Sunday update

Cocaine Exports

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) -Cocaine smuggling to a lucrative and expanding American market is increasing so fast that the powdery white drug rivals coffee as this country's main export, law enforcement officials say.

About 70 percent of the cocaine sold on the illicit American drug market comes from Colombia, with Peru and Bolivia supplying much of the rest. By some estimates, Colombian cocaine exports brought in $1.5 billion last year, equal to the country's coffee earnings.

Bubbles Is Dead

IRVINE, Calif. (AP) - Bubbles, the freedom-loving hippopotamus died early today after rangers shot her with tranquilizing darts in efforts to recapture her.

Orange County Sheriff's Sgt. William Voltin said, "She was shot by Lion County Safari rangers using tranquilizer darts and apparently she collapsed and suffocated."

Bubbles had been enjoying her freedom lately in Clucker Lake, a 100-yard-long lake about two miles from the 240 acre animal park and 50 miles south of Los Angeles. She escaped from the park on Feb. 20.

Break Is Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate leaders are trying to figure a way to break a stalemate in the debate over the Panama Canal treaties.

One possibility, congressional sources say, is a proposal that would allow the United States to negotiate later for a permanent U.S. military presence in Panama.

However, the plan would make such negotiations only a possibility if Panama agrees.

Withdraw Coffee

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) - Eight nations with 18 percent of the world's coffee production have agreed to withdraw 528 million pounds of coffee from world markets to try to force up prices.

But the move, if it works, is not expected to affect consumers.

Price Hikes Now Biggest Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) - Faced with worsening inflation, the government now sees rising prices, rather than unemployment, as the nation's biggest economic problem.

Administration officials in public statements are moving away from their previous stance that inflation and unemployment are problems of equal importance.

The government reported Friday that the unemployment rate dropped from 6.3 percent to 6.1 percent in February. But wholesale prices rose by 1.1 percent last month, the largest increase in three years. And economists predicted that supermarket prices will keep going up.

"Inflation is the major problem," Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal said flatly at an American Newspaper Association Convention session Friday.

He said the administration is not proposing economic programs that would over-stimulate the economy. Job-creating programs are often criticized for overheating the economy, contributing to inflation.

Blumenthal's comments were echoed by Federal Reserve Chairman G. William Miller, who when he was nominated last fall said both problems were equally important.

At a congressional hearing Thursday, Miller said he now considers inflation the biggest problem and plans to give it a "very, very high priority" at the Fed.

Congress also is turning its attention to the rising prices. House Democrats earlier this week agreed to add anti-inflation language to the Humphrey-Hawkins bill, which is aimed at reducing unemployment.

Rep. Robert Giaimo, D, Conn., chairman of the House Budget Committee, said he agrees with Republicans that fighting inflation should get equal priority with creating jobs.

The government's new stress on inflation over unemployment has drawn fire from labor leaders, who maintain the twin goals of reducing unemployment and controlling inflation are not contradictory. They note that the country had both high unemployment and high inflation during the mid-1970s recession.

Troops Are On Somali Frontier

By The Associated Press

Ethiopia said today its troops have reached the frontier with Somalia after driving 60 miles east from the recaptured town of Jijiga in their bid to crush Somali secessionist rebels in Ethiopia's Ogaden desert.

The report, which could not be confirmed independently, came from Mengiste Desta, the Ethiopian ambassador to Kenya. The Soviet news agency Tass had quoted Ethiopian officials Friday as saying their troops stopped 20 miles from the border and turned south to retake other Ogaden towns. Jijiga, a key crossroads point commanding a vital mountain pass, reportedly fell last Sunday.

Radio Addis Ababa, monitored by the British Broadcasting Corp. in London, said Ethiopian forces moving north had entered the Ogaden town of Aiscia, a control point for the railroad connecting the Gulf of Aden port of Djibouti to Addis Ababa. The line has been blocked by the rebels for months. Aiscia is about 100 miles north of Jijiga.

Desta also repeated Ethiopia's rejection of a cease-fire in the Ogaden and reiterated its declaration that the Soviet-Cuban military presence within the country is "purely Ethiopia's internal affair."

Producers' Directors To Pick Officers

The Scurry County Producers Association board of directors will elect officers at a meeting Monday night.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. in the conference room of the Chamber of Commerce-Board of County Development Building.

The association, made up of cotton growers of the county, administers the boll weevil control program in the county. New directors were elected at the annual membership meeting last week.

Retired Lady Mail Carrier Has A Thousand Memories Remaining

By JOHN LONG

Lottie Morton permitted neither rain, nor sleet, nor dark of night to interfere with her work.

She was a mail carrier and her work included delivering letters and parcels along the Arah Route.

She and her husband started the route in 1932, then quit for a few years, and returned to it in 1945. Her husband died 12 years ago, and since then she has had the route to herself.

Mrs. Morton's years of delivering the mail have ended, however. She recently retired. She has left a thousand memories.

"I had to make my own living and it was a sitting down job. I enjoyed every minute of it," she said. "I counted that day lost when I didn't see and talk to somebody."

Her day usually began about 7 a.m. when she went out to the central post office to get and sort the day's mail. She left there shortly after 8 a.m. to begin her route. She generally finished between 11 a.m. and noon.

The gnarled Arah Route twists through approximately 34 miles of Scurry County. "I went so crooked, and circled around everything. I came within about three miles of Fluvanna, but I went such a twisted way," she recalls.

She traveled the same road six days a week and did it for years. Yet, she insists, it was not too tiresome.

"It wasn't really the same old road. You can see new things every day if you look for them," she said.

She delivered mail to 74 boxes over both paved and unpaved roads. About half her route is still dirt road and in days gone by that percentage was even higher.

"I remember one winter, and it hasn't been too long ago, I drove into a ditch and couldn't get out. But, it's all in a day's work," she philosophized.

Once, following a rain, she became stuck on another dirt road. She called the county commission up and told him about the road conditions. When he went out to look at them, he, too, became stuck.

"I was so glad he got stuck. I guess he just thought I was a woman driver," she said.

While traveling down little traveled roads, Mrs. Morton remembers seeing a variety of animals, including coyotes, bobcats, and rattlesnakes.

"I used to get out and kill the rattlesnakes," she said. "But, that was before the hoe handle got so short. And, my reflexes weren't what they used to be. I knew if one ever bit me that would be it, being way out there in the country."

She eventually gave the practice up.

Through the years of delivering the mail, Mrs. Morton said she found something new to see every day.

"I could always see something different," she noted. "It was all God's country to me."

The SDN Column

We have always been somewhat interested in regional dialects, or accents. So, when we opened an envelope the other day and a sheet with a headline reading "Spell It Ya'll but Pronounce it Yawl" fell out, it caught our attention immediately.

It came from a magazine called South, which was no surprise. It dealt with an editorial which this magazine had published concerning the well-known contraction of the Southern expression, "you all."

There seemed to be some confusion on this subject. Why a magazine calling itself "South" could become confused on such a common expression we are unable to say.

But, fortunately, the magazine editors did not jump to conclusions. They took a poll ranging all the way to the White House where they hoped that the Southern occupant thereof could settle the question with a stroke of the pen, or with one big grin, etc.

Unfortunately his secretary disclosed that it probably would take around six months to find out how Jimmy Carter spelled that well-known Southern word that he uses so frequently in conversation and in public speeches. That figured.

They finally did get an opinion from Jody Powell, the White House press secretary, and he lined up with the majority. It was "Ya'll" all the way, even among some transplanted Yankees who confessed that they were not capable of providing a logical answer.

Regional accents, or dialects, stand out when people travel to other regions, and we think it makes things much more interesting. We have little sympathy for those who try to adopt the dialect of a new region as soon as they arrive. In fact, we feel that everyone should take pride in the accent of the place where he was reared. It is one of the few things that the government has not been able to regulate, or tax.

'Barefoot' Loaded With Apt Comedy

We wish we could advise you to buy tickets to "Barefoot in the Park," Western Texas College's Dinner Theatre presentation.

But there is no use. There are no tickets left. The show has been presented three times and has three more to go (Thursday, Friday and Saturday), and it is a sell-out.

Nevertheless, those who have tickets for the coming week's performances should be warned that Glenn Polk finally met his match.

Juanne Brock, who is cast in the role in startling contrast to her last performance in "Medea," and Polk have the principal roles in Barefoot, and it is just about a standoff as they duel with the repartee in Neil Simon's comedy that is just as funny today as it was back in the sixties.

The cast is strong, perhaps the strongest ever lined up for a WTC production, with Dr. Sue Coffman and Rex Hopkins in the other two major roles. But David Galvan, the telephone repairman who is seen only briefly, gets in his share of humor also, as does Lee Kirby, the deliveryman who appears even more briefly.

It is the type of comedy that some people are searching for today--one laugh after another for three full acts. it's the type most people fine appropriate after a good meal.

But, if you don't have tickets, there's no use tantalizing you any more, and if you have tickets, you will discover these things for yourself. W.M.

Special Week Observed By Snyder Girl Scouts

This year, Girl Scout Week in the United States is March 12-18.

Mayor John Fagin has signed a proclamation designating the week. Attending the ceremony were Mrs. Elsie Anderson and girl scouts from Service Unit 46 of the West Texas Girl Scout Council.

The Mayor remarked on how, since its founding 66 years ago, the organization has opened doors to new worlds for many girls, and how it has become an important part of community life. He was informed that more than three million girls and adults are Girl Scout members today, and that since scouting in the U.S. began in Savannah, Ga. in 1912, more than 32 million girls and volunteers have been involved.

Mayor Fagin said that, because Girl Scouting stressed the highest ideals of character and personal ethics, it helped girls develop their potential for active citizenship and thus benefitted the community. He called upon all the citizens of Snyder to continue to actively support Girl Scouts and join them in the efforts toward conserving energy and natural resources as well as their other service projects related to community, national and international concerns.

The West Texas Girl Scout Council is a participating agency of the United Way.

OBITUARIES

E. Sturdivant

Funeral arrangements are pending for 63-year-old Earl Sturdivant who died about 7 a.m. Saturday in San Antonio. A former resident of Scurry County, he had resided in San Antonio for many years.

Survivors include three brothers, R.L. and Everett, both of San Antonio and Ivy Sturdivant of Hermleigh and three sisters, Thelma Gregory and Faye Moore, both of Snyder and Ann Eicke of Hereford.

Arrangements are under the direction of Porter Loring Funeral Home in San Antonio.

Miller Rites

Funeral service was held at 4 p.m. Saturday at the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel for Harry Miller, 77, who died Friday in Brownwood.

The Rev. David Robertson officiated, and burial was in Hillside Memorial Garens, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Association To See Film

A film tifled "Early Recognition of Learning Disabilities" will be shown Monday night at a meeting of the Snyder Association for Children With Learning Disabilities.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. in the community room of Snyder Savings and Loan.

Following the showing of the film, there will be an open discussion by parents and professionals on specific problems of children with learning disabilities. All interested parents and professionals are invited to attend the meeting.

Building Planned By Watson Packer

Watson Packer Inc. has announced its intention to build a new sales and service facility in Snyder, according to General Manager Harold Clifton.

The 2400 square foot, metal building, to be built on the Clairemont Highway will house offices, shop area and inventory storage. Construction is expected to start on the facility within 30 days and should be completed within six weeks. Watson Packer has previously operated from rented facilities at 1300 Avenue Q in Snyder.

"The new facility will enable us better to serve the growing sales and service needs of our customers in the Snyder area," said Larry Bills, Snyder manager.

Watson Packer Inc. presently operates six stations in West Texas, New Mexico, and North Texas.

Your Birthday

March 12, 1978

Your outlook and basic attitude will undergo constructive changes this coming year. By year's end you will be more positive and optimistic in areas where you were previously negative.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A change of scenery will give your spirits a big boost today. A long walk or a short drive can help — it doesn't matter which, so long as you don't stare at the same four walls. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) When it comes to dollars and cents, you've got it all together today. Your art of accumulating things for yourself may extend to other areas as well.

TAURUS (April 10-May 20) Occasionally it's essential that we set some time aside to look out for No. 1. Devote the hours needed to your personal interests today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You function best today without having someone peeking over your shoulder. Shut yourself off from busybodies.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Either go where the clan is gathered today or else involve yourself in some type of new project. Being inactive could be depressing.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) Others may duck challenges today, but not you. You'll welcome situations that test your mettle. Deep down you believe you can overcome them. You can.

VIRGO (Aug.23-Sept.22) Your approach to critical situations is both practical and cool today. You keep everything in perspective. Neither large nor small incidents will rattle you.

LIBRA (Sept.23-Oct.23) You're better at managing things for others today than you are at handling your own affairs. This can work to your advantage.

SCORPIO (Oct.24-Nov.22) There is nothing wishy-washy about you today. You know exactly where you stand and so will your companions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov.23-Dec.21) Guilt will accumulate today if you fail to use your time productively. Devote your precious hours to a worthy use.

CAPRICORN (Dec.22-Jan.19) You have a flair for organizing things today. Instinctively you'll know what to delegate. You'll do it so that no one's feathers will be ruffled.

AQUARIUS (Jan.20-Feb.19) Once you commit yourself today, you will not be easily dissuaded from your course of action. You'll see it through, regardless.

Your Birthday

March 13, 1978

Get mixed up in activities this coming year that interest you ones you may have avoided before. This could apply to politics, social work or even a little theater group.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You can have a happy day if you look for the silver lining in things that you do. Don't be afraid to indulge a few personal whims or fancy either. Like to find out more of what lies ahead for you? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Tell associates exactly what's on your mind today, especially concerning an overdue obligation. They'll get the message loud and clear.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Think of the welfare of others today if you get together with your peers. They look to you for guidance and counsel.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Stay behind the scenes as much as possible today. You'll find you can achieve what you set out to do. Just quietly do what you know is right.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Socialize with pals today, but don't feel you have to spend freely to have fun. Inspiration of good company can be satisfying and expensive.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The world of business is your oyster today and a person in the wings could be your "angel." His hands may pull the strings that make you a profit.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You can raise others out of their quagmires today if you adopt an optimistic outlook. Embrace things that have an uplifting quality.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Managing something for another could prove beneficial to both of you today. It may be tough, but it could be very worthwhile.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In all of life more things are accomplished by unselfish, give-and-take. Even if you have power, people respect you more if you use it graciously.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Do-it-yourself projects around home today may interest you if they present a challenge. Jump in with both feet. You'll have a ball.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Give freely of your leisure time to a pal who has always shared his fun with you. Some outdoor activity will be enjoyable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Those under your wing will be well provided for today. They may not see your plan at first, but later they'll know how much you look after them.

Dear Abby

How You Can Help Someone Depressed

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a single, middle-aged female (no family) who is recovering from a depression of several months and I'm so grateful to be feeling good again. Life was so dreary for some time, but with the help of a psychiatrist, prescribed medication, time and a friend, the future looks cheerful.

The reason for this letter is to let people know what they can do if a friend or loved one finds himself (or herself) in a depression.

1. Keep in constant contact. A phone call just to ask how I was kept me going.

2. Send cheery notes or cards. (Some days all I received were bills and junk mail.)

3. Encourage your depressed friend to get dressed and get out of the house. Even a walk around the block helps. Some days I left my apartment only to see my doctor or buy a TV dinner.

