It's been apparent for some time that nearly everybody is interested in the weather and the chief reason for this may well be that the weather influences man at every turn.

For example, the hot days we have experienced the past week have had their effect on the disposition of people, based on some recent reports.

One public official observed that nothing could ignite more complaints than a sudden spell of hot weather. People find some unusual things to complain about, and often they involve situations that have existed for months, or even years, but just never did get anybody to the boiling point until the thermometer shoots into the high nineties.

There has long been speculation that such things as barometric pressure, the stages of the moon, etc., influence the earth's inhabitants. The temperature undoubtedly has its own role as well.

The federal consumer information center passes along some tips for keeping your house cool and your utility bills within reason during the summer months.

First, you should make certain that your house is properly insulated. Increasing insulation will do a lot to decrease your fuel bills, says the center. Also, the air filters in air conditioning equipment should be replaced every 30 to 60 days, and such things as dust and grass clippings should be kept off your air conditioner's condenser. And, they say that your air conditioner is more efficient if the condenser is shaded, but if you build a shade over it, make certain that the flow of air is not obstructed.

Here's a startling report: A survey of 1,000 top seniors in the nation's high school indicate that they overwhelmingly favor marriage and children. The changing times are reflected, perhaps, in the fact that over 90 per cent of them said they planned to combine marriage and a career, but almost as many, 87½ per cent, said they want children. Nearly half of them want two children, while 16 per cent want three, 14 per cent want more than three, and less than five per cent want only one child.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, June 6, the 158th day of 1976. There are 208 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1944, Allied forces landed on the Normandy beaches of France. It was D-Day of World War II.

On this date:

In 1660, the Peace of Copenhagen ended war between Sweden and Denmark and opened the Baltic to foreign warships.

In 1755, the American patriot, Nathan Hale, was born in Coventry, Connecticut.

In 1871, Alsace was annexed to Germany after the French were defeated in the Franco-Prussian War.

In 1942, the U.S. aircraft carrier Yorktown was sunk in the Pacific War Battle of Midway.

In 1966, the first Black admitted to the University of Mississippi, James Meredith, was slightly wounded by a gunman as Meredith marched along a highway in Mississippi to protest racial policies.

In 1967, Israeli forces carved a 30-mile front along Egypt's Mediterranean coast as the Six Day War began. Egypt closed the Suez Canal.

Ten years ago: The U.S. Supreme Court ruled that Dr. Sam Sheppard did not receive a fair trial in the slaying of his wife in a Cleveland suburb because of the intense publicity which surrounded proceedings.

Five years ago: Forty-eight persons on an airliner were killed in a collision with a U.S. Navy jet over California's San Gabriel Mountains. One of the two Navy fliers parachuted to safety.

One year ago: After long and bitter debate, the British voted overwhelmingly in a referendum to remain in the European Common Market.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, the Committee of Secret Correspondence was instructed to determine the attitude of Bermuda to the American Colonies—with the idea of buying and outfitting two sloops of war on the island.

Voters Dissatisfied With Washington

By NEA-London Economist News Service

As the sequence of American primary elections goes on, it becomes unmistakable that the voters of both parties are trying to make a point. It is not a point that those two so different Californians, Jerry Brown and Ronald Reagan, would translate in the same sense, but what is plain is that the electorate is trying to express dissatisfaction with "Washington," that is, with the federal political establishment.

With the exception of President Ford, the men making the running - Reagan, Brown and the Democratic front-runner, Jimmy Carter - can all claim to be free of any trace of Washington: and claim it they do, daily.

President Ford would gladly claim it too, but with his 25 years in Congress he belongs much more to Washington than to Grand Rapids. This is one reason, among several, for the terrible trouble his campaign has been in. He made a recovery last week, fighting off Reagan successfully in Michigan, Ford's home state, and defeating him in Maryland as well. Thus he survives, but his trouble with Reagan is not over. Ahead looms California, Reagan's fortress, on June 8.

Economist Commentary

The history of "the Washington issue" is clearer than its significance is. The 1960s saw a pattern of fissures open up in the country: young people and intellectuals disaffected because of the Vietnam war, black people rioting against their lack of privileges, white families feeling harassed by the civil rights laws, and a mass of the outwardly stolid middle and working classes seething with resentment of the disorderly young and the unruly minority races. One and all had something against the government.

Fascinated by all the uproar, the press and the broadcasting professions in the great northeastern cities were disconcerted to find (rather suddenly, at the riotous Democratic national convention at Chicago in 1968) that the stolid classes had started to hate them. There was a "media issue,' which Vice President Agnew later enjoyed whipping up in his brief heyday. The journalist Joesph Kraft crystallized it in a celebrated column just after the Chicago convention:

"Mayor Daley and his supporters have a point," wrote Kraft: the press suffered from an upper-class outlook, it was unaware of what agitated common people, it needed "to make a special effort to understand Middle America."

The authors of the massive surveys on Middle America that then ensued discovered more than they had bargained for, as another celebrated series of articles, by Haynes Johnson and David Broder, showed in 1971: the political parties were losing their grip, the loyalties that had supported them were dissolving wholesale, the leaders were discredited, the followers estranged. In short, if new leaders appeared they would find the doors open.

One who heard the message was Jimmy Carter, then governor of Georgia, whose planning for the 1976 campaign started in the following summer, a week or two after the Democratic national convention in 1972.

Reagan, then governor of California, had tried once and was waiting for the chance to try again. Jerry Brown, only 34 then and not even governor, as he was shortly to be, of California, took longer to act, but his late entry into the presidential campaign this year has proved to be a startling event. His campaign in Maryland this month was a whirlwind, and he took 49 per cent of the Democratic vote, leaving the until then virtually unbeatable Mr. Carter with only 37 per cent.

The time had come, Brown commented on hearing the result, "for a new generation of leaders." He is going to be one of them, that is plain, but he is not likely to be the Democratic presidential candidate this year. The older generation of leaders, in Washington and in Maryland, who lent him a hand are not interested in getting young Gov. Brown nominated, they simply want to stop the nomination of Carter., And indeed, his defeat in Maryland is the worst setback Carter has had yet.

Having marched triumphantly through the phase in which the conventional (or anti-Carter) Democratic vote was split up among several contenders, Carter will now have to face mostly one strong contender at a time—here Brown, there Sen. Frank Church or Morris Udall, whose candidacy is not dead yet - in each of several states. This will look less like a triumph: all the same, Carter's delegate strength is formidable by now, he will add to it, and he can expect to arrive at the convention in New York strong enough to be certainly difficult, and probably impossible, to stop.

Doubts linger about him in the minds of many Democrats, and they are not wholly unreasonable doubts. So far he has been marching and fighting. He still is, and his march to Washington still has rather the air of Hannibal seizing Campania for winter quarters. If he now suffers a dilution of the glamour and magnetism of invincibility, and if the dilution prods him to pay more careful attention to the feelings and the opinions that are held in his party, that will not be a bad thing.

A fresh start in American politics there has to be. In the apparent trough of political loyalties four or five years ago, the American public mind was really on a plateau, when the disgrace of the Watergate events, and the flood of grubby disclosures of official manipulation and misbehavior that followed from them, were forced on the people's attention.

All the same, however, new the leader, he needs to be seen listening and learning, an effect easier to achieve for a politician who needs allies and friends, as Carter now does, than for one whose opponents are in a total rout.

Construction Work Near Completion On New Clinic

Construction work is virtually completed and the new Doctors' Clinic Building will be ready for occupancy in a few days, Henry Clark, chairman of the Cogdell Memorial Hospital Board and Cy Miller, administrator of the hospital, have announced.

At least four doctors are expected to open offices in the new building within the next few weeks, Miller said. The building, which is being constructed by the hospital itself, will have facilities for six physicians. Each suite will have 1,650 square feet of space and each suite will have space for its own business office, nurse's work station, treatment room and two examination rooms.

Miller said that the building was designed so that two or more doctors may practice in partnership, or association, in any combinations up to six, or each may practice independently of others in the building.

The modern brick building, designed by J.D. Hinton, local architect, and constructed by Rose Construction Co., contractor, will cost approximately $325,000 when it is finished.

Plans for the building were launched as efforts advanced to recruit more doctors to practice here, and the result will be ideal office for six physicians to practice near Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Scheduled to move into the new building as soon as it is completed are Dr. David Wiman, Dr. David Ray and Dr. Gilbert Greene. Also, Miller said that Dr. Nelson Brice would likely establish his practice in the new building shortly after it is opened.

Work remaining on the building mostly involves small inside chores and carpeting.

ENTRANCE—The entrance to the Doctor's Clinic Building faces a small courtyard. The new building, which will provide office facilities for six physicians, will be completed soon and four doctors are due to move in.

Little Interest In Runoff Voting

Scurry County Democrats, along with party members throughout the state, were casting ballots Saturday to name nominees for a seat on the Texas Railroad Commission and the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

A light turnout appeared in the making here, as there were no local or district races involved. Jerry Sadler and Jon Newton were in the runoff for the Railroad Commission post, while Carl Dally was matched with W.T. Phillips for the Court of Criminal Appeals seat.

Down state, there was one congressional seat runoff and there also were 26 legislative races. These were expected to increase the interest in the districts where they occurred, but elsewhere, voter response was extra light.

Reception To Honor Artists

A reception honoring two artists whose works are being featured in the Scurry County Museum is planned from 1-5 this afternoon in the museum.

The artists are Pat Garren of Abilene and T.S. Gilbreth of Clyde, who will be exhibiting paintings and sculpture through June 27.

The museum is located on the campus of Western Texas Collegfe. There is no admission charge.

Also, the Diamond M Museum will be open this afternoon from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Wagnon Rites Pending Here

Funeral arrangements were pending Saturday for Hugh Wagnon, 78, who died at 7:50 p.m. Friday in Root Memorial Hospital at Colorado City.

Arrangements were to be made at the Bell Seale Funeral Home.

Panama, Defense Big Ford-Reagan Issues

By The Associated Press

President Ford says Ronald Reagan's policies on the Panama Canal could lead to "guerrilla warfare," but the Republican challenger says U.S. sovereignty over the Canal Zone must be maintained.

The two men also disagree sharply about whether American defenses have slipped to allow the Soviet Union to be more aggressive.

Ford and Reagan commented in exclusive interviews with The Associated Press prior to next Tuesday's key California primary. Reagan was interviewed aboard his campaign plane in California; Ford was questioned at the White House.

Ford said that "guerrilla warfare would be almost inevitable" if the United States breaks off negotiations with Panama on control of the Canal Zone. He said such a break-off in talks "is the implication of my opponent's policies."

Reagan has said that, as President, he would not permit talks predicated on any yielding of U.S. sovereignty over the Canal Zone.

