Kiwanis Club Holds Contest

Kiwanis Education Topic; Visiting Official Speaks

Members of the Kiwanis club of Thursday at their luncheon meeting in the Crawford hotel, and staged a contest, in which Dr. J. Richard Spann asked questions on Kiwanis education.

A guest of the day was Lieutenant Governor R. W. (Bob) Haynie of Abilene. He was guest of Lieutenant Governor Garland A. Woodward of Big Spring. Mr. Haynie gave a brief talk.

Miss Louise Mauldin played a piano solo and the accompanying songs for club songs.

Gordon Graham was program chairman of the meeting, which marked the return to the chairmanship of President George Gentry, in whose absence during the summer Vice-President Ray Wilcox presided.

One new member, Dr. Leo Q. Rogers, now associated with Dr. E. O. Ellington in the practice of dentistry, was welcomed on behalf of the club by James Little, who attended Big Spring high school with Dr. Rogers.

D. W. Webber reported 14 members had promised to attend the convention of the Texas-Oklahoma district in Harlingen October 23.

Guests of the day were Miss Mauldin, Mr. Haynie, Ben Smith, Dr. E. O. Ellington, Cecil Thompson, Ned Ferguson, Otis Chalk.

The kids will go back to school Monday.

Never stop to think what schools mean to you and to me?

Nothing tears away the sham and show a community may possess and bares it, naked, in plain view for what it actually is, as does its schools.

Find a community where the windows of the school house are broken out, the paint worn off, the floors rough and dirty, the desks out of use and in bad repair, the library obsolete if there is a library and you'll find that community nine chances to one has long been suffering from internal strife; strife born of selfishness, ignorance, intolerance.

Pity the child who must live in such a community.

And praise the teacher who goes into such a community to be held up as the chief target of all the slander and gossip and hot-headedness of such a people. Praise her even more if she withstands such an ordeal—than which there is none more destructive of good name and high ideals—as I see, in overcoming such a condition in some measure.

Find a community whose social life centers about its schools, where the children are made the objects of first importance, of first attention; where mothers and fathers try to help instead of hinder teachers; where the parents urge that their children be given the proper training in class and out of class; where the buildings are spic and span the year round; where every possible aid to the teachers is provided; where the curriculum is not narrowed because patrons cry that "it was good enough in my day"; its good enough now, and you'll find a community of people with big hearts, open minds, high ideals, unselfish motives.

There are two conditions that are equally destructive of the effectiveness and efficiency of schools. One is factionalism among patrons; the other factionalism among teachers. The patrons have, through duly elected trustees, a voice in selection of the people who make up the teaching staff. The teachers are employed to teach the children. Most school trouble is caused by misdirected zeal of patrons or by inability of teachers to be teamworkers. In such cases work of the teachers is made more difficult, less efficient by outside interference, or efficiency of the teaching staff is hindered because individual members of the staff are unable to use all their energy in teaching and must devote some to fighting and attacking each other as individuals separate from their roles as teachers.

Big Spring has been fortunate in having experienced less unpleasant

Cisco's Libel Claim Tossed Out By Court

Jury Selected, Damage Suits Trial Gets Under Way Thursday

EASTLAND—Legal battle of the Cisco Independent school district against the Interscholastic League, resumed by two appeals many times by Judge J. L. Daveson, will enter its main channel in the 91st district court here Thursday. After the selection of a jury yesterday afternoon, court was declared recessed until 1 o'clock today, to give the plaintiffs time to amend their petition.

Arguments on points of law—damages and exceptions—were carried on before the court, without a jury, until 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. At their conclusion, the court dismissed a petition by the Cisco board asking for $5,000 damages for libel, from R. F. Holloway, B. P. Bille and N. S. Holloway, public school superintendents at Ranger, Eastland and Breckenridge, respectively, and ordered withdrawal of references to John Mouser. The plaintiffs had alleged Mouser, business man of Eastland, had conspired to secure the suspension of Cisco high school from the Interscholastic League.

