Cotton Falls As Federal Estimate Shows Increase In Country's Production

Government's October Report Puts Yield At 11,425,000 Bales; Below 1931 Crop

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Good cotton weather in four states during September today brought a government estimate of an 11,425,000 bale crop, based upon October 1 reports. The cotton markets reacted with a decline which brought prices down as low as six and a half cents a pound.

This figure showed an increase of 15,000 bales, or one per cent above the September 1 forecast, but still was 5,671,000 bales below the huge 1931 crop.

The crop reporting board said, in commenting on the report, that since October 1 light frosts have occurred in parts of the cotton belt of which no account was taken in the estimate. It was added that except for the caprock section of Northwest Texas and limited areas along the northern edge of the belt, frost at this date would not necessarily result in materially lower yields.

Released simultaneously, a census bureau report showed 4,835,465 running bales of cotton ginned from the 1932 crop prior to October 1, compared with 5,409,657 for 1931 and 6,303,895 for 1930. This was favorably received as lower than expected and was credited with a partial recovery of prices in the day's late trading.

The condition of the crop on October 1 was reported at 54.2 per cent normal compared with 56.6 a month earlier and 69.3 on October 1 of last year. The ten year average from 1921 to 1930 was 52.8.

The department forecast an average yield as of October 1 of 149.3 pounds per acre, compared with 201.2 pounds in 1931 and a ten year average yield of 151.4.

The greater part of the increase during September was in Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Oklahoma, where the first three weeks

Mayor Clements also announced that the city was negotiating with a large engineering concern for the purchase of a water softener.

"The softener would make the city water as soft as rain water," he said. "And it would be put in on a 60-day trial test; if at the end of the 60 days the machine does not satisfy, we do not have to take it. It is guaranteed to have a

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Franklin D. Roosevelt did the first public baby kissing today that he has done in his campaign for the presidency.

As he presented a cup to little Joan Curran in a homecoming celebration at the Dutchess county fair grounds, the Democratic presidential nominee kissed the child. A moment later the crowd, which included 75 Vassar students, suggested that he also kiss the winner of a beauty contest. Miss Mary Louise Valentine of Little Rock, Ark., a Vassar student. The governor, smiling, declined.

Baby Joan was adjudged the healthiest of the babies entered in the contest.

Chicagoan Is Free On Bond

Martin Insull's Plea That He Is Sick Man Wins Freedom On Bond Of $50,000; State Gets A Set-Back

(By The Associated Press)

BARRIE, Ont., Oct. 8—Martin J. Insull's plea that he is a sick man and that it would be impossible for him to escape from Canada won him freedom in $50,000 bail today until a hearing on extradition proceedings that will determine whether he must return to Chicago to face an indictment for embezzlement and grand larceny growing out of the collapse of the Insull utilities empire.

The Chicagoan's plea was presented by J. C. McRuer, Toronto attorney, who submitted medical affidavits saying that if his client spent any more time in jail his health would suffer. Mr. Insull has been imprisoned since Thursday night.

The granting of bail was a setback for the prosecution. Edward Bayly, assistant attorney general of Ontario, appearing before Justice Dudley Holmes as special counsel for the state of Illinois, asserted that the court had exceeded its jurisdiction by liberating Mr. Insull. He was so determined in his opposition that he refused to have anything to do with fixing the amount of the security.

Walker Blames Ross For Brown Murder

Arguments Of Attorneys To Start Monday

Appearance Of Witness Comes As Surprise To Spectators Although It Is Expected By State Attorneys

Alibi Is Claimed

Says Ross Told Him Of Death Of Brown And Asked Advice On How To Get Out Of It; End Is Near

DECLARING that he was in Lubbock all during the night of May 30 when F. V. "Leather Hat" Brown, pioneer county stock farmer, was shot to death, Hugh Walker, charged in Brown's death, took the stand in his own behalf Saturday morning in his trial in 99th district court and laid the blame for the murder on G. A. Ross, chief prosecution witness.

Ross, Walker testified, told him all about the shooting several days after it occurred and asked his advice on "how to get out of it."

Comes As Surprise

Walker's testimony, although expected by the state, came as somewhat of a surprise to the courtroom which was crowded with spectators. His appearance on the stand practically completed the defense case, although a witness or two will be called when court convenes Monday morning.

Prosecution attorneys put Walker through stiff cross examination and brought out that he had been indicted four different times, twice for liquor law violation, once for "buying too many poll taxes" and once for murder.

Walker and Special Prosecutor J. E. Vickers snapped questions and answers at each other in cross examination.

Following rebuttal testimony scheduled sometime Monday, arguments will be started. The case is expected to be given the jury during Tuesday.

After testifying that he was playing dominoes in the lobby of the Commercial hotel when an ambulance siren broke up the game, Walker continued in his testimony under direction of Defense Attorney W. F. Schenck and told how he had learned details of the shooting from Ross, star state's witness who had been granted immunity for his testimony in the trials.

Ross Star Witness

Ross testified in Walker's trial earlier this week. He also gave testimony in the trial of Jess Covington, another defendant in the Brown slaying, who got an eight-year sentence. B. L. "Barber John" Richardson, second man to be tried, received a twenty-year sentence upon a plea of guilty. Ross was an admitted fourth member of the slaying party.

Walker's testimony placed Ross as the slayer of Brown while testimony of state witnesses had pointed to Walker as the man who fired the fatal shot.

"First time I talked to him about it was up in my room some six or eight days after the killing," Walker told Mr. Schenck when questioned regarding Ross' statement about the shooting.

Walker Is Calm

"I believe the way the question was brought up was in regard to my being picked up and questioned about the killing and Ross asked me about it," Walker continued, speaking calmly and deliberately. "I believe that's the way it started, the way I got it out of him was that I told him I had told the district attorney or the county attorney about going with him down to McCaffree's to get that

A Socialist Mayor Sees Gotham As Beauty Spot

Says Society Mad To Clutter Sky

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The socialist mayor of Milwaukee, upon one of his many visits to New York, forgot political campaigns today.

Daniel W. Hoan sketched New York as a metropolis of socialism.

He foresees:

"Manhattan—an island of plazas, parks and drives; of gardened market squares and meeting places; of low, rambling municipal business and government buildings, of many, many more schools for higher learning; and around the island, along the Hudson and rivers, waterfront boulevards.

Society Is Mad

"There would be no effort to conserve space. A society must be mad to clutter the sky with monstrosities like the Empire State building. It's not advancement, or modernization, to jam millions into a few square blocks.

"Across the rivers—on Long Island, in Jersey, the Bronx—the residential districts would spread leisurely in and out of reforested areas, grouped about more, but smaller, business districts.

"There would be no tenements; factories would be isolated."

On Speaking Tour

Hoan, mayor of Milwaukee for 17 years, came to New York on a ten-day speaking tour in behalf of his party's nominee: Norman Thomas and James H. Maurer.

"A socialist administration is not so far away in New York," Mayor Hoan said. "And what changes would result. The politico-criminal alliances would be wiped out, just as in Milwaukee. Tammany would go; for without graft, Tammany could not exist.

"And socialism would rout graft just like ferrets rout rats out of a hole."

Dallas Youths Being Sought

Pair Believed Responsible In Robbery Of Cedar Hill Bank Saturday; Other Crimes Are Blamed To Them

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Oct. 8—Two West Dallas youths sought by police since early this year for half a dozen crimes were believed responsible for the holdup and robbery today of the First State bank at Cedar Hill, Dallas county, 20 miles southwest of Dallas.

One robber held up two employes and two customers, escaping with between $1,500 and $1,600 after locking his victims in a vault. He was believed to have escaped in an automobile in which an accomplice waited near the bank.

The two youths suspected have been sought for several months in connection with the murder and robbery of J. N. Bucher at his filling station in Hillsboro last April, the fatal shooting of a deputy sheriff and the wounding of a sheriff at Atoka, Okla., the robbery of a packing plant in Dallas in August, the kidnaping of a Carlsbad, N. M., deputy sheriff and numerous other offenses.

Bullington To Be Given Aid Of Democrats

Organization Opposed To Mrs. Ferguson Announces Support Of Republican Nominee For November Election

Will Stage Drive

Cato Sells Named Chairman Of Group; Headquarters To Be Opened In Dallas; Appeal To People Planned

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Oct. 8.—An organization of Democrats opposed to Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma.) Ferguson, Democratic nominee for governor of Texas, today announced its support of Orville Bullington of Wichita Falls, Republican gubernatorial nominee.

The announcement was made by the League of Anti-Ferguson Democrats, organized recently, shortly after the Texas supreme court issued an order placing Mrs. Ferguson's name on the general election ballots.

Sells Is Chairman

Cato Sells of Fort Worth, former Democratic national committeeman for Texas and commissioner of Indian affairs in the administration of Woodrow Wilson, was named chairman of the executive committee of the league.

Sells was chosen by unanimous vote of the campaign committee, meeting in Dallas. Members of the committee are C. M. Caldwell of Abilene; Harry Hines of Wichita Falls, Alvin S. Moody of Houston, J. W. Hunt of Abilene; J. T. Harrington of Waco, J. F. Etter of Sherman and Mrs. Clade De Van Watts of Austin.

Open Headquarters

Headquarters will be opened Monday in Dallas, a statement by the committee said, and a state wide organization of the anti-Ferguson Democrats will be formed immediately and a vigorous campaign will be waged.

"The recent decision of the supreme court, by which the name of Mrs. Ferguson is placed on the ballot, as the Democratic nominee for governor, and the reasons adduced by the court for doing so, raise an issue that is over-shadowing in its importance," the statement said.

"By this decision the courts declare their impotence to save the state from the results of a primary election, even though such results may be due to fraud and illegalities, because of lack of time to properly review the results before the general election, and thus Mrs. Ferguson's name goes on the ballot virtually by default.

Appeal To People

"This leaves the friends of honest government but one recourse—an appeal to the people.

"With Governor Sterling's name off the ballot we are for Orville Bullington for governor of Texas. The issue transcends all party lines."

Gov. R. S. Sterling had sought by court action to prevent the certification of Mrs. Ferguson as the Democratic nominee. He charged various illegalities in the recent primaries, in which Mrs. Ferguson won by a few thousand votes.

FATALLY INJURED

DALLAS, Oct. 8. (AP)—Frances Ellen Burt, 8, schoolgirl, was fatally injured today when struck by an automobile as she started across the street to play at the home of a friend. She died in a hospital. A young woman school teacher who was driving the car was prostrated with grief after the accident and was taken to a hospital for treatment.

Gangland's Mad Killer Dies With Boots Off

Feared And Hated As Cruel Slayer

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Frank McErlane, ruthless, mad killer who cheated the enemies that tried to kill him in his own way, died in bed today.

Prosecutors of two states had tried to put him away for murder.

His common law wife had shot and wounded him.

Gunmen sought him out in his bed, but their bullets failed.

Peaceful Death Denied

Pneumonia took him at last in a hospital at Beardstown, Ill., but a peaceful death was denied him even though it was natural. In his last hours, he struggled violently, screamed in his delirium—fearing, perhaps, the foes of the underworld in which he had lived a violent life. He fought against four strong men who endeavored to quiet him in his cot, and knocked out a nurse at his bedside.

For 21 years he had been feared and hated as a cruel, wanton slayer.

He had been the inventor of the gangland "death ride," had helped engineer a famous jailbreak, but had never been convicted of murder.

"Taken For A Ride"

It was back in 1923 that McErlane and a coterie of Capone gunners, reputedly Ralph Sheldon, Joe Saltis and others, hijacked a truckload of beer inbound from Joliet. Morris Keane and Thomas Egan, the drivers, were bound hand and foot and tossed into McErlane's car.

What was to be done with the prisoners?

McErlane, in answer, is alleged to have turned toward the rear seat, fired a blast from his shotgun into Keane's body; reloaded and emptied it again at Egan. It was the first gangland "ride." McErlane was ar-

Mandamus Is Issued Requiring Name On Ballot; Jim Pays For Tolls To Notify All Counties

Bitter Struggle Over Democratic Nomination For Governor Of Texas Ends Saturday With Decision Given By State's Highest Tribunal; Convention Certificate Said Valid

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 8.—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson tonight was the certified candidate of the Democrats of Texas for the office of governor.

In a decision today, the state supreme court held as being impractical of trial a suit filed by Governor R. S. Sterling contesting Mrs. Ferguson's right to the nomination and issued its mandamus to require Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state, to certify Mrs. Ferguson as the nominee.

Struggle At End

The decision brought to an end the bitter struggle over the Democratic nomination and marked another victory for Ex-Governor James E. Ferguson, husband of the nominee and a storm center of Texas politics for 18 years. Ferguson, impeached and removed as governor in 1917 and barred from running for the office in his own name, was the guiding genius of his wife's battle for the nomination.

Certification of Mrs. Ferguson made it the second time she has been named the party choice. She served one term as governor in 1925-26.

Governor Sterling filed suit the day her nomination was confirmed by the state convention, alleging that upwards of 50,000 votes had been cast illegally in Mrs. Ferguson's favor. He asked that her nomination be set aside and that he be declared the legal nominee. The Fergusons made counter charges of fraud in the campaign conducted for renomination of Gov. Sterling.

Ferguson Pays Tolls

Within 30 minutes after the supreme court had declared the governor's suit moot, Mrs. McCallum had certified Mrs. Ferguson's name by telegraph. The tolls were paid by Ferguson.

In declaring the suit filed by Governor Sterling was moot the supreme court stated:

"It is idle to say, we think, that the case could be tried and a final judgment entered and certified in time."

The decision held that Mrs. Ferguson's certificate of nomination, issued by the convention, was prima facie valid and gave her a title to the nomination that could be set aside only by a final judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction. Since the court concluded it was impossible to obtain a final judgment, because of the size of the case, it declared that Mrs. Ferguson had the right to have her name appear on the ballot in the proper place.

The supreme court's action culminated weeks of bitter strife in Texas politics that started early in the summer, extended through two primary elections and wound up in a hard fought court action.

Mrs. Ferguson led Governor Ster-

"Ma" Promises Jim Will Help Her In Every Way When She's Next Governor

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 8.—A plea that "the intense feeling incident to this, as well as other political campaigns, will cease," was made by Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, who was ordered certified as the Democratic gubernatorial nominee by the supreme court today after a bitter fight with Governor R. S. Sterling, whom she led by about 4,000 votes in the August primary.

Mrs. Ferguson expressed the hope that "everybody will now turn their attention to a Democratic victory, state and national, in November, from which the people expect relief from our present economic troubles."

Happiness at the supreme court decision was evidenced by Mrs. Ferguson. "Of course I, with all the rest of my family and friends, am pleased at the decision of the supreme court," she stated.

Fire Prevention Week Will Be Observed Starting On Monday

First Day's Program Here To Include Contests Between Members Of Fire Department; To Present Drill

LUBBOCK will observe Fire Prevention Week beginning Monday morning. The first day's program includes a contest demonstration by two crews from the fire department at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Two crews of fire department members will begin a race in the 1000-block of Tenth street to be the first to run hose to the top of Hotel Hilton and throw water from the roof. One fire truck will circle the block going east on Tenth, and the other will go west. The truck going east will take water at the Lubbock National bank fire plug, and the one going west will use the plug at Main and Avenue J.

The department will present a drill Thursday.

Wesley Read, a member of the City fire prevention board, is chairman of the committee making arrangements for the observance here. J. H. Brock is vice chairman; and sub-committee chairmen are: Guy McAfee, arrangements for programs at civic clubs; Garnet O. Reeves, publicity chairman, Mr. Read, Mayor J. J. Clements, C. W. Ratliff, Parker Prouty, and C. B. Akers, members of the committee; W. H. Rodgers and Wiley L. Metcalfe, traffic supervision; M. H. Duncan, observance in the schools; D. A. Forbess, inspections in the business districts.

Boy Scouts, supervised by D. T. Jennings, area council executive, will distribute informative folders on fire prevention in a house-to-house canvass.

Mayor Clements has issued a proclamation calling upon "our citizens to clear their buildings and premises of any and all conditions from which fires might occur.

"During the week let us individually and collectively stimulate interest in the work of eliminating fire hazards by actively engaging in a general campaign for that purpose."

Ministers were asked to announce the program in churches today.

The campaign here is coordinated with the national program sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and its affiliate, the National Fire Waste council. Through this elaborate program, sponsored locally by the chamber of commerce, city officials, and civic leaders, it is believed that every citizen "will be reached and made aware of the serious necessity of unceasingly practicing the simple, precautionary measures advocated as fire prevention safeguards."

President Hoover has proclaimed National Fire Prevention week. "The deplorable loss of thousands of human lives and property waste of approximately half a billion dollars caused each year by fire should be scrupulously avoided," the president said. "The American per capita loss now is nearly double that of 20 years ago and constitutes a challenge to our efforts that no citizen can afford to ignore."

Walker Trial

gun. He seemed like he kinda' clinched a little.

"He asked me what I thought he ought to do and I told him 'Well, you fellers better find the boys who got that gun . . . and then he went ahead and told all about it."

And with little prompting or questioning from his counsel, the defendant continued. "He told me that when the Lindsey theater was robbed, that he and Mr. Brown did it. He said after he had robbed Lindsey Mr. Brown picked him up out of town a ways and that they hid the money in a wheat field somewhere between here and Ross' home. Mr. Brown was supposed to come back and get him the next day.

Brown Didn't Show Up

"He said Mr. Brown didn't show up the next day and that he came on to town and saw him at McDonald's mule barn and asked him about the money. He said they drove back there and the money was gone. . . . And then he said they had quite an argument about it . . . it wasn't settled . . . and things just kept rocking along."

Walker then testified Ross told him of going down to Brown's house at Woodrow and finding the handbag which had contained the money.