He said in the AP interview that the Panama Canal remains "one of the four great waterways of the world ... And in a time of emergency or war, an enemy that could close those four waterways could shut down the industry of the United States..."

Talking about the neogtiations, he said: "What they're talking about is a treaty which would call for a period in which you'd turn over the canal. How do you negotiate such a treaty when you don't even know what kind of government there will be in Panama?"

Ford said that Reagan, in his statements on Panama and more recently on Rhodesia, "has made some statements that I think overreact to a speculative situation. The Ford administration has consistently taken the position that we will negotiate ... We would use force as a last resort."

Reagan was asked last month if he would be willing to go to war to protect the Canal Zone. He replied: "I don't think there's ever been a president who wouldn't have had to say yes." He said later his answer had "lost something in the translation." He added: "Has there ever been a time that — if the Panama Canal was threatened with seizure by a foreign power — the United States would not defend it as they would defend any other United States territory?"

His comments on Rhodesia came after he was interviewed by The AP and before Ford was questioned. He said he might consider sending a token U.S. force to Rhodesia, if asked, to help preserve the peace and prevent bloodshed during the transfer of control to the black majority. Reagan said later, "I made a mistake in trying to answer a hypothetical question with a hypothetical answer."

Ford said he would not give consideration to sending the military to Rhodesia "because it is not necessary ... I see no possibility of intervention of the United States with force in Southern Africa."

On another issue, Reagan

VIEWPOINT

Fortunate Consumer

Consider how fortunate the consumer is today. He has so many people looking out for his interests that he can sit back and relax because he knows that thousands of people, from Ralph Nader on down to the Texas Utilities Commission care about his welfare.

The only problem is, everytime they make a move in his behalf, his pocketbook shrinks. The Texas Utilities Commission, granted $1.2 million to crank up and which has not yet begun to function, already sees the need for $5 million to carry on its work in behalf of the consumer. And we know where it will come from, if and when the legislature grants it.

Also, divestiture dragons are still howling their chorus in favor of breaking up the major oil companies in compassion for the poor consumer. This, of course, would open the gates for another layer of middle men in the energy chain, which the consumer himself would have to support.

How fortunate can you get?

Down Go The Tubes

The familiar tubes used in radio and television receivers are falling victim to the solid-state revolution. RCA has announced that it will close its receiving tube plant at Harrison, N.J., July 30 leaving only two other American companies in this end of the electronics business.

Reason is the steadily decreasing demand for tubes in the face of the shift to solid-state devices. Industry-wide sales of tubes have declined from 442 million in 1966 to about 80 million in 1975. This is less than RCA alone sold in the heyday of the receiving tube.

On a nostaglic note, Radio-Electronic magazine recalls that the now obsolete plant in New Jersey was originally built by Thomas A. Edison in 1882 to produce light bulbs. It was the "Edison effect" discovered in early light bulbs that led Lee De Forest and other pioneers to develop the vacuum tubes which made possible the miracle of radio, and later, television.

"... I think I understand. They are voting for the weakest opponent, so in November I have to choose the least weakest for president."

Suspect Held In Theft Case Here

City police reported taking into custody two suspects in a theft, finding a small amount of a substance believed to be marijuana, and three minor traffic accidents.

During a routine check of a vehicle about 2 a.m. Saturday at the intersection of Twenty-sixth Street and Avenue G, city policemen discovered a quantity of candy that the driver of the vehicle, an 18-year-old male, is believed to have taken from a supermarket where he is employed. The youth was taken to the police station where he was charged with theft of over $20.

In a related incident, another youth, 17 years old, went to the police station about 5 a.m. Saturday and turned himself into police officers. He reportedly had taken a quantity of meat from the same supermarket as the other youth where they are both believed to be employed. He, too, was charged with theft over $20.

A home owner in the 100 block of Twenty-eighth Street told city police that she found what appeared to be a bag of marijuana in front of her house in the street. The substance was taken to the police station where lab tests will be needed to confirm the composition of the substance. The discovery was made about 2 p.m. Friday. The material is believed to weigh approximately one ounce.

A minor traffic accident involving three vehicles occurred Friday shortly after 10 a.m. in the 3400 block of College Avenue. Involved in the mishap were a parked 1965 Buick owned by Paul B. Hays Jr., a parked 1971 Ford owned by Sam Houston and a 1975 truck tractor and van trailer driven by Harold E. Robbins and owned by Merchants Van Line. Only minor damages were reported in the accident.

The 2700 block of College Avenue was the scene of another accident Friday at 1:40 p.m. A 1972 Pontiac driven by John D. Line was involved in a minor collision with a 1964 Ford driven by Eduardo P. Gonzales.

A California man was involved in a minor traffic accident at 2:14 p.m. at the Snyder National Bank. Terry L. Green, of Snyder, driving a 1967 Ford was involved in a collision with the parked 1976 Oldsmobile owned by Andrew G. Pistone of California.

Demand For Water Goes Up In May

Bolstered by rising municipal demands, deliveries by the Colorado River Municipal Water District rose substantially during May. All users drew 1,762,982,970 gallons, an increase of 6.19 per cent over May 1975. This pushed to 7,390,350,443 gallons the total for the first five months of the year, a gain of 5.23 per cent.

During May, cities required 1,248,825,800 gallons, a gain of 15.91 per cent. On the other hand, oil companies for the second consecutive month, took substantially less water than a year ago. Their May total was 514,157,170 gallons, or down 11.78 per cent. The total for the first five months of the year is 2,614,284,743 gallons down 3.87 per cent.

Through May, cities have used 4,776,065,700 gallons, an increase of 10.98 per cent.

Figures for May deliveries to cities included: Odessa 501,925,000 gallons, up 11.02 per cent; Big Spring 255,155,000, up 6.77 per cent; Snyder 80,500,000 up 6.44 per cent; Stanton 10,512,000, up 53.10 per cent; Midland 393,747,000, up 28.62 per cent; Robert Lee 6,896,000 (no deliveries last year).

said in the AP interview that "the Soviet Union is in the position of being more truculent and aggressive with the use of conventional arms, knowing that there is virtually no way we can prevent this, such as in Angola. All we could do was talk."

Told of this comment, Ford said: "I see no evidence, other than in Angola where it could have been prevented, of the Soviet Union moving aggressively..."

Reagan said there is a new danger of brush-fire type wars in some areas. "The only recourse left to us would be the one thing that none of us wants at all, the nuclear button. The day we push the nuclear button, we know, that we do not have the nuclear superiority we once had, we don't even have parity."

Ford said, "Every military official that I depend on believes that the United States has the military capability to carry out any assigned mission."

He said that if Congress continues to cut defense spending, the United States could be "in somewhat of an equivocal situation ... in future years. That is why I submitted the two highest defense budgets last year and this year..."

Reagan agreed that Ford has asked for more defense money than Congress has been willing to approve. But, Reagan said, "he places his faith and confidence in his long-time buddies in the Congress and they turn him down. I have said that leadership today, I believe, calls for going to the American people and telling them the truth."

Ford denied that he has been moving from the middle of the road to try to counter Reagan. "I have not changed my policies," he said. "We have kept the Ford administration in the middle of the road."

The President said there has not been any slowdown, either in talks with the Soviets on strategic arms or in talks with Panama about the Canal Zone.

On another topics:

—Ford said Reagan's claims that the economy recovery is suspect are "political rhetoric." He said the experts agree that our "economic recovery is healthy and that it is going to continue."

—The President said the federal government must be a leader and a participant in welfare reform. "I don't think you can dump the entire welfare program back to the cities, counties and states."

Reagan, discussing a gradual transfer of some federal programs to state or local control, said his experience with welfare as governor of California showed the programs "would be run more efficiently at the state and local level than they're being run in what is bad administration..."

A Little About One Or Two Hundred Things

By JEAN EVERETT

by Jean Everett

I'm glad to report that The Wild West is still alive and thriving, not only on the TV and movie screens but in real life. Where? Just 30 miles west of Snyder in our neighboring County of Borden.

Along with 8,999 other people, I witnessed that fact last Saturday, May 29, when the residents welcomed friends, visitors, strangers, and returning family to the biggest shindig this side of anywhere.

Now, Borden Countians have never been known to attack buffalo, rattlesnakes, wild horses, steers, droughts or sandstorms just "half way", so they tackled their celebration in the only manner common to them—"full steam ahead."

As a result, they thrilled, excited, and gave pleasure to adults and kids alike from all parts of Texas and as far away as South Dakota, Tennessee, Colorado, and heaven knows where else. And what's more, they gave us something to remember, talks about and hash over from now until the next 200 year birthday party. And then I suspect, those inter-planet travelers of that future time will have to really rev up their computors to top the Borden County Celebration of 1976.

Behind the scene activitites, planned and unplanned, were just as thrilling: housewives getting together to sew red, white, and blue shirts and skirts and other costumes; a week of honest-to-goodness Indians, Mexicans, whites and blacks working and playing together on the buffalo, cattle, and horse drive into Gail; a ranch wife expecting only her family for lunch and ending up with 26 at the table; an 11 year old saying: "We're going to do the program again! Is my make-up still on?"; a teenager, dressed in oversized black coat and tattered man's hat, waiting in the hot sun two full hours so as not to miss her cue to perform at the Wild West Show; middle-agers and teenagers learning to do the Charleston together with tears and laughter; a grandfather traveling miles and miles for some wagons and mules which had to be broken to harness. All 888 (according to a 1970 census report) citizens of that 908 square mile area knocking hard heads and soft hearts together for a common cause–that's the true spirit of the pioneer west that I hope never dies.

As the time nears for our own July 3-4-5 observance, Scurry Countians are also displaying their own brand of enthusiasm, energy, talent and cooperation. At this point, it seems that there will be something for everyone, so don't go away; stick around for the fire works!

Activities in Snyder will begin on Saturday, July 3, at the Scurry County Coliseum with an Old Settlers Reunion and Pioneers Skills Festival. Members of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) are making arrangements for the Reunion. The Festival is sponsored by the Scurry County Bicentennial-Centennial Commission. The Snyder Jaycees are co-ordinating it all.

RSVP members will host the Old Settler's registration, beginning at 9:00 a.m. Saturday morning.

Over 40 booths and displays are planned to help us re-live those early years in Scurry County. If you or your children have never seen a horse shod, a cow milked, butter churned, ladies hats designed, quilting, tatting, horse drawn wagons, a hack, a teepee, a cake walk, candy pulling, and much, much more–then "Do come to Snyder on July 3, 4, 5".

Activities at the park will include the arts and crafts, an art show, flower show, tractor pull, entertainment, and religious services, and topping it all off with the big fireworks display.

So "Y'all come".

