Roosevelt

The candidate said "Our federal extravagance and improvidence" in addition to imposing a tax burden on individuals and business could not bear, because of "the orthodox federal financing" impaired the whole credit structure.

"Instead of financing the billion dollar deficit of 1931 in the regular way," he said, "our government simply absorbed that much of the lending capacity of the bank and by so much impaired the credit available for business."

Most of the newly created government credit, he said, "has been taken to finance the government's continuing deficits."

"In a direct result of these influences, our export markets closed up, our commodity prices slumped, and our domestic business was depressed at a more rapid rate than business in some of the backward and crippled countries," he asserted.

"Unemployment also began to rise here over greater proportions than in Europe," those who are in America policy was in the least to blame for the economic disturbances...

"I want to say with all sincerity that I regret this record with reluctance," he added as he concluded his views of succession of events that preceded the economic troubles.

"Politics or not politics, I pay my tribute to the devotion of the president. It is not true to say that he has not been unremitting in his efforts and I for one have never heard it said."

"But I do indict this administration for wrong action, for delayed action and for lack of frankness and courage."

He added that the administration's "appeal for sympathy" was based on a denial that its policies had failed to take account of the needs of the masses...

"In such circumstances," he said, "I should feel utterly in my duty to link them directly to the havoc which they have wrought and which they threaten to continue."

To Reduce Expenses The governor said he would approach the problem of "carrying out the plain precept of our party to reduce federal expenditures by 25 per cent with the idea that Washington should take from the treasury nothing more than is necessary to keep abreast of the march of our changing economic situation."

"We can make savings by reorganization of existing departments by abolishing many of the innumerable boards and commissions which have grown up over the years as a result of expediencies of the regular system," he said.

"These savings can probably be made to total many hundred millions of dollars a year."

"These savings plus a tax on beer, he said, were aimed at a definite balancing of the budget."

"At the same time," Mr. Roosevelt added, "if starvation and dire need on the part of any of our citizens make necessary the appropriation of additional funds which would keep the budget out of balance, I shall not hesitate to tell the American people the full truth and recommend to them the expenditure of this additional amount."

HOME TOWN

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) better on that score. We must have plenty of care at the station at 12:30 p. m. when the Sweetwater special train arrives.

The Sweetwater delegation will parade immediately after their arrival starting from the station and disbursing along First street after the march through the business district.

Those who will furnish cars to carry visitors to the football field should park along First street.

We have a letter from a business man in which he says, "Let's all get together and have all business houses close from 3 to 5 p. m. Friday. We want to show our boys we are for them and know they will beat Sweetwater. We have a faster backfield than last year's better and more experienced line and a more experienced quarterback. Of course we don't have Tack Dennis but Harris has improved in his punting and can do as well as 95 per cent of high school punters. Let's everyone close Friday for the Sweetwater game."

Apparently those business men who are willing to close during the game are very much in the minority. Such a plan would be followed in many towns of this size, but for some reason most of our merchants have never paid much attention to football. However, it is a safe bet that most everybody will go to the game and therefore, most employees will not be needed on the job during the playing of the game. Let us hope, therefore, that a great majority of them will be allowed to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Liburn Coffee attended the football game in Sweetwater Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McDonald attended the dance at the Wooten Hotel in Abilene Friday evening.

CHAPTER XXVI

Donna faced her captor with flashing eyes. Stan Ball returned the defiant glance with a grim smile.

"My quarters are passable though possibly a trifle primitive for one accustomed to luxury," Stan Ball commented toward the mouth of a cave. "Will you enter or not? I carry you!"

Donna's anger lessened a trifle. Stan Ball's father was a man of means and she would not be ashamed to be seen with him. He would be a fine addition to the household. She would be a fine addition to the household. She would be a fine addition to the household.

Stan Ball sat back on his heels and watched the trout standing in the pan with the bacon. When the water began to simmer and boil he pulled it back from the flames and would not be able to keep it from spilling tea into it. After turning the Asper. For a moment her detestable nature to play a game as pulled a wide slab of stone over her captor's head.

Producing two tin plates and a tin can of sugar, he took out a knife, a fork and a tin of butter. He laid out a table and a tin of sugar. He laid out a table and a tin of sugar.

Ball stood with his feet planted wide apart. For a moment he looked at her. Then he turned back to the tin of tea. He looked at her. Then he turned back to the tin of tea.

