rev. D. G. Salter, pastor of the church.

"By This Method, Conquer" was theme of Dr. Ryan's address. He discussed formula for success as including being willing to face the facts, standing upon fixed principles, and being willing to experiment with new ideas. His address was well received by all present.

C. T. Humphries presided. Guests were introduced by Lion Tamer P. S. Dudley. In addition to Dr. Ryan, guests were Buddy and Mark Calk.

At the beginning of the meeting, Joe Christian led in singing of "America" accompanied by Mrs. Oison at the piano. L. D. Mund led flag salute, and Fred Watson gave the invocation.

Walls have been framed up on the public housing units being just north of the First Christian church.

Once Again Inflation?

The U.S. economy's growth rate may have slowed down for the time, but inflation could once again become a problem later this year. I suspect we'll see a recurrence of last year's cycle, with the result that the President's request for a 6% surcharge on income taxes may be enacted, after all. We may also see another reversal of monetary policy, with a return to tight money and higher interest rates.

First quarter results would indicate that those economists who have been predicting a recession this year are wrong. The increase in Government spending in the first three months of the year, the minimal decline in capital spending, and the rise in consumer outlays all give evidence of this. Retail sales provided the "real evidence" of a turnaround in consumer spending and retail sales in March set a record, despite depressed new car sales.

Those who have been predicting a recession have either underestimated or disregarded two important facts: The tremendous built-in demand factor which can have a dramatic effect on the stock market and the political situation. With the election coming up next year, the Administration will do whatever appears necessary (in terms of manipulating monetary and fiscal policies) to make sure that the economy is on an "uptick"—at least by the end of this year.

The enormous potential of demand was the principal moving force behind the record rate at which inventories were worked off in the first quarter. In the three-month period, inventories dropped to an annual rate of $5.5 billion from $16.4 billion in the final quarter of 1966, a record breaking swing of nearly $11 billion.

AND EVERY YEAR THEREAFTER . . .

All Voters Must Register For Next Year's Election

Austin, Texas.—State Supreme Court has ruled that the constitutional amendment requiring annual voter registration in Texas is valid.

AFL-CIO challenged the amendment. They contended that voters did not get "fair notice" that the amendment provided for annual registration.

State labor officials pledged to take the issue to the highest federal court.

State Supreme Court agreed with ruling of the Third Court of Civil Appeals that the amendment approved by Texans last year—to abolish the poll tax as a requirement for voting and substitute annual sign-up should stand. There was no opinion. Appellate judges had reversed the trial court finding.

Austin District Judge Herman Jones agreed that the full purpose of the amendment was not adequately described in the proposition on the ballot. It stated only that the poll tax would be knocked out as a voting requirement. Last April Court of Civil Appeals said it was unlikely any voter, in view of widespread publicity given the issue, failed to understand what he was voting on.

Roy Evans, Secretary-Treasurer of Texas AFL-CIO, said the State Supreme Court will be asked for a rehearing. If that is rejected, a hearing will be requested before the U. S. Supreme Court.

Meanwhile, Texas election machinery and voter registration for the big 1968 election year will proceed under annual sign-up law as amended this year.

All voters, including those who live in cities under 10,000 population, must register between October and January.

In other cases, the State Supreme Court:

—Left standing lower court decisions refusing cash judgments to two parties to the collapse of Billie Sol Estes' fortunes. Case originated in Pecos District Court.

—Reversed Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals and sustaining district court in holding that 49 strikers against the Shamrock Oil and Gas Corporation in 1964 could draw unemployment benefits due to circumstances of their joblessness. (Strikers had offered to return to work.)

—Upheld Third Court of Civil Appeals' ruling that State Savings and Loan Commissioner was justified in denying a branch office application for downtown Houston of the Gibraltar Savings Association.

Attorney General Rules

Oil and gas produced on federal land at Corpus Christi Naval Air Station are subject to state production and pipeline taxes (except for 16 2/3% payable as royalty to the U. S.), Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has held.

