Experts Think Powerful Person Strangled Coed

PLAN CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN—Bobby McCormick, mayor pro tem, left, signs a proclamation designating August as "Clean-Up Month" in Snyder. Meanwhile, Billy Joe Brown, chairman of the Snyder Jaycees clean-up committee, and Larry Smith, the city's Neighborhood Youth Corps coordinator, empty a trash can into one of the city's Dumpmaster sanitation units.

Missing Pair Found Dead

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Crime detection experts said early today a 6½-hour autopsy showed Susan Rigsby had been strangled by a powerful attacker.

Justice of the Peace Jerry Dellana, conducting the inquest, said results were inconclusive as to what caused the death of Shirley Ann Stark.

The sun-blackened bodies of the two sorority sisters who vanished 12 days ago were found Friday sprawled in a weed-grown vacant field near the northern edge of Austin.

Dellana said pathological tests and X-rays detected no broken bones or skull fractures and no sign of violent blows being struck the nearly nude bodies.

Col. Homer Garrison, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said some fingerprints were obtained from one body.

When asked if the dresses on the bodies were the same they wore when last seen, Garrison replied: "There are some things pertinent to the current investigation they are not ready to reveal."

The black-haired, 21-year-old beauties were last seen driving on a street near the University of Texas campus July 18. Both were from Dallas.

Rose was aided by two Dallas dentists who had done work for the young women, Dr. R. M. Brumage and Dr. John L. Mitchell.

Late Friday night Brumage positively identified Miss Stark by a bridge he placed in her mouth in 1962. About 2 a.m. today Mitchell added identification of Miss Rigsby.

"There is no question about it," Mitchell said. "The dental charts and X-rays both make it positive."

Quiet shock was the reaction in the Dallas homes of the two at word the search for them had ended.

"It hurts so much to go in her room and know she won't be back to wear the clothes in the closet or sit and talk to me late at night," said Mrs. J. Neill Kinard, the aunt and guardian with whom Miss Stark made her home.

A doctor and nurse went with a minister to the home of Mrs. Robby Rigsby, Susan's mother. Friends asked newsmen to step outside onto the front porch.

"She really had some faint hope they might be found alive," said Katie McKenna, a college friend of Miss Rigsby.

The bodies were discovered shortly after noon Friday, ending one of the most baffling missing person hunts in recent Texas history.

Chester Guynes, member of a city surveying crew, set up his transit a few feet off Cooper Lane in a vacant residential development area just outside the Austin city limits.

Guynes noticed an odor and walked another 20 feet into the weeds.

"I walked right up on one body," Guynes said. "I turned around and went back to the other boys and said, 'We've found the girls!'"

Police found the other body about 12 feet away. Scattered weeds and grass had been spread over them. There had been no attempt to dig graves.

Both bodies were on their backs, dresses pulled up under the arms, Texas Ranger Capt. Clint Peoples said there were no shoes or other personal belongings. One wore a ring and the other earrings.

There were no obvious foot prints or tire tracks. A .27-inch rain fell in the area Thursday.

The bodies were about a half-mile from the spot where a bundle of dresses and other clothing of Miss Rigsby and Miss Stark was found in a roadside ditch July 20.

The night of July 21 officers found Miss Stark's bright yellow sports car abandoned, dusty but undamaged, behind an apartment house near the university.

There was a spot of blood on the front passenger seat but no other mark of violence. Closer examination showed the undercarriage of the car had been scratched and scraped, as if driven over rought, plowed ground.

The clothes and the abandoned car had been the only definite clues until the bodies were found.

FATAL MISHAP—Robert Bruce Crites, driver of this pickup truck, was killed Friday afternoon when the pickup was involved in a collision with a moving van (left background) 20.8 miles southwest of Snyder on State Highway 350.

SNYDER AREA OIL

New wildcat operations have been staked in Fisher, Garza, and Howard Counties.

Texaco Inc. No. 2 Fisher Fee is scheduled as a 6,400 - foot venture in Northwest Fisher County, 11 miles northwest of Rotan.

It is on the northeast edge of the Ocho Juan (Canyon) pool which produces from pay topped above an average 6,000 feet.

The scheduled 6,400 - foot objective depth should carry the project entirely through the Pennsylvanian age series. Location spots 2,100 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 9, block V, T&P survey.

Location is 16 miles southeast of Gail, seven miles west of Vincent, 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 92, block 25, H&TC survey.

City-Wide Clean-Up Is Scheduled

August has been designated as "Clean-Up Month" in Snyder, with the Jaycees and city government cooperating in promoting the annual event.

Throughout the month, local residents will be urged to clean their premises of trash, rubbish, etc., and during this month the city will provide special pick-up service for material which cannot be handled by regular sanitation department crews.

Some youths employed in the city - sponsored Neighborhood Youth Corps will be assigned to the project, said Larry Smith, coordinator of the corps.

The Jaycee clean-up committee is headed by Billy Joe Brown.

An official proclamation calling special attention to clean-up month was signed Friday afternoon by Bobby McCormick, mayor pro tem.

UFO Sighted In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A policeman at Wynnewood, in South Central Oklahoma, reported sighting an unidentified flying object early today.

The policeman, Lewis Sikes, said he first saw the object at 1:30 a.m. He said it appeared to emit a red, blue and white light.

He said it appeared to hover in one spot and he observed it for about 45 minutes before reporting it to the Oklahoma Highway Patrol.

Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma City was advised of the sighting and located the object on radar at about 8,000 feet. After checking with other government installations, Tinker officials said no air traffic was authorized to be in the area.

Funeral Set For Mishap Victim

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. today (Sunday) for Robert Bruce Crites, 53, who lived at 2602 Thirty-fifth Street.

Mr. Crites, an employe of Service Pipe Line Co., was killed Friday afternoon when the pickup truck he was driving collided with a moving van 20.8 miles southwest of Snyder on Texas Highway 350.

The funeral service will be held at Trinity Methodist Church, with the Rev. Ross Dunn officiating. Burial will be at Bryan. Bell-Seale Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Crites was pronounced dead at the scene of the mishap by T. E. Arnold, Mitchell County Justice of the Peace.

Sgt. Richard Riegel of Webb Air Force Base, Big Spring, a passenger in the moving van, was brought to Cogdell Memorial Hospital here for arm and leg injuries and then was transferred to the Webb AFB hospital.

Jack Smith, driver of the Neel's Transfer Co. moving van from Big Spring was not injured in the collision. He told highway patrolmen from Snyder who investigated that he saw the pickup truck approaching in his lane and swerved to the left, but that the pickup swerved back and the vehicles collided almost headon.

Mr. Crites was a native of Iola, Tex. He was a member of the Methodist Church.

Surviving are his wife; his mother, Mrs. Pearl Crites of Sonora; a daughter, Lara Sue; a step-daughter, Grace Anderton; a son, Charles Crites; a stepson, Norman Anderton; two sisters, Mrs. J. A. Letsinger of Sonora and Mrs. George Kyle of Modesto, Calif.; five brothers, B. H. Crites of Texas City, W. O. Crites of Sonora, C. F. Crites of Brownfield, Jack Crites of Lubbock and Claude Crites, who lives in California.

Fire Damages San Antonio Skyscraper

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Fire broke out before dawn on the 22nd floor of the 30-story Tower Life Building, the tallest structure in San Antonio.

Several hours later, fire chief Milton Roger reported the blaze had been contained but added that damage would be extensive. Seven floors high up in the structure were affected.

Smoke and heat rose quickly through a utility shaft and, plus water from firemen's hoses, caused damage from the 20th to the 27th floor.

On the 22nd floor, where the fire originated, was the Ernst and Ernst accounting firm. A company spokesman, Gordan George, said most of the working files were in metal cabinets and escaped destruction.

A cruising police sergeant, Frank Munoz, spotted flames licking from the office windows on the 22nd floor and turned in an alarm at 4:57 a.m.

Planes Pound Red Targets, But Ground Action Endures

By JOHN T. WHEELER

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. and Vietnamese war planes pounded Communist targets in both North and South Viet Nam today, but there was an apparent lull in major ground action.

A U.S. military spokesman reported no significant ground fighting, although Viet Cong guerrillas launched several attacks on government positions—including some at the doorstep of Saigon.

The spokesman gave this description of the war action:

A government force killed two Viet Cong on a sweep operation near the abandoned outpost of Ba Ta that was overrun Friday night for the third time this week.

Vietnamese casualties were described as "light." The outpost is only four miles from Saigon.

The Viet Cong hit a watchtower three miles from the capital's Tan Son Nhut Airport Friday night, inflicting "heavy" casualties on nine defenders.

Fourteen Viet Cong were killed Friday 350 miles northeast of Saigon during a government operation in Quang Tin Province. Vietnamese losses were "very light."

In the heaviest of three raids against the north, four U.S. Navy A4 Skyhawks from the carrier Independence hit a transportation terminal 60 miles south of Hanoi.

Pilots reported two railroad cars derailed, one truck damaged, a warehouse hit and a railroad spur damaged. Fires were reported in the area after the strike.

U.S. and Vietnamese war planes flew more than 500 sorties in South Viet Nam during the 24-hour period ending this morning.

About 275 Viet Cong were killed but the figure was an estimate, not based on body count.

Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky was quoted today as saying the South Vietnamese armed forces would be increased in the near future, and that the build-up would continue until victory.

Ky did not elaborate, however, in the interview with a Vietnamese language daily newspaper.

The South Vietnamese armed forces now total about 500,000, including the popular forces stationed in the country's 44 provinces.

Postal Strike In Canada Continues

MONTREAL (AP) — More than 5,000 postal workers remained out on a wildcat strike here today but their leader said Canada's 10-day-old postal walkout may end by next week.

Most of the approximately 15,500 postal workers who walked off their jobs July 22 are now back at work. But postal employes in Montreal and 19 other areas have rejected back-to-work pleas.

Stoning Protested

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The American Embassy sent the Indonesian Foreign Ministry a note today protesting Friday's stoning of the American Consulate at Medan, North Sumatra, by a mob belonging to the Communist-led Youth Front Organization.

Unions, Steel Firms Are Confident Of Agreement

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United Steelworkers and the basic steel industry, facing the threat of a strike for the second time in three months, were outwardly confident today they could beat a Sept. 1 deadline.

The Steelworkers' 163-member wage policy committee, branding the industry unrealistic, inflexible and penny-pinching, voted as expected Friday to serve 30 days strike notice Aug. 1.

Despite the harsh statement, union President I. W. Abel said "certainly a contract can be reached. Many agreements are written in less than 30 days."

Chief industry negotiator R. Conrad Cooper labeled the union statement "the tired old tactic of blaming us." In a prepared statement he said strike notice "would not presuade the companies to grant demands that are not in the best interests of employes, companies, customers and the nation."

Cooper, however, held out hope in off the cuff remarks that settlement could be reached in time to avert what would be the nation's first steel strike since the crippling 116-day shutdown of 1959.

"A settlement would be almost immediately possible if the parties could settle the hard core problem, namely — how much?" he said.

Cooper and Abel, appearing at separate news conferences, confirmed that the union is seeking wage and benefit increases of about 18 cents an hour per man and that the industry has offered nine cents. The length of a contract is apparently not a big issue.

These are virtually the same positions both held when an interim contract was signed last April 28 averting a May 1 strike. Steelworkers now earn an average of $4.40 an hour in wages and benefits.

Cooper said negotiations had reached the point where only the nine cent difference needed be resolved. The wage statement said the industry had been "inflexible" also in the major contract issues of pensions, insurance and supplemental unemployment benefits.

The union won 11.5 cents an hour in the interim contract, but Cooper said Friday that the cost of a short-term agreement was less important than the cost in a long-term contract.

Airline Baggage Rules Confusing

NEW YORK (AP) — Airline passengers may find themselves confused when they check their baggage Sunday.

New baggage limitations — stressing the number and size of pieces of luggage rather than weight as before — go into effect on all major domestic routes.

Adding to the potential confusion is the fact that some airlines will abide by the new regulations [illegible] old.

The change originates in action taken July 15 by the Civil Aeronautics Board. American Airlines proposed to the CAB the elimination of baggage weight restrictions and an increase in first-class ticket prices by 50 cents.

The CAB said it would approve new baggage allowances but it turned down the 50-cent fare increase.

The airlines took in about $17.4 million in excess baggage charges last year. They also carried some 16 million first-class passengers. The 50-cent fare increase was designed to offset part of the loss in excess baggage charges.

When the CAB rejected the fare increase, some of the airlines dropped plans to use the new baggage regulation. They decided to stick with the old method.

Here is the situation as it existed today:

United Airlines, Braniff International and Trans World Airlines say that beginning Sunday passengers will be allowed one piece of checked luggage whose maximum dimensions are 65 inches, a second piece whose maximum dimensions are 55 inches, and a carry-on bag of 45 inches.

The maximum dimension is the height of the bag plus width and length. The airlines said most three-suiter bags are within the 65-inch dimension, two-suiters and attache cases within the 45-inch measure.

American Airlines originally allowed bags of 62, 43 and 43 inches dimensions Sunday, however, the carrier joins in the 65, 55, 45 size to conform with the others. Weight no longer will be a factor under these regulations.

National, Eastern and Northeast Airlines will go Sunday [illegible] old baggage limits. These are 40 pounds for all [illegible] 66 pounds first class and [illegible] pounds tourist class on international journeys, where applicable.

Eastern and Northeast seek CAB approval of a 50-pound limit to become effective Sept. 1, instead of the piece system. National's application for the same limit would be effective Aug. 15.

Delta and several other regional domestic carriers also want the 50-pound limit.

Northwest Orient, which originally went along with the 62, 43, 43 formula, has asked CAB to suspend all baggage changes.

Skateboard Injury Fees Established

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—The Seattle-King County Safety Council issued a report on skateboard accidents Friday in which it said one doctor has established this fee for treating such injuries:

"One-half of the skateboard, either end."

Car-Trading Priest Put On Probation

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—The Right Rev. Msgr. Archibald Monroe Bottoms, who said he was [illegible] for trading automobiles, was placed on a two-year probation Friday after pleading guilty to car theft.

The 48-year-old Roman Catholic priest, who as chancellor was the second highest ranking priest in the Amarillo diocese, admitted stealing a 1964 automobile from an Amarillo used car lot, hiding it in his garage for several months, then selling it for $3,500 at an Albuquerque, N. M. car auction June 28.

The car was spotted after another Amarillo dealer bought the car June 30 and returned it here.

"I was always fascinated by cars. I have traded hundreds of cars in the past 23 years and have contributed all proceeds to the church," the priest said.

In addition to his duties as chancellor, Msgr. Bottoms was also pastor of tiny St. Francis Church, which has 30 families. He said the proceeds from the car sold in New Mexico was used to help pay for central heating and air conditioning in the church.