4. Invite the sick person out for a meal. It doesn't have to be fancy—anything will be appreciated. If your invitation is refused, perhaps just the idea of getting dressed and getting to your home is too much. Tell them you will pick them up even if you live only a block away. Convince them you want their company.

5. If they haven't sought medical help, encourage them to do so. And never ask them what the doctor said. Therapy is a very personal thing.

6. Never tell a depressed person that they should "snap out of it" or that nobody can help them—they have to help themselves. (I thought if one more person told me that, I would scream!)

Above all, let the sick person know that you care about them. People have a hard time pulling themselves out of a depression when they feel that nobody cares.

Thank God for my one concerned friend. Without her, I never would have made it.

SMILING AGAIN

DEAR SMILING: And thank you for an excellent letter.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have a rare coin collection. Recently we noticed that four half-dollars were missing. Their total value is more than $300.

The only person who has been alone in our house is a 14-year-old neighbor boy who sits with our children. This boy's parents are good friends of ours and we wouldn't want to lose their friendship over this.

My husband says we should hide the collection and keep quiet about the missing coins. I say we should confront the boy's parents. I am sure the boy doesn't realize the value of the coins he took. What should we do?

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Whether the boy is under the impression that he took $2 in coins or $300 is beside the point. The boy himself should be confronted. Leave his parents out of it.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Jim Sharp Visits City

Jim Sharp of Big Spring, a candidate for Congressman for the 17th District of Texas, campaigned in Snyder on Friday afternoon.

Sharp made a hand shaking visit around the downtown area. He is seeking the post now held by Congressman Omar Burleson, who has announced plans to retire at the end of the current term. Sharp, who got his name on the Democratic Party ballot by petition rather than filing fee, noted that he got some 300 signatures on this petition in Scurry County.

Machine Lease Is Approved

The Cogdell Memorial Hospital Board of Managers authorized the administrator to lease a new blood counter machine and approved payment of February bills at a special meeting Friday.

A blood counter in use for several years at the hospital is no longer operative, Cy Miller, administrator, told the board.

Firemen Called

A minor grass fire was doused by city firefighters Friday afternoon.

The fire occurred at the intersection of 23rd St. and Ave. Z and was reported at 12:15 p.m.

Three Mishaps Are Reported

Three minor traffic accidents were investigated Friday by city police.

The first mishap took place at 2:19 p.m. at the newspaper office. Involved in the mishap were a 1972 Chevrolet driven by Connie Bratcher Wright and a 1974 AMC driven by Louise Watt Clarady.

The next mishap occurred at the intersection of 37th St. and College Ave. and was reported shortly before 3 p.m. The collision involved a 1977 Chevrolet driven by Teresa Ann Stephens and a 1976 Ford driven by Judy Walker Gard.

The intersection of 30th St. and College Ave. was the scene of the city's final mishap at 5:41 p.m. A 1970 Ford driven by Gwendolyn S. Stewart was in collision with a 1962 Ford driven by John A. Morgan Jr.

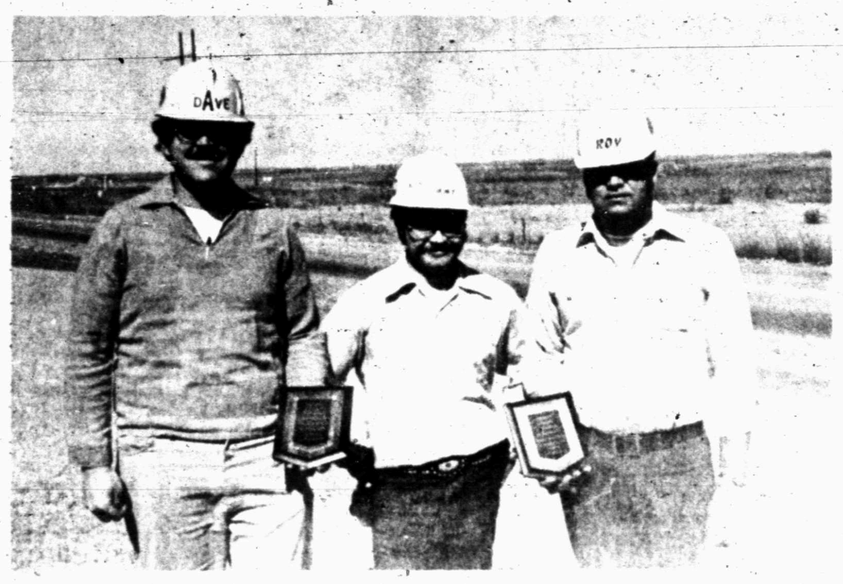
THREE-YEAR AWARDS — Grover Eaton, American Magnesium plant manager, presents a three-year safety award to Ted Young, raw materials supervisor. With them are David Miles, shift supervisor, metal production, and Chris Gray, chlorine supervisor.



GET ONE-YEAR AWARDS — Dave Loflin, left, electrical supervisor, and Roy Phillips, right, masonry supervisor, receive one-year awards from American Magnesium Maintenance Superintendent Sammy Crawford.

1977 AWARD — Bill Meyers, left, chief chemist at American Magnesium, receives the 1977 safety award from Jack Petkovsek, technical manager.

American Magnesium Safety Awards Made

Employees of American Magnesium have been commended by management on their improving safety performance during 1977 and employee groups with perfect records were recognized.

The following personnel and their respective supervisors completed 1977 with no disabling injuries:

Metal Production--Shift A, David Miles, supervisor; Toni Ferdin, Eric Clay, L.C. Devorce, Hilario Celaya, Charles Miller, Domingo Aguilar, Paul Warren, Tracy Walls, Jim Long and Rod Zimmerman.

Raw Materials--Ted Young, supervisor; Waymon Coward, Richard Shaw and Mario Herrera.

Chlorine Department--Richard Pettus, superintendent; Chris Gray, supervisor; Johnnie Ferris, Mike Irwin, Juan Ramos, Thoai Ly, Billy Wilson, Joe Chapin, Cecil Moseley, Adam Rios and Carl Scott.

Electrical Department--Dave Loflin, supervisor; Travis Burleson, Bill Horn, Ken Livingston, Bobby Rayborn, Barry Rinker, A.P. Smith, Bobby Wells and Jacky Barrington.

Masonry Department--Roy Phillips, supervisor; Frank Alarcon, Bill Etheredge, Paul Gutierrez, Irival Ham, Larry McElrath, Thein Pham, Margrito Ramos and Danny Tovar.

Laboratory--Bill Meyers, chief chemist; Bob Lanier, supervisor; Tommy Johnston, Bobby Hunt, Lester Fields, Don Cardinal, Phillip Ratliff and Delwyn Davis.

American Magnesium's 1978 goals are to improve safety performance by 50 per cent over the 1977 results. All supervisors recently completed the DuPont "Stop" program. It is aimed at a total safety awareness.

For Students And Employees

1st Creative Writing Contest Set At WTC

Write now!

Western Texas is conducting its first creative writing contest for all WTC students and employees this semester. Deadline for entry is March 31, and several prizes will be awarded.

Sponsored by the Student Services division at WTC, chaired by Dr. Duane Hood, dean and registrar, the contest includes categories in poetry and short story (fiction). Prizes will be awarded to first and second place winners in each.

Competition will be in two separate divisions.

A "student" division includes all full-time or part-time students enrolled at WTC during the current semester, plus night and extension center students.

A "personnel" division includes all full-time or part-time college employees this semester. All administrators, instructors, secretaries, maintenance and cafeteria personnel, as well as other college employees are eligible.

One cash prize of $35 will be awarded to the first place winner in each of the four individual contests.

Second place winners in each contest will receive gift certificates for dinner-for-two at The Shack or the Spanish Inn restaurants. The Shack, 1005 25th Street, will present two certificates for sirloin for two, and the Spanish Inn, 2212 College, will present two certificates for Spanish Inn Specials, plus drinks.

Contestants must compete in only one division, but may enter one article in each of the two listed categories.

Each entry must be attached to a separate form, signed by the author. Forms are available in the Student Activities office in the Student Center or the Registrar's Office in the administration building. They may be picked up during regular office hours.

Entries must be turned in to the Student Activities office or the Registrar's Office no later than 2 p.m. Friday, March 31.

Material will be returned to authors by mail only if accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Other articles may be picked up in the Journalism Department in the Student Center after April 3.

Each author must relinquish the right of publication to the UNITY magazine, WTC's annual literary magazine which represents the work of both students and college employees.

According to Reva Ferguson, UNITY editor, "All articles must be original. Poetry and short stories must be typed or legibly handwritten, because unreadable articles will be disqualified."

Assisting with the contest is Laurel Mebane, UNITY assistant editor, and Mike McBride, associate professor of journalism and UNITY adviser.

Judges will include members of the Snyder Writers' Guild.

WEST'S TOP SPELLERS — Keith Bryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Truett Bryan, the school winner, and Lance Aldridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Reed, the alternate, were presented trophies by Mrs. Carole Haynes, sponsor, following the spelling bee at West Elementary School. Other contestants were Chris Wiman, Linda Walker, Lisa Thompson, Steven Cox, Mikel Williams, John Traylor, Randy Maxwell, Andy Smith, Mike Adams and Chelle Kruger.

Freedom Of Horn Claimed

SEATTLE. (AP)--Rosie Wiemes says it was just a friendly little toot. Her lawyer says "freedom of horn" is at stake.

Mrs. Wiemes, who honked her horn to be friendly to an union picket Feb. 18 was given a ticket for unlawful honking.

"I couldn't believe it. He got me for bad tooting," she said of the officer who ticketed her.

"It's obviously a First Amendment case," insists her lawyer, Alva Long. "Freedom of horn."

But he added that state law says a driver can "when reasonably necessary" give a warning honk but "shall not otherwise use such horn on the highway."

Dollar Decline Effects Felt

NEW YORK (AP) - The effects of the year-long decline of the dollar in the world's foreign exchange markets are coming home to roost.

Americans are faced with higher prices for imported German beer and wine, stereos from Japan and Scotch whisky from Great Britain.

For Americans abroad who must exchange dollars for local currencies, the effects can be dramatic.

In West Germany, for example, a quart of milk costs the equivalent of $2. Some U.S. servicemen stationed in Germany are sending their families home because the cost of living is so high.

The dollar, which brought roughly four marks in the late 1960s, recently was bringing only about two - a record low in Frankfort.

It also hit a record low against the Japanese yen in the past week although it showed signs of recovering a bit by late in the week.

In both Japan and Germany, there were reports that government banks were considering a number of moves designed to slow the relative rise of their currencies and bolster the dollar.

The U.S. Federal Reserve, this nation's central bank, announced this last week that it was once again involved in negotiations with Germany to strengthen the dollar in currency trading.

In the last six months of 1977, the dollar lost 10 percent against the Japanese yen, 8 percent against the West German mark and other European currencies tied to it, 21 percent against the Swiss franc and 12 percent against the British pound, the Federal Reserve said.

The dollar's decline has concerned U.S. officials as well as foreign governments who fear their export business will be hurt because they must either raise prices or cut profit levels because the dollar is worth less than used to be.

While the transfer of price increases is not always direct or immediate, for a variety of reasons, higher prices are already being charged for a variety of imported goods.

Electronic products imported from Japan increased just under 10 percent in January, said a buyer for Tandy Corp., the nation's largest retail electronics chain. More increases are expected.

Prices of imported beer and wine, primarily from West Germany, and Scotch from Great Britain have also seen recent increases. One importer estimates that prices went up 5 to 7 percent for imported wines and liquors in January. Future prices depend on the dollar.

In theory, the decline of the dollar is not all bad. While the cost of imports to the United States is forced up, the cost of goods exported to foreign countries should be relatively cheaper and thus help the sales of U.S. products overseas.

Since the U.S. trade deficit, which reached a record $26.7 billion last year, has been a major factor in the falling value of the dollar, the market continues somewhat of a self correcting mechanism.

But ecnomists point out that imported oil, which was by far the biggest cause of the U.S. trade deficit, makes simple or quick solutions impossible.

Without an effective plan to cut oil imports drastically, the U.S. faces a continuation of major trade deficits even is its own exports do improve dramatically.

Plant Notion Being Studied

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - Remember the old-time farmer whose notion of when to water crops depended on whether they felt cool or warm to his hand?

That very notion is under intensive study at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Water Conservation Laboratory here.

Instead of using a hand to take crop temperatures, laboratory director Herman Bouwer and his fellow scientists use super-sensitive infrared thermometers.

Now in the experimental stage, the thermometers are manipulated manually, but the scientists envision infrared equipment mounted in satellites capable of global scanning of agricultural fields.

Flu Deaths Decrease In Week

ATLANTA (AP)-- Influenza deaths in the United States have declined during the past two weeks, with most of the deaths attributed to the A-Texas and A-Victoria flu strains, the national Center for Disease Control said Friday.

Russian flu has been isolated from each geographic region in the nation and continues to spread, striking high school and college age groups, the CDC said in its Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report.

A virus similar to A-Texas or A-Victoria was evident in every state except South Dakota, the report said.

Although pneumonia and influenza mortality continue to decline, deaths from those causes remain slightly above the expected number in the South Atlantic region, the CDC said.

Young persons are more susceptible to the Russian virus because it is similar to one prevalent in the United States between 1947 and 1957. Persons aged 25 to 50 may have had the virus and then would have some immunity, the CDC said.

Even Prince Takes Break

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)--Being a prince doesn't always involve stuffy formal receptions and business talks.

Britain's Prince Charles took a break from a formal routine Friday to watch Dr. Richard Hoge of the Butatan Institute calmly milk the venom from a 10-foot-long surucucu bushmaster snake.

Prince Charles arrived in Sao Paulo on Friday after spending two days in Rio de Janiero.

Prescriptive Reading Boosts Student Skills

Editor's Note: This is another in a series of articles on Snyder Public Schools programs, presented in connection with observance of Texas Public School Week.

A reading program entitled The Prescriptive Reading Inventory (PRI) is in effect at East and Northeast Elementary. PRI was implemented at Northeast in the 1976-77 school year and at East in the 1977-78 school year.

P.R.I. is a supplemental reading program that is designed to improve students' reading skills. The program is constructed upon a set of behaviorally stated objectives most widely found in the curriculum in grades 1.5 through 6. Involved in the new program will be grades three through six, which will consist of ten classes involving all teachers at this level plus the resource teacher, P.E. teacher, librarian, and music teacher in many instances. The system-wide reading specialist teaches a class and serves as a resource person for the schools.

"The inventory helps us to identify the reading level of each child as well as the skill areas in which he needs additional help," said Anna Ketchum. "The child then masters the reading skills in a particular area, and then he is moved up to the next level to master the skills in that area."

The PRI classes are held for periods of approximately 30 minutes in the mornings at each school and each session of classes lasts for two weeks.

Also to be featured in the program is cross-grade grouping of students. Each student is placed in the reading level that best suits his need. Therefore, it is possible to have third graders in the same class with a fifth grader. Students respond well to movement between classes.

PRI is one approach to the Right To Read Effort in which the Snyder Public Schools is involved.