In other opinions, Martin has concluded that:

—A $1.5 million appropriation to construct protective devices at railroad grade crossings is constitutional.

—If a county commissioner is a director and stockholder in a bank desiring to receive bond issue funds, the county commissioners court does not have authority to designate that bank as a county depository.

Highways

As July began, the State Highway Department had $618,899,810 worth of highway construction under contract. During June, contractors were paid $35,802,146 for work completed.

In 1919, only $273,000 was spent for road construction.

Welfare

An audit of the State Department of Public Welfare reveals that $461 million in federal and state money was used in Texas during the two years ending last August 31 on welfare programs.

Rate was $120 million last year, of which $168,620,302 was in direct grants to the needy aged, blind, children and disabled, plus $41,431,797 for medical care for the needy aged. While aid to dependent children and those who are permanently disabled continues to rise, training programs are reducing the amount of aid needed by blind persons.

Distribution of surplus commodities also is handled by this department. In two years, 45 million pounds of flour, 19 million pounds of corn meal and 17 million pounds of dry milk were distributed to needy families from federal surpluses. However, the amount distributed is declining as the government stockpiles are used up and high employment is reducing the number of needy families. Payroll and other administrative costs for giving away $215 million came to $12,708,278.

Screwworm Report

Between May 28 and July 1, some 19 cases of screwworms were confirmed in Texas.

To prevent spread of the disease, Screwworm Eradication Program planes recently released 757,780,000 sterile screwworm flies in Texas. Some 106,144,000 were dropped over Trans-Pecos and the Valley portions of Texas.

Higher Rates Authorized

Texas Railroad Commission has authorized higher rates for shipments of household goods by specialized carriers. No increase was allowed in packing charges, which had been requested by the van lines.

Rate changes, based on averages of 7,600 shipments, come to 17.3% higher than present rates.

However, larger shipments are actually less and smaller shipments are more.

New rates will take effect on August 5.

Coleman Park Grant Approved

City of Coleman will receive a $124,810 federal grant to help develop a 139-acre park site at Coleman Lake, 14 miles north of the city.

Grant is under the federal land and water conservation fund program.

City will put up an equal amount to landscape the area and provide boat ramps, picnic units, camping sites, trailer units, playground, swimming beach, fishing piers, concession building, bath house, restroom and necessary utilities.

Short Snorts . . .

Secretary of State John L. Hill, who becomes chief election officer of Texas under a new law effective August 28, has called a statewide conference on recent election law changes for Oct. 27.

State Water Pollution Control Board approved application of Orange for a permit to replace Simmons Drive Sewage treatment plant with another and increase amount of treated sewage discharged into the Sabine River.

Texas Banking Commissioner announced applications for Duncanville (Dallas County) State Bank and Valley Bank of El Paso charters.

Construction men, landscape architects, and State Board of Control gardeners have started the big job of tearing up the lawn and parking pavilion of the Governor's Mansion to transform it into a $150,000 formal garden—a real coup for Mrs. John Connally and the 38,000 members of Texas Garden Clubs who are making the Mansion Garden their major project.

Value of building permits issued in Texas during June fell 4% according to UT's Bureau of Business Research.

Texas Water Development Board and Texas Water Rights Commission authorized the Sabine River Authority of Texas to issue an additional $4 million in revenue bonds to help pay for the Texas half of the Toledo Bend Reservoir.

Texas is the 33rd state to ratify an agreement with Interstate Commerce Commission to help each other enforce state and federal highway transportation laws.

'Nevada Smith' Is a Western In Color

Steve McQueen plays the title role in Nevada Smith, from the novel, "The Carpetbaggers." The western in color comes to the Eagle Drive-In Theatre screen this Friday and Saturday nights.

As an illiterate western youth named Nevada Smith, McQueen finds his white father brutally murdered, and Indian mother skinned by three saddle tramps.

He burns his home, and the bodies, to the ground, and then sets off on a lifetime search for vengeance on the unknown, but briefly seen, trio.

