Toll Of Death In California Penitentiary Riot Reaches Eleven

PRISON FIGHT LEADERS HELD AFTER PROBE

Folsom Pen Riot Heads Surrender to Guards After Battle

CELLS SMASHED UP

One of California Pen Guards Wins Cheer For Heroism

FOLSOM STATE PRISON, Cal., Nov. 25.—The blame for the Folsom prison riot, with its loss of 11 lives and more than 30 wounded, was placed largely on two hardened felons, leaders of a group of six desperadoes, at a preliminary investigation conducted by prison officials late today.

James H. Gregg, alias Dave Fleming, Los Angeles and Fresno murderer, and Anthony "Portuguese" Brown, alias James Dain, San Francisco bandit, initiated the reign of terror, it was established.

Three Marked for Death.

Three men were marked for death by the pair at the outset—Captain Clarence Larkin, Guard Walter Hull, and Ed Bathurst, prison engineer and guard, who turned out to be the hero of the attempted break.

Dr. Day, prison physician, who ministered to the wounded in the old cell block, described the men to prison officials "the most hardened pair I have ever seen," and declared that the other prisoners stood in terror of them.

Desperadoes In Charge.

"They picked up the wounded men after the fight and dumped them in the corridor near the hospital without the slightest show of emotion," asserted Day. "Throughout the siege they ruled the other convicts without mercy."

"Portuguese" Brown, who is said to have started the fight in the moving picture show yesterday morning, was led by the body of Turnkey Ray Singleton in the morgue late this afternoon. He grunted, flicked his eyes at the guards and remarked, "He got it, didn't he?"

One Guard Knifed.

Singleton, the inquiry developed, was knifed in the back without warning after Al Mossick, an old guard, had been clubbed by Brown when he attempted to stop a fight in the rear of the show room.

Two Negroes Hanged For Attack On Girl

MADISONVILLE, Ky., Nov. 25. (AP)—Nathan Bard and Runyan Fleming, negroes, convicted of an attack on a white girl, were hanged in the court yard of the Hopkins county jail here this morning. Bard went to the scaffold at 7:38 o'clock and after he had been allowed to make a brief statement, the death trap was sprung. Fleming followed him a few minutes later.

Shooting Affray Takes Two Lives; Injures One

PAINESVILLE, O., Nov. 25. (AP)—Peter McCrory, 47; Fred Cook, 29, and Alex Cook, 26, are dead and Arthur McCrory, 18, son of Peter McCrory, is in a hospital with a bullet wound in the arm as the result of a shooting affray here today, said by authorities to have been the outgrowth of domestic difficulties involving the elder McCrory.

Marion Talley Charms Audience Of 4,000 in Wichita Appearance

Girl Singer Wins Way to Hearts of Northwest Texans; Violinist Also Pleases

By [illegible]
The Record News Staff

Marion Talley captivated her audience of more than 4000 persons when she appeared in concert Friday evening in the new city auditorium under the auspices of the Woman's Forum. Miss Talley carried the audience with her and won their hearts as much by her sweet youthfulness as by the golden tones of her fresh young voice.

Theatergoers who are wont to associate a famous voice with a portly figure and sophistication were given a veritable treat and feasted their eyes on the beautiful youthfulness of the little girl from Kansas City—the charmingly unaffected little girl who might have been the daughter of the next door neighbor so little does Marion Talley impress her audience with the reality of the position she has so rapidly gained.

Popular Encores

With the graciousness which has made Marion Talley loved by her audiences, she responded generously with encores and played up to her audience in these numbers by giving them the numbers she knew they were eager to hear.

Her "Home Sweet Home," "Swanee River," "There Will Be No Night There," "The Last Rose of Summer" and the bits of light humorousness, were her contribution to the audience, and in none of her numbers was she more pleasing or gratefully received.

"Trees" by Joyce Kilmer, which has been more often heard in poetry form than in music, and "Beautiful Blue Danube" as well as "Pretty Mocking Bird" were Marion Talley proved all that Wichita Falls expected in her appearance here Friday night under the auspices of the Woman's Forum. The new auditorium and Wichita Falls received much praise from Miss Talley.

3 Mexicans Shot After Attack on American

NOGALES, Ariz., Nov. 25. (AP)—A Herald dispatch from Mazatlan, Sinaloa, says that three Mexicans, arrested for attacking and injuring J. K. Anderson, an American, recently, have been executed by a military firing squad. Anderson was shot down and robbed while on a solitary horseback trip into the state of Durango from his headquarters at Mazatlan.

The American is recovering from his wounds at a small mining town in Durango.

Fear Held For Life Of Cardinal Bonzano

ROME, Nov. 25. (AP)—Grave fears were expressed tonight for the recovery of Cardinal Bonzano who underwent an operation on Saturday. His heart action was weak and physicians ordered the use of drugs.

After a consultation late today attending physicians did not issue a bulletin, but it was known that the cardinal's pulse was 120 and his temperature 99.2.

MARION TALLEY PROVES ABILITY

Singer Gives Difficult Arias With Brilliance

By MRS. C. W. WALLACE
Written for The Record News.

A tremendous audience greeted Marion Talley at the new auditorium when she, as it were, dedicated it to its high mission of culture and beauty, with her glorious gift of song. The audience was completely captivated by the charms of the fair little singer and gave her a great ovation in recognition of her beautiful singing. She is so young, so sweet and girlish that it is no wonder she wins her audiences, with so much to give them,—all the charm of youth combined with a beautiful voice.

Marion Talley has a beautiful, flexible voice, especially remarkable for the richness and fullness of the lower register. Her voice is very brilliant in the upper register and is produced with a flute-like quality that makes a marked contrast between the two registers, and is somewhat unusual in tone production, but withal very pleasing.

Brilliant In Arias.

Miss Talley's first number—the difficult aria "Una Voce poco fa" by Rossini—was given with ease and exquisite vocalization. Two other operatic arias were given. The first of these "Connais-tu le pays?" from Mignon, was sung with great feeling and with a plaintive appeal that touched the hearts of the audience. The other one was the Polonaise "Je suis Titania," also from Mignon, one of the most difficult and showy of all soprano arias. The rendition of this number was probably the high moment, technically, of the evening. The purity of her tones and the precision and accuracy of her execution and intonation in the difficult bravura passages, and the beautiful cadenza made of this number a truly brilliant performance.

English Songs.

The Brahms Folk Song (Vergebliches Standchen) and the Swedish folk song (When I Was Seventeen, by Lilljebjorn) were beautifully sung with true feeling and understanding.

A group of English songs, "Trees," by Rasbach, "Cherry

Premonition Caused Rumanian Premier to Build Coffin Early

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 25. (AP)—The late Premier Bratiano had a premonition of death—so strong that he had his coffin built some time ago.

The premier directed a peasant carpenter at his country home to make a pine wood coffin for him, giving the man precise measurements. On the premier's instructions the peasant hid the coffin in the belfry of the little church on the country estate which Bratiano himself had built.

This became known only yesterday when after a long search the coffin was found and shipped to Bucharest where it was seen to be almost as plain as those used in Potter's field. This circumstance was indicative of the premier's simplicity of life since he always dressed in the plainest garb, preferred the simplest food, walked instead of rode whenever he could and in general preferred old things to new.

CALL ISSUED FOR MEETING ON CHEST FUND

Workers in Luncheon At Wichita Club At Noon Saturday

$53,000 CONTRIBUTED

Cline Declares Desired Amount Will Be Reached

With the amount raised in the Community chest drive totalling $53,000 W. D. Cline, general chairman, Friday called a meeting of all workers for Saturday noon at the Wichita club. Lunch will be served to the workers, unfinished work gone over and other plans made. The meeting will last but one hour.

"We want everybody there," said Mr. Cline "and those who have not turned in reports are especially asked to have them ready at this time. Several of the industrial captains have not handed in complete reports and we must have them before we can start our clean up part of the drive.

Need Hard Work

"I feel certain that we will raise the $65,000 we are after but it is going to take some hard work and willing workers. I have no doubt that we have both and that the workers are anxious to get the drive behind them.

"Saturday I am going to ask for suggestions from the workers and these will all be considered in working out the plans that will be presented Monday. However, if the workers have any plans for aiding we want them to have them ready to spring in a snappy manner so that all can get away within the hour allotted to the meeting.

"The success of the drive is going to depend on those who have not been seen. In some instances these men have been out of the city and in others the workers have not been able to catch them at their offices. These men intend to give and it would greatly simplify matters if they would either come to chest headquarters or telephone us at 2-2191 and tell the amount they will give. We are not going to overlook them."

Nothing Held Back

Workers at the headquarters pointed out that the total announced Friday is the absolute amount subscribed. There has been nothing held back but the public has been kept right up to the dollar as to the amount pledged.

The workers were busy getting cards ready for the cleanup brigade which will start out Monday.

Scene With Ex-Kaiser Barred From Play

BERLIN, Nov. 25. (AP)—In compliance with the demand of the former German emperor, the Berlin district court has issued an injunction ordering that the role of Kaiser Wilhelm II be eliminated from the play "Rasputin." The injunction was directed against Edwin Piscator, who, as director of the Communist theater, inserted a scene in the play showing the kaiser addressing his troops. The interpolation was done with the permission of the author, Alexei Tolstoy, but not with that of the exile of Doorn.

Record Crowd Attends Funeral For Priest

MEXICO CITY, Thursday, Nov. 24. (AP)—(Delayed)—Probably 20,000 persons, making one of the largest crowds known at any funeral in Mexico, today witnessed the funerals of Miguel Augustin Projurez, Catholic priest, and three companions executed Wednesday for an attempt against the life of former President Obregon.

No religious rites were performed at the graves of any of the four.

Osage Star Witness Escapes Jail Cell

PAWHUSKA, Okla., Nov. 25. (AP)—Dick Gregg, Kansas convict and star witness in the Osage murder cases, escaped from the Osage county jail here today after filing a key with which he unlocked the jail door. Gregg had been held in jail here for a year for use as a witness in the series of murder trials growing out of the deaths of wealthy Osage Indians.

REMUS HEARS GIRL'S STORY

Attorney Unmoved By Step Daughter's Tale

By Universal Service.

CICINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 25. — Ruth Holmes Remus sat in the witness chair in criminal court this afternoon, 10 feet away from her step-father, George Remus, the one time millionaire bootlegger and former Chicago lawyer, and told the story of the murder of her mother, Imogene Remus, so poignantly that everyone in the courtroom was visibly affected, except Remus, himself.

He heard her swear that he killed Mrs. Remus with a curse on his lips after the woman pleaded with him:

"Daddy, dear, I love you—daddy, dear, don't do it."

He sat unmoved while the slim, dark-eyed girl dressed entirely in black, sobbed without restraint when the clothes of her mother—a black dress, a black turban, and a pink silk undergarment — was placed on the railing of the witness stand for her to identify, which she did.

He was more concerned about a sheaf of legal papers that three alienists who had been appointed to observe him as to his sanity, had presented to Judge Chester R. Shook during the noon adjournment, than over any of the dramatic incidents that occurred during the day. In this opinion, it is understood, the alienists found that Remus was not insane at the time he killed his wife in Eden park on October 6, last.

This was a blow to Remus, for his entire defense is predicated on the contention that he was suffering from temporary manical insanity at the time he committed the crime. His brain exploded when he confronted his wife in the park, and thought of how she was double-crossing him, he claims. He was sane before the act, he contends, insane at the time of its commission, and sane thereafter.

CLAIMS OPPOSED

Executors of Duke Fund Disallows Claims But Court to Hear Case

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 25. (AP)—Representatives of seven persons claiming to be relatives of the late James B. Duke, tobacco magnate, today appeared before County Judge John Frech, in opposition to the proposed distribution of $2,000,000 bequeathed by Duke's will to the children and grandchildren of his aunts and uncles. The seven, whose claims were disallowed by the executors, obtained a postponement until January 6, on the petition of various counsel who said they had just been retained and were unfamiliar with the case.

The claimants were Miss Elizabeth Duke, of Wichita Falls, Texas, and Anna Otwell, of Vienna, La., and Mrs. Mary Paul Mynes, Francis M. Paul Smith, Nancy Paul Turley, William Mynes, and Virginia Paul Mynes, all of West Virginia, all claiming to be second cousins.

MISS DUKE RESIDENT HERE SINCE 1924

Miss Elizabeth Duke of Wichita Falls, one of seven claimants of a share of the estate of the late James B. Duke, tobacco magnate, has lived in Wichita Falls since 1924, and is an operator for the Southwestern Bell Telephone company. She lives at 804 Burnett street.

Miss Duke's claim to a portion of tthe $2,000,000, to be divided among certain unnamed heirs, is based on the Duke family record as contained in an old family Bible in her possession and other instruments. The Bible is said to contain the name of Mr. Duke's father and a lineage which indicates that Miss Duke's grandfather was a brother of Mr. Duke's father.

Powers of attorney for 100 other relatives in Texas and Georgia were held by Miss Duke that their cases all might be pressed along with hers by her attorney, B. D. Sartin, former Wichita county judge.

Chicago Women Buy More Cotton Than Silk

CHICAGO, Nov. 25. (AP)—Chicago women's preference for cotton over silk is revealed by the comparative sales of the two commodities in the industrial survey of the city by the United States census bureau.

Of cotton goods more than $104,000,000 worth were sold in 1926, while the annual bill for silks was only $40,000,000.

Seven Deaths Result From Mine Shaft Fire

SUPERIOR, Ariz., Nov. 25. (AP) Fire in the main shaft of the Magma Copper company's mine here was believed today to have taken a toll of seven lives. Two charred bodies were recovered last night after a blaze of unknown origin had started in the 2250-foot level and little hope was held out for five men reported missing.

NURSE FOUND WEARING GAG

Principal In Death Case Victim In Mystery

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 25. (AP)—Gagged, and with her hands bound, Mary Atkinson, Enid trained nurse, who recently was freed after her preliminary hearing on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Mary Jane Bailey, at Enid, was removed from a local rooming house to a hospital here tonight.

Miss Atkinson had been found on the floor of her room, her attorney Paul F. Showalter, reported to police. Although her hands were bound, Miss Atkinson's feet were free. She was prevented by her attorney from talking to newspaper men.

The police were hampered in their investigation by the fact that Miss Atkinson would not talk.

Only recently she was released from the county jail at Enid, where she had been held on a murder charge which alleged that she had poisoned Mary Jane, the daughter of the Rev. Charles Bailey, rector of St. Matthews Episcopal Church there. The charges were filed after a chemist here reported that a poison had been found in the eighteen year old girl's viscera, but in Miss Atkinson's preliminary hearing the chemist reported that a final and exhaustive test revealed no poison.

As the chemist's report was the basis of the murder charge, the state's case against the nurse crumpled and she was freed by the justice of the peace after her hearing.

U. S. Mails Barred To Texas Diamond Concern

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25. (AP)—A fraud order against the British-American Diamond company and W. I. Brashears at Fort Worth, Texas, and Murfreesboro, Ark., was issued today by Postmaster General New barring them from use of the mails.

The company, incorporated in Texas with a capital of $25,000 and 1,000,000 shares of stock of no par value, has been selling stock through the mails. After an investigation postal investigators declared it to be a scheme to defraud in contravention of the postal laws.

cers who formed a cordon of men around the section of the city where he lived.

Two Women Found

When they first reached the apartment they found it occupied by two women. Search then revealed the arsenal. Detectives were taking the women to jail when a car drove up, occupied by Terrill and Pittman. Both broke into a run but Pittman surrendered when the officers fired. Terrill had a pistol when taken.

Identification of Terrell resulted from communication with Robert Ellis of Beaumont, Texas, head of the National Fingerprint association, authorities said, the latter advising that Terrill was a member of the Kimes gang and that a large reward had been offered for his capture.

Terrill Admits Job

Terrill, officers said, readily admitted his identity and told them he had recently "done a job" but that it was up to them to connect him with it. Pittman, they said, claimed he knew Terrill under a different name.

TWO ODESSA MEN BELIEVED IDENTIFIED.

ODESSA, Texas, Nov. 25. (AP)—Positive identification of the two men shot here early today in a battle with officers following what appeared to have been an attempt to rob the Citizens National bank was believed to have been established tonight by Sheriff Reeder Webb of Ector county.

The man who lay mortally wounded in a local hotel was identified as Karl Hanson by Carl Broyles, a carpenter of Midland. Broyles said he was reared with Hanson and that he had not seen him for eight years until he met him two days ago in Midland.

The man killed by volleys from the officers' rifles and sawed-off shotguns is believed to be Tom McBurnett. Sheriff Webb said that he believed positive identification had been made through a card found on the dead man's body, which was addressed to a Lubbock man. A brother of McBurneet who resides in Fort Worth, is expected here tomorrow to claim the body.

American Financier's Yacht Eludes Pursuit of Canadian Police Boat

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 25. (AP)—International waters today kept the yacht Vidor, owned by William C. Durant, American financier, safe from pursuing Canadian government craft which were seeking to serve a writ of attachment against her.

The Vidor yesterday passed Fame Point, on the Gaspe coast, toward the open sea and international waters where the Canadian craft would be powerless to stop her.

Aside from the writ of attachment sought by the Canadian national railways, which claimed the Vidor damaged a bridge over the Lachine canal at Montreal, the Vidor was also charged with failing to comply with port clearing and pilotage rules and with traveling through Quebec harbor at an excessive rate of speed.

A river pilot reorted to Canadian officials that the Vidor's captain had refused to put him ashore at Quebec after he had brought the ship down from Montreal and that he was forced to jump overboard and swim ashore.

BODY OF GUN VICTIM MOVED

Paul Macek's Corpse In Local Morgue

The body of Paul Macek, young Bohemian who died at a local hospital at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, a little over two hours after he was found in his residence, in the rear of 802 Denver, fatally injured from a gunshot wound in his head, was being held in the parlors of the Hines mortuary late Friday night awaiting the completion of funeral arrangements.

Man Found Dying.

Macek was found in a dying condition sprawled across the bed in his room by H. B. Davis, resident at 800 Denver, who, alarmed at the sobbing of a woman, rushed to the Macek home to investigate. He told Police Chief Frank Burns, and W. J. Tucker, city pound officer, that he heard no shot; but went inside the residence after Macek's wife had told him of the tragedy. Davis found a .32 automatic pistol by the dying man's side, police were told. Chief Burns said the gaping wound in the man's left temple was caused by a soft nosed bullet.

He Dies at Hospital.

Taken to the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital in a Burris-Shepherd ambulance, Macek fought a losing battle, never regaining consciousness. The shooting, which occured at 11:30, took place while Mrs. Macek was hanging out washed clothes on a clothes line.

Macek is survived by his wife, two small children, aged two and four; and three brothers, Tom, Frank, and Charlie, all of whom live in Caldwell, Texas.

The boy is survived by his parents and a sister, Jean Hurley.

MRS. BEULAH WHITLEY.

