JIM FERGUSON PREPARES FOR POLITICAL MOVE

Belief Expressed He Cut Higher Learning Funds With Eye to Future

TO CALL "EXTRA"

Special Session of Legislature Would Raise Funds At Pivotal Time

AUSTIN, April 6.—Both James E. Ferguson, speaking for Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and Attorney General Dan Moody, "had nothing to say" today about the governor's veto Saturday of the appropriation for the first assistant in the attorney general's office.

Appropriation of $4,000 yearly for this office, which is now held by Wright Morrow, was the only veto in the attorney general's budget in the departmental appropriation bill. After September 1, when the bill goes into effect, Attorney General Moody will be without a first assistant, as under the bill, no salaries can be paid to one holding the title.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 6.—Coming events cast their shadows before. Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson is governor of Texas. Her husband, of Texas. Her husband, James E. Ferguson, is her adviser. Governor Ferguson swung the broadax and after the blow had been delivered more than $1,200,000 had been eliminated from the general appropriation bill. This is ancient history.

It goes without saying that the Texas university and its friends were given a great shock and that all the other institutions of higher learning and their friends were keenly disappointed. Representative Eugene Blount was the chairman of the house appropriations committee. He was the valiant champion of the measure which in its last analysis was the handiwork of the senate and house conferees.

It will be recalled that the conferencereport was adopted without serious opposition in the house, but it met strenuous opposition in the senate from members who felt that the educational institutions in their districts had not received all that was coming to them. Mr. Blount made several appeals to James E. Ferguson and the governor to let the educational appropriation bill stand as it came from the legislative department.

SPEAKER SATTERWHITE was hopeful that the bill would escape the pruning knife or the axe. Governor Ferguson and her adviser were of one mind. They said they had made the campaign last year on an economy and tax reduction platform, that they had promised to lift Texas out of debt, that the only way to carry out their pledges o the people was to lop off $1,500,000 from an educational and the departmental appropriation bills.

Mr. Blount insisted that the revenue in sight was greater than the total of all the appropriaion bills and that there was no necessity for executive interference with the educational bill.

Dismissing the pruning knife and the axe and the reasons given for the necessity of the disastrous work executed by the shining blades, it is unnecessary to remark that James E. Ferguson, when it comes to political cunning or political foresight, is almost supremely gifted.

THE Fergusons have given their reasons for the free use of the pruning knife. Now what of the future? What will be the program of the governor and her confidential adviser? Have they a program? Men who are analytical and students of political science say they have. There has been a partial wreckage of the program of the university and the other institutions of higher learning.

The excuse is that platform pledges called for it and economy justified it. Because the lawmakers strangled taxation bills recommended by the governor and her adviser, the governor and her adviser lopped off nearly $1,300,000 appropriated for the university and the other state schools. This to make certain that the revenue in sight and which will finally make its way to the treasury will be greater than the appropriations made and at the end of the first term the state will be on a paying basis.

Now what will be the next step taken by Governor Ferguson and her adviser, who is admittedly the keenest or most cunning of all the politicians now before the people of Texas? Why the so-called wreckers of these institutions of learning will become the saviors of the aforesaid institutions, and if they succeed in their tentative program they will have builded the broken places in the political fences of the Fergusons.

HOW can this be done By calling a special session of the legislature early in 1926, by the submission of tax proposals to the legislative department in the shape of recommendations, with a ringing message from the governor saying that the hour has come to tap new sources of revenue in order to make adequate appropriations to carry out a huge building program for the university and the other institutions of higher learning of the state.

This is more than the psychology of the thing. In 1926 there will come another general election and a governor, minor candidates for state office and a legislature will be elected. Coming events do cast their shadows before. Well, the shadows can be seen in the distance.

This writer is not a mind reader, but he knows something about the science of politics and he has made something of a study of the politicians of Texas, including those now

PECAN GROWTH IN VALLEY TO BE TESTED OUT

Superintendent of State Experiment Farm Is Speaker

Extensive experimenting on pecan culture with a view of determining pecan crop possibilities in this territory will be part of the work of the state agricultural experiment farm near Iowa Park, E. J. Wilson, superintendent, told members of the Wichita Falls Technical club at a meeting Monday night. Mr. Wilson was principal speaker at the first of a series of meetings the club proposes to devote to the scientific angles of farming.

Youngblood Anxious.

"Dr. B. Youngblood (director of agricultural experiment work of Texas A. and M. college) is very anxious that we give special attention to the growing of pecans in order to thoroughly test out the advisability of recommending them for planting extensively in this valley," Mr. Wilson said. "He has accordingly had sent to me 41 varieties of pecan seed from the Temple substation, and a lot of common pecans which we are planting this year on the grounds."

This statement is interesting in view of the agitation here for extensive pecan culture. It is believed that the irrigated valley may become a prolific producer of highly valuable pecan crops.

Explains Object.

Mr. Wilson, after outlining the scope of the experimental station work in Texas, explained "the object of experiment station work in agriculture is to establish principles and secure data that will assist the farmer in producing more and better products for the money and time expended. In fact, through the efforts of these stations the proverbial 'two blades of grass now grow where one grew before.' We are interested in the introduction of better and more productive plants and livestock and are constantly on the lookout for any improvements that may increase the production to our community and state."

Postal Receipts Rise Over Twelve Months

Postoffice receipts for the first quarter of 1924, ending March 31, exceeded those for the same quarter in 1924 by $12,785.34, Assistant Postmaster Lon Howard announced yesterday. The figures for the quarter were $64,943.75, compared with $52,158.12 a year ago.

By months, the receipts were as follows: January $23,295.98, February $19,540.48, March $22,107.29.

This total was not as large as that of the last quarter in 1924, which ran to $67,162.34, but these figures include receipts from the heavy Christmas mail business and are always by far the largest of the year.

The winds of political fervor were boisterous and hot Monday. Interest in the campaign has been warm for the past week, but election eve found public attention raised to a high degree. On the basis of this and the increase in the number of eleglible voters, it was predicted last night that fair weather Tuesday would bring a record vote. Approximately 4,000 ballots

U. S. Budget To Be 67 Millions Ahead

WASHINGTON, April 6.—With President Coolidge and Director Lord of the budget as the principal speakers, the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers tonight wound up the first day of its three-day semi-annual convention with a banquet.

Pointing out that hundreds of organizations existed to get money out of the treasury and only one, the bureau of the budget, operated to protect it, Director Lord in his prepared address predicted that "with no change in the program as carried in the 1926 budget, we will end the year with a balanced budget and a surplus of $67,884,489."

"When One Gets Old He Sometimes Wants A Nip," Says Baldwin President

NEW YORK, April 6.—Samuel M. Vauclain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, at Philadelphia, who is under a $10,000 agreement not to violate the prohibition act before May 19, on his return today from Bermuda evaded questions as to whether he had partaken in intoxicating liquors during his vacation trip.

"When I drink, I don't drink for pleasure," he parried.

"When one gets to be about 100 years old," he added, "one wants a nop now and then." A contract not to violate the prohibition law was made by Mr. Vauclain and three of his associates in business, W. A. Garrett, now deceased; A. S. Goble of St. Louis and R. A. Hoy of Houston, Texas. The last three named agreed to forfeit $1,000 each if they broke the agreement.

A drink in Bermuda would not be in violation of this agreement.

Henrietta Is Safe Despite Big Berthas

AUSTIN, April 6.—Reminiscing today on his 54 years of service with the Western Union Telegraph company, Orville D. Parker, local manager, related that among the amusing incidents in this one, showing how a slip of the telegrapher's key may confound the receiver of a telegram: A nervous woman went on a vacation to the Ozarks, leaving her automobile which she called "Henrietta" in charge of some friends. The keys were to be sent to her by special delivery after the car had been placed in the garage. The expected special delivery did not come.

Feared a Smash-up.

The woman pictured her car in a smash-up on its way back from the station to the garage. Finally she wired, receiving this answer which puzzled her somewhat:

"Henrietta, Oklahoma safely lost in barrage." The message should have read: "Henrietta O. K. safely locked in garage."

Sometimes a pathetic message comes to the top. A young man was stricken fatally ill. His parents wired his fiancee in Tennessee, and this is the wire that came just before he died, addressed to his broken hearted mother: "Whisper in his ear while his heart can still hear that I love him better than my life."

She Accepted Him.

He tells of one of the warmest telegraph courtships he ever had a hand in developing. A young couple, separated for months, corresponded regularly by night and day letters. Gradually the messages grew warmer until they frankly became love letters. Then the Western Union office force began to look on with interest. No thought of a breach of promise suit seemed to trouble the young man, for he openly avowed his love in glowing terms, often exceeding his 50 wordlimit with a lover's sublime contempt for money. The girl refused to be outdistanced in professions of love, replied as warmly. The crises approached. The girls of the office were on tip toe.

Burned up The Wire.

At last came the proposal, couched in burning words. The girl replied simply "yes." Soon they were married. The best man should have been the manager of the Western Union office. What would it have meant to that young man if the operator had made a slip and sent "No."

VERNON STORE ROBBED.

Approximately $250 Worth of Wearing Apparel Is Taken.

VERNON, Texas, April 6.—The clothing store of Brunson and Williams was robbed Saturday night or early Sunday morning and about $250 worth of wearing apparel consisting of suits, shoes, hats and handbags, etc., was abstracted.

The burglars effected an entrance through the skylight of the building and took the things out of a rear window. A negro porter at a nearby hotel states that he saw a truck standing in the alley back of the store Sunday morning between 3 and 4 o'clock.

Lt. Chapman of Abilene Is Held After Former Wife Dies

ABILENE, Texas, April 6.—Eunice May Chapman, is dead of gun shot wounds and her divorced husband, Lit Chapman, is held in custody here as a result of a shooting here yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Chapman conducted an apartment house in Abilene. Chapman is said to have arrived in Abilene Sunday morning from Snyder.

Charges of murder were filed against Chapman Monday morning by County Attorney Frank E. Smith. The state will fight efforts to release Chapman on bond and will seek to hold him in custody until the grand jury convenes next Monday morning.

Mrs. Chapman was shot three times in the abdomen and breast. She was 33 years old and was granted a divorce here February 20. She is survived by two children, 11 and 12 years old, and a sister at Throckmorton, and several brothers. Chapman, in a statement to County Attorney Smith, admitted the shooting and said that he did it because he loved her and she would not marry him again. He had been drinking just before the shooting, officers said. The body of Mrs. Chapman will be shipped to Snyder, her former home, where burial will be made Tuesday.

He made the statement in a lecture before the Royal Aeronautical society, explaining that for the ordinary voyage from London to New York the charge per passenger would be about one pound sterling for each pound of flesh.

Million Barrel Oil Increase Is Year's Record

Texas Shows Greatest Production Gain of Any State in Country

TEXAS CITY, April 6.—Final compilation of oil figures for the month of March shows that bulk oil moved over the wharves of the Texas City Terminal company during the month by far exceeded any previous record. The total number of barrels of import, export and coastwise crude and refined petroleum was 3,121,708 barrels, transported in 53 steamers, tankers and oil barges. The previous high record was 2,742,696 barrels moved during September, 1924.

HOUSTON, April 6.—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States during March was 1,939,520 barrels more per day than was produced in the corresponding month of 1924, according to statistics compiled by the Oil Weekly today.

The daily average maintained during March represents a 11,840 barrel increase over the daily yield in February, this year.

While the Mid-Continent production registered a 76,516 barrel gain over March of 1924, production in that area is less per day than it has been since July of last year. During March, oil was recovered in the Mid-Continent fields at the rate of 839,200 barrels per day.

January a Peak.

Compared with March, 1924, Texas showed the greatest production gain of any state in the country, the daily average yield jumping from 388,221 to 434,410 barrels. With the exception of January, this year, when the peak of the Wortham pool was reached, the rate of production established during March of the current year is greater than it has been since the peak of the Powell field, which was reached in the fall of 1923.

Although Kansas production has been on the downward trend for the past seven months, the daily average production there in March was 84,965 barrels, or 15,101 barrels per day more than in March, 1924. Kansas production in the past month

Cal Bespeaks Himself Of Short Skirts

WASHINGTON, April 6.—An assurance of increased business prosperity was voiced by President Coolidge in an address here tonight to the National Cotton Manufacturer's association.

The president reviewed at length the problems of the cotton manufacturing industry noting even the return of short skirts and the consequent reduction in consumption of cloths. He added that he saw little prospect of stabilizing women's styles, remarked that their constant changing might make it difficult for manufacturers, but "no doubt relieves monotony and adds to the spice of life."

POLITICS PUTS CLUB WOMEN IN HIGH TENSION

Fields Versus Potter Race For District Honor Absorbs Interest

AT CONVENTION

Delegates Gather at Fort Worth For Annual Federation Session

By PEGGY PIEDMONT.
Record News Staff.