Brian Keith, as the elder Jonas Cord (who later was to spawn Jonas Jr. as unsavory hero of The Carpetbaggers) befriends the boy in the wilderness, teaching him how to fast-draw and draw first.

The elder Jonas Cord, most interesting character in the picture, is played by Brian Keith with depth. He pleads with McQueen to give up his vendetta, but he might as well be talking to a dummy, which McQueen periodically resembles. McQueen's odyssey takes him from one horrible frontier town to another until he encounters Enemy No. 1, Martin Landau and worthy of a better role. Landau almost carves McQueen to ribbons but gets sliced up instead.

McQueen is nursed back to health by an Indian girl, Janet Margolin.

In scenes filmed in the bogs of Louisiana, McQueen gets himself sentenced to a term in prison camp to be within killing distance of Enemy No. 2, played by Arthur Kennedy. Suzanne Pleshette, enticing even in her homespun as a Cajun charmer, helps him escape and to gun down his man.

McQueen is pretty well gone over by a passel of hoodlums when rescued by a mission priest (Raf Vallone). He is begged again to give up revenge and to turn the other cheek. Eventually, this sermon "takes." McQueen gives up his third man, Malden, but not until he has rendered Malden fairly inactive with blast at one hand and both legs.

McQueen forswears his avenged and hunts up the now affluent Jonas Cord, who had promised him a job.

Nevada Smith is a long and sprawling Western in which the veteran director, John Hathaway, must have shared production. At times, as when McQueen knives it out with Landau, the staging of action is firm.

Maharis Poses a Legal Question

An interesting legal question is posed by A Covenant With Death, the film to be shown in color Wednesday and Thursday nights of next week at the Eagle Drive-In.

"Is a man guilty of murder when he kills the hangman while trying to escape execution for another slaying he did not commit?"

This is the problem which confronts George Maharis as the young judge in a mythical Southwestern town called Soledad. He answers the question by ruling that "an innocent man has the right of self-defense against a society that has been mistaken, including the obligation to save his own life."

The only trouble with this central theme is that in the course of the motion picture's 96-minute running time it becomes sidetracked by various digressions, particularly the romantic entanglement of the youthful judge.

A Covenant With Death is based on the novel by Stephen Baker, which was both a best seller and a Book-of-the-Month selection. Lamont Johnson is the director, making his film bow after attaining considerable notice in stage and television productions. Larry Marcus and Saul Levitt wrote the screenplay.

Maharis as the young judge proves that his decision to break with a successful TV series (Route 66) was a wise one as he continues to improve his acting skill. Earl Holliman, another television veteran, portrays with strong emphasis the wrongfully accused man who must face two murder trials. Arthur O'Connell, an older judge; Katy Jurado, the mother of the young judge, and Wende Wagner, a brunet wig covering her Nordic tresses, all give convincing performances. Others such as Sidney Blackmer, the town patriarch; Laura Devon, another of Maharis' love interests, and John Anderson, the prosecutor, fail to rise to the needs of their roles.

A Covenant With Death turns time back to the 1920's and depicts in part the Anglo prejudices toward Latin Americans particularly strong in near-border towns of the Southwest during that era. This setting is important to the story, for Maharis is a mixture of both backgrounds—his father was Welsh and his mother Latin (Miss Jurado). It is interesting that he leaves the Anglo girl (Miss Devon) in order to seek the hand of a Latin lass (Miss Wagner) in a rather abrupt resolution of his romantic entanglements.

In a word: The legal question is a real poser.

Younger People Using Installment Credit

College Station, Tex.—Who uses installment credit? A popular reply is, "Who doesn't?" But Wanda Meyer, Extension home management specialist with Texas A&M University, reports figures indicating that some people are using it more than others.

Installment credit increased $3 billion in 1965, according to the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan. Mrs. Meyer explains that the major reason for this increase is a change in behavior on the part of people who can best afford to pay their debts.