He added this to the tin of tea. He added this to the tin of tea. He added this to the tin of tea.

"I suppose you will be glad to see me," he said. "You certainly will be glad to see me," he said. "You certainly will be glad to see me," he said.

She did not reveal this. She did not reveal this. She did not reveal this.

Stan Ball's eyes were fixed on her. He did not say a word. He did not say a word. He did not say a word.

He did not say a word. He did not say a word. He did not say a word.

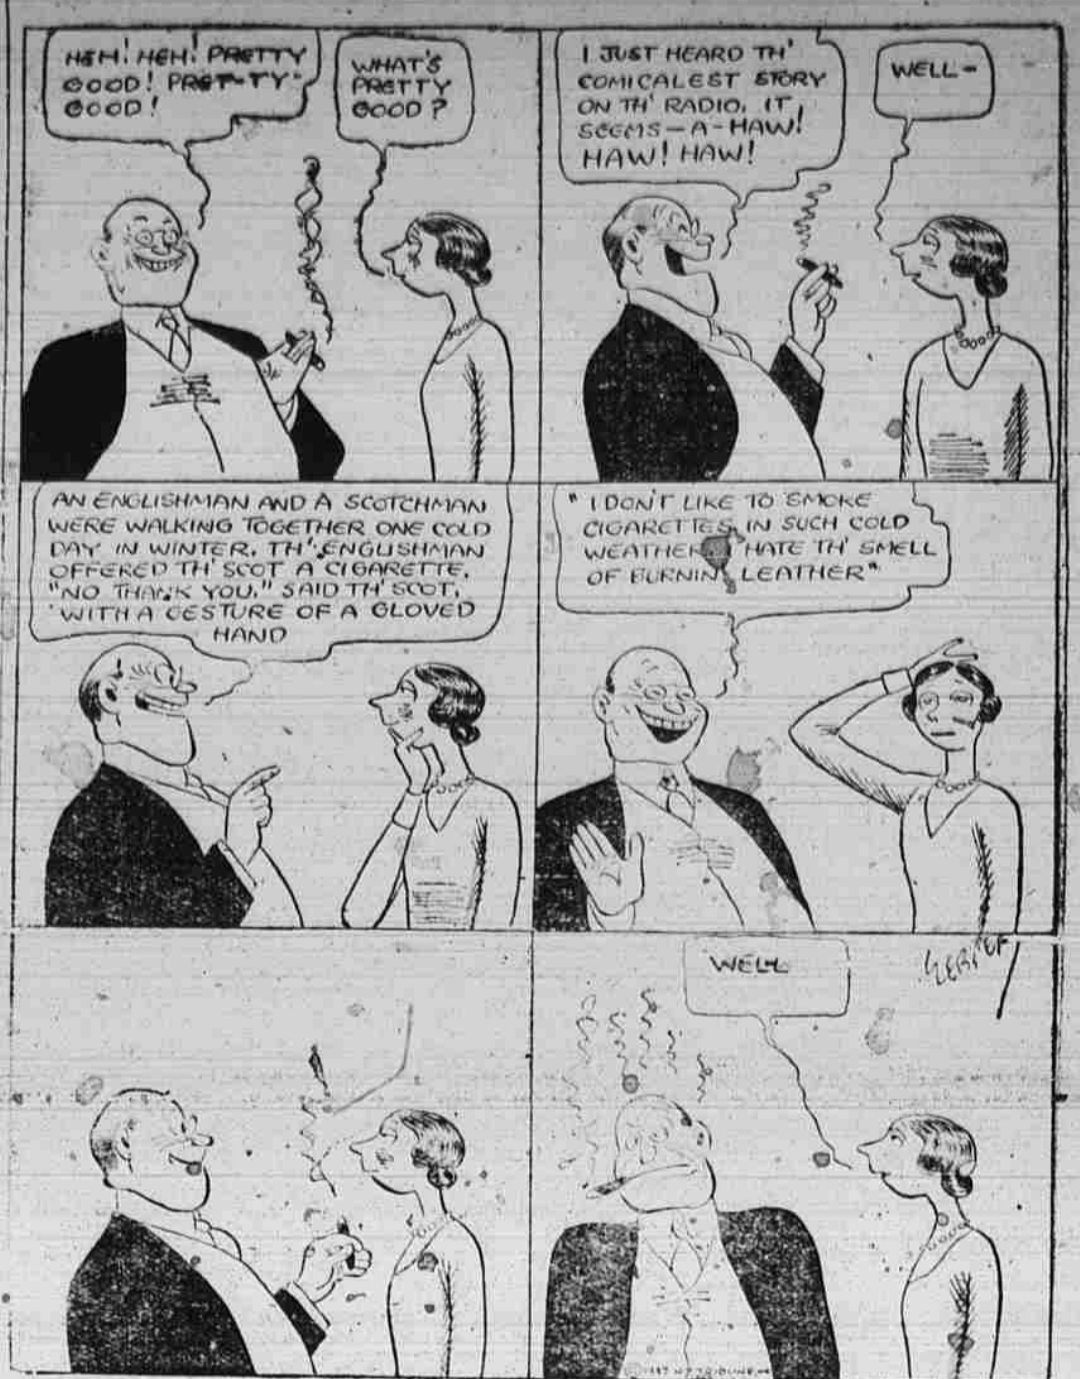

Donna sank down on the edge of the blankets and crossed her legs. Stan watched her. He watched her. He watched her.

He watched her. He watched her. He watched her.

Envoy Sent To Hearing By Chamber

Watson Returns To Dallas In Cotton Rate Controversy

DALLAS, (UP)—C. T. Watson, manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, testified at a hearing before the interstate commerce commission and the state railroad commission here Tuesday on the application of certain railroads for rate reductions on cotton shipments from interior points to Texas ports.

Watson stated figures to show difficulty in assembling 40 bales to the car at country points. He said the average shipment of 1,449 consignments from Big Spring October was 3 to 14 was 14.16 bales.

Following action taken Monday afternoon at a called meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce Manager, C. T. Watson left Monday night for Dallas to resume attendance at the hearing before the interstate commerce commission and the railroad commission on application of three railroads.

Interests and large cotton merchants, seeking lower rail rates on uncompressed cotton from the interior to gulf ports.

The board voted to send a representative to the hearing, which has been in session more than a week. R. F. Shoemaker, manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, reviewed developments in the hearing last week and pointed out importance to farmers, business men and compress interests of the interior of the principle at stake and the action sought by the port interests.