Cisco has changed its petition, as first filed, to ask for $10,000 damages from the state and Oil Belt executives committees. It also asks reinstatement in the 1932 race of district 2.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs yesterday contended that action of the Oil Belt committee in recommending the League's suspension had been taken without proper notice on the ground that an attorney cannot be punished twice for the same act. They pointed out that the suspension of the team for 1932 was not justified, the Breckenridge game having been forfeited previously to make amends for the use of an eligible player. The defense answered that due notice had been given to suspend; that in the light of the next argument, the Breckenridge game could not have been forfeited, since at a first meeting the alleged ineligible, Fred Hightower, had been found eligible. The meeting at which the district asked the state to suspend Cisco, was the third session to follow the Breckenridge-Cisco game, won by the latter, 12 to 7.

In ruling on the preliminary arguments, the court expressed the opinion that had the attorneys spent half the time trying to settle the case out of court that they had in preparing petitions, the trial would have been unnecessary.

Indications last night were that the case may consume the greater part of the rest of the week.

More Troops In East Texas Being Asked

Land Owners Wish Larger Force To Fight Oil Thefts

KILGORE—About fifty land owners in East Texas meeting here Wednesday adopted a resolution asking the Texas railroad commission to place more troops in this area to stop the theft of oil.

A committee of 15 Kilgore landowners, headed by Major J. Malcolm Cline and Col. J. Lewis Thompson, was appointed to represent the men attending the meeting before the commission in Austin next Monday.

Members of the committee said that if the commission did not have power to issue an order shutting down wells producing oil illegally, they would request new legislation at the special session of the legislature.

Luther Swift, chief enforcement officer of the commission, said thousands of barrels of oil was being stolen every day, but the present force of officers was not able to catch all the violators of the law. He said if any man employed by the commission failed to report violations of the law, he would ask for that man's dismissal.

Col. Louis W. Davidson, commander of state militia already in the field, said from 15,000 to 18,000 barrels of oil was being taken illegally daily from the Kilgore area.

Sheppard Called Upon To Support Repeal Movement

HOUSTON (UP)—Senator Morris Sheppard, co-author of the 18th amendment, was called upon by the Texas Federation of anti-prohibition clubs to support the repeal movement because Texas in the July 23 primary voted three to one for reestablishment.

With the letter detailing reasons why Sheppard should stand to the wet side, Muse sent a study of the vote by counties, congressional districts, senatorial districts and state representative districts on the primary reestablishment question.

A map showing how each county and the various districts voted was included.

"In the entire state," said Muse's letter, "there were 405,309 votes cast for reestablishment and 177,618 against the proposition. Press reports, in explaining your continued silence on the recent Texas referendum on prohibition, state that you are making a detailed study of the returns of the reestablishment vote."

Woodul Says Plan Abandoned To Insure Early Adjournment

HOUSTON (UP)—Senator Morris Sheppard, co-author of the 18th amendment, was called upon by the Texas Federation of anti-prohibition clubs to support the repeal movement because Texas in the July 23 primary voted three to one for reestablishment.

Carl Estes, Sterling Supporter, Opposes Moves For Contest

ROCHESTER, Minn. (UP)—Carl Estes, actor, Texas, editor who supported Gov. Ross Sterling in both Texas primaries, in a telegram to State Senator Tom Pollard said there had been no frauds in the East Texas voting and that Mrs. Ferguson should be recognized as the nominee for governor. Estes' message was a reply to one from Pollard asking about reports of vote frauds.

"It appears to me that Mrs. Ferguson won the race and while I never voted for her in the interest of common fairness if she got the most votes she ought to have the office regardless of whether you and I like it or not," wired Estes.

There was absolutely no reason for this action," said Johnson. "In order to have any standing in court, we must have a mandamus, the petition for this action, and the petition will have to furnish sworn testimony that the committee does not intend to comply with the law."