Early in 1965, only 32% of families with $15,000 or more annual income owed installment debt, and only 11% owed in excess of $2,000. Early this year, 47% of this income group owed installment debt and 19% owed in excess of $2,000. Of those receiving $3,000 income or less proportion owing installment debt dropped from 28% in early 1965 to 23% in early 1966.

Use of installment credit is most frequent among young families and is infrequent among older units. A significant finding in 1966 was that only 58% of the families whose head was 18 to 24 years old owed installment debt, in contrast to 69% of those families in 1965. This drop in credit usage can be attributed mainly to the increase in the proportion of this group who were under 21 in 1966 and, therefore, not generally eligible for credit.

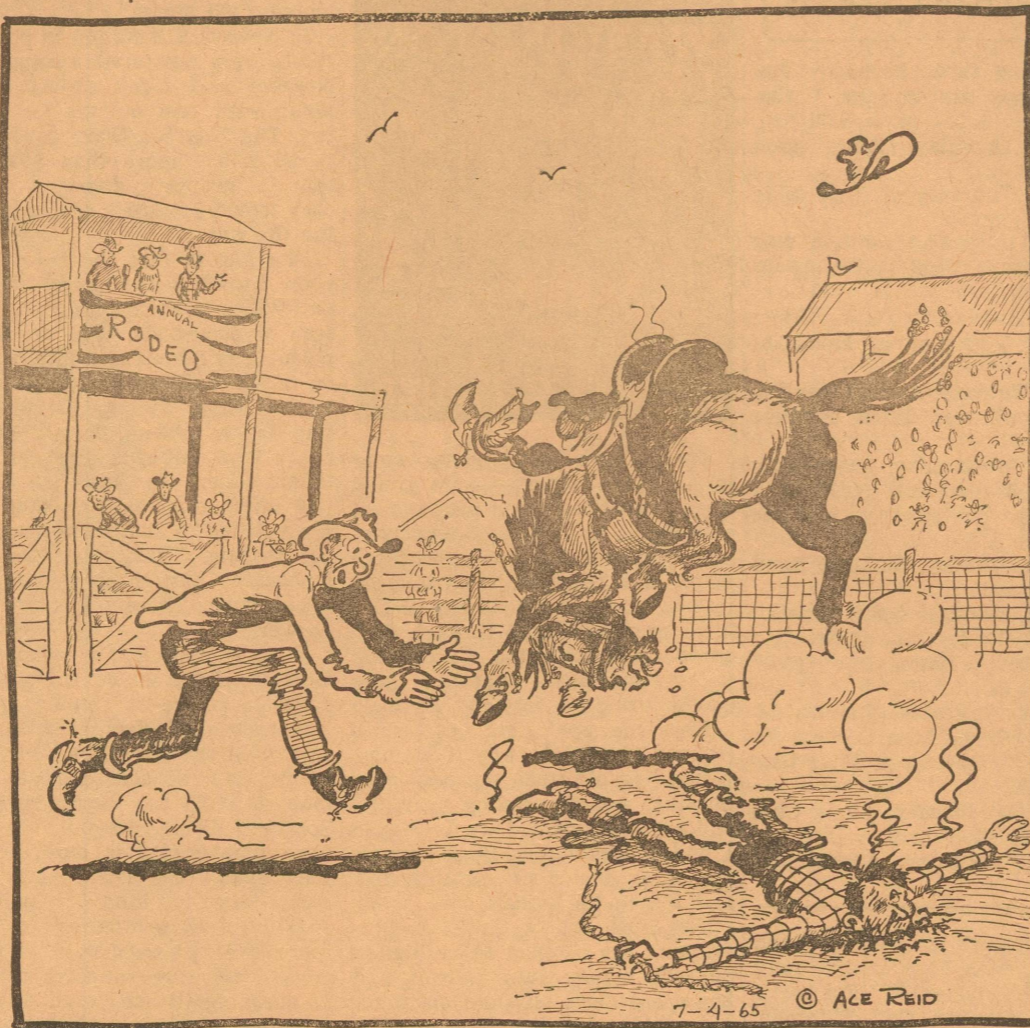

Among other findings of the Michigan survey of consumer finances was that the median amount of consumer installment debt rose from $780 in early 1965 to $850 in early 1966. They also learned that the ratio of aggregate debt repayments to disposable personal income moved up only slightly from 1964 to 1965.