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 6. Filling the largest auditorium of Saint Paul's Methodist church to its capacity, delegates, visitors and friends attended "president's evening," the serial event which formally opened today the convention of the first district federation of women's clubs, holding a three-day session here.

Mrs. Roscoe Cox of Stephenville, vice-president of the first district was in the chair and opened the program with a brief talk, afterwards introducing the state president, Mrs. Henry Redmond of Corpus Christi, who talked of "bridges". Mrs. Redmond compared women's clubs to bridges in which were many links which she called club women's ideals and aspirations. Greetings were heard from several district presidents, afterwards which Mrs. J. A. Britain, president of the first district, gave her address, Mrs Britain talked on the subject "literature in the home."

"Pikers and Patriots"

The talks were interspersed with musical numbers given by the massed chorus of women's choruses of the Futorpean and Harmony clubs unders the directorship of Carl Venth and a trio number by Messrs. Brooks Morris, Violin; Guy Pitner, piano and Sam Zigler, cello. Also two piano numbers were given by a fifteen-year-old Wichita Falls boy, Floyd Ard. All the numbers were received with enthusiasm.

Most of Monday was given over to preparation for the business which follow today. The meeting of the executive board occupied the morning. It was decided that "The American Home" will be the general theme of the twenty-fourth annual convention. The board discussed various themes of the convention, the work outlined will include the promoting of girls recognition through "girls week" and work in staying any crumbling of the walls of the American home.

It also included the supervision of literature that is given the children; the furthering of motion picture study clubs throughout the state to protect the children and the responsibility each individual member owes to their club.

Delegates Are Greeted.

Recommendations offered by the first district president, Mrs. J. A. Britain of Seymour, embodied the instructions that no woman accept the chairmanship unless she has the leisure to attend the district meetings and that clubs should send in their dues at the same time they send in the names of their officers for the year book.

Mrs. W. H. Moore, president of the city federation, gave the greetings of welcome and the response for the district was given by Mrs. W. R. Veale of Breckenridge.

There are already more than 300 delegates here from their various districts and from all indications politics will run high beginning today. The election of the new president for the First district will be a feature, as Mrs. Roscoe Cox of Stephenville, first vice president, has no opponent, she will take over the office. There are two candidates for the state presidency on the ground. Mrs. J. U. fields of Haskell, and Mrs. W. R. Potter of Bowie. Both women are from the First district. The state election will be held in the fall in Austin.

Two From Same District.

It is unusual, club women say, for two candidates from the same district to announce, therefore the situation is proving most interesting. Both women have their campaign managers with them, and as soon as a delegates alights from her train and registers at the Texas hotel, which is convention hedsquarters, she is greeted with the question, "Who are you instructed to boost, Mrs. Potter, or Mrs. Fields?" If you say one or the other and you are talking to the opposing faction, you are taken off to one side for a confidential chat, and explained to, why their pet candidate should be your choice. Mrs. John B. Bunt of Bowie is chief campaign leader for Mrs. Potter, while Mrs. Hardy Grissom is campaign manager in chief for Mrs. Fields, and Mrs. C. A. Lilly is local chief. The office is purely honorary which entails much arduous labor and no pay, to say nothing of the personal expense, but the same enthusiasm is shown as is the case when men seek big money jobs.

Today the morning hours will be devoted to routine business and reports from delegates. In the afternoon a picture show party with a tea at the Women's club will furnish the social features.

Waite Phillips Opens Third Archer County Pool

Oklahoman's Fifth Attempt Scores Opener

Well Rated at 150 Barrels From Sand at 1,717-19

SECOND IN 2 DAYS

Well is Four to Six Miles From Commercial Production

Waite Phillips has seemingly opened his third Archer county pool in his No. 1, Tad Wilson, in the center of the south half of the Ben Howard survey, south of Mankins, northwest Archer county, the well, a rank wildcat, showing in an incomplete stage yesterday for 125-150 barrel well from two feet of sand at 1,717-19 feet.

Oil, according to reports was standing within a hundred feet of the top of the hole, with the well only partially cleaned out. Every indication pointed to a good well and a pool opener.

The test will open a third Waite Phillips pool, the third success in five attempts, an average that few Archer county operators have hitherto been able to match. The first was opened last summer southeast of Dundee by the No. 1, L. F. Wilson, a well in the center of a string of dry holes, and third of a series of wildcats that had been started by the Oklahoman. The other two of the wildcats were dry holes.

The second trio of wildcats was started about a month ago. The first completion was Saturday's Wolf well northeast of Swastika, which put 230 barrels into the tanks Sunday following swabbing and cleaning out. The second was the Tad Wilson, another pool opener, and the third was drilling yesterday at about 800 feet on the Woodrum farm, southwest of the original pool bearing Waite Phillips' name on the Torebio Losoya survey.

The showing in the Tad Wilson is causing considerable attention to be directed to that area, a portion of the county that had come o be regarded as somewhat dead. The new pool is four to six miles from commercial production.

Comac, Seay

Virgil Seay

Cooper and McLaughlin were drilling yesterday below 1,600 feet and expected to reach 1,700 feet some time today and abandon their No. 1 Virgil Seay, block 69, Harris sub-division of the Club ranch, west of Archer City, central Archer county.

John Seay

Cooper and McLaughlin are shut down for water at past 1,300 feet in their No. 1 John Seay, in block 110, Harris sub-division of Club ranch, west of Archer City, central Archer county.

Haskell County Test

The Amsler-Terrell test four miles from Haskell, Haskell county, James L. Scott sub-division 46, has spudded and is drilling. W. C. Myers and Grover C. Myers of Wichita Falls, are the contractors.

Panhandle, Gambrell

The Panhandle Refining company has completed its second Gambrell producer, No. 2, a location west of No. 1, from the sand around 1,200 feet for one of the best completions there in several days, the well flowing around 400 barrels during the first 24 hours.

Silkwood, Brashear

Silkwood and Brashear were rigged up yesterday and expected to spud today on their No. 1, Fasset and Tuttle, in the northeast corner of the west 80 acres of the south 155 acres of the Fasset Tuttle farm, five and one-half miles southwest of Iowa Park, Wichita county, B&F survey.

Thomas et al, Parmenter

Thomas and associates No. 1, Parmenter, in the west half of section 6, H&TCRRCO survey, block 3, southwest of Mankins and two miles west of Waite Phillips new pool opener, is shut down at about 1,717 feet, but will probably start up in a day or two. It is hoped to get the sand in the Waite Phillips well at about 1,750 feet here.

Jones, Bassett

Edwin M. Jones is moving a rig over to the Basset farm. James Smith survey, in the south forty acres of the west 80 acres of the east 320 acres of the south 406.6 acres of the east 500 acres of the survey, abstract 291, west of Westover, southeast Baylor county.

North Montague County Shows Seven Oil Wells And 9 Shallow Gassers

North Montague county with seven wells rated as producers, although not all of them are being pumped, is coming increasingly to the attention of operators of this district as an area that will eventually produce a lot of oil. The county has a potential production from seven wells of about 400 barrels. Nine gas kells with a capacity ranging from 35,000,000 to 125,000,000 cubic feet dot the area surrounding the oilers, and from these fuel aplenty is to be be had for drilling operations. One, that drilled by the Nocona Gas company (Mitchell and Lesh) is to supply the town of Nocona with gas for domestic and industrial fuel when mains have been laid to the town, a distance of several miles.

North Montague Shows 10 or 12 Operations.

The north part of the county shows approximately ten or twelve operations with only one well due for completion, Texhoma's No. 1, Lemon, on a gas sand at 722 feet and showing for the usual north Montague county gas well.

Texhoma has lately put its No. 3, Howard, Finis Robertson survey, in a semi-complete stage and will put on the pump for the deepest well in the county, a probable 50 or 60 barrel producer from sand at 1,365-97 feet. The well is the third on Texhoma's lease. Nos. 1 and 2, twin wells, producing from different strata at 825-51 and 988-1,002 feet. Location has been made for No. 4 75 feet north, the well to be directed at still deeper horizons.

Texas Co. Has One Well; Humphreys Has Two.

Other producers besides Texhoma in the district are Texas company with one well on the Gist tract; No. 2, making about 75 barrels of about 30 degree gravity oil; the Humphries corporation with two producers, one on the ones and one on the Salmon tract; Phil Lesh with one well on the Salmon tract, Samuel Little survey, and the nine gas wells owned by the various companies.

A partial summary of activity in north Montague follows:

Texas company No. 1, N. J. Howard, southwest corner of the N. J. Howard tract, John Chambliss survey, abstract 123, about 1,000 feet north of the Humphreys Salmon producer and three-fourths of a mile southwest of the Texhoma's Howard group, location.

STROUD WILCOX SAND DRAINED WELLS SHOW

TULSA, April 6.—Hoyt and Winkler have finally completed their test on lots 2 and 4, block 4, townsite of Key West, and in 12-14-6, Lincoln county, for a 45 barrel well at 4,135 to 4,164 feet in the Wilcox sand. The small initial output indicates clearly how the Wilcox at Stroud has been drained.

News Of The Fields

Atlantic, Waggoner

The Atlantic Oil Producing company has the second well in the Levy pool southeast of the South Vernon, eastern Wilbarger county, their No. 1 Waggoner, in the southwest corner of the northwest quarter of section 51, block 14, H&TCRRCo survey.

The well, a northeast offset to the discovery, Levy-Kane-Morton No. 1 Waggoner, encountered a sand at 1,414, drilled solid sand to 1,420 feet, broken sand at 1,420-27 feet and shale at 1,427-30 feet. The well filled up 300 feet of 8 1-4-inch pipe immediately and is conservatively reckoned at 100 barrels, with the probability that it will show more. The well shows no gas, and is very similar to the Levy discovery. Accounting for differences in elevation between the two the sand top is figured to be the same in the two wells.

Atlantic Leases

Zipperle, Wilbarger

The Atlantic Oil Producing company is setting a liner at 1,287-1,234 feet in its No. 2 Zipperle, west line of the northwest 40 of the southwest quarter of section 80, block 14, H&TCRRCo survey, offsetting Humble's No. 6 Castlebury, to the east, the well flowing natural 130 barrels into storage yesterday.

No. 1 in the southwest corner of the lease will be plugged back in an effort to save it from salt water. No. 3 Zipperle, in the northwest corner is down to 825 feet.

Parish-Archer

The Atlantic Producing cmopany's A-6 Parrish, in the southwest 40 acres of the southeast equarter of section 26, H&TCRRCo survey, abstract 1197, North Archer county, was setting casing yesterday at 1,558 feet on a sand topped just below that.

Hayter-Archer

The Atlantic's No. 2 Hayster, south of No. 1, which is in the northeast corner of the lease, block 1508, TEL &LCO survey, was drilling yesterday at 750 feet.

Texhoma Leases

Gambrell-Archer

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company was drilling at 1,210 feet yesterday morning in their No. 8 Gambrell, BBB&CRRCo survey, abstract 31, and should have had or not had the sand some time yesterday afternoon.

Morrison-Archer

The Texhoma's No. 1 Morrison, block 2403, TEL&LCO survey, north of the Harmel pool between that area and Swastika, was drilling yesterday below 1,489 feet in shale.

Montague County

Texhoma had set and cemented casing yesterday on sand at 720-24 feet in their No. 1 Lemon, gas area, Nocona district, North Montague county, and expects to drill the plug out and bail in a day or two with the well giving every indication of making the usual North Montague county gas well.

No. 3 Howard, Finis Robertson survey, is being equipped for the pump on sand at 1,365-67 feet, while the No. 4 is the derrick off of No. 3 skidded 75 feet south and rigging up.

Jones, Stevens

Edwin M. Jones has abandoned his No. 1, Stevens, in TE&LCO survey, block 3110, southeast Baylor county, as a dry hole at a total depth of 1,755 feet.

Daniels-Rutis, Keith

Daniels and Rutis are drilling past a depth of 979 feet in their No. 1, Keith, southeast corner, approximately, of the northwest quarter of TE&LCO survey, block 267, north of Orth, north Young county.

Humphries Cor. Capitalization Up To $400,000

North Montague Properties Of Old Company Included in Assets

The Humphreys corporation, initially organized under the laws of the state of Delaware as a $50,000 corporation has by the addition of a clause to its charter increased its capitalization to $400,000, it is learned here.

Organizers of the Humphreys corporation include Colonel A. E. Humphreys, Julian H. Fohs and others, officers and directors of the old Humphreys-Boyd Oil company, part of whose assets and production were purchased by the Pure Oil company for $7,000,000. At the time on the initial organization there was some speculation as to just what the purpose of the organizers in placing their capitalization so low was, and the increase is no surprise; indeed, still other increases are expected.