Col. Penick, Daughter And Visitor Safe

Take Refuge On Top Building Near Home As Waters Rise

ABILENE—Rescuers early this afternoon had not succeeded in reaching Col. R. L. Penick, his daughter, Miss Lillian Penick, and Charles O'Brien, a horticulturist, who have been imprisoned two days by flood waters of the Clear Fork of the Brazos river.

The three Thursday afternoon were on top of a building 40 feet high.

CREST AT MERCEDES BROWNSVILLE (UP)—The crest of the Rio Grande flood was at Mercedes Thursday. Stage there was twenty-one and five-tenths feet, equal to the highest mark on record.

Although several gaps had been torn in Hidalgo levees and some lowlands inundated, reports indicated comparatively little damage done in the rich agricultural belt.

About two hundred were marooned in Hidalgo, supplies being carried across a stretch of water a half mile wide to the inhabitants.

From Lillas Lodge, the Penick country home on the west side of Lake Penick, south of Lueders in Jones county.

Night fell Wednesday with water standing at shoulder depth on the front porch of the stoutly-built rock house. At midnight rescuers returned here and reported the three apparently were safe in the attic of the house.

By morning it was learned today, O'Brien ran a rope from the house to the nearby building and succeeded in getting Colonel Penick and his daughter to its roof.

Continued rise of the water created the danger of being trapped in the attic; the three feared they might be caught in such a position that their only means of escape would be an attempt to dive through waters and escape by way of a door or window to the outside.

They were unable to get to the roof of the home and so went to the nearby roof.

Although another slight rise occurred on the Clear Fork about 11 a. m. the waters were slowly receding early Thursday afternoon.

Colonel Penick Tuesday night had sent word to friends who inquired of the state of the flood there that he felt there was no danger and would remain in Lillas Lodge.

O'Brien is from Stephenville. He was staying near the Penick home while engaged in some horticultural work with the great pecan trees growing on the place. The three this afternoon were surrounded by these large trees and it was believed they could easily take refuge in them if necessary.

Boat Capsized Rescuers abandoned late last night, in the belief they were safe in the attic, after a motor boat brought from Stamford capsized twice and the motor lost near the lodge, which was being swept through by water estimated at six to eight feet deep. Doors and windows of the house were gone but the building itself was standing firmly against the swirling flood.

A rise of 30 feet on the river during Wednesday was estimated by Lueders residents, who said the stream was at its greatest flood in history.

Swampy grounds were under five to seven feet deep and farms along the river were inundated. Water was flowing eight and a half feet over Lake Penick dam, a record height. Lake Penick is the

Freedom: Then And Now

ANYONE CAN TELL you that the average American insists on having freedom. It isn't always quite as easy as it might be thought to get a "good definition" of just what freedom is nowadays.

Professor Carl Becker, of Cornell touched on that point in a recent address at Columbia university. Waxing slightly sarcastic, he remarked:

"The average man is free to govern himself by voting for candidates selected for him by professional politicians who make a living out of the spoils of office. He is free to take any job that offers, if any offer. If none offers, he is free to hunt for a job which, if found, will pay him a bare living wage or less. If none is found he is free to stand in a bread line begging a crust from charity or the government that makes him a free man."

All of this simply emphasizes the fact that freedom, in a highly complex civilization like the one in which we are living now, can have an entirely different meaning than it had a century ago.

In the old days freedom for the common man was rather easily obtained. First of all, he was given the ballot and it was thereby made certain that he would always have a voice about who should govern him; and that, in an age when the divine right of kings was still upheld, meant much. Secondly, the country was large unexploited, full of resources that lacked only someone to develop them; if things went badly with the ordinary man at home he could easily move on to some place where opportunity was wider.

Things have changed since then, however. The country has been filled up. If times are hard it is hard in the next state. Electing the president you want may not help you much since the economic machinery by which your life is conditioned rests in the hands of bankers, industrialists and promoters whom you can't possibly get at.

We need to redefine our concept of freedom; and, having done so, to find new ways of making sure that we can get it.