Check Workmanship Of Dishes As You Buy

College Station, Tex.—If you're buying dinnerware, you may be wondering what to look for in workmanship. Jane Berry, extension housing and home furnishings specialist with Texas A&M University, says some quality features can be readily checked.

Colors should be even and decorative lines should be precise. Rims and edges should not be rough, warped or wavy. The foot and handle of the cup should be joined smoothly; tiny cracks at these points indicate weakness.

There should be no bumps, pits, blisters or tiny cracks (called crazing) in the glaze. A transparent glaze should be brilliantly clear so that colors come through in full strength. The dull matt and semi-matt glazes should not be muddy.

While checking quality, notice shapes and proportions. How does the cup balance in the hand? Is the handle comfortable to hold? How will the plates look with your other tableware?

Finally, take your time. Shop more than one store. Question salespeople freely, and ask for brochures on the lines that appeal to you.

If a bargain interests you more than best quality, take a look at the seconds usually sold in discount pottery shops at 10 to 60% below list prices for first quality. Most of these are of foreign origin since producers, at home and abroad, export their mistakes to protect domestic reputation for quality. In fact, manufacturers of fine china seldom imprint their names on defective pieces.

The fault may be an imperceptible warping of edges, an apparent discoloration, an error in the sequence of a design or some other similar failure in workmanship.

When a mistake occurs in a big way at an early stage, the producer may sell the dishes to a decorating company that copies famous dinnerware designs and resells the dishes to a retailer.

Once you get your dishes home, good care will prolong their life and good looks.

usually fatal. Infection can come from the horse stepping on a nail, receiving a puncture wound or laceration which might go unnoticed until the animal has a case of tetanus. An actual booster shot will maintain the horse's immunity.

And, it is just good management to keep a horse in top condition if he is to be the asset desired.

Mosquitoes are a problem in many parts of the county, and affect most everyone one way or another. They are a nuisance to both man and animal and some species transmit diseases such as malaria and yellow fever to man, encephalitis to man and horses and heartworms to dogs.

Mosquitoes breed from the spring season through to the fall months. Eggs are laid on water or in places that later become flooded, depending upon the species.

Home owners should take every precaution to prevent mosquito breeding on their premises by eliminating standing water.

Common problem areas include dripping outdoor faucets and leaky pipes, puddles resulting from evaporative cooler drainage and tin cans or other containers which may trap and hold even small quantities of water.

Proper use of insecticides around the home can be a big aid in mosquito control.

Good water management practices in irrigated sections of the county will also aid in controlling mosquitoes. Shallow, stagnant, & standing water with debris or floating vegetation makes an extremely favorable area for mosquito breeding.

Persons interested in additional information on mosquito control should contact their local Extension Service office for a copy of L-625.

Precise application of a specific amount of pesticide-chemical is an important factor affecting efficient and economical control of pests. Equipment in good working condition is essential.

The following check-list as a guide for efficient operation and maintenance of application equipment is suggested.

1. Begin with clean equipment. Residues on the spray rig can cause serious problems. To clean the rig, use a strong household detergent or an ounce of household ammonia per gallon of water. Fill tank to capacity and:

a. Make sure the pump is free to turn (not stuck) before running it on the tractor power take-off.

b. Run sprayer with cut-off valve to nozzles closed about five minutes.

c. Open cut-off valve to nozzles and drain as much as possible.

d. Rinse thoroughly with clean water.

e. Remove nozzles to clean tips and screens. (Never clean nozzle with knife or pin. The orifice can easily be deformed, changing the output and spray pattern.) Clean and lubricate pump.

f. Dispose of rinse water safely.

g. IMPORTANT: Equipment used to apply certain pesticides should not be used to apply others. EXAMPLE: Equipment used to apply 2, 4-d, 2, 4, 5-T and other hormone type herbicides should not be used for any other purpose, because of difficulty in removing all traces of the pesticide.