Rosalyn Will Accept Indian Headdress

HAZEL PARK, Mich. (AP)--Chief Redbird had wanted to give a headdress to the chief of the land, but says the first lady will do.

First lady Rosalyn Carter will personally accept the headdress from Chief Redbird, Mrs. Carter's appointments secretary, Jane Fenderson, said in a letter to John Muse, a friend of the chief.

The 78-year-old ailing Cherokee chief has given headdresses to 10 presidents, starting with Woodrow Wilson. Last year he sent one to President Carter, but the White House sent it back under Carter's policy of accepting no gifts.

After publicity about the matter, Carter agreed last month to name a representative to accept it.

George Dudley, Redbird's son-in-law, said Friday that the chief had agreed to the proposal but he's still hoping that if the chief gets to Washington, President Carter will be available for a few minutes.

Early Steps To Prevent Failure

In the fall of 1976, Snyder Public School Kindergartens implemented a program called "The Early Prevention of School Failure." The program had been developed for a federally funded, Title 3, ESEA project in Peotone, Illinois. Prior to beginning the program in Snyder teachers, principals and aides were given an overview and trained in the use of the program by consultants from the Temple Public Schools.

The program consists of two parts. First, each child in the Snyder Public Schools kindergarten is screened with a series of test to determine his developmental age in the areas of language, auditory, visual and motor. Important data as to the child's learning style, his strengths and weaknesses and emotional and social needs are noted.

Secondly, the teacher is provided this information and given the appropriate teaching strategies and materials to work with each child to meet their individual needs. This is done through the learning center concept. Learning centers in the areas of language, auditory, visual, motor and enrichment are set up in each classroom. Children are assigned to the centers at some time each day to work in the areas of either their strengths or their weaknesses.

In the fall of 1977, the program was extended to include the first grade. Test results, for kindergarten children in the spring of 1977 indicated significant achievement gains for the students involved. Knowledge of a child's abilities and limitations enables the teacher to structure learning situations so that the children are meeting success rather than failure. Through the teacher, child and parent working together each child will be more successful in acquiring the necessary learning skills for a productive life.

Uninformed consent

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

Although the issue of sterilization abuse was recently overshadowed by the abortion financing controversy, it is just as volatile a subject.

This is a double-edged problem. While the operation has been denied to thousands of women, thousands more have been sterilized unwittingly. Most victims of this abuse are poor and members of minority groups.

In this excerpt from a hot-line conversation, a Spanish speaking woman called to talk about her daughter, who was sterilizad "by mistake" when she signed a paper she could not read.

The counselor could not undo this family tragedy. But she did find a way to comfort the mother.

HOT LINE

Mrs. G: Our family came here from Mexico two years ago so our daughter could have a better life. At first everything went well. My husband found a good job and our daughter got married. We all learned English — everyone, that is, except Maria. I encouragad her to study but she didn't understand why it was important. After all, she was engaged to a Spanish-speaking man.

Counselor: Your daughter never learned to speak English?

Mrs. G: Well, she knows a few words. But she never really learned to read. Anyway, she became pregnant. After an uneventful pregnancy, she had a stillborn son by Caesarian section. We were heartbroken.

Counselor: I can understand. That must have been terrible.

Mrs. G: Just wait, the worst is yet to come. She had been in labor for 10 hours when the doctor asked her to sign a paper that would "solve all her problems." Assuming he would deliver the baby if she signed, she thought nothing more about it — until she returned to the hospital three weeks later for contraceptives. At that time, she was told she had been sterilized. How can I help her? She is so depressed. We never should have left Mexico.

Counselor: Why do you say that?

Mrs. G: It was my idea to come to the states and look what I've done. It's terrible...it's terrible.

Counselor: Exactly, what have YOU done?

Mrs. G: I've ruined Maria's life. She'll never be happy again.

Counselor: Do you really feel responsible for what has happened?

Mrs. G: Yes.

Counselor: You moved here to help her and you certainly encouraged her to learn English. She decided not to study the language. That was her decision, not yours. But, really, neither of you are to blame. The doctor is at fault for not checking to make certain Maria understood the consent form. What he did was against the law.

Mrs. G: You mean it's not my fault — and it's not Maria's fault either?

Counselor: That's right. This realization cannot reverse what has happened, but at least you won't feel so guilty. You might even want to bring a legal suit against the doctor.

Mrs. G: What does that mean — bring suit? My English is not so good.

Counselor: It means that you can take the doctor to court and try to get some money from him because he mistreated Maria.

Mrs. G: I would like to do that. How do I begin?

Counselor: Your first step would be to consult a lawyer. He will tell you what to do.

The mother and daughter began to work on the malpractice suit. Their depression lifted as they became more involved in the legal action. They no longer blamed themselves for the tragedy — and, in the process, Maria learned English.

Dust Hard To Find At Museum

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) - Housekeepers at The University of Kansas' new $5-million Helen Foresman Spencer Museum of Art are finding dust hard to find.

The museum's older artworks are enclosed in special dust-tight display cases made of "water white" glass, a non-tinted material, which contain filtered lighting so that the ultraviolet rays won't fade the rare objects displayed inside.

A high sophisticated air filtering system also has been installed in the new museum to further assure the absence of dust, says museum officials.

Founder Fighting To Keep Boys' Club Alive

EDITOR'S NOTE - Paul Hall has been fighting City Hall for half of his life to keep his boys' club alive. The club, on the brink of collapse a half-dozen times, is doing what other social services can't: convincing young black gang members to turn in guns for musical instruments and pingpong paddles.

By DAVID TREADWELL
AP Urban Affairs Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—The precinct captains dropped in to give him a "friendly warning." Housing officials padlocked his door and tried to evict him. Welfare workers suddenly decided his mother's benefits should be cut.

That was the beginning of Paul J. Hall's 16-year battle with City Hall to keep alive the boys club he founded in the basement of a housing project.

Hall was a teen-ager when it started. Now he's 31. By day, he's a social worker at the Ada McKinley School for retarded children. Nights and weekends, he can be found at the club's storefront headquarters on Chicago's southwest side.

"Paul Hall Warriors Drum and Bugle Corps" reads the sign outside the battered building on South Ashland Avenue. But the sign says nothing of the struggles Hall has endured to keep his dream alive.

"All I ever wanted was to prove to all the youngsters in the inner city that you don't have to get high to be cool, that you don't have to thump to be the baddest cat out there," Hall says.

But, he adds: "I'm a thorn in the side of the city. I've pulled kids off dope, got them out of gangs, kept them from dropping out of school. The city's 'paper' programs, with their millions of dollars in federal funds, haven't done a fraction of what this little club, with almost no money, has accomplished."

Hall says much of his trouble with City Hall stems from his failure to "play ball" with Claude Holman, who until his death a few years ago was alderman of the 4th Ward where the club was located. And his support of liberal independent political candidates earned the displeasure of the city's regular Democratic Party.

"If I had got myself together with the alderman, we'd be a lot further down the road," he says. "But I didn't want to sell my soul. I'd seen a lot of black men who tried to do something for the community sell their souls and get nothing but crumbs in return."

Hall was 14 and living in a public project when he formed the club. It started as a baseball team, with equipment and a basement clubhouse provided by the Chicago Housing Authority.

The club grew into a year-round organization attracting hundreds of neighborhood youths. Money for pool tables, pingpoing equipment and clubhouse furniture was scraped together from bake sales and dances.

But Hall felt that if the club could do so well on its own, it could do a lot better with city support. So several hundred youngsters and parents petitioned for a full-scale recreational facility at the project. That's when his problems began.

"Suddenly I wasn't that cute little kid with the baseball team, I was a big troublemaker," says Hall. "This was in the '60s, and the powers that he didn't like blacks organizing for anything that even looked like it was political."

Precinct captains told him mass meetings were ill advised. Club members frequently found the door to the clubhouse padlocked or temporarily being used for storage. The public aid department reduced his mother's welfare check to $62 from $300 and the Housing Authority attempted to evict the family from their apartment.

Then a fire destroyed the clubhouse. Hall badgered housing officials for a new clubhouse and finally got a cramped, windowless space in the laundry room that was often without heat and frequently flooded by raw sewage seeping from faulty plumbing.

In 1970, the city gave the club $18,000 in Model City funds. But the grant was not renewed the next year after the club ran into trouble with the Internal Revenue Service. Hall says he was not given proper guidelines about withholding taxes from salaries.

"It's just like I was set up, you know, to prove that we would fail," he says.

Finally, Hall decided to confront City Hall. In 1972, he organized a kneel-in at the Civic Center plaza that spread to busy State and Madison streets. Hall was arrested for disturbing the peace and blocking traffic. But as a result of the publicity, the Wieboldt Foundation, a private philanthropic group, gave the club $15,000.

COMP Is Implemented By Elementary School

By CURTIS W. TATE

HERMLEIGH — Hermleigh Elementary School is implementing the Conceptually Oriented Mathematics Program for students in grades one through six, according to Billy Haynes, Elementary School Principal.

COMP provides a comprehensive program designed to meet individual needs in mathematics through small group instruction.

Students take placement tests to determine their individual strengths and weaknesses and are grouped accordingly. Students grouped in this manner are more able to receive the assistance they need.

Post tests are given to the students after they have completed one of the program levels to see how well the students have progressed. Students will be retaught those concepts in which they did not achieve eighty percent mastery for a given behavioral objective.

The success of COMP can be attributed to several factors. If a student is placed in the proper group, he will experience fewer failures, and successful experiences become more important to the student than the level on which he is working.

Another reason for success is that parents, as well as students, seem to be more encouraged by a progress report than a letter or numerical assessment of progress. Also COMP unifies the instructial efforts of the teachers and allows them to function as a team.

Two names were inadvertently omitted last week in the honor roll lists for the second quarter. They are Kevin Roemisch and Donna Johnston.

In order for a computer to have a memory that matches that of the human brain with the capability of storing up to 100 billion items of information, the machine would require a building as large as the Empire State Building, says National Geographic. The man-made computer would consume electrical energy at the rate of one billion watts, or just about one-half the output of Grand Coulee Dam.

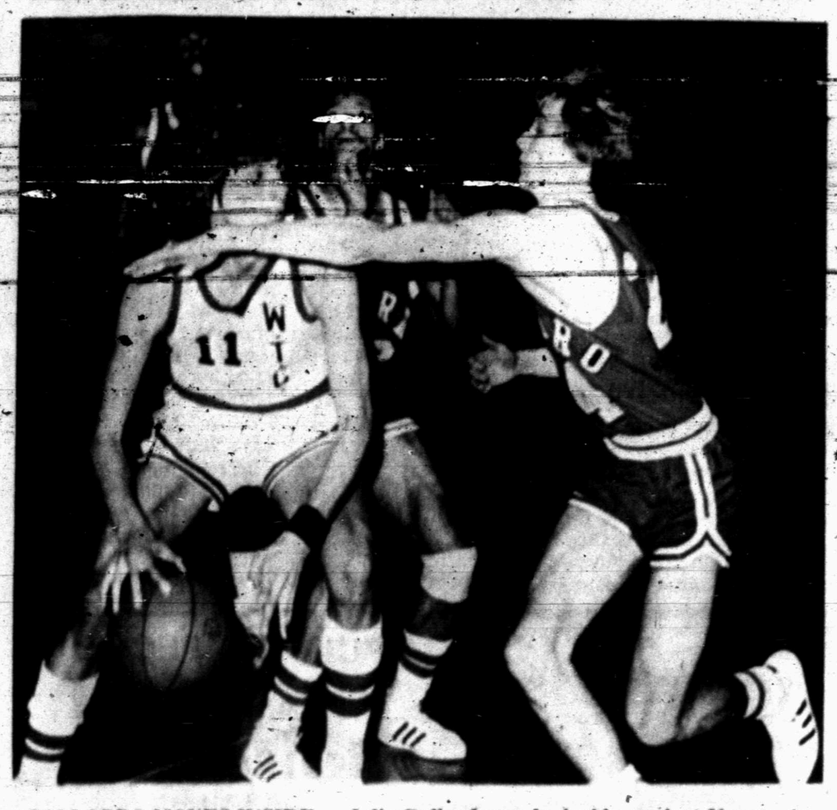
Westerners Slide Past Navarro College! Battle Top Ranked Casper Tuesday



GALLARDO MOVES INSIDE — Julio Gallardo works inside against Navarro's Jeff Smallwood in round-one action of the NJCAA Tournament played in Stephenville. WTC won the contest, 81-79, and will advance to the tourney grounds in Hutchinson, Kan. for the remainder of the tournament. The Westerners are scheduled to play Casper, Wyo. Tuesday at 6 p.m. (SDN Staff Photo By John Long)

By BILL McCLELLAN

STEPHENVILLE — It wasn't a run-away victory. Only two points separated the team at the final buzzer.

It wasn't especially a beautifully executed contest. Both teams perhaps can look back to moments of smoother play during the season.

And, it wasn't a premediated victory. The several hundred Westerner fans were able to begin their "We're Number One" chant with only 18 seconds remaining.

But nevertheless, Western Texas College reached up and pulled down one-fifth of that proverbial 'pie-in-the-sky' here Friday night by edging Navarro Junior College 81-79 in round-one action of the National Junior College Athletic Association National Tournament.

The Westerners, 29-6, now proceed to the NJCAA tournament grounds in Hutchinson, Kan. where they are slated to take on number one ranked Casper, Wyo. in round-two play Tuesday at 6 p.m.

With 1:32 left in the game Friday, Julio Gallardo sunk the top end of a one-and-one charity shot to cut Navarro Junior College's lead to a two-point 77-75 margin. The 6-8 sophomore failed to hit on the second attempt, but Reginald Reid -- the same man who provided some clutch free throw shooting for WTC in the Regional Tournament a week ago -- grabbed the rebound and stuffed it in for the tying score.

Seconds later, the Snyder-based squad got the ball back and began a passing game towards the basket. The ball circulated from Reid to Joe Mendoza and back to Reid again several times before Gallardo accepted a pass and scored a jump shot from the top of the key to put WTC ahead 79-77 with 38 seconds remaining.

Then with 18 seconds showing on the Wisdom Gym clock, Westerner Jon Moorehead was fouled. The 6-9 native of El Paso, one of only two WTC players from last year's sixth-in-the-nation squad, walked to the line amidst ravings of "We're Number One!" from Westerner fans and players alike. Moorehead basketed the top end of the free throw pair, icing the contest and sending WTC to Hutchinson.

"It was a great game," Coach Nolan Richardson commentated afterwards. "I just want to thank the good Lord for letting me be here and for listening to our prayers. I'm just real

WTC Game To Air Here

Basketball fans who were unable to go to Stephenville and see the WTC-Navarro game Friday night will have an opportunity to see a videotape of the game Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Jim Tully of WTC taped the game and it will be shown on Channel two of the Snyder cable (SCAT) immediately following the Houston-Notre Dame game this afternoon. The Houston-Notre Dame first round NCAA playoff game is to be televised at 3 p.m. on NBC.

Gymsters Fall To Permian

Odessa Permian edged out Snyder in a gymnastics dual meet here Friday night, but Coach Doug Fitzjarrell indicated he was pleased with the results, despite that fact.