Funeral services for Mrs. Beulah Whitley, 2306 Eighth street, who died in a local hospital Thursday, are to be held from the First Baptist church Saturday at 10:30 a. m., with Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of the church, officiating. Interment is to be in Rosemont. Pallbearers are to be selected from the deacons of the First Baptist church, in which capacity Mr. Whitley has served for many months.

Decedent is survived by her husband, C. D. Whitley; her mother, Mrs. C. A. Walker, and a sister, Mrs. Parks Eagerston, both of Lindale, Texas; and two brothers, J. A. and M. I. Walker, both of Fort Worth.

$100 Damage Done In Carpenter Garage Fire

Fire of undetermined origin which broke out in the P. E. Carpenter garage, 2005 Taylor street, about 7 o'clock Friday evening, did considerable damage to the structure, a small affair, with resultant damage estimated by officials at about $100. The building was the property of the real estate firm of Tucker and Tucker. The pumper from station No. 2, and the hose truck from station No. 5 had arrived at the scene, and firemen had extinguished the fire before the arrival of the chemical wagon from the central station. About 650 feet of hose was laid.

Court Order Sought To Prevent Special Session of Legislature

Oklahoma Political Row Grows Hotter As Allies Of Governor Take Move To Confute Foes

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 25. (AP)—Three members of the Oklahoma house of representatives announced tonight that they would file an application in district court here tomorrow for an injunction against convention of the house in a special session December 6.

They are F. H. Reily of Shawnee, Claude Briggs of Wilburton and Clarence Lohman of Pawhuska, who are expected to appear as attorneys for Eret Dunlap of Ardmore, former member of the state election board and for many years widely known in democratic state politics. The suit will be brought in Dunlap's name.

Petition Drafted

The petition, which was drafted tonight asked that the injunction be directed against individual members of the house which has been called to convene by four of its members, H. Tom Kight, E. P. Hill, Robert Graham and Tom Johnson, to investigate departments of the state government.

Intimation that the question of the right of members of the Oklahoma legislature to call themselves into a special investigating session might find its way into the federal courts was made today by Governor Henry Johnston, who has refused the petition of a number of members to call a session.

Four Issue Call

A call for a session opening December 6 was issued Monday by four members of the house of representatives, who said they represented more than a majority of the membership. The call was issued under what the four leaders claim as an inherent constitutional right to convene and an initiated law, of which the validity has never been tested in the courts.

"I have read statements predicting that if the legislature assembled, there would be legal complications as to the right of assembling and of actions which might result," the governor said. "The real court to handle the matter has not been suggested by any of the newspapers and I am not saying which one it is.

Cites Former Governor

"Federal Judge Robert Williams of Muskogee could swing around in his chair several times and tell you, though," he continued. "C. B. Stuart, Oklahoma City, constitutional lawyer, probably could tell you also if he studied the question."

Judge Williams was governor of Oklahoma during the world war.

Informed that reports were current that he might change his mind and issue the call the governor replied:

"No, why should I spoil the determination of a good legal question?"

FINE WEATHER AT QUITAQUE

Season Sets Record For High Temperature

Special to The Record News.

QUITAQUE, Nov. 25.—For many years, according to old timers in this section, there has not been more ideal weather conditions for gathering and harvesting crops, than there has been this fall. Until the present time there has been no rains or snow to hinder the gathering of cotton and harvesting of the maize and grain sorghum.

Thus the farmers, with plenty of labor to gather the cotton and head the maize, have made considerable headway in saving the crops. At the present time there has been something over 1500 bales of cotton picked, and the estimate is, that from one-fourth to one-sixth of the cotton has been gathered. Something over one-third of the maize crop has been headed.

A recent agricultural survey in Briscoe county revealed that the majority of farmers own their homes and make a living at home This is true with almost every county in the South Plains section, The majority of farmers have their cows, hogs, chickens, turkeys and other livestock. The most of livestock found in the west is blooded stock of which is badly needed in any country to help carry on such farm activity as desired.

There are thousands of acres in Briscoe county that has never been in cultivation, which is considered good grazing land.

Quitaque Chamber Names New Officers

Special to The Record News.

QUITAQUE, Nov. 25.—At a regular meeting of the Quitaque Chamber of Commerce Monday night, the following officers were elected, to serve for the ensuing term of one year. Retiring officers were: P. O. Woods, president; A. L. Patterson, vice-president; H. E. Berry, secretary.

New officers are: O. C. Auther, owner and manager of the City Drug store, president; Joe Head, manager of the Head-Hargrave Co., and H. S. Sanders, manager of the Wilson and Son Lunmber company, G. H. Russell, editor of the Quitaque Post, was re-elected to serve as publicity manager. The board of directors were all re-elected.

Many interesting subjects were discussed, throughout the meeting and many plans were formulated for the coming year.

Rabbit Men Organize Burkburntt Association

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Nov. 25.—The Burkburnett Rabbit Breeders association met at the chamber of commerce in their first regular meeting to organize, Tuesday night, J. E. Musick was elected president, R. D. Cinningham, vice-president, and Bob Lyons, secretary and treasurer.

Five other members were added to the organization, these being B. B. McMillon, Arthur Evert, Ray Ragland, O. V. Thompson and Fred O. Minick. Each member subscribed to "Small Stock," a magazine which deals with the problems of the rabbit breeder.

The work of the organization during the year will deal with procuring a market and keeping it supplied.

Special to The Record News.

DENTON, Nov. 25.—To swim with an umbrella in one hand and a book in the other, and to read aloud from the book while making as much progress as possible through the water, is to participate in the "bookworm" race which will be put on by members of a class in advanced swimming at the College of Industrial Arts. Other stunts being done in the pool for the first time are swimmers bobbing for honors in fancy strokes, divers and original stunts. They will also display their progress in elementary life-saving.

TEXAS IN LINE TO WIN MEET

National Dairy Group May Pick State

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 26.—Indications are that Texas stands a good chance of getting the 1928 meeting of the National Dairy association, in the opinion of A. L. Darnell, dairy husbandry department, A. & M. college of Texas, who was chairman of the committee of nine that had charge of arrangements for the Texas exhibit at the National Dairy show in Memphis, Tenn., in October.

Directors of the National Dairy association will meet in Chicago Dec. 2 to decide whether the association will hold its next meeting in St. Louis and, if not, to consider the question of holding the 1928 meeting in this state, Mr. Darnell said.

The committee from Texas which is working to get the National dairy meeting for Dallas in 1928 will be represented at the Chicago meeting by A. L. Ward, Dallas, educational director Texas Cotton Seed Crushers association; J. W. Ridgway, Fort Worth, secretary-manager Mistletoe creameries; and J. E. Stanford, Longview, agricultural director East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Contract For Canyon Building to Be Signed

CANYON, Nov. 26.—President J. A. Hill, Prof. John H. Humphreys, Misses Darthula Walker, Mary Estill, Mattie Swayne, Tennessee Malone and others from the Teachers college faculty have gone to Houston where they will attend the meeting of the Texas State Teachers association.

On his way back to Canyon President Hill will stop in Fort Worth where the contract for the new building will be let on November 28. The building is to cost $300,000 and will be ready for occupancy at the opening of the 1928 regular session.

SENATOR'S SON WEDS DIVORCEE

Recent Marriage Just Made Public

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 25. (AP)—The marriage in St. Louis on November 2 of David A. Reed Jr., son of United States Senator David A. Reed, to Mrs. Nancy Ross, of that city, was announced here today by the senator.

YOUNG REED'S BRIDE RECENTLY DIVORCED.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 25. (AP) — St. Louis friends of David A. Reed Jr., 24, Lambert-St. Louis field aviator and son of the senior United States senator from Pennsylvania, said today they had learned of his marriage early in November to Mrs. Nan Ross, recently divorced wife of Elmer W. Ross, St. Louis accountant.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed have sailed for Santiago, Chile, where he will represent the Aluminum Ore company of East St. Louis.

A letter from Mrs. Reed, received here, told of the marriage without stating where it was performed and added "David's family is more or less peeved at us for marrying so soon, but I am very happy. We sailed from New York November 10 and here we are in the Caribbean sea."

Mrs. Ross was divorced last September 22. Her six-year-old son has lived since the divorce with her parents in Spartanburg, S. C. Reed became acquainted with Mrs. Ross within the last year.

Eleven Dead In Penitentiary Riot

ton swung around and battled the six men that then composed the rioting band single handed, making such a heroic stand for his life that the attackers expressed admiration for his courage.

Wounded Man Battles.

Swinging his cane, the only weapon he carried, Singleton felled men right and left, only to be stabbed three more times in the back by men who crept up behind him. With these wounds he was still standing on his feet fighting the six felons when one of the men brought a hatchet down on his head from behind. Another rushed in at this moment and disemboweled the courageous turnkey with a knife.

Rushing on, the six murderous convicts felled James [illegible] and stabbed him as he slipped to the floor. Cornering Walter Neil, they demanded his keys, but Neil first argued with them, and then jumped for a side door, only to be brought down by a bullet from Brown's gun, which shattered his knee. He fell through the door, however, and another bullet from Brown's gun is said to have whistled overhead, grazing the guard at the door.

"Kill 'em All" Cry.

Then one of the pair is alleged to have shouted, "the jig is up; we might as well kill them all." Brown then is said to have opened fire on the armory near the main gate. It was Brown, too, according to information developed at the inquiry, who fired on the warden's secretary last night, causing a barrage in retaliation that killed eight men outright, fatally wounded a ninth and wounded more than thirty others.

Ninety per cent of all the cell locks in the cell house were smashed by the rioting desperadoes, the investigation revealed.

Blankets were stolen from many of the cells and there was evidence that the men had attempted to fashion a rope to aid them in their plan of escape.

Cruel Plot Bared.

The first guard to enter the cell house today after the peace treaty with the convicts found a sharpened stick, three feet long, with a needle point. This, it was said, was intended to be used in stabbing out the eyes of any guards who should be detailed to "make" the cell sheds at night.

Normalcy was restored at the prison early tonight with the departure of the various detachments of national guard to their respective homes.

Militia Units Leave.

Motorcycle officers, deputy sheriffs and police returned to their respective stations, leaving the prison guard in charge of its regular personnel.

The flag on the prison flagpole was at half mast in tribute to Roy Singleton, slain assistant turnkey, stabbed to death by inmates of the prison at the outset of the futile break for freedom.

OLNEY SOCIETY

OLNEY, Texas, Nov. 25.—The South Ward Parent-Teacher association met in regular session at the school building Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. [illegible] Anderson, first vice president, presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. S. J. Marcell. The membership committee gave an incomplete report, announcing the receipt of $25 in the membership drive. The drive will be continued.

The gift of the World Book to the South Ward library by Mrs. S. J. Marcell was announced and a rising vote of thanks given to the donor.

ACHED ALL OVER & VERY NERVOUS

Virginia Lady Says She Took Cardui, Gained In Weight, Felt Better, Got Strong and Well.

WYTHEVILLE, Va.—"I was very weak and run-down," says Mrs. Mary B. Mills, who lives near this city. "I got worse and worse, and had no strength at all. It was a critical time in my life, and it was hard for me to keep up.

"I was so I could not keep going. I was 'going down-hill' for a long time.

"I ached all over, and could not rest at night. I was very nervous.

"I had read of Cardui and one of my friends, in discussing my illness, asked me why I did not try it. I decided to do so, and soon found I was being helped.

"I began to get stronger, and I felt and looked better. My rest, which had been broken, was good. I gained in weight and felt better than I had been.

"I am strong and well."

Great numbers of others have written to describe the relief they have obtained through the use of Cardui.

Having helped so many others, Cardui should help you, too. Why not give it a good trial?

Composed of purely vegetable ingredients; mild, harmless.

Sold by druggists everywhere.

CHIEF TURNS ON GANGSTERS

O'Connor Seizes Trio Who Try Waylaying Him

By Universal Service

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Three men believed to have been lying in wait to kill Chief of Detectives William O'Connor were seized by the chief himself near his home today—the latest development of the authorities' concerted war on gangdom.

One of the three had participated in a gun battle with police last week. He is William Clifford. The other two men gave their names as Morris Fischer and Ame Chevin, alias Chase.

Clifford was out on bonds following his arrest last week after the battle with police. The three gangsters were loitering on a street corner half a block from the chief's home and were picked up as the chief drove by on his way to his duties.

While the men were without arms when arrested, three 45 caliber pistols were found hidden at the Burnside Branch public school nearby. The men are believed to have placed the guns there to preclude arrest for carrying weapons.

Meanwhile the efforts to exterminate gangsters were centered on an investigation of a bomb placed in the home of Peter Spingola, a relative and henchman of the Genna brothers, and in the slaying of Arthur G. Hartz, former bootlegger and hijacker who had turned prohibition informer.

That the bomb had been placed in the Spingola home as a fresh development of the clash between the "Scarface Al" Capone and Aiello-Barney Bertsche-Moran factions is the belief of teh authorities.

Spingola is said to have refused to take part in the factional fight for control of the Unitone Sicilione, powerful Italian west side organization.

Hartz had been taken for a ride—the fatal one—from the Alfalfa Gardens cafe near Lansing, Ill. His body was found beside a bridge over the drainage canal near Blue Island. A notebook in his pocket contained information indicating that he had turned prohibition informer. That this probably led to his killing is the belief of officials.

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Nov. 25.—At a special board meeting Wednesday night Rev. E. M. Francis tendered his resignation as pastor of the First Baptist church of Electra. Rev. Francis has been a resident of this city for several years. His resignation came as a surprise to his friends, both in the church and abroad. He will preach his farewell sermon on Sunday evening, November 27 and leaves next week for his new post in Hamilton, Texas. His successor has not yet been named although a committee was appointed on Wednesday evening for that purpose.

NORTH TEXAS GIRL HONORED

Childress Student Wins Mention in Art

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Nov. 25.—Miss Cornelia Coltharp of Childress, the first student in the University of Texas to register for courses in the newly created department of interior decoration, has been awarded second mention for her design submitted in the national competition conducted by the Beaux Arts institute of Design in New York City, according to S. C. P. Vosper, associate professor of architecture in the university.

Miss Coltharp is a junior in the university and will be a candidate for a bachelor of science degree in interior decoration next year. She was the only student in the university eligible to take part in the competition which includes many schools in the United States. There are, however, few southern schools which have departments of interior decoration, according to Mr. Vosper. The problem for which Miss Coltharp submitted a design was a living room in the American colonial period.

Jed Adams, Repealer

TEXAS Democrats have a national committeeman, Col. Jed Adams of Dallas. He is a native Texan, a son of Kaufman county, a leading member of the Texas bar and for a young man, he has been active in politics for years. Advices from Dallas indicate that Col. Adams has grown weary of hog-tied delegations to national conventions and has declared for an uninstructed delegation of the representative men and women of the party to attend the next convention and do something to build a national party where there is no national party today by the abrogation or repeal of the two-thirds nominating rule.

Col. Adams gave his support to the Fergusons in the Ferguson-Robertson run-off, and he gave his support to the entire Democratic ticket in the contest between Mrs. Ferguson and Dr. George C. Butte. In the campaigning of 1926 he was a stalwart supporter of Dan Moody for the democratic gubernatorial nomination. He has reached the conclusion that the two-thirds nominating rule is a sectional veto power, that it is destructive of democratic unity and harmony and that the party of Jefferson can never win until the two-thirds nominating rule has been thrown in the discard and the majority rule adopted by a national convention of democrats.

This veto power wielded by southern delegates in bitter contests might prevent the nomination of a northern favorite or leader, then again it could be invoked by the Democrats of the mid-west and the west and the Rocky mountain states to defeat an aspirant for presidential honors unpopular with the democrats of the west and the far west or the northwest.

It is a party suicide rule, according to those who have weighed it in its entirety and should be put aside. There should be a great national party of democrats and not a sectional party. Thomas Jefferson declared the democratic party the party of the people, he was the champion of the majority rule in convention, at the ballot box and elsewhere. He was a Virginian, a champion of a free government by a free people.

Some day the growers of things in all sections of the United States will get their heads together and do something to bring about the organization of a national party on democratic lines and then they will march on to victory. They are divided now and bogus party trade marks, not living economic issues, are responsible for the division.

Hull of Tennessee

REPRESENTATIVE HULL of Tennessee is one of the democrats from the southern section of the republic who holds a place near the center of the stage. President Coolidge journeyed from Washington to Philadelphia to repudiate the recommendations made by a business men's commission headed by Charles Nagel of Missouri, a former secretary of commerce and labor in a cabinet of a republican president.

Hull of Tennessee is a tariff revisionist. President Coolidge declared in his Philadelphia speech against any revision of the tariff. This gave Hull of Tennessee an opening. He turned his gun on the president. He declared that Coolidge "spoke the language and philosophy of the tariff protected manufacturer," because he repudiated the Nagel report. This is the indictment returned by the representative against the president.

"He unquestionably was not speaking for agriculture, because almost every intelligent person agrees that agriculture suffers enormously greater losses than it derives benefits from tariffs."

Hull's point is well taken. A surplus fixes the price. American wheat growers sell their surplus abroad; American corn growers sell their surplus abroad. All that they buy, American made, comes from the plants of the makers of things, and the makers of things are protected by high tariffs and they fix their own prices on the products of their mills and their factories and mines and shops.

This is why the maker of things is prosperous. This is why the grower of things is pinched and demands relief.

Owsley On the Road

COL. ALVIN OWSLEY, past national commander of the American Legion, will be a candidate for the United States senate from Texas in 1928. His platform will made public at the time of his formal announcement in January.

His campaign will have a key note, "the youth, vigor, clean life, character and real ability of Owsley to fill the senatorship." After the holidays have come and gone the political pot will begin to boil in Texas, and the wise ones say there will be candidates galore for all the major and the minor jobs.

Turn 'em loose. The people are the masters and the ballot is the thing.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

Cornelius F. Calahane (and there's an actual name no ingenious novelist could ever hope to better) is an inspector of police long with the New York department. His is the job of commanding a new division of specially trained men, who will be on duty in the new vehicular tunnel between Manhattan and Jersey City. This organization of men is the first ever organized in the United States for this kind of work. The tunnel police must be privy to many subjects which never come under the average cop's eye. They must understand the character of fire hazards peculiar to tunnels, and must know the means to fight flames originating through spontaneous combustion, or other unusual circumstances. They must be able to provide first aid in the special emergency cases traffic in the tube will develop. They must know how to develop traffic in a limited space where and stall is likely to develop a terrible tleup of vehicles, and how to handle an emergency jam of the same. The men training for the service attend lectures daily, and go through a course of sprouts at the training field which reminds oldtimers of the buckling down to business under a stiff army officer of the old school.

Coming out of Roxy's at the closing hour the other night I witnessed the grand gestures that take place as the ushers prepare to cease their reverent labors for the day. In a small balcony, near the dome of the main lobby, a bugler plays taps as the ushers below form in military parade and march smartly out.

They tell this one of Raymond Hitchcock. He and Mrs. Hitchcock and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Irwin were guests at Tex Guinan's place. The usual "give this little girl a big hand" stuff was going around. When Raymond's name was mentioned, he stuck out a huge fist, and said, "Give this great big hand a little girl." It was a good gag and the crowd liked it.