New Firm Planning Tankers

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — The General Dynamics Corp. shipyard here would build two more 900-foot tankers to carry liquified natural gas from Algeria to the Gulf Coast under plans by a newly formed firm.

Formation of the company, called Lachman, was announced Friday by Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. of Houston, Tex.; Moore-McCormack Bulk Transport Inc., Stamford, Conn., and General Dynamics.

A spokesman said the Federal Power Commission and U.S. Maritime Administration must approve the proposal. Plans are to finance the ship construction with help of a federal subsidy, long term U.S.-guaranteed bonds and money chipped in by the partners.

The ships are earmarked to transport about 40 per cent of the 1965 billion cubic feet of gas under a 20 year contract approved last September between Panhandle and Sonatrach, the Algerian national oil and gas firm.

The project also involves construction of a receiving terminal and related facilities at Lake Charles, La., to hook up to the Panhandle pipeline to customers in the midwest.

The target date for completion of the tankers and the Louisiana receiving port is 1980.

The Quincy shipyard has been producing a series of similar gas transport tankers in recent years, building them in sections and fastening them together with the aid of a giant crane.

Child Bearing Is An Industry Now

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — "Child bearing has become an industry," says an official of the Child Welfare League of America. "Today, ordering a baby is like putting in an order for a new Vega.

"You buy the color you want, you buy the model you want and all that anyone cares is that you've got enough money to pay for it," Merwin R. Crow, the organization's assistant executive director, said Friday.

Black-market babies are a booming business in this country, he told the Portland City Club. "The high price for an infant today — granted he or she is white, physically fit and mentally okay — is between $40,000 and $50,000.

"A low-cost baby would be between $7,000 and $8,000," he said. "And maybe you could get a 'Friday Surprise' for under $7,000."

Crow estimated that about 5,000 children in the U.S. are sold on the black market annually to "wealthy, childless couples who will do anything or pay anything for children."

He added, "If people don't realize what black-marketing of babies is doing, the wealthy will win. Simply because someone has $40,000 or $50,000 to spend doesn't mean they will make good parents.

Crow said there are about 100,000 legally adoptable children in America, "but most of them are not white and some have physical and mental problems."

He urged that potential adoptive parents deal only with legally accepted agencies and to "at least consider the possibilities of taking hard-to-place children."

That category includes older children, youngsters of mixed races, those with physical problems, the retarded, the emotionally disturbed and siblings whose families requested that they be kept together.

"There has been a phenomenal flipflop that's created a scarcity of children," he said. "In 1970, 75 per cent of all unmarried pregnant women gave up their babies for adoption.

"In 1975, only 25 per cent did because of the pill and abortion and the sociological acceptance of keeping an illegitimate child."

Too Early For Woman Veep?

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford says she believes it is too soon for a woman to become vice president.

Mrs. Ford was asked when she arrived here Friday about reports that Republican challenger Ronald Reagan was considering naming Ann Armstrong, U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain, as his running mate.

"I am, of course, in favor of women in government. But it is a little too soon for a female vice president. I think we have to take our time and be patient," Mrs. Ford said.

Thank you from Mr. & Mrs. Victor Richter

MR. AND MRS. BRUCE STANFIELD

Tate, Stanfield United In Ceremony At Hermleigh

Miss Ruth Tate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Tate, Sr. of Snyder, and Bruce Stanfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Stanfield, Snyder, were united in marriage, April 30, at 6:30 p.m., in the Hermleigh Church of Christ.

Dean Morgan, WTC Christian Student Center director, performed the double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with baskets of yellow gladiolas and carnations.

Wedding music was provided by J.B. Tate, Jr., brother of the bride. He sang "And I Love You So," "True Love," and "A Time For Us." Guests were registered by Miss Karen Holland, of Bakersfield, Calif.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white floor length dress of polyester trimmed in lace. The dress was fashioned by the bride. She wore a white floppy-brim hat and carried a bouquet of yellow gladiola petals.

Mrs. Nancy Roemisch of Snyder, attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a floor-length dress of yellow and green print fashioned identical to the bride's. She wore a yellow floppy-brim hat and carried yellow carnations.

Terry Stanfield, of Snyder, served his brother as best man.

Miss Patty Lynch, niece of the bride from San Angelo, seated guests.

The bride is a graduate of Hermleigh High School and Western Texas College where she received an Associate in Applied Science degree. The bridegroom, a graduate of Marshall High School, Marshall, Missouri, is employed at Thomas-Stanfield, Inc.

Out-of town guests were from Bakersfield, Calif.; Fisk, Mo.; Socorro, New Mex.; and Austin.

After a wedding trip to Missouri, they will reside at 200 26th Street.

Refunds Still Available

COLLEGE STATION—Federal income tax refunds may still be available to some consumers, even though the April 15 deadline for filing a tax return has passed, Lynn Bourland, a family resource management specialist, says.

"Those not required to file a federal income tax return may still be entitled to a refund and earned-income credit refunds range in amounts up to $400. The International Revenue Service expected three million returns for this type of refund and have received only 300,000," she said.

Miss Bourland is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Consumers who meet these requirements should file now, she said.

–Individual or couple, must have at least one dependent child who is a student or under age 19 and living at home.

–Earned income or adjusted gross income for 1975 must have been less than $8,000.

–Gross income does not include Social Security benefits or the portion of pension benefits that is a refund of the original retirement investment.

Moving Lawn Is 'Sod' But True

OXNARD, Calif. (AP) — This is a "sod" but true story about a car covered with — a lawn.

A few years ago, a firm which makes floats for parades built a car covered with dichondra weed for a lawn firm as a promotional gimmick.

Workers drilled 1,000 rivets into a 1951 car to hold pieces of perforated angle iron, then fitted sections of dichondra sod onto the iron and held them down with chicken wire.

The car was auctioned off when the publicity campaign was over, and Archie Bard, a mushroom grower here, won the vehicle by bidding $500.

Bard has discovered that a dichondra car isn't very practical, however. It has to be clipped with hedge shears and it has to be watered daily.

"We found that the top got too much sun and the sides didn't get enough, which caused uneven growth," Bard added.

The trouble proved too much for him.

"Right now, the car is just rusting away in the yard," Bard reported recently. "The weeds have taken over."

Hearing Set On Chloride Plant

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Air Control Board has scheduled a July 16 hearing on an application by Diamond Shamrock Corp. to build a vinyl chloride plant at La Porte.

Horse Falls In Manhole

ENNIS, Tex. (AP) — It was just another routine day for Tommy Maness, a wire chief for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., until an anonymous caller told him a horse had fallen into a manhole five miles south of Ennis.

Maness was skeptical because the telephone company's manholes are only 54 inches in diameter and it would be mighty hard for horse to slip through.

To be on the safe side, Maness checked out the report and sure enough there was a 1,100 pound quarterhorse at the bottom of the 14-foot deep manhole.

Bell contractors dug a 40-foot trench into the side of the manhole, broke through an 8-inch concrete wall with sledge hammers, and led the animal to safety.

Maness estimates the company spent $1,500-$1,600 to rescue the horse. The animal suffered a cut on the leg, nothing more.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — I understand it is possible to use dry ice in the removal of resilient floor tiles. Can you tell me how this is done?

A. — Yes, but first a word of caution. The dry ice must be handled very carefully. Have the dealer where you purchase it tell you how this should be done. The dry ice is placed into a wooden frame which is set on the tile and left there a few minutes. Using a hammer, chip out the tile, then move the frame and repeat the operation as many times as is needed. There are several other methods of removing floor tiles. Probably the safest — although it requires the most elbow grease — is to rent a tile scraper, a kind of giant putty knife. Insert the scraper between the seams of two adjoining tiles and force it downward and slightly sideways until one of the tiles is loosened a bit. From then on it's a case of scraping off the tiles and adhesive as you might scrape peeling paint from the side of a house.

Q. — What's the procedure for finding out whether a discoloration is dirt or mildew?

A. — Wet the affected area with a household bleach. If it is mildew, it will turn white in about 5 minutes. If it doesn't turn white, it's dirt.

Q. — Please settle an argument. Is it necessary to use a sealer over a wood stain if the final finish is to be varnish?

A. — The word "necessary" makes a flat yes or no difficult. It may not be necessary, since I have seen some finishing projects where the sealer was not used, but my own preference is for use of the sealer. When the final coat is to be varnish, I use a coat of shellac diluated 50 per cent with denatured alcohol. However, if you have already purchased the varnish, read the label carefully to see whether the manufacturer has made any specific recommendation about the type of sealer, if any, to be used over a stain. That's because there are many different kinds of varnish on the market these days it is important to read the instructions about the compatibility of one product with another.

West opened one of those weak two bids that are fairly common today. A double would have been for takeout, so North passed. South really should have let the two hearts alone, but he hated to be shut out and tried two spades which North raised to four.

A diamond lead would have cooked his goose, but West opened the deuce of clubs and South was in business for a while. He led a trump to his ace and a second trump to East's king.

East cashed his king of diamonds and continued with the nine of clubs. South's jack forced West's king and dummy ruffed, but now South was one trick short of his contract. He couldn't get to his hand to take a heart finesse without using up dummy's last trump and could not avoid the loss of two more diamond tricks.

South could have made the contract after taking his ace of trumps, if he had led a heart to dummy's queen.

He would have been mighty lucky, but good play would have given luck that chance to take over.

Motel Theft Losses High

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Tourists with kleptomaniac tendencies are driving motel managers here to despair.

They report yearly theft losses from $2,500 to more than $20,000.

"Anything that's not nailed down, somebody will take it sometime," said Ed Cashion, a manager.

Jim Gooch, another manager, said, "We lose sheets and pillow cases, and sometimes a chair or a table. I've had them go so far as to take the entire bed — mattress, box springs and all."

Veteran Spy Story Writer Pens Another

Helen MacInnes fans will doubtless be enthralled with this latest thriller by a veteran author of spy novels. It has a smoothly worked out plot that builds to a smashing crescendo. But there are some flaws, too.

The book deals with an all-out effort by Soviet intelligence to get its hands on a top secret NATO memorandum. Matters are complicated by the actions of an idealistic American junior diplomat who thinks the U.S. public should have a clearer idea of what's going on behind the scenes. Unaware how explosive some of the material in the memorandum is, he feeds it to a journalist, thereby blowing the cover of a top western operative stationed in Moscow.

The Russian agents, it turns out, have a formidable opponent in a British operative, posing as a wine dealer, with an able team of assistants who proceed to counter each move by the other side. There ensues an international chase that winds up in a little resort town on the French Riviera. It soon becomes the center of a deadly struggle that leaves a few bodies scattered about.