Machine Installed In

Permanent Wave Shop

Mrs. Driggers of the Permanent Wave Beauty Shop has the exclusive territory for the new Super-charge steam permanent wave machine in this city. Stanton and Midland. This new method of waving the hair promises to revolutionize permanent waves, states Mrs. Driggers, because it does no harm to hair.

Special demonstrations are made daily at the shop where the machine is installed for women who care to drop in and examine the advantages of the new form of waving. No electricity is used in the permanent waving which means that no heat touches the head. There is also no pulling and no discomfort to this type of wave. It requires only an hour and a half to wave a whole head.

Mrs. Driggers is introducing the machine with a special price which is half of the amount being charged in the East, she says.

Leather dressing was one of the most important trades among the ancient Egyptians and at Thebes, in the days of Egypt's glory, a special quarter of the city was set apart for tanners.

Garner Object

Of Criticism By

Michigan Solon

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senator Vandenberg, Repn., Mich., has accused Speaker Garner of "fiddle-faddling" and of being "as consistent as a chameleon on a plaid."

These new contributions to campaign vocabularies were made in Vandenberg's statement issued through the Republican National Committee.

"Fiddle-faddling," Vandenberg said, is what Speaker Garner did by condemning protective tariffs in his acceptance speech, after democratic congressmen had "hitch-hiked" on the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill.

The Michigan senator used "as consistent as a chameleon on a plaid," in another reference to the tariff record of some democratic congressmen.

"His fellow democrats," the Michigan senator said, "hitch-hiked on the Smoot-Hawley bill for every protective rate they could get on their own commodities and then plausibly voted against the completed bill after carefully contributing enough votes for passage."

"They thunder in the index, but they never fail to look out for number one."

"Their frank and acquisitive reliance on tariffs where their own home welfare is at stake is sound economics according to wise republican doctrine. But their subsequent pretended abhorrence of the reliance thus embraced is either buncombe or hypocrisy."

Vandenberg said that Garner only a few weeks ago was "advocating two billion dollars worth of fees scattered across the country like pepper and salt."

"A few years earlier he promised the Texas home folks that 'now we democrats are in charge of the house. I'm going to do my best to get a hog every time one of these

Mrs. Baker made high score for club members and Mrs. Fahrnkamp high for visitors. Both were favored with pretty bougainvillee pillows which the hostess had made.

Mrs. Ivey cut for high and received a linen guest tote. The honoree was presented with two ornamental bracelets.

At the refreshment hour, Mrs. Cecil McDonald assisted her mother-in-law and Mrs. R. A. Eubank in serving a sandwich plate and coffee to the guests.

Those enjoying the party in addition to the honoree were: Misses S. L. Baker, E. E. Fahrnkamp, W. R. Ivey, Cecil McDonald, R. A. Eubank, C. Boykin, Sim O'Neal, Vivian Nichols, Ben Carter, E. D. Merrill, J. B. Hodges, C. E. Shive, E. M. La Bette, P. H. Liberty, Gus Pickle and J. L. Terry.

Bill Seeks Minimum Of

Dollar For Poll Tax

AUSTIN, (UP)—A bill to fix the poll tax at a minimum of $1 was offered in the Texas house of representatives by C. E. Farmer, lame duck member from Tarrant county.

The $1 levy is a constitutional one, the dollar going to the public school fund. Farmer's bill would eliminate the 50 cents additional levied by statute for the state general revenue and the 25 cents which counties are permitted to levy.

Mrs. T. B. McGinnis has been called to Ranger because of the illness of her mother.

By Raymond Brooks

AUSTIN—Whims, caprice and idiosyncrasies of an unwieldy body of legislators make the outcome of any matter doubtful. There is such a thing as mass will or mass purposes, however, slowly it evolves, however, cumbersome the means of reaching its expression.

There are many advantages in the slow-moving pace of a body of lawmakers. Not that of emergency relief from conditions affecting a people; but at least in protection against a mass of bright ideas or pet hobbies of individuals.

Taken altogether, the special session of the Texas legislature moved with considerable celerity toward the accomplishment of which it was called—tax relief and home ownership credits.