"This was a super meet for us. Permian was second in the state last year and beat us by 14 points then. To get as close to Permian as we did shows we are really improving. The kids did a super job."

Snyder fared best in girls' competition, where Pam Blankenship's 27.68 and Teri McCarty's 27.35 were good enough for first and second in the all-around.

As a team, Snyder scored 88.08 while Odessa pointed 91.05.

In individual competition, Rita Black scored a 7.40 and Miss McCarty scored a 6.93 to place first and second on the balance beam. Miss Blankenship was second in vaulting with an 8.36.

On the uneven bars Sara Youngkin was third with a 7.3. Pam Blankenship placed first and Miss McCarty was third in the floor exercise with scores of 8.20 and 8.06.

Permian boys defeated Snyder 123.55 to 116.35. Bobby Overhulser was second all-around with a 40.60 while Freddy Quiros was fourth with a 39.75.

In individual competition Overhulser took third on the Pommel horse with a 6.35, third on the still rings with a 6.8, third in vaulting with a 7.4 and third on the parallel bars with a 6.65. Quiros was first on the still rings with a 7.2 and third on the horizontal bar with a 6.65.

Jr. Netters Rip Forsan Here

The Snyder Junior High tennis team went undefeated against Forsan here in Snyder recently.

The boys won 16 watches with no losses, and the girls won 9 matches with no losses, composing an overall 25 wins, no losses for the teams first duel match.

In the Snyder boys matches Randy Burrus defeated S. Wright 8-1, John Wilson defeated Casey Clark 8-1, Tommy Collum defeated Layne Mims 8-0, Trey Harlin defeated Casey Clark 8-4, Stocky Roberts over Q. Huitt 8-0, Chff Payne over R. Bedwell 8-5, Stormy James over Joe Blamie 8-2, and Bobby Alexander over P. Harris 8-2.

In boys doubles R. Burrus-J. Wilson defeated S. Wright-R. Bedwell 8-4, T. Harlin-C. Payne defeated Q. Huitt and C. Clark 8-2, T. Collum-B. Alexander over Croft-Price 8-2, D. Hartman-A. Sealy over Harris-Barron 8-0, S. Roberts-T. Harlin defeated Bedwell-Wright 8-4, C. Melgar-J. Garcia defeated Harris-Barron 8-1, Sealy-Hartman over Price-Gross 8-6, and T. McWilliams-M. Cypert over Stokes-Blaime 8-3.

In girls action Tracey O'Day defeated Anderson 8-4, Kelley Scott over Nichols 8-1, Tammy Martin over Nix 8-1, and Christina Ramirez over Soles 8-4.

In doubles action KelleyScott-Tracey O'Day defeated Anderson-Nichols 8-3, Robyn Harlin-Tammy Martin over Nix-Gaston 8-2, Tammy Farmer-Jessica Richardson over Soles-Krause 8-5 and Kelley Scott-Tracey O'Day defeated Gaston-Nichols 8-1.

U.S. Hopes Swept Under

OTTAWA (AP)-Hopes for the first American sweep of individual titles since 1959 were dashed when Linda Fratianne was dethroned by East Germany's Anett Poetzsch at the World Figure Skating Championships.

Poetzsch, the 17-year-old who held the lead through the compulsory figure and free skating events, scored a narrow victory to end Fratianne's chances of joining newly-crowned king Charlie Tickner on the world figure skating throne.

Tickner, from Littleton, Col., had jumped from third to first Thursday night, becoming the first American male gold medalist since 1970.

Controversy Over Next Site...

'Horns Rally Past Owls

By The Associated Press.

The National Invitation Tournament appears to be experiencing some scheduling problems. Of course, that's not Abe Lemon's concern right now. all he cares about is a power shortage in rebounding.

"If you hear of anybody out here who can jump, please send him to me and I don't care if he's 3-foot-2," noted the Texas coach.

Lemons had every right to be upset Friday night after watching his 16th-ranked Longhorns basketball team stand around during a lackluster first half as they trailed the Temple Owls, 30-23.

But that ended with his firey halftime speech.

The Longhorns responded to their coach's proddings. They produced more than twice as many points in the second half and went on to a 72-58 victory over the Owls and moved to next week's NIT quarter-finals.

Texas will meet Nebraska, though the site and date remained undetermined through a misunderstanding over whose home court will be used. Reportedly, both teams were told by the NIT committee that they would host quarter-final games if they won in the opening round.

An NIT official announced that a decision in the matter would be reached sometime early next week.

In other contests, Indiana State defeated 17th-ranked Illinois State 73-71, North Carolina State whipped South Carolina 82-70, and Dayton trimmed Fairfield, 108-93.

Along with the Texas-Nebraska game, Indiana State will face Rutgers, North Carolina State will meet No. 19 Detroit and Dayton will tackle Georgetown in quarter-final games next week.

Larry Bird scored 27 points and Harry Morgan added 18 as Indiana State came from behind in the final minutes to edge Illinois State.

Losing 58-53 with 11 minutes remaining, the Sycamores rallied to take the lead 71-70 on Howie Johnson's jump shot with 2:12 to go. The winners then went into a delay game with 1:39 remaining and Dan Rutledge's layup gave the Sycamores a 73-70 lead and their winning points with 35 seconds remaining.

Kendal "Tiny" Pinder scored 18 points to lead a balanced North Carolina State attack as the Wolfpack defeated South Carolina. North Carolina State never trailed after the early going and built a 52-33 lead six minutes into the second half. The Gamecocks, paced by Jackie Gilloon's 25 points, rallied to cut the Wolfpack lead to 66-58 with 3:10 remaining but could get no closer.

Jim Rhoden's 26 points powered Dayton to a school-record point total as the Flyers whipped Fairfield. The Flyers' point total was the most the three-time NIT champions ever have scored in post-season action.

Mark Young sand 14 of 19 free throws and scored a game-high 32 points for Fairfield, which trailed at halftime 50-41.

Jim Paxson contributed 25 points and Erv Giddings 18 for the Flyers, who took an early 31-26 lead and were never headed.

Three men have coached in four Super Bowls, Tom Landry of Dallas, Don Shula of Miami and Baltimore, and Bud Grant of Minnesota.

Westerners Slide

Westerner Texas (81) — Gallardo 16, Moorehead 6-15, Williams 1-0-2, Beadle 6-2-15, Worthington 7-0-14, Brown 0-0-0, Meadows 0-2-2, Partridge 0-0-0, Totals 36-7-81.

Navarro (79) — Bahnemann 2-1-5, Booker 3-2-8, Jefferson 1-0-2, Orr 8-9-25, Burns 8-8-24, Whittenburg 0-0-0, Jackson 2-3-7, Totals 26-21-79.

thankful to Him.

"I've got to also thank the people of Snyder. We had a sixth man out there tonight," he spoke of the crowd, "and it was great.

"I knew it was going to be a heck of a ball game. They're so quick (Navarro). I knew it was going to be down to the wire."

Following Moorehead's free throw, Willie Whittenburg scored for Navarro, bringing the totals to 80-79. WTC took off on a fast break, and Reid was fouled under the Westerner basket with one second left.

Reid, a freshman, scored the first shot of the one-and-one situation to post the game's final point; 81-79. The Bulldogs rebounded the other attempt, but were unable to get off a shot in the final second.

The victory marked WTC's fifth straight, and cut to four the number needed for a national championship.

"We're reaching closer to our goal, and our goal is to be the national champs," related Richardson. "We're on our way."

Thinking of Casper, the number one ranked team in the nation and WTC's next opponent, the coach added, "You're going to be number one by beating number one. At this point we feel we're are number one. We've won five straight. Now we've got to win just four more. That's the magic number."

Four Westerners fired in double figures. Moorehead led the way with 17 points, but close behind were Gallardo with 16, Adam Beadle with 15 and Doug Worthington with 14.

Freshman David Burns scored an impressive 24 points for NJC. The 6-2 Dallas product ripped the Westerners from all over the court, many times leaping over heavy traffic to score. Teammate David Orr led the Bulldogs with 25 points, and Whittenburg scored 10.

WTC managed to complete only one half of its attempts from the charity stripe in the opening period. The 5 of 10 effort ran well below their Regional Tournament mark of 80 percent. The Bulldogs paced 10 of 12 shots from the line in the initial 20 minutes.

Gallardo led the Westerners with 10 points while Beadle found 9 points from outside, drawing ohhs and ahhs from the crowd. Navarro's Orr dropped the first points of the night through the hoops, but WTC countered with 10 uncontested points after that, until Whittenburg found the nets for NJC.

The Westerners led until a little over five minutes were left in the game when Burns edged Navarro in front, 28-27. Burns noted 8 of his 14 first-half points in the final minutes and pushed the Corsicana-based crew to a five point lead before WTC rallied.

Worthington found a pair from the free line and another couple on a 10-footer and Moorehead dropped in two more to give the Westerners a brief 39-38 lead with 1:37 showing.

Navarro stalled for a final shot, and Steve Jackson make the last points of the half by tipping in a missed Jeff Smallwood free throw.

Cool Conditions Freeze Fishing

Cold weather cooled fishermen somewhat, but catches of crappie were still in evidence at Lake E.V. Spence last week. Striped bass began to creep back to their favorite spot of frontrunner.

There were some reports of white bass, a few black bass and channel catfish. Reports included:

Y.J.'s Marina - John and Grace Jackson, Odessa, 81 crappie to 1½ lbs.; Bill Reynolds, Midland, two stripers to 9 lbs.; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ronie, Lubbock, five striped bass to 7 lbs.; Roy McCoy and party from Tulia, 40 crappie and three striped bass, 10 black bass the 20 white bass; Tony Olson, Alvin Buford and Vernon Smith of Odessa, 60 crappie and a 3½-lb. striper.

Triangle Grocery and Bait - Don Wise, Odessa, two channel catfish and two stripers to 6 lbs.

Hillside Grocery - Y.J. and Dair Sherrell, Robert Lee, 54 crappie to 2 lbs., six white bass, and a 2½-lb. black bass.

HAPPY ANGLER — Don Fisk Jr., owner of the West Side Phillips 66, displays an 8-pound bass he caught recently during a fishing expedition to Don Martain, Mexico. The black bass, Fisk said, was caught on a white spinner bait with a black twister. He plans to have the catch mounted. Catching fish almost as large on the outing were fishing buddies Bill Collier and Bob Dennis. (SDN Staff Photo)

Cat JV Cut By Midland

ABILENE -- Snyder junior varsity baseball squad will play here Monday at 4:15 p.m.

The Tigers, who staged a double-header in Snyder Saturday against Brownfield, are "improving all the time," noted Coach Roger Goodwin.

Snyder was defeated by Midland High on Thursday, 6-5. The Tigers slapped in runs in the second, fourth and seventh innings, but gave up two final-inning runs to fall to defeat.

Mike Hicks was charged with the loss.

"I'm real pleased with the improvement we've made over the first three games," commented Goodwin, prior to Saturday's double header. The Tigers were 0-4 going into Saturday's games.

Allen Adds Max Coley

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Rams Coach George Allen has built his assistant coaching staff to nine with the addition of Max Coley to the ranks of the National Football League club.

After naming Coley offensive backfield coach Friday, Allen said he intends to hire still more assistants.

Coley, 50, is a veteran assistant coach who has served with three NFL teams.

Coley last season was on the staff of the San Diego Chargers. He was the Denver Broncos' offensive coordinator from 1972-76.

Missouri Notes Losing Mark Into Playoffs

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

"Cinderella" is a cliche in college baskerball, but Norm Stewart says if the slipper fits, he'll wear it.

"It's one of the greatest things that has happened for the individuals involved," says the Missouri basketball coach. "Something like this doesn't happen very often, but when it does it's good for the school, the team, the conference and the fans."

Stewart, of course, pilots the only team with a losing record in the NCAA playoffs this year, possibly a first in the history of the prestigious tournament.

"It's something for everyone to hang their hats on," notes Stewart as his team prepares to meet Utah Sunday in a first-round game of the Midwest Regionals at Wichita, Kan.

The Tigers won the Big Eight playoffs last week in a surprising tournabout. They came out of that tournament with a hot hand, but only a 14-15 season's record.

"They are playing very good basketball now," said Utah Coach Jerry Pimm of Missouri. "In order to beat Iowa State, Nebraska and Kansas State on successive nights, they have to have been playing extremely well. And from all the information we can gather, their team is playing as good as they've played all season.

In the other half of the Midwest doubleheader at Wichita, midwestern independent DePaul meets Creighton, the Missouri Valley Conference champion with the best record in the NCAA field, 25-2.

Another Midwest doubleheader Sunday at Tulsa, Okla., features Southwest Conference champion Houston against Notre Dame and Louisville of the Metro Conference against St. John's, the pride of New York City.

The East Regionals will be held on Sunday; too, at two sites. In one East doubleheader at Charlotte, N.C., Atlantic Coast Conference champion Duke plays Rhode Island and Furman of the Southern Conference challenges Indians of the Big Ten. In the other at Philadelphia, it's Ivy League champion Penn vs. St. Bonaventure and Villanova of the Eastern Eight against La Salle of the East Coast Conference.

Tigers To Face Steers

ODESSA -- Snyder High School baseball squad, 4-1, was to play Odessa High here Saturday, before taking on the Steers in Big Spring on Monday.

The Tigers defeated Odessa 7-4 last week in Snyder.

Monday's game in Big Spring is scheduled for 4 p.m. Snyder will host Andrews at 4:15 p.m. March 23.

Congressman Checks CBS-Arum Relations

WASHINGTON (AP) - A congressman wants to find out if the CBS television network is playing a role in determining the first challenger to the heavyweight boxing crown held by Leon Spinks.

An aide to Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., said Friday that the San Diego congressman has ordered a staff investigation to determine what relationship there is between CBS and fight promoter Bob Arum.

Arum, the head of Top Rank Inc., is the promoter of Spink's first defense of the championship he won from Muhammad Ali last month.

Had Ali retained the title, he had planned his next fight against Ken Norton. Spinks seems to want his first fight as champion to be a rematch with Ali, although some expect Spinks to face Norton first.

Van Deerlin is chairman of the House interstate and foreign commerce subcommittee on communications.

Chip Shooshan, a lawyer for the subcommittee, said Van Deerlin "is asking the staff in a very preliminary way to look into the relationships, if any, between CBS and Bob Arum ..."

He said the subcommittee was not concerned over who Spink's next opponent will be, but he said the concern is "what role CBS, as a network under the supervision of the subcommittee, is playing."

Cauthen Out Of San Felipe

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)- Steve Cauthen and Affirmed, the combination that already looms as the one to beat in the Kentucky Derby, will not be teamed in the $60,000-added San Felipe Handicap at Santa Anita next Saturday.

Cauthen, Affirmed's regular rider, has been given a 5-day riding suspension Friday that will keep him off the horse in the San Felipe.

The suspension goes into effect next Wednesday and runs through March 19. Cauthen was cited for "not making the proper effort to keep his mount straight, causing interference shortly after the start" aboard Upper Edge in Thursday's second race at Santa Anita.

Mrs. Gay Ruled Insane

CAMDEN, N.J. - A judge ruled that Roxanne Gay was insane when she plunged a knife intot he throat of her sleeping husband, Philadelphia Eagles' football player Blenda Gay. The judge dropped murder charges and confined her indefinitely to a mental hospital.