The north Montague county properties of the old organization including several hundred acres and two producing wells were not in the lot sold to the Pure Oil company and were included in the assets of the Humphreys corporation at the time of its organization. Colonel Humphreys has been quoted as saying that he intends to drill 45 wells in that part of the country.

H. W. Freed Will Represent Humphries Here.

The interest of the Humphreys corporation in this district are represented now by H. W. Freed of their scouting department. Mr. Freed is to be found for the present at the William-Mary hotel.

First Of Wildcat Trio On Balcones Gets Chalk Bottom

Bob Penn et al Have Only 35 Feet of "Key" Formation

FORT WORTH, April 6.—Taking but 35 feet of the Austin chalk Bob Penn, Windsor, Humphreys—Boyd and the Texas Pacific No. 1 Murphy, Gardner survey, western Henderson county, east central Texas, will probably reach the Woodbine sand before other two wells drilling on Balconnes fault zone in east central Texas in effort to open another Powell there.

Apparently, Penn well nicked edge of up thrown of fault topping it at 2,723 feet and going out of same formation at 2,758 feet. It was last reported drilling in Eagle Ford shale at 2,830 feet, hoping to pick up Woodbine before 3,000 feet are drilled.

Five miles north, in southeastern Kaufman county, Murchison and Fain and Marland No. 1, Duff, Ybarbo survey, were last reported drilling in chalk at 2,900 feet, having so far taken nearly 500 feet of that formation, which was topped at 2,400 feet.

Cranfill, Murchison and Fain and Marland No. 1, Springer, Gardner survey, but 1,600 feet east of the Penn well on Buffalo structure Henderson county, were 2,725 feet and drilling, and from the chalk record of the Penn well, expecting to go out of chalk before another 50 feet of hole is drilled. It topped chalk at 2,270 feet. Formations in these tests which hope to open up new pool on fault line have been everything but ideal, although nothing has yet occurred to condemn the district. Seven days more will see the finish of the race.

Five Million Mark Near for Prairie

The 5,000,000 mark in pipe line runs is near for the Prairie Pipe Line company, indicating the demand of eastern and northern refineries for Mid-Continent crude is increasing, despite the flood of low gravity crude.

In March the Prairie shipments totaled 4,923,928.69 barrels, which when compared with 4,322,556.49 for February and 4,441,289.93 for January, reveal a steady increase.

If the daily average shipments of 158,836 that took place in March prevail throughout the year the 1925 total shipments should pass the 50,000,000 barrel mark. The 1924 total shipments amounted to 42,645,144.41 barrels.

Tonkawa Recovery Soars; Output Drops

The 91 deep sand wells at Tonkawa draining 910 acres in the deep sand are within four townships of sections 34 U and 35-25 LW Kay county and sections 2 and 3 in 24 LW Noble county up to April 1 had produced a total of 18,200,000 barrels of oil, a rate of 2,000 barrels to the acre.

Although the individual completions of the day rarely put the output of this field higher, the increase in the recovery there never falters, gaining day by day.

SPECIAL JURY ADJOURNS

No Action Taken By District of Columbia Investigating Body.

Roberts, special government counsel in the naval oil leasing prosecutions, have presented evidence on which indictments in addition to those now pending have been sought, adjourned today without action.

on earth. Politics is like a game of chess or checkers. If you know the players and have studied them, it is easy to guess at the moves they are going to make on the board, whether it is a political, a chess or a checker board. It will be recalled that the Fergusons recommended a sweeping reduction in the cost of motor vehicles licenses and a sweeping advance of the tax on gasoline.

A BILL was introduced and strangled. The Fergusons recommended a tax on cigars and cigarettes which would have created an additional revenue of $4,000,000 a year for a building fund. This was strangled. No attempt was made to increase the gross production tax on crude at the well. It would have been useless.

Now after the slaughter and the reasons given why the slaughter was made or became necessary, the politicians and the people will be given a long resting spell until late this year or early in 1926 and then unless the signs in the political heavens are all wrong the governor will call the legislature in special session, make recommendations and do everything possible to create a fund for a building program for the institutions which have suffered from the attacks of pruning knives and broad axes.

WOODROW WILSON was charged by his critics with being ever watchful and ever waitful. It is for the people of Texas to watch and wait.

"Simms" Is Name Of Sooner Wilcox Pool

TULSA, April 6.—The old Tiger Flats area in southern Okmulgee county is being called the Simms pool in honor of the Simms Oil company, which found the Wilcox sand in No.1-A Rentie, in the corner of 31-12-12 at 3,287 feet and in it to 3,295 feet is averaging 320 barrels a day of 46 gravity oil, the highest found in Central Oklahoma so far. The Simms became interested in the Tiger Flats are in 1923 and took a small block in section 30, and drilled a 2,695 foot dry hole in the southwest of the southeast of the southwest of 30-12-12 The log revealed something that assisted Bernard H. Lasky, geologist, in convincing him that the main structure there was southerly in section 31. The Simms Oil company took over the old shallow production and interests of the Eureka Oil company and drilled a Deaner sand well in the northeast of 31-12-12, which came in for 20 barrels a day at 2,392 feet. This held the leases and the deep well was then started.

Three offset wells to the Simms discovery well are now drilling.

San Antonio Cop Is Attacked By Mob Of Negroes

Officer Attempts Arrest Of Negro And is Set Upon by Others

SAN ANTONIO, April 6.—While J. L. Martin, special officer for the Southern Pacific Railroad company lies at his home in a serious condition, police and detectives are searching the city for a party of more than 15 negroes who late Sunday afternoon attacked and beat the officer about the face and head after he had arrested one of their group at a negro baseball game near the S. P. yards.

Trouble arose when Special Officer Martin asked a negro spectator to move back from the base line, according to the story told to detectives who were detailed on the case.

The negro, it is said, cursed Martin.

The negro's arrest immediately followed this indictment, and the officer turned to leave the field with the prisoner.

Within a few minutes the two were surrounded by an angry crowd of negroes.

Closing in on the white man, the mob beat him into semi-consciousness, disarmed him and scattered.

The beaten man was rushed to the hospital, but later taken home.

Martin, who recovered sufficiently at the hospital to tell of the attack, declared he could identify two of his assailants and furnished detectives with their descriptions.

CHICAGO GRAINS RALLY.

After Early Fall, Wheat and Other Grains Staze Comeback.

CHICAGO, April 6.—After an early tumble reminiscent of the big drop in grains last week prices on the Chicago board of trade today rallied during the last hour of trading and closed sharply higher for the day.

Closing prices for the day were 1 7-8 to 3 1-2 cents higher for wheat, 3 7-8 to 5 cents up for corn, 1 1-4 to 1 3-8 cents higher for oats and 2 3-8 to 4 cents up for rye. While corn was going up, however, the finished product in the form of hogs, dropped from 15 to 25c.

May wheat closed at $1.46 1-4. May corn at $1 and May oats at 39 5-8 to 39 3-4 cents with rye ending at $1.14 3-8 for May grades.

SEVEN STABBED IN DALLAS

Week-end Affrays Likely to Produce One or More Fatalities

DALLAS, April 6.—Police reports today showed seven persons to have been stabbed and cut Sunday afternoon and night.

John Simpson, 29 of Oakcliff, was stabbed with an ice pick. His condition is serious. W. A. Laird, 22, also of Oakcliff, was stabbed several times. He said he did not know who did it. Will Smith was cut in the back by an unknown assailant. He said he believed it to be a case of mistaken identity.

The others, including two women, were less seriously cut.

HONOR PRISONERS MEET

They Commend Work of Getting Employment for Men Just Out of Jail

HOUSTON, April 6.—Eight members of the Neff honor farm prisoners fraternity were present at the meeting called by the prisoners' associated society here last night.

Lee Tholmes, president of the fraternity, praised the work of the prisoners' associated society and hoped that the men on the other farms would feel the public interest in them also. He believed "the help which the society has given men in finding employment after their release is rekindling the light of hope in those who have yet to face that greatest ordeal of the prisoners career."

Cops Find Huge Still Too Big To Bring Into Town

Officers Are Forced To Keep Watch Over Big Outfit

FORT WORTH, April 6.—Deputy sheriffs have been maintaining a 24-hour watch over the huge distillery captured Saturday afternoon by County Detective Rhodes and Constable Carter, 14 miles northwest of the city near the Decatur road.

Because the still and accessories are too large to bring to the city, the distillery will be broken up and sold at its location under condemnation proceedings, Sheriff Carl Smith said Monday. Deputies Chambers and Porter kept watch over the still Sunday, and were relieved Monday by Deputies White and Largent.

Three men arrested on the raid were to be charged with violating the liquor laws. The seizure included 520 gallons of corn whiskey in addition to the complete distillery, said to be one of the best illicit outfits ever captured in the state. The cost of the plant was estimated at several thousand dollars.

THIEVES "DUTCH" WITH MAN

Dallas Gentlemen Robbers Give Man Back Half of Money

DALLAS, April 6.—J. A. Stampley was robbed by two young men as he stood at a street corner yesterday. He was threatened, he told police unless he "shelled out my money." Stampley handed the robbers $2 and told them it was all he had. They handed him back $1, keeping $1, told him to "keep his lip closed," and disappeared.

New Deep Sand At Garber Looms Big

The Garber area of Garfield county loomed larger and larger on the Mid-Continent horizon Saturday as the Sinclair Oil and Gas company No. 25, Belveal, in the northeast corner of 24-22-4w, was deepened to 4,381 feet, making it five feet in the sand, and its output increased to 1,000 barrels a day of 44 gravity oil. From 11 p. m. Saturday the new Sinclair well actually produced 530 barrels, a scout report said, and steps were being taken to clean out 30 feet of mud that remained in the hole, after which the pipe would be crowded one or two feet, preliminary to further deepening the well.

Scouts 'watching' the new Sinclair well at a conference Saturday morning, following discussions wth geologists, came to the conclusion that the 25 Belveal is producing from the Bartlesville sand, which is the producing horizon at Burbank, Rainbow Bend, Ostot and Blackwell, fields. This leaves the Wilcox sand, which is the deep pay at Tonkawa, to be around 4,700 feet in the C ber field.

Changes Made In Tidal Personnel

E. H. Salrin, who has been secretary and treasurer of the Tidal Oil company, has been appointed vice president and head of the land department of that active Mid-Continent oil concern, it is announced. He succeeds Charles E. Hane, resigned. Donald W. Bell, becomes secretary and treasurer.

The change gives A. A. Beard, vice president and general manager, complete control of the Tidal affairs in the Mid-Continent.

FALL AND THE DOHENYS.

Albert B. Fall has scored. The Dohenys, father and son have scored. The grand jury in and for the District of Columbia away last year returned indictments for conspiracy against these widely known individuals. It had much to do with oil. An outstanding feature was the admission that the elder Doheny had loaned $100,000 in currency to Fall and that the messenger, who carried the suit case which contained the money, was the son of the California oil king.

Now the indictments have been quashed. The chief justice of the supreme court of the District of Columbia did the quashing. It is a simple story of technicality and court procedure. It appears that an assistant attorney general of the United States was in the room while the grand jurors were considering the evidence upon which the indictments were returned.

Eminent barristers, representing Falls and the Dohenys, demurred to this. They said it was an illegal procedure, contrary to the constitution and the law of the republic, and they submitted a motion calling for the quashing of the indictments. This happened weeks ago; the chief justice prayed over it long and late, day and night. Then he quashed the indictments.

These indictments have nothing to do with the civil suits which are pending in Wyoming and California. The civil proceedings were instituted to bring about the annulment of the Doheny and Sinclair leases of naval oil reserves owned by the government. Fall admits that Doheny, the elder, loaned him $100,000. He does not admit that Harry Sinclair and his associates loaned him liberty bonds having a face value of $250,000.

Wouldn't it be funny if Fall is vindicated, Doheny and Sinclair given a clean bill of health, the Teapot Dome and other leases held to be legal and Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana sent to trial and convicted for unlawful practices before certain departments of the federal government.

When the first indictment was returned against Senator Wheeler, Senators Walsh and Borah gave Wheeler a clean bill of health, and the senate adopted a resolution upholding the personal integrity of the Montana statesman who was under fire.

Now the indictments against the so-called oil conspirators have been dismissed and the grand jury in and for the District of Columbia has returned indictments against Wheeler and three or four of his associates. Law is majestic. Why make a monkey of it?

LASKER AS AN EXPERT.

Albert D. Lasker, who is a native Texan and the president of one of the largest advertising agencies in the world, says advertising is the greatest force that has come to the aid of the distribution of good in the past 20 years, but it cannot accomplish everything.