Even though four days of senate time were killed on a resolution that finally was kicked back to its starting point.

A mass of conflicting views is not as strong a guiding factor in curbing or restricting government as strict dual-party government.

Control of one side or the other; but it is efficacious in smothering much that would be harmful, and more than would be meaningless.

Its worst aspect is that it can choke off and prevent action upon many meritorious things.

In the aggregate, Texas lawmakers usually do not suffer from homesickness during the session at Austin; but this time, the end of the session's second week saw a good many house and senate members looking homeward longingly.

They were talking of final adjournment even at a time when it appeared several projects of minor emergency nature could get attended to by their staying on.

Governor Sterling definitely and precisely declared, five weeks ago, that he would not ask a lame duck session to create a new state policy on abolishing departments or changing state salaries, after a new lawmaking body had been chosen, fresh from the people.

So he naturally ignored the resolution, voted by both houses, asking him to submit the salary reduction question, after all members of both bodies were on notice of his decision.

The question of salary changes will be incident to a much more will call for such state officials as are needed, rather than for a lot for whom political jobs have been honeycombed into the capitol through many years.

Properly, it should provide for paying the necessary officials and employees adequate salaries.

Starting the machinery for this promised reorganization—affecting both state and county government—is one of the definite, forward-looking and constructive achievements of Governor Sterling's term in office.

Rep. O. N. Farmer of Ft. Worth, ever on the watch for a change to solve as the friend of the "common people" has proposed in a house bill to further reduce the license fees on motorcycle and sidecar, and on passenger automobiles.

He would fix for the motorcycle rider an annual license fee of $1 and for the registration of a sidecar, $2 per year.

The Farmer bill would limit registration fees of cars to 20 cents per 100 pounds, up to 3500 pounds and 30 cents per 100 pounds on heavier cars.

Emergency clause of this bill says: "License fees are excessive in this time of depression, and have caused thousands of automobiles not to be registered, and they are now standing idle in garages."

Smaller license fees will encourage the use of more gasoline, and thereby produce a greater revenue.

CHAPTER XXXVIII
Bud rose and walked toward the party. His hand extended. "Why, Mona! What are you doing here?" His sojourn in the tropics had improved Bud. His carriage was straighter. The furtive look had disappeared from his eyes.

"We were looking for you—Mona told him. She flung her arms about her brother and Bud blushed beneath his tan.

"I'm a pilot now," he explained. "Up here to handle some business for the mine. Then I've got to streak for Holiday."

"Can you take a couple of passengers?" Lottie cried.

"Of course. Did you get my wire?"

"They sat down at a table and Bud signaled to a waiter. Mona asked, "Where is Holiday? Lottie and I have been at the binocular half the way down."

"Oh, it's up north a bit. Sixteen hours by boat when you can get one. One hour by plane."

"And you'll take us with you?"

"Sure thing," Bud grinned broadly. "But we can't take off until tomorrow."

The girls were content to remain in sight. Taking leave of Bud, who promised to telephone later, Mona and Lottie registered at the hotel, prepared for luncheon and presently joined Dr. Allen on a sight-seeing trip.

Bud telephoned in the evening while they were at dinner. They were to be ready at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning when he would call for them. He was remaining for the night in San Fernando.

The Miranda sailed at nine and to the jetty. As they waited for the tender he said softly to Lottie, "Is the jury's verdict in yet?"

"I'm afraid so," she hesitated. "You know how I feel. But there are loads of girls—"

"There are," he said rhetorically. "But only one like you!"

"Maybe that's plenty," Lottie said cheerfully.

"If I can ever do anything for you," he began.

"I'll let you know. That's a promise." Neither of them realized just how soon that promise would be kept.

and San Fernando passed filled with Hindoo women wearing tinted, floating veils.

The car passed groups of children. There were brown, round-bodied little girls with wondering eyes and straight hair, clad in the briefest of garments and often wearing silver bracelets on each chubby wrist. The boys wore torn shirts and trousers. The formality of their costumes, the chauffeur explained, was due to the fact that they attended school. Education was not compulsory here and only the boys availed themselves of the privilege.