"He said he met Mr. Brown and showed him the handbag and asked him where the money was and Mr. Brown told him he had lost it. He said Mr. Brown gave him $80 then. . . . Then he said he didn't see him very often, not if Brown saw him first.

Asked About Leather Hat

"One day," Walker continued turning slightly toward the jury, "he said he run into Barber John and Jimmie Johnston and someone else. He asked them about Leather Hat and wanted to know if he had much money on him. He told me he gave Barber John $35 to match a game with him and they went to Woodrow and couldn't find Mr. Brown so they went on to Slaton. He said they had matched a game for that night.

"He and Barber John and two fellers drove by Mr. Hilton's home. Ross continued in his story," the defendant said. "He said he told them that 'if one of you fellers will help me I'll go out there and take the money away from him'. Ross told me that he'd robbed Chief Lindsey to support his family out there nearly starving and Mr. Brown had robbed him.

"Don't Hurt Anybody"

"A feller by the name of Wright, Barber John and he agreed to go and get the money," Walker said Ross told him. "He said he told them, 'now don't hurt any of those folks, put them in the house, and I'll attend to that big guy'.

"He said they were out there and Barber John was putting them in the house when Brown started running for the door and grabbed Barber John and started trying to take the gun from him. Pretty soon, he said, Barber John called to him and said, 'Ross I need some help' and that Brown had nearly got the gun out of his hands.

"He said he killed Mr. Brown and that his conscience was clear and if it was to do over, he'd do it again," Walker said.

Walker had previously testified he was 37 years of age, was born in Milam county, ten miles south of Rogers where he lived until he was ten years old. He said the family then moved to Solado, Bell county, where they lived four or five years. He said they then moved back to Rogers where he lived until he went to war in 1918.

After returning from France, Walker said he went back to Rogers where he lived until 1923 when he moved to Lubbock. He stayed here until 1926 and then spent two years in Borger, moving back here in 1928. He said he spent about four months in Hobbs, N. M.

Went To Get Gun

He testified he knew G. A. Ross and that he went to a house with Ross sometime that afternoon to get his gun which Ross said he wanted to trade for a go-devil. He said Ross had told him they were going down to this house to get some beer.

Returning to the hotel, he said he ate supper and then walked downtown and came back to the hotel later where he started playing dominoes with some fellows in the lobby. He said he played with a fellow named Williams as his partner.

When the game broke up just as the siren was blowing, Walker testified he went down town and walked up Broadway toward Blondie's cafe. He said he got a cup of coffee there and then came back by the Hilton hotel where he met Jess Covington and they went to the Robinson home for some beer.

Learned of Killing

On his return to the hotel, Walker testified two taxi drivers and the youngest Dowell boy were talking about somebody getting killed and he learned that it was Leather Hat Brown.

He denied ever going with Ross in a car to Morningside addition and then identified a gun displayed in court as a 30-30 rifle he kept in his room.

"Now, if you had wanted to go out and kill somebody, you'd probably have taken your own gun, would't you?" Schenck asked him.

"I believe if I was going to do anything like that I wouldn't have wanted to borrow a gun that had been advertised and that everybody in town had seen me with," Walker replied.

Soaked Gun For $3

On cross examination, Walker said "a guy soaked me the gun for $3." He said he didn't know who it was.

Walker admitted that Ross was telling the truth when he said they were together when he got the gun at McCaffree's.

"And up to that point, everything Ross said was true, you admit that, don't you?" Vickers asked him. Walker answered affirmatively. He declared that testimony of H. L. Burgess and Mack Newton regarding his being in a car in Morningside with Jess Covington that afternoon was "untrue."

"Now you say, Ross told you Barber John put the people in the house that night," Vickers continued, "now what was the name of that party who stood over there with that rifle?"

"George Ross," Walker snapped out quickly, "he said he did it, himself?"

"Of course, if you were down there, had had that gun in your hands like that, you'd own up to it, wouldn't you, Hugh?" Vickers asked.

"Well, I don't believe I'd be quite that honest, no sir," Walker replied.

Shoots Out Another

Later on after Vickers had shot another similar query to him, Walker replied:

"I don't believe I'm capable of answering that question, judge, you'll have to ask someone who had been there and had the experience."

On re-direct examination, Walker explained he had never been tried on any of the indictments except the one he is facing now, declaring "there was nothing to them." He said he had had advice from physicians that he use liquor because of what had happened in the war and that was the reason he had been indicted for liquor law violation.

On cross examination, Walker said he had paid $200 to Mr. Schenck and $50 to Ben Kucera to represent him in this case.

J. T. Scott jr., of near Woodrow, Walter Price of Lubbock and Ray Stiff of Carlsbad, N. M., were other witnesses Saturday morning.

Others Are Heard

Scott and Price gave testimony regarding a car Covington owned.

Stiff testified he had seen Ross on the streets here sometime in July and Ross had told him about the killing and that Hugh Walker had been suspected but that he had an alibi as he was playing dominoes with some fellers in a hotel here when it happened.

District Attorney Bradley fired questions at Stiff in rapid-fire order on cross-examination, charging him with being a former associate of the defendant in Borger. Stiff said he had come to Lubbock to see Jack Seay, a Hobbs deputy sheriff who had been shot and was in a local sanitarium.

Stiff said he didn't know what Walker's occupation had been during the ten years he had known him.

Walker had testified that he dealt in real estate while in Borger and at Hobbs. He said he had operated domino parlors here.

Condemnation Proceedings In Dallas County Being Planned

DALLAS, Oct. 8. (AP)—Determination to institute condemnation proceedings if necessary to obtain right-of-way for widening the Fort Worth pike along property of the Trinity Portland Cement company was expressed here today by W. R. Lindsay, right-of-way agent for Dallas county.

Lindsay said the county must secure at least 80 per cent of the needed right-of-way before the November meeting of the state highway commisson in Austin.

Mad Killer

rested, indicted, but "beat the rap." The prosecutor dropped the charges.

Time and again he proved his immunity.

Protests Advances

It was a woman who first "got" him.

Marion Miller, his law wife, protested his advances with a bullet. The gangster, by this time listed as a "public enemy" with the other notorious leaders of Chicago gangdom, went to the hospital with a broken leg.

He was lying there, the leg in a cast suspended from pulleys with weights holding the bone in place, when visitors came.

A fusillade of shots cracked out, shattering the silence of the hospital corridors, bringing screams of terror from the patients. Three bullets found their mark in McErlane's body, nearly finishing him, before he felt under his pillow for the pistol he had ready; whipped it out and sent his attackers away. Walls and windows were spattered with lead.

Reputation Grows

In the last few years his reputation as a drunken, mad, quick-triggered gunman grew. Once he was taken in for a psychopathic examination, given a rather dubious report but allowed to go after a week. Once his car brushed fenders with another and in a fit of rage he emptied his revolver into the body of the other automobile.

A year ago today his wife was found dead of four bullet wounds in their car. Witnesses had seen him with her the night before. The interior of the automobile was pockmarked with bullet holes fired wildly, and on the ground nearby lay two dead dogs. Police were certain it was another of McErlane's crazy gunnings. No other, they reasoned, would have brutally fired on the dogs after slaying the woman and splotching the car with lead.

He came back, after a while, but police said they could pin nothing on Frank.

So he went down to the old houseboat on the river at Beardstown. Occasionally he would try to show another side of his nature, dispensing bits of charity from the savings of his criminal career. But toward the end his gangland friends and foes left him to himself. When death came there was only one remaining with him, a woman — supposedly his mother.

Fergusons Win

ling by less than 4,000 votes in the second primary, after she had led a field of eight candidates in the first primary election.

Republicans regarded the breach in the Democratic party as enhancing their chances to elect Orville Bullington, G. O. P. nominee, governor, since Mrs. Ferguson defeated Dr. George C. Butte, Republican candidate, in 1924 by only approximately 121,000 votes. Had the name of a Democratic nominee been kept off the ticket, Bullington's chances would have been enhanced still further because his name already was on the ballot.

Certification Is Received In City

Certification of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson as the Democratic's gubernatorial candidate was made by Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state, by telegram to County Clerk Amos H. Howard early Saturday afternoon. "I certify Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson as Democratic nominee for governor (in) general election," the telegram said. Order for printing of Lubbock county's 9,000 ballots has been sent to an Austin stationer with instructions to place the Democratic nominee on the ticket when the courts so ruled.

Jim To Help

will help me as he should, and as every one expects he will. Whatever the merits of the controversy heretofore discussed, there is no use now for anybody to attempt to divert the minds of the people from attention to their needs by recurring to the fact that I have a husband that will give me his best time and talent in helping me to render needed service to the people. That question ought to be left at rest for a season at least, and I trust that it will."

Bullington

Mrs. Bullington was born in Tennessee, the daughter of a Confederate soldier. She and her husband started to Texas in 1882 but ran out of funds in Missouri, where the Rev. Mr. Bullington taught school for a while. It was during their short stay there that Orville Bullington was born. In 1884 the Bullingtons started on to Texas in a covered wagon, settling in Parker county in that year.

Establishing a home in Poolville, the Rev. Mr. Bullington taught school and served a number of small congregations. After her husband's death Mrs. Bullington moved to Weatherford and has since made her home here.

Before she died Mrs. Bullington called members of the family about her and talked of the early days in Parker county and of her son's present campaign for the governorship.

"It is my wish," she said to her candidate son, "that you continue your campaign as soon as you care to after my funeral. I am prepared to go and it is best. I want you to go right ahead with your speaking tour."

Funeral services for Mrs. Bullington will be conducted tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. at the Couts Memorial Methodist church which Mrs. Bullington joined soon after coming to Weatherford. The Rev. R. H. Boyd, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in the Weatherford cemetery.

Cotton Report

of September were reported favorable for the maturing crop. These increases were partly offset by slight declines in Texas and Tennessee.

"In most parts of the belt the crop is matured and a large proportion of the bolls are open," the agriculture department said. "Picking is progressing somewhat slower than might be expected. Because growers are hiring fewer pickers than usual. Most growers are picking their crop with the labor available on their own farms, rather than hiring additional help. This retarding in picking would result in losses to the open cotton, in the event of prolonged wet weather later in the season."

Thousands Of Texans Forget Troubles At Fair In Dallas

DALLAS, Oct. 8 (AP)—Thousands of Texans today forgot economic problems and politics to provide one of the largest first-day crowds in the records of the State Fair of Texas for the last 46 years. The sale of 75,000 opening day admission "keys" aided the volume of traffic at the turnstiles, with the added stimulus of the Southern Methodist university-Rice institute football game on the program.

Exhibits were in readiness for the opening at 9 a. m., although entries in the livestock division continued to arrive. Livestock judging will start Monday. "Dream Girl Follies," the auditorium stage attraction for the fair season, played to goodly houses twice today.

Movement To Develop More Interest In Writing Begun

Sponsoring a movement to develop interest in creative writing, the high school English department headed by Miss Dorothy Lomax is introducing a free-activity period for English students.

This period, to be given once a month will offer students a chance to show their talents in writing verses, essays, short stories, anything which they think will interest the other students and will take the place of a regular assigned theme.

The best articles will be collected in a type-written volume and placed in the school library at the end of the year.

According to Miss Lomax, the department hopes to sponsor several local contests during the year in preparatory to the Interscholastic league essay contest in the spring.

Westerners Lose Tough Game To Sweetwater, 24 To 7

Lubbock Score Late In Game Saves Shutout

Red Sheridan Leads Mustangs To Galloping Victory Over Trying Westerners In First Home Game Of Season

BY COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Editor

The Lubbock High school Westerners opened their offensive a mite too late last night, showing a fine punch during the last five minutes but not timely enough to overcome a herd of wild Mustangs from Sweetwater High school.

The Mustangs, led by their great wheel-horse, Ney "Red" Sheridan, had amassed a lead of 24 points previous to that nifty drive culminating in a touchdown by little Joe Nelson after he had aided and abetted Bill Davidson and Raburn Hale in advancing the ball from the Sweetwater 20-yard line.

It was Lubbock's first touchdown, also its last, and the final of the game.

So the score must have been Sweetwater 24; Lubbock 7.

Bill Kicks Goal

Lubbock got seven points out of the fray because Bill Davidson kicked a perfect field goal from placement for the extra point. That, in itself, was something the Mustangs couldn't do all evening, but that was about all they couldn't do. They did everything else, in a finished way.

It was a fair ball game, with Sweetwater ruling as long as it was necessary for it to rule.

Red Sheridan, the touted, tooted, much-publicized hero of the season so far, lived up to expectations. In addition he shifted from halfback to quarterback for last night's game. It was his second shift of the season. He started out as a fullback. If he is moved into the line it will be a tough line, and it probably won't take many touchdowns off the season's results.

Behind Good Interference

The secret was out last night, however, about Sheridan. In himself he's not nearly so hot as he's been touted. Interference, interference and still more interference, in droves, in carload lots, paved the way for Sheridan. It also paved the way for Virgil Jones and S. Wood, big fullback. If Jones and Wood had carried the ball as many times as did Sheridan, provided they were given the same support by the line and the other backs, they probably would have gained as many yards.

The best interference running on Matador Field this season will not be any better than that perpetrated by the galloping Mustangs last night. Half the team seemed to mean over and run ahead of Sheridan, who had no trouble carrying the leather hither and thither from here to yonder.

Thus when they start singing the praises, they'd do well to precede the anthem with a little ditty dedicated to Dodson, right end, Hubbard and McConnel, right tackles, Woehl and Jones, halfbacks and Wood, full back. Also to the rest of the line, those lads on the left-side of Center S. Jones, Hall, Grimsley and Fomby.

Small Crowd Present

A disappointing crowd turned out to see the Westerners inaugurate their home schedule. Not more than 2,500 graced the grandstand, with some 300 in the bleachers across the way. The Lubbock High school band and the cheering sections full of lovely little girls and smart little boys did noble work, hanging on with the team till the last.

Captain Louis Spear, lad-eez and gentlemen, is about to tackle another Mustang. If he misses, which he won't little Hugh Newton or littler Dalton Blagg will bring him down. The latter pair will be on hand anyway, just in case.

With a couple more men in the line like Spear, and another backfield ace like Bill Davidson, Coach Weldon Chapman wouldn't have to pull his hair like he does.

And Wayman Newton

Special credit also goes to little Wayman Newton, who caught one of Bill Davidson's long passes for a gain of 32 yards, the longest single gain made by the Westerners all evening. It placed the ball in scoring position, but a couple of other long passes failed. The ball went over, but Sweetwater couldn't do much with it then, and lost it when Hugh Newton, tough guard, good man, fell on Jones' fumble.

Ches. McCarty, starting at center, was injured early in the game and the attending physician first pronounced it a broken ankle. A trip to the hospital revealed nothing more serious than a sprain, but the big boy, one of Chapman's leading players, couldn't get back into the line-up.

Ponies Start Early

The Mustangs didn't wait long to get going. Lubbock received the kick-off and Toll Terrill and Truman Hutson made the Westerner machine look good with a couple of busting plunges that netted a first down early. But Lubbock drew a penalty and Davidson had to kick. His kick went to the Mustang 25-yard line, and the Ponies did not relinquish the ball until Sam Wood had plunged over for a touchdown.

Spear, Rufus Ryan, Stone and McCarty were getting in some good work, but as a whole the Westerner machine didn't function on the defense. Sheridan took the ball most of the time. His drives were for six, eight and ten yards, the last being a 12-yard dash that put the ball on the 4-yard line. Wood needed two attempts to go over.

Big Harold Gaines, who had gone in a tackle, blocked the kick for extra point. As a matter of fact, every kick for extra point made by the Ponies was knocked down by a Lubbock lineman. Gaines knocked down two himself.

Loses On Punt

A hard luck punt, on which Stone lost five yards when the ball went high and bounced back behind him, left the home club in desperate straits a few plays later. The ball was on the 18-yard line, and in four straight plays it was over for another touchdown. Sheridan accounted for fifteen of the 18-yards himself. Woehl went over for the counter.

Then Lubbock started a drive. It was a pretty piece of work. Davidson returned the kick-off to his 35-yard line after a run of 31 yards. On the first play, he flipped a pass to Tol Terrell, who caught it for a gain of 24 yards. Truman Hutson, Davidson and Terrell took turn about and picked up three first downs on short plays to land the ball on Sweetwater's 11-yard line as the quarter ended.

Lose Scoring Chance

The Westerners were in line for a touchdown, but four plays brought the ball to the 2-yard line just a yard short of a first down. Davidson ripped through for 7 yards and again for two, but not quite enough. The ball went over, and Sheridan pulled off a beauty of sprint. Thirty-nine yards he ran before Blackwell brought him down right in mid-field.

The Lubbock defense tightened, and there were no scores in the second period. Sweetwater had possession of the ball most of the time.

It was late in the third before the visitors tallied again. The ball was in Lubbock territory most of the time, but the Westerners were hustling more than they were early in the game.

Sheridan Can Pass, Too

A pass, Sheridan to Jones, put the ball on Lubbock's 34, and Sheridan ripped off 25 yards in three plays. Two short gains, and Sheridan went over for a touchdown.

Sweetwater's last counter came in nearly in the fourth, climax of a drive from the Pony 20-yard line where Sheridan was dropped after a 10-yard punt return. From the 22-yard line, Sheridan hoisted an overhead to Jones, who was by that time nearly on the goal line. It was a touchdown play.

Then came Davidson's long pass to Wayman Newton, two attempts, a lost ball, then the Lubbock touchdown drive. The Westerners were holding their own, playing close to the Sweetwater goal line as the game ended.