It was brought out in the meeting that attitude of the Texas and Pacific toward this application of three other lines was that it would rather the lower rate would not be granted but that in case it should be allowed the T & P likely would be forced to seek the same rate in order to compete with the other lines.

Mr. Watson declared the application was a clear attempt by large cotton merchants to change the primary cotton market from the interior to the gulf, to wipe out interior concentration points and that these cotton interests apparently had threatened the three railroads with heavy truck competition if they did not join in the movement to obtain a rate for flat cotton that would be as low as the existing rate for compressed cotton.

DALLAS (UP)—F. R. Dalzell, chief manager of the Houston Cotton Exchange, testified Monday before a joint hearing of the interstate commerce commission and the Texas railroad commission on the Gulf coast cotton and advocated a rate reduction for uncompressed cotton as sought by the Burlington railroad system.

The hearing, resumed after being recessed Friday noon, was conducted by G. H. Mattingly, examiner for the I.C.S. and Lon A. Smith, of the Texas commission. Earlier testimony included protests of inland cities to the rate reduction.

Dalzell introduced exhibits to offset contentions of opponents of the rate change that a minimum of 32,500 pounds of uncompressed cotton could not be loaded in freight cars. He declared gulf coast cotton men were not responsible for extensive use of motor trucks in cotton hauling.

Houston incoming cotton shipments for the first two weeks of August said Dalzell were 678,787 bales, of which 364,771 were received by motor trucks and 314,016 by rail.

Dalzell contended gulf interests advocated the lower rail rate to place small shippers more on a par with large operators who employ motor fleets for cotton delivery. Completion of direct testimony was expected late Monday with rebuttal and re-examination of witnesses occupying several more days.

After the I.C.C. examiner has completed taking of evidence, another hearing will be conducted by the Texas commission on purely interstate matters in connection with the rate issue.