An hour of this and the car had reached the outskirts. Paines and thickly interlaced jungles skirted the highway. Here and there they crossed a tiny bridge which crossed a stile to be used by foot passengers when the water was high.

And then they reached San Fernando, reeking with bit. Its busy streets, lined with tiny houses from which dark faces peered, glittered in the sun.

"Stop here," ordered Mona indicating a crossroad.

How foolish she had been to make the trip! This was San Fernando, but if Bud had been there, or even were there now, she could hardly discover him.

"Will you have tea?" Madame, the chauffeur asked. They had stopped by the roadside some hours back to eat lunch.

"Where?" Mona asked doubtfully.

"At the Paradise Hotel. A lovely spot, Madame. A romantic spot. She agreed and they drove around a curve of thick bushes dotted with orchids. The Paradise Hotel rose before them, a green and white fairy castle.

Delightful! burst from Mona's lips.

She went up the steps, breathing in the scented air. Poinsettias, begonia's and honeysuckle crowded each other. Hibiscus dotted the smooth, green beyond the railings.

The Paradise Hotel tea room appeared.

$600,000 Set By Baptist Finance Committee As Goal

A goal of $600,000 for mission and benevolent work was set by the finance committee of the Baptist General Convention of Texas at a recent meeting held at Baptist headquarters in Dallas. The money is to be used for the support of the mission work of the Baptists in Texas and for world-wide activity in cooperation with the Baptists of the South. Definite provision of funds to all causes will be worked out at a later meeting of the committee.

The promotion committee of the Baptist convention of Texas, Earl E. Smyth of Dallas, chairman, is in charge of the campaign to be launched September 11th and to end in "pledge week" October 23-30. The state-wide organization is under the

To facilitate the work of directing the campaign and raising the funds, the committee has appointed seventeen district organizers, who will have the immediate direction of the work in their respective districts. Rev. P. C. McGaffey, pastor of the First Baptist church of Snyder, is director in this district and the goal is $7,500.

Pleading the "pledge week" October 23-30, there will be held meetings in each district, at which gatherings inspirational addresses will be delivered by leading ministers of the denomination. County groups will then meet to continue their work and the final drive will be made in the 304 local churches, commencing in the meeting of the state Baptist convention at Abilene November 9th, representing 490,000 white Baptists in Texas.

Running the blockade to market through striking farmers is strenuous and often dangerous business in Iowa. Several persons have been injured in clashes with pickets in the war for higher farm produce prices. Above is a scene near Des Moines, Iowa, as a farmer (left foreground) and two of his stalwart sons (backs to camera) "persuaded" farm holiday pickets to allow them to market two truck loads of produce. ## Englishmen Eliminated In Tennis Meet

Seven Americans And Lone Frenchman Left
In Running

FOREST MILLS, N. Y.—England's tennis forces were routed from the national tennis championship Wednesday, leaving seven American stalwarts to fight it out with France's one-man team, Henri Cochet, for the crown held by Elsworth Vines Jr.

The wholesale elimination of the British contingent saw the great
H. W. (Bunny) Austin bow to Cliff-ford Sutter of New Orleans, this nation's intercollegiate champion.
J. P. (Babe) Roney, who had been fought decision to Sidney Wood, Jr., the former Davis cupper, Edward Avery, and John C. (Lefty) Wood, who had been fought decision to Sidney Wood, Jr., the former Davis cupper, and Frank Shields, respectively.

College King Improved

Wood won over Perry 3-6, 4-6, 6-0, 6-0, 7-5.

Sutter, with a brilliant winning record for the tournament season, smashed through Austin in the first round, 6-2, 6-0, 7-5.

The New Orleans star, with a vastly improved service and steady al-court game promised to make plenty of trouble for George Lott, Jr., his opponent in tomorrow's quarter-final. Lott progressed with a victory over Takeo Kuwahara, Japanese champion, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Vines overpowered Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara, co-holder with him of the national doubles title, 6-1, 8-3, 6-1.