Nebraska Takes Iowa State, 12-6; Pitt And Army Win

(By The Associated Press)

ANN ARBOR, MICH., Oct. 8. — Michigan's title-hunting Wolverines, matching their defensive strength against the powerhouse push of Northwestern, stopped "Pug" Rentner cold when he threatened their goal today and won the first football game between the two schools in seven years, 15-6.

Michigan won by a margin of two touchdowns and a field goal to Northwestern's single touchdown. All attempts to convert the extra point after touchdown failed.

Rentner fumbled on the first play after the kickoff. Captain Ivan Williamson of Michigan recovered on the Wildcat nine-yard line, and in two plays—less than three minutes after the game opened—Michigan had a touchdown. A one-yard plunge by Johnny Regeczi and na eight-yard off tackle slant by Stan Fay brought the counter.

Cornhuskers Hand Bible Nice Birthday Present

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 8. (AP)—Nebraska gave Coach Dana X. Bible a birthday present today, beating Iowa State 12 to 6, but it took an intercepted pass and a recovered fumble to do it.

Corwin Hulbert, cornhusker tackle, recovered the fumble on Iowa State's first play after the kickoff. "Big Bernie" Masterson scored with the game only a minute and a half old.

Nebraska's other touchdown came just before the end of the first half when George Sauer, fullback, intercepted Dick Grefe's long pass and rambled 65 yards to the goal. He shook off several tacklers on the way.

Pass Brings Score

The lone Cyclone score came on the second play of the last quarter. Schaforth ran back to midfield and passed to Timpson across the goal line, a 35-yard gain. A pass Sauer to Masterson preceded the touchdown by the latter from the one-foot line in the first quarter.

Nebraska earned nine first downs, to four for the Cyclones and out-yarded the Iowans more than two to one from scrimmage.

Christians Unleash Powerful Land Tactics And Brilliant Aerial Game To Stand Out As Conference Contender

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT WORTH, Oct. 8 (AP)—Texas Christian university, one of the favored four to win this year's Southwest conference football crown, swept away from the starting post with a victorious inauguration today by unleashing powerful land tactics and a brilliant aerial game to smother the University of Arkansas 34 to 12.

Lightning off tackle smashes that riddled Arkansas' secondary, allowed Texas Christian to constantly gain touchdown yardage, while an estimated crowd of 2,500 lingered under a hot sun amazed at the effective, slashing offense and stout defense uncovered by the senior Christians against the desperate but not well executed aerial offense contributed by the sophomore Arkansas gladiators.

Arkansas Strives In Vain

It was a spirited Arkansas team that unreeled 60 minutes of hard playing football, that gained an even hundred yards from scrimmage, but the Razorbacks' efforts went for naught against the smashing Texas Christian plays from scrimmage that gained 358 yards.

While scoring 17 first downs, the Christians held Arkansas to five. Not from the first to the final gun bark was there a doubt about the eventual outcome.

The Christians uncovered their power early in the game and Arkansas simply had nothing to recover it with.

Hardly had the game started before Oliver whirled through for a touchdown, and a fraction later, Spearman went through the Arkansas front wall on a cut back play that saw him go 31 yards for a touchdown. The Porkers were never able to overtake this lead, although they scored in the fading minutes of the first period when Rucker received a 32-yard pass from Murphy behind the Christians' goal line. Boswell, Christian line man stood along side Rucker and watched him grab the ball.

The Christians added their final touchdown in the fourth period when Spearman shot a ten-yard pass to Dennis, who went through a broken field for 50 yards and a touchdown.

Arkansas' final bid for a good stand was made with only 50 seconds to play when Martin intercepted a pass and galloped 45 yards for a touchdown.

The Christians uncovered a fine blocking game with Big Ben Boswell and Johnny Vaught featuring on the line. Blanard Spearman probably played the greatest all round football game of his career. He lugged the leather to perfection and the few passes he tossed found their man. Oliver, in scoring two touchdowns, led the Christian offense. He also played a strong defense game in the secondary. Murphy, who carried the ball, passed and punted, was Arkansas outstanding player.

Haskell Indians Run Notre Dame's Gauntlet And Get A 73 To 0 Licking

BY PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 8—Haskell's Indians ran the Notre Dame football gauntlet today and got their worst licking since they invaded Nebraska back in 1918.

Tossing 37 players into the fray for the initial workout of the season, the Ramblers clubbed the Indians into submission by the one sided margin of 73 to 0. It was the worst Indian massacre since the Braves were tomahawked by the Cornhuskers 14 years ago, 101 to 0.

It Was A Track Meet

It wasn't a football game. It was a track meet with Big George Melinkovich and Steven Banas winning the foot races against the hopelessly outclassed Braves to score six of the 11 Rambler touchdowns between them. The Braves didn't have a chance against their heavier and more experienced opponents. Only once did they threaten—in the second period when they took advantage of a fumble by "Chuck" Jaskwhich, recovered the ball on Notre Dame's 40-yard line and advanced it 14 yards farther before being stopped. Coach "Hunk" Anderson couldn't stop the massacre either. He started his second team and wound up with his fourth string backfield only to watch the score mount by 26 points alone in the final period. Notre Dame scored 23 first downs to Haskell's 3 and rolled up 623 yards to Haskell's 50 from the line of scrimmage.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8. (AP)—Carnegie Tech's offensive got under way with crushing force in the second half and the Tartans battered Western Reserve for a 19 to 0 victory today. 'Frenchy' Domingue Leads Aggies To 14 To 0 Victory Over Texas A. & I.'s Stubborn Eleven; Aggie Line Yields

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 8. (AP) — "Frenchy" Domingue led the Texas Aggies to a 14 to 0 victory over the College of Arts and Industries eleven from Kingsville on Kyle field today but the Javelinas threw a scare into the cadets at that.

The Aggies, their line yielding and their backs unable to do well in the first two periods, left the matter of offense to the third period largely to their quarterback, who did not start the game, and Domingue responded with two touchdowns, kicking both extra points.

Frenchy Does It All

He streaked first across the A. & I. goal line on a 47-yard run and came back a few minutes later with a 37-yard dash for the second score. The Javelinas had unexpected power in the frist period, besting the Aggies offensively, scoring six first downs to three for the Aggies.

Cox and Harbin, two stocky little A. & I. backs, neither of whom weighs more than 155 pounds, alternated in striking at the Aggie line. The Kingsville team staked all in the last period, losing a spectacular passing attack that saw John Mark Dixon, substitute end playing his first college football game, take two passes for a total of 73 yards, putting the ball on the Aggie 7-yard line, another pass which the Javelinas hoped would result in a score was intercepted and the threat was over.

O'DONNELL, Oct. 8—First game of the O'Donnell high school football team is scheduled with Lamesa at that place. "Doc" Kyle, business manager, states.

The schedule is being worked up, but it will be short because of the lack of suitable experienced material and also the fact that the school has not had football for more than a year.

M. L. Webb, a senior, is the only letterman on the squad. There are a number of fast men on the team and Coach Johnson has an excellent lot of material for track and field events in the spring. He also expects a fast basketball team this winter.

Rice Outplays S. M. U. Ponies To Win, 13-0

Owls And Mustangs On Equal Terms During First Part Of Game But Houston Boys Have Goal Punch Working

BY FRED DYE
Associated Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, Oct. 8 (AP)—Rice Institute of Houston outplayed Southern Methodist University of Dallas for three periods today and then put on a last period surge of power which earned a 13 to 0 victory over last year's Southwest conference champions.

It was Rice's first defeat of the Dallas Mustangs since 1921 while the Owls chalked up a 10 to 0 victory.

Mustangs Lack Punch

The Methodists had not more than one good chance to score and lived up to their reputation of the season and it is of lacking a punch. Once they had the ball on the Rice 15-yard line but could not gain three line plays.

Wallace, sophomore right half back, scored both Owl touchdowns after he replaced Thrasher, who play had stood out for Rice until he was injured and had to be taken from the field.

A pass, McCauley to Wallace, and a spin play, on which Wallace whirled through the right side of the Methodist line, won 40 yards for the Houston school, putting the ball on S. M. U.'s 23-yard line. McCauley picked up 8 yards and in another try for a first down on the Methodist 12-yard line. Smashing off tackle, with the Notre Dame saystem of Rice working at its best, Wallace then carried the ball over without a Mustang hand on him.

Aerial Circus Fails

The Mustang's famed aerial circus failed to click and a poor pass that dropped into the hands of Driscoll, twin brother of Captain Tom Driscoll of Rice, substituting for Clore, led directly to the second Rice touchdown. He caught it on the Methodist 47-yard line. Rice tried on the power and an end run and two bucks lodged the ball on the S. M. U.'s seven-yard line. Tom Driscoll got two yards through center and McCauley made it first down three yards away from the goal. Wallace lugged the ball over.

The first try for point after touchdown failed but Tom Driscoll got a place kick between the bars for the thirteenth point.

Mustangs Line Good

Lacking anything savoring of a sustained drive, the Methodists put a grand line on the field. It negatived for three periods the most powerful thrusts of the Rice system learned from Notre Dame, which features power plays off tackle, being worn down only near the end of the game. The S. M. U. backs repeatedly tripped over their own interference runners.

As evidence of how soundly Rice outplayed S. M. U., the Owls scored 20 first downs as against only six for the Mustangs. Rice made 12 of her first downs in the last two periods as against two for the Methodists.

S. M. U. Completes 7

S. M. U. attempted 14 forward passes and completed seven. Rice tried nine and completed three.

S. M. U. averaged 37 yards for ten kicks, chiefly by Bert Baxter, her bright star of today and Rice had seven punts for an average of 31 yards.

In the Methodist line Riley, Smith, Burleson, Hawn and Mills played fine football. In the backfield Baccus shared honors with Baxter. Captain Sprague was a power on defense. The Rice ball luggers generally played great ball. Thrasher was in virtually every play until he went out, as was Scott.

Longhorns In Fine Form In Tiger Defeat

Frank Carideo's Eleven Is Hopelessly Outclassed In All Departments; Steers Stronger In Final Period

BY LAWRENCE E. MAY
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 8 (AP)—Stampeding through a bewildered University of Missouri team, the Steers from the University of Texas charged their way to ten touchdowns and a 65 to 0 victory in an intersectional clash here today.

The Southwestern conference team started on their wild runs as the game got under way and scored the first touchdown before the game was two minutes old.

Co-Captain Ernie Koy, plunging 200-pound fullback, scored four touchdowns. Bohn Hilliard, highly touted first year star, scored once, and Jimmie Burr, his substitute went over for a brace of six pointers.

Tigers Outclassed

Frank Carideo's Tigers were outdistanced in all respects. In scrimmage they gained but 148 yards to 337 yards for Clyde Littlefield's eleven. The Missourians also lost 41 yards in scrimmage.

Neither team found much success with the aerial game although one pass resulted in a Texas touchdown. Texas completed seven for a gain of 56 yards. The Tiger tosses found receivers for only two which netted seven yards.

The game was not without its thrills. In the third period, Stafford on a reverse swept around left end for 47 yards and a touchdown. Then in less than two minutes, Koy almost duplicated the performance through the right side of his line with a brilliant 40-yard dash.

Hilliards Tackling Feature

The vicious tackling of Hilliard whom scouts in the stands declared to be "one of the hardest hitting" in the Southwest, was an outstanding feature of the game.

The most spectacular of the Longhorns' touchdowns came late in the final period when Hilliard, taking the ball from the Missouri 15-yard line, zigzagged backwards some thirty yards before he could find his receiver. Stafford. The latter, then, catching the belated 30-yard pass, shot across the end zone from the ten-yard line.

Coach Carideo called on his two crippled fullbacks, Frank Ross and Clair Houston, and they gave the Missouri offense its only splurge. Once Ross got away for 27 yards, the longest run of the day for Missouri, and Houston made numerous short gains through the line.

Game Costly For Tigers

The game was costly for the Tigers, who will begin their Big Six campaign in another week. Ed McMillan, substitute center, suffered a broken ankle, and Woody Hatfield, regular halfback, received a bad chest injury.

It was the first home appearance of the Tigers under Carideo, who made gridiron history at Notre Dame as quarterback for the late Knute Rockne, the game attracted a crowd estimated by officials at eight thousand.

A bright sun and warm breeze greeted the two teams in their intersectional clash.

Although little hope was held for the recovery of the baby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Moore of Lorenzo, when she was received at Lubbock sanitarium about 10 p. m. Flashy Shortstop Is Griffith's Choice To Lead Sens

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—A youngster who was scrapping for a place in the lineup four years ago today succeeded the veteran Walter Johnson as manager of the Washington Senators.

In naming his flashy shortstop, Joe Cronin, to lead the club in 1933, Clark Griffith, owner of the Senators, chose the youngest player ever to direct a major league team since the days when baseball stars wore beards. Cronin, who will be 26 on October 12, was given a one-year contract.

Started In 1928

"Friscoe Joe" came to the Washington club in 1928 to play in 63 games and bat a measly .243. However, Johnson, who took over the reins in 1929, liked the way he ranged between third and second, and gave him a regular place in the lineup.

Cronin raised his average to .282 that year and the next he set the pitchers to pondering ways and means by batting .346. It wound up with his being voted the most valuable player in the American League. He has hit over .300 the two succeeding seasons and his adaptability was shown in changing from a dead center and left field hitter to one who acquired the knack of poking them over the first baseman's head.

Remembered Bucky Harris

Griffith might have been influenced in choosing Cronin by memories of the time in 1924 that 28-year-old "Bucky" Harris led the Washington team to a world's championship.

A native of San Francisco, Cronin was the property of Pittsburgh in the National League at 19. He went back to the minors and was with Kansas City in 1928 when Scout Joe Engel persuaded Griffith to buy him.

Ultra-aggressive, Cronin acted as unofficial captain during much of the past season in the absence of Joe Judge, veteran first baseman and captain.

Oklahomans Open Big Six Season With Victory Over Jayhawkers, 21-6; Dunlap And Pansze Are Stars

(By The Associated Press)

LAWRENCE, Kas., Oct. 8—A speedy, hard hitting Oklahoma squad—the first in the regime of Coach Lewie Hardage—thoroughly whipped a heavy and ponderous Kansas Jayhawker team, 21 to 6, here today in the Big Six conference football season opener before a crowd of 7,200.

Bob Dunlap, Sooner quarterback, and Bill Pansze, elusive halfback speedster, were the scoring stars, but they were aided by an Oklahoma crew thoroughly trained in blocking.

Dunlap Punts Well

Quarterback Dunlap stood off the Kansas threats with an able exhibition of punting through the first two periods, crowding the line perilously always. He then led an attack that yielded two touchdowns and a field goal by himself and a touchdown by Bill Pansze, elder of the two halfback brothers.

The first break came when Oklahoma recovered a Jayhawk fumble in midfield in the waning moments of the second quarter.

Howard Payne Eleven Snowed Under By Powerful Crew At El Paso; Saxon Sends In Many Reserves

EL PASO, Oct. 8 (AP)—Too much power spelled defeat for the Howard Payne Yellow Jackets from Brownwood here today when Texas College of Mines gridders shoved over three touchdowns in the second and third quarters and booted one point after to win, 19 to 7. The only Howard Payne counter came late in the fourth quarter after Coach Mack Saxon had run in a bunch of reserves.

Opening a brilliant passing offensive with Worley and Underwood alternating on the tossing end, the Yellow Jackets worked the ball to within eight yards of the Mines line and Capt. Hoot Masur, on two plays, crashed over for the lone counter. Little converted from placement.

With a wealth of reserve material, something he has not known in recent years, Coach Saxon sent substitutes pouring into the fray from the time of the opening whistle without weakening his team noticeably in any department. J. B. Andrews, veteran Mines quarterback, gained many yards through the Yellow Jacket line and around ends and took his rest heaving passes, one of which hurtled through the air 40-yards for a score.

Closed Burlington Bank To Be Reopened By Moratorium

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 8. (AP)—The Bank of Burlington, closed September 20 after the temporary disappearance of its cashier, H. C. Doherty, will reopen Monday under a "moratorium" agreement., State Bank Commissioner W. J. Barnett announced today.

Doherty, now at Burlington and said by his physician to apparently be suffering from amnesia, has been charged with embezzlement.

Oswald Thieme will remain as president of the bank. John Sutton, formerly of Prague, has been offered Doherty's post.

Cowhands Lose To Ralls High

Coach Hendrix's Jackrabbits Put Over Lone Touchdown In First Quarter To Beat Local Team, 7 To 0, At Ralls

(Special to the Avalanche)

RALLS, Oct. 8.—One of the biggest early season crowds in the history of the town turned out Friday afternoon to see the Ralls High school Jackrabbits defeat Coach Swede McMurray's Lubbock High school Cowhands, the second or "B" squad of Lubbock High 7 to 0.

Coach Hendrix's boys were on their toes all the way in their first game of the season. The counter came early in the game, Fullback Eugene Jones going over for the counter through the Lubbock line.

Locals Miss Chance

The Cowhands missed a good chance to score when a pass was intercepted an the Ralls 2-yard line. It was a 20-yard pass, and seemed almost certain to go for a touchdown until a Ralls back leaped high and intercepted the throw.

Linberry, Cowhand quarterback, was an offensive star of the game. The Cowhands registered ten first downs to Ralls' 13, and were threatening to score nearly all the way.

Line play probably featured the contest. Both lines stacked up well, evenly matched, and were banging away at each other all afternoon. Both sides showed a nice defensive strength. There were few penalties.

The Jackrabbits go to Floydada next Friday afternoon to meet the strong Floydada High school Whirlwind, victors over Plainview High last Monday night. Plainview is a Class A team.

Youth Is Killed By Cave-In As Timber Falls Across Neck

MULESHOE, Oct. 8—(Special)—Clark Smith 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Smith of the Wilson community in southern Bailey county was killed by a cave in of a dugout with a dirt floor at the home. A large timber of the roof fell across his neck breaking it.