His viewpoint is that it cannot do much for merchandise that is not good enough to sell without advertising. His conviction is that no man can do anything for an advertiser who does not understand his own business.

Isn't it true that the bankruptcy court takes care of a man that does not understand his own business. Albert D. Lasker was for a long time president of the American shipping board. Did he put it over? He advocated a subsidy for the American merchant marine. Congress ignored his recommendation.

He won as an advertising agent, but when he invaded the shipping business and politics he did not make a kling. It was a wise man who advised the shoemaker to stick to his last.

AMERICAN MONEY NEEDED.

It is announced that the Stinnes interest of Germany are seeking money in the United States and have been granted an initial credit of $6,000,000 to be followed by permanent financing.

This is the largest industrial group in Germany, and three companies have an annual turnover of $125,000,000 in minerals and metals. They produce 16,000,000 tons of coal per annum, 4,000,000 tons of coke, 1,500,000 tons of pig iron and 2,000,000 tons of steel.

Germany isn't coming back. Germany did not have to come back. Germany wiped out its internal debts with paper money and then let the paper money go to the grave yard.

Hugo Stinnes, as a captain of industry and financier, was the most remarkable man that the continent of Europe has produced in many decades. Now his sons are handling his interest and Wall Street is doing the financing.

NEW RAIL EXTENSION FOR TAXES.

As forecasted by this newspaper the Burlington is going to build an extension from Childress to the plains country touching all the important towns. Furthermore, the Santa Fe has signed a contract for new extension in the same territory.

It is hinted that the Santa Fe is going to build extensions in the gulf coast country and the magic valley, and that the Missouri Pacific will not be backward in protecting the interest of its stockholders and bond holders in the same section.

Texas is on the building map, but the powerful systems are going to do the building unless all the surface signs are misleading. Texas should have a population of 6,000,000 in 1930 and from 1930 until 1940 the population should jump to 10,000,000.

If Texas had been advertised as California has been advertised it would be pushing New York and Pennsylvania for a seat in the front row.

TRUTH.

Truth seems often disagreeable and cruel, but in reality it is the loveliest thing in the world.

It is hard for us to give up our pleasant fictions, our superstitions and fancies, and come down to realities, but those who have done so find out by and by that what is real is always more beautiful than what is merely fancied.

The actual sunset over the lake, the glory in the sky and on the water, is infinitely above what any painter can copy. So we may rest assured that what we have fancied about death, and about God and about other things concerning which we know nothing, are weak in comparison with the realities.

I believe that, in the long run, what is true and what is beautiful and what is good are all the same.

It takes time to find this out and we must pass through that varied experience called life in order to understand it. Fortunate is he who discovers it early in life.

There are those who say, "Give me my old faith." If it is true, do not tell me. Do not disturb me from my beautiful dreams.

This is the subtlest kind of disloyalty, for it is unbelief in the truth. It is confidence that something artificial, something that we or others have made is better than what Nature has made.

We say, on the contrary, rest assured that whatever has grounds in Nature or in God, in other words whatever is actual, is more beautiful and satisfying than anything that is fictional.

Fiction is but a poor attempt to imitate the real.

PENSIONS FOR TEACHERS.

Public school teachers in the city of New York are happy. They won a big legislative victory. They secured an appropriation of $20,000,000 to the annual charges of greater New York and the largest part of this amount is contained in the teacher's salary bill which will increase the pay of every teacher in New York City from the superintendent of schools to those in the kindergartens by about 20 per cent.

New York teachers fought for the legislation for five years. Another legislative act increased the pension of teachers. This measure makes the amount of pension after 35 years service depend on the average grade of salary earned during the last five years of active duty instead of the average rate earned during the last 10 years, and the effect will be to increase the annual pension payment by about $4,000,000.

Tammany senators and representatives backed the legislation and many up-state members who are republicans voteu with the democrats. Why not increase pay for the teachers and increase pensions?

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR SERVICE.

A rare opportunity for service is presented to wealthy Texans in the suggestion of Walter Fewkes of the Smithsonian Institution that they lend financial assistance to the University of Texas in conducting a thorough investigation into the remains of aboriginal civilization in this state.

Dr. Fewkes believes the remains to be unearthed will provide connecting link between the story of the mound builders of the Mississippi valley section and that of the Pueblo builders of New Mexico and Arizona. Such discoveries will have social as well as ethnological value, and should be followed by the establishment of a great scientific and historical museum at the university.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

Doleful Cheerfulness.

It was Ben King, one of the most cheerful of optimists who wrote these lines:

Nothing to do but work;
Nothing to eat but food,
Nothing to wear but clothes,
To keep one from going nude.

Nothing to breathe but air,
Quick as a flash 'tis gone,
Nowhere to fall but off,
Nowhere to stand but on.

Nothing to comb but hair,
Nowhere to sleep but bed,
Nothing to weep but tears,
Nothing to bury but dead.

Nothing to sing but songs,
Ah well! alas! alack!
Nowhere to go but out,
Nowhere to come but back.

Nothing to strike but a gait;
Everything move that goes,
Nothing at all but common sense
Can save us from all these woes.

Nothing at all but common sense, but thank Heaven there is plenty of that in the world to combat all the dreary prophets of evil who see the world going to the dogs because girls wear short hair and college boys smoke cigarettes.

Mr. Barries' pessimist who told every one he met that it was a weary world has plenty of replicas just now, and some of them are ladies and gentlemen who write books, and for the newspapers and the magazines.

But when they go out on their doleful trouble hunting expeditions there is nowhere to come but back, and the worst of them will sooner or later arrive where they started from, and, we trust, be cured of their forebodings.

This may not be the best world in the universe, and only an idiot would insist that it is as good as it ought to be.

But neither is it rushing headlong to perdition. There is stil ltruth and beauty in it, and a fairly reasonable chance to earn an honest living, and a few friendships, and a great deal of very interesting experience.

It is moreover a much better world than it used to be in the days when people were stretched on racks and burned in fires because they didn't happen to hold the same theory of creation as other people did.

Plenty of intolerance and prejudice and injustice still there is to be sure, and an overabundance of selfishness.

But although there is nothing to do but work, this work can take many very entertaining forms, and can be made useful to ourselves as well as to thousands of other people who never heard of us and whom we shall never see.

The last line in Mr. King's poem is the one he probably wrote first; at least he had it in mind when he began his poem, and the poem was written to show how stupid is the pessimistic spirit that can find good in nothing.

We are not a sunshine scatterer, but neither are we a gloom dispenser. And we believe that common sense, which is the middle course, will save us from the consequences which otherwise might ensue from the preachings of these earnest but light-headed people.

Irrigation

Headgate, Check and Drop.

It seems that some of the readers are not familiar with the names, or nature and use of certain fundamental irrigation structures. There are three devices or structures which are installed in the supply ditches on most irrigated farms. Their purpose is to control the water as the irrigator desires.

Wherever it is necessary to stop the flow of water in one direction and cause it to flow in another, a headgate is installed. This is generally a box fixed in the ditch with a slide made of boards or metal working between guides in the box which when dropped in place will stop the flow of water. When raised the water will flow under it.

When it is necessary to raise the level of the water in a ditch so that water will flow out through another channel and the rest continue on as before, then a check is used. A check is also a box set in the ditch so it will not wash out or allow water to wash around it. It is fitted with loose pieces of boards which when dropped between guides on the sides of the box will cause the water level in the ditch above to raise.

A headgate and a check are very similar in their use. A check can be made to serve as a headgate and a headgate can also be used as a check.

If the water in a canal or ditch flows too rapidly it will wash the dirt from the sides and bottom and carry it away, eventually ruining the ditch. To prevent the water from flowing too fast artificial water falls are built in a canal. The water is backed up so that the velocity is retarded and the fall all takes place at once so that no damage is done.

A headgate, drop, and check may all be combined in one structure.

Police Fund Sponsor of J. C. Loos Shows

Sponsored by the police department relief fund, the J. George Loos shows, direct from the Fort Worth Fat Stock show will appear for the week of April 13 on the lot by the baseball park.

The Loos shows proved highly popular during their run in Fort Worth, and are expected to meet with great success during their stay here.

Wichita Woman Loses Colorado Park Land Suit

Federal Judge Orders Sale Of Land to Satisfy Mortgage

A suit involving Antlers Park, a popular summer resort near Creed, Colo., where scores of Wichitans annually spend their vacations is being threshed out before Judge William H. Atwell in federal court here. The litigation involves alleged fraud on the part of one defendant who sold the property to a Wichita county woman; and also involves payment of a $4,500 note held by a Creed bank against the same Wichita woman.

Orders Park Sold.

The case is styled Mrs. Martha A. Dowlin vs. Mrs. Clara Elting and Tompkins Brothers, bankers, of Creed. The suits has been dropped as it pertained to Mrs. Elting, Judge Atwell ruling favorably on a motion by the defense that Mrs. Elting was guiltless on the fraud charges preferred in the plaintiff's petition. The court has also ordered the park sold and proceeds from this used to satisfy the note held by the Colorado bankers. If these funds are not sufficient to satisfy it, the court has held that certain Archer county property owned by Mrs. Dowlin be sold also.

Mrs. Dowlin, a pioneer Wichita county resident, purchased the Colorado resort from Mrs. Elting late in the summer of 1923. To make the payment she borrowed $4,500 from the Tompkins Brothers bank, putting up as collateral the resort itself and 200 acres of Archer county land. She now alleges that the Colorado park is worthless and that she bought it through fraudlent representations of the former owners. She sought to rescind the deed transferred to her by Mrs. Elting, and also sought to cancel the mortgage held by the bankers on her Archer county land.

In ordering the property sold Judge Atwell remarked "I'd like to own that place myself."

Sportsmen Wants Park.

It was indicated out of court that some Colorado sportsmn were angling for the property, and in the decree ordering the sale, the court stipulated that the plaintiff should have until August 1 to consumate a deal and satisfy the note held by the bankers.

Another angle of the case will come up today when a suit styled Mrs. Dowlin vs. W. I. Leary and J. A. Weaver to cancel an oil and gas lease given by the plaintiff to Weaver for securing the loan for her is heard. It is alleged that the oil rights to some of her Archer county lands was given by Mrs. Dowling to Weaver for inducing Leary, a co-partner in the Tompkins bank, to make the loan. Leary is alleged to have turned half of this over Leary.

Judge Albert L. Moses of Alamosa, Colo., and H. J. Bruce, a Wichita Falls attorney are representing the defendant. R. E. Taylor is Mrs. Dowlin's attorney.

Identifies Alleged Attacker by Picture

HOUSTON, April 6.—Introduction of a photograph of a Waller county man, on the back of which Miss Docie Cude, 16-year-old girl, admitted having written "I am sure this is the man who attacked me," resulted in the dismissal of the indictment charging criminal assault against J. L. Henigan, special officer for the Southern Pacific, at 3:45 p. m. Monday in criminal district court.

Miss Cude, placed on the stand at 1 p. m. had just finished her testimony in which she stated positively that Henigan was the man who attacked her on February 4, in the woods on the edge of Hollywood cemetery, where she was going to the funeral of a friend, when the photograph, was shown her. She admitted she had been shown the photograph last Friday and that she identified it as being an exact likenese of the man.

The photograph was that of Arthur Collier, in jail in Hempstead, charged with criminal assault on a Houston nurse, according to testimony of G. E. Martin, railroad detective and Maurice Kemp, Hempstead photographer.

Miss Cude said the man who attacked her had a mustache, and that when taken to the police station to identify him the officers told her they thought they had he right man, but that he had shaved since February 4. Henigan shaved his musstache several weeks before that date, according to defense witnesses. Collier had a mustache in the photograph on which Miss Cude had written her identification. A second photograph of Collier, clean shaved, also was introduced, and the witness testified she also had identified it.

Atkinson In Letter On Use of His Name

Rev. Milo Atkinson sent the following letter to The Record News last night:

To the Editor of The Record News:

I regret to see my name published in a paid advertisement in the Monday evening paper by one of the candidates, asking for the vote of the people of Wichita Falls in Tuesday's election.

This statement was put in such a way as to imply that I had given my personal endorsement to the candidacy of this man. It is true, as the announcement declares, I believe, to the best of my knowledge, that this candidate is a "clean, upright and industrious business man and citizen," and I have so expressed myself in private conversation, but I have studiously endeavored to avoid the attitude of lending my official position and title to any man's claim for the vote of our citizens. I have made it a practice during my professional life to use my ministry to earnestly urge all qualified voters to vote, but never have I publicly endorsed any candidate for any office at any time whatsoever.

Pastor First Christian Church.

Grand Jury Is Likely To Close During Tuesday

All Important Criminal Matters Are Cleared Up Monday

A partiapl report and possible adjournment for a few days is expected some time Tuesday from the grand jury of the 30th district court which convened Monday morning. It was intimated Monday afternoon that the jurors had made excellent progress in their work and had cleared up practically all of the criminal matters due for their attention.