Cochet had nothing easy in Johnny Van Ryn, Philadelphia, although the fact he turned him back in straight sets, 7-5, 6-3, 8-6. Cochet had just the little edge needed to win.

Lester Stoen, the power house from Los Angeles, became the only unseeded player among the eight survivors by trimming Gregory Mangin of Newark, national indoor champion, 6-4, 8-6, 6-4. Stoen has been called the most improved player in the tournament and was counted upon to give Vines a battle tomorrow.

Shields triumphed over Cliff
6-2, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, while Allison subdued Avery 6-4, 6-1, 6-3. Tomorrow Shields tackles Cochet and Allison meets Wood.

23 Runs Made By Exporters

Steers Get Twenty Hits In 12-1 Victory Over
Tyler

BEAUMONT—Exporters batmen went haywire here Wednesday afternoon to smother the Galveston Buccaners, 23 to 4, in the second game of the series, every Shipper who had an official time at bat raking at least one hit and one run in the batting orgy that saw two Pirate twirlers hammered unmercifully.

Wednesday's hottest saw a new season scoring record established, with Paul Easterling showing the way with a double and three singles, six runs and three stolen bases. The murderous assault was crowned by a 12-run rally in the bottom of the ninth, when the first team men to face Russell Cromer and Lefty Wood reached base and were all in.

Exporters' first baseman, Edward Avery, was the first to up, asked for the first out in the bottom of the ninth. He homer over the left field wall with the bases jammed featured the hectic stanza.

Three Big Sockers
Reiber hit a homer with a man aboard in the seventh, and in the eighth, Fritz cracked out a four ply with two on the sacks. Fritz, Reiber and Newsome each smacked out three blows. Lazy Goldstein started for the Shippers, but gave way to Sewell, who tolled the last three innings. The Exporters' 21 hits included three home runs, two triples, a double and 15 one basers.

MAVERICKS 12, SPORTS 1
TYLER—Hal McKinnis allowed the Tyler Sports only six hits here Wednesday afternoon as the Dallas Steers collected 20 hits and swept their second straight game from Tyler, 12-1. Only in the ninth inning did McKinnis allow over one of the hits in an inning.

He not only pitched a good game, but started at the bat in connecting for two doubles and a single in five trips. Bonura was a double, single and a homer in five trips also for Dallas and Charlie Gilbert of Tyler got two singles and a double in four trips.

Otto Nicholas started for the Sports but was jerked at the start of the sixth frame. Otto Hulser,

A report here early today that the town of Nugent, further south on the Clear Fork, had been washed away, was found to be false. Dr. W. R. Last night friends of the Penicks from Stamford and Anson kept vigil on an eminence—near the lodge as could be reached, and a Nine of ten teachers make personal sacrifices for the pupils in one way or another. Over-anxiety to serve them oftentimes brings criticism to them. Nine of ten teachers are underpaid. They are bound in responsibility to their pupils, to the citizens of the community. At the same time they are due fair and just treatment from those whom they serve. When those conditions exist children are best. What greater goal could any community have than that?

Show Girl From West Texas Says Gin Parties "Out"

SAN ANGELO (UP)—A New

York show girl, who is now an actress, says that gin parties are out. She says that she has seen a lot of them and that they are not worth the trouble.

Miss Mauk has just finished a tour with the late Ed Ziegfeld's Showboat and is returning to New York this month to grace the 10th edition of Earl Carroll's Vanities. "Contrary to public opinion most of the girls go home after the show, not to night clubs," she says. "They have to rest because of the nervous strain they work under during performance. They can't let down or become careless about their appearance or they'll be told to leave."

Without relaxation they can't look their best.

During the summer the blond beauty was one of the sopranos with the Ziegfeld show. "The girls in Showboat were quite angry when they pay no wages for the show," she said. "The amount was all right," she said. "Miss Mauk attained the vanities by an unusual route. She went to New York to write, obtained a job as secretary of an orphanage and when that became tiresome applied to Ziegfeld."