The court was informed Friday that all persons suffering loss in the transactions on the car had been repaid and that Msgr. Bottoms was undergoing psychiatric treatment.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our minister's wife is a party pusher. She has organized all sorts of social activities within the church membership, such as a choral group, an art class, a camera club, [illegible] arranging class, etc. It's fine for those taking part. But what about their husbands and wives? I am not normally a jealous person, but I don't appreciate having my husband run to the camera club to enjoy himself with the wives of other men who are absent because they don't happen to be interested in photography. I could have joined the choral group, but my husband can't sing and I didn't want to join without him. I think the minister's wife is stirring up a lot of trouble. I'd like your opinion.

WITHHOLD MY NAME

DEAR WITHHOLD: Don't blame the minister's wife. If you want to be with your husband, nothing is preventing you from developing an interest in HIS hobby.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 61 years old, and I think he's entering his second childhood. The plant where he works has a NATURE LOVERS' CLUB, and he has joined. He is the same man who refused to walk to the corner to pick up a loaf of bread, but last week he went on an overnight hike (mixed company) on what they called a "botanical excursion." He didn't bring back a leaf or a twig, but he did bring back a case of poison oak on his back. I am so disgusted with him I could throttle him. He's a grandfather (many times) and I don't know what's gotten into him. Should I make him quit this club? He wears his "Thistle" pin on his underwear.

CANADIAN

DEAR CANADIAN: "Grandpa" may be too old to be a Boy Scout, but not to be a "Good Scout." If you are wondering, become a mature lover yourself. (And when you learn why Grandpa wears his thistle pin on his underwear please let me know!)

DEAR ABBY: We work in a small office and we make our own coffee in the office to save time from going outside. One of the girls collects coffee money from each one of us every pay day. It isn't necessary for her to buy coffee, cream and sugar every pay day because there is always plenty left over from the last time she purchased our coffee break supplies. But she collects anyway. By this time there should be quite a few dollars' surplus in the coffee kitty, but the girl who collects can't [illegible] there isn't any. It's no big deal, and we don't intend to make a fuss about it, but why should she just put it in her pocket and think we're too stupid to catch on? Should we just keep paying and say nothing? Or let her think we are just a bunch of...

CHUMPS

DEAR "CHUMPS": Ask the girl in charge of collecting the "coffee money" to save the receipts in the future, or appoint another girl. What's gone is gone, and without the receipts all you have is grounds for coffee.

130 New Oil Wells Completed In Week

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The State Railroad Commission reported Saturday 130 oil wells and 8 gas wells were completed in Texas last week.

That raised the total number of oil well completions for the year to 4,079, compared to 4,940 for the same period in 1964, and hiked gas well completions to 1,635, compared to 1,599 this time a year ago.

The commission also said 165 wells were plugged, including 116 dry holes.

There were seven wildcat oil wells drilled, including three in Dist. 7-C, and one each in Dists. 1, 2, 4 and 6. There were no wildcat gas wells drilled.

Cotton was used in 3000 B. C.

Texan Among Trio Held In Robbery Plot

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Three men, one of them a Texan, were being held without bail Saturday on charges of kidnapping a department store official and his family in a robbery plot foiled by police sketches.

The three—Larry J. McDonald, 27, of Roseville, Calif., David Ray Williams, 26, of Wallace, Tex., and Angelos Toudes, 41, of Columbus, Ohio — were also charged with robbing the Hutzler's Department Store branch in suburban Towson of $53,000.

Bail was set at $50,000 apiece on the robbery charges last week in a preliminary hearing. No date has been set for higher court hearings.

They were arrested the day after the robbery after an employe at a swank Baltimore apartment house notified police. The employe had seen police sketches drawn from the descriptions given by Conrad O. McClung and his wife.

McClung, assistant manager of the department store, had told police that the robbery was executed by three men who invaded his home at gunpoint the night before the July 19 robbery.

The store official, his wife and two sons were held as hostages until morning, when the armed trio drove them to the store.

McClung was escorted into the store by two of the men, while the third guarded his wife and children in an automobile parked outside.

After McClung had given the men money from a store safe, they joined the third man and drove his wife and children a few blocks away before releasing them.

The arrest came the following night.

There are over 8 million recreational boats in use in this country, which indicates that boating is the fastest growing leisure activity in the affluent Sixties.

Depositions Arranged In Estes Case

EL PASO (AP)—Lawyers for former West Texas promoter Billie Sol Estes and U.S. Dist. Judge Leo Brewster met Friday to arrange for taking depositions on a motion for a new trial.

Estes was convicted of mail fraud in a multin-million-dollar swindle and is serving a 15-year sentence in the Leavenworth, Kan., federal prison.

His lawyers filed a motion July 12 asking a new trial. Judge Brewster said the meeting was held to take care of prelminaries before a pre-trial conference.

The defense contends that Heibert Kreeger of the Walter E. Keller Co. in Chicago, testified at Estes trial here in 1963 that he did not know that fertilizer tanks on which he bought mortgages for his company were non-existent.

Later, the lawyers claim, Kreeger testified at trial of a civil suit that he did know the tanks were non-existent.

The defense also claims that the government withheld information favorable to the defense and there was coercion by the court in the judge's charge to the jury.

Solon Questions Trading Stamps

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lester L. Wolff subscribes to the ancient theory that nobody gets anything for nothing.

Because he does, this freshman congressman from New York began to ask questions about those brightly colored housewives are pasting into brightly colored books.

Especially: Are their husbands paying for the stamps with higher food bills?

Among the people Wolff wanted to question were the trading stamp companies. He invited representatives to Washington.

They didn't show up, he told an interviewer.

So now Wolff wants questions put to the stamp companies by, among others: the Federal Trade Commission, the National Food Marketing Commission, the Commerce Department, the Office of the President's Adviser on Consumer Affairs, the Agriculture Department, the Small Business Administration and the Department of Labor.

The companies have faced similar questions before. The usual reply is that stamps are a wholly proper trade promotion device that also stimulates competition and so gives consumers a break on prices.

Wolff, a 46-year-old Democrat who for 25 years was a marketing and advertising agent for food chains, says the last time the government made an exhaustive study of stamps was seven years ago.

Since that Department of Agriculture report, he said, stamps have multiplied to the point where they now figure in more than $38 billion of retail sales.

If food stores operate on a one-half to 2 per cent margin, he figures they cannot cover the cost of stamps through increased volume.

So, Wolff goes back to the question: "Who does pay for the stamps and how?"

Wolff is asking the House Banking and Currency Committee to investigate and consider "possible restraints" on the companies.

Midwest Slates Annual Meeting

Midwest Electric Cooperative, Inc., will hold its annual membership meeting Thursday, Aug. 5, at the Fisher County Fair and Rodeo Grounds in Roby, Johnnie Ammons, manager of the cooperative, has announced.

This year's meeting will be conducted in the same manner as those in the past several years.

Registration of members will begin at 5 p.m. Each member will receive a nice gift as he or she registers. In addition, each name will be placed in a barrel for a drawing for other prizes. A free barbecue will be served at 6 p.m.

Immediately following the barbecue, reports will be given by officials of the cooperative, and the business session will be conducted. Three new directors will be elected at the session.

Nominated are: Place 5, H. H. Cary of Ira (re - election) and Manley D. Burrow of Ira; Place 6, Dwight Nowlin of Rotan (re-election) and Bernice Hargrove of Rotan; Place 7, Ted Marchant of Sweetwater (re - election) and Keifer Cauble of the Busby community.

Other nominations may be made from the floor by members of the cooperative if they desire.

Dr. Charles W. Jarvis, the "Flying Dentist" from San Marcos, will be the featured speaker. Dr. Jarvis believes in the humorous approach to life and his presentations are loaded with humorous stories, jokes, anecdotes, but at the same time carry a message of human relations, public relations, spiritual reward and success. Serious points of the message are illustrated with humor.

Generous Rainfall Received In Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil, a traditional victim of drought, is experiencing one of its most bountiful harvests thanks to generous rainfall.

Although the nation normally imports corn, Brazil this year will have 1.9 million tons of it available for export.

South Korean Colonels Get Death Penalty

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Two South Korean army colonels were sentenced to death today after a courtmartial board found them guilty of plotting to overthrow the government of President Chung Hee Park.

A third colonel was sentenced to life imprisonment and three others—two colonels and a lieutenant colonel—received prison terms ranging from 5 to 15 years.

The army court acquitted a colonel and a major of charges of failing to report the plot to authorities.

The ninth defendant, a colonel, received a suspended sentence.

Those convicted were expected to appeal.

The nine defendants were arrested in early May and charged in connection with an alleged plot to stage a coup on May 16.

The death sentences were given to Col. Won Chung-yun, 44, a former press aide to President Park when the latter headed the 1961-63 ruling military junta, and Col. Park In-do, 40, former artillery commander of an Army corps. They were accused of leading the plot.

The court said the plotters had personal grudges over promotions and assignments and sought to satisfy personal ambitions through a coup.

Seven civilians, including a retired army lieutenant general, have been indicted in connection with the colonels' plot and are awaiting trial.

Corn goes into paints and pipe bowls, soaps, salad oil, paper, matches, margarine, hair-waving preparations, vinegar, cheese, chewing gum, bay rum, and face powder.

Goldberg Called To Ranch Parley

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson summoned Arthur Goldberg, new ambassador to the United Nations, to the LBJ ranch today to discuss possible U.N. efforts to promote peace in Viet Nam.

Johnson also conferred by telephone with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, back in Washington, about the deployment of an additional 50,000 troops the chief executive is dispatching to South Viet Nam.

Johnson announced at a news conference Wednesday that the extra troops would be sent.

Goldberg's visit to the ranch was announced by Joseph Laitin, assistant White House secretary, who said the two men would hold "a general discussion in the area of Ambassador Goldberg's new responsibilities."

In response to a question, Laitin said they certainly would talk about Secretary-General U Thant's pledge to continue efforts to promote a Viet Nam settlement.

Johnson traveled to his ranch Friday for what associates said was planned as a quiet, relaxed weekend, after a busy 10 days dominated by Viet Nam discussions and decisions.

Johnson was up at 6 a.m. today and, very early, joined wife Lady Bird for a swim in the heated pool on the front lawn of their ranch home.

The President then got busy on the telphone talking to McNamara, Goldberg, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and staff aides at the White House.

Arraignment Is Scheduled

HOUSTON (AP)—Lucien Rivard, alleged kingpin of a narcotics ring, apparently is en route to Laredo for his arraignment Monday. There was a report his $500,000 bail will be posted the same day in Houston.

Rivard, 50, was extradited from Canada July 22. His movements while in custody have been under heavy guard and shrouded by secrecy. With six others, he is charged in a $56 million heroin smuggling attempt in 1963.

County jail records here show he was turned over Friday to U.S. Marshal M. M. Hale, presumably for transfer to Laredo. Hale was not available for comment.

The Montreal Gazette, in a copyrighted story, said one of its reporters was directed to a rail station parcel locker containing a letter that stated Rivard's bail would be posted Monday.

Chinese Say Soviet Policy Unacceptable

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China declared today Soviet Russia's "line of compromise and capitulation" must be opposed by forces opposing peaceful coexistence.

A lengthy article in People's Daily, signed by "Observer" and broadcast by Peking radio, said the Russians' "line of capitulation, betrayal and split, in which they persist, violates the fundamental interests of the peace-loving people of the world and runs against the historical trend."

The broadcast did not identify 'Observer', but this signature often is used by a high-ranking Chinese Communist official.

Increase Noted In Field Insects

A slight increase in fleahopper activity and bollworm activity has been noted in the past week in most fields in Scurry County. This buildup is attributed possibly to [illegible] was experienced in the county during the past week. Thrips are still present in most fields but are doing little, if any, damage. Bollweevils, as yet, have not built up to cause any economic damage.

Fleahoppers continue to be of economic importance to producers in Scurry County as the cotton continues to grow and to fruit. Fleahoppers can cause considerable damage to the newly formed squares and serious economic loss can be experienced from fleahoppers if they build up in sufficient numbers to cause damage. Producers have noted that under the good growing conditions during the past two or three weeks the cotton has failed to fruit as it should and this has been caused in part by the presence of fleahoppers and in some instances control measures will have to be started in order to set a good crop of fruit on this cotton.

Bollworms have shown an increase during the past week. Egg laying has been particularly heavy in fields, especially in the irrigated fields, and been quite prevalent in many fields. Bollworm moth activity has been somewhat suppressed in the previous weeks due to the hot, dry weather. However, with the cooler temperature and the higher humidity an increase in the activity of the moth has been noted due to the larger number of eggs that were found and also the small worms which were working in the terminals in many cotton fields.

Producers should be on the [illegible] presence of bollworm eggs an check closely to see that control measures are started in time to control the bollworms. Control measures [illegible] small worms are five days old or less. After the bollworm has reached the age of six days or older control measures are much less effective since activity of the bollworm is confined more to the larger fruit on the stalk and there is a good possibility that the worm will enter a large boll and remain there until he has matured. After the bollworm has entered a large boll application of insecticide is not effective since the bollworm will probably remain inside the boll until maturity.

In areas where bollweevils have a history of infestation the fields should be checked regularly and control measures used when 15-25 per cent or more punctured squares are found. Bollweevils are capable of causing significant losses if left uncontrolled. If weevils are found insecticides should be applied in five-day intervals until the infestation is brought under control. Control of bollweevils when first noticed may cut down on further generation so that damage may be held to a minimum.

Producers are urged to make periodic and regular field inspections for the presence of insects since the past week has been very good for the buildup of insects due to the lower daytime temperatures and the higher humidity. The use of insecticides should not be governed by the idea of how much it will cost the producer to put the insecticide on but how much benefit the application of insecticide will give to the producer.

Fortas' Views May Affect Texas Courts News Coverage

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN (AP) — Newspaper readers and television viewers have a special interest in the selection of Washington lawyer Abe Fortas as a new U.S. Supreme Court justice.

He may cast the deciding vote when the nation's highest court decides whether it will take another look at a decision which, in effect, outlaws live telecasts of a criminal court trial. This also may affect still photography in the courtroom.

Fortas' views on the question are not known.

Last June 7 the nation's highest court ruled 5-4 that televising of criminal trials denies defendants their constitutional rights. The ruling was against the State of Texas and the Texas State Bar in an appeal by Billie Sol Estes of a state court conviction on swindling charges. Estes presently is serving a federal prison sentence on a mail fraud and conspiracy conviction.

One of the Supreme Court justices voting against Texas in the Estes appeal was Justice Arthur Goldberg, who resigned recently to become U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

A favorable vote by the justice replacing Goldberg on Texas' pending motion for a rehearing of the June 7 decision possibly could reverse the entire court's opinion.