Feeder-Breeder Meeting Attended By Big Spring Man
More than 700 persons attended the annual Feeder-Breeder meeting in Dallas last week-end. C. T. Watson, chamber of commerce manager who attended the affair, said farmers and stockmen heard an explanation as to how they could go about getting R. F. C. loans on stock.

An educational program encouraging the use of meat is being arranged and will be sponsored by breeders and feeders of Texas cattle.

Little Encouragement Given By Judge To Oil Field Road Project

Expressing sympathy with the desires of people in the oil field territory, Judge Debenport told members of the committee he did not see any feasible way in which the project could be financed at this time.

Men representing people in the oil territory said they were of the opinion oil companies operating in that area would not want the road now if it meant an increase in taxes.

Reserve in the road and bridge fund, it was explained, is to be used in purchasing right-of-way for the highway projects already contemplated.

Thursday morning the county commissioners court will meet again to confer with oil field representatives. Those attending the conference Tuesday morning are J. L. Johnson, E. F. LeFever, B. Hurley, and Otis Chalk.

Gasoline Prices Cut One Cent Per Gallon Here As Tank Car Market Holds Firm; Humble In Statement

Developments of the week-end in the oil industry, which directly affects Big Spring due to proximity of oil fields and existence of refineries near, prominent the following:

1. Reduction of one cent per gallon in prices of gasoline by local dealers.

2. Firmness of the tank car gasoline market despite failure of the Standard Oil companies of New York to cut price.

3. Posting of 75 cents per barrel, a hike of 10 cents by Shell Pipe Line company, purchaser of approximately one-fifth of the allowable production of the Howard and Glasscock county fields.

4. Jointed refusal of Humble Oil and Refining company to join in the advance oil price movement in the mid-continent fields.

The Gulf company was understood to have been the first to post the lower gasoline price here. Statements had been made in late weeks that the prices here were higher than in neighboring towns.

Practically all other jobbers followed the Gulf's move. Prices were reduced from 14 to 13 cents for third grade gasoline, 18 to 17 cents for second grade and 21 to 20 cents for first grade. The prices all include state tax of four cents and federal tax of one cent per gallon.

Fort Worth dispatches said bottom for new octane grade gasoline Monday was 4 1/2 cents a gallon and that brokers stated the refining companies which took the initiative recently in posting lower crude prices and sold gasoline as low as 3-1 and 3 cents a gallon now are caught short of the market.

Humble Oil and Refining company last night statement Monday evening reiterating its position with reference to the upward movement of crude prices. The Associated Press dispatch from Houston on the Humble statement follows:

The Humble Oil and Refining company pointedly refused to join in the advanced oil price movement in the mid-continent, saying it would not increase its position after sponsors of the advance had fulfilled three major promises.

"At the same time," the company announced it had posted, retroactive to October 1, crude prices East Texas, where it has vast holdings, at 98 cents, 12 cents under the top paid there since last Saturday by purchasers which met the advance.

Humble previously had posted no price in East Texas offering what it termed the "going price" there.

"The sponsors of the x x x advance and curtailment program promise that a balance between supply and consumption demanded will be maintained; that production in excess of (proration) allowances will be eliminated; and that wholesale product prices will be realized. Humble previously offering what President W. S. Farish said in a statement:

Cole Oglesby Killed By Cop

Career Of Texas Gunman Ends When Policeman Answers Shot

OKLAHOMA CITY.—The bloody career of Cole Oglesby, Texas gunman wanted for bank robbery and murder and involved in the $2,000,000 Roudout, Ill., train robbery of ten years ago, was ended by a policeman's bullet Monday.

Officer Jerry Campbell, fired upon as he was taking Oglesby to the police state for investigation as an automobile theft suspect, shot Oglesby four times.

Oglesby's companion, who gave his name as E. A. Peery, said he had just met Oglesby and was trying to sell him an automobile when the officers accosted them. He was held for further questioning.

Identification of Oglesby was established by fingerprints. His aliases included Elbert Oglesby and Ted Charles Watson.

He was charged in Abilene, Tex., with a murder there Aug. 8, 1928 and in Columbia Miss., for a bank robbery Jan. 4, 1932. He once was given a five-year suspended sentence for auto theft in Texas.

Attempted to shoot
Oglesby was shot as he and Campbell were riding to the station with Officer George Baker and Peery following in the police scout car.