Th' ole time statesman used t' vote as he shot, but t'day's country saver gits half shot an' then votes, or gits shot, I don't know just how t' put it, but I've seen 'em lit up jest after they'd voted dry. Lots o' Hoosiers used t' keep still about bein' Democrats, but t'day they don't make any bones about it.

LILY LEXINGTON is the spoiled child of the CYRUS LEXINGTONS who have always lived far beyond their means. Lily has been reared to be beautifully useless, and her highest ambition is realized when she becomes engaged to STALEY DRUMMOND, a wealthy bachelor much older than herself.

On the morning after he asks her to marry him he telephones to say he is coming to see her that afternoon, and Lily's mother asks him to stay for dinner. Lily begins to look ahead and to wonder what life would be like if she had to eat dinner with Staley Drummond all the rest of her life. She likes him, and the thought of his money entrances her, but she wonders if she ought not to be more deeply in love with him than she is, if she is going to marry him. She starts out in the rain to see her friend, SUE CAIN, to ask her to be her maid-of-honor at her wedding in June. On the way to the restaurant where Sue is lunching she sees a very good-looking man watching her in the street. She feels herself oddly attracted to him before she notices that he wears a uniform and is standing beside his taxicab. Moved by a sudden impulse she gets into the cab and tells him to drive her back home. She forgets all about Sue Cain until she is in the cab.

The car stops on the way out to her father's house, and the driver cheerfully gets out in the rain to see what is wrong with his engine. He tells Lily how much motors attract him and starts to tell her about some new automobile part he is inventing and then stops as if he thinks he is talking too much and the drive ends in silence. As Lily gets out of the cab she takes the card with his name "Pat France" and his photograph upon it, and slips it into her purse. That night, after dinner, when Staley and she are sitting before the fire and she is trying to convince herself that she loves him, her mother comes to the door and says that a taxi-driver is waiting to see her about something.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III

Lily's big eyes grew bigger still with amazement.

"A taxi-driver to see me!" she said quickly, "A taxi-driver!"

She knew, of course, that it must be Pat France. But why on earth had he come to her father's house? What did he want to see her for?—Insisting upon seeing her, too!

"The cheek of him!" she said to herself, and then another thought came tumbling into her mind . . . He had come for that card that she had taken from his cab that afternoon! The card with his name and his picture on it—the card that was lying in the bottom of her handbag upstairs this very minute!

With a nervous little laugh she got up from the flowered-chintz couch where she and Staley were sitting, and he got up too. He looked at her with a twinkle of amusement in his eyes.

"What have you done? Forgotten to pay a cab fare, Lily?" he asked good-humoredly.

And then Lily did a foolish and senseless thing. She said the first thing that came to her lips, and it was a white lie. A lie that was going to breed a great deal of trouble before it was forgotten.

"Yes!" she said, almost without thinking. If she thought about it at all, it simply seemed the easiest thing to say—the easiest explanation of this unexpected visit from a taxicab driver.

She walked slowly out of the room and into the big hall of the house that was more like a friendly room than just an entrance hall, with its coal-fire in the grate and its big bowl of daffodils on the center table.

Just inside the door stood Pat France. He had his cap in his hand and under the artificial light his blue eyes looked even bluer than they had in the afternoon.

Lily was struck with his exceeding good looks again as she walked straight up to him and said "What do you want?" in the coolest tones imaginable.

"My identification card," he told her quietly, "You took it out of my cab this afternoon, and I'd like it."

His eyes swerved from her face as he spoke, and turning, Lily saw that Staley had come up behind her and was standing at her elbow, with his hands in his pockets and his lips pursed up under his little mustache.

"Please let me take care of this, Staley," she begged him, wondering if he had heard what Pat France had said. "Please do go back into the other room with Mother. This is my affair—really."

But Staley was stubborn. All his life he had got the things that he wanted by sticking to his point and refusing to budge. He refused to budge now.

He looked at the blue-eyed cab driver who topped him by a good three inches, and was exceptionally good-looking to boot. Then he looked at the girl who had promised to marry him just the night before. She had gone as white as the pale orchids he had brought her that afternoon, and her fingers picked nervously at a frill on her black dress . . . There seemed to be more to this situation than just an unpaid taxi bill, as Staley saw it.

"How much do you owe this fellow, Lily?" he asked.

For a second Lily hesitated, not knowing what to say. And in that second she was lost. For Pat France answered the question.

"She doesn't owe a five-cent piece," he said, "I'm asking her for a—for a paper of mine. She rode in my cab this afternoon and I thought she might have picked it up."

"Did you?" Staley asked, and Lily shook her vivid head. She looked as innocent as a baby, as she stood there with the electric light shining in her wide-open eyes.

"No, I didn't, Staley," she fibbed again, hating herself for it and yet not knowing what else to do.

"There isn't anything else to do," she thought miserably.

She felt Staley's gaze on her face, and it came to her in a flash that he knew she was lying. But she brazened the thing out. She kept shaking her head slowly.

"What would I want with a taxi man's identification card?" she asked. "I can't understand why he thinks I have it. That's the paper he's lost. Staley. His identification paper."

Staley pulled at his little blond toothbrush of a mustache. Then his hand went back to his trousers pocket and he drew a ten dollar bill from it. He held it out to Pat France.

"Any other girl would be glad to be in your shoes," she stormed.

"Will this help straighten things out? To get another card?" he asked.

The driver looked at the slip and then at Lily. Finally he looked at the man who stood behind her in that protecting way, with one arm around her shoulders as if he owned her already.

"I can get another card," he said shortly. "Sorry to have made you all this trouble."

He went out, pulling his cap down over his eyes as he closed the door behind him.

Lily breathed a great sigh of relief and smiled dazzingly up at Staley. "Well—wasn't that odd!" she said in her fluting voice.

The man nodded. "Yes, it was," he answered, "because you told me you'd forgotten to pay your cab fare. But he says you did pay it."

Lily shrugged a perfect shoulder. "Why, no, I didn't owe him any cab fare," she said, realizing that she was getting in deeper and deeper with every word she uttered, "you must have misunderstood me, Staley."

They went back into the living room.

"Let's get out the card table and play bridge with Mother and Dad," Lily suggested. She didn't want to be alone with Staley Drummond another moment that night.

But he shook his head. "No, I'm going early," he said, "I'm catching a train at half past nine. I'm going out of town on business for a day or two."

They sat down again on the flowered couch. But they didn't talk much. Once or twice Lily looked up suddenly from the pink coals that glowed in the grate and caught Staley's puzzled stare . . . He seemed to be trying to figure out something.

Finally, as they stood together in the chilly vestibule at nine o'clock he asked her a question. "I want you to tell me the truth about something, dear," he said. "Had you ever seen this taxi man until today?"

Lily solemnly shook her head. "Never," she said firmly. "I never saw him in my life until this afternoon. He drove me home from down town"—she gave him an entrancing smile and crossed her heart like a little child that is telling the truth." What do you think I've been doing? Having a love affair with a taxi-driver?"

"I'll call you up long distance tomorrow," he said, between kisses. "What time will you be home? All day?"

"All day," Lily answered, "Waiting to hear from you."

He left her then and she went thoughtfully up the stairs to bed.

The little card that had made so much mischief was still lying in the bottom of her handbag. She took it out and propped it up against the mirror of her dressing table while she brushed her hair and cold-creamed her face.

She was looking at Pat France's pictured face with dreamy eyes when the door opened and her mother came in. She often dropped in this way for a cozy chat on the rare evenings that Lily spent at home.

"Who's picture is that?" she asked as the girl swept the identification card into the pocket of her combing jacket.

"It's just the picture of a man I know," replied Lily airily, "nobody that matters."

"Well, I think he must matter a very great deal if you have to hide his picture from your own mother! —And anyway I don't know what you're doing with it, when you're engaged to marry a fine chap like Staley Drummond—Any other girl we know would be tickled to death to be in your shoes, and here you are mooning over another man's photograph! What's the matter with you, Lily Lexington? What ails you?"

Lily flung her tortoise-shell brush down on the dresser and jumped up. She faced her mother with all the irritation she had felt all day burning in her scarlet cheeks and bright eyes.

"Oh, I don't know what's the matter with me!" she stormed. "Except that I don't want to marry Staley Drummond, and I don't know how to get out of it!—I don't like him. I wish I'd never seen him—I wish you hadn't been ding-donging it into me for a whole year that he was the only man in the world for me!—If I marry him, you can just congratulate yourself on spoiling my life for me —" And she flung herself, face down into the pillows of her bed, and sobbed and sobbed and sobbed.

Mrs. Lexington couldn't remember her having a tantrum like this for fifteen years—not since a long-ago summer day when she had wanted to go to a circus and couldn't go because she had the three-day measles.

She stood looking in helpless anxiety at the supple slim figure across the bed and made a movement as if she were wringing her fine big hands.

"My dear little girl," she said in real distress, "I don't want you to marry Staley Drummond if you really feel this way about him. If you're in love with another man, I wouldn't want to see you tied to Staley if he were as rich as Rockefeller." She sat down heavily on the edge of the bed and patted her daughter's heaving shoulders.

"Nobody knows that you're engaged to Staley," she said sensibly. "The thing for you to do is not to let anyone know about it until you're sure of yourself. See a great deal of him ahd of the other man, too—and perhaps you'll know what to do when June comes."

"When June comes I'll marry Staley—and you know it, and I know it," said Lily with bitterness, sitting up and tossing back her lovely hair. And if you knew who the other man was, Mother, you'd just pass right out of the picture! You'd just die."

She was calm and pensive now. She dried her brimming eyes and laid her cheek against her mother's rouged and powdered cheek.

"I'm a little fool," she said with a long sobbing sigh. "I care for Staley. You know I do—but if he calls up tomorrow from Middletown, tell him I'm sick in bed with a headache, will you?"

VALLEY VIEW NEWS

The Valley View school had both Thursday and Friday as Thanksgiving holidays. School was dismissed Wednesday for the remainder of the week.

Mr. Walter D. McElroy, an A. & M. graduate, attended the Texas-A. & M. football game at College Station Thursday, before going on to Houston.

Book Week Program

In closing the past week, designated as Book week, in the Valley View schools, a program was presented Friday afternoon to the patrons and students in the Valley View auditorium. Practically every student above the intermediate grades had on display some poster, drawing, sketch, outline, or some original display pertaining to the reading of good books, and the use of the school library.

Two short playlets were given showing the advantages of the use of good books by children. Acts were presented showing some of the interesting scenes in the various children's story books of today.

Cash prizes were awarded for the best exhibits in each division, and much valuable work was accomplished.

Eye Examinations.

After an examination of the entire student body in the school by an eye specialist of Wichita Falls it was found that about 12 per cent of the students in school were suffering from some kind of eye trouble and should be wearing glasses. Some of these were already using glasses, while others were apparently unconscious of their need for them. It is expected that this work will aid some of the children in caring for their eyesight and doing better work in school.

Enlarge Store

Mr. F. H. Rea, proprietor of the Valley View store, located near the Valley View school, is enlarging to care for the increase of business. Mr. Rea established his store less than a year ago, and since finds it necessary to provide more room.

In adding more room his plans provide for the serving of hot sandwiches, hamburgers, and drinks to the school children.

HE DID HIS BIT

"Were you ever in the army Joe?" one war vet facetiously inquired of a hungry looking colored gentleman who was loafing nearby.

"Yes, suh, cap'n, I shuah was. I was in the ahmy for two weeks."

He fished in an overalls pocket and drew out a card. "This heah card will prove it," he finished proudly.

The "cap'n" took one glance and gasped. The card read: "Honorably discharged because of mental deficiency."

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy, who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Dr. McCoy's Menus Suggested For the Week Beginning Sunday, November 27.

SUNDAY

Breakfast: *Baked stuffed apple, with cream or milk.

Lunch: Vegetable soup made of tomato, spinach and celery; cream added just before serving. Avocado salad.

Dinner: Roast chicken, string beans, oyster plant, salad of tender raw spinach leaves, ice cream.

MONDAY

Breakfast: Coddled egg, Melba toast, stewed prunes.

Lunch: Eight-ounce glass of grape juice.

Dinner: Celery soup, stuffed and rolled round steak, McCoy salad, baked pears.

TUESDAY

Breakfast: Wholewheat muffins and peanut butter, stewed raisins.

Lunch: Baked Hubbard squash in the shell, cooked spinach, raw celery.

Dinner: Roast pork, buttered vegetables (carrots, beets and turnips), salad of chopped cabbage, apple sauce.

WEDNESDAY

Breakfast: Poached egg on Melba toast, stewed figs.

Lunch: Pint of buttermilk and 10 or 12 dates.

Dinner: Vegetable soup, Salisbury steak, string beans, oyster plant, salad of sliced tomatoes, with celery, minced prunes in gelatin.

THURSDAY

Breakfast: Cottage cheese, Melba toast, sliced pineapple (canned).

Lunch: Steamed carrots and peas, stuffed celery.

Dinner: Jellied tomato consomme, broiled mutton chops, baked small parsnips, tomato-spinach-asparagus salad, baked pears.

FRIDAY

Breakfast: French omelet, Melba toast, small dish of raspberries (canned).

Lunch: Eight-ounce glass of grape juice.

Dinner: Baked halibut, baked egg plant, McCoy salad, no dessert.

SATURDAY

Lunch: Cooked mashed pumpkin, salad of molded vegetables (string beans, celery, cucumbers, parsley).

Dinner: Vegetable soup, boiled fresh tongue, cooked lettuce, cooked string beans, carrots and celery salad, apple whip.

*Baked Stuffed Apple: Remove the core, and scoop out as much of the apple as possible. Run this scooped-out portion through the food chopper with the desired quantity of nut meats. Heap into the apple "shell" and bake in a moderate oven. Serve hot or cold, with cream or milk if desired.

QUESTION: R. T. J. writes: "In winter my hands crack and bleed. Have had doctors tell me I had tetter. In summer they are as smooth as anybody's. Please tell me how to cure them."

ANSWER: In cold weather, after bathing your hands you should dry them very carefully and oil them slightly with coco-butter, rubbing it in well between the fingers. Your skin is no doubt sensitive to the cold, but the cracking can be avoided by keeping your hands soft and sufficiently oily.

QUESTION: O. B. writes: "Would like to see your advice on a paralyzed colon. Is there any cure for it? Is there any way of getting it back to normal and thus dispense with the daily enema?"

ANSWER: You probably do not have paralysis of the colon, as such trouble is quite rare. If your colon were paralyzed, your entire body below the waist would be paralyzed also. There is no better treatment for a sluggish colon than a few weeks' course of treatment with the enema twice daily. If you will use the right food, after stopping the enema your bowels should move naturally two or three times daily. If they do not, it is probably because of a kink or paralysis of your intestines. This condition could be determined by an X-ray examination and can be corrected by deep massage manipulations and electrical treatments.

And he called them unto him, and said unto them in parables, How can Satan cast out Satan?

And if a kingdom be divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand.

And if a house be divided against itself, that house cannot stand.

And if Satan rise up against himself and be divided, he cannot stand, but hath an end.—Mark, iii, 23-26.

WHEAT POOL CLAIMS SUCCESS

The latest figures show that the Canadian wheat pool, the largest farmers' cooperative in the world, has been a pronounced success, its supporters assert. Formed in the fall of 1923, it now has a membership of 142,000 farmers, and handles about 200,000,000 bushels of wheat annually, as well as from 20,000,000 to 30,000,000 bushels of other grains, with a money turnover of more than $300,000,000. Since 1923 members of the pool have received $500,000,000.

MODISH MITZI — Just a Little Campaign — By JAY V. JAY

It's time for Mitzi to think of buying Christmas presents, but the most serious thinking Mitzi does is done before she starts shopping—and it's how to get the chief requisite for shopping of any sort. Mitzi's black satin lounging pajamas have an interesting oval neckline with a collar at the back and a jabot frill of white chiffon.

Mitzi's street dress has a diagonal front opening to the blouse and is ornamented with a single large button. The dress is of wool georgette and if Mitzi has forgotten her coat she will remember it as soon as she gets to the door. She's remembering hard now—remembering all the favorite dishes that Dad likes for dinner—he'll have them!

Mitzi made herself look as charming as possible for dinner. This is a frock of gold lace with flowers of gold outlining a deep oval decolletage—lower in back than in front. Mitzi is just proposing a bargain — Dad shall have his favorite pipe as soon as he signs his name on the dotted line—the line being on a check, of course.

Dad saw it coming. Nobody was really deceived. It's this way every year. Mitzi gets the check and Dad gets peace and quiet. That being settled if you will look in the lower left hand corner of this picture you will see that Mitzi's dress ends in a ruffled all around the hem—that's the way dresses with the tunic silhouette do this year.

Monday—Daytime Coats.

Old Maids No More Selfish Per Se Than Are Bachelors, Avers Dix

The Widower Who Finds All Old Maids Selfish. Capable Miss Nineteen Who Believes She Can Rescue a Piece of Damaged Goods by Marrying Him — The Use of Cosmetics, Pro and Con.

Dear Miss Dix:—Will you be kind enough to inform me why nearly all old maids are selfish? I am a widower and I thought I would marry an old maid, but I find that they are so selfish they don't want to get married. You say a man ought to divide his income fifty-fifty with his wife. Don't you know there are a lot of women that would spend their half for powder and puffs? Besides, nine-tenths of the women are selfish when it comes to their own children. J. B. J.

Answer: All of us are selfish, Mr. J. B. J., and if old maids are more selfish than married women it is for the same reason that old bachelors are more selfish than married men.

Matrimony doesn't always bring happiness to a man and woman, but it is the greatest disciplinarian and develoer of character that human ingenuity has ever invented. Nobody ever goes through the mill of wedlock and comes out the same. It chastens the proudest spirit. It bends the most stubborn back. It puts a few crimps in the most cast-iron will.

Why, even the married look so married you can spot them at sight. Something is gone out of their jaunty appearance that they once had, something is lacking of the cocksureness of the unmarried, for no man can listen to his wife's criticism without having his head permanently deflated, and no woman can hear what her husband really thinks of her without feeling that she is a poor worm of the dust that hasn't any real reason for existing.

Above all, married people find out that no two people can live together without a mutual give and take, and so they learn how to consider others instead of themselves. Also, they find out that whatever else it may be marriage is a sacrifical altar, and because they have to give up their own wills, their own desires, their own pleasures for their husbands and wives and children, they learn to be unselfish.

It is the old bachelors and the old maids who have "ways," who get faddy about their food and who are uset if anything interferes with their personal comfort. Husbands and wives who have brought up a house full of children have never had time to coddle themselves and develop temperamental peculiarities.

But I cannot agree with you that old maids, as a class, are selfish. On the contrary, my experience of them has been that they are most unselfish. Before you condemn them think of the unmarried women you know who have given their whole lives to taking care of querulous old parents. Isn't it the old-maid daughter who slaves away and supports mother and father and bears with their whims and crotchets, while the married children have gone off to homes of their own?