Texas sources point out there already is a Texan on the court —Justice Tom Clark, who voted against Texas in the Estes appeal.

Texas spokesmen argued in the appeal that the live telecasting of portions of Estes' trial at Tyler in no way denied the defendant a fair trial. All cameras were in a specially built both at the rear of the courtroom.

Joining with Texas in the case were the State of Colorado and the National Association of Broadcasters.

Siding with Estes to ask reversal of the conviction were the American Bar Association and the American Civil Liberties Union.

State Bar authorities have predicted that if the Supreme Court's decision against live telecasting stands, judges will prohibit the use of newspaper photographers' still cameras during a trial.

At present, under State Bar guide lines, each state judge may determine whether television or still photographers may record portions of a trial.

Colorado is the only other state that allows such discretion.

Body Still Unidentified

ALPINE, Tex. (AP) — The charred and mutilated body of a woman discovered near the Mexican border remained unidentified Saturday.

A doctor estimated the body was burned about a month ago. He placed her age at the middle 20s to early 30s.

It was found Thursday close to an abandoned road about 3 miles east of the village of Lajitas in a remote area of far West Texas.

Texas Ranger Arthur Hill said it appeared the woman was shot and taken there in a plastic bag before the killer set it afire. The hands and legs were missing.

Sheriff Carl Williams said a piece of a cartridge near the body appeared to offer the only possible clue to the slayer.

King Cancels His Philadelphia Visit

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Dr. Martin Luther King has canceled his visit here because "he doesn't want to create dissension in the city," Cecil Moore, head of the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said today.

King was scheduled to make a two-day visit here beginning Monday.

Grand Opening Set Monday By M&M Electronics No. 2

Snyder's newest store, M&M Electronics No. 2, has scheduled its formal opening for Monday Aug. 2.

M&M Electronics No. 2 is located on the north side of the square in the heart of Snyder's main business district. It is owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Butler, who have operated what has now become M&M Electronics No. 1 for several years at 1910 Twenty-seventh Street.

The new store is purely an expansion project, said Butler. The firm's service department will continue operation at the Twenty-seventh Street location where it will have expanded facilities for servicing and repairing televisions, radios and all types of electrical appliances.

M&M Electronics No. 2 is a modern retail outlet for televisions, radios, record players, musical instruments, records and related items.

For several years, Mr. and Mrs. Butler had dreamed and planned to some day have a nice music and home entertainment store. Their dream comes true Monday when they hold the grand opening of "M&M On The Square."

Many items and many different trade names in merchandise already are represented in the store's initial stock of merchandise, and more is coming. The merchandise ranges from musical instruments and accessories to modern color television sets and stereos. Also, a large stock of records is on display.

Butler said more merchandise will be added during the next 60 days, including a line of organs and wind instruments.

The grand opening event will begin at 9 a.m. Monday. Several prizes will be given away during the opening week, including a portable television, three radios, a record player, record albums and 45 RPM records.

Represented in M&M merchandise are such brand names as Admiral, Motorola, Voice of Music, Kay and Harmony guitars, Rogers and Ludwig drums, Channel Master, Hallicrafter, Packard Bell, Auto Stereo, GE, Webcor, RCA and many others.

NEW HOME ENTERTAINMENT CENTER—This is just a corner of M&M Electronics No. 2, Snyder's newest store, which has scheduled its grand opening for Monday. The new store, owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Butler, is located on the north side of the Snyder square.

Threat To President Results In Sentence

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—Ex-convict Walter Hendrickson, 36, drew three years in prison Friday for threatening the life of President Johnson and two years for stealing a car.

The sentences, imposed in federal district court here yesterday, run consecutively.

Evidence was presented that Hendrickson mailed a threatening letter from Albuquerque, N. M., and it was received at the White House April 15. The car was stolen in New York.

His letter to the President said: "This is to inform you that your turn will come. I will do a better job than Oswald and will succeed in escaping."

Claims Husband Miscounted Mates

Camp Gary Is Succeeding Despite Multitude Of Woes

Editor's Note: Gary Job Corps Center, open since March, has twice as many boys at this time as expected. This has caused certain logistical problems, but center officials are convinced things are settling down and Gary will be able to accomplish its mission in the war on poverty. A report.

By RONALD THOMPSON

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — Gary Job Corps Center, a beachhead for the war on poverty, is hot, dry and crowded these days. There has been a day-to-day battle to solve a multitude of problems.

But officials are convinced they are accomplishing the center's mission: Train disadvantaged, unemployable boys in a trade so they can become useful citizens.

Nearly 1,400 corpsmen are at the old army post, and that many again are expected by early fall. About 450 have come and gone. Some were troublemakers, but most left on their own—homesick or disgusted.

"We're very definitely settling down now," said D. Oscar Baker, center director.

"During the first few weeks, we were getting students while still employing a staff," Baker said. "Some of the boys left because the vocational couses they wanted weren't ready for them."

The curriculum of more than 30 courses now ranges from auto mechanics to cooking and commercial art. The boys can stay up to two years.

Most like the idea of being a job corpsman and proudly display the red, white and blue corps patch on their sleeves. Some don't.

Six corpsmen stalked briskly to their barracks recently, bitter and ready to leave.

"I'm fed up," Tommy Peterson, 18, of Texarkana, Ark., said. "This camp will never last—someday race riots will close it down. And there's no privacy. We have two to each room—six to a shower."

Baker reported that "There is a certain amount of racial tension among some of the boys who are in a completely integrated program for the first time. We recognize this and to say we didn't would not be fair."

Less than 50 per cent of the corps men here are Negroes, an official said.

"We've never had any real outbreaks of violence, and what violence we've had has not necessarily resulted between the races," Baker added.

Baker said 38 enrollees had been arrested in surrounding cities for various offenses. Most were misdemeanors.

Five Negro corpsmen from Chicago were jailed and charged in San Antonio following the sidewalk shooting of two young Air Force enlisted men July 17. Officers filed assault to murder charges against two and conspiracy to commit robbery charges against three.

At the time of the wounding of the airmen, Baker said he feared the alleged action by the five might lead the public to forming "an unfair judgment of the typical Gary enrollee."

Fewer than 3 per cent of the boys have had disciplinary problems since joining the corps, he added.

Two involved in the San Antonio affair had been corpsmen only two weeks; three, about two months.

Two corpsmen were convicted in Houston on an automobile theft charge. Baker said they were absent without leave at the time and were dropped from the corps after conviction.

The director said two young Negroes were charged with assault recently after beating a white boy with their fis "This was the worst fight we've had. The boy was bruised up pretty bad."

Don Waller, 16, of Mountain Home, Idaho, said: "They need more organization. There's too much confusion going on. It's too new to start off with this many boys."

The Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington originally planned to send Gary only 2,000 boys. Baker said that due to the tremendous number of applications—more than 300,000—it was necessary to increase the center's capacity to 3,000.

The original schedule called for Gary to have only 750 boys as of July 1, but more than 1,300 had been sent.

Lester L'Heureaux, 17, of Omaha, Neb., said he didn't like Gary because he didn't get enough passes into town. "Some of the boys are not used to staying in. One pass a week is just not enough."

The corpsmen are allowed one pass a week that lasts during the evening hours of either Friday, Saturday or Sunday. Baker said his staff is considering liberalizing this policy.

"Some of the boys can't get used to a schedule," Baker said. "They've never lived by a schedule and this requires some real adjustment. At home they were allowed to stay out all night."

"The corp's great," Dave Justice, 18, of Columbus, Ohio, declared. "You can't find any better. I starten to leave right after I got here, but I looked around and figured it ain't no use to give up right away."

Workers Clean Rio's Slum Area

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A beat-up old tin box held the woman's most valuable possessions. Slowly she climbed into the truck and turned to look at the wooden shack where she had lived 15 years.

"I don't want to go," she whispered.

Then the truck went rattling along and Maria Alves, 62, became an ex-favelada, a former shantytown dweller.

Rio's favelas, colonies of shacks built of wood scraps, old sheet metal and flattened gasoline drums, are gradually being cleaned out. Often their residents move reluctantly, as did Maria Alves.

"I wanted to stay," she said, "because here we were closer to the city, closer to where my children work."

As part of Gov. Carlos Lacerda's campaign to clean out the favelas two suburban cities have been built some 20 miles to the north of downtown Rio.

Financed by the Alliance for Progress, they are called Vila Kennedy and Vila Alianza. Many ex-favelados look at their new brick and cement homes with distrust and resent the long commuting to their old jobs — often two hours each day, but others are enthusiastic. Says laborer Jose Soares, 35: "There is just no comparison. Now my children will be able to live like human beings."

At the moment, Lacerda is cleaning out the city's most infamous favela, Esqueleto (The Skeleton).

Nearly 30 years old, it began in the abandoned concrete skeleton of an unfinished hospital building and gradually expanded until its population reached nearly 18,000.

The favela's 3,200 families are moving at the rate of 30 a day. In the process a medical survey has uncovered 366 cases of tuberculosis.

Social workers directing the moving operation have also found that only one out of every 200 children in the favela has attained a high school education, or learned a trade.

As the favelados move out, demolition men tear down the shacks to prevent others from moving in. Lacerda has promised that the concrete hospital skeleton will be dynamited to clear the area for a university campus.

While far from luxurious, the houses in Vila Kennedy and Vila Alianza are clean and comfortable. They are sold on credit by the state government, with 15 years to pay.

One-bedroom houses cost about $5 per month — 15 per cent of the minimum monthly wage. The two bedroom houses cost 16.5 per cent of the minimum wage.

With indoor plumbing, well laid-out streets and ample water supplies, the two developments offer a sharp contrast to the squalor of the waterless favelas perched on the steep sides of Rio's many hills.

Scattered in the suburbs as well as in the heart of world-famous Copacabana, the favelas and their half-million inhabitants have long been a headache to Rio's city fathers.

By resettling the favelados and tearing down their estimated 180,000 shacks, Lacerda hopes to end the problem, and at the same time put a dent in the city's staggering statistics on disease and ignorance.

Abilene Sweeps PL Series From Snyder's All-Stars

Pitching again spelled doom for the Snyder Pony League All-Stars Friday night as the Abilene All-Stars walked away with an 8-0 victory and a two game sweep in the District series.

The loss eliminates the Snyder team left in the post-season playoffs. Abilene will now move to the Regional competition at a later date.

Robert Vannoy is his name and his occupation. Friday night at least, was striking out Snyder batters. He did the trick 15 times including striking out the side three different times. Through the first four innings only Randy Hardee in the second inning managed to hit the ball, and it was a pop fly to the rightfielder. Snyder's first thirteen men were retired in order.

Vannoy only allowed one hit in his winning effort just as his teammates did on a high scoring night in Abilene in the first game of the series. It didn't come until the seventh inning when Jacky Weaver managed to punch a single.

In the best two out of three game series, Snyder dropped the first two games, thus eliminating them from the Pony League playoffs. Snyder only managed to get two hits in the series, and Abilene pitchers struck out 31 batters in the two appearances.

Abilene did not score until the third inning, but they pushed across tallies in the fifth, sixth and seventh frames. Abilene really put the game on ice in the seventh inning when Charles Buchanan belted a three run homer in the seventh inning.

Only one homer was hit in last night's affair compared to the four home runs that left the park in Abilene.

Snyder made its largest threat in the fifth inning when they got runners on second and third. Randy Hardee reached base on an Abilene error and Jacky Weaver walked, but both were stranded on base when the inning ended.

Three Close In Classic

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP)—The strong man, the silent man and the slim man were in command today as an elite corps of golfers started the third round of the $100,000 Thunderbird Classic.

Burly Jack Nicklaus, belting his drives long and on target, mastered the short, hilly Westchester Country Club course for a six-under par 66 Friday.

Soft-spoken Gene Littler, sparked by a fantastic shot from under a ground-hugging tree, matched the 66 and tied Nicklaus with a 6-hole 133.

And the slenderized Billy Casper, putting sharply as usual, was a single stroke back after his second straight 67.

Nicklaus drove six greens, including two par 4s—the 327-yard seventh and 295-yard 10th.

Westchester's 6,573-yard layout again was an easy mark. Seventy pros survived the cutoff for the final two rounds, with a low 145 needed.

South African Gary Player, scoring seven birdies on his last 12 holes, posted a 67 and tied first-round leader Pat Schwab, the club pro from West Orange, N.J., at 136. Schwab took a 70.

Gay Brewer and George Archer carded 67s for 137, while Harold Kneece, Tommy Aaron, Miller Barber and Mason Rudolph tied at 138.

Arnold Palmer shot 71 to put him at 139 with two former University of Houston players, Rooky Thompson and Dick Crawford.

Dave Marr flashed around in the low score so far, a 65, but was well back in a seven-way tie at 140.

Among those who didn't make it — Kel Nagle, runner-up to Player in the U.S. Open, 73-73—146; and two old-line stars who made gallant second-round efforts, Gene Sarazen, 78-71—149, and Sam Snead, 77-70—147.

Jimmy Sidle To Have Surgery For Shoulder

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP)—The injury list of the Dallas Cowboys grew today, the latest loss being rookie running back Jimmy Sidle, who will undergo surgery for a shoulder hurt.

Sidle probably won't get to play at all this season.

Rookie Malcolm Walker and veteran offensive end Pete Gent previously had been lost because of knee survery.

And Friday rookie linebacker Roger Pettee came up with a chipped bone in his right elbow.

Kitchens Rites Today

TYLER (AP)—Funeral services were scheduled today for Frank (Pop) Kitchens, who played in four leagues—the Texas, Southern, East Texas and Southeastern—during a storied career after the turn of the century.

Kitchens, 79, died Friday from an apparent heart attack.

Kitchens, whose last participation in baseball was in 1926 when he managed the Tyler Club of the East Texas League, had been a prominent nurseryman in this area for many years.

His greatest record was catching the most games by one player in the history of the Texas League. He worked in 929 in a 10-year period, playing with Austin, Fort Worth, Houston, Wichita Falls, Galveston and Beaumont.

WTSU To Play Drake

CANYON (AP) — West Texas State has scheduled a football game with Drake for Nov. 6 to replace a cancellation, athletic director Frank Kimbrough announced today.

West Texas was to have played the San Diego Marines at San Diego but the Marine base cancelled all sports because of the Viet Nam situation.

Estep, Lutz Gain Finals In Tourney

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Mike Estep of Dallas met Don Lutz of Los Angeles in the finals of the boys division in the Western Junior and Boys Tennis tournament today.

Estep reached the finals with a 6-3, 6-4 victory over Mac Claflin of Coral Gables, Fla.