Members of the jury are P. A. Rogers, foreman, B. A. Stayton, J. H. Allison, J. W. Culbertson, C. D. Shamburger, W. E. Marriet, D. W. Wiley, John C. Haynes, Edward Schlafke, R. B. McGee, S. B. Baxter and Scott Ralston.

No special charges were given the jury by Judge H. R. Wilson, although he touched on perjury and stressed to the 12 men the necessity of all witnesses called before them telling the truth.

OIL

dropped 3,825 barrel below the average in February.

Despite the heavy loss in Oklahoma production recently caused by tendencies of certain deep sands to become exhausted, producton n that state last month averaged 452,440 barrels per day, compared wth 407,946 barrels in March, 1924. Oklahoma production in February averaged 479,455 barrels per day.

While production in Lousiana and the eastern states show slight increases over March, 1924, the crude oil yield in California and Arkansas was much lower in the last month than a year ago.

Drop in California.

In California production dropped from 650,700 barrels per day to 505,775 barrels last month, due to the natural decline of wells in settled areas and lack of new fields to offset this condition. Notwithstanding that fact that Arkansas production has shown a tendency to increase for the past three months, March production in that state was 7,444 barrels per day less than in March, 1924.

The daily average production in the Mountain states, composed of Colorado, Montana, Wyoming and New Mexico, was 90,900 barrels per day in March, an increase of about 3,000 barrels over February. Compared with March, 1924, production in the Mountain states has fallen decidedly, as oil in that area was produced at the rate of 128,352 barrels then.

ELECTION

will be cast today, it is believed. Inclement weather will cut down on this, somewhat, but those in a position to know foresee the shattering of the 3,700 mark which heretofore has been a record in municipal elections.

Two Seek Mayorship.

Two candidates have appeared for the office of mayor, finance commissioner and park and health commissioner. Three—the survivors of a field of nine starters—ask election as police and fire commissioners.

For mayor, the city has its choice of R. E. Shepherd, present mayor and for the last five years its finance commissioner, or R. E. Huff, a pioneer Wichitan, attorney and banker. Mr. Shepherd ascended to the mayor's post on February 17, after former Mayor Collier tendered his resignation.

He is presenting his candidacy solely on the basis of the record he has made as a public official and that he has established as a business and civic leader during his years of residence here. A pledge of a tax rate cut of perhaps 20 cents is one pledge made by Mr. Shepherd.

Supporters of Judge Huff have centered their campaign on the proposition that Judge Huff's 40 years of work in and for Wichita Falls entitle him to the tribute carried with election as mayor.

For Police Head.

The race for police commissioner once promised to be crowded marathon, but six of the original entries have dropped out.

Frank Queisser, J. B. Fitts and R. N. Wells comprise the contestants. Mr. Queisser has long been active in automotive circles here, is now head of an established agency, is a past president of the automotive association, is secretary of the Kiwanis club and has been prominently identified with all civic movements in Wichita Falls.

J. B. Fitts, a former police commissioner, has been the object of a strenuous attack by the democratic club. On his part, Mr. Fitts proposes to some revisions in the traffic system here and a "cleaning-up" of the police department. He has been a resident of Wichita Falls for years, has been in the grocery business and is now handling real estate.

R. N. Wells, the third entry, is a well known local grocer who seeks election on a basis of lower taxation and fair representation for all.

In the finance commissioners' race, Oral Jones, cashier of the City National bank, and Walker Hendricks, a retired business man, are opposing each other. The latter has the support of the democratic club, while Mr. Jones has the backing of the very large circle of friends he enjoys among the business and civic leaders here.

One For Re-Election

J. H. Patton is the only candidate asking re-election to the office he now holds. As park and health commissioner for the past two years he has been in direct control of all matters pertaining to the sanitary and recreational affairs of the municipality. He seeks re-election on the basis of his record, and is also having the support of the democratic club.

His opponent is J. W. Hunt, a young business man connected with the Wichita Mill and Elevator Co., who asks election on a general platform of efficient administration.

Candidates opposed to the four men it supports were vigorously assailed last night at a democratic club rally held in the Wichita theatre.

W. M. Moore was one of the principal speakers. J. B. Hatchitt, one of the organizers and present president of the club, dealt harshly with the klan. Edgar Scurry presided at the meeting and in his introductory remarks criticized Mayor Shepherd's "careless and inefficient handling of city funds as finance commissioner." A crowd of perhaps 300 was on hand for the meeting.

Polls open at 8 o'clock this morning and close at 7 sharp.

$9,000, will limit the amount of work than can be done this year, Mr. Wilson said. "It has been determined to farm the place for the first year and on the side do such improving as we find it nnecessary and profitable to do. This includes the laying out of grounds with roads, ditches and experimental plats and the location of buildings as well as placing of irrigated structures.

To Test Water.

Experiments to determine the proper amount of water to place on crops grown in the irrigated valley, comparative tests on a large scale with four varieties of alfalfa and one of sweet clover, research work on all field and truck crops and tests of fruit orchard possibilities are some of the things planned for the future.

In addition to Mr. Wilson, Guy R. Jones, county agricultural agent, and James D. Greer, a noted long staple cotton grower, made short addresses to the club. Mr. Jones explained himself as "laison officer" between the state experimental stations and the farmer in the field. He pointed out that it was his duty to absorb the scientific agricultural knowledge obtained through experimental work and then apply to the needs of the individual farmers whom he served.

Mr. Greer devoted his talk to long-staple cotton and gave some facts and figures concerning the cotton crop generally. He said he had produced cotton that in appearance, durability and strength matched the finest silks. The only point in which this staple failed, he said, was that it would not retain dye colors like silk.

NEW YORK DIAMOND JEWELER IS ROBBED.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Jacob Ross, a diamond merchant, was robbed of between $40,000 and $50,000 worth of unset diamonds today by men who waylaid him as he was ascending the stairs of a building in West 44th street, two blocks from Times Square,

County Cops Intrude On Privacy of Night Game Cock Fight Near Electra

"Blizzard" and foemen worthy of his steel have supplanted "Spark Plug" and "Sassy Susie" as principals in this section's sporting events, it seems.

Time once was when peace officers here had more or less difficulty with paid Prairie horse races in which "sportsmen" from Wichita Falls, Electra, Vernon, Burkburnett and Oklahoma points bet heavily. It has been a year or more, however, since an event of this kind has been staged—or rather, has been caught. The last raid resulted in the arrest of over a score of men and the disbursement of several thousand who were gathered in a secluded thicket near Electra, betting thousands on a race that an Oklahoma plug finally won.

This was recalled Sunday night when four county motorcycle officers, McDonald, Johnson, Wall and Bentley, interrupted a chicken fight being staged in the Burnett pasture between Iowa Park and Electra. More than 500 persons were around the arena in which the victors in a long series of elimination contests were being run off. It was reported that 250 birds from many points in North Texas and southern Oklahoma had been involved.

Automobile headlights supplied illumination for the scrap, the officers reported, and a soft drink concessioner who had advance information on the fight was doing a thriving cold drink business.

Four men were arrested and paid misdemeanor fines in justice of the peace court Monday morning.

Aligned With Neither Clique, Nor Faction Is Queisser's Final Word

FRANK QUEISSER

Frank Queisser closed his campaign for police and fire commissioner with a statement last night that he was for law enforcement; and that he was aligned with no clique, nor faction in seeking that office. Mr. Quiesser's statement follows:

Feeling that the citizenship of Wichita Falls is entitled to know my position on matters affecting their interests, if I am chosen their servant for the next two years in the office of fire and police commissioner, I am pleased to state and make known the following:

Unequivocally, I shall enforce the laws of the state and the city of Wichita Falls. I have as much regard for the homes of my fellow citizens as I have for my own and I shall protect them as I would my own. Laws are made for the governing of society and only insofar as they are enforced is our respect for government maintained. Particularly, will I see that the laws affecting the liquor traffic, gambling and kindred vices are enforced. I am interested in traffic regulations, which come under the fire and police commission's direct supervision, and will promise that safe and sane traffic laws will be submitted.

Efficient government is the right of all the people. A growing city needs many improvements. I stand for a conservative but progressive administration of the city's affairs. Certain necessary improvements must be made to keep Wichita Falls up to the standard and we must not suspend entirely programs of development. It will be my policy to handle the city's affairs as I would my own business.

Suffice it to say, that I am a citizen of the United States, was born and reared in this great nation, a native of Indiana, the past 15 years a Texan. I offer my record as a citizen in your midst as proof of my qualifications for the office which I seek.

I close with this pledge: That I am not seeking honors at the hands of my fellow citizens for personal gain, but accept the responsibility, realizing my duty, am willing to serve our city in this capacity as I have for years in various organization work.

I will administer the affairs of the fire and police departments in an economic, efficient manner, and further promise that the laws will be enforced and that the officers employed will do their duty.

On my own record as a citizen and free of alignment with any class, clique or faction, I submit my candidacy to the people of Wichita Falls today.

Hearings On The River Boundary Dispute To Begin

Two U. S. Officials Will Conduct Special Land Conferences

Mr. Stiles was here Monday evening and Mr. Kidder was expected in later in the night.

Mr. Stiles yesterday stressed the importance of all litigants in the matter appearing before the commission to offer their claims. The report the two commissioners will make to the surprise court will be final in all probability and from it that high tribunal will decede on the boundary line of Texas and Oklahoma—a question that has been under dispute in connection with valuable oil holdings along Red river. Property holdings in this territory will be asked to present their claims as soon as possible so that the commissioners may move on and take testimony at other points along the river. They will go from here to Quanah.

The state line is to be marked from the 100th meridian, near Quanah, to Texarkana. Hearings will be conducted at points along the entire length.

Mabel Ford, of Premier Dancing Fame, Says That She Likes Wichita Falls

MABEL FORD, DANSEUSE

Heading the Wichita theatre bill this week who came to Wichita Falls yesterday for a rest, and more particularly, as she expressed it, to "get caught up with me sewing."

Mabel Ford's silver fox is a little more attractive than any you've seen this season.

The pretty sharp nose is a little more pointed, the ears a little silkier, and the fur a little longer and more silvery.

And when Miss Ford whistles, it uncurls from around her neck, perches on her shoulder and jumps to the ground, where it steals along beside her at the end of a silver chain.

Live Fox Pet

"Mexico," a real live fox sent to the dancer by a friend in Mexico, is Miss Ford's latest and most beloved pet, and since her arrival Monday in Wichita Falls she has wished many times for "Mexico" whom she left in Toyland at the Hippodrome, New York, for the spring and summer.

Miss Ford who appears Friday and Saturday at the Wichita theatre on the Keith-Orpheum vaudeville bill as headliner, leading "Mabel Ford and Company," took advantage of a short cut from Oklahoma City and will spend the week seeing Wichita Falls and the surrounding oil fields, for which she has a great enthusiasm.

"I have never before been in this part of Texas," declared Miss Ford, "but I like your city immensely. It is very clean and wide-awake. The people are friendly and nice looking. Your women are well dressed and your men are pleasant and hustling. The building now going on here shows that you're progressive."

Steps Are Original

A dancer from babyhood, her parents dancers on the stage for 30 years, and her four sisters and brothers noted dancers, Miss Ford smiled when asked where she had studied.

"I've never taken any dancing lessons. You see I've done theatrical work with my family since I was tiny, and our dancing is original. We do creative work, and invent our own steps and effects.

Perched on a trunk drawer with a profusion of glorious colors and materials in view, the little black eyed dancer poked through the charming array as she sorted a huge stack of photographs and chatted about her work this season, and her work in former seasons, when with her sister Dora, just her size, and enough like her to be a twin, she danced in the Follies—another season with Shuberts, in "The Passing Show." Her eyes sparkled when she told of her first trip to Europe several seasons ago when she played in England, in Scotland and France.

OVER A HUNDRED SERVED AT F. H. MISSION MEET

Luncheon was served to 108 women who attended the Floral Heights Methodist Missionary society's all-day meeting held at the church Monday. Circle Four was hostess for the day.

The business session was opened the first thing after noon. The new president, Mrs. W. D. Guthrie, presided. Mrs. Milton Johnson gave reports from the Federated Missionary society and reports from committees and officers were also given. Mrs. W. S. Curlee led the devotional and gave her report from the Greenville conference to which she was a delegate from the Junior Missionary society. Mrs. S. A. Barnes who went to the conference as a delegate from the senior society gave in detail a report of the conferences. Telling of the wonderful spirit and co-operation found in the churches there. She also stated that Wichita Falls would like to entertain the conference next year. Mrs. Barnes told the women that Mrs. S. E. Trevathan of this city, had been appointed secretary from this district, but didn't know whether or not she would accept the offer.