Clark with his younger brothers, Wayne and Bennie, were asleep in the dugout. Excessive rains had weakened the roof. During the night the roof fell in. Clark was instantly killed.

Mrs. Smith ran half a mile to bring help. Neighbors came and with buckets and shovels worked half an hour to release the two living boys, imprisoned by the mud debris of the roof and also the rain which was falling at the time.

Fry, county superintendent of schools here and a student at Abilene Christian college, Abilene, was named assistant business manager of The Optimist, one of the school publications. Young Fry is a junior. He is planning to follow newspaper work, his father said.

Local Law Firm Will Aid In Prosecution Of School Head

Levens, McWhorter and Howard, a local law firm, has been retained by relatives of Joe Ramsey, shot and fatally wounded September 29 at Abernathy by L. P. Shaw, then superintendent of schools, to aid in the prosecution of the case, Jess Levens said yesterday.

"We were retained by Mrs. Ramsey," Mr. Levens said. "We will probably help handle the prosecution at the trial. The grand jury is to consider the case when it meets October 17."

Mr. Levens said that Meade F. Griffin, district attorney at Plainview, was busy during the preliminary hearings last week with a murder trial and for that reason it was felt best to have a special counsel.

Pair Of Fleet Backs Harass Eli's Defense

Sahlin And Zimmer Come With In Eye-Lash Of Carrying Back Victory For Grand Old Man Of Coaching

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

YALE BOWL, NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 8. (AP)—A pair of fleet, versatile Chicago backfield stars, Quarterback Vinson Sahlin and Halfback Pete Zimmer, harassed the sluggish Bulldogs of Yale so persistently today that the Maroon held the Blue to a 7 to 7 deadlock.

The two "Pony" backs combined in the second period to complete a 44-yard pass for the touchdown that enabled Chicago to off-set the Eli tally by plunging Joe Crawley, made in the first quarter. They came within an eye-lash of breaking the tie in the closing minutes of the game to gain a victory so eagerly sought for their 70-year old coach and Yale alumnus, Amos Alonzo Stagg.

Ball Called Back

Zimmer, on one of his dazzling returns of punts, twisted through the whole Eli team to cross the goal line near the end of the game on a 35-yard jaunt. The linesman, however, detected that one foot had stepped out of bounds on Yale's 13-yard line and the ball was called back.

Yale scored quickly in the first quarter with the only real offensive exhibition given by the Elis. Dud Parker's 30-yard run-back of a kick planted the ball on Chicago's 30 and a touchdown was tallied in five plays. Joe Crawley plunged five yards through center for the score and Curtin, right tackle, booted the extra point.

After Sahlin scored the Maroon touchdown, taking a diagonal pass from Zimmer in the second quarter, Harlin O Page, jr., fullback, placekicked the tying point.

Chicago registered seven first downs to Yale's 6, advanced the ball 112-yards by rushing to the Elis' 125. Each completed five passes for total gains of 53 yards.

Oklahoma City Goldbugs Win Over Nebraska Wesleyan

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 7 (AP)—The Oklahoma City University Goldbugs packed altogether too much power for Nebraska Wesleyan here last night and won a 39-13 football victory.

A 107-yard dash to a touchdown by Bob Gibbs, Wesleyan fullback, in the second quarter was the loser's only solace. The Goldbugs led 13-7 at the half.

Jim Londos Retains World's Heavyweight Championship

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8 (AP)—Jim Londos retained his world's heavyweight wrestling title claims by defeating George Zaharias of Colorado, in 44 minutes, 44 seconds here last night.

PREVENTION WEEK

October

9th to 16th

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK has been proclaimed by the President of the Uniteed States as a week of activity on the part of the people of this country to give their time and attention to the work of preventing Fires.

More than 80 per cent of the Fires that occur can be prevented. Carelessness, Incindiarism, and other preventable causes of fires can be stopped, and if everyone will do his or her part great good can be done.

In the United States alone during the past year at least 10,000 people lost their lives through Fire, and nearly Five Hundred Million Dollars worth of property was destroyed. Think of the suffering, the loss, the privation and the danger that could have been avoided!

Let us keep on with Fire Prevention work during the next year and the years to come. Don't loose your interest after Fire Prevention Week is over.

NINE RULES OF FIRE PREVENTION

Make sure that your match is out before throwing it away.

Extinguish the last spark of your cigar or cigarette before throwing it away.

Take care lest dry waste or oily rags accumulate in some out-of-the-way corner of your house.

Build your rubbish bonfire where there is no danger of spreading.

Keep matches beyond the reach of your children and your children out of reach of fire.

Have your electrical wiring inspected regularly and repaired when necessary.

Keep your heating system and chimney in perfect working condition.

Avoid using kerosene, benzine or naphtha for cleaning purposes.

Do not Dry Clothes before Gas Stoves or on Electric Wires.

A message from the Mayor of Lubbock
To the Citizenship of Lubbock

The loss of life and property by fire throughout the country is increasing every year. Even in our little city there has been an increase in recent years as compared to former years. More than 10,000 people lost their lives as a result of fire during the past year in the United States and more than Five Hundred Million dollars worth of property was destroyed.

Not only do fires cause loss of life and property; they also cause privation, cause high premium rates on insurance protection and endanger our neighbors.

The City Government is doing everything possible to prevent fires in Lubbock. It maintains one of the best Fire Departments in the Country, a full-time Fire Marshall, a Fire Prevention Board, and an inspection service. It offers an arson reward of $1,000.

But the City needs the cooperation of every man, woman and child in the community. Our people must exercise constant watchfulness and care. I am appealing to you for help in this important and necessary work.

Sincerely,

J. J. CLEMENTS,
Mayor.

$1000 Reward

The City of Lubbock will pay $1000 cash for information sufficient to apprehend and convict any person or persons of arson committed in the City of Lubbock.

As strange as it may seem, many fires are caused by arson. Some people deliberately burn their own property and the property of others. This must be stopped. A large reward is offered by the City of Lubbock for information that will result in arrest and conviction of such persons.

Watch vacant houses in your neighborhood – report all suspicious circumstances to the Chief of Police.

Fireman's Contest Monday

Teams of Lubbock Fire Department will compete in a Fire Fighting methods contest Monday, which includes a run by the Fire Department.

The public is invited to be at the back of the Hilton at 4 o'clock, to see these contests.

A Departmental Drill will be held Thursday.

The Public Is Invited!

Free Inspection Service

Telephone the City Hall for an inspector to check up your fire hazards. This service is absolutely Free. He will look over your electric wiring and appliances, your gas connections and stoves, your flues, and other hazards and advise you how to eliminate the danger from Fire.

Award Checks To Be Mailed

Seventy-Five Per Cent Of The Total Amount Of Premiums At Panhandle-Plains Will Be Paid

Checks to premium winners at the Panhandle-South Plains fair, which closed Oct. 1 will be mailed from association offices beginning Monday, it was announced Saturday after a meeting of association directors.

Directors announced that 75 per cent of the premiums would be paid. Total cash awards amount to $2,936, and with the red ribbons $2,202 will be paid.

"The Panhandle South Plains Fair association reserves the right to pay printed premiums in ratio to net earnings," a general rule in the fair catalog, pointed out yesterday. It read: "The association has always paid all premiums in full and hopes to do so this year, however, as premiums and all other expenses must be paid from gate and other receipts, if had from the operation of the fair itself, this condition is made to put exhibitors on due and legal notice."

That another large fair of Texas had paid only 30 per cent of its premium list was pointed out.

A complete financial statement of the fair's condition will be made soon, it was said. Principal expenses mentioned included $2,095 for prizes, $2,202 for premiums, $1,165 for attractions, $164 for printing catalog, $227 for ribbons, $515 for labor on the grounds, and about $600 for advertising. Neither the manager nor any fair official received any remuneration for his part in the fair, it was pointed out.

More Than 1900 Have Paid Fees

More than 1900 Tech students have paid the Artist course fee at Tech Technological college, by far the largest number ever to subscribe for these entertainments. The program consists of two plays to be given November 9 and 10. W. R. Waghorne, chairman of the committee, announces matinee performances for both plays in order to accommodate the large number who have bought tickets.

Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man" is booked for November 9 and "The Murder of the Red Barn," a melodrama of the 1840 period is scheduled for November 10. Both performances will be given in the new high school auditorium.

Seat sales for the two plays, matinee and night performances, are now open to faculty members and the people of Lubbock in the lobby of the administration building of the college and in room 306-A. The price for reserved seats is $2 for the afternoon and $2.50 for night shows. These tickets also include two concerts during the year, one in the winter term and one in the spring term.

Shaw Resigns As Head Of Abernathy School System

ABERNATHY, Oct. 8—(Special)—L. P. Shaw, superintendent of schools here, charged with the slaying of Joe Ramsey, has resigned his post and Frank Andrews, principal of the high school is acting in his place, it is announced here.

Shaw resigned following his release on bond on a charge of assault with intent to murder filed in connection with the shooting. About the time the board was discussing the resignation, Ramsey is said to have been very low. He died at 7:20 the same night.

School is to be dismissed October 14 for cotton picking the board has decided. It is understood that a new superintendent is to be named then.

Every clergyman who preaches in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, is presented with a bottle of sherry wine.

School Clubs Map Programs

Of Nine Organizations Sponsored And Recognized By Officials Four Already Are Reorganized This Year

Of the nine clubs recognized and sponsored by high school officials four have reorganized and are making definite plans for the year's program of activities, according to reports from the sponsors.

With Misses Gertrude Daniel and Gertrude Watson as sponsors, the Mary Emma club is meeting regularly and has outlined a program for the year.

Pep Squad Meets

Under the guidance of Dan Powers and Mrs. J. O. Morgan the Pep squad and the six new leaders are meeting to work on drills and songs as well as yells for the football season.

The National Honor society, composed of students who have an average of 90 or more in all school work, is to re-organize in the near future, according to Miss Grace Padley, sponsor. This club will have more than sixty-five eligible for membership this year.

The Girls club under Miss Nell Parmley, dean of girls, has been organized and is active in the upbuilding of the moral, religious, and physical status of the girls in high school. As yet, J. C. Brown, dean of boys, has not called a meeting of the Boys club. Both the Girls club and the Boys club are composed of students making an average grade of ninety-six in citizenship and have received not more than three detentions during the preceding semester.

Latin Club Meets

Mrs. R. P. Johnson is sponsor of the Latin club, which meets every week.

Girl Reserves, junior branch of the Young Women's Christian association, has not re-organized this year and, unless more interest is shown, will not do so, Miss Padley, chief sponsor, said.

The "L" association, athletic organization in which membership is honorary, has not held a formal meeting this year, W. B. Chapman, coach and chief sponsor, reported.

Because of so many outside activities during this season, the Dramatic club will not reorganize until December, Miss Parmley stated.

Assistants Help School Teachers

That students of Lubbock High school are not only being helped by the teachers, but are helping the teachers to a great extent, is indicated by the number of student assistants in the library, and the offices of the principal and the dean of girls.

In the library the eighteen student librarians, three for each period, are Lillian Baker, Elva Mae Hunt, Virginia Newton, Willena Nelson, Josephine Powell, Alice Graham, Sara Sue Stewart, Frances Campbell, Madeline Neves, Nancy Jo Haymes, Wildring B. Sherrod, Evelyn Spaulding, Ruth Wagner, Mary Thomas, Ruth Black, Roleta Izard, and Carolyn Whitworth.

In the principal's office six girls are helping Miss Marye Kincaid, registrar. These students are Billie Bob Jones, Mary Thomas, Katherine Klett, Beatrice Mills, Johnnie Mullins, and Inez Mullins.

Miss Nell Parmley, dean of girls, is assisted in her office by one girl each period, except the last period. They are Gwendolyn Cox, Marguerite Spencer, Josephine Powell, Helen Wagner and Grace Johnson.

More Students In Biology Courses

According to W. C. Watts, instructor in biology, forty-four more students enrolled in that department this year than last. At the beginning of the fall term last year, 151 students were enrolled. This year 195 have chosen this subject, making an increase of 29 percent.

The department is equipped for 180 students in five periods, or an average of thirty pupils in each class. This year there are enough students for six full classes and fifteen over. To meet this overflow Mrs. Gregg James has taken over the fourth period class.

An aquarium of forty fish and several water plants has been started. More fish and plants are to be added from time to time.

The course will include a study of the principal phases of biology, physiology, and botany. The students are studying biology now. The course in physiology will come in the winter, and botany in the spring.

Lubbock High Graduate Is Still Interested In School

Stanley Gunn, a freshman at the University of Texas this year and a mid-term graduate of Lubbock High's last year senior class, has written back to this school saying that he wished to subscribe to the "Westerner World" this year and to inquire after the progress of Westerners in general.

He was a member of the journalism class during his junior year and was sports writer on the Westerner World staff for two years. He was also sports editor of the year book last year.

Girls Outnumber Boys In Nearly All Classes And Activities At Lubbock High School This Year, Survey Shows

Girls outnumber boys in nearly all classes and activities at Lubbock High school according to a recent survey.

Of the 1108 students registered 619 are girls. According to the roll of classes in Principal R. W. Matthews' office, the senior class is made up of 153 girls and 125 boys. In the junior class 182 of the members are girls and 140 are boys. The sophomore class is represented by 130 boys and 185 girls. The high freshman class breaks the law of average, however, by having only 53 girls and 120 boys.

Girls' Grades Better

The grades of the fair sex are far above those of the young men. In the senior class of 1932, of the 31 honor graduates only nine were boys.

Twenty-four boys are members of the Good Citizenship club. There are 35 girls. The girls division is sponsoring social activities for the new students, while the boys prefer to work for the general good of the school.

Mrs. R. T. Groves, Miss Nell Parmley and Miss Marye Kincaide prefer girls to aid them. Eighteen girls assist Mrs. Groves in the library while Miss Parmley employs five girls in her office. Miss Kincaide is assisted by six girls.

In Latin tournaments the young women take the lead as do they in membership of the club. Only one boy is an officer.

Music Contests

As to music contests and festivals, the youths of Lubbock High school enter band, voice, piano, and violin, and they really can hold their own in this, for several young men won first places in the Tri-State festival.

The lads shine their lights in football, for they won the bi-district honors last year.

Young ladies of the school have won three grand awards in the state home economic rallies, as well as two third places and one second since 1927.

In the district one-act play only one girl was a member of the cast; however she was chosen the best actress of this district.

Girls are banned from the scenes of woodwork classes, but five of the fair sex insist on taking mechanical drawing.

Boys Prefer Magazines

In the library the boys prefer magazines. Girls come into this department to study reference books mostly, but come in to read for pleasure. According to librarians, the New York Times, Boys Life, Popular Science, Popular Mechanics and fiction are preferred by the boys.

Young women read more from Good Housekeeping, The American and Home Economics, and history books are used mostly in reference work.

Girls and boys prefer detentions to demerits, because of the rule requiring all students who have more than ten demerits to take examinations. An average of 26 attend the four o'clock session, 65 per cent being boys.

Attendance Records

Boys are more regular in attendance, yet more of the boys are unable to reach classes before 8:50.

The commercial department reports about one-half of students in bookkeeping are boys. In typing classes girls are seen more.

Four girls and two boys will pilot the pep squad for 1932-33. About 20 boys are members of the club and 100 girls.

Mr. McMurry is sponsoring a group of 30 boys to do tumbling acts at football games.

For athletic entertainments, girls prefer tennis, swimming and golf.

The boys enter track, tennis, football, swimming, basketball, and several high school boys have won honors in golf.

Girls Outnumbered

Boys outnumber girls in debate class this year by three to one. Last season boys won the district meet, with the girls following with a close second. The girls won more of the practice debates than did the boys.

Some fifty boys of high school are active in Boy Scout work. The Camp Fire Girls' membership of high school students is slowly decreasing, although Girl Scout work is reviving.

Smile Favored
Girls Give Views In Questionaire

Senior high school girls consider that the ability to smile is the outstanding characteristic of a charming woman. This was indicated by answers to a questionaire given to the senior girls last Tuesday, following a discussion of what constitutes an ideal personality led by Mrs. W P. Clement.

Cleanliness and neatness together ranked second in the list of the ten outstanding qualities of a charming woman. Other distinguishing traits of a pleasing personality were cheerfulness, friendliness, courtesy, honesty, kindness, good sportsmanship, helpfulness, and cooperation.

New Students At High School Are From 12 States

Twelve states are represented by new students who have increased the enrollment at senior high school to 1104. Representatives from Oklahoma outnumber those from other states.

Students from Oklahoma are Birt Skipper, Altus; Lois Patton, Wilson; Ray Hope, Frederick; Frances and Richard Walter, Alva.

Those from New Mexico are: Harshell Hill, Clovis; Winifred Gower, Portales; Waldo Bourgeois, Ft. Summer; and Doris Townsend, Lovington.

Other new students are: Jean Blair, Holbrock, Arizona; Ioah Mac Tipton, Flagstaff, Arizona; Haws Hiatt, Bloomington, Illinois; Robert Stahler, Parsons, Kansas; Bob Payne, Garden City, Kansas; Larry Doyle, Kingman, Kansas; Beatrice Seitz, Greenbank, West Virginia; Virginia Steigleder, Fayetteirlle, Arkansas; Jo Jean Ramey, Redlands, California; Margo de Groffenreid Hollywood, California; Virginia Knapp, Auburn, Alabama; John Lannom, Paris, Tennessee; Burgess Dixon, Greenwood, Mississippi; Lyman Long, Des Moines, Iowa; Raymond Gulley, Las Vegas, Nevada; Helen Elkins, Winnsboro, Nevada.