"Keep both hands on that wheel" Campbell said he warned Oglesby. "In another moment he had a gun pushed against his chest. I shoved it upward just as he fired and whipped my own gun out."

Oglesby fired five shots before Campbell answered in a second time four of the bullets taking effect.

Tharp, Once Anniversaries Celebrated

McMurry Grid Star, Victim By Chapter

LUBBOCK, (UP)—Robert Tharp, McMurry college's "stalloping Ghost" football player of a few years ago, shot by a hold-up man Saturday, died Monday.

The county bar association called a meeting to consider offering a reward for the robbers.

Tharp, son of a Methodist minister, had been tipped off a grocery store nine blocks away had just been held up. Two bandits entered the store of which he was assistant manager as he was returning from the rear where he had hidden money.

Due to a weak leg Tharp had a distinctive gait when he carried the ball for McMurry college, Abilene. This caused his team-mates to dub him "McMurry's Galloping Ghost."

He was star three years in football and basketball. His twin sister was a student there at the same time.

Robber Of Store Frightened Away With Small Loot
Frightened by an unexpected turn of events, a man robbing the Whitmore Grocery at 11th and Johnson streets Friday evening fled before he was able to rifle the cash drawer.

As one customer and two clerks were grouped near the cash register, a man about thirty years old, of medium height and light complexion entered the door with gun drawn. "Hand over cash," he commanded.

No one moved and the command was repeated. Still no one moved.

The robber then noticed Proprietor John Whitmore sitting at his desk in the rear of the store.

"Don't move," he told Whitmore. "Side a nearby room. Once inside there he said he thought he would have an opportunity to slug the invader if an attempt were made to raid the safe."

Whitmore's antics were too much for the robber. He grabbed ten dollars in bills and left a quantity of silver on a table as he fled.

Whitmore pursued, losing his man when a large car sped by and picked him up.

Westhyde Development's company's No. 1 Looney, southeastern Borden county wildcat which is considered of more than average importance, was running 8-inch casing Monday, with total depth 2,029 feet.

The test is in section 15 block 33, township 4 north, Texas & Pacific survey. It topped anhydrite at 1,260 feet and topped salt at 1,314 feet. Surface elevation is 2,538 feet.

Reports are that salt was topped 95 feet higher than in the Phillips test of two years ago on the Good ranch, nearest former test to the Westhyde location. It also was reported from the Westhyde rig that the Good test was not found in the Westhyde test. Top of salt was 115 higher than in a old wildcat test by Magnolia in that vicinity.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—(UP)—General tightening of farmers' picket lines around Minneapolis and St. Paul went into effect Tuesday.

Call Of The West—

was at finishing school. Her eyes flashed but she did not say anything. Ball saw that she was looking at the picture and a thin smile patred his lips.

"My most prized possession!" He spoke slowly and the smile faded from his lips.

"You take what you want, don't you, Mr. Ball?" There was a cutting edge to the girl's voice and a sarcastic note in it. "Even though it can do you no good."

"It has done me much good," Stan stated simply.

His answer angered her more than a bantering reply would have done. She sat very straight and her little chin came up stiffly.

"And these," Stan waved a pile of magazines and school books, "are very helpful to a fellow who has to stay cooped up all day."

She rolled her eyes and a smile came to her face. "You approve of my reading?"

"You probably haven't opened any of them," she answered coldly.

"You have me and that is all right, but you are my guest and I am sure to be comfortable and to be entertained." Ball cast an amused eye over the stuffy erect figure on the cot. "I would suggest that you make yourself easy."

"I am as easy as any girl could be with a man of your kind about," Dona snapped. "I would consider it a great favor if you would go outside where you could watch the entrance and leave me alone."

Stan nodded and got up. "Make yourself at home. I will take care of my duty outside." He went down to keep from bumping his head on the ceiling of the cave and disappeared.

Dona sat for a long time without moving. She could hear her captor outside talking to the black mare. Cool air began to creep into the cave, indicating that evening was at hand.

Dona stretched her legs and tried to see out into the clearing but a curtain in the doorway made it impossible. She sat back and gave herself up to bitter contemplation of her fate.

She was a prisoner but that did not worry her. That she was in the power of Stan Ball, a killer, did not worry her either. What did make her uneasy was the thought of her father. She remembered with an aching twist of memory that Stan Ball had shot her father and that he was responsible for her present plight.