And think of the old maids you know who spend all of their earnings on their families, who work beyond their strength to put nephews through college and give pretty nieces clothes and pay sister's doctor's bills and help brother when he gets out of work.

I know plenty of these self-abnegating angels who go shabby themselves and do without all the things that they would like to have in order to give to their families. I know plenty of old maids earning fine salaries who are dooming themselves to the poor house or to a dependent old age because they have not enough intelligent selfishness to save up the money to live on when they will be too old to work.

I stand by my guns in saying that a man should go fifty-fifty with his wife on the money proposition. If the woman has been a good wife, she has earned it and it belongs to her by rights, and her husband needn't be afraid that she will spend it foolishly. If she was that sort, there wouldn't by any money to divide because a husband's prosperity depends upon his wife's thrift as much as upon his earning capacity. Besides, any woman can get more out of a dollar than a man can.

Of course, mothers are selfish about their children. That is why they want to save money so as to give their girls and boys advantages.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix:—We are a group of young married folks who would like your opinion of this situation:

We know a girl who is pretty, popular, with a spotless reputation and who holds a responsible business position. She is in love with a man who drinks to excess, gambles recklessly, is immoral and has been divorced from one wife. This girl of 19 maintains that she will wait for this man to have his fling and is sure he will settle down after they are married. She insists there is good in him if it can be brought to the surface, but we are of the opinion that it is too deeply buried ever to be dug out by mortal woman. What do you think? OBSERVERS.

Answer: Doubtless there is some good in everybody, but why any girl wants to make herself an excavating committee to try to exhume the one grain of gold in the ton of mud and slime in such a man must forever remain one of the conundrums that nobody can guess.

It has always seemed to me that nothing but colossal vanity ever prompts a woman to marry a man to reform him. It is her egotism that makes her think that she is a miracle-worker who can transform a weak character into a strong one, who can quench a drunkard's thirst and turn a philanderer into a stay-at-home husband.

Of course, lots of girls have this inflated estimate of their own hypnotic powers, and every day we see them marrying drunkards, and rogues, and lazy, shiftless ne'er-do-wells in the fond belief that all these men need is their sacred influence to make them sober, moral, industrious husbands. And later on we see them rising up in the night to let in drunkards, or hurrying off to the divorce courts, or taking in boarders to support men who are still too tired to work. For the unalterable fact remains that if a man will not go straight for the sake of his own manhood he will never do it for any woman.

I should say that if this particular girl marries this particular man she will not have one chance in a thousand of happiness: And why, when there are so many worthwhile men in the world, does she pick out this particular piece of damaged goods?

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix:—Will you tell me what you think about the use of cosmetics?

A SOUTH CAROLINA READER.

Answer: I approve of the use of cosmetics when they are used artistically and so as to enhance the good looks of a woman. I disapprove when they are used inartistically and disfigure a woman. I hold it is every woman's bounden duty to be balm to the eyes of the beholder if she possibly can, and there is no question but that a little judiciously applied rouge and lipstick and powder are a godsend to the sallow and the middle-aged.

But, on the other hand, a woman who is painted up like a house afire, whose nose resembles a marshmallow and whose mouth looks like a raw cut of butcher's meat, commits the unpardonable sin against art and all good taste.

So, to my mind, whether the use of cosmetics is right or wrong depends on how you use them.

ELECTRA SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Nov. 25. — The P-T. A. Council met Tuesday afternoon in the high school building with Mrs. John Delashaw, president, presiding. The meeting was opened with the Lord's prayer, after which the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Dues for membership were paid by two of the members and a check was given covering the expenses of the delegates trip to Houston.

Mrs. Cassie Ligon's resignation as secretary was accepted and Mrs. T. C. Stockton was elected to fill the office. Following the business session, a program arranged by Mrs. Bruce Hyde was given. Miss Opal Caldwell gave a reading, "Thanksgiving," and Taylor Cash talked on "The Training of the American Boy."

Those present were Mesdames E. R. Keller, Bruce Hyde, John Delashaw, W. P. Kilpatrick, Hal Hughes, Mork Turner, Ralph Doyle, T. C. Stockton, Mosely, Messrs. B. M. Dinsmore and Taylor Cash and Miss Falls.

Concordia Bridge Club.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Miller entertained the Concordia Bridge club members and their husbands Friday evening at their home on East Ida avenue. Thanksgiving suggestions were used in the decorations, tallies and table covers and refreshments.

Mrs. Paul Green received high score prize for the ladies and Dr. J. F. Burton won high score for the men. After the games a two-course luncheon was served to the following guests: Messrs. and Mesdames W. R. Skinner, J. F. Burton, George Esell, E. G. Latimore, Frank Doores, Paul Green, J. W. Goekin and Mitt Williams.

Family Reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Austin, of the County Line community, entertained Thursday with a chicken and fish dinner in honor of Mr. N. Austin and the three generations represented in the family reunion. The day was spent in talking over old times and renewing acquaintances. At the dinner hour chicken and fish with all accessories were served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Austin, of Wichita Falls, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Austin and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Austin and family, Mr. and Mrs. James A. McDonald and son, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Rainer and family, Mr. Austin, Messrs. Jesse Austin, Gene Sharp, Clarence Young, and Miss Thais Newburn. Burchfield-Yerby.

Mr. Edgar Burchfield and Miss Lorene Yerby, of the Elliott community were married Sunday morning at the Baptist parsonage here, Rev. E. M. Francis performing the ceremony. The wedding was very quiet only the minister's family and three attendants witnessing it. The couple returned immediately after the ceremony to Elliott, where they will make their home. Those accompaning the couple were Orville Cook and Misses Bert Raines and Anna Burchfield, a sister of the groom.

Club Educational Tour.

The Barwise Home Demonstration club, led by Miss Ethel Louise Webb, county demonstrator, conducted an educational tour over the city Wednesday morning, visiting the various manufacturing and business concerns in the interest of the "Know Your Community" movement. Previous arrangements had been made by Mrs. N. D. Cooper and Miss Webb, who has been Mrs. Cooper's guest for the past two days. The members met at the chamber of commerce at 11 a. m. and started from there, going first to the office of the Electra News, where the editor, R. A. Franklin, conducted the party through the composing and press rooms, explaining the different things that go into the making of a newspaper. From there, they went to the Grand theater where they were shown the projection booth and the method of enlarging the pictures upon the screen. The Electra and Purity bakeries were next shown the electric ovens and cake and yeast bread in the making. From there to the Electra laundry, where the different stages of cleansing and pressing were explained, then to the Electra creamery, where the process of butter making held their interest. The last on the list was the LeBus Rotary company, where Mr. Frank LeBus conducted the group through the factory and work shops.

The next meeting will be on December 14, the place of meeting not yet having been determined.

Germany has a shortage of skilled labor.

A NEW CONTRAPTION

An old lady who lived in the back country and seldom visited the city saw, for the first time, a street car running along.

"Well, I never!" she exclaimed. I've seen 'em going with horses, and I've seen 'em going with steam, but I never thought to see 'em going with a fishing-rod."

A HOMELY GIRL'S CHARM By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Sense of Humor May Go Farther Than Beauty

By Beatrice Fairfax,
An Authority on the Problems of Love and Marriage.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

"I WISH I were beautiful!" It is safe to state that every girl not born a beauty has echoed this remark at some time. Since the days of the first recorded beauty contest in ancient Greece, physical loveliness has been held up as woman's greatest enchantment and source of power. But is it?

Were the best-loved, most irresistible women of history, invariably beauties? Is physical beauty an open sesame to success and happy romance today?

Good looks in the sense of careful, dainty grooming, a wholesome appearance, the symmetry and poise that result in fine health, and taste in dress, are an asset to any woman. They make her easy to look at, easy to remember, easy to love.

But in our modern adulation of physical beauty, are we not inclined to attribute to it undue importance as part of a girl's equipment for success?

The great Queen Elizabeth was a plain, red-haired woman. Many able antiquarians dispute the beauty of Cleopatra, claiming she was not good-looking, even according to the standards of her day. But no one doubts her irresistible charm.

Helen of Troy was beautiful. But how much happiness or success did her beauty attract to her or her country. Her love invariably brought tragedy to herself and those dear to her.

Among artists, Sarah Bernhardt was not beautiful. Duse had only the loveliness of a beautiful spirit. Ninon de Lenclos, who it is said was the only woman in Paris during the reign of Louis XIV. who had no enemies, was not rated a great beauty.

Think of the women you know who are supremely successful, supremely charming and loved. Are all of them beautiful?

I am sure that if you recall those women of your own acquaintance who are most happily married, most loved by husband, children and a great circle of friends, you will note that extreme personal beauty is not their leading characteristic.

The fact is, when we love a woman we forget whether she is beautiful or plain—and we don't care. Beauty counts for a favorable first impression—that's all.

It is said that the following limerick was a favorite with President Wilson:

"As a beauty I'm not a great star.
There are others more handsome by far.
But my face, I don't mind it,
Because I'm behind it,
It's the people in front that I jar."

It's just the jolly, human attitude expressed by this limerick that often helps a homely girl to win success in business and romance, causing her to distance her complacent, beautiful rival.

Nine times out of ten, a beautiful girl has grown used to thinking of herself as a picture, and she always tries to keep in the picture—in other words, she is self-conscious and self-satisfied. She is a bore.

She may receive a great deal of surface attention from men because they are attracted by her loveliness and are possibly proud to be seen with such a good looking woman.

But when it comes to lasting friendship, love and marriage, a man turns to the girl who is natural and sympathetic, responsive and capable—a girl who may be quite plain, but can laugh at herself. That laugh counts for charm.

Forget your beauty if you are beautiful. Forget to envy the loveliness of others if you are plain. Character and charm will enable you to enchant the right man throughout a life-time of happy marriage.

Fashion—The Goddess of Women

Drawn by Dorothy Flack

FROM the day Mother Eve fashioned a garland of fig leaves the thought that is nearest and dearest to a woman's heart is Fashion. What tragedies and comedies, what smiles and tears, yes, even crimes and wars, have taken place to satisfy her everseeking mad pursuit of the latest in everything. Whether it's clothes, or houses, or jewels; games, fads, books, even dispositions, all bow to the dictates of that capricious goddess—Fashion.

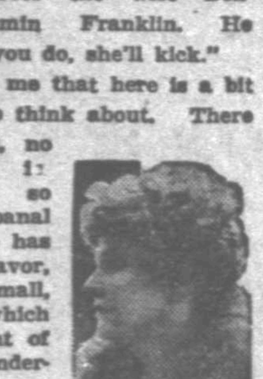
Nothing escapes her! Her farseeing eyes ever seek something new for Milady's delectation. Every kingdom in the world pays tribute to her. The loveliest birds, beasts and flowers pay heavy toll to her demands. The earth gives up her treasures to enhance fair woman's charm. The toil of thousands of tired fingers, and the products of weary, tired brains, all send their tribute to the Court of Fashion. And Milady thoughtlessly, heedlessly snatches what she will, that for a few minutes or hours she may be happy in having that which is "le dernier cri." And then—she tires, and the weary grind begins over again.

And all for what? That she may deck herself in the finest and latest and loveliest to help her in her quest of Love and Happiness. For they do whisper that a woman follows the dictates of Fashion's stern mandates that she may appear lovely to the one of her choice—as the Bird of Paradise dances and spreads his plumage to win the chosen of his heart.

It is a treadmill from which none may escape, and, from the richest to the poorest, each does her best to "be in style" and array herself in Fashion's latest—even though that latest cover a breaking heart. But more often it is with the gladsome thought that she's lovely in the eyes of One who is her Heart's Desire and ultimate Happiness.

Gratitude Simply Expressed Most Acceptable

By Lucy Lowell



LUCY LOWELL

"DON'T overload gratitude," wrote the wise Benjamin Franklin. He added, "If you do, she'll kick."

It strikes me that here is a bit of advice to think about. There is, perhaps, no experience in the world so completely banal to one who has done a favor, great or small, as that in which the recipient of the favor undertakes to express his thanks in the overwhelming manner which some seem to consider necessary for such action.

However, there is no real emphasis in repetition, hyperbole, bizarre methods and manners of speech. Those instead carry an inference of a lack of conviction which must be made up for by exaggeration.

They are resorted to by some because of self-consciousness. Others suffering, perhaps, from a slight inferiority complex, unconsciously use such as a means of balancing up their short comings. And still others are handicapped by a true conception of the value of giving.

In any case the effect upon the giver—the one who conferred the favor—is to make him think, "What have I done to deserve all this?"

As a matter of fact the one who benefits most from a kindly deed is the perpetrator of it. A favor is a sort of benevolent boomerang which gathers blessings as it flies back to the one who sent it out.

And while this does not relieve the recipient of the necessity for being grateful, it does take from him any reason for abject gratitude.

"Thank you," sincerely spoken is the most acceptible expression of gratitude.

Our Rhyming OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

HERE is a gift you may use as you will: bright, shining hours that blossom with dawn—what will you do with them, how will you fill each golden chalice ere day is withdrawn? Others may bring to you laughter and gold, brimming your life with the treasures men prize; only time's gifts are too rare to be sold, only time brings them and, bringing them, flies! Bright, shining hours, gift highest of all; what will you write on the scroll they unfold, so with day ended, when soft shadows fall, part of your innermost self will be told, part of the thought and the toils that you spent, part of the vision and purpose you knew? Ah, in your use of it, be not content save as your efforts are stainless and true!

Overdoing the Vitamins in Your Diet

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

THE great danger to you and to everybody that comes from promulgating a new scientific truth is that you, like everybody, are liable to become a crank on the subject. That simply means that there is a tendency to accept the new truth without reference to its due proportions or its normal relations.

It does sometimes seem, it seems regrettable for instance, that physiologists and biochemists should have construed their attention so exclusively on the accessory food factors known as vitamins. As far as the mouth and teeth at least, are concerned, the other factors (such as acids, calcium, etc.) are in practice very much more important, because in civilized countries hardly any food is eaten which is so poor in vitamins as to cause any specific trouble.

Rats fed on food especially purified of vitamins did not only keep them in health, but nourished them sufficiently to enable them to produce young. Sir Gowland Hopkins, who perhaps used more carefully purified food, found that rats would not thrive on it, but yet that when they were given a very small daily allowance of milk, only 4 per cent of the food eaten, their growth became normal and continuous. Sufficiency is better than excess, and we might infer from this that we should do better if 96 per cent of our food were vitamin free! Seriously, however, if less than 4 per cent of a food like milk will restore animals to health, it must need even less to prevent them losing their health. The inference is that we talk and think far too much about vitamins and probably eat too much of them.

Wallace tells us (London Lancet) that except for the disease known as scurvy, vitamins are of no practical importance to the teeth at all. Bad teeth are certainly never caused by a deficiency of vitamin A.

A few years ago it was generally accepted that rickets was caused by a deficiency of fat soluble A vitamin. This has been disproved by the discovery of vitamin D, which is said to be mobilized in the skin by the action of sunlight. Now even vitamin D is discredited, and it is more widely believed that rickets is due to a positive cause, an excess of unsuitable starches

Her Husband's Secretary

By William Almon Wolff

Eileen Saves the Day.

AND so the MacVaughs, John and Eileen, began, so they went on. Though, with each year, John grew more prosperous, his income bigger, the list of stocks and bonds more imposing, there was, in the five years they lived, after their marriage, in the small town in which Eileen had been born, almost no change in their outward circumstances and style of living.

"I'm playing a deep, long game," he told Eileen. He liked to tell her what he was doing, and she sat silent, listening, asking no questions. He wondered sometimes how much she understood of what he told her, details of abstruse financial transactions, talk of mortgages and equipment trusts and prior liens. But on the other hand he didn't greatly care. It helped him to solve his problems to lay them out aloud, with Eileen, a bit of sewing in her lap, perhaps, to listen, her blue eyes, sober and grave now in her studious attention, upon him.

"I'm taking big chances a lot of the time," he said. "You see, I'm always obligating myself for more than I've got, really. I'm not playing the market the way some men do, and yet, really, I'm betting on the way it'll swing just as much as the gamblers in Wall street are."

That was the reason he formed, early, the habit of putting in Eileen's name practically all the securities he bought and owned outright. Eileen, when they had been married two or four years, was a rich woman in her own right—on paper. Many extremely valuable securities stood in her name on the records. In fact, of course, John continued to own and control them. Frequently he would bring home a stock certificate or a proxy for Eileen to sign, and she always signed, unquestioningly, just as and where he told her.

"You see," he explained, "if anything goes wrong they can't touch what's in your name—not without a lot more trouble than anyone's likely to take, that is. And, at the worst, I'll get time that way to straighten things out."

"Something could go wrong this?" she said.

"It won't," he said confidently, "but it could. Anything can happen. If we had a panic or a long period of industrial depression, things might get awkward. I don't look for anything of the kind, but I think it's well to be prepared."

"So do I," said Eileen and smiled wisely.

In the fifth year of their marriage John began to talk less and less to Eileen, and to show more and more that he was under a severe strain of some sort. He was nervous; he slept badly; he was likely to be morose and silent in the evenings when he was at home with Eileen.

And with increasing frequency now he began to bring home stock certificates and other securities for her indorsement. These, she knew, he was taking from the safe deposit vault that stood in the names of both of them in Henry Lowell's bank.

"You're not selling them, darling, are you?" she asked him once—one of her rare questions. He laughed.

"Selling them? Not likely! They are too precious! No. But I'll tell you what I am doing—I'm borrowing on them. I'm using them for collateral security on loans."

"You must be borrowing a lot of money, then," she said.

"I am. I'm borrowing right up to the very limit of my credit. Before I get through we'll be lucky if I don't ask you for your engagement ring and your wrist watch!"

"You can have them," she said.

"I know! You're a sweet thing, Eileen. It won't come to that, I hope. But—the big push is coming, darling. We'll know pretty soon whether——"

"Whether what?"

He looked at her.

"I'm not going to tell you, honey. I—oh, I'm a fool, but I'm superstitious. I think you can queer things, sometimes, by talking about them before they come off."

"All right," she said. "You don't have to tell me anything, darling. I trust you absolutely."

He laughed, excitingly, and caught her in his arms, and kissed her.

"A man can't fall down when he's got a wife like you!" he said.

Yet there came a time when he was less certain of that than he had been. He had seen his great chance at last. Men from New York had let their eyes fall upon that forgotten backwater of the great national reservoir of power at last; they had begun, tentatively, to take steps toward acquiring control of the properties they wanted.

Inevitably, in that process, they came upon John MacVaugh and his holdings. At first they made roundabout offers to him; failing to interest him they woke up to the fact, all at once, that they had been, in a measure, forestalled. Not quite; John had not been able, in spite of all his forethought and his saving, quite to gain control. And so, in the homestretch, as it were, he found himself up against financial interests far more powerful than himself.