New Girls, Their Mothers Honored

Honoring the new girls of Lubbock High school and their mothers, the Girls' Good Citizenship club held an informal open house, Wednesday afternoon from 4 until 5 o'clock in the school gymnasium.

Invitations were issued to the eighty-six new girls and their mothers, the mothers of the club members, and the women teachers.

The Halloween motif of orange and black was carried out in the flowers on the refreshment table, from which cookies and punch were served by the members of the club.

The guests were greeted at the door by the officers of the club. The receiving line was composed of Beatrice Mills, president; Ruth Wagner, vice-president, and Idyle Glenn Abbott, secretary. Jim Fay Ashmore and Sara Sue Stewart then introduced the guests to the club members.

A short musical program was arranged by Miss Nell Parmley, sponsor of the club. Arline Harris, Louise Hodges, Willena Nelson, Nancy Jo Haymes, Mary Thomas, and Ruth Wagner played piano selections during the hour.

Wins Diploma
Coach Model Made By Freshman

Although a miniature model Napoleonic coach displayed in the exhibition case on the first floor of the high school building last week was not one of the four best chosen in the nation, it won for its maker, Milton Walker, a Fisher Body craftsman guild diploma in a contest last summer in Detroit.

Milton, a freshman, was recommended as one of the best workmen in the manual training department by E. E. Key, instructor in woodwork, when R. S. Mayes of the local Chevrolet company offered to furnish twenty-five dollars worth of material for the construction of the coach.

Walker's entry won a place in the preliminary contest held in Dallas in July, but ranked below the first four at the final contest in Detroit, where models from all parts of the United States were competing.

The prize sought was a four-year scholarship in any outstanding university chosen by the winner. Walker's work received favorable comment from the judges, but inaccurate measurements were pointed out as the major fault.

Girls Will Hear Series Of Talks

Featuring some of the outstanding men and women of the city and of the high school faculty, a series of programs for high school girls during the school year has been planned by Miss Nell Parmley, dean of girls.

Mrs. Ruby Gilbreath, superintendent of nurses at the West Texas hospital, will discuss "Health and Charm" before the entire group of girls on October 25.

The girls' relation to athletics will be the subject of discussion when Mrs. J. O. Morgan, Mrs. John McMurry, Miss Zella Reigel, and Miss Johnnye Gilkerson will speak to the various classes of girls on "The Girl and Athletics" on November 22.

Mrs. W. P. Jennings will address the girls on "The Ideal Girl" on January 17, and "The Girl and Her Problems" will be discussed by Miss Harriet Tilden, Mrs. W. R. Dingus, Mrs. Mary Doak, and Miss Margaret Weeks in the various groups.

Other members of the Texas Technological college faculty, Dean James M. Gordon and Cecil Horne, will talk on choosing a vocation at programs arranged during the spring semester.

Matthews Names Directors Of Interscholastic League

Directors for the Interscholastic league events were appointed by Principal R. W. Matthews at a teachers meeting Tuesday morning. The directors were chosen for their particular ability and knowledge, a number of them holding the same positions as they did last year.

The complete list of directors is as follows: J. W. Reid, debate; C. C. Cox, extemporaneous speaking; D. W. Powers, declamation; G. N. Atkinson, spelling; Miss Ethel Lawson, typing; Miss Dorothy Lomax, essay; Mrs. W. P. Clement, music; Miss Hazel Arnold, journalism; and Miss Lula Mae Cravens, one-act play.

The directors were appointed early this year in order that students might be well trained for the coming Interscholastic meets, Mr. Matthews stated.

Fifteen Are Working Out For Position On Debating Team

Fifteen Lubbock High School students are working out daily on the Texas Interschlolastic league question of taxes for a position on the debating team coached by J. W. Reid. Only three students, Alton Hankins, Frances Simmons, and Wildring B. Sherrod, have had experience in debating.

Other students in the class are Marguerite Spencer, Pauline Hawthon, Nell Wright, Lewis Spears, James Kimmel, John Shropshire, Robert Overton, Earl Walker, Donald Henry, Ralph Bumpass, Elwood Patty and Russell Wilkinson.

In the district meet of 1932 the boys team won the meet and represented Lubbock High school in the state tournament, and the girls placed second in their division.

Lubbock Spanish Teachers To Attend Meeting At Plainview

Three Lubbock High School Spanish teachers, Mrs. T. L. Mullican, Mrs. W. E. Burford and Miss Velma McCandless, will attend a meeting of Llano Estacado West Texas organization of Hispanic Society of Spanish Teachers, at Wayland college, Plainview, October 15, to take part in a discussion of Spanish.

Other schools who will have teachers participating in the event are West Texas State Teachers college, Canyon High school, Tech college, Amarillo High school, Plainview High school, and Wayland college. All Spanish teachers of West Texas are invited.

Mrs. Mullican head of Spanish American department in Lubbock High school, will speak on the Spanish American novel, "Amalia," by Marmol.

ORDER SPANISH PAPER

La Luz, a Spanish newspaper, has been ordered for Spanish students. The paper will be issued twice a month, and about 325 students will read it.

"Getting Acquainted With Mary-Emma Club" Theme Of Series Of Programs

"Getting Acquainted with the Mary-Emma Club" is the theme of a series of programs given during the past two weeks and outlined by Misses Gertrude Daniel and Gertrude Watson, sponsors of the club and teachers in the home economics department.

The club, which represents the home economics department in outside activities, is affiliated with both state and national home economics associations.

Attend Meetings

Representatives from the club have been present at all the Texas Home Economics club meetings, which are held annually during each home making rally. Lubbock was hostess to the rally in May, 1931.

Representatives from the club also take an active part in the West Texas district home economics club programs, which are held semi-annually each school year. The next district meeting is to be at Slaton.

The unique manner of naming the club, which won national recognition for the organizations in 1928, is, according to Miss Watson, one of the most interesting subjects of discussion among the new members.

Chosen In Contest

The name, Mary-Emma, chosen in honor of the club's patronesses, Mrs. Mary Green and Mrs. Emma Burns, was selected through a contest conducted by the girls in 1927, when a number of pioneer women of this section were guests of the home economics students. Each guest was invited to tell of her experiences in home making during the early days in Lubbock, and this proved so interesting that the girls decided to name their club for one of these pioneer home makers. The vote resulted in a tie between Mrs. Green and Mrs. Burns.

Mrs. Burns is the wife of R. C. Burns, well-known ranchman whose life story has recently been told by Dr. W. C. Holden in his book "Rollie Burns".

Motto Is "Service to Others"

The club motto, "service to fellowship with other students in and each for the other", have been a source of inspiration to all who have tried to uphold the ideals of the club and have created splendid feellowship with other students in the high school as well as with Mary-Emma girls, Miss Watson stated.

The aims of this club are to bring together girls that are interested in home economics; to stimulate this interest; to offer opportunities in home economics; to establish friendship; to develop personality, leadership, self-reliance, initiative, and social poise; and to promote democracy.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 8. (AP)—The cotton market was active today with publication of the government crop estimate. The market was quite weak in early trading because of fears that the bureau would be bearish and prices lost 33 to 35 points from yesterday's close. The report placing the indicated yield at 11,425,000 bales was 115,000 bales larger than last month and resulted in immediate decline of 12 to 21 points. This decline brought prices to levels 48 to 56 points below the previous close. The close was barely steady and 2 to 10 points above the lows, but 44 to 47 points net down.

The market opened easy with active trading. Liverpool cables came in 2 to 3 penny points beter than due. First trades showed losses of 3 to 11 points net down.

The market opened easy with active trading. Liverpool cables came in 2 to 3 penny points better than due. First trades showed losses of 3 to 11 points and prices continued to ease under liquidation and hedge selling and December dropped to 6.87 and March to 7.00 down 7 to 11 points compared with yesterday's close.

After a rally of 7 to 8 points the market turned decidedly weak on heavy liquidation and December had dropped to 6.61 and March to 6.78 or 33 to 35 points below the close of yesterday.

After the government estimate was issued and trading was resumed the first reaction to the report was a drop to 6.40 for December or 21 points below the pre-bureau low while January dropped to 6.52 down 12 points and March to 6.72 only 8 points down. The decline compared with yesterday's close however reached 39 to 56 points.

The market ruled nervous and erratic with fairly active trading. At one time prices rallied 19 points on December to 6.59 and 13 points on January to 6.64, but the market eased off moderately later on hedge selling. The final figures were near the lows, except for December which was 10 points above its low. December closed at 6.50 down 46 points net for the day and March closed at 6.65 also down 46 points net.

Port receipts 28,404, for season 1,828,425, last season, 1,837,629, exports 28,071, for season 1,367,586, last season 887,058. Port stock 3,734,508, last year 3,829,058. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 84,477, last year 94,231. Spot sales at southern markets 60,429, last year 9,290.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—The government report placing the indicated cotton crop at 11,425,000 bales for about 287,000 bales above the average of recent private figures, was both preceded and followed by declines in the market today.

December contracts sold off to 6.52 at the lowest, making a net loss of 47 points and closed at 6.54 with the general market closing steady at net declines of 43 to 47 points.

The opening was 10 to 13 points lower and by the time trading was suspended to receive crop figures December contracts had eased off to 6.75, or about 24 points net lower. Other months showed similar declines, and liquidation became more active after the publication of the report.

A fairly active demand was reported from domestic and foreign trade sources as prices worked lower, but active months sold off to net losses of 44 to 48 points. Closing quotatins were within 2 or 3 points of the lowest on active positions.

The government report on ginning appeared to be about in line with expectations.

Liverpool cables said that hedging and liquidation had been absorbed by Bombay buying and trade calling in that market.

Financial Markets End Reactionary Week Saturday; Trend Is Downward

BY JOHN L. COOLEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Financial markets finished a reactionary week today with trends still downward.

Stocks benefitted by late covering to the extent that extreme losses of 1 to 3 points or more were reduced, but trades exhibited no great haste in protecting short side profits and the market was quieter on the upturn than on the decline.

Losses of $2 a bale in cotton, reflecting the crop estimate, provided little comfort to a wobbling share market, nor did wheat's early heaviness afford consolation. Bonds again averaged lower. U. S. government issues giving some ground coincident with weakness of dollars against foreign monies.

The share market shifted frequently during the two hours. Publication of a favorable railroad earnings statement, which appeared before the cotton figures, made for a steadier tone in the rail shares, momentarily but failed to have much influence on the general list. Net losses of numerous leaders ranged from fractions to a point, although the averages showed a decline of fust two points. Turnover totaled 1,533,260 shares.

United Steel common, with an unfilled tonnage statement coming next Monday noon, halved a one point loss and the preferred rallied nearly 2 net. Bethlehem was soggy off 1 3-4, while General Motors, American Smelting, Westinghouse, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio, North American, Consolidated Gas, American Tobacco "B" and Case yielded 1 to 2 net. Norfolk and Western flopped 5 on a few sales.

Loadings of revenue freight rose 26,329 cars to 622,073 in the week ended October 1, the total being a new high for the year while the increase was larger than had been forecast.

National headquarters will be established in Lubbock within the next 30 days, Mr. Winn stated. "It is the ultimate object of this organization to remove the price making on all agricultural products from the exchange of the country which is at present only a gamble, and place it in the hands of the producers of these crops, which, in the last analysis, is the only solution of the producer's problems," Mr. Winn said.

T. W. Moss, Levelland, national president and legislative representative, is the founder, having started the group several months ago. F. L. Scott, Levelland, is vice-president and chairman of the board of directors; G. A. Graham, Morton, national secretary; W. H. Blackwell, national chaplain. Directors include: R. E. Rose, Morton; B. W. Pep Rally Is Staged Under Direction Of New Leaders

Under the direction of the newly elected pep leaders, Joyce Williams, Julia Blackwell, Newma Mae Roberts, Christine Smith, Padgett Maddox, and Clifton Cocanaugher, a pep rally was held in the auditorium Thursday afternoon at the regular assembly period.

The rally, which was one of the largest ever staged in the high school, consisted of pep songs and talks on past games. The Westerner motto, "Sportsmanship Then Victory", was featured on the program. Superintendent M. H. Duncan, R. W. Matthews, D. W. Powers, and E. J. Lowrey were among the speakers.

The rally was the climax of several small pep meetings which were given during the week.

Livestock

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 8. (AP)—Cattle trade during the week under review was marked by an uneven price decline on killing classes while the rank and file of stockers and feeders also ruled weak to lower. Beef steers and yearlings are 25-75 lower than a week ago, short fed offerings which were in liberal supply taking the big end of the decline. Choice kinds at most markets showed losses of 50. Chicago had a top of 10.00 on strictly choice weighty steers and on the windup it took a highly finished load of steers to exceed 8.50. Aggregate receipts at eleven markets for the week totaled around 221,000, against 225,700 last week and 251,630 the corresponding period a year ago.

Hogs were unevenly 10-40 lower for the week with late quotations slightly higher than the low spot at mid-week. St. Louis had a top of 3.95. Total offerings were around 335,000, a decrease of 16,000 from last week and 73,000 short of a year ago.

Fat lambs after opening on a week to 25 lower basis strengthened on the close and at some markets early losses were recovered. Other killing classes and feeding lambs were unchanged. The supply approximated 447,500 as compared with 457,769 last week and 492,218 a year ago.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

Construction To Open On Monday

Construction work on highway 24 east will start Monday morning, Homer D. Grant, of the Panhandle Construction company said Saturday. Work order has been received by the company from Austin and it was decided to wait until fair weather before starting work.

Huddleston Construction company of Crosbyton will not begin construction work on No. 24 in Crosby county between the west side of road district No. 1 and the county line west of Lorenzo for a few days. It was understood at the highway department office here that the company is completing grading and drainage work between Idalou and Lorenzo in a short time and would then go to the Crosby county job.

The work order for the grading job in Garza county between Post and Justiceburg bridge has not been issued to Hannah and Hill, the contractors, as far as is known here. The order is expected soon.

There was a delay in surfacing work on No. 137 between Lubbock and the county line. Caliche has been spread but a sub-contract was to have been let for asphalt work. Rock is piled along the shoulders ready for surfacing.

Lack of sufficient rock has delayed asphalt work on No. 137 in Gaines county between Seagraves and Seminole. In Andrews county the asphalt surfacing is almost completed.

Sterling Says Request For Loans Must Be In By Oct. 15

LONGVIEW, Oct. 8. (AP)—Hubert M. Harrison, general manager of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, said today after a long distance telephone conversation with Governor R. S. Sterling that the chief executive told him all Texas cities seeking aid from the Reconstruction Finance corporation must have their applications in the governor's hands by October 15.

Applications from East Texas cities and counties are being received daily by the East Texas chamber and will be examined at a meeting here next week.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Robust activity and strength sprang up in the corn market today and helped rescue wheat from bearish effects of a big upset of cotton values.

Wheat temporarily gave way under a renewal of stop loss selling, and outdid the season's latest bottom price record. A fairly large export business in corn gave rise to a widespread impression that United States corn prices were now on a world basis. Talk was heard, however that the corn so far taken for overseas had been upon a below re-placement basis.

Corn closed unsettled 3-8 to 3-4 above yesterday's finish, wheat a shade to 1-8 down, oats 1-8 to 1-4 up, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents lower.

Another Man Is Arrested In South Plains Bogus Roundup

Ben F. Overstreet, charged with conspiracy to pass bogus $100 bills, was arrested Saturday and his bond was set at $3,500 by U. S. Commissioner Victor H. Lindsey. Mrs. Rena Massey, also facing the same charge, had not been arrested late yesterday, it was said.

Six men, charged Friday in connection with the appearance of bogus bills in this section, had not made bond late Saturday. They are: Roy Fox, Paducah, charged with conspiracy to pass the bills and with possession of certain of the notes; A. O. Bybee, Ralls, charged with conspiracy and with passing a counterfeit $100 bill; W. E. and C. C. Combs, Dickens; and C. C. Stephens, Ralls. Fox's bonds were set at $5,000 in each case and bail for the others was $3,500 each.

Thirty-three false $100 federal reserve notes were said to have been uncovered, including nine in Lubbock.

Night Depository Is Installed Here By Bank; Only One In Plains Region

Evidencing faith in Lubbock and the South Plains, Citizens National bank has installed a night depository, to be used by merchants and other subscribers after banking hours, and throughout holidays and Sundays.

Sam C. Arnett, president of the bank, was quoted Saturday as expressing a belief that conditions are improving in this region, that Lubbock is in a particularly fortunate part of the country, and that installation of the night depository is only one instance of the bank's intention to "move forward with the times." The depository was bought from the Mosler Safe company, and installation was supervised by J. B. Maxey, Lubbock contractor. Citizens National bank officials believe it is the only depository of the kind on the South Plains.

With a capacity for 50 filled leather bags of the kind issued to subscribers, the depository's front is at the left side of the bank's front doors, illuminated by a street lamp, and on a downtown police beat. Six inches of concrete and an inch of manganese steel form the wall of the depository, which has a screw-tight door and a time-lock.

Use of the depository costs $10 a year. Each subscriber is given a numbered money bag, with a lock and two keys for it, and a key to the depository door. The depositor is instructed to put his deposit in the bag, lock it, and put it in the depository. When the bank opens in the morning, he should call at the teller's window for the bag, still unlocked, and then can make his deposit in the usual way. Object of the depository is to relieve merchants and others from carrying large sums of money on their persons or leaving it in their business safes.

The depository probably will be ready for use late Monday, a bank officer said Saturday. Asserting Citizens bank was prepared to be as progressive as it believed this territory to be, he described the night depository as one which would "do justice to a city bank" and as having "the lowest rate of burglary insurance." Many such depositories he said, do not have time-locks.