In attendance Circles Four and Five tied. The meeting closed with sentence prayers for the success of the revival, which will start Sunday.

B. Maddrey of Dallas, formerly at the head of the English department in the Junior high school. Spending the day in various classes of the building renewing acquaintances and friendships with faculty and students, Mr. Maddrey was forcibly impressed with the extremely crowded condition existing in the school. CHILDLESS HOMES
Read Mrs. Benedict's Letter Praising Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Kewanee, Illinois.—"When I was married about a year and a half I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because of ill health. I did not have any children. I now have two healthy little girls and I am sure I would not have had them had it not been for your medicine. Last spring and summer I got all run-down, irregular, and I had awful headaches, and my back and side hurt me so that I could stay up only a short time. My limbs would get so tired and ache till I could cry. I started to take the Vegetable Compound again and used the Sanative Wash, and it was not long till I was relieved. Now I do all my own work and help others. I sure praise Lydia E Pinkham's medicines to any one I meet that is suffering from similar troubles. I think if mothers with girls would give it to them when they come to womanhood it would make them stronger. People who have known me all my life are astonished to see me now as I was always sickly when in my 'teens and until I started taking the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. MARY R. BENEDICT, 813 Payson St., Kewanee, Ill.

You Can't Fool Texas Housewives

They have learned many important facts about baking powder. These facts have cost them real money in the form of labor that was wasted because bakings made with an inferior leavener were ruined—because expensive ingredients used in the bakings were spoiled.

They have found by actual experience that is most dependable and economical.

CALUMET
THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

For thirty-five years Calumet has been serving the housewives of the nation—making it easy to bake and serve pure, sweet and always wholesome foods.

Years ago when Calumet was first offered to the ladies of Texas they were quick to grasp the advantage of its more than usual leavening strength.

Don't experiment—don't change from Calumet to some other brand—it will only add to the cost of your bakings and may mean absolute failure on bake day.

Dokeys Open Their Annual Spring Frolic

With a blaze of colored lights, a myriad of music, noise and fun, the Dokey Spring Frolic opened Monday night at Seventeenth and Holliday presenting the John Francis shows, which moved for the occasion from their former location at Seventh and Adams.

A large crowd enjoyed the big family show with its water circus, the Scottish entertainers, the Georgia minstrels, the favorite Dog and Pony circus, Big Bessie and her babies, the monkey races, the freaks, the clowns, and fun and the thrills.

In the big circus side show are found the laughable pin head family, Old Satan, one of the largest snakes in captivity, with his 38 feet of writhing menace, and an interesting collection of educational and amusing attractions. The funny hen house was a scene of merriment, and the style revues with their beautiful girls were popular.

The whip, the sky whirl, the baby ferris wheel, the baby seaplanes, the merry mixup and the jumping horse carousal in the way of riding devices grace the joy plaza and furnish plenty of fun.

The spring frolic will continue during the entire week.

Kiwanis Club Host To Spudder Players

Baseball was the topic of the day Monday at the Kiwanis club luncheon when the Spudder team were guests of the club.

Every member of the Wichita Falls baseball club was introduced, and talks were made by R. O. Harvey, president of the club, and by "Buddy Tanner," manager. Readings about baseball were given by Misses Pearl Smith and Marguerite Fisher which drew enthusiastic rounds of applause.

Judge H. F. Weldon, giving the talk of the day, told of the possibilities of the 1925 ball club and praised highly the standards of merit held by "Buddy" Tanner in dealing with his men. Tanner, he declared, was the best manager in the league.

Stressing the importance of a clean team who were boosters for Wichita Falls in their travels, Judge Weldon paid tribute to Mr. Harvey and the results his work was achieving.

John E. Vandershot of Chicago, international field representative of Kiwanis, was a visitor at the meeting. Harwood Stacy announced that the Christy shows would play on the lot near the baseball field through the courtesy of the local ball club, and that under the sponsorship of the Kiwanis club, the show would grant a percentage of the returns to the Day Nursery.

Why should the good name of our splendid city be dragged into political mire and filth to promote the candidacy of a man or a group of men? What has Wichita Falls done? Why is she disgraced?

We resent the effort of certain men to involve the name of our HOME CITY. She is well and favorably known as the most aggressive and progressive city in Texas, and we ask all who resent such uncalled for insinuations to vote for R. E. SHEPHERD for mayor.

WILLIAMS AND MORGAN HOLD OILERS DOWN

White And Williams Wallop Non-Stoppers With Men On

CALLIE AND FITZ HIT

Home Talent Chases Black From Box in Third Round

By BLONDY CROSS

Sports Editor, The Record News

Our noble Spudders are champions of the Western league this morning. No doubt about that, for we base our assertion on an after-game statement of no less authority than the redoubtable, also redundant Mr. Ping Bodie who happened into the office last night for a drink of water or something or other.

Anyhow, Skipper Bud's feeling all cosmic, serene in mind and body, and is grinning hugely over the Spudder Texas league prospects, and when Bud grins he grins all over. Must be something worth feeling gay about all right, all right.

Gang's all pepped up following a good workout Monday and a nice peaceful sort of rest last night. Bunch feels fine as a razor's edge, and is sitting all jake, and rearing for this afternoon's frolic with the Oilers.

Spuds got a right to be feeling good. They enjoyed a wealth of beneficial exercise in yesterday's practice—got lots of running and sliding about, and that's what it takes to whip a nine into shape for the real business of the summer. The Tanner cast scampered around the runways for a 12 to 3 win over Tulsa, and an immense time was had by all.

Pitching All Rosy.

Carl Williams took care of the Spud hurling end for five innings. He performed in elegant fashion, but as a host proved of the uncouth type who refuses to give a visitor so much as a kind word, but is always looking out solely and selfishly for number one. Carlos was stingy to the extent that he gave up a quartet of safeties and two runs. Flippin bruised the starboard gent in the second round for the circuit with Casey astride first by virtue of a single. Outside of a couple of bingles that was the only damage to Wild Bill's delivery.

Ira Morgan, submarine expert, rocked through the final four couplets on the promontory for General Tanner with no casualty other than the tabulation of a marker in the eighth when the Greasers clustered one-baggers three in succession.

Tanner's proud athletes picked on Black, a left hander, for nine rattling clouts and eight tallies in two and a third innings. The southpaw gent gave way in the third with one out and a due on the sacks to Barnhart, a right hander. Barney fared fairly well considering the circumstances and the fact that the home talent was in a reckless mood yesterday. Spuds rushed one across in the third off Barnhart and followed up with a run an inning during the fourth, fifth, and sixth.

Cal Breaks Jinx.

Distel and Golvin realized a bit of tough luck. Unfortunately as far as the shortstopper and initial station master are concerned they were the only ones who failed to plop the Tulsa hurlers for at least one ringing safe crack if you don't mind leaving out Ira Morgan who ventured to the plate but once. The rest of the boys went through quite a bit of progressive calesthenics at the pan. Callaghan, the Irishman, somehow or other busted the jinx that has been pursuing him the past 56 hours or so, and woofed a trio of clean whams out of five attempts. One of the blows was an immaculate two-bagger. He whopped a drive in the opening couplet that was a well hit ball, but lined into a fielders hands.

Fitzgerald didn't do so good. Honest to goodness, he struck out in the first inning. But Fitz tried valiently to redeem himself by cracking three singles, two of which augmented the Spudder scoring column by the same number of runs. Three hits out of five by Fitz is terrible against a Western league club. He ought to be ashamed of himself.

Better Watch Freddy.

This here Freddy Dorman, Tanner's only remaining rookie infielder, is going to make it mighty rought on some regular. Freddy whacked a couple of safe swats out of four technical appearances at the plate. He was up five times, but walked once. Freddy scrapped his cleats on the medallion from a third base angle thrice, or in simpler words, scored three times.

Al White combed a pair of clean wallops off the southpaw's delivery; so did Williams. They were up three times. The local Adonises came in for their share of boundary busts. Al and Carlos each whipped the muchly mistreated spheroid to the unexplored territory directly northeast of the port pasture. Neither ball has been recovered yet.

The bunch had a snap from a fielding angle. True, the Oilers crammed the pill hard, in fact, looked better than any club that has appeared here so far this spring, but onthe whole both infielders and outfielders were not forced to exert themselves to any noticeable degree. Gorgeous George Distel pulled down a sweet play in the eighth, and there were a number of hard hit drves scooped up by the inner works but most of them were more or less crip assists. The feature play was that Distel stop. Gorgeous glided over after a terrific drive by second. Riggert on the bludgeoning end, and enacted a delicious stop and back-hand toss to White on second all in one movement to cut Barnhort away. It was one of the sweetest and most deliberate daylight robberies ever perked off.

Carl Homers.

The Spudders broke out in the second, plastering Black with hits until he was not only Black but blue. Dorman wiggled a single between the keystone and first. Golvin tooled around and begged Lefty out of a first base coupon. Then White became agitated at a called strike by Umpire Kane and took it out o nthe hapless Tulsa hurler by driving a sizzling crack through short, almost scaring the left side of the Oilers' infield to death. Dorman scored. Roche busted a couple of cannon-ball drives just a few inches the wrong side of the right field foul line, and then missed the third strike. Then our Carl took matters into his own hands. The Spudder slabbist completely forgot the pitcher's code, or merely refused to abide by hurling ethics, one or the other, and deliberately jumped on his forkhanded oppenent for a four-bagger to port. Three more runs were penned on the credit side of the Spud account. Callaghan followed with a single through the inner defense but was forced at second by Distel.

The Spudders treated Black shamefully i nthe third. They took all kinds of liberties with his southern exposure delivery, punishing him for a quartet of scoring nuggets and five rousing wallops. With one away Bodie and Dorman bingled in delirious fashion. Golvin aviated to right, but the custodian of that pastured erred. He muffed what should have been an easy putout. White strode to the platter and found the bases loaded. There was nothing else for him to do but hit one over the fence, so he did just that. It's lots of fun cracking these round-trippers wit hthe bags filled. Roche and Williams each singled. Manager Lamb rousted Black and sent Barnhart t othe altar. Cal bingled sharply to left, scoring Roche. The next two Spudders were retired.

Single by Fitzgerald coupled with walks an da jungle heave by Flippin grabbed one for Wichita Falls in the fourth. Another savage chunk in the fifth combined with Cal's double and a single by Fitzgerald scored a run. Two walks, a sacrifice bunt by White, and a long hoist to center by Roche accounted for the final Spud enumeration in the sixth.

I got a big bunch that Bob Osborn will be the starting slabist for Tanner this afternoon. Spudder's second victory over Tulsa is scheduled to start promptly at 3 o'clock if Umpire Kane sets his watch by Oral Jones' City National bank clock this morning, otherwise it's no telling when the fest will begin. Game was ten minutes late yesterday.

LOU KNOW ME AL — The Adventures of Jack Keefe — —By Ring Lardner

Friend Al:

Well Al I aint never been no better with the old ash as I am right now. All last wk I walked up to the plate witch I have nick named the platter and how I did sock the old apple. I made them rookie pitchers sick. Even the Babe hisself got a bit peaved at the way I was hitting them. I straitened out everthing they tossed up for at lease 2 bags. Right now its a ? who will have the cleanup place in the lineup me or the Bambeeno. I might pass up the hurling game altogether and just play the field so as I can bat. Well Al today we are playing the Brooklyns with the reglar pitchers working so will tell you more later on.

Champion "If" Team of 1925

Is What Cardinals May Be Called, But They Have Hornsby

By NORMAN E. BROWN

The "if" team of the National league, is what the St. Louis Cardinals may well be called.

This team lined up as a cross word puzzle when the spring training season opened. And it doesn't stack up now, vertically or horizontally, as a ball club ready for a big league campaign.

The one big thing about Branch Rickey's team is that it has Rogers Hornsby. And that gives Rickey half a ball club. But what the other half will look like all summer is another matter.

Rickey will have a good pitching staff if—Walter Mails and old Al Sothoron come through with goodly winning percentages. Mails bloomed, then faded with Cleveland. He's years older now. Sothoron has been a gamble all his baseball life.

Rickey will have a good outfield if—old Hi Myers has another good year left in his system and Ralph Shinners, once a Giant, delivers.

Rickey's infield will be a fair one if—Lester Bell delivers at third, if "Specks" ToPorcer and Friegau deliver. But every one of these infielders is weak in some way.

Rickey's catching staff will be a capable one if—Mike Gonzales, the Cuban, has another good year. Wallie Schmidt of the Pirates may help Mike out. But Wallie is old.

Rickey has fewer real regulars drawing money from the club exchequer than any other manager in the big show, bar none. It has jokingly been said that he has two regulars—Hornsby and Jim Bottomley, star first baseman. That remark is too near the truth to be taken lightly.