Lutz got there with a 6-2, 6-0 victory over George Taylor of Houston.

Estep and Taylor were eliminated in the d oubles by Claflin and Robin Fry of Springfield 9-7, 6-4.

The New York Mets beat Houston's Colts (now Astros) seven times in nine 1964 games at Shea Stadium. In Houston the Mets won only two out of nine as the rivals split their 18 games.

Braves Throw Spit Balls And Lose Proving Theory

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bobby Bragan won the battle but lost the war.

The umpires didn't catch his Milwaukee Braves pitchers throwing spitballs Friday night but the way the San Francisco Giants were hitting them, the umps weren't getting too close a look.

Bragan claimed he ordered his pitchers to use the illegal pitch "to prove the umpires won't stop anyone from throwing the spitter." After his Giants worked over five Milwaukee pitchers for 13 hits and a 9-2 victory, San Francisco Manager Herman Franks wasn't about to complain about whatever Bragan's staff was throwing.

"I told my pitchers to throw the spitter and make no pretense of hiding it," Bragan told reporters after the game. Bragan said they threw between 75 and 80 with no interference from plate umpire John Kibler.

There was plenty of interference from the Giants though. Tom Haller, batting .227 going into the game, drove in five runs with a homer, double and ground out. Willie Mays, who went into the game fighting an 0-for-23 slump, hammered his first homer in three weeks. Willie McCovey also homered and Jim Ray Hart had three hits.

Bragan accused Giant hurler Bob Shaw, who won his 11th on a seven-hitter, of using the illegal pitch. Shaw, an ex-Brave, denied the charge, saying, "I don't even know how to throw a spitball."

The defeat was only Milwaukee's fourth setback in the last 17 games — all the losses coming against San Francisco.

Elsewhere in the National League, Los Angeles maintained a two-game lead over Cincinnati as both teams won. The Dodgers topped St. Louis 4-2 while the Reds battered Houston 7-1. Philadelphia downed New York 5-3 and Pittsburgh slipped by Chicago 3-1 in other games.

In the American League, Cleveland blanked New York 5-0. Detroit topped Chicago 3-1, Minnesota edged Baltimore 3-2, Washington defeated Kansas City 3-1 and Los Angeles ripped Boston 9-2.

Deron Johnson took over the major league lead in runs batted in, driving in three, as the Reds battered the Astros. Tony Perez delivered a two-run pinch homer as 37-year-old Joe Nuxhall celebrated his birthday with his eighth victory of the year.

St. Louis' Curt Simmons had the Dodgers down 2-0 going into the eighth inning but Jeff Torborg's homer broke the ice and Los Angeles tied it on Jim Gilliam's double and Lou Johnson's single. Then LA pushed across two more runs in the ninth, the tie-breaker coming when Hal Woodeshick walked pinch hitter Don LeJohn with the bases loaded.

Bobby Wine and Johnny Callison tagged two-run homers as the New York Mets sent an electronic Happy Birthday wish to ailing Manager Casey Stengel and then went on to lose to the Phillies.

The Mets held up placards before the game spelling out the greeting to Stengel, who was watching the game on television in a New York hospital. Stengel was 75 Friday.

Don Cardwell scattered seven hits and won his ninth game for the Pirates. Bob Bailey stole second twice, setting up the first two Pittsburgh runs, and Donn Clendenon tripled in the third one. Chicago spoiled Cardwell's shutout bid with a ninth inning run.

Ahern Is Victor Over Seeligson

DALLAS (AP)—Kathy Ahern of Dallas had three birdies and an eagle Friday in beating Suzie Seeligson of Dallas 5 and 4 for the Texas state junior girls golf championship.

Miss Ahern, 16, shot three-under-par in easily defeating Miss Seeligson, who didn't win a single hole.

Eagles Meet Lubbock For A Sunday Game

The Snyder Eagles will meet the Lubbock Indians Sunday at 3 p.m. in Winston Park.

The Eagles own a 11-8 record on the season, and will be out to improve that mark. They own a recent win over a tough Abilene team, and should be ready for Sunday's tussle.

Buford Thompson will be the starting pitcher for the Eagles.

Two Hole In Ones Scored On Same Hole

MONROE, La. (AP) — Two golfers scored a hole-in-one on the same hole Friday at the Monroe municipal course.

Alan Knight, 12, dropped a three-wood in the cup on the 140-yard par 3 No. 8 early in the afternoon.

Later, Jim Shipp holed a seven-iron. It was the first ace for both.

Joe Fraiser To Make Pro Debut In States

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Frazier, 21, who won the Olympic heavyweight championship at the Tokyo Games last year, is turning pro and plans to make his debut here at Convention Hall Aug. 16.

Torrential Rains Hamper Dalmahoy

DALMAHOY, Scotland (AP) — Officials hoped to move back to the regular 6,670-yard par 72 course today for the final 36 holes of the Dalmahoy international golf tournament, provided they can get the ducks off the layout.

Torrential rains flooded the main course Thursday and delayed the start until Friday, when the players teed off on the 5,112-yard par 66 West course. Originally scheduled for 72 holes, the tourney was trimmed to 54 holes because of the rain.

Wild ducks paddled over the main course's fairways and greens Thursday following 50 hours of rain.

England's Tony Coop and Ireland Hugh Boyle shot five-under-par 61s over the short course Friday, leading the advance into today's final 36 holes.

Top American was Jacky Cupit of Corona, Calif., who had a 67.

Other Americans who made the cut for today's final two rounds were defending champion Dave Ragan of Orlando, Fla. with a 64, Ray Floyd of St. Andrews, Ill. and Fred Hawkins of New Orleans with 65s, Ted Kroll of Detroit and Bob Toski of Miami at 66, and Bob Rosburg of Hillsboro, Ore., with 67.

Dean Chance Same Pitcher Just Doesn't Have Record

By GERALD CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dean Chance's record doesn't show it, but Boston Manager Billy Herman says he's the same old Chance.

Herman said the Los Angeles pitcher, who has displayed very little of the talent that earned him the 1964 Cy Young Award, was in exceptional form in the sixth inning of Friday night's game won by the Angels 9-2.

Herman, however, wasn't referring to Chance's ability to put the ball over the plate but to what he called his ability to put the ball near a batter's head. And that, Herman contended, was what triggered a free-for-all 2½ innings later.

Charging that Chance ignited the chain of events that led to the wild melee by low-bridging Felix Mantilla in the sixth, the Red Sox boss said:

"Chance has been throwing at our players for years, and we're tired of it."

Chance didn't hit Mantilla, but he did hit pitcher Dave Morehead an inning later. Morehead aleady had hit Jose Cardenal in the Angels' half of the sixth, and he later hit Jim Fregosi in the eighth. Morehead's replacement, Arnold Earley, hit Bob Rodgers minutes later, and the war was on.

Rodgers charged to the mound and tangled with Earley. Players from both teams rushed onto the field, and about half a dozen separate fights erupted.

In more peaceful surroundings in the American League, Minnesota edged Baltimore 3-2, Cleveland whipped New York 5-0, Detroit trimmed Chicago 3-1 and Washington beat Kansas City 3-1.

In the National League, Los Angeles defeated St. Louis 4-2, San Francisco trounced Milwaukee [illegible] Cincinnati crushed Houston 7-1, Pittsburgh stopped Chicago 3-1 and Philadelphia beat New York [illegible]

Chance wasn't around when the fight erupted, but he still halted a four-game losing streak with his seventh victory against eight defeats. Cardenal's two-run double in the seventh inning snapped a 2-2 tie.

[illegible] with the bases loaded brought in Don Mincher with the eighth-inning run [illegible] enabled the Twins to extend their league lead to five games. Jim Grant stopped Baltimore on five hits for his 12th triumph against three losses.

Cleveland's Sonny Siebert and Don McMahon combined for a four-hitter against New York. Joe Azcue and Fred Whitfield hit two-run homers and Chuck Hinton connected with the bases empty.

Detroit trimmed Chicago on Jerry Lumpe's two-out, two-run single in the ninth off ace reliever Eddie Fisher. The winning hit came just after Don Wert lined into a double play with the bases loaded.

Frank Howard broke a 1-1 tie for Washington with a home run over Kansas City's center field wall that traveled about 500 feet in the air and a measured 516 feet over-all.

Ashe, Osuna Duel Due

DALLAS (AP) — Conflicting theories provided an element of suspense today as the Mexican and United States Davis Cup teams squared off in the opening matches of the American Zone finals.

Attention was focused on the singles duel between youthful Arthur Ashe and Mexico's Rafael Osuna.

Mexican team captain Pancho Contreras said the draw favored his squad and predicted that an Osuna victory would increase Antonio Palafox's chances of upsetting America's Dennis Ralston.

U.S. team captain George MacCall said the draw was satisfactory and hinted that Ashe, the No. 2 man and the first Negro to make the U.S. team, was as strong as Mexico's No. 1 player.

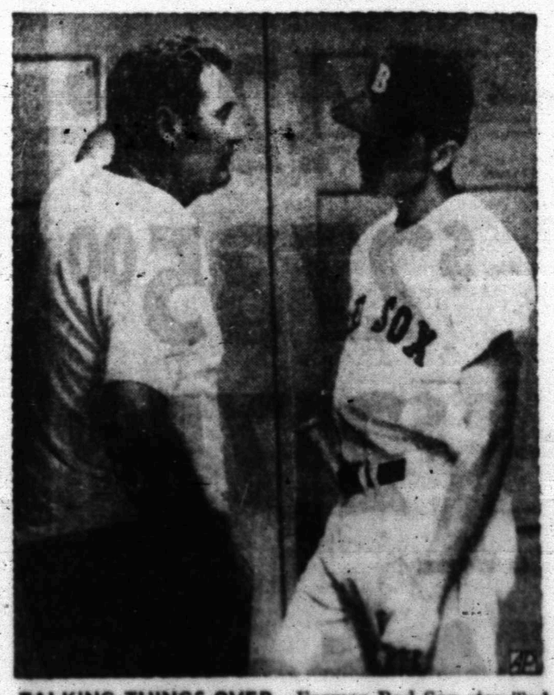
MacCall noted that Osuna beat Ashe at Wimbledon on grass, but added:

"A change in surface will help Ashe. He is playing as well as I've ever seen him play."

The U.S. captain expressed no doubts about Ralston beating Palafox and said Ralston should beat Osuna in Monday's final match.

Contreras refused to make public his doubles combo for Sunday but it appeared that Osuna and Palafox would do the honors.

MacCall has plucked former Davis Cup star Ham Richardson out of semiretirement to join Ralston on the U.S. doubles team. Richardson, 31, is a Dallas resident.



TALKING THINGS OVER—Former Red Sox star Ted Williams, left, confers with Tony Conigliaro in dressing room at Boston's Fenway Park. Dallas To Host 4,200 Coaches

DALLAS (AP)—Thousands of big guys with note books were streaming into Dallas Saturday for the world's largest coaching school.

From every section and from a dozen outside states they came to participate in four days of discussions concerning football, basketball, baseball and track.

Many arrived Friday and more Saturday and all will be here Sunday morning at 10 a.m, when registration begins for the Texas Coaching School, sponsored by the Texas High School Coaches Association.

It appeared certain that the record enrollment of 4,115 set last year at Fort Worth would be bettered.

L. W. McConachie, executive vice president of the association, said he felt certain there would be more than 4,200 but he wouldn't hazard a guess on how many more.

He based his prediction on the fact that 2,367 had registered in advance—387 more than last year—and that the association is bigger.

While lectures do not start until Monday, there will be meetings of coaches in all the sports carried on the school's curriculum. They will make recommendations on lecturers for next year when the school is held at Houston.

All-star squads that will appear in a basketball game Wednesday night and football Thursday night arrived on the campus of Southern Methodist Saturday morning and all went through workouts in the afternoon.

Two-a-day practice will begin Monday.

It will be the 33rd annual school. Since its founding it has grown from an enrollment of 251 to better, than a thousand in a dozen years, then leaped to 2,000 in the next ten.

Instructors will be Hayden Fry of Southern Methodist and Gene Stallings of Texas A&M in football, Don Haskins of Texas Western and Ralph Tasker of Hobbs, N.M., high school in basketball, Abe Barnett of Dallas Sunset and Dolph J. Regelsky of Dallas Crozier Tech in baseball and Charley Thomas of Texas A&M in track. Eddie Lane of Southern Methodist will lecture on athletic training.

Allen Winters of Temple, the vice president, will preside at meetings of the association in the absence of Theo Rigsby of Fort Worth Richland, the president. Rigsby will be unable to attend because his daughter was found murdered at Austin.

"This will cause a note of sorrow at the coaching school," said McConachie.

Spain Is Favored To Take South Africa

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Spain's tennis aces, leading 2-0, were favored to put the crusher today on South Africa in the doubles match of the best-of-five final of the European Zone Davis Cup Tournament.

The winner will meet the survivor of the Mexico-United States American Zone final later this summer. The ultimate winner will face Australia's Cup-holders in the Challenge Round.

In the clash of the No. 1 players, Spain's Manuel Santana routed Cliff Drysdale 6-3, 6-3, 6-2 Friday. Then Juan Gisberg beat Keith Diepraa 6-2, 6-1, 3-6, 3-6, 6-2.

Marie Mulder Is Poised For Meet

KIEV, U.S.S.R. (AP) — The calmest athlete going into the tension-loaded United States-Soviet track and field meet today is a spunky, 15-year-old schoolgirl from California who probably would belt the first person who called her a tomboy or a sissy.

Marie Mulder of North Highlands, Calif., baby of the American tea, is neither.

She looks and acts like a poised junior debutante.

She likes to run. She plays baseball and tackle football with the boys. She is guard, end and quarterback of the football team and admits "I can play pretty well, but I pretend I can't."

Marie came to Kiev to run the 800 meters against a pair of Russian girls she has never seen or heard of.

"I don't want to know what they look like or what their times are," she said. "I just want to get out there and run."

Marie runs Sunday in one of the final events of the last day's program. She is conceeded a good chance against her rivals, Tatyana Dmitrieva and Zoya Skobtseva.

Miss Mulder's best time for 800 meters is 2:08.3. Her outdoor time of 2:10.2 made her the national AAU women's champion for the half-mile.

Fans Raise $2,000 For Blind Player

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — About $2,000 was raised in a benefit game for Gary Marshal promising baseball player from Hutchinson who was blinded in a traffic wreck five weeks ago.

About 2,600 turned out for the game Thursday night between the Hutchinson American Legion team and Legion alumni. The alumni won 4-3.

Marshall, 19, was a bonus pitcher with the Salisbury, N.C., farm club of the Houston Astros. His car rammed a tree in Salisbury and a teammate, Jay Dahl, 21, of Bloomington, Calif., and Patricia Troutman, 21, of Salisbury, were killed.