Miss MacInnes paints an intriguing picture of the cloak and dagger set but leans a little too heavily on coincidence to keep the plot intact. Her characters also indulge in a bewildering assortment of fake mustaches, wigs, false limps and other props that one doubts a real-life agent would resort to. In the main, however, it is a fast-moving piece of writing that is hard to put down once you have gotten into the action.

Vitamin Problem

CHICAGO (AP) — Eating too many Vitamin A pills can turn you yellow, says an authority.

James Boyer, a University of Chicago liver specialist, reports in a recent issue of the New England Journal of Medicine that the symptoms of Vitamin A toxicity include cirrhosis-like damage to the liver, fatigue, fluid accumulation and the yellowish coloring caused by jaundice.

Boyer wrote he noted these symptoms after treating two patients who had ingested massive daily doses of Vitamin A for the last five to eight years.

Irene Brooks Presents Bouquet To Miss World

The new look in cosmetics for fall 1976 will use Mother Nature's most vivid, lush colors to complement the more vibrant colors showing up in new fall fabrics, according to Irene H. Brooks who just returned from the 45th annual Merle Norma Cosmetics convention in New Orleans.

"The natural wonders that inspired our exciting new colors are America's Grand Canyon and Painted Desert," says Brooks, one of 2700 owners and operators of Merle Norman Cosmetic Studios throughout the United States and Canada.

"The new color trend for fall is a further departure from the underplayed colors that were seen in apparel, accessories and eosmetics until recently. It will be a back-to-nature look, but one reminiscent of sunrises and sunsets reflected on glowing canyon walls and desert sands."

The new Merle Norman fall line will include a group of "Canyon Colors" such as Canyon Umber lip and nail color, liquid makeup in Canyon Pink, Sand and Buff, a blusher called Canyon Rose and eye makeup in shades of Canyon Gray and Canyon Violet.

"We're combining and layering colors in the same way Mother Nature does, which means that although the new look is dramatic, women will not seem overly made up," comments the studio owner, who forecasts a "flattering fall season" for women who use this technique in applying the new fashion colors.

Complimentary lessons in applying this new look may be scheduled at the Studio where "expertly-trained" beauty advisors will teach each woman how best to combine these new colors to accent her own natural beauty," according to Mrs. Brooks who owns and operates a Merle Norman Cosmetics Studio at 2513 College Ave.

Quinlan Story Rights Sold

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ladies Home Journal says it has has made arrangements with the parents of Karen Ann Quinlan for rights to the comatose woman's story.

Lenore Hershey, the magazine's editor, refused Thursday night to say how much Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Quinlan of Landing, N.J., will be paid for the story.

The New York Daily News said in today's editions that the Quinlans, who fought a lengthy court battle for the right of their 22-year-old daughter to "die with dignity," would get $30,000 from The Journal.

The News said the Quinlans also are discussing television and film rights to the story of their daughter, and that a book is in the works.

The Quinlans have refused to discuss the matter with reporters.

Miss Quinlan has been in a coma at St. Clare's Hospital in Denville, N.J., for nearly 14 months, and is in what doctors have said is a vegetative state, with irreversible brain damage.

Her condition is believed to have resulted from ingestion of tranquilizers and liquor.

Her parents went to court after the hospital refused to stop the respirator that was keeping the young woman alive. On March 31 the New Jersey Supreme Court ruled in the parents' favor.

The hospital since then has "weaned" the young woman from the respirator but has refused to stop special feedings and antibiotics. The hospital has said she will be returned to the respirator if breathing trouble develops.

On the short figure, a one-piece maillot in a dark color makes for a nice outline.

TO WED—Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sickler announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Julia, to Terry Sowell, son of Mr. and Mrs. G.T. Sowell. A June 25 wedding is planned at First Baptist Church. The bride is a junior at Snyder High School. The prospective bridegroom, a graduate of Snyder High School, is employed by the Snyder Fire Department.

Author Finds Nonfiction Writing Easier Than Fiction

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Truth may be stranger than fiction, but it is also easier to write, claims Barbara Howar, TV personality, Washington celebrity and author of two books — one nonfiction and one fiction.

"You have your own story, facts as you recall them," explained Miss Howar of her first book, "Laughing All the Way," a memoir of her early life and her experiences on the Washington political and social circuit, a best seller a few years ago.

"With fiction you have to create characters, give them motivation, make them act, speak; connect so many things on various levels, and it all comes out of your imagination," she added in an interview, discussing her latest book, "Making Ends Meet."

The novel is about Lilly Shawcross, 40, a Washington divorcee with two children and a career as a film critic, who finds liberation isn't exactly as advertised and is searching for a man to love and share her life. There are many parallels between protagonist and author — both brought up in the South, divorced, two children, career women — Miss Howar admits.

"We are of an age, of a background, of a predicament, the same children. But some things are different. I gave her money. If she hadn't had money she would have been bogged down for 369 pages just keeping the wolf from the door.

"And I didn't give her female friends. If she had had the good kinds of female companionship I'm fortunate enough to have she'd have had no problems to think out for herself and I'd have had no book. And I'm a terrific cook and she even burned corned beef hash," said the streaked-blonde author, slim in black pants and vest over a print shirt.

Though she acknowledges that a writer, "especially a novice writer which I certainly am," draws on her own experiences and "there are bits and pieces and characteristics and gestures and mannerisms of people I know," Miss Howar denies that her characters are actually drawn from life.

BARBARA HOWAR

"But it seems everyone thinks they are," she says, with a laugh. "They found everyone in the book except Amelia Earhart and Judge Crater. At first I was upset about people thinking I followed friends around with a tape recorder. Now I almost find it amusing. A man came up to me at a party and said, 'Hey, I hear I'm in your book.' I said, 'What role are you applying for?'"

Miss Howar, who is 41, made her heroine 40 because "there's something about that age — look, half my life is back there somewhere — when you stop to assess where you are going, what life has meant, to come to terms with what you want, what your priorities are."

Her children, daughter Bader, 15, and son Edmond, 12, she lists as her top priority, with her work coming second. No. 3 could be marriage but, divorced since 1965 from Washington land developer Edmond Howar, she says she has no strong feelings pro or con.

Miss Howar, who speaks with a rapidity belying her North Carolina childhood though she still retains traces of a Southern accent, thinks there is no such thing as a liberated woman.

"Liberation," she says, "and that's in quotes, is terrific on paper but in practical application you're saying you need no one — but everyone needs someone. There are emotions that will never be liberated.

"It's not so easy to do it yourself. Somewhere in between abortion on demand and equal pay for equal work they forgot the emotional side of having autonomy."

At any rate, she doesn't think that equality between men and women will take place in her lifetime, that she can tap a man of her generation on the shoulder and say, "Pardon me, but would you mind giving me my half of the pie?"

"But my daughter probably has got a leg up," she adds. "She doesn't have the hypocrisy and social conditioning forced on us, the being brought up to think the greatest scourge in life is to be without a man."

While she is working on a book Miss Howar starts writing at noon, works six or seven hours, "then I stagger downstairs, have a glass of wine, and cook dinner for the children, watch television and go to bed. As I get older I really don't like going out so much. I have no need to be seen showing up places."

Miss Howar, who has often hosted and made guest appearances on TV talk shows, next fall will be talking to guests on her own syndicated program, "The Barbara Howar Show."

She is also "planning to plan" another book, though "I don't have a story in my head now."

("Making Ends Meet" is published by Random House.)

Americans who travel to China are often startled to be greeted with handclapping when they visit a commune or observe some other activity. The accepted response, says one traveler, is simply to clap back.

Firm Rewards Smoking Quitters

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Five employes of a glass firm snuffed out their smoking habit and received a combined cash reward of $1,440 from the firm.

In an incentive program devised by Eugene Kadish, 35, president of the firm and president of the Arizona chapter of a national anti-smoking organization, the employes agreed a year ago to quit smoking and let the company deduct from their paychecks an amount equal to what they would have been spending on cigarettes. Kadish agreed to match that and pay it all back a year later.

"We deducted a total of $1,440 and we are paying it back plus $1,440 more," Kadish said.

Weather Causes Extensive Damage To Texas Crops

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Violent thunderstorms caused extensive damage to crops in scattered areas of the state last week, Dr. Daniel Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says.

Wet fields delayed cotton and peanut planting in Central and North Central Texas and brought wheat harvesting to a standstill in most areas, he said.

The weather also dealt a blow to hay-making operations in many counties, Pfannstiel said.

Vegetable production is making good progress in eastern, coastal and southern sections, he said. Harvesting of melons, cantaloupes and peppers is beginning in South Texas,

Livestock conditions are generally good throughout the state except in the Panhandle and Far West Texas where dry conditions are hampering forage growth, Pfannstiel said. District agricultural extension agents gave these reports:

Panhandle: Good yields are expected from the irrigated wheat crop. The corn crop looks good. Sorghum planting is past the halfway point. Cotton planting is complete. The sugar beet crop is making good progress.

South Plains: Most of the cotton has been planted. Early fields are making good progress. Sorghum planting is about 75 per cent complete. Sugar beets and sunflowers are doing well. Alfalfa yields are generally good.

Rolling Plains: Hail caused heavy damage last week to wheat in Foard, Baylor, Young and Hall counties. Losses ranged from 10 to 60 per cent and totaled about 125,000 acres. Some cotton also will have to be replanted. Ranges are in good shape.

North Central: Some grain crops were damaged by hail and high winds. Cotton planting is 80 per cent complete. Weeds and greenbugs are causing problems in many sorghum fields. Peanut planting has started. Pastures are furnishing good grazing.

Northeast: The first cutting of hay is under way. Corn is tasseling. Sorghum is making good growth. Vegetables are being harvested. Livestock are in fair to good shape.

Far West: Wheat harvesting is under way. The second cutting of alfalfa has started in Pecos County. Lettuce is being harvested in the Upper El Paso Valley. Most of the cotton and sorghum acreage has been planted. Moisture conditions are still short.

West Central: Most of the sorghum crop has been planted. Cotton planting is active. Spraying is under way to control pecan nut casebearers. Forage conditions are average.

Central: Wet fields have delayed small grain harvesting, hay making and peanut planting. Spraying continues for the pecan nut casebearer but rains have reduced the effectiveness. Pastures and ranges look good.

East: Hay making is under way. Some sorghum and peanuts remain to be planted. The corn crop is making good progress. Spraying remains active to control the pecan nut casebearer. The spring calf crop is short in several counties.

Southeast and Upper Gulf Coast: Most corn is in the roasting ear stage. Sorghum is making good growth. Cotton is squaring but is suffering from insect damage. Rice is making fair progress but insects are causing heavy damage in some counties. Pastures and ranges are providing good grazing.