"It simply cannot be questioned that at the time of the homicide on Dec. 20, 1976, Mrs. Gay was suffering from delusions," Camden County Court Judge I.V. DiMartino said.

Fiori Held Doral Pace

MIAMI - Rookie Ed Fiori was the leader after the completion of the rain-interrupted first round of the $200,000 Doral Open.

Fiori had a 7-under-par 65. Five men with 67s all completed play Thursday before a steady rain flooded the course. The second round will be played Saturday.

Spiess Shocks Ski World

LAAX, Switzerland - Ulrich Spiess of Austria scored one of the biggest upsets of the ski season when he raced to his first ever World Cup victory in the downhill event.

Garmisch, 22, tackled the twisting 3,400-meter course in 1 minute, 57.96 seconds. Franz Flammer was second in 1:58.18, which moved the Austrain to the top of the overall standings with 82 points.

Austin Upsets Navratilova

DALLAS - Teenage sensation Tracy Austin shocked top-seeded Martina Navratilova and ended her 37-match winning streak with a 6-3, 2-6, 7-6 victory in a $100,000 women's tennis tournament.

Austin, 15, of Rolling Hills, Calif., rallied from 2-4 in the final set to win on the last point of a nine-point tiebreaker.

The crowd of 9,800 roared its approval as Austin put the final shot past Navratilova to win the right to meet Anne Smith of Dallas; 18, in Saturday's semi-final.

Poetzsch Wins Ladies Gold

OTTAWA - Anett Poetzsch of East Germany won the gold medal in the ladies competition at the World Figure Skating Championships, ending the one-year reign of American Linda Fratianne.

Poetzsch's victory robbed the United States of its chance of crowning individual men's and ladies champions for the first time since 1959, when Americans Carol Heiss and Alan Jenkins took the titles. American Charlie Tickner won the men's figure skating Thursday night.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY C

WHY STRUGGLE TO GET TO THE TOP IN SOMEONE ELSE'S BUSINESS WHEN YOU CAN START AT THE TOP IN YOUR OWN?
If you have the required investment of $9,975.00 you can have your own highly successful business.
THREE BOOMING INDUSTRIES COMBINED INTO ONE
You will have income from three different sources, not just one. You will manufacture demand items for Banks, Savings & Loan Associations, Hospitals, Schools, Shopping Centers, Office Buildings, Retail Stores, Tourist Industry, Professional Buildings, Factories, Apartment Buildings, Motels, Restaurants, City, County, State and U.S. Agencies, and other businesses too numerous to mention.
We personally install the machinery and equipment for all three industries at your location. You will be thoroughly and expertly trained in all three phases of factory operations (we guarantee your complete satisfaction).
The marketing of your products will be handled by company established sales outlets (no selling by you is necessary).
You will have a protected territory and each state will have a limited number of our factory operations — so be one of the first applicants in your area — act now — an unheard of opportunity to be in an exclusive business for yourself. Achieve total financial independence and become one of the top money makers in your area.

State Airplanes Used For Business And ...

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)- State aircraft are wonderful time and money savers for officials with work to do and also for those with political ambitions and ranch retreats.

An Associated Press survey of flight logs maintained in 1977 by all elected officials with state aircraft disclosed:

—Gov. Dolph Briscoe made 33 trips in his state plane to his Uvalde ranch, where he apparently spent all or part of 68 weekdays during the first 10 months.

The last log entry was Nov. 4, and press secretary Bob Bain said, "the governor virtually mothballed the state plane after that date because of the pending campaign."

—Briscoe, Attorney General John Hill and Agriculture Commissioner Regan Brown, all building up to active political campaigns, flew busily about the state making speeches and contacts.

—Wives, legislators and others whose official purpose for traveling on state aircraft is open to question regularly show up on passenger lists.

Comptroller Bob Bullock normally used his two planes for hard-nosed tax collection and administrative chores, but sometimes provided free air taxi service for legislators.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong's aircraft use also tends to be business-like, but he occasionally flies out to the provinces for a speech. He flew several legislators to a Big Bend-area ranch he wants the state to buy.

Railroad commissioners have used their newly acquired plane to a slight extent for speaking engagements.

Briscoe aides acknowledge he often spends weekends at the ranch but says he leaves on Friday evenings and returns on Monday mornings.

Accepting that, Briscoe appears to have spent at least part of 28 working days - not counting Mondays and Fridays - at the ranch during January-October.

This doesn't count an Aug. 18-23 vacation or the governor's trip to Europe last summer.

Briscoe's work habits are an issue in this year's governor's race. Hill regularly accuses him of "absenteeism" and of tending to personal business at the ranch while a manpower funding "scandal" was brewing in his official family.

Bain said 28 days during 10 months averages out to "slightly more than half a day" per week.

"That would not be absenteeism especially if you take into consideration the periods when the governor is working on Saturdays and Sundays," he said.

Bain said Briscoe worked at least part of 27 Saturdays or Sundays between Feb. 12 and Nov. 5, primarily giving speeches.

While other officials detail the purposes of their flights, Briscoe's logs say only that they were for "official business," even the trips to Uvalde.

The general appropriation bill, however, requires annual reports to include extracts from logs describing "the official business purposes of each flight."

The state auditor reminded Briscoe of the requirement after the governor's 1976 report omitted flight log extracts. But the 1977 report also was turned in without any aircraft information.

Bain said the ranch trips "are regarded as official business. He is governor 24 hours a day."

Bain said the hourly operating cost of the governor's Grumman Gi, including gasoline and the salary of his pilot, is $384, meaning a 30-minute flight from Austin to Uvalde costs the state roughly $192.

Jet Fleet Corp. of Dallas, an air charter service, said Grumman Gis burn 240 gallons of fuel an hour, and aviation fuel costs between 75 cents and 80 cents a gallon.

It might be coincidence, but officials who most actively used their state planes also are involved in contested political races.

Bullock and Armstrong, who seldom used their planes for speechmaking trips, are unopposed for re-election.

Hill made at least 47 flights to address such diverse groups as the Texas Senior Citizens Association and the State Little League Baseball Convention.

Hill also flew in the state plane to Woodville, where he was parade marshal in the Dogwood Festival, and to Laredo to receive the "Mr. South Texas" award.

Brown made more than 50 trips after becoming agriculture commissioner March 28 to speak to trade associations, farm and ranch leaders and consumer groups.

Such trips admittedly are in a gray area.

On the one hand, state officials should not isolate themselves. On the other, state funds are being used to political advantage, providing them with the exposure all politicians need.

"Every public official has to decide whether these speaking invitations are part of the job, and I decided they are. It is the only way most people will ever have a shot at asking a question of an officeholder face to face, and I think these experiences are healthy both for the officerholder and the public," said Hill.

Hill's use of his state plane for speaking trips tapered off after he formally announced for governor on Sept. 19. But he flew in it to Corpus Christi Oct. 1 to speak to the Texas Speech and Hearing Association and to Houston on Oct. 15 to address a conference on rights of the handicapped.

Brown, running for a full term as agriculture commissioner, said a former member of the state auditor's staff advises him whether each flight is legal.

He said he always travels as Commissioner Brown, not Candidate Brown, but acknowledges it is hard to separate the two.

"Everything we do is political - all the state people. This is a political organization," Brown said.

The wives of Briscoe, Hill and Brown often accompanied them on state aircraft. Armstrong's wife and Bullock's ex-wife rarely were passengers.

Bullock asked Hill on April 30, 1976, for an opinion on aircraft use, including the legality of wives as passengers.

Hill waited 18 months to answer, then said: "The flight must be for official business and there must be a business reason for the presence on it of any of the people you name" - including wives.

But Hill left lots of room for judgment calls, including the "traditional role" of the official's wife and her connection with the trip's purpose.

Mrs. Hill was a passenger on Hill's plane 33 times last year.

Legislators are hard to turn down when they ask for a plane ride.

Vitamin B shortage?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I just came from the doctor's office and after taking my blood pressure, he announced my diastolic was low and prescribed vitamin B. I'm a bit dubious about my having a shortage of that vitamin as I've been eating food that were high in it — brewer's yeast, wheat germ, dried fruits and a good balanced diet. In fact I was getting so red around the eyes that I cut down on some of this. What else could cause a low diastolic pressure and what might one do to normalize it?

DEAR READER — When people tell me they have seen a doctor, I never know what kind of doctor they mean. There are different disciplines including M.D.s, osteopaths and chiropracters just for starters and that is not the end of the list.

You either have misinterpreted what the doctor said — and that happens quite frequently with patients — or something is amiss. You can have a normal or elevated systolic blood pressure (top reading) and have a low diastolic (lower reading). There are many causes for this. If you had a leaky valve at the outlet of the heart, a large amount of blood could leak back into the heart after each beat, allowing the diastolic pressure to fall very rapidly. We see this when the valve has been damaged as a result of rheumatic heart disease or birth defects that result in a leaky valve.

A severe anemia may cause a low diastolic pressure but that is not the case in most more common forms of anemia. It may also occur when there is an abnormally large connection between the arteries and veins. You might see this as a complication of a gun—shot wound, or with excessively wide normal connections between the arteries and veins, which occurs with a number of diseases.

It is true that vitamin B-1 deficiencies of severe degree can cause beri-beri heart disease, which sometimes causes a small drop in diastolic blood pressure. But if that were true you would have a lot of other important symptoms too. Under the circumstances I don't see how you can expect to obtain any value from taking additional vitamin B with your history.

I should add that a good doctor would be able to tell from his examination if you have a leaky valve or not and he would most certainly know if you had an anemia severe enough to cause a diastolic pressure drop.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure, so you can be better informed on what controls your blood pressure. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

A common cause of a low diastolic blood pressure reading is a faulty technique. This can happen if the veins in the arm are overfilled with blood. Leaving the cuff on too long and allowing this to happen is one cause. We have trouble with this sometimes too in taking pressure while a person is exercising. It is important to let the arm drain out all the venous blood frequently so a false low reading will not occur. And I should mention that where the stethoscope is placed to listen to the beat makes a difference. If it is not over the artery a low reading may be obtained. Any abnormal reading should be repeated at least once at a subsequent office visit.

Winning DAR Essays

Editor's Note: Out of 20 eighth grade students and four seventh grade students from Snyder Junior High entering the Daughters of the American Revolution Essay Contest a winner was picked from each grade. Their winning essays follow.

WINNERS — Jessica Richardson, left, an eighth grade student, and Margaret Anderson, seventh grade student from Snyder Junior High were winners of the DAR Essay contest held recently. Mrs. Clyde Hall, teacher of Social Studies conducted the contest.

What America Means To Me

By Jessica Richardson

On June 7, 1776, the Continental Congress met in Independence Hall in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Their purpose was to join the thirteen colonies together and become one nation. Thomas Jefferson was asked to write a document, The Declaration of Independence, stating what the colonists set out to do. He wrote, "All men are created equal. They have the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." With this in mind, our great country was born and established.

This idea is exactly what America means to me. America was established on the thought that no man is better or more important than his neighbor. Each citizen of our great country can work, enjoy himself, and worship in his own way because of this. We are governed by the oldest self-government in existence, a democracy, government by the people and for the people.

However, America is not all freedoms. With these freedoms given to us by our forefathers, we Americans also have many great and tremendous responsibilities. Freedom requires that we love our country, support its constitution, obey its laws, respect its flag and defend our country against all enemies. These are the ideas of freedom that I believe our forefathers had in mind when they established this country. They were men who were willing to live and die for what they believed in.

Our forefathers led our country from suffering to freedom and into a future they could not see. They handed this country down to young leaders who were willing to take the responsibility. Therefore, America has been built on our own strengths, energy and talents.

I love my country and am proud to be an American.

These words add up my feelings of America "Hear our drums and fife, see our proud flag fly. We fought here a long time ago. Do not forget us. We were the Americans." Author Unknown.

What America Means To Me

By Margaret Anderson

America means a lot of things. It means joy and hope. It means sorrow and pain. But, America also means liberty and justice.

America has had her good times and her bad times. She has seen many wars: the American Revolution, the War of 1812, the Mexican War, World War I and World II. These wars were fought for what we as Americans should stand for freedom. America has been through times such as the Slavery Era, the Great Depression, and Dustbowl Era. Even today, things are not perfect, but as Americans we can pull together to a better tomorrow.

But, why must we talk of bad times when America also means glory. The greatest thing, if any, that came out of our country's problems is the way we have been able to always come out on top. We have found some of our country's greatest leaders during these times. So I say, that without problems there is no glory afterward.

America also means getting ahead. Just think of how America has been ahead of most of the world in inventions, telephones, cars, airplanes and the first trans-continental railroad. Today in the space age, Russia may have had the first satellite, but now we have had trips to the moon, satellites on Mars, and satellites going to more distant planets this very minute.

America has had some great leaders: Washington, Lincoln, and Roosevelt. Along with great leaders, we also have a good government. It may not be perfect, but it is as close as we could ever come. All this really expresses what America is. It means a lot of different things, a different thing to every person. But to sum it all up, this is what America means to me: The hope for tomorrow, liberty for all who love her and the freedom to live as we wish.

Area Artists To Have $3,200 In Prizes, Awards

Area artists will be competing for $700 in prizes and nearly $2,500 in purchase awards at the seventh annual Snyder Palette Club art competition to be held March 18-19 in the Scurry County Coliseum.

The contest is open to all adult artists living in the surrounding area and entries will be accepted in painting and sculpture categories. Harold A. Roney of San Antonio will serve as judge.

Prizes of $200, $100 and $50 will be awarded for first, second and third places respectively in each category. Purchase awards range from $50 to $500. Purchase prizes total $1,925 this year. They include Mr. and Mrs. Bill Eiland, Western Texas College, Mr. and Mrs. A.Z. Glover, Sullivan and Stanfield Ins. Co., Snyder Saving and Loan, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. Red Faver, Hall Drug, Arrow Const. Co., Mr. and Mrs. Bentley Baize, Jay Huckabee Co., Buchanan Printing Co. Dupree Motor Co. and Floyd Welding Service.

All entries must be original in design and must have been completed within the last two years. Pictures and drawings must be framed and should not exceed 50 inches in any dimension.

The work should not previously been exhibited in Snyder. Sculpture dimensions are the same as the guidelines for paintings.

Each artist may submit three entries. Any work not in good taste will be rejected by committee.

The cost is $4 per entry and $3 per entry for members of Snyder Palette Club. A 20 percent commission will be charged for all sales except purchase awards.

Hand-delivered works should be brought to the Coliseum between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. March 15. Crated works should be shipped to Scurry County Coliseum, East Hwy., Snyder, Texas 79549; and should arrive before March 10.

The exhibit will be open from 2 to 9 p.m. March 18, and from 1 to 5 p.m. March 19. Awards will be presented at 3 p.m. March 19.

HOPE For Tomorrow Offers Two Classes

Due to the large response to the HOPE For Tomorrow Weight Control Class, another class will be offered at 4 p.m. The regular 6 p.m. class has been changed to 7 p.m. These classes will meet each Tuesday at Western Texas College, Rooms 203 and 204. New members may enroll between 3:15 and 3:45 for the first class and 6:15 and 6:45 for the second class.