A manslaughter warrant has been issued for Marshall. He is in a hospital at Winston-Salem, N. C.

Terrell Listed As Heavyweight Champ

TORONTO (AP) — There was no change in the top ranked heavyweights in the World Boxing Association July ratings announced Friday. Ernie Terrell of Chicago is listed as champion since the WBA does not recognize Cassius Clay.

Floyd Patterson of New York is ranked No. 1 contender, followed by Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz., and George Chuvalo of Toronto.

Queen Earns Money

GOODWOOD, England (AP) — Queen Elizabeth picked up another $932 Friday with a second place horse and today has $113,898 in race earnings for the season. Her filly Eucumbene finished second to Aunt Edith in the Nassau Stakes at the Goodwood meeting.

Three Texans Gain Firsts In Archery

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) —Texans carried off three first places in the National Field Archery Association tournament that ended Friday.

Jack Walker of Houston won men's bow hunter with 2,012 points.

Tom Herrin of Fort Worth won junior boys free style with 2,686 points.

James Allison of Lake Jackson won cub boys free style with 2,316 points.

Clifford Necessary of Richmond, Va., won the major championship—the men's bare-bow—with 2,528 points. He was repeating with the title.

Richard Roberts of Three Rivers, Mich., won the men's free style with 2,692 points.

Mrs. Betty Grubbs of Oklahoma City won women's bare-bow with 1,980 points.

Evans Holds Lead In Fishing Finals

PORT ISABEL, Tex. (AP) — The Texas International Fishing Tournament ends today with Frank Evans of Corpus Christi holding the lead going into the final round.

Evans compiled 575 points on two big sailfish with J. W. McCormick of Corpus Christi 30 points back.

Native Street To Run

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP) — Native Street, scheduled to be ridden by Manual Ycaza and unbeaten in her only two starts, was the even money choice in the morning line for today's $100,000 Sorority Stakes for 2-year-old fillies at Monmouth Park.

Lady Pitt was the second choice at 5-1 in the bulky field of 15 for the six furlong sprint.

ERNIE SETS UP RUN NO. 1,000—Chicago Cubs first-baseman Ernie Banks hits a single in first inning of second game of a double-header with New York Mets in Chicago, starting him around the bases for what became his 1,000th run. His production for the two games was four runs. Catching is John Stephenson of Mets. Umpire is Frank Secory. Cubs won second game, 9-0, after taking the first, 7-2. (AP Wirephoto)

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

I was out driving around last Wednesday night when I saw a faint light coming from the direction of the old VFW Park, and being of a curious nature, I thought I would just drop in and see what was going on.

When I got there, I saw a big pen that had a whole bunch of horses penned up, and their riders were padded from head to foot, at least some of them were. I waited just a minute, and then two horses with their riders got in a box facing each other. The riders carried sticks, and when a whistle blew they raced at a big ball that was placed between them. At first I thought it was a jousting match, but one of the men hit the ball with the stick, and everybody in the pen started fighintg for the ball. Everyone had their sticks swinging away trying to hit the ball out of that pen.

That went on for a good while until one of the riders, Duaine Davis, must have gotten tired of the whole affair because he grabbed his stick and hit one of the other riders in the head. That other rider must have been from out of town because I didn't recognize him. He got off of his horse and stumbled toward the end of the pen, and just as soon as he left the pen they all started after that ball again. I had never seen so many crazy people in my life.

Others that I saw participating in this barbaric ritual that I could distinguish were Benny Minor, Rudy Minor, Robby Robinson, Duaine Davis, A. P. Smith, Anson Martin, L. J. Mueller, and Willis Cumbie. R. R. Duck was even encouraging the whole thing, and gave them pep talks.

When the dust had cleared, someone told me that it was a game called Cowboy Polo, but I swear it was a cover up for a gang fight.

Recently I participated in the Texas Christian University Sports News Poll by picking the order in which I felt the Southwest Conference would end up in December. Here is what I picked as opposed to the final tabulations.

News Poll	Mine
Texas	Texas
Arkansas	Arkansas
Baylor	Texas Tech
Texas Tech	Baylor
Rice	TCU
TCU	SMU
SMU	Rice
Texas A&M	Texas A&M

There were some 177 press-radio-TV represenatives who participated in the pre-season poll. 71 men picked Texas as the number 1 team to beat in 1965.

The defending champion Arkansas was picked to finish second in what should be a much improved league from top to bottom than was presented last year. Neither Arkansas nor Texas have the depth that was a blessing to the two clubs last year, yet the front eleven men should make these two teams an easy favorite. Weaknesses are hard to find in the number one lineups of these two foes.

It is generally conceded by the poll that Baylor and Texas Tech are the only two other schools that might land in high cotton come January 1. Both should show marked improvement over last year.

All in all, it could prove to be an interesting race; are you brave enough to look at the facts and pick the right order?

Clark Out For World Title In Grand Prix

ADENAU, Germany (AP) — Scotland's Jimmy Clark, who needs only one more victory to capture the 1965 world driving title, has the pole position for Sunday's Grand Prix of Germany as the result of a record-shattering trial Friday.

The Flying Scot was clocked at 102.1 miles per hour over the 17.7 mile course, breaking the record of 98.31 m.p.h. set by Britain's John Surtees last year.

Local Girls Take TAAF Relay Victory

Snyder's girl 220 yard relay team placed second in the TAAF Track Meet in Denton, Texas Friday night.

The team is composed of Lisa Graham, Cynthia Schiebel, Hollye Crenshaw, and Jacque Stehley.

Lubbock won the event with Snyder coming in second. The times were not available.

Tulsa Ends Jinx With El Paso Win

By The Associated Press

Tulsa broke a four-game losing streak Friday night with a 6-1 victory over El Paso and it not only stopped a spiral downward but permitted the Oilers to inch up on leading Dallas-Fort Worth in the Eastern Division of the Texas League.

Dallas-Fort Worth split a double-header with Albuquerque as an eight-game winning skein was snapped.

Albuquerque won the first game 8-2, scoring seven runs in the third inning, but Dallas-Fort Worth took the nightcap 3-1 behind Charley Hartenstein's three-hitter.

Don Young of Dallas-Fort Worth clouted two homers in each game. His hitting was the difference in the second contest.

Dallas-Fort Worth now leads Tulsa by three games. The Oilers gained a halfgame Friday night when they got maximum mileage out of six hits in trimming El Paso.

There was a rhubarb in the fifth inning when Manager Chuck Tanner of El Paso protested over an umpire's ruling involving a double play. Tanner claimed the umpire had given a "no catch" sign on a fly ball that permitted runners to advance.

Billy Wolff was ruled to have made the catch and threw to first to double off another runner but Tanner said it should not have been allowed.

Albuquerque increased its lead in the Western Division to 13 games over Amarillo, which took a 1-0 licking from Austin.

Amarillo had gone through four consecutive shutouts and it tied a Texas League record. Amarillo also went through 39 straight scoreless innings, just four under the league record of 43 set by Beaumont in 1955.

Butler Powell hit a home run and Ken Nixon pitched a seven-hitter in giving Austin the victory.

Tonight Tulsa again is at El Paso, Dallas-Fort Worth at Albuquerque and Amarillo at Austin.

The Braves beat the Mets eight times in nine games in Milwaukee in 1964.

Some Vacations Are Remembered

By ED SULLIVAN
For The Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — Inevitably, when Cytnhia Lowry told me she was going off on her vacation, I started thinking about some vacations which remain in my memory.

For instance, there was that first trip to Europe in 1936, aboard the Ile de France. As added ecitement, while the Ile was plowing through the Atlantic, Broadway night club star Harry Richman and airline pilot Dick Merrill were making their transatlantic hop in a small plane. The radio operators aboard the French liner gave us bulletins on the flight, but not until we disembarked in Southampton did we learn that the Americans had run out of fuel, forcing Merrill to crash land along the Welsh coast.

So, as a newspaperman, I proposed to Mrs. Sullivan that we drive down to Wales and file the follow-up stories to my paper, the New York News. We arrived at Llandilo, Wales, about 6:00 a.m. Hotels in these small towns locked up at night and didn't open until 8:00 a.m. so, we dozed in the car outside the hotel until the town was stirring. Then Richman and Merrill took us out to the little field in which Merrill, with incredible skill, had landed.

Despite the fact that the tiny field was enclosed by a stone wall about three feet high, Merrill managed to get the plane aloft and flew it to the old Croydon Airport, outside of London.

Years later, when Welshman Richard Burton made his television debut on our stage with Julie Andrews and Robert Goulet, I told him of our experience at Llandilo and the thrill we had when the entire population of the little town, with mothers holding babies in their arms, sang Welsh songs of farewell to Merrill and Richman as they prepared to fly away. Burton, Tom Jones and the Royal Welsh Choir all are great singers. "I don't know why," said Burton, "but probably it's because Welsh kids start singing when we are just little tots and we have fine voice teachers."

Another vacation trip was our 1937 voyage to Europe aboard the ill-fated S.S. Normandie. Jack and Mary Benny went along with us and, at the last moment, radio's Baron Munchausen — Jack Pearl — and his wife Winnie joined the party. Marlene Dietrich was also a passenger, as were the Russian fliers who had first flown across the North Pole.

Bastille Day, July 14, fell while we were steaming to Europe and we decided to put on a show as an American tribute to the French. Somebody arranged a mid-Atlantic ship-to-shore broadcast of the star-studded show which also featured the piano playing of Cole Porter. But to this day, I've never met anybody who heard any part of the broadcast.

Then there was our 1959 trip to Moscow and Leningrad, suggested by Washington. The Russian artists gave us a thrilling party on our first night in Moscow, proving there's no business like show business. Not long ago when we had Royal Ballet stars Margot Fonteyn and Rudolph Nureyev on our stage, he said to me after the rehearsal, "You don't remember me". It suddenly dawned on me that the meeting must have been in Moscow, and he confirmed it.

We played to 250,000 Russians outdoors, in Leningrad and in Moscow's Gorky Park of Culture and Rest.

The Russian audiences were incredibly gracious, thundering their applause of our American performers, proving that the people of countries have no difficulty in getting along together. Only the politicians can't reach agreement.

For instance, one night during our performance in Moscow I told the audience — through my interpreter — that sitting with them in the stadium were a group of famed American doctors. I asked the interpreter to explain to the Russians that these doctors were in their country to confer with the great Russian doctors in a mutual undertaking to benefit all people.

The entire audience rose and cheered the American doctors for five minutes. And because Russians also bring small bouquets of flowers to a threater, the air was filled with hundreds of these tiny bouquets, arching through the air as a tribute to the Americans.

Eastwood Rides Crest In Italy

By DORIS KLEIN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Who is this man Clint Eastwood?" Sophia Loren asked a friend a few months ago. "He's the biggest male star in Italy and I've never met him."

When the friend told the unknown star of the "Rawhide" television series, Eastwood grinned and said: "That's news to me. But if the lady wants to meet me, I'd sure enjoy meeting her."

Now just back from his second trip to Italy, Clint has found out what Sophia was talking about.

"The first time I went to Italy, I just sneaked in," said Clint. "I had a beard, but it didn't matter. Nobody knew me anyway. And no one paid me any attention.

"But this time, I was mobbed. I'd walk down the Via Vento and people would come up and ask for my autograph. I was wined and dined and treated like a king."

The difference, says Clint, is a movie he made in Spain for an Italian company. The film, "For a Fistful of Dollars," has been shown in Europe, but hasn't been released yet in the United States.

"I was heading for the annual between-season layoff of 'Rawhide' last year, when my agent sent me this script," said Clint. "I told him on the phone I wasn't interested. I wanted to work on my golf game.

"But then he said, 'Look, it would give you a chance to go to Europe.' I'd never been to Europe, so I said, okay, I'd read the script.

"The minute I read it I liked it."

The story is an offbeat western, set in Mexico.

Two-Car Mishap Is Logged In City

The Snyder Police Department investigated a two-car mishap at 7:22 p.m. Friday at Avenue S and Thirty - ninth Street.

A 1951 Ford driven by Reed Alson Robinson and a 1965 Oldsmobile driven by Danny Ray Lunsford were involved in the accident.

An estimated $175 in damages was reported to the Ford and about $300 in damages to the Oldsmobile.

There were no injuries.

Alimony Adds To Robards' Energy

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There is a glint of honesty in the acting of Jason Robards, and that quality has helped make him the top dramatic actor of the American stage.

His honesty is no artifice of acting skill. Offstage, the lanky, leather-faced Robards is as candid as a sandhog. He harbors no illusions and promotes none. The reason is that he has been around.

Jason Robards Sr. was a film star, and his son was subjected to the disillusioning sight of a star's descent from fame. Young Jason had no yen for acting, went to Hollywood High School at the same time as Lana Turner and shipped out in the Navy. He landed in New York after the war, tried his hand at soap operas, then climbed his way in the theater from "The Iceman Cometh" to "After the Fall."

He's here now for one of his rare movie roles, appearing with Henry Fonda and Joanne Woodward in "A Big Hand for the Little Lady." Why is he doing the film?

"Alimony," he said simply. "Same reason I just did a Chrysler Theater TV show. I came out here for a vacation with Betty (Lauren Bacall) and the kids, and I've worked every day."

He and his wife have a son, Sam, and she also has two children by Humphrey Bogart. Robards has children by a previous marriage, which explains the matter of the alimony.

The actor was not what you'd call bullish about his film career. I mentioned a few titles and drew these reactions: "By Love Possessed" — "That Turkey;" "Tender Is the Night" — "Another Turkey;" "Act One" — "A Disaster," "Long Day's Journey into Night" — "A Filmed Stage Play."

But he did take a kinder attitude toward his unreleased "A Thousand Clowns."

"I think we realized some things that were not in the play," he commented. "It was made with a great deal of care. We shot off and on for a year. I think it came off. At least some people seem to think so. Hell, I've never had so much attention from movie people. I'm getting calls from people like Billy Wilder, whom I've never heard from before."

The calls are in vain, at least for the present. As soon as he finishes the film, he goes East to begin rehearsals for "The Devils," a European play which he said is the best script he has read in years.

But he gave an indication there might be more films in his future.

MELODIE JOHNSON—Starlet Melodie Johnson, who has been in acting business only a few months but is sought after by movie and TV producers, poses during a break in filming of a television show. Melodie was discovered the Lana Turner way, that is she was spotted by an agent and told she ought to be in pictures. (AP Wirephoto)

Suspect In Slaying Of Coed Sought

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Police searched today for a young Negro seen fleeing from a botanical garden on the University of North Carolina campus where a pretty coed was stabbed to death.