South Central: Cotton planting is about complete. Corn and sorghum crops are making good progress. Rains have slowed the small grain harvest. Pasture and livestock conditions are good.

Southwest: Corn is putting on ears. Sorghum is heading. The onion market is poor. Ranges and cattle are in good shape. Early lambs are moving to market. Screwworms, hornflies and ticks are heavy in livestock.

Coastal Bend: About half the flax crop is in. Wheat harvesting is 80 per cent complete. Most sorghum has headed. Rice is making good progress. Cotton growth is slow. Cattle and range conditions are good.

South: Cotton and sorghum are making good progress but insects remain a problem. Watermelons, cantaloupes, honeydew melons and peppers are starting to move to market. Some peas also are being harvested. Webworms are infesting peach trees. Livestock have adequate grazing.

Library Has Sheet Music

In addition to record albums and bound volumes of music already in use at the library, patrons of Scurry County Library may now check out sheet music and publications.

You will be able to find early American music for a Bicentennial program, music for weddings, and sacred songs ranging from the traditional Lord's Prayer by Malotte to the modern gospel music. Also included is music for the guitar, accordian, piano and organ.

The student will find interesting practice music and those playing for their own entertainment will enjoy music and words from the nostalgic to the contemporary.

Ask for assistance at the desk if you need help finding this music in the vertical files.

HOMER HURST

Exxon Honors Homer Hurst

Homer R. Hurst with Exxon Company, U.S.A. has observed his 30-year service anniversary. He is assigned as senior technician electrical in the Midland District, Midcontinent Production Division, and is located in Snyder.

In 1946, he joined the company as a roustabout in Andrews and three years later a transfer took him to the Snyder area.

His hometown is Tenaha in Shelby County.

He and his wife, the former Mildred Hall, are parents of one son and two daughters.

At a dinner held recently in his honor in Snyder, Hurst was presented service awards by Technical Foreman Glenn Pierce of Midland.

Gas Rate Hearing Is Set June 16

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission has instructed Stephenville and Lone Star Gas Co. to appear June 16 to present evidence on whether the city has ordered natural gas rates reduced as the company claims.

A rate hearing in the case—also set for the same day—will be rescheduled.

Lone Star contends that an ordinance by the Stephenville City Council in March would cut company revenue in Erath County by 42 per cent.

Yarbrough Contradicts Testimony

HOUSTON (AP) — Donald B. Yarbrough has contradicted virtually all testimony by previous witnesses who claimed he defrauded two Houston businessmen of $117,500 in connection with a 1974 bank purchase plan.

Yarbrough, unopposed candidate for the state Supreme Court, is a defendant in 16 civil suits. He also denied he financed the down payment for his purchase of the Commercial bank of Victoria with a $200,000 loan he got indirectly from the same bank.

Yarbrough's testimony came before a seven-man, five woman jury in the court of State Dist. Judge William N. Blanton Jr.

Plaintiffs Grant Cook and Douglas Ford have accused Yarbrough of involving them in an alleged scheme to use their money for Yarbrough's benefit.

Cooper and Ford contend they gave Yarbrough $117,500 to buy control shares of the Fairfield Bank but have nothing to show for it. They claim Yarbrough proposed a plan whereby he would use their money to buy gold coins, put the coins up as collateral for a loan and use the loan money to buy the bank.

Yarbrough denied the alleged proposal and said in his testimony that he did not purchase the Commercial Bank of Victoria with the money in question and said Cooper and Ford were aware he bought that bank and proposed to him that he sell them shares.

Testimony in the trial continues Monday.

Last Captive Is Released

DALLAS (AP) — Ronald B. Michalke, the last of three Americans held captive after being kidnaped last December in Ethiopia, has been freed by his terrorist captors, Collins Radio officials say.

Ronald R. Beall, president of electronics operations of Rockwell International, of which Collins in a subsidiary, said "I am delighted to have received confirmation from the State Department on the release of Ronald B. Michalke, a Collins International Service employe who was working in Asmara, Ethiopia, when he was abducted by Eritrean separatists Dec. 21, 1975."

Michalke and two other Americans were among several foreigners kidnaped by the Eritrean Liberation Front. The two other Americans were released last month.

Michalke, a native of Mable, Minn., will be flown to the United States from Europe.

Major Airlines Seeking Another Hike In Fares

By LEE MITGANG
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Airline fares have gone up nearly 10 per cent in the past seven months, but a group of major domestic carriers were pressing last week for a new two per cent hike.

The latest request for a rate rise that would take effect in July if approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board was made by seven of the top 10 domestic airlines. It was made at a time when the industry was reporting a 12 to 13 per cent overall increase in air traffic during May.

The traffic increase represented an encouraging continuation of a year-long improvement in the air travel picture. It was particularly welcome since May normally is not a heavy air travel month.

The three airlines that have not joined in the latest rate filing—Delta Air Lines, National Airlines and Northwest Airlines—also indicated no plans to raise rates at present.

"The industry doesn't need any more rate increases," said airline analysts Robert Joedicke of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

He noted in an interview that the fact three airlines were not joining in the new rate request probably would doom the proposed increase.

Passengers who purchased tickets in May for travel on or after June 1 got some good news last week if their airline was American, United or TWA. Because of a CAB ruling, the three carriers said such passengers would be entitled to fare refunds, most of them 5 per cent but some as high as 10 per cent on promotional excursion flights.

The reason was that the CAB had permitted airlines to cut their discounts on excursion fares by 5 to 10 per cent, effective June 1, but the three airlines were quoting the higher fares on tickets sold during May for flights the following month. The CAB ruled that such passengers were entitled to the refund.

Thus, said a TWA spokesman last week, a person who bought a transcontinental excursion ticket last May for travel in June or later would be entitled to a $9.70 refund, five per cent of the purchase price.

Meanwhile, French Transport Minister Marcel Cavaillet said last week that France and Britain had agreed not to continue building the trouble-plagued supersonic Concorde aircraft.

Girls From Roloff Home To Appear Here Monday

A choir composed of some 40 girls from Evangelist Lester Roloff's Rebekah Home for Girls near Corpus Christi, is scheduled to appear Monday night at the Scurry County Coliseum.

Whether the evangelist himself would be on hand for the program here appeared problematical at best, since he is involved in a court hearing at Austin to determine whether his operation of the home is subject to state regulations.

The girls are scheduled to begin their program at 7:30 p.m. and they are to sing and give testimonies.

"Most of the girls who are now in the Rebekah Home for Girls have had a round with dope and have found the real answer and have become a tremendous singing choir, giving their testimonies on tours and on the Family Altar Broadcast many times," spokesmen said. "Everyone is invited to their rallies and the girls will give real encouragement to those who are addicted and to the mothers and fathers who are concerned about their young people, to the city fathers, judges, probation officers and the juvenile courts concerning this deadly demon of dope addiction."

The Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises has already completed a $2 million installation at the Rebekah Home for Girls, including land and equipment and three dormitories which have been acclaimed as the most modern and spacious buildings for girls in the country. Also included is a two-story school building for the Rebekah Christian Academy.

The home is located on a 300-acre tract just outside the city limits of Corpus Christi, where the girls raise many of the vegetables they eat, and where they have milk cows, milk goats, turkeys, chickens and eggs. The girls are taught to sew and make their own clothing, to prepare meals, and work in the garden.

Roloff's court hearing in Austin is scheduled to continue Monday. District Judge Charles B. Mathews is hearing testimony to determine whether Roloff and the superintendents of his homes violated a May 27 order by District Judge Jim Meyres, Austin, to allow state welfare agents to inspect and investigate the three South Texas homes operated by Roloff, and whether Meyers' May 27 temporary restraining order will be extended into a temporary injunction.

Judge Mathews already has ruled that the child care licensing law passed by the legislature in 1975 is valid.

C-City Playhouse Slates Melodrama

COLORADO CITY—As a part of the Colorado City Playhouse bicentennial season, six performances of "Dirty Work at the Crossroads" will be presented starting July 1. The Gay 90's melodrama will be staged in the Colorado Opera House, now the home of the Colorado City Playhouse. At the time a two-story hotel, the theatrical group remodeled and redesigned the building for their use in 1971 and restored it to a theatre.

Originally built at the turn of the century as an opera house, the stage will once again reverberate with such lines as "Curses, foiled again" and "Oh, you cad, you villain!" The current Opera House exterior and lobby are in the decor of the late 90s, but the aduitorium and stage are modern.

For the melodrama production, stage designer George Womack has effected a false proscenium arch with an outdoor scene and house exterior, complete with railroad tracks and approaching train in the final scene. One character even makes her stage appearance paddling a canoe.

The cast of "Dirty Work at the Crossroads," or "Tempted, Tried and True," consists of parts for three men and seven women, but two of the cast play double roles.

Nellie Lovelace, the heroine, is portrayed by Susanne Morgan--the handsome, true hearted Adam Oakhart is played by Mark Reynolds. The dastardly villain Munro Murgatroyd is hissingly depicted by Glen Polk. His partner in his nefarious schemes, Ida Rhinegold, is played by Trina Taylor. Others in the cast are Country bumpkin Mookie Magugins, Joe Vincent--Sweet, young Leonie Asterbilt, Twila Polk--both the Widow Lovelace and Mrs. Asterbilt, Montie Foster--and both French maid Fleurette and Little Nell, Midge Ledbetter.

The melodrama, a comedy-farce, is being directed by Porter Richardson. Colorado Opera House playdates are July 1,2,3, and 8,9,10.

Olio entertainment between scenes will be songs of the era by Tandy Curlee, billed as the Opera House Troubador, and by Trina Taylor, billed as America's Sweetheart. Accompanist will be Micah Mitchell.

Jaycees Are In Session

Plans are moving along for the annual July 4 celebration, Jaycee President Clyde Ferguson told his fellow club members at their weekly luncheon meeting Friday. The Jaycees are assisting the Snyder Chamber of Commerce in codinating the event.

Ferguson said that Larry Rankin had been named chairman of the Tractor Pull event, while Fred Castillo will be in charge of concessions at the Tractor Pull and Dave Smelser will be chairman of the annual Jaycees fishing rodeo.

Also it was announced that five teams have entered the Jaycee Slow-Pitch Softball Tournament set for June 11-13. Proceeds from the tournament will be donated to the medical scholarship fund of the Ladies Auxiliary of Cogdell Memorial Hospital. Teams participating represent area Jaycee Clubs.

Ron Kelly presented the program at the luncheon and guests were Wayne Collier, Will Gober and Willie Pettijohn.

Washington's Angry Elderly Demand Action By Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — They say they are prisoners in their own apartments, and not even safe there.

They say they are afraid to walk the streets of their city and the halls of their public housing buildings because they've been mugged, beaten, or taken by con artists.