If you have extra pounds you would like to be rid of, and you would like to do something for the hungry in your community, then you are invited to attend one of the classes. HOPE For Tomorrow's purpose is fighting world hunger through self dicipline and contribution of funds. There is no charge for these classes. They operate on donations. All expenses for operation are taken out of donations-all over expenses will be donated to the Goodfellows, a local non-profit organization to buy food for the hungry.

Pat Dennis, instructor, asks, "If you would like to do what you can, where you are, with what you have, and learn from yesterday, live for today, and hope for tomorrow, come join."

Class instruction is offered from the 'basic four' food groups. Also, instruction in eating fast foods such as hamburgers, cheeseburgers, pizza, tacos, and etc. Many other topics are covered. You are under no obligation to continue. You may drop out and rejoin the class anytime at your own convenience.

Home Ceremony Weds Couple

The home of the bride was the setting for wedding vows exchanged by Betty Leona Bynum and Robert Warren Boyd, Friday, February 17 at 7 p.m. The ceremony was performed by George White, minister of the Northside Baptist Church.

Parents of the couple are, the late Mr. and Mrs. A.A. Behringer Sr. and the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Boyd.

The couple took vows beneath an archway of greenery entwined with baby's breath. A fireplace back of the arch featured a large mirror. A large gold and white Bible stood on the mantle.

The bride wore a formal length dress of pink polyester fashioned with long sleeves and high neckline. The empire-style waistband featured scroll-design embroidery in pastel shades of green, blue and rose. Her corsage was white carnations.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT WARREN BOYD

The house was decorated throughout with bouquets of assorted flowers and greenery. Guests registered at a table covered with an ecru lace cloth over brown, centered with a bouquet of red tulips.

The reception was held in the dining area. The table was covered with a white lace cloth over pink with pink carnations pinned in swag fashion at the sides. The centerpiece was an arrangement of pink and white carnations. The two tiered all white wedding cake was topped by a miniature bride and groom. Miss Dorothy Taylor, niece of the groom, and Mrs. E.D. Loyd served cake and punch to the guests. Crystal and silver appointments were used. Background music was played during the reception and included two of the couple's favorite songs "You Light Up My Life" and "What A Difference You've Made In My Life."

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd both attended Snyder Schools. Mrs. Boyd also attended Western Texas College and Mr. Boyd attended Technical school at Texas A&M College.

They will reside at 1909 15th Street.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD WAYNE FREYTAG

Former Resident Weds

On Saturday, January 7, 1978, Donna Ann Gage of Temple, formerly of Snyder, became the bride of Richard Wayne Freytag of Temple.

The double ring ceremony was performed at 7 o'clock in the evening by Judge Jim Clawson of Temple.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. I.W. Gage of Temple and former residents of Snyder. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Freytag of Temple.

The wedding took place in the home of the groom's parents. The bride, given in marriage by her father, was escorted down the staircase to where the ceremony took place before the fireplace. The mantel was decorated with a 15 branch candelabrum entwined in greenery and complimented by a white bow. On either side of the fireplace were standing floral arrangements of pink carnations and gladiolus tied with pink bows.

The bride was attired in a street length dress of white knit. The bodice was gathered to a V shaped yoke and tied by a bow at the neckline. It had long puffed sleeves and a gathered skirt which was belted at the waistline.

The bride's bouquet was of pink carnations and baby's breath, with white net and long pink streamers.

Sharon Gage of Abilene, was matron of honor.

Serving as best man was Gary Freytag, brother of the groom, of College Station.

Traditional wedding music was presented by Vickie Williams, at the organ.

The bride's mother wore a blue suit and the groom's mother wore a turquoise suit. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages.

A reception was hosted by the groom's parents in their home.

The bride graduated from Snyder High School and Abilene Commercial College. She also attended Western Texas College and Temple Junior College.

The groom graduated from Temple High School and Temple Junior College.

After a wedding trip to Austin, the couple will be at home in Temple where the bride is employed by Farmer's Home Administration and the groom is employed by Freytag's Inc.

Six hearts is what is sometimes called a laydown or cinch contract. It really is, but we imagine that most declarers will play a little carelessly and wind up coming up one trick short.

You start by taking dummy's ace of spades and continue with the king of trumps. East shows out and if you don't see the danger signals you will just continue trumps. In order to pull all West's teeth you will have to use up all but one of your trumps. Then you start on diamonds only to find that that nasty East will refuse to take dummy's jack of diamonds with his queen.

South will have to use his last trump to get to his hand and will have to lose both his diamonds.

An ounce of precaution at trick three will keep this sad result away from South.

He should cash dummy's ace of diamonds before leading the second trump. Then he draws all West's trumps while discarding the king and jack of diamonds from dummy. Then he knocks out the queen of diamonds and wins a nice rubber.

Ask the Experts

Continuing our answer to yesterday's question, the "Unusual" notrump is a notrump bid that obviously can't be serious. It shows a minor-suit hand.

Suppose you pass as dealer with:

♥ x
♦ Q J 10 x x x
♣ A Q x x x

The bidding goes: one heart-pass-one spade. You bid one notrump to show both minors by this one bid.

Bagpipes Are Still Popular

WASHINGTON (AP) - A good set of bagpipes is hard to find these days due to a growing popularity of the instruments which has led to a worldwide shortage, says National Geographic.

"Many of the old master bagpipe makers have died. Those who remain are few and far between," says Scots Guard Pipe Major John G. Slattery, whose group recently performed here.

Besides a tendency to closely guard the trade secrets of bagpipe makers, there has also been a scarcity of African blackwood, which is essential in a good set of bagpipe, according to Geographic.

Bagpipes are believed to have originated 3,000 years ago in the Hittite culture of what is now Western Turkey. During the Second World War, pipers regularly led troops into battle, and even today, pipers in Scottish regiments must be certified as medics.

Gorilla To LA Seeking Lover

SAN DIEGO (AP)-After 10 years in San Diego, Massa the gorilla is heading north to Los Angeles in search of a lover.

The 13-year-old male has been a resident of the San Diego Zoo and Wild Animal Park since he was rescued as an infant in 1965 by a Peace Corps worker in Gabon, Africa. He had been orphaned by poachers who slaughtered his mother.

He was cared for by Albert Schweitzer's daughter, Rhena Eckert, until 1968, when he became too big to handle and was shipped to San Diego.

Massa just didn't hit it off with Alvila, a female gorilla about his age who was born at the zoo. Last week Alvila was carted off to Fresno's zoo to see whether she might be more interested in Freddie, their resident young gorilla.

And on Thursday, Massa was sedated, given a physical examination, crated and trundled off to Los Angeles on a breeding loan.

Easter Bunny Is Taken For Granted

CHICAGO (AP)-Today the Easter Bunny is pretty much taken for granted as the symbol for Easter, but in ancient times the hare symbolized birth and new life and some peoples considered it to be a symbol of the moon, according to The World Book Encyclopedia.

Later, the hare may have become a symbol of Easter, because the moon determines the date of Easter, the publication says. A more recent German legend has it that a poor woman dyed some eggs during a famine and hid them in a nest as an Easter gift for her children. At the moment the youngsters found the nest, says World Book, a big rabbit leaped away. The tale spread about that the rabbit donated the eggs.

Drum Traced Back To Saint

Gingered Shrimp Dish

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Seafood has been popular for generations with Americans who live near our coastal waters. However, those farther inland have had less opportunity to try high-protein shrimp, crab, lobster and ocean fish.

But improved transportation systems can now deliver fresh and frozen seafood to even the smallest of inland communities. As a result, Americans are eating more fish and shellfish than ever before.

Since Oriental dishes are among the top three on the ethnic food popularity list, here's a quick and easy recipe for gingered shrimp that conjures up visions of the Far East. Serve the dish with rice or chow mein noodles. For a beverage, try tea, beer or a dry white wines such as Chablis or a Grey Riesling.

GINGERED shrimp Oriental is an easy-to-prepare dish.

GINGERED SHRIMP ORIENTAL

- ¼ cup cornstarch
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1 cup dry sherry
- ½ cup soy sauce
- ½ cup water
- 1 pound fresh or frozen, peeled and deveined shrimp, thawed
- 2 tablespoons sesame oil (or any cooking oil)
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 1 large cucumber, forked and cut into 1/8-inch slices, halved (about 2 cups)

In a mixing bowl, blend together cornstarch, sugar and ginger. Gradually stir in sherry, soy sauce and water until smooth. Add thawed shrimp to mixture, tossing to coat and marinate in refrigerator several hours.

In a large skillet, saute onion and garlic in oil until tender. Drain liquid from shrimp and reserve. Add shrimp to skillet and saute until cooked through (about 3 to 5 minutes). Add reserved marinade. Heat to boiling, stirring occasionally. Boil 2 minutes. Stir in cucumber and heat.

Serve shrimp over rice or chow mein noodles. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Cookies can be sinfully delicious without being sinfully bad for your diet.

A case in point is branny cookies. These treats will delight cookie jar raiders of all ages with their combination of wheat bran cereal and whole wheat flour dressed up with cinnamon, brown sugar, raisins and nuts.

BRANNY COOKIES

- 1 cup wheat bran cereal
- ½ cup milk
- ½ cup shortening
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
- ½ cup whole wheat flour
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ cup raisins or dried currants
- ½ cup nuts

In small bowl, mix wheat bran cereal and milk. Let stand 1 to 2 minutes or until almost all liquid is absorbed.

In large bowl, cream shortening, vanilla and brown sugar. Beat in eggs. Stir together flour, baking soda, salt and cinnamon. Blend into creamed mixture. Stir in wheat bran cereal, raisins and nuts. Drop by level tablespoons onto greased baking sheet. Bake in 375-degree oven 10 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from baking sheet and cool on rack. Makes 4½ to 5 dozen cookies.

Nancy Grimmett is Art Styles top chief,
With seventeen Indians she needs some relief
With a smile on her face & eyes bright as the sun
This shop is part of what makes her life fun

Wendy Hicks has grace and charm
With a comb and brush she can do no harm
She can cut the hair to set it or blow
She will please you greatly and off you will go.

Nancy Smith works efficient and hard
She does lots of cuts so her scissors get tired
She styles lots of wigs and styles lots of hair
With both she takes time and shows lots of care

Betty Hildreth is a perfectionist we all know
She fixes with the hair whether set or blow
The perms she gives are for body or friz
With the talents she has she is certainly a whiz

Frankie Estep does work that is varied
She does lots of cuts so her scissors she's carried
She does frosts and bleach and colors the hair
So the work that she does, she does with care.

Mary Ann Juarez can set hair just great
She works with speed so you don't wait
The perms she gives have little curl or a lot
Her cuts are fine, so you can be proud of what you've got.

Karen Hildebrand works fast with a comb
With her speed and accuracy she is well known
With her trusty scissors she can cut hair devine
With her perms and sets she takes care and time

A Wee Bit About Ireland and St. Patrick's Day!

A Great Day for the Irish

Saint Patrick's Day is March 17. That is the date he died hundreds of years ago.

Saint Patrick is the special saint of Ireland.

The story is that he first came to Ireland as a slave.

It was his job to look after pigs and sheep on a lonely mountain side.

He did not like the work so he ran away to France.

He returned to Ireland to bring the Christian religion.

Some poeple say he made the shamrock popular.

The Irish will hold parades in New York, Boston and other U.S. cities. The country of Ireland celebrates St. Patrick's week with parades and concerts and happy celebrations.

Shamrocks

The story that shamrocks will only grow in Ireland is not true.

Each year at ths time, the Irish fly out tons of these plants to their friends and relatives in many parts of the world.

Hurling . . . Ireland's National Sport

Hurling is the national sport of Ireland.

Some experts say that is the oldest ball game in the world.

The object is to catch or hit a leather ball with a wooden stick called a "hurley."

There are 15 players on each team. They try to hit the ball through their goal.

As many as 80,000 fans have turned out to see one game.

Lots of them . . . naughty and nice

The "wee folk" of Ireland

This Irish girl is sitting in the middle of a rath. A rath is a little field circled by ditches, thorn bushes and often rocks. At one time they might have been pens for sheep. There are raths all over Ireland. Some people believe they are the homes of fairies. They believe it is bad luck to disturb them in any way.

The Irish love folktales about make believe "wee folk" or fairies.

Some of them feel strongly about their fairy customs.

Once a short time ago, workmen at Shannon Airport said they were going to strike.

The reason: one of the runways they were building was to go right through a "rath" or fairy fort.

Some Irish believe it is bad luck to disturb a rath in any way.

The path of the runway was changed. The workmen were happy.

Siog Fairies

A rath is said to be the home of the siog (she-OG) fairies.

These fairies make pretty music.

If you hear them, your cares will go away.

If you make siogs angry, they might go out and snatch a baby.

It is said that they replace it with a 1,000 to 2,000 year old fairy.

Leprechauns

Leprechauns are Ireland's best known fairies.

Leprechauns are the shoe-makers for all the fairies.

If you creep up very quietly, you might catch one.

You must never take your eyes off of him.

You should try to talk him into showing you his pot of gold.

Nobody has managed to do this yet, but there is always the first time.

These are only two of many kinds of fairies in Ireland.

You can usually hear a leprechaun before you see one.

STUDIO SEE, the on-the-scene show for kids

Would you like to meet Bernadine, a tarantula from Baltimore? Would you like to see kids playing jazz in New Orleans?

Bernadine and the jazz kids have been on one STUDIO SEE show. This show will be repeated in April.

STUDIO SEE is a fast moving weekly show that travels around the country. Kids usually tell their own stories.

"You have to stay sharp for a kid audience," producer Jane Adair told The Mini Page.

There are four members of a STUDIO SEE camera team.

The field producer makes the contacts and sets up the story.

The director is in charge of getting the action on tape.

The camera person carries a smaller camera than most TV camera crews use.

The sound person records the kids' stories as they tell it.

bilingual boondoggle

There are indications, we are told, that the Carter administration is poised to make a significant move to put bilingual education in public schools back in perspective.

The U.S. News and World Report says that the basic goal — gearing children to use English — is described by one official as a target Carter "wants to hone in on."

It is recognized as an emotional issue, but the current status of bilingual education as decreed by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) has lost support among educators and even more among certain minorities it was designed to help. It is recognized as one of the most costly programs in relation to results and benefits ever devised. Some now call it an outright farce.

It has cost over $600 million to teach 260,000 children in 39 states in both English and their native tongues. Involved are more than 60 dialects, ranging from 28 American Indian tongues to Filipino-Ilocano and Vietnamese.

Moreover, there is a parallel move to scrap the foreign-language ballots in elections. A leader in this effort is Sen. Daniel K. Inouye of Hawaii. He complained that Hawaii spent half a million dollars in 1976 implementing the ballots for Cantonese, Ilocano and Japanese voters in the island state. On election day, only 191 person chose foreign-language ballots.

One election official in Hawaii said some people there felt insulted by being singled out.

"They came to America by choice and are proud of their new country and new identity as Americans," he said.

The same is true of a growing number of parents of children involved in the bilingual education programs in public schools. They feel that the dual instruction is merely prolonging the arrival of the day when their children will become proficient in the English language.