The one thing about Rickey, however, is that he can think two thinks ahead of many big league pilots. He is one of the brainest men in baseball. He can see farther into a ball player than most managers. So out of this mess of "ifs" he can be expected to evolve some kind of a team that will keep the St. Louis fans interested in the National league race. And there is one thing which may be said of the team. No matter what kind of a lineup he throws into the game he will worry the opposing pitchers. He has a bunch of good and wicked hitters.

This sounds like a paradox. Mamma will tell you you can't be good and wicked. But a hitter can. A good hitter is one who hits .300 or better the season-round. And a wicked hitter is one who spoils a good afternoon for the sport writers by socking out a double or some such hit about the eighth inning, thereby tieing the score when by all that is true and holy the game should have ended the first half of the ninth.

So the Cards will be in the melee up to their necks, regardless of what Rickey finally makes out of his "ifs."

Not Lazy, Just Resting Up

Appearances are deceiving, for that lazy looking bird you see lounging on your right is Irish Marty Callaghan, vicious shillalah swinging son of Erin who presides over the Spud starboard pasture and leads the batting order. Everybody knows Cal is just the opposite of a procrastinator. Incidentally, he walloped a double and two singles during yesterday's cruel punishment doled the Oilers.

At your left is Walter Golvin, classiest first sacker below major league rating, and sometimes we're forced to admit he looks as good as any number of the boys under the big tent.

The pictures were snapped the other day during the varsity-scrub workout. The regulars were at bat. Marty and Cal were basking in the sunshine, awaiting their turn.

Coyotes First Stringers Tie With Seconds

The Coyote baseball squad took its daily infield and hitting workout Monday. This was followed by the Regular-Yanigan tilt which went to a four-inning tie, 4 to 4.

The boys were hitting the ball hard but rapid fielding covered all hard hits and many pretty plays were turned in by the lads.

Marvin Roberson, southpaw utility man, was shifted to first for the yanigans, He turned in a creditable game.

Johnnie McMahon flashed brilliantly in center for the Regs and also showed well at the bat.

Rufus Neel and Larry Roberson both flashed a hard battle at the hot corner as well as hit the ball hard on all occasions.

Coyotes have only one contest on the string thus far for the week. Friday they journey ot Vernon to again cross bats with the Lions who took a seven-inning battle here last week. The Lions won by one run and the Coyotes feel confident they can beat them Friday.

The Coyotes have expressed their desire to meet both the Junior College Indians and the Coyote Pups, and it is possible they will play both this week.

YANKEE POLO PONIES ARRIVE IN LONDON

LONDON, April 6.—Twenty-five United States army polo ponies arrived today on the steamer Minnetonka for use by the United States army team which will defend its international military championship against the pick of British officers at Hurlingham in June. The ponies were loaded into special horse cars and sent to Aldershot.

One pony, called Spark, resisted the efforts of ten men who attempted to push him aboard one of the small cars, but finally gave in.

Golf Will Never Usurp Baseball

Much has been said lately regarding the danger of golf drawing the youth of America away from baseball.

The Scottish game may wean fans away from the diamond sport, but until golf offers counter attractions for being pitcher," "captan" or "empire," corner lot baseball will live.

The element of leadership makes baseball popular with the small boy. He gets his first taste of hero worship when he finds one or two smaller boys following him about because he's the leading flinger for the Cigar Box A. Cs.

This element of leadership must be developed in boys. The confidence gained through competitive sport and leadership in that sport is essential in later life.

When the boys gets older he may be content with battling it out alone and uncheered on the golf links. But his earlier days call for something more exciting.

There's plenty of room for both sports in the scheme of things.

Players Deny It But They Like Spring Games

Speaking of exhibition games. Most ball players will try to tell you that they hate 'em. They point out that such games usually mean a long jaunt by train, sleeping in stuffy coaches, a change of food and other inconveniences.

That may be the case in some instances but the facts are that the average player, down in his heart, likes these spring affairs. And the real reason is because he likes to play ball with some object in view. He likes the thrill of competition.

It must be said there is little to thrill an athlete in getting out on the field and dashing hither and thither for the elusive baseball, or socking the apple all over the lot without a scorer in sight. But put him in a regular lineup, against an opposing pitcher, where hits and runs count for something and he's set for an afternoon's enjoyment. The "workout" part of it, the real reason for scheduling such games, is forgotten.

And, to refer once more to Florida and its future as a training camp center, it might be pointed out that this is one reason why the other big league clubs, one by one, will find their way to that state. They can scedule such exhibition games day after day without any long, dusty jaunts, broken rest periods or the old time inconveniences. Fe ware the jaunts between rival ball clubs during the spring workout season in Florida that cannot be made in two or three hours by train or bus—usually bus.

RENAULT TO BOX WILLS.

While waiting for that long-talked-of battle with Champion Jack Dempsey to come off Harry Wills has signed to meet Jack Renault, who after all, is nearer Wills' speed.

TITLE AFFAIR, ANYWAY

Almost Clean Sweep In Game Personnel

AUSTIN, April 6.—With one exception, a clean sweep in the personnel of the state game, fish and oyster department, was made by T. E. Hubby, new commissioner today. J. R. Smith of Austin, chief deputy, was the only official of the old administration retained. All appointments are effective at once, it was announced.

F. W. Burford of Belton, was named second chief deputy in charge of sand, gravel and pollution. He will be stationed at Houston, and a vigorous campaign against pollution of streams from oil will be conducted, Mr. Hubby said.

Other new appointees follow:

E. P. Jester, Round Rock, special deputy in charge of game distribution and general field work; Mark Ripley, San Marcos, supervisor of fish culture and hatcheries; A. Sorenson, Port Lavaca, supervisor of boats and salt water deputies and captains of the state boat, Texas.

The following supervisors of deputies were named:

SEPALLA WINS IN NOME DOG RACE BY FEW SECONDS LEAD

NOME, Alaska, April 6.—Leonard Seppalla defeated Ed Rohn by 25 seconds today in the annual Nome Kennel club loop race which is run with dogs and sleds over a course of eight miles. Seppalla and Rohn figured prominently in running anti-toxin to Nome from Nenana with dogs last winter in a diphtheria epidemic and Seppalla was undefeated in the old 412-mile classic, the all-Alaskan sweepstakes, which he won three times. Rohn was the favorite before the loop race, as he is for the Borden cup race, the new classic, to be run next Sunday. Rohn's lead dog, Laddie, was sick today.

Seppalla's time was 33 minutes, 36 seconds. An entry of the United States coast guard was third.

Indians Romp Lightly Monday

The Indians romped about their ball lot Monday in a short infield and batting practice for all hands. Coach Mosely put them in hard places for a stiff infield work but they seemed to scoop them in from al points.

Hood Kizzing rambled around in the short field with a lot of pep and ginger that made it hard to hit one through short.

Riley Rawls, center gardner of the Indians, was lining the ball out in the batting practice in rare form.

BAREE, SON OF KAZAN

by James Oliver Curwood

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

Copyright, 1917, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

"BAREE, SON OF KAZAN," a Vitagraph Picture, With Wolf, the War Dog, in an Adaptation of This Story

SYNOPSIS

The factor, McTaggart, having killed Pierrot, the trapper, buried him by the Indian princess who had been his wife and the mother of the girl, Nepeese. Then he set fire to the cabin which had been the home of Pierrot and Nepeese. Baree, the dog, mourned for Nepeese, who had thrown herself down a deep abyss when McTaggart tried to take her. The cabin gone, and the girl not being found at the tepee where she had often been, Baree started on a quest along the old trap-line into the north and west.

CHAPTER XXIII

No man has ever looked clearly into the mystery of death as it is impinged upon the senses of the northern dog. It comes to him, sometimes, with the wind; most frequently it must come with the wind, and yet there are ten thousand masters in the northland who will swear that their dogs have given warning of death hours before it actually came; and there are many of these thousands who know from experience that their teams will stop a quarter or half a mile from a stranger cabin in which there is unburied dead.

Yesterday Baree had smelled death, and he knew without process of reasoning that the dead was Pierrot. How he knew this, and why he accepted the fact as inevitable, is one of the mysteries which at times seems to give the direct challenge to those who concede nothing more than instinct to the brute mind. He knew that Pierrot was dead without exactly knowing what death was. But of one thing he was sure: he would never see Pierrot again; he would never hear his voice again; he would never hear again the swish-swish-swish of his snowshoes in the trail ahead, and so on the trap-line he did not look for Pierrot. Pierrot was gone forever.

"At midnight Baree came to the tiny amphitheatre in the forest where Pierrot had cut the logs for the first of his trap-line cabins."

But Baree had not yet associated death with Nepeese. He was filled with a great uneasiness; what came to him from out of the chasm had made him tremble with fear and suspense; he sensed the thrill of something strange, of something impending, and yet even as he had given the death-howl in the chasm, it must have been for Pierrot. For he believed that Nepeese was alive, and he was now just as sure that he would overtake her on the trap-line as he was positive yesterday that he would find her at the birch-bark tepee.

Since yesterday morning's breakfast with the Willow, Baree had gone without eating; to appease his hunger meant to hunt, and his mind was too filled with his quest of Nepeese for that. He would have gone hungry all that day, but in the third mile from the cabin he came to a trap in which there was a big snowshoe rabbit. The rabbit was still alive, and he killed it and ate his fill. Until dark he did not miss a trap. In one of them there was a lynx; in another a fisher-cat; out on the white surface of a lake he sniffed at a snowy mound under which lay the body of a red fox killed by one of Pierrot's poison-baits. Both the lynx and the fisher-cat were alive, and the steel chains of their traps clanked sharply as they prepared to give Baree battle. But Baree was uninterested. He hurried on, his uneasiness growing as the day darkened and he found no sign of the Willow.

It was a wonderful clear night after the storm—cold and brilliant, with the shadows standing out as clearly as living things. The third idea came to Baree now. He was, like all animals, largely of one idea at a time—a creature with whom all lesser impulses were governed by a single leading impulse. And this impulse, in the glow of the starlit night, was to reach as quickly as possible the first of Pierrot's two cabins on the trap-line. There he would find Nepeese!

We won't call the process by which Baree came to this conclusion a process of reasoning; instinct or reasoning, whatever it was, a fixed and positive faith came to Baree just the same. He began to miss the traps in his haste to cover distance—to reach the cabin. It was twenty-five miles from Pierrot's burned home to the first trap-cabin, and Baree had made ten of these by nightfall. The remaining fifteen were the most difficult. In the open spaces the snow was belly-deep and soft; frequently he plunged through drifts in which for a few moments he was buried. Three times during the early part of the night Baree heard the savage dirge of the wolves. Once it was a wild paean of triumph as the hunters pulled down their kill less than half a mile away in the deep forest. But the voice no longer called to him. It was repellent—a voice of hatred and of treachery. Each time that he heard it he stopped in his tracks and snarled, while his spine stiffened.

At midnight Baree came to the tiny amphitheatre in the forest where Pierrot had cut the logs for the first of his trap-line cabins. For at least a minute Baree stood at the edge of the clearing, his ears very alert, his eyes bright with hope and expectation, while he sniffed the air. There was no smoke, no sound, no light in the one window of the log shack.

The snow was drifted at the doorway, and here Baree sat down and whined. It was no longer the anxious, questing whine of a few hours ago. Now it voiced hopelessness and a deep despair. For half an hour he sat shivering with his back to the door and his face to the starlit wilderness, as if there still remained the fleeting hope that Nepeese might follow after him over the trail. Then he burrowed himself a hole deep in the snowdrift and passed the remainder of the night in uneasy slumber.

With the first light of day Baree resumed the trail. He was not so alert this morning. There was the disconsolate droop to his tail which the Indians call the Akoosewin—the sign of the sick dog. And Baree was sick—not of body but of soul. The keenness of his hope had died, and he no longer expected to find the Willow. The second cabin at the far end of the trap-line drew him on, but it inspired in him none of the enthusiasm with which he had hurried to the first. He travelled slowly and spasmodically, his suspicions of the forests again replacing the excitement of his quest. He approached each of Pierrot's traps and deadfalls cautiously, and twice he showed his fangs—once at a marten that snapped at him from under a root where it had dragged the trap in which it was caught, and the second time at a big snowy owl that had come to steal bait and was now a prisoner at the end of a steel chain.

There were plenty of rabbits in Pierrot's traps, and Baree did not go hungry. He reached the second trap-line cabin late in the afternoon, after ten hours of travelling. He met with no very great disappointment here, for he had not anticipated very much. The snow had banked this cabin even higher than the other. It lay three feet deep against the door, and the window was white with a thick coating of frost. At this place, which was close to the edge of a big barren, and unsheltered by the thick forests farther back, Pierrot had built a shelter for his firewood, and in this shelter Baree made his temporary home. All the next day he remained somewhere near the end of the trap-line, skirting the edge of the barren and investigating the short side line of a dozen traps which Pierrot and Nepeese had strung through a swamp in which there had been many signs of lynx. It was the third day before he set out on his return to the Gray Loon.