They say they are angry because, after working hard all their lives, they have not obtained the peace and respect they feel they deserve.

And they say they want the government to take their tax dollars and do something about it.

These are Washington's elderly, who, because of their frailty and loneliness are particularly susceptible to crime.

About a dozen of these elderly victims testified this week before the House Select Committee on Aging at a hearing held in the Edgewood Terrace Senior Citizens Center in northeast Washington.

"In a free country ... you can't hardly live for being afraid you'll be ill-treated by the same kind of animal you are — a human being," James F. Kelley, 74, said. Kelley's wife had been mugged.

"I just can't see why the citizens of America who have worked hard for this country and gotten to this golden age, and can't be respected," he said, tears brimming in his bright brown eyes.

"There have been several robberies and people have been beaten up in my building. Two of them never came back from the hospital," Mrs. Sinclair Wylie said. "It makes you feel like you are living in a prison. I even call my apartment 'Cellblock 1003,'" Mrs. Wylie said.

About 35 per cent of all crimes committed in Washington, D.C., are against people over 50, Del. Walter Fauntroy, D-D.C., testified.

But psychological consequences of crime are perhaps more traumatic for the elderly than are the physical ones, Fauntroy said, causing senior citizens to curtail trips to the bank, market and church.

Because of the need for someone to talk to and declining mental awareness, senior citizens are easy marks for confidence men, said police Lt. Kenneth Moreland.

In the past decade the annual number of forest fires caused by humans in the United States has jumped from 74,000 to 110,000, according to forestry experts.

Quakes Taking A Heavy Toll

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 21 significant earthquakes recorded so far this year have killed some 24,000 people worldwide. That makes this the deadliest year for quakes since 1970, says the U.S. Geological Survey.

The 21 significant earthquakes do not represent an unusual number for the first five months of the year, the agency said. But the death toll is up dramatically from 1975 when a total of 1,350 persons were killed in quakes.

Survey scientists said Friday the 24,000 deaths so far this year make 1976 the deadliest year for tremors since earthquakes wracked Peru and Turkey in 1970, killing more than 67,000 people.

Most of the deaths this year came in the Feb. 4 quake in Guatemala, which killed an estimated 23,000 persons. On May 6, another earthquake hit northeastern Italy and took about 900 lives.

The agency said the 21 quakes were labeled "significant" because they caused deaths or extensive damage, or because they registered at least 6.5 on the Richter Scale.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number, say from magnitude 5.5 to magnitude 6.5, means the ground motion is 10 times greater. Some experts say the actual amount of energy released may be 30 times greater.

In populated areas, an earthquake of 3.5 on the Richter scale can cause slight damage in the local area, 4 can cause moderate damage, 5 considerable damage, 6 can be severe. A reading of 7 is a major earthquake, capable of widespread, heavy damage; 8 is a "great" earthquake, capable of tremendous damage. The San Francisco earthquake of 1906 registered 8.3 on the Richter scale.

Preacher Gives Funeral In Ex-wife's Honor

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR ABBY: My husband died recently. We had only two years together, but ours was a perfect marriage. Never a cross word. He was a saint. We both had been married before, raised our children and lost our spouses through no fault of our own.

At my husband's funeral, I was shoved over on the bench behind the organ where I wasn't even able to see the casket. To add insult to injury, the minister preached a whole service, referring only to my husband's ex-wife. (She was a member of the church and I wasn't.)

The final insult came afterward, when the minister sat holding the hand of my beloved husband's ex-wife. I was so angry and hurt I could hardly bear it.

If I had it in my power, I would dig my husband up and bury him in a private cemetary with a private service. I know he is not at peace where he now lies. He loved me too much to have me hurt this way.

Please print this so that ministers will give more consideration to widows instead of ex-wives.

CRUSHED IN MADISON

DEAR CRUSHED: The privilege (and responsibility) of making the funeral arrangements for your deceased husband was yours, not his ex-wife's. (She apparently got to the minister first.) Unless you failed to assert yourself as you should have, the minister deserves to be severely censured for having handled the service as he did.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to pass on some very valuable experience to women who might find themselves in the situation that I was in 10 years ago.

As an attractive 55-year-old widow, I was wined and dined and courted by a very desirable widower in his early 60s. He proposed marriage to me on the condition that his children approved of me. (He had two sons and two daughters—all married.)

Well, I passed their inspection with flying colors, but I wish I hadn't. When he was well, his children came first. Now he is sick, and he's all mine.

STUCK WITH AN A.K.

DEAR STUCK: Nobody gets a lifetime guarantee of good health. YOU could have become sick and been all HIS.

DEAR ABBY: First, some joker wants to sue his parents for $100,000 for having circumcised him when he was an infant and unable to defend himself.

Then someone writes in and suggests that his mother sue the idiot for "womb rent."

If she does, she might as well try to get "carrying charges," too. Just a suggestion.

DALE P. SCOBEE, HOOD RIVER, ORE.

DEAR DALE: It seems only fair since the mother was stuck with the delivery charges.

Sex Scandal Is Boiling Across Political Arena

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says he warned the House five years ago not to grant control over staff salaries to Wayne Hays' administration committee, but Majority Leader Thomas O'Neill says Ford was wrong then, wrong now, and "just taking a cheap political shot."

With the congressional payroll-sex scandal spilling into the political arena, Speaker of the House Carl Albert appointed a task force of three Democrats to study misuse of public funds by members of Congress.

One of the triumvirate, Rep. Lloyd Meeds, when asked if it wouldn't be a good idea to have Republicans on the task force, replied bluntly, "How many Republicans have come under scrutiny so far?"

Only Hays, the Ohio Democrat, is under scrutiny for the payroll-sex charges. And Friday, the Justice Department entered a suit against Democratic Rep. William Clay of Missouri, to recover travel expenses for trips he allegedly never took.

In New York, attorney Seymor Feig said the Star, a national weekly newspaper, has bought world serial rights to the book, "Washington Fringe Benefits," written by his client, 33-year-old Elizabeth Ray.

Miss Ray says Hays kept her on the House Administration Commitee payroll in a $14,000-a-year post as his mistress.

Hays continued to withstand pressure by colleagues who want him to quit chairman of that committee, although Albert said Friday he thinks Hays will agree to step down next week.

In a television interview, President Ford said Friday that as minority leader, he warned in 1971 that if the chamber as a whole relinquished authority over staff salaries to Hays' committee, the House would regain that authority only if there were a scandal.

But O'Neill said the Hays scandal has nothing to do with the power of Hays' committee. He said Ford was wrong in 1971 about who should oversee salaries and is wrong about it now. He charged Ford was "just taking a cheap political shot."

House Republicans on Friday proposed legislation that would strip the Administration Committee of authority to oversee staff salaries and expenses and return the authority to the full House.

O'Neill said the committee should continue to set salaries and expensepayments because congressmen would be politically afraid to vote adequate money themselves.

O'Neill has urged Hays to quit as committee chairman pending an end to Justice Department inquiries into the payroll-sex charges. Albert said Friday that if Hays doesn't quit, the House Democratic Caucus may strip him of the post when it meets on June 16.

Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., will head the task force, serving with Reps. Meeds, D-Wash., and Norman D'Amours D-N.H., who said Friday night, "I see this as an opportunity, especially as a freshman member, to make some real reforms." The group will meet for the first time on Monday.

The New York Daily News, in a story published Friday, said a former Capitol Hill secretary has described to federal investigators how she worked as a call girl in the early 1970s from her congressional office.

Car Door Stolen

COLERAIN TOWNSHIP, Ohio (AP) — Someone stole the driver's door from his 1973 automobile parked in his driveway, Jesse Clark reported to police.

"They didn't touch anything else," he said. "Just the door. It was taken off mechanically. Somebody knew what they were doing."

Connally To Fill In For Ford At Dinner

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — President Ford will pass up Indiana Republicans' $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner this month and spend his time and money elsewhere in his campaign for a full term, GOP state officals said today.

Instead, former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally will fill in for Ford at the fund-raiser, officials said.

Republican leaders had been confident Ford would speak at the statewide dinner June 17, the eve of the GOP state convention. Ford's name was on tickets printed for the dinner.

"Within the last 36 hours, we received word that President Ford will be unable to speak at our dinner," Betty Rendel, GOP state vice-chairman, said. "When his staff evaluated the value of a trip to Indiana against the need to go elsewhere to seek additional delegate support, they had to opt for the latter."

The Ford campaign isn't short of money, but it is running close to the $13 million that federal law allows a candidate to spend before the conventions.

Connally, a Democrat-turned-Republican, has been mentioned as a possible candidate for president if the national convention deadlocks.

BOLL WEEVIL PROGRAMS:

Emory Boring, Extension Entomologist, has been scheduled to present a program on early season boll weevil control.

This program will offer information on controlling weevil prior the one-third grown square stage. The meeting is set for 8 p.m. June 17 in Room A of the Scurry County Coliseum. This is a most important program and you producers should make every effort to attend.

Along this line, The Scurry County Producers Association has purchased six boll weevil traps for use in monitoring the weevil in the county. These traps were placed at six locations in an effort to build a history of weevil emergence and migration. These traps will be located in the same area for several years and records kept on them.

These traps are at the following locations:

Trap No. 1 - is in Section 294, three miles north and ½ mile west of the Paymaster Gin.

Trap No. 2 - is in the southeast corner of Section 176. This is 3 miles west, four miles south and fourmiles west of Snyder or approximately 2½ miles west of the Canyon Cemetery.

Trap No. 3 - is located in the northwest corner of Section 277 at the intersection of F.M. 1606 and the Sante Fe railroad. This is approximately 3½ miles due north of Inadale.

Trap No. 4 - located in southeast corner of section 99, three miles north of Camp Springs.

Trap No. 5 - located in northeast corner of section 55, about 9 miles east of Snyder on Highway 180.

Trap No. 6 is located in section 27 midway of the north section line on F.M. 1606.

These traps were put out on June 1 and 2 and run the first time on June 3 and 4. The number of weevil in each trap were: No. 1 - 122 weevils, No. 2 - 78 weevils, No. 3 - this trap was removed or destroyed. No. 4 - 287 weevils, No. 5 - 148 weevils and No. 6 - 68 weevils.

These traps are baited with pheromone and insecticide.

I don't know what this number of weevils caught means, or whether it is high or low, since we have nothing to compare it within prior years. This is one reason for placing these traps and recording the catches. We hope we can have something in the future.

It does tell us that there are weevils present, they are moving and will probably cause us damage this year. We plan to monitor these as often as is necessary and report our findings to you through this column.

Navy To Cut Butter

WASHINGTON (AP) — From the halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli, U.S. Marines could always expect real butter, as long as they weren't on C or K rations.