Perhaps the clincher, however, is a report of a government-financed study by the American Institute for Research which found little difference between progress made by the Hispanic students in bilingual programs and that by the Hispanics in regular classrooms. The study showed that in math, those in bilingual programs did better, but in English they did worse. The cost? An average of $1,398 for bilingual pupils, $376 more than for those in regular classrooms.

Abuses of the program also have been revealed. There are reports of schools which kept Hispanic children in bilingual programs long after they became fluent in English.

The question is how much should the federal government underwrite. Congressman Albert H. Quie of Minnesota, a backer of bilingual education probably put it into perspective: "There is nothing wrong with people trying to maintain their culture. But they should be in charge of doing it — not the federal government."

We agree.

our slow spenders

"Federal spending in current fiscal year could fall $10 billion below projections."

That was a headline in the Wall Street Journal the other day. At first glance, it would appear that taxpayers should leap for joy. But hold on. The situation doesn't mean that people in Washington have become frugal, or even thrifty. It's just that, try as they may, they have not been able to spend our money as fast as the federal budget-makers estimated.

The "lag" in spending is explained by the difficulties in getting new government programs started, the bureaucratic tendency to over-estimate spending projections and the intricacies of a growing and more complex budget, says the Journal.

These budget lags have been showing up with some regularity in recent years, but have widened considerably since 1974.

There may be some comfort in knowing that we are producing revenue for the federal government faster than the bureaucrats can spend it. But it would be a more tangible feeling of well-being if they would let us use it a little longer if they are not going to spend it right away.

This problem may disappear, however. That reference to "intricacies of a growing and more complex budget" has us worried. The more complex, the more costly is the usual course. And there couldn't be many things more alarming to taxpayers than an extra $10 billion lying around among a nest of bureaucrats.

'work,' anyone

And another thing: Am I the on' person left on earth willing and happy to type for a living?

I spend at least eight hours every day at a typewriter--and I've done so happily and without resentment.

Yet, one after another, potential employees in my office insist "I don't want to get stuck with a typing job!"

It's those so-called "ladies' magazines" which are brainwashing women with the notion that anything less than being chairperson of the board is somehow undignified and unworthy of their liberated talents.

In 20 major cities office workers are "organizing."

Three unions are fanning the flame. The Teamsters, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and the United Auto Workers. Each of these would like to unionize office workers.

In Chicago there has been since 1973 an association of office workers calling itself WE--Women Employed - secretaries, clerks, technical and semiprofessional employees in about 100 Loop business.

The first objective of WE was to combat discrimination in employment; that issue won the organization its original following.

One of WE's early targets, the Harris Bank, says these women of WE play rough, that they descended on the bank's personnel office with nonnegotiable demands, punctuated with obscenities, and departed with a threat to "cause trouble."

And they did.

They filed sex-bias charges with the Treasury Department, complained to a Senate committee and now have the Department of Labor investigating the bank.

Meanwhile, WE recently sent 25 members with placards to march in the bank's lobby.

But while these confrontations appear to be leading inevitably to further unionization of women in white collars, their valid grievances--against discrimination, for example--are being discredited with nit-picking proclamations against "fixing the boss' coffee" and that sort of thing.

But for those of us whose professional careers require "thinking with our fingers," it is the emerging resentment of the typewriter that is most distressing.

Newspaper and magazine articles galore are designed to embarrass women who take job-jobs.

In my small office, all of us have to do some typing; me more than anybody.

And heretofore we have never felt sorry for ourselves nor discriminated against nor in any way "inferior" as a result.

Any job is likely to become monotonous from time to time, but on those days we just try to think of all the girls who turn away--who are depending on us for their unemployment pay--and we just keep on keeping on.

Letters To Editor

To The Daily News:

It is very evident that Mr. Charles Hardy has never attended a meeting of the American Agricultural Movement, or read any current information on the present-day plight of farmers. Mr. Hardy seems to have appointed himself spokesman for all consumers and taxpayers and we AAM members do not appreciate him speaking for us. Evidently, he does not realize that farmers are not only consumers but also taxpayers. The American farmer not only contributes to the economy by buying the same things all other consumers buy, but also adds millions of dollars to the economy by all the necessary items he must purchase in order to farm.

Yes, Mr. Hardy, the farmer is something special! This is because he feeds and clothes every human in the United States.

The farmer pays the same taxes everyone else does, except for materials used on the farm. You speak of what a burden the farmer is to the taxpayers — have you ever given any thought to the fact that you do not pay any taxes on the money from your oil that you put in your savings accounts. Most all consumers are exempt from one tax or another. As for the commercial taxes you speak of, there doesn't seem to be anyone but you who ever even heard of such a tax.

Mr. Hardy, you say the farmer does not stand on his own feet. Well, the true fact is that farmers involved in the American Agricultural Movement are fighting for this very thing. We have stood on our own feet for so long, while the American economy has leaned on us so that it could prosper, that now the farmer is barely able to withstand the weight. You say the consumers and taxpayers are tired of supporting these high costs. Well, if the farmers finally do fall, you will see what truly high costs are, because then the government will own and operate our land and prices and taxes will have no ceilings.

The American Agricultural Movement is simply fighting for the family farms in our country. And the only way these farms can continue to operate is for them to be given a chance to operate like any other business. There are no other businesses that sell their products for less money than its costs to produce them, except the American Farmer.

To The Daily News:

I am writing concerning the street area between College and Avenue T on 15th street. Various requests have been made for this street to be fixed. The sides are in very bad condition with chug holes. One of the neighbors had an accident on this street earlier in the week. I don't know whether the street condition had anything to do with it or not, but anyway it is badly in need of repair.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It has been eight years since Bella Abzug captured national attention and a seat in Congress with a campaign built on the eye-catching slogan, "A Woman's Place Is in the House."

Bella is gone now, from the House and from elective politics. And the slogan she used with such success back in 1970 has developed a hollow ring in 1978.

Despite all the progress women have made in the intervening years, the House has not become a home for them. There are still only 18 women among 435 House members - the same number who served during John F. Kennedy's first year as president.

And Muriel Humphrey, newly appointed to her late husband's seat, is all by her lonesome in the U.S. Senate, where two women served back in 1961-62.

Leaders of the women's movement, especially those who focus on increasing the political participation of women, are disappointed but not discouraged by the apparent lack of headway.

They understand all too well that the principal reason there are so few women in Congress today is that relatively few women even seek election to the House and Senate. You can't get elected if you don't run.

And in order to run successfully for Congress, it helps to have some experience in state and local politics - something few women could claim, until recently.

That may be changing now, judging from statistics compiled at Rutgers University by the Center for the American Woman and Politics. Back when Bella Abzug first entered Congress, there were just 344 women serving in state legislatures around the country - a mere 4 percent of the total. Today, there are 703 - or 9.3 percent.

Three years ago, women held a bare 2 percent of all elective county government jobs nationwide; today the figure is 3.1 percent. Three years ago, only 4.4 percent of all elective municipal jobs were held by women; today it is 7.8 percent.

Considering the fact that women comprise more than half the American population, their climb up the political ladder is still disgracefully slow. But the movement, at least, is in the right direction.

Even when women do run for Congress, they face innumerable handicaps - most of which have to do with money, and the reluctance of male-dominated party organizations and special interest groups to provide funding to women candidates.

But some of the difficulties encountered by women are of their own making, as a new study by the Rothstein-Buckley political consulting firm illustrates.

The study, based on in-depth questionnaires to 55 women who sought election to Congress or statewide offices in 1976, turned up some fascinating data.

Women, it seems, often run at the wrong time — challenging incumbents, who are increasingly difficult to dislodge, rather than seeking more attainable open seats. They don't always have a written campaign budget and strategy. Some of them make adequate use of polling data, demographic information and research material that is available either free or for little cost.

They rely to heavily on volunteers, including friends and family members, rather than seasoned, paid political experts. They also underestimate the importance of media - both paid advertising and news coverage.

They are, in short, still amateurs in a business that is increasingly professional and cutthroat.

Women's groups, far from being offended, are delighted with the Rothstein-Buckley study. They plan to use it as a primer this year for candidates running for Congress and statewide office.

They don't expect any immediate upsurge in the numbers of women seeking such jobs, but they do foresee better organized campaigns by those who enter the field. And that alone is bound to help.

it's possible

Positive thoughts and emotions affect you in a positive way. This is the conclusion reached by one of the world's leading medical researchers. She wrote, "The will to live produces in the brain vital impulses that stimulate the pituitary gland, triggering effects on the pineal gland that extend throughout the entire endocrine system." What this means is that if you can clear your mind of negative thoughts and emotions, you will discover new resources within for a more exciting, vibrant life.

But how do you maintain this process of mind clearing? Think of it this way. Your mind is a power center. But there can be no power without fuel. This is true whether it's gas for the engine in your automobile or fuel-thoughts for the brain — all power-producing organisms require fuel. And all fuel needs to be filtered before it reaches the power center, or else the power-potential will be either diminished or blocked.

A close friend of mine, George Kay, developed and patented a special filter. His Vacco filter was used in the space vehicles that carried the men to the moon. It is used in a multitude of situations, filtering the fuel in nuclear submarines, missles, power generating plants, and satellites. Not one microscopic piece of bacteria or radioactivity can pass through the Vacco filter.

His filter is really a very simple piece of equipment. I've held one in my hand and taken it apart. It is like a pipe with holes in it. Lying on the pipe are washers. There are 500 washers for every square inch. He told me the filter will trap particles as small as 1/25th of a micron. And it takes 25,000 microns to equal one inch! It is an incredible filter. There is no other filter like it in the world.

But I have good news for you. You do not need to have a Vacco filter installed in your mind. There is another filter available, and it is even greater than a Vacco filter. It can screen out something even smaller than bacteria. This filter can eliminate a negative thought or emotion that would say, "It's impossible!" or "There is no God or heaven," or, "There is no hope." This filter can purify your mind, eliminating fears and doubt. It can even screen out any guilt that you might be harboring.

This filter is available for anyone. You receive it when you invite God into your life. When the eternal God becomes your friend, and you know that He loves you, you will come to know that God is no longer your judge, He is your Savior. Your guilt is eliminated. And if there is no guilt, there will be no doubt. For at the deepest psychological level, doubt is a defensive maneuver of the guilty mind as it seeks to protect itself from believing in a God that would desire changes in my life.

And when you filter out doubt, you also filter out fear.

Now, only healthy, positive and eternal life thoughts can flow into your mind. You have discovered the source of mind clearing that produces the power to live an abundant full and beautiful life. It all begins when you are willing to trust God and believe that He loves you.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Poise is that quality which enables you to buy a pair of shoes without seeming conscious of the hole in your sock."

The American Agricultural Movement is now several months old, and the organization has been successful in calling attention to the economic plight of the American farmer.

Few will deny that prices of agriculture products should be higher. Farmers can show, without exception, that production costs have doubled and tripled while prices for their products have remained at station level.

The real debate comes in how the American farmer should improve the price he receives for his commodity. We've done some extensive reading about 100 per cent parity and we believe that such a goal is realistic in the eye of the farmer. However, like the Texas Commissioner of Agriculture said last week at the Snyder chamber banquet, 100 per cent parity must come from the marketplace and not from the government.

We do believe, however, that the government has a vital role to play, although we view that role as more passive than active. It simply must allow the free enterprise system to work. Most of this nation's economic ills over the past 200 years have been solved by the sweat of the brow and by the ingenuity of the American worker.

Agriculture has long been a leader in taking inovative steps to improve cultivation practices and yield. But a free enterprise system cannot be open-ended on one end not the other. On far too many occasions the state department or some other U.S. agency has played politics with other nations with U.S. farm products.

We believe that the government does have an active role to play in promoting U.S. products and in providing incentives for set-aside programs to balance production with current needs.

What we're concerned about is the negative impression that is being left in the eyes of some of the public. The situation last week at the Hildado bridge seemed to be a case of police over-reaction, but farmers, some say, incited their actions.

The egg-throwing incident in Amarillo and the rock-throwing incident in Big Spring and the isolated reports of threats to non-sympathers, we still believe, are isolated and do not represent the average, hardworking agribusinessman of this nation.

We're ready for that three-inch rain.

Architectural Trends To Be Discussed

The effects of the energy shortage on architectural design will be among the topics discussed by Phillip Fleer when he meets with drafting students at Western Texas College on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Fleer comes to WTC from Texas A&M University. Persons who would like to hear his lectures are invited to meet with the students in the drafting room in Applied Science Building B. The classes meet from 7-9 each night.

Persons who would like additional information about the lectures may contact Carl Barber at WTC, 573-8511, extension 227.

Fleer's Monday night lecture is to cover the artistic touch to room and house perspectives, and what landscaping does for architectural drawings.

On Tuesday night, he will present a short study on the use of solar energy and other new energy sources, and outline the basic use of the airbrush as time permits.

Wednesday night, Fleer is to discuss how energy conservation is affecting architectural design and trends, and rulings affecting building codes and zoning as dictated by population mobility, political decisions, high costs of labor and materials, etc.

9 Are Sentenced In County Court

Sentencings for nine persons have been meted out the past week in county court.

Melvin Odell Greer entered a guilty plea to a charge of driving while his license was suspended and drew a $25 fine and a 72-hour jail term.

Johnny Garza received a $100 find and a six-month probation after entering a guilty plea to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Rosemary and Juan Hernandez each entered a guilty plea to a theft charge. They are alleged to have taken a television set from a local motel.

Each received a $100 fine and a 30-day jail term, probated for six months.

Another pair of guilty pleas to a theft charge were entered by Maria and Rachel Rodriguez. The charge stems from an alleged shoplifting incident Jan. 20. Each received a $200 fine.

Entering a guilty plea to an assault charge was Barry Bynum. He received a six-month probation and ordered to pay a $120 restitution. The restitution, reports show, is to pay for damages at a College Ave. apartment incurred during the March 3 incident.

A $102 restitution was assessed William Lore in a criminal mischief incident occurring Feb. 22. Lore also received a $100 fine.

A guilty plea to a charge of carrying a prohibited weapon was entered by Larry Buck Burns. He received a $200 fine.

Paymaster 266*
CERTIFIED COTTON SEED
1 out of every 3 acres of cotton on the High Plains is planted to PAYMASTER varieties (U.S.D.A. statistics)...
PAYMASTER 266 is just one reason why.

PAYMASTER 266 proved that it is in a class by itself in the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Verticillium Wilt Tolerance Test at Lubbock. Over a 6 year period, from 1971-1976, PAYMASTER 266 yielded more lint pounds per acre than any other competitive variety tested.

Because of its high tolerance to Verticillium Wilt, PAYMASTER 266 has been acclaimed by researchers as being one of the best available varieties of upland cotton. PAYMASTER 266 is a Plains type variety with all the characteristics necessary to make it one of the BEST MONEY MAKING varieties you can plant.

For an early maturing, highly productive, superior verticillium wilt tolerant cotton...plant PAYMASTER 266...you simply can't go wrong!

Refiners Disagree With Parts Of Energy Report

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) Petroleum refiners disagree with parts of a Department of Energy report on world trends in crude oil processing capacity.

The report estimates foreign processing capacity, excluding Communist bloc nations, will increase from 45,779,000 barrels a day to 56,299,000 by 1980.