Miss Anne Evans, a serious home economics student, was stabbed once in the heart and once in the neck Friday. She died in a hospital a short while before she could identify her assailant.

Miss Evans was killed just four hours before she was to board a bus to Mooresville, N.C., for a weekend visit with her parents.

The victim died as two nuns and two coeds from a nearby dormitory rushed to her assistance. Her last words were a whispered "I feel faint."

Police said a janitor at the university said he had seen the Negro run from the murder area and said he could identify him if he saw the man.

Officers said an autopsy showed Miss Evans had not been raped.

Chief of Police W.D. Blake said the coeds and nuns had heard the girl's screams for help. The four ran into the shady arboretum.

"They told me they saw a dark arm, either a foreigner or a Negro, in where the girl was screaming," said Blake.

"She got up and ran toward the coeds and nuns. Then she fell."

One of the sisters tried to revive her with artificial respiration, Blake said.

Miss Evans apparently had used the deserted garden paths as a shortcut from her sociology class to her dormitory.

The arboretum is almost in the center of the sprawling campus. It contains 5 acres of pines, flowers and grapevines.

Suellen left her home near Mooresville two weeks ago to enroll at the university.

The ladies of Edenton, N.C. made history by staging a feminine Revolutionary Tea Party on Oct. 25, 1774. The location on Courthouse Green is marked with a bronze teapot.

Miss Wallace, Mr. Alexander Exchange Double Ring Vows In Baptist Church

Miss Judith Gay Wallace and Mr. Richard Marvin Alexander were united in marriage at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, July 31st in the First Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wallace of 2911 Avenue V, Snyder; Mr. Alexander is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Alexander, Jr., of Fort Worth.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Reverend T. Gerald Cates, pastor of the Highland Park Baptist Church of Abilene. Bouquets of gladiolus, daisies and greenery provided the graceful setting for the ceremony.

The organist was Miss Mary Bowlin of Snyder. Mrs. Stanley Norsworthy of Vernon sang "One Hand, One Heart" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown of candelight peau de soie was made by her maternal grandmother Mrs. J. W. Arnold of Dallas. The gown was enhanced by a chantilly lace jacket with elbow length sleeves. The skirt of the gown flared slightly at the waist. The chapel length train fell from a slender bow below the corded waist. Her shoulder length veil of candlelight illusion was topped with a tiara of delicate seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of spider mums and stephanotis centered with gardenias.

Miss Marsha Mankin of Bossier City, Louisana was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Susan Alexander of Fort Worth, sister of the groom; and Mrs. Jimmy B. Melton of Snyder. The bride's attendants wore street length two - piece dresses of cobalt blue crepe. A soft ruffle enhanced the neckline of the sleeveless bodice. They wore cobalt blue bows with matching veils and wrist-length white gloves. They carried three long stemmed yellow roses.

Mr. Joe C. Harrison, Jr., of Fort Worth served as the groom's best man. Groomsmen were Mr. Thomas R. Seely of Dallas and Mr. Harold Cook of Fort Worth. Ushers were Mr. Michael E. Alexander of Fort Worth, brother of the groom, and Mr. Tommy LaRoux of Snyder.

Master Shaun Wallace, of Aspermont, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. Miss Angelia Wallace, also of Aspermont, niece of the bride, distributed the traditional rice bags to the wedding guests at the reception.

The reception was held at the church. The bride's serving table was laid with a skirt of white net underlaid with a white satin cloth. The table held the crystal punchbowl and the three tiered wedding cake topped with wedding bells. The wedding candle surrounded by English ivy served as the center piece.

Mrs. Arnold Wallace of Aspermont, sister-in-law of the bride, presided at the bride's book. Members of the houseparty were Mrs. Thomas R. Seely of Dallas, Miss Linda Gayle Miller and Mrs. John Carroll of Snyder, Miss Lynda Casey of Lubbock, and Mrs. David Wiman of Abilene.

The bride graduated from Snyder High School. She received her Bachelor of Arts Degree in Elementary Education from Baylor University in May. She was a member of Phi Beta Mu, a social - service club. The groom is a graduate of Arlington Heights High School in Fort Worth and received his Bachelor of Science Degree in Mechanical Engineering from A&M University this spring. He is a member of Tau Beta Pi, Pi Tau Sigma and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. He will begin working on his Master's Degree in Mechanical Engineering this fall at A&M.

The month of August the couple will be in Fort Worth. In September they will make their home in College Station until August, 1966, when Mr. Alexander will complete work on his Master's Degree.

B. Childress, C. Henigan Marriage

In a double ring ceremony performed Friday July 23, Miss Betty Childress became the bride of Charles Henigan.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Childress of Snyder. The groom is the son of Mr. J. L. Henigan of Alvin.

The wedding was soleminized in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Golden of Canyon.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Nancy Hollis of Snyder. Miss Hollis was attired in a pink suit of linen with matching accessories.

Serving as best man was Lee Roy Childress, brother of the bride.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a two piece dress of white linen and lace. She wore a white rose corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home.

The couple are at home in Fort Hanchuca, Arizona, where the groom is stationed with the U. S. Army.

Pork Chops Team With Orange

Bruised pork chops take on new dimension when they're served with rice to which some grated orange rind has been added. Try this to dress up the rice, even more, some raisins, sugar and cinnamon may also be added to it.

When you are making potato salad using small new waxy potatoes, you can usually count on three pounds of the vegetable serving nine persons.

ON THE HOUSE

Wood siding continues to hold its head high as a favorite exterior house material despite the inroads made by many other products.

There are many persons who feel that wood siding has no equal for giving a home a feeling of warmth and security. It is significant, for example, that many architects who specify stone, brick or some other material on the outside of a house will often blend it with clapboard, board - and - batten siding or one of the many other varieties and patterns of wood that are available.

Wood siding can be finished in an almost endless number of ways to get desired effects. There are natural finishes, some of which do not hide the grain texture and modify the color of the wood only slightly; some of which are actually bleaches and turn the wood to the color of driftwood; and some of which, mostly in the linseed oil family, permit the grain to show but darken the wood. There are stains of various kinds; those heavily pigmented are more durable; those lighter - bodied show more grain texture. And, of course, there are literally dozens of varied paints — oils, alkyd resins, latexes, etc.

All sorts of opinions have been advanced on how often a house with wood siding should be painted. The Department of Agriculture, which has done much research on paints and their relation to wood, says that a good white paint should give four to five years' service, a tinted paint five to six years, and a good dark - color paint six to eight years.

When paint wears normally at about the rate given above, it is likely to cause far less trouble to the home owner than paint which might cling longer. In the latter case, repainting may be attempted before it actually is necessary, causing the building up of a thickness which eventually will have to be removed at considerable expense. The basic rule is to repaint after most of the old paint film has weathered away. Too - frequent rather than too-seldom repainting is the culprit.

Stains are especially interesting on rough - sawn or weathered wood surfaces. Because they penetrate the wood, they are not likely to cause future flaking or scaling. Also, they are fairly inexpensive. But some thought should be given to whether the house might be painted at some time in the future. Many stained surfaces require special treatments to keep them from bleeding through paints, especially through light tones.

QUESTION: Every year or two, I have to clean out the U-trap underneath out kitchen sink. It gets clogged up and prevents the water from going through, causing water to accumulate in the sink. I cannot understand why the trap is there. If the pipe underneath the sink went straight down to the basement and into the large soil pipe, wouldn't there be less chance of clogging?

ANSWER: Yes, there would. But you might not be around to know about it. The U-trap is designed so that there always will be water in it. This water prevents sewer gases from backing up into the house. These gases are toxic and sometimes inflammable. That is why, when it is necessary for any reason to drain the water from the pipes, that some water be kept in the traps.

In areas where the draining is done to prevent freezing when a house is unoccupied, all the water is first drained, then the traps are filled with kerosene or some other nonfreezing material which will act as a gas seal. Incidentally, when the trap under the kitchen sink gets clogged every year or so, it usually means that somebody is permitting nonliquid substances to go down the drain instead of removing them from the sink. Such substances include coffee grounds, small pieces of vegetables, lint from wash cloths, etc. Heavy grease also can coat the walls of the trap and cause trouble. When such grease cannot effectively be prevented from entering the drain, it's a good idea to turn on the hot water for a few minutes to flush away the grease before it has a chance to settle in the trap.

Fun Mixed With Stamps At Old PO

MY APPOINTED ROUND. By J. Edward Day.

Day's very funny memoir is about his experiences as Postmaster General in the Kennedy administration:

It's a lively mixture of politics and government business, filled with anecdotes, jokes and quips, but in addition there are some interesting observations on serious matters.

The author relates his headaches over commemorative stamps, Post Office dedications and the perils of automation, as well as some of the day-to-day workings of the nation's largest enterprise.

He pokes mild fun at the party circuit, the rumor mills and the protocol of Washington, and tells how it is for a business man (insurance, in his case) to be a Democrat.

Part of the Postmaster General's job is to travel, and Day tells how he often combined political speeches and official appearances on the same trip, in the midst of what he calls "motorcade madness."

He concludes with some advice for people entering public life; and some personal impressions of the Kennedy - Johnson team.

Day has had a great deal of experience as an after - dinner speaker, and judging from what he has put into his book, he must be quite a wow at charming his audiences.

Rotisserie Bologna Roast

If desired, a whole bologna may be roasted on the rotisserie unit of the out-of-doors grill. Make certain the casing is removed first. Insert the rotisserie rod through the center of the bologna. Brush with barbecue sauce. Roast over coals which have been allowed to burn down to a fine gray ash. This will give a moderate temperature (350 degrees F.) A 7 to 9 pound bologna will be heated through in approximately 45 minutes. 30 servings.

To serve, slice bologna in pieces of the desired thickness. Place on warm or toasted buns. Serve with additional barbecue sauce, if desired. It will take about ½ cup barbecue sauce for brushing-on.

Women Will Invade New Canada Exchange Floor

MONTREAL (AP) — Women will invade the trading floor of the Montreal Stock Exchange for the first time come October.

Oddly enough, automation is responsible for the fall of one of the last of the male bastions. When the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges move into Montreal's new skyscraper place Victoria, 16 women will replace the "chalk boys" — the men who write the bids of the traders on chalk boards.

But instead of chalk boards, the women will use the newly-designed machines that handle the details of trading, transfer them immediately to a board and at the same time show them on television in broker's offices.

As console operators, the women will have to learn to be speedy on computer buttons, and to operate coolly amid the din. Like the chalk boys, they will learn to identify the voices of the various traders without looking up.

Nancy Horne, methods analyst, now is training six women for the job. The course includes classroom work on stock exchange methods and terminology as well as practical experience on the floor. Ten additional women will be trained before the fall.

The console operators will work from 9:30 to 3:45 p.m. daily, and in hiring Miss Horne says she is looking for "older, mature women who appreciate these hours."

"We don't want a big turnover in staff because the training period is too long to allow it," she says.

July—Hot Dog!

How are you celebrating this month, which stars frankfurters? One easy way to do it is to feature these favorites for a quick lunch or supper: slit 6 frankfurters almost through and 6 frankfurter buns. Place buns, cut side up, topped with slit frankfurters in a 12x9-inch baking pan. Combine 1 can (15 ounces) chili with ¼ cup chopped onion and spoon over the frankfurters. Sprinkle with 1-3 cup grated Cheddar cheese. Bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees F.) 10 to 12 minutes. 4 to 6 servings.

MRS. RAYMOND F. WILLIAMS, JR.

Miss Malik, Mr. Williams Wed In Austin Ceremony

AUSTIN — Miss Judith Ann Malik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Malik, 6107 Bull Creek Road, became the bride of Raymond Fred Williams, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Williams of Snyder, Saturday morning in St. Louis Catholic Church. Monsignor Edward Malocha performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a sheath gown of peau de soil with an over bodice of lace. Her finger tip veil was held by a crown of seed pearls and crystals. Her wedding bouquet was flown in from Honolulu, a gift from a friend of the groom.

Miss Pat Munson was maid of honor and the grooms sister Elizabeth Ann Williams was bridesmaid. They wore blue organza dresses and carried white carnations. Craig Carrell was best man and Doyle Wheeler was groomsman. Donald Malik and Dennis Malik, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's Academy and received her BA degree from the University of Texas. The groom graduated from Snyder High School and received his BA degree in math and political science from the University of Texas.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the parish hall. A luncheon followed at the Terrace Summer House.

The couple plan to make their home in Sunnyvale, California where Mr. Williams will be employed by Lockheed as an associate engineer.

Out of town guests were from Killeen, San Antonio, Amarillo Snyder and Dallas.

Miss Judith Ann Malik bride of Raymond Fred Williams, Jr. was honored by her classmates with a linen shower given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Morris Stevens. Hostesses for the party were Miss Nancy Stevens, Miss Mary Ann Acevdeo and Miss Theresa Roberto.

Mrs. Johnny Munson and daughter Patricia honored Miss Malik with a miscellaneous shower at their home. Mrs. Raymond F. Williams and Miss Elizabeth Ann Williams, mother and sister of the groom came from Snyder to attend the shower. Mrs. Anthony Hraback and Pat Hraback, aunt and cousin of the bride, from Cleveland, Ohio also attended the shower.

The grooms parents hosted the rehearsal dinner in the Pagoda room at the Terrace Summer House.

Ramage Is Center Of Adventure

RAMAGE. By Dudley Pope.

The year is 1796, and young Nicholas Ramage is a junior lieutenant in His Majesty's frigate Sibella, in the Tyrrhenian Sea.

Unfortunately, the Sibella is caught and shattered by one of Napoleon's battleships. Ramage finds himself the senior surviving officer. By an ingenious [illegible] manages to get himself and the remaining able-bodied members of the crew into some small boats for an escape.

His next problem is to carry out the frigate's original mission, to smuggle several Italian leaders — friendly to the English cause — off the nearby coast of Tuscany and get them to safety.

It just happens that one of the Italians is the Marchesa di Volterra. Not the mature Marchesa he had once known in his boyhood, but her daughter, young and beautiful.

So with only one small boat remaining under his command, Ramage engages in a fine cloak - and - sheath - knife foray ashore, to establish contact. Then as a French patrol arrives, there is a pistol-and-cutlass fight and a flight into the night. But the Marchesa is wounded, and Ramage has to kidnap a doctor to attend her.

Even after the young lieutenant carefully steers toward another English frigate and completes his mission, he has to face a prejudiced naval court to explain all that has happened.

The novel is well written, but toward the end the dizzying detail of nautical expertise and sail - handling becomes a little overpowering.

Readers who find this to be one of the better type sea-fight novels (Hornblower style) will be encouraged to learn that Pope plans to write more stories about Ramage.

Sue Sorrells, Lou Mathis Win County Dress Revue

The Annual Scurry County 4-H Dress Revue was held recently in the Lamar Junior High Auditorium.