The fight was less uneven than it seemed, however. John knew, as the struggle passed into its final phase where every single share of the stock needed for control was held; he was friendly with many of the stockholders; a great many of them had promised him a final chance to buy before they sold to any one else. And, without hesitation, he strained his credit to the utmost.

Lowell let him, on his personal notes and his securities, every cent he could without bringing the bank examiners down upon him. But, as the final days drew near, John, for the first time, had to envisage the possibility of defeat—and ruin. Unless he had control his holdings would lose most of their value; the New York men would know how to freeze him out if they won.

And on the eve of the day that must bring a decision John knew he was licked. He faced the truth; he went home, clear-eyed, to tell it to Eileen.

"We're beaten," he said. "If I could raise five thousand dollars more before ten o'clock tomorrow morning I'd have a chance. But I can't. I've tried every recourse"——

Eileen got up, quietly. She went into her room. She came back with a signed check and a pass book.

"I've saved every dividend that's come in, every interest coupon," she said. "Here's sixty-two hundred and ten dollars. Will that help?"

"Help!" he shouted. "Eileen—it makes us safe!"

To Be Continued.

When Manners Are Correct

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Watermelon Manners.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please advise me the correct way of eating watermelon cut in a half slice as well as the correct way when it is cut in the large wedge.

2. Please also advise me the proper way to walk to my seat in a theatre. One etiquette book tells me to face the others in the row while I walk in or rather slide through to my seat, which means that my back is to the stage.

Another treatise on etiquette says to face the stage, which means my back is to the audience. Which is right? E.

THE very best form for eating watermelon served in both these ways is to use the small knife and fork which is designated as the "tea knife and fork." This small knife and fork—which are exactly the size we know as a child's knife and fork—makes eating watermelon the joy it didn't use to be! With the knife you cut off a small mouthful of the melon, and with the fork (in the left hand, if you are a follower of the Continental way of eating) eat that piece before you cut off another piece.

Or the watermelon may be eaten with a fork, preferably a small one.

Watermelon served in this form is not particularly attractive or particularly easy to eat. That is why now most hostesses serve watermelon as watermelon cocktails, that is, cut into balls and served in that very convenient double-bowl—the container a large bowl lined with cracked ice, and the inside glass containing the watermelon balls. They can be shaped with the shaper for potato balls. Sometimes a fruit juice is poured over these watermelon balls.

Or the watermelon is sometimes served in small circles or small squares or small wedges, but all the pieces should be alike if served in any of these forms.

No matter what kind of service is selected, as many as possible of the seeds should be removed. And the eater should be "everlastingly" on the alert for lurking seeds! They should be removed, when seen first, with the utensil placed with the watermelon, and if they are not discovered until they are taken into the mouth, they should be removed between the first finger and the thumb.

2. The advice given in the second "treatise" is correct. When you are going into the row after the other people are seated in the row, face the stage and keep as near as possible to the back of the seat in front of you, without, of course, disturbing the people in those seats.

SUNDAY MENU IS ELABORATE

Formal Touch Given To This Dinner

By MRS. WM. E. HUFF,
Winner $5 Weekly Menu Prize

Oysters on Half Shell
Saratoga Wafers
Olives Celery
Chicken a la Maryland, Cream Gravy
Corn Fritters Mashed Potato
Buttered Beets Squash
Hot Baking Powder Biscuit
Head Lettuce, Roquefort Cheese Dressing
Peaches Chantilly Lady Fingers
Coffee

Oysters on Half Shell

Serve oysters in deep halves of shells on a bed of crushed ice, with small end of shells pointing toward center, where a small glass is placed holding the following dressing: for six portions, allow six small cherry stone or blue point oysters. Put into a bowl two tablespoons fresh grated horseradish; one-half teaspoon salt; two tablespoons vinegar; four tablespoons tomato catsup. Mix thoroughly, season with a few drops of tobasco sauce and one-fourth teaspoon paprika. Mix thoroughly; divide between six small glasses or tomato cups. Garnish each with a quarter of a lemon, sharp edge dipped in finely chopped parsley.

Chicken a la Maryland

Dress clean and cut up two young chickens fryers), sprinkle with salt, pepper, roll in flour, dip in egg and roll in fine bread crumbs. Melt three teaspoons lard in a dipping pan, add the chickens and bake in a hot oven 30 minutes, basting each five minutes with fat in pan or with one-half cup melted butter; turn, that chicken may be evenly browned. Dispose on hot platter, pour around two cups cream gravy. Garnish chicken with six slices of crisp bacon and hot corn fritters placed around rim of platter.

Corn Fritters

To one can corn add one cup flour, sifted with one teaspoon baking powder; two teaspoons salt, and one-fourth teaspoon pepper; add the yolks of two eggs well beaten; add one-half finely chopped parsley, then fold in tthe stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Drop by spoonfuls into an iron frying pan of fresh hot lard. Brown on both sides. Draw on paper and serve.

Mashed Potato Squash

Mash and cut the yellow crookneck squash in thick slices crosswise. Do not pare or remove seeds if squash is young and tender. Cook in boiling salted water until soft. Drain as dry as possible. Mash and season with salt, pepper and butter, mix thoroughly and when hot turn into hot serving dish.

Roquefort Cheese Dressing

Work one cup of crumbled Roquefort cheese to a cream, gradually add six tablespoons of olive oil; one-half teaspoon salt; one-fourth teaspoon paprika; few grains cayenne and two tablespoons vinegar, stirring continually. Chill and before serving beat thoroughly.

Peach Chantelly

Canned peaches are used now. Place them in a shallow dish and pour over a few tablespoons of the syrup drained from Marachino cherries and set aside in a cool place until ready to serve. Pile sweetened and flavored cream pyramid like in the center of each peach, sprinkle with Maraschino cherries finely chopped. Serve with lady fingers.

New Recipes Are Given For Menu

Bridgetown
Winner $1 Special Prize
Veal Birds
Dressing Gravy
Stewed Prunes Creamed Onions
Stuffed Baked Sweet Potatoes
Nut and Pickle Salad with Thousand Island Dressing
Hot Biscuits
Candied Apples Topped with Whipped Cream
Date Loaf Coffee

Veal Birds

Cut thin slices of veal steak into 2 1-2 by 3 inch pieces, or slightly larger, pound. Make a bread dressing, using nuts and raisins with bread crumbs, seasoning to suit taste. Place small amount of dressing into each piece of veal; roll up and fasten with toothpicks. Brown birds in spider in 2 tablespoons hot butter and lard. Pour into baking dish, pour drippings from spider over birds. Make a cream gravy with 3 cups of milk, 1 large tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon flour, salt and pepper. Pour over birds and bake in hot oven one-half hour. May be baked with more butter and without cream gravy, or may use milk for basting and add flour after the birds are taken out. This may be termed a 3 in 1 recipe as the dressing and gravy are cooked with the veal birds.

Stewed Prunes

Wash 1 pound of prunes and place in a stewpan and cover with boiling water. Cook over a brisk fire being careful not to cook the prunes to pieces. When tender add 2 or 3 tablespoons of sugar and cook only until sugar is melted. Remove prunes to a serving dish. Cook the juice until a thick syrup is obtained and pour over prunes.

Creamed Onions

Peel the onions and drop in cold water. Put in a stewpan with boiling salted water. Cook rapidly for 15 minutes. Drain off the water and cover the onions with hot milk. Simmer half an hour or cook slowly until onions are tender. Beat together 1 tablespoonful butter and 1 level tablespoonful flour. Add 1 teaspoonful salt and 1-4 teaspoonful pepper (white preferred). Gradually beat in 1-2 cupful of the milk in which onions are cooking. When smooth stir the mixture into onions and milk. Let it cook slowly ten minutes longer.

Stuffed Baked Sweet Potatoes

6 medium sized sweet potatoes
2 tablespoofuls butter
Juice of 1 orange
1 cupful shredded pineapple (may be omitted if one is not especially fond of pineapple)
14- ? chopped English walnuts (or other meat nuts)
1 teaspoon salt
1 dozen marshmallows

Bake potatoes. Scoop out shells, cutting the potato lengthwise to give a better base to rest upon. Mash potatoes well, adding butter, salt and orange juice. Stir in all the rest of ingredients, except marshmallows. Refill shells with mixture. Cut up marshmallows. Place them on top. Replace the potatoes in hot oven until heated through and browned slightly on surface. This is an unusual dish that is delightful.

Nut and Pickle Salad in Gelatin

Soak contents of one envelope of gelatin with one cup of cold water. Dissolve thoroughly and add 2 cups of boiling water. Cool. Chop 1 1-4 cups of sweet pickles and about 1 cup of nuts. Pour about one-half of the gelatin in a molding pan and add one-half of the nuts and pickles mixture. Set in a cold wind or on ice to become firm. Then pour on top of this the remaining gelatin water with nuts and pickles and chill until firm. This prevents all the nuts and pickles from rising to the top. When ready to serve place on crisp lettuce leaf and garnish with dressing. Delightful with this or other meat courses.

Candied Apples

Core and then peel six medium size apples. Place them in a sugar mixture of 1 cup sugar and 1-2 to 3-4 cup boiling water to which has been added red hots (candy) for flavor and coloring. This makes the apples a beautiful red. The amount to suit personal taste. Turn often and lightly with fork or spoon, being careful not to cook too long because they lose hape. Remove to individual serving dishes and boil syrup to a soft jelly, then pour over red apples to glaze. When ready to serve top with whipped cream.

Date Loaf

Take one package of dates, cut fine and pour over them a cup of boiling water to which 1 level teaspoon of soda has been dissolved. Set aside to cool. Beat one egg, add 1 cup of sugar, 1 tablespoon of butter or substitute, pinch of salt, 1 1-2 cups of flour and 1 cup of chopped nuts. Now beat the two mixtures together and bake in a loaf pan with greased paper on bottom and sides. Put this in a moderately warm oven and bake 45 minutes very slowly. Peel paper off cake immediately on removing from oven. You may ice the cake, yet to leave it off gives the idea of a fruit cake and is ideal for this season of the year.

Kitchen Hints

MENU HINT.

Apples and gingerbread desserts is a new variation of the usual apple pudding and gingerbread with whipped cream. In case this is a quick meal, the apples could be prepared the day before, or early in the morning, then the gingerbread batter could quickly be mixed, poured over and baked while the rest of the meal is being prepared.

Today's Recipes.

Baked Gingerbread with Apples—Cut five large apples in eighths and remove peel and seeds. Cook until about half done in a thin sirup made from one-half cup of sugar and one-quarter cup boiling water. Drain the apples from the syrup, put in a buttered baking dish and pour over them a gingerbread dough. Bake in a moderate oven and serve hot or cold, with whipped cream.

Gingerbread — One-half cup sugar, one-half cup shortening, one egg, one-half cup sour milk or hot water, three-fourths teaspoon soda, one teaspoon ginger, a little salt, two cups cake flour.

SUGGESTIONS.
Romper Rules.

The United States Department of agriculture has issued a leaflet on materials and best ways of making children's rompers. Romper rules, as compiled by the department for the aid of young mothers was begun in this column yesterday and are concluded today below:

The belt across the front and the belt on the top of the drop seat should be divided at the seams so that the front will not have to be unfastened to drop the back.

Rompers should be generously long between the shoulders and crotch and wide between the legs to insure freedom.

All points receiving strain, such as crotch seams, plackets, and pocket tops, should be stayed and double stitched.

The side-opening romper and the triangular or oblong flap romper are best suited to the diaper age.

The color and proportions of the garment should suit the child.

Orange Tea Biscuit
(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

Two cups flour, three tablespoons shortening, one - half teaspoon salt, four tablespoons baking powder, three-fourths cup milk, grated rind of one orange, three tablespoons sugar (added to flour). Mix as for baking powder biscuit and cut with a small biscuit cutter and place on oil baking tin. Just before putting in oven, dip one-half piece of loaf sugar in orange juice and place on top of each biscuit, pressing them in lightly. Bake in a quick oven (450 degrees) for 10 or 15 minutes and serve hot.

Today's Recipes.

Ham Plus—One and one-half lbs. sliced ham (center cut), two cups scalded milk, three sweet potatoes, one cup brown sugar, pepper, one cup raisins.

Place ham in baking dish. Cover with raisins, sweet potatoes, pared and cut lengthwise. Sprinkle with pepper and brown sugar. Add milk, cover pan and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit), one and one-half hours. Last half hour remove cover that potatoes may brown.

Steamed Ginger Pudding—One egg, one-half tablespoon ginger, two and one-half cups flour, one cup molasses, one cup hot water, one teaspoon soda.

Two cups of any kind of the following fruits: Raisins (either whole or chopped), figs (stem and chop), prunes (remove pits and chop), peaches (wash in hot water and chop). Beat egg in a mixing bowl. Add molasses, melted butter, chopped fruit and beat thoroughly. Add flour sifted with ginger and soda, then hot water. Beat thoroughly. Put in greased shallow pans and steam one hour. Serve with lemon sauce.

Lemon Sauce—One cup sugar, two tablespoons flour, one cup boiling water, one-third cup butter, one lemon juice and rind.

Cream butter with sugar and flour. Add boiling water; boil one minute. Remove from fire, add lemon extract. Serve hot.

Upside Down Cake, Large Quantity
Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.

Three-fourths cup butter (melted), three quarts brown sugar, two cans crushed pineapple. Melt butter and sugar in skillet, add pineapple. Two and two-thirds cups butter, eight cups granulated sugar, 16 eggs (whites if desired), 12 cups flour, four cups pineapple juice, one-third cup baking powder. Cream sugar and butter together, add well beaten eggs, then add fruit juice and flour sifted with baking powder. If egg whites are used beat until stiff and cut and fold in last. Pour over fruit in skillet. Bake about 30 minutes. Cherries, apples or berries may be used instead of pineapple. When served, turn upside down, top with whipped cream or serve with sauce made from fruit juice. This amount serves 70.

BAKED HAM AND POTATOES

Banana Cream Pie

This menu serves four to six persons. Is simple and inexpensive, and makes a very appetizing Sunday dinner.

Baked Ham and Potatoes.

1 medium slice ham
4 cups diced raw potatoes
1 1-2 cups white sauce
Salt and pepper.

Scald, drain and flour ham lightly. Fry each side until it begins to brown. Put in baking pan, cover with sweet milk and bake for half hour; turn and bake for another half hour. Cut pared potatoes in small squares, boil until tender and drain. Arrange in greased baking dish with white sauce. Lay slice of ham on top. Set in oven and bake 25 minutes.

Cheese Straws.

Make pastry as for pies, roll thin and sprinkle with grated cheese; fold and roll pastry again, then cut into very small strips (or straws) and bake quickly.

Pineapple Waldorf Salad.

Pare, quarter and core three apples and cut into tiny cubes. Add one cup well drained crushed pineapple, 1-4 cup chopped walnuts, and 1-2 cup celery cut in thin inch-long slices. Mix with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce.

Banana Cream Pie.

Cream—Put 1 1-2 cups of milk on to boil, break one egg into dish, add 1-2 cup sugar and 1-2 cup flour previously mixed. After beating well stir into the milk when commencing to boil. Cook until thick.

Cake or Crust—Two eggs beaten separately, 1-2 cup sugar, 3-4 cup flor, one teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 cup milk. Bake in medium sized pie tin. When done and cool split in halves with a broad sharp knife and spread the cream and a layer of sliced bananas between. Place a few slices of bananas over top and cover with sweetened whipped cream.

Suggestions

A Clean Hearth.—To clean the brick fireplace put two cups of boiling water in a pan, adding four tablespoons of ammonia. With a soft clean scrubbing brush, brush down lightly several times with the solution, holding the pan under to catch what water you can, then immediately brush down or rinse with clean hot water and after the bricks dry you will find them like new.

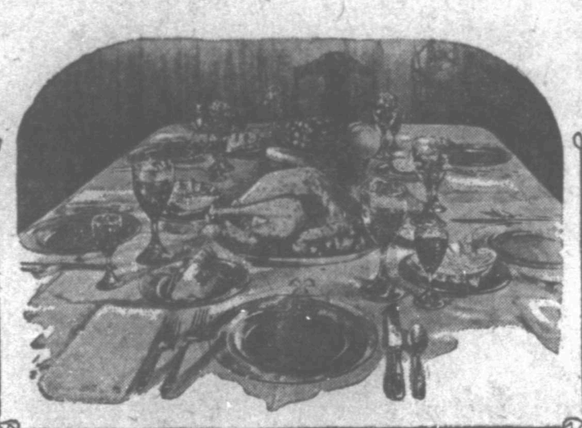
Thanksgiving Sweetmeats Christmas



WHERE is the festive board without its sweetmeats? Why, 'twould be unthinkable. The sweetmeats on the Thanksgiving and Christmas table radiate the spirit of the occasion.

The finest of these toothsome delicacies may be home-made—or procured from the better bakers and confectioners, who also achieve the effects so essential to the gay spirit of the Season.

Sugar—the right sugar—is a dominant factor in the success of all fine recipes . . . in the achieving of the delicious results and appetizing effects one desires. And strange as it may seem—sugar is not always sugar. That is . . . all sugars are not alike. There are varying grades of sugars as there are of flours, coffees, teas, etc.

Most good cooks have found that for all-round satisfaction, whether for kitchen or table use . . . cane sugars are best. Thousands of discriminating women in the Southwest have found that of cane sugars—Imperial Pure Cane Sugar is of higher quality, of uniform excellence and is sparklingly beautiful.

These women have come to appreciate the convenient, dust-proof bags in which Imperial is packed. The Imperial-marked bag prevents substitution—delivers this sparkling, pure, cane sugar to your kitchen—clean and uncontaminated.

If you would have the best of cane sugars—insist on this convenient, dust-proof Imperial-marked bag.

IMPERIAL Pure Cane Sugar
IN THE CONVENIENT DUST-PROOF BAGS

Recipes

Checkerboard Cookies: ½ cup butter, 2½ cups flour, 1 cup Imperial Sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 eggs, ½ teaspoon lemon extract, 1 teaspoon milk; ½ teaspoon grated nutmeg. Cream butter, add sugar and egg well beaten and milk and vanilla. Mix and sift dry materials. Divide mixture, putting enough cocoa in half to color dark and knead. Roll both out and cut with diamond-shaped cutter. Cut diagonally twice, making four smaller diamonds. Alternate a light and a dark diamond, making big diamond-shaped cookies. Bake in quick oven.

Coconut Balls: Mash ½ ripe banana with fork, gradually beating in ½ lb. Imperial Powdered sugar. Add ⅛ teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon lemon juice and pinch salt. Take teaspoon of fondant and knead shredded coconut into it, making ball.

Fruit Cake: 1 lb. raisins, ½ lb. each—candied pineapple, cherries, citron, orange peel, almonds, pecans. One tablespoon each—allspice, cloves, cinnamon and ½ grated nutmegs. Cream 1 lb. butter with 2 cups Imperial Sugar, add 1 cup molasses. Add 6 eggs beaten together, 1 cup grape juice. Sift 1 quart of flour 3 times—the last time add 3 teaspoons baking powder. Mix all fruits and nuts in flour and stir into liquid mixture. Bake in slow oven about 3 hours.