The company from which the strongbox was bought informed the local bank that a door of such a depository never had been successfully blasted, the bank officer added.

Babson Says Reaction In Bonds Emphasizes Bargains Still Available

Confidence In Recovery Seen By Financier

Evidence Of Improvement In Financial Situation Held Strong; Twelve Reasons For Gains Are Listed

(Copyright For Avalanche-Journal)

Babson Park, Mass. Oct. 8. —The recent reaction in bonds after a long sustained rise merely emphasizes the bargains which are still available. Evidence is strong of growing confidence both in business recovery and in the financial situation. At present the average of bond prices is about half way up from the extreme depression lows and is still far below normal. Wise investors will take advantage of present opportunities for the following twelve reasons:

1. BONDS ANTICIPATE A BUSINESS UPTURN

Clear evidence of improving business is shown by reports from nearly all sections of the country. The bond market has always lead the way to recovery after depressions and should continue to do so in this instance.

2. WORLD-WIDE TREND TOWARD LOWER INTEREST RATES.

Successful conversion of the British war loan to a 3 1-2 per cent basis from a 5 per cent rate shows plainly the trend toward lower world interest rates and the easier international money condition. The return of hoarded gold to United States banks and the inflow of foreign investment funds greatly eases the money situation here. This is conducive to rising prices for good bonds.

3. BANKS WILL BECOME LARGE BUYERS

A tremendous reservoir of money is lying idle in our banks, and earning almost nothing. Excess reserves of the banks are at peak figures. A great potential store of credit, as industry revives and confidence further returns, will later find its way largely into bond investment. Already the New York banks are more active in bond buying.

4. INSURANCE COMPANIES LARGE POTENTIAL BUYERS

As yet the insurance companies have not entered the bond market to any extent. They all have kept in a highly liquid condition. Now with demand for policy loans diminishing and confidence in the credit situation rapidly being restored, insurance companies will be freer in their investment purchases.

5. GOVERNMENT CREDIT MUCH IMPROVED

Plans for conversion of a large part of the national treasury debt into long term issues indicates confidence in high quarters for a firm bond market. Every effort will be made to sustain the market for the purpose of this government issue. If successful, as seems assured, it will prove further stimulant to general confidence and accelerate investment buying.

6. PUMPING IN GOVERNMENT CREDIT EASES MONEY SITUATION

Operations of the Federal Reserve Banks in the purchase of government securities, and funds made available through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation have greatly increased the supply of credit. The monetary crisis appears definitely passed and confidence in the dollar is restored—factors favorable to bond purchases.

7. RAILROAD OUTLOOK BETTER

General satisfaction with Roosevelt's railroad pronoucements; the formation of a new national committee of bankers to help solve railroad problems; the consummation of the four-party eastern rail consolidation plan—all are favorable to the railroad outlook. Improvement in car loadings and the prospects for reviving general business are helpful factors. Even though some rails may ultimately have to go through reorganizations the bonds of the stronger roads should move higher.

8. POLITICS NOT DISTURBING

Growing belief in financial quarters that both candidates may be relied upon to follow sound financial policies does away with much of the earlier fear of radical financial legislation. Whoever is elected, good bonds should continue to move higher.

9. BONDS FIRST TO BENEFIT FROM IMPROVING EARNINGS

While corporate earnings' results for 1932 will make very poor reading, benefit from recent improvement in commodity prices and business will gradually be seen in later income statements. Bonds will be the first to benefit and will doubtless discount the improvement some time before the better earnings statements appear.

10. SUPPLY OF NEW ISSUES LIMITED

When bond buying once really gets started in volume it will be found that the supply of desirable issue is limited. Since 1929 practically no new financing of importance has been undertaken. In the meantime a great many bonds have matured and been retired. The Law of Supply and Demand will operate to raise prices in the bond market when real buying once starts just as it is beginning to operate in commodities where shortages appear.

11. PROSPECTS OF BONUS PASSAGE SLIGHT

Public sentiment is strong against the Soldiers' Bonus payment. There are no indications that the incoming Congress will pass any crippling financial measures of this nature. Some compromise relief measures may be adopted, but there will be no $2,000,000,000 cash outlay.

12. GREATER FINANCIAL STABILITY ABROAD

The recent action of the foreign exchanges indicates greater stability in foreign finances, which is helpful to finanical confidence here. While I have not and do not recommend the purchase of foreign bonds, I recognize that the improvement abroad, even though slight, may have a distinctly beneficial effect in domestic banking circles.

Discrimination Necessary

Naturally the first class of bonds to advance have been the gilt-edge issues, including governments, high-grade municipals, and the best rails and utilities. It is but natural that bankers and other investors, who have been through trying experiences with inferior bonds, are seeking safety first. However, as general business improves this scramble for safety in investment will gradually give way to a more enterprising attitude, helpful to the second-grade and more speculative issues.

There will be reactions and hesitation, but the long trend is toward better prices. Investors should remember that not all bonds are worthy of the name and discrimination in purchase is absolutely essential. Not only should he seek companies with strong assets and a good earnings record but most important he should buy only into those companies operated by men of sterling character and high ideals of public service.

One Hundred And 25 Tons Of Unfit Food Destroyed By State Inspectors

One hundred and twenty-five tons of unfit food was destroyed after state food and drug inspectors inspected 9,903 food and drug establishments in 407 cities and towns in June, July and August, according to a summary sheet by E. G. LeMay, director of the bureau of foods and drugs, and received by D. F. Wulfman, City bacteriologist and chemist here.

Lubbock was one of the municipalities in which inspections were made. Director LeMay stated that a large quantity of canned salmon and sardines in one city was found to be unfit; several lots of celery containing excessive arsenic spray were shipped into the state; coffee roasters and retail dealers were found selling coffee which had been adulterated with cereal, with no statement of such on the label.

Forty-six convictions and pleas of guilty were had in the quarter for violations of the food and drug laws. A Lubbock grocer has been fined in justice court since the opening of the current quarter on a plea of guilty of selling coffee adulterated with cereal and not so labeled.

In Lubbock, swollen canned goods led in condemnation as unfit for human consumption, Mr. Wulfman said.

Lieutenant Colonel David Main, Dallas, head of the Salvation Army division in Texas, has been given a three month's leave of absence, on account of his health, according to Captain W. T. New Whistle

Two-Tone Effect Is Produced

A new type of whistle is being tried out on the main line of the Santa Fe with certain fast train engines.

The whistle, operated by the airbrake tank instead of by steam, is in front of the engine. There are two horns, and the sound is driven down the track ahead of the train.

A two tone effect is produced instead of the shrill blast of the present type of steam whistle. In the event the desired results are obtained it is expected the whistle will be adopted generally.

TO DISCUSS BUDGET

O'DONNELL, Oct. 8.—Property owners of O'Donnell have been asked to meet the board of equalization on Monday, to discuss the proposed city budget for the coming year, W. A. Tredway, city secretary, stated.

Shoes And Socks Are Measured By Bushel After Clothes Drive

Shoes and socks were measured by the bushel and garments were in heaped assortments Saturday afternoon at the Lubbock Salvation Army corps' quarters at 1404 Texas avenue, following collection of donations by Lubbock residents for use by the welfare agency in its helping of transients and other persons in immediate need.

The Lubbock district Boy Scout committee on civic service sponsored the drive, in which 970 garments, 186 pairs of shoes, a bushel of socks, 30 cans of food, a sack of turnips, about 25 pounds of flour, a jar of jelly, a bedstead, a cot, two mattresses, a sheet, 12 pillow cases, and eight quilts were contributed by Lubbock residents. The 970 articles classed as garments included miscellaneous apparel and about 30 hats.

Mayor J. J. Clements is chairman of the scout civic service committee. At 9 o'clock Saturday morning, scouts were assigned at City hall by D. T. Jennings, council executive, to automobiles which carried them about the city to collect donated bundles from porches. Seven volunteer automobiles, and an automobile and a truck owned by the Salvation Army were used.

The apparel contributed ranged from a boy's Indian suit and sweaters, jumpers and other garments for small children, to men's trousers, shirts, and a necktie or two.

Mrs. W. T. Wilson, wife of the captain commanding the Lubbock Salvation Army corps, expressed appreciation of the help of Mayor Clements, Mr. Jennings, Boy Scouts, persons who had their cars in the canvass, all those who contributed, and others participating.

The stacks of apparel will be assorted more thoroughly this week. G. A. Dickerson, in immediate charge of the count, said.

Mr. Dickerson, supervisor of the agency's list of jobless cotton pickers and farmers needing pickers, said the Army sent 22 more pickers to fields Saturday. More names of farmers wanting pickers are needed, and transportation for pickers is particularly difficult to obtain, he said. From Wednesday through Saturday, the first four days of this service by the agency, 86 unemployed persons obtained boll-pulling jobs through it.

State Highways Worked In Area

State highways in the Lubbock district of the highway department have been graded the past week and the dirt roads are in better shape than they have been since the September rains, Joe H. Caldwell, maintenance engineer, said Saturday.

"There are still some sections that we cannot drag because they are still too wet, but the dirt roads are passable," Mr. Caldwell said. "Never in the three years that I have been up here have I seen such a widespread rain.

"It was not so much the heavy rain as the fact that it was continuous and covered a large territory. The rain was general and caused us more trouble than any I have seen here."

Maintenance men worked day and night grading roads and getting them in shape for traffic, Mr. Caldwell said. This week will see much of this work continued.

Six additional one man power maintainers were received by the district last week. This brings the total to 32. All of these will be put to use this week in grading.

Fripperies Are Gone From Silhouette For Winter

Non-Essentials Gone From Costumes In Slender Mode

BY BARBARA BEAUFORT
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)

PARIS (AP) —"Slim clothes for slender women" is the watchword of one prominent Parisian designer, in creating winter fashions for 1932.

The modified mutton leg sleeves and fuller skirts favored by some creators have been pruned from the silhouette launched by Schiaparelli this season.

A straight sheath-like line with broadened shoulders, occasionally accented by padding, has taken its place. The waistline is generally fairly high in front and lower in back, while skirts are often as short as 12 inches from the ground.

Striped wools and indefinite checks in two colors are widely used for daytime frocks, while heavy silk jerseys are the favorite fabric for afternoon and evening gowns. Colors range from a dark smoky blue called "hyacinth," which replaces black, to pumice grey and a deep red called "cabbage."

Many a novelty brightens the array. There are knitted hug-me-tight scarf waistcoats, two-color crinkled ribbon scarves, copper bars used for fastenings and knitted Cossack caps worn tilted on one side of the head.

Evening gowns retain the sweeping clinging line, several of them being designed with a little "shelf" of cartridge pleats placed at the waistline continuing down the back to form a short train.

One formal frock of hyacinth blue velvet has a shoulder line broadened by epaulettes of black ostrich feathers, while another of deep blue silk jersey is topped by a tiny ermine bolero.

Little quilted silk jackets are the outstanding note in the evening mode. They are made of a deeply crinkled silk patterned in blue and white diamonds and designed with a form fitting bodice and a broadened shoulder line.

Heavy wool in a smoky blue tone was Schiaparelli's choice for this winter coat with a tie collar trimmed in black seal. The blue wool hat is banded in black seal.

This fall sports costume shows how Schiaparelli combines a blouse with a split-pocket skirt of brown and beige tweed. The knitted cap is of brown wool.

Brown and yellow striped wool fashion this Schiaparelli frock with the new waistline. The scarf and Cossack cap are of brown knitted wool.

More Than Three-Fourths Of Children Examined During Round-Up Have Been Seen For Corrections

Slightly more than three-fourths of the pre-school children examined last spring at the annual Summer Round-Up have been checked upon, according to figures compiled by Mrs. Joe H. Smith.

The Round-Up was sponsored by the City Parent-Teacher council and Mrs. Smith, former health nurse in the city schools, has been named chairman by Mrs. N. L. Peters, president of the council. Mrs. Peters was chairman of the work last spring.

Charts showed that 101 children were given free physical examinations. Of that number, 76 were reported on and 63 needed medical attention. Those who were not checked have moved away from Lubbock or changed their residence here and cannot be found, Mrs. Smith reported.

276 Defects Shown

There were 276 defects listed with those of the ear, eye, nose and throat holding a high average.

Other ailments listed were malnutrition, bad tonsils, bad teeth. Five children received dental care, although 32 were reported to need it; 15 showed signs of malnutrition; 38 needed tonsilectomies. A total of 68 corrections was made of the 276 defects, the charts show.

Eight Parties Are To Be Given This Week For Church Groups

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

CLUB women throughout the United States are recognizing October as National Council month and many of the societies will have programs observing this occasion. The chances are that this will include several Lubbock clubs because there are a number here affiliated with the National Council of Women. These include the American Association of University Women, the American Nurses association, the General Federation of Women's clubs, National Federation of Business and Professional Women, National Federation of Music clubs and a number of other national organizations among women.

The council has a worthy object in this observance. The primary aim is to obtain an additional 500,000 signatures needed to complete the Council's campaign for 1,000,000 signatures on petitions addressed to foreign governments asking them to send representative women to this country for an international congress to be held next July in connection with the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago.

Another objective is to acquaint women with the part that the Council will have in the exposition.

The National Council is finding things out about women this year. Next summer when you go to the Exposition you may learn some surprising things that women have accomplished in the last 100 years and the congress is going to illustrate how powerful the women of this nation are—along probably with those of other nations.

TO BE BEAUTIFUL

IF you want to be beautiful Sylvia Fields, an actress, can tell you how it is done. This angler isn't guaranteeing results, but is simply passing the news along as it came from Miss Fields.

First, she says, "when you rise in the morning, smile at yourself in the mirror," and I have a toothy smile that Sylvia has sent in to illustrate how the thing is done. With a little practice you may be able to do just as well if your teeth are pretty—that is after combing your hair.

Then apply your daytime cosmetics by natural light. If artificial lighting is used, you are apt to overdo the matter and look too highly colored, she says, adding that "colors seen by candle light do not look the same by day." She advises, too, that the rouge be applied to the fattest point in the cheeks.

In the last place, she states "the current small hats demand that the hair be neat and simple" and that one must watch those curls!

You do these three simple things and beauty is yours. So if any more homely girls are around we can know some part of the formula was missed.

SPRING STYLES

ALREADY we are hearing about styles for spring. One expert thinks cottons will be smarter than ever along about next March.

TRY THIS ONE

TRY baking the meat loaf in muffin tins for a change. Garnish each "muffin" with green pepper and parsley for buffet supper and serve with tomato sauce.

TO THINK ABOUT

HERE is something to prompt thought at a time when calls come daily from needy people, for so many of us are inclined to think that we have done our whole duty when we have helped provide food, shelter and clothing for the unfortunate.

Louis E. Kirstein, president of the Association of Jewish Philanthropies of Boston, says "Relief funds contain our guarantee against the basic miseries that breed hunger and disease; what we may call morale-funds contain our guarantee against the demoralization that breeds lawlessness, disloyalty, perhaps angry revolt and upheaval. We must impress upon our contributors this vital truth; Unemployment which robs men of their food and shelter also robs them of their courage and hope and stability and security, and their children of their fundamental right to happiness and health."

Writer Says That Women Are Same

BY HELEN WELSHIMER
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—Pearl Buck, famous Pulitzer prize novelist, has comeback from China to discover that American women aren't any more independent than they were when she was a schoolgirl on the campus of Randolph-Macon College, in Virginia, some 15 years ago.

"I don't think that American women have grown any more independent," Mrs. Buck says. "Perhaps they have gained greater freedom financially, but mentally they are no different than they have ever been. They are just as anxious to please men as ever, which reveals this mental independence. No matter what women do, back of it is that fact that there is a man or men whose approval they want.

"It is true, I think, that women in general don't care for home life, in the sense that they used to. They are branching into more fields, but they are still dependent."

Parents Were Missionaries

The woman, whose novel "The Good Earth" was awarded America's highest literary honor last year, is receiving her impressions of American women from unbiased observation. Mrs. Buck was born in America but her parents, who were missionaries, took her to the interior of China when she was four months old. With the exception of her college years in America and an occasional brief visit, she has spent her life in China.

Her husband, John Lossing Buck, whom she married when he came to China as a young instructor, now heads the farm management department at the University of Nanking. Mrs. Buck and her two small daughters are spending the year in America with him, while he does graduate work.

"Women can't detach themselves easily," Mrs. Buck explains. "They can't be impersonal about business."

Advises Outside Interests

Just the same, she believes that they should cultivate some outside interest. She herself goes into the attic of the old stone house in Nanking and writes or works on ideas from 8:30 every morning until 12:30 at noon. Then she comes downstairs and eats the Chinese luncheon her part-time maid has prepared. Mrs. Buck cooks breakfast and dinner for her family, even if she is one of the world's outstanding women writers.

"I think every woman should have some interest outside of her home," she says. "Not all of her activities should center around her husband and children. She may do some special creative work, take an interest in civic affairs, or have an outside job."

Mrs. Buck, whose clear blue-gray eyes and quiet smile watch life so calmly, yet so eagerly, thinks that the economic depression has its advantages. Here she has found distinct changes since she made a short visit to America three years ago.

"People are sharing more than they used to," she summarizes. "The attitude toward money has changed. It seems to me that every nation has to face the fact as to whether or not its capitalism is enduring, and search for some constructive ideas. America is just entering on that problem, and it is a little soon to judge the outcome."

She knows Chinese women, though, as few white women have known them. When she was first married, for five years she and her husband lived in a native village where they were the only white people part of the time. Her closest friends in China are native women.

"Chinese women are surprisingly like American women," Mrs. Buck insists. "The modern, educated Chinese woman is well-trained in practical affairs. She isn't as prone to impractical ideals as American women, either. Educated women in China do very much as they please.