But Navy Secretary J. William Middendorf II now wants to change that by switching to margarine in both Navy and Marine kitchens for cooking purposes.

He has asked the Congress to allow butter only on mess hall tables.

In addition to saving money, he said, such a butter ban might cut down on the number of Navy and Marine heart attacks.

Are Marines and sailors getting fat and soft?

Not at all, says Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., who is fighting the proposed change in the 1933 Navy Ration Law.

Aspen, who represents a major dairy state, said the average number of heart attacks in the two services that lead to death or disability discharges each year is 360.

And, he added, there is not "one scintilla of conclusive evidence" that the switch would make any difference in the service people's health. Aspen said switching to margarine would add millions to the military grocery bill and would hurt daiy farmers.

But Middendorf told the House Armed Services Committee in a recent letter that the services now buy only 30 per cent of the butter on the open market. They obtain the rest from the Commodity Credit Corporation's stocks, purchased by the government through the dairy price-support programs.

He wants to shift from the mandated 100 per cent butter and use three pounds of margarine for every two pounds of butter.

Airport Garage Monument To Bad Information

DALLAS (AP) — It holds more cars than any other parking garage in the Dallas area but it is a $2.8 million monument to bad information, Dallas-Fort Worth Airport officials say.

The 11.4-acre parking garage at the new airport is still a shiny, clean structure unmarked by screeching tires, the Dallas Morning News said in a copyright story today.

And all because the designers of the new airport did such a good job that no one feels the need to use the valet parking garage for which the airport is paying $280,000 annually in debt service. The valet service provides delivery of a car to the parking area next to airline offices.

However, the airport has adequate parking space within comfortable walking distance from airline offices.

Mike Sganga, head of airport planning, said the structure was built because of the tremendous success of valet parking at Love Field.

"We did the best with the information we had available at the time," he said. "Unfortunately, the information wasn't all that good."

It has been suggested that the 1,600-car garage be used for office space but the ceilings are only seven feet above the floors. Officials said a convention center could be built on the top floor but it would require about $2.5 million.

Weary Celtics Back InPhoenix

BOSTON (AP) — Coach Tommy Heinsohn felt ill and begged off the usual post-game interview. Jo Jo White slumped in a chair and asked no one in particular: "Would you believe we've got another game in Phoenix Sunday?"

That was the atmosphere in the Boston Celtics' dressing room early today, 3 hours and 8 minutes after they had tapped off in a pivotal game with the Phoenix Suns Friday night at the Garden.

The Celtics, bidding for an unprecedented 13th National Basketball Association championship, blew a 22-point first-half lead and then edged the Cinderella Suns from Phoenix 128-126 in triple overtime for a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven showdown.

The game was a heart-stopper as the Suns fought back throughout regulation, forcing Boston captain John Havlicek to sink one of two free throws to send the game into the first overtime.

White, a veteran sharpshooter, saved his best for the overtime periods, hitting for 15 of his game-high 33 in that stretch. He got plenty of help from young Glenn McDonald and Jim Ard, pressed into action after Dave Cowens and Paul Silas fouled out.

McDonald came off the bench after Silas fouled out in the third overtime of the longest championship round playoff game in NBA history. He sank two baskets, breaking a 118-118 tie. Later he converted two pressure free throws.

Ard, who spends most of the time on the bench as Cowens' understudy, said he had lost track of the number of fouls on Boston's veteran center.

Havlicek missed a corner jumper as the first overtime ended 101-101. Then he appeared to give the Celtics a 111-110 victory by banking a running shot as the buzzer sounded for what apparently was the end of the second overtime.

Many of the Celtics hurried to the dressing room. Fans swarmed onto the court as Phoenix Coach John MacLeod desperately tried to get the attention of the officials. He finally did. The Celtics had to return to the floor. MacLeod then called a time out, with one second left.

The Suns already were over the limit on times out, so the Celtics were awarded a technical foul, White making the free throw. Then, taking the ball in at midcourt, the Suns set up Gar Heard, who hit on a game-tying jump shot from the key, forcing still a third overtime.

Cubs Display Hitting Power

The Cubs ran away from the Athletics 25-8 in Little League action Friday night. Never trailing and scoring high in every stanza, 5-0, 10-0, 12-1, 21-3, and 25-8, the Cubs displayed some real power hitting.

Ricky Howard picked up the victory for the Cubs. Whit Parks suffered the loss for the Braves.

Sparked by a nine run rally in the second inning, the Athletics squashed the Cardinals 21-11 in the second game.

The 9 run spree burst open a close game, 11-2 and the Cards never seemed to recover, managing only to narrow the margin to 17-8.

William Cotton snatched the victory for the Athletics, and David Willis was handed the loss for the Cardinals.

Brave Rally Breaks Tie

In the bottom of the ninth inning, the Braves burst a tie with a three run tally and downed the Dodgers 12-9 in Teenage League play.

Up until this point, the contest had been a seesawing battle first seeing the Braves lead, then seeing the Dodgers ahead and finally witnessing a tie.

After a walk and a foul to the catcher, in the final stanza, Sid Everton cracked a single to get the winning momentum going. Following Everton's single, scoring snowballed and the Braves had themselves a victory.

Winning pitcher was Sid Everton. Jay Hammond copped the loss.

Ted Simmons of the St. Louis Cardinals had 16 game-winning runs batted in last season.

Tigerettes Fall, 14-11

With a six run outburst in the third inning, the Tri-City female softballers thumped the Tigerettes, 14-11, Friday night in senior girl softball play.

The Tigerettes grabbed the early lead, 3-1, but the Merkel fems came back and tied it up 3-3 in the second stanza and ran away with it 9-3 in the third.

The Snyder girls narrowed the gap some in the sixth, 11-9, but the Tri-City softballers widened it again, copping the win, 14-11.

Kandi Ancensio picked up the victory and Tammy Ashworth was charged with the loss.

Blyleven Follows Tough Act

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — "I'm just tickled to death," bubbled Danny Thompson, the newly acquired Texas Ranger who punctuated his debut Friday night with four hits, including a three-run homer.

The Rangers shelled Detroit Tigers 14-3.

Virtually overlooked in the trade that brought him to Texas with heralded pitcher Bert Blyleven, a grinning Thompson said:

"I told Bert I hated to put that much pressure on him. It's a tough act to follow. But he can do it."

2 Teams Deadlock At 19-19

Fighting to a 19-19 standoff, the Bobcats and the Tigers played wide open game in mini-minor league girls' softball Friday night.

Each team scored in every inning and even though the Bobcats jumped out to a 6-4 first inning lead, the Tigers roared back and eventually tied it up.

Mary Warren, Bobcat pitcher, hit a home run.

Wendy Hodge worked on the mound for the Tigers.

In a final inning rally, the Rangers squeaked by the Giants, 12-11. In girls' minor league softball play Friday night.

Going into the final stanza, the contest was knotted up, 10-10. The Giants managed a run, aided by Becky Digby's single and Becky Pylant's walk and appeared to have the game clinched.

But, the Rangers came back with singles by Tracey O'Day and Johna Jackson and scored two. The Rangers ended victoriously, 12-11.

Tracye O'Day picked up the win. And, Kim McCarver gained the loss.

Braves Rap Cubs, 16-3

With consistent scoring, the Braves bombed the Cubs, 16-3, in a Farm League doubleheader, Friday night.

The Braves tagged home, four times in the first, six in the second, once in the third, and five in the fourth.

The Cubs could only manage to cross the plate once in the third and twice in the second.

Nolan Von Roeder clinched the victory and Wayne Goswick was the losing hurler.

The Cardinals simply outscored the Athletics in the second game. Both teams played hard hitting, high scoring games, but the Cards just ended up on top.

"FIVE DOLLARS FOR A SITTER! I'LL SIT ALL ALONE FOR TWO DOLLARS."

Dr. Lamb

Blood sugar can vary

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—What is considered a normal blood sugar rating? At what level is a person headed for diabetes? Can one have a high blood sugar reading and the urine show negative at the same time? Which is more serious, a high blood sugar reading or a positive urine analysis? My blood sugar is 129 and my urine negative.

DEAR READER—The blood glucose level can fluctuate within a fairly wide range of normal. A very high percentage cf normal healthy people will have levels even below 40 and have no symptoms at all. This has been demonstrated by frequent monitoring of normal people. This is why a diagnosis of low blood glucose (hypoglycemia) should not be made unless one has both the low reading and associated symptoms.

After you eat a lot of sweets or take the glucose water or drink for a glucose tolerance test the level of glucose rises sharply. The blood level may rise to 160 or thereabouts in normal people. This is a transitory peak and as the body uses or stores the glucose, the level falls back to the preloading level.

So you have a range then of from the 30s to 160 that is possible in perfectly normal people. A fasting blood glucose level though should not be more than 130. I have seen a lot of high fasting readings in healthy young men which were the direct result of tension. A young jet pilot taking an examination has his career on the line and he will be under stress. The stress reaction releases adrenaline and this will raise the reading. A simple repeat of the test along with a glucose tolerance test-when indicated will resolve the situation.

One can have glucose in the urine when the level exceeds 160 or 170. At these levels the excess glucose spills out of the urine. As soon as the blood glucose level falls to lower levels the urine no longer contains glucose. So, as a rule, glucose in the urine means the blood glucose level has been above the threshold. An uncontrolled diabetic with frequent high levels of blood glucose then will have glucose in the urine. Rarely a person may have a low kidney threshold and spill glucose at lower levels.

The blood test is a reliable indicator of the level of glucose. The urine test is a more gross approximation. If a diabetic doesn't have any glucose in the urine usually that means the blood glucose level never exceeded the 160 to 170 range. It doesn't tell you anything about whether it ever got down to 100 when he was not eating or between meals.

A reading of 129 has to be judged in relation to what you had been doing and the type of laboratory test used. It is certainly not alarming but might bear repeating. If there is doubt about its sifnigicance then a glucose tolerance test can be done. If the reading is not a fasting reading it could easily be disregarded.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-10, Diabetes, the Sweet Sickness, to give you more information about glucose levels in diabetes. Others who want this information can forward 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 15551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Whenever nutritionists appear on the TV talk shows they always criticize the public's excessive consumption of refined sugars. However, I have never heard them elaborate as to what harmful effects occur when the body metabolizes refined sugar. Is a potentially harmful chemical being added to sugar through the refining process?

DEAR READER—Yes, you hear those remarks about sugar all the time. It certainly confuses a lot of people as your letter indicates. No, sugar does not contain a single harmful substance. Nothing is added in refining that is toxic to the body. In fact all the carbohydrates in starch, cereals, milk, vegetables, fruit and any other source are converted in the body to glucose sugar and metabolized the same way. It all becomes the very same sugar for metabolism and release of energy.