Abilene's Polo Four Rides Hard To Win West Texas Title Over Wichita Falls Team

AND—

A Column of Et Ceteras in Sport

BY VON

Gerald Mann and Joel Hunt. Two games to conjure with when one talks of college football in Texas. Two great players and quarterbacks of two great fighting teams, the Southern Methodist university Mustangs and the Texas A. & M. college Farmers.

It would assuredly be a tough job to decide which of these two could be called the best player. Both are wonderful field generals, both play heads-up football, both are dangerous men for the opposition to attempt to cross. Brilliance in performance is their forte, daring is their challenge to odds in moments of gridiron stress.

We are anxious to see the all-Southwest conference selections of various gridiron experts which will be made public during the next few days. We wonder which of the two, Mann or Hunt, will get the majority vote for the post of field general on the mythical eleven. Practically every expert will name the both of them to the backfield but one will have to be shifted to a halfback position. It is our guess that Mann will get majority for the quarterback post and that Hunt will be nominated for a half.

Any school would be glad to have them both in its backfield and certainly would they make a dangerous combination to have to tackle.

Both Mann and Hunt have been invited to play in the annual East-West football game to be staged a few weeks hence. It would be interesting to see this pair in action while playing with each other instead of on opposing teams.

It's just 364 days of time before the next Thanksgiving day and a chance for football dopesters to be proven wrong again. One pauses to wonder just what would happen should all the dope turn out right for once instead of being turned over by a heartless kick against the bucket.

There's a hiatus just ahead now for the sports fans. Football has about wound up but for a few scattered games and it's too early for basket ball. Talking about things to invent, somebody ought to discover a sport that would fit in along about now. We know of one sport, that of making busted flushes look straight, but spectators are decidedly useless in such a contest. Besides, that's an all-year sport.

Ed Light, one of the athletic commissioners of Tulsa, Okla., is in Wichita Falls on an "ivory hunt" and hopes to make a find. He's after several likely looking young fighters to use this winter on boxing cards in Tulsa to be staged under auspices of the American Legion post there. He ought to be able to find a scrapper or two around these parts.

HANDICAP TOO STIFF FOR US

New Champions "Spotted" Three Free Goals

By A. W. VON STRUVE
The Record News Sports Editor

Abilene's hard-riding polo four staged a brilliant eighth chukker finish here Friday afternoon to defeat the fast Wichita Falls quartet, handicapped three goals, for the second and deciding meeting of a three-game series for the West Texas civilian polo championship.

Actually the Abilene quartet drove the ball across the Wichita Falls goal line only six times but being spotted three goals to start under the handicap rule, the visiting quartet was credited with nine markers for the eight chukkers of play. The Wichita Falls riders hammered the sphere across the Abilene goal eight times.

Won On Turkey Day

Friday's victory for the Abilene riders was almost a duplication of the Thanksgiving day contest when the visitors won eight goals to seven with a three-goal handicap in their favor.

For Abilene, the outstanding star in Friday's championship decision was Davis who alternated at No. 2 with Widner. Davis scored three goals of his team's six and batted two of these across in the deciding eighth chukker. Childers clubbed the final Abilene goal for the last count and victory in the closing chukker. Childers scored two of the Abilene goals and Cox at No. 1 scored the other.

Goodman at No. 3 position was the scoring star for the Wichita Falls riders. He drove across the Abilene line for three goals. Captain Horrace Robbins scored two goals, playing at No. 4, and Featherston, No. 2, croquetted two more across. Fletcher, riding at No. 1, and John Fastnow, riding in one chukker in a substitute role, also played excellently.

Play Again Sunday

The third game of the series, which is scheduled at Call field for 2:30 p. m. Sunday, will be played as originally arranged, according to information from Wichita officials Friday night.

The lineups Friday:

WICHITA FALLS	ABILENE
No. 1, Fletcher	No. 1, Cox
No. 2, Featherston	No. 2, Widner
No. 3, Goodman	No. 3, Childers
No. 4, Robbins	No. 4, Johnson

Alternates:
Wichita Falls, Johnson Fastnow.
Abilene, Kent and Davis.

Score by Chukkers:

Abilene 0 0 1 1 1 1 0 0
Wichita Falls ..1 0 1 1 1 1 1 2 0

Mickey Walker Outhits Berley

Middle Champion Clouts Paul For Decision

COLISEUM, CHICAGO, Nov. 25. (AP)—Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion, failed to knock out Paul Berlenbach, one time world's light heavyweight champion, but had no trouble winning the decision in ten savage rounds.

The match, fought in the coliseum, drew 9,000 with gate receipts of $52,000.

Walker, conceding 11 1-4 pounds in weight, gave Berlenbach an unmerciful beating, winning every round.

He floored Berlenbach in the fourth, falling on top of him, when he followed through on his terrific left hook to the chin.

From then on, Berlenbach was on the receiving end. Walker rarely missed left hooks to the body. His rights cracked against Paul's chin with distressing effect.

Paralyzing Paul made occasional flurries, for the most part he blindly plodded forward, absorbing those terrific wallops without batting an eye.

Nick Carter Elected Auburn Grid Pilot

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 25. (AP)—H. J. (Nick) Carter, tackle, was elected captain of the Auburn football eleven for the 1928 season at the annual banquet of the squad last night following the Georgia Tech-Auburn game. Carter's home is at Blountsville, Ala., Rupert Ingram, end of Wetumpka, Ala., was elected alternate captain.

Five Longhorns Play Last Game

Texas University Loses Football Stars

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Nov. 25.—Five members of the University of Texas Longhorns, first string football squad, wore their school's colors for the last time in intercollegiate gridiron competition when the Steers went down in defeat Thanksgiving day at College Station before the rush of Joel Hunt and the rest of the Texas Aggies 28 to 7.

The retiring members of the Longhorn squad, all of whom are star performers, are:

Captain Clen "Ox" Higgins of Dallas, right tackle, who may win an all-conference berth; Charlie Reynolds, end, who has suffered much of the season with leg injuries; Putty McCullough of Waco, star center and almost sure of all-conference selection; Joe King, hustling quarterback from Oak Cliff at Dallas; and John Estes, shifty back from Forest Avenue High, Dallas.

Centenary Gentlemen Dare Georgia Bulldogs to Tilt For Championship

Powerful Shreveport Eleven, Conqueror of Four Teams In Southwest Conference Also Defies Texas Aggies

SHREVEPORT La., Nov. 25. (AP)—A formal challenge for a football game between the undefeated and untied Centenary college team and the University of Georgia Bulldogs, potential champions of the southern conference, was issued today by Coach Homer H. Norton of the Centenary squad. Norton did not suggest a date or place but stated that the Gents would meet Georgia any day between now and Christmas day and on any battle ground that might be mutually agreed upon.

Talk of a possible challenge for a football game by Centenary college to the University of Georgia, was heard here today after the Gentlemen closed their season Friday with a 53 to 2 verdict over the University of Louisville. A post season game between Centenary and the Texas Aggies, champions of the Southwestern conference, is also considered a possibility.

Yesterday's victory was the tenth straight without defeat or a tie for the Gentlemen and four of their games were won over members of the Southwestern conference namely, Baylor, S. M. U., Rice and T. C. U.

The Gents also won five games with S. I. A. A. opponents and one against a member of the Texas Intercollegiate conference.

In yesterday's game the Gents scored nine touchdowns and added five extra points. Jake Hanna, Centenary's scoring ace, closed the season with two touchdowns to send his total for the year to 13. Allday finished second with eleven.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25. (AP)—In a furious and bruising heavyweight battle, Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, fought his way to the front ranks of title contenders with a clean cut ten round victory over Paoline Uzcudun, of Spain, at Madison Square garden tonight. Uzcudun weighed 195; Risko 192.

ATHLETIC CLUB GIVEN PRAISE

Oklahoma Athlete Visits Local Gymnasium

Quarters of the Wichita Falls Athletic club at the Gym, 605 Scott street, compare favorably with those in other cities of the southwest. This is the opinion of Ed Light, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, member of the Tulsa city athletic commission, who is in Wichita Falls on oil business and incidentally is looking around for several likely youngsters to appear on boxing cards to be staged this winter in the Oklahoma petroleum capital.

Local Club Praised

"I was certainly agreeably surprised when I took a look at Wichita Falls' new athletic club on invitation of Mr. Alec B. Ross, the man this city should thank for putting the athletic club idea over," Commissioner Light said.

"I can think of no one thing that can do a town as much good as an athletic club when it is as properly conducted and as cleanly operated as Mr. Ross is conducting and operating the Wichita Falls Athletic club," was Light's comment.

Tulsa has nine athletic clubs and interest in all kinds of amateur sports is very keen as a result of the development of these organizations, Light declared. The athletic commission of which Light is a member at Tulsa is named by the mayor and city commission and has direct charge of and supervision over all athletic cards presented in that city.

Boxing Bill For Sooners

The commission of which Light is a member at Tulsa and other similar bodies in that state are now at work on a proposed law to be presented at the next regular session of the Oklahoma legislature with a view to legalizing boxing in the Sooner province. Boxing matches are now being presented in Oklahoma in exhibition programs and decisions are not legally proper.

Aggies Collect Share of Titles

Farmers Win Their Third Cross Country Flag

Special to The Record News.

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 25.—When the Aggie cross country runners, charges of Coach Frank Anderson and S. D. Snyder, captured the Southwest conference championship at the conference meet in Dallas last Saturday, it was the third time since cross country was recognized as a conference sport eight years ago that an Aggie team won the title.

Cross country running was first introduced as a recognized sport in the southwest in 1920 when the Oklahoma Aggies, then members of the Southwest conference, won the championship. In 1921 the Texas Aggies won their first title, and in the three following years the Longhorns captured the title. In 1925 the Aggies were again champions, and in 1926 the Rice Owls were victorious.

Snyder was the cross country mentor in 1921 and Anderson was coach of the 1925 team. Both men coached the team this year.

The members of this year's team were: Captain A. B. Childers, Jasper; J. G. Killian, Alvord; J. P. Avila, San Antonio; E. Thompson, Cameron; C. Y. Shoemaker, Jacksonville; G. H. Moore, Dallas; J. B. Haile, Goliad.

All of the men with the exception of Captain Childers and Haile will be back next year and the varsity squad and freshman team of this year show a wealth of material from which to choose additional men.

After a week's rest the cross country men, without an exception, will start training for places on the Aggie track team. Haile and Childers are lettermen from the Aggie track team last year, Haile running the mile and Childers the two-mile.

Anticlimax of Annual Grid Parade Comes Saturday With Closing Games

Three Major Intersectional Battles Head Calendar Saturday With Two Championships Undecided

NEW YORK, Nov. 25. (AP)—Three major intersectional battles, headed by the Notre Dame-Southern California game at Chicago and several traditional tussles, featured by the Army-Navy classic at New York, furnish a climax to the national college football season tomorrow.

The intersectional contests also include two on the Pacific coast, one between Drake and California, and the other between the Oregon Aggies and Carnegie. Other traditional affairs include the game between Holy Cross and Boston college at Boston.

The prospect is that only the championship races in the Southern and Pacific coast conferences will remain to be decided after tomorrow. Four already have been decided while a fifth, in the Rocky mountain conference, likely will be settled when the two leaders, Colorado Aggies and Colorado college meet. Here are the situations:

East, Pittsburgh and Yale at top, each with strong claim by mythical sectional honors.

Western conference, won by Illinois, with five straight victories.

Southwestern conference, won by Texas Aggies, with four victories and one tie.

Rocky Mountain conference, two leaders, Colorado Aggies and Colorado college, meet tomorrow.

Pacific coast conference, Stanford, Southern California and Idaho all undefeated; final standing hinges on game between Southern California and Washington on December 3.

Southern conference, Georgia leading with best record, winning nine straight games from all opponents, but meets Georgia Tech on December 3.

110,000 EXPECTED TO WITNESS MICK BATTLE

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Southern California, football ambassadors from the Pacific coast, await the chance to present their credentials tomorrow at Soldier field, for the scrutiny of Knute Rockne's Ramblers of Notre Dame.

The ceremonial, more important in some ways than the meeting of Army and Navy, in the same setting, a year ago, will be witnessed by a crowd of at least 110,000, thus equaling the football attendance record for all time.

Southern California, perhaps the strongest team on the coast, in the present season, splendidly coached by Howard Jones, and possessing its share of individual stars, as well as a powerful machine, is actually engaging in more than a football game with Notre Dame.

It is pioneering, among the major teams of the coast, in coming into mid-western territory to play a football game, and the result of this sort of intersectional play will be watched with interest by the followers of football, throughout the land.

Previous intersectional games between coast teams, and those on this side of the Rockies, have been confined mostly to engagements in which the burden, if any, of lengthy travel, and radical climatic changes have been on the coast's opponents. Southern California reverses that procedure, in today's game, to play the return engagement of a home and home series with Rockne's Ramblers.

The advent of the Trojans today, involves another matter that is pertinent to the outcome of the ball game. It is the settlement of a friendly feud between cost teams and those that Rockne puts together at Notre Dame.

Twice, in recent years, the Notre Dame teams have made the long jaunt to the coast, and twice they have returned victorious.

Today, on the basis that a defeat for Notre Dame, in what amounts to Notre Dame's home lot, will go a long way towards evening up matters between Rockne's players, and the dear old Pacific coast conference, the Trojans will not only be representing the good people of Los Angeles and its environs, but the entire sweep of the Pacific coast, from Seattle to San Diego.

To warn automobilists that he is ready to cross the road, a man of Southampton, England, sounds a powerful auto horn, which he has fastened to his cane.

HE BOOSTS JOEL

Aggie Star Primed For All-American Team By Meagher

AUSTIN, Nov. 25. (AP)—Coach Jack Meagher of St. Edwards university here has written Walter Eckersall, Chicago sport writer, all about the great football playing of Captain Joel Hunt of the Texas Aggies, it was learned Friday.

Some here believe this will boost Hunt's chances of being picked for an all-American football team, especially in view of his remarkable work against Texas university in Thursday's Aggie victory.

ABILENE STOPS CISCO LOBOES

Eagles to Play Amarillo For Bi-District Title

ABILENE, Nov. 25. (AP)—Determined resistance by Cisco high school to Abilene's running attack went for naught today then the Oil Belt secondary defense was unable to stop the passing of Walter, who was screened almost perfectly, and the Eagles won their first district championship since 1923, the year of the Abilene state championship team, by a count of 27 to 0. Twelve thousand saw the game.

A short pass, Walter to Smith, was complete in the first quarter, and Smith ran 50 yards to within two yards of the goal, Sellers scoring on an end run.

Abilene will meet Amarillo in the bi-district playoff next week, probably at Amarillo.

The lineup:

ABILENE	Position	CISCO
Andrus	left end	Boone
Black	left tackle	Coldwell
Christian	left guard	W. Miller
Senter	center	W. Smith (c)
P. Barber	right guard	Slatton
Burger	right tackle	Bates
Salkeld	right end	Meadows
Walter	quarterback	Keyes
Sellers	left halfback	H. Pippen
Kincaid	right halfback	Little
A. Smith (c)	fullback	Eddleman

Officials: Meyer (T. C. U.) referee; Alderson (Texas) umpire; Freeland (Vanderbilt) head linesman; Higginbotham (A. & M.) field judge.

WACO TIGERS TROUNCE TEMPLE WILDCATS 26-7

TEMPLE, Texas, Nov. 25. (AP)—Outplaying the Temple Wildcats in every department of the game, the Waco Tigers won the championship of District 8 of the Interscholastic league 26 to 7 here Friday afternoon.

Fighting with their backs to the wall, the Wildcats held the Tigers for downs within the shadow of their goal on three occasions, but the spin plays and off tackle plunges of the Wacoans could not be stopped. Temple scored in the third period when the Waco safety man fumbled a punt and an alert Wildcat picked up the ball and ran 40 yards for a touchdown.

Army and Navy Do Battle Today With Gridiron Honor of Two U. S. Schools at Stake In Fray

By DAMON RUNYON

NEW ORK, Nov. 25.—After one of the most ferocious struggles of years on the part of the proletariat for those coveted pasteboards known as ducats, the Army and the Navy football teams meet in annual pull and haul at the Polo grounds tomorrow afternoon.

There will be upward of 70,000 citizens present, with at least 80,000 others swearing fervently that they never again will vote for that guy so-and-so, who failed to get them a ticket. I suppose the Army and Navy game gives rise to more heart burnings than any other athletic event that is held in these United States, especially when it is held in New York City. Tickets were reported selling at $100 each the day before the game.

I rather look for the Army to give the Navy a bit of a doing, as the Britishers say. I have seen both teams in action, and it strikes me that the young soldiers from up Hudson have about as good an outfit as there is in these parts. It lost to Yale, to be sure, but then Yale is the champ of the Atlantic seaboard.

The Army licked Notre Dame and Notre Dame licked the Navy. Figuring this as the "dope" the Army must win. But the "dope" can rarely ever be applied to an Army-Navy game any more than to a Yale-Harvard game. These institutions figure all other games merely warm-ups to their big event. The Army is a 5 to 3 favorite in the betting.

In Cagle, Wilson, Murrell, Nave, Hutchinson, O'Donnell and Meehan the Army has a great set of backs, and a corking drop-kicker in Landon. I think Cagle is as good a football player as I have seen this year, and sure-fire all-American.

You know, it was only by a scratch that Yale whipped the Army, some lack of judgment on the Army's part, figuring no little in the result. I charitably refrain from calling it stupidity.

On the fourth down, with about 12 inches to go, the Army tossed Murrell into the heart of the Yale line and he was smothered in his tracks. Thus the West Pointers lost the ball on downs a foot from the Yale goal. That foot represents the margin between the Army team and the football championship of the east.

It shows that there is no wide difference between the Army and Yale. The final score at New Haven was 10 to 6 in favor of Yale. That one foot cost the Army a touchdown and victory by at least 12 to 10. The Army had a great team that day. It may have a better team today, though I doubt it. The Notre-Dame game must have taken something out of the soldiers.

The navy team lacks balance. It has a green line, and I doubt that it has come on far enough to beat the West Pointers. Still, you must always give consideration to the indomitable spirit that flames to a white heat in Navy football bosoms against the Army. That old psychology thing not infrequently cuts the results of an Army-Navy game.

I expect to see the Navy tossing the football around with considerable abandon today, because the forward pass would seem to be its strongest hope. The Sailors will have to gamble plenty to offset the greater strength of the Army.

The Navy has a good man on the pass in Lloyd, a high-class football player. I think he will be the outstanding man in the Navy play tomorrow and, if he has one of his particularly brilliant afternoons, he is bound to give the army plenty of trouble.

Of course there will be all the usual color to the game—the bands and parades, and cheering sections, that make it the most picturesque football game held in the country. One thing about these service rooters, they invariably show up with something new and original in the way of stunts, whereas the other colleges go on year in and year out with the same old stuff.