Twenty-one girls from almost every area of the county modeled garments they had made as a result of 4-H work.

The most prominent designs were shifts, Bermuda shorts, dresses and other garments were also included.

Girls modeling and the ribbons received were as follows:

Intermediate Division: Lou Alice Mathis — blue, Dolores Schwarz — blue, Elaine McArthur — blue, Shirley Stirl — blue, Judy Tate — red, June Stansell — red, Carla Shoemaker — white, Gina Beaver — white and Martha Stephens — white.

Senior Division: Sue Sorrells — blue, and Linda Wiggins, red.

The winner of the senior division was Sue Sorrells, Ira 4-H Club member, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Sorrells of Ira. Her alternate is Linda Wiggins, also of Ira 4-H Club, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Welden Wiggins. Mrs. Wiggins is the adult leader for the Ira 4-H Club. Sue will represent Scurry County 4-H Clubs in the senior division of the District Dress Revue in Lubbock.

Lou Alice Mathis was winner of the intermediate division. A member of the Union 4-H Club, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Mathis of Union Community. Lou Alice will represent Scurry County in the junior division of the District Dress Revue. Alternate in the intermediate division was Dolores Schwarz of Pyle 4-H Club. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schwarz of Inadale Community.

Any 4-H girl could enter 3 articles for exhibit. It was suggested that the articles relate to their clothing work in some way. Most of the exhibits were articles of clothing. Some were crafts and some were household articles.

Girls entering exhibits and the ribbons received are listed below:

Junior Division: Rebecca Huddleston — 1 blue, Gwen Calley — 2 blue - 1 red, Wilma Stirl — [illegible] Judy Bollinger — 2 red, Renetta Jordan — 1 red - 1 white, Barbra Tate — 2 blue - 1 red, Tertye Butts — 2 blue - [illegible] and Elaine McArthur — 1 red.

Intermediate: [illegible] Tate — 2 blue - 1 red, Shirley Stirl — 1 blue - 2 red, Sharon Pieper — [illegible] Mathis — 2 blue - 1 red, Dolores Schwarz — 2 blue - 1 red and Martha Stephens — 1 white.

Senior Division: Freda Pitts — 1 white, Linda Wiggins — 1 blue - 1 white, Sue Sorrells — [illegible] blue - 2 white and Kathryn Helm — 2 red - 1 white.

Debra Fikes and Rosemary Fisk, members of Snyder Sr. 4-H Club, assisted by Mrs. E. L. Fikes, decorated the stage and prepared it for the dress revue. Debra was narrator for the Dress Revue and Brenda House of Ira 4-H Club presented the ribbons and score cards.

Judges on construction were Mrs. Dan Martin, Mrs. Doug Flynn, Mrs. Carman McCown and Miss Elizabeth Williams. They were assisted by Marie Gray and Judy Mixon, students of homemaking in Snyder High School.

Judges of the garments on the girls were Miss Idalia Wood, County Home Demonstration Agent from Colorado City and Mrs. Billie Carr, County Home Demonstration Agent from Tahoka.

Miss Koonce Gets Grant

WICHITA FALLS — Miss Connie Koonce, a senior elementary education major in Midwestern University, has received the Recruitment Grant for 1965-66 from Zeta Sigma chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Koonce, Snyder.

Zeta Sigma chapter makes an annual Recruit Grant to a student in MSU who has shown a determination to enter the teaching profession. The student is chosen from a list recommended by the University's education department.

Miss Koonce has made the Dean's Honor Roll and the University Honor Roll. She lives in Killingsworth Hall and is a member of Interdormitory Council, American Childhood Education Association and Young Republicans.

Mrs. R. D. Huston is chairman of the committee on professional affairs which selected the scholarship recipient.

Spotting Space Easy For Adding A New Bathroom

If you spot the right space, installing a new bath or powder room can be easy.

This type of expansion project has become one of the most popular in home improvements, but many homeowners are slow to take the step because they don't think they have the space.

Many homes already have the space, says the Tile Council of America, trade association of domestic manufacturers. An end of a long hall, a closet under the stairs, a large corner or the corner of a bedroom will frequently provide the necessary space for a second or third bath or powder room.

Here are some points to keep in mind:

1. On floors and walls use waterproof materials such as ceramic tile. Stainproof ceramic tile can be used on countertops, too. You get a decorative bonus with ceramic tile, since it is available in a wide range of colors and patterns.

2. Whenever possible locate the bath near existing plumbing — this will substantially lower the cost.

3. A built-in dressing table will increase the efficiency and usefulness of a new bath, and if space permits, divide the three basic fixtures into compartments for more privacy.

What's in a sandwich? Some of the most interesting demand on delightful variety breads. Check your bakery or grocery store and you'll be amazed at the choice of different kinds on display. For example, choose pumpernickel, Swedish limpa, rye, Vienna or Kaiser rolls; cinnamon, raisin, oatmeal or cheese bread. MRS. KENNETH RUSHE WINK

Pylant, Wink Wedding Vows Solemnized In Fluvanna Baptist Church Saturday

The Fluvanna Baptist Church was the setting for the marriage of Betty Juanell Pylant of Fluvanna and Mr. Kenneth Rushe Wink of Spur on Saturday evening July 31st. at 8 o'clock. Brother Thomas Hall, pastor, officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Dee Pylant of Fluvanna and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie E. Wink of Robert Lee.

Vows were exchanged before an arch of greenery holding white tapers, flanked on each side by baskets of white gladiolus, China muins and candelabras.

Traditional wedding music was rendered by Miss Margaret Smith of Lubbock. Mrs. Jackie Dee Pylant sang "I Love You Truly," "Because", and "The Wedding Prayer".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a slender full-length sheath of white beau ganza featuring a bateau neckline and long fitted sleeves that formed a focal point over the hands. Pearl encrusted re-embroidered Alencon lace enhanced the fitted bodice and cascaded down the sides of the narrow skirt. The lace and pearl motif was repeated in a scatter of design of her detachable cathedral length train. A circlette of Alencon lace flowers and pearls held her bouffant veil of silk illusion. She carried a white Bible holding a cascade bouquet of Frenched white mums, stephanotis, English ivy leaves and centered with a white Cattleyas orchid.

Mrs Connie Mac Seymore of Merkel was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. George James of Hobbs, N.M., Miss Linda Kay Wink of San Angelo, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Gene Ingle of Tahoka. They wore matching floor - length gowns of bridal taffeta and chiffon fashioned in tones of hot pink and candy pink. Roses accented the empire waistlines. They carried bouquets of Happiness roses. Headpieces were matching flat bows with butterfly veils.

Miss Vicky Gartman of Robert Lee, niece of the groom was flower girl. She wore a street-length dress of hot pink bridal taffeta and chiffon accented with roses at the waistline and carried a white lace basket filled with rose petals.

Jerrel Dee Pylant, nephew of the bride was ring bearer.

Mr. Milburn Wink of Hamlin attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Mr. Rex Pylant of Fluvanna brother of the bride, and Mr. Donald Joe May of Alamogordo, N. M. Ushers and candlelighters were Mr. Robert Wink of Robert Lee, brother of the groom, Mr. Dennis Gartman of Robert Lee, nephew of the groom, and Mr. Douglas Coonrod of Hermleigh, cousin of the bride.

The Fluvanna community center was the scene of the reception. The serving table overlaid with a candy pink taffeta and hot pink net cloth, held the white and pink thee tiered cake and crystal punch bowl. A crystal bowl holding an arrangement of white carnations and pom poms adorned the center.

Mrs. Bud Coonrod, aunt of the bride, of Hermleigh, presided over the cake, with Mrs. Billy Pylant, sister-in-law of the bride, ladeling punch. Other members of the house party were Mrs. Jeff Martin and Mrs. Don Wills of Fluvanna, and Mrs. Bob Reaves of Mason, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Joneil Smallwood of Snyder, registered guests.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner Friday.

For her wedding trip to Colorado State and Dallas, the bride chose a two piece navy blue and white knit suit, white gloves and navy accessories. She wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will make their home at 401 West Second, Spur, Tex.

The bride is a graduate of Fluvanna High School and Texas Tech, receiving her BS degree in Home Economics in 1964. The groom is a graduate of Robert Lee High School and Texas Tech, receiving his BS degree in Agriculture in 1964. He is an agriculture teacher in Spur.

Out of town guests were from Robert Lee, San Angelo, Tahoka, Dallas, Fort Worth, Lubbock, Hamlin, Mason, Hermleigh, Spur and Merkel, Texas, and Hobbs and Alamogordo, New Mexico.

4-H Girls Records Judged

Twenty-nine 4-H girls entered record books in their annual records contest last week.

A 4H record book makes interesting reading, and becomes a prized possession. Hours of work go into compiling a good 4H record book.

Important parts of a record book are the record forms in food, clothing, bedroom improvement, and other projects and a nation-wide "Standard Report Form" which contains a very condensed report of the 4-H'ers activities.

Supporting evidence required in a 4-H record book includes news clippings about their 4-H work, snapshots that help to tell the story of their accomplishments, and essays telling of their 4-H experiences.

Library Notes

Photography, whether entered into as a hobby or as a profession, can be very gratifying to the camera worker. When the camera bug bites, it sent its venom is more potent than that of most hobby vermin. Scurry County Library has books by renowned photographers to whet the amateur and the professional, as well as books of more and shop photography to please the artistic sensibilities of those having sheer fright.

Every photographer, whether beginner, advanced amateur or professional sooner or later runs into "posers" that demand on-the-spot answers. Improvements are constantly being made in cameras, developers, films, shutters, contrast control, exposure, filters, flash, strobe and in developing and printing and enlarging techniques.

All things change, but none more than photography. The library subscribes regularly to the periodical, "Popular Photography," to aid local camera enthusiasts in keeping pace with changes. Though much of the new equipment is automatic, there is need for basic knowledge for making the right choice of film and lighting and for mastering difficulties as they may arise.

One of the great photographers of all time, Mathew Brady, had a sense of history unequaled by any other cameraman. Very early in the era of photography he recognized the importance of the picture as a document, and his career was that of historian as well as picture maker. Brady is most famous for his Civil War pictures. Beginning almost with the invention of photography in 1839, the farmboy from the frontier became America's photographer. James D. Horan has compiled over 500 illustrations of Brady's work, and gives glimpses into the life of the famed photographer in his book, "Mathew Brady, Historian with a Camera."

John Durinak's book "100 Camera projects for Fun and Profit," is written for everyone who owns and enjoys a camera of any size. For the amateur it provides a real opportunity to learn quickly by doing; for the advanced photographer this book furnishes a real guide to the shortcuts and techniques that increase the camera's earning power. Picture - taking is always fun, but what to do with pictures after they come from the darkroom is often the problem. Durniak gives ways to make clever use of favorite shots. He shows, among other things, how to use pictures to decorate lamp shades, lamp bases and coffee tables and reveals many closely guarded professional secrets in making of photographs, exaggerated mirror pictures, strange reflections, and other "what" effects.

[illegible] responsible before coming the book "The Daguerreotype in America." The book contains, besides [illegible] numerous biographical sketches of 121 of America's pioneer photographers, from Dan Adams of Tennessee to Anthony Zilky of New York. Eighty-three illustrations are reproduced in brilliant halftones, and the book is embellished with line cuts of the period depicting the history of the earliest days of photography.

Although improvements are being made constantly in photographic equipment the eye and the heart of the photographer are still the same, and a box camera with ordinary film can still make great pictures if the artist sees clearly and presses the button at the decisive moment. Cameras are for everyone to enjoy regardless of the camera size or cost.

The library boasts the world in photographs. Some of the most exciting photography, however, is to be found in the publication, "Arizona Highways," subscribed to by the library and available to all Scurry Countians. This periodical carries by-lines of many of today's best photographers.

Photography is more than a means of recording the obvious. It is a way of feeling, of touching, of loving. What is caught on a film is captured forever, whether it be a face or a flower, a place or a thing, a day or a moment. Whether one is a camera enthusiast or one who loves beauty for beauty's sake, the library invites all Scurry County residents to avail themselves of the wealth of helpful information and pure enjoyment to be found in leafing through the large collection of beautiful books of reproductions of photographs.

Lamb Kidneys Supreme

4 slices bacon
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 can (2 ounces) sliced mushrooms
1 beef bouillon cube
¼ teaspoon prepared mustard
1 cup dairy sour cream

Remove fat and membrane from kidneys. Cut, lengthwise, in half. Cook bacon until crisp. Remove bacon and break into pieces. Combine flour, salt and pepper. Dredge kidneys in seasoned flour. Brown slowly in bacon drippings. Pour off drippings. Add mushrooms, mushroom liquid and bouillon cube. Cover tightly and simmer 20 minutes. Mix together mustard and sour cream and add to kidneys, stirring until just heated through. Serve on a heated platter and sprinkle with bacon pieces. 4 servings.

African Wives Face The Dishes

By DENNIS LOU BOYLE

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — For housewives in the world's most — with, as one put it, the White Madonnas of South Africa [illegible] in the sink, an unmade bed, the remnants of last night's dinner party and a mountain of ironing about, maybe with her dog and baby.

After a drive downtown, coffee with friends, a game of tennis, bridge or golf she returns to find her home spotlessly clean.

It's a way of life in South Africa where Black servants come cheaply and still refer to their employers as "Baas" and "Master."

Some large White families, who vie with the Jonesses in the servant stakes, have as many as five or six servants, including a chauffeur, garden boy, cook, and nannie.

Dishes in Sink

But a new South African law which came into effect July this year can change all this. Many South African housewives may find themselves making the beds and washing up for the first time in their lives.

In future a White householder or flat dweller will be able to accommodate more than one servant on the premises without obtaining special permission from the local authorities. In some areas authorities may refuse even a single servant to live-in on White premises.

Many view the South African government's new one-servant law as a step to oust Black servants from the major cities. The idea is that the cities become as near as possible — White by night.

Homewar Bound

For many of Johannesburg's 70,000 domestic Black servants, who for years have lived atop the cities multi-storey skyscrapers known as "locations in the sky," it will mean a nightly trek back to the segregated townships.

The expected nightly exodus of over 25,000 servants streaming from the two major cities of vans with dismay. For many it will mean less time on the golf course and more at the kitchen sink.

India was the seat of the beginning of their living-in servant cotton industry.

Dark Trouble Clouds Were Barely Visible On VJ Day

EDITOR'S NOTE — Two million people went wild in Times Square, "peace riots" killed 11 in San Francisco, a nation was crazy in jubilation. The war was over! It was V-J Day, just 20 years ago, the end of an age; the beginning of a new one. In the war-end delirium, you could hardly see the little clouds, far out on the horizon.