"I think, too, that Chinese men are surprisingly liberal toward women. They accept women . . . and I'm speaking of the educated Chinese women, of course . . . as equals in a manner that shows that women have always been more powerful in their homes than the rest of the world knew.

"In time Chinese women will produce literature, music, do things in all the arts. Not just now, though. They are giving their time and attention to helping in the turmoil that is present in China. When that is over, they will do creative work."

Mrs. Buck is dignified, quiet and keenly observing, but her eyes show that she likes to laugh and there is a youthfulness and wholesomeness about everything she does. She likes to cook, to read, to make gardens, and to walk through the Chineses villages with her husband. She's fond of people and mingles with them not only as an aid in obtaining laboratory material for her books, but because she likes them.

Natural GAS is your cheapest item of expense

Natural Gas Service is STILL the least expensive item in the cost of running a household. The Natural Gas Service bill replaces a long list of miscellaneous expenses—laundering, dry cleaning, redecorating, janitor's wages, etc., experienced with dusty ash forming fuels.

During the past summer, when gas was used principally for cooking and water heating, the cost to many homes has been no more than the price of a daily five-cent cigar. Even in cold weather, when larger quantities of gas are required to guard the health and comfort of the entire family, the gas service bill represents only a small fraction of the winter household expenses. In fact the average gas service bill in this section the whole year 'round is only about 15 cents per day for house heating, cooking and hot water supply. A dependable year 'round service that benefits the entire family and costs less than the gasoline expense of one small automobile — less than any other necessity that contributes to the health, comfort, convenience and happiness of your home.

During the summer months when you are using gas for cooking and water heating only, gas bills are ridiculously low. Consequently, in winter when you are heating your home in addition—your gas bill seems comparatively high. As a matter of fact when the total amount spent during the year is considered, your yearly gas bill is the least expensive item in your annual living cost.

As a fuel—as a service, there is no substitute for Natural Gas. Take advantage of its inexpensiveness for your complete comfort this winter.

The Five-Day Week

THE five-day week is coming. There's nothing its opponents can do to stop it. It may take years to secure its acceptance universally but it's coming just as the eight-hour day came not many years ago.

The New York Daily News, one of the best managed newspapers in the country, is trying the five-day week in its editorial and advertising departments and if it proves satisfactory the plan will be extended to cover the entire plant.

Were it possible to throw every business within this nation's borders into a five-day week with no reduction in pay, that would quickly solve the depression and a great deal of unemployment would immediately vanish. What makes it hard on the five-day week is that it cannot be universally accepted all at once and thousands of employers who will eventually come to it, will hold off as long as possible before trying it.

RAIL MERGERS NEAR

Announcement that the four great eastern railway systems have accepted the unification plans of the Interstate Commerce commission is good news if it means that these railways will now give their attention exclusively to railroading, instead of dividing it between doing the country's hauling and pulling and hauling among themselves as to which system will get what road.

Ever since the railroads were told they were to be permitted and encouraged to merge for purposes of economy and efficiency there has been a bitter squabble, chiefly between the New York Central and the Pennsylvania, and between the Baltimore & Ohio and Van Sweringen interests, with the I. C. C. watching and trying to umpire the battle. The fight has been almost entirely financial, an attempt on the part of the competing interests to get control of the stock of the smaller lines which they wanted, regardless of the commission's plans, in the hope that by presenting the commission with an accomplished fact, they would get their will.

That effort became very difficult as the depression continued, and the financiers at last seem to have got tired of it and to have decided to compromise their differences by accepting the plans of the commission. There is still a big financial problem to be solved before the mergers are completed, but it is no longer a competitive one between the four systems, since the allocation of the minor roads has been agreed upon. The Nickel Plate, one of the principal items on the Van Sweringen list, is in financial hot water through its purchased of stock in roads that it desired. But the settlement is the main thing, and it has been agreed. The mergers will eventually be completed, and then we shall see whether the economy and efficiency which are the object of the plan will be realized as they have been realized on the merged British systems.

MYTH SMASHERS

Very gravely a searcher after truth reports that the Hesperus was not wrecked on Norman's Woe, and that Hawatha belonged to a different tribe from the one the poet named.

We understand, according to the new authorities, that Maud Muller was out of town the day the judge went by, too.

A newspaper, keeping up with the spirit of modenr biography and research, suggests that Barbara Frietchie was in bed the day the Conference passed through Frederick and never saw Stonewall Jackson in her life.

There are patriotic Americans who don't believe that Abraham Lincoln told all the stories attributed to him.

Some skeptic has sought to prove the story of the young George Washington and the cherry tree to be the result of a flight of fancy by a hack writer and Colonial parson. Another of the debunkers of history has revived the famous contention that Major Grey, inventor of the famous chutney, was only a captain.

Thus does the idol-toppling proceed. But the public shows signs of real weariness. Another romantic era is just around the corner. In such things human taste is a pendulum constantly swinging back and forth between realism and romanticism. Today the great men of history appear to us in robes of saints; tomorrow we see them as flesh and blood men with all the common vices and virtues.

A New York society woman, divorced at Reno the other day, was single for five minutes before being married again. Yet orators send hours telling us about the wonders of liberty.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

Blessed are they that keep judgment and he that doeth righteousness at all times.—Psalm 106:3.

Three States For Roosevelt

(Charles P. Stewart, on tour trying to ascertain political and economic trends, records here impressions obtained concerning some of the farm states.)

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 8.—Minnesota and the two Dakotas are set down by most impartial judges in this part of the country as Democratic on this campaign's national ticket.

Governor Floyd B. Olson

Nebraska is referred to by Democrats with high hopes; by Republicans with grave misgivings.

By "impartial judges" I do not, of course, mean Republican candidates and state committee members—at least not in their official capacities. I do mean that folk "in the street" are virtually unanimous in predicting victory for Governor Roosevelt in the North Star, Flickertail and Sunshine commonwealths.

In the Cornhusker state even the best of Democrats invariably remark that there is, after all, a substantial normal G. O. P. majority to be overcome before the Jeffersonians can begin to count net ballots.

MINNESOTA, it is to be borne in mind, is not exactly a Republican area anyway.

It is Farmer-Laborite as to Gov. Floyd B. Olson, Senator Henrik Shipstead and Representative Paul J. Kvale, and mightily independently Republican as to several other members of its congressional delegation.

A Farmer-Laborite usually is reckoned as slightly more Republican than Democratic, but apparently not in the present instance.

The Farmer-Laborites put a national ticket of their own into the field a few weeks ago, to be sure, but it scarcely requires saying that it signifies little in the general political scheme of things. It might, indeed, signify enough to have an effect, as between President Hoover's and Governor Roosevelt's Minnesota chances, if really influential Farmer-Laborites took it seriously. However, when Senator Shipstead was asked to give it his indorsement, he merely said cold, I am very careful whom I underwrite.

GOVERNOR OLSON was one of the state executives present at the recent meeting of the farm state governors in Sioux City, to discuss the agricultural situation, and Milo Reno of the Farmers' Holiday association is authority for the statement that he alone, among those in attendance, had any genuinely constructive suggestions to offer in the yeomanry's interest.

Without pausing to investigate what they were, suffice it to say that no one whose ideas Milo Reno approves can possibly be for President Hoover.

In brief, Minnesota clearly is a state that could not go Republican next November without surprising all complexions of politicians decidedly.

NORTH AND SOUTH DAKOTA each has a senator to elect this year, and in each case it is a foregone conclusion that the one elected will be a Republican—but a very progressive one.

In North Dakota there were two candidates for the G. O. P. nomination—Senator Gerald P. Nye, seeking another term, and Gov. George F. Shafer, a regular, backed by the Washington administration, to which Nye is anathema. Nye carried all except one county.

In South Dakota Senator Peter Norbeck is conceded a walkaway. One of the best informed Democrats in the state told me that "nobody" could beat the well digger. Norbeck is not as advanced a progressive as Nye but there is no question about his progressive-ism, and his silence on the subject of President Hoover's candidacy is noticeable to the point of ostentation. His election and a majority for Governor Roosevelt are spoken of throughout the state as two equally foregone conclusions.

AGRICULTURALLY Nebraska does not seem to be quite as badly distressed as Iowa at least. This is not to assert that its farmers are making any money. The consensus is that they are losing a little, but foreclosures and tax sales are less numerous among them.

Their land, on an average, is not as good as Iowa land. Consequently they could not borrow so much on it during the boom and therefore are not so badly in debt.

The Nebraska law likewise imposes strict limitations upon the piling up of public obligations. Hence taxation is lower.

THE STATE Democratic campaign did not strike me as being very well managed, either.

For one thing, I did not think that Jeffersonian strategists are making the most of Senator Norris' support of Governor Roosevelt. The senator plainly is tremendously popular with the voters. True, I heard doubts expressed of his ability to deliver his vote to anyone else. This may be a sound criticism, but surely it is no reason for functionaries of the Democratic committee to make slurring remarks concerning him. They do, however—in a fashion which would be poor form if he were fighting them, and seems downright asinine considering that he is pro-Roosevelt.

The Democratic governor, Charles W. Bryan, the "Commoner's" brother and vice presidential candidate on the ticket with John W. Davis in 1924, is apparently not overly popular, too.

ALL THIS may sound as if Nebraska looks like a bad bet for the Democratic ticket in November.

Such is not exactly the case.

Although normally a somewhat Republican state, it is not now safely Republican and well informed Republicans do not claim that it is, but I do not think that the Democrats have handled their chances there with anything like the skill that they might have done—or I would guess that they could practically have cinched it. It is not, after all, as Republican as Iowa. Yet there is more Democratic "pep" in the Hawk-eye state than is evident in its neighboring area west of the Missouri river.

TUESDAY: "THE BLIND POSTMAN"

THE NEW BOOKS

John D's Riches Probably "Most Honestly Gained" Of All American Fortunes, John T. Flynn Writes In "God's Gold", Biography Of Oil King; Week Brings Variety In Books

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

THE fortune of John D. Rockefeller, for all that the man was hated during his active career as few Americans have been hated, was probably the most honestly acquired of any of our great fortunes.

So says John T. Flynn in "God's Gold," a thoroughly documented and strikingly interesting biography of the great oil king.

Mr. Flynn is not trying either to whitewash or to expose Rockefeller. He studies him, he says, in order to illustrate an epoch in American history. Rockefeller's life is the very epitome of the industrial age's arrival at its fullest and most logical development.

So Mr. Flynn gives us a book that is as much social history as biography.

Rockefeller, he says, was cold-blooded and ruthless; but when he froze out a competitor he always offered to take the man into Standard Oil, and every competitor who accepted the offer and held on to his stock grew very wealthy. Rockefeller never put any water in Standard Oil stock. He was always a merchandiser, and never a promoter. Compared with Gould, Fisk, Drew and their kind, or even with Morgan himself, Mr. Flynn finds him deserving of a good deal of praise.

But Mr. Flynn isn't engaged in a white-washing expedition, and he makes no attempt to hide the black flag which the oil king occasionally flew. "God's Gold" is very interesting, very informative, and about as impartial as such a book could be.

It is published by Harcourt, Brace and Co.

Sensitivity

PROBABLY Donald Joseph's "Four Blind Mice" (Frederick A. Stokes), falls into the dubious class of "sensitive" novels, and so will be condemned by lovers of beef, iron and wine. But it is a good deal more than merely quivering and eager. There is a bitter authenticity in the book that heartier writers often lack, and that compensates for the sometimes finely drawn emotional values inherent in the story of a young man's struggle between regard for his best friend and love for his wife.

Just the opposite is the goal of John Herrmann in "Summer is Ended," (Covici-Friede), most appropriately titled, incidentally. Herrmann believes in the bare-branches style, and from his easy-going tale of the life and loves of a group of very trite persons he has zealously pruned all colorful blossoms and spicy fruit. The effect achieved is a little winterish for the end of summer, but sincere, intelligent and in its way important.

Exposing Washington

CLOTHED in the once-enticing veil of anonymity, two books approach. One is well written, a Washington expose entitled "High Low Washington," (Lippincott), signed "30-32." The other is a tepid symposium on Europe, pleasant, not racy, called "Not to be Repeated."

Rich (if almost unbelievable at times) is "Who's Hooey," (Dutton) a collection or soft places in the utterances of the famous by George Novack and Arthur Zipser; there are fewer laughs and more sniggers in Hilaire Bellocs satire on politics, finance and society called "The Postmaster General," (Lippincott), and illustrated hilariously by G. K. Chesterton.

About Bull Fights

ERNEST HEMINGWAY has written "Death in the Afternoon" (Scribners), to tell people who have never seen them just what bull fights are like.

He has seen some 300 of them himself, and he has found in them a strange sort of art—an art which is impermanent, misunderstood and bloody, but which, he insists, is nevertheless significant.

To begin with, he explains, the bull fight is not simply a contest between man and bull, in the sense that a prize fight is a contest between two boxers. It is a carefully staged, elaborately formalized tragedy in which the inevitable death of the bull is the high moment—the "moment of truth," as the Spanish call it.

Has 3 Parts

The bull fight has three parts. First the bull faces the picadors who are on horseback. He drives them from the ring and has his moment of triumph. Then come the banderilleros, who fix barbed sticks in his shoulders, tire him and leave him for the matador.

The third act bring the matador alone into the ring with him; the matador must master him with his bit of colorful cloth and must finally, at the risk of his own life, bring him into the position where he can be killed with a sword thrust.

Mr. Hemingway's book may not persuade you that bull fighting is a great thing. But I am sure you will find the book uncommonly interesting all the way; one of the most interesting, and surely one of the most excellently written, books of the whole year.

Mrs. Buck's "Sons"

THE second panel of the trilogy begun by Pearl S. Buck in "The Good Earth" now stands finished in her "Sons," (John Day Co.). The beauty of Mrs. Buck's style, and the serenity and intelligence of her literary bearing are enough to make the book notable if it contributed nothing to our understanding of the Orient and the Orientals.

And if it contributed to that understanding without telling a story of merit it also would be notable. It has all three values, however, and the further virtue of economy of means and effect. There will be those unable to accept "Sons" as it is, without appraising it against "The Good Earth." These might remember, however, that the second part of a trilogy may be the better for a lapse into comparative tranquility.

School And Education Called "Birthright Of Childhood"

Third Of A Series Of Articles Concerning Schools

Everyone is well acquainted with the famous expression of the great Southerner, Robert E. Lee. The lessons learned by this noble American impressed upon him the fact that education is indeed the birthright of childhood, a "debt owed by present to future generations". That great student of human relations, Dr. H. A. L. Fisher, Minister of Education in England during the darkest period of the World War, voiced this universal verdict when he said that "education is the debt eternal of maturity to childhood and youth".

Because the child passes this way but once, no moratorium can be declared upon this debt without fatal consequences to the nation. School education is the rightful heritage of childhood, which can be assimilated at but one time in the life of an individual. Dr. John Finley, editor of the New York Times, recognized the binding nature of this obligation when he said, "In times like these when sacrifices must be made and economics must be practiced, nothing should be allowed to interfere with the payment of the state's full debt to the children and youth of the land."

Gather At White House

Over one thousand social, educational, and economic leaders of the country assembled at President Hoover's White House Conference on Child Welfare, after careful study and scientific investigation, worked out the nineteen provisions of the Children's Charter, which at once is an emancipation proclamation of childhood and a declaration of rights for American youth.

In years past, most educational measures have been prompted by parental ambitions. Every worthy parent has been willing to sacrifice that his own child might become well versed in the lore of the race and be given a position of advantage in the struggle for a living. The state recognizes that all children, under whatever conditions of life they may have been brought into the world, should share equally in the rich inheritance of their fathers.

Decision Is Reached

The conference on Child Welfare decided "The state must guarantee for every child: First, school safe from hazards, sanitary, properly equipped, lighted, and ventilated, and for younger children nursery schools and kindergartens to supplement home care. Second, an education which, through the discovery and development of his individual abilities, prepares him for life; and through training and vocational guidance prepares him for a living which will give him the maxium of satisfaction. Third, such training and teaching as well prepare him for successful parenthood, home-making, and the rights of citizenship. The nation owes every child these rights regardless of race or color or situation, wherever he might live under the protection of the American flag."

Since the dawn of civilization, man has come to realize that when children are brought into the world they inherit the riches, the privileges, and the experiences of the race, the administration of which is intrusted to both the parent and the state. Since the dark ages of the past when chivalry bloomed into the flower of knighthood, the cause of the weak and helpless has been championed by the best and the highest passion of man.

From the daring exploits of the English knights to the sinking of the Titanic the cry, "women and children first", has rung out in every great calamity. Men have been willing to risk their lives and sacrifice their fortunes on the altar of the defenseless. Certain rights of childhood have been fearlessly and chivalrously by all noble men.

Many Struggles Made

Not the least of these struggles and sacrifices have been made in the name of education and schools. The Pilgrims left the fertile fields of Holland for the bleak coast of New England that they might preserve for their children the heritage of Anglo-Saxon ideals.

Washington, Jefferson, and Adams realized the rights of childhood when they wrote into the Preamble of our Constitution the immortal words, "To secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity do ordian and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

One of the prime motives which led the intrepid pioneers of Texas to rebel against Mexico was the lack of public school education for their children. When at last victory smiled on our army at San Jacinto, and the fathers of the state met to consider a constitution for the independent state of Texas, provis-ions for a free school education for the children of the commonwealth were written into our first code of law.

Remembered Children

Our forefathers did not conquer the wilderness for their own selfish pleasure, but ever carried before them the banner of childhood. In the name of their children they fought for freedom and bequeathed to posterity the priceless inheritance of liberty and justice.