Sunset High Plea For Reinstatement In Grid Race Overruled

HOUSTON, Nov. 25.(AP)—Reversing the contention of Sunset high school, Dallas, that Tyler Duncan was not ineligible, the ninth annual sectional committee meeting of the Texas Interscholastic league refused here today to restore Duncan to eligibility or to reinstate the Sunset high team in the interscholastic league football race.

This move was the high spot of the meeting in connection with the convention of the Texas State Teachers' association. The representatives entered into a free discussion on the various rules on eligibility but no definite changes in the rules of the interscholastic league were made, although three recommendations for changes in its rules and football plans were referred to a committee appointed by President Roy B. Henderson of Austin.

H. L. Foster of Longview, T. A. Gullet of Austin and McGlamary of Gorman were appointed a committee to revise article 8, section 16 of the rules and clarify it as to the eligibility of players to pass a scholastic standpoint.

Whether a player must have a passing average for the year or must have passing grades in three subjects the preceding semester in order to be eligible was discussed freely by the committee.

The findings of the committee appointed by President Henderson will be referred to various executive committees of the district for their approvals.

The representatives also discussed the rule in regard to a player playing summer baseball with or against a paid player or in a game where admission is charged. It was referred to a committee.

It was determined that all schools must accept the football plan of the league by May 1, 1929, in order to play under the direction of the state interscholastic league.

GOLF

By ROBERT T. JONES

U. S. Amateur, British Open And Southern Open Golf Champion

Have you ever stopped to think how peculiar and individual are the characteristics of a golf club? —how difficult it is to replace an old favorite, or how silly you are to keep on acquiring and using new clubs when the old one still remains in serviceable condition?

A golf club in the hands of its owner is one of the most delicately sensitized implements in sport. It is fairly bristling with individual characteristics which are incapable of reproduction. The displacement of the balance by so much as a scant half-inch, or even an infinitesimal reduction in the size of the handle will make all the difference in the world in the "feel" of the club.

Yet how many times do we make allowance for these factors? Often a new club has such a friendly feel that we cannot resist trying it out. But rarely do we take accurate note of its construction to see if it is suited to the use we intend to put it to.

The main thing to be considered in the club is the shaft, whether the amount of "spring" is proper for the capabilities and habits of the purchaser. Timing which is proper for one shaft will not be so for another no matter how nearly the same the weight and lie of the clubs may be.

Last September, I motored from Atlanta to Montreal with an organized automobil tour, and thinking that opportunities for playing golf might be forthcoming, I carefully forgot to take my clubs along. But on the road I discovered that I was not really as sick of the game as I had thought and at two or three stops, I borrowed a club and hit a few balls.

Change of Stance and Swing Necessary for Each Club.

To drive reasonably straight and reasonably far is not impossible with any sort of club but I was struck with the fact that I actually had to alter my swing and timing with each club, and in every case, it was necessary to hit with a good deal less than full power. In other words, I had to control the club consciously rather than lash away with assurance that I knew what would happen.

Now that is exactly the burden which a man puts upon himself when he discards an old club in favor of a new one. Golf clubs are like human beings in that no two are exactly alike. It is rare indeed when a new club functions well from the very first shot, simply because, as we say, we must get used to it, which means that we must adapt our timing to the new implement.

To develop a new swing for every new club is quite a task in itself, especially for the business man golfer who has rarely time enough to perfect one swing. If he can get consistent results from the club he has he is doing very well.

The balance and feel of the club are of paramount importance, but I should advise never to try to use a club which does not appeal to the eye. A little clumsiness in the head or an improper line in the face is enough to ruin a club for me. I always find myself eyeing the defect in the club rather than looking at the ball.

Probably I have been prompted to write all this by a desire to unburden my soul of all the grief that is in it. Recently, while I was in the locker room changing my shoes, an officious caddie either tried a swing with my pet driver or banged it over the head of one of his brothers, and succeeded in smashing the head clean off the shaft. That I could not discover who was responsible, prevented a first class funeral, but even that could have given me only momentary relief. It is odd, indeed, that a club which I have cared for like no other should be the very one to meet disaster in this fashion.

The point of all this is that a golfer should be immensely careful with the implements of his trade. They are as much a part of his game as his knee-action or his follow-through. And when he finds a club that suits him, let him remember that no human hand can fashion another exactly like it. I have had eight copies of a defunct driver, a favorite of a few years ago, some made in this country and some in England, and have never found one I could use, although the original undoubtedly suited me better than any club I have ever owned.

The purpose which should be in the view of us all when we practice is that we may reduce the swing as near as possible to a mechanical perfection which will enable us to reproduce it every time. To gain this end is, of course, impossible, but we may at least eliminate some variable factors. And the easiest constant quantity to fix is the club. We can, by continued use, eliminate the necessity of compensating for the action of strange clubs and thereby take one difficulty from those which are already too many.

Court Refuses Plea To Hurry Jack's Case

NEW YORK, Nov. 25. (AP)—Counsel for Jack Dempsey today was denied a motion for a preference which would result in immediate trial of the $333,333.33 suit against the former heavyweight champion by Jack Kearns, once his manager. Federal Judge Winslow said it was not the custom to grant preferences in actions involving alleged breach of contract. The motion may be renewed on or after February 1, he said.

Two Teams Lose Title To All Games Played

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 25. (AP)—All football games played by Warren Easton high school of New Orleans this season and all played by Ponchatoula high school since November 13 were declared forfeited to opponents by scores of 1 to 0 here today when the executive committee of the Louisiana high school athletic association upheld ineligibility charges made against Estes Sharp of Ponchatoula and Glenn H. McCarthy of Warren Easton.

Mickey Walker Again Gets Self "in Dutch"

NEW YORK, Nov. 25. (AP)—Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion, and his manager, Jack Kearnes, Friday were put on the ineligible list of the New York state athletic commission for failure to reply within 30 days to a challenge from George Courtney of Oklahoma for a title match.

HAMLIN PROUD OF ITS TEAM

Pied Pipers Pile Up Good Record On Gridiron

Hamlin folks are proud of their high school football team even though the fighting gridiron squad did fail to capture the Class B district title for which it was competing. L. W. Wren, an enthusiastic Pied Piper fan has sent the Wichita Falls Record News an account of the team's achievements during the gridiron season just closed which shows the Hamlin eleven to be one of the best in its district. Hamlin has victories to its credit over Moran, Haskell, Knox City, Stamford and Anson, defeating the latter team 6-0 on Thanksgiving Day. Through a trick of percentages, Haskell though defeated by Hamlin reached the finals for the district championship with Deleon as its opponent for the title. Defeats by Sweetwater and Anson early in the season spoiled Hamlin's chances for the title although the Pied Pipers got revenge for the Anson defeat on Thanksgiving Day.

Brad Rowland and Claud Chastain are co-captains of the Hamlin team. Members of the Pied Piper squad, all of whom saw action in the field, are Rowland, Chastain, Stedard, Bryan, Beavers, Craddock, Miers, Mayfield, McCluskey, Bryan Greenway, Criswell, Arnett, McGuire, Anders, Ballew, Warner, Williams, Maberry, Wagnon, Workman and Elkins.

The coach for the Hamlin team is George Morris, former student of the Baylor University and captain of the Baylor Bears in 1926.

Electra Volley Ball Teams Win

Burk Volleyers Unable To Stop Tiger Quintets

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Nov. 25.—The Senior and Junior Volley Ball team of the Electra High school again defeated the Burkburnett teams Wednesday evening in five practice games played in the High School Gymnasium here. The Electra teams were in excellent form, according to Miss Ethel Varnell, Electra coach, who also states that the Burkburnett teams played good ball, sustaining interest throughout the contest.

The scores were: First game, Electra Seniors, 21, Burkburnett Seniors 13; second game, Electra, 21, Burkburnett 12; First game, Electra Juniors, 21, Burkburnett, 7; second game, Electra, 11, Burkburnett, 21; third game, Electra, 21, Burkburnett, 20. The Electra teams defeated both Senior and Junior teams of Burkburnett on November 11 in the High School gymnasium at Burkburnett. The next match is with Clara and will be played on December 2 at the High School gymnasium in Clara.

The Electra line-up for Wednesday evening was as follows: Seniors: Beryl Rinehart, captain, Melva Adams, Bonnie Hubbard, Lucille Meroney, Lucy Whitesides, Lois Chesher, with Jetta Hearndon and Nadine Smith as substitutes. Juniors, Mary Brown, captain, Reba Lewis, Orena Towles, Opal Choate, Pauline Bogart and Oleta Jones.

NEW PRODUCER IN GRAHAM FIELD FLOWS 950 BARRELS DAILY

HENSON NO. 2 IN RICH SAND

Deepened One Foot, Flow Jumps 200 Per Cent

[illegible] gusher well to be brought in from the new 3200-foot sand in the [illegible] field at Graham was flowing 950 barrels daily yesterday after drilling just one foot of the pay. With deepening it may top the 1000-barrel figure, say field reports.

GRAY COUNTY GUSHER

Gray county has gained another gusher well in the Canal Oil company's No. 1 Hurrah, located in section 152, block 2, Gray county. This well has been watched for several weeks, having showed promise of producing since it had been below 3300 feet.

It was plugged back to 3285 feet and shot with 320 quarts from 3122 to 3285 feet. It flowed 265 barrels in 18 hours.

HARRIS-FARMER

Harris and Gose have abandoned as a dry hole their No. 1 L. H. Farmer in the W. C. Winters survey, Archer county, at a total depth of 1858 feet after finding salt water in a sand at 1491 1-2-94 feet.

SEABOARD CULLERS

Seaboard Oil and Gas company is building a standard rig on the location for its No. 3 J. W. Cullers, located in the J. R. Cullers survey, Jack county and 400 feet south of No. 2.

GULF-FUHRMANN

Gulf Production company No. 1 Fuhrmann in the W. A. McKinney survey, Wilbarger county, after failing to find the regular Fuhrmann sand, is now engaged in drilling by a bit which was lost at a depth of 2688 feet.

OIL MAY BE FOUND AT ANY OLD DEPTH

Southwest of Iowa Park in Wichita county, Wayne Hammond has [illegible] in his No. 1 McCarty Hammond [illegible] a sand at 329-42 1-2 feet from which he completed a seven-barrel producer.

Then in his No. 1 Mitchell, in the P. Castleman survey, Hammond completed a 10-barrel pumper from sand at 343-47 feet.

GREEN FINDS SHALLOW SAND IN COOKE COUNTY

W. J. Green and associates may be the discoverers of Cooke county's shallowest oil horizon in their No. 1 Louis Campbell, G. Levitt survey, southwest of Muenster. This has been set to test out sand at 745-49 feet only half as deep as the shallow pay at Muenster and 100 feet higher than the [illegible] production—presuming the elevation to be about equal.

FAIN-McGAHA-WAGGONER

Fain-McGaha Oil Company's No. 3-B Waggoner in section 31, block [illegible], H. & T. C. survey and a quarter of a mile southeast of the Rock Crossing field, carried out its promise of Wednesday when placed on the pump. The well produced 125 barrels from sand at 3875-91 feet, enlarging the field considerably.

SHAW-MONNIGER

B. J. Shaw, who took over the Monniger No. 1 Tabor, north of Megargel in Archer county, has completed the test as a non-producer at 1600 feet. The expected sand at 1500 feet showed only traces of oil.

Texas "Offset" Rule Upheld By U. S. Court

AUSTIN, Nov. 25. (AP)—Assistant Attorney General Paul D. Page Jr., was notified today that the New Orleans United States circuit court of appeals has upheld constitutionality of state regulations prohibiting drilling of an oil well within less than 300 feet from an adjacent "property line" or less than 150 feet from a producer.

WOOL MARKET.

BOSTON, Nov. 25. (AP)—The wool market remained very quiet. Dealers, however, are very firm in their quotations because of difficulty of replacing present supplies. Little wool is available in the domestic primary markets and foreign prices are at a level that does not attract dealers.

Railroad and Industrial Stocks Share In Resumed Advance on Wall Street Stock Market Friday

—By BROADAN WALL—

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Railroad and indutsrial stocks shared in a resumed advance during the last hour today on the stock exchange after the list had resisted heavy selling in good manner during the earlier trading. Industrials recovered practically all of their average loss of the morning while the rails which had held firm in the initial trading moved ahead with greater vigor. Even during the morning irregularity radio and other specialties stood out by reason of strength and held among the leaders in the closing recovery.

Once again the market was without particular incentive of a fundamental nature except for the easing in the time money rate. The drop to 4 per cent. therein dissipated fears as to the effect of the brokers' loans report which was due in the afternoon.

Sterling in a move to a new high featured the foreign exchange market in which all other currencies held firm except the Spanish peseta which dropped under persistent offerings from abroad. Call money held at 3 1-2 per cent. although about $10,000,000 more was called in by the banks. Wheat dropped further in an irregular grain market while cotton added slightly to its recovery.

It was steel's outstanding leadership in the final hour that sent the speculative community home in an optimistic mood. The list was backing and filling in rather aimless manner in the middle of the afternoon when big orders were received on the floor for steel common. Professionals who had been picking here and there for vulnerable spots immediately ceased bearish operations and the general recovery was on.

Independent steel shares followed along but there was no special stimulus from the trade to keep the group moving. If forecasts as to the motor, railway equipment and construction industries for the early part of 1928 prove correct as to increased operations the steel business must benefit. Furthermore there is expectation that continuation of the current rate of demand will mean another advance in steel prices immediately after the turn of the year.

General Motors was under persistent pressure from the opening. Selling was not limited to the local professionals. Westerners who have proved their influence in the market are known to be bearish on motors for a turn. There was good support, however, and but fractional success resulted from the bearish operations.

Livestock

TEXAS LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 25. (AP)—Fort Worth's offering of livestock for Friday called for 5000 cattle and 2300 calves. Trading began very early in all classes and values were steady to strong.

One car of fed steers made $10.25 which was top for the day. A nine-car string of south Texas grass steers went selling around $8.50@7.50. Steed sales were 10 to 15c up.

Yearlings and heifers were about steady with a car lot of 585 pound heifers making $8.25.

Bulls about steady with best heavy bulls selling around $5.85 with bologna $5.00@5.50.

Cows values were steady. A six-car string selling at $5.15. Bulk butcher cows $5.25@6.25. Calves were moving scaleward on steady bids from both packers and order buyers. A car lot of mixed heifers and steers sold to an order buyer at $8.00 for the heifers and $10.00 for the steers. Packer buyers were paying around $9.00 for the best heavy calves. Desirable light veals lacking.

With 1000 hogs listed for Fort Worth Friday about 625 were direct to local packers. Sales were about steady to 10 cents higher with the top in the truck division $9.00. Pigs were 50 to 75 cents lower with some around $7.25.

With only 700 sheep listed Friday sales were about steady. Some wethers sold at $8.00 and some yearlings at $11.00, but both lots were sold on contract with a shrink.

Hogs: Receipts 1000; slow; top $9.00; packing sows $7.00@7.75; butcher pigs $7.00@9.00.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25. (AP)—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Weather irregularities, the midweek holiday, and the slow pace of most of the heavy industries give the general trade situation rather a spotted appearance. Relatively best reports as to retail trade come from the northwestern quarter of the country, where seasonable weather ruled well through the week. In the central west, the industrial east and part of the southwest, the progress made has been less marked, but there was promise of increased activity in those areas as the week drew to a close, owing to the eastward advance of cooler weather.

Weekly bank clearings $9,531,537,000.

COTTON SEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25. (AP)—The cotton seed oil market was less active and barely steady today, closing unchanged to five points lower. There was a renewal of December liquidation, along with local selling, in sympathy with the decline in lard and the late setback in cotton. Sales 21,300 barrels. CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25. (AP)—General selling, prompted largely by bearish crop advices from Argentina, brought about a material break today in wheat values here. Strength which developed in the corn market failed to act as much of a counterbalance.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1 to 1⅝c net lower, with corn at ⅛ to ⅝@½c advance, oats a shade off to ¼@⅛c gain, and provisions unchanged to 15@17c down.

Country offerings of corn to arrive were light and with higher temperatures prevailing over a good part of the belt, buying on the part of strong commission houses lifted the corn market after an early decline. Husking returns remain disappointing. Oats rallied with corn.

Provisions were easier, despite an advance in hog values. The chief reason given was selling pressure from holders of nearby deliveries of lard.

KANSAS CASH GRAIN.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 25. (AP)—Wheat: No. 2 hard $1.25@1.45¾; No. 2 red $1.43⅝; Dec. $1.23⅛; May $1.28.

Corn: No. 2 white 76c; No. 2 yellow 81c; Dec. 78⅝c; May 86⅛c; July 88⅝c.

Oats: No. 2 white nominally 49@52c; No. 3 nominally 48@50c.

DRYGOODS MARKET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25. (AP)—Cotton goods held fairly steady today on the low basis of prices on gray goods markets. Retail distribution in the metropolitan stores for the day was very active. Requests for the deferring of deliveries of fancies in gray cloths have been received. Raw silk declined, and extra crack grades are now wel under a basis of $5 a pound. Burlaps were firm, with moderate business.

FOOLED

The sergeant sang out at a company parade, "All those fond of music step two paces forward." With visions of soft jobs in the regimental band, half a dozen men stepped forward, smiling broadly. "Now, then, you six chaps get busy and carry that grand piano in the basement up to the officers' new quarters on the seventh floor."

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 25. (AP)—The cotton market suffered a decline late today after a firm opening and closed 12 to 14 points down, the drop in prices being caused by realizing and liquidation.

Issuance of only 10,000 bales of December notices locally and better Liverpool cables resulted in the strong opening which showed gains of 17 to 26 points. New York reported notices for about 200,000 bales but the action of the market indicated that all had been cared for. December opened 26 points at 19.90, but eased off to 19.51 and closed at that figure. January opened at 19.93 and March at 20.15, and advanced for a time on reports that the notices had been stopped, January climbing to 20.05, and March to 20.23.

Later, however, realizing set in and before noon January was down to 19.85 and March to 20.04. During the afternoon the market turned easy on reports that some of the local notices still were in circulation, which precipitated liquidation, and prices reached their lowest at the end of the market with January at 19.64, and March 19.65, 28 to 41 points under the early highs and 13 to 14 points under the previous close.

Exports were 5759 bales.

CHICAGO FUTURES.

COTTON HOLDS STEADY TONE

Crop Here Practically All Marketed

The cotton market was unchanged in Wichita Falls over the Thanksgiving holiday.

Friday's range was from 18 to 19.15 cents. The market was steady and the sales few.

About 99 per cent of the cotton picked in this vicinity is said now to have been picked, and about 25 per cent is being held by producers.

Cotton seed was quoted at $36 a ton.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25. (AP)—After selling up to 19.84 for January contracts early today, the cotton market eased off under a renewal of liquidation. January declined to 19.52 and closed at that figure, the general market closing easy, at net declines of 2 to 6 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 12 to 19 points in response to higher over-holiday cables from Liverpool. Circulation of December notices, variously estimated at from 150,000 to 190,000 bales, brought out considerable near month liquidation, but it was readily absorbed by continued trade buying against sales of later deliveries. This created an impression that there was a demand for the December deliveries, and prices sold up to 19.77 for December and 20.22 for May in early trading, or about 27 to 29 points net higher.