2. Check all hoses. Hoses in good condition save time and eliminate possible loss of spray load.

3. Use recommended screens. Check screens OFTEN to avoid clogged nozzles.

4. Use recommended nozzle types, and attach nozzles firmly, using the correct height and angle to insure proper application.

5. Calibrate the sprayer, and check each nozzle for uniformity of output.

6. Maintain a complete record of the operation.

7. Inform those working with the pesticide and others in the area of the precautions necessary in handling the material.

"I agree," said the psychiatrist, "that he may have a spark of genius, but in my opinion, he also may have ignition trouble."

Saddle horses, like humans, need periodic checkups if they are to stay healthy and intop performing condition.

Horsemen should check their mounts on such items as nutrition, condition of their teeth and feet and for external parasites. Then go to the veterinarian for a check-up to include internal parasites and an immunization program against the more common diseases of horses.

These include such diseases as strangles or distemper, tetanus, encephalomyelitis or sleeping sickness and equine influenza. The veterinarian can give advice on which vaccines to use and when and how often. Of primary importance is the time of the year and the repeat or follow-up of necessary injections to make the immunization program successful.

In the case of encephalomyelitis, it is a common practice to wait until a case is reported in the area before vaccinating. But this is an unwise practice, because the first case could be your horse.

Two injections of tetanus toxoid, given 4 to 8 weeks apart, will protect your horse for approximately one year from a disease that is

Our WASHINGTON Letter

By Congressman O. C. FISHER

The Newark-Detroit riots—worst in American history—are giving certain politicians and professional civil rights leaders some embarrassing moments.

In three years three major civil rights bills, all tailored to suit Martin Luther King & Co., have been bulldozed through Congress—each with the threat that unless promptly enacted there would surely be riots and violence!

Now the apologists are hard-pressed to explain why it all happened. The old stock excuses—poor housing, poverty, police brutality, and unemployment, have developed a hollow sound.

Yet, these excuses are being dusted off, embellished, and fed to the public once again.

The truth is that the U. S. Government has pumped $41-million in poverty money into Detroit and has spent more on slum clearance and public housing in that city, per capita, than in any other American city.

Yet Detroit Negroes burned down $200-million worth of buildings, caused 38 deaths, and looted 1200 stores.

In Newark $18-million in poverty funds were scattered among the Negroes and a few others there, along with vast outlays for housing. The Negroes there caused 34 to be killed, more than $100-million in property damage, and they looted hundreds of stores during the riot.

The fact is that the riots have been caused by the anarchists, the anti-White militants numbering in tens of thousands, who are irresponsible criminals and fatally bent on mischief.

Their leaders—Martin Luther King, Stokely Carmichael, Rap Brown, Adam Powell, and a few others—along with some politicians—seem to have convinced vast numbers of Negroes that they are entitled to something they are not getting.

Thus, the flames of mobocracy have been fanned into a holocaust. Therein lies the real answer.

What is needed is vigorous punishment of the guilty, a free hand given to police to employ relentless means of dealing with any who take the law into their own hands, and, of course, some new laws to avoid the impact of some Supreme Court decisions which have hampered law enforcement.

This nation has been on a civil rights binge too long. The political coddling and pampering of Negroes has only served to make them more demanding and more militant in pursuing ill-considered and unjustified demands.

It's time to lower the boom and crack the whip on those who violate our laws.

BOYER ELECTRIC NOW 21 YEARS OLD

Yes, it was back in August of 1946 that we set up our electrical service and appliance business, at about the time the first meeting of Southwest Texas Electric Co-Op was held. Large numbers of servicemen had returned from World War II which ended a year earlier, a new $100,000 hotel was proposed for Eldorado, and our post-war oil development was getting under way.