U.S. capacity, excluding Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, meanwhile is predicted to only increase from 16,800,000 barrels a day in 1977 to 17,200,000 for 1978 and 17,400,000 for 1979.

The report indicates, however, that utilization of foreign capacity declined from 74 percent in 1973 to 63 percent in 1976. But domestic refinery utilization is expected to increase from 87.3 percent in 1977 to 91 percent in 1979.

The National Petroleum Refiners Association does not question the projections but does question some DOE comments made in the report.

The DOE said domestic refining capacity will be insufficient to meet increased residual fuel, distillate, and liquefied petroleum gas demand in 1979.

It then referred to the excess foreign refining capacity as something of a supply reserve the United States can rely on to meet product supply deficiencies.

"The trouble with reading U.S. and foreign capacity numbers this way is twofold and apparent," the 56-year-old NPRA said in a March bulletin mailed to members.

"It hastily assumes this country will never again be taught a hard lesson about the use of oil as a political and economic weapon. It also represents a twisted argument for not increasing domestic refining capacity."

The NPRA said the real message contained in the numbers is foreign producers intend to become the principal refiners of their own crude.

"Given their cost advantages, these countries could achieve enormous leverage over U.S. consumers of petroleum products," the bulletin said. "Whether or not this actually occurs will primarily depend upon future U.S. government policies."

Compared with an increase of only 3.5 percent for domestic refining capacity by 1980, the DOE report indicates a 21 percent increase for other areas of North America, 15 percent for Central America and the Caribbean, 23 percent for South American, 17 percent for Western Europe, 40 percent for the Middle East, 104 percent for Africa, and 20 percent for Asia.

The NPRA bulletin also commented on a new Senate bill that would require domestic refiners to produce gasoline with a 1 percent alcohol volume content by 1981, 5 percent by 1985, and 10 percent by 1990.

The bulletin said bills to require the production of so-called gasahol by blending fermented grain alcohol with gasoline have been introduced into Congress regularly the last 50 years.

"The main problem with these gasahol proposals has always been the cost factors involved," the bulletin said. "NPRA made this point nearly 10 years ago during a panel presentation before a congressional committee investigating the use of lead in gasoline."

NPRA said the same problems continue today.

The American Petroleum Institute has estimated grain alcohol would have to sell for about 24 cents a gallon, or about one-fourth to one-sixth its current price, in order to compete on a cost-per-mile basis with gasoline.

"Even if Congress could legislate away the fuel's cost deterrent, there still remains the critical question of whether the public would accept it as a suitable gasoline alternative," the bulletin said.

A 1975 report on a series of gasahol tests, it added, identified such potential trouble areas as uneven acceleration, lower mileage, corrosion, and cold weather startup.

Pool Universal Honors Men Here

Pool Universal Well Service recognized crew chiefs with outstanding safety performances at a special awards dinner meeting at the Shack Restaurant. A plaque was awarded to the district manager and 21 crew chiefs received awards totaling almost $7,700.

The plaque presented to W.D. Birdwell commends all Snyder District employees for having worked a total of 452,410 hours during 1977 without a lost time injury. Pool Well Servicing President George Loch, from San Angelo, made the presentation.

"This is truly an outstanding record," Loch said, "which only six of our 21 districts achieved."

Crew chiefs Joaquin Alarcon, William D. Brecheen, Felix Puente, Charlie Vansickle and Jackie Warner received special $1,000 awards from Snyder District manager W.D. Birdwell. These five men were among the select group of 35 special 240-point winners in the company-wide 1977 safety program, with no reportable injuries and outstanding ratings from unannounced spot safety checks of their rigs.

Two years ago Pool started a safety and accident prevention program by which crew chiefs might earn awards. The program is based on a point system, with points awarded for low accident experience, performance under periodic rig and crew inspections, the holding of safety meetings at the rig-site, and other related activities.

Ten Snyder crew chiefs received two-year distinguished safety achievement award checks for $240 each. Louis Alaniz, Wayland Cody, Manuel Garcia, Apolonio Garza, Van Goswick, James Halbert, Robert Highfield, Doug Morris, Kenneth Redden and Ramon Valadez each completed 1976 and 1977 with more than 190 points earned in each year.

Willie Garcia received a two-year meritorious safety achievement award check for $90, and Olen Davis and Roger Sanders each received $60 awards for having completed 1977 with more than 155 points.

Personalized pen and pencil sets for more than 120 points earned during 1977 went to crew chiefs Terry Collins, Calvin Davis and Tommy Moore.

Bill Snead, Pool safety representative from Odessa, commended the award winners for the fine safety record set in the district during 1977 and urged them to continuous efforts.

"Safety is our Number One priority," he said, "and safety leadership begins on the rig floor. We count on our crew chiefs to protect men against themselves and to anticipate hazards at the rig site. Pool is fortunate to have an outstanding group of well trained, experienced crew chiefs, and we believe we may have the best safety record in the industry."

Also participating in the awards program was Merle D. Smith, manager of safety from Pool's Dallas office.

Report On Waste Water Study Set

Problems and alternative solutions in an interim report of the 208 West Water Management Study will be presented at a meeting March 23 in Big Spring.

The presentation by O.H. Ivie, general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, which conducted the study in the upper Colorado River basin above the Concho River confluence, and Rod Lewis, administrative assistant, will be at 2 p.m. in the CRMWD administrative building, 400 East 24th Street. The 208 Study has been commissioned by the Texas Department of Water Resources.

The interim report, prepared by Freese & Nichols, consulting engineers, follows on the heels of the completion of Volume I (basic data) report. The new report lists eight communities or areas, most of them small communities or areas without sewer systems. Two have sewer facilities that may be in need of upgrading. The report also suggests solutions along with alternatives.

Members of the 208 Study Advisory Committee, together with representatives of the eight communities and areas, have been invited, as is any interested person in the upper basin area.

Among communities listed are Blackwell, Wellman, Westbrook, Sand Springs, Oak Creek Lake and Lake Colorado City without present waste water systems, and Winters and Denver City, which have plants that may need to be enlarged.

Another Ford?

DETROIT (AP) Is there another Ford in Ford Motor Co's future?

Henry Ford II, chairman of the nation's No. 2 automaker, has said "somebody called Ford" should always head the firm.

Quoting unnamed industry sources, the Detroit News reported Thursday that Henry's brother, William Clay Ford, 52, will go from vice president to vice chairman, thus moving into the line of succession for the top job.

The next step would be for William, owner of the Detroit Lions, to become chairman if Henry, 60, retires as scheduled in 1982.

That would give Henry's son, Edsel II, 29, several more years of grooming for the top spot.

Town Going For Broke On Snow

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)-Rochester has been "lucky" to get 154.5 inches of snow this winter, and now is not the time to stop, according to The Times-Union.

In an editorial entitled "7.3 Inches More Snow, Please," the newspaper came out in favor of breaking the city record.

"Having endured a cold, stormy winter to this point, why not go for broke and participate in a high point of Rochester history?" The Times-Union asked.

Besides, it said, this season's constant cold has its good features:

"The consistent temperatures are supposed to be healthier. We don't know whether the Rochester region had less flu than it might have had if temperatures had zoomed up and down in the usual February fashion - there seemed enough illness as it was - but at least the kids knew without being told every day that they had to wear their warmest coats."

In The Oil Patch

Scurry Wildcat Staked

F.W. Holbrook of Midland No. 1 Winston will be drilled as a 7,000-foot wildcat in Scurry County, one mile southwest of Snyder.

Site is 2,425 feet from north and 467 feet from west lines of section 12, block 1, J.P. Smith survey.

Estoril Producing Corp. of Midland spotted locations for a pair of offsets to the discovery well of the EPC (Spraberry) field of Borden County.

No. 3-3 Miller is 1,620 feet from north and 1,920 feet from east lines of section 3, block HB, L.V. Hood survey. It is one location south of the strike.

No. 4-3 Miller is 1,620 feet from north and 3,120 feet from east lines of section 3, block HB, L.V. Hood survey.

Both products are 10 miles west of Fluvanna and will be drilled to 5,300 feet. It is one location west of production.

Estoril Producing Corp. of Midland No. 1-4 Miller is a new well in the EPC (Spraberry) field of Borden County, 10 miles northeast of Gail.

The second well in the field, it finaled for a daily pumping potential of 38 barrels of oil and 72 barrels of water.

The production is through perforations from 5,212 to 5,224 feet. The zone was acidized with 1,000 gallons and fractured with 50,000 gallons.

Total depth is 5,320 feet and 4½-inch pipe is set at total depth. Plugged back depth is 5,280 feet.

It is one location north of the other well and 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 4, block HB, L.V. Hood survey.

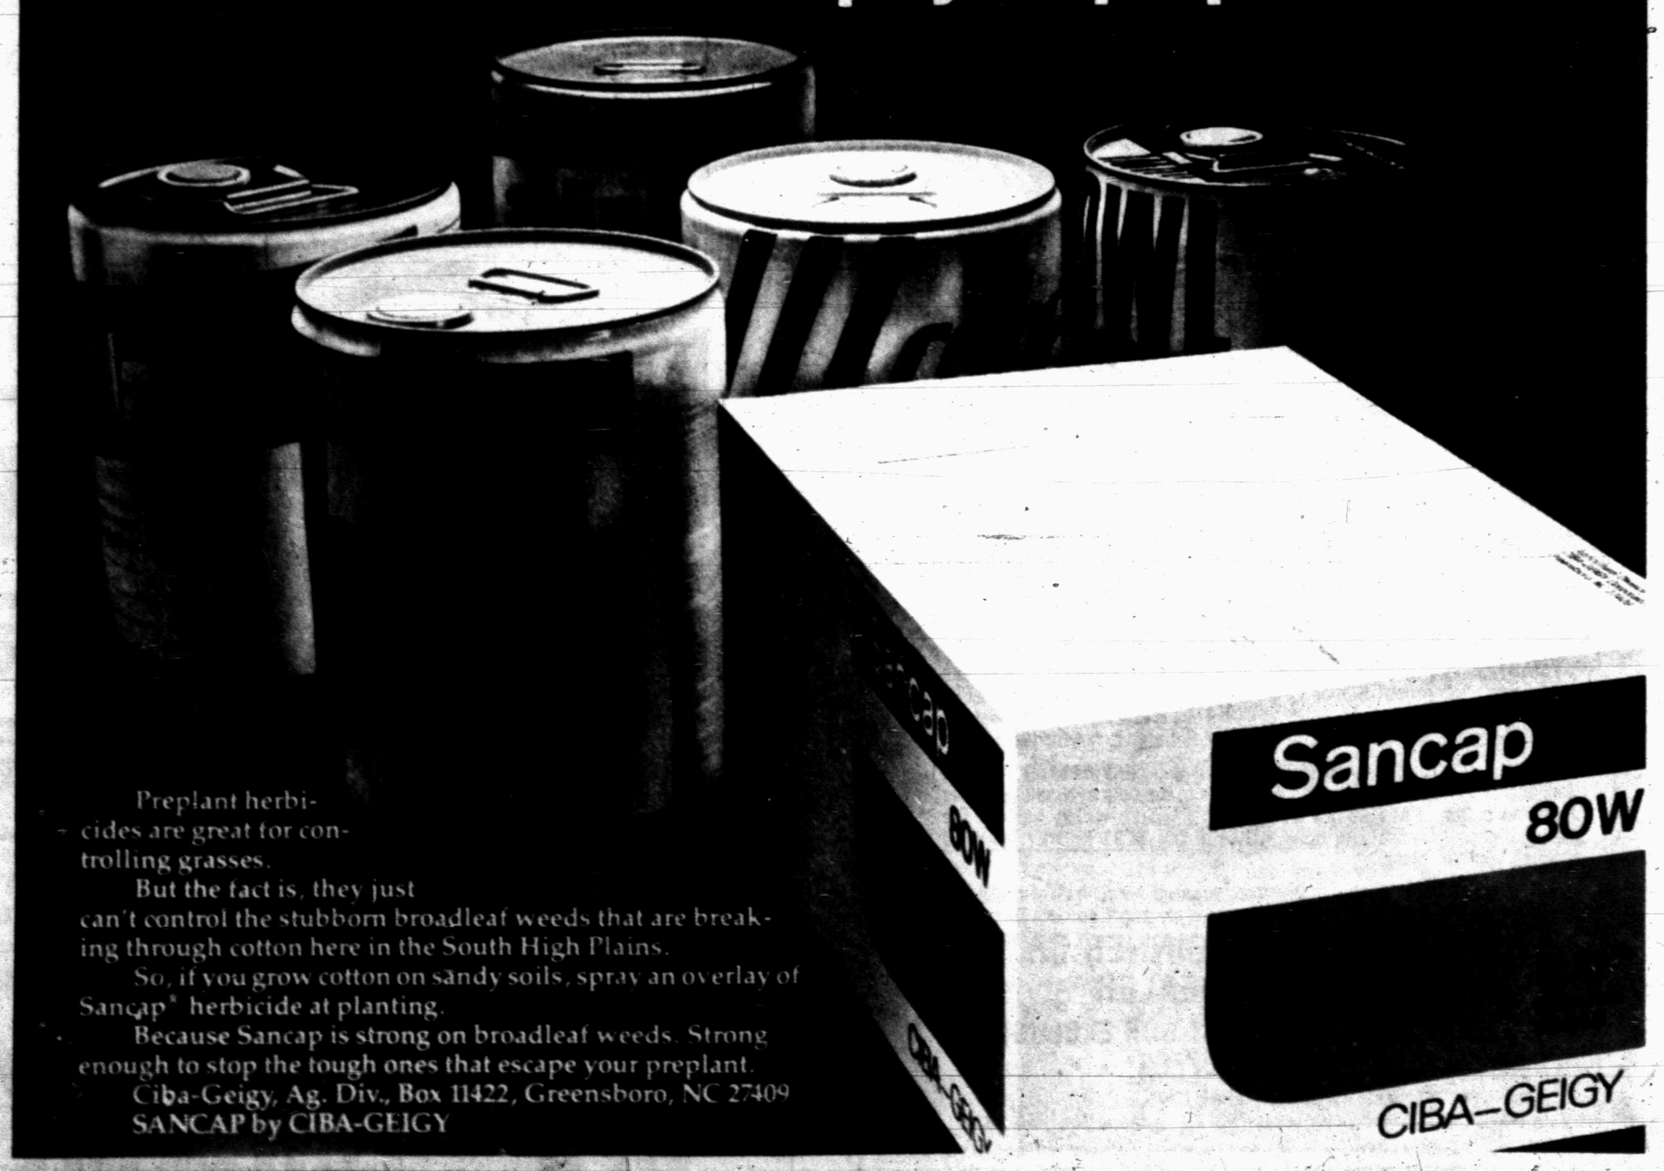
Sancap will control the tough broadleaf weeds that escape your preplant.



Preplant herbicides are great for controlling grasses.
But the fact is, they just can't control the stubborn broadleaf weeds that are breaking through cotton here in the South High Plains.
So, if you grow cotton on sandy soils, spray an overlay of Sancap® herbicide at planting.
Because Sancap is strong on broadleaf weeds. Strong enough to stop the tough ones that escape your preplant.