By TOM HENSHAW
Associated Press Writer

The President of the United States glanced at the clock in the White House offices. It was 7 p.m., Eastern War Time, Aug. 14, 1945, the hour appointed by Allied agreement. With a calmness he did not feel, Harry S. Truman began reading the announcement that would change the lives of 140 million Americans.

"I have received this afternoon a message from the Japanese government," he read as newsmen followed his words in their copies of the text. "I deem this . . . full acceptance of the Potsdam declaration, which specifies the unconditional surrender of Japan."

When he finished, the President of the United States broke out his broadest grin and the American people broke out unqualified emotions that had been stored away for more than 3½ years.

World War II, which began for America on Dec. 7, 1941 in a rain of Japanese bombs on Pearl Harbor and eventually cost 405,399 American dead, 670,846 American wounded and 350 billion American dollars, was over on all fronts at last.

The magnitude of the celebration that followed was best measured in New York's Times Square. By 10 p.m., three hours after the Truman announcement, two million people jammed the 24-block area, screaming, cheering, blowing horns, embracing and throwing hats, paper, streamers and flags into the air. Next day, New York street cleaners swept up 4,863 tons of paper.

In San Francisco, where police were instructed to "let the people do anything within reason and keep property damage down," the celebrating got out of hand and touched off three days of "peace riots." Eleven people were killed and more than 1,000 were wounded and the bill for broken windows on Market Street alone totalled $25,000.

Aboard the General Harry Taylor, an Army transport a week out of Marseilles, France, and two days short of the Panama Canal, the voice of the skipper, Capt. Leonard B. Jaudon, came over the P.A. system: "Now hear this! Watch the shadow of the ship — as it turns toward New York!" And more than 3,000 American soldiers, who moments before had been en route from the cold battlefields of Europe to the hot ones in the Pacific, broke out in cheers.

It was a time to cheer, a time to throw things, even a time to break windows, for, on Aug. 14, 1945, whatever lay in the uncertain future was bound to be better than that which lay in the past.

What was it like, the year 1945, the year that meant so much to so many? For those who never knew and for those who don't remember, it was like this:

You just didn't walk into the local market and slap your money down on the counter and walk out with a selection of choice steaks. It wasn't the money, either. In August 1945, sirloin steak was selling for 32 cents a pound in Chicago. But a pound of steak also cost eight red points — and that represented almost five days' ration of meat, butter and cheese. Hamburger went for four points a pound, center cut pork chops for 12 and creamery butter for 16.

If you still had an automobile in running condition — the last new civilian cars came off the production line in early 1942 — you could buy six gallons of gasoline in August upon presentation of coupon A16. If you were one of the lucky ones whose auto was deemed essential for travel, you could get five gallons on each B and C coupon that was valid. You had to write the registration number of your car on each stamp to prevent [illegible] wrong tank.

Black market flourished [illegible] everything that [illegible] and a visit to the black market cellar was as commonplace in 1945 as a trip to the bootlegger in 1930. A Washington restaurateur testified that the black market in the nation's capital was selling steak for $1.50 a pound, turkey for $1 a pound, oysters for $5 a gallon and tomatoes for $9 a bushel. On the San Francisco black market, gasoline coupons went for $1.50 apiece and gasoline without coupons for 65 cents a gallon.

More than 10 million servicemen, to whom rationing was meaningless, were counting points, too — discharge points. Army and Marine Corps reserves, who signed up for "the duration plus six," got one point for each month of service, another for each month served overseas, 12 for each dependent and five for each medal and battle star. Those who could muster 85 points were on their way to becoming civilians. The Navy gave ½ points for each year of age, ½ point for each month of service and 10 points for all dependents. Enlisted men needed 44, officers 49.

For civilians, it was actually difficult to be out of work. Unemployment stood at 670,000, compared to more than 8 million in 1940. Pay was good, particularly in war plants, where a worker could haul down more than $100 a week what with wages, guaranteed overtime and bonuses. More women — nearly 20 million — were working than ever before and enough were holding down jobs traditionally reserved for men to inspire the popular song, "Rosie the Riveter."

It was, in fact, such a workers' market that, when the war ended, John P. Stack, general manager of the Henry Hudson Hotel in New York, would express the fond hope "that from now on the employer and the guest will again be right for a change. For the past few years we, with the guest, have had to agree that the employe was always right, so that they would remain on the job."

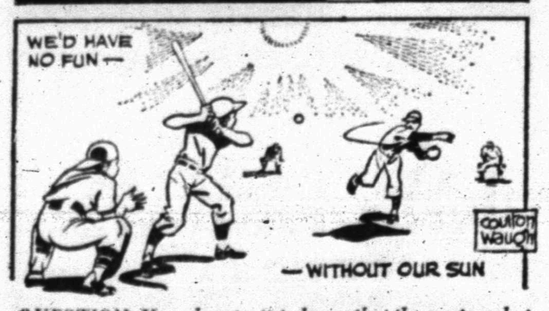
Gina's Dress To Be Valued At 2 Million

PARIS (AP) — Orbiting right out of the fashion world where prices are astronomical, Paris designer Michel Tellin claims to have put together the world's most expensive dress—a jewel-encrusted gown he valued at $2 million. Actress Gina Lollobrigida will wear it for a movie.

The floor-length dress was described as having a slightly flared silhouette with three-quarter conical sleeves and a small upright collar laden with gems. The fabric is powdered with tiny diamonds, and flowers on it have hearts of diamonds and emeralds.

Miss Lollobrigida is making a movie in Paris.

A Junior Editors Quiz About SUN'S GASES



QUESTION: How do scientists know that the sun is a hot ball of burning gases?

* * *

ANSWER: Sometimes the moon moves directly between our earth and the sun. This is a solar eclipse; as in the upper picture, the moon's disc appears jet black. But though the sun is hidden, brilliant light will flare out from it beyond the black circle. Photographs taken through telescopes during eclipses show huge streamers of flame reaching out a hundred thousand miles or more into space. Here is direct proof that the sun is composed of blazing gas, for when heated, gases expand greatly. But the astronomers' main reliance when studying the sun is the spectroscope, an instrument which uses a glass prism to split light from heavenly bodies into different bands. With the spectroscope, scientists gain additional evidence that the sun is composed of fiery gases. It has been found that about four million tons of gaseous matter in the sun turn into heat and energy every second. The only force known which could produce such enormous energy is that of the fusion of hydrogen atoms into helium. Thus, the scientists know that it is this process which makes the sun shine so brilliantly, sending heat and energy down to us on the earth.

* * *

FOR YOU TO DO: Don't worry because the sun is losing four million tons of its matter every second. It is so huge that it will keep on shining, as at present, for at least 35 billion years. Find out more about the sun from library books. 7-31

THE TOSSED CURL, a fun style that is highly feminine and easy to wear, this tossed curl coiffure is new for fall. It features a soft and airy curly top that is dominant in the lively curl look for the season. Greatest width from the front is in the area between the top of the eyebrows and the natural top of the head. However, the proportions of the width must retain a small head elegance.

Castillo Carves Up The Shifts

PARIS (AP)—Guy La Roche and Castillo carved up the A-line shifts in their own ways today in their fall and winter collections.

La Roche did backgammon-patterning zigzags in contrasting colors for shifty dresses to wear under lengthened jackets. Castillo's shifts under shorter jackets had a Spanish signature. Infanta waistline seams dipped low in front.

When Castillo suits were real suits, and not dress and jacket, skirts had a high-rise band that rode on the hips, dipped toward center front. Soft crepe blouses were tucked into these.

Parma violet has been featured in almost every Paris collection to date, and both La Roche and Castillo used it liberally. Castillo put a parma violet crepe infanta blouse over the skirt of a bright yellow tweed suit.

Castillo says his silhouette is slanted rather than flared. Narrow slanted coats had trapezoid double-breasted buttonings, or slanted side buttonings.

Open Steak Strips Sandwich Stroganoff

2-3 cup beer
1-3 cup salad oil
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 beef flank steak (about 1¼ lb.), scored
12 slices enriched bread, toasted
2 tablespoons butter
4 cups sliced onions (5 medium onions)
½ teaspoon paprika
1 cup dairy sour cream
Paprika
Watercress

On day before serving, in deep glass dish combine beer, oil, salt, garlic powder and pepper. Place meat in mixture; marinate overnight. When ready to prepare sandwiches, set out broiler pan and preheat broiler. Trim crusts from 6 toast slices and place on serving plates. Cut remaining toast diagonally in half and place 1 triangle at each side of trimmed slice. Place meat on broiler pan. Broil 3 inches from heat, 7 minutes on each side, or until well browned. Meanwhile, in saucepan melt butter. Saute onions with ½ teaspoon paprika until onions are transparent. Cut meat diagonally across grain into 24 thin slices. Place 4 slices on each sandwich and cover with 2-3 cup onions. Top with about 2½ tablespoons sour cream. Sprinkle lightly with paprika. Serve hot, with watercress.

In 1954, a cloud of locusts 200 miles long and 15 miles wide swept into Morocco. The invaders gobbled up grain crops and decimated large orange groves.

Recounts Test Firing Of Bomb

THE DAY OF TRINITY. By Lansing Lamont.

Lamont's suspense-building story is filled with a multitude of details and personal reactions, to the creation of the test firing of the world's first atom bomb, just 20 years ago.

There is a prelude in which the author sets the scene of the big blast, with only 10 seconds of countdown remaining. Then Lamont sketches the background of war, politics and scientific discovery which led to the creation of the famous Manhattan District.

Next he relates the secret recruiting of physicists and other specialists, the establishment of a colony of frantically busy men at Los Alamos, N.M.; the technical dilemmas they faced, and finally the preparations at Trinity — near a mountain range which the Spanish explorers had named Journey of Death — for touching off the 5-ton plutonium device at the top of a tower.

The account of the actual firing weaves together the personal hopes, fears, qualms and experiences of a whole host of men who took part. They included two leaders, General Leslie Groves and Robert Oppenheimer; such scientists as Kenneth Bainbridge and Donald Hornig, and even an humble enlisted man, T-5 Leo M. Jercinovic. But there also were two others — traitor Klaus Fuchs and spy David Greenglass.

The author concludes the story by reviewing the decision to use nuclear warfare; the bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki; the security case against Oppenheimer in 1954 and his vindication in 1963; and the scientists' long dialogue over the moral issues involved.

Lamont writes in a newsmagazine style which heightens the dramatic effect of an already dramatic event. His book is a tense, complete history of a fateful project.

Gardener's Corner

By EARL ARONSON

Treatment of sewage may help solve problems of stream pollution and bring better crops. A team of researchers is working on the project at Pennsylvania State University with reclaiming sewage expected to convince them to increase from 7 to 65 acres the land being sprayed with waste water.

The treated sewage is being expelled onto field crops and in woodlands where, it is hoped, forest plants and wildlife will benefit.

The treated sewage comes from the university's treatment plant, which serves 20,000 students and nearly 3,000 residents of the borough.

Eventually, sponsors hope, they can use the entire output of the sewage plant for agriculture. The sewage effluent has shown good fertilizing effects in a comparison of treated and untreated crops.

In woodlands, a series of 40-foot high pipes have simulated rainfall onto trees.

Taking part in the experiment are geologists, who follow the treated sewage to determine whether it seeps through the soil to streams they want to keep clean; wildlife management experts who study the effects on animals; sanitary engineers, foresters and health officials.

MINIMUM MAINTENANCE

Here are some tips we think will reduce the time and energy expended on care of your yard and lawn. Th suggestions, based on research by a large producer of lawn equipment (Jacobsen):

1. Use gentle landscaping curves. Avoid sharp corners to make mowing easier and to provide a pleasing design.

2. Avoid unnecessary trimming by using brick mowing edges between lawn areas and plant beds, walls and fences.

3. Make mowing easier by keeping all areas, including terraces, walks and driveways, flush with lawns.

4. Use low maintenance ground cover in places difficult to mow.

5. Elevate high maintenance plant beds for easy care, and group high maintenance plants together.

6. Use gravel strip under roof drip lines to eliminate wasted effort at growing plants underneath.

7. Provide low maintenance plantings for hedges and beds such as yews or privet hedge.

8. Provide ground covers beneath fruit, seed and nut trees so the droppings will be hidden from sight.

9. Use ample mulch to reduce weeding.

10. Eliminate trimming around such lawn obstructions as clothes poles, gas and water pipes, by using flush paving.

The second annual Big Pumpkin contest for youngsters under 16 years of age is underway. The sponsor is the Men's Garden Clubs of America. The deadline for entering is Nov. 1. Last year's winner of a $25 Savings Bond was Hilda Thompson of Pheba, Miss., who grew a 96 pounder with the new (Burpee) Bix Max pumpkin seed. There are 15 other prizes. The grower must send a picture of the pumpkin or cucurbit and himself and certification of weight to George Spader, executive secretary, Men's Garden Clubs of America, Morrisville, N.Y.

Dior Shows All Black

By LOUISE HICKMAN

PARIS (AP)—Dior held the hemline at midknee today in a collection which was covered up and predominantly black.

Everything in the fashion designer's showing was covered up—even strapless gowns that rise above cleavage and flatten the bosom.

His blacks were all black, hat and gloves included. The hats were big, wide felt.

Short, wide barrel-shaped coats slipped over suits. His suit jackets were hip-length basques, arching in a long concave line over gentle skirts.

For evening clothes, looping, cowl drapes gave movement to otherwise stark, almost tubular shapes.

"Silhouette in profile" were the words from Dior describing the new shapes.

Straight-back suits had long jackets jutting up and out in front over soft skirts. This concave shaping is created by low basque seaming that rises toward the front. The skirts are flared and lightly gathered at the waist.

Long-line dresses had a profile that was smooth and seamless in front, jutting in back from a low hip seam. The vertical looped drapes, most often held together by a bow at the back of the neck, gave a soft spinnaker billow to the backs of gowns.

Dior is not the first house to show strapless gowns raised or arched in front to cover cleavage. Lanvin and Patou have also done them in Paris, and Lancetti in Rome arched them high almost to the collarbone in front.

Most cottons have fast colors.

Pork Loin Research

You can roast today's modern pork loins to an internal temperature of 170 degrees F. rather than the previously recommended 158 degrees F. Roasts cooked to this lower internal temperature will be more juicy, have lower cooking loss and will require less cooking time.

These facts are reported after intensive research at Iowa State University. The recommended oven temperature for roasting pork remains the same as it has been for some time, 325 degrees F. to 350 degrees F.

It's easy to take the guesswork out of cooking pork loins if a roast meat thermometer is inserted in the thickest part of the roast, resting neither in fat nor on bone. The pork roast will be done when the meat thermometer registers 170 degrees F.