Demand then tapered off, and prices eased during the afternoon under liquidation of recent buyers. There appeared to be disappointment over failure of the stopping of the notices to bring in more active or aggressive demand, which may have accounted for some of this selling. Offerings were not heavy but buying was comparatively light after the early demand had been supplied and the lowest levels of the day were reached in late trading, when active months showed net losses of about 3 to 6 points. The close was at about the lowest levels. The most general opinion, local brokers said, was that the bulk of cotton delivered on December contracts would be held here as a protection for hedges in later deliveries and there was some transferring of commitments from January to later months in late trading.

Private cables attributed the over-holiday advance in Liverpool to continental and Bombay buying, covering and trade calling, and said the better demand for cotton cloth was well sustained, although many offers were impracticable, and American yarns were depressed.

Exports today 10,759, making 2,963,910 so far this season. Port receipts today 27,753. U. S. port stocks 2,550,555.

CAL IRKED BY TAX CUT MOVE

President About Ready To Stop Hearings

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25. (AP)—President Coolidge is displeased with the continued effort of the chamber of commerce of the United States to have congress authorize a $400,000,000 tax cut.

There was no doubt left at the White House today that the repeated insistence of the chamber that the prospective tax reduction could reach the figures it recommended was highly displeasing to the president and it was made plain that unless officials of the organization can show where money could be saved in expenditures to make the reduction they favor feasible he does not desire to hear further from them.

It was said that the president feels it would be better for officials of the chamber to use their ingenuity in finding ways for reducing government expenditures instead of trotting around the various departments in an effort to get as much money appropriated for their schemes as they can.

The chamber early in the fall recommended a cut of $400,000,000. After its program had been made public it was disclosed at the White House that the president considered it out of the question. Yesterday after the treasury had recommended that the tax cut be held to $225,000,000 the chamber again declared that the cut should reach $400,000,000.

Terrill Caught At Hot Springs

tally wounded man first said that his name was Willie Jenson, Amarillo, but later told his real name. He said that his companion, who was killed instantly in the early morning battle, was known as "Slim" and came from Amarillo. Officers had failed late tonight to get any further statement. Physicians declared that he will not live through the night.

The wounded man, whose intestines and lungs are pierced by rifle bullets or slugs from sawed-off shotguns talked with difficulty and gave out little information. He said once that he had a wife and lived in Fort Worth and once worked in Decatur.

The two men were shot by a posse of officers, near the bank. Beside the rear door of the institution were found three sticks of dynamite, a quart bottle of nitro-glycerine, and an iron "jimmy." The heavy plate glass pane in the door had been broken.

Upon proof that the bank was about to be robbed, the four officers who participated in the battle will share a reward of $5000 or $10,000 if the second man dies, offered by the Texas Bankers' association. This will be the first reward to be paid under the "bandit death fund" to which more than 1000 Texas banks have subscribed. The person or persons killing a bank robber in the act of robbing a bank will be paid $5000 for every dead bandit, according to the terms of the reward. The posting of such a reward resulted from a series of Texas bank robberies.

TWO UNMASKED MEN ROB CORYELL BANK

COPPERAS COVE, Texas, Nov. 25. (AP)—The First State bank of Copperas Cove was held up by two young unmasked men at 2:40 p. m. today and robbed of $650. B. D. Gilmore, assistant cashier, attempted to fire on the robbers as they fled but his gun hung fire. Two school teachers, Miss Minnie McDaniel and Miss Jewel Yarbrough, were frightened away when they attempted to enter the bank during the robbery.

C. R. Clements, cashier, and Gilmore, were on duty in the bank and Ed Norman, a customer, was inside when the robbers entered and forced the three into the vault. The lock of the vault, however, had been "fixed" so that it would not lock and as the robbers drove away Gilmore ran after them and attempted to fire on them.

The men drove a coupe said to have been stolen from a Temple man and headed toward Killeen.

Clements said no one in the bank had a chance to offer any resistance while the robbers were in the bank. The holdup occupied about five minutes, he said.

The country about Copperas Cove is broken and not thickly settled, offering many hiding places.

BURGLARS GET $600 AT BIG SPRING.

BIG SPRING, Texas, Nov. 25. (AP) The office of the Robb and Robb Theater company in the Lyric theater here, was robbed last night of $600 in cash. The burglars entered through a rear door and hammered a lock off the safe.

No definite clues were obtained but some express belief the burglars were the men who later went to Odessa where one was killed and another wounded in an alleged attempt to rob a bank.

TWO BANDIT SUSPECTS HELD AT DENISON

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 25. (AP)—Two Tulsa officers were enroute today to Denison, Texas, to view two bank robber suspects in jail there.

The men were reported to be suspected of connection with the robbery of a bank at Van Buren, Ark., Monday. A third man, whose name police would not divulge, was held here. The Van Buren robbers were reported to be two white men and an Indian. They obtained $3000.

Five-Year Sentence Given at Georgetown

GEORGETOWN, Nov. 25. (AP)—John Miller, charged with murder in connection with the death of four men in a street battle at Sealy, Texas, September 5, 1922, was found guilty by a jury here today and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

Clever Oil Promoter Now In Cell Sues To Recover Great Fortune

Former Secretary to President Woodrow Wilson One Of Defendants in Contest For Wealth From Oil

By Universal Service.

TEXARKANA, Ark., Nov. 25.—Pat Marr, clever oil promoter whose fertile brain paved an easy path along a golden trail to a cell in federal prison, now suing to recover $12,000,000 alleged due him through Joseph Tumulty, former secretary of President Woodrow Wilson, began his dizzy route to fortune and his downfall to dishonor, in Arkansas.

Marr, accusing two of his former associates in oil operations in the gigantic Smackover field near El Dorado, Ark., in his civil suit brought in the supreme court for the state of New York, was tried and convicted of fraud and conspiracy to violate national mail fraud acts in one of the most spectacular trials ever held in a southwestern court.

First to Get Ax.

His was the first to be called of 35 similar trials resulting from operations of a band of "easy money" confidence men, with headquarters in El Dorado and Texarkana, who lured thousands of citizens in all parts of the United States with their mailed promises of huge fortunes from liquid gold in the Smackover field.

These promises, so easily made by Marr and his fellows in the "old skin game," in which the "suckers" were hung high and dry after being drawn and quartered of their worldly wealth, were exploded like balloons, with the tinkling of dollars falling into the pockets of the promoters as the dirge of the hopes of hundreds whose lifetime savings were swept away in the crash.

He Claims Fraud.

Marr, who is suing the receivers of the Southern States Oil company, the Middle States Oil company and others, charges in his suit that he was defrauded of 112,791 shares of the Marr Oil corporation's stock, which he says he transferred to receivers under an agreement he alleges was obtained through false representations.

Tumulty, as receiver for the companies, is one of five defendants cited by Marr in his petition, filed from the plaintiff's cell in the federal prison at Chillicothe, Ohio, where he is serving out a five-year sentence imposed in federal court at Texarkana for his operation with the Marr Oil company.

One Former Associate.

A. T. Rottenberg, one of the five defendants in the civil action, was one of Marr's co-defendants in the indictment returned by the grand jury here on December 13, 1924, listing 20 counts against 10 defendants, accused after an investigation of sales schemes used by the Marr company and its allied industries.

Louis T. McFadden, who in 1923 was chairman of one of Marr's companies for which he sold stock to thousands, is another now accused by the promoter of having defrauded him, in the suit. Other defendants listed in the petition before the New York supreme court are: Charles M. Haskell, to whom the Marr company was sold when its organizer went on trial; and Scott Ferris.

186 Were Indicted.

One hundred and eighty-six promoters, who swarmed into Texarkana and El Dorado a few days after the first gusher blew in at the Smackover field, were indicted by the grand jury that billed Marr. Ninety-two were convicted and either given jail terms or heavy fines that totaled thousands of dollars. Many received both penalties. One time, the bonds of those awaiting trial totaled $662,500.

Marion Talley Wins Audience

probably the most popular of the numbers of her program, for the mere reason of their greater familiarity to the audience.

Miss Talley sang two selections from "Mignon," "Je suis Titania" and "Know'st Not Thou That Fair Land?" and an aria from "The Barber of Seville" which were probably better received than the remainder of the of the program as they had probably been heard on the operatic stage by a large number of those who attended the concert.

John Corigliano, violinist, who assisted Miss Talley in her concert, touched the hearts of the audience with his beautiful "Humoresque" as he did in no other number but failed to respond with another equally well received selection.

Violinist Pleases

Corigliano is an American and brings to the American stage centuries of musical training acquired from Italian ancestry. He responded to calls for encore by giving "Souvenir" by Drdla and "Rondino" by Beethoven-Kreisler. The violinist probably did not gain the attention of the audience in his first number "Spanish Symphony" (Lalo) as he did in his later numbers.

Stewart Wille, accompanist, was also deserving of a part of the praise showered upon the other two artists who appeared on the Friday evening concert.

Miss Talley especially expressed her appreciation of the new auditorium, saying that when it is completed it will be one of the very finest in the country. The acoustics are remarkably good, according to Miss Talley, and from the singer's viewpoint, the construction of the auditorium leaves little to be desired. It is easy to sing from the stage and the seating of the audience brings the hearers closer to the person who performs. The youthful star was enthusiastic about the appointments and coloring of the auditorium and pronounced the lighting excellent.

"I am happy to have been the first violinist to play in your beautiful new auditorium. Its acoustics, are perfect; its appointment, its lighting and its decorations are splendid and the vast audience was an inspiration." Corigliano said to The Record News reporter directly following the concert, as he expressed his appreciation and that of the entire Talley company, for the friendliness and genuine warmth of the welcome afforded them while they were in Wichita Falls.

Dr. Jesse Kellems, who has been conducting a revival at the First Christian church, was the first to go back of the scenes for a word with the star, following the concert. Miss Talley greeted him with a great deal of warmth and feeling and chatted with him for a longer period than is her wont. Doctor Kellems knew Miss Talley when the grand opera star was a little girl in Kansas City and sang in the choir of his church there.

Mrs. Wallace Praises Talley

Ripe," by Horn, "The Virgin's Slumber Song," by Reger, and "Pretty Mocking Bird" by Bishop, were all given with perfect voice and manner, each in its own particular style. The "Mocking Bird" song called for a fine display of coloratura singing which was given with ease of execution and exquisite delicacy of tone quality.

The last number was "The Beautiful Blue Danube," Strauss-La Forge song, with which there is no song comparable for exquisite melody and irresistible rhythm. Miss Talley sang it with exquisite grace, and the brilliancy of her upper register, the purity of her tone production excited unbounded admiration and won her a tremendous ovation at the close of her remarkably successful program.

Gracious to Audience

The young singer was gracious to her audience and gave them a generous number of encores in response to their insistent demands for more of her beautiful singing, and probably she won as much admiration for her singing of the beautiful simple old songs in the group of encores as for her performance of the great operatic arias. To group them together, (although they were interspersed throughout the program) they were "Juanita," "There'll Be No Night There," "Way Down Upon the Swanee River," "The Last Rose of Summer," "Home Sweet Home," and two or three others the titles of which are not known to the writer. All were sung with exquisite sweetness and tenderness and the beautiful rich tones of the singer won all hearts.

U. S. TO SPLIT WITH ENGLAND

French Statesman Makes War Prediction

LONDON, Nov. 25. (AP)—The United States will not be on the same side as England in another European war, Henri de Jouvenel, former French delegate to the League of Nationas, predicted today in a letter read at the international war danger conference.

M. de Jouvenel, who recently resigned his league post as a protest against the policies pursued in Geneva, was to have addressed the conference, but sent a message which read instead.

The French statesman pointed to the holding up of the recent naval conference and said, "naval rivalry brings in its train concurrently with the growth of land armaments, rivalry of great states which are potential foes."

He predicted 1935 as a crucial year until which the peace structure would hold good, but expressed the hope that by that time the League of Nations would have gained the authority necessary to prevent the recurrence of war.

Pecos Oil Men Favor Pro-Rate Basis Change

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 25. (AP)—A continuance of prorating of production in the Yates pool of Pecos county to pipe line capacity beyond January 1, the original term of the agreement, and a change in the basis of pro rating were favored at a meeting of representatives of Pecos producers in Fort Worth Friday.

Present "potential" production of the pool is said to be about 450,000 barrels a day.

Jap Steamer Aground Off Pacific Coast

ABERDEEN, Wash., Nov. 25. (AP) Pounded by heavy seas, but not leaking, the disabled Japanese steamer Tenpaisan Maru was still aground on a shallow sandy bottom off Copalis, near here, today. Efforts were to be made at high tide to pull the ship into deeper water.

The weather was moderating and the crew of about 40 Japanese were in danger.

U. S. Airmen to Bomb Nicaraguan Bandits

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 25. (AP)—An intensive bombing campaign will be started shortly by United States marine aviators against outlaws and bandits who are reported killing and robbing many innocent people in several regions of Nicaragua.

Christmas Mail Overflow To Be Housed

An announcement probably will be made in the near future that a special building has been obtained for the use of the Wichita Falls postoffice department in handling the Christmas rush, according to O. R. Harris, postmaster.

"We probably will have some announcement to make on the building where the Christmas mail overflow will be handled, in the next few days," Mr. Harris said. "We are expecting a heavy rush and we will be prepared."

No indication as to where the building is located was given by the postmaster.

Wilson Company Gets State Charter

A charter was granted Friday to The Wilson corporation of Wichita Falls according to Associated Press reports. The capital stock authorized is [illegible], and the incorporators are John Hart Wilson, E. Neville Wilson and H. T. Wilson.

The company has been operating in Texas since [illegible] and in Wichita Falls since the first of January of this year as a firm under the name of the Wilson Manufacturing company. It is engaged in the manufacture of window fixtures and also of oil field supplies, and owns its own building at [illegible] avenue.

Today { At the Theaters

By Ruth Morrison

MAJESTIC: "She's a Sheik," with Bebe Daniels; Fables, Topics of the Day and Paramount News.

STRAND: John Barrymore and Dolores Costello in "When a Man Loves," comedy and Pathe News.

OLYMPIC: "The Lone Eagle," with Robert Keene; comedy and stage attraction, "The Three Kittens."

MISSION: "Black Jack," with Buck Jones, comedy, and Al Russell's Baby Vampires in musical comedy.

GARDEN: "Ride 'Em High," with Buddy Roosevelt; No. 2 of Hawks of the Hills," and comedy.

GEM: "Range Raiders," with Al Hoxie; No. 6 "Perils of the Jungle," serial and comedy.

It will be laugh week at the Majestic theater for five days starting today when Bebe Daniels is there in her funniest film, "She's a Sheik," literally spreading happiness in handfuls. Manager Sam Smith swears that though people may enter the theater with long faces, when they emerge, smiles beam forth.

"She's a Sheik" presents Bebe in what is said to be the best role of her cinematic life before the camera. As Zaida, bewitching granddaughter of Sheik Yusiff ben Hamad, Bebe is given a chance to indulge in all the rapid-fire action and rough situations that Director Clarence Badger could devise. She fights a duel with the man she hates, kidnaps the man she loves, tries to tame him and change his hate into love, saves the foreign legion troops when they are surrounded by Arabs, prevents a shooting squad from killing her fiance and any of a hundred other things!

"The Lone Eagle," featured at the Olympic today and Sunday, is a story of an American youth, cocky and self-centered, who becomes a member of the British flying unit at the time the late war was at its height, or perhaps worst. His reaction to the grim reality of battle and his gradual but nevertheless forcible change from a carefree youth to serious manhood, is portrayed with [illegible] that should place the director, Emory Johnson, on a plane with our greatest directors.

Raymond Keane, who has been on the screen but a short while, is the youth. Barbara Kent plays the role of his little French sweetheart. Jack Pennick, a newcomer to the screen, Nigel Barrie, Don Stuart and Cuyler Supplee are also in the cast.

The story was written by Lieutenant Ralph Blanchard, who was a member of the United States air service during the war.

Gabriel Gabrio in "Les Miserables," coming to the Strand theater Sunday for five days. This version of Victor Hugo's famous book is among the most sensational of foreign made pictures.

School - College Notes

The annual Wai-kun staff banquet, which is the crowning social event of the year for the staff members, will be held Tuesday evening, November 29 at the Wichita club, according to information received from the managing editor, Mrs. Fay Yauger.

Ralph King, editor-in-chief, will act as toast master for the occasion, and the different divisions of the staff will be in charge of several special numbers.

STUDENTS TO DEBATE FARM RELIEF BILL

Farm relief as set forth in the McNary Haugen Bill will be the subject of the interscholastic debate this year. As yet only a few bulletins have been received from the State Extension library, but more have been ordered. The bulletins on hand are being circulated among the classes of Junior college and high school debaters who will probably report a great deal of progress during the Thanksgiving holidays.

POT PLANTS PLACED IN BIOLOGY LAB

A number of pots plants and flowers were moved from the home of Mrs. K. M. Samuels, [illegible] street to the Junior college building and placed in the biology laboratory Friday.

Shoe laces threaded through eyelet-holes and finished in a bow are fashionable for afternoon dresses in London this season.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—Adv.

Building Permits Get Good Boost

Start of construction of two new buildings boosted building permits for the day Friday. C. H. Parker took out a permit for a $25,000 residence to be built at 2019 Berkley avenue. The house will be of brick veneer construction and two stories in height with a fireproof roof. The dimensions were given as 55 feet by 46 feet.

Orville Bullington took out a permit to build a one-story brick building at 300 Ohio street with a sawtooth roof. The building is one for which Mr. Bullington recently appeared before the city council and was given a special permit to construct. The walls are to be nine inches thick and the roof to be of glass and corrugated iron. The cost was given as $10,000.

MARION JANE THOMPSON.

Funeral services for Marion Jane Thompson, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Thompson, 3014 York avenue, who died in a local hospital early Friday afternoon, are to be held from the chapel of the Burris-Shepherd mortuary Sunday afternoon. The hour of burial has not been set, and is to be anounced upon the arrival of relatives from Oklahoma City.

The Best Way To Save Money Is in a Home

Nothing else that you can put your money into is worth more than a home.

A home has a value to you that goes much further than the amount invested and the rent saved.

It offers pre-eminently the wisest way of saving money.

Under our plan, that form of saving is safe, convenient, satisfying.

has grown in many ways in the past few years. We know that only seven years ago it was extremely hard to find any form of homeownership financing. This company was organized to meet this deficiency in our community life and at once began to take care of the loan requirements of people who wanted to own homes and has been successfully doing it ever since. Today you can come to this institution with a loan proposition and receive a prompt and efficient service. If you have the proper security your loan will be made in a business like way and upon a plan that assures complete ownership of the home within a few years. You will, too, find every courtesy extended you. The building and loan way is the best way to own a home or to save money.