He did not travel very fast, spending two days in covering the twenty-five miles between the first and the second trap-line cabins. At the second cabin he remained for three days, and it was on the ninth day that he reached the Gray Loon. There was no change. There were no tracks in the snow but his own, made nine days ago.

And then, of a sudden, Baree made a change. He spent a night in the tepee. After that, whenever he was at the Gray Loon, during the day he always slept in the tepee. The two blankets were his bed—and they were a part of Nepeese. And there, all through the long winter, he waited.

If Nepeese had returned in February and could have taken him unaware, she would have found a changed Baree. He was more than ever like a wolf; yet he never gave the wolf-howl now, and always he snarled deep in his throat when he heard the cry of the pack. For several weeks the old trap-line had supplied him with meat, but now he hunted. The tepee, in and out, was scattered with fur and bones. Once—alone—he caught a young deer in deep snow and killed it.

HINDENBURG REFUSES.

Ex-General of German Army Refuses Candidacy for New Nations Presidency

BERLIN, April 6.—General Von Hindenburg has declined to be a candidate for the presidency of the German republic. ORPHANS TO BE IN STYLE.

AUSTIN, April 6.—The appeal for style, said to be universal has invaded the portals of the state orphans home at Corsicana, and has been answered in the affirmative by the state board of control.

The desk of P. B. Wathall in charge of purchase for the board of control, today is piled high with samples of gray trousers, that diminish but little as they approach their nether extremeties.

A petition signed by 72 boys in the home was received recently by the board of control, that not only asked for spring clothes, but earnestly requested they be in style.

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To the sheriff or any constable of Wichita county, greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon C. A. McDonnell by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 78th district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the court house thereof in Wichita Falls on the first Monday in May A. D. 1925, the same being the 4th day of May A. D. 1925, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 20th day of January A. D. 1925 in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 16533-B, wherein Emil Michna is plaintiff and C. A. McDonnell is defendant, and said petition alleging: That on July 6, 1921, defendant made, executed and delivered to Adolph Michna his certain promissory note for $4,000, dated on said note, bearing interest therefrom at the rate of 8 per cent per annum from date until paid, payable to Adolph Michna at Wichita Falls, Wichita county, Texas, due on July 6, 1922, providing for 10 per cent additional upon principal and interest as attorneys' fees if placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, whereby defendant became liable and bound to pay said Adolph Michna the sum of money in said note specified, together with all interest and attorneys' fees due thereon according to the terms thereof; that after the execution of said note and prior to the maturity thereof said Adolph Michna transferred, assigned and endorsed same to plaintiff and plaintiff thereby became the owner and holder thereof and is now the owner and holder thereof; that said note is now past due and unpaid and that defendant, though often requested, has hitherto failed and refused and still refuses to pay same or any part thereof, to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $6,000; that because of defendant's failure to pay said note he has placed same in the hands of Kenley, Dawson & Holliday, attorneys, of Wichita Falls, Texas, for collection and has contracted to pay them the 10 per cent additional stipulated for in note as attorneys' fee, the same being reasonable and the usual and customary fee; that at the time of the execution and delivery of said note defendant executed his certain deed of trust to W. F. Weeks of Wichita county, Texas, as trustee for use and benefit of said Adolph Michna for the purpose of securing the payment of said note, whereby he conveyed to said W. F. Weeks the following described property situated in Refugio county, Texas, to-wit: "Being all of my undivided interest in and to all of the real estate situated in said Refugio county, Texas, and being all of the interest which I now own or may hereafter be entitled to in and to all of the property inherited by me from the estate of my mother, Mrs. Elizabeth McDonald, in said Refugio county, said property being fully described in the probate proceedings in the probate court of Refugio county, Texas, to which reference is here made for a full description."

That at the time of the execution of said deed of trust C. A. McDonald owned and thereafter became by inheritance from his deceased mother, Elizabeth McDonnel, the owner of the following described tract of land in said county, being one of the tracts of land covered and intended to be covered by said deed of trust:

"All that certain tract or parcel of land consisting of two hundred and seventy acres lying and being situated in Refugio, Texas, and being a part of a tract of 17,552.4 acres conveyed Thence with the north line of subdivision No. 13, north 79 1-4 degrees west 1900.8 varas to a post, the northeast corner of subdivision No. 2, and being also the northeast corner of 4907 1-2 acres conveyed to W. C. Johnson and Geo. R. Pugh by T. D. Wood by deed dated January 2, 1907. Thence with the east line of subdivision No. 29 north 10 3-4 degrees east 802 varas to the southwest corner of said 370 acres. Thence with the south line of same, south 79 1-4 degrees east 1900.8 varas to the place of beginning; being the same land conveyed by R. McDonnel and wife, Elizabeth McDonnel, to Emil Niemann by deed dated June 27th, 1913, and recorded in volume Y, page 172, of the Deed Records of Refugio county, Texas."

That by said transfer and endorsement of said note by Adolph Michna to Emil Michna this plaintiff became and is now the owner of all right, title and interest in and to said deed of trust and said lien and is entitled to the benefits thereof; that plaintiff does not have description of other property covered by said deed of trust but reserves the right to hereafter file proper suit and subject same to the claim and indebtedness of this plaintiff. Wherefore plaintiff prays that defendant be cited to appear and answer this petition and for judgment for his debt, interest, attorneys' fee and costs of suit and for foreclosure of his lien on the above described land and that the same be decreed to be sold according to law and that the sheriff or officer executing said order of sale place the purchaser thereof in possession thereof within 30 days after the day of sale, and for other relief, special and general, in law and in equity.

Herein fail not, but have before said court at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

MARKETS

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, April 6.—Stock prices resumed their upward movement today under the leadership of the motor and oil shares. The recovery was given impetus by the substantial advance in grain prices. The stiffening of money rates and the political crisis, which had developed over the French cabinet's financial policy apparently were disregarded. Trading was in moderate volume, the day's sales aggregating about one and one-quarter million shares.

Buoyancy of the high priced industrials was one of the day's features. Nash Motors gained 29½ points to a record top at 340 and then eased to 338. Net gains of 4½ to nearly 10 points were recorded by Associated Drygoods, S. H. Kresge, Lacinde Gas, Mack Trucks, United Fruit, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and U. S. Realty.

With the first public offering of Dodge Brothers securities recorded on Wednesday, speculative interest in the motors continued of high ebb.

Maxwell Motors "A" and "B" were heavily bought, touching new high levels at 92⅞ and 63⅝ respectively.

Heavy accumulation of the oil shares followed reports of steadily increasing gasoline consumption. General Asphalt climbed 3½ points, Atlantic Refining 3 and net gains of 1 to 2 points were recorded by California Petroleum common and preferred, Colorado Fuel, Houston Independent Oil and Gas, Louisiana Mexicabo, Mid-Continent, Tacitte, Pan-American "B", Phillips, Simms, Skelly, Sinclair preferred, Standard Oil of California, Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil and Tide Water.

Delaware and Hudson continued to reflect speculative approval over the proposed segregation of its coal properties, soaring more than 9 points to a new high for the year at 155 and then slipping back to 151. Jersey Central scored a sensational gain of 21 points on a few sales. Other strong spots in the rail group included Atchison, Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, Atlantic Coast Line, Seaboard Airline, Frisco common and Texas and Pacific.

Call money renewed at 3½ per cent advanced to 4 and thence to 4½. Banks were reported to have called loans in excess of $10,000,000 in order to strengthen their reserves. Saturday's closing bond statements having shown a shrinkage of over $23,000,000 in that item during the week. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates moved within rather narrow and irregular limits, demand sterling ruled slightly higher, around 4.76⅝, while French francs yielded slightly to around 5.15 cents. Norwegian kroner established a new high at 15.98 cents but later forfeited most of the day's gain.

"I Just Fired At Him," Confesses Husband Shooter

Burk Woman Says That She Killed Spouse After Long Quarrel

"I just saw the gun and picked it up and shot him."

That was the explanation made Monday by Mrs. Bertha Wade, 36, of Burkburnett, who is now in the county jail under a formal charge of murder as a result of the death at 2 o'clock Monday morning of her husband, C. C. Wade. The man was instantly killed as he was asleep in bed at his room in the Cozy rooming house in Burkburnett.

In a signed statement made to County Attorney Wayne Somerville, Mrs. Wade declared that the shooting followed a long period of domestic discord between herself and her husband. They had quarreled all day Sunday, she asserted, and had continued the squabbling until late in the night.

She said that shortly before 2 o'clock she left their room for a short time, and upon returning saw a .38 calibre automatic revolver on a table. She picked it up and shot once at her husband's head, she said, and then left in search of an officer.

Wade had evidently died instantly, the bullet having shattered his skull and pierced the brain.

Deputy Sheriff H. L. White, who lives in Burkburnett, was called by other roomers in the place and arrested Mrs. Wade when she returned. He brought her to Wichita Falls where she was locked up. Later on she made her confession and formal complaints were lodged against her.

Married for 17 years, Mrs. Wade said that her husband's affection for her had recently cooled and that she had knowledge of his having been attentive to other women lately.

The dead man was the father of three grown children, all of a former marriage. Mrs. Wade has no children, she said.

Two marriage licenses were issued by the county clerk Monday. They went to W. C. Green, Wichita Falls, and Mrs. Maxine Williford, Jacksonville, Texas, George C. Conner, Lawton, Okla., and Miss Ida Newman, Lawton, Okla.

C. N. Brockman, a Dallas attorney, was in the city Monday on legal business.

Ten cases—an unusually small number for Monday morning, were on the city police court docket yesterday. The last week-end was a quiet one so far as the police department was concerned. Most of the charges were for drunkenness and violation of the traffic laws.

Power in the Blood!

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S. S. S. are really amazing!

MAN'S GLORY is his strength—yet how few there are who are really as strong as they should be. The blood thins, gets weaker, blood cells wear out—general weakness and a gradual breakdown of the system results.

We know there is one thing that puts power in the blood, and that is more red-blood-cells! S.S.S. builds them by the million! We know that as blood cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! But have you ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought of it. So-called skin eruptions—pimples, boils, blackheads, eczema all pack up and go when the tide of blood cells begins to roll in. Blood cells are the fighting giants of Nature. S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood cell builders, blood cleansers and body builders, known to us mortals. Here is your opportunity! S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it routs rheumatism, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, beautifies the complexion, builds you up when you are run-down.

Start taking S.S.S. today and get back that power in your blood!

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

A Vital Factor That Doesn't Always Show—

Some of the most vital parts of your watch, your car, or your typewriter, are the least conspicuous, making the least noise.

Banking service isn't rendered with brass bands. It doesn't always show in the picture. But it is a vital, indispensable factor in your business.

Vote Your Sentiment at the Polls today

Owing to the fact that certain factions are trying to befuddle the voters of the city with severe attacks and propaganda it becomes necessary for each candidate to state the platform upon which he seeks his office.

The following is the platform upon which I am asking the support of the people of this great, growing city.

First, I believe that every individual voter should choose the candidate that he supports solely upon the merit of that candidate and the qualifications that he poossesses that will enable him to fill the office efficiently and for the good of all people as a whole. I do not believe that any candidate should expect to be elected who is not capable and who seeks the office through friendship, prestige, devotion to religious, political or social affiliations. It will take character, loyalty, courage, commonsense, thrift, good faith and willingness to work to carry out these things with faith in the good that his fellowman possesses, to efficiently serve the City.

My experience gained by travel that covered 36 states and five foreign countries, has given me a fair understanding of my fellowman and the people of different walks in life and of different parentage and will enable me to successfully serve the city as a whole.

My experience in the dfferent walks of life in working as common laborer to skilled laborer has given me an understanding of the problems and needs of the great common people. I have donemost everything from farming to running a locomotive with the boys in France and from hod carrier to foreman of construction work.

My experience gained in business and commercial circles in running my own retail store in Wichita Falls for six years has given me an insight to the needs of the greater Wichita Falls and its people.

If elected, I promise you law enforcement, fair and equal to every man, woman and child of the city; or who may come within the gates of our city irrespective of class, color or religious or political affiliations.

I am running independently of anyone except my own desire to serve my city and if I am elected it shall be without resorting to politics of pre-election promises, other than those contained herein.

I believe that clean men elected by clean politics and strictly by the choice of th eindividual voter will gve the city a clean administration.

Upon these statements and a sincere promise to carry them out if elected, I ask your vote and support.