What is all the fuss about then? It is overdone but sugar is dehydrated cane and beet juice, a simple natural food without additives. The problem is that the dehydrated food, sugar, contains an enormous amount of calories which can contribute to obesity and related problems. Also the sugar calories replace calories from other foods that provide you with bulk, minerals and vitamins.

Nutritionists would prefer that you used foods that not only give you needed calories but also provide vitamins, minerals and bulk. Of course, people who need to control or decrease their calorie consumption need to avoid sweets and sugars. But that is not all. They need to avoid all high calorie foods including starches, fats and alcohol.

To give you more information about sugar I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-8, Sugar and Starch: Carbohydrates. Others can obtain this information by forwarding 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Could you comment on the practice of some school athletic coaches having students do laps as punishment for some infraction of rules of play? Could this be harmful for a 13-to 14-year-old for, say, an hour?

DEAR READER—I have had parents ask me this before. It shows very poor judgment on the teacher's part. After all, a teacher of physical education should hope to encourage his students to want to exercise and enjoy it. You don't accomplish that by using exercise as a punishment.

Tom Sawyer knew better that that. If he had told the other kids that white washing a fence was work or punishment he would have ended up doing the whole job himself. The whole idea in getting kids - and grown-ups too—interested in doing something is to make them enjoy it or strive for some goal. You don't do that by making it a punishment. Can you imagine getting children to want to read by punishing them by making them read. It would never work.

Whether or not an hour of running laps would be harmful depends entirely on what level of physical conditioning a person has achieved. If the teenager is in pretty good shape it will not hurt but if he has had no exercise at all for months it would cause a lot of sore muscles, sore tendons and in some instances could be harmful.

Claims Pilot Exposed Plan

DALLAS (AP) — A letter written by a federal drug agent to Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said that a Dallas pilot given credit for setting up a 4½ ton marijuana bust actually tipped off smugglers that they were under federal surveillance.

The letter was written about pilot Clay Simmons by James R. Crenshaw, an acting group supervisor is the Dallas Drug Enforcement Administration office.

Simmons had complained that his undercover role in the operation was exposed by the DEA and he was forced into hiding for his safety. The complaint is the subject of an internal investigation of the DEA office here.

John Zientner, assistant director in the Dallas DEA office, confirmed Friday that Crenshaw had sent the letter to Tower, but acted as a private citizen and not in his official capacity.

Zientner said the letter was sent with the knowledge of DEA officials but was not an "official" document.

Museum Renovated

NEW YORK (AP) — To protect paintings in the Prado Museum in Madrid, Spanish authorities are planning to reconstruct the museum's interior, says International Construction Week.

The paintings are threatened by sulphurous air pollution seeping through windows and door frames.

CELEBRITIES ON THE COUCH

By Dick Maurice

For the first time in his life, comedian Gabe Kaplan enjoys going to school. The star, who plays teacher to a classroom of problem students on ABC-TV's "Welcome Back, Kotter," admits he was a high-school dropout in real life. Kaplan lives in a West Hollywood apartment while looking into buying a house. He writes his own material and enjoys reading, mostly non-fiction. He recently started playing tennis. He enjoys dating and dancing at the discotheques.

MAURICE: At what point in your life did you say I'm going to try and make people laugh?

KAPLAN: I intended to be an actor and I was working at a resort hotel in New Jersey where they had comedians appearing twice a week. I was just saving up enough money to become an actor and go and take acting lessons. I was about 20, 21 years of age at the time. I watched these comedians and it just hit me this one night. I thought, hey, I can do that. I always wrote funny things and thought funny. It just hit me that I could translate that into performing. I quit the job in the hotel, went to New York and became a comedian instantly.

MAURICE: Has success changed your life?

KAPLAN: Yes it has but I haven't really had enough time to enjoy the success–working hard most of the time. The show dominates my whole schedule. I'm involved in the writing as well as in the performing. So I haven't really enjoyed my success as much as I'd like to. The enjoyment comes basically from people recognizing me - knowing that you can walk into any place and people are going to say, 'hey'. And as a person who has a lot of ego, as I'm sure all performers do, you enjoy that. I enjoy it. I guess you can reach a point, like a Robert Redford, Paul Newman or Elvis Presley, where you can't go anywhere. And that gets to be a real hassle. But right now, I really dig it.

MAURICE: Is it true that you are a high-school dropout?

KAPLAN: I was a hell raiser in school but I wasn't stupid. I was told by my guidance counselor that my I.Q. was way above average. And that was that. None of my teachers showed any interest in me or cared that I was in a class that was too slow for me. They just figured like I did that I'd quit school and get a job as soon as I was old enough. You know, it's strange, but I wouldn't have been a dropout if I had had a teacher like Mr. Kotter. When we were writing the show, I kept saying, I wanted Kotter to be the teacher I never had. I wanted him to ask the kids what they're interested in. And just because my TV students are at the bottom of the scale, it's no reason to let them drop out. Deliquent kids can be kept in school if there is a teacher who gives a damn.

MAURICE: What kind of women do you like?

KAPLAN: I like the girl next door. I'd rather have the girl next door on my arm than any show biz actress. I'm a quiet guy, rather shy, who does not enjoy going to Hollywood parties and would rather stay at home. I'd gladly give up my life as a bachelor but I'm just not ready now. Maybe in a few years, cause I'd really like to have kids.

MAURICE: When you're writing your own material, do you often laugh out loud at the thought of something funny?

KAPLAN: Usually when you find something that you laugh at, it's good. Somethings that you are not sure of, you don't laugh at. You may write it at night and look at it in the morning. Sometimes it doesn't make it. The things that don't make me laugh, generally aren't funny. The things that crack me up on the spot are usually the things that work for me.

Stunt Women Unite To Demand Equal Treatment

EDITOR'S NOTE — Stunt women in Hollywood have formed an association to push their demands for more work and equal treatment with men. They're especially annoyed when men are hired to double for actresses.

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Her hands grew numb as they clung to the railing in the icy Canadian storm. Planks in the bridge ripped off and fell 150 feet to the gorge below. Above her, a helicopter whirred its blade to whip the ridge from side to side.

Donna Garrett inched her way along the perilous pathway, finally reaching the safety of the other side. "Cut," the director shouted over the bullhorn. "Let's do it one more time."

And so Donna Garrett and a fellow stunt person once more risked their lives for the Columbia film, "Shadow of the Hawk," on location in the Canadian Rockies.

Mrs. Garrett, a brunette beauty of 32 with an athletic, shapely figure, typifies Hollywood's 20 stunt women, who are determined to be heard–and hired - by the movie and television studios. They have formed the Stunt Women's Association, which has been making waves about the industry's stunt hiring.

The Association has issued complaint that too many men were doubling in drag for actresses.

"The women are caught in the middle," said a stunt man who is sympathetic to their cause. "The studios are now required to hire stunt coordinators to supervise action stuff. They do the hiring and naturally they favor their own friends, who are men.

"So if the women complain too much, they just make the situation more difficult with the men who hire them."

"I know the stunt men consider me a trouble-maker, and because I have been so outspoken I worked only 10 days last year," she said. "I don't care. I believe that when there is a stunt involving a female character, a woman should be asked."

She cited a recent Raquel Welch film, "Mother, Jugs and Speed," in which a double was needed to drive a car fast. Mrs. Garrett, who has doubled for Miss Welch in other films, asked for the job. She learned later that a stunt man had performed for the star.

"That happens a lot of times—we hear about a man doubling for a women after it happens," says Mrs. Garrett. "Women should be asked first; if they don't want to do the stunt, it can be given to a man."

Patty Elder agrees. She is a firmly built blonde who has been stunting for 18 of her 38 years.

"I was one of the first of the women to say, 'Let's do the tough stuff,' " she says. "The men sat back and said, 'We'll wait and see if they can handle it.' We've proven that we can, and we deserve first consideration when the stunt involves a woman."

Miss Elder is an all-around performer who can do auto work, horse falls, ice skating, water skiing, high dives, you name it. In "What's Up, Doc?" she doubled as Barbra Streisand, Madeline Kahn and an old lady. Her biggest one-day check was $2,000 for driving as Goldie Hawn in "The Sugarland Express."

"My car had to hit a truck head-on as we approached on a bridge," she recalled. "I had to strike the truck just right, taking a piece off it; a bigger hit and we both would have gone off the bridge. I hit it right."

She admitted the resistance of male film-makers to employing stunt women. "Men don't like to see women hit the ground; they think we get hurt more," she said. "But we don't. It's all a matter of preparing the stunt carefully and knowing how to fall."

Miss Elder has had any number of scrapes and bruises but has been hospitalized only once. Doubleing for Linda Blair in a television drama, she reared a horse on the Pacific Coast Highway. An oncoming car came too close, and horse and rider were run over. The horse survived; she suffered a torn groin and internal bleeding.

Recently she was doubling falls and auto stunts for Barbara Harris in Disney's "Freaky Friday." The stunt coordinator was Dick Butler, who sympathized with the women's drive for more stunts.

"I think there is a new attitude in the industry as well as in the country," he observed. "It has been brought about by the campaign for women's rights. If the stunt calls for a woman, we try our best to find a woman to do it.

"There are some stunts that women might not want to do, such as falls through windows, off the side of roofs, over balconies. But there are not many stunts left that women cannot do.

"Women used to dabble at stunts (there were fewer than 10 stunt women in the '40s and '50s.), but now they are working hard at it. Their problem in the past was that they had no chance to learn how stunts are rigged. Now they watch how things are set up."

Portraits Of Two Artists Exhibited

NEW YORK (AP) — A portrait of Jamie Wyeth by Andy Warhol and a portrait of Andy Warhol by Jamie Wyeth will be exhibited at the Coe Kerr Gallery here through July 15.

Warhol has been called the "Patriarch of Pop Art." Wyeth is a more conservative representational painter in the tradition of his father.

Jobless Rate Drops In Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Unemployment in the state dropped to 4.8 per cent of the labor force during April, the Texas Employment Commission said today.

The commission said this compared with 5.1 per cent in March and 5.4 per cent in April 1975.

GOD IS SPIRIT

Men are not to be too heavily censured for thinking of God as having the body of a man, though we know He is a Spirit.

Too many times, in an act of praise and worship, figures of speech leap to our minds which, in a physical way, describe a great and powerful act of God.

Moses said God wrote the Ten Commandments on stone with His finger! Daniel saw fingers writing on the wall of the palace! And Jesus, in Luke 11:20 says, "But if I with the finger of God cast out devils, no doubt the kingdom of God is come upon you."

No, men ought not be too severely criticized when they are taught by Him to say, "Our Father, who art in heaven."

—Paul M. Stevens