Mrs. Cecil West who recently underwent an operation in Baird, the home of her parents, is recovering nicely and is expected home within a few days.

AUSTIN—Twenty-two lettermen, 14 of them seniors, will be among the 70-odd University of Texas griders who will report to Coach Clyde Littlefield at the opening of the Southwest Conference training season Sept. 10. One center, six guards, five tackles, four ends, and six backs comprise the battery of returning veterans.

With the middle of the line well bolstered and such proven men as Ernie Koy, Harrison Stafford, and Hank Clewis in the backfield, Coach Littlefield's chief problem will deal with the search for a satisfactory end combination and a halfback who can punt. He may also encounter some difficulty in imparting to his big squad the details of his new offensive system, which features a shift.

The 22 lettermen who will report are the following:
Center—Bill Smith, 175, Cisco.
Guards—Co-Captain Wilson Cook, 200, Austin; Clifford Braly, 195, Pampa; Tommie Birdwell, 175, San Antonio; John Furr, 185, El Paso.

Promoter Neill, on the other hand, vows that it will be a battle and that the Springer red head will emerge from the start until the finish. Neill also believes that the Venables-Brickhouse semi-final will be a thriller.

SPORTS ON PARADE

By CURTIS BISHOP

Winners repeated in the second annual Big Spring golf tournament this year. Charles Qualls of course leads the list by winning his second consecutive championship, but Frank Day of Midland and E. P. Woodward of Stanton have gone hand in hand. They not only held their own but advanced. Day, second flight winner in 1931, captured the first flight trophy Monday, while Woodward, winner of the third flight consolidation a year ago, won the second flight championship this season.

Closely connected with all this was the fact that Qualls had been the long No. 17, a 22 yard yagubon. Charlie would love that hole. It was there that he went one up on Bob Scott to take this year's title. It was there that he took the lead over Oble Bristow in 1931. He halved No. 17 to defeat Shirley Robbins in the second round and J. C. Southworth in the semifinals of this year's meet. He won No. 17 in the 1931 semifinal by sinking a 125 yard approach for an eagle three to beat Charlie Nix of Sweetwater after a grilling battle.

He was one down with L. Coffee in the first round Sunday morning, and slipped to a 6 on his favorite hole. But no one wins No. 17 from Charlie Qualls—Mr. Coffee tossed away an apparent clinch to take a

Mr. Blundy Cross has taken down his pencil and made a dope forecast of the District 3 football race this season. My guess picks them in the following order: Sweetwater, San Angelo, Big Spring, McCombs, Midland, and Colorado.

Prospects of a sunny day brings to mind the necessity of a football practice session. Messrs. Brown and Brown will begin on Tuesday when the turf on their practice field in the southern part of Howard County has dried sufficiently to stand up under the weight of the gigantic Bovine griders. Least some zealous supporter should understand the above sentence and make a bet on the Sweetwater-Big Spring game we hasten to explain that it was meant for sarcasm.

One of the green backfield candidates that will come in for special mention from Bristow and Brown is George Neal, Sweetwater. Not Ben Daniels' Doublet. Not that George will be starting back, but a series of plays may be worked upon in which he will be run into the game, carry the ball for one or two downs, and trot back out. He is like a streak of lightning, sidesteps pivots, and does an excellent job of carrying the pigskin.

No other member of the Devils lineup is expected to be of any material assistance. Olie Cordell, the freshman stalwart, should be a star in a year or two but fourteen is very young for a letterman. The others are generally too light.

Corns All Gone Big and Small Radox Took Them Roots and All

In England they have a sensible way to get rid of corns in just a few days—a joyous invigorating foot bath every night for 3 or 4 nights—then lift out the corn—out to stay.

Ask Collins, Druggist, or any drug-store for a package of Radox, 2 sizes 40c and 85c. Hard corns—soft corns—callouses—hard skin on heels and toes—it's all the same to Radox—you'll have new, strong, flawless feet a week from now—ask for Radox and enjoy walking—dancing—adv.