The past two decades have been good years for us, and we thank you, the public, for making it possible. We have enjoyed serving as your electrician, and Philco and Maytag appliance dealer.

We have progressed during the past 21 years, along with the Co-Op, and Eldorado and Schleicher county, and look forward to continued improvements in the years ahead.

CARD OF THANKS

Although we have no doctor or hospital, the response of neighbors and friends following my aunt's accident could not have been equaled. Mrs. Dockal and Paula were there within ten seconds after I called her; Mr. Jones, Mrs. Sanders, and Orval Edmiston were there in five minutes after being notified, as were Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard with the ambulance.

Their first aid probably saved my aunt's life. I wish to thank all those people for their promptness and their efficient first aid. Too, I want to thank Mr. Jack Jones for driving me to San Angelo and offering to help in any way they could. Their presence alone was stimulating and comforting.

Eldorado-Divide
Soil Conservation District News

The rains of July 18 brought new hope to farmers and ranchers in the Eldorado-Divide Soil & Water District. Field crops had already hurt from lack of moisture for several weeks. Most of the grass on rangeland was dry and getting shorter each day. The rain varied in amount from a good inch up to five inches.

In the area that received the best amount of rain, farmers and ranchers are still hoping they will get a good three or four inch rain real soon. How soon another rain will be needed where five inches was received, will depend on how much of the water was kept on the land for crop use. The amount of water received is not as important as how much was kept on the land for crop use.

The importance of keeping the water that is received from rainfall on the land where it falls so it can be used by crops, can not be over emphasized. This is easy to understand when we realize how little rainfall is received. From 1941 through 1966 the average yearly rainfall was 17.34 inches. The most received in any one year was 28.40 inches in 1957. The least amount in any one year was 7.40 inches in 1951. During these past 26 years there were 15 years below the 17.34 average.

There is no single soil, water and plant conservation practice that will hold all the water on the land where it falls and keep it for crop use. However, crop residues on cultivated land probably comes closer to doing this than any other conservation practice.

The use of good crop residues helps conserve soil and water from the time the rain begins until all the water has been used by plants. When the rain begins to fall a good cover of crop residue protects the soil from the direct force of raindrops. This prevents the topsoil from being displaced whereby it can be carried off the field by water. The residue acts as a holder or container to hold the water on the soil until it can be absorbed by the soil. Crop residues that are managed to leave most of it on top of the soil and part of it incorporated in the soil, helps speed up the process of getting the water in the soil. Inlets are farmed by crop residue particles and thereby the soil is held open to allow the water to go into the soil. When the water has gone into the soil, good crop residue continues to conserve the moisture for use by crops. Crop residue serves as an umbrella to protect the soil from the hot sunshine and dry winds that cause moisture loss by evaporation. By protecting the soil from the direct force of the wind, soil erosion by wind is prevented.

The benefits received from crop residue use are many. However, the cost of applying the much needed conservation practice is practically nothing. Good crop residue can be accomplished by leaving all the stubble from high residue crops on the land and managing the residue to attain the most benefit. Most of the crop residue should be left on top of the soil to attain maximum benefits. Crops should be rotated whereby the needed residue is on the land at all times for best protection. This is usually one year out of each three years to meet the minimum needs.

How much of the rainfall received would farmers be willing to lose either by runoff or evaporation? No doubt, from their actual experience, they would want to hold all the rain where it falls and conserve it all for crop use. To conserve the maximum amount of water received from rainfall, all the needed soil, water and plant conservation practices must be applied and maintained.

Assistance in planning and applying the needed conservation practices on all agricultural land can be received from the Soil Conservation Service. Cost share in applying the needed enduring type practices is available through the Great Plains Conservation Program, administered by the Soil Conservation Service, and from the Schleicher County A. S. C. office.