Children must be first, because, in the words of J. E. Moore, editor of the National Education Association Journal, "They are the torch-bearers of civilization. We can put children first and keep them first, knowing that it is they who must carry the torch tomorrow, if civilization is to march forward". The real spirit of America is that of honesty and willingness to fulfill every trust given into the care of man. America must recognize the right of the child, pay the interest on her baby bonds owned by childhood, and keep the schools at their best. Because children are our greatest national treasure, we must keep them first.

Change In Weather Brings Need Of Change In Car's Gas, Lubrication

DALLAS, Oct. 8. —"Almost human in their ability to obey the will of their owners, modern motor vehicles also have the human attribute of being susceptible to changes in the weather," J. M. Marnan, chief of the technicial department, Magnolia Petroluem Company, said in warning automobile owners to prepare for winter driving.

"With the approach of winter a complete check-up of the motor car is often advisable and certain mechanical adjustments may be necessary," Mr. Marnan said. "But the first thing to do is to make certain that our automobile is receiving the proper cold weather 'diet'. Gasoline which may have given satisfactory service in summer is never suited for winter use and is often the cause of hard starting, crankcase dilution, loss of power and engin missing.

Must Change Lubricants

"A change in the grade of the lubricants used is also necessary with the change in the seasons. For cold weather driving lighter lubricants are recommended by automobile manufacturers in order to avoid excessive wear, difficult steering, hard gear shifting and other evils.

"To adequately prepare the car for winter driving the cooling system should be cleaned and tested for leaks before anti-freeze solution is added, the battery should be tested and it is often advisable to replace spark plugs. Safety appliances on the car will also be called upon to perform greater service in winter. These include lights, horns, brakes, windshield wiper and steering mechanism. They should be carefully checked and repaired when necessary".

Labor Activities Pick Up On The South Plains; It's 'Cotton Picking Time

Gins Started Full Blast On Annual Run

Hundreds Of Laborers From Southern Portion Of Texas Move Northward To Aid In Gathering Fleecy Crop

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

THE "chug-chug" of the gasoline engine or the whir of the electric motor is now being heard over the South Plains while the tang of burning hulls and the smoke of many fires are wafted onto fall breezes.

Here and there over the landscape one sees piles of white fleecy balls amid green stalks; bobbing heads of youngsters appear over the heads of the stalks and wagons laden with bolls roll along toward town all day and half the night. Motorists have to keep an eye peeled for lanternless farm wagons and trailers or there will be an accident.

It's Cotton Picking Time

In other words, cotton picking time is here.

Gins in Lubbock and over the county and in all surrounding counties are starting to run full blast. Held back by rains the last half of September and up to Monday night of the past week, farmers rushed into the fields as soon as the hot sun had dried things off enough to permit picking.

A large number of the gins are already operating at night. More will do so the coming week.

Mexicans Coming Forward

Mexicans are coming northward in a hurry to help gather the crop. The influx of foreign labor from the south part of the state and also from Mexico is expected to be large this year. Many Mexicans have been coming to this area from South Texas for years and they frequently make the same farm or section, year after year.

Frost Tuesday night was not believed to have injured the bolls. It was light and did little more than knock off the leaves from the plants. Some reports of the frost checking the growth of small bolls were heard. The frost was not heavy enough to do serious damage on the Plains.

North Picking More

Picking is more general in the north part of the territory than in the south, due to so much late cotton south of Lubbock. This came from hail or rain storms of the early summer which rained out many acres and stripped clean many more acres of plants.

Brokers and buyers report cotton received the past week shows the effect of the rains, in that the bolls were badly stained in some instances. The wet weather caused the stains and forced down the price.

Most of the cotton picked and ginned so far has been sold. Movement to the ports is starting. Farmers are selling their first bales to get money for necessary expenses. Later the better cotton will be held.

Yield Is Problematical

Just what the crop will be for the South Plains counties is problematical. Harry Blocker's estimate of early September was 446,000 bales for counties on the Caprock. The amount gathered of course will depend on the early frost.

Records at the state experiment station at Spur show the earliest date of killing frost in the past 21 years was October 18, 1920 and the latest was November 27, 1931. The records covered are for the 21 years from 1911 to 1931 inclusive. Average date for that station is November 2.

Figures for the Lubbock station are slightly different, owing to the difference in altitude. Earliest date for a killing frost is October 19. This date is for both 1916 and 1917. Last year the latest date was November 22, a record for the local station.

Chickens Used As Entrance Fees

Everett Knight, a junior at Louisiana State university, at Baton Rouge, didn't have enough money to return to college this fall. So he gathered up a few Rhode Island Reds from his parents' farm and presented them as his entrance fee. Miss Alice MacDonald, a senior co-ed, stood by as young Knight offered his wares.

Thirty-Four Hockley County Boys Place Calves On Feed

By Staff Correspondent

LEVELLAND, Oct. 8.—Thirty-four Hockley county 4-H club boys have on feed 56 calves, as a part of their project work, according to W. T. Magee, county agent.

"We expect to get about 12 more calves for five boys," Mr. Magee said. "This will give us 39 boys feeding 68 calves. Most of the boys are feeding two calves each.

"This is a larger number than last year. I think there is more interest in feeding among the boys than ever before."

The boys raise their own feed. State certified grain sorghum feed was used.

The calves are being fed for the Lubbock Fat Calf, Pig and Cured meat show in the spring. Many of the boys will have hogs on feed for the show.

Eleven state-wide organizations in Indiana are seeking to bring about tax reforms of various kinds.

Small Scale Feeding Seen Of Lynn Crop

Farmers, Ranchers, Cattlemen Discuss Feeding Plans For Year; Bankers Expect Much Activity

(By Staff Correspondent)

TAHOKA, Oct. 8.—Many farmers, cattlemen and ranchers are discussing the feeding out of Lynn county's feed crop this year and, according to bankers, there probably will be considerable feeding on a small scale.

The Burleson Grain company, Ed Parks and N. M. and F. A. Wyatt have been among those who have fed in previous years. They are reported planning to feed again, if they can secure calves at a fair rate.

On Small Scale

Not many farmers, according to Coleman Wells, will feed more than a few head. This is because most farmers are unable to finance more than a small number. Only a few fermers have more than half a dozen calves that are available and there seems to be no prospects of farmers securing a large amount.

The T-Bar ranch, the largest ranching operations in Lynn county, generally sells its calf crop for November delivery. The ranch is owned by C. M. "Uncle Cass" Erwards, pioneer rancher of Tahoka and Fort Worth. Last year he sold his crop for northern feed markets. He sometimes sells calves to Crosbyton men for feeding. This year's calf crop has been good, with good summer pastures and indications are that the crop will bring a flock of buyers.

Nevels Has Calves

Bill Nevels, who ranches near town, has between 400 and 500 calves for feeding. He has some yearling steers now on feed and unless something unexpected arises, will feed his calves. Mr. Nevels has between 1,000 and 1,200 sheep, mostly ewes. He also plans to feed his spring lamb crop from these sheep.

Walter May, southeast of town, has around 1,200 ewes and 400 calves that he probably will feed.

G. N. Stewart also has some Jersey steer calves he plans to feed.

There are a number of small bunches of hogs in the county that are being fed for market. The local produce men generally feed a number of head of hogs. W. C. Coleman has on his farm 24 head of hogs he is feeding on rent feed.

One Of Largest Feeding Projects On South Plains Under Way In Hockley

(By Staff Correspondent)

LEVELLAND, Oct. 8.—One of the largest feeding projects on the South Plains is under way at Cable Switch, a station about six miles west of Levelland where Burke B. Roberts, a well known feeder, has about 3,000 head of cattle on feed and plans to feed a thousand or more head.

Mr. Roberts is working with W. T. Coble of Amarillo, pioneer rancher of West Texas. He has been feeding here for several years and has gradually increased his operations.

New Ensilage Used

One of his projects is the use of a new type of ensilage. He has bought a large sized cutter and will use it in the filling of three or four open silos. These are made by fencing off an area and stacking bundle feed around the fence, with ensilage filling the inside. Each silo of this type is expected to hold from 400 to 500 tons and they will be placed at convenient places over the feeding operations.

Cane, hegari and kafir will be used in this work. Mr. Roberts has a large acreage that he bought from tenants on the Coble lands.

Experiment Tried

Mr. Roberts also has been trying the experiment of feeding his calves on sudan pasture first. He has fenced about 600 acres and uses one or two head of stock to the acre. He will fatten the steers later on grain before marketing.

An initial shipment of 2,000 head was started on feed late in the summer. Recently four or five car loads were received, with another shipment following a few days ago. Still more will be received about October 20.

Home grown feed is used altogether. Mr. Roberts buys the greater part of his feed from tenants on the Coble lands or from neighbors. He buys grain sorghums and piles the bundles convenient to his pens. The pens are arranged to handle feeding rapidly and with the least amount of work.

Carrot Grows Up
Plant Weighs Over Two Pounds

FLOYDADA, Oct. 8 (Special)—A carrot weighing two pounds, four and one-half ounces, was grown in the garden of Mrs. Ella Johnson, here.

The carrot also had seven distinct "tops" giving it the appearance of a bunch of carrots. It was displayed in a newspaper office here.

Hale Center Vocational Class To Feed Out Car Load Calves

HALE CENTER, Oct. 8 (Special)—The vocational agriculture class of the Hale Center high school, 21 in number, have selected as their project for the year, the feeding of a car load of calves, according to R. H. Maxwell, vocational teacher.

A rancher is to be asked to assist by furnishing the calves for a cooperative or grain basis. Home grown feed, which the boys have grown, is to be used.

Fights For Home

Otis Emerson Dunham, former millionaire head of the Page & Shaw Candy company, is snapped at Beverly, Mass., digging potatoes in the garden of his palatial estate. Dunham's one aim at present, he says, is to save his home which may be taken because of delinquent taxes.

Simpson Trial Is Set For January

By Staff Correspondent

TAHOKA, Oct. 8.—Trial of Ross Simpson of Lamesa, former president of the First State bank at Seminole, which closed in the spring of 1931 after collapse of the famous Hobbs, N. M., oil boom, on charges of violation of state banking laws, will come up in the Terry county district court at the January term.

The Simpson cases were transferred from Gaines to Terry county early in the year. They were to have been tried at the fall term there but were postponed. Other cases depending on the outcome of the Simpson cases, were held up in the Gaines county court until the Simpson case is heard.

T. L. Price, present district attorney, goes out of office before the Terry county court meets. The incoming district attorney, G. H. Nelson of Tahoka, will handle prosecution. Carl Rountree, Lamesa, is defense attorney.

CALVES ON FEED

LEVELLAND, Oct. 8.—Len McClelland, Lubbock cattleman and breeder, has about 150 head of registered Hereford calves on feed near Clauene, 10 or 12 miles south of here.

MUGGS McGINNIS — PARTY POLITICS — BY WALLY BISHOP

One Bump—and They're Off!

Just to complicate matters for "Rumble Seat Colonel," these three children rode him together over one of the hurdles at the Warrenton, Va., horse show. It was a bit crowded, but Mary Watts, Sheila Finnerty and Ellie Wood Keith proved that "Rumble Seat" is well named.

'Cohens And Kelleys' Films To Return To The Screen In Eighth Of Series

By HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD—A sign of the approach of winter is the return to Hollywood of George Sidney and Charlie Murray.

CHARLIE MURRAY

They have a date here every year to co-star in another of the perennial "Cohens and Kellys" pictures. Charlie is back already from his vaudeville tour and George soon will be on the way. The pictures they will start in a few weeks will be the eighth of the series.

Sidney has played Cohen in all of them; Charlie has been Kelly in all but one. J. Farrell MacDonald took Murray's place once when the latter was tied up with vaudeville bookings.

The Cohens and the Kellys have been abroad, in Paris, in Scotland, in Atlantic City, in Africa and in Hollywood.

They next may be in politics—if the scenarists can develop enough political gags.

Story Trouble Again

ETHEL Barrymore was due in New York six weeks ago to begin rehearsing a new play, but story trouble, Hollywood's great bugaboo, has kept her here.

ETHEL BARRYMORE

"It really isn't as serious as it sounds," Ethel said. "The play was ready two years ago; so a few weeks more won't make much difference."

"Rasputin," in which she is co-starring with brothers John and Lionel, went into production weeks after it was scheduled. This, combined with frequent changes in the story, has caused the delay.

John's enjoying himself, but Lionel wishes the picture would get over with. He has to wear a full-faced beard from morning until night, since he's playing the title role of the mad monk.

Ambitious Charley

CHARLES Bickford has an object now, or rather two of them. The main one is to get $300,000 in the bank in the name of Mrs. Bickford and their children, and the other is to produce his own pictures.

Bickford, who has frequently expressed dissatisfaction with the "namby-pamby" roles (if you can imagine anyone casting him in such parts) he's been asked to play, wants his own company.

CHARLES BICKFORD

Buster Keaton, who bought a land yacht when his wife sold his sea-going vessel, adopted the title of "Admiral" and now it's become official.

Theodore W. Metcalfe, lieutenant governor of Nebraska, named Buster an "admiral in the great navy of Nebraska."

Dividends From Books

ONE of the most seasoned collectors of first editions is Jean Hersholt, who values his collection, at current low prices, at $35,000.

HERSHOLT

Not long ago he sold several dozen books, mainly editions of which he had duplicates. Realizing about $2,000, he used this to purchase more books—and got six very rare ones for his money. Among them was a copy of Whittier's "Snowbound."

Hersholt thinks he's had unusual luck in purchasing books. At an auction he sold a first edition of "Huckleberry Finn," which cost him $1.50, for $118. Evelyn Brent was the buyer.

Ranch Conditions In Lynn County Are Best In Years

By Staff Correspondent

TAHOKA, Oct. 8.—Ranch conditions in Lynn county are said to be the best in years, with a good crop of grass and mesquite beans.

"Cows like the beans on mesquite trees," says Coleman Wells, banker. "I am told that they get fat on grass and these beans. They never eat green beans from the trees but wait until they get brown and ripe."

While the T-Bar ranch is the largest in the county, there are a large number of smaller ranches. A good many cattle are fed each year on grass.

Norma Shearer In "Smilin' Through" Shows Here This Week

Film Star Has Romantic Role In New Talkie

Laurel And Hardy In "Pack Up Your Troubles" Coming To Lindsey; "Thirteen Women" Now At Palace

NORMA Shearer deserts her usual sophisticated, woman-of-the-world type of role in her newest picture, "Smilin' Through," which opens a four-day run at the Lindsey today. In it she appears in a part that is tinged with sentimental romance.

The story, in which Jane Cowl achieved such great success on the New York stage, is filled with pathos. For the first time, Miss Shearer appears in a dual role. She portrays both Moonyeen in the hoop-skirted Victorian sequences and Kathleen Sheridan in the modern scenes around which the happier romance of the tale centers. Her romantic experiences affect the life of one man at intervals of 50 years.

LESLIE HOWARD

The star is supported by four other stars, Fredric March, Leslie Howard, O. P. Heggie and Ralph Forbes. As director, Sidney Franklin repeated the service he performed in Norma Talmadge's silent production.

Laurel and Hardy will be seen in their latest feature-length comedy "Pack Up Your Troubles", at the Lindsey for three days starting Thursday.

The comedians portray entirely new characterizations. As a couple of vagrants, they are kidded into joining the army. Once in they find themselves involved in numerous predicaments. They take everything seriously. They are aware that they must obey every command, so when the jocular chef tells them to take the garbage to the generals office, they do so and land in the guard house. The whole picture is packed with laughs.

"Thirteen Women" Here

"Thirteen Women", Tiffany Thayer's sensational novel, has been filmed and will be seen at the Palace for three days, starting today. Murdering a person without lifting a hand to do so is the basis of the plot. Irene Dunne, Richard Cortez, Myrna Loy, and Jill Esmond head the cast.

The picture reveals the harm that can be wrought by the "predictions" of fake astrologers and others who claim they can forsee events of the future. A group of young women, who had finished college together, are pursuing the normal paths of life when diabolical and uncanny influence creeps into their midst, killing some, sending others to prisons and insane asylums, and threatening all with a dark cloud of tragedy.

Hollywood, at one time or another, has laughed at almost every profession and institution, and now it hurls fun at itself. "Once in a lifetime", which starts a two-day run at the Palace Wednesday, is a hilarious satire on the movies.

Jack Oakie

The picture was taken from a stage production, which was hailed by New York critics as one of the funniest ever presented. The cast includes Jack Oakie, Sidney Fox, Aline McMahon, Russell Hopton, Louise Fazenda, Gregory Ratoff, Zasu Pitts and Onslow Stevens.

"Honor of the Mounted", a western thriller starring Tom Tyler, will be offered at the Palace Friday and Saturday. The picture is laid in the trapping country of the Pacific northwest and is filled with action from start to finish.

Constance Bennett plays in the starring role in "Lady with a Past", which opens a three-day run at the Lyric today. Tears are mingled with laughter in the picture, which is different from the usual Bennett production. The story deals with a society girl who is neither beautiful or attractive until she meets a certain young man who leaves her a woman with a past. Then she changes from a girl always sighted to the most sought after in the social circle. Ben Lyon heads the picture was adapted from the stage play by the same name.

MARY ASTOR

Mary Astor appears in a featured role in "Those We Love", which will be offered at the Lyric Wednesday and Thursday. Kenneth MacKenna, Lilyan Tashman and Hale Hamilton also appear in important parts.

The story, an unusual angle on the triangular theme, is a domestic drama. Its central situation concerns the near-tragedy that results when a husband tells a white lie—a totally unnecessary one—to cover an innocent situation.

Friday and Saturday the Lyric will screen Tom Keen, the singing cowboy, in "Beyond the Rockies." Rochelle Hudson plays opposite the star.
